Holdovers are sturdy with "Johnny Cool" hot in second at the Gary. "V.I.P.s" shapes slick in third round at Orpheum. "Lord of Flies" looks bright at the Cinema, Kenmore Square in fourth.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (B&Q) (1,117; 90-$1.50)—"To Catch Thief" (Par) and "Vertigo" (Par) (reissues). Oke $6,500. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) (3d wk), $4,500.

Beacon Hill (Sack) (900; $1-$1.80)—"Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk). Slick $11,000. Last week, $14,000.

Boston (Beacon Ent.) (1,345; $1.20-$2.95) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (29th wk). Good $12,000. Last week, $13,000.

Capri (Sack) (850; 90-$1.50) — "Lilies of Field" (UA). Loud $9,000. Last week, "L-Shaped Room" (Col) (m.o.) (9th wk), $5,500.

Center (E. M. Loew) (1,250; 90-$1.25) — "Pagan Hellcat" (Indie) and "Violated Paradise" (Indie). Neat $5,000. Last week, "Yojimbo" (Indie) and "Tales of Paris" (Indie), $6,500.

Cinema, Kenmore Square (Indie) (320; $1.40-$1.90)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (4th wk). Smart $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

Exeter (Indie) (1,300; 90-$1.49) —"Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (7th wk). Okay $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

Fenway (Indie) (1,300; 90-$1.49) —"Girl in Bikini" (Indie) and "Festival Girl" (Indie). Oke $4,800. Last week, "Not Tonight, Henry" (Indie) and "Jungle Street Girl" (Indie) (reruns), $4,000.

Gary (Sack) (1,277; 75-$1.80)—"Johnny Cool" (UA) (2d wk). Hotsy $13,000. Last week, $16,000.

Mayflower (ATC) (689; 90-$1.50) —"Women of World" (Embassy) and "Madame" (Embassy) (reruns). Okay $4,000. Last week, "Caretakers" (UA) and "Mouse on Moon" (Lopert) (subruns), $3,500.

Memorial (RKO) (3,000; 90-$1.50)—"Lover Come Back" (U) and "Touch of Mink" (U) (reissues). Mild $9,500. Last week, "For Love or Money" (U) and "French Mistress" (Indie) (4th wk), $7,500.

Music Hall (Sack) (2,200; $2-$3.90)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). The 16th week ended Monday (14) was okay $18,000. Last week, $20,000.

Orpheum (Loew) (2,900; 90-$1.65)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk). Fine $15,000. Last week, $18,000.

Paramount (NET) (2,357; 90-$1.65) — "Rampage" (WB) and "Paris Pickup" (Indie). Okay $10,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue), $9,000.

Pilgrim (ATC) (1,909; 75-$1.25) — "Passion Holiday" (Flamingo) and "Beauty and Body" (Indie) (2d wk). Sock $14,000. Last week, $16,000.

Park Square (Indie) (300; $1.80) —"8½" (Embassy) (12th wk). Oke $3,000. Last week, same.

Saxon (Sack) (1,100; $1.50-$2.75) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (14th wk). Perky $10,000. Last week, same.

State (Trans-Lux) (730; 75-$1.25) —"Female Animal" (Indie) and "Sun Lovers" (Indie). Hot $10,000. Last week, "Bunny Yeager's Nude Camera" (Cinema) and "Pagan Island" (Cinema) (3d wk), $7,000.

Challenge Films Files

Albany, Oct. 15.

Challenge Films Inc. has been reserved as a corporate name for a company to conduct business, with offices in New York.

Nichols-Bliss Inc., c/o Attorney Richard H. Roemer, filed the certificate with the Secretary of State at Albany.

'New Love' Big $8,500, Mpls.; 'Rampage' 5G; 'V.I.P.s' Smash 7G, 3d; 'Cleo' 9G

SAN FRANCISCO

(Continued from page 9)

(5th wk). Fine $3,000. Last week, $4,500.

Royal (Nasser) (850; $1-$1.50)—"Stolen Hours" (UA). Good $2,500. Last week, "Johnny Cool" (UA), $4,500.

St. Francis (Par) (1,400; $1.50-$1.75) — "Cry of Battle" (AA). Passable $8,500. Last week, "In French Style" (Col) (2d wk), $6,500.

Stage Door (A-R) (444; $1.50-$1.80)—"The leopard" (20th). Nice $6,500.

United Artists (No. Coast) (1,148; $3-$3.75) — "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (38th wk). Hep $10,000. Last week, $10,200.

Vogue (S. F. Theatres) (365; $2) —"Stranger Knocks" (T-L) (8th wk). Oke $3,900. Last week $4,000.

Warfield (FWC) (2,656; $1.25-$1.50) — "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue). Fine $15,000 or near. Last week, "Haunted Palace" (AI) and "Terrified" (AI) (2d wk), $7,500.

LOS ANGELES

(Continued from page 8)

FWC-UATC) (1,757; 2,344; 1,535; 1,298; 1,392; $1-$2)—"Toys in Attic" (UA) (1st general release) and "Elmer Gantry" (UA) (reissue). Fair $21,000. Last week, Egyptian, "The Leopard" (20th) (8th wk), $5,300.

Fine Arts (FWC) (631; $2-$2.40) —"Conjugal Bed" (Emb) (2d wk). Nice $4,500. Last week, $5,200.

Fox Wilshire (FWC) (1,990; $2-$2.40)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Handy $11,000. Last week, $14,500.

Beverly (State) (1,150; $2-$2.40) —"Wives and Lovers" (Par) (3d wk). Okay $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

Hollywood Paramount (State) (1,468; $1.55 - $2.40) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Torrid $16,000. Last week, $19,000.

Lido (FWC) (876; $2)—"Sporting Life" (Ster) (5th wk). Dim $2,000. Last week, $2,200.

Chinese (FWC) (1,408; $2-$2.40) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (15th wk). Hotsy $13,000. Last week, $12,000.

Vogue (FWC) (810; $1.25-$1.49) —"Women of World" (Emb) (13th wk) and "David and Lisa" (Con) (m.o.). Comely $5,500.

Pantages (RKO) (1,512; $2.50-$5.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Lush $37,000. Last week, $36,000.

Music Hall (Ros) (720; $2-$2.40) —"L-Shaped Room" (Col) (17th wk). Okay $3,700. Last week, $3,800.

Warner Hollywood (SW) (1,291; $1.25-$2.80) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (34th wk). Great $21,000. Last week, $18,600.

Warner Beverly (SW) (1,316; $1.65-$3.50) — "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (43d wk). Sturdy $13,000. Last week, $13,200.

BALTIMORE

(Continued from page 8)

"Irma La Douce" (UA) (14th wk). Torrid $5,500. Last week, $6,000.

New (Fruchtman) (1,600; 50-$1.50)—"Women of World" (Embassy) (3d wk). Nice $8,000. Last week, $10,000.

Mayfair (Fruchtman) (1,600; 50-$1.50)—"Leopard" (20th). Big $12,000. Last week, "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (19th wk), $9,000.

Playhouse (Schwaber) (365; 90-$1.50) — "L-Shaped Room" (Col) (15th wk). Steady $2,000. Last week, $2,500.

Stanton (Fruchtman) (2,800; 50-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk). Good $12,000. Last week, $15,000.

Senator (Durkee) (960; 90-$1.50) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (14th wk). Down to okay $4,000. Last week, $5,000.

Town (T-L) (1,125; 50-$1.50)—"The Haunting" (MGM) (2d wk). Fair $8,000. Last week, $9,000.

Uptown (Fruchtman) (1,100; 50-$1.50)—"Johnny Cool" (UA) (2d wk). Warm $5,000. Last week, $8,000.

Rex (Freedman) (1,100; $1.50)—"Naked Witch" (Indie) (2d wk). Slow $1,500. Last week, $2,500.

Minneapolis, Oct. 15.

Loop fresh entries number only three but one of them, "A New Kind of Love," is socko at Lyric. However, the Gopher, going in for first time for an "adults only" picture, "Promises, Promises," is also shaping toward a big gross. Other newcomer, "Rampage," though well exploited, is not getting far at the large Orpheum. Absence of stars is mostly blamed.

Holdovers still are getting the top coin. "How West Was Won" is rated remarkable in 32d round at Cooper. "Cleopatra," in 16th session at Century looks big. "Irma La Douce" has gone into 14th week, and still solid at World. "V.I.P.s" shapes socko in third at State.

Estimates for This Week

Academy (Mann) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50)—"Leopard" (20th) (2d wk). Light $4,000. Laast week, $5,000.

Avalon (Frank) (800; $1) — "Troubled Girl" (Janus) and "Captain's Table" (20th) (subrun). Modest $1,400. Last week, "Traveling Light" (Indie) and "Big Time Operators" (Indie) subrun (2d wk), $1,000.

Campus (Mann) (600; $1) — "Greenwich Village Story" (Ellis). Slow $1,200. Last week, subrun.

Century (Par) (1,300; $2.10-$3.50) —"Cleopatra" (20th) (16th wk). Big $9,000. Last week, $9,500.

Cooper (CF) (805; $1.25-$2.50)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (32d wk). Remarkable $9,000. Last week, $8,500.

Gopher (Berger) (1,000; $1-$1.25) — "Promises, Promises" (Indie). Big $7,000. Last week, "Stolen Hours" (UA), $2,500.

Lyric (Par) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Hefty $8,500. Last week, "Shock Corridor" (AA) (2d wk), $2,500 in five days at $1-$1.25 scale.

Mann (Mann) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50) —"Caretakers" (UA) (2d wk). Good $6,000, but goes out. Last week, $9,000.

Orpheum (Mann) (2,900; $1-$1.25)—"Rampage" (WB). Slow $5,000. Last week, "Hootenanny Hoot" (MGM), $3,000.

Park (Mann) (1,000; $1.50) — "Thrill of It All" (U) (12th wk). Nice $3,500. Last week, $3,500.

State (Par) (2,200; $1.25-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk). Boff $7,000. Last week, $10,000.

Suburban World (Mann) (800; $1.25)—"Mouse on Moon" (Lope). Modest $2,000. Last week, "Three Fables of Love" (Janus), $1,000.

World (Mann) (400; $1.25-$1.50) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (14th wk). Tremendous $5,000. Last week, same.

SEATTLE

(Continued from page 8)

$1.50) — "Irma La Douce" (12th wk). Big $6,000. Last week, $6,100.

Orpheum (Hamrick) (2,200; $1.25-$1.50)—"For Love or Money" (U) and "Castillians" (WB). Mild $7,000 or less. Last week, house was dark.

Paramount (Fox-Evergreen) (3,000; $1.25-$1.50)—"Cry of Battle" (AA) and "From Hell To Eternity" (AA). Bad $2,500 or close. Last week, "Around World in Daze" (Col) and "Siege of Saxons" (Col), $2,800 in 5 days.

Fifth Avenue (Fox-Evergreen) (2,500; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par), "Gunfight at OK Corral" (Par) (reissue). Looks light $7,000 or less.

PORTLAND, ORE.

(Continued from page 8)

"Irma La Douce" (UA) (11th wk). Big $4,500. Last week, $4,400.

Music Box (Hamrick) (640; $1-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) and "Man Who Knew Too Much" (Par) (reissue). Modest $4,000 or over. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) and "Trouble With Harry" (Par) (reissue) (2d wk), $2,300.

Orpheum (Evergreen) (1,536; $1-$1.49)—"Haunted Palace" (AI) and "Mind Benders" (AI). Mild $5,500. Last week, "Hootenanny Hoot" (MGM) and "Young and Brave" (MGM), $4,600.

Paramount (Port-Par) (1,406; $2-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (16th wk). Okay $8,000. Last week, $8,800.

Amusement Stock Quotations

Week Ended Tues. (15)

N. Y. Stock Exchange

1963 High	1963 Low		*Weekly Vol. in 100s	Weekly High	Weekly Low	Tues. Close	Net Change for wk.
15⅜	12⅛	ABC Vending	112	13⅝	12¼	13⅜	+ ¾
38¼	27⅞	Am Br-Par Th	606	32⅞	28	32¾	+4
21⅜	14½	Ampex	639	18⅝	17⅝	18	— ½
79¾	42½	CBS	303	78¼	75	76¾	— ⅞
18¾	12⅛	Chris Craft	74	13¾	13	13¼	— ⅛
29½	22¼	Col Pix	107	25¼	23¾	25¼	+1⅛
46	45⅛	Decca	10	45½	45½	45½
46⅜	27¾	Disney	93	44⅞	42¾	44¾	+1¾
122⅜	106⅛	Eastman Kdk	289	112	110½	110⅝	— ⅜
6⅜	5¼	EMI	90	5¾	5½	5½
16½	9⅝	Glen Alden	448	14¾	14¼	14¼	+ ¼
23¾	15¾	Loew's Thea.	60	17½	17⅛	17⅜	— ⅛
68¾	48	MCA Inc.	33	61½	60⅜	61	— ⅛
37¼	15	Metromedia	257	35⅜	33	34¾	+ ⅞
37¼	28	MGM	94	31	30½	30¾	+ ¼
12¾	7⅞	Nat. G'l Corp.	98	9⅞	9¼	9¾	+ ¼
24¾	20½	Outlet	†540	23	22⅛	22¾	+ ½
53⅛	35¼	Paramount	113	50⅞	46¾	50¼	+2
211½	120½	Polaroid	2139	175¼	159¼	164¼	—8½
75¼	56	RCA	2629	79⅜	75	78	+3
10¼	6¾	Republic	41	9⅝	9¼	9¼	..
16⅝	14	Rep. pfd.	7	15⅞	15⅝	15⅞	+ ⅜
25⅜	20½	Stanley War.	68	24⅞	24	24	— ⅝
45⅜	31	Storer	12	40⅜	40	40	— ¼
28¼	17⅞	Taft Bdcst.	51	24½	23½	24¼	+ ¼
37	20	20th-Fox	1326	34½	32	32	—2
32	17¾	United Artists	410	24¼	21½	23¾	+1¾
16¼	12⅞	Warner Bros.	73	14¾	13¾	14½	+ ⅜
68¾	51	Zenith	994	68¼	63¼	66⅛	+1¾

American Stock Exchange

4	2⅛	Allied Artists	30	2½	2⅜	2½	..
8¾	5	BalM'nt GAC	23	7⅛	7	7	— ⅛
12¼	6¾	Cam-P'kway	29	8⅞	8½	8½	— ⅜
24⅞	16⅞	Cap. Cit. Bdc.	74	21¼	20⅛	20¼	— ¾
17⅜	12⅞	Cin'rama Inc.	464	15⅞	15⅛	15⅞	+ ½
8⅞	6½	Desilu Prods.	35	8¼	7⅝	7⅝	— ½
7½	4¾	Filmways	168	8⅜	7¼	8⅜	+1
11⅞	9	Movielab	15	9⅝	9¼	9¼	— ½
13	5¾	MPO Vid	9	10¼	9⅝	10¼	+ ⅜
5⅛	2⅞	Reeves Bdcst.	40	3	2⅞	2⅞	— ⅛
3⅞	2⅛	Reeves Ind.	127	3⅝	3¼	3¼	— ⅜
17¾	13¼	Rollins Bdcst.	16	15⅜	14⅞	14⅞	+ ⅛
25⅜	16¾	Screen Gems	18	21⅛	19⅞	19⅞	—1¼
22	8⅝	Technicolor	491	21¼	18½	21¼	+2
6¾	4⅛	Teleprompter	16	4⅞	4⅝	4¾	+ ⅛
2¾	⅞	Tele-Indus	5	1⅛	1	1⅛	+ ⅛
13⅝	11	Trans-Lux	11	12	11¾	11¾	— ⅜

* Week Ended Mon. (14).
† Actual Volume.

(Courtesy of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc.)

Over-the-Counter Securities

	Bid	Ask
Commonwealth Theatres of Puerto Rico	6	6⅞
Four Star Television	9¼	10¼	— ¾
Gen. Aniline & Film	340	368	+10
General Drive-in	9¾	10⅝	— ⅛
Magna Pictures	1⅝	2
Medallion Pictures	14¼	15⅜	+1
Pickwick International	4¼	5	+ ¼
Premier Albums	5⅞	6⅝	..
Rust Craft Greeting Cards	12¼	13⅝	— ¼
Seven Arts Productions	7⅜	8⅛	— ¼
Transcontinent Television	19⅛	20⅜	+ ¾
U. A. Theatres	10¼	11¾
Walter Reade-Sterling Inc.	3¼	3⅞	+ ⅝
Wometco Enterprises	34¼	36⅞	—1¾
Wrather Corp.	6¾	7½	+ ⅛

(Source: National Assn. of Securities Dealers Inc.)

French State Building New Film Studios But for Its Own TV; Saddens Showmen

Paris, Oct. 15.

Dream of a French "Hollywood" on the Riviera, with its good weather and now easy plane access to Paris, has been bruited around for several years. Indications are that facilities will defintely be built. Opening is already spoken of for late in 1964. Only drawback seems to be that it will be primarily aimed at vidfilm work.

Film people here in Paris are not too happy about the television angle since money will be coming from the state which thus favors itself as operator of a network. This is little help to the harrassed theatrical cinema industry of France.

Be that as it may, new production centre is to cover 22 hectars of land in the little Riviera town of Colle-Sur-Loup not too far from Nice. The Victorine Studios at Nice, now busy, will be razed when the complex is finished.

Land was bought for a reported $400,000 by a national planning commission and has finally gotten the go-ahead after local and governmental checks. It will be run by the national video arm, Radiodiffusion-Television Francaise, and a film production, exhibition and distrib setup, also owned by the government, UGC. Cost of construction is estimated at $6,000,000 to come from state and private coffers.

It will house four vidpic stages. Product will fill the home-set hours of a new second channel due next year. A further reason for showmen in Paris to grumble. It's all anti-boxoffice to them.

Per France's quest for grandeur, statements are being issued that plant will be one of the biggest vidpic centers in the world.

Syndicates of Technical and Industrial Film Workers feel that laying out tax money, a good part of which comes from film sources, for tv studios, when private companies have plenty of space, is a danger to film workers.

Columbia Usual Pfd.

Columbia board yesterday (Tues.) declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.06¼ on the $4.25 cumulative preferred stock.

It's payable Nov. 15 to holders of record on Nov. 1.

VIDEOIZE 'DAY' AWARD AS BEST ALIEN FILM

Paris, Oct. 15.

In ceremonies televised throughout Europe Friday (11) night, the Victoir du Cinema was awarded 20th-Fox's "Longest Day" as the best foreign film to play France in the 1962-63 season.

Producer Darryl F. Zanuck wasn't on hand for the ceremonies, but accepted via a film interview recorded earlier.

Swerdlow Succeeds To Rose's Regional U Post

Abraham Swerdlow has been promoted to the post of regional sales manager for Universal Pictures, succeeding Barney Rose who died a few weeks ago.

Swerdlow will headquarter in Los Angeles. Robert L. Carpenter, sales manager in Memphis since 1957, has been promoted to branch manager in Los Angeles, replacing Swerdlow, effective Oct. 28. Lewis Dreisbach, office manager and head booker in Dallas, has been upped to sales manager in Memphis.

Swerdlow joined Universal as a cashier in L.A. in 1941 and was branch manager in San Francisco in 1948 before being promoted to the Los Angeles job. Carpenter started with U in 1949 as a booker in Memphis and Dreisbach has been with the distrib since 1958.

North Park Goes Art

Buffalo, Oct. 15.

Brian Theatre Corp. of New York City, which operates theatres in New York, New Jersey and Ohio, has leased the North Park effective immediately.

Will change the name to the North Park Cinema presenting art films exclusively.

Roger Lewis, Publicity Chief That Was, Learns Vagaries of Major Distribs

Major film companies are a very nervous breed, according to Roger Lewis, a former vice president himself of a major distrib, United Artists, and now an indie filmmaker. "When the cards are down" he says of them, "everyone runs the other way."

Lewis, naturally, is referring to a project of his own which bounced among a couple of majors before finally landing with Ely A. Landau under whose aegis it is now in production. It's "The Pawnbroker" the filmization of Edward Lewis Wallant's novel of the same title, scripted by David Friedkin and Mort Fine and being directed by Sidney Lumet with Rod Steiger starring.

Philip Langner is coproducer of the project which has taken two years to get into work, mostly because of the antics of major companies they deali with.

"Pawnbroker" is the story of a German Jew who today lives a reclusive life as the operator of a Harlem hock shop after years in a Nazi concentration camp during the war. Lewis relates how one company liked it very much if only he would change one or two minor things like: (1) does the leading character really have to be Jewish? and (2) couldn't you maybe cut out the reference to the concentration camp.

These, to Lewis, are absolutes to the story. His conclusion after this and other sessions is that majors "think a thing is a great property but maybe someone else should do it or they want it changed in such a way that the whole thing is lost." Another technique used is they throw in heavy above the line costs which handicap the project and the next one of any substance that comes along is doomed by the example of the other.

Decisions, Decisions

So why not produce it himself? With Langner's legit background a limited partnership type of operation would be a relatively easy matter to set up. Lewis agrees but he feels that "you spend too much time trying to cover all the holes as a limited partnership independent." The whole process is too involved and ultimately takes too much of a producer's time away from the actual production because of the welter of details involved with such an operation. There are also financial risks, he says, noting that "there are more pictures in a lab with a hook on them or waiting to be edited or scored or whatever because the producers just can't get that last bit of dough up."

An operation like Landau's takes this burden off the producer and frees him to work on his property. Also, Lewis says, with Landau he enjoys as much freedom of ideas as if he were producing it strictly on his own. And there's no tangled burocracy to fight as there is with a major. It all adds up to the ideal way to produce pix, he feels, and he is currently working on other projects, maybe to be done with Landau.

"Pawnbroker" is being done with Steiger, Lumet and others taking a low salary in favor of a percentage of the picture's action. This was Landau's lure to the stars and other participants in his "Long Day's Journey Into Night," which was also directed by Lumet and photographed by Boris Kauffman who's also lensing "Pawnbroker." Lewis says that "actors, directors and the rest are much nore willing to make this type of a picture than distributors are to because the distribs are too worried about how they'll come out." Yet the distribs are the first to blame the creators for being money-hungry, he points out.

In the course of the two years spent getting "Pawnbroker" into production, Lewis began to do some writing. He will have two scripts seen on tv's "The Defenders" this season as well as teleplays on other shows. He has also developed some original plots for future pictures. But right now all that's important to him is getting his pet "Pawnbroker" on film. What comes next is still undecided.

Mastroianni's American Exposure Via Levine

Italo actor Marcello Mastroianni is operating in high gear these days, almost exclusively under aegis of Joseph E. Levine. He is currently being seen in the Gotham area in two films playing 53 theatres, is costarring with Sophia Loren in a film presently being lensed in Italy and will shortly begin two more picture projects. All of this activity is via the Levine route.

Mastroianni performance in "Divorce — Italian Style" is currently on display in 51 Loew's and other neighborhood houses in the New York area. The actor is also represented by Federico Fellini's "8½" which is in its 17th week at Levine's Festival Theatre and the New Embassy Theatre in Gotham. "Divorce," incidentally, played for over a year at the Paris Theatre, N.Y., before moving onto the multiple trail.

The performer is now before the camera in Milan costarring with Miss Loren in Levine and Carlo Ponti's coproduction "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," being directed by Vittorio De Sica. Following completion of this picture he will begin work in "Casanova," another Levine-Ponti effort, which will be lensed in five countries using femme costars from each nation, all under the direction of Mauro Bologini. After that assignment, Mastroianni will do his first American film, a still untitled picture to be produced by Levine from an original idea by the actor himself.

Inside Stuff—Pictures

Norman Foster, 37, U.S. baritone residing in Vienna, states that he's planning to produce a filmization of Otto Nicolai's opera, "The Merry Women of Windsor," for television. He says Anita Ekberg and Anna Magnani are to play the leads. "It doesn't matter that the two can't sing," Foster said. "The playback system can easily be utilized on Nicolai's music."

With regard to his recently completed tv production of Bela Bartok's opera, "Duke Bluebeard's Castle," he said that its budget originally amounted to 200,000 D-Marks ($50,000) but then climbed up $125,000. Michael Powell directed "Castle" which, incidentally, employes only two singers: Uruguayan-born Ana Raquel-Satre (Judith) and Foster (Duke Bluebeard) himself. Foster said that he invested all his savings in the production. British tollvision, which starts operating in October 1964, has acquired "Castle," he said.

Universal presently has a stockpile of upwards of $30,000,000 in negatives as yet unreleased. Company starts them in December with "Charade." All of the coin, spent in 1963, figures for recupment in 1964 and beyond.

Following "Charade" comes "Man's Favorite Sport?," "Captain Newman, M.D.," "The Brass Bottle," "Chalk Garden," "Bedtime Story" (nee "King of the Mountain") and "Wild and Wonderful."

As far as 1963 is concerned, "To Kill a Mockingbird" and "Thrill" were the b.o. standouts. The former has reportedly done nearly $7,000,000 in gross business domestically since its debut last fall. Overseas it has been doing soundly also. "Thrill" has taken in close to $3,000,000 on the domestic market so far and Universal is projecting it to be a $6,000,000 candidate by the time it's through. Some of the company's other pix didn't turn out as well but U execs claim that 1963 year-end figures will show a good year in 1963.

But the big year looks like 1964 with that $30,000,000 of inventory.

Neil Simon's current legit comedy, "Barefoot In The Park," which opened to good out-of-town reviews, wound up as a Paramount preproduction buy after agent Irving Paul Lazar virtually set the deal with Warner Bros. However, when Par disclosed it had a preproduction option with Simon (Par filmed his "Come Blow Your Horn," starring Frank Sinatra), Lazar effected the WB release. Par matched the $150,000 terms against a $400,000 ceiling. The escalation comes via 10% of the gross of every successful week the show runs on Broadway.

A new British fan magazine is to be launched on December 15 by Circuits Management Association Ltd., the theatrical arm of the Rank Organization. It will be produced by Interspan Press Services Ltd. The new monthly, to be called Showtime, will have an initial circulation of more than 200,000 and will sell at 10c a copy, using more than 500 Rank outlets, including 350 Odeon and Gaumont cinemas, 100 theatre restaurants, and bingo, social clubs and dance studios. Peter Tipthorp, former editor of Photoplay, has been named as editor of Showtime. The magazine, which will run 36 pages per issue, including 10 in color, will be printed in Holland.

Elias Alfred McQuaid, former journalist, who began his professional career as a newsman in Manchester, N.H. is America's new consul-general in Edinburgh, Scotland. As such, he will take an active part in the 1964 Edinburgh International Festival. A native of Canadia, N.H., McQuaid was a scribe in Boston, and later joined the staff of the N.Y. Herald Tribune, Paris edition From 1946 to 1948 he was editor of a New Hampshire Sunday sheet. He entered the U.S. Consular Service in 1948. From 1949 to 1952 he was Press Attache at the U.S. Embassy in Paris.

Whispers are heard in New York that the proposed studio at Malibu supposedly to be jointly owned and operated by 20th-Fox, Metro and Columbia has run into second thoughts of Darryl F. Zanuck that space be made available on a rental basis to Col and MGM. Latter two companies just don't like that revision of proposition. They were going along on the thought of sharing facilities for filmmaking coowners and cotenants.

IT'S SHEER BEDLAM FROM MORNING 'TIL NIGHT!

The BIG Entertainment for Christmas from 20th— Backed by the power of national magazine advertising PLUS the 20th brand of point-of-sale impact thru radio, TV and special exploitation!

TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX PRESENTS

doris day
james garner
polly bergen

AN AARON ROSENBERG-MARTIN MELCHER PRODUCTION

"move over, darling"

COLOR BY DeLUXE

CO-STARRING THELMA RITTER · FRED CLARK · DON KNOTTS · ELLIOTT REID AND WITH chuck connors AS ADAM

PRODUCED BY AARON ROSENBERG & MARTIN MELCHER · DIRECTED BY MICHAEL GORDON · SCREENPLAY BY HAL KANTER & JACK SHER

BASED ON A SCREENPLAY BY BELLA SPEWACK & SAMUEL SPEWACK · STORY BY BELLA SPEWACK, SAMUEL SPEWACK & LEO McCAREY · CINEMASCOPE

Waiting For the 'Jury'

Post-premiere party Thursday night (10), given by Algonquin Hotel owners Mary and Ben B. Bodne for old friend Louis Nizer and his friends, followed the opening of "A Case of Libel." There were offbeat connotations. Unusually namey, gamey, savvy show biz, legalistic, literati et al. were invitees. It was a case of author Nizer, playwright Henry Denker (who adapted the Westbrook Pegler-Quentin Reynolds chapter from Nizer's bestseller, "My Life In Court") and their 300 or so friends waiting for another kind of "jury" to bring in the verdict. Meaning the four drama critics on the morning papers.

The uncertainty—despite the obviously highly enthusiastic reaction to a taut courtroom drama—was heightened by Barry Gray's (WMCA) pan on the play, the lone dissenter, because the NBC post-preem opinion was contradictorily enthusiastic. Still, the convincer, even to such old pros as Nizer, his law partner Arthur B. Krim (now prez of United Artists), Darryl F. Zanuck, et al., among those present, was what will those four guys on the aisle say?

Dramatized version had changed the Pegler, Reynolds, Hearst et al. names. After the tensions were off, with the good quartet of bulldog editions' notices, humorist Harry Hershfield got extra laughs by sidling up to pals and whispering, "I think this play is something to do with Pegler."

This raised a footnote wonder how would the Journal-American handle it? Critic John McClain's notice was perhaps the top rave.

Nizer was skeptic throughout. The unanimous raves were "too much for me," he said the following day, "I'm going to get out of town for a few days and digest it."

The Bodnes, incidentally, had a sampling of the Broadway grapevine on post-premiere parties—50% of the 300 guests were crashers. Or, more strictly, people asked by invitees "come along am sure it'll be all right," with result that the crush was abnormal. They didn't care—it was all for old friend Nizer anyway.

What Now for 'Gone Are the Days'?

Exploiteers Show Interest If No Curbs on Their Sell—Hammer Thinks Overseas Prospects Good

Interest on the part of Walter Reade-Sterling and 20th Century-Fox is reported in domestic distribution of "Gone Are the Days," the civil rights satire which opened recently to a curious lack of response despite favorable reviews. Actually, by the end of the first week, the pic was performing quite well at the Trans-Lux East Theatre, N.Y. There has been considerable interest of overseas where the subject matter may have special interest. Despite generally unexciting business, Trans-Lux prez Richard Brandt is holding film at his house.

After last week's splash in the press about the plight of the racial farce, many individuals and groups rallied to the support of the film buying blocks of tickets and otherwise demonstrating their partisanship. Interestingly, however, although the ofay press jumped on the story and gave it considerable play, the Negro press virtually ignored both the film and the public reaction to it.

The plan is now to try and get the film into distribution. The Hammer Bros., producers of the pic, which is an adaptation by Ossie Davis of his Broadway comedy "Purlie Victorious," are particularly interested in getting it shown in the south. Milton Hammer said last week that he had inquiries from exhibs in Charlotte, Memphis, New Orleans and Atlanta about booking the film. Importantly, it is the Hammers plan not to play the picture in segregated houses.

Hammer states that film appeals to "exploiteers" who offer to take the picture on and give it a big exploitation drive, not necessarily with the taste and style the Hammers initially intended. Hammers' reaction has been a definite nix of such offers.

Hammers hope to screen film for President Kennedy to get his views on the advisability of its release abroad. Milt Hammer knew JFK as a junior senator some years ago and was, in fact the first one to put him on tv on his "Washington Spotlight" show which he long since gave up. In any case, since "Gone Are the Days" is a debatable pic as far as the U.S. Image is concerned, Hammer wants to get some kind of official opinion on the film.

Fairbairn's 20th Post

London, Oct. 15.

John Fairbairn has been named 20th-Fox ad-pub director in the United Kingdom, replacing Rowland Hill, who resigned last week. Ronald Shinn continues as assistant ad-pub director.

Fairbairn joined the industry in 1932 and since 1948 has been with the Rank Organization, most recently as publicity liaison to the Samuel Bronston Co. in Madrid during production of "55 Days at Peking" and "Fall of the Roman Empire."

New Detroit Twin

Detroit, Oct. 15.

Construction is under way on the 2,000,000-seat, twin auditorium Carousel Theatre, located in an eastside suburban shopping centre. Theatre is the first new hardtop in the suburb of Warren in more than 25 years.

Theatre will be operated by General Drive-In Corp. which plans to play either two different films at the same time or the same movie with a new starting time in the twin auditoriums.

To Pow Censors, 200 Exhibs Back 'Bill of Rights'

Over 200 exhibs across the country have joined the Council of Motion Picture Organizations' Bill of Rights campaign. Nearly all 50 states are included in the exhib list.

The COMPO campaign is aimed at promoting greater public awareness of the Bill of Rights. Asked to serve on the state committees were exhibs who had previously served in COMPO drives of the past. These committeemen will now enlist the support of other exhibs in their areas.

The organization is conducting its Bill of Rights drive in connection with its continuing effort against censorship. In the course of the latter campaign, the group found that public indifference to the Bill makes it possible for agitators for pix censorship to find public support, which in turn, the organization claims, encourages legislators to promote censorship legislation.

In discussing the developments in the Bill of Rights campaign, COMPO exec v.p. Charles E. McCarthy commented that "the hearings now being conducted by the Marano legislative committee in New York are an example of legislator's readiness to ignore Constitutional freedoms guaranteed in the Bill of Rights." He said that, although most of the committee is composed of lawyers who are fully aware of Supreme Court rulings on censorship, they are ignoring such factors in their testimony.

"Were the public at large more keenly aware of the Bill of Rights and the necessity of preserving it intact, there would be more public opposition to censorship agitation with a consequent caution among legislators." Hence the COMPO campaigns.

Retitle 'Gang Murders' Into 'La Cosa Nostra'

Chicago, Oct. 15.

A documentary theatrical titled "True Gang Murders," from which Teitel Films got a very mild response when it was released two years ago, is stirring some fresh interest as a result of Joe Valachi's confessional to the Senate Crime Investigating subcommittee. Through still photos, the picture traces notable gang killings from Jesse James to Roger Touhy.

Kenneth L. Dickinson, who owns the Homewood Theatre in Homewood, Ill., and the Town, in Highland, Ind., has booked the film for both his houses as a topical entry. He's gotten permission to change the title to "La Cosa Nostra, et. al."

Six-Lane Road

Continued from page 3

would seem that 20th would be tying up an unprecedented amount of money (don't mention the "Cleopatra" negative) by having $42,000,000 wrapped up in six "slow-release" roadshows.

It may be, however, that the company has had such good fortune in its cash advance guarantee policy on "Cleopatra," that it figures it can do the same on these six new roadshows. The selling of the six for cash-guarantees-in-advance would allow the company to maintain a healthy cash position, while still getting all the benefits which can accrue the successful roadshow.

It would also, in effect, make the exhibs share a certain amount of risk and financial burden which heretofore have been shouldered exclusively by the producer-distrib. It's a risk, because a cash-paid-in-advance is a fait accompli, and not subject to the kind of "adjustments" as are ordinary minimum guarantees. Also, because exhibs, who pay in advance, must go to the bank for their money, they are paying interest on loans which, once in the distrib's hands, allow the distrib to reduce his indebtedness.

Of additional interest in 20th's roadshow announcement is that all but one of the properties—Robert Wise's production of "The Sand Pebbles" which originally was on the Mirisch-UA slate—are projects initiated by the studio under production veep Richard Zanuck. Also, though each of the films will require extensive location work, all but one will apparently make use of the studio facilities for some portion of its filming.

"The Day Custer Fell," based on a book by David Humphries Miller, using the hour-by-hour narrative technique, plus cameo casting, employed in "The Longest Day." Will be filmed in 70m, color, on location at the Little Big Horn in Wyoming. David Weisbart produces from a screenplay by Elliot Arnold. Starts early next summer.

"Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," based on a story by Jack Davis about the 1910 English Channel air race. Ken Annakin, who worked with 20th prez Darryl F. Zanuck on "Longest Day," will direct a cast headed by seven international stars. To be photographed in England and France. Starts early May, 1964.

"The Sound of Music" William Wyler's production of Rodgers & Hammerstein's musical. To be photographed in 70m, color, exteriors in Austria and interiors at the studio. Starts May 15, 1964.

"The Sand Pebbles," to be produced and directed by Robert Wise from Robert Anderson script based on Richard McKenna's novel. Exteriors to be shot in Orient, interiors at the studio. Starts October, 1964.

"The Agony and The Ecstacy" by Irving Stone, with screenplay by Philip Dunne. To be shot in 70m, color, in Italy and at the studio. Starts June, 1964.

"Justine," based on Laurence Durrell's four Alexandrian novels, with script by Ben Barzman (who did screenplays for "The Visit" and "The Fall of The Roman Empire"). To be photographed in 70m, color, on locations in the Near East, with interiors at the studio. Starts late next summer. (This is the property which 20th originally acquired for producer Walter Wanger and which writer-director Joseph Mankiewicz was adapting at the time he was called to "to do some work" on "Cleopatra.")

A New Resistive Race Stereotype: Fixed Idea Negro Films Not B.O. Hits Wiseman With Recent Letdown

The recent, well-publicized box-office problems of "Gone Are The Days," Negro star Ossie Davis' film version of his own legit comedy, "Purlie Victorious," isn't helping producer Fred Wiseman in his current negotiations with local distribs re "The Cool World," drama dealing with juvenile gang life in Harlem.

In New York last week, Wiseman reported that at least one major distrib said he wasn't interested in looking at the film after he heard what it was about. There are other interested distribs, says the producer, but he feels they are using the "Gone Are The Days" argument as "a club to beat down the price."

Reaction of overseas distribs is another matter. Following the pic's successful showing at the recent Venice film fest, Wiseman tentatively set distrib deals on the pic for France, Belgium, Italy and Germany. He has held off consumating those deals for the time being in hopes of setting one major distrib to handle the pic worldwide. If he doesn't, he'll go ahead and sell it market by market.

Producer remains somewhat baffled by the local reaction. Acknowledging that few features with Negro protagonists in the past have been hefty b.o. earners, he still feels it's a mistake—or at least extremely p r e m a t u r e—to label "Cool World" a non-grosser. One distrib told him he loved the picture, but couldn't take it on "because I couldn't play it in the South." A couple of days later, a southern drive-in operator contacted him, eager to book the picture.

In Wiseman's admittedly biased opinion, the film is a rough and legitimately violent tale which can "play both sides of the street," effective as drama and as social comment. He also definitely feels that there is a "Negro market" which would find the film enormously interesting and he will, if he has his way, preem the pic in midtown Manhattan and Harlem, day-date.

The film, which was shot here last year entirely on Harlem locations by director Shirley Clarke, was brought in for $300,000, including about $100,000 in deferments. Financing was private, principally from investors in Boston (Wiseman's hometown), and Canada, where Mrs. Wiseman hails from.

At the moment, Wiseman is prepping his second film, "The Revlations of Dr. Modesto," a comedy-satire based on the novel by Alan Harrington. This is budgeted at $250,000 and, unlike "Cool," will go with a completely union crew. There's a chance that a distrib deal on "Cool" would include participation in the new film, tentatively skedded to get underway next May.

Film Traffic In Atlanta

Atlanta, Oct. 15.

Metro's "How the West Was Won" bowed out Thursday (10) at Martin's Cinerama and "The Best of Cinerama" moved in for a roadshow engagement Friday to fill the gap until Stanley Kramer's "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" moves in this winter. "West" had a ninth-month run.

At present Atlanta has one other hardticket operation, Wilby-Kincey chain's Roxy Theatre, where "Cleopatra's" barge is tied up.

Noteworthy openings last week were 20th Century-Fox's Southern premiere of "The Leopard" at Storey's Rhodes Theatre. It's a grind run at $1.25 top.

Back for the first time is "Lawrence," showing at Meiselman's Cherokee Theatre at popular prices.

Metro's "V.I.P.'s" is in its third week at Loew's Grand Theatre and "Irma La Douce" is going strong in its 14th week at 960-seat Capri Cinema.

Fine Art Cinema, owned and operated by Ruth and John Carter (they also o&o Capri) has gone dark for complete remodeling and refurbishing.

Spanish Cash Helps Spur In More Tot Fodder

Madrid, Oct. 15.

Determined to initiate the distribution and exhibition of films for children this season, government authorities have sidestepped political, economic and bureaucratic obstacles to encourage Spanish distribs to import sufficient product assuring partial success at least of a program that will eventually loom larger on Spanish screens.

On the economic level, film authorities have slashed import and dubbing charges to symbolic minimums. Whereas a full-length feature in color and scope is tabbed for import and dubbing anywhere from $18,000 to $5,000, tot product will get by for the mere pittance of around $450. Importers of subtitled pix will pay a maximum of $65, and completely original language celluloid will enter Spain for the modest sum of $17.50.

As a political sop, Franco is prepared to import what Spanish filmites consider a bountiful and artistically balanced supply of children's films from such eastern European countries as Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. The government went so far as to favor contact with Iron Curtain producers of this specialized product at the Dijon Children's Film Festival this past summer. However, film authorities will keep a weather eye out and ban anything that resembles propaganda.

Although it has been decreed that one Spanish pic must be distributed and exhibited for every four foreign films imported for low ages, film toppers realize that local production is just getting under way and they are prepared to waive the 4-to-1 decree indefinitely so that the program principally based on foreign imports, is not delayed. Five Spanish film projects for children have been cleared by government authorities, but none have entered production. However, several major companies, including the powerful animated and live action screen commercial and tv commercial producer, Movierecord (in close cooperation with its associate company, Moro Studios), are readying long-range plans in this specialized field.

Mark Robson, currently prepping film version of French novelist Jean Larteguy's "The Centurions," bought rights to author's "The Praetorians," which has same cast of characters. Film is planned as sequel.

U.S. Commerce Dept. Confirms Austria's Slump In Theatre Attendance

Washington, Oct. 15.

Austrian film production and attendance continued sliding last year, the U.S. Commerce Dept. disclosed.

Attendance plummetted to 90,500,000 in 1962 from the 100,500,000 mark in 1961. The trend has continued through the first half of this year.

The domestic industry produced 17 films last year compared to 20 in 1961 and 25 in 1958.

The declines were attributed to the rapid growth of television and private automobile ownership.

In the last two and one-half years 71 houses have closed and exhibitors are asking for reductions on the high house taxes. Prospects for tax relief, however, are not bright.

Another problem facing producers is a capital shortage. One source of supply—West German distributors—has diminished considerably because of the film industry's problems there.

The Austrian export condition has been boosted slightly with the signing of bilateral film exchange agreements with West Germany, France, and Italy.

Socialist Party Protests Vs. Film Censoring by German Trade Office

By HAZEL GUILD

Bonn, Oct. 8.

The outspoken, left-leaning Socialists in the West German Federal Parliament are demanding an investigation into allegedly unfair film censorship under the German government.

The group (second major political party in Germany) is protesting about recent films, mainly from East Germany and the Commie countries, that are not gaining entry into West Germany, with blocking from various federal ministries.

In May 1961, the West German Parliament decided to set up "rules for supervision" to more stringently investigate all the files from the Eastern Block lands at the Federal Office for Trade and Industry in Frankfurt so as to see whether these films meet with German censorship.

Now, it's claimed, this office, which as no actual connection with the German Film Censorship Board, gets the first look at these East films, and has the opportunity to reject them or demand cuts. The Socialists maintain this censorship is illegal and unfair.

For instance, last year at the Mannheim Documentary Film Fest, the Polish film, "Under the Same Heaven," was scheduled to be shown. But the German Ministry of the Interior turned down the film for general release, urging that it not be shown to crix at Mannheim. The rejection served to get the film withdrawn from general release to German cinemas.

Similarly, the Bonn government refused to allow two East German pix made by Commie-controlled DEFA Film Production Company. One was a film version of Berthold Brecht's "Mother Courage." Brecht, of course, was known for his Communistic feelings, but innumerable dramas of the late great German playwright (including "Mother Courage") have been performed in the last few years on the West German stages.

Screened But No Reviews

This pair of pictures was permitted to be shown at Mannheim, but only with the assurance that the crix would not be allowed to review them.

At Frankfurt's Asiatic Film Week held earlier this year (with films from Russia, Red China, India and Japan), three entries from North Vietnam were turned down on the advice of the South Vietnamese Cultural Attache in Bonn, it was reported. But a South Vietnamese hate and propaganda film was permitted to be shown..

The Bonn government demanded so many cuts in the 25-year-old Eisenstein film, "Alexander Nevski," that the final version was a third shorter, the Socialists claimed. The German government also rejected three internationally known films, the Russian pic, "The Silent Don River," plus "Mother Joan of the Angels" and "The Higher Principle."

The Socialists are demanding that the Federal Office for Trade and Industry lose its privilege to pre-screen and pre-censor films, and that the control be given only to the West German Film Censorship Board.

Strange Switch on 'Altona'

Meanwhile, there's been a strange switch regarding one of the films that stirred up much of the fuss here.

There have been many protests in the German press about the unfair censorship of the Vittoria De Sica pic, "The Condemned of Altona," which 20th-Fox made. It's objected that the West German Film Censorship Board cut out all the unfriendly reference to the Germans during the last World War and all the sting against the Nazis that were included in the Sartre play.

But now, the censored version apparently meets with the approval of the powerful Protestant Church here. The Protestant Film Guild has selected the pic as "the best film of the month," citing it as "a true portrayal of the past and bringing a solution to the problems closer to us."

Scot Chain Acquires Assoc. British House

Dundee, Scotland, Oct. 8.

The influential J. B. Milne chain of theatres is acquiring the Palace Cinema, in the East Scotland town of Arbroath, from the powerful Associated British Cinemas.

The Milne circuit of 30 houses already extends from Lerwick, in the Shetland Islands of the north, to Galashiels, in the border country of the south.

Mystery 3-Dimensional Process Given Airing In Belgian Capital

Brussels, Oct. 8.

The big draw as the new season starts is not, in spite of brisk business, "55 Days in Peking" (AA) or "The Birds" (U). Even "Cleopatra" (20th) evicting the very successful "Longest Day" (20th) is overshadowed here currently by "Super-Heraclorama." This is not a new film but a so-called new process that seems to bring 3-D to all films.

Its inventor French scientist M. Bourdiaux, has for a number of months perfected something that caused a real sensation at its gala preem in a suburb cinema, specially equipped with a giant curved screen. M. Bourdiaux still seems a little dazed but is keeping to himself the secret of his process. He has brought to the cinema a feeling of depth, without the use of glasses, or so it seemed to viewers here.

There was plenty of cheering when extracts of several films suddenly came to life within three dimensions. These included extracts of Lamorisse's "Voyage en Ballon" and "West Side Story" (UA) which currently is showing at the same cinema.

M. Bourdiaux so far appears in no mood at this stage to give away any secrets of his invention. All that is known here is that a Cinemascope lens is used as well as the curved screen, made of a variety of lamellae. This screen very precisely follows the shape of the retina establishing a symmetry rather reminiscing of an electronic eye. Projectionists will have to be more careful than ever because the slightest carelessness would create havoc or, at least, Bourdiaux took pleasure in pointing this out.

Beaconsfield Studios Seen Shuttering Soon

London, Oct. 15.

Widespread reports in the past week or two that Beaconsfield studios is going dark were followed last weekend by the issuance of redundancy notices to many studio employees. About 100 workers will be losing their jobs within the next week or two.

It is generally believed that the main reason for the redundancy notices is the backlog of features awaiting release in Britain. The acting chief shop steward at the studios said he believed this was "the end of the road for Beaconsfield."

Athens Theatre Sets Deal for Cinerama

Athens, Oct. 8.

Andreas S. Haliotis, manager of the Radio City Theatre here and of his own film distribution company, signed a pact with the company Orbit of Paris, finalizing an exclusive contract on for Cinerama, for all of Greece. This is the first deal ever concluded to present this screen process here.

Radio City, a 1,000-seater, was the only first run in Athens equipped to present "Around the World." It will be equipped with the conventional three Cinerama projectors. It likely will be ready by the end of October or early in November. Preem film will be "How West Was Won." Admission price will be twice as much of the usual Athens firstrun scale of $2.

German Cinema Biz Off 45% in Six Years

Wiesbaden, Oct. 8.

Latest statistics of the West German film industry organization here, the SPIO, is a sad one. Number of cinema patrons in West Germany has dropped 45% in the last six years, from a postwar high of 818,000,000 in 1956 to only 453,000,000 last year.

In the last three years, 754 houses have closed. And since 1955, the German film production has also been taking steps backward.

In 1955, there were 128 German films produced, and in 1962 there were only 63 (that was a reduction of 19 less than the year before). And of the "pure" German films the count was only 45, with the other 18 being co-productions with foreign interests.

Children's films and fairy tales, once a good business here, are almost non-existent, with only one picture made in this category last year.

The Americans, according to the SPIO study, came in with 36.5% of the boxoffice receipts last year, with the Germans placing second via their own productions.

Set Barcelona's Film Fair Fare

Barcelona, Oct. 15.

Barcelona's Fifth International Film Congress, which this year incorporates a trade fair of product and equipment related to the motion picture, television and optical industries, has disclosed its program of film features and shorts. In addition to 21 noncompetitive full-length pix, the Congress will screen an elaborate Charlie Chaplin retrospective series and a less extensive group of films directed by Roberto Rossellini.

While the 21 entries in the Week of Color Films would alone assemble Congress audiences three times a day in the new Auditorium of Nations, organizers have this year come up with a contest for color shorts and documentaries that will send 67 entries into competition from 18 countries.

With the exception of "Donovan's Reef" and "Come Fly With Me," American features to be screened during the Week of Color Films go back to include Nick Ray's old "Rebel Without Cause," "Breakfast at Tiffany's" and "Flower Drum Song." Spain is represented with a brace of outstanding pix—"Weep for a Bandit" and "History of the Tarantos."

Congress will this year close out a five-week period of entertainment, social, sports and varied activities, elaborately programmed by the Catalan city fathers for Barcelona's annual Virgin of Mercy Fiesta.

U.S. Major Distribs Not Very Upset by Algeria's Takeover of Cinemas

Paris, Oct. 8.

American major film company reps are not unduly alarmed at the rash of nationalizations of theatres recently in Algeria. However, they are keeping an eye on events since Algeria is a key North African market. But, so far the major offices there are calmly carrying on their work.

The Ben Bella government, besides estates and French newspapers, has taken over abandoned French hardtops, and also is cracking down on properties that were bought by locals just before and after independence. Basis for this is that some of these cannot prove the origin of the funds used for purchases.

It is not excluded that Yanks could have some trouble later with their distrib setup here, but there seems no indication of expropriation in the near future. It is probably felt these offices are needed to help run a complicated business. The government has indicated it wants its theatres open and needs screen product.

But is is known there is a faction that would like to see these company outfits taken over by the government. It is now a watch-and-wait attitude with business as usual as long as the setup remains status quo.

International Sound Track

London

A new Brigitte Bardot film goes on location in London, starting next Monday (21). It's "Une Ravissante Idiote," in which she costars with Anthony Perkins, with Edouard Molinaro directing . . . Carl Foreman has lined up three royal premieres for "The Victors," starting with the opening in London on Nov. 18, which will be attended by Prince Philip and the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester. King and Queen of Sweden will attend the Stockholm launching on Dec. 12 and five days later the King and Queen of Denmark will be attending their first royal preem at Copenhagen. Both the Stockholm and Copenhagen galas are in aid of the Red Cross . . . "Divorce—Italian Style," still on West End prerelease, starts its general release in the London area on Oct. 28. Joseph E. Levine film is distributed in Britain through 20th-Fox . . . Charles H. Schneer started filming at Shepperton last week on "The First Men in the Moon," which Nathan Juran is directing. Martha Hyer, Lionel Jeffries and Edward Judd in it. Ray Harryhausen is again doing special effects and the script is by Nigel Kneale and Jan Read . . . 107 out of a possible 109 Rank theatre managers were winners in the incentive showmanship contest organized jointly by Rank, Columbia and BLC to launch Charles H. Schneer's "Jason and the Argonauts" and "Siege of the Saxons." More than $2,800 was paid out in prize money.

Paris

New posh arty firstrun house opening in Saint-Germain-Des-Pres district. Le Dragon tees off with the French prizewinner at the recent Venice Film Fest, Louis Malle's "Le Feu Follet" (The Will-'o-The-Wisp) . . . Riviera town of Saint-Raphael covets a studio and other filmmaking facilities as Victorine Studios in Nice face razing in near future . . . Calls still come to VARIETY here, for Deanna Durban's address. She is completely retired and prefers strict privacy. She is even called Jeanne. Married to a local film producer . . . "The V.I.P.'s" (MG) getting generally okay reviews if film is termed stereotyped and familiar.

miliar . . . Film started well at the boxoffice . . . Paul Heller, producer of Yank indie "David and Lisa," in to confab with writer James Jones on doing an oater script for him. Heller heads back to London where he is prepping a pic to be directed by Argentine director Leopoldo Torre Nilsson . . . What's-it-mean playwrights Eugene Ionesco, Harold Pinter and Samuel Beckett working on scripts for episode pic to be made here next year . . . "The Great Escape" (UA) already has over 200,000 admissions in its first-run . . . Multiple-sketch features now prepping are "Success," (in love, politics, biz), "How to Get A Girl," (art of seduction), "The Kiss," (speaks for itself), "Chance" (Luck), and "les Jeux" (gambling) . . . An Italo-French pic called "Cleopatra, A Queen for Caesar" has opened at four houses. But it is not making much headway. Opening of the Fox's "Cleopatra" is being awaited (Oct. 25).

Rome

Ingrid Bergman, here for "The Visit" (20th) does a tv guest appearance for RAI weekly "Cinema d'Oggi," back this week after summer hiatus . . . Vittorio DeSica thinking of bringing Flaubert's "A simple heart" to the screen . . . Nagamasa Kawakita in town for pic negotiations . . . Vinod Pathak setting up Devon Enterprises here in Rome to produce "Giants of Fire," which he calls a "prehistoric science-fiction" item.

Lex Barker, Guy Madison, Daliah Lavi and others, in "The Apache's Last Battle," lensing in Sebenico under direction of Hugo Fregonese . . . "Cleopatra" Rome bow a sellout, with $15 benefit tix going for $50 on black market, say local reports . . . Sophia Loren started shooting third episode in "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" for Carlo Ponti and Embassy Pictures in Bergamo, near Milan; episode, scripted by Cesare Zavattini and Billa Zanuso, is based on Alberto Moravia story, "Troppo Ricca" (Too Rich).

Franca Film has cast Anouk Aimee, Sandra Milo, Jacqueline Sassard, Jeanne Valerie, and Czech actress Carla Kadimova for its second pic, "Le Voci Bianche" (The White Voices), which P. F. Campanile and Massimo Franciosa co-direct starting this month . . . George Bornyek signed with Luxardo Films here for "Berenice, Queen of the Caesars" to follow his current "Bonanza" video stint, may do second pic here too . . Walter Chiari stars in "Il Giovedi" (Thursday) for DDL-Centerfilm, Rome, with Dino Risi directing.

Technicolor film-saving process has resulted in spurt in company business; Rome plant working overtime to fill commitments, also handling overflow from British Techni operation, an official reports. . . . The Oct. 11 Rome opening of "Cleopatra" got live pickup over Italy's RAI-TV network; Milan opening follows day later . . . Federico Fellini still not divulging thread of script he's currently writing, but title will probably be "Giulietta dei Spiriti" (Giulietta of the Spirits), and it should get started this fall . . . Three Yank pix currently leading the key-city b.o. race: "How the West Was Won" (Metro-C'Rama), "The Great Escape" (UA-Dear), and "Hud" (Par), according to early seasonal returns . . . But Italo-mades are ahead percentage-wise, with some 50% of market vs. only 30% for Yank items.

Madrid

Mel Ferrer has stepped out of Eurofilm's religious biopic, "Price of Hope," and is now concentrating on playing the stellar role in "El Greco," which he will coproduce with Impala Films . . . Ted Taylor is back for another half-hour Lufthansa telefilm after getting the sponsor's blessing last year with "Six Pair of Red Shoes" . . . Mariella de Sarzana returned to William Morris Agency in Hollywood after a 15-month stint holding down the percentery's Madrid desk, but leaves behind her husband Ray Daley to wind a major role in "Thin Red Line" . . . Henry Hathaway was at Barajas Airport when Rita Hayworth arrived for her starring role in Samuel Bronston's "Circus World" and supplied some fancy interception to clear his star through an unusually heavy press and fotog gang-up . . . Ex-Bway producer Ethel Linder Reiner made her debut film, "Bomb on High Street," in London for Rank (starring Leslie Howard's son, Ronald) and is now setting up a base in Spain for at least one, and possibly more film productions . . . Lester Welch left for London with associate Sam Abarnanel to score and mix his Spanish-made Western, "Gunfighters of Casa Grande." In Madrid, Welch sewed up an untitled coproduction deal with Dimitri Tiomkin who may score "Gunfighters" if he meets his music deadline for "Fall of the Roman Empire" . . . Tiomkin is also expecting a legit script he commissioned from French playwright Gabriel Arrout, which the composer will ultimately bring to Bway as a musical after it gets an English adaptation . . . Banned under the old censor regime, the Alberto Sordi starrer, "Tutti a casa," was cleared for release in another indication ("The Desert Fox" was first) that politically-loaded pix critical of World War II Germans and Italians are now getting a belated green light . . . Box office power of Spain's "From Pink to Yellow" and the Spanish-French coproduction, "Game of Truth," directed by Forque, is netting both pix a solid-to-smash six-week showcase run on the Gran Via . . . Circuit distrib topper Pedro Balana rolled up the curtain with "Carmen Jones" in Barcelona to inaugurate the Urgel Cinema, a 3,000-seater, now the biggest in Spain . . . Paris store, Galeries Lafayette, reported taking over leading midtown Madrid hardtop Cine Callao as a future consumer mecca . . . Alumni of the official film faculty have formed the Asociacion de Titulados en Cinematografia (A.T.C.), coinciding with heavy spurt of activity involving postgraduate filmites.

Italo Film World Up in Arms Over New Censorship Hassle Re 'Earth'

Rome, Oct. 8.

The Italian film world is up in arms over another censorship hassle the definitive censor nix recently handed to "In Capo al Mondo" (To the Ends of the Earth), pic directed for producer Moris Ergas by Tinto Bras, and shown this year at the Venice Film Fest.

Motivation of appeals board which turned down second petition by producer on the film specifically singles out the production as being "particularly offensive to common (sexual) decency" as well as "offensive to common decency in a moral and social (sense) as contemplated by the Constitution, and is also destructive of all moral and spiritiual values, anti-social, scurrilous in its language."

Local pundits are particularly incensed by the fact that pic was apparently banned not so much for its moral content but for the theme and ideas it propounds. Censorship of ideas has long been a local bugaboo fought by cultural as well as industry sectors as a remnant of Fascist times.

It was felt that recent assurances from Italo authorities that films would only be judged on moral grounds had now been definitely broken, and another rough period is predicted by producers who have formally protested edict to the Entertainment Ministry.

Large Par Contingent In London to Preview Roughcut of 'Becket'

London, Oct. 15.

A big Paramount contingent from New York, the Philippines, the Far East and Europe was in London last week as guests of Hal Wallis and his partner, Joseph Hazen, to view the first roughcut screening of "Becket," which was recently completed at Shepperton studios.

Heading the contingent was James E. Perkins, president of Paramount International; Charles Boasberg, Paramount distribution topper, and Martin Davis, ad-pub veepee.

Also on hand for the screening were Henri Michaud, manager for Europe, North Africa and the Middle East; Russell W. Hadley, Jr., U.K. managing director; Hugo Stramer, sales manager for Continental Europe; Guenter Schack, European ad-publicity director; Pilade Levi, manager in Italy; Howard Harrison, managing director of Paramount British; Peter Reed, general sales manager U.K.; Jack Upfold, U.K. publicity director; Roy McAree, manager in Malaya; J. Gendre, director of Star Films, Switzerland; and A. S. Velasquez, manager in the Philippines.

Columbia Deal Off, Goyanes Goes Indie

Madrid, Oct. 8.

Producer Manuel Goyanes and Columbia Pictures have called off a deal signed last June for a comedy musical starring the filmmaker's exclusive teenage singing-dancing star, Marisol. Difficulty in lining up a Hollywood costar crooner was reported to be one of the reasons after attempts were made to cast Fabian, James Darren and Paul Anka.

Going it independently, Goyanes has secured Warner Bros. contractee Bob Conrad and will hold back on distribution commitments until George Sherman has finished directing. Conrad recently wound "Palm Springs Weekend."

In addition to Conrad and Marisol, "Pension Madrid" (temporary title) will also topbill Antonio and his Spanish Ballet Co. Sherman starts shooting Oct. 14 at CEA Studios. Augusto Alguero will write the tunes, lyrics and music track.

Antonio is creating a special ballet for "Pension," which he will later incorporate in his repertory for a Hurok-sponsored ballet concert tour of the U.S.A.—timed to end in New York for his dates at the World's Fair.

J. Lee Thompson Forms British Production Co.

London, Oct. 15.

J. Lee Thompson, now directing "What a Way to Go" in Hollywood, has formed a British production company which will make low-budget, arty type of pix costing between $100,000 and $170,000. The British producer-director will function strictly as a producer on this venture, providing the finance and giving opportunities to young directors.

The new outfit, Bowhall Productions Ltd., already has optioned Arnold Wesker's "Chips With Everything" and Clifford Box's "Rose Without a Thorn." It also has acquired an untitled original, which is to be filmed in Spain. John Dexter, who staged the London and Broadway versions of "Chips," has been signed to direct the film.

Thompson aims to produce four films a year under the Bowhall banner, though he admits that most are unlikely to make a profit. He regards them as films which he deeply wishes to make, nevertheless.

Greek Film Fest Lauds Native Pix

Athens, Oct. 8.

During the Salonica Fair, which is held every September in the capital of northern Greece, a Greek Film Fest is being held to attract more visitors to this show. It was presented at first as a Greek Film Week four years ago but soon after was a film festival, with the participation of foreign films. Foreign films, however, are not taking part in the competition. Prizes are awarded only to local pix.

This year only five Greek films were entered because local producers were not satisfied with the members of the committee.

Films presented were: "Little Venuses," with Helen Prokopiou; "Brother Anna," with Peter Fissoun, Manos Katrakis and Xania Kalogeropoulou; "Absence," with Chryssi Koziri; "The Rascal," with Marq Kontou and George Foundas; and "A Delicanis," with Ilya Livikou.

Foreign films presented include "A Night With The Royal Ballet," with Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nureyeff (British); "Freud," directed by John Huston, with Montgomery Clift (American); "A Sentimental Story," (Roumanian); "Therese Desqueroux" (French), "The Underground Melody" (French), with Jean Gabin and Alain Delon; and "The Passage" (Italian), with Vittorio Gassman.

The prizes awarded were: Best Director, Nicos Koundouros for "Little Venuses"; Best Actor, P. Fyssoun for "Brother Anna" and Best Actress, Ilya Livikou for "A Delicanis."

Hakims Plan Another 'La Ronde' in France

Paris, Oct. 8.

Another film version of Arthur Schmitzler's Viennese play "La Ronde" (The Round) is to get another round via producers Robert and Raymond Hakim who made it once before in 1950. The Hakims also won a round against a German producer who is also making a pic version, but this one updated from the turn-of-the-century original.

Hakims judgment was that they had first call on this public domain work and the German film must change tittle from "The Round" to "Great Round of Love." German production is being directed by Alfred Wiedenman with Lili Palmer, Anouk Aimée, Peter Van Eyck and others.

The French "Round" will have an Austrian-German director Rolf Thiele if made here in French from a script by playwright Jean Anouilh.

Local pic will have a group of young thesps. The previous Hakim "Round" was done by the late Max Ophuls and was a solid international moneymaker.

Two Named To Rank Board

London, Oct. 15.

Appointment of Sol M. Linowitz and C. R. P. Hamilton to the board of the Rank Organization was announced last week by chairman John Davis.

Linowitz is chairman of the Xerox Corp., which is already represented on the Rank board by Xerox prexy Joseph C. Wilson. The two companies jointly own Rank Xerox while Davis is a director of the American company. Hamilton recently retired from the Bank of England to become deputy chairman of the Standard Bank.

Yank Pix Help Hike Italo B.O. In September

Rome, Oct. 8.

Key city Italian firstrun grosses for September show a biz upbeat this year compared with 1962 totals for the same month, with Yank pix sharing strongly in the higher figures racked up this year.

According to figures just revealed, the U. S. share of the $1,948,800 month's total (vs. only $1,630,400 for September last year) was nearly 40% as against the 32% of last year. Italian films dropped in same period, from 51% to 38.6% for September this year. Italo decline is lower if Franco-Italian pix are included.

Film totals for this season see "Hud" (Par) in the No. 1 slot nationally, followed by "Great Escape" (UA-Dear), "How West Was Won" (MGM) and "The Leopard" (Titanus). But the last two are naturally higher if their previous season's figures are included.

Universal has fifth place with "To Kill a Mockingbird," followed by "Il Delitto Dupre" (Variety) and three other French-Italian pix.

Other pix showing early strength are Dino DeLaurentiis' "The Boom" and Fairfilm's "Il Successo," both Italian.

Scotland Church Head Hits BBC TV Humor

Glasgow, Oct. 8.

The head of the Church of Scotland, Rev. Prof. J. S. Stewart, who is Moderator of the Church's General Assembly, hit out here at the "dingy, dreary and squalid" humor of the BBC satirical tv program, "That Was The Week That Was." He said that, on its opening program he turned off the show after a quarter of an hour.

Topper criticized the sub-Christian standard of culture and the false sophistication of sex. Britain in recent months, he said, had been losing prestige.

Davis Warns Rank Stockholders At Annual Meet That British Film Prod. In Big Trouble; Shareholder Irked

London, Oct. 15.

Unpleasant though it may be, it was necessary for the industry to recognize the fact that British film production was in grave trouble. So said John Davis, chairman of the Rank Organization, when replying to a shareholder's comment at the company's annual general meeting last Thursday (10).

Production costs, he said, were constantly rising and investment in films was not being recovered at the boxoffice. Though insisting that the company studios were being maintained at a technical level in advance of any other lot in Europe, the Rank chairman suggested there was not enough imagination put into British filmmaking to compete with television. Answering a stockholder's query on training artists, technicians and writers, Davis recalled that the Rank Org inaugurated a talent school some years back, but had been ridiculed and criticized for the initiative. "One just cannot put a bunch of men in a room and tell them to write," he explained.

Davis's attitude on the British production crisis was challenged by another stockholder, Danavan Winter, who is himself a young producer-director.

Everyone quakes at John Davis. Not just in the Rank Organization, but throughout the entire industry. "I quake too," he admitted, but then went on to suggest that he had been a mouse for too long, and now he was going to roar like a lion.

Now's Time to Save Industry

He referred to "ugly talk" that the British film industry would be dead by the end of the year, and suggested it was now necessary to try and save themeselves and the industry. He criticized the recent election of former Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd to the board, declaring that his appointment seemed to be designed to appease the government. He wished that the ex-Minister could have been at the meeting to take a message back to the government to save the industry.

Winter also lashed out at the Rank policy against the making of X-certificate films, although he declared the Organization was not averse to showing them in its theatres. He also commented on a recent production which had been banned by the censor, believing it was the most advanced film ever made in the country. He accused the group of suppressing this film and of being afraid of it. He also wanted to know whether the company's $350,000 investment in it had been written off.

The speaker, who admitted that he had bought a small block of shares to have the opportunity of saying his piece at the stockholders' meet, suggested he was committing professional suicide by making this outburst. By way of reply, the Rank chairman said that he, and other stockholders, would take note of the observations.

Another shareholder urged the need for Rank to pioneer young talent, on Group Three lines; to make supporting features, but John Davis recalled that when that outfit was set up by the National Film Finance Corp., his own company had established its own group for encouraging young talent, and both had folded.

Joe Levine in Rome To Check on Co-Prods.

Rome, Oct. 8.

Embassy Pictures topper Joseph E. Levine, accompanied by veepee Leonard Lightstone and production veep William Zimmerman, is due in Rome this week to o.o. progress on three coproductions Embassy currently has going with producer Carlo Ponti.

Two of them, "Ghost at Noon" and "Empty Canvas," both based on Alberto Moravia novels, have just been completed. A third, "Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow," is currently shooting in and around Milan under direction of Vittorio DeSica, with Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni in the leads.

While here, Levine also will huddle with Ponti concerning a fourth Ponti-Levine project, "Casanova." This pic stars Marcello Mastroianni in title role, rolls here next month.

British Lion Payoff Sweetens Kitty

London, Oct. 8.

British government has indicated that its $1,650,000-plus loan paid back by British Lion Films will revert to the National Film Finance Corp. to swell its uncommitted resources fund from its present low of $700,000 to the more respectable level of $2,350,000.

According to John Terry, exec in charge of NFFC, which part-finances British films via a government-sponsored revolving fund, the total of uncommitted resources is still some $3,000,000 below what NFFC estimates would be the right amount of on-tap money for investment in production if it is to break even.

Terry says that with the additional loot, NFFC could participate in larger budget pix which are currently picking up the healthy box office coin. As it is, NFFC has to tread warily, invest in more modest productions which provide a lesser return and, in the past year, few winners.

Despite NFFC appeals for more finance, Terry gloomily expresses the opinion that there is "no chance" of the Government coughing up.

No British Entry at London Film Fest

Brit. Film Institute Adamant on 'Servant' But Distrib Said No—So Nothing

London, Oct. 15.

Is it possible to be less chauvinistic than the British? Tonight (Tues.) sees the opening of the seventh London Film Fest at the National Film Theatre, and there will be entries from every major film producing nation in the world, except Britain. How come the native producers are so reluctant to take a bow after participating in all the other international jamborees during the past few months?

It appears the festival organizers (the British Film Institute) had set its heart on having the Union Jack repped by "The Servant," which was an invited entry at Venice festival and was a star attraction at the first Lincoln Centre festival (N.Y.).

It turned out to be a case, however, in which the Institute failed to prevail on the producer and distributor. According to BFI sources, the producers were taking the view that the film had received adequate "cultural exposure" at Venice and New York, and now was the time to start thinking in terms of commercial distribution.

The film, apparently, is being held for release next year. And it seems as if it was felt that a festival screening at this point would yield premature reviews which, even if favorable, might well be forgotten by the time the film goes into regular distribution in 1964.

Ironically, the British picture industry has had stronger than usual representation at this year's festivals, with two pix in Cannes, three in Venice and other candidates at Berlin, Moscow, Locarno, San Sebastian, etc. But on its own territory, it prefers to give the advantage to its Continental rivals. One example of its open-handed generosity, which is never reciprocated, there will be nine French films officially on view during the two weeks' run of the festival here. Italy, though some way behind, has five entries to make it a major runnerup.

The festival opens with the Harold Lloyd program, "The Funny Side of Life," at which the comedian will be present. Also on view from the U.S. will be "Hallelujah the Hills," first shown at Cannes and Locarno, and "The Balcony," which was shown out of competition at Cannes and also entered at Edinburgh.

DeLaurentiis Reveals Empress Set for '64 Pic

Rome, Oct. 8.

Producer Dino DeLaurentiis has revealed that "The Empress," first pic starring Empress Soraya, will go into production early next year. This is based on the story of Catherine the Great of Russia, but tells only that portion of her life leading up to Catherine's Coronation in 1769. Producer said Soraya (as neo-actress will be billed at her own suggestion) had selected this project, from among several scripts submitted to her.

Pic will be lensed in color and widescreen. The onetime Empress of Iran (Sorava) is slated to leave here for Munich after winding current talks which culminated in her choice of projects.

Film Reviews

Continued from page 6

Take Her, She's Mine

ferred to—are shrewdly exploited by director-producer Henry Koster in the case of "Take Her, She's Mine." These diversionary factors save the day.

The difficulty encountered by an older generation in comprehending the behavior of a younger generation is the business explored in this comedy. More specifically, one father's trials and tribulations when he packs his precious daughter off to college and observes, in long distance dismay with an occasional globe-trot for closer inspection, her transition from adolescent to young woman.

Unfortunately, both the collegiate audience and the sharper, more sophisticated customer will take one look at sweet little Sandra Dee and the character she is playing and fail to appreciate "dad" James Stewart's constant misgivings. Obviously she is not that kind of girl, a fact of which only her father seems unaware. This, plus the tendency to distort characterization and strain credulity for the sake of a quick gag, plus the shopworn, predictable nature of the chief comedy situations are apt to scare off these more discriminating patrons.

On the other hand, the film should attract the easygoing "family" trade. Middle-aged and more elderly filmgoers figure to relate to the character played so infectiously by their old favorite, Stewart. And they will be inclined to overlook the character distortions and inconsistencies, and settle for the sheer diversion of it all. The picture won't burn up the boxoffice, but it should do all right.

An occasional dash of the "Tammy" whammy seeps into Miss Dee's characterization, but on the whole she's effective. Travilla's gowns ,however, are not always becoming to her. Audrey Meadows, a gifted comedienne, is wasted in the bland and barren role of Stewart's wife. Robert Morley, though in the somewhat irrelevant role of a jaded Britisher, has some of the best lines in the film (scenarist Johnson's dialog is sporadically sharp and funny) and delivers them as only he can.

Young Philippe Forquet is a handsome Gallic newcomer to Hollywood filmdom, but his emoting range at the moment is not exactly extensive, at least in this vehicle. However, his looks should pave the way for new opportunities. John McGiver is especially valuable in support, and others of momentary import are Robert Denver, Monica Moran, Cynthia Pepper, Jenny Maxwell, Maurice Marsac, Irene Tsu, Charla Doherty, Marcel Hillaire, Charles Robinson and Janine Grandel.

Koster keeps the action hopping along even when the script is less than inspired, and consistently exploits cinematic possibilities. He has been stalwartly aided in this regard by cameraman Lucien Ballard and editor Marjorie Fowler. Art direction by Jack Martin Smith and Malcolm Brown is generally tasteful and functional, without any special flair. Jerry Goldsmith has contributed a whimsical score ,especially helpful in a costume party sequence that needs all the help it can get. Tube.

Germinal

(FRENCH-DYALISCOPE)

Paris, Oct.8.

Cocinor release of Marceau-Cocinor, Metzger & Woog, Laetitia production. With Jean Sorel, Claude Brasseur, Berthe Grandval, Bernard Blier, Lea Padovani, Simone Valere, Philippe Lemaire, Claude Cerval. Directed by Yves Allegret. Screenplay, Charles Spaak from novel by Emile Zola; camera, Jean Bourgoin; editor, Henri Rust. At Paris, Paris. Running time, 110 MINS.

Etienne	Jean Sorel
Catherine	Berthe Grandval
Chaval	Claude Brasseur
Director	Bernard Blier
Mother	Lea Padovani
Clotilde	Simone Valere
Engineer	Philippe Lemaire
Grocer	Claude Cerval

Emile Zola's classic tale of a strike in a coal mine in Ninteenth Century France was made by local producers and filmmakers in Hungary. The Hungarians supplied extras, some actors and the technical facilities. French gave the classical story as well lead actors, the writer and director. The Hungarian contribution came out best because this is an academic filming of the novel, and looms mainly a local entry.

The settings of a small coal mine town back in 1863 have a good period flair and there is an impressive use of extras in the strike scenes. But director Yves Allegret has rarely been able to get the intensity in projecting this tale to make it more than a period social melodrama. He is also hampered by an ordinary script which removes much of the fire and depth of the original Zola tome.

Main actors are somewhat flat, interpreting their roles in methodical manner. A young man (Jean Sorel) comes to town and gets a job in a coal mine. He tries to have the exploited miners strike for their rights. They do and lose out, but film ends by pointing up that this was the first germinating step (this explains the title) for later strides.

And in this, the hero falls for a coal miner's daughter, the director of the mine is beset by a cheating wife and the town's women finally raid the grocery store of a lecherous owner. There is also a look at the overcrowding and the work drudgery of the time.

But all this lacks the drive to keep it from seeming old fashioned. Sorel lacks the fervor for his role as the strike leader. Berthe Grandval has sufficient beauty if a bovine appearance as the girl who cannot break tradition for love until impending death forces her to it.

Other roles are well done if they are more largely stereotypes. So this fresco may appeal to locals on the Zola name. But there is a dearth of true dramatic flair and comment on this period to make it more than a dualer item for the U. S. It is technically fine. Mosk.

Cry Of Battle

Plodding war meller with Philippine setting. Needs trimming for action market suitability.

Hollywood, Oct. 7.

Allied Artists release of Joe Steinberg production. Stars Van Heflin, Rita Moreno, James MacArthur. Directed by Irving Lerner. Screenplay, Bernard Gordon, from Benjamin Appel's novel, "Fortress in the Rice"; camera, Felipe Sacdalan; editor, Verna Fields; music, Richard Markowitz; asst. director, Jose Dagumboy. Reviewed at the studio, Oct. 7, '63. Running time, 99 MINS.

Joe Trent	Van Heflin
Sisa	Rita Moreno
David McVey	James MacArthur
Manuel Careo	Leopoldo Salcedo
Col. Ryker	Sidney Clute
Pinang	Marilou Munoz
Atong	Oscar Roncal
Vera	Liza Moreno
Capt. Davis	Michael Parsons
Matchek	Claude Wilson
Capt. Garcia	Vic Solynn

Best bet would be to trim this one down to absolute story essentials, thus sharpening the pace and making it more fit for the action market, where the customers are inclined to grow impatient if there is too much gab and romantic mush between the bursts of combat.

An earthy, colorful "heavy" performance by Van Heflin is about the only thing that distinguishes this opaque, bulky and confusing war melodrama produced by Joe Steinberg and directed rather disjointedly by Irving Lerner from Bernard Gordon's haphazard screenplay. Source of it all is Benjamin Appel's novel, "Fortress In The Rice."

The picture, originally titled "To Be A Man," concerns the plight of a naive, inexperienced lad (James MacArthur) who has the misfortune to arrive in the Philippines on Dec. 8, 1941, the same day the Japanese arrive. Balance of the film describes his running misadventure with an uncouth, unsavory brute (Heflin) whose philosophy is simple enough—"you fight when you got to, you get a dame when you can, that's about it." The "dame" is Rita Moreno, and to get her he has to fight with MacArthur. Since he's already fighting the Japanese, the Filipino guerrillas and himself, it doesn't take a spectator long to figure Heflin's destiny.

MacArthur seems to be stuck in a "sensitive, green lad" casting groove. He's got it down pretty good, but merits a change of pace. For Miss Moreno, this is a steep dip in class from her superlative 'Anita' of "West Side Story." She, too, deserves better roles than Latin-flavored Filipinoritas.

The supporting cast is adequate and so, in general, are the production contributions, chief among which are Felipe Sacdalan's able lensmanship and Richard Markowitz's music, heavy on the plaintive flute and guitar. Editor Verna Fields could excise another 20-25 minutes and make "Cry of Battle" a better film. Tube.

Le Magot De Josefa

(Josefa's Loot)

(FRENCH-FRANSCOPE)

Paris, Oct. 15.

Valoria release of SOPAC-Productions Raimbourg-Star Presse-Arco Film production. Stars Anna Magnani, Bourvil, Pierre Brasseur; features Christian Marin, Maryse Martin, Gil Vidal. Directed by Claude Autant-Lara. Screenplay, Jean Aurenche, Pierre Bost, Bernard Dimey from novel by Catherine Claude; camera, Jacques Natteau; editor, Madeleine Gug. At Balzac, Paris. Running time, 90 MINS.

Josefa	Anna Magnani
Corneille	Bourvil
Mayor	Pierre Brasseur
Cure	Gil Vidal

Anna Magnani is allowed to run her gamut of passionate anger, open desire and gurgling laughter in this one. But the rather arch satire on provincial life and human foibles is not up to her antics and starred presence here. In spite of a leading local comic alongside her, Bourvil, Miss Magnani's first French film appears mainly a local item with only possibly dualer or specia situations abroad via her name.

Miss Magnani is a grocery store owner in a little French provincial town. She's from a poor family that migratede from Italy. In her poor girlhood she had spawned a son with the local mayor who now disowns her. A supposed great sum of money from an American gangster relative has the whole town suddeenly respecting her.

Petty, gossipy village types are rather overly blocked out in stereotype with general direction, playing and use not able to give them much weight. Miss Magnani is set upon by a city man who claims her son, long gone from her, will go to prison if she does not honor a bad check.

She then admits her lack of money, and turns on the fawning townspeople and the selfish mayor. All leads to her losing her shop, burned down by the enraged villagers, and her going off with the would-be check collector who is really her son's partner.

Production paints everything broadly and makes for caricature rather than poignance or satiric depth from its accomplished cast. Mark this as an unsavory bucolic affair. Technically it is okay. Bourvil is a comic help and Pierre Brasseur hams it up rightly as the egotistic mayor. Mosk.

West 11

(BRITISH)

Exploration of seamy side of London life. Directed with little depth, it has probably come too late in the cycle and with slight marquee value. Tentative boxoffice prospect.

London, Oct. 9.

Warner-Pathe release of Associated-British's presentation of a Daniel M. Angel production. Stars Alfred Lynch, Kathleen Breck, Eric Portman, Diana Dors. Directed by Michael Winner. Screenplay by Keith Waterhouse & Willis Hall, based on the novel, "The Furnished Room," by Laura Del Rivo; camera, Otto Heller; music, Stanley Black; title theme by Black & Acker Bilk, played by Bilk; editor, Bernard Gribble. Viewed at Century Theatre, London, Oct. 8, '63. Running time, 93 MINS.

Joe Beckett	Alfred Lynch
Ilsa Barnes	Kathleen Breck
Richard Dyce	Eric Portman
Georgia	Diana Dors
Mrs. Beckett	Kathleen Harrison
Mrs. Hartley	Freda Jackson
Mr. Gash	Finlay Currie
Silent	Harold Lang
Jacko	Peter Reynolds
Larry	Sean Kelly
Mr. Royce	Alan McClennard

Maybe it's time that the successful writing team of Keith Waterhouse and Willis Hall should take stock. This most prolific and usually creative duo did little to uplift this film, "West 11," an adaptation of a novel called "The Furnished Room." The London district "West 11" has been involved, in the racial problem. Though not an original theme, the undoubted talent of Messrs. Waterhouse and Hall might well have brought a little more insight light on that social problem

This is only hackneyed drama about a young man who is a layabout, a misfit, a self-pitier ("I'm an emotional leer," he says, profoundly). He gets involved with chicks, can't keep a job and gets mixed up with jazz clubs and seedy parties. Turning point in his life is when he meets up with Richard Dyce (Eric Portman), an ex-Army con-man, in his way as obviously spurious as the character Portman played in "Separate Tables." The young man, played with a mournful gloom by Alfred Lynch, thinks that he can only get back to a reasonable life by getting a violent emotional shock. So he is talked into an association with Portman, who wants his aunt bumped off. Perfect murder. Stranger to shoot stranger. No connections. Lynch falls for the complicated setup, goes to the South Coast, loses his nerve, fails to shoot the victim, but accidentally pushes her down the stairs. Death.

He just happened to have his miniature chessboard with him and it just happens to have fallen next to the corpse as he scurries away. A police squealer is in action so he gives himself up and frankly the audience won't care a bit.

It has its merits. The sleazy locations are very authentically shown. Perhaps too authentically. They have also been photographed impeccably, as usual, by Otto Heller. Lynch is an intelligent actor but, in this instance, he fails to induce any pity. Probably the fault of the script. Kathleen Breck, his girl friend, copes reasonably. It's her first film part after a small experience in stock, but her minor talent will certainly flower. Portman, Kathleen Harrison, as Lynch's mother, Freda Jackson, Marie Ney, Finlay Currie, Peter Reynolds and a maturing, but much more capable Diana Dors, all give their professional stamp to parts that are mostly hollow. But Harold Lang as Silent, the police squealer, steals the honors. In his brief appearances he really does make an cily, impressive impact.

Director Michael Winner, a young man, making his third film, uses Ken Colyer's band and the Tony Kinsey Quartet to rollicking effect. Rich.

Three Plus Two

(RUSSIAN)

Cork, Oct. 8.

Gorky and Riga Studios production. With Natalia Fateyeva, Natalia Kustinskaya, Andrei Mironov, Yevgeny Zharkov. Directed by N. Nikolaevich. Camera, U. Postnikov; music, A. Volkonsky; screenplay, S. Mihhalkov. At Cork Film Fest. Running time, 98 MINS.

As per its amusing plot and gay atmosphere, this Russian film reminds of the same country's "Girls" which, incidentally, was a Soviet entry at last year's Cork festival. It's a simple, light-plotted pic which is seen and forgotten, but which is enjoyable at the time. Bulk of average patrons will find it excellent entertainment. Nothing special for export on a broad basis, yet chances are given it to sled into western markets.

Screenplay leads the viewer to the shores of the Black Sea. There are three young men who have pitched their camp at a beautiful spot. Then come two girls who want to settle on the same location, claiming they have priority because they have been camping there before. The boys show a natural dislike for such anti-social behavior, and don't give in. After a period of hostility and some amusing episodes resulting from the fact that the two parties settle down with an iron curtain of empty cans between the two "lands," there's the conventional happy ending in the form of love.

Direction is refreshingly unpretentious if perhaps somewhat slow. Acting is pleasing while technical credits are good. Hans.

Il Boom

(The Boom)

(ITALIAN)

Rome, Oct. 8.

Dino DeLaurentiis production and release. Stars Alberto Sordi; features Gianna Maria Canale, Elena Nicolai, Ettore Ceri, Mariolina Bovo, Gloria Cervi. Directed by Vittorio DeSica. Story and screenplay, Cesare Zavattini; camera, Armando Nannuzzi; editor, Adriana Novelli. At Adriano, Rome. Running time, 97 MINS.

Giovanni Alberti	Alberto Sordi
Silvia Alberti	Gianna Maria Canale
Mrs. Bausetti	Elena Nicolai
Mr. Bausetti	Ettore Ceri
Mrs. Faravalli	Mariolina Bovo
Mrs. Baratti	Gloria Cervi
Mrs. Dronazzi	Sandra Veranl
Mr. Baratti	Sandro Merli
Mr. Dronazzi	Alceo Barnabei
Faravalli	Antonio Mabratti

Vittorio DeSica's latest pic is a primarily commercial entry (especially on home territory) which should bring in handsome returns for producer Dino DeLaurentiis. The Alberto Sordi name remains the major lure, and since he's currently riding the crest of the wave, this factor is strong enough to overcome the film's obvious faults.

Viewed more specifically, the film's weakness is basic—an anecdote has been blown up out of proportion. Cesare Zavattini's grotesque but potentially valid story of a man who sells one eye to cover his business debts and deficits—and so that his wife won't know he's a failure—loses its impact as well as its beliveability where extended over 90 minutes playing time.

In less capable hands, the anecdote would have shattered miserably. DeSica and Sordi manage most of the time to keep it going with neat touches or trade tricks. Sordi's role is tailormade, and though he rarely touches the human aspects of his plight, his savvy gets him through most situations. He has good assistance from Gianna Maria Canale, a beauty usually wasted on lesser epic roles, as his wife, from Elena Nicolai and Ettore Ceri, as the couple who buy the eye, and by others in a large cast. Technical credits are all good.

Topical aspects implied in title —the Italo economic boom are likewise used to good ironic effect in this grotesque, serio-comic production. Hawk.

The Gun Hawk

(COLOR)

Routine western.

Hollywood, Oct. 8.

Allied Artists release of Richard Bernstein production. Stars Rory Calhoun, Rod Cameron, Ruta Lee, Rod Lauren. Directed by Edward Ludwig. Screenplay, Jo Heims, from story by Bernstein and Max Steeber; camera (De Luxe), Paul Vogel; editor, Rex Lipton; music, Jimmy Haskell; asst. directors, Ralph Slosser, Arthur Broidy. Reviewed at studio, Oct. 8, '63. Running time, 92 MINS.

Madden	Rory Calhoun
Corey	Rod Cameron
Marleen	Ruta Lee
Roan	Rod Lauren
Mitchell	Morgan Woodward
Johnny Flanders	Robert J. Wilke
Drunk	John Litel
Miguel	Rodolfo Hoyos
Joe Sully	Lane Bradford
Luke Sully	Glenn Stensel
Roan's Woman	Joan Connors
Blackjack	Ron Whelan
Pancho	Lee Bradley

Although the market for theatrical westerns seems to have dwindled considerably since the plethora of television oaters several seasons back, there's always a hard core of diehards eager to receive a color sagebrusher on the big screen. But even the most ardent buffs are apt to find this one gruelling and contrived. Richard Bernstein production for Allied Artists drags to a hokey, predictable conclusion. Several reliable actors labor in vain to bring it to life.

Rory Calhoun stars in the Jo Heims screenplay, from a story by Bernstein and Max Steeber, as an outlaw with a streak of decency. Early in the film he crosses paths with a wild young gunslinger (Rod Lauren). and it doesn't take an experienced filmgoer to foresee that Calhoun will "see himself 10 years ago" in the younger man and ultimately attempt to reform him. After slaying a couple of desperadoes, Calhoun is winged in the arm by a pursuing sheriff (Ron Cameron) and returns to the town of Sanctuary, a haven for lawbreakers which he controls. In the final half of the film, Calhoun slowly dies of an infection from the wound. Finally, unwilling to perish in bed, he forces his young friend, Lauren, to engage him in a fast draw showdown. The reluctant Lauren, bullied into it, drills him dead. As sheriff Cameron slowly rides away with Lauren, he explains to the shaken lad that, "it meant a great deal to him (Calhoun) to dies with his own kind of dignity."

Calhoun plays with his usual soft-spoken authority and is a fairly appealing figure in the first half, but is plastered with ghastly makeup and snowed under by the script in the latter half. Lauren has his moments as the confused lad. Cameron, as the sheriff, and Morgan Woodward, as a deputy on a vendetta, are stuck in two-dimensional and ineffectual roles. Ruta Lee supplies romantic interest. John Litel has a telling scene as a drunk, and Robert J. Wilke registers as a villain.

Neither Edward Ludwig's direction nor Rex Lipton's editing has corrected the lethargy of the latter portions. Tauter splicing might still help. Paul Vogel's lenswork is generally competent, although vantage points and distances are not always clear. Jimmy Haskell's musical score has occasional flair and novelty, but a humdrum heartbeat-like sound begins to grow oppressive. "A Searcher for Love," a tune by Robert P. Marcucci and Russ Faith sunk over the titles, has an exploitable teenage-appeal sound to it. Tube.

Aubrey Van Hoy has been named manager of the Palace Theatre in Dallas succeeding Brad Rushing. Van Hoy has been with the Interstate Theatre Circuit for 35 years. Rushing joins private industry in Fort Worth, Tex.

New York Sound Track

Darryl F. Zanuck will be guest of honor and principal speaker at the TOA luncheon Oct. 29 in the Georgian Ballroom of the Americana Hotel, N.Y. He'll be introed by Spyros P. Skouras and other speakers will be Hi Martin, Ralph D. Hetzel and Art Tolchin. Affair is sponsored by the member companies of the MPAA.

Eugene Tunick, UA eastern and Canadian division manager, on an extended visit to Montreal and St. John meeting with exhibs and branch managers in that area . . . "Mouse on the Moon" begins a special eight-theatre extended engagement Oct. 23 in Nassau and Suffolk counties.

Paul N. Lazarus Jr. will be a featured speaker at the afternoon business session at the Allied convention, Oct. 23 at the Americana Hotel, N.Y. So far set to participate in Allied's "History of the Movies" banquet which will close the conclave Oct. 24 are Dore Schary, Tony Randall, Conrad Nagel, Julia Meade, Rita Gam, John Cameron Swayze, Roddy McDowall, Bill Hayes, James Hurst and Bonnie Murray.

Carl Foreman plans being in Israel February and March, at government invitation, to assist in establishing a film production school at the U. of Jerusalem.

Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, Vietnam's first lady currently barnstorming the U.S., has made the big time: she's been offered a film contract. Indie producer Paul Vario reports he was so impressed by one of her tv performances that he wired her last week asking if she'd like the lead—that of a Spanish gypsy—in his upcoming "The Horns of Clemente," due to be made in Spain next year. So far there's been no answer.

Polish director Roman ("Knife in The Water") Polanski has left New York but his spirit is still here—on tape. He'll be interviewed on WNDT tomorrow (Thurs.) night by Stanley Kauffmann . . . The Screen Directors International Guild has just published its fifth annual Directory of Directors.

Clarence A. Hill, former manager of branch operations for 20th-Fox, writes that VARIETY was somewhat early in describing him as the "late Clarence A. Hill" in the issue of Oct. 9. Hill, who resides in Short Hills, N.J., retired from 20th last February after 38 years with the company. Says Hill: "If you know of any other 'dead ones' who would like to take me on, I think I can demonstrate on the tennis court that I am still among the living." Hill's 20th post was filled last week when Robert Sherman joined the company.

Order of business for Mike J. Frankovich, Col's 1st v.p. and now global production head: Back to London and then to Madrid. Col is deprived of the Spanish market because of government anger toward "Behold a Pale Horse." Next month to Cambodia where Richard Brooks will be rolling "Lord Jim." He's to see Prince Sainhnouk, knowing "we have to be careful with these royalist countries."

Don LaBadie, film editor of Show Magazine, since June, 1961, has been named foreign correspondent for the publication. He leaves New York Oct. 29 to take up his new duties, but won't decide till he's on the scene whether he'll make his headquarters in Paris or Rome. Prior to joining Show, LaBadie was with the N.Y. Times Sunday Magazine, Pageant and Film Daily and the French Film Office.

Mike Frankovich relates that his actress wife, Binnie Barnes, doesn't work the thesping bit anymore but once in a while makes a television appearance . . . Paramount junketing the press to Knoxville today (Wed.) for the "All the Way Home" premiere . . . Carl Foreman in from London. His "The Victors" goes out on a pre-release basis in December . . . Frank Sinatra set his first picture under the new Warner deal being "None But the Brave," story of an air crew of Marines shot down and held captive on a small Pacific island during World War II . . . Nathaniel Benchley completed the screen adaptation of his novel, "Catch a Falling Spy," for producer Reuben Bercovitch.

Clayton G. Pantages has resigned as general sales manager of Magna Pictures Corp., his plans for the future still undertermined . . . Michael Callan getting upped billing in "The Victors," now getting separate identification at the end of the film . . . Shooting completed in Naples last week on the second of three parts of Joe Levine-Carlo Ponti's "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" Sophia Loren-Marcello Mastroianni starrer.

Marshall H. Fine, board chairman of Allied States Assn., will be the keynote speaker at the opening biz session of the exhib organization's annual convention at the Americana Hotel, Oct. 21-24, addressing those assembled the morning of Oct. 22. American International Pictures will sponsor a luncheon at the meet, Oct. 23, at which time previews of upcoming AIP product will be screened. The company's chiefs James H. Nicholson and Samuel Z. Arkoff have been named recipients of Allied's "producers of the year award," to be presented the final day of the conclave.

Arnold Haynes, Naples, Fla., exhib, will conduct a special seminar on the operation of theatres in small towns at the Theatre Owners of America convention, Oct. 28-31, at the Americana Hotel, N.Y. Also, Al Donahue of Great Falls, Montana, will lead a panel discussion on drive-in operations and concessions.

Cinema Consultants Inc., has been chartered to provide consultant services to the motion picture and entertainment industry, with offices in New York. Theodore Propp was the attorney recording the certificate with Secretary of State at Albany.

Henry Fonda with Tony Curtis in "The Confessor," Jack Donahue novel to be produced by Edward Lewis and directed by John Frankenheimer for United Artists release . . . Jack M. Warner inked to produce "The Wild Party," first production of newly-formed Wilbo Productions to roll Dec. 16. Robert L. Bogle is prexy; Donald L. Wilson, veepee-secretary; Nole Edwards, treasurer.

Sir John Trevelyan, secretary of the British Board of Film Censors, here on a quick trip last week for an advance look at Stanley Kramer's "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" just in case there might be any "problems." The post-screening verdict: there won't be.

Among the guests at 20th's "sneak" of "Take Her, She's Mine" at Loew's State last Tuesday (8) was Thelma Ritter, there to see her daughter, Monica Moran, on screen for the first time.

Sterling Hayden's autobiography, "Wanderer," published as a book by Alfred Knopf, will be a two-parter in True Magazine at Christmastime . . . this is the season when late Louis B. Mayer's idea of an opera star, Igor Gorin, sings at both N. Y. City and Met . . . among history buffs the sharp division of opinion as to whether General Custer was a stagy, lecture platform general with gorgeous yellow tresses or a great commander has already been sharpened by news that Fox will shoot his longest day and last stand . . . This "Custer" film is believed about 15th feature reenactment . . . much trade interest in Satevepost piece on George Stevens' pictorial approach to the death of Christ with the women mourners garbed like nuns.

Lauren Bacall back in town after winding up 20th's "Shock Treatment" . . . Dick Richman has joined Seven Arts' publicity staff as exploitation rep on the company's "The Small (Violent) World of Sammy Lee." The parenthetical violence has been added to the title for its local RKO circuit break . . . AIP and Italian International Films are to produce a one-hour tv documentary on "The Life and Art of Michaelangelo. Vincent Price, Sears Roebuck's art consultant, will narrate the film, to be released in conjunction with the 400th anniversary of the Master's death.

According to the Oct. 7 issue of Mike Weinberg's "Cleopatra Newsletter," BOAC, in England, is distributing a brochure advertising their "Cleopatra tours in the 20th Century" of Egypt. "Pyramids! Princely

(Continued on page 19)

Closed-Circuit of 9 Canadian Houses SRO With Toronto Hockey

Toronto, Oct. 15.

Closed-circuit network of nine theatres played to a capacity total audience of 11,000 and drew a gross of $24,000 with an Eidophor pickup of the Toronto Maple Leafs-Chicago Blackhawks hockey game from Chi Sunday (13) night. The Famous Players-Canadian houses screened the contest concurrent with its showing on International Telemeter toll tv in homes.

Closed-circuit here thus got underway with its first full schedule of professional sports. It was the first of 32 Toronto Leafs-out-of-town games to be given the widescreen theatrical treatment running through to next March.

Home subscribers paid $1.50 to tune in; scale at theatres was $1.25 to $2.50. Exhibition network comprises six houses in Toronto and one each in Hamilton, Oshawa, St. Catherine's.

ALLIED THEATRES IN MILK CARTON TIEUP

Chicago, Oct. 15.

Allied Theatres of Illinois has embarked on a promotion that it considers biggest in its history. In cooperation with the Bowman Dairy, some 50 neighborhood and suburban houses are giving half-price discounts on weekdays to patrons who present four Bowman carton tops.

The program, which started three weeks ago, will run until April 30, 1964, and is being supported by an estimated $200,000 ad outlay by the dairy. Newspaper, tv and radio ads all feature the slogan "Go To The Movies Half Price!"

Allied prexy Jack Clark said a study of attendance compared to last year at this time is not complete, but early reports indicate that the promotion is off to a good start and that operators are happy with it. Although sponsored by Allied, non-member theatres can enroll.

Foreman's Crusade

Continued from page 2

the government actually pays nothing, the reimbursements to producers being in the form of extra admissions tariff contributed by the public.

American exhibitors would find this or any other kind of subsidy accruing to their benefit, claims Foreman, because it would mean more and better pictures. And, for the Hollywood community, it would mean a positive approach toward the problem of runaway production. Efforts to legislate against runaway, said Foreman, are pointless and negative.

He adds that a subsidy would lead to no Government control or interference; this in answer to some dissidents who believe that any form of Governmental handout to producers would doubtless mean bureaucratic looking-over-the-shoulder. There's no evidence of government participation in any film industry in western Europe where subsidies exist, said Foreman.

As for his call anent new talent, Foreman wants a national theatre sponsored by Government and the major studios, in collaboration. Students would be instructed in all phases of filmmaking, including acting, direction, editing, art direction, writing, music and so forth.

The producer underlined that most of Hollywood's creative are post-50 in age and will slow down on creative output. Those to be formally trained, as he recommends it, would be earmarked as the replacements.

On Point Three, Foreman said he believes the American film industry is remiss on the public relations front by not supporting its own festivals. He contends that the Frisco outing is admirable, likening it to Edinburgh, which he regards as the best of all European fests in terms of honesty and absense of phoniness.

"The Victors" will be entered at the Frisco festival but, at Foreman's insistence, out of competition. The producer said he's against the awarding of prizes because these can involve "legerdermain, or leverage."

Legal Battery Fires on Maryland's Censorship, Seeking Total Victory

While the current session of the U.S. Supreme Court is expected to clarify the definition of "obscenity" as applied to books, films, etc., in reviewing the conviction of an Ohio theatre owner who showed "The Lovers," another film censorship case is getting underway in Maryland which has as its aim the knocking out of all prior licensing boards.

Case is that of Baltimore exhib, Ronald Freedman, who opened the film, "Revenge at Daybreak," at his Rex Theatre last year without first having submitted the pic to the state Board of Censors for licensing and approval. Freedman was convicted earlier in the lower courts and the decision against him has now been submitted to the Maryland Court of Appeals for review. The case is admittedly a test action and the exhib is being backed in the fight by Times Film, distrib of "Revenge." It was Times' general counsel, Felix Bilgrey, who argued Times Film's unsuccessful attempt to get the U.S. Supreme Court to outlaw all prior censorship via a fight with the Chicago licensing ordinance two years ago.

In their brief just submitted to the Maryland Court of Appeals, Bilgrey and Baltimore attorney, Richard C. Whiteford, charge, among other things, that the law which convicted Freedman does not provide adequate procedural safeguards, contains vague and unconstitutional standards, is an infringement of free speech and press, deprives the defendant of equal protection under the law, and is invalid in that it charges "an illegal and unconstitutional fee or tax" on the freedom of speech.

In connection with the latter point, the brief says that at the end of the 1962 fiscal year, the Maryland Censor Board had collected over $500,000 in fees "in excess of the actual cost of administration of the board over the period of the existence of the board." It also notes that the board does not censor pix on tv, those shown by religious or fraternal organizations, nor newsreels.

The brief also makes particular point of charging that the lower Maryland court erred in citing the Supreme Court's ruling in the case of Times Film vs. City of Chicago in the lower court's decision to uphold the conviction of Freedman. The brief notes that in the Chicago case, Times Film complied with all the requirements of the licensing board except showing the film to the board. The Supreme Court decided in the case only that Constitutional freedom of speech does not mean that any and every kind of motion picture can be shown at least once, noting, however, that it was not committing itself as to what kind of standards might be applicable to restraining of a film.

In the Maryland case, says the brief, Freedman is challenging "the licensing feature of the statute . . . as well as the discretionary disapproval hinged on invalid standards. Unlike (the Chicago case), appellant here has not sought a license, has not complied with a single statutory requirement, and, unlike (the Chicago case), appellant has in fact publically shown the picture, 'Revenge at Daybreak,' so that the nature of the film is here relevant."

"Revenge" is described by the distrib as an "inoffensive film about the Irish rebellion." Freedman showed the pic sans license for one day only (Nov. 1, 1963) to set the wheels of the case in motion. He was subsequently found guilty and fined $25 by the Baltimore Criminal Court. The Court of Appeals is due to hear arguments on the appeal in December.

SCHINE'S FIRST SITE OPENS AS SYNAGOGUE

Gloversville, N.Y., Oct. 15.

New synagogue, built by Congregation Knesseth Israel on the former East Fulton Street site of the long-operated Hippodrome Theatre, Schine's first in Gloversville, was recently dedicated.

Participants included J. Myer Schine, who with his brother, the late Louis W. Schine, built a circuit of motion picture houses eventually extending to five states, as well as acquired and/or constructed a chain of hotels ranging from coast to coast; his wife, Hildegarde; Mrs. Martha Schine, widow of L. W.

Schine, now head of Schine Enterprises, spoke a few words at the dedication ceremonies, while his wife helped to serve tea, later. J. M. Schine, his nephew, Donald (son of Louis Schine and currently a top official in Schine Theatres' operation) and the latter's wife, had taken part in ground-breaking ceremonies, some months ago. The mayor of Gloversville and several ministers were on hand, then.

Six hundred people attended the dedication ceremonies — a week and a half before the High Holy Days' observance started.

'McNificent' Campaign For UA's 'McLintock'

United Artists is gunning its promotion engine for takeoff on behalf of "McLintock," John Wayne's latest stagebrush adventure. The company's Thanksgiving release, UA has devised a national plugola effort involving 43 key cities around the country which have agreed to sponsor week-long activities related to the Batjac production.

This period has been thoughtfully dubbed "McLintock Week" and activities are being tied to the line "McLintock Is McNificent." Involved are promotions and tieins with regional stores, turkey giveaways, contests, mud fights and other attention-getting devices. In each of the 43 cities there will be a local sponsor other than the participating exhib, mostly department stores, radio and tv shows and trade organizations.

Most of the promotions involve a sneak preview of the picture at which time electioneering buttons will be distributed. A special trailer in which Wayne personally enlists the promotional aid of viewers will be screened at this time as well. In addition to Wayne and costar Maureen O'Hara and the picture itself, two youngsters in the pic are also getting play from the plan, Pat Wayne (offspring) and Stefanie Powers.

On a local level, UA fieldmen, area exhibitor and sponsoring organization will coordinate a full sked of related events in addition to this screening, including contests, bargain days, fairs, rodeos and those mud fights (pegged to a prominent scene in the film). To back all of this up, UA promotion staffers have compiled all manner of selling tools like a five-minute tv featurette, special postcards, radio interviews with Wayne and Miss O'Hara, music promotions with the United Artists Records soundtrack LP and singles and a paperback and comic book version of the film.

In all, it's one of UA's grandest-scaled campaigns ever. Prior to all of this actor Chill Wills has already completed a multi-city promo tour softening the hearts of the nation's press regarding the film in which he also appears.

Writers Ready Demands

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Discussion regarding demands for new negotiations on pacts expiring in December with all theatrical film producers will take place at a special membership meeting of the screenwriters' branch of Writers Guild of America West tomorrow Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Allen Rivkin, prexy of the screen branch, will preside at the session, to be held at the guild building.

Dallas Erects Hardtopper

Dallas, Oct. 15.

A 900-seat motion picture theatre is being built in Big Town Shopping Centre, the first hardtop theatre to go up in metropolitan Dallas in three and a half years. A project of Big Town Co. the theatre will be leased and operated by General Drive-In Corp. which has a national chain of both indoor and drive-in theatres, many of them in the southwest.

The theatre, to be called Big Town Cinema, will be of complete fireproof construction. The theatre is expected to be completed and ready for opening in December.

Field Men From New York Offices Not 'Threatened' by Local Touters?

Local 872 of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees met recently with Columbia Pictures exploitation chiefs in Manhattan to discuss the distrib's use of non-union publicity shops located in various key markets instead of the union field exploitation men based in homeoffices and branches who travel for specific releases.

Afterwards, 872 prez Jack Cassidy reported that Columbia wanted to retain the right to use the indie shops when it considered them necessary but that it would also cooperate by using union pubs as well. The distrib is not going all-out on the indie plan, it was reported, nor does it have any intentions of eliminating union touters.

Union takes the position that there is really nothing it can do to stop companies from using hinterland publicity firms instead of homeoffice-based publicists and has never pushed to have any provisions covering this practice written into its pacts with the distribs. What it has done instead is to ask the companies to inform the union when they are planning to use local talent so that 872 can try organize the regional outfit involved. This has worked out satisfactorily so far, Cassidy said. In any case, only Columbia and United Artists use such distant market independents to any degree.

The union is currently in negotiation with UA to become the bargaining agent for its field pubs. If they succeed with UA, that will leave Metro and Allied Artists yet to be organized and 872 is working on that. In all the local has a 200-man membership, about 65 of whom are on permanent assignments. There are about 25 independents included in the 200, it's stated. The local is just a little over a year old.

The union feels confident in its growth potential, despite the threat of problems should the use of free-lance officers in the field catch on. In addition to working on organizing UA, Metro and AA, the local has plans to try to organize New York publicity offices which handle film accounts. Their charter from the IA gives them the right to try for this membership and the local is mapping plans for such a push now.

Although there are only 65 of the 200 members on permanent assignments, it's pointed out that many other members work on a temporary basis. For the time that they work, they are entitled to the full benefits provided under the union's contract with distribs covering permanent employees, Cassidy explained.

It is the IA's youngest local and is still developing itself. There is an acknowledged problem with indie pubs in the field but 872 execs feel confident that they will be able to round up most of these operators and get them under the local's umbrella. This, then, would off-set the adverse effect of distribs going outside their homeoffice and branch exploitation staffs. In any case, Columbia is the only real threat on this level right now and 872 execs are still working on that. It will only become a major problem, union execs contend, if the other companies get on the bandwagon as some observers believe they will.

Mary Boylan

Now in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico with THE NIGHT OF THE IGUANA Film Company.

She plays "Miss Peebles"

New York Theatres

RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
Rockefeller Center • PL 7-3100
ELIZABETH TAYLOR / RICHARD BURTON
LOUIS JOURDAN • ELSA MARTINELLI
MARGARET RUTHERFORD • MAGGIE SMITH
ROD TAYLOR AND ORSON WELLES IN
The V.I.P.s From M-G-M
ON STAGE "FAR EAST, FAR WEST"

Says Gore Better Bet Than Sex

Chicago, Oct. 15.

Nudie film producer Dave Friedman has switched from sex to gore "blood" money around than there is "hot" cash. His first entry in the gore market, "Blood Feast," is heading for what he estimates to be a gross of $350,000, more than double his most successful skin film.

Friedman has found several advantages in his changeover from nudies to "screamers," most important of which is that local censors almost automatically pass the horror pix. The epidermis pictures involved negotiations with censors, "hot" and "cool" prints for different locations, and constant haggling with newspapers over the contents of ads.

"Blood Feast" has already earned $31,000 in a short time overseas. Only the censors in England turned the picture down for its violence, although the same British bluepencilers okayed his skin pix. Belmont Books is issuing a paperback based on the script in November.

Friedman and his director, Herschel Lewis, worked on the gory special effects for several months in Chicago, then went to Florida where they shot the picture in 12 days. It opened at a Peoria (Ill.) drive-in in July at which patrons wre given the same sort of plastic cups offered travelers with uneasy stomachs on airplanes. The producer says that there are 3,000 play dates available for the picture, in contrast to the 600 or so available for nudies.

Friedman sees his new venture into what he considers "American Grand Guignol" as a logical (or illogical) extension of regular horror films, just as his nudies were an extension of the semi-nudity and sex in Hollywood pix. That "Blood Feast" is reaching for new depths in gruesomeness is indicated by the scenario which starts with a madman tearing off an arm from a femme corpse and stirring a broth with it and proceeds to such horrors as the "hero" dipping into a newly-split skull to hoist out the brain for a special stew. The plot is concerned with a mad chef who prepares his dishes from the bodies of girls he believes to be virgins.

The producer and director said that "screen tests" of commercial stage blood were unsatisfactory so they mixed several gallons of their own concoction, which Friedman describes as "bloodier than blood."

Cincy Tent On New Site

Cincinnati, Oct. 15.

Variety Club, Tent 3, after more than 30 years in downtown Netherland Plaza and Metropole Hotels has moved to the Vernon Manor in hilltop Avondale.

Formal opening of new plush clubrooms Oct. 12 will have Bill Shane, chief barker, and Bill Onie, charter member and senior surviving headman, doing the greeting.

Taylor's 'Aerialist' Trailer

Ted Taylor is producing half-hour circus background subject, "The Aerialist," in Europe for Paramount as a short to promote the Samuel Bronston production, "Circus World."

German tv actress-acrobat Ingrid Hustudt is featured.

'WRATH OF PARENTS' AS ROCHESTER THREAT

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 15.

Dist-Atty. John C. Little Jr. of this city has warned local drive-in theatreowners that they had better come up with self-control over children's admissions to adult films if they want to protect themselves from "the wrath of outraged parents." The D. A. said his particular concern is the exposure of sex-stimulating films to youngsters.

This is the latest of a series of developments in Rochester in which the spotlight has been thrown on picture product widely regarded as objectionable for teen-agers and those younger.

The Democrat and Chronicle has been giving the matter prominent attention, including a front-page feature in a Sunday issue which dealt with a nudist film, "Traveling Light," at a local ozoner. Unclad males and females on the screen were in full view of many teen-agers in the audience and there were some moppets in the company of their parents.

This kind of article obviously has the effect of arousing parents and law-makers.

The Joint Committee on Obscene Publications, which covers films and television in addition to published material, will meet here Nov. 18-19. Members of this group said they are "concerned over the state licensing of nude and indecent movies made available to teen-agers."

Other city officials profess to be against censorship, per se, and instead would prefer a classification system which could be worked out with theatremen, the latter on a voluntary basis.

In any event, here in Rochester, the home of Eastman Kodak, positive stock nudity is under attack at various levels and this already is having an effect. Two driveins already have changed their policies with the cancellations of bookings of such pictures as "The Wrong Rut," "Life and Its Secrecies," "Road House Girls" and "Searching for Venus."

Allied Artists' Loss

Continued from page 5

continue into the Christmas season. And then, of course, there's the revenue from "55 Days" and the anticipated continuing strength of the television distribution operation.

Yet to make it appearance is the effect of the coming to control of Claude Giroux, who became AA board chairman a few years ago. Rumbles have long been heard of some action on his part and that of others connected with his interests. But so far nothing has been indicated by Giroux as to what his plans are in regard to the company and its operation. It is fairly obvious at this point, however, that Giroux and his allies didn't buy in for quick money turnover. They have already lost a bundle since coming in.

According to the company's annual report, the 1963 net loss included several write-offs and year end adjustments. These include around $1,000,000 in picture inventories and unabsorbed studio overhead of $572,000. In addition to the $2,747,000 loss, a reserve of $376,000 was provided, covering claims of the Internal Revenue Service for additional Federal Income Taxes for the years 1949 through 1957, claims which Allied is contesting.

Film rentals in 1963 were $14,019,743 domestic and $3,837,088 foreign. This plus miscellaneous income of $145,156 brought the income total for the year to $18,001,987. However, deductions of $14,651,406 were also registered in the year for amortization of released productions and royalties and percentages paid to other producers. Total selling and advertising expenses were $3,828,754 and total general and administrative expenses were $2,269,377. These figures combined for a net loss of $2,747,549.

Also revealed is that Allied has a total inventory of $6,921,701. Included in this is $5,502,034 in released productions, at cost, less amortization; $1,381,856 in productions in progress, rights and scenarios at cost and $37,811 in advertising accessories, prints and supplies, at cost. The company has $994,396 cash in bank or on hand and $3,830,695 in accounts receivable. Total current liabilities are $14,047,049 and total capital stock comes to $1,404,358.

Re: Reluctant Race Reform

Continued from page 1

to be uneducated and isolated. Florida's Negroes, like most of its white residents, are culturally varied, hailing from all parts of the country, and usually well advanced educationally, hygienically and socially.

Integrating here on the Suncoast (of cinemas and other public establishments) has been effected through calm and careful planning by representatives of Negro organizations, businessmen and biracial groups—as a result of pressure instigated and kept up by the colored groups. Managers and owners of leading houses in the area agreed to permit integration on a limited and trial basis. This is the technique worked earlier in Nashville, Norfolk, Miami and other Dixie burgs. Most of the colored patrons at outset were escorted to the theatres by officials of the Negro groups; their admissions are paid by the groups and when they leave group officials are there to escort them away. No white protests are reported.

A minority of the "participating" theatres remain opposed to the plan, claiming that they were jockeyed into going along by pressure. These showmen cry martyrdom. They argue that, even though Negroes are failing to take advantage of the privilege in numbers, white patrons are staying away in droves for "fear" of rubbing shoulders with colored patrons. One district theatre manager claims that he finds this situation in all the large cities of Florida where theatres are integrated.

All-White Staffs

The theatres here sharing in integration are all large, downtown situations. No restrictions are any longer placed on colored ticket-buyers, such as being confined to a balcony with other parts of the building off-limits. (Only in cities of the real 'deep south' are balconies for colored still found.) Rest rooms are common to all. So, too concessions and services.

Staffs remain all-white including ushers. By and large, most of these theatres impose a prohibitive restriction against colored patrons with the price of admission alone, which varies from $1 per person to $1.50. These prices also exclude low income whites. For example, the Center in St. Petersburg, with an evening admission tag of $1.50, sees no more than a handful of Negro patrons, drawn mostly from the professional class. The chain of theatres operated by AB-Paramount, with a number of operations in the area, was among the units agreeing to integrate. Operators cite no ill effects from the transition. (AB-PT drew aggressive sit-down attention from New York City Negroes a couple of years ago.)

Neighborhood houses, generally, are evading integration catering to residents in the immediate vicinity, with race prejudice harder to sterilize, these situations hope to remain segregated, and for the time being are playing a waiting game. Drive-ins remain segregated with little or no pressure to change. Operators theorize that proponents of integration are interested only in de-segregating places where it would be very obvious. To substantiate this argument, one drive-in in St. Pete, which admits a 'carload' for the total price of $1, has not been approached by a single Negro, despite the rock bottom prices. Open-air spots seem unanimous in their wish to remain segregated.

The all-colored patronage theatre on the Suncoast, although few in number, are obviously substandard. New product is never shown. Against the long wait, the admission price average only about one-third that charged at firstrun houses.

Vandals Abound

Negroes complain of the general rundown condition in "their" theatres. Managers counter-assert that it is impossible to overcome the careless, often vandalistic behavior of many patrons. One modern, freshly decorated theatre in St. Pete, located in a neighborhood being taken over by colored residents was leased to an operator who opened it for colored only. Although admission prices were lowered to meet the competition of other all colored theatres, the Negroes would not support the new undertaking. Lack of business forced it to close two years ago and it has not reopened.

Integration as it now exists has been accomplished peacefully through commonsense negotiation on a local level. At this time it shows every sign of succeeding—the better movies, seem to have either lost interest or are unable to take advantage of the situation for financial reasons.

The few who are attending and will continue to do so are not found objectionable by most white patrons. Managers, who point out that some white patrons, too, are not admitted and that other white patrons are sometimes requested to leave, are satisfied with the new business, as long as it does not interfere with established patrons. Colored patrons follow the pattern established by the white moviegoers in downtown areas and "dress" for the occasion. Custom does not demand that men wear jackets; however, they must wear shirts, and women save their shorts and slacks for drive-ins and neighborhood movie houses only. The same general good behavior is required of all, and the Negro patrons appear to be observing this demand without exception.

Too Many Documentary Fests in W. Germany? Reds Yen Obernhausen

Frankfurt, Oct. 15.

With over 100 full-length film festivals in the world and complaints that it's just too many, latest objection is that the two remarkably similar and competitive Documentary Film festivals held every year in West Germany are likewise too many. The Mannheim Documentary Week, scheduled for October, begins in two weeks with entries from throughout the world.

And next February, the Obernhausen Documentary Week rolls around, appealing basically to the same group of filmmakers and the same often beatnik and left-leaning audiences.

The latter, held in the beautiful Stadthalle of dreary mining town, is just about the only event that could bring business to the area. But it's generally attended by the noisy students and the bearded beatniks who come in from the Commie countries of Poland and Yugoslavia and get a chance to jeer out their prejurices, rather than by a high infiltration of truly-talented film folks, one genuine film producer noted here.

CAN YOU INVEST A DOLLAR or more a day . . .

Many Mutual Funds have plans to aid you invest as little or as much as you wish on a systematic basis.

Phone or Write today for full details.

J. BERMANT & CO.
122 East 42nd St.
New York, Room 2701
MU 7-2815

Name .....
Address .....
City..... Zone.. State.....

New York's largest specialists in motion picture & TV insurance
(cast, film, weather, liability, cameras, props, plagiarism...)
WINKLER ASSOCIATES, LTD.
120 W. 57 St., New York 19, Circle 7-3366

CINERAMA INC.
ANNOUNCES
FILM LIBRARY
World Wide Footage 35mm EK Color
4950 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles 19, Calif.
REpublic 5-1212, Editorial

New York Soundtrack

Continued from page 17

Tombs! The Beautiful Nile! Memories of bygone age will be yours in the land of Cleopatra!" Egypt itself seems to be going hardticket.

Walter Reade Jr., chairman of Walter Reade-Sterling, and Irving Wormser, prez of its Continental Distributing division, left Saturday (12) for Rome and Moscow . . . Italo director Ermanno Olmi's first pic, "The Sound of Trumpets" (Il Posto), preems here next week at Cinema Two, the director's second film, "The Fiances," was shown at last month's N. Y. film fest. Both are owned by Janus this side.

Sam Baker, prez of Associated Independent Theatres, and other AIT execs heading to the coast for the opening next week of the first of the circuit's new California theatres. It's the 800-seat Granada Hills Theatre in San Fernando Valley . . Noelle Gillmore doing the subtitles for the Bronston Company's French import, "The War of The Buttons" . . . Apex Films is handling the Peter Sellers' pic, "Some Kind of Nut," in the N. Y., Albany and Buffalo territories.

Producer-director-writer Carl Foreman currently doing the university lecture circuit. Kicked off the tour at Yale Friday (11) and yesterday (Tues.) was at Ohio State . . . Skouras Theatres will operate the 1,000-seat theatre being built in the new Lefrak City shopping complex in Forest Hills . . . Macmillan Co. has just published "The Janowska Road," autobiography by Dr. Leon W. Wells, research director for Panopix Research, subsid of Panacolor. Book covers Wells' boyhood in Poland and experiences in the notorious Janowska concentration camp . . . Actor Sorrell Booke to Nice for Rene Clement's "The Live Cage," Alain Delon-Jane Fonda starrer. Pic will shoot interiors in Paris in December some exteriors in N. Y. after the turn of the year.

Frank Perry's "Ladybug, Ladybug" will be given a special one-week Hollywood engagement shortly to qualify it for this year's Oscar competition. UA release will be the Christmas booking at Cinema II, N. Y.

Lotsa Kennedys are expected to be on hand for the Gotham preem of Stanley Kramer's "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" Nov. 17, maybe even JFK it's hoped . . . a special screening of the comedy will be held Oct. 22 at the Syosset (L. I.) Cinerama Theatre with 500 group sales execs to be ferried to the town by special Long Island Railroad cars . . . Mary Ann Manzolillo has risen from switchboard operator to the lofty position of secretary to the publicity department of Embassy Pictures.

George Jessel will be the toastmaster at Joe Levine's bash during the Theatre Owners of America Convention later this month . . . into Ely Landau's "The Pawnbroker" go: Juano Hernandez, Raymond St. Jaques, Linda Geiser and Fritz & Annette Olsen . . . composer-conductor Henry Mancini goes into the recording studio Oct. 22 to etch his score for Allied Artists' Blake Edwards production "Soldier in the Rain."

Louis Nizer slated to be the keynote speaker at the opening luncheon meeting of the Theatre Owners of America convention, Oct. 28 in the Georgian Ballroom of the Americana Hotel, N. Y. . . . Anthony Perkins back in New York plugging the Landau Co.'s "Fool Killer" . . . Stanley Cortez inked to direct photography on "The Iron Kiss" which rolls for Allied Artists Oct. 21 . . . Vittorio De Sica this week begins lensing the third and final segment of Joe Levine & Carlo Ponti's "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" in Milan.

Max Youngstein back in New York after London production huddles, talking with Peter Sellers among others . . . John Barry will now write the music for Joseph E. Levine's "Zulu," originally to have been penned by Lionel Bart . . Glenn Stensel, who's featured in AA's "The Gun Hawk," in Gotham rehearsing for his legit roll in David Merrick's "Artugo, III" . . . cast in the remake of "La Ronde," soon to roll in Paris, are Marina Vlady, Catherine Spaak, Jean-Claude Brialy and Jean-Paul Belmondo. Jean Anouilh is scripting.

Joe Levine will be the principal speaker when his Embassy Pictures tosses a luncheon on the second day of the Allied States Assn. luncheon, Oct. 22, in the Americana Hotel's Imperial Ballroom B. Also addressing the gathering will be Embassy execs Leonard Lightstone and Carl Peppercorn . . . producer-director Roger Corman inadvertently making his film acting debut in his and brother Gene's "The Dubious Patriots," subbing for a sick actor . . . Angela Lansbury in New York to film her final sequences in Pan Arts' "The World of Henry Orient."

Singer-actress Ann-Margret set to star in Universal's "Kitten With a Whip," to be produced by Harry Keller in mid-November based on a novel by Wade Miller . . . UA's Susan Hayward starrer "Stolen Hours" opens on the company's "premiere showcase" in Gotham today (Wed.) in an expanded version of the releasing plan now covering three major New York areas with the Astor, 34th Street East and Trans-Lux 85th Street Theatres . . . Norman Jewison will direct Rock Hudson and Doris Day in "Send Me No Flowers" for Universal.

Catherine Spaak, who early in her French film career attracted considerable attention via her nudie bits in pix, has apparently cooled on the exposure bit, refusing to pose for some undraped paintings which figure in "The Empty Canvas," now filming in Rome. They had to be faked by artist Giovan-Batista Balerno . . . George Schaefer's "Macbeth" set with openings Oct. 20 in Kansas City, Mo.; Nov. 7 in Baltimore and Nov. 14 in Washington, D. C.

New York U. presented Charles C. Moskowitz, former v.p.-treasurer of Metro, with its Gallatin Award of Honor. He's been long active in alumni work . . . Hospitalized Veterans Service was the beneficiary of a $50-per-ticket preview of "Case of Libel" at the Longacre last Wednesday. Super dance at the Astor, honoring Louis Nizer, followed . . . Olivia de Havilland out west to film trailers and other promotion material for "Lady in a Cage." . . . Robert Wise's "The Haunting" shifted from Cinema One to Cinema Two . . French actress Michele Mercier, who just completed assignment in the American (Metro) "Global Affair," off to Rome and work in a couple of Italian features . . . Joey Heatherton, who makes her screen debut in "Twilight of Honor," sent to the hinterlands for bally work on the picture . . . The "Out of Towners" company shifted from Penn Station locationing to WB in Burbank.

Noelle Gillmor signed to create the sub-titled version of "War of the Buttons," French production being released in the U. S. by Bronston Distributions. She did the titles for "Hiroshima, Mon Amour," "Last Year at Marienbad" and other top imports.

Egypt Wants Pix

Continued from page 1

ternational Film Production, headed by M. Tayfour, to coproduce his Ned W. Miller screenplay, "Walk By the Sea." Company is the government-controlled Egyptian film agency, has offered $300,000 below-the-line costs for picture, which Nader expects to start filming there in February. Actor won't appear in pic but will direct for first time. Youssef Chahine, top Egyptian director who attended Pasadena Playhouse, is associated with him on the production.

Nader said his own reception in Egypt was good primarily because of his two teleseries, "Shannon" and "Man and the Challenge," are now showing in Egypt—with subtitles.

Despite opening of the filming barrier, Nader observed that "Cleopatra" still is non-grata in Egypt, but his observations indicated the reasoning for this is displeasure on part of the government that the Egyptian-based story was not filmed there.

Jerome Siegel Shingle Out

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Jerome Siegel has formed his own literary percentery, following dissolution of Bick & Siegel Associates.

Siegel is jetting to N. Y. this week for confabs with Flora Roberts anent a multiple writing deal for Jerry McNeely on MGM-TV's "Dr. Kildare" series, then goes to London for client confabs.

JAPANESE PRODUCT'S OUTLOOK IN HONOLULU

Honolulu, Oct. 15.

Japanese films continue getting good play in Honolulu. Some showmen report product is hitting a broader cross-section of population than ever before.

Of the first-run theatres playing Japanese product, the near-downtown Nippon is the "granddaddy." Operated by the Furuya Brothers (Noboru, Satoshi and Herbert), the Nippon has been grinding out import films since 1948. Policy didn't really get off the ground until the Furuyas convinced the studios that English subtitles were necessary.

The Nippon at one time drew product from five major studios but the situation in recent years has become much more competitive—and the potential much greater. That's why Toho Studio is building a $1 million midtown showhouse for its own films.

It looks as if the Furuyas will be shopping for a new location soon. Their Nippon is in the midst of a large-scale redevelopment project.

Copyright

Continued from page 1

tin America and Africa. To drop the notice requirement now would be a step backward with the added danger of throwing the international copyright system out of kilter, they said.

If a copyright notice wasn't on a work, authors and publishers would have wider range in filing infringement suits. The intricacies of the notice requirement create unwanted hurdles in this regard, they argued.

Broadcasters, on the other hand, pressed the argument for notice. They said they wanted to be sure they were dealing with the correct person when negotiating for rights in a copyrighted work. They also want to make sure they aren't paying for works in the public domain, and notice is the best guarantee against such an unnecessary ladling out of cash.

Broadcasters' Cahill suggested the Copyright Office go one step further in notice provisions for records. He said the name of the person with prforming rights as well as the copyright owner should appear on disks.

Bringing public interest considerations into the debate were Harry Rosenfield of Public Affairs Press and Robert Burton, v.p. of Broadcast Music Inc.

Rosenfield said notice is vital for educators, researchers and librarians. Burton reasoned there were "philosophical" and public interest arguments for keeping the notice provisions.

Publishers & Authors

One section of the notice provision drew special fire from publishers and authors. As proposed, owners of copyrights in collective works such as magazines would serve as trustees of transfers of ownership and exclusive licenses of the individual works.

The authors said they didn't want publishers acting as their agents. The publishers, in turn, didn't particularly relish the agent functions and expressed worries they might be deseiged with requests for license rights.

Discussion of sections concerning registration of copyrights was more tempered with the suggestions of the Copyright Office generally accepted.

Some questions were raised as to why two copies of films, and book and sheet music had to be deposited with the Copyright Office for registration.

Register of Copyrights Abraham Kaminstein of Library of Congress said film deposit requirements remain unchanged. Two copies will be submitted to the Copyright Office and then returned. The Copyright Office will retain the right to call one copy back if needed.

Kaminstein said the proviso for two copies of book or sheet music to be deposited is less stringent than the English and other in England and other countries. He also noted Congress wants the Library to have two copies.

The next revision panel meet is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 13 when administration and infringement will be discussed.

In January the group will handle the controversial question of copyright protection for works printed overseas.

Indications are now that after the January meet, the Copyright Office will draft a revision bill. The measure would be sent to Congress for discussion.

The Copyright Office is weighing two alternative approaches after the draft bill is written. It may send the measure to Congress for discussion. The other possibility is submitting it to interested groups for suggestions and discussion and then transmitting it to Congress.

One crucial factor in these considerations is the progress achieved in talks between user and owner groups over the volatile reversion issue. Lawyers for both sides have been holding periodic meets in New York which have rocked between stalemate and solution of the tricky question.

The Copyright Office would rather have a compromise agreed to by the owner and user groups. If not it will be forced to impose a solution which could lead to fireworks when the bill is discussed by Congress.

Regional Pride Swallows Anything But Film Festival Leaving Region; Spain Zinging-Up San Sebastian

Madrid, Oct. 15.

Three-man directorate of the San Sebastian Film Festival, with the approval of the executive committee, have expressed willingness to turn over their reins to the recognized national film groups in Spain on the sole condition that the Basque resort city continue as a fest site in the future.

Ceding to newspaper and industry critics, many of whom maintained through the years that the principal San Sebastian film meet flaw is rooted in its "provincial" concepts and inadequate organizational staff, recruited locally, fest directors are prepared to bury regional pride and transfer complete organizational authority from the post of fest director on down to Uniespana, or the combined film groups within the Sindicato del Espactaculo or even to the office of the Director General for Cinema, provided fest locale remains in San Sebastian.

This attitude was expressed by Fest President and San Sebastian Mayor, Lasarte Arana, last March; but lack of time prevented implementation for the tenth annual film fete staged early June. The suggestion will be presented officially to the Director General for Cinema within the next month.

Buy Palace, Youngstown

Youngstown, O., Oct. 15.

Commercial Industrial Enterprises Inc. of Youngstown, has purchased the Palace Theater Building on Central Square in downtown Youngstown from Palace Realty Co. for an undisclosed sum.

V. M. McGuffin, jr., secretary-treasurer of the purchasing firm, said the theatre will continue in operation. The new owners plan to remodel the interior and exterior in the future.

County Treasurer A Bingo Lover

Dayton, O., Oct. 15.

A 37,000-member "club" headed by Charles A. Pfeiffer, who happens to be Montgomery County treasurer, has resumed its bingo games, offering the activity without charge to its members, with prizes of between $400 to $500 being given at the weekly Wednesday night games. The games are sponsored by the Dayton Gymnastic Club, in its own building.

Admission is via a membership card. Only a few weeks ago bingo was ruled illegal by Montgomery County Common Pleas Court Judge Robert L. McBride.

"The Boosters Club is a Dayton Gymnastic Club promotion for the benefit of the Boosters Club bingo players," Pfeiffer said. He said the club has been in existence for 25 years. There is no fee for joining, but membership is now closed. Pressed about the Booster Club's activities, Pfeiffer said that, practically speaking, it exists for the bingo players.

"I think the city should be ashamed of themselves for making their citizens go out of town for recreation," Preiffer said. He said many longtime Dayton Gymnastic Club bingo fans have been going to Springfield, Fairborn, and Cincinnati since the games were banned in Montgomery County.

Though no admission is charged, the prices on sandwiches, soft drinks, and coffee have gone up. When admission was charged, the cost of these refreshments was nominal. Reporters were permitted to view the games, but newspaper and television photographers were barred. Pfeiffer said, "We could give our bingo players a year of free bingo—the money's in the bank—and it wouldn't cost over $15,000 or $20-000." When he was asked how long the free bingo would continue, Pfeiffer said "Let's play it week by week."

Latest SEC List Of 'Inside' Stock

Washington, Oct. 15.

Five CBS brassers picked up stock options to highlight insider deals for Aug. 11-Sept. 10 round. As reported by Securities and Exchange Commission, William Fitts Jr., took option on his first 1,800. Kenneth Hoehn garnered 688 upping total to 1,688 and Clarence Hopper pulled in 3,000 boosting his holdings to 4,483. Lawrence Lowman took option on 3,150 raising total to 8,688 and Richard Salant picked up 5,402 for total 5,521.

Other transactions reported by SEC (Common unless otherwise noted) were:

Allied Artists—Roger Hurlock purchased 500 boosting holdings to 39,600.

Capital Cities Broadcasting Corp.—Harmon Duncan sold 100 leaving him 21,444.

Cinerama Inc.—Gerald Lessman disposed of 1,000 leaving him 500.

Decca Records Inc.—MCA Inc. bought 4,800 capital shares raising holdings to 1,374,667.

Movielab Inc.—Saul Jaffee converted all his 227,854 Class B Common to Class A Common. In the latter category he now has total 228,490.

Radio Corp. of America—Elmer Engstrom purchased 200 raising holdings to 15,090. Douglas Ewing exercised option on 2,206 upping total to 3,247. George Marek sold 200 leaving him 2,946.

Reeves Broadcasting & Development Corp.—Harry Peterson let go of 1,200 leaving him 30. He also disposed of his $3,000 of 6% convertible sub debentures.

Rollins Broadcasting Inc.—In a public offering John Rollins sold his 1,196 of common shares. In another offering he disposed of 15,964 Class B Common leaving him 184,036 plus another 3,500 held as a guardian. Wayne Rollins also sold 59,840 Class B Common in a public offering leaving him 549,560.

Teleprompter Corp.—Paul Garrett bought 2,100 and sold 1,250 giving him 11,757.

Trans Lux Corp.—Harry Brandt personally purchased 11,900 bringing personal holdings to 126,350 and another 4,300 through foundations upping that total to 44,827. Through his wife he also owns 22,765 and through corporations 7,268.

United Artists Corp.—Eugene Picker picked up his first 100.

Walt Disney Productions—Roy Disney sold 6,800 leaving him 2,061. He holds another 171,837 in voting trust. Walter Disney disposed of his 5,100 but hold 147,089 in voting trust.

Warner Bros. Pictures—Serge Semenenko sold 6,000 leaving him 1,200.

British Com'l TV Off and Running In '63-'64 Battle for TAM Ratings Topping BBC in Most of the Regions

London, Oct. 15.

With the prompt and all-important Television Audience Measurement ratings in for the week ended Sept. 29, the commercial tv biz here has on record the fortunes—and fates—of their first weekend showings of the new autumn sked.

Overall, it looks as if the commercial web is set for a season of joy, for in most regions the indies new line up has beaten BBC competition into the ground. It has done so to such an extent that the commercial web as a whole looks in little danger of losing its current 60-40 share of the audience—at weekends anyway.

In the nation's main market, London, for whose affection the web's fight is keenest, the indie-BBC fall '63 battle is fought closest because the national press critics are here, the advertisers are here, the agency boys are here, too—and on the London results such major commercial companies as Associated TeleVision, Associated-Rediffusion as well as the BBC will be judged.

Understandably, then, the tussle between BBC-TV and the commercial opposition in London is taken as the best guide as to the real state of the scrap. More specifically, the weekend ratings prove the programmic rightness or mistakes of ATV which beams to London, Saturday and Sunday, and at ABC-TV, the other weekend major which networks product to London from its two-day North and Midlands operation.

The first London scores show that even with the struggle for audiences at its toughest, the commercial web's nose for customers is still out in front. ATV stole the Saturday prime time ratings with "Thank Your Lucky Stars," 33, (ATV took show from ABC-TV) against "Juke Box Jury's" 22 rating on the BBC outlet. And ATV's back-to-back entries "Bonanza" (36) "Sentimental Agent" (33) Charlie Drake Show (39) "Checkmate" (36) and "The Avengers," from ABC-TV, (36) whipped BBC's "Taxi" (25), "Wells Fargo" (32) feature film (31) and "Comedy Playhouse" (29).

In the London satirical market, BBC's "TWTWTW" scored a whopping 28 rating for its 10:30-11:15 p.m. timeslot, which was beaten in the first instance by "Avengers" 36 score, but eclipsed "The Braden Beat" (with Bernard Braden and film clips of Bridget Bardot) which racked up only 18 rating points against it.

Sunday

Sunday in London during the first week of the fall schedules sees the commercial web ahead, save in the early afternoon when BBC's "Z Car" repeats beat ATV's "Ghost Squad" repeats 19 to 12. From ABC-TV, comedian Al Read scored a whopping 32 on ATV in London, pioneering a new audience for the independent channel on

(Continued on page 40)

EDWARDS, REASONER SUNSHINE RATINGS

While the focus of the rating news between NBC-TV and CBS-TV remains with the evening half-hour newscasts of Walter Cronkite and Huntley-Brinkley, the Douglas Edwards and Harry Reasoner CBS five-minute newscasts are getting the big daytime play.

In fact, Edwards' 3:25 to 3:30 "CBS Afternoon News" is a top 10 Nielsen daytime entry, placing in a tie for sixth place among all shows, according to the national Nielsen report for the two weeks ending Sept. 15.

Of course, the rating dominance of CBS-TV's daytime schedule plays no small role in tallying up rating points for Edwards and Reasoner.

First report on the fresh Mike Wallace half-hour news entry, which is up against NBC-TV's "Say When" gave Wallace a 2.5 rating and a 20.6 share, considered somewhat better than the departed "Calendar" series, but still something less to brag about in terms of ratings, with CBS-TV losing out to NBC-TV's entertainment show for that 10 to 10:30 a.m. slot. ABC-TV isn't programmed then.

Edwards' 3:25 to 3:30 newscast enjoys an 8.8 average audience rating with a whopping 45.1 share, while Reasoner scores with a 7.0 and a 36.1 share.

$100,000,000 CBC Toronto, Mont'l Development Plan

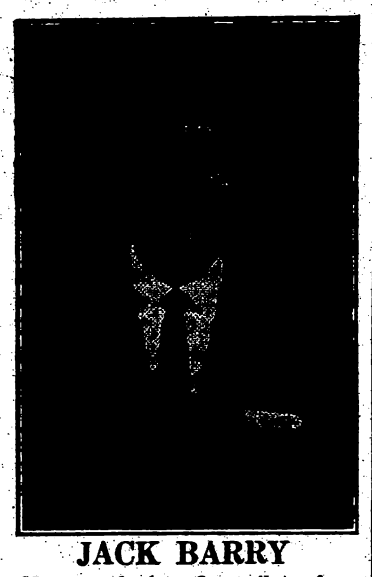
Toronto, Oct. 15.

Depending on its intention to embark on color tv on a trans-Dominion basis, the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corp. is skedded to go before the Treasury department of the Federal government in November to seek Parliamentary authority on capital expenditures on integrated broadcasting facilities in Toronto and Montreal on new radio-tv centres in both cities that are estimated to cost close to $100,000,000.

The Toronto centre will cost up to $40,000,000 and the Montreal venture some $55,000,000, including color facilities, plus the fact that latter city must step up its CBC French-language programming as much as 65% over the Toronto figure. (The English-language web, centred in Toronto, can tap the Ameican and British tv networks for program series but the French-language CBC web, based in Montreal, has no such supply line).

The CBC has been invited to locate in the 55-story Dominion Bank building planned for downtown Toronto, although the CBC plans its headquarters—at a cost

(Continued on page 38)



JACK BARRY

Now producing five pilots for CBS-TV—Paramount TV Production Development program

Salant to Critics: It's Content & Not Form That Counts

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

CBS News prexy Dick Salant has some firm opinions on the role of critics as it pertains to news and news documentaries, and the qualifications such critics shoud bring to the broadcasts they review.

As to the role of critics when it comes to news and news documentaries, Salant says there's far too much stress on the form of the news broadcast and little, if any, attention paid to the content of the news program. He cited, among other examples, a Saturday Review notice on the half-hour network news shows, which talked in terms of third act troubles in reviewing the elongated evening web news shows.

Salant, whose hair has a natural tendency to stand on end, bristled at the stress on form, as if a news show was similar to an entertainment vehicle. Most criticism, in Salant's judgment, falls along the same lines, accenting form and missing the major terms of reference which in Salant's opinion should be whether the news broadcast reflects the situation covered, objectively, honestly and fairly. Another term of reference should be the range and depth of news covered in the broadcast, and how well this job is done in pictures, if the medium is tv.

Salant dismissed one documentary on another network which received critical plaudits as staged. Challenged on a documentary on CBS-TV, parts of which appeard staged, he said Fred Friendly could only reply to that challenge.

Salant's penchant for separating news from entertainment leads him to refer to news programs, as "broadcasts," rather than "shows" or even "programs" for that matter. He has little regard for the National Television Academy of Arts and Sciences Emmy awards because he feels the whole orientation of that society is towards entertainment, and the qualifications of the bulk of its member-

(Continued on page 40)

Espanol TV's Prime Hour: 11 P.M.

That's When Curtain Goes Up on Big Variety Shows; Program 70 Hrs. a Week

By HANK WERBA

Madrid, Oct. 15.

Spanish television is now transmitting 70 hours a week under the new programming setup. And in keeping with custom, prime time is 11 p.m.

A breakdown of total time slotted gives 15½ hours to telefilm series and film features, 12 to information and news programs and equal amount for religious, cultural and educational telecasts; variety shows and contests get an eight-hour spread, live plays and drama will be aired seven and one-half hours weekly, two and one-half hours of small screen time will be slotted for children, one and one-half for women and the balance will be allocated to teenage programs and Eurovision hookups.

While the heavy emphasis on telefilms and film features is reluctantly accepted as a necessary measure in view of Television Espanola's limited production capacity—both live and video, several other steps taken in programming for the coming season should be noted. First, additional time has been granted to news broadcasts and news features.

Also, tv Spain will experiment with a presentation of its soap operas during five consecutive days—instead of once a week.

Last, but perhaps most significant, is the statement made by the Director General for Radio and Television, Pro Alonso, who has completely removed tv production from advertiser control. All programs, he stated, will emanate from the state-operated network, giving advertisers the opportunity to bid for commercial time slots only. In the past, popular variety shows such as "Gran Parada" and "Amigos de Lunes" were produced and talent contracted by Movierecord and the small group of ad companies who, in turn, made individual peseta deals with grouped sponsors. And since Movierecord, through its associate company, Moro Studios, supplied most of the telecommercials, the packaging was airtight.

Whether the government can match advertisers' know-how and budgets, remains to be seen. Particularly, since the big variety shows will be extended from one hour to an hour and a half with curtains slated to go up nightly on prime Spanish time at 11 p.m.

HORROR PIX TO GET WOLPER TREATMENT

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

"Monsters We've Known and Loved," documentary dealing with screen demons, horror films and movie beasts, has been slated by Wolper Productions for its NBC-TV "Hollywood and the Stars" series.

"Monsters" will trace the history of horror films from the first German-made silents, "Siegfried," "The Golem," "Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" and "Nosferatus" to early-day sound science-fiction and present-day outer-space horror movies. Featured will be Lon Chaney, Bela Lugosi, King Kong, among others. One sequence will deal with "How to Get Rid of a Monster," showing imaginative methods for their destruction, while another sequence will spotlight the relatives of monsters who became famous screen ghouls.

Telecasting date of episode is in January, '64, soon after the New Year.

WGAW Estimates $3,500,000 in 1963 Telepix Residuals

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

A record $3,500,000 telepix residuals take for writers is predicted by Writers Guild of America West for this year, on the basis of collections to date. WGAW had collected $2,269,000 as of last August for its members, as compared to $1,924,376 for same period last year when a record $3,067,743 was collected by writers for the 12 months period.

Members were told this prediction in communiques which also informed them a special general membership meeting will be held Oct. 29 at the BevHilton, for a vote on WGAW's proposal for a special five-year assessment of $15 a year plus ¼ of 1% of a writer's earnings. This would be in addition to the $10 a year basic fee and 1% of writer's earnings.

WGAW is asking for the increase because, it estimates, it needs an additional $100,000 annually to effectively carry out the royalty plan whereby writers will get 4% gross of a vidfilm, in perpetuity, in place of residuals. That includes a cut of the foreign as well as domestic returns.

In a comprehensive long-range analysis of the effects of the conversion to the royalty plan, WGAW predicts that by the 1972-73 season, the annual royalty take will amount to $10,000,000. Breaking this down, it sees a take of $7,000,000 from the domestic market and $3,000,000 from the foreign.

It's not possible yet to compare effect of the royalty program on fixed residuals. WGAW estimates that 1963 summer repeats not paid under the royalty plan at $280,000.

(Continued on page 40)

Hobin, Van Dyke Exit Judy Show

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Old rumors are being hashed over regarding the Judy Garland show and its prospects of longevity now that Jerry Van Dyke has been dropped and director Bill Hobin departs after four more shows. The CBS high command, western section, insists that the show "isn't breaking up" and "everybody is happy with it so far."

One CBS program exec was quoted as saying they didn't know what to do with Van Dyke. His corner claims he quit to do a comedy series for Filmways. At any rate Jack Carter may go into the show as his permanent replacement.

Hobin said his leaving has nothing to do with dissatisfaction, that his contract was for 13 shows and he's pulling out after four more to make a picture deal. The early Nielsen ratings (30-city) spread more gloom than happiness around the Garland set.

Executive producer Norman Jewison is also due to leave soon to report for a picture assignment at Universal.

NBC's Joey Nixed For CBS-TV 'Line'

Joey Bishop, brought east by NBC-TV for a round of on-the-air promotions on behalf of his Saturday night comedy entry, was tapped for a guest shot on CBS-TV's "What's My Line," but the network said "no dice." Appears that producers Goodson-Todman were all for it, as was Bishop and practically everybody else, but CBS was adamant in its decision.

Since "What's My Line" has been on the air, Bishop made some 14 appearances on the show, but apparently those were in the days when G-T and not CBS owned the property. (Bishop is currently in serious contention with CBS' Phil Silvers for Saturday night 8:30 Nielsen laurels.)

On the other hand NBC is taking the position that if Red Skelton, Danny Kaye or any other CBS personality wants to come over for a guest shot, they'll be more than welcome.

British TV's Top 20

(TAM Ratings; Week Ending Sept. 29)

	Homes Viewing (000's)
Coronation Street (Mon.)—GRANADA	8806
Coronation Street (Wed.)—GRANADA	7785
No Hiding Place—AR	7019
Take Your Pick—AR	6366
Double Your Money—AR	6509
Emergency Ward 10 (Fri.)—ATV	6509
Armchair Theatre—ABC	6509
Emergency Ward 10 (Tues.)—ATV	6381
Sunday Palladium—ATV	6381
The Plane Makers—ATV	6188
Dickie Henderson Show—AR	6126
This Week—AR	5781
Maupassant—GRANADA	5743
Our Man at St. Mark's—AR	4984
Thank Your Lucky Stars—ABC	4977
Charlie Drake Show—ATV	4977
Play of the Week—ATV	4722
The Avengers—ABC	4669
Margot Henderson—BBC	4644
Take a Letter—GRANADA	4633

Stanton Subs Murrow At Cultural Exchange Powwow Today (Wed.)

Washington, Oct. 15.

CBS prez Frank Stanton will pinchhit for one of his former employees at a U.S.-Japanese cultural exchange conference, the State Dept. disclosed.

Stanton will replace hospitalized U.S. Information Agency director Edward R. Murrow as keynote speaker at the conference opening here.

Murrow is recovering from a lung removal operation.

Also appointed to the American delegation was Peter Mennin, composer and president of the Julliard School of Music.

Kenneth Bunce, assistant director for Far Eastern Affairs at USIA, will fill Murrow's conference chair.

Rogers as Kluge Aide

Ted Rogers has joined Metromedia as assistant to John W. Kluge, president and chairman of the board.

During the past two years, Rogers was an exec producer with MGM's television and feature divisions.

IT'S '30 SHARE' OR DROP DEAD

The Nielsen Fever

As the new season begins to hit its stride and with the first all-important and all-American National Nielsens only two weeks off, the who's-doing-what-to-whom industry fever mounts. Interest has perked to almost fever pitch even over the inconclusive 30-city Nielsens and the National Nielsens (the one before the big one) released this week.

The 30-city count for the week ending Oct. 6, with virtually all the new shows accounted for, was cause for some jubilation in the ABC camp. Of the 14 new shows premiering this season, seven hit the share-of-audience jackpot with 30 or better, and such standards as "Ozzie & Harriet" and Donna Reed practically went through the ceiling. The Patty Duke show was in No. 2 position, topped only by "Beverly Hillbillies." The report put ABC in No. 2 contention among the three webs. Lost in the interest focussed on the Jerry Lewis show woes was the fact that on weekdays a new ABC respectability was in evidence.

Biggest surprise of the 30-market count (see separate story) was the failure of either the Judy Garland Show or the Danny Kaye Show to hit a 30 share stride—"Bonanza" trouncing the former and "11th Hour" taking the count from Kaye.

Nevertheless, the report suggested that Hurricane Aubrey was picking up momentum in increasing its average audience lead over the other two webs when contrasted with the early October report of a year ago, the CBS 19.5 overall rating for the week showing a wider margin separating it from the other two webs.

If there was weekend dismay in the NBC camp in the wake of the 30-market returns, the network's hopes were buoyed considerably yesterday (Tues.) with the appearance of the National Nielsens for the week ending Sept. 29 (when the bulk of the new shows were on the air). As was expected CBS had the commanding lead, with a 20.2 average audience rating, but NBC was still entrenched in the No. 2 spot, edging out ABC with an average audience 17.0 as against 16.4. The tally gave NBC one night of the week—Friday, and CBS the other six. CBS won 29 half-hour time periods; NBC and ABC evened out at 10 each.

Swezey's Ripsnorting NAB Exit: Decries Lack of Experimentation

Washington, Oct. 15.

For departing NAB Code Authority Director Robert Swezey, it is an exit rip-snorting.

His valedictory, which in large part could have been ghost written by FCC Chairman E. William Henry, lashed out at the "business as usual" policy of "too many station operators and advertisers."

And almost echoing Henry's Nashville speech Swezey said better tv programs must come from a demanding public.

In a speech at Reed College in Portland, Ore., Swezey said improvement in informational shows will evolve "only through the well-directed and concordant efforts" of the networks, stations, advertisers and public.

While praising the webs for their pubservice programs, he criticized "the business as usual" policy of too many station operators and advertisers.

Saying "we have everything at stake," Swezey implored "it is not enough that these two elements consider their important participation . . . in terms of profits and the inoffensive amusement of their vast audiences."

He called for more controversial shows and experimentation with programming "of more significance but perhaps less audience appeal."

Swezey urged advertisers to "re-evaluate the tremendous stake they have in public enlightenment and the defense of the democracy."

Swezey did, however, get in a lick at the government, rebuking encroaching government control of programming. He said these policies should not be determined by "powerful individuals within the government."

Swingin' Hutton For DeMille Spec

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Betty Hutton, who did some of her own trapeze work as star of Cecil B. DeMille's "Greatest Show on Earth," will recreate some of aerial numbers for MGM-TV 90-minute spec, "The World's Greatest Showman," legend of late film pioneer which NBC will air Dec. 1. Actress spent two days swinging last week.

Special, which also stars James Stewart, Yul Brynner, Samuel Goldwyn, Billy Graham, Charlton Heston, Barbara Stanwyck, Gloria Swanson and Anthony Quinn, will be a 50th anniversary salute to DeMille's first pic, "The Squaw Man," made in 1913.

'American Farm Daily' Set as ABC Radio Entry

The only daily radio network agricultural show in the U. S. is bowing on ABC Radio Oct. 28, titled "The American Farm Daily," it'll be aired from Washington, D. C., each weekday morning and will be hosted by Norman Kraeft, former host of a farm radio show on the Mutual network

Show will run 10 minutes at 7:30 a.m. with an updated version at 11:30 a.m.

ABC-TV to Hike Primetime Rates By 10% on Jan. 1

ABC-TV is hiking its primetime rates by about 10% on a flock of its shows come Jan. 1, 1964. Move dramatizes the web's comeback to a firm competitive position this year in the teeth of the most withering critical barrage ever to be laid down against a single network's schedule. But while the crix were croaking, viewers vox-popped ABC into No. 2 standing in the new 30-market Nielsens—a long way from last year's disastrous low man status.

The weekend lineup continues to represent a dangerous soft spot, but the overall pattern of the latest 30-market Nielsens have indicated to ABC execs that their $150,000,000 bet on a wholesale revamp of the primetime schedule will pay off this season. ABC not only was able to place four shows into the Nielsen Top 10, but showed up stronger on a broad swathe of half-hour periods throughout the week.

Last season, ABC-TV had 10 half-hours with shares of over 30. Currently, there are 22 half-hours over the 30 share level.

ABC's brighter Nielsen picture this season not only means more coin for the network on new business written during the 1964 cal-

(Continued on page 34)

Remington Rand ABC Buy

Remington Rand has added to its participation in ABC-TV's "Jerry Lewis Show" with a campaign for its portable typewriters to start next month.

New buy, through SSC&B, will supplement Remington's current plugs for its electric shavers.

MAD. AVE. LOADS UP ON ASPIRINS

By GEORGE ROSEN

Even though the new season is less than a month old, with the first definitive ratings still a couple weeks away, option time is already rolling around on those crucial 13-week sponsor renewals —and the candidates for the "drop dead" list of new shows extend from one end of Madison Ave. to the other.

Lacking the definitive National Nielsens which won't be available until Oct. 30, but faced with imminent decisions on whether to continue pouring good sponsor money after bad, the Mad Ave. boys have no alternative but to play it by the still-inconclusive 30-market returns. It's figured as good a dewline as any toward projecting the bigger picture to come.

And as far as the agency decision-makers are concerned, the answers are all wrapped up in the magic "30" number. Grab yourself a 30 share of audience and you can coast for the rest of the season. Under 30 and brother, you've got troubles. The agency v.p. with the solid gold credentials couldn't care less what the critics have been saying about their '63-'64 selections, but when Art Nielsen's numbers hit the street that's something else again. In fact, within the orbit in which they operate, practically anything else that's happening in the world is dwarfed by comparison.

Thanks to firm 26-week or even full season sponsor commitments, a lot of the 30-or-under shows will be spared the guillotine. It's a case where nobody comes out ahead except maybe the aspirin makers, for the headaches will linger through the balance of the semester.

It's very likely, too, that some of the new entries in Nielsen's 30-market "drop dead" category will climb into above-30 respectability as the season progresses or attain that status in the more important National Nielsens, but by and large the keen, shrewd agency man with the feel and the touch for such matters isn't being kidded; he knows in most cases even at this point whether he's riding with a clinker or a hit. He knows, too, all about the sliderule techniques and the corrective factors which will advance the cause of NBC and CBS on the National Nielsens (in relation to the 30-market returns) since ABC, still behind the eight-ball on station clearances, gets penalized when results from the broader canvass are posted and hence shows up to better advantage on the 30-city nosecounting where all three networks are in direct competition with one another.

So it's just as the man from Madison Ave. said: the big one that counts will come on Oct. 30, but pending those, the "30 share by way of the 30-market" countdown has helped set the tone and the trend for the season on audience preference.

And what is prefers (based on the 30-market returns for the week ending Oct. 6) has sent more than one prognosticator running for the hills. For joining the ranks of the shows failing to hit a 30 share are such items as Judy Garland and Danny Kaye, CBS' prize new entries for '63-'64. While Miss Garland was hardly expected to top NBC's highrated "Bonanza," nonetheless her 28 share in contrast to "Bonanza's" 38 has all the earmarks of a shocker. And whereas Kaye was expected to take his Wednesday 10 to 11 time period, his 29 share was outclassed by NBC's 36 for "11th Hour." All told, of the eight new CBS premieres, only half of them managed to deliver a 30 share of audience —"Favorite Martian," "East Side West Side," "Petticoat Junction," Glynis Johns.

It was hallelujah week at ABC

(Continued on page 34)

NBC's Sharkey Gives His Version In Encore to Madame's 'Nhu Act'

By BILL GREELEY

That Nhu Act in town, the Madame from the Far East with her song and dance of the 700 veiled truths, is not the only one in the cast of the current stateside Vietnam follies. NBC stringer (he also files for the London Daily Telegraph) John Sharkey is back recovering from injuries suffered when he and a couple of other newsmen were mobbed by plain-clothes government cops while covering the suicide of a Buddhist priest in downtown Saigon.

Madame Nhu, who is performing her patriotic verbal kootch from every available platform, says Americans should be patient in the now-famous incident of the newsmen's slugging—wait for the "tolling of the other bell," and even hints that perhaps the cops of her government were upset because the Americans were content to photograph the suicide by fire rather than trying to rescue the priest. She even intimates the newsmen may have obstructed attempts to save the Buddhist, but admits she doesn't really know.

Sharkey, on the other hand, says the action of the police indicated the "severity" of the government order to keep newsmen from photographing the suicides (this was the sixth). He says that the downtown area of Saigon is loaded with the gumshoes, who are operatives of the Ngo Dinh Diem government and under the direct supervision of Madame Nhu's brother, Ngo Diem Nhu.

Sharkey's firsthand account of the violence is as follows: He and NBC camera man Grant Wolfkill were among the correspondents who received a tip from Buddhist interests that the suicide was slated for the main street of town. They took off, arriving at the scene where a crowd had gathered, including six or eight other newsmen (mainly wire service) who were already taking still pictures of the burning priest. When Wolfkill put his more prominent film camera into operation, the plain-clothes cops were attracted and began to close in.

Wolfkill continued to grind for a minute or so, then with Sharkey "blocking for Grant," the pair tried to bust through the ring of eight or 10 secret police moving in. Dave Halferstam of the New York Times, seeing the cops' move, pitched in on the attempt to get the camera man clear and back to the Caravalle hotel, hq for newsmen in Saigon.

They managed to make it for a short distance, but the cop resist-

(Continued on page 38)

Maharis, Leonard Settle Differences

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Producer Herbert B. Leonard and George Maharis, his "Route 66" costar put on suspension last season, have settled their differences via an out-of-court settlement.

Maharis exited the CBS-TV series produced by Leonard for Screen Gems last semester on grounds he was ill. When he didn't return after several months, Leonard put him on suspension and instituted legal action to prevent Maharis from fulfilling tv guest shots. Maharis won a prelim victory in court, but matter was still pending when the pair agreed on settlement terms.

Westinghouse's $5,500,000 CBS Buy; Mostly News

CBS-TV, in a major coup, copped the $5,500,000 Westinghouse account for the '64 calendar year. Most of the Westinghouse coin will go into news and pub-affairs, with some participations going into the web's regular nighttime schedule and the morning minute plan time span.

Westinghouse's appliance and home instrument division, via McCann-Erickson, starting in '64 bought participations in "CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite," "CBS Midday News," and "CBS Saturday News."

Additionally, Westinghouse will pick up two-thirds sponsorship of certain half-hour episodes of "Chronicle" in '64. Its $5,500,000 buy will be rounded out by participations in the web's regular dramatic nighttime schedule and the morning minute plan.

Networks Renew Bid To Goldwater & Rocky For Public Debate on TV

The three networks have renewed their invitation to Senator Barry M. Goldwater and Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to debate their respective policies on their facilities.

Three webs renewed their bid in the wake of Governor Rockefeller's recent invitation in Eugene, Ore., to Senator Goldwater for a public debate. To date, Senator Goldwater has turned down the public invitation of Gov. Rockefeller, contending no useful purpose would be served to the Republican Party if the two leading Presidential condidates aired their differences publicly in a series of confronations.

NBC-TV TO PREVIEW HAYWARD'S 'TWTWTW'

The NBC-TV-Leland Hayward domestic version of the British satirical hit, "That Was The Week That Was," slated for the network next fall, will get a preview showing in the form of an hour special Sunday, Nov. 10 at 10 p.m.

Marshall Jamison will produce the special which, like its British forerunner, will be a topical revue based on current news events. Plans call for comedian Mike Nichols to be an occasional performer in the series with Robert Emmett as one of the contributing writers. Guest star and cast of six or seven for the Nov. 10 special will be announced.

AFTRA, Networks In Contract Talks

American Federation of Television & Radio Artists and the four networks (NBC, ABC, CBS and Mutual) Monday (14) moved into the second week of meetings on a new contract (current pact is up Nov. 15). Performers' union has submitted a dossier of 61 different proposals, and so far talks have reportedly covered a trading of presentations and inaugural arguments.

Again, as during the last three years, AFTRA is not asking for an across-the-board increase in payments, but has requested boosts in specific areas and also tightening of the covering codes in some instances.

Union is asking a 10% increase for chorus-line dancers on variety shows, and more rigid interpretation of codes for dancers who step out of the line for bits, understudies and so on. It's also asking elimination of the fee discounts now affecting thesps in the daytime soap opera strips. A feature player in the soaps currently is

(Continued on page 40)

Sam Northcross Seen as Key To Reuniting of Rheingold and FC&B —On Other Madison Ave. Fronts

By BILL GREELEY

Liebman Breweries (Rheingold beer) has returned its $8,000,000 ad account to Foote, Cone & Belding after two years at J. Walter Thompson. It appears that the severely wounded client and agency psyches—suffered in the hysterical negotiations for New York Mets baseball telecasts—have healed. Albeit the campaigning created for the suds by JWT should be enough to route any client, there appears to be another strong factor at work in the return to the old ramparts.

Sam Northcross, Foote, Cone & Belding's new tv chieftain, was for years radio - television program head at Wm. Esty agency where clients R. J. Reynolds and Ballantine beer have long been sponsors of the New York Yankee telecasts on WPIX. With Northcross on the roster, FC&B and Rheingold not only have an exec with full experience in baseball sponsorship, but also a guy with an in-depth scouting report on the competition.

Most close observers blame the Rheingold-FC&B rift over the Mets negotations on the fact that neither client nor agency had any experience in the highly involved relationship between a pro ballclub and its broadcast sponsor. In the shift to Thompson (which came as a capper to the jolly Christmas season), Rheingold latched onto a shop that had background, via client Ford, with baseball bankrolling in Cincinnati.

It's related that Rheingold prexy Phil Liebmann, considered sort of a regional Charles Revson along Madison Ave., was the master (under)mind in the negotiations with Donald Grant, board chairman, and George Weiss, general manager, of the Mets. Anyhow, bidding for broadcast rights on the new New York National League club soared until Rheingold wound up shelling out more for the contract than the $1,100,000 paid by Ballantine and R. J. Reynolds for the New York Yankee games—a winning club as opposed to an unknown quantity.

And the deal was signed and sealed before either Rheingold or Foote, Cone & Belding had bothered to look into clearances with any New York tv or radio station. Station situation was extremely tight, since the three network o&o's were automatically out; WNEW-TV had stated it was not interested; WPIX-TV had the Yanks; and channel 13 was going educational.

WOR—At A Price

This left WOR-TV, the local RKO General independent, the lone channel left to negotiate — and WOR had already been pacted, with station chief Bob Leder's signature, by a competitor. Said competitor, however, decided to pass up the big time commitment involved in a full season's games, which cleared the way for Rheingold. But, authoritive sources say that Rheingold may have wound up paying up to 50% more for the time than the price the competitor had nailed down, and the contract is said to have an annual escalator clause.

By the time Rheingold had the ball games set, the package was reportedly priced at more than $3,000,000. Same time, the Ted Bates agency, shrewd dealers for anybody's time, reportedly bought 30% sponsorship for the Brown & Williamson cig firm for $1,000,000 on a five-year contract.

Anyhow, besides the obvious conclusion that Sam Northcross in the shop with his attache case of Ballantine baseball facts makes a return to FC&B logical for the beer company, an agency spokesman says that senior veepee and director Frank Delano did a lot to get the business back. Delano was management representative on the Rheingold account when it left, and he takes over in the same capacity again. He's been handling TWA during the two-year interim, and will continue to rep on the airline biz.

Incidentally, Rheingold and FC&B split once before during the 14 years of the relationship. When the agency was still Lord & Thomas (the shop that created Miss Rheingold), the beer company switched to Young & Rubicam. It was less than a year, however, before she was back at FC&B.

When the account went to JWT, there were rumors that the Miss Rheingold annual election would be dropped. There admittedly was a lot of heat from minority groups then—Puerto Ricans, Negroes etc. —because they were shunted in the roster of six girls selected for the annual voting. Contest has continued apace, however, with the same assembly-line crank-out of pretties every summer.

It should be noted that the unknown quantity, the Mets, which cost Rheingold so dearly, have held up in the ratings while being the league doormats for two years running. WOR, in fact, this year has claimed the Mets winners in the rating scramble against the Yanks, but the station has done so without pointing out that the Yanks for all practicable purposes finished the season way early by grabbing the pennant with several games to go. Mets, at the same time, had games slated with the Los Angelss Dodgers who were engaged in a dramatic struggle with the St. Louis Cards for the NL pennant.

Grove's Chantkachoosie

Grove Labs, via Doherty, Clifford, Steers & Shenfield, will continue its policy of name talents in 4-Way Cold Tablet blurbs this year with singer Mindy Carson and sneezer Billy Gilbert.

Unlikely couple will somehow promote the campaign theme, "4-Way works so fast, you hardly know you have a cold." Daytime tv and spot in 61 markets will be used through the fall-winter national sniffle season.

NBC's Cutback on News Writing Staff But It's Still The Biggest One

In spite of the big increase this season in daily newscast time, NBC has trimmed the news writing staff by a half dozen. Web news spokesman says the severed hands were all temporary, working during the vacation season or as fill-in while special projects like the three-hour civil rights show drew from the writers' pool. Cutback, nonetheless, has put some regulars on six instead of the standard five-day week.

News writers given notice include Gene Gilligan, Alex Urban, Erwin Horowitz, Walter Briggs, Robert Bauder and Leon Lewis. Web's writer pool, which services both network and local news (and syndication) is still the largest of the three networks.

London Agencies

London, Oct. 15.

S. H. Benson and Masius & Fergusson appointed to handle three products in the Nestle Co. range. Former agency will handle Nesquik and Milo while the latter takes over the Nestea account. Previously, the three products were handled by BBDO . Annual showing of prize-winning commercials (from Cannes adfest) attracted an estimated audience of 8,000 to the Odeon theatre, Leicester Square . . . Ray Morgan, recently promoted associate Director of Benton & Bowles, becomes head of the agency's media department . . McCann-Erickson brought senior account executive Roy Harris from Young & Rubicam to handle the Esso account. . . . Prediction from Pat Henry, sales director of Associated Television is that with the advent of a second commercial web (which may come about before 1967) the cost of tv advertising may increase. "But," he says, "while few clients will admit it, I believe that with the proper use of tv its power is worth a good deal more than many of us (commercial stations) are charging now."

DECISION DUE ON PAAR STATION BUY

Poland Spring, Me., Oct. 15.

The board of directors of Mt. Washington TV Inc., owners of WMTW-TV, FM, will meet here tomorrow (16) to approve the sale of 80% of the station's stock to entertainer Jack Paar.

Paar offered almost $4,000,000 for the stock which is owned by former Maine Gov. Horace Hildreth and his brother and two associates.

Station president and general manager John Guider will continue as president and manager when the sale is approved, Paar said. Guider holds a 20% stock interest in the corporation which he had not sold.

In a statement broadcast over the station Paar said he intends to beef up the station's operation when he assumes control, although, he said, no changes in operation personnel is anticipated. He said he intends to spend much time in Maine.

Vast Potential Of Tape Envisioned By MGM's Gould

Although the production of tv dramas on tap has been declining in recent years in favor of film, major technological breakthroughs are due to give tape a dominating role in the home entertainment industries within the next decade. George K. Gould, president and general manager of MGM Telestudios, foresees tape's rapid growth with the advent of the low-cost home video- audio machines, now on the threshold of commercial marketability, and with the introduction of improved tape facilities for tv production.

At the present time, Gould pointed out that tape already has striking advantages over film in being an all-electronic medium designed for the requirements of the tv tube. While tape stock is still some three times more expensive than film, greater reusability of tape, with plays of 50 to 60 times not uncommon, give tape an economic edge.

New transistorized equipment, representing a $500,000 investment for MGM Telestudios, has given this operation increased flexibility for the production of video tape commercials. For the first time, tape is now able to shoot on a scene-by-scene basis. Gould pointed out that some one-minute tape commercials utilize up to two dozen different scenes, raising problems which up to the development of new camera systems developed by MGM Telestudios has been beyond tape's capabilities.

Tape still has a considerable distance to go before catching up to the use of film in television. Tape is now utilized for about 30% of primetime programming, chiefly in the variety genre and with "DuPont Show of the Week" being the only dramatic show on tv produced in tape. In the spot-making field, tape now accounts for about 15 to 20% of the $55,000,000 volume.

MGM Telestudios, mostly active in the production of tv commercials, obtained an important programming account this season in the two-hour David Susskind "Open End" show.

Jerry Lewis Doing Pair Of Vegas Originations

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Jerry Lewis, who sez he has owed The Sands, in Las Vegas, a date for 18 months, will fulfill this engagement starting Nov. 6, simultaneously doing a double stint by taking his entire vidcrew to resort for two remote ABC shows. Logistics involve Lewis' entire complement, 114 strong.

Real reason is fact that he next starts his film, "Leatherneck," which would push back even further a date in the resort. To date, Lewis has completed four ABC 'two-hour shows from his lavistly-refurbished El Capitan Theatre here, renamed the Jerry Lewis Theatre.

TV-Radio Production Centres

IN NEW YORK

Marjorie Lord of "Danny Thomas Show" checked into town Monday (14) . . . Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone of "Gunsmoke" back to Coast after week's personal appearances at American Royal Horse Show in Kansas City . . . Leon Ames goes into "Mister Ed" series replacing the late Larry Keating . . . CBS News prexy Dick Salant sent a blistering wire of protest to Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella over the "unwarranted arrest and manhandling of CBS News special correspondent Don Steffens in Algiers . . . Jack Stroud, of the N. Y. Football Giants, has taken over as host on "Sports Time," CBS Radio. He replaces Phil Ruzzuto who returns at the end of the football season . . . Irene Ryan ("Beverly Hillbillies") tops the entertainment bill of the Nashville Police Show, Nashville, Nov. 16 . . . CBS Radio has slated a roundtable discussion on the book of Dr. James Bryant Conant, titled "The Establishment," with Dr. Conant and other educators participating. Program is slated for Oct. 29 . . . WCBS-TV documentary producer Gordon Hyatt off vacationing . . . Marian Searchinger has been elected v.p. of the literary department in the N. Y. office of Artists Agency Corp. . . . Joseph P. Hanley named director of public information for WCBS Radio, replacing John Kieran Jr.

Henry Morgenthau 3d who produced the interviews which form the Beacon Press book, "The Negro Protest," is sending out copies to the trade. Morgenthau's talks with James Baldwin, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King, as edited by Kenneth B. Clark, were produced for National Educational Television by WGBH-TV, Boston. Mary Rose Maybank was co-producer and Fred Barzyk the director . . . Radio station WAVY, Norfolk, joins NBC as affil Oct. 14 . . . Gordon Cotler, producer of "Sing Along With Mitch," sold his mystery novel, "The Cypher," to Universal-International for flick . . . Bob Asman named associate producer in Washington for NBC-TV's new "Sunday" . . . Maurice Chevalier starring in NBC-TV's spec, "April in Paris Ball" (27) . . . NBC News' Santo Domingo correspondent Bernie Diederich injured while filming scuffle between students and police in Dominican Republic . . Frank Blair will receive Georgetown University's 175th Anniversary Medal of Freedom for long service to school . . . Jerome H. Stanley named director, program administration at NBC . . . Roy Neal emceed Statler-Hilton luncheon Thursday (10) for seven astronauts who received Collier Trophy . . . Johnny Carson to Hollywood Oct. 28 to play self in MGM flick "Looking for Love" . . . Alice Proctor leaving NBC Press for staff of "Candid Camera" . . . Jim Kitchell, producer for NBC's '64 Olympic coverage, in Tokyo on survey . . . Lincoln Park Zoo in Chi named its baby lion "Robert Wogan" after NBC Radio veep . . . Andy Williams coming here Oct. 29 for promotion . . . NBC research director Dr. Tom Coffin speaking to Assn. of National Advertisers in Chicago Thursday (17).

Newton Minow, ex-FCC chief and now general counsel for Encyclopedia Brittanica, has been elected to the board of directors of the National Educational Network . . . Ivan Ladizinsky, co-producer of ABC Radio's "Flair Reports," has completed his first teleplay, "Flight To Oblivion" in collaboration with Ann Petrie, Mal Goode, ABC's UN correspondent and the first Negro network newsman, delivered the keynote address to the New York convention of the NAACP in Saratoga Springs last Friday (11) . . . Harvey Jacobs, ABC International's ad-publicity manager, sold a story, "The Midnight Voice," to the Ladies Home Journal . . . Mari Janofsky, ABC press magazine editor, in Russia as associate producer for the network's documentary on "The Soviet Woman," slated for telecasting Dec. 10 . . . Dick Pack, Westinghouse Broadcasting's v.p over programming, appointed chairman of the newly established Dean's Advisory Council for N. Y. University's Graduate School of Social Work. He's an NYU alumnus, class of '38 . . . Bob Maxwell has moved over from WCBS Radio to WABC Radio with a Monday-through-Friday early evening interview show.

Westinghouse programming v.p. Dick Pack to London for Intertel meeting and other European cities to o.o. news operations.

Arnold Moss back in New York after guesting on a "Route 66" segment shot in Niagara Falls. He plays an oil-rich Near East potentate . . . Scripter Donald Haring, who made his first sale to the WBBM-TV, Chicago, Repertoire Workshop, will be speaker at a writers' session Oct. 23 at Hotel Albert in Greenwich Village . . . Jazz pianist Erroll Garner, currently touring England, will do a guest shot on the Oct. 20 "Sunday Night at the Palladium" show.

IN HOLLYWOOD

John Thompson, NBC's news manager on the coast, beefed up his staff with eight members to give him a total of 40 or one less than CBS' battery of news hustlers. ABC is third with 28 . . . Procter & Gamble started the first step of a deal for "The Morleys," a daylight stripper by Vera Caspary and Lloyd Rosamond. First comes the script and then they'll talk turkey . . . Sam Kurtzman, a practicing dentist who has been writing for comics as far back as radio, had his game show, "39 Doors," optioned by Desilu. He's also writing a novel about radio-tv . . . Carson-Roberts agency added six more for a personnel of 100 . . . Dick Mack, comedy writer and producer for 30 years, offers this panacea for improvement of tv's fun shows: "get more hungry writers; the well-feds lose their dedication" . . . If Ralph Edwards gets back on network night time with his new version of "Truth or Consequences," the emcee may well be Digby Wolfe, idol of the Aussies, who's taking up residence in Hollywood . . . Dolores Finlay departs KNBC as publicity director after seven years . . . John Scott Trotter, who was Bing Crosby's music director for 18 years, will be back with the groaner for his CBS-TV special Nov. 7 . . . Lucille Ball's sciatic nerve sidelined her from any camera work for a week . . . If a deal is closed for reruns of old Edgar Bergen radio shows they'll be on CBS . . . If there are any minute buyers coveting KTLA it'll take a shoe horn for Stretch Adler to accommodate them. Station is 98% sold out rest of the year. Old pictures are still the backbone of local stations, with national spot advertisers willing to pay a premium for any open time.

IN CHICAGO

Now that Frank Reynolds and Hugh Hill are in the fold, WBKB will probably drop the five-minute nightly shows of Betty Caywood and Bob Rhodes (who'll remain on staff) and go all news in the 10 p.m. half-hour. Period will become a showcase for the Big Three of Reynolds Hill and Alex Dreier . . . WBBM-TV is staging a musical revue for the annual benefit of the Junior League of Chicago and will tape it that night, Nov. 8, for a "Repertoire Workshop" entry. Station has cast Denise Foster, June Ericson, Cindy Whitsell, Ross Lashbrook, Barry Burns and Charles and Mary Jane Kimbrough . . . Dennie Trettel will again sub for WBBM-TV weatherman P. J. Hoff next week while he goes off on a motor trip . . . David Taylor, personnel director of WGN, becomes a 30-year man with the company this month. Announcer John Mallow and ad-promo manager Jim Hanlon both have clocked 20 years . . . Carter Davidson has set Hugh Hefner, John Justin Smith, Max Lerner and author Lisa Sharell for his Oct. 26 "At Random" panel . . . WNBQ's "Dateline: Chicago" offering this Sunday (20) will deal with adult education . . . WBBM Radio added two news writers, Kenneth Bell, ex-WGN, and Stan Vainrib, former news di-

(Continued on page 34)

AS GENERAL FOODS GOES SO - - -

Courageous or Desperate?

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

The delicate subject of homosexuality has long been shunned like a plague by tv producers. Yet coming up will be two hour shows treating of the subject and pulling no punches.

First to disclose a homo segment was Herbert Hirschman, producer of the London-based "Espionage." Jim Backus plays the role of the American ambassador in London. "We speak about it openly," said Hirschman, "and I believe this is the first time that the subject has been dealt with openly on American television."

Homosexuality on a college campus is the subject of an upcoming segment of "Channing" starring Russ Hamblyn and David Wayne and, according to producer Jack Laird, "ABC's continuity acceptance department couldn't have been more cooperative."

In some quarters the homo theme is translated as a desperation move as both shows are lagging in the ratings.

Updated, Streamlined Radio France All Set For a Kickoff on Oct. 20

Paris, Oct. 15.

It is now official. Starting Oct. 20 there will be changes in the four radio stations handled by the governmental Radiodiffusion-Television Francaise under the aegis of the Ministry of Information. New look was announced this week by Info Minister Alain Peyrefitte.

Peyrefitte pointed out that there were now 14,000,000 registered radios to the only 4,000,000 tv sets and that radio was having a renaissance among the young due to transistor sets. But he also said he was aware that peripheral stations like Monte-Carlo, Luxembourg and Radio Europe in most cases had more listeners than the local ones.

It was paradoxical since owners paid license fees here but listened mainly to outside programs. So the refurbished radio look is supposed to bring listeners back. Changes are based on a special public survey of listener interests.

Minister noted that it was decided to have radio cater to the different outlooks, lives and occupations of auditors. Radio would now be lively, dynamic and more a background affair. He maintained that radio and tv were complementary and not competitive since they appealed to the ear and eye resepecitively.

So there would now be only three airwave channels instead of the previous four. RTF-Inter would be the popular one with a 24-hour run in taking over old France I and II webs to cover the whole territory by AM and FM frequencies.

Inter would give out with plenty of pop music, games and quiz entries, practical advice programs and spot news aspects. At 8:30 p.m. the emissions would be doubled via one on shortwave for adults and one in longer measurements for young listeners. There would also be special inserts of regional programs and news.

RTF-Promotion will take over the old France III and also be jacked up in carrying power. This will be the cultural station with educational programs, about 29 a week, and more highbrow stuff at night plus more essay-style and deeper news analyses and reporting.

RTF-High Fidelity will be given

(Continued on page 40)

Unsold TV Pilot As Theatrical Pic

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Revue-Universal may have found the answer to the question of what to do with unsold pilots.

Last spring, revue producer Howard Christie turned out an hourlong pilot of "The Plainsman," based on the old Paramount film which starred Gary Cooper. Pilot was delivered too late for the selling season.

So, studio recently had Christie shoot another half-hour and now Universal will release it as a theatrical film. Brian Keith and Robert Culp star in "Plainsman," which was lensed in color, and much of it lensed on location. Running time will be about 75 minutes with the added footage.

Colombia Coffee Buy

Big spenders in spot, the National Federation of Coffee Growers of Colombia have made their first network buy on NBC-TV's "Today" and "Tonight" shows.

Coffee men have three minutes a week on each show, beginning in January for a 52-week spread. Order was placed via Doyle, Dane, Bernbach ad agency. Repping the 200,000 coffee growers in the Federation will be the familiar blurb character Juan Valdez.

Carleton Greene: 'BBC-2 Won't Be A Poor Man's BBC-1'

London, Oct. 15.

Start date for BBC-2, as revealed by the Corporation's Director General Hugh Carleton, Greene, is now inked as Monday April 20. Then, the BBC's 625-line UHF transmissions will beam to London and Greater London areas, inhabited by 10,000,000 televiewers.

Greene, opening a vid-themed exhibition staged by BBC in conjunction with the London Design Center, indicated the spread of second web would reach 60% of the population in 1965 and, five years after the opening, would be available to 95% of the country.

Still the main mystery about the new channel, now coming in for extensive promo from both BBC and the equipment trade, is the precise shape of programming. Vague promise from Greene as to the structure of BBC-2's opening

(Continued on page 34)

Julian Goodman Re TV News: 'Gotta Keep Pace With Scientists'

Washington, Oct. 15.

Technology keeps racing along, creating more problems for television news, NBC News v.p. Julian Goodman averred with his typewriter.

He said the challenge in broadcast journalism is to keep pace with the scientists.

Writing in "Quill" the respected mag of the journalism society Sigma Delta Chi, Goodman said, "We must develop our own technique of communications to the point that we are really as up to date in our methods of covering and transmitting the news as they (scientists) are with the technology they have worked out for conveying it."

As for reporters, Goodman wrote "the ability to command attention," and not good looks of pear shaped tones is of primary importance.

He predicted a bright future for foreign correspondents who can shoot film with a camera and use portable tape recordings. Goodman also stressed the importance for correspondents of knowing a foreign language.

WEBS JOCKEY FOR $42,000,000 BIZ

The big grab for the General Foods tv business for next season is under way. And much more than the $42,000,000 it spends annually on network programming and time is involved. For all the advertisers with a heavy stake in the tv sweepstakes, GF stands unique. It goes for the hit attractions; its record of successes (both daytime and nighttime) is perhaps unmatched; a lot of advertisers watch what GF is going to do and take their cue accordingly. But perhaps most importantly, the network that grabs off the lion's share of the General Foods business gets the jump on the other networks on the pileup of billings for the new semester.

Within the next 60 days perhaps even 30—the winnah will be known. Meanwhile the jockeying for the biz hits a stepped up tempo.

Historically over the years GF has thrown in its lot with CBS (where currently it sponsors such nighttime entries as "I've Got A Secret", "I Love Lucy", Danny Thomas, Andy Griffith and Jack Benny, along with daytime. But GF's continued allegiance to CBS into '64-'65 is now a big question mark. (Among other things, there's no certainty at this point whether either Danny Thomas or Lucille Ball will work next season).

At any rate, the GF reps, it's reported, have already had one meeting with the NBC boys (and from one network source comes the report that "it was a successful meeting"). Another NBC meet is scheduled for next week.

NBC, which inherits Jack Benny next season, makes no secret of the fact that he could be the bait with which to lure the GF Jello biz away from CBS. But it would like more—much more—than Jello. And meanwhile ABC, though lacking any such Benny bait, is in there as well for the big come-on.

'Six by Dorso' On CBS Pilot Agenda For Next Season

With the CBS-TV acquisition of the new Neil Simon-Stanley Prager comedy series, "Kibbie Hates Fitch" out of the United Artists Television shop (NBC held for the option for a year and let it go last week), it looks like Dick Dorso, UA-TV's factotum, will have six pilots going for him at Bill Paley's network next season.

Of all the majors in the competitive programming race, UA-TV shapes up with the most enviable track record for the current season by virtue of three (thus far) early season clicks on ABC-TV. CBS-TV prexy Jim Aubrey moved in chiefly because Dorso takes his cue from the parent UA company in delivering specific producers.

Thus, along with the Simon-Prager entry about a fire dept., properties involving Martin Ritt, Sherwood Schwartz, Jackie Cooper and Stu Rosenberg are now on the CBS-TV pilot agenda for '64-'65.

Simon's new legiter, "Barefoot in the Park" opens on Broadway Oct. 23. Prager directed his "Come Blow Your Horn" legiter.

David Levy's 3 Projects

David Levy, former programming v.p. at NBC-TV, has negotiated a deal with MGM-TV to develop a Levy-created drama series called "For the People," designed as a '64-'65 network entry.

Levy, meanwhile, has two other projects going for him. One is the series based on Charles Addams characters, being done in association with Filmways Productions. The other is a projected series starring comedienne Pat Collins. (She's a current nitery click on the Coast with a hypnotic act). Latter, too, will be in association with Al Simon of Filmways.

West German TV in Forthright Examination Of Negro Problem

By HAZEL GUILD

Frankfurt, Oct. 15.

West German television is turning more and more toward a deep probe of the integration problem—from the American standpoint, and also frankly facing the difficulties of the Negro in Germany.

And the result is a frank approach to this situation that might still be impossible in the southern states.

While initial coverage included an interview with Rev. Martin Luther King and Governor Wallace on a German "Meet the Press" type of program and an entire show devoted to the freedom march, later shows have turned the probe toward Germany and its own segregation or at least color differences.

A documentary called "Who's Afraid of the Black Man?" told about the plight of Negroes, both German and foreign, in this country. It's estimated that there are close to 100,000 Negroes with German citizenship—dating all the way back to World War I, when French soldiers from Algeria fathered children with German mothers, and abandoned most of the children in German orphanages. Most of the children, dubbed "mixed children" here, were the products of American troops stationed here after World War II. And these youngsters are now growing up to the age where they seek jobs in business and industry, educated in Germany, with German citizenship and language, but nonetheless considered different from the German children of the same age. Foreign Negroes working or studying in Germany were also interviewed, with discussion of their difficulties in finding housing, jobs, companionship.

But an even more unusual program was called "Women in Black Quarters"—a German production, filmed in New York, interviewing German wives of American Negro soldiers. The wives were asked what difficulties they had had with integration. (One who works in a New York office said she had told none of her co-workers that her husband is a Negro; another said she found it "terrible to be cut off from my own race." A third met her husband through an ad placed in a German newspaper and didn't know he was Negro

(Continued on page 40)

Good Lord

Portland, Ore., Oct. 15.

FCC Commissioner Kenneth Cox, a participant in the Reed College tv conference here, was presented with a poser. A local church group leader complained that, with the exception of the NBC station, the religioso body was having difficulty enlisting cooperation of the other stations. "What," Cox was asked, "would you do about it?"

"Have you thought about trying prayers?" was the Cox retort.

Stanton Berates Influence Groups For '315 Silence'

Portland, Ore., Oct. 15.

CBS prexy Frank Stanton belabored academic communities, learned societies and civic groups for being "curiously silent when it comes to asking Congress to amend antiquated provisions of law which prevent television from providing more information on candidates and issues during election campaigns."

Stanton, delivering the keynote address at Reed College's "Conference on Television: It's Role in the Democratic Process," said the same groups, academic, learned and civic, are "notoriously vociferous in criticising what they don't like about television." He called for greater public support of broadcasters' efforts to free broadcasting of the restrictions inhibiting its freedom to report and inform.

Hugh M. Beville Jr., v.p., planning and research for NBC, a guest speaker at the conference, attacked pay-tv and the threat of government action limiting tv commercials. He said pay-tv runs directly counter to the public interest. He contended that contrary to the impression given by the FCC, there is no public outcry demanding government action limiting tv commercials.

On the subject of needed broader public support if tv is to do its news, pubaffairs job, Stanton said "It is a sad and discouraging fact that after the demonstrated effectiveness of the suspension of Section 315 in the last Presidential election, we could not prevail upon the Congress either to repeal the Section or even to broaden the experiment of suspension in 1964 by extending it to include the primary campaigns for the Presidency and other important offices.

CBS-TV Still Plugging Those Minute Holes With Flock of New Clients

CBS-TV continued to fill up some minute holes via participation buys in its new schedule.

Norcliff Laboratories bought November participations in "Nurses," "Perry Mason," "Alfred Hitchcock Hour," and "Rawhide." Shulton, Inc., in a pre-Christmas buy, inked for participations in "Great Adventure," "Rawhide," "Hitchcock," "Nurses," and "CBS News with Walter Cronkite."

DuPont Paint bought 25 nighttime minutes in the second and third quarter of next year. Wrigley increased its buy in "Captain Kangaroo," and bought participations in "Rawhide," "Mason," "Hitchcock." Sweets Co. of America bought alternate week participations in Wednesday program of "Kangaroo." F&F Laboratories bought 20 minutes in the morning minute plan.

Lotsa Keeshan On Tap Around CBS

Bob Keeshan (Captain Kangaroo) is a very busy man around CBS precincts these days, above and beyond his Monday through Saturday hourlong kiddie show.

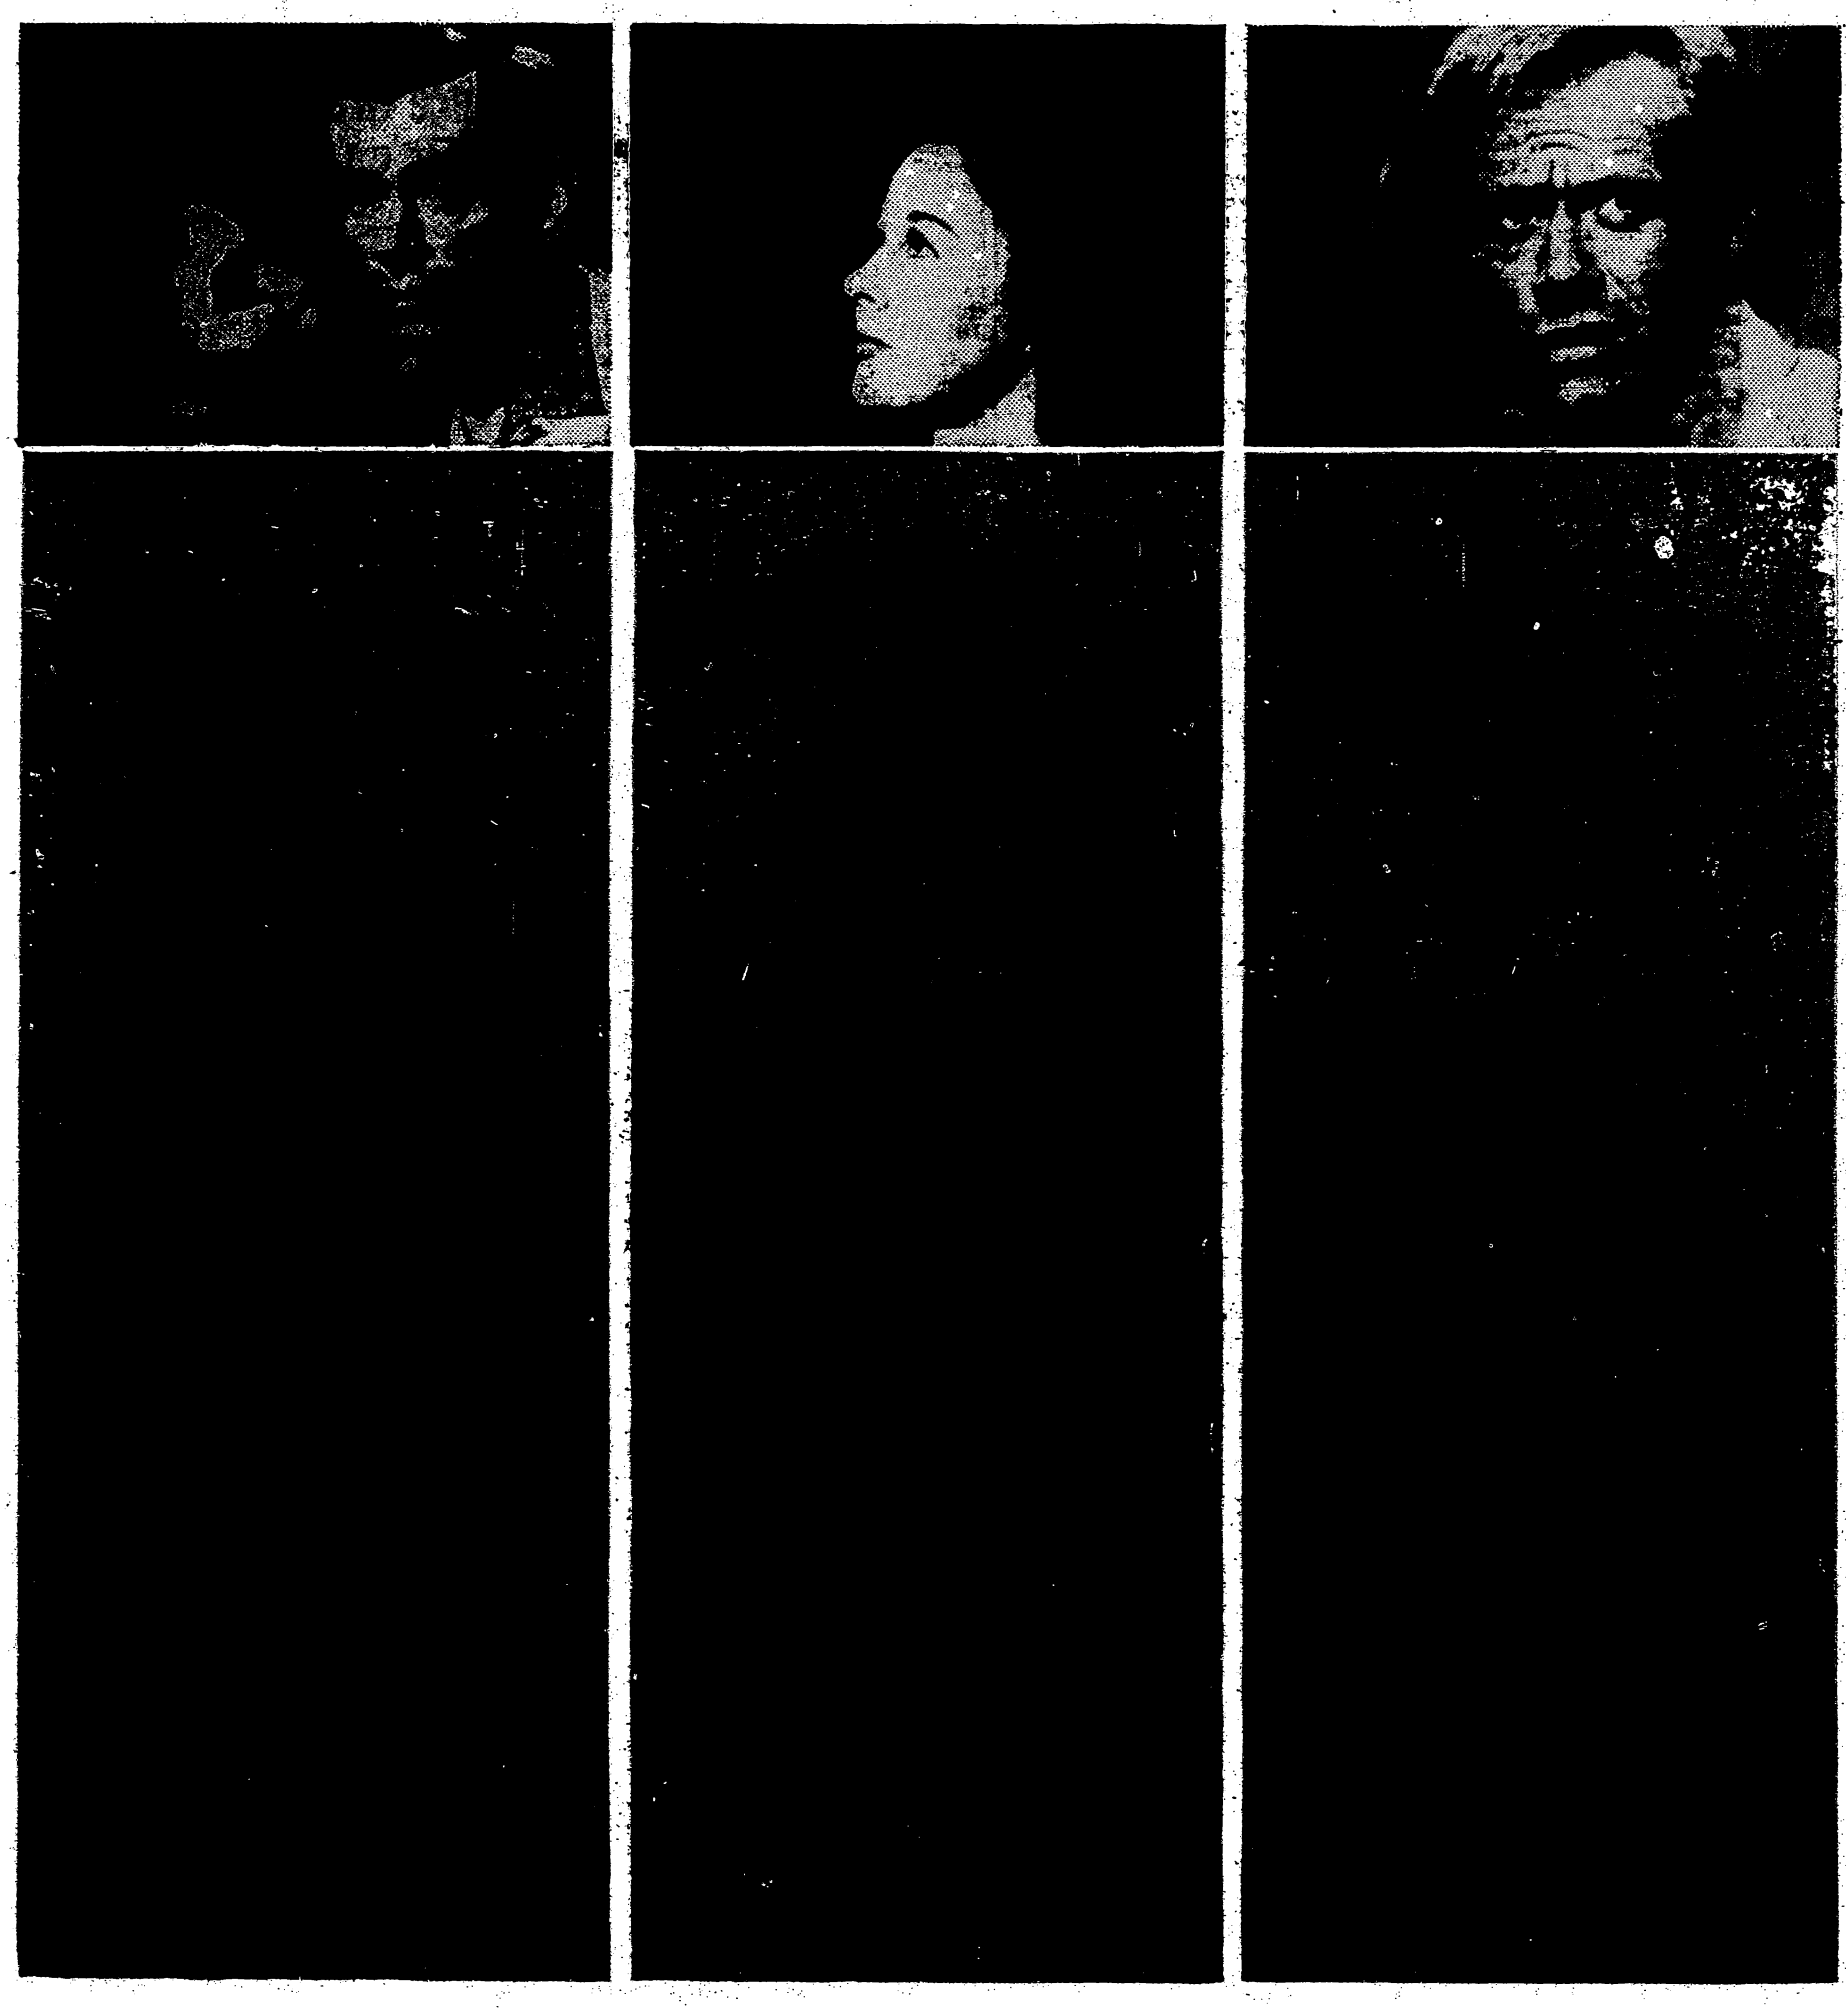
It's the upcoming holiday season and Keeshan again hosts the web's Thanksgiving Day Parade. Web also is pitching a "Captain Kangaroo's Christmas Party" on Dec. 25, for telecasting from 11 a.m. to noon. The hourlong Christmas Day special, if sold, would feature a guestar and Captain Kangaroo's show family, as well as other bits.

Locally, WCBS-TV, N. Y., plans a pre-Christmas outing with Keeshan, as one of its series of children's specials, and is negotiating with the child entertainer on the format of the show.

The web's Thanksgiving Day Parade, which will run for two hours, now is fully sponsored, with Nestle buying one hour and Polaroid and Kellogg divvying up the second hour. Again parades in N. Y., Philadelphia and Detroit will be featured. Web is lining up personalities to play parade roles in the various cities, among them being Allen Ludden, Fran Allison, Bess Myerson and June Lockhart.

Keeshan, for the Thanksgiving Day event, again will be picking up the parades from his studio windows, with Jimmy Nelson and his puppet on his side.

NOW FOR TV—VOLUME 8—



SEVEN ARTS ASSOCIATED CORP.

A SUBSIDIARY OF SEVEN ARTS PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
NEW YORK: 200 Park Avenue YUkon 6-1717
CHICAGO: 4630 Estes, Lincolnwood, Ill. ORchard 4-5105
DALLAS: 5641 Charleston Drive ADams 9-2855
LOS ANGELES: 3562 Royal Woods Drive, Sherman Oaks, Calif. STate 8-8276
TORONTO, ONTARIO: 11 Adelaide St. West EMpire 4-7193
LONDON W1 ENGLAND: 24 Berkeley Sq. Hyde Park 0671

Distributed outside of the United States and Canada
Cable: SEVENLON London

"FILMS OF THE 50'S" FROM SEVEN ARTS

WBKB 'Welcome to Freedomland' Key to Chi Personality Shifts As 'Red' Quinlan Keeps Ball Rolling

By LES BROWN

Chicago, Oct. 15.

WBKB-TV's acquisition over the past two years of four major tv personalities, a topflight news handler and a couple of recognized creative talents points up the advantage of being the last outpost of "freedom from the corporate mentality" in a market such as this.

Surely it was not for prestige—and it's doubtful that it could have been for much greater pay—that Alex Dreier drifted over from WNBQ, that director Bill Friedkin and cinematographer Wilmer Butler came over from WGN-TV, or that Irv Kupcinet, Bill Garry, Hugh Hill and Frank Reynolds left top-rated WBBM-TV to go with the underdog ABC station.

In every case it was a question of either yielding to the tightening reins of company policy and corporate protocol, or moving to where the restrictions were fewer and the atmosphere more conducive to creative activity and free journalistic pursuits. All gambled with the latter. Dreier stated it bluntly on the air a week ago when he greeted Hill and Reynolds as newcomers to the fold with the line, "Welcome to Freedomland."

A year or so ago, when Kupcinet made his move, WNBQ was puzzled that he hadn't completed negotiations there before he made the switch to WBKB. It would only have seemed logical that, given the choice, he'd have picked the No. 2 station instead of the No. 3. Similarly, Reynolds had brushed off a WNBQ overture a few months before he made his move and never checked back to see if negotiations were possible when he was ready to leave the CBS station. The reason seems to be that both viewed such a move as merely a step from one corporation shop to another, with the basic problem still hanging overhead.

Yet, in fairness to the other station managements, it must be said that WBKB is not one of the moderns. It's a throwback to another era of television, the experimental era of "let's run it up the flagpole," when stations were willing to run the risk of controversy in their quest for new ideas for the medium. That was long before the cost accountants, the image experts and the screaming stockholders came into the picture.

But how this AB-PT property has been able to stay that way, at the risk of realizing its full profit potential, is one of the ripleys of the business. Chalk it up—because there seems no other immediate explanation—to the indomitable individualism of Sterling (Red) Quinlan, the ABC viceprez in charge, a colorful and sometimes erratic fellow who still likes to throw the long pass, despite the odds.

It's typical of Quinlan that he should have signed Reynolds and

(Continued on page 41)

King's OF Slot

Charles King, formerly eastern sales head of Official Films, has been appointed veepee in charge of sales, replacing Robert Behrens, resigned.

Before joining Official in March this year, King was head of the NTA Film Network sales department, and veepee in charge of sales for NTA's radio and tv stations.

GE Stations Settle Three-Day Strike

Schenectady, Oct. 15.

A strike involving 47 WRGB-TV and WGY staffers belonging to Local 21, National Association of Broadcast Employes, and affecting 16 members of Schenectady Chapter, American Federation of Television and Radio Artists (who refused to cross picket lines), ended on Friday (11) with the signing of a compromise contract between the union and GE.

J. Milton Lang, general manager of GE broadcasting, disclosed, at the same time, that negotiations for a new agreement with the local chapter of AFTRA were pending. A meeting was scheduled for today (Tues.).

Local 21 voted to accept a memorandum of agreement signed earlier by union and management negotiations.

Settlement provides for a three-year agreement, without overall wage benefits, but with other employee benefits and hiked pay for late shifts and holiday duty.

Some AFTRA members were back on the job Friday night.

Station executives and non-union employees had substituted for three days.

Despite Reservations About Educ'l TV, Mpls. Board Stays With It

Minneapolis, Oct. 15.

There was no disagreement among local school board members with the assertion of one of them during a meeting that "some educational television programs are unbelievably bad."

However, this didn't deter the board from renewing its contract with Twin Cities' education, noncommercial station KTCA-TV. It's a deal that brings a number of school department produced programs into the schools here.

The board member extremely critical of some of the educational tv fare was Mrs. Patricia Bratnober.

"School tv programs that children watch just aren't interesting," she said during the meeting's discussion. "I'd rather they'd read a library book they want for a half-hour than watch some of these programs."

Another board member, siding in with Mrs. Bratnober, declared tv's educational potential "has been vastly overrated." Still a third member expressed regret that educational tv is so far from reaching its maximum potential.

Ask $750,000 For Upstate Educ'l TV

Albany, Oct. 15.

The State Education Department, as part of its record $1,141,468,000 (approximate) budget request, is again seeking to expand the total allotted for educational television. This is an area where legislative leaders have kept spending to a minimum.

The Department once more seeks $750,000 to develop educational television stations in Buffalo and Rochester. It is also requesting an additional $200,000—over the $600,000 appropriated for the present fiscal year — to strengthen educational television to schools, through authorization for more taped courses.

Educational television is a field in which the Department visualizes improved teaching, which, could eventually lower costs.

The Director of the Budget Division and the chairman of the Senate and Assembly finance committees, with staff members, will examine the Education Department's requests, behind closed doors, Friday (18).

Nix 'Moonlighting' For Balto. Negro Station

Washington, Oct. 15.

An FCC Hearing Examiner recommended against letting WEBB, a Baltimore daytimer serving Negroes, go nighttime.

Examiner Basil Cooper said he didn't have a precedent for waiving rules and allowing the station to increase its service to Baltimore's Negro population.

He said the city already has four nighttime stations.

"Despite the exceptionally strong case" presented by WEBB, licensed by 1360 Broadcasting Co., Inc., Cooper said he recommended against the p.m. grant because of technical deficiencies.

With World Series As Lead-In, 'King of Swat' Hot Third Time at Bat

"King of Swat," half-hour stanza on Babe Ruth in the Official Film's syndie series, "Biography," pulled the top rating in the seven-station New York market during its third run on WNBC-TV, Oct. 5 at 7 p.m.

Taking advantage of the annual World Series fever, WNBC slotted the show after the third game between the Yankees and Dodgers to pull a 13.3 in the Nielsens for an audience share of 22.

Stanza was first aired in the market in March, '62, pulling a 12.4 Nielsen and 23 share. It played again Oct. 1, '62, during the series, getting a 16.1 rating and 31 share.

By way of future rating snatchers, Official prexy Seymour Reed figures the "Biography" half-hour on Chinese dictator Mao Tse-Tung will be a strong entry. There is limited footage on the Red China leader, with most of it secured in China. After several months in preparation, including a long film search around the world, the skein is ready and will soon be scheduled in "Biography" markets around the country.

McGannon Denies Rift in NAB Pitch For Better Ratings

Chicago, Oct. 15.

Group W topman Don McGannon used his forum as guest speaker of the Chicago Broadcast Advertising Club last week to spike those trade reports of dissention between the NAB Rating Council which he helms and other industry associations that are also engaged in the search for a more reliable service.

Said McGannon, "I think it has been inadequately represented." He stated that the relationship with Television Bureau of Advertising has been entirely harmonious, while "the only area of difference we have with Radio Advertising Bureau at the moment is the speed, or impetuousness, with which it proposes to advance" its project is a $200,000 project for which RAB is asking $75,000 from NAB, "we have to be satisfied that the end result is going to be an economically valuable one and not some theoretically wonderful thing that sits there as an entity that can't produce any value for you or me in the course of our conduct of the business," McGannon said.

He said that members of the Rating Council have been meeting with RAB to try to reconcile their differences over the plan. Following this, the Council will confer with its research committee and make a recommendation to the NAB board whether or not to go with the RAB study.

"I personally hope we do go with it," McGannon said, "because frankly speaking, our hands are so filled at this point that any way we can find of laying off elements of this project is to the better, if it doesn't duplicate or overlap other activities." He pointed out that the industry associations cannot afford to duplicate or waste money in their pursuit of better ratings, because "there is not enough money around to do this project overall, in my opinion."

To point, he rebuked local broadcasters for not investing enough money in general research techniques and in the development of audience measurement to insure the prosperity of the billion dollar broadcasting business.

McGannon cautioned that the Congressional committee looking into broadcast ratings "is not going to let this thing just pass away and grind to a halt and then two years from now find out that the same situation exists." He said of the Harris committee hearings, "By and large, there were sufficient votes on that subcommittee and on the main committee to have at least attempted to write the legislation that would have brought about regulation of some form of rating."

Brazil: Tough Nut to Crack

An official U.S. government protest against Brazil's crackdown on imported tv programs has been triggered by Television Program Export Assn., according to TPEA prexy John G. McCarthy.

The State Dept., McCarthy said, has forwarded instructions to the U.S. Embassy in Brazil to protest a Brazilian decree which regulates radio and tv, as a violation of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and to "express concern about the potential effects of this decree on our trade with Brazil in television programs."

One of the articles in the Brazilian decree bans from prime time imported programs dealing with "police events of any nature, the Far West, or sex." According to McCarthy, the State Department has instructed its embassy in Brazil that the attitude of the article in dispute seems to be directed "specifically against United States product, rather than representing a serious attempt to apply standards of quality to films admitted for telecast in Brazil."

Adorian Sees Slim Chance Of British TV Hiking 14% Quota

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

There is little chance British tv will hike its importation of foreign video programs, now constituting only 14% of United Kingdom tv fare, Paul Adorian, managing director of Associated Rediffusion Ltd. of London, said here. Adorian, visiting Hollywood vidpix studios, said the 14% is far more of a program bite than U. S. tv broadcasts in the way of British telefare.

Adorian commented that actually there is no law or rule about the percentage of foreign programming on British tv, but that likelihood of any increase is doubtful unless other countries buy more British programs.

Adorian is also director of Choice View Ltd., British pay tv company, but there is no tollvee there now, he observed. British Postoffice is about to issue three experimental licenses for feevee, he said.

British indie stations' license expire next year, and the new three-year licenses to be handed out then will carry different conditions and "very large" levies on ad revenue, he said. He said the new levies will be on an escalator scale going as high as 45%, said it means Associated Rediffusion will pay about 4,000,000 pounds in levies annually. New rules will also make adult education and school programming a must, where they are voluntary now.

Adorian said what tv needs today is standardization so that programs can be received in all parts of the world and higher quality recordings on tape. Tape can't be reproduced by 85% of the nations in the world, he asserted.

A-R last year grossed 15,000,000 pounds, about $40,000,000. Its net was 6,000,000 pounds. Advertisers on A-R pay 2,000 pounds a minute in peak time. Britishers, like their American counterparts, complain commercials are on too often. British tv is cool to telecasting vintage pix, and an exhib group there often buys oldies rather than see them go to tv. An A-R attempt in vidpix production was not very successful, he commented. U. S. personality shows important in this country are not in demand there.

Britain has 12,500,000 tv sets covering 16,000,000 families, and set numbers increase about 700,000 a year. In four years, at this rate, there will be 100% coverage in the U.K., he said.

MCA-TV Station Sales

MCA TV has added new sales to 15 stations during the past week. "M Squad" has been purchased by KRDO, Colorado Springs; WBRC, Birmingham; WESH, Daytona; KXLF, Butte. "Dragnet" has added WSOC, Charlotte; WDAM, Hattiesburg (Miss.) and KTBS, Shreveport.

Other recent off-network half-hour sales include "Love that Bob," to WNBE, New Bern, N.C.; WCPO, Cincinnati and WTVJ, Miami; "D.A.'s Man" to WRBL, Columbus (Ga.); "Soldiers of Fortune," to KSTP, Minneapolis-St. Paul; "Bachelor Father" to WSAZ, Huntington; "Restless Gun" and "Crusader" to KTTS, Springfield, Mo.

'Golden Tee' Sales Set for 20 Cities

CBS Films, which took on distribution of Jack Douglas' "Golden Tee," 90-minute color instructional golf special, has concluded deals in about 20 markets.

Like other syndicators handling unusual properties, CBS Films has found that the special widens the pool of potential advertisers. For example, in Dallas and Los Angeles, separate auto dealers were inked for the telecasts, while in Chicago the Lawn Federal & Savings Loan Assn. picked up the golf show for telecasting on WBBM-TV.

For other than the unusual syndicated properties, deals for the most part are made directly with the stations. In Denver, Kaye Furriers picked it up. Most stations are telecasting the special twice. It's the first time CBS Films has picked up a one-shot as opposed to a series for distribution.

TAP SKINNER TO HELM WNBC RADIO

With NBC exec George Dietrich exiting as manager of the network's local radio flagship WNBC, George Skinner, director of programming services at the Katz reppery, will take over the post Oct. 28.

Dietrich ankling follows another shakeup in programming at WNBC which was a result of the annual look-see of NBC chieftains Robert Sarnoff and Robert Kintner at the o&o's a couple of months ago.

Skinner was with the web from 1955 to 1961 as a "communicator" on "Monitor." He authored the programming manual "The Nuts & Bolts of Radio."

$3,000,000 Alexander Tab For 7 Properties

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Alexander-Ford-duPont, new distribution organization, has acquired seven properties, including "Ken Curtis Songs," series of half-hour films featuring "Sons of the Pioneers," for tv release.

Lineup, for which company now is setting up release skeds, reps a total expenditure of $3,000,000, according to exec veepee Alex Alexander. Program includes "Nightmare in the Sun," "All About Love," "Navajo Run," "Storm Over Silver Peak" and two untitled pix.

100G Metromedia D.C. Educ'l Tuneup

Washington, Oct. 15.

The Greater Washington Television Assn., a non-profit corporation operating a UHF educational outlet here, has received a $100,000 gift from Metromedia. Latter company has also donated $250,000 to the operating fund of WNDT, New York's educational tver, and recently donated $250,000 to Community Television of Southern California, another etv group.

The local educational station has just marked its second year. Metromedia's gift, made last week by prexy John W. Kluge, was the first to be made by a broadcasting group.

TV'S EXPANDING WORLD MART

U.S. Competitors & Collaborators

Aggressive competitors for a place in the world market are British programmers, including the non-commercial BBC. Independent Television Corp. an active arm of Associated Television, of the U.K., operates at a profit in the U.S., in the syndication and network field.

American companies are co-producing for tv in Canada, Australia and Japan. First Japanese series to find a network berth in the U.S. is the "Astro Boy" cartoon on NBC-TV. Foreign producers of features are taking more dollars out of the U.S. market as the market for telecasting such pix broadens in this country.

Not to be overlooked in the countdown of foreign showcasing in the U.S. are such ventures as "Ed Sullivan Show" tying up the Moscow State Circus and possibly Obtratsov Russian Puppet Theatre for telecasting; booking of imported talent on variety network showcases; and the exchange of programs projects of CBS o&o's and educational television.

Saperstein as Man on a Celluloid Bicycle; TPI's Hot Dollar Action

Hank Saperstein, who lives, breathes, and talks celluloid, says when he's buried, he wants his coffin to be a celluloid can, and his pillow celluloid.

There's nothing macabre about Saperstein, now involved in theatrical production, as well as tv production, distribution and merchandising. He's a vigorous man who points to an illusory airplane in the sky when asked where he headquarters. He's so busy flying cross country and places around the world, that his office is really in his head, which, he avers, stays with him at all times.

It's not only his head which stays with him. Saperstein likes to credit his success more to his nose. "I am known in this business for my nose." I am known to smell when the time is ripe for a deal, for a trend in entertainment, for a development with dollar potentials.

His nose (and head) has led him to top a diversified business which encompasses pix-to-tv distribution, sports shows, cartoons, exploitation of ancillary rights of Elvis Presley, and now theatrical production.

Saperstein, who hails from Chicago and whose family now resides in Hollywood, came from a family associated with Allied Theatres in the Windy City. He said when he first heard about television in '35, he resolved to get into the field. He didn't have the money to own a tv station, nor the talent for the creative end, so he embarked on the course of feeding programming. In 1948, he bought 50 cheap westerns and quickly doubled what he paid for them in sales to stations. "I would have earned 1,000 times more than what I paid, if I owned those 50 westerns now," he says wistfully today.

One thing led to another, Saperstein recalls. He became involved in merchandising and four years ago acquired "All Star Golf" and "Championship Golf" from Peter DeMet. Merchandising "Ding Dong School" led him into fresh production of "Ding Dong School", syndicated by Independent Television Corp. He acquired UPA Pictures which gave him the "Magoo" character. He formed his own distribution organization, titled Television Personalities, Inc., which handled in syndication "Mr. Magoo" and "Dick Tracy." TPI is now half-owner of Screen Entertainment, which recently acquired 113 pix for tv distribution.

For next season, he has made

(Continued on page 40)

Metromedia Hits Peak 39-Wk. Net

Metromedia, parent company of the Metropolitan Broadcasting radio-tv chain, hit a record net income of $2,310,000 for the first 39 weeks of 1963, equal to $1.28 per common share. This compares with the net of $1,292,691, or 72c per share earned during the same period last year. Gross revenue for the last 39 weeks, ending Sept. 29, was $45,680,000 as against $38,200,000 for the same period in 1962.

Net income for the quarter ending Sept. 29 was $472,000, compared with $271,036 for the similar 1962 period.

'Sea Hunt,' 'Stoney' Sales

New sales on "Sea Hunt" and "Stoney Burke" have been chalked up by Economee, rerun division of United Artists Television.

"Sea Hunt" sales include: WRVA, Richmond; WTVY, Dothan, Ala.; KNTV, San Jose; KARD, Wichita; WLW-D, Dayton; KGBT, Harlington, Tex.; KEY, Santa Barbara; WTOC, Savannah; and WMAZ, Macon.

"Burke" was sold to WLUK, Green Bay, Wisc.; WJZ, Baltimore; WTAE, Pittsburgh; WTCN, Minneapolis; WMCT, Memphis; KCPX, Salt Lake City; and Metromedia stations of WNEW, N. Y.; WTTG, Washington; KMBC, Kansas City; KOVR, Stockton, Calif.; WTVH, Peoria; and WTVP, Decatur.

KHJ-TV's 250G For Embassy Pix

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

KHJ-TV bought 33 features from Embassy Pictures for a package price in excess of $250,000. Among the foreign-made films are "Hercules," "Attila the Hun," "The Fabulous World of Jules Vern," "Two Women," "Divorce Italian Style," "The Wonders of Aladdin" and "The Sky Above—the Mud Below." Stars include Sophia Loren, Anna Magnani, Marcello Mastroianni, Anthony Quinn, Ben Gazzara, Steve Reeves and Donald O'Connor. Half of the shows will be shown in color.

In the past two years, KHJ-TV has spent more than $5,000,000 for old pictures.

GROUP W'S CLEVE. PUBSERVICE AGENDA

Westinghouse Broadcasting's four-day conference on public service, opening in Cleveland Nov. 11, will devote its first day on news programming, including the development of the one-hour format. The second day's agenda will center on the broadcast industry's techniques for determining community needs and tastes. The art of the television and radio documentary will be discussed by the seminars in subsequent days.

Over 300 station representatives are expected to attend the conference, the fifth such event to be sponsored by the Group W chain. Overall theme of this year's gathering is "Communications and Communities."

Hal Friedman's Job

Pittsburgh, Oct. 15.

Hal Friedman, tv producer and director, who moved to Pittsburgh with his family when his wife, Marie Torre, signed with KDKA-TV as a newscaster has been appointed to the staff of the Civic Light Opera Co. here.

He'll be managing director William Wymetal's associate in charge of promotion and business management.

EXPECT 1964 WILL TOP $60,000,000

The near $60,000,000 projected as the foreign gross for the '63 calendar year is expected to be surpassed in '64, as more tv stations encircle the globe and the need for programming grows.

What the gross will be in '64 is hard to estimate at this point. For the record, the near $60,000,000 for '63 represents a new high in the grossing of American tv programming in the world market. The savvy projection for '64 is that foreign grosses can only go one way—up.

These are some of the reasons for the optimism:

New tv channels are due in England, both non-commercial BBC and commercial. New channels have opened in Germany, Italy and France. In France and Italy, there are commercial interests working to secure channels and end the government monopoly on telecasting. These interests, of course, have the support of commercial tv interests in the U.S., seeking an alternative market in government monopolistic situations.

In Australia, a very important market, third commercial channels are due in Sydney and Melbourne. One exec on top of the situation said for all practical purposes the buying cartel that existed in Australia for years has been broken. The $2,250 per hour which was the one price for the principal cities of Australia now is said to be substantially higher. Addition of the country stations also has helped.

Continent of Africa today isn't important in terms of dollar returns, but it does represent a commercial potential for the future, a market which could only grow with time.

Ever since the dollar limitation ceiling has been lifted in Japan, prices secured for American product has risen.

There are negative aspects, from Brazil to London to Bangkok, but the dominant posture is one of continued growth. It's this attraction of the potential of greater grosses that fires the efforts of the two industry organizations working in the foreign field, Television Programs Export Association, headed by John F. McCarthy, and the tv committee of the Motion Picture Export Association, topped by Bill Fineshriber.

McCarthy recently called for State Department help in easing the British quota limiting American product in that market. MPEA and TPEA have beeen active in Brazil in seeking to ease a very restrictive decree against telecasting of American product. Both organizations, along with foreign execs, are concerned about what they feel to be depressed prices in Canada.

There are troubles in the Latino market, reflective of poor and unstable economic conditions. Overriding these negative aspects, though, is the steady upward trend of the foreign market, a heartening development to the traders in tv film series, cartoons, features, et al.

WCBS on Cultural Kick For the Kids

WCBS-TV, N.Y., has scheduled five hourlong specials of cultural interest for children, the first being Sunday (20) afternoon. All the others will be Sundays in the same 4 to 5 p.m. slot.

Openers will be Rudyard Kipling's "Just So" stories, featuring storyteller Jack Adams, mime Tony Montanaro, and others. Second will be "The Littlest Circus," a staged and choreographer miniature circus in pantomime, slated for Nov. 10; third will be "Tall Tales," with Jack Gilford as host; the fourth and fifth programs, both slated for December, will be in the form of a "Junior Jamboree" and a concert hosted by Captain Kangaroo.

Merrill Brockway will produce and direct the series.

Attention U.S. Telefilm Distribs: British TV Stations Dickering All Over the Lot for Yank Production

London, Oct. 15.

Notwithstanding the two British tv networks' continued exposure of such U.S. longrunners as "Lucy," "Bonanza," "Perry Mason," "77 Sunset Strip," "Route 66," "Rawhide," "Laramie" and their current affection for top rating hits like "Empire" (renamed here as "Big G"), "Beverly Hillbillies," "Naked City," "Dick Powell Theatre," "Dick Van Dyke," etc.; the British tv stations are still in the market for hot Yank product.

Crop of new shows bowing on the American airwaves has stimulated business from the American telefilm distributors angle with the key British stations eager to pick the best shows out of the new stateside season at anything up to $7,000 an hour and more for the 90-minute shows.

Associated-Rediffusion, London's weekday operator on the commercial web, is in the buying forefront. Major has picked up—but has not slotted—"Burke's Law" (from Four Star), Richard Boone anthology (from NBC International), "My Favorite Martian" (from William Morris), "Grindl" (from Screen Gems) and 26 episodes of the new Phil Silvers show. London indie outlet is also dickering with America's ABC for acquisition of one of its new on-offer properties which include "The Fugitive" and "Breaking Point."

Granada-TV, Northern-based weekday major, which keeps mum about its American buys, is known to have picked up "Burke's Law" and "Martian" alongside A-R.

British ABC-TV has bought and is screening "The Greatest Show On Earth" which Desilu is handling in these parts. Weekend commercial major outlet does, however, have access to the whole Warner Bros. output which, if it so desired, could be brought onto the air in place of any Yank series which may flop locally.

Associated Television, which has

(Continued on page 41)

The Nicely Heist

Knoxville, Oct. 15.

It doesn't pay for the night watchman at a tv tower 15 miles out on the mountain range to carry $300 in pocket money. This lesson was learned the hard way by Otie Nicely, watchman at the new 1,700-foot WBIR tower.

Two men held him by gunpoint and obtained his spending money, all $300 of it, at mid morning Oct. 9. The tower is off the main highway high up in the ridges of the Cumberland and Applachian mountain range.

Vaude-To-Video A Steve Allen Fixture

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Little did Joe Laurie Jr. and Abel Green know the title of their book—"From Vaude to Video"—would some day come true. But that it has in a current campaign in which the Westinghouse Broadcasting System "Steve Allen Show" is virtually bringing back vaudeville—on television.

Allen's chief talent buyer for his syndicated nighttime show, Jerry Hopkins, in the past three weeks has booked five well known vaude acts on the show, in which the personalities have recreated several of the bits they did years ago on the famed two-a-day. The pattern is so successful it is being developed as a regular attraction to continue on the Allen format.

Hopkins, who has been christened the "Kook-Booker" or "Vice-President in Charge of Left Fielders," got the idea initially when he visited a recent annual program of the Hollywood Comedy Club, saw headliner Will Ahearn and immediately set him on the show. Response was so rewarding, bookings followed for Billy Bletcher and Eddie LeVesque, two of the original Keystone Kops who taught Allen how to throw a pie (one of his own favorite tricks on the show, but one the Kops mastered years ago) Gypsy Rose Lee, Sally Rand and, on a show to air Oct. 22, John Bubbles of the famed Buck and Bubbles team.

Hopkins now is scouring the local Hollywood show biz clubs, expects to set a series of vaude magic sketches on the show in the future to feature Dai Vernon, Blacksone and Jay Ose, also will use Dr. Giovanni, Chaz Chase, Bob Mathews, who trained the girls for George White, and any other vaude act who can work up a good sketch for the show.

Both Allen and Hopkins come by their vaude interest naturally. Allen, of course, is the son of the famed vaude team of Montrose and Allen, has used his mother, Belle Montrose, frequently in skits in his shows. Similarly, Hopkins is the grandson of blackface comedian Jay Raymond.

Woollen To Desilu

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Richard M. (Dick) Woollen, former program chief for KTTV, has been named director of sales and programming of Desilu, Inc., the distribution arm of Desilu Productions.

Woollen was with KTTV for 11 years, and was veepee of the Times-Mirror Broadcasting Corp., which owned that channel until it sold it to Metromedia.

Richard Dinsmore is veepee and general manager of Desilu Sales.

FCC Stands Pat On 'Teaser Ads'

Washington, Oct. 15.

FCC refused to return or reduce fines against two Lafayette, La., stations for airing "teaser" ads of a local discount store.

Commission turned aside the appeals from KLFY-TV and KPEL radio to remit or reduce their $1,000 and $250 fines.

KLFY is licensed by Camellia Broadcasting Co. Inc. and KPEL by Radio Lafayette Inc.

KLFY's "highly commendable" record of operations was not a reason for lowering its fine, FCC said.

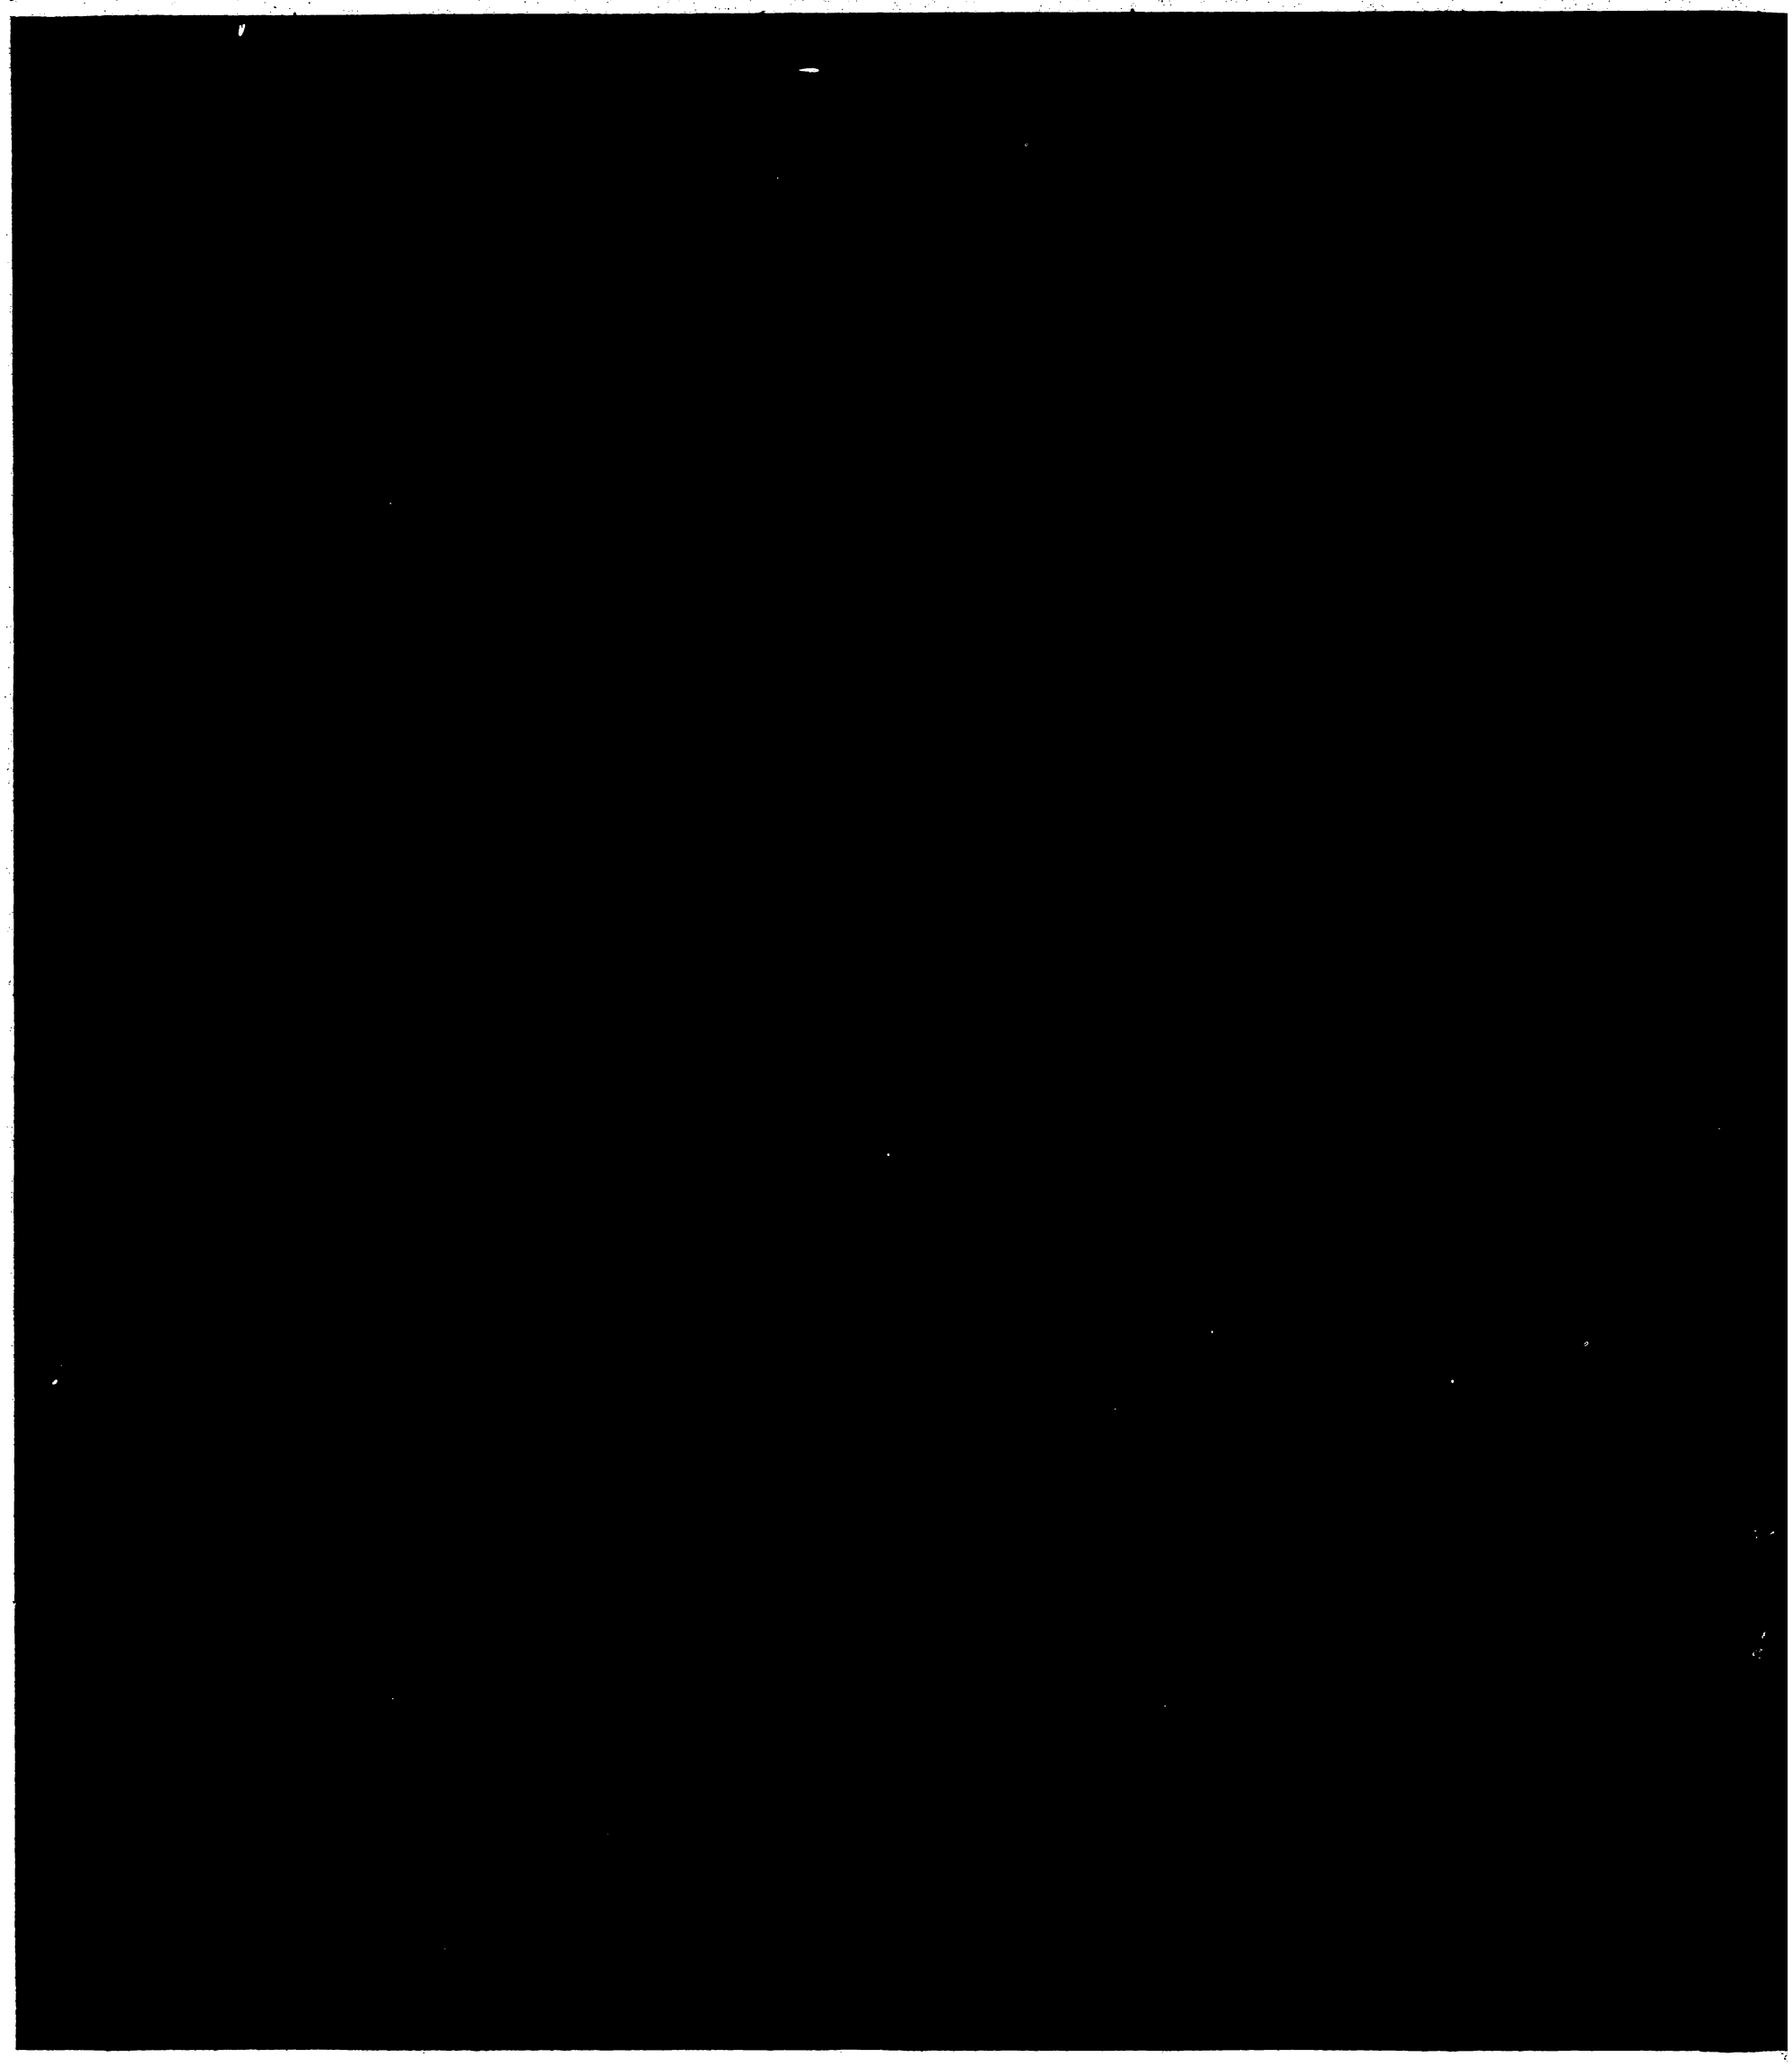
Commission rejected the assertion of KPEL that its President and station manager failed to spot the violation in the proposed ad copy.

Commission said it was also "unimpressed" by KPEL's contention that 42 ads over a three-day period were "one" mistake.

7 Arts Gets Rights To Max Fleischer 'Inkwell'

Seven Arts has acquired the U.S. television rights to the "Out of the Inkwell" series of 100 five-minute Max Fleischer color cartoons produced by Hal Seeger. Seven Arts had acquired the foreign tv and theatrical rights to the cartoon group last year.

The cartoon series will be put into syndication immediately following the company's two-day general sales meeting in New York next week (22-23). Sales meet will also discuss marketing plans for Seven Arts' new package in its "Films of the '50s" series.



Yesterday morning, in an unprecedented international television broadcast, church leaders on two continents were united by AT&T's Telstar II to consider the forces working for Christian unity throughout the world. A joint project of the British Broadcasting Corporation and the Columbia Broadcasting System, TOWN MEETING OF THE WORLD was seen—live—by audiences on both sides of the Atlantic. Tonight at 7:30 pm EDT, the American audience will have another opportunity to witness this first face-to-face transoceanic television broadcast.

Participating from Rome are Laurian Cardinal Rugambwa of Tanganyika and the Rev. Dr. Hans Küng, Dean of the Theological Faculty at University of Tübingen, West Germany. From St. Paul's Cathedral in London, the Church of England is represented by Bishop Lesslie Newbigin, Associate General Secretary of the World Council of Churches. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, President of the Lutheran Church of America and Chairman of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, appears from the Princeton Theological Seminary, in New Jersey. At each point guests are on hand to question the participants: seminarians in Rome, divinity students in History's first face-to-face transatlantic television broadcast via Telstar II

London, faculty members in Princeton. CBS News Correspondent Eric Sevareid moderates the discussion in New York.

This second TOWN MEETING OF THE WORLD focuses on the current drive toward Christian reform and renewal, with emphasis on the Ecumenical Council's deliberations on unity among Catholics, Protestants and Eastern Orthodox denominations.

The first TOWN MEETING OF THE WORLD, broadcast on July 10, had as its participants former President Dwight D. Eisenhower from Denver, Anthony Eden in London, Jean Monnet in Brussels, and Heinrich von Brentano in Bonn. In the July meeting President Eisenhower and the American audience could observe the foreign statesmen as they spoke, but the participants in Europe received only the sound portion of the broadcast. Now, for the first time in human experience, men speak to each other across the Atlantic face to face.

Town Meeting of the World:
"The Christian Revolution"
Tonight 7:30-8:30 pm edt
CBS 2

THE FOURTH MAN
With Sylvester Colbert, and family
Exec Producer: Dan Schuffman
Producer-Director: Sam Ventura, Ronnie Born
30 Mins., Sun. 10:15 p.m.
ALPO DOG FOOD
WBKB-TV, Chicago (film)

(Weightman)

The first of WBKB's new skein of "non fiction" specials (as differentiated from conventional documentaries) traced the automobile odyssey of a Negro family moving north, from a small town in Louisiana to the tollway gates of Chicago where the school teacher parents and their three children hoped to make a new home. It was a sensitive job of film-making, artful in its technique and effectively soft-spoken in its message, an altogether commendable television effort that is worthy of wider exposure.

The offering seems to open a new programming avenue in a time when non-fiction video is trapped in pure information and discussion, always dependent upon a news peg or a specific community service for its justification. While "Fourth Man" did have an obvious connection with today's headlines in its racial angle, that's almost of incidental value.

The basic drama involved is a classic one—the one that "Wagon Train" trades on fictionally every week—that of a family uprooting itself dangerously in hopes of creating a better life in another part of the country, without illusions of finding a utopia and with full awareness of the hardships that might be suffered. That this was an actual journey, and not a staged or ficticious one, made it all the more dramatically potent.

Scenes of Winnfield, La., a backward town that seemed ruled by monotony, made it clear why the Sylvester Colbert family set out in their '62 Ford and U-Haul trailer. From that point, most of the rest of the film took place inside their car, or outside their windshield, with stops at gas stations, restaurants, hotels and finally the Chicago tollgate. And if this does not sound like the stuff on which absorbing footage is made, credit the production team of Sam Ventura and Ronnie Born for making it so.

Exec producer Dan Schuffman could hardly have selected better subjects for the film than Sylvester and LaRuth Colbert, a good-looking and soundly motivated couple who were able to comment candidly, but without rancor on the realities of being a Negro in the U.S. today. A separately recorded audio track of the Colberts telling of life in the South, of the aspirations for themselves and the children, and of the trials of traveling on the road ("finding a place where we can eat isn't as serious a problem as finding a rest room") is all that served for a narration, and the device was both effective and refreshing.

The Colberts revealed much about themselves, both in what they said and in how they behaved with their children, and the viewer came to know them personally during this 30 minute ride northward. On this level, the program made a great contribution in race relations. Les.

TELESCOPE
With Lorne Green; Fletcher Markle, host
Executive Producer; Thom Benson
Director; Ross McLean
30 Mins., Fri., 9:30 p.m.
GENERAL MOTORS OF CANADA LTD.
CBC, from Toronto (tape)

(McKin)

The sponsor, GM of Canada, has switched from drama to documentaries and has signed for 52 weeks of Ross McLean-Fletcher Markle interviews. Show will be 30 mins. of Friday prime time over the 44 English stations of the coast-to-coast CBC web. Teeoff had Lorne Green of NBC's "Bonanza" with some production shots plus a song or two.

Revealing that it takes six days to shoot a single "Bonanza" episode, Green sketched in some of the individual problems of getting on tape a separate weekly episode. There were also shots of a rodeo appearance at Independence, Mo., the recreation of the original Ponderosa ranch house—as narrated in a house inspection by Mrs. Green—and the star's recording of an RCA single, "Same Old Me." (An album is promised).

Hosting of Fletcher Markle was commendable, as was the direction of Ross McLean. McStay.

Tele Follow-Up Comment

Jerry Lewis Show

The much maligned (critically) Jerry Lewis two-hour Saturday night show on ABC-TV began to take shape last week (Oct. 12) and the shaper was Sammy Davis Jr.

Davis sang, danced and clowned with Lewis through the last hour and a half, and at the wind, Lewis told the versatile Negro performer how he felt via an old show business axiom—"When you're with good, you're better." It was an exact tribute.

Davis opened solo in his invigorating style with a trio of songs. Standout in the set was the middle number, "In This Cold World," which he recently recorded and which has the sound of a hit.

Show sagged a bit as Lewis and Davis went into an ad lib routine allegedly based on things write-in viewers wanted the comic to do—"walk crazy," "dance crazy," etc., but as a team they really clicked in a comic song routine that wound up with Davis doing "Me and My Shadow" with Lewis as the shadow. Another standout turn featured Davis and Lewis in a "danceorama" with the three guest tap groups, The Dunhills, The Steiner Bros. and The Four Step Bros.

Lewis also had a bright solo turn with the Les Brown band with the comedian as conductor in a double-exposure routine that showed his facial expressions as his baton followed the written score. It was most effective tv gimmickry.

Overall, the show seemed to have a cohesiveness previously lacking. This was in spite of absurd insistance by both Lewis and Davis that virtually everything they did was spontaneous. Who cares if it's rehearsed or ad lib so long as things hang together and it moves? Bill.

Ed Sullivan Show

Ed Sullivan's attempt to expose his big vaudeville-oriented audience to the incisive social and political satire heretofore mostly confined to the cabarets and theatre can definitely be logged as a brave experiment. Unfortunately, the premiere segment of "What's Going on Here?" featuring the top talents of Britain's theatrical hit, "Beyond the Fringe" and "The Establishment," and America's zany broadcast comedy team, 'Bob & Ray,' seemed to clash rather violently with the show's longtime standard of square, but good vaude tuners.

Clash or no, producer Bob Precht has decided to go with the wits again this Sunday (21). Since "What's Going on Here?" was announced as a touch-and-go-or-drop project, the quick encore is a good omen.

Segment was used as the show opener, and perhaps the shock could be lessened in the future by inserting it next to closing. Another obvious drawback was in the number of sketches chocked into the few minutes. Any number of brittle-bright scores were missed in the nervous pace.

Format was excellent. Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding acted as an anchor news team for the sketches, many of which were in video news format and all of which were based on current news. In this frame, Bob and Ray were automatically a subtle takecff on the familiar news duos of the medium. In outlining their job, Ray said he would be "mother henning" the land masses of the globe (which he forthwith pealed off a world-globe prop) and Bob would be handling the water masses—"under, over, around and through." And in a familiar to-and-fro of news items, team had some good bits: "Fidel Castro is accusing the CIA of launching hurricane Flora. It was last seen headed for Red China" . . . Sports item: "Alabama has moved ahead of Mississippi in the race race (with more arrests)" etc.

Down the line there was no concession to the mass audience. Freehand irreverence keyed all turns—Peter Cook's burlesque of a Scotland Yard inspector investigating the great train robbery (he reported they've worked up a composite of the job's "mindermast," Yard's term for mastermind, which is a dead ringer for the Archbishop of Canterbury); Negro comedian Godfrey Cambridge and Eugene Troobnick's blast at a couple of civil-rights struck citizens (they must have loved that one in the south); or Bob & Ray's interview bit re a foreign country's multi-million dollar New York World's Fair project (which was financed by a loan from the United States and which will be a demonstration for Fair visitors of how to swing a loan from the United States).

Roughest sketch, however, was the interview on Vietnam between Jeremy Geidt and John Bird which was sheer double-talk followed up by a film clip of President Kennedy in a press conference mumbling a jargon that was a straight replica of the Geidt-Bird interview.

Sullivan threw a damper on the effectiveness of this bit (a favorite technique of "The Establishment" troupe) when he told the audience that White House permission had been granted for the use of the Kennedy footage. It not only weakened the turn, but could actually be noted as misleading the public.

"What's Going on Here?" was staged by Jonathan Miller of "Beyond the Fringe," and the show rapidly segued from the dazzling wits to standard Sullivan vaude.

Tony Bennett belted a few songs in his cabaret style; the Baranton Sisters were brilliant in a prerecorded foot juggling turn; same for Mac Ronay, European comedy mime in a marvelous impression of an old-time dance; Frank Gorshin did impressions of dead Hollywood greats that was a little grim in the show's context; Szony & Claire did middle and closing ballroom dance routines in a musclemeller style.

Unconscious comedy was supplied by pop-chart singer Lesley Gore, who belted her ditties about unrequited juve love while beaming away as though the pain of it all were an absolute ball. Bill.

Bob Hope's Chrysler Theatre

The one commendable thing about "Something About Lee Wiley," the drama offering of "Bob Hope Presents The Chrysler Theatre" on NBC-TV Friday (11) is that it possibly could revive interest in Lee Wiley, the jazz thrush who sang strong in the 1930s and '40s. The fact that the show used her name could do it because she's not been heard of for some time and after the show the trade seemed to reverberate with "What ever happened to Lee Wiley?"

The show, itself, provided no answer. It was a soapsudsy treatment of jazz and marital problems has been overworked on tv's psychological circuit and falls far short of reality except for the fact that a "real" name was used.

The script, written by David Rayfield, took Miss Wiley back to Oklahoma after giving up a career in New York, and falling off her horse, going blind, getting propositioned by a dipso and a married tootler, regaining her sight and walking into the bright horizon alone and strong. The real Miss Wiley deserves a better fate.

Piper Laurie played the lead role with true soap opera flavor. Her hairdo was authentic, though. She was assisted in the dramaturgy by Claude Rains, Steven Hill and Alfred Ryder. Benny Carter's combo supplied the jazz music flavor and Miss Laurie's vocalizing was pre-recorded by Joy Bryan. The lip-synch wasn't good either. Gros.

Original Amateur Hour

The two-part, three-time winners' competition for the grand prize (size or nature of award not indicated) on this late Sunday afternoon, CBS-TV's "Original Amateur Hour" certainly points up that young and old, from Flatbush to the Pacific northwest, refuse to believe vaudeville is dead. Conferencier Ted Mack, in between glibly shilling Geritol and Universal electric appliances with skill and commercial appeal, matter-of-factly put in a pitch for the "other" (good) side of young America, as evidenced by many of these talents, as he paraded their specialties.

Fact that each of the competing septet has been a three-time winnah on the Ted Mack-Lewis Graham package attests to their innate skills. Now Mack & Graham are packaging 14 of the top turns in a grand awards competition, and each is given pro support by maestro Lloyd Marx who doubles as codirector with Jac Hein.

Truly a World's Series of amateur talent, round one this past weekend paraded the Flynn Dancers (two young mixed couples) from Brooklyn, in fetching native Irish folk terps. Quartet is followed by Reg Stofer, a singing plumber from Victoria, B.C., who has two other sets of false pipes (falsetto soprano and basic tenor, as he does a "duet" with himself, aided by a prop wig, of "Make Believe). No. 3 was attractive cashier-waitress-IBM operator from New York, via Hampton, Va., young Negro songstress Claire DuPont, with "Make Me Feel So Young."

Again to the northwest for pint-sized subteenage Joni Selden, of Tacoma, in contortion and acro-dance specialty, who makes her amazing pretzel-bending body movements look too easy, and from nearby Vancouver B.C., next came John Morgan, tv cameraman, with "Irish Lullabye."

Sue Cardwell, Dryden, N.Y., was heralded as having first had stage-fright but the very attractive was very much at ease with her domestic and barnyard imitations. Pete Doles, Corinth, Miss., finaled with "Left My Heart In San Francisco."

Mack stressed CPA auditing of ballots and threw away that this was the 1,377th "wheel of fortune" which is certainly beaucoup amateurs coming to bat and evidences beaucoup audience interest. As seen Sunday, the last is readily understandable; it is fundamentally appealing new talent in which the lookers can manifest vicarious rooting interest. Abel.

Danny Kaye Show

If the sketches had been perkier on "The Danny Kaye Show" (CBS-TV) last Wednesday (9), the hour would have been lively and completely winning. As it was the two comedy tries slowed up the proceedings by plodding along and winding with a weak blackout.

This, despite the neat tomfoolery of Kaye and guestar Don Knotts (with an assist in one from singer-dancer Carol Lawrence). The sketches just didn't seem to go anywhere. What went places, though, was Kaye's singing and dancing, latter in an Oriental motif with Miss Lawrence and Knotts), Miss Lawrence's warbling and terping to "Fools Rush In" and the jazzy renderings of "They Call the Wind Maria" and "I Laid Around" by Joe (Gilbert) & Eddie (Brown).

All the production trappings were tasty and well-conceived and the show would have been standout if the jokes had been better. Gros.

Town Meeting of the World (Telstar)

Many popular issues were lost in a sea of abstractions as famed theologians addressed themselves to the theme of "The Christian Revolution" on CBS-TV's "Town Meeting of the World" (via Telstar) yesterday (Tues.) morning.

The second global town meeting had the benefit of simultaneous picture transmission to Europe, this time out the ground station of France joining the inter-continental effort. Unfortunately, though, for nearly a half an hour, the audio transmission from Rome, failed, a technical failure which dampened the liveliness of the discussion.

The idea of a global discussion of public issues still remains an exciting one and to watch the humor in the eyes of Dr. Hans Kung, in Rome, as he fielded an audience question relating to birth control, was a humanizing experience.

The hour opened at 8:30 a.m. with an introduction from BBC, out of London. Scene then switched to CBS Studios in N.Y. with Eric Sevareid acting as host and moderator, introducing the participants. They were from Rome, Cardinal Rugambwa of Tanganyika and Rev. Dr. Hans Kung, of West Germany; from London Bishop Lesslie Newbigin, and Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, from Princeton, N.J.

The discussion dealt with the possibility of reunion among Chris-

(Continued on page 38)

OPENING NIGHT CONCERT
With George Szell, Sir William & Mrs. Walton, Walter Maky; Pat Murray, narrator Producer-Director: Don Rumbaugh
Writers: John Purdy
60 Mins., Thurs. 8:30 p.m.
CENTRAL NATIONAL BANK
KYW-TV, Cleveland (live; film)

(Fuller and Smith & Ross)

This Westinghouse Group W outlet continues to enjoy the top position in the area's cultural field through its aggressive video coverage of such events as the opening performance of the Cleveland Orchestra under the baton of George Szell who is celebrating both his 50th year as a conductor, and 18th season as the director of what has become one of the top orchestras of the world.

In its four-camera coverage, KYW-TV had excellent production values and gave to its listening audience the benefit of past experiences in telecasting from Severance Hall. The crews' dissolves, fades, supers and it's reflected producer Don Rumbaugh's close liaison with the experts of the orchestra's staff. Closeups of Szell as well as Alice Chalifoux during her rendition as principal harpist in Ravel's "Introduction and Allegro" were particularly effective. Judicious use of microphones made for an excellent pickup of the 104-members especially in the program's opener—the Berlioz "Roman Carnival" oveture.

Where the program sagged was in its special offerings. Since the music of Sir William Walton—"Variations on a theme by Hindermith" — formed a substantial portion of the program. KWY-TV sent its ace cameraman, Dick Pitschke, to the composer's Italian retreat for an interview with him and his wife. The idea had merit, but a bad audio track as well as some rambling, trivial remarks made for a poor sequence.

Again, in an interview with Walter Maky, honorary Finish consul, as an intro to the symphony of the evening, No. 2 in D Major, Op. 43 of Sibelius, there was a failure to establish a voice liaison between the consul and film clip—a series of closeups of Sibelius' bust in Cleveland's cultural gardens.

Finally on the negative side, there was a failure to capture the spirit of the opening night crowd although there were moments when this almost was realized.

Central National Bank's commercials were in good taste, and neatly underlined the role of the Bank in the city's growth and position in today's industrial complex.

Paul Bedford, one of the outstanding announcers in the area, had served as host for such programs in the past. This year, the station went to Canada and brought in Pat Murray. He did a professional job, in keeping with the evening's offerings. Mark.

AN EVENING WITH NAT KING COLE
With Ted Heath Orch, Cliff Adams Singers
Producer: Yvonne Littlewood
30 Mins.; Sun, 10 p.m.
CONSOLIDATED CIGAR
ABC-TV (tape)

(Compton)

Nat King Cole, who's often complained in the past about the difficulties of getting a television workout, turned up on a pleasant one-man show on ABC-TV last Sunday night (13). But Cole made it only via the BBC which taped this stanza in London last July. For the U. S. outing, ABC edited down the British version to a half-hour to fit into the slot vacated by the defunct "100 Grand" quiz show.

Cole is an excellent pop singer with a congenial personality, elements which were fully exploited in this musical session. The setting was somewhat ponderous, but the presentation was otherwise clean-cut and neatly paced. Stage center for the full running time, Cole ran through a folio of standards, including numbers like "Aren't You Glad You're You," "Unforgettable," "Sweet Lorraine" and "In the Good Old Summer Time," among others. Cole, who handled his own introes, also was spotlighted briefly on banjo, piano and a novel wind instrument, the clavietta.

The big Ted Heath orch accompanied Cole on most of the songs. A five-man combo was on camera for a swing session and the Cliff Adams Singers provided occasional support. Herm.

REDIGO
With Richard Egan, Michael Davis, Mina Martinez, Roger Davis, Rudy Solari, Elena Verdugo, others Producer: Andy White
Director: Alan Reisner
Writer: Charles Hoffman
30 Mins., Tues., 8:30 p.m.
BROWN & WILLIAMSON
NBC-TV (film)
(Post, Keyes & Gardner)

The best that might be said for "Redigo" (last year's "Empire" shortened to one principal character and a half hour format this season) is that it no longer pretends to be high melodrama or an epic of big business in the modern day wide-open spaces. It's simply, and without apology, a pulp tale of a handsome and all-competent ranch boss performed on a level only slightly above those old Tom Mix and Buck Jones features. And as such, it's terribly out of place in the NBC-TV Tuesday night schedule sandwiched between "Mr. Novak" and "Richard Boone Show," if the network means to hang on to a mature audience all evening. Except where the youngsters might be concerned, this one is the switch-out show.

Episode caught (8) was the third of the new skein and might have evoked some giggles from those expecting the kind of quasi-serious scripting and acting that most prime time series are offering today. The yarn had the kind of hokey touches that would be disasterous to a teleplay professing to realism but that we merely accept in a "B" movie. Example: a 12-year-old kid rides up from Mexico on a stolen pinto because he wants to be a cowboy on the Redigo ranch. How he gets past border inspection and how he manages to find Redigo's layout in that wide country are things that are never explained. Suffice it that he's there, and on with the story.

There are a raft of other such plot conveniences. The boy's parents are called from a phone that's within his earshot, rather than from one of the more private extensions in the house. He sneaks out, past the phone caller, without so much as creaking a floorboard or squeaking the entrance door. He frees his horse from the stable and gallops off soundlessly, and then, miles away in the mountains, he conveniently finds a dangerous cave to shelter him from the storm.

Redigo has a notion that the kid is in that very cave, of all places. So he rides to it and saves the lad, who is by now thrashing around in the dark and bottomless pool like a non-swimmer. It ends with a lesson in honor, and the kid gets delivered back to Mexico in one of Redigo's trucks. The acting is about as believable as the story, and the direction has the stamp of those head-'em-off-at-the-pass silents.

All depends on the heroic appeal of Richard Egan in the title role, and while he has plenty of it, probably only the juveniles and the unsophisticated will buy it in this vehicle. Les.

STRANGERS TO THE CITY
(Dateline: Chicago)
With Floyd Kalber, narrator; others
Exec Producer: James Harden
Producer-writer: Les Crystal
Director: Tony Verdi
30 Mins.; Sun., 10:15 p.m.
UPTOWN SAVINGS
WNBQ, Chicago (film)

As is probably inevitable when a station commits itself to a news documentary every week, WNBQ's "Dateline: Chicago" series has given in to a formula. The pattern usually involves some external footage of the subject matter voiced over with pertinent statistics, then a few close-up interviews for the inside view, and inconclusion some opinion as to the outlook or prognosis. Such a pat approach hardly conduces to a profound treatment and, besides, stamps each outing with a reportorial sameness.

Last Sunday's entry, which peeked in on the social problem created in Chi by the influx of white Appalachian migrants, might have been a good feature story if the treatment had not seemed so routine. Les Crystal's script was informative and probably accurate in its assessment of the problem, but overall the film was a cold and undramatic report that never really became intimate with its topic.

The script reference to a clash of cultures was defined but never depicted. The stark footage of the housing, the saloons and the

(Continued on page 40)

OPEN END
With David Susskind, others Producer: Jean Kennedy
Director: Ed Cooperstein
120 Mins., Sun., 6 p.m.
PARTICIPATING
WPIX, N.Y.

Every series has its bloopers and David Susskind's "Open End," in the free-wheeling talkathon category, isn't any exception, as evidenced by Sunday's (13) preem.

Gathered around the table, dotted this time probably with milk shakes and Coke, was a group of kids, ranging in ages from eight to 10, and they talked about Khrushchev and Kennedy, the divorce rate in the U.S., civil rights, national and international affairs—in short, the adult world around them as reflected in newspaper headlines.

The children were bright and articulate, often charming. For their age, they seemed to have digested many of the happenings around them, even expressing a healthy skepticism about the truth of tv commercials. That there are bright children with such a grasp surely isn't surprising to Susskind, nor was it a surprise to the tv viewers.

The kids, when they dealt with the adult world, reflected, in a large measure, what they had been fed by their environment. Understandably, they have yet to grow towards more independent thinking, the type that has brought the finer moments to "Open End."

Now that Susskind has had his milk shake fling, and is now available regularly Sunday evenings on the Daily News channel, he and his talkathon will be working in a field of greater potential. He left WNEW-TV in a hassle with station management on the good taste of a censored vidtape on sexual mores; he opened his season on WPIX with "David cracked corn." Horo.

THE PIERRE BERTON SHOW
With Earl Wilson
Producer: Ross McLean
Director: Lorne Freed
30 Mins., Wed., 11:30 p.m.
CJOH, Ottawa

"Yes, I admit I'm a gossip columnist—under the definition: Gossip is truth that hasn't been admitted yet," N.Y. Post columnist Earl Wilson replied to a question by Canadian tv personality and ex-Toronto Star columnist (who was later fired by Maclean's mag for a furore-raising piece on teenage sex). Wilson added candidly, "I guess the only ethic we have is not to break up a marriage." Then he recalled that when, years ago, he learned that Billy Rose and Joyce Mathews (both wed to different spouses) had travelled to Quebec for a weekend together, he didn't publish it, but Frank Farrell of N.Y. World-Telegram did — "so we all leaked it then." He also recalled Farrell's kidnapping of Charlie McCarthy and Edgar Bergen's resulting traumatic shock.

The confessed one-time Methodist Sunday school teacher from Rockford, Ohio, mentioned the chapter on religion in Hildegarde's autobiog "Over 50: So What?"; called chanteuse Kay Stevens (who a year ago was a lounge chirp in Las Vegas) "just brilliant"; and, after saying he didn't quaff much on his saloon safaris, added, "But you can't be with Toots Shor and not drink." He has a nightcap at home about 5 a.m.

To another query from Berton, who was mainly more genial than sharp, Wilson said, "Yes, most of those witty quotes from the great and near-great are phony — we know that; but we comb the world for one-liners. I always consider it a monstrous thing for some press agent to take a man with no sense of humor and make him a wit. When I find they're phony I won't use them." He said p.a.'s got $25-$50 for plugs in Winchell's column; that they only got $10 for one in his at first, but eventually the rate beat the "Winchell" tariff. He claimed to have been the first to use "falsies" in print, and explained why Walter Wanger is suing him as well as Spyros Skouras, Darryl Zanuck and 20th-Fox, despite his having phoned Wanger in London and printed his side of the story: "It's because I broke it and he felt he had to sue me—only for $250,000 though—to complete the picture."

It was an entertaining half-hour less local commercials—but could have been more penetrating. ("Pierre Berton Show," produced by Screen Gems Canada, is now handled by CFTO, Toronto indie, not by CTV web. Gard.

BELL TELEPHONE HOUR
With Robert Preston, Richard Tucker, Anna Moffo, Rudolf Nuryev, Svetlana Beriosova, Grant Johannessen, Chad Mitchell Trio
Exec Producer: Barry Wood
Producer: Dan Lounsbery
Director: Clark Jones
Music: Donald Voorhees
60 Mins.; Tues., 10 p.m.
BELL SYSTEM
NBC-TV (color; tape)
(N. W. Ayer)

"Bell Telephone Hour," presented on alternate weeks this season, now serves a unique function on network television. With the demise of "The Voice of Firestone," this is the only primetime show where balletomanes and classical music buffs can get a break. Continuing its long tradition, this series dresses up the long-hair fare in glistening production values and intermixes enough popular ingredients for cross-sectional appeal.

The kickoff show (8) was a standout in all departments, combining a topnotch roster of a performers with a flawless production. Robert Preston hosted in appealing style and was featured, as the finale, in a medley of old showtunes with excellent choral and choreographic support.

In the ballet genre, the show put its strongest foot forward with the team of Rudolf Nureyev and Svetlana Berisova in a performance of "The Black Swan." This team's superlative hoofing talents were evident even to the non-cognescenti. The Chad Mitchell Trio provided a snappy change of pace with a workover of some lively folk songs.

Grant Johannessen, American pianist who scored in a recent Soviet tour, was compelling in his rendition of a Ravel piano concerto with Donald Voorhees batoning the symphonic orch in authoritative fashion. Two Metopera stars, Anna Moffo and Richard Tucker were impressive in some arias from Puccini's "La Boheme."

This repertory may sound safely familiar, but in the context of the rest of network tv, it's way-out high-domed stuff. Herm.

OCTOPUS AND THE ADDICT
With Don Bruchey, narrator
Producer: Bob Cochrane
Director: Janet Covington
Writer: George Gipe
30 Mins, Wed., 8 p.m.
WMAR-TV, Baltimore (film)

Network and local documentaries have made dope addiction familiar to the point of boredom, trodding the same worn paths and same was expected of "Octopus and the Addict," first of a three part look at addicts.

It didn't happen this time because producers of this locally made film took a close but different personal look at an addict who enacted her plight on film as her own voice supplied the narration which was as informational as it was personal.

Victim, a young Negro girl, told how she was hooked, how much it costs to stay on it and how she personally feels about it. Junkies have a mental defect, she said, something that goes beyond the physical need for it.

She rapped tv specials that examine addiction. None of them is realistic, she said. Each time one is scheduled, she and other junkies gather before a set and see if approach will be different or if they will be of any help. They never are, she said.

She said junkies "are not monsters. We need help to understand our problems."

Expense is great, she said, then told how addicts get money to keep ahead of "the man." The junkie mind is always thinking ahead, she said, always figuring ways to get quick cash. Some of those ways are hanging paper (forgery), prostitution, shoplifting and "lots of other con games."

Victim was also very critical of penal attitude toward junkies saying that there is no hope for rehabilitation. "They just keep you there for a while then let you out so you can do it all over again."

Most effective segment was that in which addict described "cold turkey." It feels like "insects are crawling all over you, you get cramps, lose control. It's as close to hell as I've ever been," she said.

Part Two will cover junkie and the law and part three, junkie and the cure. This is an impressive beginning. Luce.

Group W 'Advocate's' Simultaneous Out-of-Town TV Preem With B'way

By GUY LIVINGSTON

"Advocate" goes down as a successful attempt to capture some excitement of a Broadway opening, but it's axiomatic also that television won't put the theatre out of business.

Flawless acting and well integrated scenes tailored to fit tv screens plus theatre color and background comments by Henry Fonda were knitted together to bring a measure of the feel of first nighters. However, the low key, moody uneven story of the well worked-over Sacco-Vanzetti case isn't going to set any boxoffice on fire, either tv or theatrewise.

Practically all the dialog and the telescoping of the denouement and upcoming events offered too few moments of dramatic impact. Two and half hours is as wearing to tv viewers as theatre audiences, which even acting plusses couldn't overcome. Where the Sacco-Vanzetti case may be new to viewers outside, Mass. for one has had its share of the fare including the two-part tv series two years ago,

---

THE ADVOCATE
With James Daly, Paul Stevens, Tresa Hughes, John Cecil Holm, Martin Brooks, Dolph Sweet, Dino Fazio, Allen Nourse, Barnard Hughes.
Host: Henry Fonda
Producer: Jack Kuney (for Group W)
Director: Marc Daniels
Writer: Robert Noah
150 Mins.; Mon. (14) 7:30 p.m.
PARTICIPATING
WBZ-TV, Boston (tape)

---

and all, including this, feel compelled to establish a sort of "Boston stupidity" which doesn't grab the natives.

However, it can well be that this play is better on stage than on tv with actors not constricted by closeups and verbose passages. Strictly as a video show it was fairly compelling, but came through almost documentary. The tv clarity was fine and the reception excellent, but there was a feeling that this drama of legal prejudice never quite came across to its fullest potential.

It's established early that James Daly as Warren Curtis, oldline Hub lawyer is going to involve himself in the case, prodded by Paul Stevens as committee head Bertelli, and Ed Hughes as writer Martin Brooks. Once involved over objections of partner Tom Stark, played by Allen Nourse, Daly's role as the dedicated seeker of truth and his belief in justice and highest principles of law, a belief held to the bitter end until shattered by Governor's commutation refusal, was a fine performance.

This version has the three men digging up new evidence, filing appeal after appeal only to be turned down by Judge Ballentine, played effectively by Joseph Warren. Dino Fazio as Vanzetti turned in a well rounded acting stint in a difficult role. Dolph Sweet as Sacco had the more heavy histrionics, but succeeded in making the role credible. Teresa Hughes was good as Rosa Sacco; Barnard Hughes as the stern governor. Stevens and Brooks were slick in supporting roles. Supporting actors made fine cameos of their roles.

Marc Daniel's direction was coolly sustained in the right vein.

"Advocate" was shown on Westinghouse Group W stations in five cities simultaneous with its Broadway opening.

KRAFT SUSPENSE THEATRE
(The Case Against Paul Ryker)
With Lee Marvin, Vera Miles, Bradford Dillman, Murray Hamilton, Peter Graves, Lloyd Nolan, Norman Fell Producer: Frank Telford
Director: Buzz Kulik
Writers: Selig Lester, William Gordon
60 Mins., Thurs., 10 p.m.
KRAFT
NBC-TV (film)
(JWT)

This military potboiler came close to killing its dramatic impact with incredibilities — a sergeant's wife wandering loose in the battle fields of Korea, officers driving jeeps, captains rousing three-star generals at 3 a.m. and generals breaking up love tryists at the crack of dawn. Still in all, "The Case Against Paul Ryker" managed to sustain the necessary suspense to carry it another week (it's a two-part cliff hanger) via some skillful, if spotty, scripting and some powerful performing by an all-around excellent cast. This Roncom-MCA production could develop into one of the better Nielsen traps among the season's many anthologies.

In the first installment, Lee Marvin was his commanding self as an American sergeant sentenced to death as an alleged spy. In excellent contrast to Marvin's stormy portrayal was Bradford Dillman's essaying of the Captain-prosecutor who got the sergeant condemned to death, then launched an investigation in his interests (he'll defend Marvin in this week's episode, which gives an idea of the hairpin turns this plot is capable of taking). Vera Miles, the previously mentioned wandering wife, was also first-rate. Support was good down the line.

Buzz Kulik came through with some slick direction in rolling this one over the rough stretches (there were a couple of parts that seemed to have been written in as an afterthought to pad out to two hours). Credit values, particularly cast, would rank this as a high-average theatrical program entry. Bill.

DO YOU KNOW?
With Bob Maxwell, host; panel participants
Producer: Joel Heller
Asso. Producer: Leon Rice
Director: Martin Carr
30 Mins., Sat., 12:30 p.m.
CBS-TV, from N. Y. (tape)

A cut above the animated cartoons and old westerns that clutter up most channels daytime on Saturdays is CBS-TV's "Do You Know?" a new informational series for children which preemed Saturday (12). This half-hour noontime program has a solid educational foundation.

Format has two teams of grade school pupils in the nine-to-12 age bracket answering questions based upon certain books. Tome used on the initialer was a special edition of Rachel Carson's "The Sea Around Us" which Golden Press published for youngsters.

Facing "quizmaster" Bob Maxwell on the kickoff were some dozen students from Hyde Park, N. Y., schools. They handled such queries as what effects were produced when the Krakatoa volcano exploded and when is the moon in proper position for a spring tide. Particularly enlightening were some explanatory comments on oceanography by Charles Fray of the Lamont Geological Observatory who appeared as guest expert.

Maxwell, an affable host, has the knack of making the youngsters relax before the camera. Productionwise, CBS News' Public Affairs Dept. has given "Do You Know?" a handsome mounting what with elaborate sliding panels, "blackboard" sessions and other educational tools.

But what appeared missing on the preem was a prize for the winning team. A set of encyclopaedias obviously would be too commercial a gift. But how about a scroll or plaque to the winning team's school? This would help create a more competitive spirit among the youngsters. Gilb.

Bing's All-Starrer

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Dean Martin, Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope and Kathy Grant, the latter Mrs. Bing Crosby, will guestar on Crosby's CBS-TV spec to be taped later this month, for airing in February. Rehearsals begin Oct. 19.

Sinatra and Martin were to have appeared on Crosby's initial spec of the season, but were removed when the show ran over, according to Crosby sources. Crosby, Martin and Sinatra will sing a "Guys and Dolls' number which they do in a Reprise waxing.

SUNDAY

G-E COLLEGE BOWL
College students match wits in this award-winning series.

MEET THE PRESS
Television's top headline-maker continues its probing news conferences.

IT'S ACADEMIC
High school students compete in brain-teasing scholastic rivalry.

THE BILL DANA SHOW
"...most attractive...subtly hilarious."
N. Y. JOURNAL AMERICAN

WALT DISNEY
The master showman presents a new season of varied entertainment.

GRINDL
"...delightfully kookie... great to see Imogene back!"
BOSTON TRAVELER

BONANZA
The nation's favorite series offers new, hour-long adventure-dramas.

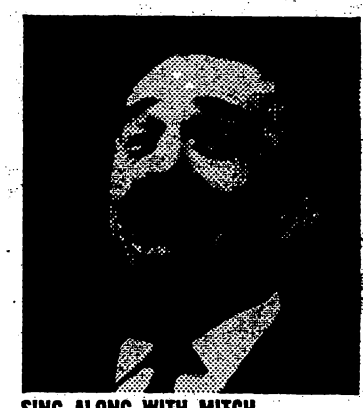
DU PONT SHOW OF THE WEEK
Original, hour-long plays and forceful NBC News special programs.

MONDAY

THE HUNTLEY-BRINKLEY REPORT
"Chet Huntley and David Brinkley,...a winning combination"
PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN

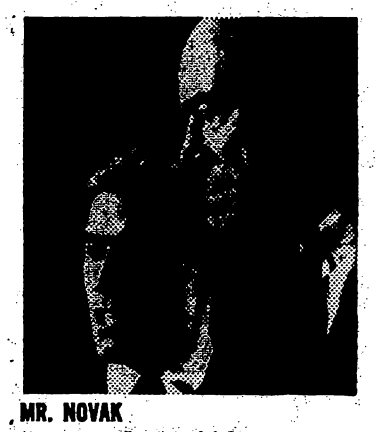
MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES
Major, recent films make their television debuts each week.

HOLLYWOOD AND THE STARS
"...smartly edited, fast moving..."
BOSTON RECORD-AMERICAN



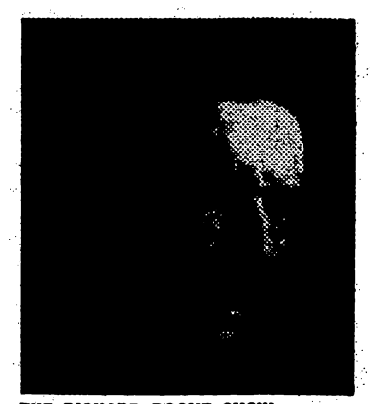
SING ALONG WITH MITCH
A new day and time for the nation's favorite song leader.

TUESDAY

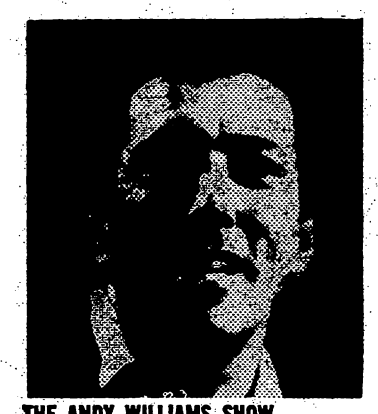


MR. NOVAK
"...scored one of (the season's) bulls-eyes."
S. F. CHRONICLE

REDIGO
Richard Egan continues his popular portrayal of rugged Jim Redigo



THE RICHARD BOONE SHOW
"...solid writing...expert direction...consummate acting."
N. Y. HERALD-TRIBUNE



THE ANDY WILLIAMS SHOW
"...he should be the star of the year."
BOSTON HERALD

THE BELL TELEPHONE HOUR
Television's distinguished hour of music, with renowned guests.

WEDNESDAY

THE VIRGINIAN
Classic 90-minute adventures starring Lee J. Cobb, James Drury.

ESPIONAGE
"...first-rate direction...taut script."
WASHINGTON EVENING STAR

ELEVENTH HOUR
Ralph Bellamy joins Jack Ging in a new season of powerful dramas.

THURSDAY

TEMPLE HOUSTON
"...looked like a winner... solid performances."
PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE

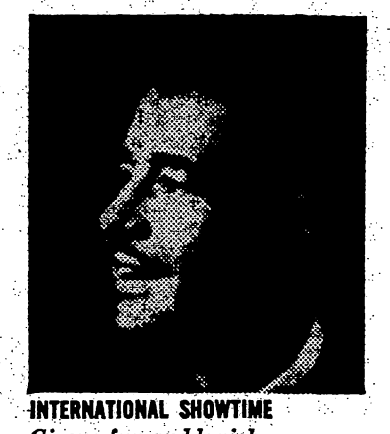
DR. KILDARE
Richard Chamberlain, Raymond Massey in the popular series' third year.

HAZEL
Emmy-winner Shirley Booth carries on in the title role.

KRAFT SUSPENSE THEATRE
"...well written, well played... grimly fascinating."
N.Y. WORLD-TELEGRAM AND SUN

PERRY COMO SHOW
"Como show bows pleasantly ...entertainingly."
PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

FRIDAY



INTERNATIONAL SHOWTIME
Circus fun and lavish spectacle around the world. With Don Ameche.

BOB HOPE COMEDY SPECIAL
"Hope's usual mixture of merriment and melody."
PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

BOB HOPE CHRYSLER THEATRE
"Beautifully made and a pleasure to watch."
LOS ANGELES TIMES

HARRY'S GIRLS
"A cheerful... entertainment package."
HOLLYWOOD REPORTER

THE JACK PAAR PROGRAM
Conversational gems and entertainment surprises by Jack and guests.

SATURDAY

THE LIEUTENANT
"...series got off to an excellent start."
CHICAGO'S AMERICAN

THE JOEY BISHOP SHOW
More laughs with Joey as a new father; and with top guest stars.

SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES
Week after week, memorable Hollywood films bow on NBC Television.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS

A select group of news and entertainment events highlights the schedule. Among them—the forthcoming "Greece: the Golden Age," the NBC White Papers, NBC Opera productions, the Hallmark Hall of Fame, and the NBC Children's Theatre.

NBC

de gustibus...

On matters of taste, as the Romans said, every man is his own judge. Not that we're disposed to dispute these critical judgments, but it's always best to make up your own mind. So we suggest you pick your own favorites from NBC's diversified schedule—a schedule designed to suit every interest and every taste.

Look to NBC for the best combination of news, information and entertainment.

From The Production Centres

Continued from page 22

rector of WATV, Birmingham. Latter had covered the racial crisis there as a stringer for CBS-TV

IN LONDON

Independent Television Authority appointed Bryan Rook as assistant to the advertising control officer on ad copy matters, a new post . . . Television Audience Measurement Ltd., the local rating organization, brought in P. D. G. Heneker to handle pubrelations. Job previously handled by Rolls & Parker ad agency . . . BBC acquired exclusive tv rights to Newmarket races during 1965 which keeps such horserace classics as the 1,000 and 2,000 guineas and important handicaps like the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgeshire from the indie outlet . . . Grampian-TV transmissions controller Tony Bacon, wrote "The Underworld" which BBC-TV puts out in the "Comedy Playhouse" series . . . Millicent Martin and Roy Kinnear of BBC's irreverent "That Was The Week That Was" switch to the independent tv channel in an Associated TeleVision play "The Happy Moorings," scheduled for screening in the new year . . . Frank Gillard, BBC's Director of Sound Broadcasting, makes a guest-of-the-week appearance in the Light Program's "Woman's Hour" show this week . . . Arthur Clifford appointed program controller of Anglia-TV, and Peter Holmans named planning controller. Both previously held top programming positions in the company . . . Yank singers Roy Orbison, Lesley Gore, Dion, Timi Yuro, Bobby Rydell all set for exposure here through ABC-TV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars" show.

IN WASHINGTON

Chester Curtis signs on as television reporter with WTOP news. He has been with WHAM radio in Rochester, N. Y. . . . Disk jockey Bob Kelly moves from WTOP to WRC. He will take over some daytime spots as Ed Walker and Willard Scott expand their evening schedule . . . WTTG-TV's "Community Dialog" took a look Sunday (13) at problem of city-suburban co-existence problems here . . . Local viewers of NBC o&o WRC are asked submit the name of their favorite web star. From four drawings daily winners of prizes will be selected. Among the prizes are RCA color and portable tv sets . . . Local chapter of American Women in Radio and Television held "special report" Monday (14) on President's Commission on the Status of Women. Speaking were Sen. Maurine Neuberger (D-Ore.), Rep. Edith Green (D-Ore.) and Mrs. Esther Peterson, Asst. Sec. of Labor who heads President's Commission. Panel members were Anne Blair of Triangle Stations and George Herman of CBS. Patty Cavin of RCA moderated . . . WTOP radio will present a Russian language course in cooperation with George Washington Univ.

IN BOSTON

Michaed R. Santangelo, coproducer and creator of "Black Nativity," berthed at the Shubert, made tv-radio rounds as guest on the David Alan show on WNAC-TV, the "Heartline" show on WEEI, Bill Hahn show on WNAC, and WBZ-TV's "News at 9". . . Phyllis Doherty, p.r. chief at WNAC, WNAC-TV, nabbed first "Woman of Achievement" award by women's div. Mass. Democratic state committee and speeched for them on "You and Your Image". . . Mary Sparks, of "Mary's Mail" fame on WNAC, program chairman of AWRT meeting in Chatham . . . Ed Sullivan in Wednesday (16) to guest speak at 15th anni luncheon Broadcasting Executives Club at Sheraton Plaza and will be awarded personalized O'Sullivan coat of arms by Hon. Gearoid F. O'Clerigh, consul general of Ireland . . . WGBH-TV, Channel 2, is looking for folk singers to audition for a new tv program. Dave Sloss is producing the program to be called "Folk Music U.S.A." Series will be aired starting Wednesday, Nov. 6 at 8 p.m.

IN DETROIT . .

Newscasters off to Baden-Baden, West Germany, to report the fate of Detroit's bid for the 1968 Olympic Games are: Frank Tomlinson, WJR; Dave Diles, Ed Hardy, and Arthur Mazur, of WXYZ . WXYZ-TV, ABC o&o station, celebrated its 15th anniversary with four employees, who were with the station on the first day of telecasting, receiving "Founders Club" certificates. Station now employs 135 persons . . ."Assignment Detroit," WJBK show hosted by news director Bob King, will present hourlong documentary on Detroit's mass transportation system with several leading city officials participating.

IN CLEVELAND

Harry Morgan began his third year as emcee of KYW's "Program PM" . . . Foreign-land bound are KYW secretaries Joanne Barnes and Shirley Maslar to Greece and Jean Schreiber and Judy Gigson to Mexico . . . WJW pacted 32 weeks of N. Y. Philharmonic . . . John Ambrozic named to KYW radio sales . . . Ed Hersch authored half-hour Metromedia documentary on National Geographic . . . WCLV doing series of full length weekly dramas, including "Brecht on Brecht." Cheryl Crawford presentation scheduled for John Carroll U stand . . . WNOB skedding round-the-clock airing operation, the first FM-er in area to so do . . . For the first time in over three months, the city's three tv outlets have permanent fulltime news directors. Latest to fill a vacancy is Dick Trembath who moves from public service to the news directorship at Channel 3. He's the fifth to hold the berth in about four years. At WEWS, Dan Hackle has been named news director filling the void set when Joel Daly shifted to Channel 8. Hackle had been a news editor. At Channel 8, Norm Wagy was tapped to fill the Storer news spot when Ken Armstrong was axed.

IN ST. LOUIS

Lorne Greene, the dad Cartwright on NBC's "Bonanza," will headline the St. Louis Firemen's Rodeo booked for the Arena Nov. 5-10 . . . WIL radio deejay Ed Wilson named a member of the Mach-Busters Club by North American Aviation. Wilson jockeyed an F-100 Saber Jet through the speed of sound to qualify for his plaque . . . KMOX radio's Rex Davis will moderate a series of Medical Forums starting Sunday (20) and presented in cooperation with the St. Louis Medical Society and the Globe-Democrat . . . Same station has booked Edga Bergen for a guest stint on its "At Your Service" program on Tuesday (22) . . . Don Beecher has replaced Annette Chambers on KTVI-TV's early-eve weathercast . . . KTVI-TV also named Courtney Goodman Jr. to the post of assistant director of public affairs under Bruce Hayward . . . KSD-TV's Harry Honig promoted to sales promotion manager.

IN PITTSBURGH

Mellon National Bank will not sponsor the Pirate games on radio and tv next year because of "a change in marketing strategy with attendant need for change in broadcasting techniques." The bank had sponsored the games for the past two years and had an option for renewal in 1964 . . . Critics Henry Ward of the Press and Win Fanning of the Post-Gazette raved over Sterling Yates' work in "Take Her, She's Mine" at the Pittsburgh Playhouse. Yates is one of Group W's top personalities here . . . More than 15,000 fishermen took part in WIIC's Family Fishing contest last week at North Park. The affair was sponsored by the station in association with the Allegheny County Sportmen's League. Nearly $2,500 in prizes were given away with first prize being a 13-foot Serro Scotty Trailer . . . Harold Lund, v.p. of WBC in Pitt, was appointed President of the Board, Pittsburgh Branch Western Pennsylvania Association for the Blind. Lund also serves on the Board of Directors of 10 other prominent organizations, including the Pennsylvania Association of Broadcasters . . . WATE made the largest single buy in Pitt outdoor advertising history to promote its fall shows. The bottom portion of each board is set up to cover the 14 new ABC-TV network shows and the station's own color movies. The billboards is just a part of a gigantic newspaper, radio and on-the-air program launching the new season which the station has called "Happy New TV Year" . . Chuck Brinkman renewed as the voice of the National Record Mart on KQV.

IN PHILADELPHIA .

Clyde R. Spitzner, director of sales and programs for WFIL, appointed to the newly-created post of general sales manager for the radio & tv divisions of Triangle Publications, Inc. . . . Jack Gregson, N.Y. broadcaster brought to WPEN for the morning show several months ago, has exited station . . . Bulletin columnist Frank Brookhauser doing daily session for sheet's FM station WPBS . . . John Corcoran, vet broadcaster, named public relations director for WFIL, WFIL-TV, succeeding Lou Frankel, now with WNEW, N.Y. . . ."TV 10 News Report" examines growing problem of air pollution in "Take a Deep Breath" (22). Consultant for program, Gordon Larson formerly headed the air control center in Los Angeles . . . Tommy Roberts, doing the narration for NBC's "Pro Football Highlights" with Jim Leaming . . . John O. Downey, CBS veepee and general manager of WCAU, named moderator, by the Valley Forge PTA, for a panel on education . . . WRCV-TV, WRCV win American Legion Auxiliary's "Golden Mike" awards for tv series "Gateways to Careers" and radio's "High School Highlights."

IN DALLAS

Dick Harp, pianist and 90th Floor club owner, debuted his thrice-weekly "The Jazz Show" on WFAA at 11 p.m., featuring wax for jazz buffs and chatter sessions with visiting celebs . . . Hugh Lampman, longtime KRLD longhair deejay on "Music 'Til Dawn," taped a pilot at WFAA-TV for a projected local variety series before a live audience . . . Gordon McLendon, KLIF and McLendon Enterprises prexy, hosted a "Carnival of Stars" benefit at $100 per couple for the Planned Parenthood Association at his Cielo Ranch, with a dozen Hollywood names in for the participation games and funfest . . . The Three Stooges visited KRLD's "Comment" show to plug their film, "The Three Stooges Go Around the World in a Daze," and took phone calls from listeners in a q&a session . . . Paul Levitan, CBS-TV special events director, due Nov. 1 to helm the "Miss Teenage America Pageant" via the net from State Fair Music Hall.

Talk Up Central America Live Link With ABC

Execs of the Central American Television Network and ABC International Television are meeting today (Wed.) and tomorrow to discuss the potential for live interconnection between the member stations and the web. Other points on the agenda include new developments in videotape equipment, new programming and sales plans.

AB-PT president Leonard H. Goldenson and Don Coyle, ABC International TV prexy, are heading up the U. S. contingent at the meeting.

'30 Share'

Continued from page 21

with seven of the 14 new entries achieving the 30 share mark — "Outer Limits," "Breaking Point," "Greatest Show On Earth," "Fugitive," Patty Duke (which grabbed a whopping 48 share); "Burke's Law," which won out over the Bob Hope Anthology, and "Farmer's Daughter." For all the fact that he enjoyed a 34 lead-in from Lawrence Welk, Jerry Lewis couldn't do any better than a 22 share, clobbered by the Saturday Night Movies.

Pubaffairs shows means taking an audience rap and NBC took two of them (one on moon orbiting and the other on crime hearings, the latter preempting "Temple Houston") but even so the network delivered only one new entry (Bill Dana) with a 30 plus share. "Novak" nearly squeaked in with a 29; ditto "Grindl." The others will have to rest their case on what the Nationals will have to say.

ABC Rate Hike

Continued from page 21

endar year, it also means higher returns in adjacency spots sold by affils and ABC o&o's. As soon as it became apparent that "McHale's Navy" was holding its own against CBS' "Red Skelton Show" and swamping "Redigo" on NBC-TV, ABC had no trouble selling out the balance of the season. Gillette bought in and locked out several other advertisers wanting a piece of the action.

ABC's increased strength this season in the comedy genre as a result of the click of the new "Patty Duke Show" also favors the web's aim of attracting more full sponsorships. Comedy shows, in which CBS has had and continues to have a commanding lead, has been the usual favorite of advertisers favoring single sponsorship.

Inside Stuff—Radio-TV

When CBS runs its Nov. 17 segment of "20th Century," called "The Road to Berlin," it's a combo of revival and survival for two men in the tv effort. Scripter is former USAF and Army Col. Barney Oldfield, now out of uniform with Litton Industries in Beverly Hills. As a WW II paratrooper PR type, he was always conning war correspondents into airborne ordeals of parachute and glider transport. One who was prepared for this unusual way of ultimate risk was a UP hand named Walter Cronkite, who although a great many of the third dimensional attacks for which he was scheduled were scrubbed, did go on the invasion of Holland in September, 1944. After the first messiness, Cronkite established the UP "bureau" which was initially about as permanent as a police-bedevilled floating crapgame. Oldfield ultimately went into Berlin with the Allied Airborne Army, overland, and participated in the first abortive attempt to get through the Russian stymie June 22, 1945, then in the second movement which did get into the German capital, July 1, 1945.

Exec producer Burton Benjamin rounded up Army Generals Lucius Clay, Jim Gavin, Stuart Cutler for eyewitnesses, and has Floyd Parks and Frank Howley on film along with onetime State Dept. planner, Philip Mosely. Hardly anyone on the show has any right to be alive.

Reports that Sir Winston Churchill previewed and approved a half-hour documentary, "Churchill The Man," produced by Associated British Pathe in England and distributed in the U. S. by Seven Arts, has been flatly denied by the elder British statesman. A spokesman for Churchill said that he never even heard of the film, much less see it.

The spokesman said that Churchill had given his approval only to the tv series, "The Valiant Years," and to a current documentary film of his "War Memoirs" being produced by Jack Le Vien. There is also some film company interest in Churchill's autobiographical book, "My Early Life."

"Churchill The Man" is being sold in the U.S. for telecasting only after Churchill's death. The report that Churchill had approved the show was traced by Seven Arts to a misunderstanding of statements made by the British producers who, in turn, failed to correct the Seven Arts' press release when it was submitted to Associated Pathe.

Chicago chapter of Academy of Television Arts & Sciences is tossing a special luncheon Oct. 28 to honor the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" series as one of the "most distinguished programs in television history" and one that belongs, to a certain extent, to the midwest. Latter claim is based on the fact that sponsor Hallmark Cards is a Kansas City-based firm; ad agency Foote, Cone & Belding a Chicago-based firm; and producer-director George Schaefer a native of Oak Park, Ill.

Storer Broadcasting has declared its regular quarterly dividend of 45c per share on its common stock, payable Dec. 9 to stockholders of record Nov. 22. It's the 40th consecutive quarterly dividend paid by the broadcast chain since it went public in November, 1953. Storer's board also declared a 12½c dividend on its unlisted Class B common stock.

Sen. Vance Hartke (D.-Ind.) introduced legislation allowing daytime radio stations to begin their broadcasting day at 6 a.m. Hartke said present FCC restrictions preventing "daytimer" operations until sunrise work a hardship on people in areas without full time stations.

He said the restrictions prevent the public in these areas from learning important morning information such as weather, driving conditions, school closings and farm and industrial news.

Hartke's bill goes to the Senate Commerce Committee, of which he is a member.

BBC's Carleton Greene

Continued from page 23

schedule is that it will be a "new approach to television." He emphasized that it would not be a poor man's BBC-1, nor would it be much the same mixture as the existing web.

BBC-2, he said, will not "chase at all costs after the biggest audience" and will provide educational and minority programs at peak hours. This is not to say the new web will be without entertainment. "The Danny Kaye Show" is, for instance, set for BBC-2 exposure.

Overall, the UHF outlet is to be a "planned alternative" to the current national network run by the Corporation. It will try to satisfy people who, for example, do not care for sport on Saturday afternoons.

Greene said the planning together of the two webs will guarantee viewers a genuine choice instead of the "haphazard chances of competition."

He anticipated that sometime in 1965 that BBC-TV would be able to beam color shows on the new outlet.

Greene went on: "We have been criticized in some quarters for going ahead with this big and expensive program of development—it is costing $112,000,000 to set up—without a longterm certainty about our financial resources. The Government has given us this great opportunity and a firm guarantee that it accepts its responsibility to see that BBC can secure sufficient income to finance adequate services. If we had hesitated in these circumstances we should have indeed been 'chicken' and we should have deserved to have our necks wrung."

The BBC boss later told VARIETY that he hoped the Government would further finance the Corporation from an increase in the license fee but he didn't anticipate a hike in said tab before 1965.

Ottawa—Severely injured in a traffic crash in early August, Les Lye, w.k. locally via his three-hour morning show on AMer CFRA, has returned to the stint from his hospital bed. Stanza, using gab, disks and comedy, was kept alive by CFRA staffers. Lye's wife is also still in hospital from injuries received in the accident which killed their young daughter.

Foreign Television Reviews

SARAH SINGS AND BASIE SWINGS
With Sarah Vaughan, Count Basie Orch, Jimmy Rushing, Kirk Stuart Trio
Producer: John Hamp
Director: Henry Kaplan
45 Mins., Wed., 9:45 p.m.
Granada TV, from Manchester

An edited version of a one-night stand at a Manchester concert hall, this show cashed in on the recent tour of Sarah Vaughan and the Basie band. It had little else to recommend it, for there was little rhythm or polish in the production. Cameras, waywardly placed, got little excitement out of the occasion. Tape joins were abrupt and obvious. And the gimmick of making a montage of snips from the program was gauchely executed, and tantalizing to fans, who like their jazz unadulterated.

The most impressive moments came from the Basie band in Frank Foster's "Blue in Frankie's Flat," which showed off the delicacy as well as the fiery power of the outfit. Jimmy Rushing was alloted a single blues solo, which didn't do justice to his formidable personality or technique.

The Vaughan items also disappointed, largely because they concentrated on her wilful way with a vocal line, without any straight renditions to point up the contrast. "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads" and "Tenderly" were acceptable, but her skittish massacre of "Misty" was too much of a goodish thing. Miss Vaughan was backed by the Kirk Stuart Trio, an adequate combo.

On Basie's last visit, Granada TV showcased him in zinging style, in an informal studio setting. This halting and ragged enterprise caused all the more chagrin to those who remembered it. Sonny Payne's interminable drum-bashing climaxed the show, and summed it up. Otta.

THE RARE ONES
(The Wild West)
With Peter Scott
25 Mins., Fri., 6:35 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

German photographer Eugen Shuhmacher has been around the world, recording rare fauna and the attempts being made to preserve them. BBC-TV is presenting six filmed reports, sprinkled with comment by their top nature pundit, Peter Scott. The initialler concerned the U.S. National Parks, which Scott claimed to be pioneers of wildlife rescue, and, although lacking in heartpounding excitement, it showed off the cameraman's expertise with the natural scene.

Elks, trumpeter swans, longhorned antelope, and buffaloes were spied on their home ground, and there were stunning vistas of the Grand Canyon and Yellowstone Park. Later segments will range over South Africa, Patagonia, the Bering Sea, and points north and south, keeping the link between the animals and their background. The point, that link between the animals and the loss of entire species is a threat to be fought, is acceptable, and the only reservation about the skein is that it has been made, rather more dramatically, in many a program before. Otta.

HULLABALOO
With Peter, Paul & Mary, Carolyn Hester, Rambling Jack Elliott, Cyril Davis and the Rhythm and Blues All-stars Long John Baldry and the Velvettes, Sydney Carter, Rory & Alex McEwen
Director: Ben Churchill
30 Mins., Sat., 11:15 p.m.
ABC-TV, from Manchester

Taking advantage of British tours by American folk-singing personalities, this gusty and highly enfertaining skein has been succesfully launched. It hasn't been taken for networking in the London area, but there seems to be no sane reason why it shouldn't.

The one caught, emceed with the right informal note by Rory McEwen, was a crisp and varied roundup of top performers in the idiom. Peter, Paul & Mary scored in Bob Dillon's "Tain't No Use" and followed with a vigorously swinging "Go Tell It on the Mountain."

The charming guitar-playing Texan, Carolyn Hester, clicked with a couple of haunting ballads, with "Won't You Take Me Back Again?" given a simple artistry. Rambling Jack Elliott purveyed a typical number, and scored through individuality, rather than through the sense of the lyric, which was hard to grasp.

Britain was represented by the brisk Cyril Davis and his group, whose "Preachin' the Blues" was fine. The offbeat Sydney Carter, who sings unaccompanied, came up with his own witty number about a juvenile delinquent who blamed it all on tv, and Rory McEwen, joined by brother Alex, contributed a fine Scottish ballad.

Director Ben Churchill provided warmth and a spontaneous feeling, which aided the performers. With the growing fashion for folk music in these parts, "Hullabaloo" is pioneering along the right lines. The title, however, should be changed; it doesn't suit the content. Otta.

TEMPO
With Leonard Maguire
Producer: Reginald Collin
Writer: Peter Brinson
25 Mins., Sun., 11:10 p.m.
ABC-TV, from Manchester

Although much abbreviated from its original format, "Tempo" came back with a commissioned ballet from the choreographer, Kenneth MacMillan, who has contributed much to the Royal Ballet's programs. This was the climax of the segment, which first explored the problems and considerations that MacMillan encountered during the formative stages. He explains his own methods of working, and the influences of designer (James Goddard) and composers (Carlos Chavez and Darius Milhaud) on the finished output.

The 10-minute ballet itself was a recasting of the Orpheus legend, and was danced with panache by Marcia Haydee and Ray Barra, imported from the Stuttgart company. Conceived in tv terms, it made some use of trick photography and fluent camera-tracking, and, although a slight work, it impressed with its enterprise and ingenuity.

The initialler, introduced by Leonard Maguire, was thus welcome to dance addicts. More elbow-room is required, however, to turn it into a more authoritative skein, taking all the arts as its oyster. Reginald Collin produced clearly, and Peter Brinson's script was pointed and answered the right questions. Otta.

P.E.P. (PICCOLA ENCICLOPEDIA PANELLI)
(Small Panelli Encyclopedia)
With Paolo Panelli, Bice Valori, Magali Noel, Luisella Boni, Aldo Giuffre, Lelio Lutazzi, Renata Mauro, Sacha Distel
Director: Daniele D'Anza
65 Mins.; Sat. 9:05 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Rome (tape)

This newest Italo variety show is a disappointment, despite a valid contribution by one of country's best new comedians, Paolo Panelli. When he's on, it's frequently funny, when not, the humor falls flat, sometimes embarrassingly so. Reduced to a half hour pattern, it could be a weekly must; current format makes one check Italy's other channel first.

Helter-skelter, if recurrent, motif is the illustration of the alphabet, with several letters taken on each week. After excellent, imaginative titles and credits show caught progressed into an amusing spoof of the Crusades as they might be seen today, with Panelli at his best. Star later returned for a risible phone call with his (real-life) wife, Bice Valori, for another good takeoff skit on wolfmen, and a final old-man routine which is reprised every week to good effect.

In between, Magali Noel was featured in an unfunny bit about crying babes. There were several brief interludes in which Luisella Boni played on words, sometimes overacting, and a windup guest stint by singer-guitarist, Sacha Distel, which had the advantage of being straight-forward. Hawk.

MAIGRET
(Poor Cecile!)
With Rupert Davies, Ewen Solon, Neville Jason, Victor Lucas, Joan Sanderson, Anthony Jacobs, Mary Chester, Casey Jones, Brian Waldron, Joan Paton, Christopher Banks, Gloria Salvador, Branwen Iorweth, Laurie Asprey, Renny Lister, Arthur Pentelow
Producer: Andrew Osborn
Director: Michael Hayes
Writer: Donald Bull
50 Mins., Tues., 9:10 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

The final skein of "Maigret"—this fourth bout will exhaust the supply of Simenon stories suitable for adaptation—returned with a certain sense of strained languor. The familiar assets were all present, including the tangy Gallic atmosphere (owing much to Eileen Diss's authentic sets), Rupert Davies's human impersonation of the famous sleuth (although, perhaps, more offhand than before), and a tale rooted in a French kind of money-grabbing.

In other respects, however, the story moved slowly and packed little in the way of surprise. Cecile (Mary Chester) constantly visited Maigret's waiting-room to tell him of fearful, but imaginary, events. Hence he ignored her when she called again. But, this time, she really had something to report. Her miserly old aunt, with whom she lived, was found murdered. And so, in police headquarters, was Cecile.

A plodding and dispirited enquiry followed, with little tension in Michael Hayes's direction. Solution was that Ceciel had murdered her aunt, but that a shady lawyer, living a floor below, had killed Cecile. He knew the old girl had been loaded, but couldn't find the loot.

Donald Bull's adaptation was unexceptionable, and the fault probably lay in the low-voltage of Simenon's plot. It may indicate that the best of his harvest has already been gathered for earlier skeins. The momentum of this one was certainly slack, and beguiled, rather than clinched, the attention. Apart from Davies, Ewen Solon, and Victor Lucas (who make up the team of cops), other thesps were clumsy. Otta.

THE AVENGERS
(The Undertakers)
With Patrick Macnee, Honor Blackman, Lally Bowers, Lee Patterson, Jan Holden, Patrick Holt, Howard Goorney, Mandy Miller, Ronald Russell, Marcella Markham, Helena McCarthy, Denis Forsyth
Producer: John Bryce
Director: Bill Bain
Writer: Malcolm Hulke
60 Mins., Sat., 10:50 p.m.
ABC-TV, from Manchester

The offbeat character of this mystery skein has made it a fad in some circles. Its return to the schedules, in top tongue-in-cheek form, indicated that there's still plenty of life in the formula. The partnership of Patrick Macnee, bowler-hatted, charmingly insolent, and unruffled as Steed, and Honor Blackman, who has a passion for leather garments and jujitsu as Cathy Gale, is now a well-oiled affair, the two playing together with well-judged sympathy. The scripts are conscious parodies of the genre, not expecting to be taken seriously, and Malcolm Hulke's "The Undertakers" was a good example of the breed.

In order to dodge death duties, wealthy widows were provided with substitute husbands when their own died. An organization, bossed by a millionaire, existed for the purpose, in cahoots with a firm of morticians, who disposed of superfluous bodies. Steed and Cathy Gale were dizzily involved in unmasking them, and a rapid string of near-farcical events led to the usual gun duel as climax. Lomax (Lee Patterson) wanted to get rid of the organization's chief, Madden (Patrick Holt), and sent a killer and a coffin to his apartment. Idea was that he would be shot, stuffed in the box, and taken away for burial. Other ingredients included a wide-eyed widow, Mrs. Renter (Lally Bowers), who capered through the segment not suspecting that anything criminal was afoot. And a torrid affair between Madden's wife and Lomax.

Belief was constantly suspended, and the plot didn't respond to investigation. Bill Bain directed John Bryce's production with a springy gaiety, and a strong team of supporting thesps gave sly sustenance, with Lally Bowers and Howard Goorney standing out. Only danger is that the scripts will go overboard for yocks, and the mixture will lose its tension. It wasn't always dodged in the one caught, but it was frolicsome enough to get by. Otta.

STADTPARK
(Park of a Town)
With Inge Meysel, Michael Hinz, Karin Heym, Paul Esser, Ingeborg Koerner, Hans Reiser, Heinrich Gretler, Erich Dunskus, others
Director: Klaus Wagner
Writers: Hans Schubert, Fred Denger
90 Mins., Sun., 8:15 P.M.
West German TV, from Hamburg (film)

Nearly all the action of this show was set in a big city park, Berlin in this case. It was a popular tale revolving around a little boy and a middle-aged woman who sell ice cream in the park.

The boy had run away from his parents because of their quarrels which had already led to a split between mother and father. The ice cream lady had become his "second mother." She was a good-natured creature, with a well-oiled tongue, and she took such a fancy to the boy that she wanted to keep him for good. Yet even stronger was her ambition to bring the boy's parents together again, and needless to say, she managed to achieve the good goal.

This sentimental piece benefited from some good performances. Inge Meysel portrayed the ice cream woman and was right at home with the role, it was chiefly her show. The presentation, incidentally, utilized a number of players who are rather prominent such as Paul Esser, Erich Dunskus, in native films and on the stage, Ingeborg Koerner, young Michael Hinz.

This popular piece had already made the legit rounds. Artistically speaking, "Stadtpark" had some good real-life dialog sequences. The dialog, it's understood, was polished by Fred Denger, an able mag writer, for the tele version. The camera work was also on the plus side, and the show was at least as good as a current German average cinema opus. Hans.

DEMETRIO PIANELLI
With: Paoli Stoppa, Ave Ninchi, Gianrico Tedeschi, Armando Furlai, Attilio Duse, Romolo Costa, Loris Loddi, Luca Ward, Mara Berni, Cristiano Minello, Loretta Goggi, Nino Bianchi, Rosella Spinelli, Loris Gizi, Stefano Varriale, Carlo Montini, Loris Gafforio
Writer-Director: Sandro Bolchi
55 Min.; Sun. 9:05 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Rome (tape)

One of the better Italian dramatic presentations judging by the first few segments, and reconfirms Sandro Bolchi as one of RAI-TV's top craftsmen in this sector. Serial, running for several Sundays in a row, should also up Paolo Stoppa's stock, thanks to his superior performance in the title role.

In the stanza seen, Demetrio (Stoppa) found himself unexpectedly falling in love with Beatrice, a young widow (Mara Berni) he's always seen but rarely considered, until she's suddenly beseiged by suitors. Selfishly, he begins to keep them away from her. Bolchi handled this key episode in a lengthy plot with great taste, though not avoiding the effective dramatic situations which brought the story across. As noted, Stoppa is outstanding in a meaty role, with good support from Mara Berni as the widow, Loris Gizzi as a suitor, and others in the large cast. Technical credits were outstanding. Hawk.

ON THE BRADEN BEAT
With Bernard Braden
Producer: Francis Coleman
Editor: James Thomas
20 Mins., Sat., 11:50 p.m.
Associated TeleVision, from London

With the headline-catching gimmick of Briggitte Bardot as a thrush, this highly individual skein, nonchalantly chaired by Bernard Braden, returned as the commercial web's rival to BBC-TV's "TW3" on a smaller scale. It clicked last season as a neat equivalent to a newspaper gossip-and-comment column, and, although the one caught was more staid than most, Braden smoothly injected an acid note.

Most of the subjects are pegged to the week's headlines. Thus Braden introduced a lyric about milkmen who kid housewives into paying for extra groceries by leaving them on the doorstep. A local operator, Jack "Spot" Comer, claimed that Britain's crime, like America's, was in the grip of the Mafia—and Braden, with police aid, effectively disproved him. He also made sharp, if unfair, fun of the Labor Party Conference as an excuse for heavy eating and drinking, with guzzling stills to reinforce the point.

Bardot's contribution, on film, was a Spanish ditty, and said little for her larynx and managed to deplete her s.a. Result, on this occasion, was somewhat scrappy, too intent on inflating subjects before knocking them down, but was otherwise spirited. Francis Coleman produced safely. Otta.

Foreign TV Followup

Drama '63

For one of the most important editions of this continuing Sunday night dramatic cycle (which alternates with ABC-TV's "Armchair Theatre"), Associated TeleVision selected Giles Cooper's "The Double Doll." In the first weekend following the bow of the autumn schedules, this outing opposed the new BBC dramatic skein "First Night" and the first edition of the Corporation's "new entertainment" morsel "Dig This Rhubarb."

"Double Doll" was a thoroughly professional job on Cooper's part, neatly packaged, with a strong storyline and added up to a satisfying hour complete with impact, tension, laughs, tears and interesting studies in character.

Yarn involved the "takeover" of a well-to-do household by the dumb maid (Frances Cuka) who laboriously, but cunningly, maneuvered herself into a position where she had her employers over the proverbial barrel. Ursula Howells was excellent as the wife who returned early from the family's vacation in the company of another man and then mysteriously disappeared. Ernest Clark was ditto as the wife-pestered husband, who relished in her absence and the attentive servility of the maid. But the play belonged to Miss Cuka.

As the plain, slow-thinking lass who painstakingly kept house and kept its master happy even to the point where he was ready to accept her as his "wife," she turned in a superb performance. Other members of the small cast—notably Michael Forrest as the lecherous baker boy, backed up solidly in the supporting roles.

Christopher Morhan's classy production helped to make this one of the best plays in the "Drama '63" series. Watt.

First Night

After the standout initialler for BBC-TV's peak-hour drama skein, Nigel Kneale's "The Road" sadly disappointed as the second stanza. Kneale, who wrote the memorable "Quatermass" series, has a classy reputation for futuristic fiction, but it was largely squandered in this one.

Idea was a spooky premonition of nuclear disaster, set in 18th century England. Sir Timothy (James Maxwell), the local squire and dabbler in scientific enquiries, was determined to investigate reports of supernatural noises in a local wood. He was joined by the sceptl-

(Continued on page 41)

ABC News presents Saga of Western Man: 1492

A world dead for almost 500 years will come to life tonight in the first program in ABC News' Saga of Western Man: 1492, 10:00-11:00 p.m. on the ABC Television Network.

Utilizing a unique and compelling camera technique, Saga of Western Man recreates the actual scenes and events which made 1492 one of the most extraordinary years in history. ABC cameramen ranged throughout Spain and Italy to film the very places and rooms where Leonardo da Vinci, Lorenzo de Medici and Ferdinand and Isabella lived and flourished. Even the Battle of the Alhambra is recreated on the spot where it actually took place. And, in a thrilling climax, you will follow the epic voyage of Christopher Columbus aboard the Santa Maria. You will hear Fredric March, using many of the words spoken and written by Columbus himself, narrate this exciting story of the discovery of the New World.

The Saga of Western Man is produced for the Special Projects Division of ABC News by John H. Secondari and Helen Jean Rogers. Subsequent programs in this four-part series will deal with 1776 when America became an independent new nation; with 1898 when America had become a world power; and with 1964, when once again, man is running out of space and resources.

ABC TELEVISION NETWORK abc

TV Followup Comment

Continued from page 30

tian Church organizations, the work of the Ecumenical Council, the missionary activities of the churches, the role Communism plays in the "Christian Revolution," the compatability of science and religion, and other issues such as infallibility, revelation, and biblical research were touched upon. The key criticism to the proceedings was the phrase "touched upon," for there was so much to explore that little was dealt with in any depth.

Second time out was billed as a joint venture with BBC, under exec producer Fred Friendly. The broadcast was seen in Europe from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m., British Standard Time. It will be repeated tonight (Wed.) over CBS-TV from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Horo.

Jimmy Dean Show

The Jimmy Dean show, one of ABC-TV's hopes in the live-on-tape metier, still has not evolved a workable style on its Thursday night outings. As it stands now, this series looks as if some city slickers have tacked some production tinsel on a Grand Ole Op'ry-type of entertainment. They have only succeeded in turning the genuine folk elements into hoke and spoiling what could possibly be an appealing variety show in a crackerbarrel vein.

Last Thursday's (10) show was a patchwork stanza in which Dean again worked so hard at being just-plain-folks that it was painful. There's just a trace of too many dad-gums, back-slapping and uproarious laughter at doubtful gags to support Dean's image as a sincere, down-home boy.

Jack E. Leonard, as guest comic, tore through the hour with his customary abrasive brand of humor. One routine, involving a psychological test of Leonard, was a tired and fumbling sketch. Leonard also turned up in a preposterous ballet costume for an amusing takeoff on classical hoofology. Much of Leonard's humor registers as improvised and not always on target.

The McGuire Sisters made an attractive feature with their swinging and rocking musical numbers. Stuart Hamblen, country cleffer and singer, also appeared in a long, rambling, sentimental sequence of talk and song, including a schmaltzy rendition of "My Home," which seemed to have Dean in tears. One of the brightest things on the show was Dean's bit with a hand-puppet dog, which looks as if it will be made a permanent part of this company.

Jimmy Dean also introed a singer, Ron Martin, as one of the great new performers of the age. He appeared in the show's most elaborate setting and after a couple of bars, fell down the steps, apparently battered and dazed. That was supposed to be a station-break joke. Herm.

Chronicle

Echoes of Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" sang through this "Chronicle" CBS-TV documentary, appropriately titled "American Tap Roots: Finkley, Dickey and Merry."

Producer Warren Bush had a good idea for capturing Americana through the simple devise of asking three oldsters to tell about themselves, how they lived and the changes they witnessed. Selected for Wednesday's (9) half-hour outing, at 7:30 p.m., were Mrs. William David Finkley of N.Y., the daughter and granddaughter of Negro slaves; John B. Dickey, Jr., of Newton, Kans., and H.E. Merry, of Duxbury, Mass., all octogenerians.

Mrs. Finkley told what she knew of slave life on a southern plantation, as told to her by her mother, how her forebearers breathed freedom, and how she succeeded in her determination to give her children a college education. She sang a hymn; she immitated a hog call.

Kansan Dickey told of a gun duel, the thread of the story becoming lost in the detail. He told a bit about Kansas wheat, his father and how he grew up. Merry of Duxbury, Mass., spoke about the death of his first wife, how grounded he was in the wisdom of the bible, and the man he was as a streetcar conductor.

Just talking into the cameras, they revealed a bit of themselves and the America they knew. Each had a pride and a sadness; each had an optimism and a resignation; each was a bit of a poem caught in the camera by director Robert Guenette. Horo.

So What's Nhu?

The indefatigible Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu of South Vietnam has proved to be inscrutable as far as U.S. broadcasters are concerned. Before her arrival in this country, she was busy lining up as many television shots as possible to tell the American public her version of recent events in her country. But a few hours after disembarking, Madame Nhu reversed her field and began cancelling tv commitments right, left and centre.

David Susskind, who thought he had a deal for a two-hour solo interview to be telecast on WPIX, N.Y., last Wednesday night (9) wound up only with a polite turndown on the grounds that Madame Nhu was fatigued. Madame Nhu also pulled out of WNBC-TV's "Open Mind" show and NBC's "Today" show. CBS-TV had previously cancelled Madame Nhu's scheduled appearance on "Face The Nation" on the grounds that her multiple exposure on other shows made this appearance unnecessary. She did "Meet The Press" on NBC-TV on Sunday (13) and on Wednesday (9), appeared on WOR-TV, N.Y., in an interview with Joseph Newman, of the N.Y. Herald Trib.

There was some speculation in diplomatic circles whether Madame Nhu's decision to cut back tv appearances stemmed from South Vietnam's anxiety over her talent for rubbing American officials the wrong way.

Madame's 'Nhu Act'

Continued from page 21

ance rapidly increased to more than a score, and, with about 800 yards to go, the cops became violent. The trio was forecefully separated. Halferstam was knocked out cold and Sharkey was belted across the head with a camp chair (used by sidewalk peddlers for display) and felled while trying to go to the aid of the Times man.

The cops wrested the camera from Wolfkill, then the three tried to enter a cab to ride back to the hotel. But uniform and plainclothes cops halted the driver. They went on to a limosine and driver used often by the network, and were driven to the hotel.

The newsmen called the Marines and the U. S. Embassy. Sharkey was taken to the hospital under Marine guard where he was treated for head lacerations and a broken finger (his arm is now in a cast).

Ambassador Lodge came personally to the hospital to investigate the situation, registering a complaint with the Vietnamese government immediately afterward.

Sharkey had scribbled a story of the hassle with his good hand. Friends brought a tape recorder to the hospital and the newsman did a report for phoning to the network from his hospital bed. When he was released, the network flew him back for a couple of weeks rest and exposure (he was on "Today" and slated to face Madame Nhu on "Meet the Press" Sunday (13). Incidentally, in spite of the confiscation of the Sharkey-Wolfkill footage, the network did get some 8m film of the burning from an undisclosed (naturally) source.

New 'B'fast Club' Coin

Merle Norman Cosmetics, a heavy mag advertiser, has switched the bulk of its new ad budget to ABC Radio's "Breakfast Club," starting Nov. 18.

It's a 52-week deal placed through the Nides-Cini agency of Los Angeles.

CBC Development

Continued from page 20

of some $44,000,000 in a suburban Toronto development. Another proposal, backed by the city council, is for the CBC to establish in the planned $25,000,000 St. Lawrence Centre for the Arts kitty-cat from the $12,000,000 O'Keefe Centre.

CBC spokesmen decline to say anything about the two or three offers from Toronto private interests but admit that they are located in nine Toronto establishments that cost them about $500,000 in annual rentals).

Plans for the CBC centres in Toronto and Montreal are top secret but "leak" was permitted in latter city. "That was ghastly error," said a CBC spokesman. "These plans are not to be released until they are approved by the Treasury." This was particularly embarrassing to the CBC in that J. W Pickersgill, State secretary—who reports to Parliament on broadcasting matters, still had not seen the plans of both cities.

In the case of the Montreal project, the date of the commencement of construction is Oct. 1, 1965, where some 25 acres is currently being cleared. The site cost the city council $11,000,000, for which the CBC is to pay $4,160,000—once the land is cleared—plus waiving of property taxes for the next 12 years.

Knoxville — WBIR-TV is now transmitting from its new tall tower located 15 miles east of Knoxville. A changeover time of about five weeks will be required. Tower is reportedly the world's highest.

Sardi's East
123 East 54th St. New York
PLaza 1-6655
Sardi's
234 W. 44th ST. NEW YORK
LA 4-0707

ENID MORRIS, Inc.
Television and Theatrical Fashion Designer. Consultant by appointment. PL 1-1666.
Showroom—57 West 58th St.
Suite 25 New York

FAN MAIL SERVICE
Having trouble keeping up with your FAN MAIL?
Contact
FANFARE ASSOC.
KI 9-8842 — KI 8-1241, New York

WANTED
Television Pictures For Japan
WE ARE BUYERS
Please Contact Us Without Delay
FAR EAST TV CORP.
13 SHINSAKAMACHI
AKASAKA
TOKYO, JAPAN
President: HIDEO SHIOTSUGU
Cables: FAREASTELEV
PHONE: 408-0647 TOKYO

LONDON'S TOP TV CAT-MAN
Is Now in New York
AL STEVENS
HOTEL BELVEDERE, 319 W. 48th St.
CI 6-9100

in the EAST it's MOVIELAB for...
COLOR
BLACK & WHITE
FOR YOUR SCREENINGS
Film & Tape EDITING & STORAGE Rooms
MOVIELAB BUILDING, 619 WEST 54th STREET, NEW YORK 19, PHONE 586-0360 (AREA CODE 212)

"Advocate" eyed by Balt., Bost., Cleve., Pitts., & S.F. in unique legit-tube link

On Monday, October 14th, first nighters saw the premiere of Robert Noah's "The Advocate" at New York's ANTA Theater.

At the same time, millions of tv viewers in Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and San Francisco watched the same drama, with the same cast, unfold in its entirety on their television sets.

Credit for this history-making simultaneous showing belongs to Group W (Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.) who produced the television version on video tape. Their philosophy in using tape was simple. They wanted to bring Broadway to television. They knew only video tape could capture all the present tense sound and sight excitement of the live stage performance. To assure the ultimate realization of the medium, Group W sought the unsurpassed technical abilities and creative skills of Videotape Center, the leader in tape production.

Videotape Center is sincerely proud to have been selected for its role in this unprecedented marriage between television and Broadway—the beginning of a new era in American entertainment.

VIDEOTAPE CENTER

Videotape Center, Videotape Productions of New York, Inc. 101 West 67th Street, N.Y.C.

British TV Season: Off & Running

Continued from page 20

Sunday afternoons. Show blanketed a BBC repeat feature which dipped to a 10 rating. With the start supplied by Read, the ATV lead throughout the afternoon was maintained with its feature pic against BBC's "Laramie" and serial "No Cloak, No Dagger." BBC's shows were beaten down to ratings below 20, which on a two-web basis is low.

Sunday evening prime time scramble for audiences saw ATV's "The Saint" (40) pitted against BBC's previous-season hit "Black And White Minstrel Show" (26); the Palladium outing (44) against "Perry Mason" (29) and "Armchair Theatre" (from ABC-TV) beating BBC's new dramatic entry "First Night" 44 to 22. ATV's post-10:30 p.m. score for "Beverly Hillbillies" (against BBC's cultural "Monitor" show) was 34. "Monitor," the BBC opposition, scored 5.

Though BBC fares somewhat better in the UK's second big market, the Midlands, on Saturday afternoon and night, it loses heavily to ABC-TV on Sunday and, in the North, third major region, ABC-TV the local weekend commercial contractor, pulls off an across-the-board clean sweep for both days.

So far as new shows are concerned, the initial fall sked weekend ratings offer great encouragement to the commercial boys who have brought in many more new offerings than has BBC.

Associated TeleVision's "Sentimental Agent" vidpic, for instance, augmented its 33 London rating with a 34 in the Midlands and a 39 in the North. And ATV's major comedy acquisition, "Charlie Drake Show," produced a 39 in London, 32 in the Midlands and a 43 in the North. ABC-TV's comedy show "Life And Al Read" hit London with a 32, the Midlands with 49 and the North with 45, to rack up what is believed to be unprecedented ratings for a Sunday afternoon spot.

ABC's Midlands and North scores for "The Greatest Show On Earth" acquisition from Desilu in the choice 7:30-8:30 p.m. slot brought forth TAM figures of 40 and 39 respectively. And ABC's latenight folksingery "Hullabaloo" won 13 in the Midlands and 19 in the North. Neither of the last two entries is seen in London.

Mgt.: William Morris Agency

TV Reviews

Continued from page 31

decrepit cars showed the environment from the outside, as a ride on the Broadway bus might; and even the interviews that took place inside the flats were dispassionate and conducted with a newsman's detachment. The blighted Uptown community was a garden of facts, but it was never fleshed out. Those uneducated migrants remained "Strangers To the City" per the title. Les.

WHATEVER HAPPENED TO 8?
Narrator: Vince Leonard
Producer: Robert J. Shafer
Director-Writer: Dave Burrington
60 Mins., Wed. 10 pm
FELS SOAP
WRCV-TV, Philadelphia

This hour-long documentary with the impact of drama told the story of dedication on the part of a boy, his parents and their community. The title had poignant significance. David Posnett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Posnett, of Buckingham, Pa., had been totally paralyzed in an automobile accident. He suffered multiple fractures and lingered in a near-death coma for months. He was left without the senses of sight, speech and smell. But on his ninth birthday he staged an amazing recovery and his question was: "Whatever happened to eight?"

Physicians, who could see no hope for the youngster, advised that he be institutionalized. A new concept for treating brain injury had been developed at the Institute for the Achievement of Human Potential, Chestnut Hill, and his parents took him there. Through the camera and the narration of Vince Leonard, the year David lost was retraced, along with the steps in the rehabilitation process as the uninjured part of the boy's brain was retaught such elementals as creeping, speaking, reading.

The volunteer, an army of them, gave their time to "pattern" the stricken child, moving his body and limbs in basic movements that re-teach the brain to develop control. This miracle of recovery was graphically relayed by the sensitive lensing of Dick Roy and the station's award-winning Houston Hall.

Session ended with an emotional wallop as the members of American Legion Post 210 (which contributed financial help) gave a standing tribute to David as he walked down the aisle at their meeting. Entire program was a rewarding hour for any type audience. Gagh.

Saperstein

Continued from page 27

an NBC-TV deal for a series of half-hour "Magoo" cartoons, in which he will play out great literary classics in 26 episodes. His "Christmas Carol" special, with music by Julie Styne, also will be repeated on NBC-TV, with Timex picking up the tab. UPA, which now is a subsid of TPI, has sold its "Gerald McBoing" series to CBS Films for syndication.

Saperstein, who juggles figures with business style, reports that in three weeks of distribution the 113 pictures acquired for tv have grossed over $1,000,000. He's partnered with Harold Goldman in the Screen Entertainment pix-to-tv venture.

The four pictures which Saperstein is producing for theatrical exhibition include "Two Hours to Darkness," which Bill Ludwig is scripting; "Catch A Falling Spy," book and script by Nathaniel Benchley; "Miss Deputy D.A.", Ann Sothern starrer; and "The Lemonade Caper," which George Clayton Johnson is scripting as a sequel to "Oceans 11," which he also wrote.

Saperstein stated that each motion picture includes a commitment by the writer to do a tv series. Securing top writers for tv series played no minor role in Saperstein's motion picture ventures.

TPI, which is Saperstein's major company, has the merchandising rights to such personalities and shows as Red Skelton, Debbie Reynolds, "Lassie," "Rifleman," Presley, "Lone Ranger," Chubby Checkers, "Wyatt Earp," et al.

Saying he's publicly revealing some dollar figures for the first time, the multiple enterprises of Saperstein in '62 grossed $8,000,000. Net profits, he stated, were $2,400,000 before amortization on sales.

Radio France

Continued from page 23

over to classical music only for the highbrows and buffs, and the usually over-indulged French patter will also be held to a minumum. And the whole RTF setup itself will get some structural changes along with the actual radio shifts.

That is the heads of news for tv and radio will be under different men and offices from now on, plus more autonomous aspects for each facet. Now the RTF is waiting to see how this new streamlined affair will strike listeners and whether they will be able to hold more than their own with the private competitors.

Salant

Continued from page 20

ship is heavily weighted on the entertainment rather than on the news side.

CBS News prexy acknowledged that the question of form is germaine to criticism. Form alone, though, divorced from content, is poor criticism, Salant stated.

Who is competent to judge the content of a news program or news documentary? Salant's response is "the specialist," the national affairs editor for example, the foreign editor, for another, other newsmen who live the news and know the difference between competent and superlative coverage of a news event and a poor rendition of that same event. To ask the regular tv and radio reviewer to bring the same competence to broadcast news as editors and newsmen in the field covering the same stories as reported in the broadcast medium is asking the impossible, in Salant's judgment.

CBS News prexy pointedly stated when WCBS-TV, N. Y., had its "WCBS-TV Views the Press" show criticism of the press was done by a CBS News correspondent, a specialist in the news field.

What to do? Salant didn't have any ready, practical answers. The New York Times on occasion assigns its dance, art or music specialists to cover tv shows in their respective fields. Jack Gould, the paper's regular critic, bows out for those special occasions. Conceivably, the Times and other newspapers and magazines could assign their national and international affairs experts to render reviews on news and news documentary programs.

Salant was asked what qualified him to be president of CBS News. (His background is legal and he was appointed to head up the CBS News division from a top echelon corporate berth, hardly solely involved with news). "I tried to beg off," Salant laughed, "they wanted me. And two wrongs don't make a right."

Telepix Residuals

Continued from page 29

In part, this is offset by about $130,000 from foreign royalty, but an accurate study is not yet possible, the Guild says.

That long-range 10-year prediction on royalty concept income is based on an assumption the domestic gross will remain constant at $320,000,000 because of present market saturation, tv set sales, and the state of the syndication market, also on the estimate that in 1972 the foreign gross will come to $110,000,000. WGAW predicts that in 1972, 70% of the shows will be in the royalty concept, that the royalty gross in that year will be $77,000,000 of which $3,080,000 will accrue to writers via royalties. WGAW analysis pegs the 1963 foreign gross at $65,000,000 of which 5% are royalty shows.

To date, WGAW has received royalty coin on 34 series and from 25 foreign countries, including Australia, Hongkong, Ireland, Luxembourg, The Philippines, New Zealand, England, Japan, Thailand, Scotland, Mexico, Spain, Holland and Argentina.

WGAW prexy Nate Monaster told writers the two Guild boards and council to unanimously okay and recommend the hikes.

AFTRA

Continued from page 21

docked, depending on the number of appearances a week.

AFTRA also is seeking a tightening of the code covering newsmen other than "political commentators and analysts" who do air shots. Union feels that the networks have tabbed the newsmen as "commentators" in many cases where a newsman is functioning strictly as an on-air reporter on a given web broadcast.

There are other proposals covering fees for satellite broadcasts for airing abroad, and talent appearing in pooled coverage on special broadcasts.

Proposals were worked up following AFTRA's annual convention last July in Los Angeles.

GAC Dickers DuPont On 'Story of Civilization'

Will and Ariel Durant's massive, multi-volumed "Story of Civilization" may be winding up as a television property under a deal being packaged by General Artists Corp.

GAC is trying to interest DuPont in picking up the tab for the historical series which would be produced by Sam Bronston, who's been turning out feature film epics.

West German TV

Continued from page 23

until she arrived in America, but has been happy and feels well adjusted).

An official of the American Embassy in Bonn noted that while his office is often called on to supply information for German radio and television films to show the American way of life, he had never been queried about the integration problem in America.

"In the office we discuss it among ourselves, as to how we would handle a query of this nature if we ever got one," he commented. "But we've never been asked directly about it."

Apparently, though, the crisis in America has had some effect on the German television and radio here. And the programs show honesty and perception, in not trying to show America in a bad light and to examine the same situation as it occurs here.

THE FOUR WHO? THE FOUR SAINTS

REAL ESTATE

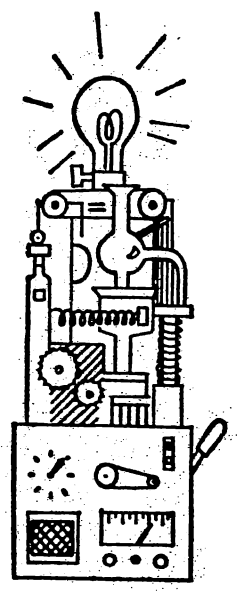
OFFICE SPACE
54-55 STS.
850 7TH AVE.
Modern office suites now available
2½ rms 530 sq ft $200 mo
3 rms 725 sq ft $225 mo
3½ rms 800 sq ft $250 mo
See Supt Seidel on premises
HERBERT W. TUTTLE CO., Inc.
157 WEST 57 ST. JU 6-8200

310 WEST 47th ST.
New York
2½ ROOM STUDIO APTS.
Spacious L-Shaped Liv Rms. Streamlined kitchens, beaut. bathrms. Extra large closets, air conditioned.
ALSO MODEL APT AVAIL
AGENT ON PREM. LT 1-1115

CENTRAL PARK WEST (70's)
4 bedrooms; 4 baths; 32 ft. living room, panelled dining room, high ceilings, facing park. Magnificently furnished with antiques.
Long or short lease $1295.00 per month.
BR. 9-2174

PRESTIGE LOCATION
for weekend or vacation home. 3 acres, nicely wooded, magnificent view, 1½ hrs from NYC, 1 mile from New Hope, Pa.
Phone 201, 322-8177 anytime.

OFFICES TO RENT
Desirable building midtown section.
Phone COlumbus 5-7489



What is it?

We don't know. Couldn't care less.

But we do know that if you advertise it on KSTP-TV you can sell it . . . and plenty more like it.

The Northwest's first TV station, KSTP-TV effectively and economically sells a market of 810,800 TV families and over Five Billion in spendable income.

KSTP television 5
100,000 WATTS NBC
MINNEAPOLIS • ST. PAUL

NAKED CITY

GREAT GUEST STARS . . .
WEEK AFTER WEEK!

Eli Wallach	Peter Falk	Lee J. Cobb
George Maharis	Roddy McDowall	Geraldine Fitzgerald
Suzanne Pleshette	Sam Jaffe	Luther Adler
Eric Portman	Abby Lane	Eddie Albert
Felicia Farr	Sylvia Sidney	Hume Cronyn
Claude Rains	Keenan Wynn	Mickey Rooney

. . . and many, many more!

For details contact
SCREEN GEMS, INC.

CBS-TV's Joe Curl Adds Sports to Sales Vistas

Joe Curl, CBS-TV v.p. of daytime sales, has had his horizons broadened at the network to encompass that of director of sports sales for the network as well.

Under the new setup now in effect, Jack Purves, sports sales coordinator, and Bill Martin, sports sales specialist, will report to Curl. In addition to assuming supervisory responsibilities for sports sales, he continues in his role as v.p. of daytime sales.

Widening of Curl's horizons caps a successful daytime sales operation, which finds the fourth quarter daytime schedule sold out and the only thing left to sell in the fourth quarter, starting in January, being morning minutes.

TV Foreign Reviews

Continued from page 35

cal and rationalist Gideon Cobb (John Phillips), a dogmatic believer in the perfectibility of man. The script was largely an excuse for an argumentative clash between the two viewpoints. Ironically, it was Cobb who was vouchsafed the revelation of the future, although he denied the truth. Sir Timothy, anxious to record events with a battery of crude instruments, was exhibited as a character with the valuable gift of curiosity. He would arrive at the truth in the end—without the benefit of a supernatural short-cut.

Unfortunately, the conflict of opinions was resolutely arid throughout, and the dramatic tension implicit in the ghostly action was never realized. Result was a boggy morass of chatter, remaining inert. John Phillips was okay as the formidable Cobb, but James Maxwell could make little of the enthusiastic squire and Ann Bell even less of his wife, who was merely introduced to distract the eye. Christopher Morahan's direction was limp. Otta.

WBKB

Continued from page 26

Hill for immediate delivery without having a spot on the schedule for either of them; indeed without having a proper news department to incorporate them into. He had been looking for a news personality to backstop Dreier for some time, but the kind of highpriced depth he's getting from the two WBBM-TV expatriates virtually commits him to a fullscale news operation, whether the station is ready for it or not.

The WBKB plans board has been meeting all week to figure how to revise the local schedule so that the newcomers may be slotted, and so far nothing has been settled upon except the date on which it's supposed to happen. That's to be Nov. 4.

Whatever might be said of Quinlan—and he's been criticized for his free-wheeling ways and for all the projects that misfired—he alone keeps the game lively here. Those Brooks Bros. shops might bear in mind that it was management trying to please stockholders, and not the bad acts, that killed vaudeville.

New York—John J. Ryan Jr. has been designated regional membership executive for the Associated Press in New York state.

Hear . . .
Hollywood
Commentator
DICK STROUT
ON over
800 Stations
in Americal

Suite 404
1717 N. Highland Av.
Hollywood 28, Cal.
469-6884

CUSTOM TAILORED SUITS
FOR THE ACTOR
Each garment handmade on the premises with a canvas fry-on.
Finest Italian and British Fabrics
$85.00 — $95.00
I will not let you wear it if it does not fit.
JACK FINO
1576 B'way, cor. 47 St., New York, N. Y.
LT. 1-3873 Rm. 317

Britain's Yank Yen

Continued from page 27

a stake in telefilming on its own account—"The Saint," "Sentimental Agent" currently—and has a co-production deal with NBC on "Espionage," has reportedly acquired no new American show (save "Beverly Hillbillies" which has been going the rounds in the regions).

Regional outlets on the commercial network have been on a buying spree, too, with stations like TWW, the Welsh indie, picking up as many as half a dozen American series for future transmission.

BBC-TV, now desperately looking for product for its second channel (bowing in April), is looking hard at the 90-minute shows which have emerged across the Atlantic. Reportedly, and the Corporation isn't saying one way or the other, BBC has picked up the 90-minute version of "Wagon Train"—the hour shows have been seen on both the commercial and existing BBC tv channel—and has bought "Arrest and Trial" for its new 625-line outlet.

Washington, N.C. — W. Bennie Waters Jr., has resigned as news director of WITN-TV and accepted a position on the news staff of WBT-TV in Charlotte.

JACK BAILEY'S 'QUEEN' BOFFO IN OMAHA DATE

Omaha, Oct. 15.

"Queen for a Day" was a big smash here Oct. 7-11 in one of its infrequent appearances away from Hollywood.

Jack Bailey termed the reception "the greatest we have ever received and the people the warmest we have ever played before." Crowds were estimated at 45,000-50,000 for the five days of the show which was carried live on ABC and originated with KETV in Omaha.

The show was brought to Omaha by Ak-Sar-Ben, giant civic organization, as a part of the Omaha Retailers Golden Jubilee Celebration. The festivities ran from Sept. 28-Oct. 12 and featured the Navy's Blue Angels, television and radio personalities and other guests. Peter Lorre came in to boost the premiere of Ray Milland's "Man With the X-Ray Eyes."

Bailey said the crowds at the Omaha Civic Auditorium were the largest his show played before in the 18 years it has been in existence. He praised aud manager Charley Mancuso. Femmes came from as far away as Pittsburgh and chartered buses ran each day from Kansas City, Mo.

Kalmus Award to NBC's Quiroga As SMPTE Hold Annual Powwow

Boston, Oct .15.

More than 800 experts from throughout the U. S., Europe, Japan, attended the 94th semi-annual technical conference of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers at Hotel Somerset, which opened Sunday (13) and continues through Friday (18).

Alex Quiroga, color and technical coordinator in Hollywood for NBC, received this year's Herbert T. Kalmus gold medal award for outstanding technical achievement in color motion pictures for theatre or tv use at awards ceremonies Tuesday night (15). Quiroga, who supervises color film programs, "Bonanza," "Virginian," "Hazel," "Kraft Theatre," has been working with such problems as the objective balancing of tv color monitors.

The 1963 progress medal award of the society went to Arthur C. Hardy, emeritus prof. of optics and photography at MIT. This chief award of the society recognizes outstanding technical contributions to the progress of motion picture and tv engineering.

Sidney P. Solow, v.p. and general manager Consolidated Film Industries, Hollywood, was chairman of the award committee.

Dr. Hardy is known for his pioneer work in motion picture sound recording during the mid 1920's and his later work on the theory of color reproduction in the fields of photography, tv and graphic arts.

Other awards went to Henry N. Kozanowski, manager of tv advanced development for RCA, Camden, N. J., who received the 1963 David Sarnoff gold medal award recognizing meritorious achievement in tv engineering; Morton Sultanoff, physicist at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., who received the E. I. du Pont gold medal award for outstanding contributions to engineering phases of instrumentation and high speed photography; Robert L. Lamberts, research associate with Kodak Research laboratories, Rochester, the 1963 Journal award for the most outstanding technical paper published Honorable mention went to Walter Bach for "Magnetic-Striping 'Azimuth-Plateau' effect on frequency response of 16m and 8m film: "An engineering survey"; and J. S. Courtney-Pratt for "Image converter tube photography."

Two national officers of the society were reelected in a small ballot and two others were newly elected.

Memorandum

TO: J.L.B.

FROM: R.N.A.

SUBJECT: THE CINEMA
BEVERLY HILLS HOTEL

I have just heard that the Beverly Hills Hotel is opening a unique private projection room on October 15 called THE CINEMA, which meets all our our screening needs.

It will be an intimate, plush room with homey atmosphere where we can screen pilots, current television shows, spots, documentaries and feature films in 35mm or 16mm, standard size, or Cinemascope... anything from slides to "Cleopatra," and it provides simultaneous facilities for lunch, dinner, or cocktails.

The dining and bar set-up in THE CINEMA makes it a perfect place for us to hold our screenings and entertain in complete privacy at the same time.

Mal Sibley, at the Beverly Hills Hotel, is the man to contact. He will give you all the other information you might need.

R.N.A.

Goulet's 'Person,' Stompers' 'Square,' Page 7's 'Explosion,' Mimms' 'Baby,' Beach Boys' 'Coupe' Top New LPs

ROBERT GOULET: "IN PERSON" (Columbia). Robert Goulet has become a surefire seller in the album market and this new one, which showcases him in concert, is likely to be the best. It has everything the Goulet fans could possibly want and the LP provides the feeling of being on the spot at one of his concerts. Other bright points are the variety of song material that a concert offers and a topflight act put together by such able hands as Lyn Duddy & Jerry Bresler, who set up the presentation; Sid Ramin, who worked on the arrangements with Bresler, and Columbia's Jim Foglesong, who produced the package. Included are a medley by Alan Jay Lerner & Frederick Loewe, a medley of vintage songs, Rodgers & Hammerstein's dramatic "Soliloquy" from "Carousel" and a nifty reading of "What Kind Of Fool Am I," among other ear-arresting bits. The set was recorded at the Chicago Opera House and the sound is good.

THE VILLAGE STOMPERS: "WASHINGTON SQUARE" (Epic). Combining folk and dixie stylings into a swinging musical blend is the pattern of the Village Stompers, an instrumental unit which has been creating a stir with its "Washington Square" single. Now there's a whole album of Stompers sounds and those who dug the 45 will be happy with this extended version. The group also manages to get a hint of rock into some numbers, and all swing brightly as they step out after various-styled intros. Many of the tunes are from the recent folk hit parade; others come from the country or dixie bag. The arrangements are always unique, and played with a zest that is both spirited and savvy.

THE PAGE 7: "AN EXPLOSION IN POP MUSIC" (RCA Victor). The newly organized Page 7 is a compact band with the drive of the big band styling familiar to Count Basie. The group hits a hard, swinging beat packed with rhythm and inventiveness. Most of their book in this package is new, which demands added attention, but even the treatments of Jerome Kern's "Pick Yourself Up" and George Gershwin's "Summertime" rivets the ear. For the record, the new combo consists of Page Cavanaugh (pianist-leader), Lew McCreary (trombone), Dave Wells (trombone), Bob Jung (Sax), Jack Sperling (drums), John Pisano (guitar), and Don Bagel (bass). Together they make up one of the most exciting musical crews to come along in some time.

GARNETT MIMMS & THE ENCHANTERS: "CRY BABY and 11 OTHER HITS" (United Artists). Garnett Mimms & The Enchanters created quite a spinning storm a couple of months ago with the release of "Cry Baby." In fact the disk is still one of the hottest items on the turntable circuit so the album with the title in the spotlight can be a potent lure for the teen crowd. Group is strictly for the juve set, though. The sound is loud and raucous aimed to stir up young blood so the kids will probably have a ball with it. The "11 Other Hits" in the package are similarly pegged for excitement but have yet to prove themselves.

THE BEACH BOYS: "LITTLE DEUCE COUPE" (Capitol). The teenagers are apparently replacing their surfing binge with hot rod music. The beat's virtually the same but the lyric message centers on the motor car instead of the surf board and is more in keeping with their seasonal activities. At any rate, The Beach Boys, who made a big splash with their surf sounds, will do as well with their hot rod beat. Their single, "Little Deuce Coupe," has already moved out and this similarly titled package can't help but follow.

MANTOVANI ORCH: "MANHATTAN" (London). The music of and for Manhattan is an easy mark for Mantovani. The bounce of "Give My Regards to Broadway," the charm of "Autumn In New York," the dynamics of "Slaughter On Tenth Ave." or the jazz of "Harlem Nocturne" fit neatly into his wide-ranged musical perspective. With arrangements by Roland Shaw, Mantovani supplies a musical variety that gives his full-blown orch plenty of room to move about. There'll be a big spinning pickup for all sides.

"ELIZABETH TAYLOR IN LONDON" (Colpix). CBS-TV's "Elizabeth Taylor In London" special last Sunday (6) pulled in an impressive Nielsen so the soundtrack set of the show is bound to pick up enough sales ruboff to make it a worthwhile venture for the company. However, Miss Taylor fails to ignite on disks as she does on the screen. Her readings of poetry and prose are styled along elementary elocution lines without much punch or passion. The music composed by John Barry is appropriately moody with an occasional jazz touch to lift things up.

JIMMY SMITH: "ANY NUMBER CAN WIN" (Verve). The jazz work of Jimmy Smith's Hammond electric organ has already won pop favor and with the push on his "Any Number Can Win" side, the popularity is destined to go even further. He has a driving infectious beat. With the assistance of such topflight sidemen as Kenny Burrell on guitar and Ed Shaughnessy on drums, the rhythm is precise and persuasive. The album's title comes from the theme of a current Metro pic release. Included in the package are same Smith originals as well as some nifties that stand up well in his hands as "You Came a Long Way From St. Louis," "Georgia On My Mind" and "Ruby."

THE SURFARIS (Decca). Although the surfing fad is on the ebb, especially in the east, The Surfaris still have a good chance to make some noise with their first Decca package. The beat is hot and frolicsome and the songs, like "Wipe Out," "Point Panic," "Waikiki Run" and "Surfer Joe," will surely continue to put the teeners in the surf music swim.

LONNIE MACK: "THE WHAM OF THAT MEMPHIS MAN" (Fraternity). As careful title readers will pick up, this album contains driving guitar man Lonnie Mack's recent disclicks "Wham" and "Memphis." Backed by a rocking unit of instrumentalists and spirited vocal wailers, the LP also showcases the youngster in a pose unfamiliar to many of his fans—that of a singer. He vocalizes on a few soulful bits here and of course rocks with skill on some instrumental selections. The result is a package which should catch on for Mack, both from an instrumental and vocal standpoint.

THE PLATTERS: "LATINO" (Mercury). The Platters have apparently made it in all languages and practically everywhere so this salute to Latin America will only serve to strengthen their grip with the Latino-lovers. They've put together a lilting package that features some of the most popular south-of-the-border entries to have made it in gringo-land. Even so, "Siboney," "Amor," "Malaguena," "Besame Mucho," "Marie Elena," "Green Eyes" and "Brazil" can still win new fans as The Platters take them over.

TIMI YURO: "MAKE THE WORLD GO AWAY" (Liberty). This session catches husky-voiced singer Timi Yuro in a soulful ballad mood. Her emotional style is nicely showcased by the outing, pegged to her recent click "Make the World Go Away" which is included. Miss Yuro uses her deep voice to advantage, wailing with spirit and style backed by effective arrangements by Marty Paich, Ernie Freeman and Belford Hendricks. There's an occasional driver included in the LP like "I Walk the Line." She handles these groovers skillfully. But the session remains mostly a ballad affair and as much it is a fine package which will attract lotsa attention from pop music buyers.

LAWRENCE WELK
Has Another Hit Dot Record!
"BLUE VELVET," B/W "FIESTA"

Sporn's Michigan Music

Murray Sporn, music publisher-record producer, has launched Michigan Music Publishing Corp.

His initial production commitment is with 20th Century-Fox Records. The first Sporn-produced side for 20th is "Story Untold" by The Emotions.

Longplay Shorts

Marianne Mantell and Barbara Holdridge, co-owners of Caedmon Records and The Shakespeare Recording Society, have been selected for inclusion in the first edition of "Who's Who In The American Theatre"... Teresa Stich-Randall's first album of solo operatic arias will be released by Westminster this month... Regina Records signed pianist Roger Kellaway to a three-album pact... Xavier Cugat and Abbe Lane have joined the client stable at Mal Braveman's office. Ditto Regina Records and its prexy Jack La Forge... Atlantic and Atco, and two labels distributed by Atco, Vault and Moonglow, are releasing 18 albums this month. The LPs are being offered to distributors with a 15% discount during October and deferred billing terms to qualifying accounts.

Ray Charles, ABC-Paramount disker, has set aside next May and June to do a film in Europe... ABC-Paramount plans to record Fats Domino's act at The Flamingo, Las Vegas, where he opens tomorrow (Thurs.)... In an October LP release Impulse throws the spotlight on Beverly Jenkins, wife of Gordon Jenkins. She's a jazz singer... Cozy Cole, Coral disker, set for Cincinnati's Living Room starting Oct. 27... Decca's Gold Label classical artists, The Alma Trio, leaving shortly on a U.S. State Dept. sponsored tour of Czechoslovakia...

Violinist Ricci, currently out on Decca with "A Tribute To Fritz Kreisler," set for a return appearance with N.Y. Philharmonic at Lincoln Center... Roberta Sherwood, now recording for the ABC-Paramount label, goes into Boston's Statler-Hilton Hotel for two weeks starting Nov. 4. She's also set for a week at Cleveland's Chateau beginning Nov. 18... Pianist Rosalyn Tureck, back in New York after a South African, will do Bach recitals at the Kaufman Auditorium Oct. 19 and 26... Warner Bros.' distribution in the Albany and New York areas will be handled by Alpha Distributing out of N.Y. Also, the M.S. Distributing Co. of Chicago will add the Indianapolis territory to its selling area for WB.

Jerry Kennedy has returned to Mercury Records' Nashville a&r staff after a hitch with Columbia Records. His new deal with Mercury includes provisions for him to scout new talent and for him to handle any new artists he acquires.

Cameo-Parkway, a Philadelphia-based label, has opened offices in New York... Columbia's New Christy Minstrels and Jubilee's Enzo Stuarti have concert dates at New York's Carnegie Hall on Oct. 27 and Oct. 19, respectively... Atco Records will handle national distribution of the Vault Records LP, "Hot Rod City," as well as Vault's entire line of albums and singles.

Top Singles Of The Week

(The 'Best Bets' of This Week's 100-Plus Releases)

FRED DARIAN.... THAT LUCKY OLD SUN
(United Artists)..... North To Durango
Fred Darian's "That Lucky Old Sun" (Robbins) brings back this Frankie Laine hit of about 10 years ago in a powerful performance that should mop up plenty of spins on all levels. "North To Durango" (Breezy Willow*) is a somewhat ponderous saga of the west.*

* * *

GEORGE HAMILTON..... DON'T ENVY ME
(MGM)..... Little Betty Falling Star
George Hamilton's "Don't Envy Me" (Famous) gives this actor-singer a solid piece of material with a firm beat and a lyric that'll draw the juke spins. "Little Betty Falling Star" (Arch*) is another smoothly handled slice with strong potential.*

* * *

PATTI PAGE..... IF AND WHEN
(Columbia)..... Love Letters
Patti Page's "If and When" (Miller) is a pretty ballad that shapes up as one of the strongest entries by this songstress in some time. "Love Letters" (Famous*) is another good piece of material for this performer.*

* * *

DIANE RAY..... MY SUMMER LOVE
(Mercury)..... Where Is The Boy
Diane Ray's "My Summer Love" (Gil†) scores as a well-written rocking ballad with a seasonal peg which this songstress delivers right on the teen target. "Where Is The Boy" (Gallico†) is an okay entry with a bright beat.

* * *

ROSEMARY CLOONEY..... HELLO FAITHLESS
(Reprise)..... A Hundred Years From Today
Rosemary Clooney's "Hello Faithless" (Acuff-Rose†) comes across as an infectious rhythm number with a nifty lyric idea handled in a way that could bring this songstress back into the hit lists. "A Hundred Years From Today" (Robbins) is another strong slice in a standard groove.*

* * *

TOMMY LEONETTI..... SOUL DANCE
(RCA Victor)..... Somebody Loves You
Tommy Leonetti's "Soul Dance" (Queen M) is a slow-moving rhythm number with a hoofing idea that should appeal to the younger crowd. "Somebody Loves You" (E. H. Morris*) is a neat workover of this fine oldie.*

* * *

GINNY ARNELL..... DUMB HEAD
(MGM)..... How Many Times Can One Heart Break
Ginny Arnell's "Dumb Head" (Peter Maurice) registers as an original conception with a cute lyric which this songstress delivers in a suitable high-pitched groove. "How Many Times Can One Heart Break" (Gallico†) is another rocking ballad entry with a good tune and lyric.*

* * *

THE DREW-VELS..... JUST BECAUSE
(Capitol)..... Tell Him
The Drew-Vels' "Just Because" (Beechwood†) registers as a strong rocking ballad on the impetus supplied by the high-pitched lead singer of this bluesy combo. "Tell Him" (Beechwood†) is similarly tailored material also affectively projected.

* * *

THE ESCORTS..... MY HEART CRIES FOR YOU
(Coral)..... Give Me Tomorrow
The Escorts' "My Heart Cries For You" (Massey-Jungnickel-Gladys) is a way-out rocking slice of an old hit which could come back for another ride with the new generation of teenagers. "Give Me Tomorrow" (Champion†) is a fair ballad which this combo exercises with their vocal pyrotechnics.*

* * *

THE TRIPJACKS..... WE SHALL OVERCOME
(Squire)..... Shovelled 10 Miles
The Tripjacks' "We Shall Overcome" (Ludlow†) is a standout version of this anthem of the civil rights movement by a folk group which could give the stirring number wide circulation. "Shovelled 10 Miles" (Focus-Country Gentlemen†) is an okay entry also in the folk idiom, but with a lot of talk.

* * *

KING CURTIS... THEME FROM "LILIES OF THE FIELD"
(Capitol)..... Part II
King Curtis' "Theme From 'Lilies of the Field'" (Unart†), a pic theme, registers as a fine instrumental which this orch swings over two sides with unflagging energy.

* * *

THE KIRBY STONE FOUR..... WASHINGTON SQUARE
(Warner Bros.)..... High Is Better Than Low
The Kirby Stone Four's "Washington Square" (Rayven†) is an interesting entry with a catchy rhythm and a big plug for New York's Greenwich Village projected in a slick jazzy style. "High Is Better Than Low" (Harms), from the legit "Jennie" score, is another bright side with a snappy inspirational idea.*

* * *

DEBBIE DOVALE..... HEY LOVER
(Roulette)..... The World We Love In
Debbie Dovale's "Hey Lover" (Roosevelt†) registers as a sharply arranged rocking ballad with a sound and lyric due for big impact with the Coke set. "The World We Love In" (Leeds) is a big classy Italo ballad which this songstress handles in an interesting style.*

* * *

BOB & PEGGY..... I'M GONNA LOVE MY WAY
(Peacock)..... Everybody's Talking
Bob & Peggy's "I'm Gonna Love My Way" (Don†) shapes up as a solid rocking ballad with a teenage lyric delivered in the approved style by this duo. "Everybody's Talking" (Don†) is another good side in a similar groove.

* * *

RAY CONIFF..... HOW AM I TO KNOW
(Columbia)..... Sweet Sue, Just You
Ray Coniff's "How Am I To Know (Robbins) comes across as a toe-tapping instrumental in a fresh-sounding arrangement which will win plenty of plays. "Sweet Sue, Just You" (Shapiro-Bernstein*) is a smart workover of the oldie.* Herm.

FILM SCORES' LONGRUN LP'S

Disk Industry & B'casters Now Going Steady—Meeting on Mutual Problems

The record industry and the broadcasting industry are on their way to sharing a common purpose. For the first time the National Assn. of Broadcasters has called in disk industry representatives to attend its seminars and discuss mutual problems.

A tightening of ties between the broadcasters and diskers has been part of the long campaign conducted by the Recording Industry Promotion Assn. The coordination of disk industry reps and the NAB seminars is now being handled by Henry Brief, exec secretary of the Record Industry Assn. of America.

The RIPA has been driving for such a liaison so that mutual problems may be discussed and solution arrived at by top management in both fields. The org figures that inasmuch as the recording industry has played such a vital and important part in the growth of radio, the broadcasters and the diskers should be on closer terms than they have been in the past to iron out the wrinkles that affect both their industries.

The NAB seminars, which kicked off Monday (14) in Hartford, will run about a month in various cities around the country. Brief has arranged for top industry reps to attend the various seminars.

Bill GaHagher, of Columbia Records, will represent the diskers at the Hatrford seminar. (Dick Gersh, of Colpix, was originally scheduled but had to cancel.) Bill Alexander (RCA Victor) will attend the Miami seminar tomorrow (Thurs.).

Sol Handwerger (MGM) is set for Pittsburgh on Oct. 21; Bob Thompson (Columbia) will attend the Miami Beach meet on Oct. 24; George Cooper (Dot) is set for the Nov. 14 seminar in Nashville; Morris Diamond (Mercury) will represent the diskers in Fort Worth on Nov. 18; William Muncy (Warner Bros.) will go to the Denver meet on Nov. 21; and Bruce Davidson (Capitol) is set for the San Francisco parley on Nov. 25.

London Label Invading U.S. Mkt. in Spring With 15 'New Sound' Albums

London, Oct. 15.

London Records Inc., British Decca's wholly-owned American subsidiary, is planning to hit the U.S. market with a "major program" of British-made albums in the spring. Company is to release between 12 and 15 stereo albums from January through March, many of which will involve a sound "seldom, if ever, duplicated in the U.S."

The American London label may spark the launching by flying reps from its 40 U.S. distribs to this country, where they will hear the British-produced LPs, meet some of the people who made them, etc.

The 12-15 LP release is necessitating day and night recording activity on the part of London's resident-in-U.K. a&r manager Tony D'Amato. Latter is the Yank disker who recorded the Phase 4 stereo albums for London, eight out of the first dozen scoring in the American charts (and four of them staying there for six months).

Hank Tausend, Ex-MCA, Joins ITA Concert Dept.

Hank Tausend has joined the concert department of International Talent Assoc. He was formerly with Music Corp. of America and UTM Artists Ltd.

ITA's New York office is now staffed by Frank Modica Jr., Alan Lawler and Tausend in the concert department; Irwin Arthur, Larry Gengo and Pater Paull in location bookings; Harry Bell, Dick Berkmayer and Sheldon Brodsky in radio-tv.

Bert Block, ITA president, is now in Hollywood developing expansion plans for firm's operations in tv and the acquisition of new artists. Larry Bennett is ITA's exec veep.

MGM's 'Twilight' 'Track

MGM Records will release the soundtrack recording of Richard Chamberlain's first full-length pic, "Twilight of Honor." In addition to the instrumental music composed by Johnny Green, the album will contain two new songs, "Blue Guitar" and "They Long To Be Close To You," recorded by Chamberlain.

The pic is scheduled for late October release.

Liberty Back To Bennett as Avnet Divests Diskery

London, Oct. 15.

Alvin S. Bennett, American disker who joined the Liberty label in 1958 and later became president of the company, has reacquired the firm from America's Avnet Electronics Corp. which bought the outfit in May, 1962.

In picking up all the Liberty stock, Bennett also gets publishing rights to 6,000 copyrights that accrued to the label following Avnet's subsequent buyout of the Imperial label which merged with Liberty.

In London for dickers with EMI, which distributes the Liberty banner in the U.K., and on a talent scouting spree, Bennett indicated that under the new structure of the company he is principal stockholder and prexy. His future plans include setting up a new publishing entity—kicking off with the 6,000 properties he now has. He already has ties with London pubber Dick James in Metric Music.

Bennett has also been huddling with Chappell here in connection with their joint holdings in Sheldon Music and Commodore Imperial Music.

According to Bennett, it is not true to say the Liberty label has been going down the past few months. He contends that while under the Avnet umbrella (he was still head, incidentally), the label acquired five key distribution outlets in the U.S. which repped a large capital investment. Record sales, he says, in fact increased.

PICKWICK INT'L BUYS WEISS & BARRY CATALOG

Pickwick International stepped up its diversification program last week with the purchase of the Weiss & Barry music catalog. According to Cy Leslie, president of Pickwick, a lowprice diskery combine, the purchase was transacted on a cash basis without dilution of equity in the company.

The Weiss & Barry catalog comprises several hundred copyrights including "That's All I Want From You," "Please Mr. Sun," "I Can Read Between The Lines" and "No Love." Joe Abend, veteran music man and Pickwick's promotion manager, will supervise the music publishing companies.

Leslie is now scouting for the acquisition of other music company catalogs.

Int'l Pub. Corp. Buys New Musical Express

London, Oct. 15.

Britain's newspaper-magazine empire, International Publishing Corp., has acquired the New Musical Express, largest sale (300,000) weekly music paper in this area.

Sellout by independent publisher Maurice Kinn, means that three of the four leading local sheets now come under the auspices of IPC—Melody Maker, Disc and NME.

BIG PAYOFF IN NON-MUSICALS

By MIKE GROSS

The non-musical soundtrack album has developed into a potent property for the record companies. Not only have they been picking up big sales concurrent with the film's run but they have shown payoff durability after the pic has passed the subsequent run and nabe situations.

Also, in the past, the exploitation of the original score of the non-musical motion picture was usually dictated more by the desire to merchandise the film than in hope of selling the albums. Now, the albums serve a two-fold purpose—they are important tools in the pic's exploitation as well as being profit-pulling platters on their own.

The emergence of the non-musical soundtracker has been pointed up in the past few weeks by VARIETY's, "Best Selling Albums" chart. Riding high are "Lawrence Of Arabia" (Colpix), with a run of more than eight months; "How The West Was Won" (MGM), with a run of six months, "Cleopatra" (20th Century-Fox), with a run of close to four months, and newcomer "Mondo Cane" (United Artists).

Other soundtrack albums that are rising on the sales horizon are "Dr. No" (United Artists), "Irma La Douce" (United Artists) and "Women Of The World" (Decca). Another hot contender in the sales sweepstakes is "The Great Escape" (United Artists) with a score by Elmer Bernstein. Bernstein's score for "To Kill A Mockingbird" (Ava) clicked earlier this year.

Bestselling 'Lawrence'

One of the veteran topselling LPs in the non-musical soundtrack field this year is "Lawrence of Arabia." Maurice Jarre's score for the film that won seven Academy Awards, including best original score for a motion picture, took off immediately upon release eight months ago and it is still going strong.

The "Lawrence of Arabia" pic also copped many international awards, and sales of the soundtrack in foreign countries mirror the sales success in the U.S. The film will shortly go into 1,000 neighborhood theatres and receive a new series of promotional campaigns that make the Colpix execs bullish about a continual upward sales spiral.

"How The West Was Won" is another solid example of a soundtracker's sales appeal and long-lasting sales volume. The score was composed by Alfred Newman and while there were adaptations

(Continued on page 44)

RCA Ups Stefan To Tape-Custom V.P.

Joseph Stefan has been set as division v.p. for tape and custom products at RCA Victor. It is a newly-created post, which, according to Norman Racusin, Victor veep-operations manager, emphasizes the growing importance and constant expansion of the company's tape manufacturing and marketing.

Continuing to direct their respective functions under Stefan are R. C. Williams, manager of custom records; E. O. Welker, manager of marketing magnetic tape products; and E. D. O'Mahoney, manager of the Indianapolis magnetic tape plant.

The RCA Victor custom records are manufactured in Hollywood, Cal., Rockaway, N. J. and Indianapolis record plants.

Prior to his new post, Stefan served with the exec management group of RCA where he was associated with C. M. Odorizzi, group exec veepee and a member of the RCA board of directors.

Col Steps Up Its Dramatic Play Original B'way Cast Album Program

Columbia Records is stepping up its original cast recording activities beyond the musical field. With the current Broadway entry "Spoon River" already in its hopper, Col is close on the heels of the upcoming Alexander H. Cohen production of "Hamlet," which will star Richard Burton, as well as the Jose Quintero production of Eugene O'Neill's "Marco's Millions" due from the Lincoln Center Repertory Co.

The "Marco's Millions" project is part of the O'Neill program blueprinted by Col president Goddard Lieberson early this year. It was announced then that Col would record all of O'Neill's plays with Lieberson producing and Quintero directing.

The label led off with a five-LP version of "Strange Interlude," which was produced last season by the Actors Studio. The cast album features Geraldine Page, Pat Hingle, Franchot Tone, Ben Gazzara, Jane Fonda, among others. It will be released next month.

The "Marco's Millions" recording will also further Col's ties with the Lincoln Center. The disk company already records the N.Y. Philharmonic and Leonard Bernstein, mainstays of Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall. There's also some talk that Col will record the new plays by Arthur Miller and S. N. Behrman which will be done this season by the Lincoln Center Reperatory Co.

The "Hamlet" project is still unconfirmed but insiders believe that Col has the inside track on the Cohen production. It will be directed by John Gielgud, who did his "Ages of Man" for Columbia on two LPs.

Also, in the dramatic play field is Col's four-package LP of Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid Of Virginia Woolf?" The package ($15-$17) was released several months ago is now up to the 25,000-copy sales mark. The diskery anticipates a steady sales climb now that a road company is running simultaneously with the Broadway production.

On the musical end, Col already has recorded Meredith Willson's "Here's Love" and is warming up for Noel Coward's "The Girl Who Came To Supper," Ervin Drake's "What Makes Sammy Run?" and the musicalization of Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" by Hugh Martin & Timothy Grey. It'll be called "High Spirits."

Smash Ups Lou Dennis

Chicago, Oct. 15.

Smash Records has appointed Lou Dennis as the label's Coast regional representative, headquartering in Los Angeles. He had previously worked in the promotion department of Mercury Records, Smash's parent company, and more recently had done promotion work for Seaboard Distributors.

Dennis replaces Jay Swint, who recently opened his own business as an indie promo man in Seattle.

AFMers Ask Ct. Seizure of Miami Conclave Minutes

Members of seven American Federation of Musicians' locals have petitioned the N.Y. Federal Court to impound the minutes of the Federation's June convention in Miami. The AFM has been ordered to appear in court today (Wed.) to show cause why it should not comply with the plaintiffs' demand for copies of the convention minutes. In the meantime, the Court signed an order last Friday (11) requiring the AFM "to safeguard, protect and maintain all such evidence in the condition in which it now exists." (The Federation will oppose the motion in Court.)

The AFM members in this action had previously brought a N.Y. Federal Court suit in which they charge that the $6 per capita tax was illegally adopted at the AFM June convention. These plaintiffs are concerned with the possibility that minutes of the June convention might be "destroyed, tampered with, mislaid or in some matter prevented from being used for determination of the issues."

The musicians say that this new move was necessary because it was called to their attention that A. A. Tomei, secretary of the Philadelphia Local 77 and one of the delegates to the convention, reported to his members in Arpeggio, that Local's house organ, that the $6 resolution was voted down by voice vote "twice" by the delegates.

This statement, they contend, is in conflict with the published AFM Official Proceedings which reported that only one voice vote was taken. The suing members also say that it is for this reason that the $6 tax was "ramrodded," and "steam rollered" through at the convention and that they must have the records of the Convention in order to show that the delegates were misled by the Federation officials, and also show that the $6 tax was illegally adopted.

If the plaintiffs convince the Court that the $6 bite was adopted illegally, then the union must try all over again.

The AFM members spearheading this new court action are Julie Schwartz, Ben Cutler, Eddie Wittstein and Marty Levitt.

KATE SMITH'S CARNEGIE GIG IN VICTOR'S GROOVE

Kate Smith's concert at New York's Carnegie Hall on Nov. 2 will be put into the groove by RCA Victor. The album, which will be cut during the concert, will be tagged "Kate Smith At Carnegie Hall."

The concert, the first of the singer's career, will be presented by Ted Collins, in association with Felix G. Gerstman, and produced by Durgom-Katz Assoc.

Skitch Henderson will conduct the 35-piece orch and the choral group which will accompany the star.

Famous Players & CHUM, Toronto, in Joint Buy Of Muzak's Ont. Franchise

Toronto, Oct. 15.

The Ontario franchise of Muzak—other than the Windsor area—has been purchased by Famous Players Canadian Corp., and CHUM (radio), Toronto. New firm has been tagged Associated Broadcasting Corp. Ltd., with headquarters in Toronto. Deal includes all of Michigan and Hull, Que.

Acquisition of the Muzak franchise was jointly made by Reuben W. Bolstad, prexy and managing director of Famous Players Canadian Corp., Ltd. and Allan F. Waters, prez of Radio CHUM-1050 Ltd. Famous Players and CHUM will each have a 50% interest in Associated Broadcasting.

Representing a cross-section of Famous and CHUM, following officers and directors have been appointed: Allan F. Waters, prexy; Reuben W. Bolstad, v.p.; Angus MacCunn, secretary; Alex Forbes, treasurer; Eugene E. Fitzgibbons and Richard Rohmer, directors. Wally West will be g.m. of the new Associated Broadcasting Corp. Ltd.

Muzak, besides providing background music for hotels, restaurants, banks, factories, supermarkets and offices by direct wire and FM multiplexing facilities, has more than a thousand subscribers in Ontario.

VARIETY

ALBUM BESTSELLERS

(A National Survey of Key Outlets)

This Wk.	Last Wk.	No. Wks. On Chart
1	2	40	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) Moving (W 1473)
2	3	25	BYE BYE BIRDIE (Victor) Soundtrack (LOC 1081)
3	1	10	ALLAN SHERMAN (Warner Bros.) My Son the Nut (WB 1501)
4	8	73	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) Peter, Paul & Mary (W 1449)
5	12	5	BARBRA STREISAND (Columbia) Volume II (CL 2054)
6	9	28	ANDY WILLIAMS (Columbia) Days of Wine & Roses (CL 2015)
7	6	5	ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) Golden Records, Vol. III (LPM 2765)
8	7	9	NEW CHRISTY MINSTRELS (Columbia) Ramblin' (CL 2055)
9	11	102	WEST SIDE STORY (Columbia) Soundtrack (OL 5670)
10	4	10	TRINI LOPEZ (Reprise) Trini Lopez at PJ'S (6093)
11	5	9	KINGSTON TRIO (Capitol) Sunny Side (T 1935)
12	18	8	NANCY WILSON (Capitol) Hollywood My Way (T 1934)
13	10	5	RAY CHARLES (ABC-Par) Recipe for a Soul (465)
14	15	33	LAWRENCE OF ARABIA (Colpix) Soundtrack (CP 514)
15	14	13	VARIOUS ARTISTS (Capitol) Shut Down (T 1918)
16	13	32	JOAN BAEZ (Vanguard) Baez in Concert (VRS 9112)
17	19	28	HOW THE WEST WAS WON (MGM) Soundtrack (1E5)
18	—	1	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) In the Wind (W 1507)
19	17	3	BOBBY VINTON (Epic) Blue Velvet (LN 24068)
20	21	17	HENRY MANCINI (Victor) Uniquely Mancini (LPM 2692)
21	38	4	BOB DYLAN (Columbia) Freewheelin (CL 1986)
22	20	16	JAMES BROWN (King) James Brown Show (826)
23	33	8	SURFARIS (Dot) Wipe Out (DLP 3535)
24	26	7	MONDO CANE (United Artists) Soundtrack (UAL 4105)
25	27	20	SMOTHERS BROS. (Mercury) Think Ethnic (MG 30777)
26	30	2	AL MARTINO (Capitol) Painted Tainted Rose (T 1975)
27	44	11	ASTRONAUTS (Victor) Surfin' With the Astronauts (LPM 2760)
28	22	5	JOHNNY MATHIS (Columbia) Johnny (CL 1809)
29	25	14	NAT KING COLE (Capitol) Lazy, Crazy Days of Summer (T 1932)
30	32	27	NANCY WILSON (Capitol) Broadway My Way (T 1828)
31	28	7	LAWRENCE WELK (Dot) Scarlett O'Hara (3528)
32	—	1	JIMMY DURANTE (Warner Bros). September Song (W 1506)
33	—	1	BEACH BOYS (Capitol) Surfer Girl (T 1981)
34	23	22	BEACH BOYS (Capitol) Surfin' U. S. A. (T 1890)
35	34	2	VENTURES (Dolton) Let's Go (BLP 2024)
36	42	17	AL MARTINO (Capitol) I Love You Because (T 1914)
37	16	26	BARBRA STREISAND (Columbia) Barbra Streisand Album (CL 2007)
38	35	13	LITTLE STEVIE WONDER (Tamla) 12 Yr. Old Genius (240)
39	40	17	CLEOPATRA (20th-Fox) Soundtrack (FXG 5008)
40	36	29	ROY ORBISON (Monument) Greatest Hits (MLP 8000)
41	37	5	LIMELITERS (Victor) 14 Folk Songs (LPM 2631)
42	29	2	FRANK SINATRA (Reprise) Sinatra's Sinatra (R 1010)
43	41	29	KINGSTON TRIO (Capitol) Kingston Trio No. 16 (T 1871)
44	24	7	TONY BENNETT (CL 2056) This Is All I Ask (Columbia)
45	31	8	BOBBY VINTON (Epic) Blue on Blue (LN 24068)
46	39	2	CHAD MITCHELL TRIO (Kapp) Best of (KL 1334)
47	47	4	CHUCK BERRY (Chess) On Stage (LP 1408)
48	45	48	JOHNNY MATHIS (Columbia) Newest Hits (CL 2016)
49	43	9	JOHNNY CASH (Columbia) Ring of Fire (GL 2053)
50	46	29	TONY BENNETT (Columbia) I Wanna Be Around (CL 2000)

Top Court Ducks 'Fair Use' Issue

Washington, Oct. 15.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday (14) to involve itself in "fair use" copyright litigation. It denied a writ of certiorari to an author who charged that copying two phrases from a book constitutes infringement and not "fair use" as ruled by two lower courts.

Harry Toulmin, author of "With Pershing In Mexico," wanted the court to review his infringement suit against the distributors of the hardcover and paperback editions of "They Came To Codura," written by Glendon Swarthout.

Toulmin said Swarthout copied two phrases from his factual account for the "Codura" novel. He said this was infringement and not fair use.

Toulmin's infringement suits were rejected by the Federal District Court in Dayton, O., and by the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Film Scores

Continued from page 43

of traditional folk songs and a few new tunes for the film, written by Newman, Ken Darby, Johnny Mercer, Robert Dolan and Sammy Cahn, and the songs woven into the action of the pic, it still falls into the category of non-musical pic.

"Cleopatra" became a national bestseller even though the film has not yet received its national release spread. The score is by Alex North (the publicity by Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton). "Mondo Cane" and "Women of the World" bring out the international aspect of the pull of a score by a non-musical. Both were written by Italian composers Riz Ortolani and Nino Oliviero.

Singles the Springboard

In many cases singles of the main theme from the film scores (usually instrumentals) have contributed to the success of the soundtrack albums. One of the top examples of this singles splash is "More" from "Mondo Cane." It broke first as an instrumental via Kai Winding's Verve recording and since has picked up a flock of vocal interpretations, as well as other instrumentals that have been scoring, too. Norman Newell wrote the English lyric for the "More" theme.

"Lawrence of Arabia" has had 27 "main theme" recordings for the singles market. More diskery action is expected now that pic is beginning to pick up new playdates.

The disk companies in the best position to cash in on this new soundtrack splurge are the subsidiaries of the major motion picture companies, who, obviously, have the inside track.

One of the oldest is MGM Records with Metro as its parent. Now there are UA's United Artists Records, Warner Bros. with Warner Bros.-Reprise Records setup, Paramount with Dot, and 20th-Fox with 20th Century-Fox Records.

One of the newest is Columbia Pictures' Colpix label. Don Kirshner, exec veepee of Columbia Pictures' music/record division, is currently prepping a hefty campaign for the soundtrack package of "The Victors." The score for "The Victors" was penned by Sol Kaplan. The pic was produced, directed and written by Carl Foreman.

According to Kirshner, "The Victors" will be Colpix's major exploitation project for the balance of the year.

Muzak Invades Germany

Frankfurt, Oct. 15.

Muzak is entering the West German entertainment and industrial fields. The Wrather Corp. has just established its "Music for Millions" in West Germany via its Muzak Corp., to provide non-stop music for offices, factories, hotels, restaurants.

The firm did $9,000,000 of business in the U.S. last year through its 250 licensed representatives. It foresees a bright musical future in the currently silent centres in West Germany.

VARIETY

SINGLE RECORD T.I.P.S.

(Tune Index of Performance & Sales)

This Wk.	Last Wk.	No. Wks. On Chart		Label
1	3	6	BE MY BABY Ronettes	Phillies
2	4	4	SUGAR SHACK James Gilmer	Dot
3	1	8	BLUE VELVET Bobby Vinton	Epic
4	2	7	SALLY GO ROUND THE ROSES The Jaynettes	Tuff
5	6	6	CRY BABY Garnet Mimms	UA
6	8	5	BUSTED Ray Charles	ABC-Par
7	5	11	MY BOYFRIEND'S BACK Angels	Smash
8	21	4	MEAN WOMAN BLUES Roy Orbison	Monument
9	7	9	SURFER GIRL Beach Boys	Capitol
10	10	4	DEEP PURPLE April Stevens & Nino Tempo	Atco
11	12	3	I CAN'T STAY MAD AT YOU Skeeter Davis	Victor
12	9	7	THEN HE KISSED ME The Crystals	Phillies
13	17	5	HONOLULU LULU Jan & Dean	Liberty
14	18	5	DONNA THE PRIMA DONNA Dion	Columbia
15	11	9	HEAT WAVE Martha & Vandellas	Gordy
16	20	4	FOOLS RUSH IN Rick Nelson	Decca
17	13	4	TALK TO ME Sunny & Sunglows	Teardrop
18	14	5	BLUE BAYOU Roy Orbison	Monument
19	16	7	A WALKIN' MIRACLE The Essex	Roulette
20	—	1	IT'S ALL RIGHT Impressions	ABC-Par
21	15	11	IF I HAD A HAMMER Trini Lopez	Reprise
22	19	7	MICKEY'S MONKEY Miracles	Tamla
23	22	7	WONDERFUL, WONDERFUL Tymes	Parkway
24	28	5	ONLY IN AMERICA Jay & the Americans	UA
25	29	3	BUST OUT Busters	Arlen
26	34	2	DON'T THINK TWICE Peter, Paul & Mary	Warner Bros.
27	31	2	MARIA ELENA Los Indios Tabajaias	Victor
28	23	6	MARTIAN HOP Ran-Dells	Chairman
29	24	3	PART TIME LOVE Little Johnny Taylor	Galaxy
30	33	2	WASHINGTON SQUARE Village Stompers	Epic
31	32	3	I'LL TAKE YOU HOME Drifters	Atlantic
32	35	2	THE GRASS IS GREENER Brenda Lee	Decca
33	30	10	HELLO MUDDAH, HELLO FADDUH Allan Sherman	Warner Bros.
34	44	3	TWO TICKETS TO PARADISE Brook Benton	Mercury
35	36	2	I'M LEAVING IT ALL UP TO YOU Dale & Grace	Michelle
36	39	6	DOWN THE AISLE Patti LaBelle	Newtown
37	—	1	YOU LOST THE SWEETEST BOY Mary Wells	Motown
38	—	1	WORKOUT, STEVIE, WORKOUT Little Stevie Wonder	Tamla
39	25	6	THAT SUNDAY, THAT SUMMER Nat King Cole	Capitol
40	26	12	MORE Kai Winding	Verve
41	37	10	THE MONKEY TIME Major Lance	Okeh
42	27	10	PAINTED TAINTED ROSE Al Martino	Capitol
43	38	7	KIND OF BOY YOU CAN'T FORGET Raindrops	Jubilee
44	40	16	WIPE OUT Surfaris	Dot
45	42	2	HE'S MINE Alice Wonderland	Bardell
46	41	4	TEENAGE CLEOPATRA Tracey Dey	Liberty
47	45	4	HELLO HEARTACHE, GOODBYE LOVE Little Peggy March	Victor
48	43	2	HOT DOGGIN' Astronauts	Victor
49	46	10	FRANKIE & JOHNNY Sam Cooke	Victor
50	47	14	MOCKINGBIRD Inez Foxx	Symbol

Tillotson, Hamilton to MGM; UA Snags 4 Lads; Other Disk Deals

Through a tie with Tanridge Productions, MGM Records will now release the diskings by singer Johnny Tillotson. The pact calls for the Tanridge firm to produce and manufacture all Tillotson recordings for release and distribution by MGM. Tillotson, who formerly etched for the Cadence label, will make his MGM debut later this month.

Also added to the MGM roster last week was MGM film star George Hamilton. He's opening his MGM disking career with "Don't Envy Me" and "Little Bitty Falling Star."

United Artists: 4 Lads, Ortolani

The Four Lads and Italian composer-conductor-arranger Riz Ortolani were added to the United Artists label last week. The Four Lads who had a longtime hitch with Columbia Records, will debut on UA with "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." Ray Ellis, who worked with the group at Columbia, was conductor-arranger on the date.

Ortolani made his dent in the U. S. market with the scores fro the films, "Mondo Cane" and "Women of the World." Ortolani and his wife, Katyna Ranieri, are due in New York Oct. 20 for meetings with UA execs regarding assignment to score forthcoming UA pix.

Elektra: Jug Band, Others

Elektra Records bolstered its roster last week with the signings of The Even Dozen Jug Band, Jean Carignan, and a trio of blues musicians from Minnesota. The blues musicians are "Spider" John Koerner, Dave "Snaker" Ray, and Tony "Little Sun" Glover.

The Even Dozen Jug Band consists of 12 young singers and musicians who play a potpourri of instruments, including 12-string guitar, Kazoo, 5-string and 6-string banjo, mouth trumpet, piano, washboard, hand trumpet and harmonica. Miss Carignan is a French-Canadian fiddler. The Minnesota hooters debut on Elektra with an album titled "Blues, Rags & Hollers."

Epic: Frankie Calen

Frankie Calen has joined the Epic roster. The young singer, who was tapped by Epic's artists & repertoire producer Bob Morgan, will debut with "Here's Where Make Believe Ends" coupled with "That's What The Girls Are Wearing This Year." For the past year-and-a-half, Calen has been appearing at nightclubs in the east and doing tv guest shots.

Case of the Stolen Orch (Benny Short's) Up For Trial Oct. 21 in Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 15.

Maestro Benny Short will try to prove the Riviera Hotel stole his orchestra when the case goes to trial Oct. 21. He plans to use Harry Belafonte as a witness.

The trial date was reaffirmed Friday (11) by Dist. Judge John Mowbray who refused to disqualify Judge Taylor Wines from hearing the case. The hotel filed an affidavit charging prejudice on the part of Judge Wines. Usually this is grounds enough for disqualification. However, Judge Mowbray ruled that the hotel and the co-defendants, American Federation of Musicians and bandleader Lewis Elias, had previously accepted Judge Wines.

The hotel's attorney, John Foley, said he plans no immediate appeal on the decision. Details on the prejudice charge were not disclosed. Friday's decision was the second recent legal round Short has won through his attorney, Morton Galane. Earlier in the week, the State Supreme Court refused to postpone the trial.

Short claims that he was dismissed from the Riviera March 1, 1961. He asserts members of his entire band said they were quitting him and going to work for Elias, who immediately was hired by the hotel.

Short's band played relief gigs when regular house orchs were off for the night.

Connie Francis' 7 'Love' Songs in 7 Tongues

Connie Francis is going on a multilingual kick with the tunes from the MGM-Joe Pasternak production, "Looking For Love." Miss Francis, who sings seven songs in the film, will record them in seven languages.

She'll cut the tunes in English, German, French, Italian, Spanish, Hebrew and Japanese. Recording sessions will begin at the completion of the film which went into production Monday (14).

Glasgow Hall Bars Liverpool Sound

Glasgow, Oct. 15.

The Liverpool Sound, favorite of the beat groups, has been banned from Glasgow Concert Hall following disturbances by teenage audiences.

So much damage was done by 3,500 enthusiastic youthful customers at two concerts given by The Beatles, top English group, that the hall, a former cinema, is now unlikely to be leased again to similar units. The Liverpool group, Gerry & the Pacemakers, skedded for the site Nov. 8 already have had their booking cancelled.

Decision has angered the promoters, who are seeking an alternative theatre for the performance. Told of the ruling, The Beatles hit back through one of their members, John Lennon, who said: "This must mean that we will never appear in Glasgow again. If the fans want us back, we will come, but in a different hall."

One hundred seats were damaged, and the balcony shook with stamping, jumping customers, at the shows given by The Beatles.

The Glasgow City Treasurer, Councillor Richard Buchanan, told VARIETY: "This type of semi-savage conduct cannot be tolerated. There were 100 seats damaged after the show, and it took 50 stewards and 40 policemen to keep the audience under control.

"We have made the decision to cancel the booking of Gerry & the Pacemakers because of the danger to the balcony. It is built on the cantilever principle, and has a certain amount of springiness. But with feet stamping and jumping about, the plasterwork becomes loose. We cannot put up with this type of damage.

"Our committee will have to consider seriously all future applications for the lease of city halls by groups of this type."

Neil Aspinall, road-manager for The Beatles, commenting on the decision, said: "We are very surprised. The crowd may have been rowdier in other places, but that is no reason why Gerry's show should be cancelled. The reaction to them might be different. To make other artists suffer seems most unfair."

Vogel Sues Over 'Trees' Growing on Broadway

Jerry Vogel has filed suit in N.Y. Federal Court against Morton Gottlieb, producer of the Broadway comedy, "Enter Laughing."

It's charged that Gottlieb infringed Vogel's renewal copyright of Joyce Kilmer's "Trees." The action claims that a public performance of "Trees" is made in the play without a license.

The suit seeks an injunction, damages sustained and an accounting. Damages sought are for not less than $250 for each alleged infringement.

WB Gets Carroll

Jazz pianist Barbara Carroll has been signed to record for the Warner Bros. label. Represented by International Talent Assoc., Miss Carroll is slated for a number of tv guest appearances the first of which is Steve Allen's show on Oct. 16.

FRANKFURT BOOK FAIR

More Global Dealers Now Handling Recordings as Well

Frankfurt, Oct. 15.

The world's largest book fair, which just ended its run here, attracted over 2,100 publishers from 36 countries. And most of the publishers at the 15th International Frankfurt Book Fair agreed that books in their countries are about 5% more costly than a year ago.

Most of the international book handlers are turning toward phonograph records to keep their turnover high—with music coming to the fore. In 1958, the book stores reported that, of their platters, about 54.5% were speaking, and the rest music, while for 1962, the percent of speaking platters has dropped to 20.7%, while of the musical records handled by the bookdealers there is an increasing assortment of classical and religious music.

Books being sold for Christmas will reach prices never before attained in Germany, with outstanding art books from $25 on up, it was revealed.

The Fair presented over 100,000 titles during just about a 24-hour round of authors' parties, cocktails for publishers, and deals to buy and sell throughout the world. Commie countries sent 152 publishers, who all reported good business with the western world. Germans, for instance, report that 3,000 of their publications are now presented annually in translation in 42 countries, and last year 2,428 titles from different lands were translated and sold in Germany.

Cafe Rouge, N. Y., Getting A Musical Reincarnation Via the Cecil Lloyd Trio

The Cafe Rouge (of New York's Hotel Statler Hilton, formerly Pennsylvania) still lives—although on a smaller scale. It's currently being brought back to musical life in the hotel's Le Petit Cafe Rouge by the Cecil Lloyd Trio.

The room, a warm and comfortable saloon-styled setup, adjacent to the famed Cafe Rouge of the big band heyday (now a lure for banqueteers and conventioneers), has booze and groceries from six p.m. to midnight (there's a one a.m. curfew on Saturdays)—but what's more important, it has Lloyd's music on-and-off throughout the evening.

There's no attempt here to duplicate the big band sound of Glenn Miller, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, et al, that made the old Cafe Rouge so popular in the late 1930s and '40s. But in his own small way (piano, bass and drums), Lloyd sets up his sessions for listening and terping in a technique that makes the spot one of the town's little wonders. (The menu is reasonable, the drinks generous and the music charge is only $1 after seven p.m.).

Lloyd, the pianist-leader, takes bassist Bill Ellington and drummer Earl Wilkinson through 25-to-30 minute sets that are wide-ranged in musical savvy and total in aud appreciation. The hotel may have taken on a square connotation over the past few years, but hip urbanites will find the musical display as easy to dig as the out-of-town crowd.

The trio's book is made up of standard stuff (Gershwin, Rodgers, Kern, bossa nova, current substantial pops and showtunes) and it's laid out in the easy-flowing terms that can only come from hip tootlers. Lloyd's own composition, "Julie," is a solid sampling of his musicianly spread.

For those who want music for dancing and/or music for background tippling in the mood or pop/jazz groove, Lloyd's group has it—and Le Petit Cafe Rouge has them until Nov. 26. Gros.

LaPalm Exits Cole Firm For Chess V.P. Berth

Dick LaPalm has been appointed vice-president in charge of album sales for the Chess Producing Corp. The Chess combine includes the Chess, Checker and Argo labels.

LaPalm is resigning his current post as sales manager for K-C Records in New York, the disk firm owned by Nat King Cole, to assume the new assignment.

Clamp News Blackout on Integration Of Chi Negro, White Tooter Locals

Chicago, Oct. 15.

A voluntary news blackout has been invoked by all parties connected with the merger negotiations between Negro Local 208, Musicians Protective Assn., and the predominantly white Local 10, Chicago Federation of Musicians. The heads of both locals said that they had signed an agreement not to discuss any facet of the negotiations, which began last Thursday (11) and were still going on at press time.

Harold C. Davis, executive board member of the AFL-CIO American Federation of Musicians, who is conducting the meetings, was equally tight-lipped about the meetings. However, Davis did deny published reports that he had endorsed (1) using Local 208's assets to apply on membership dues in Local 10 and (2) guarantees for a period of years of representatives of Local 208 as members of the executive board of Local 10.

Labor lawyers say that there is some doubt as to the legality of assuring anyone of a term in an elected union office past the time of his term. Asked of this, Davis replied that while he might speculate on it in ordinary times, any statement during the negotiations might be interpreted as a position on his part.

Herman Kenin, international prexy of the American Federation of Musicians, has given the two locals until March 1, 1964, to merge. However, there are more than local issues at stake, since the Chi solution is expected to be applied as a formula for the remaining 38 unintegrated musicians' locals in the country.

The members of Local 208 endorsed the merger at a meeting a week ago over prexy Harry Gray's objections. However, it's believed that Gray objected to the resolution so that he could go into the negotiations with a free hand.

It's understood that the rigid curb on news of the talks is at the insistence of the Local 208 prexy, who feels that he has been given a hard time by the local and national press. He has accused Local 10 prexy Barney Richards of attempting to "raid" his local.

UA Music Acquires Lyle Music, Plans More Deals

United Artists Music has further bolstered its activities with the acquisition of Lyle Music. In the Lyle catalog are such tunes as Bobby Vinton's click last year, "Roses Are Red," as well as "Happy Go Lucky" and "Johnny Will," among others.

Also, Paul Evans, cowriter of numerous Lyle hits, has been signed to write for UA Music under an exclusive contract. According to Murray Deutch, UA Music's general professional manager, there will be other acquisitions and signings forthcoming shortly.

Smothers Bros. In One-Wk. Jackpot

The Smothers Bros, folk-singing comedy duo, just completed a one-week period during which they grossed $49,000 as headliners in a Hollywood Bowl concert, appeared as guest stars on the Garry Moore and Judy Garland tv shows, grossed over $17,000 at SRO performances in Sacramento and Fresno (Calif.), introduced the new Pontiac cars through an extensive radio-tv campaign, and continued their hot-selling pace with three Mercury albums and their new single "Jennie Brown."

The Hollywood Bowl date included Brothers Four and Rooftop Singers, Joe & Eddie and Gateway Trio. (Latter two were last minute replacements for the ailing Miriam Makeba.)

The Garry Moore Show was the first of two set this year for the Smothers Bros., with offers for more guest shots coming from Moore's office. Miss Garland's show was originally scheduled for release early in December but CBS president James Aubrey ordered the switch to the Oct. 7 showcasing.

The Sacramento and Fresno dates, the first of some 50 concerts scheduled for The Smothers Bros. this fall, were produced by the local newspapers of the respective cities. Sacramento, on Saturday (5), grossed $10,434, with 4,081 people paying a top of $4. Fresno, the next night (6), did $7,262 with an even 2,500 in attendance. The top there was $3.50.

Also during their "big" week, the group finished the editing on their next Mercury album scheduled for release in November.

Wow $11,700 in Portland

Portland, Ore., Oct. 15.

The Smother Bros. racked up a whopping $11,700 in a one-nighter at the Auditorium Thursday (10). The 3,600-seater was expanded to 4,000 and scaled at $4. Hundreds were turned away. This was the brothers' initial outing in this town. Duo appeared under the Celebrity Attractions banner.

NAMM Slates '64 Trade Show at Conrad Hilton, Chi

Chicago, Oct. 15.

The National Assn. of Music Merchants has decided to hold its next annual Chi trade show in the Conrad Hilton Hotel due to an increase in the number of exhibitors and requests for more display space. The show had previously been held in the Palmer House, which is also a Hilton hotel.

The NAMM also decided to bypass New York as a convention site in 1965, a break in the tradition of holding the trade shows two years in Chi and the next two in Gotham. The 1964 meet will take place June 28-July 2.

Winchell To Dore

Ventriloquist Paul Winchell will take a crack at the pop singles field via Lew Bedells' Dore Records. His initial push side will be "Little Orphan Boy." Winchell, incidentally, works without his dummy, Jerry Mahoney, on the disk.

Catalan Tune Waltzes Off With Golden Trophy At Barcelona Song Festival

Barcelona, Oct. 15.

To the surprise of no one, a Catalan song entry walked off with the Golden Trophy at the fifth Mediterranean Song Festival held here last week. The tune, entitled "Se'n va anar," was composed by Leon Borrell with lyrics by Jose Maria Andreu, and is the first Spanish fest winner to date. Sharing in the tune's victory was Spanish warbler Salome.

Second prize went to "Paz," which observers at the fest considered more of a carol than a popular air for year-round vocalists and ballroom bands. Third award went to "Je suis la," submitted by Monaco. Two French tunes—"Qu'en as-tu fait?" and "Cherie Madame"—won praise from industry professionals who attended. The entry from Greece, "Maria, Maria," and the Israelian contender, "Mediterranean Skies," also merit song market interest despite failure to gain audience votes at Barcelona, industry insiders might say.

While the Mediterranean Song Festival this year reached out to incorporate eight sun-lane countries —France, Italy, Spain, Greece, Egypt, Israel, Monaco and Algiers, the fest appears to have shrunk considerably in reaching the masses. Audiences jumped from 5,000 at the National Palace in its first year to 14,000 at the Sports Palace last year.

However, fraudulent final balloting turned the '62 tune event into a shambles and near riot that was witnessed by millions of television spectators. Playing it call and cautious in the fifth round, song fest organizers of Television Espanola, as well as government television and radio chiefs, transferred the event to the new and acoustically superb Auditorium of All Nations in the fairgrounds where the seating capacity is limited to a little over 1,000.

LP Mkt. Developed Late in Italy But Now Soaring RCA's Big Biz

By ROBERT F. HAWKINS

Taormina, Oct. 15.

Some interesting facets and figures on the Italian disk market can be gleaned from local comments and speeches by RCA Italiana topper Guiseppe Ornato, with special reference to record clubs (recently introduced here via the Reader's Digest route) and the development of 33 rpm, which the company is pushing strongly.

According to Ornato, the biggest breakthrough in record sales in Italy has come in the past 10 years, with 1958 the switchover year in which 45s took over from 78s.

The LP market developed much later, but is now moving along very fast: in the first nine months of this year, RCA LP sales were 64% over last year's, with good prospects that 1963 totals will double those for 1962.

In 1960, when RCA Italiana began sales by mail, LPs had 5% of the Italo market total of about 20,000,000 disks. Of the current total of some 22,000,000 records, LP sales have risen to 3,000,000 or about 13.6%. Mail sales now cover only 7% of the total (vs. 11-13% for the U.S. market, but enable company to reach the distant consumer in hinterland areas, where stores are still few or the elderly person who rarely enters a record shop.

Ornato termed classical music the record business' "great and illustrious patient," but hopes that the cutpriced ("but not cut-quality") "K Series" of classics would rouse Italy's apathetic but music-loving public.

Company spokesman added that although RCA hopes to increase its 45 sales further, there is a limit in the development potential in this sector. No such limit, however, exists in the LP sector. And it is in this direction that future efforts will be directed, with a special accent on RCA's vast classical library and its eventual establishment on the local mart.

Returning to pop fare and summer sales, Ornato gave the approximate sales total for RCA's 1963 summer roster at 3,000,000 records. Rita Pavone's "Cuore" sold over 600,000; Neil Sedaka's "I Tuoi Capricci" over 350,000 to date; songs by Michele, Eduardo Vianello, Giono Paoli, and Nico Fidenco between 270,000 and 300,000 each, while several others hit marks between 40,000 and 200,000.

Mrs. Roy Turk's $600,000 Estate Aids Tyro Singers

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.

Mrs. Gladys Turk, widow of songwriter Roy Turk, left her $600,000 estate in trust for the benefit of aspiring young singers, under terms of will filed for probate Oct. 4.

Turk, who died 28 years ago, wrote such songs as "Walking My Baby Back Home," "Blue of the Night" and "I'll Get By." Mrs. Turk, who died Aug. 21 at age of 63, willed coin to the Gladys Turk Foundation, with attorney Max Fink appointed trustee.

Money, according to will, is to go for living expenses, fees of singing teachers, travel costs, clothes and publicity services.

Premier Albums Spins Up $101,625 6-Mos. Net

Premier Albums' sales for the first half of its fiscal year (six months ended July 31) were $1,502,816 with a net income of $101,625, or 37c per share on 273,000 shares of common stock presently outstanding.

Sales in the comparable period of 1962 were $1,507,046 and net profit was $100,787 or 37c per share. Earnings per share figures for last year have been adjusted to reflect a 5% stock dividend voted in May, '63.

Premier, a lowprice disk line, is headed by Philip Landwehr.

British Disk Best Sellers

London, Oct. 15.

Do You Love Me? Tremeloes (Decca)
She Loves You ..... Beatles (Parlophone)
Then He Kissed Me .. Crystals (London)
If I Had a Hammer .... Lopez (Reprise)
All In The Game .... Richard (Columbia)
I Want to Stay Here Gorme/ ..... Lawrence (CBS)
Blue Bayou ..... Orbison (London)
Just Like Eddie ..... Heinz (Decca)
Shindig ..... Shadows (Columbia)
Applejack ... Harris/Meehan (Decca)

Benny, the Fiddler, May Not Eclipse Heifetz But He's $100 Top in Mpls.

Minneapolis, Oct. 15.

The Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra figures that Jack Benny will be such a whale of a boxoffice attraction that a goodly number of localities will be willing to shell out as much as $25 and even $100 a seat to attend the Nov. 7 benefit concert with him as guest violin soloist.

At least, there have gone on sale the choicest main floor seats at those prices—400 of the $100 and 352 of the $25, with indications that there'll be no difficulty in selling them. In this connection, it has been pointed out that 90% of the ticket's cost will be income tax deductible, inasmuch as the concert will be a benefit for the orchestra.

It's, of course, by far the highest top ever charged for any concert in the orchestra's 62-year history. But Benny is expected to be a greater magnet than any preceding guest soloists who have included the world's top musicians.

Northrop Auditorium, which houses the concerts, has a 4,822-seat capacity, so there'll be plenty of moderately priced tickets. Their scale will be $3 to $5.

This will be Benny's first Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra appearance. All of proceeds will go to the orchestra.

Hoffman Replaces Glancy As CRSC General Mgr.

Maurice Hoffman has been set as general manager of Columbia Records Corp. He succeeds Kenneth Glancy who moved over to the newly created post of veepee in charge of artists & repertoire last week.

Hoffman will report directly to William Gallagher, Col's marketing veep. He'll handle management of Col's New York merchandising staff as well as work on the formulation of sales objectives and policies, planning sales and merchandising programs and maintaining channels of distribution for CRSC.

He joined Col in 1948 as sales distributor in Pittsburgh.

Texas Show Biz

Continued from page 2

Hines, into the ballroom for one show nightly there, with dancing to Chuck Arlington's band. Tab was $15 per head for dinner, dancing and the show in the public room. Dagmar and Ernie Johnson's combo packed the intime Bon Vivant with two shows nightly, also.

Other clubs pulling over capacity biz Saturday were the public 90th Floor, with singer Mildred Jones and Dick Harp's Trio; The Chalet, with the Ray Wray orch for dining and dancing, with no cover, and the Bali Hai Restaurant, with three shows by The Coronados and dancing to Rommie Bryant's Trio.

Tom Hughes, State Fair Music Hall managing director, had a 4,120 sellout Saturday night for the touring "How To Succeed Without Really Trying," scaled at $5.95-$1.65. Hughes said that four performances, Friday night through Sunday's matinee, would show an attendance of more than 14,000.

When local operators finish counting the loot, an alltime spending record is anticipated for one Dallas weekend.

On the Upbeat

New York

Vocalist Brock Peters, currently at the Village Gate, will be accompanied by Richard Davis (bass), Chief Bey (drums) and Turk Van Lake (guitar) for the musical sections of "An Evening With James Baldwin" at Town Hall this Friday (18)... Pianist Andy Hamon at the keyboard at Andre's Great Neck... Phil Leshin exited Mal Braveman Assoc. to set up his own publicity office... Miles Davis will write the background music for the legit play, "The Time of the Barracudas"... Betty Carter, Arthur Prysock, Hank Mobley, Pony Pindexter and Art Blakey's Jazz Messengers will be featured at a Town Hall concert Oct. 20 under the aegis of J.G.'s Artist Corp. ... Tyree Glenn Jr.' combo set for Trude Heller's in Greenwich Village beginning Nov. 18.

Skitch Henderson will be the musical director for "Kate Smith At Carnegie Hall" on Nov. 2 ... Cinebox has signed Eddie Martin to make two color films ... Singer Patricia Scott went into the Blue Angel Oct. 15 for two weeks ... Jack Teagarden returns to the Metropole for a three-weeker beginning Nov. 1 ... General Artists Corp. signed French singer Jean Paul Vignon ... "The Hora Hootenanny," a new musical revue, debuts Oct. 16 at the Cafe Sahbra ... The Ballroom Dancers' Assn. will stage its 15th annual ball Oct. 24 at Roseland Dance City.

Eddy Arnold, RCA Victor disker, will do an Ed Sullivan (CBS-TV) shot Nov. 10 and a stint on ABC-TV's "Hootenanny" Dec. 7 ... Singer Patty Clayton began a four-weeker at Roseland Dance City last week ... Jane Morgan is now represented in all media by personal manager Jerry Levy ... The publicity offices of Winters-Kafafian and Connie De Nave have made an east-west tie ... Bud Smith, pianist-organist, currently at Andre's in Great Neck ... Sol Yaged Quintet began a three-weeker at the Metropole Monday (30 ... The Randy Armour Singers lined up for an Oct. 8-27 engagement at Chicago's Crystal Palace ... Sam Fox, president of Sam Fox Publishing Co., on a Caribbean cruise with his wife, Clara, after a coast-to-coast trip visiting business affiliates in Hollywood, San Francisco, Cleveland and N. Y.

Singer Timi Yuro leaves today (Wed.) on an extended tour of Europe ... Concert organist Richard Ellsasser had dates in St. Cloud, Minn., (19) and Milwaukee (21) ... John Mehegan, jazz pianist-teacher has launched the Mehegan Jazz Studio in Greenwich Village ... Richard Lyons, 21-year old Philadelphia singer, will debut on Eddie Heller's Tribute label ... Norma French takes over the keyboard nightly at P. J. Moriarity's on East 54th St. ... Pianist Jane Jarvis in from Milwaukee for nitery and tv assignments ... MGM's new singer Ginny Arnell kicked off her single, "Dumb Head," at NYU's new radio network, CWAG, last week ... Al Martino has signed with Dick Gabbe-Seymour Heller, Inc.

London

Kenneth V. Jones, conductor and professor at the Royal College of Music, signed by Philip Hazelton and Alex Singer to score their feature, "Psyche '59" ... Alvin S. Bennett, Liberty Records prexy, in town with international sales direcor Jerry Thomas. Liberty's songstress Timi Yuro also in for a British tour ... Dixieland bandleader Freddy Randall, who picked up his horn again after a six-year retirement, cut a couple of waxes for EMI ... Sir John Barbirolli presented with a long service medal for 20 years with the Halle Orchestra.

Musician David Blake awarded the first Granada art fellowship at the U. of York ... Duke of Wellington's grandson, Jeremy Clyde, signed by Ember Records head Jeff Kruger. Clyde forms part of a folk group with Chad Stuart ... Springfields' last performance as a group on ATV's "Sunday Palladium" show wound with presentation to the singers from the tv company. Each Springfield now goes solo ... U.S. disk producer Quincy Jones in for the opening of the Brook Benton package show.

Bruce Welch, leading guitarist with The Shadows instrumental group, hung up his plectrum due to ill health ... Impresario Larry Parnes bringing in The Crystals in the new year.

The HIT! OF THE WEEK
RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN
(TV'S DR. KILDARE)
Sings
BLUE GUITAR
K 13170
M-G-M Records

THE ANSWER MY FRIEND IS
"BLOWIN' IN THE WIND"
PETER, PAUL & MARY • WB 5368
CHAD MITCHELL TRIO • KAPP K 510 X
JERRY JACKSON • KAPP K 543
BOB DYLAN • COL. CL 4986
DENNIS & RODGERS • CRS -300 X
ARTHUR LYMAN • HI-FPL 1013
BOB HARTER • LIBERTY LRP 3330
JACKIE DeSHANNON • LIBERTY LRP 3320
ODETTA • RCA LPM 2643
THE KINGSTON TRIO • CAPITOL T 1935
MUSIC PUBLISHERS HOLDING CORP

THE FOUR WHAT?
THE FOUR SAINTS

GEORGE HAMILTON
Sings
DON'T ENVY ME
on
MGM RECORDS
FAMOUS MUSIC CORPORATION

BIG NEW SMASH!
THE BRIDE - THE BRIDE
b/w MONKEY BEAT
Bob Gallo and The Tuxedos
ABC-10495

MM
As BEAUTIFUL As The Title "BEAUTIFUL"
DON ROMANO
on MERRY-GO-ROUND
MILLS MUSIC, INC.
New York City

300 FOLK SONGS AND POEMS
With Music, Circa 1845-1900
FOR SALE
G. CONN, 541 Bronx Riv. Rd., Yonkers, N. Y.

JOEY DEE
AND HIS REVUE
EUROPEAN TOUR, Oct. 25 thru Nov. 30
Embracing STOCKHOLM, GERMANY, AUSTRIA, SWITZERLAND, ITALY
Pers. Mgr.—DON DAVIS ROULETTE RECORDS
BOOKED EXCLUSIVELY BY ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION
JOE GLASER, President
50 WEST 57 STREET, NEW YORK 19 JUdson 2-7709
CHICAGO • MIAMI • BEVERLY HILLS • LAS VEGAS • DALLAS • LONDON

PETE SEEGER
CURRENTLY ON WORLD WIDE CONCERT TOUR
OCTOBER
Completed Tour in INDONESIA
ENROUTE TO JAPAN
REPRESENTED BY
HAROLD LEVENTHAL Management, Inc.
200 W. 57th St. New York 19, N.Y.

Copacabana, N. Y.

Tony Bennett, Pat Cooper, Cally Dodd & Rene Martell, Copa Girls (8), Joseph Mele Orch (12), Frank Marti & Cha-Cha Band (8); $6.50 minimum weekdays; $7.50 Saturdays.

The fall season at Jules Podell's elbow-to-elbow Copacabana swings into gear with Tony Bennett as headliner of a card which includes comedian Pat Cooper and the song stylings of Cally Dodd & Rene Martell. The Copa Girls are also in full bloom for the outing, nicely costumed and choreographed.

Bennett turns in a hefty song session with practically no patter. There's no need for extra words in the singer's act as his work in the vocal department needs no patter embroidery. Backed by top-flight arrangements which ably carry him over some tricky spots and present him in the best possible light, he contribs a set that consistently keeps the Copa crowd (SRO for his opening last week) absorbed.

The singer shows some signs of strain on the low-register ballads but makes up for it with skillful vocal maneuvers. His set contains a hefty collection of tunes, most of which are familiar to his sizable following. These, naturally, include "I Left My Heart In San Francisco" "I Wanna Be Around" and an array of past disclisks, all presented in top style.

Bennett's set is a hip weaving of ballads and swingers, and pianist Ralph Sharon leads the Copa orch through the session strongly. It's a long turn that Bennett gives the crowd. Since his stint is not interrupted by much gab from the singer, it adds up to a fine musical event which should do solid biz at the Copa for the next couple of weeks. The singer is in top personality form too, it might be added, for his greeting of ringsiders creates a warm rapport.

Part of the Bennett set is Jack Ackerman, a young tap dancer. He's a skillful terper and some of his routines, particularly his technique in executing graceful and spirited turns, reminds of a young Fred Astaire. He does two bits during Bennett's turn. Both work nicely for him and get strong audience approval.

Comedian Pat Cooper is a funny fellow who snaps the Copa crowd to attention and keeps them throughout his turn—no easy achievement during an opening night dinner show. His Italian-American patter line, spiced with Bronx inflections, provides the peg for lotsa yook-getting material.

Particularly effective are family stories relating his background as an Italian in a Jewish neighborhood and a bit, perhaps a little too long, about the ins and outs of an Italian wedding. His interpretation of a Puerto Rican tv show, with the program's comedian doing impressions of Cary Grant, James Cagney and Peter Lorre in Spanish, also scores.

Singers Cally Dodd and Rene Martell are a pair of personality performers who sometime overdo the forced "ain't this fun" bit. But, overall, they're savvy artists who work well with the Copa Girls in two numbers. The chicks are as pretty an eyefull as the room has displayed. They even seem interested in what they are doing this time and do it well.

Joseph Mele's Copa Orch and Frank Marti's Cha-Cha unit provide top-flight music for patron dancing; Mele's backing of the show's production numbers is also solid. The session adds up to a class show for the nitery and one which should get considerable attention at the boxoffice. Kali.

Chi Chi, Palm Springs

Palm Springs, Oct. 12.

Pat Suzuki, Davis & Reese, Birk Twins, Bill Alexander Orch (9); $2 cover.

Pat Suzuki with her assured "Flower Drum Song" background opened the '63-'64 season of the Chi Chi Starlite Room and is okay as headliner of a well-balanced bill which booker, groaning Dave Branower, has a singular skill in putting together.

She sings 11 numbers but doesn't get into her winning stride until she hits "I Enjoy Being A Girl," a third of the way through her act. Born in the San Joaquim Valley of California, she nevertheless seems to have inherited the charm of the best Japanese entertainers. They can't sing too well but they're cute and captivate audiences, which is their main mission.

She gives an erudite explanation of folk songs, then adds her own touch of humor by singing "True Love" as a parody. Miss Suzuki's parody of Marlene Dietrich singing "I'll Be Seeing You" off key brings some laughs.

The Birk Twins kick off the bill. Old faves, they are up to form in their acrobatic dances, opening on "Me and My Shadow" to a big hand.

Pepper Davis and Tony Reese follow with gags, familiar to those who may have heard them on Jack Paar, Ed Sullivan or Steve Allen shows, but a delight to nightclubbers who may have missed them on their many exposures on tv.

Bill stays through Oct. 12 when Miss Suzuki goes to Cork Club, Houston. Next on Oct. 18 will be Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis.

Bill Alexander's orch, back for 13th season, is okay on opener. Scul.

Fairmont Hotel, S. F.

San Francisco, Oct. 10.

Janet Blair, Ernie Heckscher Orch; $3.50-$4 cover.

"Miss Bubbles Blair", celebrated Las Vegas stripper, has brought her red balloons and breakaway dress to the Fairmont's Venetian Room.

To no one's surprise, she turns out to be Janet Blair, who has taken her Las Vegas act on the road in a significant departure from her Broadway musical career.

To say she was more at home on the musical comedy stage than as the star (and only) turn in a dinner show is begging the question of whether she is good enough to carry a show on her shapely shoulders. The answer is no better than "well, maybe."

Miss Blair, her reddish-blond good looks set off in a chic white sheath with beaded and sequinned overblouse, cuts a stunning figure on stage. She is charming and appealing, and handles herself with assurance. She has a fine voice.

But her material has a sameness that verges on monotony.

The premiere audience greeted warmly, if not effusively, her songs that run the gamut of tempo and emotion from hot to hot. Nearly everything she sings is upbeat, and the show sounds for awhile like a contest of wills between her and Ernie Heckscher's band—for both volume and tempo. (It was a draw.)

The opening number, "That Is What I'm Getting So Excited About" (with references to jackpots etc.), appears to have been written for Vegas.

The only time Miss Blair's exceptional voice and acting talents are used effectively is in a medley of tunes from Broadway shows: "Just in Time" from "Bells Are Ringing"; "Wonderful Guy" from South Pacific; and "Speak Low" from "One Touch of Venus." The latter was especially moving. Finale, of course, was the strip takeoff.

All that volume referred to above may have been considered necessary to fill the colossal caverns of Las Vegas; but for more intimate rooms such as the Venetian Room, a little more accent on subtlety and changes of pace are in order. Este.

Chandelier, Melbourne

Melbourne, Oct. 1.

Poncie Ponce, Averil & Aurel; $2.25 cover.

Kicking off its new policy of presenting dual runs of top artists at their two Melbourne outlets, Federal Hotels looks to draw good biz with Poncie Ponce, the taxi driver of "Hawaiian Eye" tv series. He has just finished a seven and a half weeks' stint at Sydney's Chequers.

Ponce has a fine 30-minute act which wins lotsa customer applause. Mainly with a background orchestra, occasionally accompanying himself, he has a varied repertoire which takes in Spanish, Italian and inevitably Hawaiian numbers. He also stands out with a rendition of "Ol' Man River."

There's hardly any patter attached to Ponce's turn but he has a finee segment in which he gives realistic impersonations of such artists as Harry Belafonte, Louis Armstrong, Elvis Presley, and The Platters, among others.

Backing him are a song-and-dance team, Averil & Aurel. The girl Averil has ample personality; partner Aurel is less impressive. Stan.

International, N. Y.

Jack Silverman presentation of "George White's Scandals"; with Renee Taylor, Cindy Lord, Linda Bishop, Michel Rosenberg, Dick Bernie, Peggy Womack, Bobby Byron, Cathie Hay, Bert Taylor, Howard Lear, Guy Rotondo, Bobby Ephram, Line (16). Producer, stager, George White; costumes, Bill Campbell; dances, Buster Burnell; conductor, Mike Durso. Opening night prix-fixe dinner, $15.

George White is one of the old-line names in the musical revue field during an era when he was part of powerful trinity along with Florenz Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll. Of this group, White alone survives and is still active.

In his day, White produced a long string of "Scandals" which abounded with top songs and sketches. A sapient selection of the major "Scandals" even today would produce a grade A show. This was evident a few years ago when White went into the now defunct Versailles with a production which ran for more than a year.

It was therefore reasonable to expect that White would exercise the same care and savvy when he formally opened the season at Jack Silverman's International. However, he tailored his selections from a pattern that would have done greater credit to the Hirst and Midwest burlesque circuits of yore.

White apparently sought a feeling of nostaigia. Instead it is one of antiquity. There may be a market for "Pay the $2," but not among the gentry who have been using the expression for many years. "Watch the Expression" skit is also a part of youthful reminiscences around the pool room. There are others that seem to make no sense either as modern day entertainment or for laughing material in any emporium where the family gathers for dinner.

Yet White has a sense of opulence and music. There is a string of hits in the show produced by White that are always welcome. The costumes are good and there is a lush feeling in the production numbers.

However, White appears to have lost his sense of the present with the finale. He dug out a Charleston number wherein four Negro femmes come on for a briefie at that dance. The choral chant during the number is something about putting the "black man's rhythm in the white man's shoes." Hasn't he been reading the papers?

There are some good moments in the show such as the femme trio's delineation of group comedy. This trio, comprising Linda Bishop, Renee Taylor and Cindy Lord, are three attractive and talented girls who know how to throw a line and a song. But for the most part the material is offbase.

The major comedy is a standup spot by Michel Rosenberg, who for years has been one of the foremost story tellers in the Yiddish idiom. He has been known to regale crowds with rich, folksy and earthy humor. But the collection of stories he delivered at the preem was something that had to match the general indigo genre of the show. His assistant in the comedy skits was Dick Bernie.

Singers include Guy Rotando, Howard Lear and Bert Taylor. There's also a brief dance turn by Peggy Womack.

However, all is not lost in this endeavor. White can still junk some of the present skits and salvage the show with some of the solid items that he put on throughout his creative years. Some of the dance numbers could also be rearranged to bring about smooth and opulent cafe entertainment. But for the most part the Buster Burnell dance routines are okay.

It's difficult to divine what Jack Yellen's additional material constitutes, but he's sufficiently savvy to help White redesign the show into a hit. Per usual, Mike Durso showbacks skillfully. Jose.

Shamrock, Houston

Houston, Oct. 13.

Mills Bros., Paul Neighbors Orch (10); no cover or minimum.

The Mills Bros. (Harry, Herb and Don) bring to the Shamrock Hilton's International Club their harmony and showmanship that has endured for more than 30 years, and occasion is historic on two counts. Not only is it the first appearance for the freres in a Houston nitery, but this is the first headline sepia act to be set at the plush Continental Room. Gene Whalen, who books the room, scores heavily here.

Brothers present mostly old faves associated with them, palming is mighty throughout and room was unusually quiet, another tribute to the Mills' ability. They were on for about 50 minutes, mainly because patrons wouldn't let 'em go without a bonus tune.

Brothers do such of their w.k. tunes as "Paper Doll," "Till Then," "Glow Worm," "You Always Hurt The One You Love," "Lazy River" and others. In "Basin Street Blues" they do their instrumental impressions, and get audience participation into "Bye Bye Blackbird."

Their guitarist, Norm Brown, assists the Paul Neighbors orch in excellent backing.

There will be a split band engagement for this show, with Frank Bettancourt band coming in for second week of Mills Bros.' stay. Connee Boswell and Larry Wilde are due Oct. 24. Skip.

More Night Club Reviews On Page 53

Crescendo, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 11.

Louis Nye, Nancy Wilson, Earl Bostic Band (5); $2.50 cover, two-drink minimum.

In its booking of Louis Nye and Nancy Wilson, the Crescendo has a powerhouse one-two punch, a formidable attraction for the discriminating saloon-atic. Nye is one of the foremost actor-comics extant, Miss Wilson a pop-jazz vocal stylist of the first rank. They are booked through Oct. 20.

Nye, alas, is in need of some more fresh material at the moment. His current turn is largely a rehash of the stuff offered here a year-and-a-half ago. Most of these routines are exceptionally funny and, when masterfully executed as they are by Nye, can be amusing even the second time around.

But there's nothing like trenchant new material to give a lift to an audience and a sharp edge and rejuvenated disposition to a performer. Best of Nye's repeats are his classic "indoctrination speech by a Missouri army base sergeant" and his "coed shower etiquette." Best of the new stuff (new to this reviewer, at any rate) is his "letter to mother by an Arab student at UCLA.

Besides being a beautiful woman, Miss Wilson is an outstanding vocalist. Among her attributes are an especially keen sense of swing, imaginative phrasing and provocative melodic ideas. She has the knack for melting, or oozing, right into the exact mood and anatomy of a song, and seems equally at home on soft, slow romantic ballads and frentic uptempo romps.

Her selections include "Second Time Around," "Did I Remember?" "Dearly Beloved," "Loads of Lovely Love" and such offbeat excursions as "When Did You Leave Heaven?" and the complex message piece, "You Have No Right To Push And Shove Us Little Kids Around."

Earl Bostic Band (5) backstops the show skillfully. Tube.

Tidelands, Houston

Houston, Oct. 8.

Don Rickles, Diane Pane, Freddie Noble Orch (6); $1.50 entertainment charge.

Everybody's a target and nothing is sacred as comic Don Rickles scores heavily before—and on—a near-capacity group of opening night (7) auditors. Rickles quickly removes his thumb from the dike, loosing a flood of invective on anyone within hearing. Ringsiders are in the most peril, as are the musicians or members of any minority group.

Rickles is consistently funny, and fortunately patrons know what to expect. He brings a couple of reluctant victims onstage. Somewhere down line, too, he has picked up a couple of Bruceisms.

Diane Pane is a well-endowed brunette who specializes in the belt, which she does well. During her 20 minutes she does "Start of Something Big," "Love Is The Thing," Birth Of The Blues," theme song from La Strada, and "Around the World."

If opening is any indication, boniface Bill Newkirk should be happy with this booking, which is in for two frames. Freddie Noble Orch, target for the night, played usual good show and is excellent for dancing. Skip.

Americana, N. Y.

Buddy Greco (with Dick Palumbi, Bobby Bennett), Enric Madriguera Orch, Al Conte Trio; $4 cover.

Claude C. Philippe, the Americana's exec veepee, has probably broken more booking rules than any other major room talent setter about. He apparently takes the view that an act doesn't need previous experience in posh N.Y. rooms to work at the Royal Box. Consequently, the Americana is turning into a highly interesting nocturnal haunt.

The current Royal Box occupant is Buddy Greco, who has been making consistent headway in name ranks. He follows the phenomenal run of the Tommy Dorsey Orch-Frank Sinatra Jr.-Helen Forrest and Pied Pipers booking which regularly broke into percentages.

Greco has been playing the small as well as the major New York rooms, his last run being at the Copacabana. In all these locations, he has been impressing with an interesting and lively song style, plus a breezy and informal mien which provides relaxation for the customers. He continues in this vein in his new environs and makes out well, both in the vocal sector and in his piano interludes.

But Greco should recognize that inclusion of more ballads would give his turn some greater depth and perhaps a bit more variety and pace. At times, there is a great vocal resemblance to Sinatra Sr. However, he doesn't neglect his own strong points and walks off a winner.

Greco has his own conductor, Dick Palumbi, and drummer Bobby Bennett. His arrangements show a lot of care.

There is a secondary feature in the room. The return of Enric Madriguera, who during the rhumba era was one of the more scholarly outfits. His current work continues with that approach which combines a dance beat with high listenability.

It's been some years since he's been current in a major room. But it's as if Madriguera's never been away. The relief terp work is by the Al Conte Trio, recently a fixture at the Roosevelt Hotel. Jose.

Mister Kelly's, Chi

Chicago, Oct. 7.

Jackie Gayle, Jackie Cain & Roy Kral, Marty Rubenstein Trio; $2.50 cover.

Mister Kelly's is Jackie Gayle's most important booking as a headliner to date, and there was little doubt after his opening night show that he's of top billing stature. At his best, Gayle delivers an unbeatable blend of pungency, poignancy and comic ferocity, and for his preem night he was at his best for the entire 50 minutes of his turn.

Actually, although he closes the show, he is co-billed with Jackie Cain & Roy Kral, a topnotch jazz duo. While Gayle is just becoming known here ("My agent says I'm a luxury act—I don't draw"), the convention season is in full swing in Chi and prospects are for a profitable three frames.

Gayle has a wealth of material, is a lightning-fast improviser, and uses as many good gags for throwaways as many comics have in their repertoire. He also a firstrate comic actor, as he demonstrates in his opening routine in which he skillfully satirizes all the stock bright, uptempo song and dance numbers that acts have historically used for curtain-raisers.

It's been done before as a satire, but seldom with the grinning, bouncing and wildly gesturing desperation that marks the real thing. As a matter of fact, a goodly portion of Gayle's anecdotes are about the life and times of a cafe performer, and they are hip, fresh, personal and topical.

Jackie Cain & Roy Kral are a prime example of a personal jazz style without a gimmick, in itself a rarity in these times. Their approach is light but not in the least bland and the result is always tasteful and tasty. Kral's piano work is assertive at times, but usually embroiders on Miss Cain's vocal solos. Their arrangements are cheerfully sophisticated and appeal to both the casual and careful listeners.

Rusty Warren opens Oct. 28 for three weeks. Mor.

Valachi Vague on Mob Cafes, Jukes; Senators Eager for Show Biz Angles

Washington, Oct. 15.

In his five days of fantastic testimony before, the Senate Investigating Subcommittee, ex-mobster Joe Valachi dangled just enough references to Cosa Nostra "entertainment" connections before probers and public to make both eager for more deails. Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), kept pressing Valachi for everything he knows about the entertainment world, but the informer never was explicit.

Valachi has gone back into sanctuary now, so further details may be a while in coming out. He will be questioned further by the subcommittee behind closed doors and then may return in open session when a string of law enforcement officials over the country have had their say.

The very point of Valachi's show biz references is that they have been intriguing. To make them more so, they have been buttressed by Deputy Inspector John Shanley and Sgt. Ralph Salerno, New York police experts on organized crime.

In detailing the activities and personnel of the five Costa Nostra "families" in New York, Shanley told the subcommitte the hoods frequently lend money to cafes and night clubs.

"Many times," he explained, "they will buy a concession in a club such as hatchecking. They'll put up $10,000 and often a proprietor will open with just that much capital and hope the place goes over. Or the mob will put its juke boxes in a place and lend money to get the place started. And in both cases, if a club isn't doing well, the mob will move in and take it over just to protect its interest."

In another reference, Shanley told the story of a well known entertainer being offered $150,000 by a Cosa Nostra member for a ten percent interest in him when he was in financial straits. He elaborated no further, but later identified the performer as now dead in an off the record dialogue with newsmen.

Vegas and Disks

Javits brought up Las Vegas connections and Valachi professed ignorance as to names and places. Then the senator asked him if Vito Genovese, the "boss of bosses," had jukebox interests.

Valachi said he did, in partnership with Tommy Ryan, also known as Thomas Eboli, who is said to be running New York for Genovese while he is in Federal prison on a narcotics conviction.

Javits, sniffing a scent, pressed on. He asked Valachi if the mob jukebox operators have any con-

(Continued on page 50)

Kahle & Jaffe's $10-Mil. Tahotel

Lake Tahoe, Oct. 15.

Plans for another multimillion-dollar hotel on the booming South Shore of Lake Tahoe have been revealed by Tahoe Village Inc., headed by Oliver Kahle, owner of Oliver's Club at the lake, and Ben Jaffe, owner of the Tropicana, Las Vegas.

The Del Webb Corp. recently broke ground for an eight-floor hotel-casino, and Bill Harrah's, owner of Harrah's clubs at Lake Tahoe and in Reno, announced last month he has plans for a 23-story hotel adjacent to Harrah's Tahoe.

All of the new ventures are scheduled for completion in time for the tourist season in the summer of 1965. And all are located on U.S. Highway 50 within half a mile of the Nevada-California border.

Harvey's Wagon Wheel is at the present time the only major hotel-casino (11 floors) on the South Shore of Tahoe.

Kahle and Jaffe estimate the cost of their hotel-casino at $10,000,000. It will go eight stories high, contain 500 rooms, a casino and a 750-seat theatre-restaurant. It will be located approximately half a mile from the California border on the present site of Oliver's Club. Atop the structure will be a swimming pool and an icerink overlooking Lake Tahoe.

Ill Anna Maria Cancels Waldorf, Blinstrub Dates

Illness has forced Anna Maria Alberghetti to scratch a pair of cafe stands. The major cancellation was a four-weeker at the Empire Room of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, N.Y., which was to have begun Nov. 18. She also conked out of a Blinstrub's, Boston, stand which was to have started Friday (18).

No replacements in either date had been set by presstime.

Edith Piaf, 47; Famed 'Sparrow'

Edith Piaf had a constant companion, both onstage and offstage—tragedy. The association was lifelong from her birth on Dec. 19, 1915 to her death Friday (11) in her native Paris from an internal hemorrahge resulting from a liver ailment. But between these two dates, she became the foremost Gallic chanteuse of her time. Her fame was worldwide and her audiences were as universal as the tragic songs she delineated.

In Miss Piaf's 47 years, she influenced an entire new generation of worldwide faves. Those given the benefit of her personal tutelage included Yves Montand, Eddie Constantine and Charles Aznavour, all of whom were close to her. In addition, she had a strong influence in helping Les Campagnons de la Chanson which she helped establish as a top act. She also gave powerful lifts to composers Margaret Monnot, Michel Emer and Moustaki.

Miss Piaf died eight days after she was to have started a Broadway Theatre, N.Y. engagement, Oct. 3. The date was called off when it was becoming evident that her frail frame, which had shrunk to 65 lbs., would be unable to withstand an arduous tour. She normally weighed 90-95 lbs., was 4-10 in height). In the U.S. she planned to introduce her latest husband of just over a year, a Greek hairdresser Theo Sarapo, whom she converted to a singer.

Despite her extreme popularity in America, her first date here was not a success, notwithstanding her great European reputation. She was originally imported to the United States by the late Clifford C. Fischer for presentation with Les Campagnons in a legit stand. The critics failed to dig this plain, frail woman dressed in an unbecoming black dress. The show failed, but it did excite the management of the now defunct Versailles and she was brought back to New York about a year later for a series of phenomenal runs. She achieved the greatest artistic and financial success at the Nick Prounis-Arnold Rossfield-John Boggiano spot. It was also at this cafe that she underwent one of her greatest tragedies. Her lover, fighter Marcel Cerdan was killed in a plane crash Oct. 29, 1949. She was awaiting him in the

(Continued on page 50)

Gene Norman Sells His Crescendo, Interlude, L.A. To Flack and 3 Others

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Crescendo and Interlude niteries on Sunset Strip have changed hands. A Corporation composed of Shelley Davis, who for some years has publicized spots, and three others paid former owner Gene Norman a reported $96,000 for operations.

Each of group, which also includes Davis' father, Charles, attorney Ted Flier and Eldon H. Emerson, put up 25% of payment. Property isn't included, but seven-year lease on site is. Davis fils will front niteries.

Bookings to date include Homer & Jethro, Marquis Chimps and Vicki Carr, Oct. 24-Nov. 3; Wayne Newton & Bros. and Bill Cosby, Nov. 7-17; Jackie Mason and Martin Denny orch, Nov. 20-Dec. 1. Thereafter, booking sheet is bare.

ARA PREXY ELKORT MAY NOT RUN AGAIN

Eddie Elkort, for nine years president of the Artists Representatives Assn., has indicated that he will decline to run for a 10th term. However, a group of agents is asking that he continue in order to make it a round decade at the helm of the agency group.

Meanwhile, Elkort has again been nominated for the ARA board of governors. The board, following election, designates the officers. Others nominated for the panel are Ted Adair, Willard Alexander, Hattie Althoff, Lawrence Barnett, Dave Baumgarten, Bert Block, Dave Cohn, Joe Glaser, Howard Haussman, Dick Henry, Ben Kuchuk, Jimmy Mark, Al Perry, Max Roth and Joe Williams.

Associate members nominated to the board are Fred Harris, Gil Nelson, Stan Seidenberg, Joe Singer and Norman Weiss.

Pressure of business, Elkort said, was his reason for stepping down from the presidency. He was the first representative of a large office elected to the post. He originally became prexy as an indie when he represented the Lew & Leslie Grade Agency of London. When that office was absorbed by General Artists Corp., he continued as president.

Sinatra's Exit Probably Salves Snafu in Nevada

Reno, Oct. 15.

Frank Sinatra's avowed departure from the Nevada gambling scene probably will be "routinely acknowledged" by the State Gaming Commission when it meets in Carson City Oct. 22, a spokesman said this week.

Sinatra facing revocation of his gambling license on grounds his Cal-Neva Lodge at Lake Tahoe catered to Chicago underworld figure, Sam Giancana, announced last week he was withdrawing from gambling.

He said he wanted to consolidate his business interests and keep them largely within the entertainment industry, and that disposal of his casino interests were in line with this policy.

Sinatra did not file a notice of defense against Gaming Control Board charges that Giancana was entertained at the Cal-Neva, that he used vile language in seeking to have board chairman Edward Ilsen drop an investigation of the visits, and that a Sinatra aide attempted to bribe gaming agents. Giancana is one of 11 reputed hoodlums listed in the "Black Book," and casino operators have been warned that catering to any of them may result in loss of license.

Although gaming codes state that failure to file a notice of defense against a license revocation attempt is tantamount to admitting the facts of the matter, a commission spokesman said it was likely the commission would revoke the license formally "so there will be an official record."

Sinatra holds a 9% interest in the Sands Hotel on the Las Vegas Strip and 50% in the Cal-Neva. There have been no official reports on how much these shares are worth, although there have been estimates of up to $3,500,000.

The spokesman said Sinatra could either sell his Sands Hotel interest to new investors or turn it back to the hotel corporation, which could easily absorb the shares for subsequent disposal. The Cal-Neva operating group has only two other stockholders and there was speculation Sinatra would dispose of his shares personally. The Cal-Neva is licensed only for a seasonal operation. It is closed now and the operators must be approved for a new gaming license before it can reopen.

"It the commission decides the other owners are financially able to operate the Cal-Neva, they could be licensed if Sinatra is out of it," the spokesman said. "There would be no license if there was any reason to believe Sinatra still had an interest."

The spokesman said there was "no time limit, as such" for disposal of the interests in either hotel "but we expect this to be done as soon as possible."

'SRO' in N.Y. Fair's Amusement Area Spills Overflow Into States Sector

All space having been allotted in the Lake Area of the New York World's Fair, which is the amusements section, the entertainment is spilling over into the States Exhibits area. One of the largest entertainment complexes at the Fair will be the Louisiana at the Fair exhibit, which will have a theatre along with 15 cafes of various types, most of them with entertainment.

G. Michael Novel, who was active in obtaining backing for the venture, will be the major entertainment buyer. It's not an official state show, but has the imprimatur of the state through an executive order signed by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis on June 3.

Major item in the exhibit will be a Grand Opry House, policy of which is still to be determined. There will also be many cafes on the Bourbon and Basin Streets area of the Louisiana exhibit.

According to Novel, negotiations are current for Al Hirt and Pete Fountain to take over the concessions of two niteries. Novel will seek to recreate an atmosphere in some of the cafes of the old era when New Orleans spawned some of the jazz greats.

He hopes to promote a Mardi Gras, and an atmophere with street parades. He even hopes to stage a jazz funeral of the type that prevailed around the turn of the century in New Orleans' Negro sections.

Some of the cafes to be open at the Louisiana exhibit will include replicas of The Old Absinthe House, Zazarac, Two Sisters Cafe and others. There will also be eateries featuring some of the state's more famous dishes. Among the restaurants will be a Horseshoe Bar to be operated by Diamond Jim Moran Jr.

One 5th Ave., N. Y., Drops Exclusive Booker Policy

One Fifth Ave., N.Y., is going off the exclusive booker policy and is changing over into an open spot starting in December. Management will hold weekly auditions when the new policy begins. Booker has been Henry Hermann.

Idea is to get a greater flow of new talent and for management to establish a more variegated act supply for the nitery.

Govt. Lien Shears Black Sheep, Mpls.

Minneapolis, Oct. 15.

Troubles continue to mutiply for the erstwhile tony but no longer ritzy franchised private Black Sheep key club here. One of a number of such spots throughout the country, it preemed locally more than a year ago charging $100 to join it and cover the first year membership dues.

On the heels of being stripped of all of its furniture by two creditors, the club last Wednesday (9) was shuttered by the federal government because of nonpayment of taxes. George Lethert, Internal Revenue Service district director, had a sign posted on the front door announcing the seizure and warning against tampering with or removing any of the remaining property on the premises.

Lethert says the Government has a lien against the club for failure to pay $3,867 in taxes withheld from employes' salaries. He charges that a number of demands for the payment have been ignored and warned the owners that unless they now come across the property will be sold by the Government to satisfy its lien.

Two former young women bookkeepers, who alleged they've been unable to collect $1,000 in salaries the club owns them, obtained default court judgments enabling them to seize the club's furniture at a noon hour when a number of members were present lunching.

The court has given the club until this week to post a bond covering the former employes' judgments, attorneys' fees and the cost of seizing and storing the furniture which is mortgaged for $68,000. If it does so, the $1,000 judgments against the club will be vacated to permit trial of lawsuits brought in the matter. Otherwise the furniture will be disposed of to satisfy the judgments.

There also are pending a number of other judgments and lawsuits against the club alleging failure to pay debts.

Oldtime Vaudeville Show Gets a Modern Touch In '64 Ramblerama' Unit

U. S. big business having harnessed show biz to its purposes, is constantly increasing an entertainment tiein with sales. In recent years, consumer goods manufacturers have been sending out troupes of performers in ever growing numbers to make direct pitches for sales. There seems to be no area in which this idea is immune. It's a format that runs the groove through the old medicine shows through Hadacol and now to Rambler automobiles.

The difference with the Rambler show is its pitch to a truly unique audience. It's aimed at the GIs stationed abroad. American Motors has commissioned a troupe of entertainers who bowed Thursday (10) at the Persian Room of the Plaza Hotel, N. Y., and almost immediately afterward took off for Europe, where they opened Saturday (12) at the South Ruislip Officers Club, England.

They'll play through Dec. 6 on an itinerary that includes stops in England, Germany, France, Italy and Spain. It's an unusually large troupe and should be a conversation piece among GIs which should help sell Rambler cars in one of

(Continued on page 50)

Josy Baker Boffo In Carnegie Bash

By JOE COHEN

Josephine Baker, the Negro singer-expatriate who returned to the U.S. for a Carnegie Hall, N.Y., recital Saturday (12) still has the power to make the crowds go berserk. At age 60, which she frankly announces, Miss Baker wears her extensive wardrobe with the grace of a Balensiaga model, adds dimension to the coutoure and a sense of theatre to the fashion world. Miss Baker also added to the bizarre with her hairdo or wig (who can tell these days?). She remains an overwhelming personality at her age, and in an era where youth is seeking the spotlight.

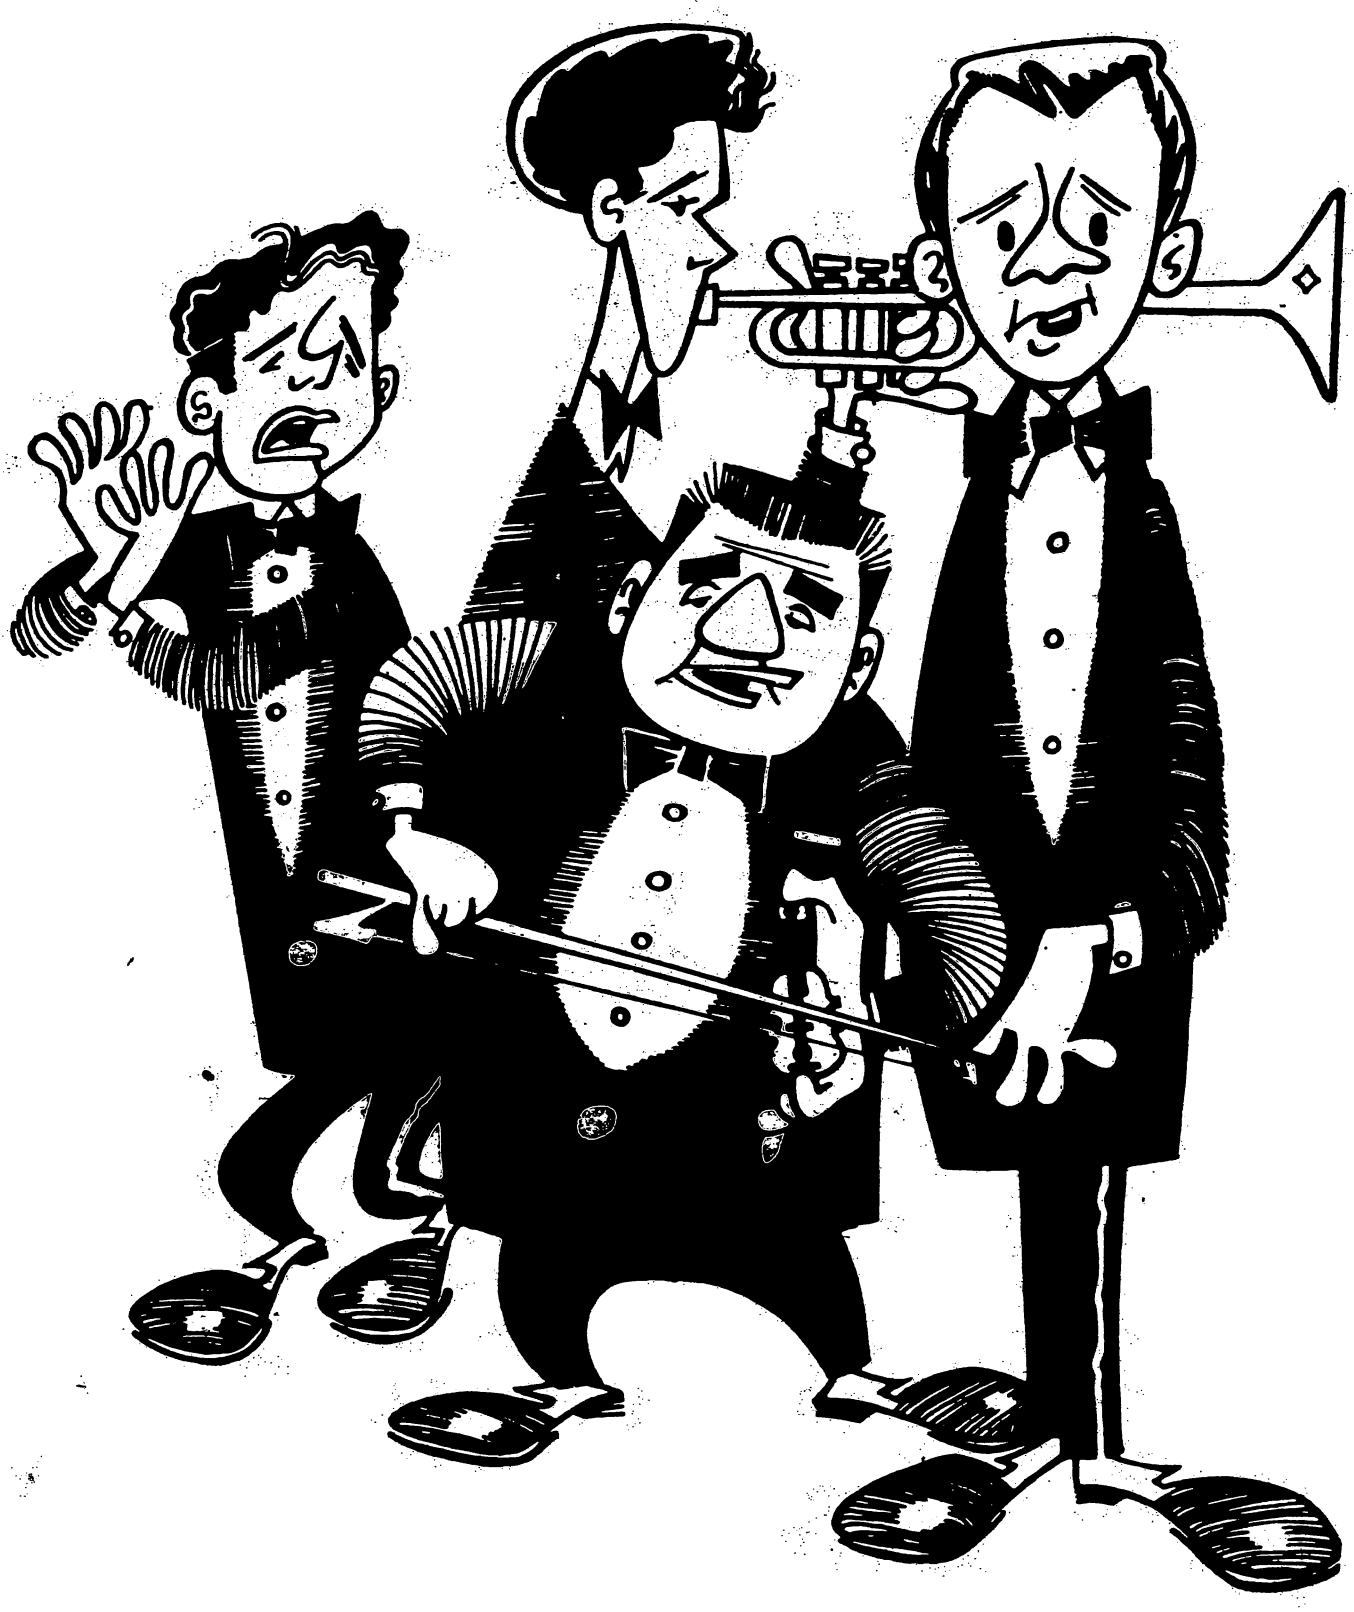
Miss Baker made her Carnegie bow, unfortunately, during a weekend when the air was heavy with the deaths of Edith Piaf and Jean Cocteau. It was a double blow for Francophiles, who seemed to be missing at this event. The affair was a benefit for several civil rights organizations and for her village in France, where she supports a number of orphans. She worked without fee that evening, the audience paying up to $25 for admission.

Miss Baker, a product of the Cotton Club era, long ago went to Paris and was a sensation on the strength of her personality. At a time when Parisian nudes were at their nudest, Miss Baker made a tremendous splash with a costume made of bananas. Her personality and vigor were the backbone of an act that made her an international figure.

That vigor and tremendous personality remains. The audience at Carnegie refused to concede that some of her mannerisms were dated or that she was a heritage of a world that was. Her work seemed to be a clash of several arts—that of the singer-songwriter and coutourier. Some creations made for her by the top high fashion houses of France were exciting and breathtaking. There isn't a song that can compete with that splash of color and design, and there isn't a tune that can go with these masterpieces. They can be worn only with some slight background music. These garments are a tremendous symphony

(Continued on page 50)

THE FOUR SAINTS



Featured On

ED SULLIVAN SHOW

CBS-TV Oct. 20

Exclusive Representation

ita INTERNATIONAL TALENT ASSOCIATES
INC.

75 East 55th Street
New York City
PL 1-3344

9538 Brighton Way
Beverly Hills, Calif.
CR 5-4562

Rambler Show For GIs

Continued from page 48

the toughest markets in the world. Overseas, the American car manufacturer has the competition of the sleek, chic European makes and models.

The idea is to stress the advantages of the American car, which is sold through post-exchange system at a cutrate. But this is the big pitch—it can be brought into the U. S. upon completion of the GI's European tour on a duty-free basis. Last year, PX sales came to approximately 6,000 cars, and the goal is to step up this amount appreciably with "64 Ramblerama."

If this show gauges GI tastes accurately, the kind of entertainment sought by today's servicemen isn't far removed from the type of unit that was sent out by USO-Camp Shows during the wartime era. It's essentially an old-fashioned vaudeville show with a six-girl acrobatic line. It makes some concessions to modernity with a turn billed as the Chantones who put on a Hootenanny act, but it's hardly a true folk turn.

The line constiutes a pretty and talented group, who do tumbling and acrobatics in a lively manner. The costumes are good and the routines are applause winning. The girls should entice whistles from the red-blooded American boys who will comprise their audience in the overseas bases.

There is further femme interest in the show. The Lindys (Dorothy Evans and Patricia Hailwood from England) are blond singers who work in an acceptable manner and should get by on their looks.

The comedy is by Lewis & Dane, who also act as emcees, and Wayne Roland, a ventriloquist. The comedy team is weak on the repartee but there are moments when their work is commercial. They make the sole Rambler references in the show.

Roland exhibits some good ideas in his routine. He works two rubber-faced dummies, a modus-operandi which permits an unusual latitude of expression, and there are other good gimmicks in his act. The male singer is Al Alberts, formerly of the Four Aces, who works robustly.

The great expense to which Rambler and its ad-agency, Geyer, Morey & Ballard, have gone is seen by the fact that they've given this already large troupe a six-piece band to accompany them. Michael Massa conducts the crew capably.

William M. Wey is in charge of production, and Lenore Sutton did the choreography and costumes.

Jose.

64 Ramblerama

Ramblerettes (6), Lewis & Dane, Wayne Roland, The Lindys (2), Chantones (3), Al Alberts, Michael Massa Orch., producer, William M. Wey; choreography and costumes, Lenore Sutton. Previewed at Persian Room of the Plaza Hotel, N.Y., Oct. 10, '63.

Valachi

Continued from page 48

trol over the records that go into the machines.

"I heard about it," said the star witness, "but I don't know too much about it." Then he added: "I had some jukes myself. I bought my own records . . . along 10th Ave. . . . not many, maybe 15 a week."

Javits asked at that point if he knew of any connection between the rackets and record companies.

"Maybe, I don't know," was his answer.

To a final Javits question of whether the mob had an interest in any entertainers, Valachi reported cryptically: "Frank in the Bronx has an interest in a girl singer." No further identification was asked or offered.

'Village' & The Copa

Valachi capped his testimony by telling of the Greenwich Village clubs Genovese owns and how New York's Copacabana "belongs" to Frank Costello. Valachi also revealed he owned a small piece of a Havana club but sold out "before Castro started causing trouble." The rest of the mob followed suit when Castro wanted half their take, he added.

After casually ticking off four Village clubs, The Savannah Club, Rocky Village, 181 Club and 82 Club, he said are in the Genovese domain, he told of the conversation he had with Genovese in the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary where they were cell mates.

"I had heard," said Valachi, "that Joe Pagano (of Genovese's army) had a piece of the Copa. So I mentioned it innocently to Vito. He blew up, he asked me who told me. And he said, 'you have my permission to tell everybody that I gave the Copa back to Frank Costello and to nobody else'."

Historically, this is supposed to have happened after an unsuccessful gangland attempt on Costello's life in 1957. Costello was temporarily stripped of all his power and influence and then, in Genovese's words, was reinstated and given the Copa back.

Valachi explained that owning a piece of the Copa could mean anything, the usual hatcheck concession or anything else. This led him to a further explanation that two other Cosa Nostrans at one time paid $25,000 for the Copa hatcheck concessions and cleared a net profit of $30,000 in one year.

The two concessionaires were known quaintly as Phillip Lombardi, alias Benny the Squint or Ben Turpin, and Arthur "Chink" Leo.

Josy Baker

Continued from page 48

in themselves and seem to overwhelm any vocal arts accompanying them. The model, however, is glorified.

Yet one had to listen intently to rise above the visual accoutrements. Miss Baker's vocal pitch has lowered somewhat, as is normal with age even in this ageless femme. She carries a tune well and it would have provided an excellent yardstick of herself had she sung a tune into her jewel-studded mike which she felt would be expressive of herself in a simple costume and bathed only in a small spotlight. On this weekend, some could not help but recall the recital in that very hall a few years back by (the now late) Miss Piaf, who wore only a simple black dress and sang with her heart of the cruelties inflicted upon her.

Miss Baker showed excellent taste and contrast in the selection of acts to give her a breather and opportunity to get into those tremendous gowns. The contrast was topped with the acro work of the Wazzans (7), when went as far as a four-high pyramid, and who tumbled with dazzling speed. There was also the excellent dance work by an Israeli troupe, the Fibich Dancers who did a spirited hora and a Hassidic Wedding Dance. They gave an extremely lithe and meaningful recital. There was also Laverne French & Partner in an Afro number well delivered, and an extremely supple Indian dancer billed as Boshkow.

Al Van Petten, Pete Katz Join GAC Variety Dept.

General Artists Corp. has hired two additional agents. Al Van Petten, formerly with UTM Artists Ltd. which was absorbed by GAC some months ago, will work in the variety field. Peter Katz will join the variety packaging department.

Van Petten will succeed Al Olweil, who resigned recently to join Joe Glaser's Associated Booking Corp. Hollywood office.

Edith Piaf Dies in Paris

Continued from page 48

U.S. but she refused to cancel her performance that evening, and sang to a hushed audience all of whom were mindful of her great grief.

Early Start

Miss Piaf's bouts with tragedy started at birth. Her mother, was a singer and her father a travelling acrobat. She was born on the Rue Belleville, with two policemen assisting in the delivery. Her father arrived after the birth. She was named Edith Giovanna Gassion and immediately left in the custody of her grandmother who operated a brothel. At an early age, she went blind because of a poorly treated conjunctivitis. It was this early life tragedy which turned her to religion. She went to the Basilica of St. Theresa at Lisieux, and through a miracle recovered her sight. Afterward she entered the acrobatic act of her father, who would tell audiences that she customarilly does a double somersault, but because of a recent illness, she would sing instead. Thus was born her early singing career.

At 16, Miss Piaf, suffered another tragedy. Her lover, a soldier stationed in Paris, was transferred. The child born of that affair died in infancy. Afterward, she started singing in the streets with a friend passing the hat. She was heard by Louis Leplee, proprietor of a seedy cafe, who was later murdered in gangland fashion. Leplee rechristened her Piaf (The Sparrow), put her into a simple black dress, which remained her trademark, and presented her in his nitery. Here she was heard by Maurice Chevalier, among others. Chevalier remarked, "Cette Mome—elle en a dans la ventre." ("That kid really has it on the inside."). She was later accepted in the Paris music halls and was on her way. She wrote songs, and made records, both of which provided her with big incomes, and her appearances were at the standard rate of $1,000 nightly. Yet despite her big earnings, she was constantly broke because of her aid to needy.

In the last year, she tried to make a comeback. She sang on a tour with a physician in the wings. Yet it was evident that although the tragic note in her voice remained, the volume and stamina was gone. Her voice became nearly as thin as she was, and it was inevitable that she had to call off her American tour. The news was cabled to her American adviser, Eddie Elkort by her longtime manager Louis (Lulu) Barrierre.

Miss Piaf was also married for two years to singer Jacques Pills (Peals) in a ceremony in New York while working the Versailles. It was feared by many that since she was rich and with a husband younger than she was, the tragedy in her voice and songs would sound empty. This was never the case—it was the overriding factor in her life.

Miss Piaf, even in death, was not entirely liberated from the tragedy which followed her. Although more than 100,000 turned out to pay her homage at her funeral, she was not permitted a Roman Catholic Mass because she was once divorced and had married into Greek Orthodoxy. However, Rev. Jasques Leclerc, chaplain of the Catholic Union of the Theatre & Music Hall, led prayers and pronounced a blessing at the Pere Lechaise Cemetery where such figures as Rossini, Balzac, Colette, Sarah Bernhardt, Oscar Wilde, Chopin and other famous figures of the artistic world lie.

'Hootennany 63' Rousing $13,864 at Carnegie, N.Y.

The Hal Zeiger promotion, "Hootenanny 63," Friday (11) at Carnegie Hall, N.Y., brought a big $13,864 in two shows at a $3 top. This is a repeat date for this display, as the first of Zeiger's series took place here in late August. First show was a near sellout and second, at midnight, had a big house, although not quite full.

Show comprised a non-name parley. Participants included Danny Cox, Casey Newman and Pine Valley Boys.

Josephson Exits Agency Biz For Personal Mgt.

Marvin A. Josephson has left the talent agency business for personal management. Most recently with Ashley-Steiner-Famous Artists, he resigned last week to join Robert Chartoff Associates.

Josephson was with MCA for several years before moving to General Artists Corp.'s Chicago office. Recently he went to New York, where he worked for A-S-FA for several months.

JOLLY JOYCE AGENCY
PRESENTS—
"HOOTENANNY VARIETIES"
of 1963-'64"
SENSATIONAL FAST-MOVING TWO-HOUR SPECTACULAR featuring
Top Recording Stars
JIMMY CASE and his CHEROKEES
with MARY LITTLE
SISTER ROSETTA THARPE
World's Greatest Singing Thrills
KEN CARSON star of Gary Moore's TV show
The
5 CALLICOATS
FOUR MAIDS AND A MAN
Harmony Singing at its best
CECILL NULL and ANNETTE
King and Queen of the Musicharps
SPOT DATES AVAILABLE
November, December, January
Arenas, Night Clubs, Theatres, Auditoriums and Conventions
WRITE — WIRE — PHONE
JOLLY JOYCE AGENCY
58 W. 48th St., New York City
PL 7-1786 — 7-1530
Affiliated Offices
Phila. — Las Vegas — Europe

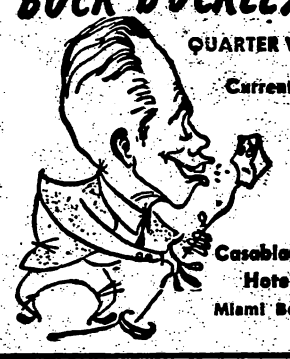
"THE COMEDIAN"
The Only Real Monthly PROFESSIONAL GAG SERVICE
THE LATEST — THE GREATEST — THE MOST-UP-TO-DATEST
Now in its 155th issue, containing stories one-liners, poemettes, song titles, hecklers, audience stuff, monologs, parodies, double gags, bits ideas, intros, impressions and impersonations, political, interruptions, Thoughts of the Day, Humorous Views of the News, Vignettes, etc. (20 Pages).
$25 YR.—SINGLE ISSUES $3
Foreign
$35 YR.—SINGLE ISSUES $4
No C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON, 200 W. 54th St.
New York City 10019, CO 5-1316

ZANY... BOX OFFICE Champs
Harmonica RASCALS
AMERICA'S FOREMOST NOVELTY ATTRACTION
SID HOWARD, 1570—53rd St., Brooklyn 19, N. Y., UL 1-8500

Thanks!
ALLEN FUNT
For Having
Comedy Waiter
ARTIE ROBERTS
Oct. 27th on
CANDID CAMERA
Contact:
ROBERT REXER
1674 B'way, New York City CI 5-3660

Grateful appreciation to BMI for accepting me as a new member...
DONNA LYNN
McClendon Agency TN 7-2287

BILLY GLASON'S FUN-MASTER
PROFESSIONAL COMEDY MATERIAL
For every branch of theatricals
"WE SERVICE THE STARS!"
35 Gag files $15, plus $1 postage
FOREIGN: 35 for $30
• 3 Parody Books, per Bk. ... $10 •
• 5 Blackout Books 1-2-3 Each $25 •
No. 4 for $35—No. 5 for $30
• Minstrel (white face) Budget $25 •
• "How to Master the Ceremonies" •
$3 PER COPY NO C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54th St., N.Y.C. 10019 CO 5-1316
(We TEACH M.C'ing and COMEDY)
(Let a real Professional train you)

BUCK BUCKLEY
QUARTER WIT
Currently


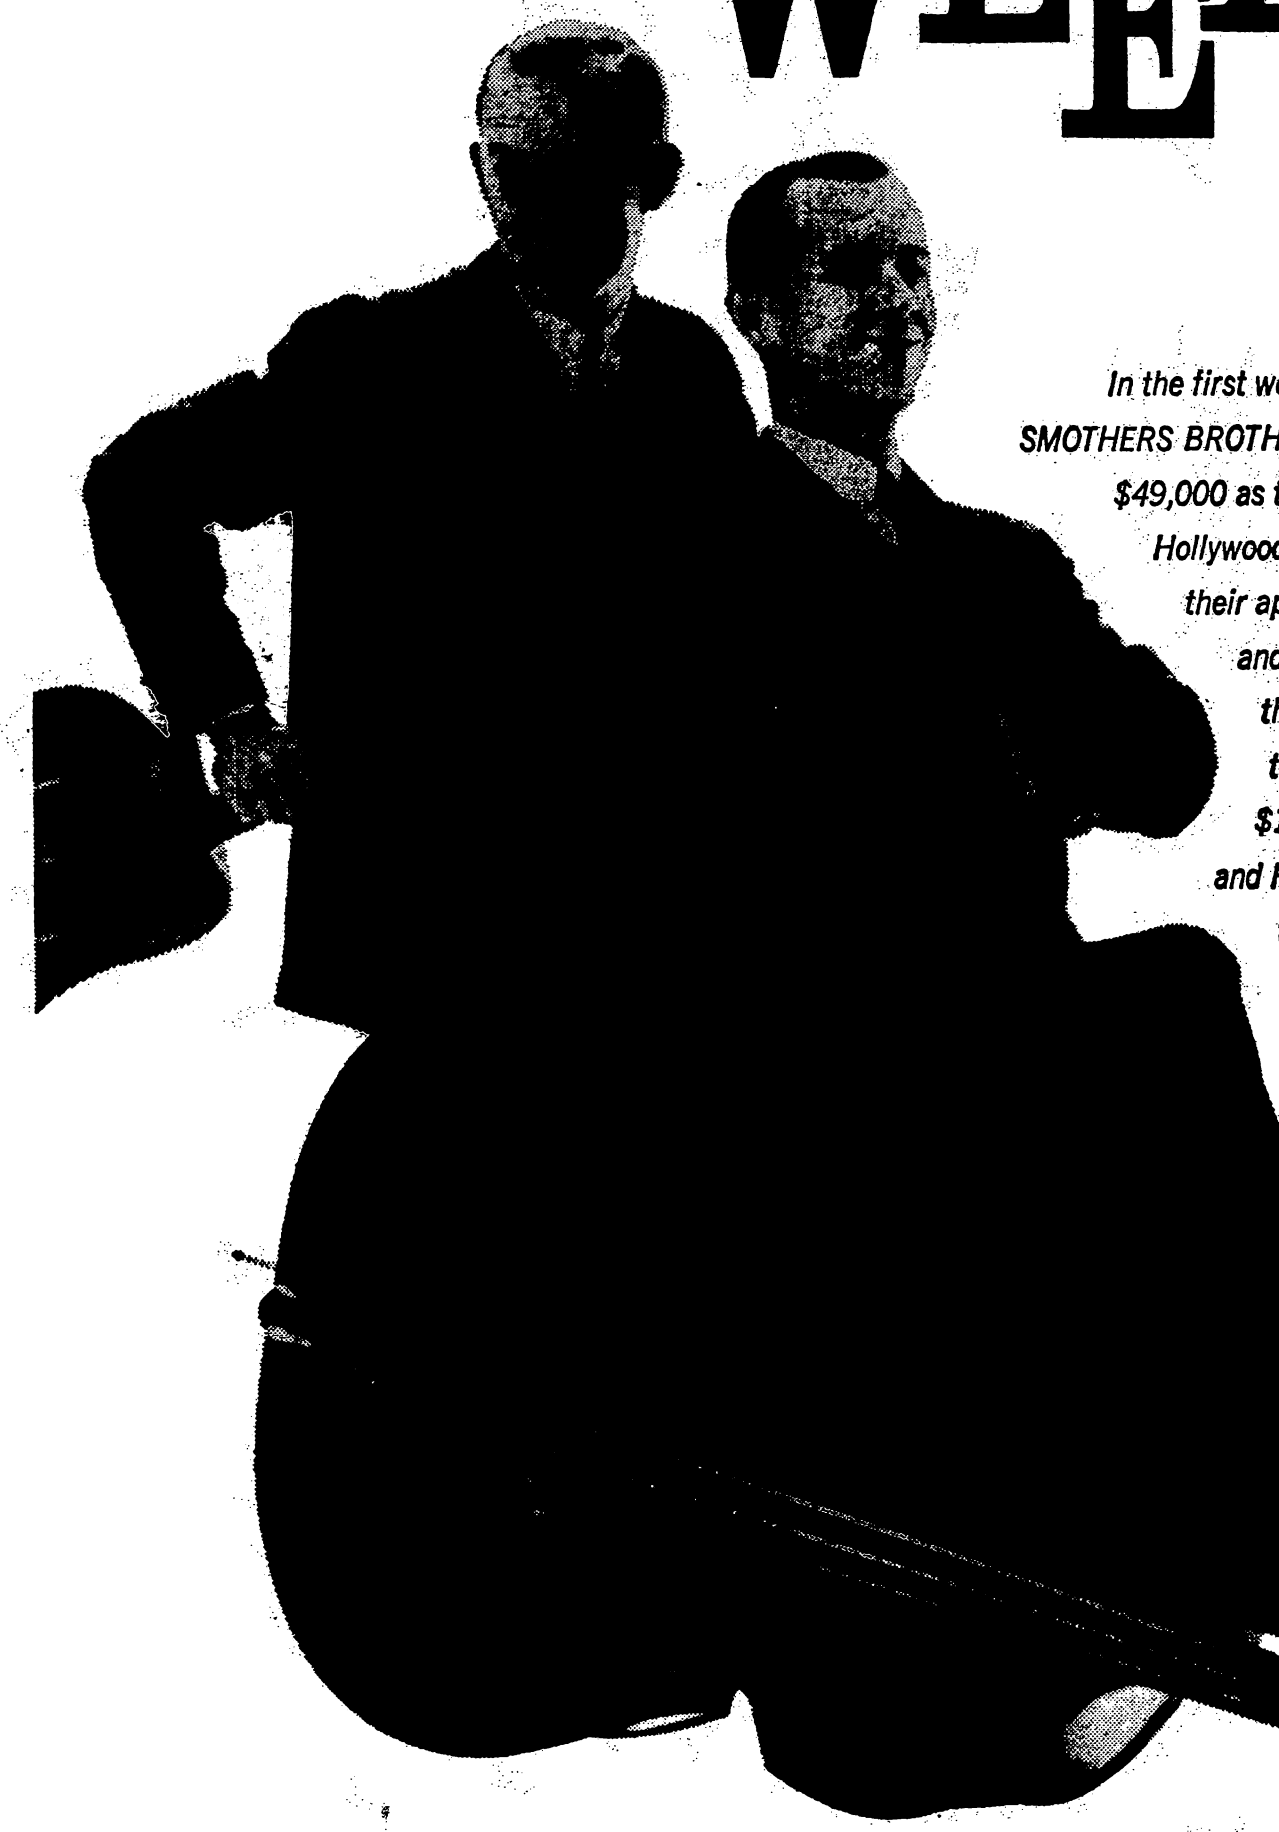
Casablanca Hotel
Miami Beach

THINK FINK
JACKIE KANNON'S
RAT FINK ROOM
Atop The Roundtable
151 East 50th St.
New York, N. Y.

RICKI DUNN IS A THIEF!
Direction: Associated Booking Corp.

WANTED
Comedian, raconteur, spellbinder to work as Bartender midtown. Possible excellent showcase.
Call CI 6-8527 after 8 P.M.

WHAT A WEEK!



In the first week of October the SMOTHERS BROTHERS grossed $49,000 as the headliners at the Hollywood Bowl, got rave reviews for their appearances on the Garry Moore and Judy Garland Shows, introduced the new Pontiac on national television and radio, grossed over $17,000 in SRO concerts at Sacramento and Fresno, California, had all three albums on the record charts and watched their new single, "Jenny Brown," take off like a rocket.

AND IT'S JUST THE BEGINNING...

PERSONAL MANAGEMENT
KRAGEN-CARROLL INC.

AGENCY REPRESENTATION
WILLIAM MORRIS AGENCY INC.

Mercury RECORDS

New Acts

CAROL LAWRENCE & CO. (5)
With John Harmon & Robert Lone
Variety
55 Mins.
Persian Room, New York

Carol Lawrence is a nitery click too.

This is not surprising. The versatile musicomedy-video-concert star has been in every medium but the saloons and it was natural that she debut at the Persian Room of the Hotel Plaza, where (1) Robert Goulet premiered so effectively and (2) in the hotel which was the scene of their nuptials only four weeks ago.

Although her telexposures figured so effectively in the standout grosses she achieved subsequently —and of course her identification as the original femme lead of "West Side Story" is her high-mark in legit annals—she never played the niteries.

In the same hip show biz manner which has marked an already distinguished string of credits, she has fortified herself with top artisans in shaping her new turn. Vet choreographer Tony Charmoli has fashioned her a good act, aided and abetted by two personable and talented aides, John Harmon and Robert Lone; special material by Fred Ebb; special arrangements by Luther Henderson and Don Pippin; and her personal maestro, Joe Harnell.

And not the least of it is her innate savvy on audience values.

Miss Lawrence brings a new gimmick to the cafe floor which has seen everything from make-up-in-full-view to bubble bath and shower affections. Hers is a "dancing ladder." She is glided on the conventional stepladder which is on ballbearings, ingeniously manipulated by her sturdy juvenile aides, creating fetching swirling bouffant dance effects as she projects her thesis of "I'll Do Anything" to "Friendly Star," "Ridin' On The Moon" and "Ridin' High."

Ebb's special material gives the star and the two talented boys full opportunities. Incidentally, the latter pair are destined to make their show biz mark on their own.

After the special openers there's a folk group and thence a "dance group" (jazz, Spanish, waltz, cha-cha, strip—this in comedy fashion of course—and hoedown). A neat paraphrase, "Thank Heaven For Little Boys," finales with the "West Side Story" medley.

Miss Lawrence solo, and later with Goulet, has been a show biz phenomenon as a b.o. grosser. The seeming accumulation of her legit credits, of which "WSS" is the sturdiest (the ensuing "Saratoga Trunk," "Subways Are For Sleeping" and "Night Life" were relatively shortlived) plus her judicious videxposures on the Garry Moore, Perry Como, Ed Sullivan and other shows have given her vast audience identification throughout the land. Subsequently her eight-week concert with Goulet proved equally b.o. socko and she should repeat in the niteries.

Miss Lawrence has the fundamental versatile ingredients for mass and class acceptance. She projects like the Eiffel Tower in her standout audience empathy; furthermore, the will-to-please is fortified by nothing but talent.

The Persian Room, which clicked with its reopening-of-the-season Xavier Cugat-Abbe Lane, has another winner in this booking. On the horizon is another Gotham saloon debut, Ethel Merman, who, however, has done her stuff in Vegas, etc.

Miss Lawrence, in turn, has yet to invade the casino belt, Miami Beach and the like, but she'll conquer them with the same facile grace as the posh Plaza boite. Emil Coleman's AFMers gave her socko backstopping, fortified only by two of her own musicians and special conductor. Mark Monte's Continentals, per always, alternates with the equally surefire dansapation.
Abel.

CHUCK DODDS
Songs
20 Mins.
Living Room, N. Y.

Chuck Dodds is a newcomer who has learned his craft well. He has careful arrangements, shows careful grooming and a well-schooled way around a tune catalog. Hhis projection is forthright and pleasant and he's at home with many types of tunes.

Dodds is a singer of competence and indications are that he could make his way in the musical comedy field. He has a good speaking voice as well and his enunciation is such that he can make lyrics known to the upper reaches of a house.
Jose.

RODNEY DANGERFIELD
Comedy
20 Mins.
Town & Country, Brooklyn

Rodney Dangerfield has been around, possibly under another name, but there is no record of him in the New Act file. According to his opening routine, Dangerfield selected this tag presumably because of a routine on names, which is a fairly funny recitative. After this opening gambit, Dangerfield dwells on domestic humor which finds a ready response with this bourgeois audience.

Dangerfield is a good technician who has broken in well on the Catskill and clubdate circuit. He seems equipped with a good innate sense of humor, knows how to adjust himself to the crowd in the room, and seemingly has enough material to change direction of his act at any time. He should do okay on the cafe circuits.
Jose.

RUBEN RIVAS CO. (4)
Songs
45 Mins.
Cork Room, Toronto

Deemed the hottest Latin-American property in Toronto, Ruben Rivas of Mexico City is in for two months at the Cork Club. There is a $2.50 cover charge at the 130-capacity room and Rivas is jamming them in with his sophisticated singing, plus his leading the quartet sessions that run till 1 a.m.

Particularly in baritone warbling, this former fronter for Xavier Cugat is a standout with the femmes for his good looks and singing to his own accompaniment via guitar of such numbers as "Jamaica Farewell," "Granada," "Malaguena," "Brazil" and "Besame Mucho" when caught. Rivas appeals to all customers in his three 45-mins. appearances.

Clad in black, tight-fitting Mexican costume, he also leads Paul Neary, drums; Frank Colucci, piano; and Peter Cleary, bass, for lotsa Latin-American interludes of cha-chas etc., and is outstanding in solo stepouts. Rivas sings in Spanish, Portuguese and, of course, fractured English, 50-50, including Broadway pop tunes, plus trick falsetto finishes.

Ruben Rivas is all right in his baritoneing, phraseology and choice of material—and is packing 'em in.
McStay.

SANDY
Songs
26 Mins.
Riverside, Ottawa

Sandy, who doesn't bill her surname (Scoville), is a canary tailored for lounges and niteries. She's a tall, blond looker, stacked, with plenty chirp ability and staging savvy, and equipped with nice pipes which she has under control throughout. The sound is sexy without evidence of straining for it and the sight is enhanced by chic gowning. Stint uses no gabbing, all chirp, but manages to gather the customers close sans special effort.

While she could handle larger rooms, she's best in the intimate ones where she can cuddle the customers with her thrushing and charm.
Gorm.

PETER & NEV
Sons
32 Mins.
LeHilbout, Ottawa

These young chaps will have to decide whether they're going to be country & western or folk & blues singers. At present, while billed as "bluegrass," their material is mainly straight country and they are relentlessly nasal during most of their few other numbers as well. Their large, 95% youthful audience, however, loved everything.

Their closer, "Nine-Pound Hammer,"—a real folk tune—was the first in which both more or less deserted the country twang. If they want to retain it they may make a mark, with more experience, in that crowded field; but few coffeehouses go for it, and probably no intimeries. They're promising—especially Hodgson — and will be ready for wider exposure when they've settled on a style.
Gard.

GALE GARNETT (1)
Songs
15 Mins.
Blue Angel, N.Y.

Gale Garnett is a folksinger who has the basis for a solid act in her present turn at the Blue Angel. It's still a little rough around the edges to really register particularly effectively but she warbles in a manner which shows promise.

A husky-voiced chirp who has some strength with the blues, Miss Garnett works with guitar accompaniment provided by Steve Mann. She creates a right appearance for the folk bit and opens with an oke version of "Wanderin'," done as a bluesy ballad. Part of the act is made up of tunes she wrote herself like a supposedly comic, "The Mistress," which doesn't really come off. Her moppet blues, "The Prism Song," is pleasant enough though.

Also in the turn is a song from the bag of Miriam Makeba which she handles with okay style and she closes with a treatment of "Take This Hammer" on which she tends to overdo. Accompaniment for this item is also wrong somehow in that singer and guitar don't jibe all the time. Many of these points could be cleared up with more work on the act, however, as the young femme evidences a desire and potential that could be developed.
Kali.

Vegas' Tallyho

Continued from page 2

a nine-hole golf course, four restaurants, and "not a single slot-machine."

The experiment lasted 232 days —the hotel officially opened on Feb. 22.

The end came unexpectedly at 2:05 p.m. Thursday when Clifford Jones, Lowe's attorney, and two certified public accountants took over the Tallyho's receipts and account books. Minutes later, tenants and employees were scurrying through the spacious lobby. An evacuation by taxicab began as the order spread to "empty everything out immediately."

Within an hour, cash had been stacked into moneybags at the room counter. Hotel officials sat, talking in low tones, in the lobby. Hastily-summoned security guards barred the entrance from the public. At 4 p.m. the only way to go at the Tallyho was out.

"It's false to predict an economy on a single industry like gambling," Lowe said when the Tallyho opened. On closing day, the payroll had dropped from 250 to less than 100 employees.

In a brief shutdown announcement, Lowe noted:

"I believed I could prove to the world that a first-class hotel could operate in Las Vegas without gambling. I was wrong. I will remedy the situation at the Tallyho as quickly as possible and reopen with a casino."

The Tallyho offered "golf all day for $2.50" as a tourist attraction. An employee told VARIETY during the evacuation scene that only one foursome was on the course when the word came that the bold experiment was over.

A Lowe spokesman said the owner decided on a swift shutdown to "cut down his losses during the rebuilding period. We could have dragged it out, but what would have been the point?"

Lowe's announcement of his new plan concluded with the assurance:

"Our new facilities will be equal to the best in Las Vegas, and we hope to have them ready to open on May 1, 1964."

CURRENT BILLS

WEEK OF OCTOBER 16

NEW YORK CITY

MUSIC HALL — Rockettes, Corps de Ballet, Raymond Paige Symphony Orch.

AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE (Tivoli) — June Bronhill, Jon Weaving, Suzanne Steele, Pauline Garrick, Gordon Wilcock, Ivan King, Kevin Mills, Maureen London, Ray Collier, David Gray.

SYDNEY (Tivoli)—Jeff Warren, Susan Swinford, John Rickard, Lina Denison, Geraldine Morrow, Ron Bennett, Geoffrey Veitch, Suzanne West, Jacqui Carroll, Andrew Guild, David Phillips, Christopher Hill.

BRITAIN

Tower Circus—Charlie Cairoli & Co., Great Pusztai Troupe, Flying Zemgannos, Rudi Llata, Los Onas, Ruppert's Bears, Circus Animals, Eugen Weidmann, Robert Bros., Bobby Roberts, Baranton Sisters, Hermanis, Sacha Houcke & Edith Schickler, Bears, Desmond Marks, Our Sammy, Little Jimmy & Circusettes.

BLACKPOOL (Tower Ocean Room) — Frankie Davidson, Patricia Stark, Tony Heaton, Del-Derrick & The Three Bells.

The Blackpool Tower Ocean Room—Roy Stevens, Sonny Roy, June Glynne, Johnny Laycock, The Nutcrackers.

LIVERPOOL (Empire)—Jimmy Edwards, Beryl Reid, Reg Varney, The Raindrops, The Kuban Kossacks, Los Flamencos, Neil & Pat Delrina, Jimmy Curries' Waltzing Waters, The Joan Davis Dancers.

MANCHESTER (Palace)—The Beverley Sisters, Eve Boswell, The Monarchs, Dalley & Wayne, Ted Rogers, 5 Olanders, Eliane & Rodolph, 4 Escorts, Derek Taverner Singers, Joan Davis Dancers.

LONDON (Palladium)—Arthur Haynes, Frank Ifield, Susan Maughan, Nicholas Parsons, Bob Wallis and Storeyville Jazzmen, Rudy Cardenas, Walter Gore Ballet Group, Ken Morris & Joan Savage, The Ross Taylor Dancers, Dorothy Dampier, Leslie Noyes.

VICTORIA PALACE — John Boulter, Tony Mercer & Dai Francis, Leslie Crowther, Margo Henderson, George Chisholm Jazzers, Schaller Brothers, T.V. Toppers, Pat Ellis.

Cabaret Bills

NEW YORK CITY

AFRICAN ROOM — Tad Truesdale, Ritchie Haven 3, Johnny Barracuda.

BARBERRY ROOM—Conrad Monjoy.

BASIN ST. EAST—Dick Gregory, Ramsey Lewis, Page Cavanaugh.

BITTER END—Tarriers, Woody Allen.

BON SOIR—Felicia Sanders, Marge Cameron, Enid Mosier & Alphonso.

BLUE ANGEL—Vaughn Meader, Patricia Scott.

CHARDAS — Lia Della, Bela Babai Orch, Elemar Horvath, Tibor Rakossy, Dick Marta, Janos Hozzsu.

CHATEAU MADRID—Los Chavales de Espana, Emilio Reyes Orc., Carbia Orc.

COPACABANA—Tony Bennett, Pat Cooper, Joseph Mele Orc., Frank Marti Orc.

CRYSTAL ROOM—Maria Velasco 3, Larry Storch, Jay Lawrence.

EMBERS—Dorothy Donegan.

GRINZING — Kalman Banyak, Henry Butz.

HAWAIIAN ROOM — Dee Marquez, Keolu Beamer, Auletta Orc.

HOTEL AMERICANA—Buddy Greco, Enrique Madriguera Orc.

HOTEL ASTOR—Eddie Lane Orc.

HOTEL NEW YORKER—Milt Saunders Orc., Frankie Dash.

HOTEL PARK SHERATON — Irving Fields 3.

HOTEL PLAZA — Carol Lawrence, Emil Coleman Orc., Mark Monte Orc. Plaza-9 Room: Julius Monk, Carol Morley, Gerry Matthews, Rex Robbins, Lovelady Powell, Susan Browning, Gordon Connell, William Roy, Robert Colston.

HOTEL ROOSEVELT — Juan Carlos Copes Ballet, Milt Shaw Orc.

HOTEL ST. REGIS—Peter Duchin Orc, Nancy Manning, Quintero Orc, Walter Kay, Jani Sarkozi.

HOTEL SAVOY-HILTON—Arturo Arturos Orc.

HOTEL STATLER HILTON — Cecil Lloyd.

HOTEL WALDORF-ASTORIA — Alan King, Myer Davis Orc.

INTERNATIONAL — George White's Scandals, Mike Durso Orc.

LATIN QUARTER—Bert Wheeler, Tom Dillon, Charlivels, Glenda Leigh, Art Johnson, Jo Lombardi Orc., Sam Binder Orc.

LIVING ROOM—Lainie Kazan, Morty Storm, Jerry Holmes, Brothers Cain, Bob Ferro Orc.

NO. 1 FIFTH AVENUE—Hankinson & De Maio, Bob Fisher.

RAMONDE—Violinaires, Vince Donato.

RAT FINK ROOM—Jackie Kannon, Annette Sanders, Gene Stridel, Norm Geller 3.

SAHBRA — "Land of Milk & Honey," Leo Fuld, Bob Phillips Orc.

SQUARE EAST—"To the Water Tower," Bob Dishy, Paul Dooley, Anthony Holland, Andrew Duncan, Barbara Harris, McIntyre Dixon.

TOWN & COUNTRY—Tony Martin, Rodney Dangerfield, Terrace & Elita, Ned Harvey's Orc., Rod Rodriguez Orc.

UPSTAIRS & DOWNSTAIRS — Ronnie Graham, David Rounds, Barbara Quaney, Jon Stone, George Coe, Bob Rogers, Sam Pottle, Mabel Mercer.

VIENNESE LANTERN—Monica Boyar, Bes-Ariene, Ernest Schoen Orc.

VILLAGE BARN—Piute Pete, Charles Slavin, Ada Cavallo, Danny Curtis, Kingsmen 4, Lou Harold Orc.

VILLAGE GATE—Brock Peters, Monzo Santamaria, Dakota Staton.

VILLAGE VANGUARD—Sonny Stitt, Bill Evans 3.

CHICAGO

BLUE ANGEL—"International Calypso Revue," Mitsou, Maurishka, The Calypsonians, Al D'lacey Orc.

CONRAD HILTON—"Hat's Off!" Lee Caron, Blackstone Jr., Helga Neff & Theo Ernst, Sherry Stevens, Ernie McLean, Boulevar-Dons (5), Boulevar-Dears (5), Jimmy Palmer Orc.

CRYSTAL PALACE—Randy Armour Singers, Steinberg & Kadish.

DEL PRADO HOTEL—"Hits of Broadway" revue.

DRAKE HOTEL — Patachou, Jimmy Blade Orc.

EDGEWATER BEACH—Dorothy Donegan, Edgewater Beach Guys & Dolls, Don Davis Orc.

GATE OF HORN—Carolyn Hester, Contemporary Folk Group.

LE BISTRO—Anita O'Day, Connie Milano Trio, Larry Novak Trio.

LONDON HOUSE—Jonah Jones Quartet, Jose Bethancourt Trio, Larry Novak Trio.

MISTER KELLY'S—Jackie Gayle, Jackie Cain & Roy Kral, John Frigo Trio, Marty Rubenstein Trio.

NEW LIVING ROOM—Rocky Rockwell & His Group, Pam Garner.

PALMER HOUSE—Frankie Laine, Roger Roy, Ben Arden Orc.

PLAYBOY — Bonnie Jacobs, Michael Dees, Faye Adams, Kenny Roberts, Simmy Bow, Jerry Collins.

SECOND CITY—"13 Minotaurs" Ann Elder, Sally Hart, Dick Schaal, Avery Schreiber, John Brent, Jack Burns, Del Close, Bill Mathieu, Omar Shapli.

SHERATON-BLACKSTONE — Toni Carroll, Franz Benteler Orc.

LOS ANGELES

COCONUT GROVE—Jerry Vale, Reiss & Davis.

CRESCENDO—Louis Nye, Nancy Wilson.

DINO'S—Jack Elton, Valarie Drew, Steve LaFever.

ICE HOUSE — Gold Coast Singers, Willow Creek Ramblers, Sara James & the Sanctified Six.

INTERLUDE—Pat Collins.

JERRY LEWIS—Tony Marsh.

MELODY ROOM—Ronnie Brown Trio.

PURPLE ONION—Jazz Crusaders.

SLATE BROS.—Jack Jones, Gina Wilson.

STATLER HOTEL—George Liberace

TOWN HOUSE—Red Nichols & Five Pennies.

TROUBADOR — The Dillards, Randy Boone, Jim & Dean.

YE LITTLE CLUB — John Gabriel, Janice Baker, Jack Smalley duo.

LAS VEGAS

BOURBON STREET—Lyn Keath.

CASTAWAYS—Barry Ashton's "Playmates of 1964," Redd Foxx, Peter Anthony, Don Randi Trio.

DESERT INN—Jimmy Durante, Sonny King, Eddie Jackson, Jean Sheppard, Donn Arden Dancers, Carlton Hayes Orc. Lounge: Ben Blue, Johnny Puleo, Les Baxter, Mafalda 3, Violins of Mexico, Peterson-Baker, Silver Strings.

DUNES—Eleanor Powell, Rip Taylor, Arturo Romero Strings, Dunes Dancers, Bill Reddie Orc. Lounge: "Vive Les Girls!", January Jones.

FLAMINGO — Ella Fitzgerald, Myron Cohen, Inga & Rolf, Russ Black Orc. Lounge: Harry James, Marion Colby, Gospel Jazz Singers.

FREMONT—Joe King, Zaniels, 4 Fables, Emblems, Bill Britton.

GOLDEN NUGGET—Rose Maddox, Diplomats, Cut-Ups.

HACIENDA—"Les Poupees de Paris," Grover Shore Trio, Johnny Olenn, Four Tunes, Kay Houston.

MINT — Pat Moreno's "Artists & Models of '63," Sheb Wooley.

NEVADA—Carol Jean Thompson, Jeri Lynne Fraser, King of Limbo.

NEW FRONTIER—"Paree! Ooo La! La!" Lounge: Clara Ward Singers, Ink Spots, Sunny Spencer.

RIVIERA—Harry Belafonte, Jack Cathcart Orc. Lounge: Shecky Greene, George Young, Al & Jet Loring.

SAHARA—Victor Borge, Moro-Landis Dancers, Louis Basil Orc. Lounge: Louis Prima & Co., Freddie Bell & Roberta Linn, Russ Cantor, Peter & Hank.

SANDS—Diahann Carroll, Allan Sherman, Bill Carey, Copa Girls, Antonio Morelli Orc. Lounge: Jackie Heller, Yaccubian Co., Red Norvo, Morry King, Strings, Ernie Stewart.

SHOWBOAT—Bob Luman, Johnny Paul.

SILVER SLIPPER—Hank Henry, Sparky Kaye, Danny Jacobs, Eddie Innes, Lili St. Cyr, Viennas, Slipperettes, Geo Redman Orc. Lounge: Funtastics, Beverly Marshal, Skeets Minton, Johnny La Monte.

STARDUST — "Lido de Paris," Eddie O'Neal Orc. Lounge: Roberta Sherwood, Kim Sisters, Nalani Kele, Bernard Bros., Andrini Bros.

THUNDERBIRD—"Flower Drum Song," Jack Soo, Arlene Fontana, Juanita Hall, Nat Brandwynn Orc. Lounge: Frances Faye, Christine Chatman, Teddy Randazzo, Gil and Nikki, Doris King, Lou Rawls.

TROPICANA—Folies Bergere '63, Ray Sinatra Orc. Lounge: Vagabonds, Al De Paulis 4, Dubonnet 3.

RENO-TAHOE

GOLDEN—Characters, Sue Flanders Quintet, Sparklers, Jac D'Jon.

HAROLDS—Don Cornell, Del Ray, Don Conn Orc.

HARRAH'S (Reno) — Billy Eckstine, Gaylord & Holiday, Judy Lynn, Personalities, High Hopes, Red Coty.

HARRAH'S (Tahoe)—Donald O'Connor, Rosemarie, Moro-Landis Singers and Dancers, Leighton Noble Orc. Lounge: Tex Beneke, Ray Eberle, Modernaires, Jerry Colonna, Braman & Leonard, Continentals, Playboys, Peter & Hank.

HOLIDAY—Happy Jesters, Jo Ann Jordan Trio, Andrini Bros., Charles Gould's Satin Strings.

MAPES—Guy Mitchell, Jack (Jive) Schafer, Ginny & Gallions, Ted Crawford.

NEVADA LODGE (Tahoe)—Deedy & Bill Galene with Charlene Knight.

NEW CHINA CLUB—Skip O'Donnell.

PRIMADONNA—"Step Lively" with Snyder Bros., Jacquelyn Fontaine, Arwoods, Forrest & Marika, Tom Peters, Dorothy Dorben Singers and Dancers, Al Tronti Orc.

RIVERSIDE — Freddy Martin Orc., Bobby Page and Musical Pages, Joyce Aimee, Nelson & Palmer, Enola.

SPARKS NUGGET—John Raitt, Rowan & Martin, Dolinoff and the Raya Sisters, George Arnold Singers and Dancers, Foster Edwards Orc.

WAGON WHEEL (Tahoe)—Red Norvo, Mavis Rivers, Florian Zabach, King's IV, Frank Moore Four, Ginny Greer and Gallions, We Four, Senators, Orrin Tucker Orc.

SAN FRANCISCO

BIMBO'S 365—Paul Gilbert, Wong Bros., Yacoubian Co.

CLAREMONT HOTEL (Berkeley) — "Ecstasy on Ice."

THE COMMITTEE—Kathryn Ish, Irene Riordan, Scott Beach, Bobby Camp, Gary Goodrow, Larry Hankin.

EARTHQUAKE McGOON'S — Turk Murphy and his band, Clancy Hayes.

FAIRMONT HOTEL—Janet Blair.

HUNGRY I—Bill Cosby, Amanda Ambrose, The Four Amigos.

JAZZ WORKSHOP—Wynton Kelly Trio.

SHERATON-PALACE HOTEL— "South Pacific."

SUGAR HILL — Lambert-Hendricks-Bavan.

TRIDENT (Sausalito) — Jean Hoffman Trio.

Latin Casino, N. J.

Cherry Hill, N.J., Oct. 15.

Xavier Cugat & Abbe Lane, Jackie Mason, Brascia & Tybee, Moro-Landis Dancers (8), Jack Curtis, Joe Frasetto Orch (15); $3-$6 minimum.

Abbe Lane's vocalizing is a shrewd combination of material and allure. Husband Xavier Cugat conducts the band, or looks on deadpan as his wife takes over the spotlight and the mike. Sheathed in a beaded white dress, to get the maximum shimmer out of Latin hip movements, Miss Lane swings into "Femininity," which she introed in the musical "Oh, Captain!"

"What is this something I've got?" she intones from the verse and a chorus of wolf whistles from an all-male table in the rear of the hall answers the questions for her. Although she obliges with such native lilts as "Everything's Coming Up Roses," "My Kind of Girl," "Blame it on the Bossa Nova," the major accent of the recital is its international flavor.

"Al Di La," the tune winner at the San Remo Festival, is followed by an Italian version of Peggy March's "I Will Follow Him," a Parisian chantey identified with the late Edith Piaf, an a dramatic rendition of "Hava Nagilah." Admitting that she has never had a gold record of her own, Miss Lane pays tribute to her bandleader-spouse in the background with Latino segment devoted to such "Cugie" evergreens as "My Shawl," "Perfidia," "Besame Mucho" and "Frenesi."

Cugat has augmented the regular Latin Casino instrumentation with a girl trio, a vibes man, drummer and French horn. The maestro also breaks up the concert with two fast dance interpolations by the team of Brascia & Tybee, who can make acro lifts, splits and slides seem torrid with the Latin beat.

A last minute substitution for the ailing George Kirby, Jackie Mason is in the comedy slot and still working out his aggressions on the audience. The comedian has a tendency to overdo it, giving the customer the feeling he'd rather bicker for audience laughs than win them.

His casually interspersed routine's jokes and impressions are good when the patron digs them. Best is Mason's hypoed imitation of Ed Sullivan and his cockeyed advice on economics, "the dollar has steadily declined in value, which the price of bread has constantly increased. Save bread."

Gagh.

Capri, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 9.

Nellie Lutcher, Jimmy Miller, Cowboy Martin; two-drink minimum.

Making her first local appearance in five years, although she has played some dates in fringe communities, Nellie Lutcher opened a two-week engagement Tuesday night (8) to a small but appreciative crowd.

The pianist-vocalist is backed capably by Jimmy Miller's drums and Cowboy Martin's bass. While she can still play more tricks with a melody than the average audience can keep up with, Miss Lutcher's tendency to take liberties with her lyrics occasionally botches up a ballad.

After an introductory medley into which she must have worked 15 or 20 tunes in a few minutes, she settled down to alternating requests for oldies with some zany arrangements of current tunes. Somewhere along the way she included such tunes as "Lake Charles Boogie," "Reaching for the Moon," "Hurry On Down," "Heart of a Clown" (a bit too maudlin), "Fine Brown Frame" (not for kiddies) and a version of "Cool Water" that ended up boiling. It's a generous outpouring of fancy playing and singing.

Robe.

Harold's, Reno

Reno, Oct. 8.

Don Cornell, Del Ray, Don Conn Orch (8); no cover, no minimum.

Don Cornell and Del Ray, both regulars in this intimate room, are back with basically the same acts presented in prior outings here; and both have proved favorites.

Cornell, in top voice, lends his rich baritone stylings to such as "I'm Yours," "Make Someone Happy," "Hold My Hand," "You're Nobody" and "Drinking Again." Much of the catalog is selected from his record hits, but included are a couple of newies, notably the now over-done "Left My Heart in San Francisco."

Cornell continues to give much attention to femmes at stageside, and at one point coaxes one to the floor and sings to her "Size 12," with attendant chatter. He's a smooth polished performer, but a change in repertoire is suggested to update the 45-minute turn.

Conducting from the piano for singer's stint is Jack Holliday, who is given a chance (while Cornell rests the pipes) to show his pianistic prowess on "Exodus."

Del Ray, top league with the magico stuff in anyone's book, works with disappearing canaries, a toy bear that drinks at vocal command, and a mobile prop table that also moves on command. He's also highly adept at playing card manipulations. High point is a mystifying routine where performer asks a tabler to choose a card, then retrieves same on the end of a rapier used to puncture a balloon he blows up on stage.

The Don Conn Orch ably backstops entire show.

Long.

Eddys', K.C.

Kansas City, Oct. 10.

Four Lads, Fred Muro's Continentals (5); $2 Cover.

Several years running the Four Lads were regulars at Eddys', but this is their first stand here in about three years. In the meantime, a new voice has been added in the person of Johnny D'Arc as second tenor. Only a few months with the group, he meshes okay with the established regulars who include Frankie Buseri, bass, Bernie Toorish, baritone, and Jimmy Arnold, tenor. Their offering of 15 numbers in 57 minutes is enjoyable all the way.

Lads' harmony style continues basically four part, but with many variations. If anything, more informality has been added to the turn, with even a bit of clowning not seen here before. This gets them a notch closer to the crowd, but essentially it's the music that is expected. They oblige with a long list of their recordings, plus a sprinkling of standards. There's also a specialty or two, each having a couple of innings featured up front. Frankie handles the emcee bit capably.

Their big hits are musts, of course, including "Standing on the Corner" and "Moments To Remember." These are surrounded by tunes in a wide variety of tempos from "Getting To Know You" to "Who Needs You" and "The Party's Over," with a novelty here and there in the route and even a singalong. Biz looks to hold its own, which is a welcome trend in what has started out as a dullish fall season.

They stay through Oct. 16.

Quin.

Detroit Athletic Club

Detroit, Oct. 11.

Enzo Stuarti, Heller & Helene, Seymour Hoffman Orch (8).

Already well established as a singer, Enzo Stuarti also is an accomplished serious dramatic monologist and an engaging low-key chatter guy. These three sides of Stuarti were delightfully received by members of this swank private club.

He got a deservedly respectful hearing, giving the words a passionately spirited delivery. He sang the Pat Boone lyrics to "Exodus" for heavy mitting.

Stuarti is on for 45 minutes, a good 20 to 25 minutes longer than any other headliner caught here in recent years. While he certainly didn't overstay his welcome, the overall impact probably would have been greater if he had gotten off a few minutes earlier. Headliner was well received and club manager Jim Campbell got his entertainment season off on a high (teror) dramatic note.

Heller & Helene are a polished dance team with the dark, good-looking male sure and graceful in lifts and twirls, while his blond stunning partner displays outstanding dancing ability and beautiful gams. Their Parisian tango number is especially torrid.

Seymour Hoffman and his orch open the show with an overture of "My Fair Lady" songs nicely orchestrated to display the leader's piano to best advantage. The orch's backing of Heller & Helene was a little ragged, but settled down nicely for the Stuarti stint. Tew.

Blue Angel, N. Y.

Milt Kamen, Danny Meehan, Gale Garnett, Frank Owens Trio; $5 minimum.

Comedian Milt Kamen is the current headliner at Max Gordon's eastside nook, supported by two newer arrivals on the cafe scene. They are singer Danny Meehan and folk chirper Gale Garnett (New Acts). Tinkling before the bill and between the acts is pianist Frank Owens with his trio.

Kamen is a likeable comic who's been getting lotsa exposure lately via the tv route. His kooky bits like a long interlude about whales mating, are spiced with topical gags and everything is styled in a well-timed routine. He's a funny man who uses his face and hands effectively to underscore a comic point. Never particularly dirty, there's an occasional indigo reference in the act but nothing that would offend any but the most ardent bluenose.

Patter covers head shrinking, women getting pinched in Rome, entertainment personalities, smoking, the Senate hearings, kids and various other items. These subjects all get a clever and offbeat appraisal. Although the material is kooky, Kamen is relatively unaffected in his delivery and he brings his comic points home in a natural and easy style which makes the whole business seem easy. Audiences enjoy.

Meehan is a personable lad who tends to oversell a bit but is genally entertaining and Miss Garnett delivers a mildly effective folk interlude. The Owens Trio handles its musical interludes in easy fashion, providing nice fillers for the ears of tipplers and eaters.

Kali.

Hotel Touraine, Boston

Boston, Oct. 3.

Leon Bibb, Herbie Sells, Keynotes (3); $1.50 cover.

Journey's End, 500-seater in Hotel Touraine, opened by Steve Leber, New York producer-promoter, is newest supper club venture in Hub. Formerly known as Surrey Room for functions, it has been transformed into posh class layout. Policy here will be names and two-week bookings.

Opening bill is topped by folk singer Leon Bibb and comic Herbie Sells. Bibb, looking like new edition of Belafonte, is slick performer in tight slacks and open black shirt. He adds patter to his turn, giving audience history of folk songs as he spins them off.

Opening with "500 Miles," he segues to some standards and in big voice does "Summertime" and "September Song" for nice audience reaction. Big number is "Rock and Gravel," chain gang song with which he stomps through the audience with sound effects. Bibb gets off to big mitting, returning for encore with "Mule Skinner" and "Didn't It Rain".

Sells, comic impressionist piper with topical fresh material, gets the show off to rousing start with a routine on Vegas and the Clan. He does click carbons of Tony Bennett, Eddie Fisher, Davis, Bishop, Sinatra. For his Sinatra routine he's got a cape, ciggie, the whole bit for bringing boff returns.

As Jerry Lewis he runs amok through the audience kissing femmes and lifting drinks from tables. Sells closes with straight rendition of "What Kind of Fool Am I" in fine voice, and goes off to cheers, setting a tone for the room that's hard to follow. Keynotes, piano, bass and drum, cut show with eclat.

Bill is in to Oct. 16. Nina Simone & Trio opens next.

Guy.

Franz Josef, Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 8.

Judy Lee; Aldo Montecone & his Continental Quartet; $1 cover.

A blond in a beaded blue Empress gown, Judy Lee is making her first visit to the posh Franz Josef Room of the Walker Hotel. Miss Lee, who can belt or ballad, jammed the satisfied customers into the 250-capacity room on preem night.

Opening with a bouncy "All By Myself," she seques into "Where Are You?" and changes tempo—and key—by sliding into ballad styling of "Till Somebody Loves You." Bouncing back to belting, she does a memory lane pop medley, including "Chicago," and winds with "I'll Se You in My Dreams."

Miss Lee, whose arrangements are by Harry Cohen and Ted Auletta, can also sing phonetically in French, Italian and German, but does not bill herself as an international chantootsie. Songstress, knows how to handle a mike, is an easy click in her 23-minute stint.

Aldo Montecone Quartet, with leader at the piano and vibes, gives staunch support to Miss Lee's act, and also plays for the dance seshes.

McStay.

The Blues Bar, Paris

Paris, Oct. 11.

Mae Mercer, Chet Baker, Champion Jack Dupree, Bill Marshall; Curtis Jones, Jean-Claude Lubin; $1.50 top.

There is a neat and needy idea behind this new boite. It is a place for locals and Yank residents, plus visitors, to hear quiet blues in a well proportioned room in expensively and into the wee hours of desired. It should settle down as a welcome addition to the nitery scene.

Maurice Girodias, Olympia press publisher, turned over one of the rooms in his three-tiered Les Grandes Severines for this boite. Behind it is also a late Russo-type restaurant and a downstairs bar and dance spot. It all adds up to catering to many tastes on the same premises.

Statuesque Mae Mercer gladhands and heads the roster with her singing accompanied by Champion Jack Dupree. Chet Baker plays his trumpet and sings with Jean-Claude Lubin backing on the 88. Curtis Jones fills in on the ivories and U.S. actor Bill Marshall tries his hand at singing.

Miss Mercer has a tense, arresting presence and unlimbers a belting voice that can be harsh, gentle, grating or caressing as she runs through some classic blues and rhythm & blues songs.

Dupree backs her well. He also does some witty patter talk with the audience and some light songs for good effect. Baker, who can make his horn resound with muted feeling turns it into a blues purveyor that fits atmospherically in this cozy room. He also sings in a reedy voice that has the musicianship to give the standard plaints new force.

Baker is well sidekicked by pianist Lubin. Jones supplies some listenable interim pianoantics. Marshall has an okay voice but still needs depth and a savvy stance to balance his blues and spirituals. Business has been strong for this new boite, primarily on word-of-mouth. Mosk.

Trolly Ho!, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 8.

Mitzi McCall & Charlie Brill, Fred E. Stewart, Lori Harper, Bob Alberti Trio; two-drink minimum.

Making the local scene for the first time since a 1962 summer date, the young husband-wife comedy team of Mitzi McCall & Charlie Brill opened a three-week date Sunday night (6) to a crowd that appeared to be anxiously awaiting their return.

Miss McCall has lotsa vitality. Brill, is a slightly frenetic type. Their style is fast with a mad mixture of skits, throw-aways, blackouts and some attempts at singing. The latter is seemingly to burn off excess energy rather than make any serious contribution to music.

Pair have a tendency to emphasize tradey show biz material, with a heavy blue accent. With fresher material and a more sophistcated approach, the act would be suitable for smarter spots and tv guest spots. Tops are skits, particularly their closing takeoff on "The Jazz Singer." Handsome couple drew lotsa laughs.

Singer Fred E. Stewart, who doubles as emcee, handles both jobs well although he could pay more attention to mood and less to charm.

Femme singer Lori Harper, an extremely pretty girl with ample vocal power to carry any number, tends to be overdramatic in her guestures and styling. She would make better impresh with a more natural approach.

Although audience dug her, she didn't relax and enjoy the reception but maintained tense, slightly artificial manner through entire routine. With less histrionics and more ease, Miss Harper would be an asset to any nitery bill.

The Bob Alberto Trio provides excellent musical support for entire show.

Robe.

Town & Country, Bklyn

Tony Martin, Rodney Dangerfield, Michael Terrace & Elita, Ned Harvey & Rod Rodrigues Orchs; $7.50 minimum plus $2 cover.

The Maksik family's operation of the Town & Country appears to be on an unusual basis this year. They've picked only peak times to keep their institution open, and they're relying on names to bring in the enormous amount of banquet and party trade needed to keep the 1,500 seats in the main room occupied.

Each year there seems to be some additional gimmicks in this operation. Last year, it was the spiraled parking charge of $1 and $2; latter for attended parking. This season, it looks like the $7.50 minimum plus a $2 cover. It's a lot of money for this section of the world. But in all fairness to the operators, they're striving to give the a la carte customers a lot for their loot.

The current headliner is Tony Martin, with featured acts Rodney Dangerfield (New Acts) and Michael Terrace & Elita. Martin is backed by four singers who comprise two couples. It gives the star a chance to show some new effects and get some rest during a song session lasting about an hour. Still one of the top tune technicians, he remains a strong singer in which every detail is carefully polished and projected.

Martin has adjusted well to this easier method of operation. He takes to the new freedom of movement and several periods of vocal idleness with grace and charm. His arrangements meet this newer condition, and per usual, the fresh items in his catalog help him retain the earlier images established by many years on the boards.

Terrace & Elita are lithe ballroomers. Most of their work is in the Latin vein. They present many lively passages designed to show their skill and walk off to ample applause after warming up the audience.

Back on the podium is Ned Harvey, who conducts with skill, and the Rod Rodrigues crew for the Latin terps.

Jose.

Moulin Rouge, L.A.

Las Vegas, Oct. 8.

"Don Snyder's Hootenanny Club," with Snyder, Bob & Buster, Alta King, John & Jerry, Charles Irwin; $1.50 admission, $1 minimum.

New wrinkle for Vegas is "Don Snyder's Hootenanny Club," with nitery policy for teenagers and "young adults." Resultant angle is no liquor and no gambling which is pretty far out for this desert burg awash with spirits and liberally endowed with games of chance emporiums.

The other wrinkle on the wrinkle is reopening of Moulin Rouge showroom shuttered eight years. Originally slated to open the dark section of the New Frontier Hotel, the Hootenanny Club ran into licensing snags and upper stratosphere rent fee. Those plans were shelved and everybody moved out of the high rent district where the modest budget of $2,000 weekly could work.

Relighting of the town's first "interracial" hospice far from the Strip and some distance from downtown Casino Centre poses certain problems, but enjoying hoopla among young fry as only one of its kind in town may override those problems.

Don Synder is only 19, but displays plenty of savvy as emcee and as ballad-folksinger. With only six months as pro in show biz, he already has built a roster of nitery dates, national vidshow bookings, and an album for Walt Disney.

He grabs full rapport with his glides through repertoire consisting of high percentage of folk standards—"Molly Dee," "Scarlet Ribbons," "Shenandoah," "Greenback Dollars," "John Henry"—and hits high with his original "Story Of A Soldier," with vis-a-vis support from John & Jerry duo.

Bob & Buster are long on personality grafted in tunes such as "Sinner Man," "Yellow Bird," and "Hammer Song." John & Jerry meld vocalistics for solid applause. They hit peak in "Green Fields," and are definite adjunct to Snyder.

Alta King is for real in the folk idiom. From hills of Arkansas, she specializes in the sing-a-longs, plaintively etching backwater blues, spirituals, and novelties. Charles Irwin is another mainstream minstrel, working with 12-string guitar and harmonica among tunes picked up on wandering about the U.S. All acts accomp themselves on guitars, cancelling need for house orch.

Duke.

Shows on Broadway

A Case of Libel

Rober L. Stevens & Joel Schenker presentation of drama in three acts (eight scenes), by Henry Denker, based on the Louis Nizer book, "My Life in Court." Staged by Sam Wanamaker; scenery and lighting, Donald Oenslager; costumes, Ann Roth. Stars Van Heflin, Sidney Blackmer, Larry Gates; features John Randolph, M'el Dowd, Philip Bourneuf, Joseph Julian, Alexander Clark, Wynn Wright, Richard McMurray, Lesley Woods, Camila Ashland, Joel Crothers, Douglas McLean, Tom Hammond, William Hindman. Opened Oct. 10, '63, at the Longacre Theatre, N.Y.; $6.90 top weeknights, $7.50 Friday-Saturday nights.

Claire Marshall ..... Camila Ashland
Abner Coles ..... Joseph Julian
David Strong ..... Joel Crothers
Robert Sloane ..... Van Heflin
Dennis Corcoran ..... John Randolph
Anita Corcoran ..... M'el Dowd
James Baldwin ..... Alexander Clark
Miss Brand ..... Lesley Woods
Paul Cleary ..... Sidney Blackmer
Boyd Bendix ..... Larry Gates
Judge ..... Wynn Wright
Cleary's Assistant ..... Tom Hammond
Court Clerk ..... Douglas McLean
Court Stenographer ..... William Hindman
Col. Douglas ..... Philip Bourneuf
Fred Alston ..... Richard McMurray
Jury Foreman ..... Keith Parnell

Courtroom dramas are a traditional theatrical staple, of course, and in the case of an adaptation of an enormously best-selling book based on a notable historical case involving recognizable public figures, a show can hardly miss. With "A Case of Libel," which opened tonight at the Longacre Theatre, the basic popular assets may make a boxoffice hit of a faulty play.

"A Case of Libel" is Henry Denker's dramatization of Louis Nizer's autobiographical runaway success, "My Life in Court." The play takes only a single portion of the book, the now-celebrated libel suit of Quentin Reynolds against Westbrook Pegler and the Hearst syndicate. The actual names of the principals are not used in the show, but the identities are inescapable and, in fact, there isn't even the almost obligatory disclaimer published in the program.

Since it is obviously based on fact, "A Case of Libel" has the advantage of being immediately identifiable to audiences, especially New Yorkers, and since at least one of the principals in the trial has long been a controversial figure, the play also carries emotional overtones. On the other hand, since the war correspondent's suit against the columnist is so widely known, the element of suspense is sacrificed.

Also, the play lacks dimension and, though the key facts involved are presumably true, their use occasionally seems arbitrary. In short, the dramatic cards give the impression of being stacked. Even though the Nizer book and possibly the official court record may show the case to have been so one-sided and the defendant such a willfully reckless, obsessed monomaniac, it weakens the play.

The drama takes place in the courtroom and the office of the plaintiff's attorney. It opens with the correspondent persuading the reluctant lawyer to take the case, shows episodes from the trial, including the bellicosely self-righteous defendant's self-damaging testimony under cross-examination, and ends with triumphant verdict for the plaintiff. The latter's loyal wife is represented onstage, but she doesn't emerge as a real person, as in fact do any other characters except the wholly admirable lawyer for the plaintiff and, to some extent, the latter himself.

Within these limitations of scope, Sam Wanamaker has staged the drama with cohesive vigar and movement, and there are excellent performances by Van Heflin in the meaty role of the attorney-hero, Larry Gates as the malicious columnist, and Sidney Blackmar as the unctious defense lawyer. There are also good supporting portrayals by John Randolph as the plaintiff, Philip Bourneuf as a salty witness for the prosecution, Joseph Julian as a legal assistant who's red-smeared by the defendant, Richard McMurray as a terrorized syndicate executive and Wynn Wright as the judge.

Donald Oenslager has designed a flexible, playable and impressively weighty combination courtroom and law office setting.

"A Case of Libel" is an engrossing show as far as it goes, particularly in its use of a fascinating episode in history, but it's lack of anything representing life outside the courtroom may limit its popularity. It's likely to be a modest sucess, but might be given added dimension as a film.

Hobe.

The Private Ear and The Public Eye

Roger L. Stevens (by arrangement with H. M. Tennent, Ltd.) presentation of dual-bill of one-act plays by Peter Shaffer. Staged by Peter Wood; scenery, Richard Negri, supervision, Klaus Holm; associate producers, Lyn Austin, Victor Samrock. Stars Geraldine McEwan, Barry Foster, Brian Bedford, Moray Watson. Opened Oct. 9, '63, at the Morosco Theatre, N.Y.; $6.90 top weeknights, $7.50 Friday-Saturday nights.

THE PRIVATE EAR

"Tchaik" ..... Brian Bedford
Ted ..... Barry Foster
Doreen ..... Geraldine McEwan

THE PUBLIC EYE

Cristoforou ..... Barry Foster
Charles ..... Moray Watson
Belinda ..... Geraldine McEwan

The old Broadway truism that one-act plays aren't boxoffice should have a fair test with the Peter Shaffer doublebill which opened last Wednesday night (9) at the Morosco Theatre. The show was a substantial London success and is handsomely presented here.

Shaffer, the author of the click of several seasons ago, "Five Finger Exercise," has written contrasting and strikingly complementary plays in "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye." Both works are comedies, but the former has a poignant ending, while the latter concludes on a delicious note of whimsy.

Both plays are brilliantly written, with marvelously actable parts and eloquently theatrical situations and scenes. Both are expertly directed and superbly played. They constitute a knockout show and, despite the handicap of being a dual-bill, offer interesting possibilities for the screen.

"The Private Ear" is primarily a situation piece. It involves a shy young man who has met a girl at a concert and invited her to his London flat for dinner. Being inarticulate, inhibited and inexperienced, he also has a brash young friend in to break the conversational ice. The friend and the girl hit it off, of course, and the host slowly congeals in frustration. There is a touching surprise ending.

"The Public Eye," also located in London, is about a life-loving young woman, her stuffy accountant-husband, and the pixie private detective he hires to obtain evidence of her suspected infidelity. It's quite Saroyanesque in style, and very funny.

Under Peter Woods deft and skillfully controlled direction, there are expressive performances by a quartet of British players. Geraldine McEwan gives a virtuoso portrayal in the first piece and an excellent performance in the finale. Brian Bedford is fine as the sensitive youth in the first play, Moray Watson is convincing as the husband in the closer, and Barry Foster makes distinctive characters of the life-of-the-party guest in the opener and the contagious odd-ball gumshoe in the finale.

Richard Negri has designed the playable settings representing a dingy bedsitting room and an accountant's reception room. The show will be limited by the dual-bill factor and the absence of boxoffice names, but it offers sparkling entertainment.

Hobe.

The Advocate

Michael Ellis & William Hammerstein presentation of drama in three acts, by Robert Noah. Staged by Howard Da Silva; scenery and lighting, Ralph Alswang; costumes, J. Michael Travis. Stars James Daly; features Paul Stevens, Tresa Hughes, Martin Brooks, Dino Fazio, Barnard Hughes, Joseph Warren, Dolph Sweet, Allen Nourse, John Cecil Holm. Opened Oct. 14, at the ANTA Theatre, N.Y.; $6.90 top weeknights, $7.50 Friday-Saturday nights.

Ed Hughes ..... Martin Brooks
Giovanni Bertelli ..... Paul Stevens
Warren Curtis ..... James Daly
Tom Stark ..... Allen Nourse
Bartolomeo Vanzetti ..... Dino Fazio
Guard ..... Walter P. Brown
Miss Evans ..... Lynn Brinker
Judge Ballantine ..... Joseph Warren
Rosa Sacco ..... Tresa Hughes
Nicola Sacco ..... Dolph Sweet
Guard ..... Ernest Stone
Flint ..... Luther James
Celestino Madeiros ..... Conrad J. Bromberg
Inspector Matthews ..... Leslie Litomy
Al Tuttle ..... Stuart A. Germain
Capt. Riordan ..... John Crowley
Court Clerk ..... Stuart A. Germain
George Schreiber ..... Charles Baxter
Adam Schuyler ..... Wilson Brooks
Samuel Carter ..... Ernest Stone
Charles Sherman ..... Rufus Smith
Sergeant-at-Arms ..... Alan Ansara
Arthur Burns ..... John Cecil Holm
Secretary ..... Alan Ansara
Governor ..... Barnard Hughes
Warden ..... Leslie Litomy
Assistant Warden ..... Alan Ansara

It's a dire omen when the interesting thing about a show is not the show itself, but the circumstances surrounding it. The provocative and possibly significant aspect of "The Advocate," which opened last Monday night (14) at the ANTA Theatre, is that the play was telecast simultaneously by tape in five key cities, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and San Francisco, under Westinghouse sponsorship. (For local reactions to the video version, see reports in the Television section.)

As a stage play, the "Advocate" is merely another promising idea gone wrong. Although the subject matter, the infamous Sacco-Vanzetti case, may still have explosive potential, Robert Noah's treatment is fumbling and progressively unsatisfying. It's indicative that the best writing in the play, in fact the only stirring passage, is the celebrated Vanzetti letter, here done as a statement by the defendant in court, just before he's sentenced.

When it was still an active infection in the public conscience, the Sacco-Vanzetti affair became known as the case that would not die. In this drama, however, it seems, if not actually dead, at least in failing health. The material is undoubtedly tricky for stage adaptation, at least as popular entertainment. But "The Advocate" fails as drama, and so of course as boxoffice fare.

Much, though not all, of the trouble appears to be in the script. The story tends to be primarily a repetitious series of discouraging setbacks for the defendants and their supporters, and there's little suggestion on activity or life beyond the backdrop and wings. Significantly, there were recurring flurries of coughing by the first-nighters, although occasional moments brought enthralled silence.

The real flaw in the play appears to be the author's uncertainty as to who is the hero, and the latter's exasperating inarticulateness. The intent obviously was to have the protagonist the eminent, conservative, socially unassailable Boston corporation lawyer who reluctantly became interested in and took the case of the two obscure anarchists accused of a hold-up murder—the ignorant imigrant shoemaker and the semi-literate fish-peddler. That's evident in the title, plus the fact that the character seems to be the author's standard-bearer and in the center of the action most of the time.

But the advocate and spokesman is tongue-tied. Here is a supposedly successful, respected member of the bar in the so-called Athens of America, a hero who takes a brave stand against friends and associates and his social class to fight for a moral principle at the risk of professional ruin and social ostracism—but a man unable to justify his action and belief in words. Instead, the few moving, uplifting ideas—presumably the reason Noah wrote the play—are expressed by the two uneducated defendants, one barely able to speak English.

This weakness in the play is compounded in the casting, staging and performances. For instance, the Vanzetti letter, done as a speech in court by the defendant himself, is the emotional highlight of the play, and it might have been more accurate historically and more effective dramatically if it had been read by the protagonist-lawyer. Moreover, under the seemingly strained direction of Howard Da Silva, the lawyer appears to be something of a rough diamond, given to ranting under pressure, rather than an assured master of the law.

Also, while James Daly is moderate believable, likable and even fairly persuasive in the title role, he seems to lack the dramatic power to give the missing elo-

(Continued on page 58)

SCHEDULED B'WAY PREEMS

Jennie, Majestic (10-17-63).
Marie Bell Co., Atkinson (10-20-63).
Rainy Day, Belasco (10-22-63).
Barefoot in Park, Biltmore (10-23-63).
110 in Shade, Broadhurst (10-24-63).
Ballad Sad Cafe, Beck (10-30-63).
Tambourines, Little Theatre (11-2-63).
Once For Asking, Booth (wk. 11-11-63).
Arturo Ui, Lunt-Fontanne (11-11-63).
Man and Boy, Atkinson (11-12-63).
Cuckoo's Nest, Cort (11-14-63).
Golden Age, Lyceum (11-18-63).
Marathon '33, Actors Studio (11-21-63).
Zenda, Hellinger (11-26-63).
Time of Barracudas, ANTA (12-2-63).
Girl Came to Supper, B'way (12-5-63).
Love & Kisses, Music Box (12-18-63).
Hello, Dolly, St. James (1-16-64).
Dylan, Plymouth (1-21-64).
After Fall, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (1-23-64).
Habimah, Little Theatre (2-1-64).
What Makes Sammy, 54th St. (2-4-64).
Foxy, Ziegfeld (wk. 2-11-64).
Marco, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (2-20-64).
Funny Girl, Winter Garden (2-27-63).
Charlie, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (3-12-64).
Girl to Remember, Hellinger (5-26-64).

Shows Abroad

Six of One

London, Sept. 27.

Peter Bridge (for Bridge Productions Ltd.) presentation of revue in six parts, with sketches and songs by John Taylor, Robin Hunter, Dennis Lotis, Neville Phillips, Alan Melville, Dennis Wilson, Cardew Robinson, Sean Vincent, Ian Fraser, Vivian Ellis, Robert Gould, Arthur Wilkinson, Julius Emanuel, Harold Rottesman, Robb Steward, Jeremy Kingston, Peter Knight, Jay Livingstone, Ray Evans, Charles Zwar, S. C. Green, R. M. Hills, W. C. Handy, Peter Myers, Alec Grahame, Ronnie Cass. Show devised by Francis Essex; staged by William Chappell; musical staging, Irving Davies; decor, Tod Kingman; costumes, James Parker; lighting, Michael Northern; musical direction, Frank Horrox. Stars Dora Bryan; features Richard Wattis, Dennis Lotis, Amanda Barrie, John Hewer, Sheila O'Neill. Opened Sept. 26, '63, at the Adelphi Theatre, London; $4.25 top.

Cast also includes Hilda Campbell Russell, Coralie Persse, Elaine Taylor, Michael Bevis, Lindsay Dolan, David Toguri, Pamela Hart, Robert Howes, Bernard Sharpe, Anthea Slatter, Cathie Sneddon, James Sparrow, Ruth Till, Don Lawson, Susan Denny, Julian Fox, Wendy Barry, Michael Bevis, Caroline Hall, Robert Parvin, dancers (10), singers (8).

Peter Bridge has the makings of a likely hit in this lavish theatrical hybrid containing a number of sketches and songs, with a loose story thread. The yarn covers the rise of a femme performer from pantomine to concert party, revue, musical comedy, tv comedy and variety. Besides all the visual trimmings, the marquee, offers Dora Bryan, a talented, popular comedienne.

Striking decor, stunning costumes and other expensive trappings don't completely disguise the fact that the show is too long, despite an extended road tryout. That's a minor defect, however, and the cutting and tightening should stimulate boxoffice interest and help in achieving a successful run.

This is not a book show in the conventional sense, and that is reflected by the number of writers who contributed the various sketches, songs and lyrics. It is largely a spoof of stage conventions, and is far and away at its best when it keeps in that groove.

It gets off to a rollicking start in the pantomine section, with Miss Bryan, the last of a line of babes, emerging from a reluctantly opening egg. Subsequent parody targets include concert parties, revue sketches, ballet, traditional musical comedy, television, vaude and pop vocal groups.

Miss Bryan is, of course, the mainstay of the production, and the stage comes alight with her every appearance. She has a delightful sense of the ridiculous and although she dominates she does not have it all her own way. Richard Wattis, a refugee from pompous film and stage roles, makes a bold bid in a new field of entertainment, although he is not much of a singer or dancer, but is an assured farceur.

Dennis Lotis, a well-known local vocalist, plays a more conventional role throughout the proceedings, but sings well and acts passably. Amanda Barrie is a striking singer and comedienne, and John Hewer is funny in the sketches. Sheila O'Neill makes a hit as a dancer and plays a prominent role in other assignments.

The show, devised by Frances Essex, has been briskly staged by William Chappell, and the musical numbers by Irving Davies have notable vitality. Tod Kingman and James Parker merit top marks for their respective decor and costumes, Michael Northern has done a superb lighting job and Frank Horrox weighs in with vigorous musical direction.

Myro.

At the Drop of Another Hat

London, Oct. 3.

H. M. Tennent (by arrangement with the Frederick Harrison Trust) presentation of a revue in two acts (23 scenes) written by and starring Michael Flanders and Donald Swann. Opened Oct. 2, '63, at the Theatre Royal, Haymarket, London; $3.50 top.

Only the most determined misanthrope could fail to enjoy the new Michael Flanders-Donald Swann revue, "At the Drop of Another Hat." The show appears set for a healthy and highly profitable run at the Haymarket Theatre, and has already been snapped up for Broadway by Alexander H. Cohen, in a pre-production deal.

It was just over six years ago that Flanders and Swann opened with "At The Drop of a Hat" at the more intimate Fortune Theatre, staying for well over two years. It was in the early days of that run when Cohen picked up the U.S. rights, but had to wait some three years before the two entertainers were free to cross the Atlantic. He will surely have to wait patiently again, though perhaps not for quite such a long time.

The clue to the Flanders and Swann success is their cunning use of wit, charm, style and talent, with which they exploit such unlikely material as "The Gas Man Cometh," a song about the first and second laws of thermo-dynamics, which comes out as a hot swinging number, items in Greek and Russian, the art of olive stuffing, a slightly satirical lyric about the French president, aptly titled "All Gall," and, of course, the inevitable numbers about animals.

The method of presentation is unchanged, though with the passing of the years their added expertise provides a new gloss to the show. Flanders, the bearded one in a wheelchair, does most of the gabbing, and the bespectacled Swann provides the music and takes a lively and active part in the singing.

Their personalities are vastly different, yet uniquely complementary. Flanders is an outstanding reconteur, and though each word is obviously carefully rehearsed, conveys an air of complete spontaneity. Swann, beaming most of the time, is a gifted partner and makes a small success with his Greek and Russian numbers.

Such is the measure of their success that on their opening they were called back for four encores, and had no difficulty in getting sophisticated firstnighters joining in the chorus of one of their better-known songs.

Myro.

Dublin One

Dublin, Oct. 1.

Gemini Productions presentation of two-part play by Hugh Leonard, based on short stories by James Joyce. Staged by Barry Cassin; setting, William McCrow and Robert Heade; costumes, P. J. Bourke. Stars Donal Donnelly, Martin Dempsey. Opened Sept. 30, '63, at the Gate Theatre, Dublin; $1.40 top.

Ignatius Gallagher ..... Donal Donnelly
Mr. Kernan ..... Martin Dempsey
Mrs. Kernan ..... May Cluskey
Alleyne ..... Michael Ryan
Chief Clerk ..... Gerry Sullivan
Higgins ..... Desmond Perry
Mahony ..... Tony Hayes
Stephen ..... David Fleming
Man ..... Arthur O'Sullivan
O'Halloran ..... Tom Irwin
Leonard ..... Dermot Tuohy
Weathers ..... Brian Waldron
Manager ..... Brian Waldron
Policeman ..... Gerry Sullivan
Power ..... Desmond Perry
Cunningham ..... Dermot Tuohy
McCoy ..... Tom Irwin
Fogarty ..... Derry Power
Priest ..... Michael Ryan
Old Jack ..... Arthur O'Sullivan
O'Connor ..... Dermot Tuohy
Hynes ..... Desmond Perry
Lenehan ..... Brian Waldron
Corley ..... Gerry Sullivan
Father Keon ..... Derry Power
Boy ..... Tony Hayes
Lyons ..... Michael Ryan
Crofton ..... Tom Irwin

Hugh Leonard, who re-worked James Joyce's "Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man" last year to provide a winner in "Stephen D," has exploited some of the stories of Joyce's "Dubliners" for this piece presented in the manner of a dramatised lecture, with Donal Donnelly as the lecturer occasionally breaking through into the action of the playlets.

Donnelly has a nice style in his seemingly offhand approach to the subject of his "lecture" and succeeds in holding the piece together through the first half. The only other continuous character in the performance is Mr. Kernan, the character Joyce used to represent his father. Martin Dempsey, who had similar role in "Stephen D," is a standout as the alternate rummy clerk, braggart, beggar and bully, and the opening part of the show centers on him.

The stories used have been adapted and in some cases telescoped by Leonard to provide an entertainment rather than a play. Where he has been concerned with humor his success has been greatest, the second half, in which he turns to a more serious pattern, is less successful but might be developed effectively.

Apart from Donnelly and Dempsey, there is no opportunity for lengthy character development, but there are first class performances from Arthur O'Sullivan, as as elderly queer picking up two young boys in the first part and a political hanger-on in the second, and Derry Power as both a friend

(Continued on page 59)

N. Y. Musicians Ratify 3-Year Deal With B'way Theatres; $250 Top Scale

The contract settlement reached last Friday (11) by representatives of Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians and the League of N.Y. Theatres after a round-the-clock negotiating session with N. Y. Mayor Robert F. Wagner was ratified by a vote of 238 to 19 at a union membership meeting Monday afternoon (14). It's a three-year agreement retroactive to Labor Day when a prior pact of three years' duration expired.

Under terms of the agreement, which averted a musicians' strike threatened for last Monday night, the climb in minimum wages over the three-year period ranges from $12 to $36.80. The basic scale, which applies to musicals in houses contracted to play tuners, jumps from $170 to $180 the first year of the pact, holds steady the second year and then goes up to $182 the third year.

Also climbing $12 is the minimum for musicians with song-and-dance shows playing houses not contracted for musicals. Here the base pay climbs from $213.20 to $223.20 for the first two years of the contract, then goes to $225.20. The biggest salary boost is for musicals playing Broadway break-in dates out-of-town with the minimum climbing from $213.20 to $245 the first year, then to $250 for the balance of the pact.

In contract houses, the union requires that four musicians be paid when a straight play requiring no tooters is booked. The minimum here has been upped from $119.20 to $135 under the new agreement. In non-contracted spots with straight plays using musicians, the minimum has been hiked from $159.90 to $174.90. The bottom salary for a rehearsal pianist has been raised from $140 to $154.

Also new in the contract are a non-discrimination clause, major medical insurance and four days accumulated sick leave a year. In regard to "identity with product," a key area of conflict, the local and the league are to jointly elect a committee to draw up language of a contract to be mutually agreed upon for such a provision if a musical after its initial presentation is produced for pay television. However, if after 60 days the joint committee is unable to agree upon language then there's to be binding arbitration by a third party.

Lewis & Dare Make Bid For Greek Theatre, L.A.; Doolittle Asks Renewal

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.

Sammy Lewis and Danny Dare, operators of the Melodyland Theatre in Anaheim, opposite Disneyland, have entered the competition to take over the Greek Theatre. They have submitted a bid for the 4,400-seat al fresco forum, to start in 1965. The showcase is under the supervision of the L.A. Board of Recreation & Park Commission.

Lewis & Dare, who seem to have clicked with operetta revivals at Melodyland, are offering a $70,000-a-year guarantee against seven percent of boxoffice and 10% of all gross concessions, including programs. Three other bids are in for the city-owned spot.

The Greek Theatre Assn., under directorship of James A. Doolittle, has operated the showcase for 11 years with a $1,000,000 gross during an average 10-week-a-year season. It still has one year to go on its current lease, and has requested a renewal, on the grounds of successful operation; and alleged past assurances by the Commission for such renewal.

Two other parties interested in acquiring the property are Gene Mann, who operated the Greek before Doolittle and his group took over, and the Stan Seiden-Zev Bufman theatre-production firm, which now operates the Ivar, Civic Playhouse and LeGrand Theatre locally.

Doolittle says that the application for renewal was based upon the Commission's assurance in 1954 that a renewal would be given. Upon this assumption, he asserts, the association spent $30,000 for physical improvements and tried to present the finest entertainment to the al fresco forum,

(Continued on page 60)

Giesen Sponsors Tours Of 'Wood' and 'Characters'

Universities and colleges comprise the bulk of the dates set by the Giesen Management Inc. for the tour which Theodore Mann's Circle in the Square company began Oct. 5 at the McCarter Theatre, Princeton, N.J. A company of 16 is participating in performances of "Under Milk Wood," which had been presented at the Circle in the Square, N.Y., and a duplication of the version of "Six Characters in Search of an Author," now being presented at the Martinique Theatre, N.Y.

Byron Ringland, who assisted William Ball in directing the plays off-Broadway, has staged the touring editions. The trek, consisting mostly of one-niters, is to run through a Nov. 16 booking at Boston Univ. That'll mark the end of an initial tour of 33 performances. Another string of dates has been booked by Giesen beginning early next year.

Theatre-in-Sky And Tower Cafe Planned in Chi

Chicago, Oct. 15.

Pie in the sky will be served 920 feet above Chicago's Navy Pier if a developer can get the necessary legal clearances to build an observation tower at the east end of the pier, which juts into Lake Michigan at Michigan and Grand avenues. Robert F. Dooley, president of Chicago Sky Tower Corp., said that an elaborate restaurant is planned for the top of the tower plus a theatre in the round seating 1,500, both of which would rotate. It would be the tallest structure in Chicago.

Mayor Richard J. Daley gave his approval to the project, but added that the developers would have to renovate the entire pier without disturbing present shipping and warehousing facilities. Construction of the tower has become possible because of the move of the Chicago branch of the Univ. of Illinois from Navy Pier to a larger site on the west side of the city.

Dooley estimated the cost of the project at $12,000,000, and said that he has been assured that financing is available. The plans were made on the basis of the success of the space needle at the Seattle World's Fair. The developers said that 20,000,000 visitors come to Chi each year, and that if 5,000,000 of them visited the tower it would be commercially successful.

The city's requirement that the entire pier be developed as a recreation center may prove a stumbling block to the construction of the tower there, according to Dooley. "If it takes $2,000,000 to put the pier in shape, it's all right," he said, "but if it were $50,000,000, the answer would have to be no." The statements by Mayor Daley and the developers may indicate that negotiations are under way for the city to contribute to the pier renovation if the promoters will build the tower.

PARIS SETS NOVEMBER FESTIVAL OF BALLET

Paris, Oct. 15.

A ballet festival here will run the month of November with troupes form France, Great Britain, Hungary and Finland. Site is Theatre Des Champs-Elysees which will also mark its 50th anni at the same time.

Royal Ballet from London, headed by Dame Margot Fonteyn, opens fest Nov. 4 with "Swan Lake," followed by the Finnish Opera Ballet with a dance version of August Strindberg's play "Miss Julie," Fokine's "The Love Proof" and Petipas's choreographic interpretation of "Don Quixote."

Then comes a group from the Marseilles Opera followed by the Budapest Opera Ballet, Nov. 20-23.

Theatre at Hookset, N.H., Operating Year-Around

The China Dragon Playhouse, Hooksett, N.H., which concluded a nine-week season of summer stock Sept. 7, is expanding to a year-around operation. David Garmel, producer of the warm-weather offerings, reopened the house last Sunday (13) with "Two for the Seesaw."

William Whiting, who's been active in legit in New York, is general manager of the operation which is to be under the jurisdiction of Actors Equity.

Campus Bookings Booming Ind'pls

Indianapolis, Oct. 15.

The $3,500,000 Clowes Memorial Hall, which opens next Friday (18) on the campus of Butler Univ. with a performance by the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, is giving this city a new look in the area of entertainment. That applies not only to the hall's modern makeup, but also to the season-long barrage of varied presentations lined up for the 2,200-seater.

Longhair concerts by the local symphony, which is making the hall its home, and other groups will represent only one phase of activities at the spot. For instance, there'll be a flock of legit bookings, far more than the three or four touring shows presented at the Murat Theatre here in recent seasons. Opera, ballet, jazz, pop music, variety bills and other types of entertainment are also scheduled for showcasing at the hall.

Reflecting the nature of the bookings at the hall is the schedule for the first week of operation through Oct. 25. The premiere concert, which Izler Solomon will baton with pianist Grant Johannesen as soloist, will be followed Saturday (19) by morning and afternoon performances of "Fun With Music," a program for kiddies handled by television's Captain Kangaroo (Bob Keeshan). That evening there'll be two performances of the Bob Hope show, with the comedian supported by the Four Step Brothers, a terp act; George Carl and Arlene, a novelty team, and vocalist Penny Pryor.

Soloists from the Metropolitan and San Francisco Opera companies will be featured Sunday (20) with the local symphony and choir in Verdi's "Requiem," and "Stars of the Bolshoi Ballet" will be the Monday (21) presentation. Tuesday (22) will mark the first Community Concert offering, the Koutev Bulgarian National Ensemble, and on Oct. 24-25 the Butler Univ. Drama Dept. will present "Mother Courage and Her Children," with Thomas Adkins directing and Viola Berwick, a professional actress from Chicago, guesting.

Besides "Courage" and another undesignated drama department offering, scheduled for April 24-25, the list of legit entries includes

(Continued on page 59)

Most Like Musicals

Indianapolis, Oct. 15.

The Clowes Memorial Hall, opening next Friday (18) on the Butler Univ. campus here, had the Walker Research Co. survey local residents last May to determine such information as program preferences and ticket purchasing patterns. In a poll covering different income brackets, the top earners preferred musical comedy, light drama, opera, symphony and ballet in that order. Those in the middle income designated television first, then films, dance bands and debate last.

In a random selection of 400 houses in the city, the majority of those queried on their choice of an evening's entertainment selected pictures. Musical comedy was second, television third, modern dramatic plays fourth, sports events fifth, cards sixth, symphonic offerings seventh and bowling eighth. Only 5% of this group was interested in buying season tickets, most preferring single-performance purchases.

London 'Lady' Closes Saturday (19) With Usual Memories and Statistics; Set for Record Run in Manchester

London, Oct. 15.

A backstage party at Drury Lane Theatre next Saturday (19) will bring down the curtain of one of London's most spectacular hits. "My Fair Lady," which was mounted for around $140,000 and recouped its investment within months, closes after 2,281 performances, to go on tour.

The musical opened April 30, 1958, and created the biggest black market tab setup that London has known. Since then, the show has been seen by approximately 4,325,000 people and has grossed approximately $9,996,000, at a sale of $3.50 to 70c. The average nightly take during the run has been $5,400.

The closing of MFL, which has had the longest run in the 300-year history of the Drury Lane's Theatre Royal, does not mean its decease. The show reopens Oct. 31, at the Manchester Opera House with virtually the same leads and the current cast. The advance booking at Manchester exceeds $364,000 and the engagement, originally planned to end on Mar. 14 has already been extended to April 25.

That will mean a six months' run, thought to be the longest of any show at any provincial theatre. The musical will then go to other places. Glasgow is a possible, but the Tennent group believes that this may have to wait, since it is pledged that the show only tours with the West End cast.

MFL's London run has only been beaten by one other musical, "Salad Days," and then by only three performances. But "Salad Days" played at the Vaudeville, which has only 668 seats, compared with Drury Lane's 2,341. For the statistically-minded the tabs sold for MFL in London would total a distance of 438 miles if any-

(Continued on page 58)

Duffy at Miller Milw'kee As Assistant Director

Milwaukee, Oct. 15.

Gordon Duffey will be assistant director at the Fred Miller Theatre here for the season beginning Oct. 30 with Dorothy Patten playing the title role in "The Madwoman of Chaillot." Duffey's chores include coordinating the productions and supervising them after guest stagers such as Patrick Hines, who'll direct "Madwoman," have left.

Byron Ringland has been set by Miller producer Jack McQuiggan to direct a March 11-29 presentation at the house of "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

JFK Puts Muscle Into Fund Drive For Wash. Center

Washington, Oct. 15.

In two more recent actions, President Kennedy is making it clear he intends using all the prestige and persuasive power of his office toward raising the money to build the National Cultural Center. Within the last week he has announced the formation of a National Opera Co. to be under the sponsorship of the National Cultural Center, and held a White House luncheon to solicit gifts for the center.

The National Opera will be in New York, under the supervision of Rudolph Bing. The company, to be composed of younger singers, will tour 70 U.S. and Canadian cities on a regular 34-week season.

The group's formation is designed to answer the frequently heard argument from prospective out-of-town donors that they see no reason why they should give huge sums to finance a cultural center for the city of Washington. Center sponsors are, therefore, looking for ways to make the National Cultural Center more national.

The President's White House luncheon was for 60 of the nation's most prominent and wealthy business leaders. One of the guests, incidently, was Roger Blough, the steel executive, who hadn't seen the President since the drastic showdown over the proposed steel price increase.

A model of the Center was displayed, and the bite for big contributions was politely made. On hand were Roger Stevens, Center board of trustees chairman; Ernest Breech, chairman of the President's Business Committee for the Center; and Edward Durrell Stone, architect for the project.

The White House released this quote from President Kennedy at the end of the luncheon, "The Center will belong to all the people of the U.S. . . . The nations of the world, both in and out of the Iron Curtain countries, have their great and beautiful centers for the performing arts, but here in the

(Continued on page 58)

FRANK McHUGH BACK TO B'WAY FOR 'FORUM'

Frank McHugh is returning to Broadway after an absence of almost 25 years. He's joining the cast of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" next Monday night (21) as successor to David Burns, who's leaving to appear opposite Carol Channing in the upcoming musical, "Hello, Dolly." In his new assignment, McHugh will resume an association with director George Abbott which included the Main Stem production of "Fall Guy" and the film version of "Three Men on a Horse."

McHugh last appeared on Broadway in the 1939 production of "Show Girl." He then left for Hollywood, where he's since been in some 130 pictures.

South Africa Managers Condemn 'Woolf' Closing; Request Reinstatement

Johannesburg, Oct. 15.

The South African Assn. of Theatrical Managements held emergency meeting last week to consider the suspension of Edward Albee's play, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" pending investigation by the Board of Censors. The managerial group subsequently issued a statement expressing "dismay at the arbitrary suspension of the play."

The SAATM noted that "Virginia Woolf" has won international acclaim, and called Albee one of America's most brilliant playwrights. The statement also asserted that the decision to suspend the play was made as a result of individual protests by people who were not compelled to see it, and argued that although the objections of the minority were deemed sufficient reason for suspending the play, the point of view of the overwhelming majority of theatregoers was disregarded.

Attendance figures and general reception of "Virginia Woolf" by public and press provide a clear indication that the play was generally acceptable and even acclaimed. Individual reaction to a work of this kind varies according to the intensely personal experience of the viewer, the statement added, and if the vulnerability of the minority is to be used as a yardstick for what may or may not be seen by the general public, then real theatre in South Africa will virtually cease to exist.

The manner of the suspension has caused great suffering to actors, director and promoter alike, it's charged, and must seriously jeopardize the whole future of South African theatre where the importation of artists is envisaged. The suspension throws South Africa out of step with the rest of the modern world, which accepts without question that a writer's province may legitimately include an examination of life based on an almost clinical investigation of individual psychology and behavior

(Continued on page 60)

Catholic Pique Boils at 'The Deputy'; Quote Many Jews' Praise of Pius XII

Edward T. Burns, now in private Manhattan law practice but previously house attorney for the National Broadcasting Co. and as such acquiring the VARIETY habit, has followed with much personal interest the numerous stories in this publication concerning the play "The Deputy" by the 31-year old German dramatist, Rolf Hochhuth. This play originating in West Berlin but since produced in London, Basle and other European centers is now optioned for New York production by Herman Shumlin after Billy Rose surrendered his option.

"The Deputy" is an open attack upon Pius XII, the Pope reigning during World War II. It charges a failure of this Pope, as God's Deputy, to adequately protest the extermination of Jews by the Adolf Hitler government. Hochhuth pretends that his play is based on fact, but his facts have repeatedly been refuted by Catholic prelates, as several times quoted in detail by VARIETY.

The distaste in which the play, and its many planned productions around the western world, is held by Roman Catholics is fully on record here. It has also been reported previously that the play is open to some suspicion that it is a particular pet of Communists. Hochhuth's thesis has been that Pius XII was more concerned with Communism than anti-Semitism. More accurately he was thoroughly alarmed about both. The two evils were simultaneous. The record shows that Pius XII did speak and act on behalf of the persecuted Jews.

Attorney Burns called VARIETY's attention to a significant piece published in The Founder, a monthly printed in the interest of the closed retreats for laymen at Mt. Manresa on Staten Island, N.Y. and in America, the weekly. Written some time ago when Billy Rose still proposed to present the play on Broadway, the article reflects the anger then focussing on his decision, as it stood. Presumably Herman Shumlin will now confront the deflected anger of Roman Catholics and the probabilities of demonstrations similiar to those at the Aldwych theatre in London where the English translation is current under the title, "The Representative".

Herewith the article from the Founder:

It takes courage to be a Broadway producer. In order to get your creative message across to the world, you must ignore the advice of friends, insult your most loyal patrons and steel yourself against the darts of ungrateful critics. If your play closes after a few inglorious days, your only consolation is to huddle for comfort with others in the same predicament, chalk it up to a bad season and lament the degradation of taste brought on by mass culture.

We were thinking of these trials that test men's souls as we read of the brave defiance of one Times Square mogul. Recently, for the third time, he announced to the press his determination to bring to the American stage a German play written by a onetime member of the Hitler Jugend and directed in its Berlin opening by an old idol of the left-wing theatre. The play in question attempts to lift blame for the attempted extermination of the Jews of Europe off the shoulders of Hitler and the Germans and unload it on the head of Pope Pius XII. Reference, of course, is to The Deputy (Der Stellvertreter), a play written by Rolf Hochhuth and directed by Erwin Piscator. The play was an instant success in Berlin. After viewing The Diary of Anne Frank, Germans are relieved to see that responsibility is to be shared by someone who was not a German. All the better that the villain is Pope Pius XII. They are in good company.

Billy Rose, the producer in question, is knowingly and with courage aforethought making fools or hypocrites out of a number of Jewish organizations and personalities. Such insouciance is truly impressive. For when Pope Pius XII died in October, 1958, Jewish spokesmen in New York and elsewhere were prodigal in their praise and appreciation of the late Pontiff's humanitarian efforts on behalf of European Jews.

We recall, for instance, the gracious gesture of Leonard Bernstein, who, before raising his baton at a 1958 performance of the New York Philharmonic, asked his audience to stand for a moment of silence—"for the passing of a very great man, Pope Pius XII." His action was not without precedent, since the Israel Philharmonic, in May, 1955, has already presented a special concert in the Vatican, in the Pope's presence, a gesture calculated to thank the Pope for the immense work of humanitarian assistance he had done during the war to save Jewish lives.

Bernard Baruch, too, expressed his admiration of the Pope, who, he said, "during a dark generation of war, hate and unspeakable crimes against humanity, helped keep burning the torch of peace, love and brotherhood." Another voice raised was that of Dr. Joachim Prinz, former Berlin rabbi, national president of the American Jewish Congress, who said: "Among his many great contributions to mankind, the Pontiff will be remembered, whenever men of good will gather, for his profound devotion to the cause of peace and for his earnest efforts in the rescue of thousands of victims of Nazi persecution, including many Jewish men, women and children."

A ticket for the first night of the Billy Rose production should go to Mrs. Golda Meir, Israeli Foreign Minister. She was attending the UN General Assembly when the Pope died, and Israel was the first UN delegation to voice regrets. Mrs. Meir said: "In the decade of Nazi terror, when our people was subject to terrible martyrdom, the voice of the Pope was raised in compassion for the victims." Similar sentiments were echoed by Dr. Israel Goldstein, top official of the World Jewish Congress, who declared: In Rome, last year, the Jewish community told me of their deep appreciation of the policy which had been set by the Pontiff for the Vatican during the period of the Nazi-Fascist regime, to give shelter and protection to the Jews, wherever possible."

On the Sabbath following the death of Pope Pius XII, rabbis of New York City also registered their esteem. Only Rabbi William F. Rosenblum need be cited. During the terrible holocaust, he said, the Pope had "made it possible for thousands of Jewish victims of nazism and fascism to be hidden away in monasteries and convents . . . and for the Jewish children to be taken into orphanages." He recalled that ten years earlier he had gone to Rome to express gratitude to the Pope, on behalf of Jewish organizations, for his humanitarian efforts. A similar tribute was made by the Jewish Labor Committee, which stressed the Pontiff's "wartime activities in saving Jewish children from the hands of the Fascist and Nazi butchers." And Rabbi Emanuel Rackman, president of the Rabbinical Council of America stated: "As a passionate defender of peace and human dignity, Pope Pius XII will have a permanent place in the history of mankind." The litany of such tributes could be extended for columns.

Has something happened since they were spoken or written to reverse the judgment of 1958 and invalidate all these words of praise? They all give the lie to author Hochhuth's indictment of Pius XII: "Never in history have so many people paid with their lives for the passivity of a single statesman."

For a determined Broadway producer, such questions, of course, are irrelevant. The dramatic possibilities are too appealing, and large minds will not boggle at the distortion of history or the blackening of the reputation of a great public figure.

Perhaps this play is one that needs a wider stage and a larger cast of characters. Let us say, then, that The Deputy is a morality play, and that its American sponsor might perhaps want to rename it Everyman or Each of Us. For we are all involved. And so, along with Pope Pius XII, will be condemned Albert Schweitzer, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, President Franklin D. Roosevelt (none of whom, if the truth be told, did or said enough). Also Mayor La Guardia, Leonard Bernstein and Bernard Baruch, not to mention Hannah Arendt and, of course, you and me. In the end, no one will be really guilty because all of us are.

'America' Blast

Rolf Hochhuth, author of "The Deputy," is accused in America, the magazine published by the Jesuits, of anti-Semitic and anti-

(Continued on page 59)

Starlight in Black

Indianapolis, Oct. 15.

The annual meeting of Starlight Musicals, Inc., is scheduled for next Friday (18) when Robert L. Young, general manager, will amplify his earlier reports that the operation is in the black.

A letter from Robert Looms, president, informed guarantors of the Starlight summer offerings that the season just ended was a successful one and that it will not be necessary to ask for financial assistance.

Swiss Catholics Ired at 'Deputy' Slur at Pius XII

Basle, Oct. 15.

No legit play within memory has caused such a violent outburst of emotions and controversy in Switzerland as the recent (Sept. 24) Swiss premiere of the Rolf Hochhuth anti-Pius XII drama, "Der Stellvertreter" (The Deputy), at the Stadttheatre in Basle. In its country of origin, the play is a sellout hit at Berlin's Theatre am Kurfuerstandamm since its opening last February, staged by Erwin Piscator. It opened under the title, "The Representative" in London (see VARIETY Oct. 1), will be produced in Finland, Denmark, Norway, France, Sweden and Austria. Production in Israel may be cancelled. Billy Rose has dropped his option for New York but Herman Shumlin, who was to direct, says he'll produce it.

Author attended the Swiss opening, actively participated in rehearsals here and "adapted" his play (which is way overlong as staged in full, anyway) for the Basle showing with a view to "tone down" its most offensive (to Roman Catholics) aspects. In the play, the author, Rolf Hochhuth, attacks the late pope Pius XII for not having taken a sufficiently vigorous stand against the extermination of the Jews by the Nazis.

Days before the Basle opening, the Stadttheatre management as well as individual actors appearing in the play were threatened, presumably by irate Catholics, by letters and anonymous phone calls. On pre-opening day, the Roman Catholic community of Basle organized a public protest assembly during which a German professor residing in Rome, Burkart Schneider, denounced the alleged falsification of the late pontiff's character by Hochhuth. On opening day, a committee calling itself "Young Christians for Confessional Peace", which publicly distanced itself from all threats of physical violence, organized a "silent protest march" to the Stadttheatre. About 3,000 participated. Outside the theatre, pro and con crowds carrying transparents and banners with such inscriptions as "Hochhuth was only a boy at the time," "Must Hochhuth stir up our youth?" "May Hochhuth discharge guilt of the Nazis?".

In the theatre, the first performance took its course without major incidents except a few catcalls and booings which were quickly silenced. Onstage, a nervous tension was unmistakeable. However, at the end, boos and whistles were offset by applause for the actors as well as the author.

Second performance was again disturbed by loud protests and catcalls. It remains to be seen whether further performances (in repertory) will lead to other incidents, in which case the Basle government would be legally entitled to demand the play's banning for reasons of "disturbing the peace and constituting a public nuisance."

Basle reviews were mixed. National-Zeitung termed the play "unfortunate, apart from some very brilliant passages." Basler Nachrichten opined that the Stadttheatre had not only the right, but the duty to present such plays and went on to say that "our theatre is not a place where one simply goes to seek easy amusements, but also an arena apt to present message plays leading to discussions."

Another Swiss theatre, the Stadttheatre of Berne (the Swiss capital), has also skedded "Der Stellvertreter" for presentation this season, whilst the top Swiss legithouse, the Schauspielhaus of Zurich, has declared its intention not to present it on its boards.

Off-Broadway Reviews

Opening Night and A Matter of Like Life and Death

Erni Brown presentation of two new one-act plays by John Cromwell. Staged by Paul E. Davis; designer, Don Manfredi. Stars Peggy Wood, James Karen, Frances Sternhagen. Opened Oct. 2, '63, at the East End Theatre, N. Y.; $3.90 top weeknights, $4.90 weekends.

Cast: Peggy Wood, Ruth Gates, James Karen, Frances Sternhagen, Marlene Warfield.

Virtually all the familiar elements of plays and stories about aging actresses making comebacks are present in "Opening Night," a one-acter by John Cromwell at the East End Theatre. In the present instance, the nervous one-time star looks longingly at the liquor bottle on her dressing table.

She reminisces, while applying her makeup, about her great successes on the stage and about the glamorous days of Hollywood, when stars were never allowed to pose with their children, and she recalls her husband and her lovers, all now dead. And of course she berates the current crop of producers and actors, and elicits compliments from her patient, devoted dresser.

But if the story is trite, Cromwell retells it with taste and humor, and he has had the good fortune to have Peggy Wood as his star. The actress gives an expert, compelling performance, and with the assistance of Ruth Gates as the dresser, she keeps the play alive and absorbing.

The curtain-raiser, also by Cromwell, is "A Matter of Like Life and Death," about a scientist and his wife who move into their fallout shelter for a practice weekend. There are amusing lines, and good performances by Frances Sternhagen and James Karen as the couple and Madeline Warfield as their maid. But the play is too long, and its attempt to equate the fallout shelter with the Garden of Eden (the idea is that both places were perfect, but sterile and uninhabitable) doesn't work.

The staging of both plays, by Paul E. Davis, is fine, and the Don Manfredi sets are excellent. But it's Miss Wood's evening. Kenn.

Color of Darkness

Harvest Productions presentation of a program of four short plays adapted by Ellen Violett from stories by James Purdy, and "Cracks," a short play by Purdy. Staged by William Francisco; sets and costumes, Lloyd Evans; lighting, Peter Hunt; music, Ned Rorem. Opened Sept. 30, '63, at the Writers Stage Theatre, N. Y.; $4.50 top weeknights, $4.95 weekends.

Cast: Eleanor Phelps, Doris Roberts, Mary Michael, Tom Brennan, Ann Hegira, Vincent Milana, Kevin Mitchell, Walter Rhodes.

"Color of Darkness" is an attempt to transfer to the stage the world of James Purdy, the novelist and shortstory writer. But Purdy's work does not seem suited to the theatre. Although the production often seems to be on the verge of success, it never fulfills its promise.

Four of Purdy's short stories, adapted by Ellen Violett, and one play by Purdy himself make up the evening. After a brief introductory scene, in which an author representing God states that life is futile and meaningless, four sets of characters act out vignettes of unhappiness. A wife cannot accept the loss of freedom and identity that come with marriage; a young widow mourns not for the husband she never loved but for herself; a man humbles himself to keep the friendship of a boy; and a mother aggravates instead of assuaging her son's loneliness.

Throughout run the themes of lack of communication, of cruelty in the name if love, and of desperate human unhappiness. All these scenes begin intriguingly, but are unsustained. Missing are the truths and insights that are hinted at. Instead, the plays end in pointlessness or false sentimentality.

Least successful is the final scene, "Cracks," written by Purdy. God returns and finds in an old woman who refuses to die the indomitable spirit of life. He realizes, according to Purdy, that life is stronger than the force that created it. But the short drama seems empty and familiar, and unlike the other playlets, it becomes tiresome. It ends the evening with a thud.

There are good performances by Doris Roberts and Eleanor Phelps, and competent ones by Tom Brennan, Vincent Milana, Mary Michael, Kevin Mitchell and Ann Hegira. William Francisco's staging is fluid and inventive, and the sets by Lloyd Evans, the ghostly lighting by Peter Hunt, and the melancholy music by Ned Rorem serve to establish the mood of a dark, poignant world. But the mood is artificial, for the plays themselves lack substance.

Kenn.

The Spots of the Leopard

Harold Bloom Ned Hendrickson presentation of a comedy in two acts by James K. Baxter. Staging and sets by Robert Dahdah; lighting, Daniel T. Frankel; masks, Charles Loubier; stage manager, Virginia English. Opened Sept. 25, '63, at the Washington Square Theatre, N.Y.; $3.50 top.

Cast: Ronald Colby, Jan Owen, Lew Shaw, Ron Faber, Sandra Gardner, Stevenson Phillips, Pat Roberts, Willard Trask, Gordon Gray, Tilla Frueh, Allister Hitman, Maureen Drew, Barry Bonner, Kip Kirby, Hary Haynes, Elaine Lawrence, Jeffrey Gorney, Valerie Haynes.

Toward the end of "Spots of the Leopard," the players seize an actor representing the playwright and hang him for writing a bad play. That's a grizzly idea from James K. Baxter, the New Zealand author of this alleged comedy.

In this shapeless play, Baxter deals with a college lecturer, his unpleasant wife who beats him with a police stick, and a witless coed who attracts him. Psychiatrists, religious hypocrites, and professors are all attacked, and the author's praise is reserved for a couple of tiresome drunks.

Included in the proceedings are actors dressed in masks and black tights, and supposed to represent the Furies. There is also lot of erotic symbolism, and deadly lines like "how do you know you exist?" The nadir, however, is a scene when a young girl blows up a contraceptive, which she believes to be a balloon.

On opening night, a fuse burnout plunged the stage in darkness. It seemed appropriate.

Kenn.

Legit Followup

The Fantasticks

(Sullivan St. Playhouse, N. Y.)

More than three years after its off Broadway debut, "The Fantasticks" is still doing hefty business, and it's easy to see why. The current cast is top-notch, and the fanciful plot and charming Tom Jones-Harvey Schmidt songs are as delightful as ever.

Keith Charles, as the narrator, gives a strong, effective performance, and Alice Cannon and Jack Blackton are ideally cast as the young lovers. Their fathers are winningly played by George Riddle and Charles Goff, and there is a standout comic stint by Jay Hampton as an actor in his dotage. Robert A. Worms and James Cook lend able support.

The show, which opened in May, 1960, and has now passed the 1400-performance mark, still sags slightly in the middle of the second act. But the finish is strong, and the audience leaves the theatre humming and happy. Kenn.

Bits of London

London, Oct. 15.

Brenda Bruce will play the title role in "Woman in a Dressing Gown," by Ted Willis. Googie Withers played the part in the original Australian production.

Judith Guthrie's "Queen B" is having a pre-London tryout at the Theatre Royal, Windsor. Sybil Thorndike, Lewis Casson and Isabel Dean head the cast.

John Gielgud leaves for Australia next month for a short tour of "The Ages of Man." His next assignment is to stage "Hamlet" on Broadway, with Richard Burton.

Nicholas Grimshaw, understudy, has taken over from the late Allan Jeayes in "The Masters," at the Savoy.

Brenda Bruce's opening in the Ted Willis play, "Woman In A Dressing Gown" is now skedded for Nov. 11 tryout at the New, Bromley.

William Hobbs will stage the fights in the Old Vic's presentation of "Hamlet."

'Girl' $68,773, Hub, 'Park' $34,720, D.C.; 'Zenda' 76½G, L.A.; 'Stop' $43,734, Balto; 'Woolf' 47G, 'Seidman' $26,028, Philly

Philadelphia was the busiest of the road cities last week, with four shows on tap. Two of the entries were the Broadway-bound "110 in the Shade," which played to fair business, and "A Rainy Day in Newark," which did poorly. The other two items were the touring productions of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" which registered a healthy take, and "Seidman and Son," which got its road trek off to an okay start.

In the powerhouse groove were "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" in Dallas, "The Girl Who Came to Supper" in Boston and "Zenda" in Los Angeles.

Estimates for Last Week

Parenthetic designations for out-of-town shows are the same as for Broadway, except that hyphenated T with show classification indicates tryout, RS indicates road show and BT indicates bus-and-truck production. Also, prices on touring shows include 10% Federal tax and local tax, if any, but as on Broadway grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of taxes. Engagements are for single week unless otherwise noted.

Where subscription is mentioned, the gross is the net after the deductions of commissions. Grosses for split weeks are projected when shows play guaranteed dates.

BALTIMORE

Stop the World—I Want to Get Off, Ford's (MC-RS) ($5.95; 1,819; $65,032) (Kenneth Nelson, Leslie Stewart). Previous week, $40,417 with Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society subscription, Playhouse, Wilmington.

Last week, $43,734 with TG-ATS subscription.

BOSTON

Girl Who Came to Supper, Colonial (MC-T) (2d wk) ($7.50; 1,685; $70,562) (Jose Ferrer, Florence Henderson). Previous week, $58,185.

Last week, $68,773.

CHICAGO

Beyond the Fringe, Studebaker (R-RS) (1st wk) ($5.50-$6; 1,200; $35,000). Previous week, $26,645, with TG-ATS subscription, Pabst, Milwaukee.

Opened here Oct. 7 to one rave (Dettmer, American), two qualified approvals (Cassidy, Tribune; Harris, Daily News) and one negative notice (Syse, Sun-Times).

Last week, $24,294 with TG-ATS subscription.

Man for All Seasons, Blackstone (D-RS) (3d wk) ($5.50-$5.95; 1,447; $42,500) (William Roderick, George Rose, Bruce Gordon). Previous week, $33,224 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $35,662 with TG-ATS subscription.

CLEVELAND

Never Too Late, Hanna (C-RS) (1st wk) William Bendix, Nancy Carroll, Will Hutchins). Previous week, $30,876, Royal Alexandra, Toronto.

Last week, $27,776 with TG-ATS subscription.

DALLAS

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, State Fair Music Hall (MC-RS) (2d wk). Previous week, $22,472 for three performances here Friday-Saturday (4-5) and $42,885 for three performances at the Civic, Pasadena, Monday-Tuesday (30-1).

Last week, $83,454 for 10 performances.

DETROIT

My Fair Lady, Shubert (MC-BT) (4th wk) (Leland Howard, Gaylea Byrne). Previous week, $28,531.

Last week, $38,507.

Sound of Music, Fisher (MD-RS) (1st wk) ($5; 2,081; $61,000) (Barbara Meister, John Myhers). Previous week, $38,469; Nixon, Pittsburgh.

Last week, $43,304 with Fisher Playgoer subscription.

KANSAS CITY

No Strings, Music Hall (MC-RS) (Howard Keel, Barbara McNair). Previous week, $35,675, American, St. Louis.

Last week, $26,700.

LOS ANGELES

Mary, Mary, Hartford (C-BT) (5th wk) ($4.95-$6; 1,032; $32,000) (Mindy Carson, Jeffrey Lynn, Pirie MacDonald). Previous week, $15,259.

Last week, $17,245.

Zenda, Philharmonic (MC-T) (3d wk) ($6.25-$7; 2,670; $85,000) (Alfred Drake, Anne Rogers, Chita Rivera). Previous week, about $76,000 with Civic Light Opera Assn. subscription.

Last week, about $76,500 with CLO subscription.

NEW HAVEN

Thousand Clowns, Shubert (C-RS) ($4.80; 1,650; $44,600) (Dane Clark, Margaret O'Brien). Previous week, $22,037 with TG-ATS subscription, Ford's, Baltimore.

Last week, $12,569.

PHILADELPHIA

110 in the Shade, Shubert (MC-T) (2d wk) ($6.60-$7.50; 1,878; $73,382) (Robert Horton, Inga Swenson, Stephen Douglass). Previous week, $41,376 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $49,340 with TG-ATS subscription.

Rainy Day in Newark, Walnut (C-T) (1st wk) ($4.80-$5.40; 1,349; $41,000) (Eddie Mayhoff, Dody Goodman, Zachary Scott, Mary McCarty). Previous week, $13,716 for seven performances, Shubert, New Haven.

Opened here Oct. 8 to two affirmative notices (Gaghan, News; Schier, Bulletin) and one pan (Murdock, Inquirer).

Last week, $7,543.

Seidman and Son, Locust (C-RS) (1st wk) ($4.50-$5; 1,418; $41,641) (Sam Levene).

Opened tour here Oct. 7 to two favorable reviews (Murdock, Inquirer; Schier, Bulletin) and one unfavorable notice (Gaghan, News).

Last week, $26,028 with TG-ATS subscription.

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Forrest (D-RS) (3d wk) ($5.40-$6; 1,766; $52,000) (Nancy Kelly, Sheppard Strudwick) (matinee company costars Michaele Myers, Kendall Clark). Previous week, $44,807 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $47,006 with Show of the Month Club patronage.

ST. LOUIS

Camelot, American (MC-RS) (1st wk) ($7; 1,863; $73,697) (Kathryn Grayson, Louis Hayward, Arthur Treacher). Previous week, $82,625, KRNT, Des Moines.

Last week, $41,760. Understudy Jan Moody is subbing for the ailing Miss Grayson who's scheduled to rejoin the cast next week Monday (21) in Cincinnati.

TORONTO

When the Owl Screams, Royal Alexandra (R-RS) ($6; 1,497; $43,326) (Severn Darden, Paul Dooley, Andrew Duncan, Anthony Holland, Erin Martin).

Opened trial one-week outing here Oct. 7 for possible tour to two raves (Cohen, Star; Evans, Telegram) and one thumb-down (Whittaker, Globe and Mail).

Last week, $18,085.

WASHINGTON

Barefoot in the Park, National (C-T) (2d wk) ($4.50-$5.75; 1,673; $48,625) (Elizabeth Ashley, Robert Redford, Mildred Natwick, Kurt Kasznar). Previous week, $25,373.

Last week, $34,720.

UNREPORTED

(Included below are productions with guaranteed dates on which grosses cannot be accurately figured).

Camelot (MC-BT), split-week.

Man for All Seasons (D-BT), split-week.

National Repertory Theatre (Rep-RS), Univ. of North Carolina, Greensboro.

Thousand Clowns (C-BT), split-week.

"Thistle in My Bed," a comedy with music by Gudrun Powers, is being produced by John T. Weems and Robert Buccolo for a Nov. 19 opening at the Gramercy Arts Theatre, N. Y., under the direction of Howard Da Silva.

Herman Bernstein Prez Of N.Y. Theatre League

Herman Bernstein, who's been seriously ill in N.Y. Hospital for several weeks, was elected president of the League of N.Y. Theatres last Thursday (10). The longtime Broadway theatre operator and general manager succeeds Herman Levin. Bernstein's duties will be assumed during his illness by Herman Shumlin, first vice-president.

Others elected to office in the organization of Broadway producers and theatre owners were Samuel Schwartz, second veepee; Louis Lotito, secretary, and Alfred de Liagre Jr., treasurer.

Elected to the League's Board of Governors were Richard Barr, A. L. Berman, Arthur Cantor, Warren Caro, Alexander H. Cohen, Maurice Evans, Robert L. Joseph, Jay Julian, Ernest Martin, David Merrick, Lester Osterman Jr., Harold S. Prince, Victor Samrock, Joel Schenker, Irene Selznick, Haila Stoddard and the past presidents, Kermit Bloomgarden, Leland Hayward, Levin, Arthur Schwartz and Robert Whitehead.

Max Gordon and Gilbert Miller were named board members ex-officio.

Touring Shows

(Figures cover Oct. 14-26)

Barefoot in the Park (tryout)—National, Wash. (Oct. 14-19, moves to N.Y.).
Beyond the Fringe (2d Co.)—Studebaker, Chi (Oct. 14-26).
Black Nativity—Shubert, Boston (Oct. 14-26).
Camelot—American, St. L. (Oct. 14-19); Taft, Cincy (Oct. 21-26).
Camelot (bus-truck)—Auditorium, Worcester, Mass. (Oct. 14); Community, Hershey, Pa. (Oct. 15-19); Split-week stands (Oct. 21-26).
Circle in the Square—Split-week stands (Oct. 14-26).
Girl Who Came to Supper (tryout)—O'Keefe, Toronto (Oct. 14-26).
How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (2d Co.)—State Fair Music Hall, Dallas (Oct. 14-20); American, St. L. (Oct. 22-26).
How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (3d Co.)—Center, Norfolk (Oct. 14-19); Playhouse, Wilmington (Oct. 21-26).
Man for All Seasons—Blackstone, Chi (Oct. 14-26).
Man for All Seasons (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 14-26).
Mary, Mary (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 14-26).
My Fair Lady (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 14-26).
National Repertory Theatre—Split-week stands (Oct. 14-19); Hanna, Cleve. (Oct. 21-26).
Never Too Late (3d Co.)—Hanna, Cleve. (Oct. 14-19); Nixon, Pitt. (Oct. 21-26).
No Strings—Orpheum, L.A. (Oct. 15-26).
One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (tryout)—Shubert, New Haven (Oct. 24-26).
110 in the Shade (tryout)—Shubert, Philly (Oct. 14-19), moves to N.Y.).
Rainy Day in Newark (tryout)—Walnut, Philly (Oct. 14-19), moves to N.Y.).
Seidman and Son—Locust, Philly (Oct. 14-19); Ford's Balto (Oct. 21-26).
Sound of Music—Fisher, Det. (Oct. 14-26).
Stop the World—I Want to Get Off (2d Co.)—Shubert, Cincy (Oct. 14-19); National, Wash. (Oct. 21-26).
Thousand Clowns—Forrest, Philly (Oct. 14-26).
Thousand Clowns (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 14-26).
Time of the Barracudas (tryout)—Curran, S.F. (Oct. 21-26).
Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (2d Co.)—Nixon, Pitt. (Oct. 14-19); Split-week stands (Oct. 21-26).
Zenda (tryout)—Philharmonic, L.A. (Oct. 14-26).

LONDON SHOWS

(Figures denote opening dates)

Alfie, Duchess (7-22-63).
Angels Fear Tread, St. Martins (6-6-63).
At Drop Hat, Haymarket (10-2-63).
Bed Sitting Room, Comedy (3-20-63).
Beyond Fringe, Fortune (5-10-61).
Boeing-Boeing, Apollo (2-20-63).
Brecht Season, Mermaid (7-18-63).
Cambridge Circus, Lyric (8-14-63).
Cockade, New Arts (10-16-63).
Exit the King, Royal Court (9-12-62).
Four & a Tanner, New Arts (10-9-63).
Half a Sixpence, Cambridge (3-21-63).
House of Cards, Phoenix (10-2-63).
How to Succeed, Shaftesbury (7-28-63).
Kessoff, Prince Charles (10-15-63).
Lock Daughters, Her Majesty's (5-17-62).
Man and Boy, Queen's (4-9-63).
Mary, Mary, Queens (2-27-63).
Masters, Piccadilly (5-9-62).
Minstrels, Vic. Palace (5-25-62).
Mousetrap, Ambassador (11-25-52).
My Fair Lady, Drury Lane (4-30-58).
Never Too Late, Prince Wales (9-24-63).
Oh, What Lovely, Wyndham's (3-19-63).
Oliver, New (6-30-60).
One for the Pot, Whitehall (8-2-61).
Pickwick, Saville (7-4-63).
Private Lives, Duke York's (7-3-63).
Repertory, Aldwych (12-15-60).
Severed Head, Criterion (6-27-63).
Six Characters, May Fair (6-17-63).
Six of One, Adelphi (9-26-63).
So Much Remember, Vanbr. (9-17-63).
Sound of Music, Palace (3-18-61).
Swing Along, Palladium (5-17-63).
Through Wall, Westminster (3-20-63).
What Goes Up, Royal F. (9-17-62).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Cider With Rosie, Garnick (10-17-63).
Repertory, National Theatre (10-22-63).
Possessed, Mermaid (10-23-63).
Portrait of Murder, Savoy (10-24-63).
Out of the Crocodile, Phoenix (10-29-63).
Milk Train, Royal Court (11-6-63).
Boys Syracuse, Drury Lane (11-7-63).
Poor Bitos, New Arts (11-13-63).
Gentle Jack, Queen's (11-27-63).
D'Oyly Carte, Savoy (12-16-63).

CLOSED

Afternoon Men, New Arts (8-22-63); closed Sept 14, after limited engagement, 25 performances.
Behan Bein' Behan, Prince Charles (9-23-63); closed Oct. 5, after limited engagement, 13 performances.
Double Bill, New Arts (9-18-63); closed last Saturday (12), after limited engagement, 26 performances.
Ides of March, Haymarket (8-8-63); closed Sept. 28, after 60 performances.

B'way: 'Here's Love' Sellout $68,819, 'Rehearsal' $35,415, 'Libel' $26,915, 'Ear' 18G (5), 'Semi-Detached' $9,832

Broadway was uneven last week. "Here's Love" joined "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "Never Too Late" in the capacity category, and increases ranging from over $2,000 to over $7,000 were registered by "Mary, Mary," "Luther" and "The Rehearsal." Business was slim again for "Spoon River."

Of last week's new entries, "Semi-Detached" fared poorest with a take of under $10,000. The production has posted a provisional closing notice. There was one closing last week, the musical, "The Student Gypsy," or "The Prince of Liederkranz."

Estimates for Last Week

Keys: C (Comedy), D (Drama), CD (Comedy-Drama), R (Revue), MC (Musical-Comedy), MD (Musical-Drama), O (Opera), OP (Operetta), Rep. (Repertory), DR (Dramatic Reading).

Other parenthetic designations refer, respectively, to weeks played, number of performances through last Saturday, top prices (where two prices are given, the higher is for Friday-Saturday nights and the lower for weeknights), number of seats, capacity gross and stars. Price includes 10% Federal and 5% repealed City tax (diverted to an industry-wide pension and welfare fund), but grosses are net: i.e., exclusive of taxes.

Grosses normally have been reduced by commissions where theatre parties are mentioned.

Beyond the Fringe, Golden (R) (51st wk; 405 p) ($7.50; 773; $34,874). Previous week, $21,549.

Last week, $22,067.

Case of Libel, Longacre (D) (1st wk; 4 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,101; $40,000) (Van Heflin, Sidney Blackmer, Larry Gates).

Opened last Thursday night (10) to five affirmative reviews (Kerr, Herald Tribune; McClain, Journal-American; Nadel, World-Telegram; Taubman, Times; Watts, Post) and two negative notices (Chapman, News; Coleman, Mirror).

Last week, $26,915 for four performances and four previews.

Chips With Everything, Plymouth (D) (2d wk; 15 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,064; $43,865). Previous week, $21,375 for seven performances and one preview.

Last week, $22,074.

Enter Laughing, Miller's (C) (31st wk; 245 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 940; $30,200) (Sylvia Sidney, Vivian Blaine, Alan Mowbray, Irving Jacobson, Alan Arkin). Previous week, $22,041.

Last week, $23,543. Mae Questel succeeded Miss Sidney last Monday night (14).

Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Alvin (MC) (75th wk; 599 p) ($8.60-$9.40; 1,334; $65,096) (Zero Mostel). Previous week, $57,199.

Last week, $55,286.

Here's Love, Shubert (MC) (2d wk; 12 p) ($9.60; 1,453; $71,205). Previous week, $47,948 for four performances and two previews.

Last week, $68,819 with parties.

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, 46th St. (MC) (105th wk; 833 p) ($9.60; 1,342; $66,615). Previous week, $67,482.

Last week, $67,474.

Irregular Verb to Love, Barrymore (C) (4th wk; 29 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,607; $44,124) (Claudette Colbert, Cyril Ritchard). Previous week, $33,627.

Last week, $33,033.

Luther, St. James (D) (3d wk; 21 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,609; $61,095) (Albert Finney, Kenneth J. Warren, John Moffat, Peter Bull, Glyn Owen, Frank Shelley). Previous week, $46,284.

Last week, $50,711 with parties.

Mary, Mary, Hayes (C) (136th wk; 1,084 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,339; $43,380) (Patricia Bosworth, Murray Hamilton, Michael Evans). Previous week, $28,893.

Last week, $30,910.

Never Too Late, Playhouse (C) (46th wk; 367 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 944; $37,000) (Paul Ford, Maureen O'Sullivan, Orson Bean). Previous week $37,320.

Last week, $37,453.

Oliver, Imperial (MD) (40th wk; 321 p) ($9.30; 1,428; $71,977) (Clive Revill, Georgia Brown). Previous week, $56,128.

Last week, $54,665.

Private Ear and Public Eye, Morosco (D) (1st wk; 5 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 999; $41,827) (Geraldine McEwan, Barry Foster, Brian Bedford, Moray Watson).

Opened last Wednesday night (9) to five endorsements for the double-bill (Chapman, News; Coleman, Mirror; Kerr, Herald Tribune; Nadel, World - Telegram; Watts, Post), one qualified approval (McClain, Journal-American) and one rave for "Eye," but thumbdown for "Ear" (Taubman, Times).

Last week, $18,011 for five performances.

Rehearsal, Royale (D) (3d wk; 24 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,050; $43,908) (Keith Michell, Coral Browne, Alan Badel, Adrienne Cori, Jennifer Hilary). Previous week, $28,156.

Last week, $35,415 with parties.

Semi-Detached, Music Box (C) (1st wk; 8 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,010; $40,000).

Opened Oct. 7 to two favorable reviews (Nadel, World-Telegram; Taubman, Times), four unfavorable notices (Chapman, News; Kerr, Herald Tribune; McClain, Journal-American; Watts, Post) and one inconclusive (Gilbert, Mirror).

Last week, $9,832.

She Loves Me, O'Neill (MC) (25th wk; 199 p) ($8.60; 1,047; $53,700) (Barbara Cook, Daniel Massey, Barbara Baxley). Previous week, $42,567.

Last week, $40,957.

Spoon River, Booth (DR) (2d wk; 16 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 766; $32,658) (Betty Garrett, Robert Elston, Joyce Van Patten, Charles Aidman). Previous week, $11,694.

Last week, $13,026.

Stop the World—I Want to Get Off, Ambassador (MC) (54th wk; 429 p) ($8.60; 1,461; $51,795) (Anthony Newly). Previous week, $36,558.

Last week, $34,616.

Tovarich, Winter Garden (MC) (29th wk; 232 p) ($9.20; 1,494; $71,795) (Vivien Leigh, Jean Pierre Aumont). Previous week, laid off.

Last week, $34,301 with Joan Copeland pinchhitting in the role originated by Miss Leigh who is not returning to the musical. Miss Copeland continues in the part this week with Eva Gabor taking over the assignment next Monday night (21).

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Rose (D) (53d wk; 418 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,162; $46,845) (Uta Hagen, Arthur Hill, Ben Piazza) (matinee company costars Haila Stoddard, Donald Davis). Previous week, $29,168.

Last week, $28,163.

CLOSED LAST WEEK

Student Gypsy or The Prince of Liederkranz, 54th St. (MC) (2d wk; 16 p) ($8.80-$9.40; 1,434; $63,856). Previous week, $21,658.

Last week, $12,951. Closed Saturday (12) at an estimated loss of its entire $200,000 investment.

OPENING THIS WEEK

Advocate, ANTA (D) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,214; $50,340) (James Daly). Michael Ellis and William Hammerstein presentation of play by Robert Noah; opened Monday night (14).

Jennie, Majestic (MC) ($9.60; 1,655; $91,714) (Mary Martin). Cheryl Crawford and Richard Halliday presentation of musical based on the early career of Laurette Taylor with book by Arnold Schulman and lyrics and music by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz; opens tomorrow night (Thurs.).

OTHER THEATRES

Atkinson, Beck, Belasco, Biltmore, Broadhurst, Broadway, Cort, Hellinger, Hudson, Little, Lunt-Fontanne, Lyceum, Ziegfeld.

London 'Lady' Closing

Continued from page 55

body could collect them and place them tip to toe. Or cover an area of 6½ acres.

The two revolving stages will have travelled 453 miles and 1,000,000 kilowatts of electricity will have been consumed to put on the Alan Jay Lerner-Frederick Loewe musical version of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion." A great deal of the profit from the show will assist the British Museum, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and the National Gallery of Ireland, all beneficiaries under Shaw's will.

As for the players who have appeared in the show at Drury Lane, Elaine Garreau has performed 2,238 times in several roles. Betty Woolfe has notched 2,230 performances in one part, Mrs. Pearce. James Hayter, who took over from Stanley Holloway as Doolittle, has appeared over 1,600 times.

Charles Stapley, the current Higgins, who succeeded first Rex Harrison and then Alec Clunes, has made more than 1,300 successful attempts to assure audiences that "The Rain in Spain Falls Mainly in the Plain." There have been four Elizas, first Julie Andrews, then Anne Rogers, Tonia Lee and now Jean Scott.

Almost every member of the Royal Family has attended the show, in several cases more than once. Foreign royalty, politicians and international VIP's have also been customers. In many instances people have attended who previously saw it in other countries, notably on Broadway.

George Bernard Shaw, who wrote "Pygmalion," might well have deplored the whole project. When he was alive he disassociated himself from "The Chocolate Soldier," the musical based on his play "Arms and the Man." But he might well have found some wry comfort. He was an ardent apostle of a change of letters in the alphabet. He also was not allergic to money, whether dollars or pounds, shillings and pence.

Australian Shows

(Week Ending Oct. 12)

ADELAIDE

Big Men Fly, Her Majesty's.

MELBOURNE

How to Succeed, Her Majesty's.
Last of the Rainbow, Emerald Hill.
Mary, Mary, Comedy.
Merry Widow, Tivoli.
Opera Season, Princess.
Private Ear, Public Eye, Union.
Touch of the Poet, St. Martin's.

SYDNEY

Annie Get Your Gun, Her Majesty's.
Do You Mind, Phillip.
Goodnight, Mrs. Puffin, Royal.
King and I, Tivoli.
Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Independent.
Typist & Tiger, Ensemble.
Waiting for Godot, Union.

Shows On Broadway

Continued from page 54

The Advocate

quence to the big speeches and he hasn't the authority or stage presence to give the hero superhuman stature. And since the actor can't very well make up the exalted lines to speak, the lawyer remains a muted, uninspiring hero.

There is a notable supporting performance by Dino Fazio as the more expressive defendant, Bartolomeo Vanzetti, and a reasonably impressive portrayal by Dolph Sweet in the limited part of the volatile, less articulate Nicola Sacco. There are also acceptable secondary performances by Paul Stevens and Martin Brooks as supporters of the cause that was to live in infamy, Allen Nourse as the lawyer's expediency-minded partner, Joseph Warren as the emotional warped judge, Tresa Hughes as Sacco's agonized, proud wife, and Barnard Hughes as the santimoniously merciless Governor of Massachusetts.

Ralph Alswang has designed a fluid arrangement of platforms and set pieces and J. Michael Travis has provided the post-World War I era costumes. But "The Advocate" boils down to a progressively repetitious series of ill-expressed appeals to the emotions. Whatever it may have been as a television show, it doesn't work as stage drama, and it's questionable material for pictures. Hobe.

JFK Puts Muscle

Continued from page 55

world's greatest capital, we have nothing and this represents a great cultural gap in our American growth."

Stevens announced at the luncheon that 40% of the $30,000,000 goal to build the Center has been realized. He also said the Cultural Center will be the beneficiary of the World's Fair Inaugural Ball to be held April 21, in the eve of the Fair's opening, at the Hilton Hotel, N.Y.

The President, in announcing formation of the new National Opera, said it will have two objectives. "By going to many communities which have little opera of top quality or no live opera at all," Kennedy asserted, "it will fill a long-felt need in our musical life. Second, it will give opportunity to the young talent with which this country abounds."

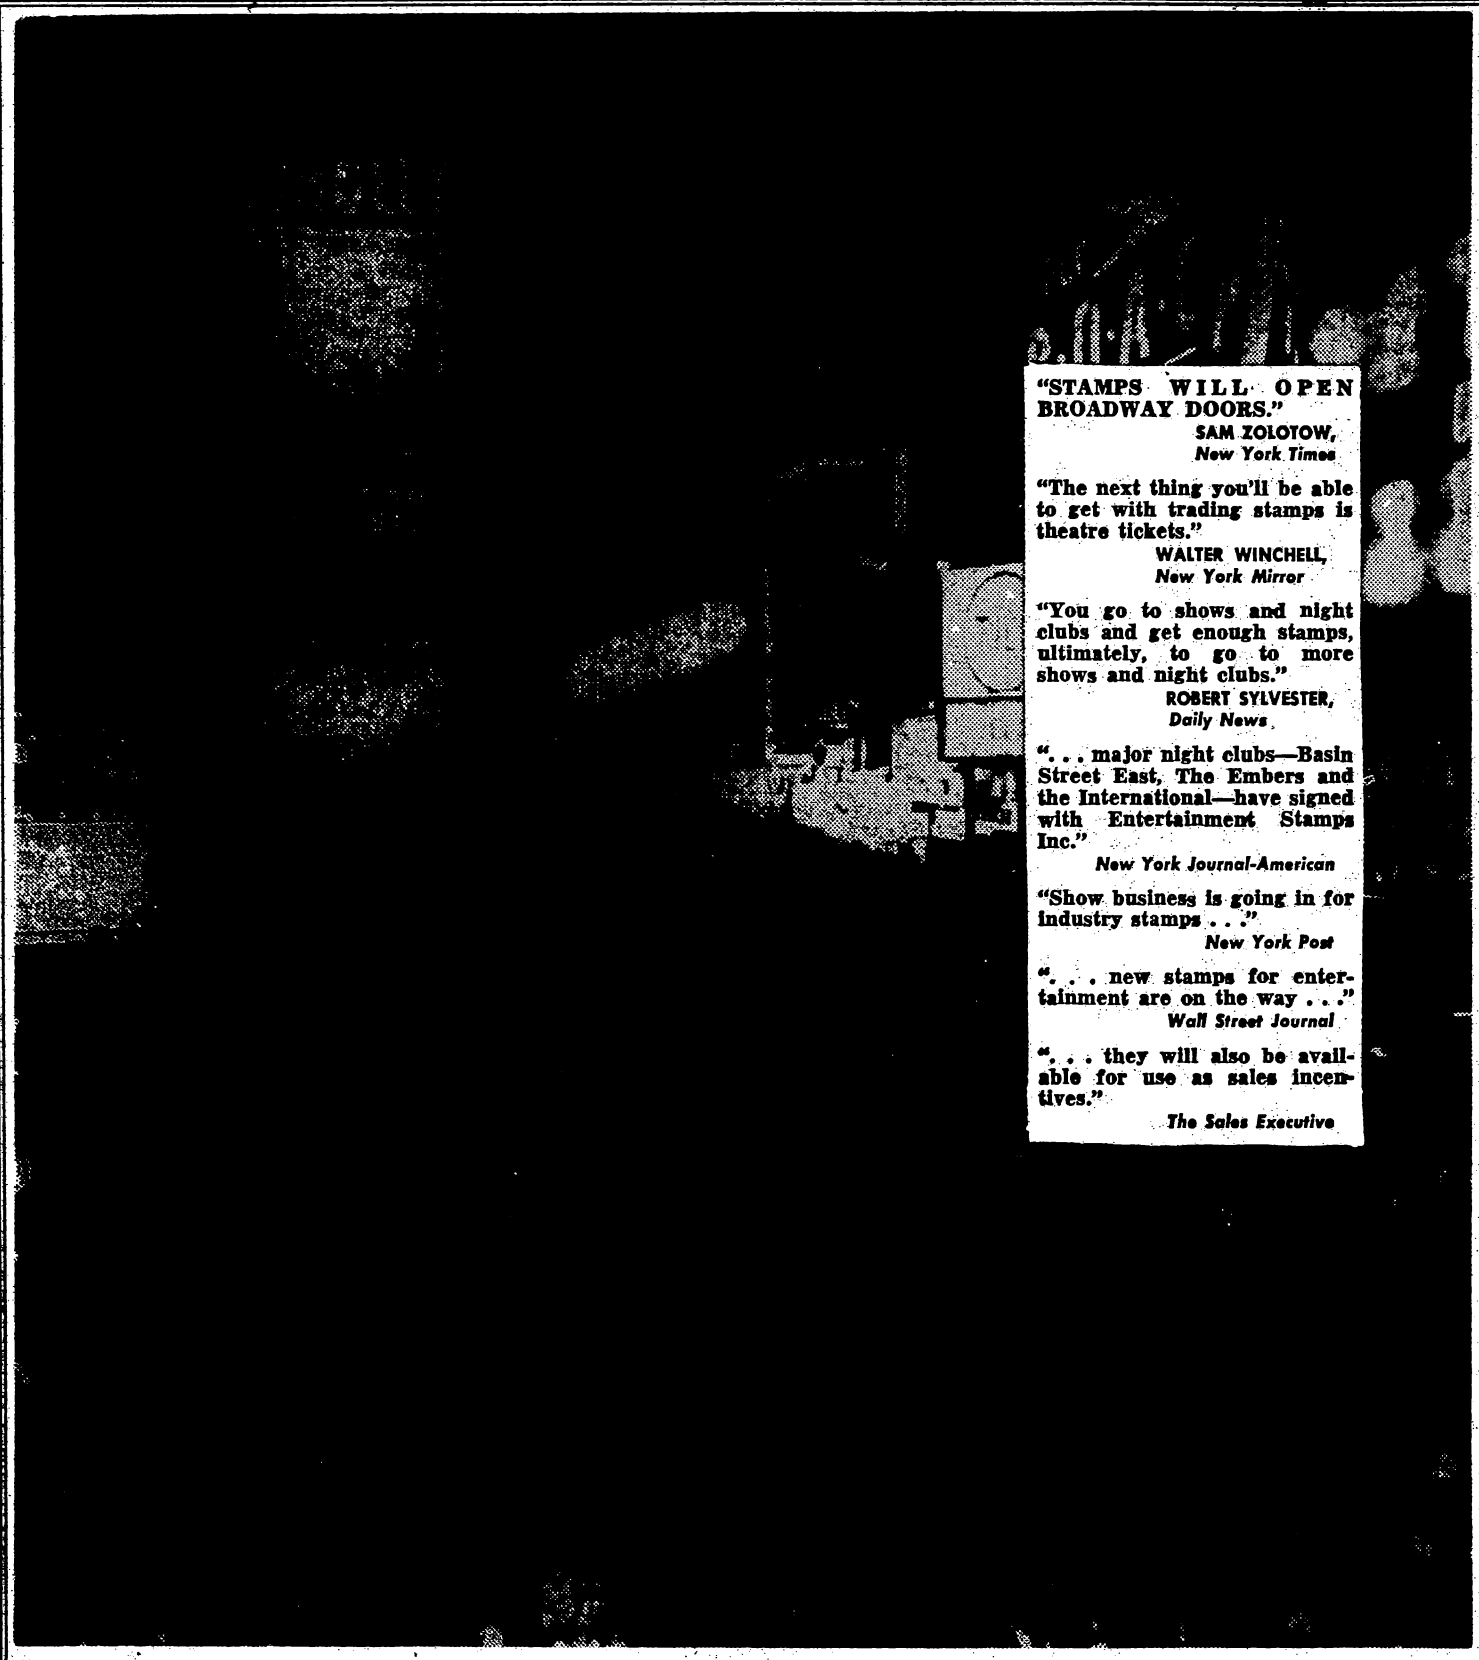
Anthony A. Bliss, Metropolitan Opera president who participated in a White House meeting with Stevens, Bing and the President before the opera announcement was made, said the new company is the result of plans begun 15 years ago by the Met to stimulate local opera groups throughout the nation. He emphasized that the company will not compete with local opera companies but will, instead, seek their sponsorship.

British Invasion

Continued from page 1

spokesman for the association, said, "We do not begrudge the British actors with talent who come and help enrich the American theatre. But we do object that Broadway isn't the American theatre any more." He also asserted that "very bitter complaints" were registered at the meeting against the alleged practice by English stagers "of precasting auditions and cattlecall readings."

Eric Glass is agenting a new Rodney Ackland play. "The Last to Leave the Palace Turns the Lights Off."



ENTERTAINMENT STAMPS COME TO BROADWAY!

Now the tremendous merchandising power of trading stamps—an $850-million-dollar business and still growing—is working for the entertainment industry with ENTERTAINMENT STAMPS.

Leading retailers in the greater Metropolitan area will give Entertainment Stamps to millions of shoppers who will use them to enjoy the Wonderful World of Entertainment—Broadway and Off-Broadway shows, Broadway and neighborhood movie houses, restaurants and night clubs, sports and recreation, music and the arts. The plan is simple. Entertainments never handle stamps; it's all done with Entertainment Scrip—as easy to ring up as money.

Soon, with Entertainment Stamps, a significant share of this $850-million-dollar volume will start flowing into the box offices and cash registers of the entertainment business.

ENTERTAINMENT STAMPS, Inc.
Time & Life Building, New York
LT 1-0550

ARLENE FONTANA
Co-Starring in
"FLOWER DRUM SONG"
My Sincerest Thanks to everyone at the Thunderbird Hotel, Las Vegas.
Currently 66th WEEK
Per. Mgr.: JACK BEEKMAN, JU 6-2324

The NEW
ST. JAMES HOTEL
Phila. Headquarters
For People In Show Business
Managing Director—
BOB SPEDDEN
Cardholder in Two IATSE Unions
Located Centrally
13th and Walnut Sts.
ROOMS: $5 up
PEnnypacker 5-8400

Shows Abroad

Continued from page 54

Dublin One

of Mr. Kernan and briefly as a priest.

Barry Cassin's direction is imaginative, backing the stage with a screen for occasional magic lantern shots to point up the lecture side of the performance and using a minimum of props for the action of the playlets. The dramatic effect of the show does not depend on a knowledge of Joyce's stories, so "Dublin One" is a prospect for productions in various countries. Mac.

House of Cards

London, Oct. 3.

Don Gemmell & Reginald Woolley (for Players Ventures) presentation of a two act musical comedy, with book by Peter Greenwell and Peter Wildeblood, with extra dialog by Guy Morgan, lyrics by Wildeblood, music by Greenwell, based on David Magarshack's translation of Ostrovsky's "Even a Wise Man Stumbles." Staged by Vida Hope; decor, Reginald Woolley; choreography, Terry Gilbert; orchestrations, Gordon Langford; musical director, Michael Moores. Features Barbara Couper, Douglas Byng, Patrick Mower, Barbara Evans, Geoffrey Hibbert, Stella Moray, Robin Palmer. Opened Oct. 2, '63, at the Phoenix Theatre, London; $3.50 top.

Landlord ..... Peter Newton
Milkman ..... Barry Daniels
Fishmonger ..... Trefor Davies
Butcher ..... David Hepburn
Baker ..... Janos Kurucz
Kupernik ..... John Keston
Mme. Glafira Glumov ..... Pat Gilbert
Yegor Glumov ..... Patrick Mower
Nikolai ..... Kim Grant
Mamayev ..... Geoffrey Hibbedt
Miss Meropia ..... Valerie Lloyd
Gen. Krutitzky ..... Douglas Byng
Golutvin ..... Phillip Hinton
Mme Mamayev ..... Stella Moray
Grigory ..... Michael Bilton
Lt. Yegor Kurchayev ..... Robin Palmer
Mashenka ..... Barbara Evans
Cook ..... Cynthia Morley
Vladimir ..... Barry Daniels
Countess Turissina ..... Barbara Couper
Olga ..... Shirley Lee
Anna ..... John Ryan
Turkish Ambassador ..... Barry Daniels
Metchnikoff ..... Peter Newton
Prof. Vassilov ..... Janos Kurucz
Signor Bellini ..... Trefor Davies
Capt. Smirnoff ..... John Keston
Serge ..... David Hepburn
Grisha ..... Terry Gilbert
Vaslav ..... Leon Ward
Mme. Armin Bey ..... Ruth Llewellyn
Mme. Vassilov ..... Janette Miller
Mme. Vyroubova ..... Cynthia Morey
Natasha ..... Ann Constant
Irina ..... Lise Moscrop
Mme. Pluminskaya ..... Lisa Lee
Labourer ..... Trefor Davies
Pilgrims ..... Kim Grant, Janos Kurucz, John Keston
Beggar ..... David Hepburn
Peasant Girl ..... Ruth Llewellyn
Maid ..... Janette Miller

Musical numbers: "Give Us the Money," "You've Only Got to Ask," "If You Were Not So Beautiful," "The Mashenca Waltz," "I Don't Remember at All," "The End of Summer," "The Damsant," "Charity Begins," "The Secret with Women," "The Delectable Lie," "Somewhere There's Someone," "Down the Mountainside," "A Marriage Has Been Arranged," "I Didn't Even Ask Her," "Easy to Please," "The Political Situation."

Originally staged at the Players Theatre Club, this musical adaptation of a Russian play has been brought in from a provincial tour as a four-week stopgap. Though it has its pleasant moments it is a mild and old-fashioned affair and apparently lacks the stamina to weather a long run. Set in Russian high society in 1912, "House of Cards" has pretentions to social satire, but only in the closing minutes has it anything biting to say.

Vida Hope has staged the show with plenty of attack, but there is overmuch standing around as characters address the audience and get poised at cue for song. "House of Cards" concerns the social climbing and the scurrilous secret diary of a young man who aims to marry an heiress and unscrupulously uses those around him to advance his ambition. In the unexpected climax he scourges the society which he has relentlessly fooled.

Barbara Couper, as a snobbish aristocrat, displays comic invention, and Stella Moray, Geoffrey Hibbert and Douglas Byng lend hearty suport. Barbara Evans, the heroine, is a looker with clear talent, and her singing of "Somewhere There's Someone" is charming. As two young men in her life, Patrick Mower and Robin Palmer have easy presence, the latter probably having the best singing voice in the long cast as he shows with a plaintively romantic number called "The End of Summer."

The book of Peter Wildeblood and Peter Greenwell is atmospheric, but hardly sparkling and it is embellished by a serviceable but unexceptionable score and lyrics, of which "Charity Begins at Home" and "The Political Situation" are the most pointed.

Period costumes are pleasant but Reginald Woolley's decor has too many backcloths not up to West End standard. "House of Cards," with its echoes of past musical comedies and operettas, will have its nostalgic audience. It remains to be seen whether it is enough. Rich.

The Poker Session

Dublin, Sept. 24.

Gemini Productions presentation of three-act drama by Hugh Leonard. Staged by Jim Fitzgerald; setting, William McCrow. Stars Marius Goring, Norman Rodway. Opened Sept. 23, '63, at the Gate Theatre, Dublin; $1.40 top.

Billy Beavis ..... Norman Rodway
Kevin Beavis ..... Joe Lynch
Fran Beavis ..... Maureen Toal
Irene ..... Pauline Delany
Mrs. Beavis ..... Peggy Marshall
Teddy ..... Marius Goring

As the curtain rises on "The Poker Session" the hero moves a corpse into the garden and re-enters to greet relatives and a former girl friend who have been invited to a card game and reunion on his return from a mental hospital. He has been cured of insanity but has a mania for revenge, and through an evening of poker and talk, author Hugh Leonard builds tension and relieves it with clever comedy.

The author does not mock the insane, but has used the rational approach of the hero and a former wardmate to embarrass the crooked extrovert brother and the matriarchal mother.

Hugh Leonard is a skillful playwright, and while he ensures that mental murder will out he takes care to provide the monomaniac hero with an out from physical murder, and Norman Rodway's performance in the part is surefire. The audience is in on his secret from curtain up, and the actor ensures that he holds their sympathy throughout the evening.

There is avoidance of irrationality in his conduct, just the cold exposition of the monomania against three people and the retention of the sanity to provide an ultimate let-out. Rodway ranks as one of Ireland's top actors and this performance adds to his stature.

Marius Goring as his former hospital companion is more the extrovert madman in clothes and conduct, but his insanity is not exploited purely for laughs and the actor's study is admirable. Joe Lynch's extrovert brother with an eye for the easy buck is sound and unspectacular. His wife is played by Maureen Toal as another extroverted type who wants laughs and a little less of her husband.

Pauline Delany's projection of the former girl friend wondering through the long evening why her husband had not arrived is a sound interpretation of a character on the edge of the events, and Peggy Marshall's mother role has the air of martyrdom fitting into the suburban frame.

The staging of this essentially static piece by Jim Fitzgerald has a good pace and enough movement to point up the conflict between the main characters and the business incidental to the relief of tension. William McCrow's set, splitting the stage for a glass porch and garden, is imaginative enough for the theatricality of the piece, and realistic enough for the tragedy. "The Poker Session" should have a life outside its Dublin Festival run. Mac.

Catholics vs. 'Deputy'

Continued from page 56

Catholic behavior. The charge is levelled at him by Dr. Edgar Alexander, Catholic historian and sociologist, in an excerpt from his book, "Hitler and the Pope," to be published in March by Thomas Nelson & Sons.

In his mag piece, Dr. Alexander states, "It is not only amazing, but incredible that Rolf Hochhuth himself, as late as 1959—the year in which he claims to have begun his research into the 'source materials' for 'The Deputy'—was active as a zealous editor and promoter of the anti-Semitic and anti-Catholic writings and drawings of the popular 19th century satirist and humorist, Wilhelm Busch (1837-1908)."

Herman Shumlin, who intends producing and directing the play on Broadway, stated, in answer to Dr. Alexander's charges, that Hochhuth had dedicated his drama to two Roman Catholic priests who died because they championed the Jewish cause during Hitler's regime.

Ballet Theatre Tour

The American Ballet Theatre is in rehearsal for a road tour Oct. 20 through Nov. 30. It will delay the unveiling of new works until New York dates Jan. 24-25 at an unselected site. This is company's 24th year. Its present heads are Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith.

Eleanor D'Antuono now ranks as a ballerina. Other principal dancers John Kriza, Toni Lander, Royes Fernandez, Dianne Richards, Ruth Ann Koesun, Sallie Wilson. The company numbers 45.

Dance Review

Stars of Bolshoi Ballet

Sol Hurok presentation of 38 members of the Moscow company. Asaf Messerer, ballet master. Conductors, Georgi Zhemchuzin, Igor Boutnikoff. At Madison Sq. Garden, N.Y., Oct. 11, '63; $6.50 top.

Simply stated, this is a great, exciting, numerically smaller company of the Bolshoi Ballet but hitting audiences irresistably on the enthusiasm button. Some 38 young Moscow dancers are touring to the coast until Dec. 10. A musical cadre of 24 U.S. musicians travels with them, being augmented locally. Cincy, Indianapolis and U. of Indiana are among present bookings never previously visited by Bolshoi.

"Chopiniana" opened the performance caught at capacity-crowded Madison Square and established solid respect by a sample of superb, classic, somewhat austere ballet. Followed the spectacular athleticism and adagio of "Walpurgis Nights" which reduced the customers to gasps of delight for the coiled-spring leaps of Pan (Shamil Yagudin), the riotous abandon of Bacchante (Raissa Struchkova) and the other two wild figures danced by Alexander Lapauri and Vladimir Tikhonov.

As third item came impresario Sol Hurok's own contribution to choreography, "Ballet School", greatly whooped up and thoroughly joyous since last seen. It uses American children for a nice novelty touch. Seldom does a dance group shine so exquisitely. Land.

Off-Broadway Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

Ballad Bimshire, Mayfair (10-15-63).
Best Foot, Stage 73 (4-2-63).
Blacks, St. Marks (3-4-61).
Boys Syracuse, Theatre 4 (4-15-63).
Brig, Living Theatre (5-15-63).
Cages, York (6-13-63).
Color of Darkness, Writers Stg. (9-30-63).
Corruption, Cherry Lane (10-8-63).
Cromwell Plays, East End (10-2-63).
Desire Under Elms, Circle (1-8-63).
Fantasticks, Sullivan St. (5-3-60).
Ionesco Plays, Gate (9-17-63).
Pinter Plays, Provincetown (11-26-63) moves next Tuesday (22) to the Pocket Theatre.
Premise, Premise (11-22-60).
Riverwind, Actors Playhouse (12-12-62).
Six Characters, Martinique (3-8-63).

CLOSED

Morning Sun, Phoenix (10-6-63); closed last Sunday (13) after nine performances.
Spots of Leopard, Wash. Sq. (9-24-63); closed Sept. 29 after eight performances.

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Penny Change, Players (10-16-63).
Mr. Simian, Astor Pl. (10-21-63).
In White America, Sher. Sq. 10-25-63).
Walk in Darkness, Mews (10-28-63).
Streets of N. Y., Maidman (10-29-63).
God, Man, You Baby, Midway (10-28-63).
Theatre of Peretz, Gate (11-5-63).
Burn Me to Ashes, Jan Hus (11-5-63).
Journey to Day, de Lys (11-6-63).
Immoralist, Bouwerie Lane (11-6-63).
Thistle in Bed, Gramercy (11-19-63).
Chase Bank, Theatre East (11-25-63).
Imaginary Invalid, Phoenix (11-25-63).
Shakespeare, Carnegie Hall (12-4-63).
Mother Courage, de Lys (1-15-64).

Side-Street Opera's Growing Prestige

N.Y. City Company's Opening Draws Notable Turnout From the Met—Offbeat 'Nightingale'

By ROBERT J. LANDRY

That subtle theatrical intangible, prestige, may not be measurable like heat and humidity but there seemed a marked rise at its recent opening in the prestige of the New York City Opera. Or, say at least that a surprisingly numerous galaxy of personages from the lustrous Metropolitan were paying the opening night of side-street opera the compliment of their presence and interest.

It is now a conventional truth of the Manhattan music community to express gratitude that there exists an organization able to give respectable, full-scale presentation to obscure, trying or seldom-heard offbeat operas. In the present instance these were Igor Stravinsky's 45-year-old "Nightingale" and the more recent "Joan of Arc At The Stake" or Arthur Honegger to the text of Paul Claudel. The first was given in Russian, the second in English.

"Nightingale" is a fragile fairy tale tightly conducted by Walter Susskind. Staged by Bliss Hebert, imaginatively designed and costumed by Gordon Micunis, it presents Patricia Brooks as the bird who charmed the Emperor of China. She and the Fisherman of Arthur Graham offered high, sweet voices but this is more an orchestral than a singing show so there is not too much to report about the singing.

If there is a liability to be offered on the premiere coupling it is that both works are only intermittently "operatic." Seemingly half of "Joan" is sheer spoken dialogue by recruits from the legit. Thus the principal figure, the Maid of Orleans herself, is not a singer at all and the second most dominant figure, Brother Dominic, likewise. Critical notice of their performances falls under the head of dramaturgy.

Jacqueline Brookes as Joan is central throughout since she is discovered as an effigy in a church, comes to life, recalls her happy childhood, her cruel trial and death, and then resumes as a saint. This calls for many transitions of emotion, the creation of innocent girlhood, religious fervor, incredulity at the barbarity of her jurors. Of all of these colors probably the hardest to make convincing to the modern secular audience is religious fervor. It is a tribute to Miss Brookes that she seems believably God-intoxicated. She receives superbly articulated and compassionately-understood support from Douglas Watson, the true priest among the political ones.

The text of Claudel reflects the impact upon Europeans of our time of the Nazi horror. In the opening Church scene, there are four brown-uniformed bullyboys strutting about, keeping surveillence upon the throngs and the pastor. Will Steven Armstrong's design and lighting are quite successful despite the difficulties of mustering and manipulating in small space such large numbers of Royalty, Clergy, Peasants, et al. In this work as in the opener the makeup skills of Michael Arshsky evoke technical appreciation, as was true of some of his similar chores here last sesaon.

Cast credits for "Joan" overextend the space available but it is of some interest that so many were making "debuts" at the house: namely, besides the two mentioned, Frank Converse, David Byrd, Juanita King, Miller Lide, John Devlin, Richard Mathews, Nicholas Martin, Geddeth Smith, Terence Seamme II, Anne Draper, Patricia Hamilton, Betty Bendyk, Elaine Sulka. Have so many "debuts" ever before been credited on an opening night of opera?

Leon Barzin, who has been working of late in Paris, was also making his N.Y. City Opera debut as conductor on "Joan." It was a not-to-be-resisted demonstration of musical authority. Undoubtedly it's a point at this house that the conductors are picked by a managing director, Julius Rudel, who is himself one. He doesn't fool around.

Campus Bookings

Continued from page 55

touring units of "Brecht on Brecht," Nov. 20; "A Man For All Seasons," Nov. 21 and 23; "Mary, Mary," Nov. 25-26; A Thousand Clowns," Dec. 26-28; "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off," Jan. 9-11; "Beyond the Fringe," Jan. 23-25; "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," Jan. 27-29; National Repertory Theatre, Feb. 3-5; "The Hollow Crown," Feb. 12-13; Le Treteau de Paris in "L'Allouette," March 10; "Camelot," May 4-9, and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," May 11-16.

"Camelot" and "Forum" will play eight performances, while most of the others are booked for four performances. For an indication of the possible business that could be done at the hall, on a suggested top of $7.50 for "Camelot," the potential capacity performance for eight performances would be $98,203. In the case of a straight play such as "Mary, Mary," coming in for only two performances, the potential gross capacity on a suggested top of $4.50 would be $15,500.

Of the legit entries, the only one included in a Series Internationale subscription offering to 10 presentations at the hall from next Monday (21) through April 15 is "Brecht on Brecht." However, another subscription series just for legit is being organized to begin in January. During a four-week period devoted to the sale of Series International subscriptions, 1,642 tickets out of an available total of 1,899 were sold. In gross receipts, that figure of 86% of capacity, represented $71,689 on a potential of $83,415. The Bolshoi terp troupe, one of the Series International offerings, was completely sold out during the subscription drive. Subsequent boxoffice sales are figured to have boosted the grosses for the other subscription entries.

Bookings costs for the initial season's roster of 67 offerings ran around $88,000. Incidentally, the seating capacity at the hall is reduced to 2,120 for musicals because of space needed for the orchestra pit. Below the main auditorium there's a recital or meeting hall with a capacity of 300 and adjacent to it is a catering kitchen which permits use of this area for banquets and dinners.

Travis Selmier is manager of the Clowes which is a non-profit operation. George Thorn is New York representative, Charlene Hillman is pressagent and Virginia Ansted is director of special projects. A national committee for the hall, which was built in memory of Dr. George Henry Alexander Clowes, research director of Eli Lilly & Co. in this city, consists of Helen Hayes, Artur Rubinstein, Agnes de Mille, Maurice Evans and George Ballanchine.

What Price U. S. Culture?

"Economy" measures in a number of the U.S. Embassies abroad are bringing out some embarrassing situations touching on "culture." Thus a number of embassies in several major European cities have instituted a new policy of not purchasing tickets for concerts or theatrical performances of American talent abroad. This is new. In the past the Embassies (especially the Cultural Departments attached thereto) have insisted on paying for seats as a good-will gesture. In itself, the purchase or non-purchase of a few seats makes very little difference, of course, and this has been considered justified on the grounds of the cultural department's hitching in on the "ain't us Americans wonderful?" spiel. But in the past month or so the Cultural Attache of at least one major U.S. Embassy abroad has been phoning managers and impresarios asking for free ducats. Also the wife of one Ambassador in a major European city has been asking for freebies.

Actors, concert artists, etc., from the U.S. are perfectly happy—even delightful—to have the U.S. Embassy present, on either a free or paid basis. Hitch comes from the fact that the performances are never sponsored or organized by the Americans. No U.S. management is in the producer or management spot abroad. It is always a local management which acts as producer, manager, etc. And, of course, a management in Paris, London, Berlin, or wherever, is not necessarily interested in adding to its free list. For the same reason American newsmen abroad frequently have a tough time getting ducats. (Just as European newsmen in the U.S. have difficulties in reverse.)

Everybody wants a Cultural Attache, an Ambassador, etc., to be present, for publicity purposes—but when the concert or show is a sellout, the local impresario is likely to beef about "where do you draw the line?" Usually it's the artist or actor who picks up the tab out of his own pocket.

Alberta Grant has been set for the ingenue role in "Love and Kisses."

CASTING NEWS

Following are available parts in upcoming Broadway, off-Broadway, and touring shows, as well as ballet, films, industrial and television shows. All information has been obtained directly by the VARIETY Casting Department by telephone calls, and has been rechecked as of noon yesterday (Tues.).

The available roles will be repeated weekly until filled, and additions to the list will be made only when information is secured from responsible parties. The intention is to service performers with leads provided by the managements of the shows involved rather than to run a wild goose marathon. This information is published without charge.

Parenthetical designations are as follows: (C) Comedy, (D) Drama, (MC) Musical Comedy, (MD) Musical Drama, (R) Revue, (Rep) Repertory, (DR) Dramatic Reading, (DB) Double Bill.

Legit

BROADWAY

"Any Wednesday" (C). Producers, George W. George & Frank Granat (c/o Casting Consultants, 444 Madison Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: male lead, late 40s or early 50s, attractive, charming; male, mid or late 30s, attractive raffish charm, likeable, good sense of humor; femme, late 30s or early 40s, attractive, a lady, stylish, bright. Accepting photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Good Good Friends" (C). Producers, Robert Fryer & Lawrence Carr, in association with John Herman (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.; LA 4-8347). Available parts: femme, Hollywood musical star, Alice Faye, Betty Grable type; femme, Hollywood dramatic star, clothes horse, Joan Crawford type; male, attractive, New York legit director; male, fat, adorable; femme, tall, well built; male, young, innocent, innovuous; femme, Hollywood columnist, worldly, tough; male, zany, a Mischa Auer-Danny Kaye combination; femme, Gypsy fortune-teller; femme, secretary; girl six years old, a mass of curls; male, agent, male, publicity man. Accepting photos and resumes also from agents c/o above address.

"What Makes Sammy Run" (MC) Producer, Joseph Cates (1,000 Park Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: male, attractive character lead, 30-40; femme, 25-30, chic, stunning, must sing; male, 25-35, shy, intelligent; male, 50ish, baritone; femme, 25-35, must dance well, latin type; male, young, smart, tough stooge; male, middle-aged shy, retiring, dignified; male, 50ish, head of bank; male, 22-28, ernest, respectable; male, leading man type must dance. Mail photos and resumes to George Thorn (119 W. 57th St., N.Y.).

"Side Show" (M). Producer, Kermit Bloomgarden (1545 Broadway, N.Y.; JU 2-1690). Available parts: Character femme, 30s-40s, strong personality, sings well; male lead 30s-40s, romantic, intelligent, must sing; femme, early 20s, sexy, sings well; male, W. C. Fields type; male, tall, gawky, chief of police, sings; male, funny little man, snoop; male, 60, bald, sings; girl, 7 or 8, sing or dance; femme, hysterical mother type. Mail photos and resumes c/o Casting Consultants (444 Madison Ave., N.Y.). Do not phone or visit.

OFF-BROADWAY

"Androcles and the Lion" (Kid Show). Producer, Stan Raiff and Explore Inc. (331 Madison Avenue, N.Y.). Available parts: male and femme romantic leads; braggin captain; miser; Androcles. Some classic acting training preferred. Mail photos and resumes to Explore, Inc., c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Candida" (CD). Producer, Equity Library Theatre (226 W. 47th St., N.Y.). Available parts, Equity only: male, late 30s-early 40s, good-looking, vigorous, genial; femme, 20s-30s or 40s, pert, quick of speech; male, 20s-30s, enthusiastic, immature; male, 50s-60s, vulgar, ignorant; femme, late 20s-30s or 40s; male, late teens, 20s, strange, shy youth. Apply in person. Oct. 21 through 31, on the ninth floor, c/o above address.

"Circle of Sparrows" (D). Producers, Parard Productions (24 W. 76th St., N.Y.) Available parts: Equity only. Boys, 12-16; femme, 15, attractive; male, early 30s, social worker, femme, late 20s, attractive; character male, 35-43; male, early 50s, Ed Begley type; male, early 50s, legit German accent; male, mid-20s, brotherly, energetic. Mail photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Lady be Good" (MC). Producers, Keith Holzman, Robert Kreis, Richard Pohlers, (161 W. 54th St., N. Y.). Available parts: male, juvenile, Astaire type; male, leading man 20-30, singer; male, 30-40, comedian must sing; male, middle-aged; Adele Astaire type; femme, must sing and dance; femme, 20's, sing and dance; femme dancer-singer, chorus girls and boys, 20's. Mail resume and photos to Jack Levin c/o above address, Do not write or visit.

"The Caretaker" (D). Producers, Weems, Buccolo, Mathews Productions (667 Madison Ave., N.Y.). All roles open. Janie Lee is accepting photos and resumes through agents only c/o above address. Script available at Drama Book Shop (150 W. 52d St., N.Y.).

"The Trojan Woman" (D). Producer, Maxwell Production Co. (250 Riverside Drive, N. Y.). Available parts: femme. 25-35, good dramatic range, sexy; femme, 40-60, good vocal quality. thin; male. 40-60. good stature, good vocal quality; boy. 8-12, small. Mail photos and resumes to Hazel Hayman, c/o above address.

"You the People" (MC). Producers, S.S.A. Productions (c/o Harvey Flaxman, 498 West End Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: femme, 30, Nancy Walker type; male,,early 30s, Buddy Hacket type; male, early 30s, second Banana type; femme, early 20s, soprano; male, middle 50s, successful business man; femme, about 45, contralto or Mezzo; male, early 20s; male, late 20s, comic lead; male and femme oriental types, with comic ability. Mail photos and resumes to Harvey Flaxman, c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

STOCK

Coconut Grove Playhouse (3500 Main Highway, Miami, Fla.). Accepting photos and resumes through agents only, for fall and winter season of star package productions. Mail to Kip Cohen (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.).

Greek Theatre, L. A.

Continued from page 55

regardless of cost. The project required years of planning, he argues, and would never have been undertaken had not the Commission, composed now of the same five members, assured the annual renewal of the lease, the terms of which now are to be changed in favor of the city.

In its application for renewal, GTA, which for the year 1963 paid city $58,651 in rental, guarantees to pay $60,000 in 1964, increased from its previously guaranteed annual rental of $15,000. The guaranteed annual revenue would be $62,000 for 1965 and $64,000 for 1966.

The association, in its application, also notes the source of additional revenue against percentage, now computed at 5% of sale of tickets and 10% of sale of food, cushions and binoculars, would be extended to include 10% of gross sale of programs.

Rental to the city, according to the GTA application, if it exceeds the guarantee, would be determined solely by an audit report of theatre operation, to be supplied by the lessee and prepared by a nationally recognized firm of certified public accountants.

So. African 'Woolf'

Continued from page 55

patterns. The SAATM continued, "The suspension of 'Who's Afraid Of Virginia Woolf?' can only succeed in subjecting the South African theatre to ridicule, if not contempt.

"It is particularly unfortunate that the author's insistence on multi-racial audiences has been held up as an additional reason for the suspension. The Association, however, is satisfied that this is not so.

"The Association pleads for the suspension to be lifted as soon as possible," the statement concluded, "in such a way as to restore confidence in the future of South African theatre, both at home and abroad."

Svenska Reaction

Stockholm, Oct. 15.

Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?", which preemed Oct. 4 at the Royal Dramatic Theatre, drew mixed opinions from local reviewers. Two of them criticized the Swedish adaptor for "having failed to convey the punch of the original."

This was Ingmar Bergman's first production since the film producer-director became managing director of the Royal Dramatic Theatre last July.

Verdi a la Dunham at Met

Continued from page 1

the innovation of taking icecream to the queue. The absence of air-conditioning served as a reminder that anybody attempting to "save the old building" would face formidable remodelling costs.

Meanwhile register another historic first for American grand opera, a corporation donation to pay for new costumes and scenery. American Export Lines gave $135,000 to cover the all-fresh "Aida." This is an intoxicating achievement for the Tony Bliss crowd of genteel moneyraisers at the Met.

Robert O'Hearn's design, Nathaniel Merrill's staging, and Miss Dunham's shimmy-with-whammy all modified "Aida" without adding notably to audience rapture. In the first temple scene the dancers are thrown disconcertingly into the foreground and there is a flashbox explosion at the altar that is more startling than artistic. But the weakening of the massive parade illusion in the second act may be rather more regrettable. Troops and slaves now come up and over through a big central gate. The net effect is to fracture, by fragmenting, the pageantry. The scene seems "busy," as the dancing seems modern.

Fortunately everybody was in fine voice. The title role went to Birgit Nilsson, now at the peak of her prestige and deservedly given her opening night appearance as a reward for workaway splendors. Irene Dalis as Amneris, Carlo Bergonzi as Radames, Georgio Tozzi, Mario Serni, John Macurdy were the rest of the powerhouse, undistracted by what the trade winds blew in. Miss Nilsson sang like a drugged princess, being under medication for gall bladder, surely phenomenal gamemanship. Georg Solti conducted.

Always the audience competes with the stage at the first performance and tradition in that respect remained intact. The element of heat did create wonder about the sufferings for dear fashion of the women in floor-trailing chinchilla, in gowns of ermine and sweaters of mink. There was the same DeMille mob scene at the portals where arrive the owned limousines and the rented ones. Cameramen by the dozens, some loaded for cinema, hovered on the fringes of the gawking mob. In all of which there is one truism—only does the Met excite and rate this kind of hoopla.

Opening night at the Met has long been institutionalized though also subtly altered from generation to generation. Protocol is hardly of Spanish court rigidity since money rather than blood is primary. There are, indeed, close students of upperclass folkways who hold that the San Francisco Opera opening is more selective. Be that as it may. There is unmistakable status implied in ownership of a box at the Met and the lists of the guests occupying those boxes on opening night are lovingly compiled ahead for advance distribution to the society editors, perhaps the most tense characters in the hall next to the uncertain matrons who enter on 39th Street tremblingly anxious whether they shall or shall not draw a request to pause and pose.

Those who know the inner workings of Met opening nights best are notoriously discreet, though suspected of keeping private diaries. Suffice to say again that the Met is a battlefield of dowagers as well as sopranos. In recent years the occasion has seen the rise of ambassadorial guests from the United Nations and the decline of yesteryear's extroverted aging playgirls dripping with diamonds and ready for any madcap challenge to photographers. A sprinkling of visiting earls and viscounts and military brass abound and this year merchant marine commanders were present as donors deluxe.

The Met management is most efficient nowadays in providing prefabricated dossiers. Its archives will be indispensable to future students of present who's who. The Met collates not only the names of hosts and guests but tells where they dined prior to the performance. Equipped with all this handy data, plus their own preferences and prejudices the hawk-eyed society and fashion scribes covering the carriage entrance unerringly distinguish the Establishment gentry from the Wall Street upstarts and never mistake a high style job for a gown off Madam K's rack. Interestingly in the present era, there are always theatrical business personages present at the Met opening as seat or box holders. This time: Roger L. Stevens, William Schuman, George Skouras, Spyros Skouras, John Crosby, Albert A. List, Ben Bodne, Howard Cullman, Bruno Zirato, Luben Vichey, and the perennial Maria Jeritza, now of New Jersey.

Jack Schlissel is the general manager for the David Merrick & Edward Lewis presentation (in association with Seven Arts and Eric Productions) of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest. Harvey Sabinson is the general pressagent for the Dale Wasserman play, with Teiji. Ito composing incidental music and Will Steven Armstrong designing the scenery.

MAJESTIC THEATRE
FORT WORTH, TEXAS
One of the Nation's Truly Great Show Houses

- Air Conditioned
- Full Lighting
- Ample Dressing Rooms
- Abundant Parking
- Seats 1400

The Majestic Theatre, one of the nation's truly great showhouses, is available for bookings. We are interested in try-out stage productions, variety shows, especially vaudeville, which made the Majestic great, featured orchestras and singers, folk song programs, western folk music. Fort Worth serves a great area vitally interested in entertainment of all types. Call or write today for arrangements.

For Reservations Call
JESSIE MORGAN, Manager
Fort Worth, Tel. ED 2-6422
or
HERMAN GOLDBLATT
Dallas, Tel. FL 7-5331
or write
Majestic Bldg.,
1107 Commerce
Fort Worth, Texas

WELLS RICHARDSON

In an age when it's the fashion for an actor to be barely audible (if that) beyond the 8th row RICHARDSON'S smallest, most intimate touches of character, humor and emotion somehow manage, without apparent effort, to be theatre-size . . . QUAINT!

He has achieved some fame through Charlie McCarthy with whom he often appears at night spots and on TV programs like the forthcoming JOEY BISHOP SHOW over NBC on November 2nd. Even without Charlie he often wins critical acclaim starring in such stage productions as YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU. Right now, for example, this very versatile chap is captivating audiences around the country on a lecture tour called LAUGHTER IS MY BUSINESS. He's hardly a newcomer. The name on the AGVA and Equity card says EDGAR BERGEN.

TV and Personal Appearances: Wm. Morris Agency
Lectures: W. Colston Leigh

SCRIPTS TYPED AND PRINTED — OFFSET
PLAYS—TV—FILMS
MAT-O-LITH 491 First Ave., N.Y.
MU 5-9264

SCULLY'S SCRAPBOOK

By Frank Scully

Simon & Schuster recently published "Catch 22" by Joseph Heller. It is a novel about a bomber squadron in Italy as the second world war is coming to a close. Every character is a bit of a nut and the hero, Yossarian, is the biggest nut of them all. Not insane. Just a nut.

I was stretched out on the porch of Scully's Rancho Pancho at Pinon Hills, 90 miles north of Palm Springs, reading "Catch 22." Pinon Hills is 4,000 feet high. It's temperature on this particular Saturday was 85 degrees. At sea level to the west, L.A. was enduring one degree short of its record heat wave. San Diego had broken all its heat records with 111° and in Palm Springs the airport was so hot you could boil a four-minute egg in one minute on the runway. Dorothy Watson, a good reporter, said the blisters on her feet registered 137 degrees.

The report reached us at Rancho Pancho that a tall handsome kid by the name of John F. Kennedy, President of these so-called United states, was flying in for a two-day rest and was going to occupy Bing Crosby's place at Palm Desert 15 miles southeast of Palm Springs.

His palace guard must keep things from the Prez because apparently nobody told him that if Crosby wouldn't live there with the temp 117° why should anybody in his right mind do it?

Of course the place is airconditioned, but what place isn't these days? However, outdoors the pool was hotter than the frying pan in Sing Sing and who wants to boil in a pool? Even New England lobsters won't do it if they can claw their way out of such a situation.

We could have remained on our cool mountain top had it not been for a message from Phil Regan, the ex-crooning cop who got his dough from Texas oil, not from Joe Valachi. He was throwing a cocktail party for the Presidential press bunch and, more particularly, for his Secret Service pals and wanted us to stand around with a Scotch-and-soda in hand and block the oppressive heat from coming down the flue.

"Where?"

"Our Palms Springs place."

"Not your Cherry Valley rancho, not up there where it is 4,000 feet high and as cool as Ike about the 1964 elections?"

"No. Palm Springs. Five to eight."

"Will you be there, Phil?"

"Of course, I'll be there."

"Crazy."

"What?"

"Well, it's crazy, Phil, for you and me to leave our separate mountain greeneries to play bit parts in Dante's Inferno."

"Be there, will you?"

The Wire Act The Prez Ducked

But the week before the Prez's visit another bunch set the opening of the Palm Springs Aerial Tramway, a Swiss heist which was expected to be a sure tourist trap and make money on an $8,000,000 nut. Two crates holding 80 peasants, the cast of this wire act, were expected to fill the climber which was scheduled to run every 15 minutes from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. at $4 a head. Another buck was being charged for parking a car, 10c for a visit to the rest room, a dime to look in a telescope. Altogether a family could spend 20 bucks in an hour.

The first carload that took the ride was supposed to have coughed up $1,000 a piece. That sounds like $80,000 right there, but Gov. Brown and his entourage were invited to share in that first ride. So were city and county officials, the press and other freeloaders, because even in Palm Springs you don't invite a guy to dinner and then hand him the tab.

Hotelkeepers figured that this novelty would be a great attraction for their resort but so far all they have to show for the $8,000,000 are some drapery bunting and poor biz.

The bunting was still up there when the Prez and his two giant jets came down from Las Vegas. He arrived around 3:45 p.m. and the only Democrat who could get near him was Gov. Pat Brown and he rode all the way with him from California to Las Vegas to Palm Springs.

The rest of the reception committee were all Reppoes. Of course, they rigged it that way, but never figured they'd get boiled in their own heatwave.

The Prez shook a few outstretched hands of the 2,000 horned toads with voting rights which had come out to greet him, and then climbed bareheaded into an open car. Now, this may be showing a devotion to your public, but even the pioneers who came west in Conestoga wagons were smart enough to cover them with canvas.

Of course the chances are 10-to-1 as soon as the President's car got out of sight of the Palm Springs' airport and headed for the Crosby pad his staff would put up the top. But it is pretty hard to defend a man who won't cover his head and look for shade when the temperature on the ground is 137 degrees. Mad dogs an Englishmen all over again.

The town where Crosby lives and where he is trying to sell his $60,000 hungalow for $186,000 has racial restrictions. Of course, the President couldn't be expected to know this, but anybody approximating the pigmentation of Willie Mays if caught in the town would have to leave after dark. Just how these swank segregationists are able to tell a dark man in the dark in a black Cadillac is something only realtors who work out these illegal restrictive covenants can tell.

What followed the President's arrival was a series of cocktail parties and buffet luncheons all over Palm Springs. Before the Prez announced his coming, the Greater Los Angeles Press Club had scheduled a golf tournament at the Canyon Country Club. Just what they are greater than has not been established, but they did hold the tournament anyway, as well as a cocktail party and a dinner.

In opposition, Phil Regan threw his cocktail party and got the Washington correspondents and all the Secret Service men. Pierre Salinger, the Prez's press-releaser, barged in with a half smoked cigar and went over to the piano and took off from where he had quit as an infant prodigy. Both Regan and Salinger showed up in short-sleeve shirts. The rest of us dopes, in honor of the guests, wore more formal clothes and I even trotted out a lightweight Madison Avenue job of charcoal grey.

It was a gay and lively party of what I called the Varicose Set, because you might just as well be in a morgue as to be caught sitting down at one of these parties. The next morning the Regans, the Scullys and the Prez went to Mass at their separate houses of worship, and Regan sneaked over to Palm Desert for a short visit with the Prez at the Crosby crib. He got by the Secret Service men on account they're old friends.

In the afternoon there was an opening of the Palm Springs Press Club at Howard Manor. They staged a cocktail party too. This party was pretty lively, too. The President of the club is Milton Jones, p.a. of the Spa.

We pulled out of the Spa party much to the distress of Eddie Davidson but at 7:30 we had to repair the ravages of our good names and go to a meeting of the Third Order of St. Francis. After this was over we moseyed over to the airport for a cup of coffee. It was nearing midnight, time for the Presidential party to take off for Gabville on the Potomac. The airport was policed and blockaded but as ex-president of Gate Crashers (Local No. 5) that was no blockade to me. We skirted around a back way and were in.

After the java jolt we sat and watched the guys collecting to go back to where they came from.

Only a couple of hundred were around to see the Chief Executive return to Washington. But that probably is a couple of hundred more than will be there five years from now, if again he has the unwisdom to come to Palm Springs in the summertime.

Publishing Stocks

(As of Oct. 15, closing)

Allyn & Bacon (OC)	25½	— ½
American Book (AS)	41¾	— ¼
Amer. Book Strat. (AS)	6⅝	+ ⅛
American Heritage (OC)	5¾	— ¼
Book of Month (N.Y.)	20⅜	— ⅛
Conde Nast (N.Y.)	12½	+ ¼
Cowles (OC)	14	+1
Crowell Collier (N.Y.)	22⅞	— ⅝
Curtis Pub. (N.Y.)	6¼	— ½
Esquire Inc. (AS)	8½	— ⅛
Ginn & Co. (N.Y.)	29⅝	+ ⅜
Grolier (OC)	55½	— ¾
Grosset & Dunlap (OC)	9¼	+ ¼
Harcourt Brace (N.Y.)	34
Hayden Pub. (OC)	2¾
Hearst (OC)	25
Holt R & W (N.Y.)	29½
La Times-Mirror (OC)	35¼
Macfadden Bartel (AS)	5½	+ ¾
McCall (N.Y.)	31¾	— ⅝
McGraw-Hill (N.Y.)	28⅝	— ⅜
Meredith Pub. Co. (OC)	25	+2
Nat'l Per. Pub. (OC)	8¾	— ¼
New Yorker (OC)	101	+3
Pocket Books (OC)	4¼
Popular Library (OC)	2¼
Prentice Hall (AS)	36	— ½
Ran'dom House (N.Y.)	9¾	+ ¼
Scott Foresman (OC)	27¾	— ½
H. W. Sams (OC)	28¾	+ ½
Time Inc. (OC)	88½	—1
Universal Pub. Co.	4¾	— ⅛
Western Pub. Co.	20⅛	— ⅜
World Pub.	16¼	— ¾

OC—Over the Counter.
NY—N.Y. Stock Exchange.
AS—American Stock Exchange.
(Supplied by Bache & Co.)

The Mafia In Canada

Alan Phillips' continuing Maclean's mag series, "The Mafia in Canada" — tying in neatly with Joseph Valachi's disclosures to the U.S. Senate investigating subcommittee—currently refers again to "Montreal's Mafia don." He also names "Mafia dons" in Brooklyn, Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Chicago, and says, "The leaders and confederates of the Mafia (which insiders call The Outfit, The Combination, or Cosa Nostra, are economic saboteurs, undermining public faith in the central mechanism by which industry grows and shares the wealth."

Phillips, in an extraordinarily wide-ranging piece, ties in specific U.S. and Canadian "cartel" crimes with "fence" seizures throughout the U.S. and as far away as Lebanon. His series was unquestionably responsible in part for the appearance at the Valachi hearings of Judge Bruce Macdonald, Police Commissioner of Ontario, whose former Conservative attorney-general had denied the existence of syndicated crime in that province, Macdonald has asked to question Valachi about possible further Canadian tie-ins with U.S. syndicates; Valachi has already linked Toronto with Buffalo.

'Mr. Kennedy and the Negroes'

Harry Golden, editor-publisher of the Carolina Israelite and a national bestseller and lecturer, has long contended that the social revolution of the American Negro (1954-64) was the story of 20th century America. Both the White House and the Attorney General's office have not been unsympathetic with that premise and both have let Golden examine private memoranda and cases in this connection.

This has resulted in his next book, "Mr. Kennedy and the American Negroes," which World is rushing for March publication.

Blum's Newest

Daniel Blum's "Theatre World, Season 1962-63" (Chilton; $7.50), is 19th in series of annuals. Editor was assisted on current tome by John Willis and Carl Raymund. Price is upped $1 from last year. Book is dedicated to Billie Burke, and all departments are intact from former years including records of off-Broadway, Equity Library Theatre, touring companies, list of shows that failed out of town, the three North American Shakespearean festivals, and a necrology. Blum's collection of stage folk gets space, and among nearly 20 pages of short bios of theatre personalities there is the usual heavy complement of unknown players. Blum's awards to "promising personalities" of season go to Dorothy Loudon, Liza Minelli, Swen Swenson, Bob Gentry, Estelle Parsons, Robert Drivas, Melinda Dillon, Brandon Maggart, Julienne Marie, Stuart Damon, Diana Sands, and Alan Arkin.

With facts, figures and pictures, book continues tradition of series that has become one of the best legit reference sources. Rodo.

CHATTER

Ex-Curtis Pub. Co. senior vice-president Ford F. Robinson's son, James F., 23, was found strangled in their Swarthmore, Pa., home, by his young sister Marjorie, 19. The parents were in California at the time of the death.

Roland Gammon, author and specialist in religioso articles, joined Communicorp Inc. as v.p., the p.r. division of Newmark, Poener & Mitchell, as a v.p.

Mrs. Nancy Anderson new west coast editor of Photoplay (Macfadden-Bartell), succeeding Lou Larkin. Eunice Field continues as Coast ed of TV Radio Mirror and Pat Campbell as ditto of Motion Picture, two other M-B mags. Abner Sundell, an editor for the M-B Women's Group, named editor of Pageant, succeeding Howard Cohn, resigned.

James D. Gonia named director of special projects and assistant to Richard A. Hoefer, publisher of House Beautiful. For past 12 years Gonia was v.p. of Weaver Inc., of Atlanta, a firm of publishers' representatives.

John Tiffany Elliott, 48, Madison Ave. literary agent, listed by the Westhampton Beach, L. I., police as "an apparent suicide" when found in his rented house in that resort town.

New managing editor at Belmont Books is Mrs. Gail Wendroff. With company since 1961 her previous title was associate ed. She began her career as radio-tv ed of Asbury Park Press.

Peggy Mann has returned from six weeks in Israel where she collaborated with an Israeli woman on the wartime underground out of Europe. She resumes her position at Doubleday.

Kay Campbell has returned to Hollywood from 60-day cruise in Far East.

Still another in the cycle is San Antonio's Naylor Co.'s book, "Las Vegas, City of Sin?" written by Dick Taylor, g.m. of the Hacienda Hotel, and Pat Howell, quondam Vegas singer and casino employee. Publishing house is headed by Mrs. Joe O. Naylor and accents itself as "book publishers of the southwest."

Time-Lifer Jo Carol Guthrie (her father is board chairman of Studebaker) engaged to freelance writer Lester Edward Blattner Jr. A December wedding planned.

MAX GORDON
(Three's a Crowd, My Sister Eileen, The Late George Apley, Junior Miss, Born Yesterday, The Solid Gold Cadillac) presents the greatest show of his life!

"Anyone who loves the theatre, and that is everyone, must love this book." —RICHARD RODGERS

"Important in its honesty and truth, and in Max Gordon's ever-loving love of the theatre." —NOEL COWARD

"Max Gordon has a great story to tell — and he tells it with enormous gusto." —HOWARD LINDSAY

"A fascinating and moving story." —JUDITH ANDERSON

"A great book — and a 'must' for all lovers of the theatre and early vaudeville." —LOUIS SOBOL, New York Journal American

"A document of the theatre unlike any I've read. What a great education for those who imagine it an easy road to fame and fortune!" —HAROLD ARLEN

MAX GORDON PRESENTS

The Star-Studded Autobiography of His Life on Broadway as Lived and Written by MAX GORDON, with Lewis Funke, Drama Editor for The New York Times. Encore: Sixteen pages of priceless photographs $4.95, now at your bookstore

A BERNARD GEIS ASSOCIATES PRODUCTION
Distributed by RANDOM HOUSE

Broadway

Norman Collins, deputy chairman of ATV, due in from London in the next two weeks.

Kary Lasch, Stockholm photographer, in N.Y. to do camera-study of Manhattan show business.

Hollywood agent Irving Paul Lazar skips lunch for Berlitzing up on his French while on his frequent trips to Gotham.

That 86th birthday bash for oldtime legit actor Gaston Bell at Woodstock was al fresco with bonfires, barbecue, hi-fi music, and Clemmie Nessel on the accordion. Local police cast a benign eye on the mob scene.

From Brownsburg, Quebec, Canada, the hq of the International Al Jolson Society and from Reading, Berks, England, VARIETY is reminded by the late star's fan clubs that Oct. 23 marks the 13th anniversary of the death of "the world's greatest entertainer."

Robert Downing, vet stage manager, planed to home town, Cedar Rapids, to spend last weekend (11-13). It was his first visit to native heath since 1946, and he returned Monday to his duties as a production stage manager for Lincoln Center Repertory which begins rehearsals of "After the Fall," new Arthur Miller play, on Oct. 24.

Already the parents of five sons, the Walter (and Jean) Kerrs had a baby daughter last week Mrs. Kerr, the author of "Mary, Mary," "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" and other plays and books, is in St. Clare's Hospital, N.Y., reportedly in good condition. The baby is also in good health. Kerr is the drama critic of the N.Y. Herald Tribune.

Some $56,000 was realized from the two-day auction of objets d'art at the Helen Hayes-Charles MacArthur estate, "Pretty Penny," at Nyack, N. Y., and 1,800 paid $5 admissions in the two preview days of the auction. At least $25,000 was earmarked by the actress for the Mary MacArthur Memorial Scholarship of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts.

Andrew Mercer, 63-year-old projectionist at the Roosevelt Theatre, in Harlem's 7th Ave., was shot in the shoulder and robbed of $69 and a wristwatch by an usher in that theatre. Latter said, "I can't let you go; I'll have to kill you." Mercer is in Harlem Hospital with a shoulder wound. Robert Wright, 23, the usher, was arrested and charged with assault, robbery and violation of the Sullivan Law.

The State Liquor Authority acted fast, following Joe Valachi's crack about Frank Costello and the Copacabana, and the records disclosed no mob connection: that the Copa is owned jointly by the Jules Podell Foundations, a charitable org, and Podell individually. In 1944 when Podell was manager of the Copa, he admitted at a license hearing, that Costello had an interest in the gambling concession at the Piping Rock, Saratoga Springs, during the 1941-42 racing season, when he (Podell) was manager of the restaurant there.

Rome

By Robert F. Hawkins

Matilde Calnan here for role in Galatea's "Rome Against Rome."

Crazy Club, new nitery just off Via Veneto, features Bob Azzam Orch.

Nadia Gray to Munich to shoot "Death in Salzburg" opposite Curd Jurgens.

Orson Welles narrates English-language "Sound and Light" program at Roman Forum.

Carol Walker signed to play opposite Walter Chiari in Dino Risi's "Il Giovedi" (Thursdays).

Silva Koscina in from London to wind "Hot Enough" for director Ralph Thomas on Italo locations.

Gene Lerner to Coast with Romy Schneider, who makes her U.S. pic debut in "Good Neighbor Sam."

Monica Vitti dubbing self here for Italo version of her French-made, "Castles in Sweden" (Euro), directed by Roger Vadim.

Paulette Goddard, Barbara Steele, Steve Reeves, Georgia Moll, Vittorio Gassmann and others to Ischia to receive "Epomeo Ciak" awards for their contributions to Italo film development.

In-and-out: William (and Mrs.) Todman; Mel Ferrer off to L.A.; Peter Tevis pressed new record here and appears on RAI-TV; Charlie Fawcett to Yugoslavia for pix work; Paul Harris opening attraction at Cavalieri Hilton's Elisse Supper Club; Enrico Bomba to Paris; Claudia Mori to Spain for pic; Trevor Howard to London after talks anent his "The Bible" participation; Yvonne Monlaur back to Paris after Italo film work; and Edward Koenig of Roy Rogers Syndication due in.

Philadelphia

By Jerry Gaghan
(319 N. 18th St.; Locust 4-4848)

Paintings and drawings by Zero Mostel now on exhibit at the YM/YWHA galleries.

Jack Howard, former Cowboy record exec, now managing Alden Theatre, in East Falls.

Len Galloway, pianist and accordionist back at the Capri for fifth consecutive season.

Leopold Stokowski and the American Symphony to highlight Villanova's fall cultural program at 5,000 seat campus field house (19).

Tommy Leonetti, opened at Palumbo's last week, to sing the "Star-Spangled Banner" at Columbus Day Festivities in Fairmount Park.

Ben Ventira, leader of the Three Guys and a Doll combo, opening agency with his brothers, in Oaklyn, N.J., for booking and handling talent.

Alan Gale to guest star at 11th annual Harvest Ball, sponsored by Auxiliary of Einstein Medical Center, at Bellevue Stratford Hotel (Nov. 2).

Tom Kenney appointed new Capitol Record promotion man here, succeeding Bruce Davidson, now national merchandising director for the diskery.

British novelist T. H. White, author of "The Once and Future King" ("Camelot"), to give illustrated lecture at the University of Pennsylvania this week (16).

Music Fair producers Lee Guber, Frank Ford and Shelly Gross off to the Coast for a 10-day series of consultations on expanding their tent shows into a nationwide organization.

Hotel strike here postpones Harry Bortnick's High Fidelity and Camera Show. Teamster's Union refused to cross picket lines with the exhibit material. Show set back to Nov. 8-10.

Milton Katims, musical director and conductor of Seattle Symphony, to guest conduct Philadelphia Orchestra in concerts dedicated to the 18th anni of founding of United Nations (1819).

George Montgomery, Meg Miles, Savannah Churchill and Al Martino will be in for the benefit to aid singer Jeanne Richards, at Town Hall (20). Montgomery and Miss Miles were touring in "Plain and Fancy" with the singer when she was injured in an Expressway crash.

Palm Springs

By A. P. Scully
(Tel. 324-1828)

Jerry Riley, handling releases for Chi Chi's, began as a p.a. in 1919.

New Motor Lodge at Palm Desert advertises it gives blue chip stamps.

Danny Thomas getting smog at his new Cherry Valley million dollar rancho.

Marie Verheim is La Quinta's new public relations. Last post was at Beverly Hills Hotel.

Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis will hop to Hollywood for the Bob Hope show during their Chi Chi nitery stint.

Hoagy Carmichael and Bob Hope pencilled in for Crippled Children's benny at Eldorado, Nov. 9. Eldorado is Ike's golf course.

Earl Strebe figures to have his drive-in ready by Thanksgiving. This is the one that caters to viewing pix on hossback, with oats for the cowpony friends of oat operas.

Candy Johnson, marthon twister, back at El Mirador after a summer in Hollywood for pix. She was her own opposition since "Beach Party" in which she is featured was playing at the Village.

Red Skelton got $430,000 worh of bad news in one day. His desert place had a $50,000 fire and a county fair show producer in Wisconsin was suing him for $380,000 because he claims Red didn't show for a show.

Charles W. Webster, former head of P.S. TV Corp., has become head of Kemper Foundation in Chi and is trying to hold his Palm Springs school board post at same time. Remainder of board is using legal action to oust him. Susan Marx, Harpo's femme, is on the board.

London

(HYde Park 4561/2/3)

Season of Eisensteins films has just completed two week run at the National Film Theatre.

Harold Lloyd in last weekend and attended the opening of the London Film Fest last night (Tues.).

Sol Sheckman, former chairman of the Essoldo Circuit, who died a few months ago, left over $223,000.

The British Film Producers Asso., set up a technical advisory service to handle technical enquiries and problems.

Leslie Grade, head of the agency bearing his name, rushed to London Clinic after collapsing with ulcer trouble.

Christopher Lee, who played Dracula and other macabre characters in Hammer's horror pix, is writing his autobiography.

John Whiting, the playwright who wrote "Marching Song" and "The Devils," left more than $54,000. He died last June.

The Duchess of Gloucester went to a special charity performance of "A Funny Thing Happened" at Strand Theatre last Tuesday (8).

Show biz personalities currently around the town include Liberty Records prexy Al Bennett, Jerome Whyte, Dion, Erroll Garner, Martin Ransohoff, Sylvia Fine and James Garner.

The Variety Club sponsoring a gala preview of "Boys From Syracuse" at Drury Lane on Nov. 6. Proceeds will be shared by the Club's Heart Fund and the Combined Theatre Charities.

Jympson Harman, who retired three years ago after more than a quarter of a century as Evening News film cric, has been around the town catching up on some current pix. Since he left London, he has seen only about six films.

Berlin

By Hans Hoehn
(760264)

The Polish play, "Silence," by Roman Brandstaetter, was performed by Vaganten, local avant-garde theatre ensemble.

Local preem of Denis Diderot's "Rameau's Cousin" at Renaissance Theatre fell on the 250th birthday of this classical French author.

An American Folk Blues Festival held at Sportpalast, with Muddy Waters, Big Joe Williams, Sonny Boy Williamson, Otis Spann and others.

Nicolas Nabocov will be head of the 1964 Berliner Festwochen, city's annual Arts Fair. Like Dr. Wolfgang Stresemann, head of this year's festival, Nabokov is U.S. citizen.

The new Berliner Philharmonic, city's new concert hall and new permanent home of the Berlin Philharmonic reportedly cost about $4,250,000. It's located near the East (Soviet) Berlin border line.

Adolf Wohlbrueck (Anton Walbrook), former German film and stage star, soon will be starred in another production of the local Renaissance Theatre. He has appeared with success at this house before in recent years.

"The Deputy," Rolf Hochhuth's controversial play, will travel. The local ensemble of Freie Volksbuehne will present the play, which Erwin Piscator staged, in several cities throughout Western Germany during upcoming months.

Paris

By Gene Moskowitz
(80 Ave. Neuilly-SAB 07-12)

Film star Jeanne Moreau cutting another record.

Russo 70m pic, "The Optimistic Tragedy," which won a prize at the Cannes Fest, at Kinopanorama Theatre.

Maurice Chevalier's eighth tome of memoirs, "75 Berges" (75th Birthday), is now being serialized in the afternoon paper, France-Soir.

Georges Auric, director of the National Opera, naming Christiane Vlassi and Cyril Atanassoff as first-line dancers in the Opera Ballet.

Henri Tisot, who became famous imitating General DeGaulle, says his coming headline stint at the Olympia Music Hall will be half comic songs and only half for his noted takeoffs on DeGaulle.

James Jones pitching in on scripting of "The Love Cage" (MGM) which starts here soon. The Metro-backed local company Cipra produces in English and French, with Rene Clement directing.

American actress Marpessa Dawn back on the stage with her perennial boulevard comedy legit hit, "Cherie Noire," which she has been doing for three seasons. She also doubles in singing Latino ditties at the Grandes Severines nitery.

Back page of the International edition of N.Y. Times was used to announce the start of MGM-Seven Arts production, "The Night of Iguana," being directed by John Huston and starring Richard Burton, Ava Gardner, Deborah Kerr and Sue Lyon.

In spite of big record and in-person pull of young "rock" singers, the attention this week is on oldtimers, Maurice Chevalier, who does his one-man singing show, and Tino Rossi, who stars in an operetta, "To the Sound of Guitars." Chevalier is 75 and Rossi is 56.

Boston

By Guy Livingston
(508 Little Bldg.; 338-7560)

Renard & Jeanette at Monticello, Framingham, on bill with Patti Page.

Bill Doll in own pumping for Moscow Circus opening a Boston Garden last week (10).

Herbie Sells held over for second week at Journey's End, Hotel Touraine, Hub's newest supper room.

Sam Snyder and Water Follies troupe back from Tokyo readying for first North American date in Canada.

John Bishop booked a hootenanny for Boston Arena for Oct. 19, under his B&K Enterprises producing banner.

Faye Emerson and Martin Gable among those in to see "Girl Who Came to Supper" pre-Broadway tryout at the Colonial.

Steve Leiber from N.Y. opened town's newest supper room, Journey's End, 500-seater in Hotel Touraine with policy of names. Nina Simone booked for an early date.

Las Vegas

By Forrest Duke
(DUdley 4-4141)

Gospel Jazz Singers, a click in Flamingo lounge, getting offers from L.A. clubs.

Jim Garner weekended at the Riviera, posed with Harry Belafonte for Life mag layout.

Kim Sisters record an album for a Korean label immediately after their current Sardus lounge date.

Allison McKay, formerly with Ben Blue's Desert Inn Lounge show, now chirps upstairs in the DI Sky Room.

Tony Azzi, producer of the Tropicana's Folies Bergere, due back from Europe where he's been scouting talent.

Chuck Dodds ankled Barry Ashton's "Playmates of 1964" at Castaways because of previous commitments; replaced by Dick Wells.

Frankfurt

By Hazel Guild
(Fuerstenbergerstrasse 2; 59 57 51)

Current count shows 84 symphony orchs in West Germany including West Berlin.

Albert Mangelsdorff, Frankfurt jazz trumpeter, set for a jam session in Bangkok next December.

German drama, "Time of the Innocent," by Siegfried Lenz, now the German play most frequently performed abroad, according to publishers.

German producer Wolfgang Harwig wound up his $250,000 color film, "River Pirates of Mississippi" with 60 days of shooting in Yugoslavia.

Songstress Caterina Valente enroute from her home in Germany to Hollywood to tape a television spectacular with Bing Crosby, for release over CBS.

With Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, 87, due to retire shortly, the Philips long-play platter, "Learn Rheinisch Accent with Adenauer," is proving popular here.

American Negro conductor Dean Dixon, who is under contract with the local German tele outlet of Hessischer Rundfunk, just pacted as well by the Australian symphony orch.

Busiest German director is Alfred Weidenmann, pacted for seven films to be finished by the summer of 1964. He is currently making "Great Reign of Love" in Vienna with Lili Palmer, Hilde[illegible] Neff and Anouk Aimee, following with a French production, "A Blond and A Brunette."

Hollywood

Juan Hutchison in from Munich.

Milton R. Rackmil in from Gotham on periodic U visit.

Rusty Draper hopped to Honolulu for month at Hutches Supper Club.

Irene Ryan topper at Indiana Shrine Circus Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Evansville.

Dick Whittinghill, KMPC deejay, elected to board of California Mission Bank.

Gene Autry kudosed with Columbian Award by local chapter of Knights of Columbus.

Irene Cuffe will do one-woman show for fifth season at Troupers Club Thanksgiving show.

Kay Stevens, out of Jerry Lewis' teleshow last Saturday, returns to program this coming Saturday.

Johnny Green to be feted by Junior Auxiliary of L.A. Jewish Home for Aged at luncheon at Beverly Hilton.

Harold A. Lipton, N. Y. attorney, succeeds Harold Lasser, who returns to private practice, as general counsel of National General Corp.

Chill Wills, who returned from 23-city junket to bally "McLintoch," will make another trek in Europe after first of year for John Wayne starrer.

Chicago

(DElaware 7-4984)

"Lawrence of Arabia" breaks in 17 selected firstrun outlying houses on Nov. 15.

"The Haunting" goes into 50 nabes on Oct. 18 where it will be paired, in most cases, with "Toys in Attic."

Joey Heatherton in for press round on behalf of "Twilight of Honor," opening Oct. 16 at United Artists Theatre.

Oct. 27 marks the 10th anni of date that adman Burtan Browne opened the first Gaslight Club in Chicago. Now he also has them in New York, Washington, Los Angeles and Paris (France).

Chicago Sun-Times politico cartoonist Jacob Burck is doing the settings for Goodman Theatre's presentation of "The Millionairess." Play stars Patricia Jessel and runs Oct. 25-Nov. 12.

Fires last week caused moderate damage to three near northside cocktail lounges. The Pour House is temporarily out of commission, but biz goes on as usual at Al Wallace's and the Pigalle.

Tracy Batteast, formerly with Triangle Productions, opened her own concert booking office, Compass Productions Inc. Associated with her are Hal Stein and Rudy Orisek, co-owners of the Gate of Horn folk nitery.

Ireland

By Maxwell Sweeney
(Dublin 68 4506)

Johnny Cash in on twoweek tour.

Gaiety Theatre manager Phil O'Kelly bowed out.

Newsgabber Terry Wogan named moderator for Irish-TV quiz show.

Dennis Meehan, studio boss with Radio Eireann, convalescing after minor surgery.

"Butterfield 8" rated "objectionable" by National Film Institute reviewing panel.

Capitol Showband signed for weekly stint on Radio Luxembourg: it's a first for an Irish band.

Telefis Eireann (Irish-TV) starting countrywide talent hunt this month: outfit is short on light entertainment.

Wolfe Kaufman, Sol Hurok's European rep, planed back to Paris after gandering shows at Dublin Theatre Festival.

Columbus

By Fred Oestreicher
(CA 8-2669)

Liberace inked for concert at Veterans Memorial on Nov. 16.

Ed McGlone, RKO Palace manager, back at desk after minor operation.

Bobby Hackett band opened new Roaring 20's Room of the Deshler-Hilton last week (9).

Ken Prickett celebrating fifth anni of appointment as execuive secreary of Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio.

Sylvia Westerman resigned as continuity director of WBNS radio for a position with CBS news in Washington, D.C. Fritz Peerenboom replaces. Mrs. Jane Rehm is new WBNS assistant continuity director.

OBITUARIES

EDITH PIAF

Edith Piaf, 47, French chanteuse, died of an internal hemorrhage resulting from a liver ailment, Oct. 11 in Paris. Singer Theo Sarapo, her husband, survives.

Details in Vaude.

JEAN COCTEAU

Jean Cocteau, who never lost his billing as "enfant terrible" despite his 74 years, died Oct. 11 in his home outside Paris, as result of heart trouble. He expired shortly after receiving news of the death of his friend, Edith Piaf. One of his last formal statements was a tribute to her genius as a singer.

Cocteau was a jack-of-all-arts. He was adept in the creation of films, plays, painting, music, poetry and dabbled in other fields as well. His approach was ever that of the avant garde and exceedingly nonconformist. He shocked and dazzled several generation of art followers. He frequently felt that the best approach to any new field was to wade in without knowing anything about the medium. In many instances, that approach was evident. Dreams and facts intermingled in many of his works. There was freshness and extreme sophistication. Many of his works were based on personal experience. He smoked opium, played drums in a cafe, and pulled various stunts to achieve background for his artistic works. He never concealed the fact that he preferred the company of pretty, young men. He grew up in an era of Dadaism, cubism, impressionism, expressionism and realism, and his work reflected many influences.

Cocteau's first film was "Le Sang d'un Poet" ("The Blood of a Poet") a subjective effort. One of his most popular films was "Beauty and the Beast." As a playwright, he created "La Voix Humane," a one-character play "The Infernal Machine" and "Les Parents Terrible." His "Knights of the Round Table" was adapted by W. H. Auden.

Cocteau also designed the production for Diaghelev's ballet "Parade" for which Satie wrote the music and Picasso did the decor. He assisted Darius Milhaud in the composition of "Le Boeuf Sur Le Toit" based on a Paris nitery which he frequented. With Paul Hindemuth, he had a hand in the composition of Patamos" an oratorio. He also did two opera-oratorios with music by Stravinsky, and "Oedipex Roi" with Honneger.

Cocteau, at the death of a friend in the midtwenties, sought refuge in opium. He later sought the help of the noted Catholic philosopher Jacques Maritain in kicking the habit and found another refuge, Catholicism.

He was a member of the French Academy and bragged that with his initiation in a $1,400 blue uniform (instead of a green) designed by Lanvin, he has become an institution, "Just like Lollobrigida."

GRACE DARMOND

Grace Darmond, 65, silent screen leading lady who specialized in vamp roles, died of a lung ailment Oct. 7 in Hollywood. She directed that her body be donated to the U. of Southern Calif. Medical School.

Born in Toronto, Miss Darmond was on the eastern stage before going to Hollywood in the middle 'teens. She costarred with Hobart Bosworth in "Below the Surface" and was prominent through the late 1920s. Among her last films were "Wide Open," "Hour of Reckoning," and "Wages of Conscience," her last pic made in 1928.

GORDON ELLIS

Gordon Ellis, 72, veteran Australian film exec, died in Sydney Oct. 7. He had visited the U.S. many times and was nearly as well known in America as Down Under.

Ellis had been with Greater Union Theatres for more than 40 years. He started with Australian Films, a GUT subsid. When Australian Films' name was changed to British Empire Film in 1930, Ellis became general manager. For years, B.E.F. distribbed Republic and Monogram films in Aussie. Since 1945, the company has handled all Rank Organization product, British Lion, etc.

When Samuel Bronston went into production, B.E.F. took over his distribution in Australia handling such films as "El Cid" and "55 Days To Peking." At Ellis' suggestion, Capt. Harold Auten was named American rep for Greater Union Group of companies, a position he still holds.

FRED HAYMAN

Fred Hayman, 67, co-owner of Mutual Ticket Agencies of Southern California and for 40 years closely identified with the concert and theatrical field in Los Angeles, died of a heart attack Oct. 14 while returning from Riverside, Calif.

Hayman, who was partnered with John Moss in Moss & Hayman Attractions for 30 years, brought many top names in the music and entertainment world to L.A. Among them were Marian Anderson, Artur Rubenstein, Van Cliburn, Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo and the Black Watch. Latter just closed at Shrine Auditorium, L.A.

Surviving are his wife and stepson.

HENRIETTE SHAPERO

Henriette Freeman Shapero, 74, died Oct. 14 in her Auburn, N.Y. home. She was the youngest of the original 10 children of the late Alderman George Freeman of Syracuse, N.Y. Though never herself in show business she was closely identified with many who were and widely acquainted to oldtime vaudevillians.

She is survived by Hattie Freeman (Mrs. Sime) Silverman, widow of the founder of VARIETY, by Charles Freeman, now an Interstate (Texas) Circuit official but once head booker for RKO, Jess Freeman, longtime vaude agent and now VARIETY staffer, and Miriam Freeman, nonpro.

Deceased was the widow of a clothier, J. J. Shapero. She had been an invalid in recent years.

FRANK R. ADAMS

Frank R. Adams, 80, Chicago newspaperman, songwriter and playwright, died Oct. 8 in White Lakes, Mich. He was in the process of writing three books when he suffered a heart attack.

Adams was co-lyricist on "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now" with Will M. Hough. Harold Orlob wrote the music. His best known play was "The Time, The Place and The Girl." He wrote it in collaboration with Hough and Joe E. Howard. It was written in 1907 and revived in 1952 when Howard reworked the music and played one of the lead roles.

"Princess April," a musical comedy written by Adams, was produced in 1924. In 1937, his novel "Happiness Preferred" was made into a film, "Outcast" by Doris Malloy and Dore Schary. He also wrote "The Marriage Cheat," which was adapted to the screen in 1924.

He is survived by his wife and a daughter.

TOM COWIE

Tom Cowie, 67, longtime cinema manager and former distributor's representative, died Oct. 4 in Glasgow after a long illness. In show biz all his life, he started as a a program boy in the old Princess' Theatre, in the Gorbals of Glasgow.

At various times Cowie represented the former RKO-Radio Pictures and Associated British-Pathe, mainly on publicity and promotion side, in Glasgow. He also was associated with the ABC and Caledonian Associated Cinemas groups as well as with Green's Pictures in Scotland.

He managed such cinemas as Cranston's, Grand Central and the Imperial, Glasgow. He also was the first manager of the Frutin family's Granada Cinema in Parkhead, Glasgow.

Survived by his daughter Anna, stage pianist, who has accompanied many top British singers.

ROBERT H. GORDON

Robert H. Gordon, 58, director of industrial shows and formerly a Broadway director, died in Detroit Oct. 13. He moved to Detroit in 1955 where he was identified with the new show biz form which abounded in that area. During the last few months, he had been setting up a drama department at the University of Oakland, Rochester, Mich.

Before moving to Detroit, Gordon had directed several Broadway shows including "Alive and Kicking," "Call Me Mister," "Pins & Needles" and "Sing for your Supper." Prior to that he was in the drama dept. of USO-Camp Shows, a director in the Federal Works Progress Administration Theatre and a Broadway actor for a while.

CLAIRE NIESEN

Claire Niesen, 40, radio actress, died of cancer Oct. 4 in Encino, Cal. She was best known for radio serial roles during the past 20 years, particularly "Mary Noble, Backstage Wife," which she played for 14 years for CBS. Other shows included "Second Mrs. Burton" and "Life Can Be Beautiful."

Winner of the Philco Hall of Fame Award in 1943, Miss Niesen appeared in several Broadway plays.

Surviving are her husband, actor Melville Ruick; stepdaughter, actress Barbara Ruick; and a sister.

TOM ADRIAN CRACRAFT

Tom Adrian Cracraft, 58, former Broadway set designer who in recent years had worked in film and tv studios, died of a lung ailment, Oct. 8, in Hollywood. After going to the Coast about 10 years ago, he was associated with Columbia Pictures in Metro. More recently he had designed for Hilton Hotels.

Cracraft designed many Broadway plays, including "Murder in the Cathedrial," "It Can't Happen Here" and "Goodbye Again."

His wife and daughter survive.

DAVE KLECKNER

Dave Kleckner, 67, who operated Dave's Blue Room, N. Y., and later a similar restaurant in Hollywood, died in Hollywood Oct. 13 of a heart attack.

Dave's Blue Room, which opened in the Broadway area in 1922, was the hangout of music publishers, performers, songwriters and newspapermen. In 1943, he moved to Hollywood where he operated a Blue Room on Sunset Strip until 1948.

TREVOR WATKINS

Trevor Watkins, 69, retired radio, concert and musicomedy singer, died Oct. 4 in Blackpool, Eng. He started in radio in the pioneer BBC days at Savoy Hill, and appeared in the early "Music Hall" show which featured such performers as the late Tommy Handley, Will Fyffe and Albert Sandler.

He was also televised in the experimental days of 1928 with the Gershom Parkington Quintet.

GIUSEPPE MAROTTA

Giuseppe Marotta, 61, author of "The Treasures or Naples" and "San Gennaro Never Says No," died Oct. 10 in Naples. The "Treasure of Naples" was the basis of the 1957 Italian film, "Gold of Naples," which starred Sophia Loren and Vittorio De Sica. Marotta had also at one time been a film critic and scenarist.

His wife survives.

ARNOLD FOSTER

Arnold Foster, 64, music teacher, conductor and composer, died Sept. 30 in London. For several years music master at Westminster School, he studied at the Royal College of Music.

He specialized in arranging folk songs. He wrote a piano concerto, ballet and, in 1961, a ballad opera with Joan Sharp, and other varied compositions.

CARL A. SINCLAIR

Carl A. Sinclair, 70, owner and general manager of Meyers Lake Park Inc. near Canton, O., and the Moonlight Ballroom there, died of a heart attack Sept. 16 in Canton. He came to Canton in 1922 and became head of the park operation upon the death of his father, George, in 1942.

His wife, daughter, son and sister survive.

JAMES COUSINS

James Cousins, longtime theatre manager, died recently in Musselburgh, Scotland. For years he was associated with the civic entertainment programs in Princes Street Gardens, Edinburgh, and had filled every post in theatres from callboy to manager.

Survived by his daughter.

MARY MACDONALD

Mrs. Mary MacDonald, 92, active in repertory acting at turn of the century and once understudy for Mrs. Leslie Carter, died Oct. 5 in Hollywood. She had been in retirement since 1917.

Surviving are two sons, one of whom, Kenneth MacDonald, is a character actor.

JAMES POWER

James Power, 53, manager of the Liverool ABC Futurist cinema, collapsed in the theatre and died Sept. 27 on the way to a Liverpool hospital. He became a trainee manager with Associated British Cinemas in 1945.

Power subsequently managed several cinemas, mostly in the Midlands.

BERNARD LENROW

Bernard Lenrow, 60, a radio-tv announcer and actor and former president of the New York City local of the National Federation of Television and Radio Artists, died Oct. 9 in Englewood, N. J. He was an actor for 25 years on Broadway, radio and tv.

His wife and three sons survive.

JAMES R. RAMSEY

James R. (Cap) Ramsey, 74, former performer in the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show, died Sept. 29 in Dayton, O. He began his career with Buffalo Bill in 1906, later touring with other wild west shows and circus groups.

His wife, daughter and three brothers survive.

BILLY BENNY

Billy Benny, club owner and agent, died of coronary thrombosis recently in Manchester, Eng.

He was a director, with Vic Lewis, of William Victor Productions, firm responsible for promoting U.K. tours by Johnny Mathis, Nat King Cole, The Four Freshmen, et al.

GEORGE VAN MARTER

George Van Marter, 54, longtime art director, died of cancer Oct. 10 in Hollywood. He spent most of his career in the indie film field, although for a time was with 20th-Fox and Columbia Pictures.

His wife and two daughters survive.

HARRY M. KANTOR

Harry M. Kantor, 67, a member of the executive board of Musicians Local 802, died Oct. 7 in Brooklyn. He had at one time been a pianist with Meyer Davis orchestras.

His wife, son, two daughters and three sisters survive.

HENRY W. WINGERT

Henry W. Wingert, 94, former conductor with some of the country's major circuses, died Sept. 28 in Toledo, O. He toured for 35 years, including the Ringling Bros. and Cole Bros. shows.

His wife, daughter, three sisters and brother survive.

CLAYTON THOMAS

Clayton Thomas, 61, musician and former orchestra leader, died Sept. 27 in Toledo, O., after surgery. He was a pianist and organist, and for years had his own orchestra.

Surviving are his son, a sister and two brothers.

FLOYD L. KENDRICKSON

Floyd L. Kendrickson, 63, former head of Metro studio legal dept., died Oct. 14 in Hollywood.

His wife and son survive.

MARRIAGES

Janet Lane to Peter Leywood, Eastwood, Eng., Oct. 6. Bride is a dancer; he's an actor.

Jane Boyd to Al Schwartz, Chicago, Oct. 2. Bride is one of the singing Doublemint Twins; he's a director at WBBM-TV in Chi.

Allie Elizabeth McMurtry to Pierce M. Allman, Graham, Tex., Oct. 5. He's program director at WFAA, Dallas.

Brenda Vickers to Edwin Hardwick, Ickenham, Eng., recently. Bride is a dancer; he operates a nitery.

Jacqueline Gillott to John Percival, London, Oct. 10. Bride is a freelance radio reporter; he's a BBC producer.

Elizabeth Downes to Christopher Denham, London, Oct. 12. Bride is a ballet dancer; he's the son of actor Maurice Denham and is a stage manager.

Connie Stevens to James Stacey, Oct. 12, Sherman Oaks, Calif. She's an actress-singer, he's an actor.

June Allyson to Glenn Maxwell, Fort Lauderdale, Oct. 12. Actress (widow of Dick Powell) had her two children, Pam, 15, and Rickey Powell, 12, in attendance; groom is owner of two hairstyling shops in Newport Beach, Calif., and has been longtime friend of bride and her late husband.

Janet Pavek to Joseph Cusanelli, Oct. 12, New York. Bride is slated to make her singing debut with the Metropolitan Opera soon and was last in "Camelot"; he's nonpro.

Bert Williams to George Small, New York, Oct. 5. Bride is with Petry Reps; he's a fashion and interior photographer.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Radnitz, son, Hollywood, Oct. 9. Father's a tv writer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kerr, daughter, New York, Oct. 9. Mother is the playwright-author, Jean Kerr; he's the drama critic of the N.Y. Herald Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gilbert, son, Hollywood, Oct. 3. Mother is former model Suzanne Noel; father's an actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Orisek, daughter, Chicago, Oct. 9. Father is WBBM Radio personality and co-owner of the Gate of Horn nitery there.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hinds Jr., daughter, Chicago, Oct. 8. Father is program director of WBBM-TV there.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Kammerman, daughter, New York, Oct. 4. Father is in the commercials dept. of the William Morris Agency.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Miller, son, Encino, Cal., Oct. 9. Mother is former Diane Disney, daughter of Walt Disney; father is associate producer at Disney Studio.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Doonan, daughter, London, Oct. 2. Mother is an actress; father an actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Hy Levine, son, Oct. 3, Flushing, N.Y. Father is assistant advertising controller at United Artists and mother is former executive secretary to UA v.p.-corporation secretary Seward I. Benjamin.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prime, son, Philadelphia, Oct. 3. Father, former name band vocalist (Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Ralph Flanagan) hosts several programs on WPBS.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bernard, son, Oct. 7, Los Angeles. Father is a personnel manager.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Peter Butz, daughter, Oct. 3, Englewood, N. J. Mother is Met opera soprano Laurel Hurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Grayson, son, Oct. 9, New York. Father is tv producer-director.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Newley, daughter, Oct. 12, New York. Mother is film actress Joan Collins; father is coauthor-composer and star of the legit musical, "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off."

Mr. and Mrs. David Ragan, daughter, New York, Oct. 9. Father is managing editor of Macfadden-Bartell's Motion Picture Magazine.

JACK HARRISON

OCT. 19, 1960

In remembrance . . .

OLIVER MARTIN SAYLER

October 23, 1897 - October 19, 1958

. . . a tribute to his dedication to the theatre.

marjorie barkentin
michael sean o'shea

In case you missed World War I, contact Granada.

Next August will be the 50th anniversary of the First World War.
And Granada's jumped the gun with FOR KING AND COUNTRY, four compelling plays written by three Englishmen and one American who lived through it.
The plays are Barricade, Tunnel Trench, Out There and The Enemy.

Granada wants you.
For King and Country is available to our American comrades-in-arms for use on their television stations. Contact: Kay Campbell, MU 8-1126 (509 Madison Avenue) or write Paddy Crookshank,

GRANADA TV NETWORK, ENGLAND

FILMS | VIDEO | TV FILMS | RADIO | MUSIC | STAGE

VARIETY

PRICE 35¢

Published Weekly at 154 West 46th Street, New York, N. Y. 10036, by Variety, Inc. Annual subscription, $15. Single copies, 35 cents.
Second Class Postage at New York, N. Y.
© COPYRIGHT 1963 BY VARIETY, INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.
Vol. 232 No. 9 NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1963 72 PAGES

N.Y. FOREIGN 'ART' FILM TIME UP

Mormons' Polynesian Show Biz Spec Preems in Hawaii at $1,500,000 Center

By DALE OLSON

Honolulu, Oct. 22.

Take a healthy representation of six different island nations, package them in a unique entertainment spectacular under the auspices of the Mormon Church and the mixture could turn into one of the most potential tourist catchalls to be found on an island paradise already teeming with tourist-bait.

Hawaii, Fiji, Tahiti, Samoa, Tonga and Maori tribes have gathered at Laie Village, a sleepy seaside fishing town on the windward side of Oahu 40 miles north of here to recreate their particular ethnic cultures. These are showcased in individual village sections that comprise an amazing $1,500,000 island folklore facility built under the auspices of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

At an impressive Oct. 12 opening, the 431-member populace destined to live at the Center throughout the year drew some 3,000 visitors ogling colorful individual entertainment provided by each group within their own environs. The festivities were later spectacularly capped in a two-hour nighttime production tagged "A Night in Polynesia" at the community's lava and waterfall outdoor amphitheatre.

Produced and directed by former CBS producer Michael M. Grilikhes, the nightly feature com-

(Continued on page 60)

Tourists' Improving Standards Making For Maturer Vegas: Proser

Las Vegas is reaching a state of maturity. The casino country is no longer content with a single standard of variety show. The tastes of the gambling and vacationing elements are reaching a higher level and Las Vegas hotels must cater to higher standards, according to Monte Proser, entertainment director of the Thunderbird Hotel there.

Proser was in New York last week to complete casting of two legiters, "Anything Goes" and "High Button Shoes," to be presented in a single evening at the Thunderbird starting Dec. 20. The Vegas area, he said, can become the nucleus of show biz for the entire country. Plans are now on the drawing boards to make Vegas the hub of the legit musical industry because of the possibility of complete financing in that section and long runs in casinos so that a show can come into Broadway completely amortized before it starts its major run.

Proser already has one such show in the planning stages. He will produce a new legit musical, "Hong Kong Charlie," with Jack Soo topping the cast. Show will be

(Continued on page 58)

Princess Soraya's Disk Suit Wins $1,200 Award

Paris, Oct. 22.

Princess Soraya, the ex-Queen of Iran, won 6,000 francs ($1,200) from the Odeon Record Co. here this week. The award stemmed from a suit she brought in 1959 when her photo was used on a disk cover sans her consent.

Record was a 45 rpm tango pressing with one number called "Soraya" and her face on the sleeve. She maintained she had never given permission for it and sued accordingly. Damages were awarded by a French civil court.

Meanwhile, Princess Soraya will soon be starting her screen career in Italy in a film based on the life of Catherine the Great of Russia with Dino De Laurentiis producing.

Storer (Radio-TV) In $4.5 Mil. Offer For Philly Eagles

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.

George B. Storer, owner of a chain of radio and tv stations, has made an offer to buy the Philadelphia Eagles, of the National Football League.

Frank L. McNamee, president of the Eagles, inferentially corroborated the report, stating that the stockholders have authorized negotiation of a sale to a responsible person and that a meeting of the stockholders will be called and a report made to them.

Reports here were that Storer had submitted a check to back up his offer. But the broadcasting exec, located in Wyoming, declined to go into details about his proposal and said the information would have to come from the Eagles staff.

An asking price of $4,550,000—$50,000 per share for the 91 shares outstanding—was agreed upon by the stockholders last spring when the question of a sale first came

(Continued on page 46)

Bufman & Seiden's Dozen Legiters for Tollvision

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Zev Bufman and Stan Seiden, operators of the legit Cocoanut Grove Playhouse in Miami, have set a deal with RKO General for the taping and pay-telecasting of 12 of their shows via RKO's tollvision station in Hartford, Conn.

First show to go will be "Tchin-Tchin," due to be taped Friday (25) for airing within the next few weeks.

BUT NEW HOUSES BOOK DOMESTIC

By VINCENT CANBY

Since New York art theatres remain the gateway to the foreign film market in the United States, overseas producers may profitably ponder the results of the latest VARIETY check of firstrun playing time in N.Y. arties. Foreign films share of firstrun playing time rose to 573 weeks in the 1962-1963 season, compared with 512 weeks in the like 1961-1962 period.

However, foreign films' percentage of the total firstrun playing time in the 1962-1963 season was off slightly to 64%, compared with 69% in the previous season.

As revealed by this paper's own data, New York arties in 1962-1963 devoted a total of 898 weeks to firstruns, against 742 in the corresponding 1961-1962 season. The most spectacular increase in artie playing time was registered by U.S. product, which accounted for 325 weeks of time in the most recent season, based on a Sept. 1-Aug. 31 period, against 23 weeks in 1961-1962.

And this, in easy-to-understand terms, is the problem which overseas producers, and their indie distribs this side, must acknowledge realistically in their efforts to crack the U.S. market.

The arties which used to be the exclusive outlets for overseas product are now geared more and more towards the prestige releases of the commercial U.S. industry. Such major company films, with their

(Continued on page 21)

'Automated' Pix At World's Fair Scaring IATSE

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

That omnipresent union eagle-eye has already espied its first N.Y. World's Fair target though exposition doesn't launch until April 22, 1964. Drawing early attention is the ambitious "American Journey" exhibit which Cinerama is prepping for the U.S. Pavilion.

New York's International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees Projectionists' Union is eyeing the automatic motion picture projectors which along with automatic slide machines will beam scenes of American history—from Columbus to projected exploration of space—on to 130 screens during a 15 minute "ride" audience will take in 55-passenger conveyances.

Negotiations with union are still in progress but present ratio of projectionists-to-projectors has been pencilled in at one-to-seven. Since the machines are geared to

(Continued on page 20)

Pitt Group Promotes Legit Tourers As Boost for Downtown Merchants

Pittsburgh, Oct. 22.

This city has joined Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Cincinnati in the promotion of legit as a means of boosting community economy in downtown shopping areas where after-dark business has become virtually non-existent because of competition from suburban shopping centers. The local push for increased legit trade, on the theory that such a development would benefit merchants in the downtown theatre area, is being made by the Pittsburgh Friends of the Living Theatre, an organization of 200 women.

The femme group has launched a campaign to promote subscriptions for a five-play Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society series beginning Nov. 11 with "Camelot." A seven-play TG-ATS subscription program is already in progress here, having gotten underway Labor Day with "No Strings," followed by "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" "Camelot" is also in the seven-play series, as are "Never Too Late," "A Thousand Clowns" and "A Man for All Seasons."

Three of the shows in the new five-play series are among the seven originally offered TG-ATS subscribers here. As indicated, "Camelot" is one of the three. The others are "Clowns" and "Seasons." The two entries which complete the five-play series are "Beyond the Fringe" and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," both being offered to present TG-ATS subscribers. Virtually all seven-play subscribers have bought the two added entries, "Fringe" and "Succeed," raising

(Continued on page 64)

Death Quickens WB's Edith Piaf Biopic

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Warner Bros., which acquired rights to late Edith Piaf's life story in 1961, will put property into production under title of "The Sparrow," French singer's affectionate nickname.

Prexy Jack L. Warner, in reporting that studio, which had held up filming because of difficulty in casting title role, would now make pic, stated that the French themselves would be asked to select the person to star.

"We plan to conduct an extensive and thorough poll in France itself so that the citizens of that nation will have the opportunity of selecting someone, perhaps one unknown beyond their own boundaries, to play this famous and beloved daughter of France," exec said.

Comerford's 55 To Coyne; Over $20-Million Deal

By SID BENJAMIN

Scranton, Oct. 22.

After 60 years in show business, the Comerford family of this city has severed its ties with the entertainment industry. Mrs. Thomas M. Friday, daughter of the late M. E. Comerford, and her husband have sold their controlling interest in Comerford Enterprises, formerly Comerford Amusement Co., to Syndicate of John E. Coyne Jr., a Scranton insurance man.

No purchase price was disclosed but it is believed to be in excess of the reported $20,000,000 paid by Paramount-Publix to the late pioneer when he disposed of his holdings in 1930. Comerford regained control of the chain in 1933.

It currently includes 55 hardtop & drive-in theatres in North-

(Continued on page 20)

Aussie TV Camera Team Gets Red China OK to Film

Melbourne, Oct. 22.

TV production company Morenco Pty. Ltd. has scored an international breakthrough and Aussie first by obtaining a concession from Red China for commentator Myra Roper and producer-director John Dixon to spend 28 days of unrestricted filming in Red China.

It's believed this is the first western camera team ever to be given complete freedom of opera-

(Continued on page 60)

Yank Prints and Disks Literally Worn Thin In Fun-Hungry Cuba

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Abundantly available Red Chinese films have been largely relegated to late, late show status on Cuban television. Expropriated American prints, vintage 1959, still are screening along Havana boulevards. These two items are reported by documentary producer Robert Cohen after five weeks on Castro's Island.

Cubans are "entertainment happy" he declared, citing apparently healthy condition of Havana's major night clubs as prime indication of this. While patrons have changed drastically — fatigue garbed soldiers are plentiful in clubs — splashy floor shows are similar to the ones Yank tourists remember, said Cohen.

Imprints of American style and technique remain in all entertainment fields, he reported. Pop music, the tv fare on the four gov-

(Continued on page 60)

Marlene Dietrich, Erroll Garner Among Royal Command Vaude Gala's 19 Acts

London, Oct. 22.

Marlene Dietrich and Erroll Garner are among headliners booked to appear at the Royal Command Vaude gala, to be held Nov. 4 at the Prince of Wales Theatre to aid the Variety Artistes' Benevolent Fund. The Queen Mother will represent the royal family, as Queen Elizabeth has cancelled all her public engagements in view of the impending birth of her fourth child.

Some 19 acts have been lined up for the show, of which 12 will be firsttimers. This is a higher than usual proportion of newcomers, though the number of American artists in the bill is somewhat below the average on past years. Apart from Miss Dietrich and Garner, the American contingent will be completed by the Clark Bros.

The Beatles, a quartet from Liverpool who introduced the Liverpool sound in pop entertainment, are among the dozen newcomers. Others in that category are Wilfred Brambell and Harry H. Corbett, who scored as the two characters in the top BBC-TV comedy series, "Steptoe and Son"; Michael Flanders and Donald Swann, currently starring in their new revue "At the Drop of Another Hat"; Susan Maughan, the moppet diskelick; Joe Loss and his orchestra; Nadia Nerina, the ballerina; Los Paraguayos, and the

(Continued on page 58)

Spyros Fronts Drives

Twentieth-Fox board chairman Spyros P. Skouras will head the 1963-1964 fundraising campaign of the United States Committee for Refugees. Committee has goal of $125,000. It's non-sectarian national citizens' group concerned with the plight of refugees, regardless of nationality, and supports the programs of voluntary relief organizations.

Skouras will address the annual meeting of the USCR Nov. 1 at the Waldorf-Astoria in N.Y.

Dallas Primps For CBS Origination Of 'Miss Teenage' TVer

Dallas, Oct. 22.

The third annual Miss Teenage America Pageant will be seen for the second straight year on CBS-TV from here, Nov. 1 at 9 a.m. (CST), helmed by the web's producer, Paul Levitan, and directed by Vern Diamond. Emcee will again be Bud Collyer, of "To Tell the Truth," and co-hosts will be Allen Ludden and his wife, Betty White. Also returning to the show will be the "Singing Cadets of Texas A. & M. University."

Some 550 contestants from over the U. S., in the 13 to 17-year bracket, will participate in the Dallas-owned pageant. The video show Nov. 1 will be held to 60 minutes, instead of the previous 90 minute exposure, due to prior time commitment by CBS-TV. Sponsors of the full network pageant are Coty and Dr. Pepper.

The 1963 pageant has been moved from the State Fair Music Hall to the midtown Dallas Memorial Theatre, a 1,700-seater. All tickets will be $4.30 each.

Vajont Dam Disaster Modifies Preems For 'West,' 'Cleo' in Rome

Rome, Oct. 22.

Though their elaborately planned formal debuts were inevitably overshadowed by the Italian Vajont Dam disaster, both "Cleopatra" and "How West Was Won" are off to strong starts here. The "Cleo" charity gala was completely cancelled, together with tie-in publicity ventures, while the local "West" opener at the refurbished Royal-Cinerama Theatre was "toned down," a few days later, also in deference to flood disaster.

Present for the Cinerama opener were Italo Ministers Andreotti and Delle Fav, U.S. Ambassador Frederick Rinhart; industry toppers; Anna Magnani, Paulette Goddard, Erich Maria Remarque, Elsa Martinelli, Dino DeLaurentiis and many others.

Meanwhile, "Cleopatra" daily average at Rome's Supercinema held to about $5,000 a day for the first five days, with the Milan figure slightly over that. The outlook is rated favorable.

"West," which opened earlier this year in Milan, already has racked up $800,000 in four Italian houses alone.

Gallic Scribes on Vegas Junket for Lido Preem

Paris, Oct. 22.

For the first time five top French news men will be flown to Las Vegas to cover the opening of the new Lido show at the Stardust there. Group, shepherded by local publicist Georges Cravenne, leaves Friday (25) to be there for the Saturday (26) opening.

Lido show is mounted and rehearsed here, then flown to Vegas. Sometimes it has numbers from the Paris Lido show or new ones that are later incorporated into the parent spec here. However, this will be the first invited ogling of its Yank counterpart by French scribes.

Cravenne will later take the reporters to Hollywood and then to Gotham for a dinner with Otto Preminger (another client) before heading back for France.

10/23

VARIETY

Subscription Order Form

Enclosed find check for $.....

Please send VARIETY for ☐ One Year ☐ Two Years ☐ Three Years

To .....
(Please Print Name)

Street .....

City..... Zone.... State.....

Regular Subscription Rates

One Year—$15.00 Two Years—$28.00

Three Years—$39.00

Canada and Foreign—$1 Additional Per Year

VARIETY Inc.

154 West 46th Street New York 36, N. Y.

JACK BENNY

Violin Virtuoso

"Can you imagine Georgie Burns comparing a performer like PAUL ANKA to me? Of course, we have one thing in common—YOUTH, PAUL and I—not Georgie.

"PAUL ANKA is an international favorite, a real popular singer, writes songs, is in pictures, and does SRO business, but—can he play the violin?"

Quent Reynolds Not Litigatious Vs. 'Libel' Play

Quentin Reynolds is outspoken after his reading the script of "A Case of Libel"; that he found next "disgusting" and "it made me sick"; that it constitutes an invasion not only of his but Westbrook Pegler's privacy; that what purported to be "factual" has "become fictional"; that "it makes Ginny look like a whining woman," which is contrary to fact. Despite all of which he does not intend to sue Louis Nizer, Henry Denker, Joel Schenker, Roger Stevens et al ("Ginny" is the former Virginia Peine, onetime film actress, who was long married to Reynolds but since their divorce is now Mrs. Byron Foy of the socialite Foys).

Neither she, Reynolds nor Pegdramatization of a chapter of Nizer's book, "My Life in Court," the one having to do with the lawyer's successful and dramatic victory in Reynolds' behalf

(Continued on page 64)

Makings Of a Dilemma; Par Faces Shurlock Bid For 'Carpetbaggers' Cuts

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

"The Carpetbaggers," Paramount-Joseph E. Levine production, has not yet been given Motion Picture Assn. of America production code seal. Code chief Geoffrey Shurlock looked at the picture last week, asked one scene featuring semi-nude Carroll Baker be excised from footage, plus some dialog in scene involving Martha Hyer and another involving Miss Baker and George Peppard.

Par studio production chief Martin Rackin asked, as to Par's next step, said "no comment." He observed, however, that Shurlock had okayed script before shooting began. Also noted is fact Par has never released film sans seal.

'Garbo Seasons' in UK

Glasgow, Oct. 22.

Sir Alexander King, Scot cinema magnate, inked a deal with Metro to screen a Garbo season of three weeks at his La Scala.

Season teed-off Monday (21) with "Ninotchka." Second film on Oct. 28 will be "Queen Christina," with "Camille" following on Nov. 4.

New Garbo Season in London

London, Oct. 22.

There is to be another Garbo season at the Empire, starting on Nov. 7 and running six weeks. This follows the hit five weeks' season during the past summer.

Program will start with "Two-Faced Woman," and remainder of season will be repeats of the films shown earlier, only in reverse order. The second will be "Anna

Steve McQueen's Viewpoints

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

"Though actors who mix into politics want to do good, they must be sure that the stand they are taking is valid. We have a lot of kitchen cleaning to do in Hollywood, and I think we're doing it. As for the problem of employing Negroes, I think you should use a Negro actor because he is good at his craft and not simply because he is a Negro," said Steven McQueen, at a press conference for the Hollywood foreign press called by Allied Artists at the Beverly Hills Hotel following completion of "Soldier in the Rain," in which McQueen and Jackie Gleason star.

McQueen admitted that he was a guy with an affinity for getting into trouble, said he preferred not to go into details, but recalled being asked to leave a hotel in London as result of an incident that occurred there. "My friends and I were trying to make hot toast on a hot plate. The curtains in the room caught on fire. I ran out in shorts into the hall for a fire extinguisher, and there waiting for an elevator were two Dame Mae Whitty types."

Asked why he gets into so much trouble, he said, "Maybe I have the reputation for getting into so much trouble because I'm in the public eye; also I get around quite a bit. Actually I feel that I'm a home guy. I'm married, have two children, and don't run around."

Stall Peace Film Fest In Los Alamos

Only Four Films Entered—Showman Bob Kunce Denies Any Political Angles

Albuquerque, Oct. 22.

Entry deadline for the upcoming first International Peace Film Festival—planned in early November in nearby Los Alamos, N.M.—has been extended due to lack of formal entries, due apparently to the "political-sounding" implications of the title, according to fest director Robert W. Kunce, Los Alamos theatre operator.

Closing date originally was Oct. 10, but at that time Kunce says he only had four entries, although, a number of other inquiries. He said, frankly some of the potential entrants have been scared that the thing is Communist-inspired, because of the old Stockholm Peace Petition's similar use of the words "international peace."

Kunce said there is absolutely no political motive in the festival, although he has had to do a lot of talking to try to convince people of that fact. He said the title was decided on partly because of the location—in the city which gave the world the first atomic bomb. He said the place now is devoted to peaceful uses of atomic power, and for this very reason the name is appropriate.

Kunce also said that he feels no group in the world has a hold on the title, and that it will remain for the fest.

Entrants formally filed so far are: "Life Is Beautiful," (Polish); "The Face of War," (Janus); "The Hole," (Brandon); and "Colleagues" (Russian).

A British member of parliament, the Rt. Honorable P. J. Noel-Baker has sent a letter of greetings to the fest.

Kunce admitted that unless more films are pledged the first peace pix fest will have to be postponed at least a year.

Screenings will be in the 990-seat Centre Theatre at Los Alamos, town's only motion picture house, owned by Frontier Theatres and managed by Kunce.

Sexy Sleuth Slides In

"From Russia, With Love," second of a projected series of 10 pix based on the sexy sleuth James Bond novels by Ian Fleming, is off to a swinging start and looks to turn a better trick than the first Bond feature, "Dr. No." The UA release opened recently at the Odeon Leicester Square Theatre in London where it broke all opening-day records — and some pretty hefty pix have played that house.

Again starring Sean Connery as Bond, the film netted $5,760 on the debut day of its world preem engagement, beating the previous record by $1,347. It went on to better record tallies for continued biz, scoring $23,710 in its first four days, topping the previous high by $4,855. "Russia" was produced by Harry Saltzman and Albert R. Broccoli under their Eon Productions banner and directed by Terence Young, the same team which did "Dr. No," which proved a strong entry for UA itself.

Longhair Xmas Festival At Lincoln Center Bucking Drop-Dead B.O. Tradition

Preparations have been completed for a notable defiance of concert platform cliched thinking that the period just before Christmas in Manhattan means drop dead business for longhair. Promoters Jay K. Hoffman and George F. Schultz will present a Christmas Music Festival at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall and Carnegie Hall running from Sunday Dec. 20 through to and including Sunday Dec. 29.

Four different versions of Handel's "Messiah" are scheduled consecutively between the two con-

(Continued on page 58)

VARIETY

Trade Mark Registered

FOUNDED 1905 by SIME SILVERMAN; Published Weekly by VARIETY, INC.

Syd Silverman, President
154 West 46th St., New York, N. Y. 10036 JUdson 2-2700
Hollywood, Calif. 90028
6404 Sunset Boulevard, HOllywood 9-1141
Washington, D. C. 20004
784 National Press Building, STerling 3-5445
Chicago, Ill. 60611
400 No. Michigan Ave., DElaware 7-4984
London, S.W.1
49 St. James's Street, Piccadilly, HYde Park 4561-2-3

SUBSCRIPTION Annual, $15; Foreign, $16; Single Copies, 35 Cents

ABEL GREEN, Editor

Volume 232 120 Number 9

INDEX

Bills	60	Night Club Reviews	52
Casting	68	Obituaries	71
Chatter	70	Opera Reviews	66
Film Reviews	6	Pictures	3
Inside Pictures	20	Radio	24
Inside Radio TV	43	Record Reviews	48
International	22	Television	24
Legitimate	62	TV Film	29
Literati	69	Television Reviews	33
Music	47	Vaudeville	52
New Acts	60	Wall Street	16

DAILY VARIETY
(Published in Hollywood by Daily Variety, Ltd.)
$20 a year. $25 Foreign.

MPAA SETUP POST-JOHNSTON

Drops the Word: Subsidy Is Nix

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

U.S. Government is not contemplating any subsidies for American filmmakers, Asst. Secretary of Labor George L. P. Weaver stated here at a press conference called to report on Government support for the film industry's Joint Labor-Management Committee's anti-runaway film drive. Such financial backing has frequently been rumored.

Official government attitude is against subsidies and towards freer trade, according to Weaver, who said, however, that the U.S. has established a closer relationship with member countries of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

Labor Dept. official reported that the government has reiterated its adherence to the OECD Film Code, Article Two, which calls for abolishment of film subsidies "to the extent that they significantly distort international competition in export markets."

This, it would seem, has not moved many of the 20-member nations to abandon their film subsidies which American filmmakers contend constitute unfair competition.

Despite Common Market Ideal National Subsidy Likely to Persist

Paris, Oct. 22.

One thorny problem facing both the Common Market film aspect and the industries of the big three signatories, France, Italy and West Germany, in particular is that of film aid. Common M. seeks a central aid coffer while individual national industries see no way of reducing domestic aid in the forseeable future without bringing on a financial fiasco in each involved industry.

Italy and France have a 14% rebate on grosses to producers towards their next film while Germany still has no big governmental aid except for quality payments. German industryites have been pressing for same and French and Italians want to hold on to theirs in spite of Common M. attempts to get gradual cuts until they are nil to start their central subvention attempts.

But France had to win a hike in their aid this year and industry is pressing for an extension when it runs out in June '64. They maintain that new aid helped hike falling production and will be needed for some time yet. Still falling filmgoing and off foreign markets also put emphasis on government aid.

This appears to be building up to an ECM impasse and French film groups are already petitioning the governmental Centre Du Cinema to take early steps on fighting any ECM attempt to force lowering of aid for some time yet.

Foreman Yen For Subsidy Not Much Liked By Yanks

Next week's New York City convention of the Theatre Owners of America will hear a pitch by London-based producer Carl Foreman for a Government subsidy for film producers. The film exhibitors, who must oblige if this is to be forthcoming, so far are negative in their reaction.

Representative showmen, when queried this week, said they have fears of Government controls—or, at least, interference — if there's any kind of compensation to the Yank filmmakers.

Foreman thinks it w'se that producers should get a kickback just as producers get in England and various other parts of the world. He points to the Eady plan in England whereby the so-called quote pictures are entitled to a share of the extra boxoffice tariff.

Foreman said he can't understand exhib rebellion against the idea of subsidy because, as he puts it, it would mean an incentive toward the making of more pictures and better pictures.

Foreman thinks a specific plan should be advanced by the American film industry, exhibitors inclued, and this should be worked out by the American Government. He stresses that the U. S. filmmakers are at a disadvantage because so many other countries have subsidies for their respective film producers.

Amateurs Stay Clear

Mike J. Frankovich, before departing for London last week, offered the advice that it cost too much to make pictures and newcomers ought to stay away.

On the other hand Frankovich believes it might be fine if a jointly-operated studio, such as via Columbia, 20th-Fox and Metro can be erected and available to all.

Skip Wage Hike, Writers Accent Credits, Rights

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Writers Guild of America West will bypass any demand for a hike in minimums, in new proposals for the theatrical film contract, to be presented to the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers. Instead, the emphasis in upcoming negotiations will be on credits and rights, it was decided at a special membership meeting of the screen branch of WGAW at guild hq last Wednesday night. Negotiations begin Nov. 4.

In following the lead set previously by Screen Actors Guild when it, too, bypassed any demands for minimums in its recent negotiations, the guild was motivated by a desire to help the industry, members were told. "The movies are a sick industry and we want it to be healthy," one speaker explained.

WGAW will ask that where a motion picture is eventually converted into a vidpix series, the writer of that original film be entitled to a royalty of the series plus screen credits. Singled out as an example of what writers feel is a glaring hole in their pact was Metro's "Dr. Kildare" series, based on the "Kildare" pix made years ago by MGM. Other pix which became series include "My Friend Flicka," "Naked City," "The Thin Man" and "Cheyenne."

Guild also wants to eliminate from its indie pact current provisions giving producers of low-budgeted pix a break in minimums. Under the current indie pact, a producer of a film budgeted at $125,000 or less gets a sub-minimum rate for writers, so does the producer of a film with a budget of $250,000 or less. WGAW seeks to eliminate what it believes are preferential provisos.

WGAW also has decided to skip any serious negotiations on pay tv at this time, motivated by the belief since there is no feevee now there is no point in trying to hammer out wages and conditions for such a medium. Instead guild will seek retention of its clause permitting it to reopen negotiations when and if feevee comes.

FILM FIRMS NOT SURE OF NEED

The directors, repping the member companies, of the Motion Picture Assn. of America are reportedly not yet convinced that the successor to the deceased MPAA president Eric Johnston will have to be a man—as they say in the industry—"of national and international stature."

According to insiders, the MPAA directors are keeping a close eye on the present functioning of the organization, feeling that if it can continue to run smoothly, there may be no compelling reason to bring in an outsider. Exec vicepresident Ralph Hetzel, named acting MPAA chief during the last days of Johnston's illness, is continuing in that capacity.

Reasons one exec close to the situation, the MPAA is hardly in the same position now as it was when Johnston was brought in to head the organization in 1945. At that time, the MPAA had only one or two men concerned with foreign affairs and only a skelton home-office staff. Today, the MPAA has offices in New York, Washington, Hollywood, Paris with overseas veeps permanently stationed in Mexico City, Tokyo and Rome, and other fulltime reps in Brazil, Britain, and India.

It's felt that if it becomes necessary to do any high-level public relations work in the future, some appropriate man could be hired on a retainer basis. Unstated, but implicit, in all this reasoning, is that if the organization can continue to work at an efficiency level without hiring a "name," the MPAA can well save the $100,000 annual salary which went to Johnston.

It's also suggested that there's recently been a subtle change in the attitude of the company presidents towards the running of the MPAA compared to years past when Johnston was in command. Says one exec, when the company presidents—"especially the younger ones, like Arthur Krim or Abe Schneider, or their reps, like Seymour Poe"—go to MPAA board meetings, they take an active interest in all phases of the organization's affairs. "You know they've done their homework," says the exec.

Nowadays the MPAA-MPEA setup provides service to the major studios who have television films they wish to market in foreign countries. A rival organization in this area, the Television Film Export Assn. is headed by John G. McCarthy, for four years a U.S. State Dept. diplomat in Paris but, prior thereto, long Eric Johnston's public relations front. The McCarthy office is largely supported by the networks and such companies as Desilu and probably does not have a budget of over $200,000 annually. Telepix derive considerably improved rentals in such countries as Canada, Australia, Japan and Britain. An important consideration is that this residual operation is based on 16-millimeter prints. There are in all 68 countries which take telepic from U.S. sources. Some pay trifling sums. Others respectable amounts.

Hollywood studio dues to MPAA are based upon a complex calculation. At the time of 20th-Fox's resignation (later reconsidered and cancelled) the figure of $350,000 annually was mentioned.

At least one project initiated by Johnston in the months before his death seems now to have been quietly abandoned. That is the projected international film festival which was to be held in Washington in 1965. Understood to be under consideration now, as part of an overall industry public relations program, is a Hollywood film week, which would be held in Washington and designed to acquaint legislators with filmmakers and their problems as well as their films.

Brit. Film Production Biz Faces Deepest Crisis Since Black 1950

London, Oct. 22.

The British film production industry is in the throes of its deepest crisis since the black days of 1950, when the studios went dark and technicians were thrown on the labor pool. The critical situation, which had given considerable concern in recent months, was brought into sharp focus 10 days ago when news came through that Beaconsfield studios had issued redundancy notices to most of its operative staff. Now, there are widespread reports that redundancy will be declared in other major and minor studios. Also, that unless the tide can be stemmed, there is little doubt that before the year is out the employment situation among British studio technicians will be at its lowest ebb ever.

Employment crisis in studios reflects the problem facing every independent who has been struggling to get adequate circuit release for British productions. There is a backlog of films waiting for playdates, and some expect to be on the shelf for nine to 12 months, or even longer, before they can hope to get bookings.

As one independent producer with a successful track record put it to VARIETY last week: "Today it is not the financing that is the problem, but being able to guarantee a reasonable theatrical booking without accumulating heavy interest charges over many months." The same producer has virtually abandoned all plans for British filmmaking in the immediate future.

Even more important was the attitude of one union official, who proclaimed that he could not, in all honesty, blame Beaconsfield studios for dismissing its staff. "One has to blame the film industry as such for a situation which made it inevitable for Beaconsfield to fire its employees," he said.

The basic problem of the British film industry was succinctly analyzed a couple of months back by the Cinematograph Films Council in a detailed report on monopoly tendencies in the industry, which contained a recommendation in favor of attempting to create an effective third circuit.

So far, there has been no positive reaction from the industry, and trade toppers doubt whether, despite the current spate of meetings, any worthwhile proposals

(Continued on page 16)

Wyler Off 'Music' At 20th

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

William Wyler has stepped out of his 20th-Fox commitment to produce and direct Rodgers & Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music." This is attributed to conflict in starting date of Wyler's commitment at Columbia Pictures for "The Collector."

Wyler, according to statement, "required a 60-day delay in the start of 'Sound of Music,' scheduled to begin production in May, but 20th-Fox has scheduled the film as its Christmas, 1964, release."

Build War Chest To Outlaw Toll In California

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

California theatremen have pledged $500,000 toward a war chest to combat pay-tv and have medium outlawed in the Golden State. Total of 250 exhibs repping some 800 theatres throughout the state met here last week at the behest of Theatre Owners of America's Southern Calif. branch to plot the California Crusade for Free TV.

Group called feevee "an imposition on the Public which would force the public to pay for what they are now getting free." Support is being tendered the anti-feevee move, it was asserted, by "organizations, businesses, shutins, senior citizens, women's clubs and other groups."

Committee is headed by Arnold Childhouse, of United California Theatres, with local circuit operator Fred Stein topping the Southern California contingent. Others attending conclave included Eugene V. Klein, Roy Cooper, Henry Nasser, Tony Penaro, Charles Maastri, Abe Blumenfield, John Klee, Homer Tegmeier, Everett Cummings, George DeWade, Henry Pines, Al O'Keefe, James Edwards and William Foreman.

Unclear at this time is when the theatremen hope to get a petition which would outlay pay-tv on the state ballot, a necessary procedure. Exhibs are well aware that private estimates are that it will cost at least $400,000 to solicit, statewide, enough signatures to get the proposition on the ballot. Whether this could be accomplished by next April or November, 1964, is still a moot question, apparently.

COLUMBIA PICTURES RISE TO $1.47 TAKE

Columbia Pictures for the year ended June 29 had net income of $2,597,000, or $1.47 per common share, compared with $2,242,000, or $1.25 per share, for last year.

Abe Schneider, Col president, noted an improvement of about 25% in reporting income before taxes of $6,299,000, compared with last year's $5,058,000.

Col in 1962 had the benefit of a tax loss carry forward from prior years. Also in 1962, the company had a profit of $413,000 from the sale of studio properties and this was in addition to the aforementioned 1962 earnings of $2,242,000.

'Cleo' Into Latin Burgs

Twentieth-Fox's "Cleopatra" preems two more Latin American dates next month when it opens Nov. 6 at the Metropolitan Theatre, San Juan, and Nov. 12 at the Windsor Theatre, Santiago, Chile.

Pic already is playing in Rio de Janeiro, Sao Paulo, Caracas, Buenos Aires and Quito.

Enthuse You Must And Seymour Poe Does In Tokyo

By DAVE JAMPEL

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

While 20th-Fox settled for less than the stratospheric terms it sought for "Cleopatra" roadshowing in Japan's key cities, deals set up during exec veep Seymour Poe's recent visit were for guaranteed earnings and playing times previously unapproached here.

Toho outbid rival Shochiku for "Cleo" in Tokyo and Osaka. Pacts were made with indie houses in Nagoya and Sapporo. Deal for Fukuoka is still to be finalized.

"Cleo" will open here around Dec. 5 at the Yuraku-za, which will rope off the first five rows and seat 1,440 for the Todd-AO 70m picture. In revealing conclusion of negotiations to the press, Toho foreign film exhib chief Masao Kaneko said "Cleo" will run at the theatre for at least a year and that targeted receipts for the period are $1,389,000. He noted that one reason for resistance to 20th-Fox' stiff demands was fear of ramifications by Japanese exhibs in future dealings for blockbusters.

Guaranteed playing time for 52 weeks at Yuraku-za would far exceed previous record run at the

(Continued on page 20)

Patman, Striking At U.S. Treasury, Cites Baird Bloc of Foundations As 'Factoring' Theatre & TV Pix

Washington, Oct. 22.

Texas Democrat Wright Patman of the House of Representatives in an attack upon what he terms "the splendidly ineffective supervision" of the U.S. Treasury over supposedly charitable foundations has focused his attack upon Wall Street operator David Baird. Latter controls four foundations named, respectively, for himself, Josephine Baird, Winfield Baird and the Lansing Foundation. Patman charges that these foundations, though enjoying tax exemption in the name of charity, have been buying and selling commercial paper on an extensive scale. Some of this activity has been with promoters and producers of theatrical film and television productions.

(Essence of Patman's allegations is that managers of various tax-exempt foundations have been loaning capital funds to business friends.—Ed)

Patman's campaign seems to be against the Treasury, and especially the Internal Revenue Bureau, and not specifically against the showmen involved. His charge is that the profits accruing to the foundations result from speculation in amusement enterprises. While not confined to entertainment enterprisers the Baird Foundations, under claimed control of one man, have, says the Congressman, trafficked in promotions of some 50 individuals and corporations. Patman submits his data as proof that the Treasury has adopted an "arrogantly ignorant" pose of not adequately auditing Foundation statements to discover improper commercial buying and selling masked as charitable funds administration. It gives stress to a charged profit of $500,000 made for the Foundation by Floyd Odlum first selling, then re-purchasing, Walt Disney shares.

Patman's spotlight also falls upon the Boston banker, Serge Semenenko, who made a large-scale purchase of Warner Bros. shares. This was possible through Baird financing, says Patman, and thereby Semenenko was, for a time, the second largest WB stockholder, thanks to an outlay by a charitable Foundation.

Patman's charges of irregularities go back to 1951. The facts he gives constitute, he says, "a basis for the conclusian that the foundations have not operated exclusively for charitable purposes."

Patman disclosures may come belatedly as the Baird Foundations are reported as in dissolution. Two have already become extinct and the other two are being distributed, that is, their assets going to other charitable organizations. Assets of perhaps $35,000,000 are estimated, but unconfirmable.

The Semenenko buy of WB stock amounted to $6,500,000. Other names familiar to show business cited by the Congressman as benefiting from Baird Foundation aid are several Mathew Fox-promoted corporations, to wit, C & C International, C & C Panatlantic, C & C Television, Flamingo. Reference is made by Patman to a 1960 loan of $20,000 to Broadway restaurateur Toots Shor.

Patman has been on the trail of foundations for some time. He charges a failure of field audits by the U.S. Treasury in 433 foundations of some 546 which he, Patman, has thus far looked into.

Details are lacking as to many of the transactions disclosed by Patman. A partial-only listing of companies and persons with financial transactions through the Baird cluster of foundations includes these:

Benedict Bogardus Productions, Carmen Productions, Chesepeake

(Continued on page 16)

See the best of Europe...

and a movie on the way... when you fly TWA

Only TWA gives you the convenience of one-airline service from 70 U.S. cities to London, Paris, Rome, Milan, Lisbon, Athens and many more choice cities abroad. Non-stop from New York, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Movies on most flights for all passengers—First Class or Economy*. Call your nearest Trans World Airlines office, or your travel agent.

*Nominal charge in Economy.

INFLIGHT MOTION PICTURES

Nationwide Worldwide depend on TWA

Geo. Sidney Showmaneers Oscarcast Next April

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

George Sidney, president of Directors Guild of America and member of board of governors of Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences, 1953-57, will produce 36th annual academy awards presentations. Marks first time he's undertaken chore, he'll be in charge of all details of production of Oscar show next April 13.

Arthur Freed, now Academy's president, produced for past four years.

Technicolor Surge On New Prospect

Technicolor common shares on the American Stock Exchange hit a new high of $22 last week. It has soared from a low earlier this year of $8.62½. Widely traded, the Techni issues had a total of 170,000 shares exchanging hands last week and was rated one of the top commodities listed last week.

The reason: Techni had been seriously in the red last year; is now comfortably in the black.

Technicolor Inc., and its diversified subsidiaries boosted earnings 463.53% for first nine months of 1963 over corresponding period last year. Net take of $2,444,911 was equal to 91c per share on 2,688,071 common shares outstanding, against last year's $433,850 net, or 16c per share on 2,640,478 shares.

Chairman Patrick Frawley, in disclosing the nine-month report, declared the consolidated sales for first three quarters of 1963 totalled $57,495,448, compared with $42,689,527 for similar period last year, repping a 35% increase in sales. Consolidated sales and earnings for the current nine-month span and for similar period in 1962 do not include sales and undistributed income of foreign affiliates.

Frawley added that the boost in sales and earnings reflected the continued improvement in overall company operations.

PARAMOUNT LIBRARY (200) A TRADE ISSUE

Focal point of so much conjecture is the Paramount library of back number features as pertaining to television licensing.

Par has 200 titles available and this company itself is undecided of what to do. The tax angles are a main consideration.

And numerous syndicates have been formed—all looking to profer an agreeable deal. Par has been saying "no." So far. But Wall Streeters are convinced that some kind of agreement will soon be forthcoming.

The word from a Par official, as of this week: "Nothing is firm; we may turn to any one of many directions."

L.A. to N.Y.

Martin Abramson
Will Ahern
Edward Albert
Nancy Ames
Samuel Z. Arkoff
Leon P. Blender
Geraldine Brooks
Dom Cerulli
Irving Cooper
Joe De Santis
Angie Dickinson
L. Wolfe Gilbert
John Hopkins
Jane Johnston
Boris Karloff
Laurie Main
David J. Melamed
Milton I. Moritz
James H. Nicholson
Milton R. Rackmil
Mel Shayne
Mort Sidley
Bill Smith
Herb Steinberg
Mike Stern
Marlo Thomas
Johnny Tillotson
Bobby Vinton

U.S. to Europe

Marvin Cane
Irving Chezar
Don D. Davis
Sergio Franchi
Marcia Hale
Irving Hoffman
Leo Lerman
Herb Moelis
Sig Sakowicz

National Boxoffice Survey

Warm Weather Hits Trade; 'Cleo' First, 'West' Second, 'V.I.P.s' 3d, 'New Love' 4th, 'Leopard' 5th

Prevalence of Indian Summer weather in many sections of the country continues to put a crimp in film biz in key cities covered by VARIETY this round. Rain plus cooler weather in certain midwest cities proved helpful at wickets.

"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk) returned to No. 1 spot this week, by dint of some consistently big grosses in a majority of keys where playing. It had dipped to second position for a couple of weeks. "How West Was Won" (MGM) (4th wk), another hardticketer, moved up to second spot crowding out "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk).

"V.I.P.s" was an easy third-place winner after having been on top for three weeks in a row. "New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk) wound up fourth, same as a week ago.

"The Leopard" (20th) (10th wk) is soaring to fifth position as compared with 10th place last round. "Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk) is finishing sixth.

"Lilies of Field," also from United Artists and also out in second week, is capturing seventh spot. "Irma La Douce" (UA) (20th wk) is winding up eighth though out in circulation for more than four months.

"Rampage" (WB) (3d wk) is taking ninth place, same spot as a week ago. "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) is capturing 10th position.

"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (41st wk) is finishing 11th while "Running Man" (Col) (2d wk), rounds out the Top 12 pix. "8½" (Embassy), "In French Style" (Col), comparatively new; and "Lord of Flies" (Cont) are the runnerup productions.

"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) shapes as one of the promising new pix. It is smooth in Washington, hep in N.Y., fine in Cleveland and fatso in L.A. "Sporting Life" (Cont) still looms good in four keys.

"Stranger Knocks" (T-L) looks boffo in L.A. "Mondo Cane" (Times), good in Cleveland, shapes torrid in Toronto.

"Twilight of Honor" (MGM), another newie, looms uneven, being slow in K.C., hep in Chi and okay in Denver. "Tom Jones" (UA) still is amazing on its initial run in N.Y., second week topping the opening stanza's record mark.

"Johnny Cool" (UA), okay in Denver, looms mild in K.C. "Wives and Lovers" (Par), big in Minneapolis, shapes stout in L.A. and okay in Buffalo.

Note: The number of weeks out in release for bigger and longrun pix are designated in such cases.

(Complete Boxoffice Reports on Pages 8-9-10).

Grips Local 52 May Merge With 340 Over Issue of Service To Myerberg

Merger has been discussed by two International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees studio mechanics locals in the east. Involved is the powerful New York Local 52 and the Nassau Local 340.

Latter local acquired prominance with opening of Michael Myerberg's Long Island Studios at Roosevelt Field, L.I. This plant is within the jurisdiction of 340 whose men have already worked on two features, "Lilith" and the presently-lensing "World of Henry Orient." In the case of "Orient," however, there were problems and 52 eventually was brought in, working alongside members of 340 not well versed on theatrical feature production, having worked mostly on video commercials in the past.

The two locals didn't exactly labor in harmony when they first combined for "Orient" Gotham location work. After continued production delays in the studio, however, producer Jerry Hellman went to the IA and obtained the concession that 52 be allowed to work on L.I. with 340. The latter objected strenuously but 52 was eventually permitted to go out and help.

These arrangements for mutual work from both 52 and 340 only apply to the making of "Orient" in that they were worked out by Hellman and not by Myerberg, whose studio faces a practical need to overcome producer resistance to any plant caught in jurisdictional strife and particularly a "slow pace." Both locals also recognize advantages from an entente cordiale.

Allied Artists Prospects; In Same Week Dreary Tale Told, Stock Takes Rise

Allied Artists stock rose by degrees last week, despite the company's dismal financial statement issued early in the same week. By the frame's end, the stock had risen to an even three from a two and fractions standing before the fiscal statement was issued.

Some 6,000 shares were traded last Thursday (17) and 2,400 the following day. Feeling in the trade is that this action was due to the prospects projected by the company for the coming term, particularly the first quarter in which earnings are expected to show on the plus side. Income from Sam Bronston's "55 Days at Peking" will begin to register during the first quarter and tv income is expected to contribute to a winning term.

Another factor mentioned is that, despite the general fiscal shape of the company last year, AA stock is still considered underpriced. This enables buying for gain when things look promising at what some consider cheap risks, although the margin of gain is not seen as developing too strongly at present.

Allied posted a $2,747,549 net loss for fiscal 1963. Prospects were listed by prez Steve Broidy as sound for the coming year what with "55 Days" income and some new product being readied for release in fiscal '64 such as "Soldier In the Rain" and "The Thin Red Line."

N.Y. to L.A.

Derek Glynne
Mitchell Kowal
Sol A. Schwartz
Glenn Shaw

Europe to U. S.

Julie Andrews
Stuart Allen
Jim Backus
Ivor David Balding
Rudolf Bershai
Bernard Delfont
John Gielgud
Mrs. Harry E. Gould
David Graham
Philip Hindin
Leonard Lightstone
Moscow Chamber Orch.
Seymour Poe
Martin Ransohoff
Alain Resnais
Joseph Verner Reed
Nina Savo

Lippert's London Link

London, Oct. 22.

Robert L. Lippert, whose Hollywood-based Associated Producers Inc. releases through 20th-Fox, has just formed a new British company, Lippert Films Ltd., also for the production of pix for 20th worldwide release.

First production under the British banner, now filming here, is "The Horror of It All," starring Pat Boone, Erica Rogers and Dennis Price.

The Finest Address In London

May Fair Hotel

BERKELEY SQUARE, LONDON, W.1.

Res.: Cable Collect—Mayfairtel, London or Your Travel Agent

TO ALLIED TV STILL THE HEAVY

'As Today's Film Mart Breaks Down, Only Super, Theme or Stunt Stuff Can Draw Choosy'—Dave Picker

There's no room in the picture biz of the 1960s for peripheral product which film companies have been turning out for years, in the opinion of United Artists v.p. David Picker. These marginal entries, features which have nothing really to say or which have no solid exploitation basis just don't fit the market any more, what with television distractions and changing exhibition patterns.

Basically, there are only three types of pix which can make it today, in Picker's opinion. These are (a) exploitation, (b) idea and (c) major productions. This thinking has effected UA production planning and is also on the minds of other company's execs. It is, in fact, having greater acceptance as times goes by. Those companies left with a large portion of their releasing sked made up of features without a very solid footing are in for increased problems as time passes. UA has taken note of this in its production sked both present and future and so have others.

There has been considerable palaver about there being an increasingly-selective market. People, it has been reasoned, now go to pix by definite decision and choose what they will attend carefully. The drop-in biz has virtually vanished along with the family "movie night." Drive-ins are about the only ones left that still pick up side biz but that's because they have other things going for them —as any red-blooded youngster will attest.

In any case, the three major picture markets open today are those which dig the exploitation pix, those who go for the think pix and, perhaps the broadest, those who go for the major productions. In the case of the idea and art films, the growing number of houses around the country which cater to this audience demonstrate its growth. The major production has, of course, become both an asset and liability in recent production history but is a major factor. Exploitation pix will always find a groove.

The question marks begin to come into play when one gets into the area of so-called "women's pictures" or other grey areas. Of course, the kiddie market is a solid one and one which continues to hold. But the middle-scale comedies, many of the so-called "teenage pictures" and the like can be and have been a problem. There is an awful lot of this periphery on display via the tube for free every night and the picture b.o. isn't getting the coin when it tries to buck this.

Picker's three-market credo has already reflected itself in some of the action at UA. The company is issuing an average of one picture per month this year as opposed to two and three a month as it did in the past. There have been unsuccessful pix in the process, but the theory has proved a very strong one in recent months with the likes of "Irma La Douce," "The Great Escape," "Tom Jones," "Lilies of the Field" and others coming nicely into play for the company.

Upcoming this year is "McLintock," which fits the pattern and "Mad World," also figuring in. Then there's "Kings of the Sun" and one or two others. It's a selective pattern designed to cater to the selectivity of the audience and is the only scheme to follow in today's picture biz in the exec's opinion.

Columbus Stand Relights

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.

Frank Yassenoff has reopened the New Main, East Side house, after a summer closing for renovation. First attraction was the Burt Lancaster feature, "The Leopard." Other bookings include "Of Love and Desire," "Marilyn" and "Take Her, She's Mine."

New Main previously was leased to Charles Sugarman.

Ohio Exhibs' Agenda

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.

Trade practices will be the topic of one complete session of the state convention of Independent Theatre Owners of Ohio at Deshler-Hilton here Nov. 13-14, per Ken Prickett, executive secretary. Other sessions will cover merchandising including kiddie shows, special repeats of classic films, selling today's product and 16 mm competition.

Prickett asked exhibitors who have any ideas for convention or wish to have special topics discussed to contact him.

Allied's Manual On How-To-Do-It

Allied States Assn., currently in the midst of its 34th annual convention at the Americana Hotel, N.Y., has prepared an elaborate merchandising manual which is being distributed to the delegates at the conclave and will be made available, gratis, to over 5,000 Allied member theatres around the nation.

Contained in the 128-page, 9"x12" book are various merchandising ideas and sales promotions aimed at making theatre operations more profitable. There are also seven feature articles and separate sections on public relations, merchandising, market research, group sales, exploitation, promotion, kiddie shows, PTA series, student activities, vending, drive-ins and small town drives.

As part of the public relations portions, designed to give a general over-all boost to the picture industry image, the manual offers basic speeches for theatremen to give before groups like the Lions, Kiwanis, Rotary, American Legion, church groups, civic organizations and such. Some of these talks are also aimed at combatting local agitation for classification and/or censorship.

It's not the first time that this or other organizations have come up with similar books but this one is very complete in its detailing of its points and is a solid contribution to that general upbeat pictures biz effort that everyone's always talking about but few do much about.

Problem of a Shootable Script of 'Fanny Hill'; 200-Years Bestseller

"Fanny Hill," erotic 18th Century novel which has been an under-the-counter bestseller for about 200 years, is headed for the screen. New York indie producer David Bader is currently prepping a film adaptation which he plans to shoot in England at the end of this year.

Bader, exec veep of Eldorado Films, which heretofore has been interested only in the acquisition of foreign films for the U.S. market, leaves for Londoon Friday (25) to seek British production partners. At the moment he refers to the writer doing the screen treatment only as "Mr. X," since he's not sure that the current treatment, expected to be ready "in a couple of weeks," will be acceptable. No director or cast is set.

"Fanny Hill," subtitled "Memoirs of A Woman of Pleasure," has just recently become available—legally—in both hardback and paperback editions. Earlier this year, it was condensed in an issue of Eros magazine.

SNAPER PROPOSES POOL FOR 'POWER'

By EDDIE KALISH

The familiar chant of Allied States conventions—"How Can We Stop Being Pushed Around When Buying Product?" was sounded Tuesday morning (22) by the former national president and Jersey leader, Wilbur Snaper. He advocated pooling to buy the big releases. Idea: Allied members would gain bargaining power of up to $2,500,000 in rentals if acting in unison. "They couldn't strangle us one by one then" was his general thought.

Keynoting the 34th annual convention of Allied States Assn. yesterday (Tues.) at the Americana Hotel, N.Y., the exhibitor organization's board chairman Marshall H. Fine called for exhibs to stop wrangling over small points and address themselves vigorously to the main problems of today, principally competition from films shown on television and the bunched-up releasing patterns followed by many distribs.

He also listed other troubles facing exhibs, such as forced zoning and bidding, 16m competition, "unfair" competition from army bases and the like, censorship and other matters. He additionally addressed himself to the possibility of forming one major exhib organization instead of the two which now exist —Allied and Theatre Owners of America.

Fine cited statistics recently reported which revealed that around 500 new theatres would be opened within the next year or so, at a total cost of over $300,000,000. "Such a fact categorically confirms to the public as a whole, and to the entertainment industry in particular, the very definite realization that the era of prosperity for the motion picture business long forecast by Allied and other industry leaders is now actually making its appearance," he said.

Not In The Skull

With this in mind, the chairman called for exhibs to bury the hatchet with distribution on the minor points and go after the major trouble spots. He advocated "a little less hollering about picture terms for a while and let's instead give a little more thought to those constant problems which should be solved more quickly. Let us first attempt to solve those annoyances which can be listed readily and specifically, the solution of which will bring a great betterment for all of exhibition," Fine proclaimed.

The main problem in his eyes is pix shown on tv, particularly in prime time. Noting that obviously what has been made can't be stopped from getting on the air Fine asked that every exhib do his part to prevent those pictures now being made from being shown on tv very shortly after their appearance in his theatre. He called for theatremen to demand clearance and campaign both locally and nationally for support in such an effort "to let every producing and distributing organization know that he (the exhib) must be protected in his contract with some amount of clearance over tv showings before he will play any specific forthcoming picture."

'Bunched' Releases

Fine also urged a strong national campaign, carrying even into the stockholders meetings of the companies themselves, to effect an orderly releasing pattern on the part of the major distributors. Right now, he pointed out, there are nine pix slated for release at Christmas time. Only four, or at tops five, can play the holiday season in a given area, in many cases only three or two, he opined, and chided distribution for alleged shortsightedness in this. He said that they would be better served, and indeed the industry as a whole would, if some of these pix went into the "slack" period of October instead.

He continued that some of these nine pix would probably be better off this way and would then be timed for hefty subrun playoff during the holiday period. The chairman asked for a "deluge" of

(Continued on page 21)

Allied Part of Affluent Society; 700 Delegates at 34th Annual; Organizationally Still Has Gaps

As a probably record number of registrants were arriving at the Americana Hotel, N. Y., last Monday (21) for the 34th annual convention of Allied States Assn., the exhibitor organization's board of directors met and re-elected its nine incumbent officers and added a tenth.

New officer is William M. Wetsman who became the outfit's fourth vice prez. A partner in the Wisper-Wetsman circuit of Detroit and a former Chief Barker of the motor city's Variety Tent #5, he is a member of the 1963 convention committee and will be chairman of next year's event. It was revealed that the 1964 Allied conclave will be in Detroit, Oct. 19-22. Accompanying this convention will be an industry trade show.

No other business was transacted at the board meeting except a hearing of the recommendations of the finance committee and approval of the 1964 budget, the amount of which isn't revealed. Actually, the Allied board held a long formal session in Chicago early last September. The election of officers was a formality called for in the Allied constitution. The board itself is elected regionally.

In excess of 700 delegates and wives are expected to be registered at the convention, building to an anticipated 1,000 for the closing banquet tomorrow (Thurs.). High attendance is attributed by exec director Milton H. London of Detroit to a growth in Allied membership in recent years. He pointed out that there has been a steady rise in regional convention attendance as well.

Allied officers re-elected are: Jack Armstrong, prez; Marshall H. Fine, board chairman; Ben Marcus, exec committee chairman; London, exec director; George Stern, James L. Whittle and Harrison D. Wolcott, veeps; Edward E. Johnson, secretary and Harry B. Hendel, treasurer.

Still Regional Gaps

London reported that there are still several areas around the country where there aren't present Allied units. He also noted that a few are in the process of being formed but that there is no information available on these projected outfits as yet. It is the organization's aim to increase the units more than the membership, London stated, because it is in these that Allied's strength really lies.

The possibility of a merger with Theatre Owners of America, which Fine covered in his keynote address which was published prior to the convention, was said by London to have several points at issue and that nothing was seen for the present. The advisability and desireability are still being explored, along with these differences, he pointed out.

Levine the Sociologist

Brought on by Harry Brandt's trumpet fanfare, Joe Levine starring at his own luncheon at Hotel Americana yesterday (Tues.) told Allied States of two more Embassy-financed feature films to come:

(1) "A House Is Not a Home," the social science study by the late Polly Adler. Script by Russell Rouse-Clarence Green. Rolls in January.

(2) Susan Hayward in "When Love Is Gone." No details beyond star and vehicle set. It's by Harold Robbins.

Spain Craves Rise In Ticket Prices

Madrid, Oct. 22.

Producers and distributors have joined with exhibs in submitting an official request through the Sindicato Nacional Espectaculo to the Director General of Cinema, requesting elimination of a 7-year old ceiling on the price of admissions.

While lauding government film authorities for many practical moves in the past year to alleviate industry difficulties, the Sindicato appeal pointed out that during the seven years price scales have been frozen, operating expenses in all three branches has more than doubled and that it is no longer possible to continue operations at a profit without an upward adjustment.

In support of their request, industry leaders also point out that during this same period, motion picture attendance has suffered a sharp decrease in Spain as it has in almost all other countries and that only an increase in the box office could offset major hardships for all.

Make With The Culture; Ray Vonderhaar's Counsel To No. Central Allied

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

"Get a little culture," is the advice of North Central Allied prez Ray Vonderhaar to smalltown exhibs as a way of combatting present woes. In a recent bulletin to NCA members, the exhib stressed that local theatremen can improve conditions for themselves substantially to tieing in with what he considers to be a current cultural rage.

This represents a switch in tactics for an exhib group, most of which are usually busy rapping the distributors as the culprits in the tough situation many rural exhibs find themselves today. It is Vonderhaar's position that the exhibs themselves can do more in a creative way to help themselves and this is a turnabout from the militant anti-distrib position often spouted by NCA board chairman Bennie Berger.

Vonderhaar put forth several suggestions in the NCA bulletin as to ways exhibs can "culturalize" their operations. These include the proposal that theatremen stage occasional lectures in their theatres, present concert artists and legit performers, stimulate "little the-

(Continued on page 71)

SW's 30c Divvy

Stanley Warner board of directors yesterday (Tues.) declared a dividend of 30c per share of common stock.

Divvy is payable Nov. 25 to holders of record Nov. 8.

Golden Glow For Liz-Dick Pairing

Cinematic mating of Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton has proved a delight at Metro. The picture in which the costarred following 20th-Fox's "Cleopatra" has proven itself the most successful on the MGM ledger for this year.

Said picture is Anatole de Grunwald's production of "V.I.P.s" De Grunwald brought it in at a negative cost of $3,200,000 or thereabout. On the basis of the dates played so far domestically and foreign, the rentals accruing to MGM will be at least $10,000,000. And this might go to $12,000,000, depending on the outcome of subsequent bookings.

For de Grunwald and MGM this is strictly klondikesville.

Captain Newman, M.D.
(COLOR)

Sugarcoated army hospital drama. Doses of comedy and sentiment should broaden b.o. range, but tend to dilute overall dramatic impact. Still, pic looms as solid moneymaker.

Hollywood, Oct. 15.

Universal release of Robert Arthur production. Stars Gregory Peck, Tony Curtis; features Angie Dickinson, Bobby Darin. Directed by David Miller. Screenplay, Richard L. Breen, Phoebe and Henry Ephron, from Leo Rosten's novel; camera (Eastman), Russell Metty; editor, Alma Macrorie; music, Frank Skinner; assistant director, Phil Bowles. Reviewed at Hollywood Paramount Theatre, Oct. 15, '63. Running time, 126 MINS.

Capt. Josiah Newman ... Gregory Peck
Corp. Jackson Laibowitz ... Tony Curtis
Lt. Francie Corum ... Angie Dickinson
Col. Bliss ... Eddie Albert
Col. Pyser ... James Gregory
Helene Winston ... Bethel Leslie
Capt. Winston ... Robert Duvall
Lt. Grace Blodgett ... Jane Withers
Lt. Anderson ... Dick Sargent
Gavoni ... Larry Storch
Lt. Col. Larrabee ... Robert F. Simon
Sgt. Kopp ... Syl Lamont
Werbel ... Paul Carr
Maj. Alfredo Fortuno ... Vito Scotti
Maj. Gen. Snowden ... Crahan Denton
Capt. Howard ... Gregory Walcott
Gorkow ... Charles Briggs
Cpt. Tomkins ... Bobby Darin

Universal has a potent boxoffice contender in "Captain Newman, M.D." The Robert Arthur production is certain to be popular with the filmgoer who seeks escape and diversion. More discerning audiences, however, may be less receptive to the picture's glamorized eye-view of heroics at an army base hospital in 1944.

"Captain Newman, M.D." oscillates between scenes of great dramatic impact and somewhat strained and contrived comedy of the "heartwarming" variety. Thus, what might have been a provocatively realistic dramatization of a dedicated psychiatric doctor's attempts to heal the emotional injuries of servicemen scarred by war is reduced to the common denominator of lukewarm popular entertainment. Commercially, the decision appears sound. Yet there is no telling whether the economic results might have been even more impressive had a more honest artistic course been pursued. The foundations were there.

Leo Rosten's novel was the source of the hot-and-cold scenario by Richard L. Breen and Henry Ephron. Hero of the story is Capt. Newman (Gregory Peck), chief of the neuro-psychiatric ward of a wartime army hospital who places his medical obligations above military duty, to the sometimes consternation of his superiors who would prefer to see his patients returned to combat areas at a brisker clip. Newman's treatment of three cases is illustrated. One involves a decorated corporal (Bobby Darin) who believes himself a coward for having deserted a buddy in a burning aircraft. Another concerns a colonel (Eddie Albert) who has gone beserk with a sense of guilt at having sent so many men to their deaths in aerial combat. The third (Robert Duvall) feels shame over having hidden alone in a cellar for over a year in Nazi-occupied territory. In between all of this, Newman gets his kicks in a romance with his nurse (Angie Dickinson) and by observing the antics of his number one orderly (Tony Curtis) a glib, resourceful operator from Jersey City with a streak of Bergen County larceny.

Peck's portrayal of the title figure is characteristically restrained and intelligent. Perhaps his best scene, oddly enough, is the one in which he is quietly but expressively reacting to Darin's high-powered histrionics. It is also the film's most deeply moving passage and, in addition to serving as a boxoffice stimulant via word-of-mouth, may earn for Darin a supporting nomination in the Oscar derby. In it, Darin, under the influence of truth serum, convulsively re-creates the incident for which he brands himself a coward.

Curtis has some good moments, but essentially he is the pivotal figure in the film's secondary comic shenanigans, the portions that, being somewhat contrived and excessively sentimental, subtract from the potential of the whole—for instance, a Christmas party sequence that concludes the picture on a near-maudlin note. Basically, Curtis is playing a kind of Ensign Pulver to Peck's Mister Roberts—in addition to faint overtones of Fred Demara that seep into his characterization.

Miss Dickinson is sweet, sometimes too darned sweet, as the nurse. Russell Metty's inquisitive, never-miss-a-trick lens seizes every opportunity to pick up the Dickinson gam action, which males in the audience won't mind. The hysterical character essayed by Albert doesn' completely add up. Duvall, of "Boo Radley" fame in "Mockingbird," has a role of similar specifications. Bethel Leslie is adequate in the hastily-resolved role of his pride-smitten wife. Jane Withers has come out of retirement to enact the inconsequential part of a nurse—a character that might have some significance on the cutting room floor. Noteworthy comic support is provided by Larry Storch. The rest of the cast performs capably.

Give or take some dubious behavior here and there that could have been sensed and deleted, director David Miller has handled his assignment skillfully. Entertainment is the cardinal aim, and entertainment is what he has executed. The film could still be improved with some judicious trimming, but editor Alma Macrorie has done a nimble job of meshing comic and dramatic elements. Art directors Alexander Golitzen and Alfred Sweeney have mounted a convincing replica of a base hospital, circa 1944. Frank Skinner's musical score is unobtrusively atmospheric. Tube.

Il Successo
(Success)
(ITALO-FRENCH—SONGS)

Rome, Oct. 15.

Titanus release of a Fairfilm (Mario Cecchi Gori)-Incei-Montflour (Paris)-Cinetel (Paris) coproduction. Stars Vittorio Gassmann, Anouk Aimee, Jean Louis Trintignant; features Cristina Gajoni, Filippo Scelzo, Umberto D'Orsi, Grazia Maria Spina, Annie Gorassini, Franca Polesello. Directed by Mauro Morassi. Story and screenplay, Ettore Scola, Ruggero Maccari; comera, Sandro D'Eva; music, Ennio Moricone; editor, Maurizio Lucidi. At Metropolitan, Rome. Running time, 105 MINS.

Giulio Ceriani ... Vittorio Gassmann
Laura ... Anouk Aimee
Seergio ... Jean Louis Trintignant
Diana ... Grazia Maria Spina
Francesco ... Filippo Scelzo
Marisa ... Annie Gorassini
Carla ... Franca Polesiello

Neat followup to last season's sleeper, "Il Sorpasso," with another effective performance by Vittorio Gassmann and a resultingly high commercial rating in this country. Lacks strength in depth for widespread export impact, but could fare okay in certain foreign areas.

A bitter commentary on certain ruthless climbers behind the recent Italo economic boom, "Successo" deals mainly with the relentless pursuit of money on the part of the "hero," money with which to finance a real estate speculation. To eventually bring this off, Giulio (Vittorio Gassmann) debases himself more and more in growing compromises with friends and even his wife. When he eventually succeeds in bringing off his coup, he finds himself a rich but lonely man.

Gassmann is by now unerring in playing the likeable heel (though here the accent is more on his unlikeable aspects), and it's his picture all the way. Anouk Aimee and Jean Louis Trintignant ably fill their sideline roles as wife and friend, respectively. Grazia Maria Spina is good as Trintignant's girl while Cristina Gajoni gives an amusing portrait of a demanding maid. Film has an impressive array of supporting players, all of them contributing strongly to general impact, especially Umberto D'Orsi, as a friend whose money Gassmann needs and to whom he kowtows.

Pic might have been more commercial if the main character (as in preceding "Sorpasso") had been given some human tendencies. Also more critically trenchant had it not been spiced up with four-letter gags at too many strategic points. But these comments are relative, and film's local success is assured.

Soundtrack is similarly flashy, with Ennio Moricone assembling a likeable array of current pop songs, as is Sandro D'Eva's lensing, mostly on modern Roman settings mirroring the film's "success" story. Other credits good. Hawk.

The Old Dark House

Comic approach to suspense chiller. Doesn't come off.

Hollywood, Oct. 14.

Columbia Pictures release of William Castle production. Stars Tom Poston, Robert Morley, Janette Scott, Joyce Grenfell. Directed by Castle. Screenplay, Robert Dillon, based on novel by J. B. Priestley; camera, Arthur Grant; editor, James Needs; music, Benjamin Frankel; assistant director, Douglas Hermes. Reviewed at the studio, Oct. 14, '63. Running time, 86 MINS.

Tom Penderel ... Tom Poston
Roderick Femm ... Robert Morley
Cecily ... Janette Scott
Agatha Femm ... Joyce Grenfell
Casper Femm, Jasper Femm ... Peter Bull
Potiphar ... Marvyn Johns
Morgana ... Fanella Fielding
Morgan Femm ... Danny Green

An attempt to approach a spooky suspense melodrama in a humorous vain, "The Old Dark House" succeeds only in neutralizing itself and emerges neither a satisfactory horror entry nor a sufficiently amusing spoof. A capable cast has been assembled for the Anglo-American coproduction, but even such seasoned comedy talents as Tom Poston, Robert Morley and Joyce Grenfell are hard-pressed to deliver scattered moments of mirth out of the uninspired material provided them. The Columbia release, produced and directed by William Castle, one of Hollywood's top chiller picturemakers, in association with Hammer Films, England's leading horror film firm, might generate some mild wicket response as half of a horror exploitation package.

Originally done as a straight shocker back in 1932, the new kidding version was scripted by Robert Dillon from a novel by J. B. Priestley. Poston essays the pivotal role of a Yankee car salesman in London who delivers an auto to a purchaser who resides in a spooky, secluded mansion and become embroiled in a series of fatal mishaps to members of the family residing in that establishment in order that they may share a legacy. The murders are the result of the greed of one of these individuals and, as usual, it turns out to be the least likely of the lot.

Poston is a likable leading man with sound instincts for comic reaction. Morley, for the most part, is hemmed in by Dillon's scenario, which is weak in the area of character development and takes matters for granted that need proper explanation, comedy or no. Miss Grenfell draws the funniest business as an eccentric dowager who knits non-stop by the mile with no material aim in mind. Janette Scott and Fenella Fielding share the romantic spotlight opposite Poston, the former deceptively demure, the latter a sexy-voiced siren. Peter Bull, Mervyn Johns and Danny Green round out the cast as assorted screwballs.

Adequately directed by Castle, the production, filmed in England, sports capable contributions from cameraman Arthur Grant, editor James Needs, composer Benjamin Frankel, soundman Jock May, special effects man Les Bowie and production designer Bernard Robinson. The ghoulish title backgrounds were drawn by cartoonist Charles Addams. Tube.

Maniac
(MEGASCOPE)

Rape, torch murder and insane asylum. Poor outlook.

Hollywood, Oct. 16.

Columbia Pictures release of Jimmy Sangster production, screenplay by Sangster. Stars Kerwin Mathews, Nadia Gray; features Donald Houston, Liliane Brousse. Directed by Michael Carreras. Camera, Wilkie Cooper; editor, Tom Simpson; music, Stanley Black; Asst. director, Ross MacKenzie. Reviewed at the studio, Oct. 16, '63. Running time, 87 MINS.

Geoff Farrell ... Kerwin Mathews
Eve Beynat ... Nadia Gray
Georges Beynat ... Donald Houston
Annette Beynat ... Liliane Brousse
Inspector Etienne ... George Pastell
Janiello ... Arnold Diamond
Salon (Gendarme) ... Norman Bird
Grace ... Justine Lord
Giles ... Jerold Wells

An incredibly confusing and unappealing melodrama, "Maniac's" market value, even as half of an exploitation package, is dubious, although title might help. The Columbia release, a product of England's ordinarily reliable Hammer Films, was written and produced by Jimmy Sangster.

First off, a teenaged girl is raped. Her father corners the culprit, hauls him off to the shed and destroys him with an oxy-acetylene torch, for which he is sent to the looney bin. (Makings of a nice "family" film, right?) In his absence, a wandering American takes up first with his daughter, then with her stepmother who, in her visits to the insane asylum, has taken a liking to her husband's guard. Still with us? The stepmother persuades the American to aid in the escape of her husband so that they will be free to wed. The fool American agrees to this. After the escape, he finds a body in the trunk of the car. He thinks it's the guard, but actually it's the husband. Pretty soon the American is on the wrong end of the oxy-acetylene torch. At this point, the plot begins to get complicated. When the dust clears, the guard is dead, the stepmother is prison-bound, the American is holding hands with the daughter.

Michael Carreras directed, although there's not much evidence of it. Tube.

La Derive
(The Drifting)
(FRENCH)

Paris, Oct. 22.

Productions Cinematographiques Du Languedoc production and release. With Jacqueline Vandal, Paulette Dubost, Monique Bonafous, Noelle Noblecourt, Anne-Marie Coffinet, Pierre Barouh, Jean-Loup Reynold, Jean-Francois Calve, Lucien Barjon, Nader. Written and directed by Paule Delsol. Camera, Jean Maligne; editor, Agnes Guillemot. Previewed in Paris. Running time, 84 MINS.

Jacquie ... Jacqueline Vandal
Mother ... Paulette Dubost
Sister ... Monique Bonafous
Agathe ... Noelle Noblecourt
Claire ... Anne-Marie Coffinet
Pierre ... Pierre Barouh
Student ... Jean-Loup Reynold
Maurice ... Lucien Barjon
Jean ... Nader
Regis ... Jean-Francois Calve
Marc ... Sourine

Femme film directors have been springing up of late in the European flim industry. Now a woman here, working on her own in southern France, has come up with a penetrating look at a drifting young girl which shows insight and visual intelligence. Pic pinpoints her sentimental life plus an ability to display character without too much talk.

There is no sensationalism or peeping-tomism here, though the pic is mainly concerned with the tribulations of a pretty girl of 20 with men of various ages and types. She begins to drift when a guitarist, with whom she had run off two years ago, leaves her on a train. She had left her home in a small town for him. She gets off the train and has a brief sexual run-in with a student. Then she hitchhikes home where an adoring mother welcomes her to the grudging antagonism of a sister, not happy with her ordinary married life.

Then the girl's further affairs are deftly etched in. There is an aging rich man with an alcoholic wife who keeps her in a big house. But she is not content and also has a local suitor. He is a simple, ordinary type who has no ambition which has her not wanting to accept him.

It all ends with her meeting a non-conformist painter and deciding to live with him even though his attitude towards women hints it will be a short-lived affair.

There is no preaching in this pic. Director Paule Delsol is content to leave all this up to the viewer. She depicts the girl's mainly inarticulate outlook in her affairs with clarity.

The feminine ability to show things in their wholeness, without trying to enforce a crusading point of view, is helpful in getting to the core of the theme. Here is a girl's way of life in the conditions she finds today. That is it.

Simple structure of the film makes it primarily an arty house item abroad, and it will need the hardsell. But it has incisiveness that could give it a boost from critics and word-of-mouth.

And, if made outside of Paris, it is technically fine with solid imagery, helped by its on-the-spot lensing and neat tally of professional and non-pro acting talents. Jacqueline Vandal has the prettiness and dramatic presence to lend the girl a sharp authenticity. Others are also well cast. Miss Delsol emerges a definite new directorial talent.

This looms as one of the most forthright pix about French youth (feminine variety) to come out of France since the New Wave movement a few years back.

A deceptively simple pic that will need careful handling. It may be worth it. Mosk.

A Toi De Faire Mignonne
(You Do It Cutie)
(FRENCH)

Paris, Oct. 22.

Prodis release of CICC Films Borderie-Euro International production. Stars Eddie Constantine; features Gaia Germani, Christiane Minazzoli, Elga Andersen, Philippe Lemaire, Noel Roquevert. Directed by Bernard Borderie. Screenplay, Marc-Gilbert Sauvajon, Borderie from a book by Peter Cheyney; camera, Henri Persin; editor, Christian Gaudin. At Marbeuf, Paris. Running time, 100 MINS.

Lemmy ... Eddie Constantine
Valerie ... Elga Andersen
Carletta ... Christiane Minazzoli
Geraldine ... Gaia Germani
Grant ... Philippe Leamire
Walker ... Noel Roquevert

Eddie Constantine is again the hard drinking two-fisted FBI man who unravels a foreign mystery about a gang trying to extort money via holding a scientist with atomic secrets. He also meets plenty of available slinky girls along the way. This one has a bit more knowhow in fight stagings and some tongue-in cheek gags. But it still seems limited to lower case dualer use abroad.

Constantine, a Yank who became a star here, walks through his role with his usual charm and side winks at the audience. Abroad it still may have the feel of a gangster pic parody, but it lacks the bright, biting decisiveness of its Yank counterparts. This one becomes a bit repetitive, not helped by its flatfooted dialog or vague scripting.

There is technical assurance plus the usual bevy of scallywags, hoods and conniving femmes. Then there are the spluttering secret service topkicks, both American and foreign, to counterpoint Constantine's unorthodox but persuasive ways of handling the situations.

In short, this should find its audiences in Europe to pay off its probable well-controlled budget, but is sans the more dynamic fillip for more demanding Yank marts on this type of comic underworld pic. Mosk.

Le Chemin De La Mauvaise Route
(The Way of the Wrong Road)
(FRENCH)

Paris, Oct. 15.

La Pleiade release of Sofracima production. Directed by Jean Herman. Stage by Herman; camera, Denys Clerval; editor, Nadine Trintignant; commentary, Jean-Louis Trintignant. At Studio De L'Etoile, Paris. Running time, 58 MINS.

Cinema Truth pic looks at a young delinquent couple and allows them to talk of their lives as well as interspersing their inarticulate meanderings with enacted scenes. A certain ease, sharp editing and elusive truths make this an absorbing item with support ing chances for specialized art house programs abroad because of its length.

The boy is an untutored, vain petty thief while the girl is somewhat more intelligent if socially unstable. They talk of their daily lives, stealing, love, why they do not work, war, etc., with a difficulty of expression that is revealing in its lack of premeditation.

Director Jean Herman intercuts joltingly with rock-and-roll bits, youthful gang fights, the recent Algerian War and the general dreary economic and social life around them. This counterpoints their unaffected talk. Enacting little episodes also seem to spark these two semi-outcasts.

Pic does not preach outright but does infer how these people were formed. It also does not try to say whether they will change or even if they can. Film is more a flashing glimpse of people than a treatise or social tract.

Production is technically good. Here is another in the series of authentic film looks at French society that having a vogue here currently. If they lack the form of art, they have the timeliness of authenticity that give them interest. Pix also contribute insights into new film methods and techpiques that can be absorbed by the fiction film. Mosk.

Metzler's New Duties

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Roy C. Metzler, an employee in 20th-Fox's studio publicity and international departments since 1946, has been appointed manager of industrial relations at the studio.

Metzler, a director of the 20th-Fox credit union, also is currently chairman of the international committee of the Assn. of Motion Picture Producers.

IATSE READS TRADE PAPERS

New York Sound Track

Following the cuts made in "The Small World of Sammy Lee," the Legion of Decency has taken the 7 Arts pic off the condemned list and given it a B-rating (morally objectionable in part for all). "In spite of the moral improvement," says the LOD, background of the film's story continues to be "sordid and suggestive."

"The Leopard," after the windup of its 11-week run at the Plaza, opens Oct. 30 at the Trans-Lux 85th St. and 20 other Golden Showcase houses in the metropolitan area . . . Playbill this week features an article, "Who Gets Billed Over Who and Who Cares," by film publicist and free lance writer Irving Drutman . . . Walter Reade-Sterling stockholders Monday (21) night were invited to a closed screening at the Coronet featuring a special R-S product trailer and a preview of the new British import, "Ladies Who Do."

Argentine director Leopoldo Torre Nilsson and his wife, novelist Beatriz Guido, have returned to Buenos Aires after an extended stay in New York. Still up in the air are his plans to make "The Beautiful Family" for producer Paul Heller in London . . . Trans-Lux Distributing veep Ed Svigals will talk about "the art house in your community" at Alled States convention here today (Wed.).

Producer-director Robert Burgess (Bob) Aldrich's daughter Adell marrying Peter Bravos, L.A. realty man, Nov. 3 in that city. Actor Vincent Edwards standing up for the groom.

Edward Albert, 12-year-old son of Eddie and Margo Albert, in New York for promo work on the Landau Co.'s "The Fool Killer" in which he makes his acting debut . . . Leonida Repaci, top Italian journalist and writer, bows as a film actor in Joe Levine's "Empty Canvas" . . . Walter Shenson's "Mouse on the Moon" opens in 43 new national situations within the next 30 days.

After attending the Theatre Owners of America meet, Washington-based film consultant Nathan Golden heads for the Coast for talks on foreign market problems.

Eugene V. Klein, National General Corp. prez, will address the Theatre Owners of America convention at the Americana Hotel, N. Y., next Monday (28) in the Georgian Ballroom . . . Jim Hutton inked to a non-exclusive, multiple-pic deal with Universal, his first effort for the studio to follow completion of his role in Metro's "Looking For Love" Federico Fellini's "8-1/2" is now the longest-running continuous performance film in Gotham, playing at the Festival and New Embassy Theatres since June 25 . . . Marlin Skilos will compose the score for Allied Artists' "The Strangler," he having done a similar chore for the company's recently-completed "Gunfight at Comanche Creek."

Bob Ferguson, Columbia's ad-pub v.p., COMPO's exec director Charles E. McCarthy and Frederick A. Klein, exec v.p. of McFadden-Bartell Corp. which publishes Photoplay Magazine, all speak before the Allied States Assn. conclave at the Americana Hotel, N. Y., today (Wed.). Nate Halpern, Theatre Network Television prez, will discuss "Theatre of Tomorrow: A Communications Center" tomorrow (Thurs.), the final day of the conclave . . gospel wailer Mahalia Jackson will play herself in a guestint in "Best Man.

Leonard Lightstone, Embassy exec v.p., back in New York from confabs with Italo producer Carlo Ponti in Rome re the Embassy-Ponti coproduced tv series slated to roll shortly . . . Angie Dickinson in Gotham for two weeks of promotional effort on behalf of Universal's "Captain Newman, M.D.". . . doing the reverse bit of picture to novel will be "Kings of the Sun" which will be novelized by Lancer books for December issue, timed to coincide with UA's release of the Mirisch pic.

Harry Stone, the MPEA's man in Rio de Janeiro, and his missus are in the States on annual vacation. After spending some time with his family in Indiana, they'll be in New York for a short stay . . . Film director Ernie Pintoff addresses the National Cartoonists Society today (Wed.) at the Overseas Press Club . . . George Margolin, prez of Continental Motion Pictures, back from Europe.

Boris Karloff in town to tape a special Today show about horror pix. It'll be aired Nov. 8 . . . A Walter Reade-Sterling exec reported proudly: " 'David and Lisa' just played 45 day-date Los Angeles engagements. That's more than some of our pictures used to play in the entire country 10 years ago!"

Producer-director Robert J. Gurney won't be quiet about his picture, "The Prude and The Parisienne." Now he's changed the title. What is it? "The Parisienne and The Prude." Well, he does get space . . . Ultra Pictures prez Budd Rogers says his old Sophia Loren starrer, "Two Night With Cleopatra," is being booked "like wildfire throughout the country." . . And, speaking of "Cleopatra," as 20th's Mike Weinberg does almost continually, six Sears, Roebuck stores in Detroit reportedly have sold a total of $12,168 worth of tickets to the attraction at the United Artists Theatre there.

Writer Philip Dunne, who did the screenplay on 20th's upcoming "Agony and The Ecstacy," arrives in town Sunday (27) to promote his first book, "Mr. Dooley Remembers," written in collaboration with his father, the late Finley Peter Dunne.

Ex-MGM publicist Oscar A. Doob says he "never made less money and never had more fun doing it" with his new NANA weekly column, keyed to the retirement group, which he calls "Joys and Jolts of Retirement".

Mirisch Co. execs back on the Coast after a few days of Gotham huddles with UA brass about current and soon-to-be-released product . . . Jack Glenn, Screen Directors International Guild p.r. director, in New Bedford, Mass., making an industrial film for the Navy . . . Embassy production v.p. Bill Zimmerman back at his Gotham desk after a week of dickers abroad . . . George Maharis to make his film debut starring for John Sturges in "Satan Bug," a Mirisch-UA effort.

Leon Brandt, Lopert Pictures general sales manager, conferring this week with sales reps and fieldmen in the Seattle, Salt Lake City and Denver areas . . . Horst Buchholz vacationing in Swizerland after completing his work costarring with Bette Davis and Catherine Spaak in Joe Levine's "Empty Canvas" in Rome . . . Atlanta-based Wilby-Kincey circuit is making a special pitch to the ladies for "Stolen Hours," attendance via invitational sneaks for women shoppers, select women's clubs and ladies' auxiliaries.

Stanley Kramer and a host of comedian participants in his "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" will be on Jerry Lewis' ABC-TV Saturday night show Nov. 2, the eve of UA's international press preview of the film for 250 press reps from all over the world in Hollywood. Lewis, incidentally, isn't in the pic . . . Constance Towers into Sam Fuller's "The Iron Kiss," she having recently made "Shock Corridor" for him, both AA releases . . . James Lee Barrett set to script "Miss Jude" for producer Alan Brown and Universal, based on a novel by H. DeVere Staopoole and to star John Mills and daughter Hayley. Barrett just completed his original "Fields of Honor" screenplay for U.

"West Side Story" has added two more kudos to its string with the Great Prize San Jorge and the prize for Best Foreign Picture, voted by the pic critics of newspapers, radio and tv in Barcelona, Spain . . . William Alland has been given a third assignment to produce for Universal with the addition of "River Rat," a novel by Dan Lundberg who has also written a screen adaptation, to his sked which already contains "The Lively Set" and "A Rare Breed."

WANTS TO SHARE UA'S INGENUITY

Most revolutionary innovation in metropolitan New York film playoff during the past two years, United Artists' much-reported "Premiere Showcase" plan, continues under sniping action from Local 306, projectionist limb of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes. Latter in drawing a bead on theatres taking the film after the "showcase" cooperative. Such houses and dates should, argues the union, rate as "neighborhood first runs", although the Independent Theatre Owners of America, as spokesman for the exhibitors, asserts that these engagements are clearly "second run".

Implicit in the quarrel is the rate of hourly pay to boothmen. Local 306 is believed to have won a broad victory against houses actually participating in "Premiere Showcase" strategy, involving day-and-date bookings all over the area backed by a common advertising campaign organized by United Artists, as the distributor.

Local 306 has submitted its demands and ITOA has been studying them. There are still major areas of dispute, however, and both sides are digging in for battle local is adamant, a spokesman commenting that should negotiations not work out 306 will "enforce by its own means". This implies a variety of pressure tactics, not the least of which could be a strike of projectionists in the five boroughs of New York and the 150 or so houses involved in the dispute.

So far, a preferential category has been negotiated to cover "premiere showcase" firstruns. This is United Artists' releasing pattern for many of its pix, replacing the old method of first playing Broadway, and/or Broadway and an eastside house. A variation called "Golden Showcase" for "Irma La Douce" and "Great Escape" used a daydate Broadway-eastside engagement first and then went on to a "selected theatre" simultaneous.

Scale Hike

ITOA and 306 have agreed on a $60 scale hike for "premiere showcase" and a $20 boost for "golden showcase." The latter is less because pix involved first had a substantial Broadway-eastside showing before coming to the selected neighborhood multiple debut. Next on 306's agenda has been an attempt to now raise the booth costs for neighborood first runs, or what it considers to be neighborhood firstruns. These are the engagements directly following the "showcase" dates and ITOA says that these are second runs and not neighborhood firsts.

The union has proposed the addition of one man to the booth at the going rate in such followup runs after "showcase." Present scales on the circuits vary from $580 to $640. If the exhibs won't accept this "compromise" increase, the union says it will then fight to force 'em.

Actually, the theatremen's acceptance of an increased "showcase" scale was only a token measure since, in the end, only a few houses were involved. But this latest demand strikes into the heart of local theatre operations with nearly 150 situations concerned.

The union bases its claims on the contention that there has been a "moving up of the runs" in New York and that there must be adjustments accordingly. If "showcase" is firstrun, than what follows is neighborhood firstruns, and so on. Exhibs agreed to grant "showcase" firstrun status but consider it neighborhood firstrun and therefore can't accept the notion that an engagement following "showcase" can be anything but second run.

This latest contest is one in which both sides are pledged to fight to the finish to preserve their points. Considerable coin is now involved due to the increased number of houses involved. Negotiations so far have been fruitless

'Greatest Story Ever Told' Might Go Out in Either-Style of Cinerama

Unknown at present is producer George Stevens' attitude about the two Cinerama processes at his disposal for the final print of his "Greatest Story Ever Told." Because of the way it was filmed, the Biblical can go out as either a conventional three-panel Cinerama pic or a single lens effort.

So far, "Greatest Story" is being billed as a single lens Cinerama picture, the second to use the process. Stanley Kramer's "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World," which opens shortly, will be the first pic to use the new method. In both the case of "Story" and "World," the prints are being made by optically changing a 70m shooting print.

Stevens, it is understood, is still uncertain. United Artists, which is releasing the picture and has been billing it as a single lens effort, is taking a wait and see attitude on the matter. A Cinerama spokesman confirms that Stevens is presently testing both ways. Results of "Mad World" will influence his thinking.

Meanwhile, considerable coin is being spent around the country converting Cinerama houses for single-camera projection for "Mad World," also a UA release. Since both it and "Greatest Story" will probably be playing at the same time ("Story" is planned as a June release) it will be limited in the number of theatres it can play anyway and presumably won't have to run into converted houses since there will, hopefully from UA's standpoint, still be showing "Mad World."

Although Stevens can go either way, future Cinerama efforts are planned as single lens pix. "Millie Goes to Budapest" is currently the first pic to actually be filmed in the process, not being changed optically later from a 70m print, and there are others reported in the works. Also, there have been dickers to make "The Bible" in the new process and to make the already-completed "Fall of the Roman Empire" into Cinerama from its present 70m state.

Stevens, meanwhile, is still testing. His decision will not materially effect the progress of the single lens process since nothing is planned for the three panel system any more. But both UA and Cinerama would like to see him use the new method. He has noted some dissatisfaction with the single lense setup but is being left pretty much on his own as to what will eventually happen.

Flat Tire Caper

Graham, N. C., Oct. 22.

Two local sheriff's deputies found an abandoned car shortly after 3 a.m. In the car were food, cigarettes, phonograph records and chewing gum, valued at $200.

The car had a flat tire and had been driven some distance while the tire was flat. Tracing the tracks left on the highway the deputies found it had been driven several miles from the Circle G Drive-In.

John Giddens, operator of the theatre, was summoned and discovered his concession stand had been stripped of merchandise and phonograph records.

Negro Proj. Local Figures in Philly Boothmen's Beef

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.

Three local film projectionists accused the new owner of the Leader Theatre of discriminating against them because they are white. The Leader, which is in a preponderantly Negro neighborhood in West Philadelphia, was purchased from Stanley Warner by Paul Kleiman, owner of a string of eight nabes in both white and colored sections.

The projectionists took their case to the City's Commission on Human Relations which resulted in scheduling it for a later hearing.

The complainants are Hyman Rothman, Paul Hurvitz and Dominick Bertino, all longtime employes of SW at the Leader. They are members of Local 307, which is the all-white segment of the projectionists union. Local 307-A is the Negro affiliate of the Moving Picture Projectionists local.

The white operators are being replaced by three of Klieman's boothmen from Local 307-A, who were laid off when he closed his Fans Theatre at the end of August.

The dismissed men charged, however, their layoff was due to the discrepancy in the wage scale. Local 307's scale goes up to $3.90 per hour, while the top scale for Local 307-A is $2.50 an hour.

Klieman told the Commission that scale had nothing to do with the firings, nor did race. "The three men I am putting in have worked with me for 20 years at the Fans (formerly Fays Theatre, once one of the town's top vaud-filmers).

"It is true that there is a disparity between the top scales of the white and Negro projecionists unions," Klieman said. "But that is because the Negroes don't get an opportunity to work the top theatres. On the neighborhood level the wage scales are much the same. I hire both white and Negro projectionists and make no distinction between them."

Klieman and the projectionists both appeared in the pre-hearings before the Commission, which will have to decide whether the discrimination, if any, is economic or racial. The issue points up once more the inequities in unions with separate white and Negro locals, notably here in the case of the musicians, projectionists and other entertainment branches.

Klieman who has five film houses in all-Negro locations, recently branched into the department of film production, with several biracial films slated to go before the camera.

3 Philly Arties Raided; 'Bare Mt.' Pic Called 'Lewd'

Dist. Atty. James C. Crumlish Jr. led a squad of 12 county detectives in a raid on three art film houses and closed down showings of "The House on Bare Mountain." Raided simultaneously were the Abbe Art Cinema, in W. Philly; the Art Holiday, Frankford; and the Walton Art Theatre, Germantown. The D.A. personality conducted the raid on the last theatre. Some 500 patrons were ushered out of the three houses when the lights were turned on.

Crumlish said the film had been under scrutiny by members of his staff and had been adjudged "lewd and obscene." Minors were found in all three film houses, he added.

Philadelphia police assisted at the raids in keeping order and identifying and checking the juveniles, information on whom will be turned over to the proper juve authorities.

A dozen persons were arrested and four were held in bail for the grand jury at a magistrate's hearing. They are Edward Saretsky, owner of the three theatres, and managers Warren Sontagh, 21; Daniel Berman, 33, and Albert Hutkin, 28.

New Product Boosts Chi; 'New Love' Great $25,000, 'Honor' Happy 18G; 'Sea' Hot 11G, 3d; 'West' 19G, 34th

Chicago, Oct. 22.

Chi firstrun biz is getting a shot in the arm from a batch of solid newcomers. "A New Kind of Love" is bowing to a great $25,000 at Woods while "Twilight of Honor" is teeing off to a fat $18,000 at the United Artists.

Preem of "Marilyn" is pulling a tame $5,000 at the Loop. First round of "The Suitor" shapes strong at Surf. "Prelude To Ecstasy" looks hefty in first World frame. Monroe reissue duo of "Nude In Charcoal" and "Love Island" looms nice.

Holdovers are a bit uneven. "Stolen Hours" is mild for second Oriental session. The reissued "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" looms nice in its Roosevelt third.

"V.I.P.s" is posting a bright fourth Chicago frame. "In The French Style" is lively in the same Esquire sesh. "Lord of Flies" is copping a sweet fourth Cinema lap. "8½" is snappy in its 13th and final Carnegie stanza.

On hardticket, "Cleopatra" is nabbing a hardy 17th State-Lake canto while "How The West Was Won" continues socko in its McVickers 34th.

Estimates for This Week

Carnegie (Brotman) (495; $1.25-$1.80)—"8½" (Embassy) (13th wk). Nifty $4,500. Last week, $5,000.

Chicago (B&K) (3,900; 90-$1.80) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Big $20,000. Last week, $21,000.

Cinema (Stern) (500; $1.50) — "Lord of Flies" (Cont) (4th wk). Fast $5,500. Last week, $6,000.

Esquire (H&E Balaban) (1,236; $1.25-$1.80) — "In French Style" (Col) (4th wk). Nice $5,000. Last week, $7,500.

Loop (Brotman) (606; 90-$1.80) —"Marilyn" (20th). Tame $5,000. Last week, "Condemned Altona" (20th) (2d wk), $4,800.

McVickers (Beacon) (1,100; $1.75-$3.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (34th wk). Socko $19,000. Last week, $16,000.

Monroe (Jovan) (1,000; 65-90)—"Nude In Charcoal" (Indie) and "Love Island" (Indie) (reissues). Fast $5,500. Last week, "Cleopatra's Daughter" (Indie) and "Bomb For Dictator" (Indie), $5,000.

Oriental (Indie) (3,400; 90-$1.80) — "Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk). Mild $15,000. Last week, $23,500.

Roosevelt (B&K) (1,400; 90-$1.80) — "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea" (BV) (reissue) (3d wk). Nice $11,000 in 5 days. Last week, $15,000.

State-Lake (B&K) (2,400; $2-$4) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Good $26,000 or near. Last week, $28,000.

Surf (H&E Balaban) (684; $1.50-$1.80)—"The Suitor" (Atl.). Zippy $6,000. Last week, "Greenwich Village Story" (Ellis) (2d wk), $3,000.

Town (Teitel) (640; $1.25-$1.80) — "Good Soldier Schwelk" (Lionex) (3d wk). Stout $4,000. Last week, $4,100.

United Artists (B&K) (1,700; 90-$1.80) — "Twilight of Honor" (MGM). Happy $18,000. Last week, "For Love Or Money" (U) (3d wk), $14,000.

Woods (Essaness) (1,200; 90-$1.80)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Sock $25,000. Last week, "The Terror" (AI) and "Dementia 13" (AI) (2d wk), $13,000.

World (Teitel) (608; 90-$1.80)—"Prelude To Ecstasy" (Indie). Slick $5,500. Last week, "L-Shaped Room" (Col) (16th wk), $4,300.

CHI'S GLOBE GOES ART

Proximity to Sandburg Village Influences Decision

Chicago, Oct. 22.

Chuck Teitel and Dan Goldberg, owners of the World Playhouse and Town art houses, are converting the third of their theatres, the Globe, to a firstrun art policy as of Nov. 29. The Globe has been a firstrun nabe house in the approximately one year that the pair have been operating it.

Although the Globe is only about five blocks from the Town, it is located a block from the huge new Sandburg Village housing project and two blocks from the new nitery area on north Wells St.

Broadway Grosses

Estimated Total Gross
This Week $470,300
(Based on 32 theatres)
Last Year $592,300
(Based on 33 theatres)

'Love' Oke $13,000, Pitt; 'Irma' 7G, 9th

Pittsburgh, Oct. 22.

Pitt firstruns continue mostly dull this round, getting little help from newcomers. "Wives and Lovers" is the second weakie in a row at the Gateway. "New Kind of Love" is rated passable at Stanley.

On the brighter side is "Irma La Douce," socko in ninth at Fulton. "How West Was Won" is showing plenty of spark in 31st session at Warner. "Cleopatra" is firm in 17th at Penn. "Lord of Flies" stays wham in third at Squirrel Hill.

Estimates for This Week

Forum (Assoc.) (380; $1.75)—"Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (5th wk). Neat $3,000. Last week, $3,300.

Fulton (Assoc.) (1,900; $1-$1.75) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (9th wk). Sock $7,000. Last week, $7,500.

Gateway (Assoc.) (1,900; $1-$1.50)—"Wives and Lovers" (Par). Soft $5,500 or less. Last week, "Leopard" (20th), $5,000.

Penn (UATC) (2,003; $2-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Firm $11,000. Last week, $12,300.

Shadyside (MOTC) (623; $1.75)—"Heavens Above" (Janus) (2d wk). Sparkling $3,000 or over. Last week, $3,500.

Squirrel Hill (SW) (832; $1.75)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (3d wk). Boffo $4,200. Last week, $4,500.

Stanley (SW) (3,700; $1-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Passable $13,000 or over. Last week, "V.I.P.'s" (MGM) (3d wk-8 days), $8,000.

Warner (SW) (1,260; $1.50-$2.75) "How West Was Won" (MGM) (31st wk). Excellent $7,000. Last week, $7,500.

'Fantasia' Fancy $7,500, K.C.; 'Cool' Frigid 22G; 'New Love' Lilting 7G

Kansas City, Oct. 22.

Reissued "Fantasia" is putting more wear on Brookside carpeting than any other pic in recent months and looks to stay a while. However, "Running Man" and "Twilight of Honor" are shaping sluggish though "Honor" stays on Paramount is happy with "New Kind of Love" in second, and may keep it another stanza.

"Johnny Cool" meeting head-on with long-awaited showers and being considerably dampened therefrom in a multiple drivein bow. "In French Style" looms smooth at Kimo on opener.

Estimates for This Week

Brookside (Fox Midwest - Nat. Gen. Corp.) (800; $1.50)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Big $7,500; stays. Last week, "Long Day's Journey Into Night" (Embassy) and "Desire Under Elms" (Par) (reissue) (3d wk), $2,000.

Capri (Durwood) (1,260; 75-$1.50) — "Sporting Life" (Cont) (4th wk-5 days). Fair $2,000. Last week, $3,000.

Crest, Riverside (Commonwealth) (900 cars each), Boulevard (Rosedale) (750 cars), Hiway 40 (General) (1,000 cars); Isis & Vista (FMW) (1,390; 700; $1.50)—"Johnny Cool" (UA) plus various second-runs. Moderate $22,000 or near. Last week, "Man With X-Ray Eyes" (AI) and "Battle Beyond Sun" (AI), $26,500.

Empire (Durwood) (886; $1.25-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (30th wk). Stout $7,000. Last week, $8,000.

Granada (FMW) (1,219; $1) — "Leopard" (20th) (m.o.) and "Manchurian Candidate" (UA) (subrun). Passable $2,000. Last week, day-dating with Uptown.

Kimo (Dickinson) (504; $1.50-$2) —"In French Style" (Col). Prancing $3,500 or close. Last week, "Mouse on Moon" (Lopert) (3d wk), $1,000.

Paramount (Blank-UP) (1,900; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Lilting $7,000 or near. Last week, $8,500.

Parkway One (Durwood) (400; 90-$1.25)—"Four Days of Naples" (MGM). Lively $3,000. Last week, subruns.

Parkway Two (Durwood) (350; 90-$1.25) — "Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (3d wk). Good $2,000. Last week, $2,200.

Plaza (FMW) (1,630; $1.25-$1.50) —"Running Man" (Col). Dull $5,000. Last week, "Leopard" (20th), $5,100.

Roxy (Durwood) (664; 75-$1.50) —"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Solid $6,000. Last week, $7,500.

Uptown (FMW) (2,043; $1.25-$1.50) — "Twilight of Honor" (MGM) and "Of Love and Desire" (20th). Mild $5,000. Last week, "Women of World" (Embassy) and "Marilyn" (20th), $7,500 (including Granada).

'Man' Good $10,000 In St. Lou; 'Sea' Big 13G; 'West' Hotsy 14G, 28th

St. Louis, Oct. 22.

"Running Man" looms tops among newcomers here this round, with a good session at Esquire. "Haunted Palace," another newie, is only fair at the St. Louis. "Balcony" shapes socko on opener at Paris Art.

"V.I.P.s" looms fine in fourth session at State while "How West Was Won" is big in 28th week at Martin Cinerama. "Cleopatra" looks nice in 17th session at Ambassador. "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" is big in second round at Loew's Mid-City.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (Arthur) (2,970; $1.50-$3.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Nice $16,000 or near. Last week, $17,000.

Apollo Art (Grace) (700; 90-$1.25) —"Murder at Gallop" (MGM). Fast $2,700. Last week, "Divorce, Italian Style" (Indie) and "Last Year Marienbad" (Indie) (3d wk), $1,000.

Esquire (Jabjonow-Koom) (1,800; 90-$1.25) — "Running Man" (Col). Good $10,000. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) (2d wk), $5,000.

Fox (Arthur) (5,000; 90-$1.25) — "New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Okay $11,000 or near. Last week, $14,000.

Loew's Mid-City (Loew) (1,160; 60-90) — "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Big $13,000. Last week, $16,000.

State (Loew) (3,600; 60-90) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Fine $12,000 or close. Last week, $14,000.

Martin Cinerama (Martin) (913; $1.25-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (28th wk). Big $14,000. Last week, $14,200.

Pageant (Arthur) (1,000; 90-$1.25) —"Sporting Life" (Cont) (2d wk). Stout $2,800. Last week, $3,000.

Paris Art (Chernoff) (800; $1.50) —"Balcony" (Cont). Socko $3,500. Last week, "Girl With Golden Eyes" (Union), $1,300.

St. Louis (Arthur) (3,800; 75-90) —"Haunted Palace" (AI) and "Erik the Conquered" (AI). Fair $10,000. Last week, "Wall of Noise" (WB) and "Young Rescuers" (AI), $8,000.

Shady Oak (Arthur) (760; 90-$1.25)—"8½" (Embassy) (2d wk). Good $3,500. Last week, $4,000.

'Rampage' Okay $8,500, Col; 'V.I.P.s' Fancy 8G

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.

"Rampage," only new pic at firstruns this week, is headed for okay returns at RKO Palace. The Ohio continues at a nice pace with third stanza for "V.I.P.s." "How West Was Won," in a seventh month at the RKO Grand, is off from top of recent weeks.

Estimates for This Week

Grand (RKO) (860; $1.50-$2.75) —"How West Was Won" (MGM) (28th wk). Fair $6,000. Last week, $6,300.

Ohio (Loew) (3,079; 50-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk). Nice $8,000 or near. Last week, $9,500.

Palace (RKO) (2,845; 50-$1.50)—"Rampage" (WB) and "Castilian" (WB) Okay $8,500. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue), pleasing $8,700.

'Love' Torrid $15,000, Hub; 'Man' Neat 14G, 'Style' Stout 13G, 'X-Ray' 11G

Key City Grosses

Estimated Total Gross
Last Year $2,865,500
(Based on 23 cities and 272 theatres).
This Week $2,590,500
(Based on 22 cities and 266 theatres, chiefly first runs including N.Y.).

'Battle' Thin 6G, Cleve.; 'Cane' 11G

Cleveland, Oct. 22.

The few new entrants here currently are not proving much help to the overall boxoffice setup. "In French Style" looms good on opener. "Cry of Battle" is rated poor at Palace on initial round. "Mondo Cane" is pacing city with a good take in first at the Hipp.

"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" is fairish in second at the Allen. "V.I.P.s" loom smart in fourth at State.

Estimates for This Week

Allen (Stanley-Warner) (2,866; $1.25-$1.85)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (2d wk). Fairish $8,000. Last week, $11,600.

Colony Art (Stanley-Warner) (1,354; $1.50)—"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (2d wk). Fine $3,000. Last week, $4,000.

Continental Art (Art Theatre Guild) (925; $1.50)—"Balcony" (Cont) (3d wk). Fair $1,700. Last week, $2,280.

Hippodrome (East Hipp) (3,500; $1.25-$1.50) — "Mondo Cane" (Times). Good $11,000. Last week, "Running Man" (Col), $7,500 in 8 days.

Ohio (Loew) (1,020; $1.80-$3.50) —"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Excellent $10,000 after $10,200 last week.

Palace (F&A Theatres) (1,254; $1.25-$1.50)—"Cry of Battle" (AA) and "Gun Hawk" (AA). Poor $6,000. Last week, "Leopard" (20th), $6,200.

State (Loew) (3,450; $1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Smart $10,000 after $9,000 last week.

Westwood Art (Art Theatre Guild) (955; $1.50)—"In French Style" (Col). Good $2,900. Last week, "Balcony" (Cont) (2d wk), $2,100.

'Rampage' Mild $5,000, Port.; 'V.I.P.s' 7G, 4th

Portland, Ore., Oct. 22.

Town is being slowed up currently by too many holdovers and longruns while the lone newcomer is weak. "Rampage," this new entrant, is rated light in first at Orpheum. One of best longruns is "Irma La Douce," still is torrid in 12th session at Irvington. "V.I.P.s" looms brisk in fourth at Broadway while "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" shapes good in second at the Fox.

Estimates for This Week

Broadway (Parker) (1,890; $1-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Brisk $7,000 or near. Last week, $9,800.

Fox (Evergreen) (1,600; $1-$1.49) —"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Good $6,000 or close. Last week, $7,800.

Hollywood (Evergreen) (1,890; $1.49-$2)—"South Sea Island Adventure (Cinerama) (7th wk). Warm $5,000. Last week, $5,500.

Irvington (Smith) (650; $1.50)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (12th wk). Hotsy $5,000. Last week, $4,400.

Music Box (Hamrick) (640; $1-$1.50)—"New Kind Of Love" (Par) and "Man Who Knew Too Much" (Par) (reissue) (2d wk). Slow $3,500. Last week, $4,000.

Orpheum (Evergreen) (1,536; $1-$1.49)—"Rampage" (WB) and "A Rome Adventure" (WB) (reissue). Light $5,000 or close. Last week, "Haunted Palace" (AI) and "Mind-Benders" (AI), $5,300.

Paramount (Port-Par) (1,406; $2-$3.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) 17th wk). Steady $7,500. Last week, $7,800.

Boston, Oct. 22.

Biz continues solid at Boston boxoffice this week as a new raft of new entries came in. With six openings, film patrons turned out in force. "New Kind of Love" is hotsy at Paramount. "Running Man" is neat at Memorial. "Leopard" looks vast at Gary. "In French Style" is fancy at Astor. "Man With X-Ray Eyes" is rated bright at Center.

Second week holdovers are doing fine with "Lilies of Field" slick at Capri. "Stolen Hours" looks nice in third at the Beacon Hill. "Lord of Flies" is still powerful in fifth at Cinema, Kenmore Square. "Irma La Douce" continues to stay stout in 15th session at Saxon. "V.I.P.s" is fine in fourth week at Orpheum.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (B&Q) (1,117; 90-$1.50)—"In French Style" (Col). Fine $8,000 or over. Last week, "To Catch Thief" (Par) and "Vertigo" (Par) (reissues), $6,000.

Beacon Hill (Sack) (900; $1-$1.80)—"Stolen Hours" (UA) (3d wk). Fair $4,000 in 5 days. Last week, $10,000.

Boston (Beacon Ent.) (1,345; $1.20-$2.95) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (30th wk). Hep $10,000. Last week, $12,000.

Capri (Sack) (850; 90-$1.50) — "Lilies of Field" (UA) (2d wk). Fat $8,000. Last week, $9,000.

Center (E. M. Loew) (1,250; 90-$1.25)—"Man With X-Ray Eyes" (AI) and "Right Hand of Devil" (Indie). Bright $11,000. Last week, "Pagan Hellcat" (Indie) and "Violated Paradise" (Indie), $5,000.

Cinema, Kenmore Square (Indie) (320; $1.40-$1.90) — "Lord of Flies" (Cont) (5th wk). Potent $4,000. Last week, $5,000.

Exeter (Indie) (1,300; 90-$1.49)—"Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (6th wk). Oke $4,000. Last week, $5,000.

Fenway (Indie) (1,300; 90-$1.49) —"Girl in Bikini" (Indie) and "Festival Girl" (Indie) (2d wk). Passable $3,500. Last week, $4,500.

Gary (Sack) (1,277; 75-$1.80) — "Leopard" (20th). Fast $15,000. Last week, "Johnny Cool" (UA) (2d wk), $7,500.

Mayflower (ATC) (689; 90-$1.50) —"Young Swingers" (AI) and "Thirty Years of Fun" (20th). Very slow $3,000. Last week, "Women of World" (Embassy) and "Madame" (Emb) (reruns), $4,000.

Memorial (RKO) (3,000; 90-$1.50)—"Running Man" (Col) and "Gun Hawk" (AA). Nice $14,000. Last week, "Lover Come Back" (U) and "Touch of Mink" (U) (reissues), $9,000.

Music Hall (Sack) (2,200; $2-$3.90) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). The 17th week ended Monday (21) was fine $17,000. Last week, $18,000.

Orpheum (Loew) (2,900; 90-$1.65)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Trim $13,000. Last week, $15,000.

Paramount (NET) (2,357; 90-$1.65)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Hotsy $15,000 or near. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) and "Paris Pick-up" (Indie), $9,000.

Pilgrim (ATC) (1,909; 75-$1.25) —"Striptease Revealed" (Indie), "Red Lights of Tokyo" (Indie) and "Ecstasy on Lover's Island" (Indie) (rerun). Mild $6,500. Last week, "Passion Holiday" (Flamingo) and "Beauty and Body" (Indie) (2d wk), $9,000.

Park Square (Indie) (300; $1.80) —"8½" (Embassy) (13th wk). Nice $3,000. Last week, same.

Saxon (Sack) (1,100; $1.50-$2.75) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (15th wk). Still stout at $9,000. Last week, $10,000.

State (Trans-Lux) (730; 75-$1.25) —"Female Animal" (Indie) and "Sun Lovers" (Indie) (2d wk). Sunny $8,500. Last week, $10,000.

GROUND RULES FOR CHELSEA

American Broadcasting - Paramount Theatres has been given permission to operate the Chelsea Theatre, Chelsea, Mass., outside Boston, on condition that the corporation shall not operate the Olympia in the same city.

AB-PT made application for the switch in theatre operation to N.Y. Federal Court and Judge Edmund Palmieri said okay. This transfer, as court-approved, was within jurisdiction of the Government antitrust suit against the various major film companies.

L.A. Perking; 'Leopard' $24,000, 'Lilies' Fancy 16G, 'Flies' Wham 11G, 'Stranger' Boff 10G, 'West' Loud 23G

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

Firstrun trade is picking up noticeably this frame. "The Leopard," in first general release, is heading for a big $24,000 in four theatres. "Running Man," is rated okay $14,500 in three houses.

Trio of singly-billed, exclusive runs, however, are taking away the play. "Lilies of Field" shapes slick $16,000 or near at Egyptian. "Lord of Flies" is rated wow $11,000 at the Fine Arts. "A Stranger Knocks" shapes boffo $11,000 at Four Star.

Regular holdovers are topped by "How West Was Won," with lofty $23,000 in 35th Warner Hollywood stanza. It's followed by "V.I.P.s," hotsy $14,000 in sixth Hollywood Par lap. "Irma La Douce" is looking for a tall $12,000 in final (16th) round at the Chinese.

Estimates for This Week

Egyptian (UATC) (1,392; $2-$2.40)—"Lilies of Field" (UA). Slick $16,000 or better. Last week, with Warren's, Wiltern, Village, Loyola, "Toys in Attic" (UA) (1st general release), "Elmer Gantry" (UA) (reissue), $20,900.

Four Star (UATC) (868; $1.49-$2) —"Stranger Knocks" (T-L). Boffo $10,000 or better. Last week, with Orpheum, Pix, Baldwin, "Shock Corridor" (AA), "Gun Hawk" (AA), $16,000.

Fine Arts (FWC) (631; $2-$2.40) —"Lord of Flies" (Cont). Wham $11,000. Last week, "Conjugal Bed" (Emb) (2d wk), $4,500.

Hillstreet, Wiltern, Baldwin (Metropolitan - SW - State) (2,752; 2,344; 1,800; $1-$1.49)—"Running Man" (Col) and "Diamond Head" (Col) (reissue). Fairly okay $4,500. Last week, Hillstreet with Hollywood, Crest, "Love and Desire" (20th), "Marilyn" (20th), $9,000.

Los Angeles, Pix (Metropolitan-Prin) (2,049; 756; $1-$1.49)—"Damaged Goods" (Indie) and "Sweet Bird of Youth" (MGM) (reissue). Busy $9,500. Last week, Los Angeles with El Rey, Iris, "Rampage" (WB), "Cleopatra's Daughter" (Indie), $13,800.

Warren's, Iris, Loyola, Village (Metropolitan-FWC) (1,757; 825; 1,298; 1,535; $1-$1.49)—"Leopard" (20th) (1st general release) and "Second Time Around" (20th) (reissue). Big $24,000.

Hollywood (FWC) (856; $1-$1.49) —"8½" (Emb) (1st general release) and "Seven Capital Sins" (Emb) (reissue). Hefty $6,000.

Crest (State) (750; $2)—"Great Escape" (UA) (m.o.) and "Oklahoma" (20th) (reissue). Handy $2,000.

Lido (FWC) (876; $2)—"Conjugal

(Continued on page 10)

Estimates Are Net

Film gross estimates as reported herewith from the various key cities, are net; i.e., without usual tax. Distributors share on net take, when playing percentage, hence the estimated figures are net income.

The parenthetic admission prices, however, as indicated, include U. S. amusement tax.

'Cool' Hot $12,000, Denver; 'Love' 9G, 2

Denver, Oct. 22.

"Johnny Cool" shapes as standout newcomer here this round with stout takings at Paramount. "Fantasia" still is socko in second week at the Aladdin. "New Kind of Love" continues sharp in second stanza at the Centre. "Twilight of Honor" looms sad on opener at the Denver.

"How West Was Won" is rated big in 32d session at the Cooper while "Cleopatra" looks nice in 17th week at Denham.

Estimates for This Week

Aladdin (Fox) (900; $1.45)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Socko $10,000. Last week, $12,000.

Centre (Fox) (1,290; $1.25-$1.45) —"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Sharp $9,000. Last week, $10,000.

Cooper (Cooper) (814; $1.65-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (32d wk). Big $11,500. Last week, $12,000.

Denham (Indie) (800; $1.45-$3) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Nice $7,500. Last week, $8,000.

Denver (Fox) (2,432; $1.25) — "Twilight of Honor" (MGM) and "Raiders of Leyte Gulf" (Indie). Sad $6,000. Last week, "Stooges Go Round World" (Col) and "Siege of Saxons" (Col), $6,000.

Esquire (Fox) (600; $1.25) — "Murder at Gallop" (MGM). Good $3,000. Last week, "The Law" (Indie) and "Love at 20" (Indie), $2,000.

Orpheum (RKO) (2,690; $1-$1.45) —"Rampage" (WB) and "The Castillian" (WB) (2d wk). Poor $4,000. Last week, $7,500.

Paramount (Wolfberg) (2,100; 90-$1.25) — "Johnny Cool" (UA). Stout $12,000 or near. Last week, "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk), $8,500.

Towne (Indie) (600; $1.25-$1.45) —"Lilies of Field" (UA) (4th wk). Sturdy $3,500. Last week, $4,000.

Vogue (Art Theatre Guild) 450; $1.25) — "Promises, Promises" (Indie) (3d wk). Oke $1,500. Last week, $2,000.

'MAN' STURDY $6,500, PROV.; 'RAMPAGE' 6G

Providence, Oct. 22.

"Cleopatra," in its 12th session at Elmwood, is town leader again currently. Strand is showing strength with "Running Man." "Rampage" at Majestic looks good on opener. State is fairly nice with fourth of "V.I.P.s."

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (2,200; 75-$1) — "From Terrace" (20th) (reissue) and "Wake Me When It's Over" (20th). Opened Sunday (20). Last week, "Leopard" (20th), mild $1,700 in 4 days.

Elmwood (Snider) (2,200; $2.50-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (12th wk). Slightly lower but still nifty at $10,000 or near. Last week, $9,500.

Majestic (SW) (2,200; 75-$1)— "Rampage" (WB) and "Up Periscope" (WB). Good $6,000. Last week, "Murder, Inc." (20th), $5,000.

State (Loew) (3,200; $1-$1.50)— "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Okay $6,000. Last week, $6,600.

Strand (National Realty) (2,200; 75-$1) — "Running Man" (Col). Good $6,500 or near. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par), $5,000.

'Cool' Bangup $8,000, Seattle; 'Irma' Big 7G

Seattle, Oct. 22.

Trade at firstruns shapes very spotty this stanza. However, "Johnny Cool," one of few newcomers, looks nice at Coliseum. "Rampage" is rated very modest on opener at Orpheum. "Irma La Douce" looms great in 13th round at Music Box, a pickup from last week. "V.I.P.s" still is good in fourth week at the Blue Mouse. "How West Was Won" is solid in 29th session at Martin Cinerama.

Estimates for This Week

Blue Mouse (Hamrick) (739; $1.25-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Good $5,500. Last week, $6,800.

Coliseum (Fox-Evergreen) (1,870; $1.25-$1.50)—"Johnny Cool" (UA) and "Amazons of Rome" (UA). Nice $8,000. Last week, "Man with X-Ray Eyes" (AI) and "Terrified" (FF), $6,200.

Fifth Avenue (Fox-Evergreen) (2,500; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk) and "Breakfast at Tiffany's" (Par) (reissue). Fair $6,000. Last week, "Love" with "Gunfight at OK Corral" (Par), $6,700.

Martin Cinerama (870; $1.25-$2.25)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (29th wk). Swell $9,000. Last week, $8,800.

Music Box (Hamrick) (728; $1.50-$1.75)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (13th wk). Great $7,000 or over. Last week, $6,200.

Orpheum (Hamrick) (2,200; $1.25-$1.50)—"Rampage" (WB) and "Wall of Noise" (WB). Modest $6,000 or less. Last week, "For Love or Money" (U) and "Castillian" (WB), $6,300.

'Wives' Good 6½G, Mpls.; 'Sea' $9,000

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

Along with the numerous extended-runs, the Loop has several newcomers calculated to do some biz currently. Particularly in that category are "Wives and Lovers" and the reissued "20,000 Leagues Under Sea." However, "Sword of Lancelot" is rated light at Academy. Newcomer "Lord of Flies" shapes smash at Suburban World.

Continuing very big are roadshows "Cleopatra" and "How West Was Won," in their 17th and 33d weeks, respectively. Of the other holdovers, "Irma La Douce" is chalking up a 14th stanza, "Thrill of It All" a 12th round and "V.I.P.s" a fourth.

Estimates for This Week

Academy (Mann) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50)—"Sword of Lancelot" (U). Light $4,000. Last week, "Leopard" (20th) (2d wk), $4,000.

Avalon (Frank) (800; $1)—"Surftide 77" (Indie) and "Once Upon a Knight" (Indie) (subruns). So-so $1,000. Last week, "Troubled Girl" (Janus) and "Captain's Table" (20th) (subrun), $900.

Century (Par) (1,300; $2.10-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Great $8,000 or over. Last week, $9,000.

Cooper (CF) (805; $1.25-$2.50)— "How West Was Won" (MGM) (33d wk). Remarkable $7,500. Last week, $7,000.

El Lago (Carisch) (600; $1)— "Flamboyants" (SI) and "Girl Swappers" (Indie) (subrun). Slim $1,000.

Gopher (Berger) (1,000; $1-$1.25)—"Promises, Promises" (Indie) (2d wk). Good $5,000. Last week, $7,000.

Lyric (Par) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50)— —"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Dandy $7,500. Last week, $8,500.

Mann (Mann) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50) —"Wives and Lovers" (Par). Good $6,500. Last week, "Caretakers" (UA) (2d wk), $5,000.

Orpheum (Mann) (2,800; $1-$1.25)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue). Fair $9,000 or close. Last week, "Rampage" (WB), $5,000.

Park (Mann) (1,000; $1.50)— "Thrill of It All" (U) (13th wk). Big $2,500, but bowing out finally. Last week, $3,000.

State (Par) (2,200; $1.25-$1.50)— "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Rousing $6,000. Last week, $7,000.

Suburban World (Mann) (800; $1.25)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont). Smash $4,000. Last week, "Mouse on Moon" (Lopert) (subrun), $1,800.

World (Mann) (400; $1.25-$1.50) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (15th wk). Splendid $4,500. Last week, $5,000.

B'way B. O. Still Spotty; 'Hours' Nice 28G; 'Rampage' Okay $30,700; 'Jones' Mighty 38G; 'V.I.P.s' 132G

Although four new films were launched in the last seven days, Broadway firstrun business continues to suffer from Indian Summer pains. The Street, of course, is overloaded with extended-runs and holdovers, many of which have failed to hold up well.

"Stolen Hours" looks like nice $28,000 opening round, daydating the Astor and Trans-Lux 85th St. "Rampage" will get a barely okay $30,700 on initial round, daydating the Paramount and Trans-Lux 52d St. "Music Room" hit a big $7,200 in first stanza at the Carnegie Hall Cinema. "Devil and 10 Commandments" did a fine $10,000 on opener at the Paris.

"Tom Jones," which had hung up a new house record opening week, roared ahead of that mark to register an amazing $38,000 in second session at the Cinema One. "Cry of Battle" looks to slump to a thin $7,000 or less in second week at the Victoria.

"V.I.P.s" with stageshow looks to wind its run at the Music Hall with a sturdy $132,000 in its fifth session. "Mary, Mary" and new stageshow replaces tomorrow (Thurs.). "Great Escape" is holding with a fast $11,500 in 11th week at the DeMille. "New Kind of Love" moves in on Oct. 30.

The State opens a popscale, continues run of "Lawrence of Arabia" today (Wed.). "Conjugal Bed" held with sock $19,200 in fifth stanza, daydating the Forum and Fine Arts.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (City Inv.) (1,094; $1.25-$2) —"Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk). First week ended yesterday (Tues.) hit fine $22,000 or close. Daydating with Trans-Lux 85th St.

Cinerama (Loew) (1,552; $1.50-$3.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (31st wk). The 30th round completed Sunday (20) was great $26,500 for 13 shows after $25,500 for 29th week, which was for 12 performances.

Criterion (Moss) (1,520; $1.80-$4.80) — "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (44th-final wk). This week ended Sunday (20) wound run here with big $20,000 after $24,000 for 43d session. House closes for several weeks, opening on Nov. 13 with "Take Her, She's Mine" (20th). "The Victors" follows, likely around Dec. 11.

DeMille (Reade) (1,463; 90-$2.50) —"Great Escape" (UA) (12th-final wk). The 11th session ended yesterday (Tues.) was stout $11,500 after $13,000 for 10th week. Holds until Oct. 30 when "New Kind of Love" (Par) comes in.

Embassy (Guild Enterprises) (500; $1.50-$2.50) — "8½" (Embassy) (18th wk). The 17th stanza completed Monday (21) was hep $7,000 or near after $7,500 for 16th week.

Forum (Norel) (813; $1.25-$1.80) —"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (6th wk). Fifth week finished Sunday (20) was fine $11,000 after $12,000 for fourth. Daydating with Fine Arts.

Palace (RKO) (1,642; $1.25-$2)— "Man With X-Ray Eyes" (AI). and "Dementia" (AI). Opens today (Wed.). Last week, "Sword Lancelot" (U) and "Kiss of Vampire" U) 2d wk). Dull $8,000 or close.

Paramount (AB-PT) (3,665; $1-$2)—"Rampage" (WB) (2d wk). Initial session ended yesterday (Tues.) was just passable $25,000 or thereabouts. Daydating with Trans-Lux 52d St.

Radio City Music Hall (Rockefellers (6,200; 95-$2.75) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) and stageshow (5th-final wk). This round ending today (Wed.) is heading for very good $132,000 after $145,000 for fourth. "Mary, Mary" (WB) and new stageshow opens tomorrow (Thurs.). "V.I.P.s" grossed a mighty $652,854 in first four weeks, new high for a pic playing in post-Labor Day period.

Rivoli (UAT) (1,545; $2.50-$5.50) —"Cleopatra" (20th) (20th wk). The 19th frame ended yesterday (Tues.) was smash $42,000 or near after $47,000 for 18th week. Matinee biz slump is taking rap for the way trade has slipped in recent weeks since weekends still are great.

State (Loew) (1,850; $1.50-$2.50) —"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col). Opens today (Wed.) on continuous run and below hardticket scale, after 44 weeks on hardticket at the Criterion. In ahead, "Running Man" (Col) slumped to sad $6,000 in third round, lowest here in years.

Victoria (City Inv.) (1,003; $1.25-$2)—"Cry of Battle" (AA) (2d wk). This round finishing tomorrow (Thurs.) is heading for slight $7,000 or less after $10,000 for opener.

First-Run Arties

Baronet (Reade) (430; $1.25-$2) —"In French Style" (Col) (6th wk). Fifth round completed Sunday (20) was smooth $8,000 or near after $8,500 for fourth. "Ladies Who Do" (Cont) may open Oct. 30. There's also a possibility that "Wuthering Heights" (Cont) may be moved over from the Coronet. In that case, "Ladies" would be held up on date here.

Beekman (Rugoff Th.) (590; $1.50-$2) — "The Suitor" (Atl.) (6th-final wk). Fifth week ended Monday (21) was sweet $6,000 after $7,500 in fourth. "Knife in Water" (Indie) opens Oct. 28.

Carnegie Hall Cinema (F&A) (330; $1.50-$2) — "Music Room" (Harrison) (2d wk). Initial week finished Monday (21) was big $7,200 or close.

Cinema One (Rugoff Th.) (700; $1.50-$2)—"Tom Jones" (UA) (3d wk). First holdover stanza ended Sunday (20) was an amazing $38,000 after $35,500, a new high here, was registered opening week. The second week take, of course, made another new record for house.

Cinema Two (Rugoff Th.) (300; $1.50-$2) — "Sound of Trumpets" (Janus). Opened yesterday (Tues.). In ahead, "The Haunting" (MGM) (m.o.) (2d wk). Okay $5,000 for eight days after $6,000 for opener.

Coronet (Reade) (500; $1.50-$2) —"Wuthering Heights" (Cont) (4th wk). Third week finished yesterday (Tues.) was great $10,500 after $13,800 for second. "New Kind of Love" (Par) opens Oct. 30, daydating with DeMille.

Festival (Embassy) (546; $2-$2.50)—"8½" (Embassy) (18th wk). The 17th frame completed Monday (21) was big $6,800 after $7,500 for 16th week. Pic may wind run here in about three weeks.

Fifth Ave. Cinema (Rugoff Th.) (250; $1.25-$2)—"Sound of Trumpets" (Janus). Opened yesterday (Tues.), daydating with Cinema Two. Last week, reissues.

Fine Arts (Davis) (468; $1.80-$2) —"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (6th wk). The fifth round ended Sunday (20) was smash $8,200 after $9,500 for fourth week.

Guild (Guild) (450; $1-$1.75)— "Householder" (Col). Opened

(Continued on page 10)

'SEA' OKAY $5,500 IN L'VILLE; 'V.I.P.S' 9G, 3D

Louisville, Oct. 22.

Holdovers are providing the real stamina at mainstem houses here this week. "Room at Top" and "Saturday Night, Sunday Morning" at the Kentucky is the only change in the local lineup, and take is only okay "V.I.P.s" at United Artists in third continues at a lively pace, same as "Cleopatra," in 17th at the Penthouse. "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" at the Ohio in second is passable.

Estimates for This Week

Kentucky (Switow) (900; 75-$1.25)—"Room at Top" (Cont) and "Saturday Night, Sunday Night" (Cont) (reissues). Okay $4,000. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) (2d wk), $2,000.

Mary Ann (People's) (1,100; 75-$1.25)—"Rampage" (WB) (2d wk). Slow $3,500. Last week, $4,000.

Ohio (Settos) (900; 75-$1.25)— "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Okay $5,500. First week was $6,000.

Penthouse (Fourth Ave.) (900; $1.50-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Oke $8,000. Last week, $10,000.

Rialto (Fourth Ave.) (1,100; $1.25-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (19th wk). Big $6,000. Last week, $6,500.

United Artists (Fourth Avenue) (1,800; 75-$1.25)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk). Fast $3,000 second week, $10,000.

Buff Offish; 'Rampage' Fair $8,500; 'V.I.P.s' 7G

Buffalo, Oct. 22.

Biz at deluxers shapes slim here this session, with the absence of many newcomers obviously hurt. However, "Rampage," lone new entrant, is only fair in opener at Paramount. "V.I.P.s" still is okay in fourth round at the Buffalo. "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" looks offish in five days of second week at Century. "Cleopatra" is dragging along in 17th session at Center.

Estimates for This Week

Buffalo (Loew) (3,500; 90-$1.49) —"V.I.P.s" (4th wk). Still okay at $7,000. Last week, $9,000.

Center (AB-PT) (2,500; $1.40-$3) —"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Soft $5,000. Last week, $5,600.

Century (UATC) (2,700; 90-$1.25) —"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) and "Alaskan Eskimo" (BV) (2d wk). NSH $5,000 in 5 days. Last week, $9,000.

Paramount (AB-PT) (3,000; 90-$1.25)—"Rampage" (WB). Fair $8,500. Last week, "Haunted Palace" (AI) and "Terrified" (AI), $9,500.

Cinema (Martina) (450; 90-$1.25) —"Wives and Lovers" (Par) (2d wk). Offish $2,700. Last week, $4,000.

Amherst (Dipson) (1,000; 90-$1.25)—"Wives and Lovers" (Par) (2d wk). Tapering to fair $3,500. Last week, $4,300.

'Rampage' 14G, Toronto; 'Haunting' Sad 19G; 'V.I.P.s' Wow 16G, 'Love' 7G

Toronto, Oct. 22.

Although there are several newcomers here this session many of them are disappointing. However, "Rampage" is rated good on opener at the Imperial. "The Haunting" is getting a sad total daydating nine Taylor houses while "The Caretakers" looks moderate at Carlton.

Most holdovers are doing well. "V.I.P.s" shapes wow in fourth round at Uptown. "New Kind of Love" looms lofty in fourth at Hollywood. "For Love Or Money" looks sharp in second at Loew's. "Mondo Cane" shapes solid in third round daydating three theatres.

Estimates for This Week

Carlton (Rank) (2,318; $1.25-$2)—"Caretakers" (UA). Modest $9,000 or close. Last week, "Running Man" (Col), $8,000.

Century, Downtown, Glendale, Kingsway, Midtown, Odeon, Prince of Wales, Scarboro, State (Taylor) (1,342; 1,059; 995; 697; 1,082; 752; 1,197; 682; 696; 50-$1)—"Haunting" (MGM) and "Wall of Noise" (WB). Sad $19,000. Last week, "Stooges Around World in Daze" (Col) and "Siege of Saxons" (Col), $27,000.

Danforth, Humber, Savoy (Rank) (1,325; 1,203; 799; $1.25-$1.50)—"Mondo Cane" (20th) (3d wk). Swell $22,000. Last week, $30,000.

Eglinton (FP) (918; $2-$3)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (30th wk). Big $6,000. Last week, $6,200.

Fairlawn (Rank) (1,175; $2-$3)—"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (38th wk). Solid $8,000. Last week, ditto.

Hollywood (FP) (1,080; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (4th wk). Fine $7,000. Last week, $8,500.

Hyland (Rank) (1,165; $1.25-$1.50)—"Heavens Above" (20th) (2d wk). Sock $12,000. Last week, $14,000.

Imperial (FP) (3,216; $1-$1.75)—"Rampage" (WB). Good $14,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk), $11,000.

Loew's (Loew) (1,641; $1-$1.50)—"For Love Or Money" (U) (2d wk). Fine $11,000. Last week, $15,000.

Towne (Taylor) (693; $1-$1.50)—"Women of World" (IFD) (5th wk). Rousing $5,000. Last week, $6,500.

University (FP) (1,362; 1,344; $2-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Still wham at $26,000. Last week, $26,300.

Uptown (Loew) (2,250; $1.50-$2)—"V.I.P.'s" (MGM) (4th wk). Wow $16,000. Last week, $23,000.

'Bed' Smooth $8,000 In D.C.; 'Hours' Loud 12G; 'Love' Wow 9G in 2d

Washington, Oct. 22.

Trade is on even keel this round on the mainstem. "Conjugal Bed" initials boff at Apex. "Stolen Hours" at Keith's shapes sturdy. "Twice Told Tales" looks fair in Ambassador-Metropolitan opener.

"V.I.P.s" is fancy in third frame at Palace. "New Kind of Love" looms wow in second round at Embassy. "For Love or Money" shapes mild in second at Town. "Leopard" is socko in second at Dupont. "Running Man" shapes soft in second at Trans-Lux.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador-Metropolitan (SW) (1,480; 1,000; $1-$1.49) — "Twice Told Tales" (UA). Fair $8,000 or close. Last week, "Rampage" (WB), $8,500.

Apex (KB) (940; $1.25-$1.40) — "Conjugal Bed" (Embassy). Boff $8,000 or over. Last week, "Fiasco in Milan" (Indie), $2,000.

Calvert (Mann) (900; $1.25-$1.50)—"Name Is Ivan" (Indie) (2d wk). Mild $3,000 after initialing at $5,000.

Dupont (Mann) (400; 90-$1.55)—"Leopard" (20th) (2d wk). Sock $7,000 after $9,000 opener.

Embassy (Loew) (567; $1.25-$2)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Wow $9,000 after $10,600 last week.

Keith's (RKO) (1,838; $1-$1.49)—"Stolen Hours" (UA). Lofty $12,000. Last week, "Johnny Cool" (UA) (2d wk), $8,000.

MacArthur (KB) (900; $1.25-$1.40)—"Heavens Above" (Janus) (3d wk). Trim $7,000. Last week, $7,300.

Ontario (KB) (1,240; $1.75-$3)—"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (34th wk). Fair $5,000. Last week, $5,100.

Palace (Loew) (2,360; $1.25-$1.80)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk). Fancy $14,500. Last week, $16,400.

Playhouse (TL) (459; $1.25-$1.80)—"L-Shaped Room" (Col) (17th wk). Quiet $2,000. Last week, same.

Plaza (TL) (278; $1.25-$1.80)—"Promises, Promises" (Indie) (3d wk). Neat $7,500. Last week, $7,700.

Town (King) (800; $1.25-$1.80)—"For Love or Money" (U) (2d wk). Mild $6,000 after $7,000 opener.

Trans-Lux (TL) (899; $1.49-$2)—"Running Man" (Col) (2d wk). Soft $4,500 after initialing at $5,500.

Uptown (SW) (1,300; $1.65-$2.75)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (32d wk). Big $9,000. Last week, $8,500.

Warner (SW) (1,250; $1.50-$2.75)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Smash $13,000. Last week, $13,500.

'Sea' Lively $10,000 In Philly; 'New Love' Okay 13G; 'V.I.P.s' Fat 12G

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.

Very few newcomers here this week, but the weather is proving the biggest handicap at the boxoffice. The few new entrants are playing small arty houses. "The Leopard" looks moderate in second round at the Randolph. "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" shapes trim in second frame at Stanton.

"V.I.P.s" still is doing nicely in fourth at Arcadia. "8½" looms fast in second round, daydating two houses. "Rampage" is rated dull in second at Goldman.

Estimates for This Week

Arcadia (S&S) (623; $1.20-$1.80) "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Smart $12,000. Last week, $16,000.

Boyd (SW) (1,536; $2-$2.75)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (33d wk). Big $8,000. Last week, $8,000.

Bryn Mawr (Goldman) (680; $1.49) — "8½" (Embassy). Hep $6,000 for second week. Last week, $7,100.

Fox (Milgram) (2,400; 95-$1.80)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Okay $13,000. Last week, $13,000.

Goldman (Goldman) (1,000; 95-$1.80)—"Rampage" (WB) (2d wk). Slow $6,000. Last week, $10,000.

Lane (SW) (1,000; $1.49) — "Mouse on Moon" (Lope) (3d wk). Fair $3,500. Last week, $3,000.

Midtown (Goldman) (1,200; 95-$1.80)—"Two Nights with Cleopatra" (Indie) (2d wk). Dull $5,000. Last week, $7,000.

Randolph (Goldman) (2,200; 95-$1.80)—"Leopard" (20th) (2d wk). Slim $7,000. Last week, $11,500.

Stanley (SW) (1,450;$2.50-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Wow $22,000 or close. Last week, $23,000.

Stanton (SW) (1,483; 95-$1.80)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Trim $10,000. Last week, $12,000.

Studio (Goldberg) (400; 95-$1.80)—"Bell, Bare, Beautiful" (Indie) and "Naked Holiday" (Indie). Good $3,400. Last week, "Free, White, 21" (Indie) and "Playgirl After Dark" (Indie), $3,200.

Trans-Lux (T-L) (500; 95-$1.80)—"Running Man" (Col) (2d wk). Weak $3,000. Last week, $5,500.

World (Rugoff) (500; 95-$1.80)—"8½" (Emb) (2d wk). Fast $6,600. Last week, $7,000.

Yorktown (SW) (1,000; $1.49)—"Carry On Regardless" (Indie). Fine $4,200. Last week, "La Dolce Vita" (Indie), $2,800.

LOS ANGELES

(Continued from page 9)

Bed" (Emb) (m.o.). Fine $3,300. Last week, "Sporting Life" (Cont) (5th wk), $2,200.

Fox Wilshire (FWC) (1,990; $2-$2.40)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Good $9,000. Last week, $10,000.

Beverly (State) (1,150; $2-$2.40)—"Wives and Lovers" (Par) (4th wk). Stout $4,500. Last week, $5,000.

Hollywood Paramount (State) (1,468; $1.55-$2.40) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (6th wk). Bustling $14,000. Last week, $16,000.

Chinese (FWC) (1,408; $2-$2.40)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (16th wk). Tall $11,000 or over. Last week, $12,000.

Vogue, El Rey (FWC) (810; 856; $1.25-$1.49)—"Women of World" (Emb) and "David and Lisa" (Cont) (14th wk, Vogue; 1st wk, El Rey). Breezy $7,000. Last week, Vogue, $5,500.

Pantages (RKO) (1,512; $2.50-$5.50 — "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Classy $32,000 or close. Last week, $36,500.

Warner Hollywood (SW) (1,291; $1.25-$2.80) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (35th wk). Lofty $23,000. Last week, $21,900.

Warner Beverly (SW) (1,316; $1.65-$3.50)—"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (44th wk). Solid $10,000. Last week, $11,400.

'Shock' Hotsy 8G, Cincy; 'Cleo' 9G, 17

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.

"Shock Corridor" looks nice at Palace as lone downtown entry currently. Sound holdovers and two state conventions are offsetting the sting of pro-basketball's season start and airings of Cincy Royals games. "V.I.P.s" in fourth week at Albee and "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" in second frame at Keith's are standout. "Cleopatra" bids for a nipup in 17th round at Grand. Ditto for "How West Was Won" at Capitol and "Irma La Douce" at outlying Valley. Outlook is fairish for "The Leopard," daydating hilltop arters.

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (3,100; $1.25-$1.80)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Nice $9,000 after $9,500 last week.

Capitol (SW-Cinerama) (1,540; $1.25-$2.75) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (32d wk). Big $8,000. Last week, $8,500.

Esquire Art (Cin-T-Co) (500; $1.25)—"The Leopard" (20th). Fair $1,500. Last week, "Sporting Life" (Cont), $1,300. Daydating Hyde Park Art.

Grand (RKO) (1,396; $1.80-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Nice $9,000, and a lift over $8,500 last week.

Guild (Vance) (272; $1.25)—"The Suitor" (Indie). Meek $1,200 Last week, "Name Is Ivan" (Indie) (2d wk), $1,000.

Hyde Park Art (Cin-T-Co) (700; $1.25)—"Leopard" (20th). So-so $1,200. Last week, "Sporting Life" (Cont), $1,000.

Keith's (Cin-T-Co) (1,500; $1.25-$1.50)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Oke $6,000 after $7,500 for first.

Palace (RKO) (2,600; $1-$1.25)—"Shock Corridor" (AA). Fine $8,000. Last week, "Rampage" (WB), ditto.

Twin Drive-In (Cin-T-Co) (West side only, 800 cars; $1)—"Girl Hunters" (Indie) and "Murder On Campus" (Indie). Fair $6,000. Last week, "Man With X-Ray Eyes" (AI) and "Terrified" (AI), $7,000.

Valley (Cin-T-Co) (1,275; $1.50-$1.80)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (12th wk). Solid $7,000 after $7,500 in 11th round. Holds to Nov. 13 when "Under Yum Yum Tree" (Col) opens.

'Zoo' Moderate $9,500, Frisco; 'West' Wow 26G

San Francisco, Oct. 22.

Only two new films unveiled here currently and they are not proving much of a boost to biz. "Horrors of Black Zoo" looks moderate on opener at Paramount while "Running Man" is rated fairly good in first at the St. Francis. "How West Was Won" still is great in 34th session at Orpheum. "Lawrence of Arabia" shapes hotsy in 39th round at the United Artists.

Estimates for This Week

Alexandria (United Calif.) (1,444; $5)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (17th) wk). Big $17,000 or close. Last week, $18,000.

Coronet (United Calif.) (1,250; $2-$2.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Nice $4,500 or near. Last week, $5,000.

Embassy (Dibble-McLean) (1,400; $1.75)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Great $11,000 or thereabouts. Last week, $11,500.

Esquire (No. Coast) (846; $1.25-$1.50)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) and "Hud" (Par) (subruns) (2d wk). Big $6,500. Last week, $7,500.

Golden Gate (RKO) (2,850; $1.25-$1.50)—"Rampage" (WB) (2d wk). Slow $7,000 or near. Last week, $11,000.

Metro (United Calif.) (1,000; $1.75-$2)—"Mondo Cane" (Times) (21st wk). Good $2,800. Last week, $3,000.

Music Hall (Ros) (365; $1.49)—"L-Shaped Room" (Col) (18th wk). Fine $2,200. Last week, $2,500.

Orpheum (Cinedome) (1,439; $2.75-$3.95) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (34th wk). Pushing to great $26,000 or close. Last week, $25,000.

Paramount (Par) (2,646; $1.50-$1.75)—"Horrors of Black Zoo" (AA). Moderate $9,500 looms. Last week, "Shock Corridor" (AA) (9 days), $8,000.

Presidio (Art Theatre Guild) 750; $1.25-$1.50)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (6th wk). Hep $2,800. Last week, $3,000.

St. Francis (Par) (1,400; $1.50-$1.75)—"Running Man" (Col). Fair good $10,000 or close. Last week, "Cry of Battle" (AA), $7,500.

United Artists (No. Coast) (1,148; $3-$3.75)—"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (39th wk). Torrid $9,500 or near. Last week, $10,000.

Vogue (S. F. Theatres) (365; $2)—"Stranger Knocks" (T-L) (9th wk). Big $3,000. Last week, $4,000.

Warfield (FWC) (2,656; $1.50-$1.80) — "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Okay $9,000 or close. Last week, $14,500.

'Toys' Slick $8,000 In Balto; 'Altona' Good 6G; 'Irma' Great 11G, 15th

Baltimore, Oct. 22.

Downtown and suburban firstruns are slightly up this week via new films doing well. "Toys in Attic" is nice in first at suburban Ambassador. "New Kind of Love" is lively in same at the Town. "Condemned of Altona" looms good in first at tiny Charles.

Still leading the holdovers is "Cleopatra," good in 17th round at the Hipp. "Irma La Douce" looks sock in 15th session at downtown Little and suburban Senator. "V.I.Ps" is fair in fourth stanza at Stanton. "The Leopard" shapes fast in second at Mayfair.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (Durkee) (800; 50-$1.50)—"Toys in Attic" (UA). Good $8,000 in first week of return to firstrun policy.

Avalon (Freedman) (850; $1.50) — "Playgirl and War Minister" (Union). Fair $2,000. Last week, "The Law" (Embassy), $2,500.

Charles (Fruchtman) (500; 50-$1.50) — "Condemned of Altona" (20th). Good $6,000. Last week, "Mouse on Moon" (Lope) (4th wk), $4,000.

Five West (Schwaber) (435; 90-$1.50) — "Playboy of Western World" (Janus). Fair $2,000. Last week, "Mondo Cane" (Times) 9th wk), $1,900.

Hippodrome (T-L) (2,200; $1.50-$3.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Fine $13,000. Last week, $14,500.

Little (T-L) (300; 50-$1.65) — "Irma La Douce" (UA) (15th wk). Great $5,000. Last week, $5,500.

New (Fruchtman) (1,600; 50-$1.50)—"Women of World" (Embassy) (4th wk). Pleasing $6,000. Last week, $8,000.

Mayfair (Fruchtman) (700; 50-$1.50)—"Leopard" (20th) (2d wk). Hep $8,000. Last week, $12,000.

Playhouse (Schwaber) (365; 90-$1.50) — "L-Shaped Room" (Col) (16th wk). Steady $2,000. Last week, $2,100.

Stanton (Fruchtman) (2,800; 50-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (20th) (4th wk). Fair $8,000. Last week, $12,000.

Senator (Durkee) (960; 90-$1.50)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (15th wk). Big $6,000. Last week, $4,000.

Town (T-L) (1,125; 50-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Smooth $10,000. Last week, "Haunting" (MGM) (2d wk), $8,000.

Rex (Freedman) (1,100; $1.50)—"Scum of Earth" (Indie). Fair $3,000. Last week, "Naked Witch" (Indie) (2d wk), $1,500.

Det. Solid; 'Lilies' Sockeroo $20,000, 'Rampage' Hot 12G; 'V.I.P.s' Wham 22G

Detroit, Oct. 22.

Strong newcomers are combining with strong holdovers to add up to good grossing prospects this week. "Lilies of Field" is whopping at Grand Circus on opener. "Rampage" shapes good at Palms also in first. "The Haunting" looks nice at the Adams for initial round. "Cleopatra" stays wham in 17th session at the United Artists. "How West Was Won" continues mighty for 34th round at Music Hall. "V.I.P.s" smash fourth week.

Estimates for This Week

Fox (Downtown Fox Corp.) (5,041; $1.25-$1.49)—"That Kind of Girl" (Indie) and "Young Go Wild" (Indie) (2d wk). Oke $10,000. Last week, $13,500.

Michigan (United Detroit) (4,926; $1.25-$1.49)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk). Terrific $22,000. Last week, $22,500.

Palms (UD) (2,995; $1.25-$1.49)—"Rampage" (WB) and "Voodoo Village" (Indie). Good $12,000. Last week. "Johnny Cool" (UA) (2d wk), $11,000.

Madison (UD) (1,408; $1.25-$1.49)—"Leopard" (20th) (3d wk). Down to okay $5,000. Last week, $6,000.

Grand Circus (UD) (1,400; $1.25-$1.49)—"Lilies of Field" (UA). Great $20,000 or close. Last week, "Stolen Hours" (UA), $11,000.

Adams (Community) (1,700; $1.23-$1.50) — "Haunting" (MGM) and "Dune with a Halo" (MGM). Fine $9,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk), $8,000.

United Artists (UA) (1,667; $1.50-$3.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (17th wk). Wham $15,000 or near. Last week, $15,200.

Music Hall (Beacon Enterprises) (1,213; $1.25-$2.80) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (34th wk). Wow $14,500. Last week, $14,000.

Mercury (Suburban Detroit) (1,468; $1-$1.80) — "New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Hep $7,000. Last week, $7,500.

Trans-Lux Krim (Trans-Lux) (980; $1.65) — "Sporting Life" (Indie) (3d wk). Good $4,500. Last week, $6,000.

BROADWAY

(Continued from page 9)

Monday (21). In ahead, "La Poupee" (Hakim) (8th wk). Down to mild $3,500 in five days after $3,800 for seventh regular week.

Little Carnegie (Landau) (520; $1.25-$2)—"Sporting Life" (Cont) (15th wk). The 14th session finished yesterday (Tues.) was passable $5,500 after $6,000 for 13th week.

Murray Hill (Rugoff Th.) (565; $1.50-$2)—"Lilies of Field" (UA) (4th wk). Third week completed Monday (21) was smash $12,000 or close after $14,000 for second frame.

Paris (Pathe Cinema) (568; $1.50-$2) — "Devil and 10 Commandments" (Union) (2d wk). First round ended Sunday (20) was fine $10,000.

Plaza (Lopert) (525; $1.50-$2)—"Leopard" (20th) (11th-final wk). The 10th stanza completed Monday (21) was fast $6,500 after $7,000 for ninth. "Muriel" (UA) is due in Oct. 30.

Sutton (Rugoff Th.) (561; $1.50-$2) — "Any Number Can Win" (MGM) (3d wk). Second session ended Monday (21) was sockeroo $18,000 or close after $22,000 for opener.

Toho Cinema (Toho) (299; $1.50-$2) — "Chushingura" (Toho) (3d wk). This week ening tomorow (Thurs.) is heading for great $8,000 or near after $9,000 for second.

Tower East (Loew) (588; $1.50-$2)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (10th wk). Ninth stanza ended Monday (21) was fine $6,000 or near after $7,000 for eighth.

Trans-Lux East (T-L) (600; $1.25-$2) — "Gone Are the Days" (Indie) (5th wk). Fourth session ended Sunday (20) was big $7,200 after $8,700 for third. "All Way Home" (Par) opens Oct. 28.

Trans-Lux 52d St. (T-L) (540; $1.25-$2) — "Rampage" (WB) (2d wk). First round finished yesterday (Tues.) was okay $5,700. Daydating with Paramount. "Face of War" (Janus) replaces Oct. 31.

Trans-Lux 85th St. (T-L) (550; $1.25-$2) — "Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk). Initial week ended yesterday (Tues.) was okay $6,000. "The Leopard" (20th) opens Oct. 30.

FROM THE MA
VARONE'. . . . .

The Boxoffice Barrage Begins With This Two

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1963.

THIS, WE PROMISE, IS A FILM YOU

ON JUNE 8, 1961, when we announced the American premiere of Carl Foreman's "The Guns Of Navarone" at the Criterion Theatre, we made the following statement:

"This, we promise, is the most exciting motion picture you will ever see."

If you were one of the millions upon millions of people throughout the world who were thrilled by "The Guns Of Navarone," and who made it one of the greatest box-office attractions in movie history, you know that we didn't let you down. We kept our word.

Now we have the good fortune to present "The Victors" —Carl Foreman's first film since "The Guns Of Navarone." Once again the American premiere takes place at the Criterion Theatre, with a concurrent engagement at the Sutton Theatre. And once again, with absolute confidence, we are making you a promise:

1. In all your life, you have never seen a film like "The Victors."
2. "The Victors" is a film you will never want, or be able, to forget.

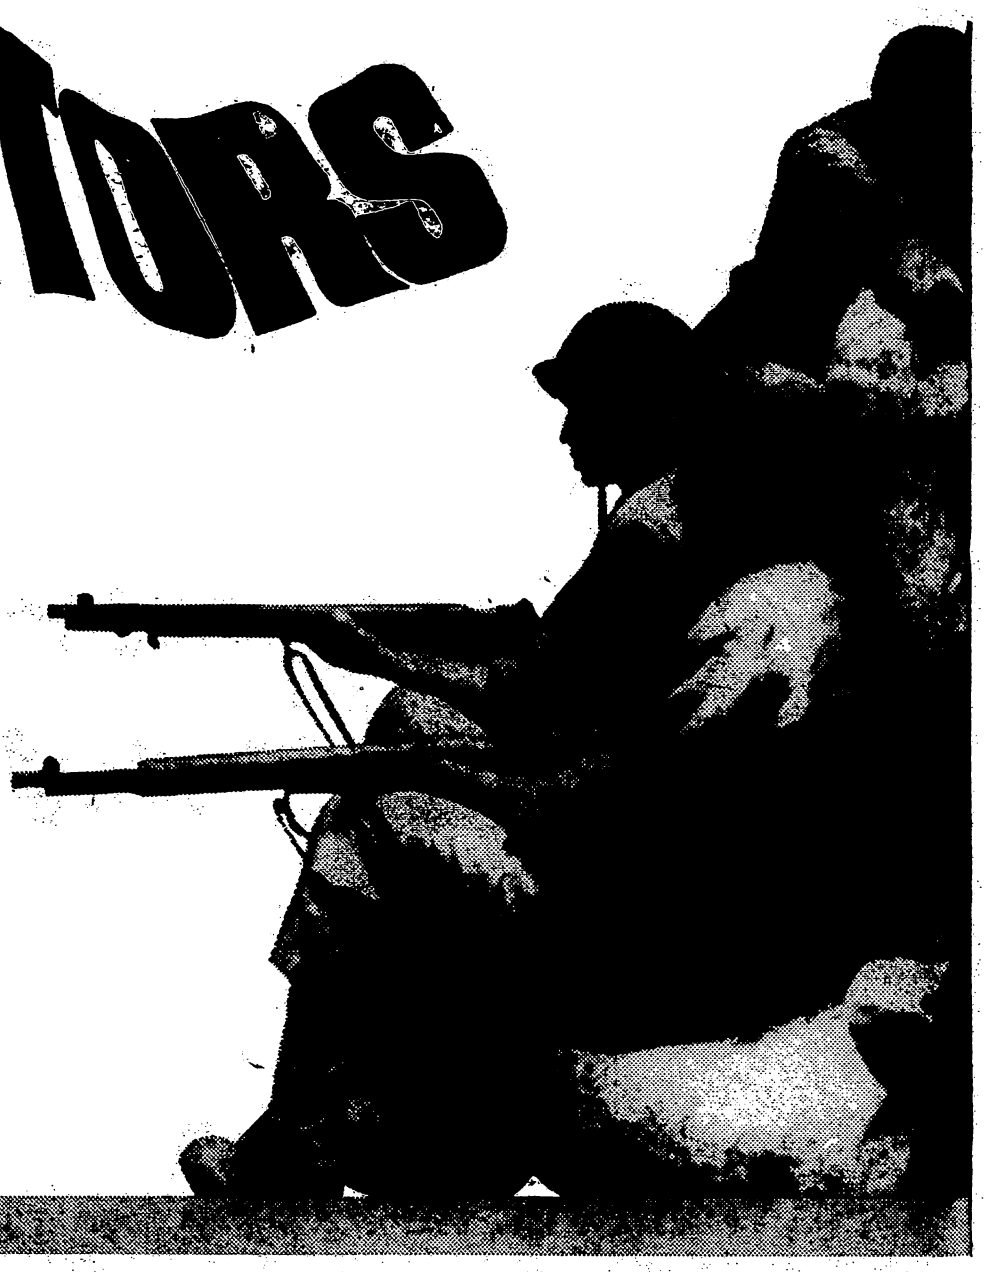
Finally, we predict: In its uncompromising honesty, "The Victors" will be the most controversial film of this or any other year.

COLUMBIA PICTURES
presents
CARL FOREMAN'S

THE VICTORS



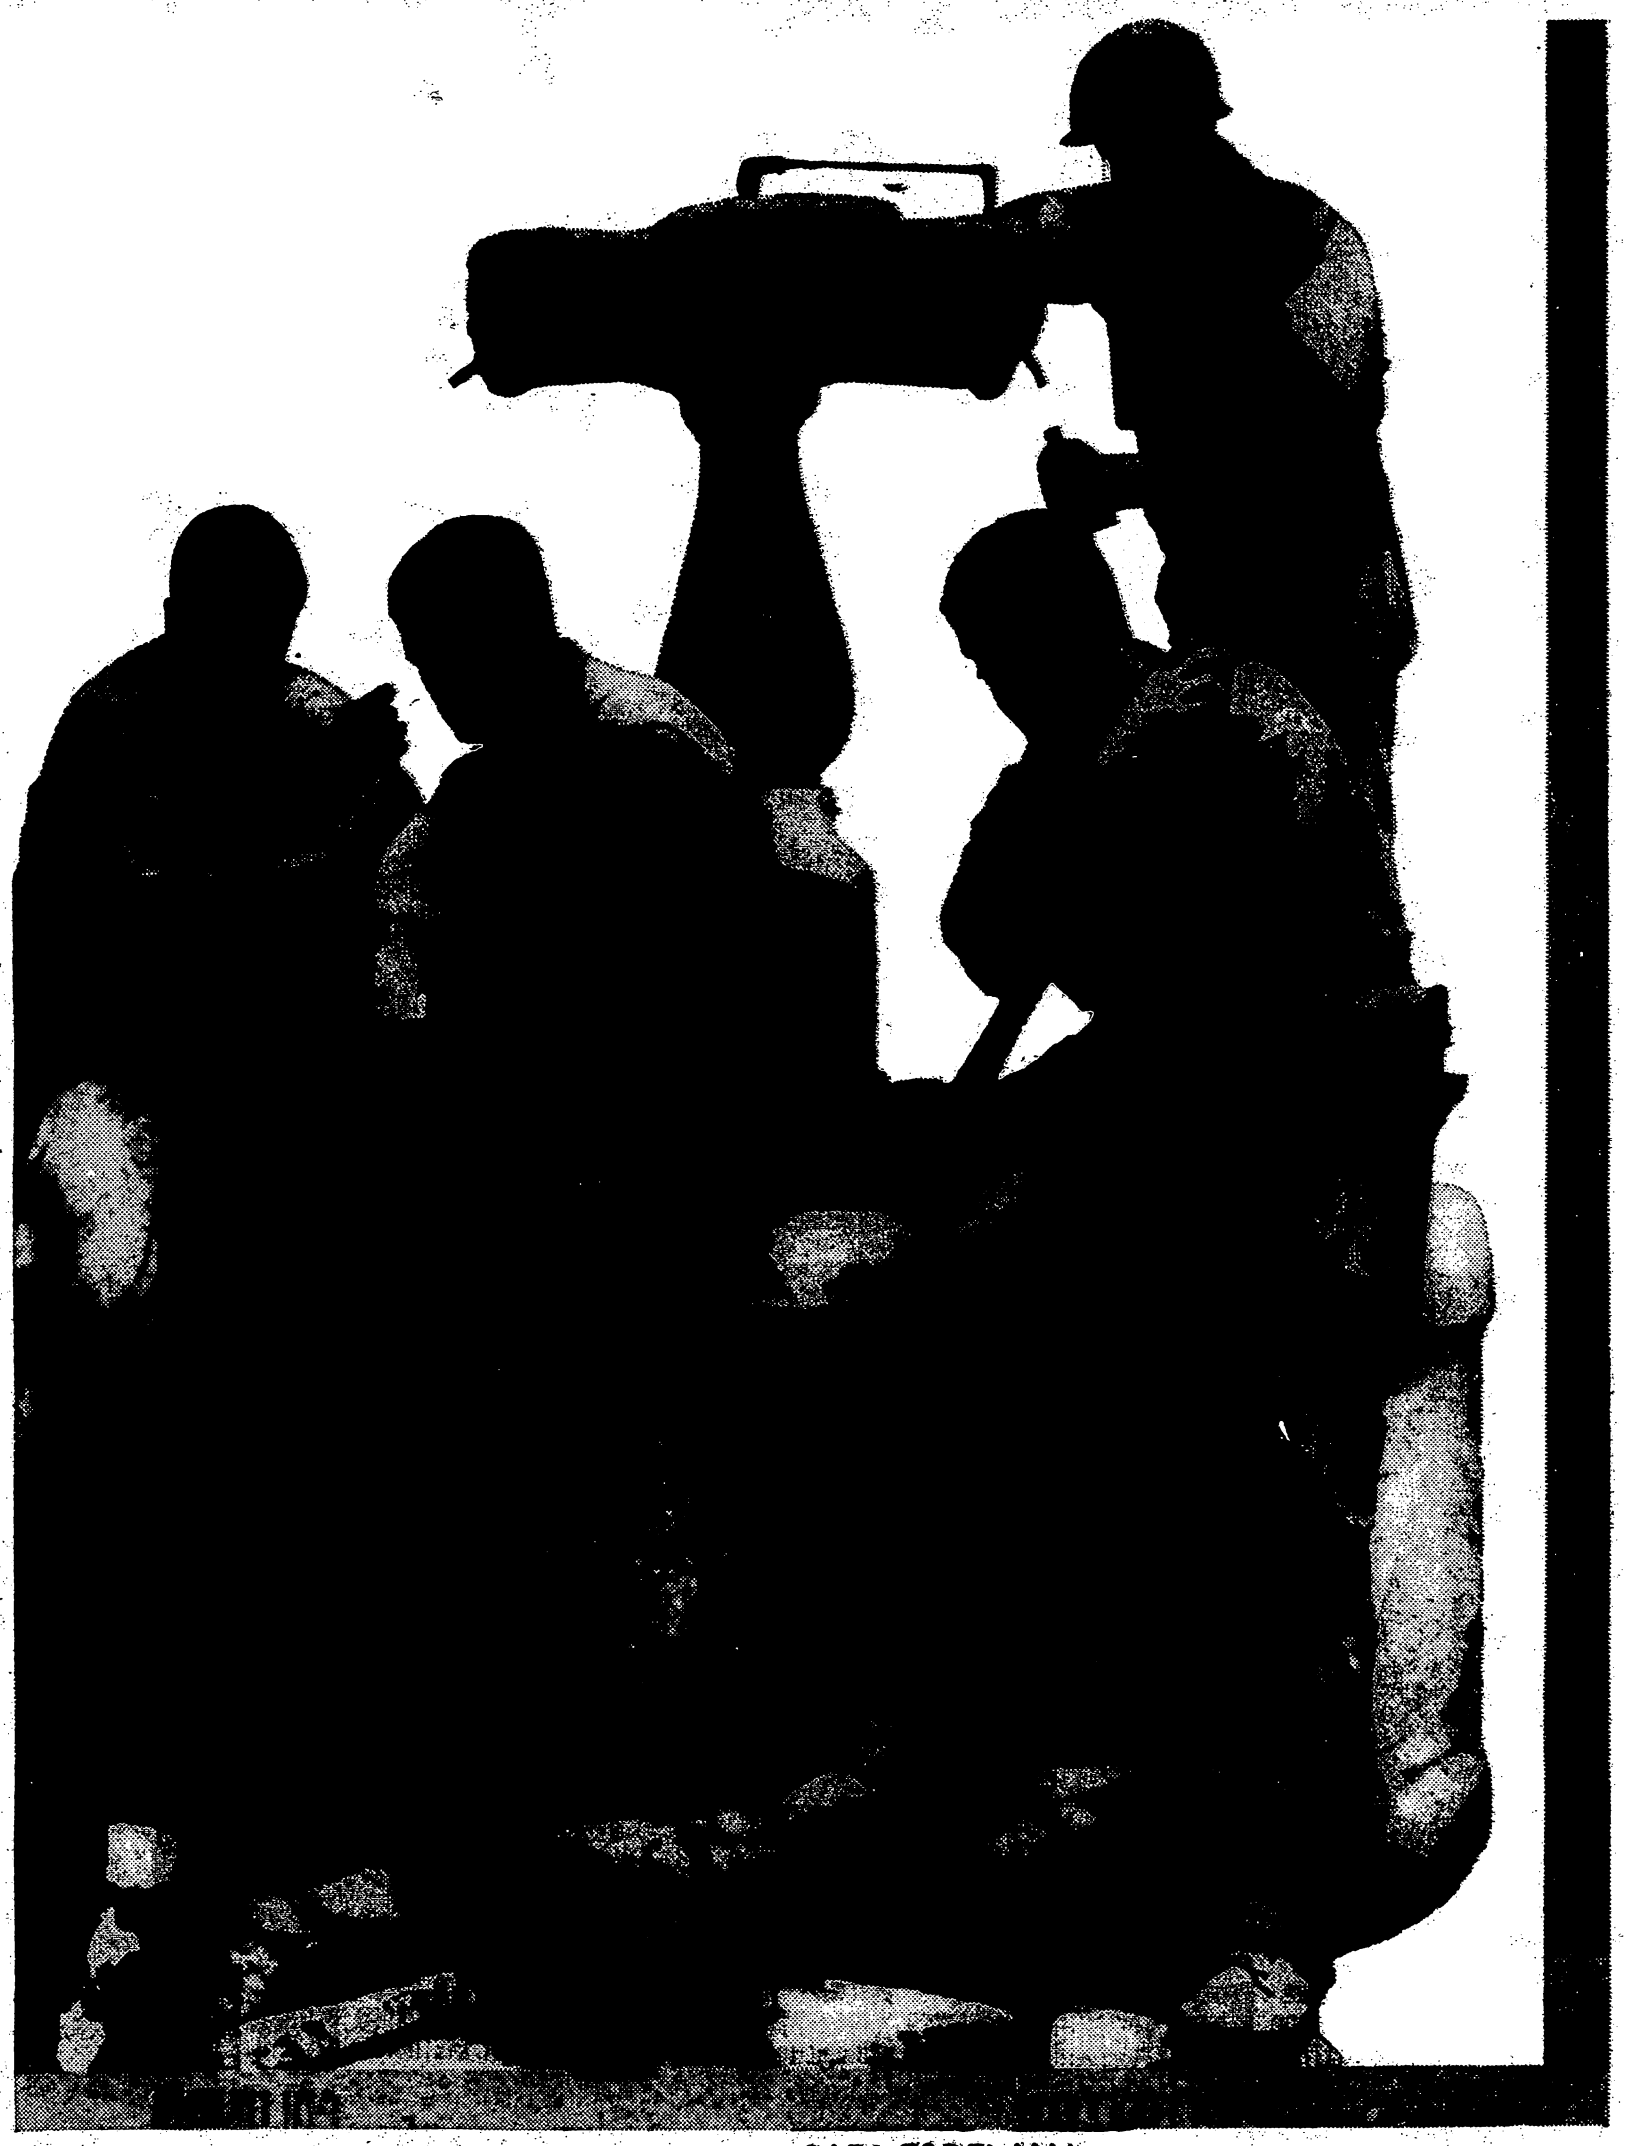
American Premiere New York Dec. 19th
Criterion Theatre and Sutton Theatre
Royal Premiere Performance: London Nov. 18th
Royal Premiere Performance: Stockholm Dec. 13th
Royal Premiere Performance: Copenhagen Dec. 17th
Los Angeles Premiere Dec. 22nd

starring VINCENT EDWARDS · ALBERT FINNEY · GEORGE HAMILTON · MELINA MERCOURI · JEANNE MOREAU · GEORGE PEPPARD · MAURICE RONET · ROSANNA SCHIAFFINO · ROMY SCHNEIDER · ELKE SOMMER · ELI WALLACH · and MICHAEL CALLAN as ELDRIDGE · co-starring PETER FONDA · JAMES MITCHUM · SENTA BERGER · and JOEL FLATEAU

-page ad In New York And Los Angeles !

THE NEW YORK TIMES, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1963.

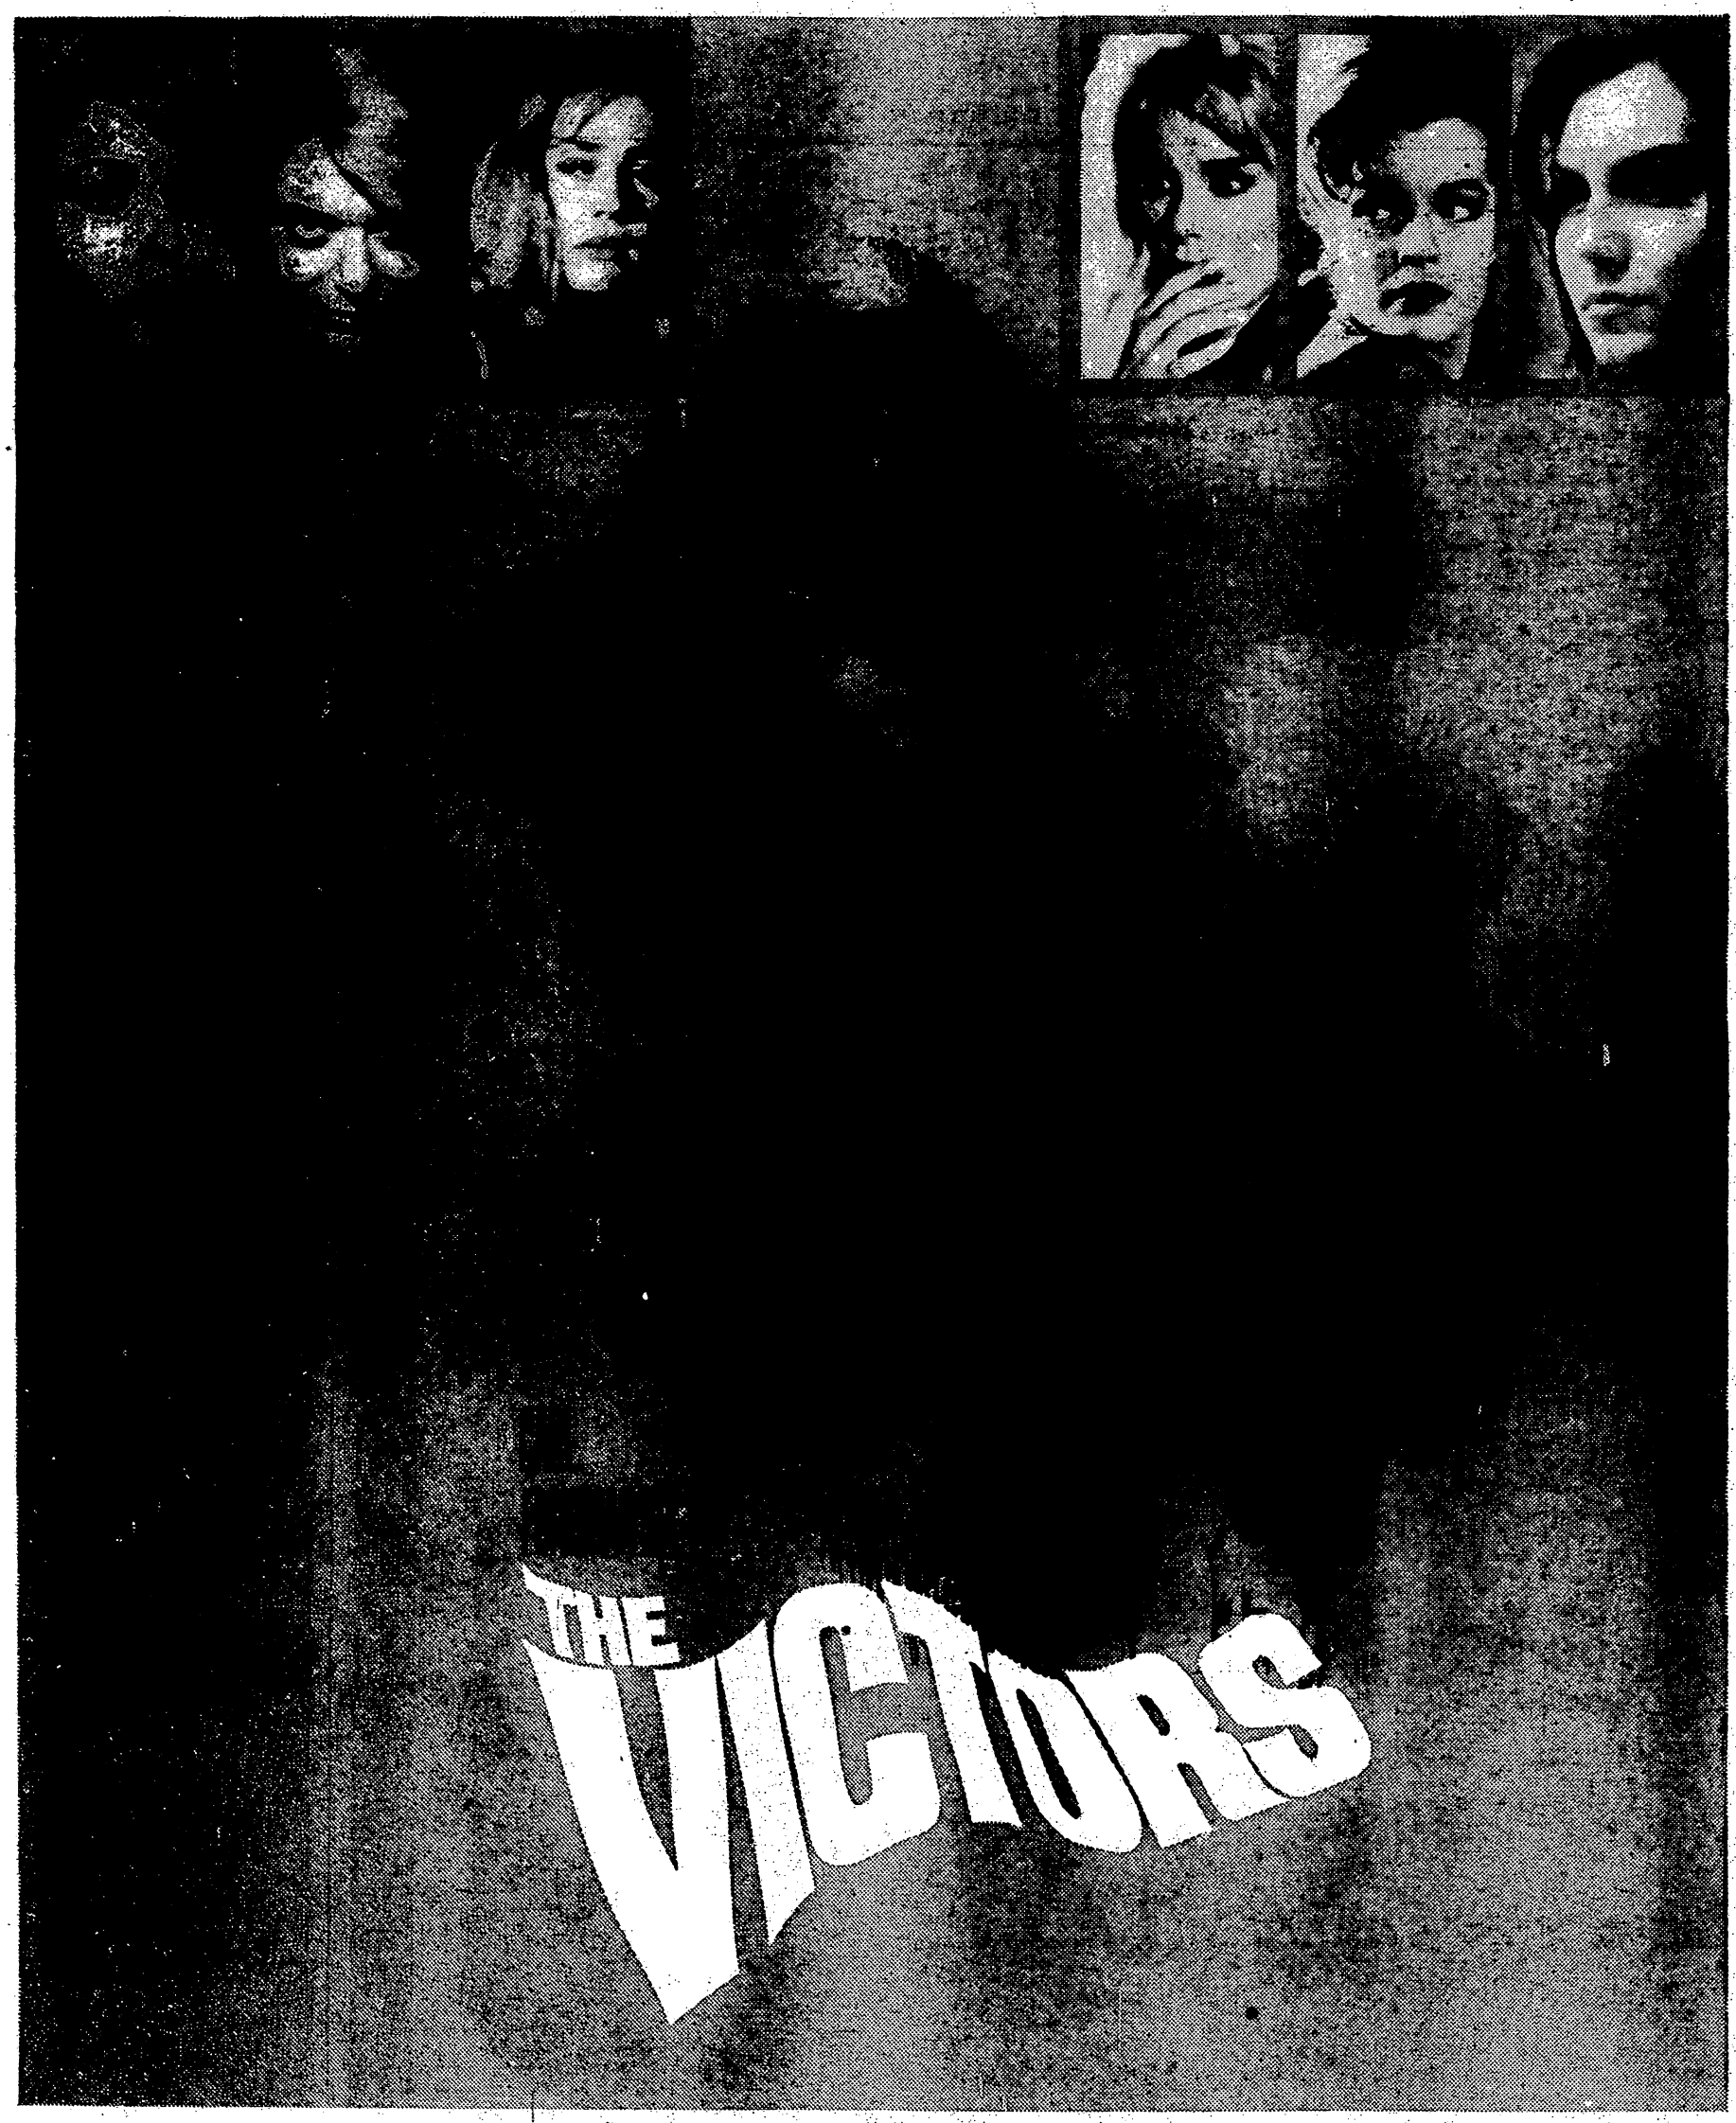
WILL NEVER WANT TO FORGET!



From the book by ALEXANDER BARON · Music by SOL KAPLAN · Written, Produced and Directed by CARL FOREMAN

A HIGHROAD PRODUCTION · PANAVISION®

THE SIX MOST EXCITING WOMEN IN THE WORLD...
THE MOST EXPLOSIVE ENTERTAINMENT EVER MADE!



starring VINCENT EDWARDS · ALBERT FINNEY · GEORGE HAMILTON · MELINA MERCOURI · JEANNE MOREAU · GEORGE PEPPARD · MAURICE RONET · ROSANNA SCHIAFFINO · ROMY SCHNEIDER · ELKE SOMMER · ELI WALLACH · and MICHAEL CALLAN as ELDRIDGE · co-starring PETER FONDA · JAMES MITCHUM · SENTA BERGER · and JOEL FLATEAU

From the book by ALEXANDER BARON · SOL KAPLAN Written, Produced and Directed by CARL FOREMAN A HIGHROAD PRODUCTION · PANAVISION®

...From COLUMBIA

San Francisco's 21 From 17 Nations

San Francisco, Oct. 22.

Twenty-one features from 17 countries will be unspooled here at the seventh annual San Francisco international film fest getting underway next Wednesday (30) and running through Nov. 12. In addition to the 35m feature competition, fest will also sponsor competitions in 35m shorts, 35m newsreels, 16m art films and 16m communications films.

Carl Foreman's "The Victors" kicks off the fest the evening of Nov. 30 with its world preem screening at the Metro Theatre, where all fest events are held. The Columbia release, however, will not be in competition. The other 20 features, all of which are in competition, are as follows:

"The Paper Man," Mexico, Oct. 31.
"Weekend," Denmark, Nov. 1.
"The Lizards," Italy, Nov. 2.
"No Way Out," The Philippines, matinee, Nov. 3.
"The Sharkhunters," Mexico, and "The Spitting Image," Netherlands, double-billed, evenings, Nov. 3.
"The Boxer," Czechoslovakia, Nov. 4.
"The Aimless Ballet," Korea, and "Kozara," Yugoslavia, double-billed, Nov. 5.
"The Courtesan," India, and "How To Be Loved," Poland, double-billed, Nov. 6.
"The Innocents," Argentina, and "Paula Gautiva," Argentina, double-billed, Nov. 7.
"The Doll," Sweden, and "The Moving Finger," U.S.A., double-billed, Nov. 8.
"An Optimistic Tragedy," Russia, Nov. 9.
"The Love Eterne," Hong Kong, matinee, Nov. 10.
"My Enemy The Sea," Japan, evening, Nov. 10.
"A Pleasant Young Gentleman," Greece, Nov. 11; and "Being Two Isn't Easy," Japan, Nov. 12.

During the daytime hours on Nov. 6-8, the Metro will show—free of charge, to the public—the series of approximately 40 16m pix in competition in the films-as-communication category. A similar program of free shorts will be shown on the afternoons of Nov. 4-5. There will be a charge, however, for the 16m films-as-art showings during the day Nov. 11.

Jurors include American author Eugene Burdick; Hollywood director-writer Delmer Daves; Mexican director-actor-producer Emilio Fernandez; former Venice fest director Flores Ammannati, and Russian director Sergei Mikhalkov. Irving M. Levin is founder and fest director.

Second Metro 'Flipper' On Screen Before Video Version Ready For Air

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Metro, following up b. o. success of "Flipper," has assigned its producer-director, Ivan Tors, to film a sequel, "Flipper And The Pirates" skedded for January shooting. Art Arthur will write screenplay. Luke Halpin will repeat role of boy.

Tors left over weekend for West Indies to scout location sites, having just returned from South African shooting of "Rhino," also a Metro release. Sequel will not interfere with announced teleseries, based on dolphin-boy saga, for which Metro is committed to NBC-TV, to be aired during 1964-65 season. However, Tors will not participate in teleseries "Flipper And The Pirates" will be completed and in release before first tv seg goes on air.

DIRECTORS CONTINUE TOWARD A MERGER

Those merger negotiations between the Screen Directors International Guild and the Directors Guild of America are still going on. In progress for the past months, the talks are believed progressing and there's still a note of optimism regarding the eventual effecting of a merger.

There are many points to be worked out. Thorn-bearing issues are not identified. Usual fear of leaks prevails. Elements on both sides favor merging but way may be long and hard. As someone put it, "as long as we're talking, we're not fighting." And that's an important point. Two groups have had some pretty bitter battles in the past.

Gloom In Wake of 'Mirror's' Doom

By ABEL GREEN

(Re the text below: N.Y. film touters rue demise of Mirror especially. Never snooty, paper was ever a god haven for stories re new releases.)

Dramatic shutdown of the N.Y. Daily Mirror, second largest daily in the U.S. (circulation, over 800,000 daily and 1,000,000 Sunday)—so sudden in fact that Mirror staffers bitterly complained they "had to learn it from radio and tv broadcasts"—puts Hearst's N.Y. Journal-American and the N.Y. Daily News in the spotlight in the circulation race. It also puts the Hearst afternoon J-A, which has started a round-the-clock "starlight edition", in focus with its mutiplicity of Broadway and other columnists, and conjecture as to how these "will shake out". The Daily News, top U.S. circulation (2,000,000 daily, 3,000,000 Sunday) tabloid, is also after a division of the Mirror's circulation and claims having added over 400,000, which would consitute 50% of the now defunct tab's circulation.

The Mirror's foldo was one of the best kept newspaper secrets despite recurrent rumors, focusing chiefly around "merging" with the "meme maison" Journal-American. Repeatedly, however, Mirror publisher Charles B. McCabe had pointed to the Mirror's circulation advances and denied it categorically although, to intimates, when William Randolph Hearst Jr. was asked the same question not too long ago he laconically replied, "Anything can happen in this day and age of costs". Hearst, incidentally, came to the Mirror's East 45th St. plant on the evening of the foldo (he usually headquarters in the Hearst Magazines Bldg. on 8th Ave. and 57th St.). Also present were grandson John Hearst Jr., an associate editor of the Mirror.

Scoopers Scooped

The complete surprise of it all was dramatized, for example, by Robert Coleman, the paper's drama critic and oldest in consecutive employment staffer (two weeks less than the paper's 39 years' existence) who was told it between acts at the show he was reviewing. TV-radio columnist John David Griffin, for example, left the Mirror at 4:50 without being told but within the ensuing hour his secretary phoned it to him. Vet tv-radio editor "Uncle" Nick Kenny, just out of St. Clare's Hospital (N.Y.) following a siege of hepatitis, learned it from broadcasts—"I must be a helluva tv-radio editor when I had to learn it from over the air," he commented. Walter Winchell's longtime "girl Friday" Rose Bigman phoned the columnist that "that rumor is around again and maybe there's something to it this time".

The shift of a phalanx of Mirror's columnists to the Journal-American raises show biz and journalistic conjecture on "how will they shake out eventually".

The News, which acquired the "good will, physical assets—two printing plants—and other intangible assets", took over relatively fewer features, dominantly in the cartoon field (Al Capp's "Li'l Abner", "Henry", "Joe Palooka", "Kerry Drake", "Dan Flagg", "Mickey Finn", "Apartment 3-G", "Brother Juniper", "Rex Morgan" plus the "Post Position" (racing competition) and Geraldi's "Roosevelt Form" (also racing), plus Sidney Fields' "profile-interview" column, "Only Human", Edgar Ansel Mowrer's "World Affairs" (political column), and "By George!", another humor column.

Journal's Galaxy

Walter Winchell, "Society by Suzy" (she's Aileen Elder in private life), Dan Parker (sports), Victor Riesel (labor), Bill Slocum (Gotham scene), "Dear Abby" (lovelorn; she's Abigail Van Buren, in private life Mrs. Morton Phillips), Milt Caniff's "Steve Canyon" cartoon; Drew Pearson's "Washington Merry-Go-Round," Harry Hershfield, Sheilah Graham are the Mirror headliners who were shifted to the Journal-American.

Dorothy Kilgallen, Louis Sobol and Bert Bacharach already cover the Broadway-show biz scene; the new "Cholly Knickerbocker" (Charles Van Rensalaer, who succeeded Igor Cassini) and a flock of Hearst Headline Service and King Features syndicated columnists have long been in the Journal-American.

Mirror staffers stated that after 29-1/2 years the severance pay will come to 60 weeks' salary. Coleman and Kenny, among the byliners, would qualify. So would Dan Parker except that he is set at the J-A.

With the formal announcement of the Mirror's abrupt cessation of publication with the Wednesday (Oct. 16) issue was stated that "over $3,500,000" in severance pay would be disbursed.

Mirror people who were shifted without breach either to the J-A or News do not get severance pay; this is merely a continuance of service.

Reputed Big Loss

The Mirror reportedly lost $2,500,000 to date in the 1963 semester forcing the Hearst Corp. to the decision because of prohibitive mounting costs and continued losses. Latter, in postmortem analysis, reportedly could have been curbed, or even could have turned into the black, had the 5c price been tilted to a dime, as did the afternoon sheets. Even a 7c price could have put the Mirror on the road into the profit ledger, but since the News decided to adhere to the nickle, presumably in light of its healthier linage volume, the Mirror couldn't risk the tilt. Conjecture now is that the News, with the a.m. tabloid field 100% to itself—the newly competitive "starlight" edition of the J-A in a kingsize or "standard" daily—will go to 10c.

The Mirror's move also puts spotlight anew on a couple of other "sick" metropolitan dailies despite the fact that there are now only six in the field—the a.m. Times, Trib and News and the afternoon J-A, World-Telegram & Sun and Post.

16 In Heyday

At the turn-of-the-century New York had 16 newspapers—the Times, Commercial Advertiser, Herald, Morning Journal, Mail & Express, Evening News, Post, Press, Morning Sun, Eve. Sun, Telegram, Tribune, Morning World, Eve. World, Star and Gazette.

As late as 1930 Gotham and a dozen dailies, including the Times, the merged Herald-Tribune, Post, Mirror, the then separate Journal (p.m.) and American (a.m.), News, Graphic and four dailies that later merged into one but then individually known as the Telegram, Morning and Eve. World, and the Sun.

George Barrett's N.Y. Times story of the Mirror's foldo is for the archives, an excellent report on a topical news, even fortified by a thorough backgrounding of the dwindling Gotham newspaper scene; the history of the Hearst dynasty; the pros-and-cons of reported factionalism within the Hearst top echelon (Dick Berlin, Bill Hearst Jr. et al.); the "Old Man's" feudal living and spending (Hearst Sr.); the dynasty's economics, etc.

The Times was alone in editorializing on "Death of The Mirror", concluding, "The Mirror was no ornament to the profession; but it did have its own character, it did appeal to nearly a million readers a day, did add some variety to the city's press. Above all, it was a living, breathing newspaper which yesterday had printer's ink running in its veins and today is but another chapter in the history of the Hearst empire".

The News has made no comment on Guild attacks for alleged moves to "monopolize" the morning tabloid field in New York although there will be more on that, successful or otherwise, as Newspaper Guild spokesmen plan taking their cause to the U.S. Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, coincidentally, spoke out against the Mirror's demise, counseling other newspapers "to do some soul-searching" if they want to survive.

114-Day Strike Hit All

The 114-day newspaper blackout which affected all seven New York dailies from pre-Xmas well into the New Year had many of them against the financial ropes.

The Mirror claimed it never recovered. All the others pointed to the fact that none quite recovered their former circulations, an historic cataclysm once the reading habit is broken. Along with circulation, advertising linage hit all seven dailies following the 114-day blackout.

(Now that "we had our legs cut out from under us", as one Mirror byliner put it, there is heard comment that the unions might have been in a mood dicker if the Mirror management had given any realistic information that things were that tough, before its peremptory foldo).

Mirror management postmortem observation was "that if it had to be done, best it be done pronto instead of confusion by prolonging the agony with any 'two weeks' notice'."

To this, final-edition Mirror staffers point to the lack of confusion—and the irony of it—as the paper decided to print all four editions. And this was done by a stunned albeit surprisingly nonalcoholic staff.

(The "Front Page" Hecht & MacArthur stuff seemingly belongs to the Prohibition era, Chicago newspapering days, because the staffers went about their jobs with professionalism despite the shock, interupting only to reassure wives and kin that what they heard in radio-tv was correct). However, there was a little of the farewell toasting; also some lachrymose moments as some collected their personal belongings and others decided not to be haunted by any ghosts and left most of their stuff behind.

Jimmy Breslin did some good color for the Trib on the foldo, and the Post also went in for the sentiment. The Times' coverage was strictly topical and historic.

Besides the News' 2,500,000 circulation figures—"over 400,000 additional" as result of the Mirror's death—the N.Y. Times estimated a 35,000 tilt; the Trib, which ran 30,000 extra, claimed having sold 20,000.

The J-A, which was stymied in its first-night attempt with the "starlight edition" but since okayed by the pressmen's union (which had stated this publication move called for "renegotiation"), is trumpeting its Mirror's columnar and other feature acquisitions to pick up some of that around-the-clock extra circulation.

Publisher Charles B. McCabe established an employment bureau at the paper and James Baysinger, in charge, said "a number of placements" have been made.

Mirror staffer Thomas J. Murphy, executive veepee of the N.Y. Newspaper Guild, said that the State Labor Dept. had okayed unemployment benefits to be paid pronto without the normal one-week waiting period.

At the "Jennie" premiere, the newspaper bunch, seemingly looking for veteran aislesitter Bob Coleman to felicitate him, were struck by his absence and asked the VARIETY man if the management perchance had suddenly withdrawn firstnight privileges to the Mary Martin musical. So happened Coleman told this reporter he "would pass up this opening as he didn't want to have to answer a lot questions".

Coleman recalled how he got the job two weeks after the Mirror's founding in 1924. George Holland had it, but when brothers-in-law George M. Cohan and Sam H. Harris offered him a p.a. legit job, he asked Coleman would he become the legit and movie critic. (Holland, Harris and Cohan were married to the three Nolan Sisters). Coleman eventually brought in Dorothy Herzog to handle films. Coleman says, "I've never had a real vacation in all these 39 years, other than when they put me on a boat to Nassau to recover from an illness some years ago, and I'm just gonna take a nice long one until something hops up".

Broadway had two "personal" sorrows, unusual in a Street preoccupied with its own travail. The loss of the Mirror hit the Main Streeters with the same impact as did many of its 800,000-1,000,000 readers; and the other focused around Mary Martin. She was saluted by all for her Spartan courage in giving-her-all with undoubted full knowledge that "Jennie" was below-par for a MM vehicle.

Yank Group's O.O. Of Soviet Studios

Washington, Oct. 22.

Producer-director Frank Capra heads a film delegation going to Moscow for a technical look-see at the Soviet picture industry.

Group left for Russia Saturday (19) to reciprocate a visit to this country by a Soviet delegation.

Also in the group are three officers of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers. They are SMPTE exec. v.p. Ethan Stifle of Eastman Kodak; engineering v.p. Dr. Deane White of Dupont and society Governor William Gephart, Jr. of General Film Laboratories in Hollywood.

In Moscow the group will visit Mosfilm Studios, the Moscow Film Copying Plant, the State Institute of Cinematography, the All-Union Scientific Research Cinephotographic Institute and a color film printing plant.

Then the delegation will tour studios in Leningrad, Kiev, Odessa, Tbilisi and Alma Ata before their Nov. 10 return to the U.S.

Fellows-Fishbein-duPont Start Spillane Yarn In Jan. '64; First of Four

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Producer Robert Fellows, who is partnered with financiers Sam Ford Fishbein and Mrs. Ricky duPont in new company to bear their names, will first produce "The Snake" in January. It derives from the upcoming Mickey Spillane "Mike Hammer" novel and in which Spillane will star as well as adapt to screen. Roy Rowland will direct $750,000-budgetter.

Fellows, who last did a 10-pix John Wayne slate ending in 1956, will follow with "The Green Woman," unpublished Spillane yarn (not a "Hammer" tale), and also is prepping "Formosa," which he projected several years ago as both an RKO and Warner Bros. production but never was launched. Marion Hargrove, who scripted originally, will update screenplay. New combine also owns all Spillane properties.

Fishbein, meanwhile, is in midst of building a $3,000,000 theatre and sound stage facility in Phoenix, to open in January under tag of Arizona Center. Center will operate as a legit house, with 3,000 seats, first four months of every year, then can be converted to a sound stage for motion picture filming.

Set for first season here are Betsy Palmer in "South Pacific"; Anna Maria Alberghetti, "Firefly"; Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme, "Pal Joey"; John Raitt, "Kismet".

SPAIN'S DOCU CONGRESS BESTOWS ITS PRIZES

Bilbao, Oct. 22.

Fifth International Documentary Film Congress awarded its prize to the Canadian entry, "Pour la Suite du Monde," and named the Czech short, "Grandmother Cibernatic," and "Un Present du Fleuve" from France in runner-up trophy positions.

Brazil won the Latin American contest and a gold medal for "History of Praia" and Spain's "Biscay 4" ran second. Denmark walked off with the top prize in the Children's Film Division with "The Bicyclist," based on a Hans Christian Andersen tale.

Saamuel Bronston's "El Camino Real," produced last year in California and Majorca to commemorate the 250th anniversary of Fray Juniper Serra, who founded a network of missions along the California coast, received the Jaime de Foxa Cup.

Founded by the Baron de Guell, the festival has been making strides beyond its original conception as a Latin American documentary gathering—including the Philippines and Portugal. This year, entries were screened from Germany, Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Greece, Holland, Hungary, England, Italy, Canada, the United States, Austria China, India, Japan and Morocco—giving the fest Int'l scope beyond the 12 nations participating from Hispano-America.

U.S. Supreme Court Sure to Hand Down Crucial Censor & Copyright Decisions

Washington, Oct. 22.

A major censorship ruling will likely highlight the show business opinions of the U.S. Supreme Court which opened its new term recently.

The stage was set for a major censorship review last term when the Court decided to hear back-to-back arguments on two film and book banning cases. Arguments had already been heard on the conviction of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, theatre owner Nico Jacobellis for showing "The Lovers." When the tribunal agreed later to hear the case of Los Angeles book dealer Bradley Smith, convicted for selling the Henry Miller novel "Tropic of Cancer," it took the unusual step of rescheduling "The Lovers" case.

From the combined cases the Court is expected to set guidelines for lower courts and juries to decide what is obscene and what is artistically and socially important.

The heed for new rules apparently stems from the conflicting lower court decisions on the present high court censorship standards. Several years ago the tribunal said the rule for determining obscenity is whether to the average person, applying community standards, the dominant theme of the material taken as a whole appeals to the purient interest and is devoid of social importance.

Also on the court docket are several other censorship cases and issues of anti-trust in film distributing and exhibiting, FCC and broadcasting and the legal responsibilities of bandleaders.

Censorship

A New York bookseller wants the court to hear his case and work into its censorship doctrine rules for works containing suggestions of perverted sex. The bookseller, Harry Fried, was convicted under the state's obscenity law for selling a paperback "College for Sinners."

A Lakewood, Calif., book dealer is asking the court for an opinion on whether he has to know if a book is obscene before he can be convicted for selling it. The dealer, Samuel Dodd Williamson, said California law doesn't accept as a defense the bookseller's belief that the work sold isn't obscene.

The manager and an employee of Oaks Theatre in Pasadena, Calif., want a ruling in a case where they said they had to prove film shown was not obscene. Eugene Wenzler and John Imlay were convicted in Pasadena Municipal Court for showing the film "First Fling."

A Florida author wants the tribunal to rule on the state's obscenity law, under which his book about a brothel madame was banned.

Robert Tralins, author of "Pleasure Was My Business" said the expose "is socially valuable" and contains "vital matters of public concern." He also questioned the expertise of state witnesses who said the book didn't measure up to Miami's community standards.

Copyright

Harry Toulmin, author of "With Pershing in Mexico" wants the court to decide a "fair use" issue. His infringement suits against the publishers of the novel "They Came to Codura" were rejected by the U.S. District Court in Dayton, Ohio and the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Toulmin says Glendon Swarthout author of the novel copied two phrases from his factual account giving the novel "an air of authenticity." He says this is infringement and not "fair use" as the lower courts ruled.

Broadcasting

ASCAP's licensing practices are getting another fling by 346 stations.

The tribunal turned down the stations' appeal last year for ASCAP licenses covering only their programs and not web or syndicate products. The stations are asking the court to decide if they can appeal a U.S. District Court ruling against them to an Appeals Court. Last year, after the Supreme Court rebuff, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that only the high court could hear appeals resulting from the ASCAP consent decree.

The Eleven-Ten Broadcasting Corp., licensee of KRLA, Pasadena, Calif., is asking the tribunal to rule if FCC can revoke a license on grounds not listed in the original hearing notice. The station is backed by the Immaculate Conception Church of Los Angeles and the Lake Congregational Church of Pasadena who say KRLA is the only area station carrying religious programs. FCC's revokation of KRLA's license was upheld by the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

Films—Antitrust

A Philadelphia theatre owner wants the court to rule on the grounds used by a U.S. District Court in rejecting his antitrust suit against three other theatre owners and the seven major distributors.

Viking Theatre Corp, owner of one house in Philadelphia, says the Federal Court put too many limits on the evidence it could present in the case. Viking's lawyer is Edward Bennett Williams.

Viking charged William Goldman Theatres and Stanley Warner, each owning three first runs, and Fox, owning one, with conspiring with the distributors to divide the market and drive Viking out of business.

The District Court only accepted as evidence films for which Viking bid and then ruled the house didn't have enough evidence to prove conspiracy or claim injury. This ruling was upheld by the Third Circuit Court of Appeals.

Music

American Federation of Musicians wants the High Court to decide if a bandleader, who as a union member, collects and turns over union dues to headquarters, is violating the Taft-Hartley Act. That law forbids employers to give money to unions.

In the case of AFM New York local 802 versus Ben Cutler, the union wants a court ruling on whether a bandleader or the person hiring the band is the legal employer.

The U.S. District and Appeals Courts in New York said the bandleader, collecting dues from sidemen, is an employer and issued injunctions against this practice.

Disney-Ralke In Quiet Ending of 'Trade Secret' Tiff

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Legal dispute between Walt Disney Productions and Ralke Co. of Los Angeles over rights to Disney's 360-degree projection system, Circarama, and counterclaim filed by Ralke have been dismissed by mutual consent, according to Donn Tatum, Disney executive veepee, who stated no monetary consideration was involved in termination of actions.

Disney originally started litigation against Ralke in an alleged "trade secret" suit over the system, which features a theatre with a 360-degree screen, and Ralke charged unfair competition in $1,500,000 counter-suit. He contended the 360-degree projection dates back to 19th Century, and could not involve "trade secrets" either of his organization or of Walt Disney Productions.

Tatum in his statement said, based upon testimony taken and an examination of records, no evidence was found of any infringement of the Disney rights with respect to process up until time of settlement Oct. 17.

HIPP, CLEVE, SWITCH

Babin to Operate—Silverthrone Remaining

Cleveland, Oct. 22.

Elmer Babin, owner of several Cleveland downtown buildings, is taking over operation of Hippodrome Theatre Nov. 1. He owns the Hippodrome Building which houses the 3,500-capacity house. Current leaser is the Eastern Hipp Theatre Corp. of which Robert Smerling of Newark, is vice president.

Jack Silverthorne, manager of the Hippodrome for 13 years, stays on as general manager. New duties include buying and booking first-run product for the independent house which will be run by Hipp Bldg. Co.

SIR ROBERT KERRIDGE EYES YANK PRODUCT

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

"There will be a revival in cinema visits providing theatres and exhibitors really get out after it. The general stream of product that is coming off the line is very good," stated Sir Robert Kerridge, head of New Zealand's Kerridge-Odeon Circuit, while here. The circuit chief, whose chain is a proprietary company owned equally by himself and the J. Arthur Rank syndicate, is here for a few days enroute to New Zealand from a two-month visit in Britain.

"Although my visit is in the nature of a stopoff, I have many business associations here and it provides not only an opportunity to look at some of the new product but to know where the interest is going. We're very optimistic in New Zealand and the current year, which goes through the end of March, will be our record year to date. We're working at it and during the past year have erected nine new theatres."

Sir Robert also explained that the K-O Circuit had 130 theatres in New Zealand with the major houses located in the metropolitan areas. These houses include some that are exclusively for live theatre as, with the absence of tv in New Zealand, live entertainment has remained an important part of showbiz. Some of the houses are also equipped to serve dual purposes, being primarily film theatres but equipped for legit when so desired.

"We have no television, and therefore we have had the advantage of seeing what could happen if it did materialize. However, it is not too likely at present. Our tastes in theatre and films is basically the same as those in Australia. There's comparatively little interest in New Zealand in foreign-language films and most of the product is British and American. There's almost no film production, a few documentary shorts and that's about it.

"However, Kerridge-Odeon is also the largest distributor of motion pictures in New Zealand and we handle all the British and most of the American 16m films. This is a very important item with all the military posts, schools, etc. These are in addition to the approximately 500 theatres in New Zealand," he stated.

Asked about censorship or classification of films, Sir Robert said that it was handled indentically as the British handle it with most of the classifications or cuts being those that were used in Great Britain.

Film Inspection Service Forced to Reemploy Ousted Roy Hirstius

Washington, Oct. 22.

National Labor Relations Board has cited Film Inspection Service Inc. of New Orleans for unfair labor practices. A three-member panel of the Board upheld a Trial Examiner's recommendation for the unfair labor rap on the company which inspects and repairs motion picture film for shipment to Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida for seven major distributors.

In backing the examiner's recommendation, the Board ordered the company to reinstate a business agent for Local B-57, IATSE and the Motion Picture Machine Operators of the U. S. and Canada.

The business agent, Roy Hirstius was fired after several disputes with company prez Daniel Brandon. The Board upheld the Examiner's reasoning that Hirstius was discharged primarily because of union activities although other factors were involved.

Under the Board's decision the company is ordered to rehire Hirstius without prejudice to his seniority and other rights and with full back pay.

Panel members were NLRB Chairman Frank McCulloch and members John Fanning and Gerald Brown.

Amusement Stock Quotations

Week Ended Tues. (22)

N. Y. Stock Exchange

1963 High	1963 Low		*Weekly Vol. in 100s	Weekly High	Weekly Low	Tues. Close	Net Change for wk.
15⅜	12⅛	ABC Vending	201	13⅞	13⅛	13⅛	— ¼
38¼	27⅞	Am Br-Par Th	666	33¾	31⅞	33¾	+1
21⅜	14½	Ampex	1084	19⅜	17⅞	19⅛	+1⅛
81¾	42½	CBS	473	81¾	76⅛	80⅝	+4
18¾	12⅛	Chris Craft	153	13¾	13	13¼
29½	22¼	Col Pix	107	25½	23¼	23⅞	—1⅜
46	45⅛	Decca	12	45½	45½	45½
46⅜	27¾	Disney	469	45⅜	44	44¼	— ½
122⅜	106⅛	Eastman Kdk	449	114½	110⅜	113	+2½
6⅜	5¼	EMI	117	5¾	5½	5⅝	+ ⅛
16½	9⅝	Glen Alden	241	14⅜	13¾	13⅞	— ⅜
23¾	15¾	Loew's Thea.	81	17⅝	17¼	17¼	— ⅛
68¾	48	MCA Inc.	27	64	61½	62¾	+1¾
37¼	15	Metromedia	678	37¾	34½	37	+2¼
37¼	28	MGM	176	32½	30¾	30¾
12¾	7⅞	Nat. G'l Corp.	753	11⅜	9⅞	11¼	+1½
24¾	20½	Outlet	†1430	22¾	22	22¾	..
53⅛	35¼	Paramount	235	51⅝	48¼	48⅜	—2⅜
211½	120½	Polaroid	1424	167½	150½	152⅝	—8
93½	56	RCA	3157	93½	78½	91¾	+13⅝
10¼	6¾	Republic	60	9⅜	9⅛	9⅜	+ ⅛
16⅝	14	Rep. pfd.	7	15⅝	15½	15½	— ⅛
25¾	20½	Stanley War.	65	24½	23⅝	24
45⅜	31	Storer	30	40½	39¾	40½	+ ½
28¼	17⅞	Taft Bdcst.	516	24¾	23½	24⅛	+ ⅛
37	20	20th-Fox	307	33¼	31⅛	31⅞	— ⅛
32	17¾	United Artists	345	24⅛	22⅛	22⅞	— ⅞
16¼	12⅞	Warner Bros.	650	15¾	14⅝	15¼	+ ¾
75	51	Zenith	1791	75	66⅜	74⅝	+8⅝

American Stock Exchange

4	2⅛	Allied Artists	162	3⅜	2⅜	2⅞	+ ⅜
8¾	5	BalM'nt GAC	25	7	6½	7
12¼	6¾	Cam-P'kway	56	9¼	8¾	8¾	+ ¼
24⅞	16⅞	Cap. Cit. Bdc.	104	22⅞	20½	21⅞	+1⅝
17½	12⅞	Cinerama Inc.	454	16⅜	15⅜	15¾	— ⅛
9	6½	Desilu Prods.	48	7½	1¼	7⅜	— ¼
8¾	4¾	Filmways	134	8¾	8¼	8¼	— ⅛
11⅞	9	Movielab	6	9¾	9¼	9½	+ ¼
13	5¾	MPO Vid	167	13¼	10⅜	13¼	+3
3⅝	2⅛	Reeves Bdcst.	11	3	2⅞	2⅞	..
5⅛	2⅞	Reeves Ind.	149	3⅜	3⅛	3⅛	— ⅛
17¾	13¼	Rollins Bdcst.	32	16	15¼	16	+1⅛
25⅜	16¾	Screen Gems	19	20½	19⅞	20	+ ⅛
22	8⅝	Technicolor	1651	22	20⅝	20⅝	— ⅝
6¾	4⅛	Teleprompter	225	6	4¾	6	+1¼
2¾	⅞	Tele-Indus	110	1¼	1⅛	1¼	+ ⅛
14½	11	Trans-Lux	8	12	11½	11⅝	— ⅛

* Week Ended Mon. (21).
†Actual Volume.

(Courtesy of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc.)

Over-the-Counter Securities

	Bid	Ask
Commonwealth Theatres of Puerto Rico	6⅛	7	+ ⅛
Four Star Television	10¼	11¼	+1
Gen. Aniline & Film	335	363	—5
General Drive-in	9⅝	10½	— ⅛
Magna Pictures	1⅝	2	..
Medallion Pictures	14¾	16	+ ½
Pickwick International	4	4¾	— ¼
Premier Albums	5⅞	6⅝	..
Rust Craft Greeting Cards	12	13⅛	— ¼
Seven Arts Productions	7½	8⅛	+ ⅛
Transcontinent Television	19	20⅛	— ⅛
U. A. Theatres	10¼	11¾
Universal Pictures	66	70½	..
Walter Reade-Sterling Inc.	3½	4⅛	+ ¼
Wometco Enterprises	37½	40¼	+3¼
Wrather Corp.	7¼	8	+ ½

(Source: National Assn. of Securities Dealers Inc.)

British Films Face Deep Crisis

Continued from page 3

will mature. However, the Films Council was in secret session again yesterday (Mon.), though there was little prospect of any immediate action.

To a large extent, there appears to be a defeatist attitude to the problem. Among five major trade associations, only the Federation of British Film Makers has come out openly in favor of immediate remedial measures such as the creation of a third circuit, higher Quota, etc.

It has the backing, whether it likes it or not, of the Federation of Film Unions, which is openly challenging threats of redundancy and demanding strong action either from industry or the government. The FFU was in session last weekend formulating an agreed policy to combat the redundancy threats.

As an ironical tailpiece, even the most diehard conservatives among the film producing fraternity believe that there is no hope of governmental intervention until the Labor Party returns to power. In the event of a Socialist victory at the next general election—whenever that may be—Harold Wilson would certainly be named Prime Minister.

The industry recalls his vigorous measures, as president of the Board of Trade, in 1948 when he introduced a 45% Quota for British films and sponsored legislation to create a Government films bank, via the National Film Finance Corp. He will certainly have priority political issues on his agenda if and when he becomes premier, but he is remembered as someone with knowledge and practical experience about the film industry.

Patman

Continued from page 4

Industries, Louis Chesler, Circle Film Laboratories, Carona Productions, Dor Theatre Television Co., Essex Universal Corp., Fabian, Film Management Corp. James Kaufman, Spyros Skouras, David Stillman, Moulin Productions, Stillten Productions, Triple-B Productions, Zwillinger Productions, Joseph Harris, Associated Productions, Robin International, Horizon-Sam Spiegel, Holiday Films, California Studios.

This year 350 leading theatres throughout the land say MERRY CHRISTMAS with

TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX PRESENTS

doris day
james garner
polly bergen IN

AN AARON ROSENBERG-MARTIN MELCHER PRODUCTION

"move over, darling"

COLOR BY DeLUXE

CO-STARRING
THELMA RITTER · FRED CLARK · DON KNOTTS · ELLIOTT REID AND WITH chuck connors AS ADAM

PRODUCED BY AARON ROSENBERG & MARTIN MELCHER · DIRECTED BY MICHAEL GORDON · SCREENPLAY BY HAL KANTER & JACK SHER
BASED ON A SCREENPLAY BY BELLA SPEWACK & SAMUEL SPEWACK · STORY BY BELLA SPEWACK, SAMUEL SPEWACK & LEO McCAREY · CINEMASCOPE

Holiday Cheer From Coast to Coast At The Nation's Finest Showcases, Including:

CITY	THEATRE	CITY	THEATRE
ATLANTA	FOX	KANSAS CITY	PLAZA
BALTIMORE	LITTLE & UPTOWN	LOS ANGELES	SHOWCASE THEATRES
BOSTON	CAPRI	MEMPHIS	LOEW'S PALACE
BUFFALO	CENTER	NEW YORK	PREMIERE SHOWCASE
CHARLESTON	KEARSE	NEW ORLEANS	SAENGER
CHARLOTTE	CAROLINA	OKLAHOMA CITY	WILL ROGERS
CHICAGO	SHOWCASE THEATRES	PHILADELPHIA	FOX
CINCINNATI	VALLEY	PORTLAND	IRVINGTON
CLEVELAND	HIPPODROME	SALT LAKE CITY	UTAH
DENVER	CENTER	SAN DIEGO	CINEMA 21
DES MOINES	PARAMOUNT	SAN FRANCISCO	EMBASSY
DETROIT	PALMS	SEATTLE	COLISEUM
INDIANAPOLIS	CIRCLE	ST. LOUIS	FOX
JACKSONVILLE	CENTER	WASHINGTON	PALACE

and in Canada: Toronto ... Odeon Showcase Theatres; Montreal ... Loew's; Vancouver ... Vogue.

Stepchild Treatment Given Outside Producers by Majors—G. Montgomery

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Although he has had considerable experience as an independent producer, George Montgomery does not believe that there is adequate cooperation on the part of major studios with the smaller or medium-budget indie filmmaker.

"The studios do not help in any way to encourage such people to be creative," he said. "The amount of attention they give to the smaller indie company in the way of technical advice—particularly in the field of promotion and publicity where they could be really helpful—is neglible, only whatever is left over in the way of time and talent not required on their own major productions.

Montgomery is currently preparing production on two films which he and Ferde Grofe Jr. plan to shoot back to back, if possible, on location in the Zulu Sea, Mindanao, and the Philippines. They are "From Hell To Borneo," an action-adventure drama, and "The Girl—rillas," a comedy (his first). Both are medium budgeters and will be shot in Technicolor and Techniscope with primarily the same crews used on Montgomery's previous pix.

Montgomery expects to leave for the Philippines in three or four weeks and start shooting about Dec. 1. The film will be flown back to Technicolor here for processing. He will try to do some of the editing on the first film during the short lapse between films. Otherwise, both will have to await his return to Hollywood. Cutting and editing will take most of next summer and the producer hopes to have the first feature ready for fall, 1964, release. The other will follow in about six months.

A releasing deal has not yet been made. Montgomery said that he was presently having discussions with three different outlets —one of which is presumed to be Warners, which handled his three previous films.

Although the actor-producer-director got his legit "feet wet" in summer stock this year and last and is enthused enough about it to be willing to try a Broadway play, he doesn't see how he can undertake anything in that field for at least a year.

Look for Better Terms in Egypt

Motion Picture Export Assn. is expected to reveal shortly the successful conclusion of negotiations with the Egyptian government re the remittance impasse which has existed for the last eight or nine months.

During that time, the Egyptian government has—without formally blocking remittances of MPEA companies—simply refused to authorize the transferral of moneys earned by the U. S. film firms. Under the agreement which exists, the companies are allowed to remit 70% of their earnings, leaving 30% in Egypt, which is actually just about the amount required to run their offices.

It's understood that the MPEA's Rome rep, Leo Hochstetter, made a recent trip to Cairo where he was able to make arrangements for "the renewal and regular remittance, on a periodic basis," of the money being earned by the Yanks. Latter have continued to send new pix into Egypt despite the fiscal problems.

BURSTIN GROUP BUYS N.Y. FILMER FOR LEGIT

Loew's Commodore Theatre, a 2,715-seat film house on New York's eastside, has been acquired for legit by the Burstin Syndicate, headed by Joseph R. Burstin. Partnered in the venture with Burstin, who also has his own advertising agency, are Milt Warner and Bernard Waltzer. The three are also coproducing "The Theatre of Peretz" for a Nov. 5 opening at the Gate Theatre, N. Y.

The Commodore was acquired for a down payment of $50,000. Loew's holds a purchase money mortgage of $450,000.

1-Man Show Plus Pic

Milwaukee, Oct. 22.

Sumner Kernan, who has developed a one-man presentation called "The Effrontery of Walt Whitman," goes into the Downer Theatre next Wednesday (30) as added bait to Molière's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme," a film with players of Comedie Francaise. He has an option for an additional week.

Working on a raised platform in the orchestra pit, Kernan will give one performance nightly during the week and two each on Fridays and Saturdays, with a possible Sunday matinee. His program is flexible, running from 35 minutes to an hour, and the house is charging regular admission rates. Kernan, who sometimes works as a legit publicist in Milwaukee, has been giving the Whitman recitations at colleges, PTA groups and women's clubs.

Spain's Latest 'Western': 'Last of the Mohicans' With Jeffrey Hunter

Madrid, Oct. 22.

Production of Spain-made Westerns has stepped up a notch. German producer-director Harald Reinl is under way for a remake of "The Last of the Mohicans."

Coming back to Spain to star in this German-Spain coproduction is Jeffrey Hunter, who played the Jesus in "King of Kings" three years ago. Femme leads in "Mohicans" have been assigned to Geneieve Cluny and Dorian Grey. Spanish thesps Antonio Casas and Jose Guardiola round out the cast.

At the moment, there are four Westerns in production. Ty Hardin is directing and coproducing "Boudine," in which he heads up the cast. European-based Yank Frank Latimore is starring with Nuria Torrey in "Stagecoach Driver;" Tony Russell is protecting ex-Sophia Loren double Scilla Gabel at gunpoint in "Horsemen of Terror" and Spain-based American actor Richard Harrison gets Gloria Milland in "The Taste of Vengeance."

LOOKING AHEAD TO TOA: KLEIN'S TALK OPENER

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Eugene V. Klein, president of National General Corp., will deliver the opening talk next Monday (28) at the second Theatre Owners of America exhibitor convention in the Americana Hotel, New York. Klein will speak on subject "Horizons Unlimited."

Other skedded talks for the session include "The Progressive Exhibitor Looks Ahead," Richard A. Smith, General Drive-In Theatres, Bosont; "A Look Behind and A Look Ahead at Industry Legislation," E. LaMar Sarra, Florida State Theatres; "A Look at Pay-TV," Philip F. Harling, Stanley Warner Corp. and "A Look Ahead at Theatre Trends," Drew Eberson, New York.

Other speakers throughout the convention include Norman Levinson, Trans-Texas Theatres; Richard P. Brandt, Trans-Lux Corp.; Sidney Deneau, Continental Distrib. Co.; Melvin Brown, Peachtree Theatre, Atlanta, and Bosley Crowther, New York Times film critic.

Touter Sues Thesp

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

Charging breach of contract, publicist Paul Ross slapped a Superior Court suit against Barry Sullivan asking $21,350 judgment for services performed for actor and two Does.

Action claims Ross had an oral agreement with Sullivan for period Jan. 1, 1959 to April 1, 1962, under which the publicist was to receive 5% of Sullivan's yearly gross arnings. He claims pact was terminated in April, 1962.

DIVERSIFY INTO MUSIC

Walter Reade Unites With Composer Frank Loesser

Walter Reade - Sterling and Frank Loesser's Frank Music Corp. have formed a jointly owned music publishing company to be called Walter Reade-Sterling Music Corp. Purpose is the worldwide exploitation of music rights from film sources controlled by R-S and its subsids.

Frank will have complete management responsibility for the company, with R-S supplying copyrights to its film scores and soundtracks. R-S and Frank each will appoint three directors to the new company's board, with R-S owning 50.5% of the outstanding common stock.

EMBASSY IN CENSUS: 30 NAMES, 9 FLAGS

Embassy Pictures, Joseph E. Levine's indie, has 30 top-billed actors from nine different countries starring in Levine releases. Although that fact itself is a rather contrived newsmaker, it does demonstrate the broadening scope of the Embassy operation.

Represented in this talent array are eight features starring thesps from the U.S., Italy, England, France, Germany, Russia, Belgium, Wales and Sweden.

The U.S. is repped in Levine's little United Nations by Carroll Baker, Elizabeth Ashley, Bob Cummings, Martha Hyer, Alan Ladd and George Peppard, all in "The Carpetbaggers" which Paramount is distributing internationally. Then there's Sammy Davis Jr. in "Three Penny Opera," Peter Falk and Arthur Kennedy in the Italian-Russian-American coproduction "Italiano Brava Gente," Jack Palance in "A Ghost at Noon," Bette Davis in "The Empty Canvas" and Peter Lawford and Davis Jr. in "The Major and the Private."

The Italian contingent consists of Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni who costar in "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" and who both have and continue to figure prominantly in Levine's production program. Mastroianni will next make "Casanova" for Levine and later will do a pic or two in the U.S. for him.

England finds Jack Hawkins in "Zulu" and June Ritchie in "Opera" while Wales has Stanley Baker in "Zulu," which he also coproduced, and Sweden is represented by Ulla Jaconsson in the same picture. From Germany there's Horst Buchholz in "Canvas," Curt Jurgens, Hildegarde Neff and Walter Giller in "Three Penny" and Frtiz Lang in "Ghost." France has Brigitte Bardot in "Ghost," Lino Ventura in "Opera" and Georges Wilson in "Canvas." The Soviet Union has three top stars in "Gente," namely Gianna Prokhorenko, Tatiana Samoilova and Leo Prokunof. Catherine Spaak reps Belgium in "Canvas."

As diverse as the nationalities of the performers are the locales where the pictures were made. And there are more projects in works involving several of these people and places in future work. It all serves to demonstrate the UN style of production which has become Levine's pattern and is a growing modus operandi among several of the more progressive filmmaking outfits around today.

Critic, Now 79, Junketing 'Mad, Mad World' Preem

Albany, Oct. 22.

Edgar S. Van Olinda, critic and columnist for Albany Times-Union, who celebrated his 79th birthday, was among those honored by Greater Albany Chamber of Commerce at a "Salute Breakfast" in De Witt Clinton Hotel here.

Van Olinda, who will fly to Los Angeles Oct. 29 for the Coast premiere of "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad World," was specifically saluted for his contributions to community music.

A former tenor and member of the old Albani Quartet (which made stage appearances in local theatre, years ago), as well as of St. Peter's Episcopal Church Choir and the Albany Mendelssohn Club, "Van" recalled that the first motion pictures he saw were in Sunday School—before film houses were in operation. Initial feature film he viewed was "The Great Train Robbery," at Albany's Leland Theatre, then operated by the late F. F. Proctor.

Making Films While Making a Nation

Erik Barnouw has combined a career as associate professor of dramatic arts at Columbia U. with active moonlighting in radio and video scripts. Taking a Fulbright year off in India recently, the result is a Columbia U. Press volume at $7.50 in collaboration with S. Krishnaswamy, "Indian Film." It is a peculariarly interesting perspective from which to approach that (a) new nation and (b) ancient culture.

Emphasis is given the propaganda reliance upon films of its own creation by the Indian government. This creates clashes between the commercial industry and the government, since the latter favors itself and its educational objectives while the boxoffice showmen of India complain that they get scant aid to compete in the world markets and, against that neglect, have local screen time preempted for the showing of government documentaries.

The book carries a great many fascinating photographs and is rich with anecdota of the curious studio practices and screen plots of Indian feature films. Readers of VARIETY over the years will already have obtained insights into the incredible profusion of production there and the financial failure of most of it, together with the unheard-of rates of usury.

Barnouw books presents the panoramic sweep of the phenomenon of a nation with three main Hollywoods of its own—Madras, Bombay and Calcutta—producing in different dialects. If much of the product has been folksy and primitive, some great classics have been produced. India, too, shares with California subservience to the tyranny of fantastically paid film stars.

The book should have a lasting usefulness as a handy reference source. The growing numbers of students who study the cinema as a medium of international communication must find this rewarding stuff. Certainly among the more cerebral denizens of our own U.S. production complexes many will read "Indian Film" with fascination and respect.

Land.

Delmer Daves, On WB Talent Quest In Gotham; Ducks Frisco Festival

A revitalization of Warner Brothers' young talent program is indicated with the arrival in New York Monday (21) of Delmer Daves on a special talent-story hunt. The producer-director-writer, who had been set to be one of the jurors at the upcoming San Francisco film fest, reported he had had to withdraw from the fest at the last minute when WB prez Jack L. Warner asked him to spearhead the New York search.

Daves, who has made some of WB's most profitable pix in the past, especially those spotlighting young talent, reported that he's been given virtual carte blanche in optioning properties and even to testing talent in New York which cannot get to Hollywood because of current commitments.

Producer-director noted that WB's young talent roster, which had been closely tied with the company's tv activities, had recently become thinned out and thus the decision now to beef it up with new contractees. He also reported that this program is closely tied to a new emphasis at WB on production by the theatrical film arm, much of which currently is stemming from Broadway plays and literary properties.

Daves expressed disappointment that he had had to cancel his stint in San Francisco, where fest opens next week, but explained that "after all, Warner does pay my salary." When he had accepted the jury job originally, he said, he had anticipated that just prior to going to the fest he would have finished a first draft of a new screenplay, and would have used the Frisco trip as a brief respite. However, he had found no likely new property on which to start work in the last six weeks, and thus was open to another assignment from Warner's which turned out to be this talent hunt.

He has been working closely with Frisco fest director Irving Levin to find a replacement, and expected one might be set today (Wed.). Daves expects to be in New York at least two weeks and perhaps longer.

Exhib—Forgotten Statutes

Albany, Oct. 22.

"Many" motion picture theatres in New York State are violating the law, by admitting children to evening performances, "without having a matron in attendance."

Louis M. Pesce, of the State Education Dept., so remarked during testimony before Joint Legislative Committee on Offensive and Obscene Material.

It marked the first time this point has been publicly made at the Capitol in recent years.

A spokesman for Joint Committee also declared that a New York City ordinance prohibits the admission of children to theatres "during school hours."

Greco-Turco-Italo 'Flesh & Flower'

Indie producer-director Marion Gering is preparing the production of "Flesh and The Flower" to be shot in Greece and Turkey starting in February. Alfa Productions of Athens, which is controlled jointly by the Alfa Studio and Gering, will be a partner, as will Fitas of Istanbul. Filmar of Italy may also come in on the deal.

Gering expects to follow this with "Status Quo—Death," to be shot on the island of Santorini. In addition, he has acquired the rights to an original story, "Love in Four Difficult Lessons," by Aubrey Wisberg, who did the screenplay for "Flesh and The Flower."

Gering's "Violated Paradise," made in Japan, recently concluded a run at New York's sexploitation Rialto Theatre on Broadway. His "Love on The Riviera" is in national release by Ultra Pictures and his "Bay of St. Michel" is now being distributed in England by Rank. A U.S. deal is pending.

ALLIED ARTISTS MEETS NOV. 13 ON COAST

Allied Artists Corp. will hold its annual meeting Nov. 13 in Hollywood to elect a board of directors and transact any other biz which might ensue. There is nothing else on the slate so far but discussion from attending stockholders is expected regarding the company's $2,747,594 loss reported for fiscal 1963.

Incumbent officers include Claude A. Giroux, chairman; Steve Broidy, prez; George D. Burrows, exec v.p.; Edward Morey, veep and Sherrill Corwin, prez and director of Corwin Theatres; realtor Roger Hurlock; W. Ray Johnston; Paul Porzelt, investment banker; Herman Rifkin, prez of Library Theatres of Boston and Emanuel L. Wolf, an associate of Giroux's.

According to the proxy statement, all officers and directors of the corp. receive aggregate remuneration of $314,281. The only officers listed are Broidy and Burrows, who get $52,000 and $46,000, respectively.

Also listed are several loans made by the two execs to the company over the past two years. At the end of fiscal '63, the unpaid balance on these to Broidy was $73,750 and to Burrows, $12,500. Additionally, Sam Wolfe, attorney of the company, was owed $25,000 at the end of the year for loans made by him. In addition to these sums, Broidy and Burrows have guaranteed several other loans from Chemical Bank New York Trust Co., Union Bank and City National Bank, the latter two Coast banks.

McLINTOCK IS McNIFICENT!

JOHN WAYNE + MAUREEN O'HARA

"McLINTOCK!"

Co-starring
PATRICK WAYNE / STEFANIE POWERS / JACK KRUSCHEN / CHILL WILLS / And Guest Star YVONNE DE CARLO

Written by JAMES EDWARD GRANT / Directed by ANDREW V. McLAGLEN / Produced by MICHAEL WAYNE

TECHNICOLOR® PANAVISION® A BATJAC PRODUCTION

...AND IT'S BACKED WITH A McNIFICENT McCAMPAIGN! UA

Atlanta Theatre Operators Elated At Setback To One-Gal Reform Wave

Atlanta, Oct. 22.

Mrs. Christine Smith Gilliam, Atlanta's former motion picture censor and city's official "movie reviewer" after censorship ordinance was declared unconstitutional again finds herself dutyless since statute empowering her to rate features was knocked down by Georgia Supreme Court.

Mrs. Gilliam, in an interview, declared that high court's most recent action makes any supervision of screen fare more difficult.

Meanwhile, exhibitors are continuing to carry UY (unsuitable for youth) designation in their advertisements as required by law. Reason for this is that city has 15 days from when high court killed ordinance to file an appeal. At week's end they still were studying their next move.

Mrs. Gilliam said she felt that rating ordinance was a great service to the public and she did not view it as a measure of prior restraint, as court's ruling contended.

In their ruling high court stated that there can be no "prior rating of censorship of movies." Censorship law was killed 16 months ago and since then films shown in Atlanta have been advertised as "approved" (A), "UY" or "objectionable." Latter two ratings had to be included in ads.

Mrs. Gilliam warned that knocking down of ordinance "opens up the way for more competition for good theatres from those that cater to low public tastes."

She contends the task is to apply "contemporary community standards" to films. No idea, as such, was ever banned and she expressed the belief that "freedom of speech does not affect obscenity."

Mrs. Gilliam told a reporter she reviewed 1,496 films between June, 1962, and Oct. 6, 1963, with 888 receiving and "A" rating and 560 classified as "UY" and 29 deemed "objectionable."

John Turoff, attorney for the Kirkwood Adult Theatre, with which Mrs. Gilliam has been constantly at war and is currently involved in legal action over showing of "The Balcony," which she ruled objectionable, expressed favor over the court's ruling.

"I and the owners of the Kirkwood Theatre oppose obscenity, but we also oppose censorship—particularly if it is enforced by one person."

Robert Moscow, owner of the Central Theatre, said: "The vast majority of theatre owners and operators have a good sense of standards, but not one of us has not had problems with Mrs. Gilliam. She set herself up as a judge of what would corrupt morals and what would not."

John H. Carter, owner-operator of Fine Art Cinema and Capri Cinema, said: "We're elated. We've been looking forward to this for years."

Edwin L. Stern, attorney for the City of Atlanta, said he has not decided what course of action the city will take. "We never attempted to say you can't show a picture," he said. "We were trying to say this is the grade of this picture."

LES BLUMBERG'S NEW PAIR IN SANTA MARIA

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

Two new film houses will be built in Santa Maria, Cal., some 175 miles north of L.A., by Lester Blumberg, formerly partnered with William R. Foreman in Pacific Drive-In Theatres and now operating Santa Maria Theatres chain.

Initialer will be the Santa Maria Theatre in downtown section of the city, to replace situation destroyed by fire about seven weeks ago. House will cost around $250,000 and seat 1,240. Other, costing $150,000 and seating 500, will be erected in a new shopping center about three miles out of town.

Blumberg also operates two other houses, the Studio in downtown Santa Maria and Highway Drive-In outside of town. New Santa Maria will join Highway as a firstrun operation, others subsequent runs.

Balaban's Rare P.A.

Barney Balaban, Paramount Pictures president, will be guest of honor at the Anti-Defamation League's 50th anni luncheon at the Americana Hotel, Nov. 1. It will be a rare appearance for the exec who rarely turns out for puiblic acclamation.

Balaban for years has been a big boosfer of industry causes, as well as a major contributor. For the most part he's shunned the limelight in philanthropies, however.

News From Nudes In Albuquerque

Albuquerque, Oct. 22.

Ban against two Albuquerque film theatres, instituted this summer by the office of the Santa Fe diocese of the Catholic Church, was lifted last week in an order from Msgr. George V. Rieffer, administrator of the diocese. They are the Route 25 Drive-In and the Esquire Arts Cinema, both operated by Carl Halberg and Tri-C Enterprises.

Msgr. Rieffer issued the lifting in the form of a letter to all Albuquerque parishes, which was read from the pulpits on Oct. 13.

Both houses had been running a number of epidermis epics. About two weeks ago, both theatres went back to a conventional policy.

Esquire hardtopper, which acquired the "Arts Cinema" tag when it started running the nudies, has reverted back to simply the Esquire Theatre in newspaper ads, now that policy has been changed.

Hassle over so-called "obscene" films in the Albuquerque area continues. Advertising department of the Albuquerque Publishing Co. in a letter signed by Malcolm Bolles said the newspaper would take it upon itself to censor film advertising ". . . it deems to be morally or socially unfit for publication . . ."

Bolles dispatched the letter to Albuquerque Theatres (which operates six hardtops and two ozoners); All States (which has three outdoor houses); Circle Drive-In; Fox-Winrock; Roxy "Arts" Theatre; Sunset and Route 25 Theatres, and Tesuque ozoner.

Move is the latest community reaction to films. County commission, on Oct. 28 will consider an ordinance covering so-called "lewd" films. At the moment, Jayne Mansfield's "Promises Promises" continues its third week at Don Pancho's, and a nudie "Take Off Your Clothes and Live" is running at the Roxy.

THEOLOGY PROF HEADS AIR-FILM COMMISH

Rev. Dr. John Walter Bachman, professor of practical theology at Union Theological Seminary in New York, has been elected chairman of the National Council of Churches' Broadcasting & Film Commission. He assume's the succeeding Dr. Harry C. Spencer, general secretary of the Methodist Church's Television, Radio and Film Commission.

The Broadcasting & Film Commission is the interdenominational instrument through which 20 Protestant and Orthodox church bodies cooperate to develop, produce and distribute religious broadcasts and motion pictures. Dr. S. Franklin Mack is its exec director.

New House at Sharon, Pa.

Sharon, Pa., Oct. 22.

Hermitage Development Corp. has awarded the construction contract for a new motion picture theatre and several stores, to be in Hermitage Square, at the intersection of Shenango Valley Freeway and Routes 62 and 18, east of Sharon.

Wellman Associates, which operates several film houses in the Greater Youngstown area, has leased the new house, to be completed late this year.

'Automated' Films

Continued from page 1

run unsupervised, the projectionists largely will do "maintenance" chores.

Motion picture footage for the Jeremy Lepard-produced project is being rounded up from film libraries of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences, Paramount, Columbia, RKO Pathe and the Producers Library. Stills are being acquired from such diverse sources as the Smithsonian Institute and Life magazine. Cinerama is also lensing some fresh footage for exhibit.

Par is supplying the 10 vintage silent films which will screen simultaneously in segment of the exhibit which reps Hollywood's silent era.

Lepard heads a crew of 20 craftsmen on project which is budgeted at $2,500,000. At the top, "Journey" is being supervised by the U.S. Dept. of Commerce, but more immediately by the U.S. Commissioner to the World's Fair.

The entire exhibit is being designed here at Cinerama's Santa Monica office and much of it will also be built here and shipped east where it will be reassembled on the Fair grounds.

Those taking the "journey" will move at approximately 70 feet a minute which is equal to a slow walk. Narration written by Ray Bradbury is piped into individual head-sets and is pegged on a "you-are-there" approach.

Exhibit will stress the "progressive" developments in American history with wars subsequently played down, many of them covered with one or two lines of narration.

"Journey" winds with audience transported into outer space, the earth growing smaller behind them. Reflects Bradbury's narration: "The earth is yours, you have made it yours to keep. The stars will be yours if you wish them in your keeping. Your sea is the sky, your destination Alpha Centauri. You will go there. You would not have it otherwise for you wish to live and pass the gift of life on, forever and forever . . ."

Comerford's Sale

Continued from page 1

eastern Pennsylvania and the Southern Tier of New York State. Other valuable real estate holdings, including the Mears Building and Dime Bank Building in downtown Scranton, also are included.

Mike Comerford, a former prez of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Pennsylvania and a vice-president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners of America, got his start operating two kinescopes here in 1903. His nickelodeon, a later development, was among the first in the country.

He died in 1939. (His pension setup for employes antedated Social Security by many years.)

Theaters figuring in the sale to Coyne Syndicate include the Comerford, West Side, Rialto and Roosevelt in this city; the Comerford, Clark's Summit, Pa.; Granada, Olyphant, Pa.; Holland, Old Forge, Pa.; Forest City, Forest City, Pa.; Capitol, Honesdale, Pa.; Comerford and Hart, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Grand, Hazleton, Pa.; Ritz, Hawley, Pa.; and Capitol, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Some of the situations have found the going rough in the tv era and have not been operating regularly.

Also included are seven theaters in the Binghamton, N. Y. area, including a drive-in under construction at Kirkwood, N. Y.; Comerford Drive-In, Dupont, Pa.; West Side Drive-In, Larksville, Pa.; Hazleton Drive-In, Hazleton; and a 50-per cent interest in the Mid-valley Drive-In near Blakely, Pa.

Other theaters figuring in the deal—all in Pennsylvania—are in Williamsport, Sunbury and Lebanon.

The real estate includes Town Hall, two retail store buildings and two parking lots in the central section of Scranton. The former Bell Theater in East Scranton, now in use as a manufacturing operation, and the former Globe Theater in South Scranton, now operating as the Meco Building, also are included.

Coyne's father, John E. Coyne Sr., will remain in his post as executive vice president and general manager.

Inside Stuff—Pictures

Deal for A. Ronald Lubin to produce "The Love Thieves" as a Glenn Ford starrer for Columbia Pictures is near the closing stage, Yarn, for which Yvette Mimieux is up for femme lead, is based on a libel suit that followed death of so-called "playgirl" Starr Faithfull nearly 40 years ago in N.Y.

Judge Edmund L. Palmieri, in N.Y. Federal Court, denied without a prejudice a motion brought by Buena Vista for determination whether or not fraud had been committed by a theatreowner in Montana. According to the BV complaint, exhib Clarence Golder, prez and chief stockholder of separate companies which last year sold five theatres to National Theatres & Television, later filed an antitrust suit vs. National Theatres, Buena Vista, Paramount, and others, charging them with restraint of trade and discrimination against the theatres sold to National.

Palmieri denied the BV motion, pending the outcome of Golder's antitrust action, now going on in a Utah court.

Director Michelangelo Antonioni, of Italy, has set American jazz composer-performer Paul Horn to etch a jazz score for his next film, as yet untitled. Horn hasn't decided whether to take his regular quintet with him or use Italian musicians on the assignment which he will essay at the end of this year.

Meanwhile, Horn last week gigged on an unusual assignment for "The Time of the Barracudas," Broadway bound play in which Laurence Harvey will star for producer Frederick Brisson. Session, for which Horn contracted orchestra, features music arranged by Gil Evens and a solo stint by Miles Davis. Eight musicians drew union scale of $112 each for six hour session during which they etched "cue" or "mood" music for play.

Seymour Poe of Tokyo

Continued from page 3

house, which was 32 weeks for "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col), counted earlier this year before that film was shifted to the Imperial for extended roadshowing through the end of January. Hard-ticket policy will prevail with top ducat at $5.56, double the previous Tokyo high, also set by "Lawrence." Tickets will be scaled in three categories; for weekday matinees, weekday evenings and weekends and holidays.

"Cleo" will day and date at two theatres still to be selected in Japan's second city of Osaka.

Poe was pleased on discovering that the picture is gossip here as in New York, London or Rome. "In fact," he remarked, "I don't think you can stop a man, woman or well-grown child here and mention 'Cleopatra' without being told something about Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton."

When it was suggested that the terms accepted by the exhibs were considered impossible in this buyers' market, Poe said, "It normally would be impossible, but we have a very unique commodity to sell."

Asked about exhibition here, dominated by Toho and Shochiku, Poe offered, "Well, we don't live in a utopia. I think it's a little unrealistic to express dissatisfaction with something that exists in about every major city in the world."

Considering the Japanese market in general, Poe told VARIETY that were it not for the import restrictions, this could become the best foreign territory for American pictures. "I think it's now about fourth," he offered. "But on a per-picture basis, Japan can gross as much as anyplace outside the U.S., including Britain." He noted that "Longest Day," from which 20th-Fox will remit over $3,000,000 from Japan, is doing better here than in any other foreign country.

Base of Show Biz

Reminded of the many epitaphs that have been written for Hollywood, Poe was asked if the American film center is moving toward a renaissance as the world's motion picture capital. "I don't think there has to be a renaissance because there has never been a death," Poe submitted. "But I think everyone in the entertainment business has to have enthusiasm because without enthusiasm there can be no show business."

Poe said he is enthused because of the revitalization of 20th-Fox under Zanuck. "I think this has been proven by the results in changing the company statements from considerable losses to a very respectable profit this year without counting one dollar from the 'Cleopatra' collections," he said. "So if I become optimistic, it's because I consider what has been accomplished and the people with whom I am associated."

Respecting American film making, Poe offered, "I think there will be an increase in the volume of Hollywood production and a decline of runaway production. Many producers of runaway features have learned the shocking facts of life. When there were frozen funds, there was a reason to use them. The advantages of the low cost of foreign labor became less attractive when it became obvious that there were technical disadvantages and when some runaway productions went completely out of hand—I have only to mention 'Cleopatra.' So, many producers have decided to play it safe by making their films in an environment where they can predict what will happen to them."

Strand-That-Was Again In Re-Do

Expenditure by Stanley Warner Corp. for renovation of the Warner Theatre on Broadway has risen to $500,000. The revamped house will open Nov. 17 with Stanley Kramer's "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." It's renamed the New Warner Cinerama Theatre. It's about the fifth major remodeling job done on the house, the onetime Strand, in its 50-year history.

The theatre has been completely gutted and will be an entirely new situation when it reopens in November. Principal changes involve the setting up of the projection system for Cinerama's new single projector process which will make its local deubt with "Mad World." Another major change will be the removal of the loge section to permit projection on a screen 81-feet end-to-end and 30 feet high.

Sections of the procenium arch have been demolished to enable expansion of the screen. Other technical developments include the installation of a new magnetic sound system, including five sets of speakers behind the screen and eight in the auditorium, with 16 supplementary units in lobbies and the mezzanine floor.

Decoratively, architect Drew Eberson is remodeling the Warner into a modern decor. A new ceiling is being installed, there will be ceiling-to-floor spun glass draperies with matching velvet upholstery and lobbies and foyer are being streamlined by the removal of the old plaster ornamentation. Although a big house, the aim is to create an intimate atmosphere in the New Warner. A solid wall will separate the auditorium from the orchestra foyer to eliminate extraneous noises.

The new house will have 1,504 seats, considerably less than the 2,700 chairs first installed when it was the Strand, a Samuel Rothafel stand and First National showcase. First Cinerama moved in during 1953.

Renovation was begun on the theatre in August, at a projected cost of $400,000, which has now increased by $100,000. The "Mad World" preem at the house will be a gala affair in the form of a benefit for the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation. Many of the Kennedy clan are expected to be on hand, the President himself a hoped-for patron. This is never known until the last minute, however, by usual practice.

N.Y. Gives Art Imports More Time

Continued from page 1

built-in sales appeals via familiar stars, stories, etc., can generally be counted on to do better biz than nine out of 10 imports. Also, since their distribs don't worry too much about theatre overhead and ad-pub costs, many exhibs understandably prefer to play the "known" domestic quantity as opposed to the "unknown" import.

Of the eight new art houses which opened in New York during the 1962-1963 season, one, Loew's Tower East, has devoted its firstrun playing time exclusively to indie domestic product ("Long Day's Journey Into Night" and "Lord of The Flies"). Another newie, the Trans-Lux East has devoted all but three of its 20 weeks of existence to domestic product. The Kips Bay, which opened last October, played domestic product firstrun before shifting to a subrun policy. The new RKO 23d Street also shifted to a subrun policy.

Only Reade-Sterling's 34th Street East, Toho's Toho Cinema, and Embassy's Festival have, of the new theatres, devoted themselves to offshore product exclusively, and that seems to be primarily because they are designed to showcase a parent company's pix. Firstrun playing time at the eighth new artie, Reade-Sterling's Coronet, has been almost equally divided between domestic and foreign films.

N. Y. Art Time By Flag

The following is a country-by-country breakdown on the number of weeks of firstrun playing time in New York City art houses during the Sept. 1, 1962-Aug. 31, 1963 season, as compared to the 1961-1962 season:

COUNTRY	1962-1963	1961-1962
United States	325 weeks	230 weeks
Italy	168	105
France	160	162
Britain	125	147
Japan	55	11
Greece	25	14
Sweden	10	28
India	10	2
Russia	8	14
Argentina	7	3
Mexico	3	5
Germany	2	0
Spain	0	11
Poland	0	4
Yugoslavia	0	3
Czechoslovakia	0	2
Switzerland	0	1
TOTAL	898 weeks	742 weeks

Note: The 1962-1963 season covered 25 firstrun arties, including eight theatres which opened during the 12-month period. The 1961-1962 season embraced 20 firstrun arties, including the legit Henry Miller Theatre which turned film houses for the showing of "La Dolce Vita" and "Les Liaisons Dangereuses." Two houses which had played firstrun during the 1961-1962 season changed to moveover status during the 1962-1963 season.

And 8 Makes 25

The 1962-1963 totals embrace 25 art theatres, including the eight which were opened during the year. The 1961-1962 season embraced 20 houses, including the legit Henry Miller Theatre which enjoyed a comparatively brief fling as an artie for the runs of "La Dolce Vita" and "Les Liaisons Dangereuses." Two houses which had played firstrun during 1961-1962—the 68th Street Playhouse and the 55th Street Playhouse—were devoted principally to moveovers in 1962-1963.

The second most spectacular increase in firstrun playing time (after the U.S.) during the past year was registered by product from Italy: 168 weeks compared to 105 in the year before (see chart). Several pix contributed to the big Italo leap, notably "Divorce Italian Style," which occupied the Paris for almost the entire year. Other Italo long-runners were the sensationalized documentaries, "Mondo Cane" and "Women of The World." French pix held just about even with 162 weeks of firstrun playing time last year, compared to 160 the year previous, while the British total dropped to 125 weeks from 147 in 1961-1962.

The longest running French pic last year was the Oscar-winning "Sundays and Cybele," while the British total was comprised principally of okay-if-not-blockbusting comedies like "Murder at The Gallop," "Heavens Above," and "Mouse on The Moon."

Japanese Improve

Japan scored an impressive increase in New York artie playing time in the season just concluded (55 weeks compared with 11 the year before), largely as a result of the opening in January of the Toho Co.'s intimate showcase, the Toho Cinema. Adding to the Toho total, however, were the 15-week run of "Yojimbo" at the Carnegie Hall Cinema and the 10-week run of "The Island" at the Guild.

Comprising the Greek playing time of 25 weeks last season were the runs of "Phaedra," "Antigone" and "Electra." The 1961-62 total of 14 weeks repped the final weeks of the sensational "Never on Sunday." The decline in Sweden's share of firstrun playing time last season (to 10 weeks from 28) was a reflection of the lighter drawing power of the more recent Ingmar Bergman pix. The 10-week Indian total repped just two pix, "Devi" and "Two Daughters," both of which played the small-seat Cinema II.

The Russian and Argentine totals were earned by "My Name Is Ivan" and "Hand In The Trap," respectively.

The inability of the German film industry to crack the American artie market is sharply dramatized by the fact that no German pic played a New York artie firstrun in 1961-1962, and only one film, "The Good Soldier Schweik" opened in 1962-1963. Pic was still playing as the most recent season came to its official close, thus the slim two-week total playing time for the Germans.

VIP's Break Sod For L.A. Museum

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Film personalities, past, present and future, along with civic officials and a large crowd of the general public, were on hand here Sunday (20) for the groundbreaking ceremonies for the Los Angeles County Hollywood Museum.

Femcee Rosalind Russel introduced various speakers, including L. A. County District Supervisors Warren Dorn (chairman of board), Ernest E. Debs (county supervisor), Frank G. Bonelli, Kenneth Hahn, Burton W. Chace, hosts Robert Young, stars of "Beverly Hill-Billies," Robert Cummings, cast of "Stump The Stars," Ronald Reagan, and various school reps.

Allied States

Continued from page 5

support on this program "thereby tending to encourage and build patronage rather than allow the present 'boom or bust' periods which really tell our customers to stay out much of the time."

These and the other problems already mentioned call for action, Fine stated, and they can be handled. That is if the exhibs would "just spend a little less time worrying about paying too much for good pictures" and spend a bit more time with the real issues of the day. He stressed that he was not suggesting knuckling under to bad terms but that there is too much time spent on this matter and not enough on the major issues.

As far as the advisability or desirability of the development of just one strong national organization to represent all of exhibition as opposed to the two organization system presently in existance Fine said: "most of us, myself included, believe that day will come, be it sooner or later, when this event will in fact occur. But in honesty, and speaking only for the present, I cannot see how this will benefit exhibition that much more than the current system of two fine national organizations, working closely in mutual respect and concert, for the same overall aims and ideas.

Fine said that one group will be no panacea to correct all the ills that two outfits are working hard on now. In the final analysis, he said, it is the individual exhibs themselves who will finally accomplish anything. He acknowledged that banding together and fighting as one has advantages, but labled "an academic point to ponder" whether one voice or two can best deliver the message. "Personally," he said, "I believe economics and nature will combine to best chart the course in this direction."

'My Fair Lady' Rolls Sans Friction

Cukor's One Worry Is That Picture's Over-Sell May Involve Psychological Reaction

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Differing decidedly from other recent mammoth productions, Warner Bros.' "My Fair Lady" has sashayed past the half-way mark in its lensing sked in an atmosphere of "absolute sweetness and light" and is proceeding well within its now officially $17,000,000 budget, according to director George Cukor.

Cukor allows that his one trifling worry is in possibility that premature publicity might snowball on film and take edge off actual release. Such a possibility is augered by response to ads studio placed in L.A., N.Y., Atlanta and New Orleans papers last week in which offer was made for a free "regular" bulletin on "Fair Lady" production progress.

Moans studio publicity topper Max Bercutt from beneath pile of 20,000 responses already received, "It costs us 11c a piece for each one we mail and at this rate they'll wind up costing more than the picture." He believes that distribution of sheet, which will largely be work of unit praises Carl Combs, will have to be restricted.

Pic was lensing on the impressionistic, all white Ascot set which was built at a cost of $200,000. Though six major sets are already up, art director Gene Allen assures that the $1,000,000 originally ear-marked for sets has not been exhausted. Since pic is filming in continuity, none of sets can be struck.

Choreographer Hermes Pan also reports that he has been allowed a completely free fiscal hand in the plotting of pic's terping.

Cukor forsees only about a month's post production work on film, which prexy Jack L. Warner is personally producing. Director attributes comparatively brief session to fact that the cutting is being kept up to date as production progresses.

Director reports that contemplated second-unit lensing for "Lady" in London has been all but dropped, though "one or two shots" still may lense there.

Indicative of the precision planning which Warners has lavished on film is nth degree instructions make-up supervisor Gordon Bau has pasted above mirrors in the hair-and-make-up assembly-line set up on Stage Three. Brows are directed to be from ¼ in. to ⅜ in. with arches illiminated and a "haughty effect" achieved. Lips are to be shaped to a "small cupid's bow" and, according to edict signed by Cukor, a "peaches and cream" effect is to be sought for in cheeks.

Ultimate effect of Bau's pale "porcelain" makeup effect is striking and extremely flattering to the flock of already breath-taking femmes.

Even moustaches come in for unusually painstaking care. Some 63 of them are hung from a board under wearer's names. They range from "Adahr's" goatee to "Weatherhill's" shaggy toothbrush styled lip foliage.

DECLINE IN GEVAERT FILM SALES TO U.S.

Washington, Oct. 22.

Imports of motion picture film raw stock, especially from Belgium, plummetted this year the U. S. Commerce Dept. disclosed. Raw stock imports fell to $659,536 for the first six months of this year from the comparable 1962 mark of $1,558,239.

The main drop was from Belgium where Gevaert is the largest producer. Belgian raw stock exports to the U. S. sunk to $404,169 for the first half of this year from the 1962 first half figure of $1,298,429.

Decline in film stock imports generally mirrored the import picture in film and camera products.

Exports, however, climbed in the first half of this year.

Imports of parts of motion picture cameras fell to 568,755 from the 1962 mark of 894,530.

Total camera imports, however, rose to $5,997,411 from $3,932,466 last year.

In 1962 there was no breakdown of types of cameras imported. This year, through new listing, the Commerce Dept. reported $996,917 imports of cameras larger than 8mm and valued over $50.

On the export side, figures for cameras and film rawstock were up while projectors and sound reproducing equipment were down.

Exports of 35mm and over cameras rose from $420,262 last year to $358,475 in 1963.

Rawstock 35mm and over positive film exports moved up to $2,751,779 this year from $2,640,662 in 1962. Negative rawtock exports climbed to $2,857,086 from last year's $2,730,697.

Exports of 35mm and over projectors slumped to $162,000 from $231,037 last year. Also declining were exports of sound reproducing equipment from $482,601 in 1962 to $339,357 this round.

Sardi's East
123 East 54th St. New York
PLaza 1-6655
Sardi's
234 W. 44th ST. NEW YORK
LA 4-0707

CINERAMA INC.
ANNOUNCES
FILM LIBRARY
World Wide Footage 35mm EK Color
4050 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles 19, Calif.
REpublic 5-1212, Editorial

Several movie theatre buildings for sale. Excellent condition Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn. Fabulous deals—Principals only.
ERNEST MILCHMAN
369 E. 149 St. Bronx 55, N. Y.
CY 2-1414

New York Theatres

RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
Rockefeller Center • PL 7-3100
Broadway's Number One Musical Hit
"Mary, Mary"
Starring DEBBIE REYNOLDS
Barry Nelson • Diana McBain and MICHAEL RENNIE
A Warner Bros. Picture in Technicolor
ON STAGE "ALL AROUND THE TOWN" Spectacular revue.

BOAC offers more on the JET BRIDGE TO THE ORIENT

BOAC's Jet Bridge to the Orient is the only through service from New York to Hong Kong. And you can stopover at no increased air fare in San Francisco, Honolulu and Tokyo. You fly by BOAC Rolls-Royce 707 all the way, and enjoy superb service that is a delightful blend of the traditionally British and the delicately Oriental.

For reservations, see your Travel Agent, or call BOAC.

ALL OVER THE WORLD B·O·A·C TAKES GOOD CARE OF YOU

BRITISH OVERSEAS AIRWAYS CORPORATION

Offices in all principal cities.

IN PRODUCTION
CONJUGAL BED
TITRA
DUBBING CO.
1600 Broadway New York N. Y.
Plaza 7-6681

Govt. Cutback of Aid to W. German Film Export Union Termed Final Outrage by Pix Industry Leaders

By HAZEL GUILD

Frankfurt, Oct. 15.

Latest crisis to strike the ailing West German film industry is the Federal Government's cutback of aid to the West German Film Export Union. And German film industryites feel that this is the final outrage since the federal government has been playing a game of hide-and-seek with the Film Aid plan for the last couple of years.

Enraged industry leaders note that in the fall of 1961, the Federal Ministry of Finance asked the Export Union for a new budget with an extra appropriation of $125,000 so that it could extend its Film Aid to bring German pix to other lands.

When the Export Union complied, the German government instead decided that it would raise the funds to only $75,000. Finally, after the Export Union had earmarked all the money, it granted only $25,000 of the promised funds.

Only aid given to the Export Union so far this year has totalled a measly $25,000. Now the Export Union is being forced to close its foreign branches in Paris, Rome, Madrid, Lisbon, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Bombay, Karachi and Hong Kong. And there is as yet no definite pledge of funds for 1964, even to maintain its German office.

Last Bitter Blow

German film industry chiefs feel that this is the last bitter blow, particularly unfair since the Federal Parliament has set up a special cultural commission, under Dr. Berthold Martin, to investigate the problems of the German film industry, and give some aid.

It's pointed out here that the Italian government spends over $2,000,000,000 to popularize its films abroad. And also that the East Germans get sufficient funding from DEFA to spread the image of the Commie world abroad via their propaganda films.

"The German films have become so bad, why should we export them?" commented one German official.

Meanwhile, the Federal Ministry of the Interior is offering some premiums for outstanding films and documentaries and may offer some funding to synchronize the best in foreign languages. The Foreign Office of the German government is urging that German films be shown at the International film festival. But without the backing of the Export Union for publicity and advertising, the whole program falls flat.

SECOND SCOT CINEMA SEEKS BAR LICENSE

Edinburgh, Oct. 15.

A trend towards having licensed bars installed in cinemas is seen in Scotland, where J.K.S. Poole, an indie exhibitor, is seeking a license for his Cameo Cinema here. He says his theatre is anxious to provide the same facilities for patrons that they get in other theatres.

If a license is okayed, the Cameo would become the first cinema in Edinburgh with a bar. It has 500 seats, specializes in foreign films, and is used for the Edinburgh Film Fest.

Recently the Coliseum Cinema, Glasgow, became the first cinema in Scotland to get a liquor license when it re-opened as the country's first Cinerama theatre.

Edinburgh Arty House Okayed to Operate Bar

Edinburgh, Oct. 22.

The Cameo Cinema, an arty house showing leading foreign films, has been given the green light to install a public-house bar, thus becoming the first cinema in Edinburgh to obtain one.

The owner, exhib Jim Poole, claimed he was seeking to offer his patrons the facilities which all expected to find in a theatre—the opportunity to enjoy a refreshment during intermission. Objections by seven owners of saloon bars in the area were overruled.

Bayr's Comedy, 'Time,' Filming in Salzburg

Vienna, Oct. 15.

The comedy, "Tea Time," with Nina Sandt and Roy Gobert in the leads, is being shot at the Otto Duerer Salzburg film studios. It was scripted by Rudolf Bayr. This plant is rated the most modern in Salzburg.

"Diamonds of the Ghost Kings," from the play by Ferdinand Raymund, was the last film completed at the Duerer studios. Several tele production outfits have reserved studio space for forthcoming productions.

Queen Mother For Adelaide Fest

Adelaide, Oct. 15.

Third Adelaide Festival of Arts to be held March 7-21 next will be ceremonially opened by the Queen Mother, who will come to Australia expressly for this purpose. There will be 135 performances of symphony and chamber music, opera, drama and ballet. In addition there will be a number of "fringe activities" presented by South Australian theatre and other groups, as yet unset.

Due here are composer William Walton whose opera "Troilus and Cressida" will receive its Anzac preem in Adelaide with principal roles sung by Covent Garden principal tenor Richard Lewis and Aussie-born Marie Collier. Walton will conduct the Sydney Symphony Orchestra in a concert of his own works, including two Aussie firsts.

Another opera being staged is Verdi's "Macbeth" with Aussie-born John Shaw in the title role.

Other noted music folk at the Fest will include pianist Ingrid Haebler, soprano Heather Harper, violinist Beryl Kimber, Alfred Deller and the Deller Consort of Singers.

Shakespeare's "Henry V" will be staged by the Elizabethan Theatre Trust in a circus tent. There will also be The Black Theatre of Prague, a small modern Czechoslovakian company exploiting mime and advanced lighting techniques. Another attraction will be "The Play of Daniel."

Children's theatre will be covered by "Mumba, Jumba and The Bunyip" written by Melbourne-born actor Peter O'Shaughnessy.

Jazz will be represented by Eddie Condon's All Stars and there will also be two military bands. Some 14 different art exhibitions are listed.

Presentations by the Australian Ballet Company and the Bayanihan Philippines Dance Company will figure.

During the Fest five different conferences will be held as well as a "Writers' Week" and public readings of poetry. Additional events will be the Highland Games, with 44 Scottish bands from all parts of Australia and New Zealand.

Rank's 2 Irish Units In Sharp Gross Upbeat

Dublin, Oct. 15.

Trading profits of two Irish companies within the Rank Organization are sharply up. Odeon (Ireland) for the year ended last June 29 reported a trading profit increase from $213,404 to $256,617 and the rate of dividend on the common shares has been boosted from 27½% to 30%.

Odeon controls Irish Cinemas which reported profits up from $364,990 to $467,313. It also controls Hopetoun Holdings owners of the South County Dublin Hotel (now renamed Top Rank Motor Inn) and is developing a site in Cork for another 72-bedroom Motor Inn which is to be ready early in 1964.

Ballet Scout's Trip

Melbourne, Oct. 15.

Peggy van Praagh, artistic director of the Australian Ballet, back after ballet consultations in London and New York, is planning two experimental ballets for next season.

One will be created by three Australians — composer Malcolm Williamson, choreographer Robert Helpmann and artist Sydney Nolan. The other will be a ballet set to cool jazz by Melbourne composer Les Packing.

Auspices Altered; 'Visit,' a 3-Nation Co-Prod. for 20th

"The Visit," Ingrid Bergman-Anthony Quinn starrer originally intended as a 20th-Fox production, is now listed as an international coproduction by Dearfilm and Cinecitta of Italy, with French and German partners. 20th-Fox will get worldwide distrib rights. Whether or not those rights include the Italo, German and French territories repped by the coproduction partners is not explained in the 20th handout.

Film is now in production in Rome under the direction of Bernhard Wicki, German director who made "The Bridge" and also worked on "The Longest Day." Julian Derode, who also worked on 20th prez Darryl F. Zanuck's "The Longest Day," is exec producer of "Visit."

The film is based on the legit play by Friedrich Duerrenmatt. In the U.S. and Canada, it will be called by the legit title, but elsewhere goes out as "La Vendetta della Signora" (The Lady's Revenge).

Deal for the distribution arrangement was finalized in Rome last week by 20th exec veep Seymour Poe, on the last leg of his round-the-world trip which began last month in the Far East. Zanuck joined Poe in Rome at the weekend, prior to the exec veep's return to the homeoffice.

MULL 600G DRIVE-IN FOR U.K. RESORT TOWN

Blackpool, Eng., Oct. 15.

This northwest England holiday town may yet have an ozoner. Talks have ben going on between Associated British Cinemas and Blackpool Corporation about using the site of an old airfield for a $600,00 drive-in to accommodate about 1,000 autos.

Vet exhibs in the area have their doubts about the project. They feel that the British weather does not lend itself to an outdoor cinema.

'From Russia' Into Four London Pre-Releasers

London, Oct. 22.

After its record-breaking start at the Odeon, Leicester Square, "From Russia With Love" has now opened at three other West End theatres, thereby becoming the first feature pic to run concurrently in a quartet of London prerelease houses.

It opened at the Odeon, Kensington and the New Victoria on Oct. 13, and moved into the Odeon, Marble Arch the following Thursday (17).

Elvira Contracts Boy Star And Also His Picture

Madrid, Oct. 15.

Mexican producer and distrib middleman, Gonzalo Elvira, has picked up Western Hemisphere distrib rights to "Del Rosa . . . al Amarillo" (From Pink to Yellow) in a widely-commented deal.

"Pink to Yellow" is the successful debut pic directed by Manuel Summers. It won the runnerup Silver Seashell at San Sebastian, the Cantabrican Pearl as the best Spanish-language entry and two other awards ex officio. In its recent premiere run in Madrid, the pic has been sturdy to solid in a continuing four-week run at the showcase Coliseum and shows promise of hefty profits in the home market.

Gonzalo Elvira explained that he had first signed the pic's 13-year old star, Cristina Galbo, (her first role) to an exclusive two-year pact and then decided to pick up release rights in a tandem promotion-exploitation campaign. He will release the original Spanish version through Pelimex in all acquired territories, but is considering special handling via a New York foreign film distrib in a dubbed English version for artie release.

Elvira recently coproduced "La Verbena de La Paloma" with Madrid filmmarkers Benito Perojo and Cesareo Gonzalez.

International Sound Track

London

The cast and crew for Richard Brooks' production of "Lord Jim" head for Hong Kong next month and will spend two months there before moving on to the Cambodian location. Peter O'Toole plays the title role, James Mason will be Gentleman Brown and Jack Hawkins will play Marlowe. Mason will join the unit after completing "The Pumpkin Eater," currently in production for Romulus Films. Former United Artists N.Y. chief Francis Winikus has been named unit publicity director. The film, which is for Columbia release, will be in Panavision and Technicolor . Hammer Productions have started their first horror film in two years. Their latest venture is "The Evil of Frankenstein," in which Peter Cushing again plays the title role. The pic, now rolling at Bray Studios, Ireland is being directed by Freddie Francis from a John Elder screenplay, and is for Universal-International . . . New appointments in the Rank Organization's overseas division. G. E. (Jim) Picket is named head office manager (Western Hemisphere) to work with Jamie Jamieson; Tony Birley returns from Brussels to London to take over responsibility for acquisition of independent film and to be the liaison with independent producers; and W. L. Moneypenny takes over the distribution setup in Brussels.

Paris

There are now 191 hardtops equipped for 70m pix in France. There are also now almost 50 pix ready, already released or pending in these proportions. The Yank pix in these categories are "Cleopatra" (20th), which preems this Friday (25), "Simon The Fisherman," "El Cid," "55 Days At Peking," "Around the World in 80 Days" (UA), "Black Tights," "Exodus" (UA), "The Alamo" (UA), "West Side Story" (UA), "Barabbas" (Col), "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col), "Porgy and Bess" (Col), "The Long Ships" (Col), "Bye, Bye Birdie" (Col), "Raintree Country" (MG), "Ben-Hur" (MG), "King of Kings" (MG), "Mutiny on the Bounty" (MG), "Zulu" (Par), "The Carpetbaggers" (Par), "Spartacus" (U), "Can-Can" (20th), "The King and I" (20th) and various French, Italo, Japanese and Russian entries. It is estimated that since its inception, 52 pix have been done in 70m in various countries with 23 already out here, 20 coming.

Eight French pix in the current London Film Fest via "Sweet and Sour," "At the Heart of Life," "The Riflemen," "The Good Life," "Magnet of Doom," "Will-O'-The Wisp," "The Lovely Month of May" and "Laugh Awhile With Max Linder". . . A film version will be made of a play given by an Algerian company here "La Famille Hernandez," with Jacques Schatz and Genevieve Baila sharing direction chores for the pic.

Leonide Moguy finally getting a release of his pic "Les Hommes Veulent Vivre" (Men Want to Live) on atom bomb scientists after it was held up for over two years, here in spite of openings in many countries and special prizes garnered. Pic opened at one arty with a new title "Le Crime Du Docteur Chardin". . . Martine Carol back from Tahiti to take up her career again after a siege of illness. She will star in a pic opposite Jean Gabin "Monsieur," and also hit the boards again in a French version of the hit Yank tuner "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying". . . Fernandel will have his real son, Franck, playing his reel son in his next, which Edouard Molinaro will direct early 1964.

Rome

Raoul Levy almost ready to move on his revived "Marco Polo" project, with Horst Buchholz in title role and Anthony Quinn about certain for another lead; Yugoslavia's Avala Films partnered in deal . . Luigi Turchi, rightwing deputy, has asked Minister of Entertainment Alberto Folchi to "free" the Venice Film Festival "from international suspicion that it's a rigged game."

Warner Bros. releases' Steve Barclay's production, "Dark Purpose," in Italy, while Galatea has worldwide rights excluding U.S. and Canada, where Universal releases; pic has Shirley Jones, Rossano Brazzi, George Sanders, Georgia Moll, and Micheline Presle, and was directed by George Marshall . . . Jayne Mansfield reported mulling "Mansfield by Night" venture early next year, pic to be shot in night spots around world . . Italo theatres shut tight one day last week to mourn Italo flood victims: Rome bow of "Cleopatra" also delayed as result.

Vittoria Gassmann has postponed his "Idol" project, does "Parliamo di Do nne" (Let's Talk About Women) next for director Ettore Scola and produced by Mario Cecchi Gori . . . Catherine Spaak signed for "La Ronde," starting in January . . . Joseph Fryd guns first Italo-Polish venture "An Italian in Poland" soon, with Stanislaw Lenartowicz directing Antonio Ciffariello in non-political and humorous love story.

Tokyo

Sam Spiegel and William Holden in for charity re-release of "Bridge on River Kwai" (Col). A smash the first time around, picture is being treated as new entry in second spin . . ."Melodie En Sous-Sol," a Herald release, continues to shatter records in eighth week at Hibiya . Japan manager for Universal, Alvin I. Cassel, to U.S. for three months of home leave . . . MCA prez Lew Wasserman and v.p. Berle Adams expected soon . . . Anticipated releasing of libraries of Japanese features to tv brings up question of pictures that had been designated For Adults Only. Film industry's self-censorship office has no voice in tv programming . . Columbia Intl. exec veep Mo Rothman on swing of Far East . . Ditto Metro v.o. Bert Obrentz . . ."V.I.P.s" (M-G) still strong in eighth week at Scala-za . . ."Marilyn" (20th-Fox) winding disappointing three weeks at Yuraku-za, being followed by "Bye, Bye Birdie" (Col) . . . Director Samsen Samsonov and actresses Nadezhida Rumyantseva and Margarita Volondina due for three-day Soviet Film Fest . . ."Great Escape" (UA) setting record pace in 10th week of four-theatre roadshowing . . . Universal's Al Loewe on scene for several months of lookseeing Tokyo operation . . . Now that Toho has captured "Cleopatra" (20th-Fox) for Tokyo and Osaka, it looks like Shochiku is giving stronger consideration to turning a house in this city over for Cinerama conversion and "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad, World," which has been having tough time getting site here . . . Snipping of scenes and addition of subtitle prompted removal of Adults Only tag from "La Prostitution," a Shoei import. Move marked first time a designation has been changed . . . Despite "guarantee" of 17 weeks, "The Birds" (U) pulled after 92 days as b.o. fizzled in latter stanzas . . . Long-expected razing of Imperial Theatre slated for February, after "Lawrence of Arabia" winds transplanted roadshowing. Toho will build a larger house on same location . . . MPEAA v.p. Irving Maas returned to Tokyo headquarters . . . Nikkatsu named Michiaki Yasuda as manager of new 750-seat Nikkatsu American Theatre in Honolulu . . . Longtime unrest among employees of importer-distribs looms to be settled by unified labor union that would encompass U.S. major offices . . . Indie foreign film dealer Arthur Davis returned from three weeks in U.S. with additional product for this market . . ."L'Ape Regina," Shochiku-Eihei Italian import, opened strong at Piccadilly.

Rank Org. Mulls Plunge Into Major Int'l Field in Production of Pix If Made With U.S. Film Interests

London, Oct. 22.

Taking a long view that, with just a few exceptions, there is little future for the British film costing around $700,000 to make, the Rank Organization is actively exploring the possibility of making a plunge into the major international field, provided it can be done on a partnership basis with territories shared between U. S. and British interests.

This is a major development in British production thinking, but explanatory talks and negotiations have been going on for some time. It is now understood to have reached the point where agreement is in sight on the first project, a film to be directed by Anthony Mann and produced by a group which includes Benny Fisz and Irwin Margulies. It is tentatively titled, "Operation Heavy Water."

The film is at present budgeted at around $4,500,000. It is planned to start production next March, with all studio work to be done at Rank's Pinewood studios. That would give the pic its Quota ticket, and eligibility for Eadv Fund coin.

Frederick L. Thomas, managing director of Rank's U.K. distribution organization, insists that no deal has been signed and the contract stage will not be reached until there is full agreement on script, cast and final budget.

It is expected that if this deal goes through, Rank's U. S. partner will be Allied Artists. Then AA will have the rights to the Western Hemisphere and Rank will release through the remainder of the world. The division of financial coin has not, as yet, been decided on, but the British end is hopeful that it will come in for less than a 50% slice of the budget.

Though it is too early in the day to hint that this development is the start of a major new trend, it is known that the Rank group is negotiating on smilar lines on two or three other projects, though they appear to be some long way off from the signing stage.

But on one point, there appears to be little doubt—the modest-budget production appears to have little future in Rank's new "think big" policy on production.

Revised Swiss Film Law Lowers Admission Age, Extends Playing Time

Zurich, Oct. 15.

A revised and updated film law for the canton (state) of Zurich recently was accepted by Swiss voters here. Its principal changes compared with the former Zurich Fims Law, are the lowering of the admission age from 18 to 16 and the permission to hold public screening from 10 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. on weekdays, and from 1 p.m. to 11:30 p. m. on Sundays and holidays. Formerly, showings were restricted from 3 to 11 p.m. on all days, with the exception of Sunday morning shows for culturally valuable documentaries.

Provisions are made, however for the admission age for certain pictures to be upped to 18 as before, if subject matter warrants. On the other hand, any exhib or distrib may, as before, apply for a lowering of age under 16 if a picture looks particularly suitable for youngsters. Decision is then made by the police following the screening of the film.

Immoral or otherwise objectionable pictures are forbidden, as before. Every film is, in principle, subject to clearance by the police, with the exception of shorts and newsreels. Such clearance is usually obtained without difficulty. Only in special cases may a pre-censoring of a given film be demanded by the police.

In line with the money devaluation in past decades, exhibitors' patent fees have been upped by the new law.

BFPA Prez Named To U.K. Vital Films Council

London, Oct. 22.

Robert Clark, a director of Associated British Picture Corporation and president of the British Film Producers Assn., is among the newly-elected members of the Cinematograph Films Council, a statutory body which advises the president of the Board of Trade on matters affecting the picture industry. Other new members are Victor J. Hoare, managing director of BLC Films; and K. Lockhart-Smith, chairman of Assn. of Specialized Film Producers.

The panel, which includes seven lay members, has representatives from all branches of the industry. There are four repping producers, two distribs, five exhibitors and four union officials.

In addition to the two already named, the producers' contingent includes Lord Archibald, chairman of the Federation of British Film Makers; and John Davis, chairman of the Rank Organization. Monty C. Morton is the other distributor. The exhib lineup includes Sir Philip Warter, chairman of Associated British Pictures; and Cecil Bernstein, the managing director of Granada. The appointments are for three years.

Rank Org. Common To Alltime High

London, Oct. 22.

The Rank Organization's ordinary shares, which have been climbing steadily since the beginning of the year on the London Stock Exchange, reached a new high last week, when for the first time in history they topped three pounds sterling ($8.40).

These ordinary (common) shares, which have almost doubled since the beginning of 1963, had climbed to 61 shillings ($8.54) by last Thursday (17). At the beginning of the year, they were quoted at $5.07 and their lowest quotation in 1963 was at $4.63.

The "A" ordinary shares also rocketed in recent months. As of last Thursday, they were quoted at $8.31, compared with $4.97 on Jan. 3. Both the ordinary and "A" ordinary shares have a par value of 70c.

Just over a month ago, the Rank Organization announced record trading profits of more than $30,000,000, of which 49% came from film industry activities and the 51% from diversified activities.

'Mockingbird' Italian Key City B.O. Topper, Yank Pix Pace Field

Rome, Oct. 15.

Universal's "To Kill a Mockingbird" is current leader in the Italian key city boxoffice race in which Yank pix have copped first four positions, and 43% of the gross to date. Showing also gives U the No. 2 position after Metro, which holds a dominant lead in distrib stakes, and ahead of Paramount, Dear-UA, DeLaurentiis, Titanus, Columbia (CEIAD) and WB.

Runner up films are "Great Escape" (Dear-UA), "How West Was Won" (MGM), "Hud" (Par) and "Leopard" (20th).

Coming up fast are other contenders, notably "V.I.P.'s" (MGM), "Il Successo" (Fairfilm) and "Il Boom" (DeLaurentiis).

Other big guns are showing possibilities. "Cleopatra" (20th) had its Italo debut in certain keys this week, "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) opens next week, and "How West" moves onto Rome and other dates in coming weeks.

IN FILM COMEBACK AT 17

'Toxi,' Young Negro Actress, First Appeared in German Pic at 5

Frankfurt, Oct. 15.

"Toxi," the young Negro actress who scored a hit when she was five years old and first appeared in a German film, is now making a "comeback"—at the ripe old age of 17. The child, whose full name is Elfriede Fiegert, was abandoned by her American Negro father and her German mother, and adopted by a couple who found her in an orphanage.

She also appeared in two other relatively successful films, "The Dark Star," and "Two Bavarians in a Harem," but has not been in a film since 1954. Now she has been signed to play in the remake of the Curt Goetz drama, "The House in Montevideo." She also will do a musical for tele, and is signed to cut her first record this winter.

New Screen Fare Ups Aussie Biz, 'Birdie' Topper

Sydney, Oct. 15.

"Bye, Bye Birdie" (Col) has given the Aussie film biz a real shot in the arm and has smashed all records at the 2,600-seat State here for Greater Union Theatres on four-a-day. Pic looks set for a longrun. "Birdie" has drawn patrons of all ages

Apart from "Birdie," biz around the pic loop is steady, minus sellouts. "V.I.P.'s" (MGM) swings into fifth week, and continues. "55 Days at Peking" (BEF) is solid in 11th round, with "Barabbas" (Col) okay in eighth week. "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) preems here Nov. 1.

"The King & I" (20th) started Oct. 11. "How West Was Won" (MGM) still is big in 41st week and looks to run over the Yuletide.

"Wives and Lovers" (Par) looks okay for a run here on solid femme biz. "Murder at Gallop" (MGM) is a moderate biz-getter. "Wrong Arm of Law" (BEF) looks okay

New Zealand Brisk

Adelaide, N.Z., Oct. 15.

Film biz here over the Kerridge-Odeon and Moodabe loops continues at a brisk rate with "Longest Day" (20th), "V.I.P.'s" (MGM), "Boccaccio '70" (Blake), "West Side Story" (UA), "Cinerama Holiday" (Cine), "Hud" (Par), and "Best of Cinerama" (Cine) leaders.

New Pix Cheer London, 'With Love' Record $40,000, 'West 11,' Stout 14G, 'Love' Hep 11G, 'Jones' 12G in 16th

London, Oct. 15.

Though a new record was anticipated, the opening week of "From Russia With Love," second in the James Bond films from the Eon stable, was way beyond expectations. In its first four days pic grossed a fantastic $23,700 at the Odeon, Leicester Square, and looks set to top $40,000 or a new record in its full frame. The weekend figure was some $4,800 ahead of previous high, set only a few weeks ago by "The Birds."

There is little doubt that the enthusiasm generated for this picture stimulated biz at other theatres which cashed in on the overflow trade from the Odeon. For example, "West 11," at the Warner (also in Leicester Square) was above expectations with prospects of a sturdy $14,000 or close for its opening run.

At the Plaza, "A New Kind of Love" was shaping for a solid $11,000 opening sesh. "Mutiny on Bounty" looks big in second Empire.

"Tom Jones" is still showing considerable b.o. at the London Pavilion, with a wow $12,000 for 16th week. "Cleopatra," (still capacity at every evening showing) hit a great $40,600 in its 11th Dominion round. "Lawrence of Arabia" holds firmly at Metropole with a tall $16,000 in 35th stanza.

Estimates for Last Week

Astoria (CMA) (1,474; $1.20-$1.75)—"West Side Story" (UA) (85th wk). Lively $9,100. Stays two more months, with "The Cardinal" (BLC) opening Dec. 20.

Carlton (20th) (1,128; 70-$1.75)—"The Innocents" (20th) and "All About Eve" (20th) (reissues). Fair $5,300.

Casino (Indie) (1,155; $1.20-$2.15)—"How West Was Won" (Robin-MGM) (50th wk). Great $20,000 or over.

Columbia (Col) (740; $1.05-$2.50)—"In French Style" (BLC) (3d wk). Brisk $5,800. Over $6,400 in previous week.

Coliseum (MG) (1,795; $1.20-$2.46)—"Brothers Grimm" (Robin-MGM) (13th wk). Stout $15,500. Transfers to Royalty Nov. 27 to make way for "It's Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" (UA).

Dominion (CMA) (1,712; $1.45-$4.20)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (11th wk). Still maintaining capacity biz every night to hit smash $40,600.

Empire (MG) (1,330; $1.70-$2.15)—"Mutiny on Bounty" (MGM) (2d wk). Big $11,000 or close. First was $12,500.

Leicester Square Theatre (CMA) (1,375; $1.05-$2.80)—"For Love or Money" (Rank) (6th wk). Heading for okay $8,800, better than previous week. "The Informers" (Rank) opens Oct. 17.

London Pavilion (UA) (1,217; 70-$1.75)—"Tom Jones" (UA) (16th wk). Great $12,000, and better than previous round.

Metropole (CMA) (1,394; 70-$1.75) — "Lawrence of Arabia" (BLC) (35th wk). Wham $16,000. Last week, $16,500.

Oreon, Haymarket (CMA) (600; $1.05-$2.80)—"55 Days at Peking" (Rank) (11th wk). Brisk $6,300.

Odeon, Leicester Square (CMA) (2,200; 70-$1.75)—"From Russia With Love" (UA). Smashed every theatre record here with amazing $23,700 in opening four days, with certainty of topping $40,000 on initial frame.

Odeon, Marble Arch (CMA) (2,200; 70-$1.74)—"El Cid" (Rank) (6th wk). Steady $6,100. Fifth was $6,700.

Plaza (Par) (1,889; $1.05-$2.20)—"A New Kind of Love" (Par). Good $11,000 or over. "Wives and Lovers" (Par) set to bow Nov. 14.

Rialto (20th) (529; 70-$1.20)—"Sky Above" (20th) (2d wk). Slick $5,600.

Ritz (MG) (430; 70-$1.05) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (subrun) (2d wk). Fine $5,800 or close. Opener was $6,400.

Studio One (Indie) (556; 50-$1.20)—"I'm All Right Jack" (BLC) and "Two Way Stretch" (reissues) (BLC). Likely $4,500.

Warner (WB) (1,785; 70-$1.75)—"West 11" (WB). Better than expected with $14,000 or near for opening round. "Rio Brava" (WB) opens Oct. 24.

Harker to New Post In Rank Org. on Publicity

London, Oct. 22.

With the resignation of Brian Dowling, the Rank Organization's press officer since 1958 (which takes effect at the end of October), a newly-created post of information controller has been announced. This is being filled by Don Harker, who recently left the Granada Group after six years in charge of press and public relations. Harker will have special responsibility for co-ordination of publicity of individual divisions of the Rank Organization, and will be attached to the marketing department, under Graham Dowson.

Dowling, who joined the group in 1955 to make documentary films, subsequently became assistant publicity controller at Pinewood studios and then personal assistant to the director of publicity and advertising before being appointed press officer. He is leaving the Rank group to start his own business as a consultant on corporate relations.

700 Pix at Milan Film Trade Fair

Milan, Oct. 22.

Over 700 feature pix from 200 companies from 25 different countries are being shown at the eighth Milan Film and TV-Film Trade Fair (MIFED), currently under way here.

The novelty this year is first international "salon" of technical innovations in fields of cinema and television, also held in MIFED premises. About 120 companies, many of them foreign, have sent the latest wrinkles in these fields to this exhibit.

Also featured at MIFED will be the Italo opening of Samuel Bronston's "55 Days at Peking," to be given a gala send-off here. Producer is expected to attend the affair, slated for windup days of the fair.

Roxy Film Corp., One of Last Major German Producers, Calling It Quits

Bonn, Oct. 15.

Claiming that the West German government has been lax in its promised help to the faltering German film industry, one of the last of the big German producers is calling it quits. Ludwig Waldleitner, owner of the Roxy Film Corp., is asking for an 18-month moratorium on his company's debts, and has announced he is quitting the production field that has cost him over $300,000 in the last couple of years.

With 28 years in the film business, Waldleitner established Roxy Films in 1952. In the following 11 years, his company has produced 20 films.

The most successful was "Maedchen Rosemarie" (The Girl Rosemarie), story of West Germany's most successful postwar "motorized madam," and about the newly-rich German businessmen who were among her clients. The film made over $1,250,000 and won the Golden Globe prize in Hollywood. It is considered one of the most successful post war German films in the U.S.

His next major success was "Elk Hakim," which made about $1,000,000. In 1954, Waldleitner was responsible for the first German-American coproduction of the era, "Oasis," with Cornell Borchers, Pierre Brassuer and Michele Morgan, but the film did not click at the boxoffice.

Waldleitner charged that in the last couple of years, he was counting on the promised help from Bonn for "cultural" films or those which would further the image of Germany in other countries. Hence, he turned out such artistic projects as "Amok," based on the Stefan Zweig novel; "24 Hours in the Life of a Woman," another script based on a Stefan Zweig novel; and "Career," by Robert Neumann.

2 of Roxy Pix Won Premiums

Two of his recent films, "Chess Novel" and "Last of Mrs. Cheney," did win premiums from the West German government, the first earning about $60,000 and the second getting $50,000. But this came nowhere near underwriting his upped costs of the other projects, he stressed.

Only two out of 10 German films being made today bring a fair profit, Waldleitner charged. And producers, distributors and theatre owners are being hurt as a result.

So long as there is no "film bank," which could help finance German films with low-interest funds from the German government, so long as there is no Federal Secretary for Culture, no fair restraint of the competition from tele and no relief from the high entertainment taxes levied on films at the boxoffice, Waldleitner charged, the German film industry will continue to be chaos.

Waldleitner also resigned as member of the board of directors of the German Film Producers Assn. and from the Export Union of the German Film Industry. He plans also to quit as head of Nora Film Distribution.

BBC-TV's 'New Breed' Of Exec Stirs Corp. Restlessness For Hard-Hitting Programming ('Z Car,' 'TWTWTW')

London, Oct. 22.

The "new breed" upper-echelon executives at BBC-TV, ushered in under the supervision of Director-General Hugh Carleton Greene, are meeting with strong resistance these days from other highly-placed execs within the BBC.

Greene's commandoes—namely, the Kenneth Adams, the Stuart Hoods, the Donald Baverstocks, the Michael Peacocks et al—who in their positions as program and web chieftains have cued in a tougher and harder-fitting line in programming, are now under fire from some members of BBC's numerous regional and advisory councils.

Under the leadership of Sir Edward Fellowes, the Corp's powerful General Advisory Council has registered official doubts about BBC's programming line which has brought into action such shows as the tough "Z Cars," the irreverent "That Was The Week That Was" and has raised many beefs against "bias" in pubaffairs programs like "Panorama."

In BBC's annual report for year 1962-63 it is revealed that the GAC has given BBC "forthright criticisms" as well as firm and generous support. Its deliberations have produced "critical and constructive comment" on such matters as on-screen violence, the dangers of one-sided presentation of controversial matter and the practice of seeking comments on current issues from the man in the street. The Council also put forward "a diversity of views" on "TWTWTW."

A broadside from BBC's Scottish Broadcasting council, helmed by Sir David Milne, states in short: "There have been occasions when errors of taste and judgment have occured."

Sir Arthur Forde, chairman of BBC, has been moved enough by the upsurge of criticisms within and without the organization to circulate a 3,000 word document to his chief executives on the principles of broadcasting.

Aware of the risk of critical sniping and accusations of bias in programs, etc. BBC-TV program controller Stuart Hood indicated to a VARIETY reporter that he thought it justifiable for any particular program to carry a one-sided argument, provided the other point of view was given over the air at some time, thus making up the "balance" over a period.

Carleton Greene defended to VARIETY the tougher approach to programming as a "truer reflection of life." And, despite the dissenters, "TWTWTW" stays in the schedules until the spring."

Eire: U.S. 9 Out of 10

Dublin, Oct. 22.

Nine out of 10 of Telefis Eireann (Irish TV) top shows in September were American productions. Odd show was "Showband Show," a home production featuring top local bands which are currently enjoying a boom. This headed the list from "Mr. District Attorney," "Jack Benny Show," "Hollywood Star Playhouse," "Sergeant Bilko," "Desilu Playhouse," "Bat Masterson," "Fred Astaire Premiere Theatre," "King of Diamonds" and "The Nurses."

The main news bulletin, which is not classed as a program, drew a rating which placed it second with "Mr. District Attorney."

Biggest 3d Qtr. Since '60 Key To NBC Radio Cheer

By industry standards, NBC Radio prexy Bill McDaniel and exec staff are the quiet men, but the chieftain thinks the time has come to do a little shouting.

Key to the soundoff is the web's third quarter gross billings total of $5,787,000 in new and renewed business. It's the highest third quarter since 1960 when the network, with new format, pioneered in the chain's return to profitable operations.

Behind the billings total, McDaniel cites some impressive facts: NBC carries more commercials than any other network (this year's total, that is, and not yet hot enough to be in violation of the NAB code); network has been 90% sold out through the year; web has more advertisers spending upwards of $500,000 than any other network—Sterling Drug, Metropolitan Life Insurance, Chevrolet, Liggett & Myers, Standard Brands, Wynns Oil, Ford, American Motors and Mennen; '63 will be the network's fourth consecutive year in the black, and already new and renewed business represents a 24% increase over a year ago for the first quarter of last year; there have been 14 network bankrollers with consecutive annual campaigns of more than eight years.

In programming, NBC with "Monitor" on weekends is the only full-time, seven days a week network service. So far this year, more than 250 hours have gone out on the "hot line," virtually all of it "actualities," coverage of news on the spot while it's happening—the space shoot, Pope John's death etc.—with follow-up special wrapup feeds to affiliates. "Hot line" has been in operation since November, 1957.

New "Monitor" talent has been added to beef up the long successful weekend service. New voices include Vic Damone, Basil Rathbone, Jonathan Winters, Al Capp, Selma Diamond, Nichols & May, Joe Garagiola. Continuing are the sports team of Lindsey Nelson and Mel Allen and Bob Richards will do next year's Olympic coverage, both summer and winter games. Regular announcers on the show are David Wayne, Gene Rayburn,

(Continued on page 40)

CBS Windfall On News-Pubaffairs

CBS-TV's news and pubaffairs schedule during the first quarter of '64 is virtually sold out, representing about $8,500,000 in gross billings in the news-pubaffairs spread by advertisers for the first quarter.

What put CBS-TV's news-pubaffairs in that enviable virtually sold out position was the recent Westinghouse $5,500,000 buy for '64, most of the coin going to the web's news and pubaffaris. Travellers Insurance, it should be recalled, has two-thirds sponsorships of "CBS Reports." and Westinghouse, under its new deal, will pick up two-thirds sponsorship of particular "Chronicle" outings. "Chronicle" alternates with "CBS Reports" often in the Wednesday 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. slot.

Big hole for CBS-TV to fill is election coverage, with three-quarters of the election package yet to be sold. Institute of Life Insurance has come abroad for one-quarter of the web's election package.

The $8,500,000 spread for the first quarter of '64 encompasses the web's half-hour Walter Cronkite evening show; the Saturday and Sunday news, the Mike Wallace morning half-hour news strip; and the two five-minute daytime strips; as well as the pubaffairs shows previously mentioned.

ABC RADIO'S 'ME, TOO' ON WINTER OLYMPICS

ABC Radio is joining the television network in live coverage of the Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, from Jan. 29 through Feb. 9. Coverage will include 16 five-minute shows to be aired each weekday with two pickups on Saturdays and Sundays.

The radio web is also sending Tom Harmon and his staff to Innsbruck for color commentary and interviews. Jim McKay, Bill Flemming and Curt Gowdy will provide the radio commentary.

SULLIVAN TO GIVE FULL HOUR TO MITZI

Ed Sullivan will depart from his customary format Feb. 16 when he devotes the full hour to Mitzi Gaynor and her supporting performers.

He moves his entire crew to Miami where Miss Gaynor will open at Deauville Hotel five days later.

It is believed to be in the first time that Sullivan ever turned over his show to a single entertainer.

Miss Gaynor's last tv outing was in 1958 on a Donald O'Connor spec.

Brit. Com'l Indies Dominate Season; BBC Thurs. Sweep

London, Oct. 22.

Fighting stance of both BBC-TV and the commercial tv network as determined by the first batch of fall ratings to come in has now become apparent to trade observers. With so much riding on the new skeds in the way of advertising coin and justification of license fee, the autumn struggle predictably sees a lot of toing and froing of audience affection but, overall, the commercial boys have again held their lead.

Such is BBC's programmic thrust, however, the independent operators can on the early ratings claim only one clean sweep victory on a countrywide basis, that is Thursday night. Taking the capital's TAM rating score as a guide, the commercial stations are the dominant force throughout the week, although BBC-TV is not that far behind taking, as it does, great chunks of the prime time audience away from the indie channel.

On Monday nights, for instance, Associated-Rediffusion's solid line-up is proving the most successful except for the 8-9 p.m. slice of peak time when BBC snatches the lead with "The Dick Powell Theatre" which beats out the indies' "The Plane Makers" 43 to 35.

Similarly, the commercial web takes Tuesday night top ratings until BBC's "Maigret" (9:10-10 p.m.) which eclipses "Play Of The Week" 48 to 34. Again on Wednesdays, everything goes the indies' way save for those vital batch of prime time minutes 8:10-9 p.m. when "Z Cars" accelerates to a 59 rating to give BBC a sizable enough lead to hold the rest of the evening.

Following the Thursday night BBC clean sweep, the commercial channel scores heaviest of Fridays, save for the 9:10-9:35 berth occupied on BBC by "Dick Van Dyke Show" which cues in a peak time win for the Corporation.

Saturday night, which sees a change of commercial contractor in London, from A-R to Associated TeleVision, also sees an across-the-board Saturday night win in the capital for ATV, hinged on such shows as "Sentimental Agent," "Charlie Drake Show" and "Espionage."

Sunday night also marks an all-dominant lineup from ATV but BBC has made a strong comeback on Sunday afternoons against smash opener Al Read to mop up the early afternoon scores.

Standout shows of the two

(Continued on page 40)

3-Sponsor Wrapup On NBC-TV Turkey Parade

NBC-TV's coverage of the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, slated for Thursday, Nov. 28, from 10 to 11:30 a.m., has been sold to three sponsors.

The 37th annual parade, being televised live in color, will be bankrolled by Goodyear, Food Mfrs. Inc. and Remco toys.

Goodyear order was placed through Young & Rubicam; the food biz (M&M candies) via Ted Bates; and Remco by Webb Associates.

Bob Fox Exits UA-TV

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Bob Fox resigned Friday (18) as business affairs director, United Artists-TV, after a year in the post.

Prior to the hitch, Fox was with William Morris office.

30 Cities Appraise 31 New Shows

Here's how the Nielsen multi-city report for the week ending Oct. 13 rates the new '63-'64 entries.

Patty Duke (ABC)	24.2
Fugitive (ABC)	22.3
Petticoat Junction (CBS)	21.4
Breaking Point (ABC)	21.0
Burke's Law (ABC)	20.6
My Favorite Martian (CBS)	20.4
Greatest Show (ABC)	20.3
Grindl (NBC)	19.4
Outer Limits (ABC)	19.3
Arrest & Trial (ABC)	18.6
Danny Kaye (CBS)	18.4
Lieutenant (NBC)	18.1
Kraft Suspense (NBC)	17.3
Holly'd & the Stars (NBC)	17.0
Glynis (CBS)	16.9
Farmer's Daughter (ABC)	16.2
Channing (ABC)	16.0
Mr. Novak (NBC)	15.8
Bill Dana (NBC)	15.6
Jerry Lewis (ABC)	14.9
Phil Silvers (CBS)	14.8
Richard Boone (NBC)	13.8
East Side West Side (CBS)	13.5
Judy Garland (CBS)	12.9
Great Adventure (CBS)	12.8
Bob Hope Theater (NBC)	12.3
Jamie McPheeters (ABC)	11.9
Jimmy Dean (ABC)	11.2
Temple Houston (NBC)	11.1
Harry's Girls (NBC)	10.0
Espionage (NBC)	8.7

'ONE & ONLY BING' SET AS WOLPER SEG

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

A half-hour tv special on the life and career of Bing Crosby has been slated by series producer-director Jack Haley Jr. for NBC-TV's "Hollywood and the Stars."

Episode, titled "The One and Only Bing," will be telecast as the series' Christmas show on Dec. 23. It will utilize current "live" footage, stock films and personal home movies, spanning Crosby's life from one of the Delta Rhythm Boys in Paul Whiteman's band up to the present.

ABC's News Dept. Strips for Action; Special on Quints

Checkbook journalism or not, ABC-TV's news department will be going after the news even if it has to shell out substantial coin to get it. Along this line, the web has bought its way to an exclusive tv show about the Fisher quintuplets in North Dakota from Curtis Publishing Co. which has wrapped up all the journalistic rights to this human interest story.

ABC-TV has bought many thousands of feet shot by a Curtis crew under cameramen Ricky Leacock and will turn this footage into a half-hour documentary for airing Nov. 17 in its Sunday night 10:30 p.m. documentary slot. Some additional footage with commentator Robert Young will also be shot on location. Curtis plans to produce a one-hour tv show for foreign distribution.

ABC News is planning to beef up its operation with across-the-board staff additions. The web is in the market for established personalities, but lacking that, will try to develop some of its own. In other technical and production areas, ABC can be expected to tap personnel from both CBS and NBC. As one web exec put it, "this is a pretty incestuous business and if you want experienced people, there aren't many places you can go."

ABC is also developing a new pattern for its documentary output. With the addition of Bob Drew, who's set to do three more documentary hours for the web, John Secondari, head of the special projects division, will be free to concentrate on feature and historical material, along the lines of his current "Saga of Western Man" and his four Philco hours about royalty, the world's women, the Soviet woman and the jet set.

Soft-Spoken Kluge Lets Loose A Scathing Blast at Pay-TV

Metromedia prexy John W. Kluge, tabbed as broadcasting's "Man of the Year" by the Pulse research company, let loose a sharp blast at pay-tv at the Hotel Plaza, N. Y., luncheon in his honor last Wednesday (16). In fact, the suddenness and intensity of the attack on toll tv by the usually soft-spoken Kluge appeared to startle the 500 advertising and broadcasting execs attending the luncheon.

After a quiet opening statement about the great future of advertising and the necessity for good media research, Kluge lashed out at pay-tv as follows: "If the FCC were to allow pay-tv in the United States, and if it were highly successful, the public will end up, you and I, doing exactly what it implies, paying for television. In historical perspective, that decision would go down in communications history as a lack of statesmanship-judgment in administrative law."

"If we think we have monopoly in television," he said, "pay-tv would be a monopoly engraved and the full weight of its meaning will became a hard reality. Television has informed and entertained, has moved mountains of goods and services. It has helped the standard of living in the U.S. as no other medium has in the past.

We would be dilletantes to tamper with it. If pay tv were a

(Continued on page 40)

McCarthy Backs JFK Tax Incentive

The Kennedy Administration's reported plan to grant a tax incentive to those exporting companies which boost their sales abroad was endorsed by John G. McCarthy, Television Program Export Assn. prexy.

The reported administration plan, aimed at helping to correct this country's balance of payments deficit, would reduce a company's income tax by 10% of the amount its exports rose from a base period. McCarthy made his sentiments known in a communication to U.S. Secretary of the Treasurery C. Douglas Dillon.

McCarthy, in his communication to Dillon, cited what he felt to be the gravity of the balance of payments deficit situation. He added "Our principal hope in meeting this growing crisis has been increased U.S. exports, in an expanding world trade. The member companies of Television Program Export Assn. have been making a valuable contribution in this direction through sales in 68 overseas markets. A tax incentive of the kind reportedly under consideration by the administration would help them and other U.S. exporters to tackle ever more vigorously the difficulties encountered in overseas markets."

TV'S RENDEZVOUS AT IDLEWILD

30 City Nielsens: ABC Swingin'

As far as the big city (30-market) reaction to the new '63-'64 programming season is concerned, it's a much tighter three-network race than the industry anticipated, with less than two Nielsen points separating CBS' out-in-front 18.1 average audience rating from NBC's third-positioned 16.2. Firmly entrenched in the No. 2 spot with 17.4 (for the week ending Oct. 13) was ABC, which pulled off the coup of the week by inching toward CBS' exclusive domain, only seven-tenths of a point behind the leader.

ABC had itself a field day on the nighttime assessment, landing eight shows in the Top 20 (as against CBS' nine) while NBC had three. On half-hour wins, 7:30 to 11 Monday-thru-Sunday, CBS had 20 (as against 29 on the previous 30-market report) while ABC grabbed off 16 and NBC 13. On individual nights won, ABC copped major laurels, taking three (Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday), with CBS two (Thursday and Friday) and NBC two (Saturday and Sunday).

The report's loaded with reflective overtones and undertones, for example, NBC's Saturday night "Lieutenant" and Joey Bishop taking the count away from Jackie Gleason and Phil Silvers. Danny Kaye had Wednesday night 10 to 11 safely tucked away, but Judy Garland was running a poor third opposite toprated "Bonanza" and "Arrest and Trial."

Here's how the Top 20 reads:

Beverly Hillbillies (CBS)	29.7
Bonanza (NBC)	26.5
Dick Van Dyke (CBS)	25.7
Donna Reed (ABC)	24.9
Lucy (CBS)	24.7
Perry Mason (CBS)	24.3
Patty Duke (ABC)	24.2
Candid Camera (CBS)	23.6
Ben Casey (ABC)	22.7
What's My Line (CBS)	22.5
Fugitive (ABC)	22.3
Joey Bishop (NBC)	22.3
Danny Thomas (CBS)	21.9
Sat. Movie (NBC)	21.9
Jack Benny (CBS)	21.9
McHale's Navy (ABC)	21.7
Petticoat Junction (CBS)	21.4
My Three Sons (ABC)	21.3
Breaking Point (ABC)	21.0
Flintstones (ABC)	21.0

JET-PROPELLING THE HOT NIELSEN

By GEORGE ROSEN

Next Monday is D-Day. Monday night to be precise. All the hopes and the aspirations that are wrapped up in some $500,000,000 worth of network television programming and time commitments; all the answers as to which sponsors played it smart this season and which ones will be left holding the bag will be jetting eastward from Art Nielsen's Chicago hqs. sometime between 8 p.m. and midnight.

And there isn't a network program executive, a major agency factotum up and down Madison Ave. or a hep sponsor in the business who isn't alerted even now to the time of arrival or the implications of the all-embracing, all-American Nielsen Pocketpiece which, as is the customary procedure, will be flown into Idlewild.

And because there's so much at stake, even unto their jobs, and because this is the "big one," the tell-tale Nielsens of the '63-'64 semester which, for better or for worse, will portray what choices the American viewing public has made—and, based on past years' experience, choices that will hardly alter, even into next spring—a tense and jumpy Madison Ave. won't even wait for their arrival in Manhattan.

They'll be waiting at the airport for the "hot Nielsens" which will tell them everything they want to know—or would rather not know. (Based on the Nielsen findings up to now, chiefly by way of the 30-city nosecounting, the overnights and the tentative Nationals of last week, too many already know too well the fate of their expensive gambles and wouldn't be averse to the Chi-to-N.Y. "Nielsen Special" developing engine trouble enroute).

Indeed, anxieties are running so deep in some quarters that even the research boys who can make with the digit interpretations will be dispatched to Idlewild so that, in the hour interval between jet landing and limousining into Manhatta, they'll have a head-start on burning of the midnight oil for the conclusive and all-inclusive story on '63-'64. After that nothing much else will matter, unless there should be some drastic reshuffling of shows in a desperate bid to shore up the schedules (as, for example, was accomplished midway through last season when CBS converted a flop entry, the "Nurses," into an eventual hit through the simple expedient of moving it back from Thursday at 9 (opposite "Kildare") into Thursday at 10 with its less formidable competition).

It's par for the course for the first definitive Nielsens of the season to occasion Madison Ave. jitters and tensions, but seldom have the boys been worked up to the degree that currently prevails, as though their whole present and future careers (as indeed in some instances they may be) were spelled out in next Monday night's conclusions.

While the networks have for the most part been able to establish at this point their hits and misses (in fact three weeks ago ABC knocked off "100 Grand"), the upcoming Nielsen report will by and large hold most of the answers in the who-did-what-to-whom rivalries in dictating future strategy. Out of the report, for example, will come decisions on sponsor renewals for the first and second quarters of '64 and continued minute participation in shows. Out of the report will come the CBS decision whether the Glynis Johns show will continue or be replaced by a new halfhour entry (network gave Allen Funt to go ahead a few weeks ago to start preparation on a variation of his "Candid Camert," just in case).

And out of the upcoming report will come the final decisions as to "shoring up" processes now under considerations in bids to strengthen the schedules. For instance, there's

(Continued on page 46)

That $35,000,000 General Foods TV 'Plot' Thickens; If D. Thomas 'Goes Specials,' Will NBC Get 'Em?

The activity surrounding the placement of some $35,000,000 in General Foods sponsorship money on tv for the '64-'65 season hit an accelerated pace this week, with hopes high at NBC that, for the first time in years, a big chunk of the GF biz will wind up in its corner. (Until now it's been a big GF-CBS romance involving sponsorship commitments on such nighttime entries as Lucille Ball, Danny Thomas Jack Benny, Andy Griffiths and Phil Silvers.)

But the gilt-edge pledge of allegiance to the "old gang" seems to be disintegrating, and up and down Madison Ave. the agencies are waiting to see what GF decides to do. General Foods is far and away the No. 1 nighttime sponsor on network tv and how it decides to go usually influences decisions by other major clients. With tv buying now moving into a "year in advance" commitment stage, it's only a question of days before GF makes its moves.

NBC's hopes are high that GF will come along for the jello ride when Jack Benny switches over from CBS next season. The big "if" about both Lucy and Danny Thomas going beyond this season with their weekly comedies will play a big part in GF's decision on where it will go. Too, the food company, from all accounts, isn't particularly joyous about the new Phil Silvers variation-on-a-Bilko-theme show (which was beaten in last week's 30-market Nielsen report by Joey Bishop).

Then there's the Thomas situation. It's reported that the comedian may decide to settle for six hour specials next season, and because of NBC's willingness to plunk down some $7,500,000 for the Thomas reruns on daytime, there's a feeling that Thomas will reciprocate by giving the GF-sponsored specials to NBC.

Saudek Preps 'Profiles'

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Robert Saudek Associates leased space at Desilu Culver studios for production of its "Profiles of Courage" vidfilms for NBC-TV for the 1964-65 season.

Gordon Oliver is producer of the series based on President Kennedy's tome, which will go into production shortly after the first of the year. Deal is for 26 hours firm.

'Redigo' Doomed; 'Harry's Girls' On Precarious List

It appears that NBC-TV isn't even bothering to wait for the first big National Nielsen report on '63-'64 in making up its mind on a couple of the more forlorn new entries on the network. Evidently the web has already decided that "Harry's Girls" and "Redigo" must go before many more exposures since they're hardly doing the network any good. Both, incidentally, are half-hour shows. "Redigo's" doom in fact, was spelled out yesterday (Tues.) when NBC revealed it would be replaced on Dec. 31 with a nighttime tint version of "You Don't Say."

"Redigo" is this season's trimmed-down version of last year's "Empire" starring Richard Egan. It never got off the ground. "Harry's Girls," to which Colgate is committed for 26 weeks, got a severe drubbing, both critically and in all the tentative rating returns. Initial 13 segments were shot in the south of France and they're now at work on the second 13, based in Paris. However, if NBC can persuade Colgate to shift its coin into a replacement show, they won't tarry on "Harry." (Since Colgate itself at this point is almost developing a pathological hatred for its made-in-Europe series which has cost the client a bundle of dough, it's figured NBC won't be long in maneuvering a change.

Status of NBC's "Temple Houston" series, out of Warner Bros., also appears iffy, and it wouldn't surprise many if show was bumped by the end of the year.

Over at CBS they're weighing whether or not to dump the Glynis Johns show. The upcoming Nielsens are expected to swing the decision whether it stays or goes.

ABC registered the season's first casualty, "100 Grand," which was cancelled and knocked off the air three weeks ago.

ABC-TV and 20th 'Going Steady'

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

20th Century-Fox TV, which has begun to operate under Bill Self as a stable for independent producers, has been locked up in virtual exclusivity by ABC-TV for the 1964-65 season. 20th is now rolling with five or six tv projects, all of which thus far are under ABC's banner.

At this point, ABC is committed to three pilots, but has a couple of other properies in the discussion stage. Lineup of projected ABC shows on the 20th lot include "Peyton Place," a dramatic series based on the film of the same title; a comedy newsreel show being produced by Hal Kantor; "Brownstone," a dramatic show set in New York; "Captain Ahab," a sea adventure series; and "12 O'Clock High," a war film also adapted from a 20th feature.

ABC's arrangements with 20th in no way resembles its onetime close association with the Warner Bros. studios. In the latter instance, WB delivered a flock of tv show to the web in a wholesale order. With 20th, ABC execs plan to sit on each project from planning to final production.

ROBT. HORTON SET FOR 'MARK DOLPHIN'

One of United Artists Television's six coproductions with CBS-TV, N. Richard Nash's "Mark Dolphin" has Robert Horton set in the title role.

Horton currently stars in the legiter "110 in the Shade," musical version of Nash's "Rainmaker." "Dolphin" is described as an hour-long dramatic adventure series. Robert Alan Aurthur will be exec producer. Pilot film is expected to begin in N. Y. sometime next month.

ABC-TV Ups Newi

George H. Newi has been upped by ABC-TV to director of sports and special program sales.

His former spot as assistant daytime sales manager has been taken over by Warren Boorom, former Metromedia v.p. over sales development.

Don Kellerman To NET

Don Kellerman, CBS news producer, is joining National Educational Television as director of cultural programming on Jan. 7. In this spot, he'll supervise four producing teams providing shows on music, the arts, literature and other allied fields to NET.

Kellerman is currently working on two shows for the CBS-TV "Chronicle" series.

Canada Appraises New Season: 'Most of What Is Good Is CBC'

By CHARLES LAZARUS

Montreal, Oct. 22.

Now that the new season is well on its way, the latest evaluation and consensus on the part of television's "in" crowd is that, despite the basic competition for the mass viewer being pegged on shows of U.S.-origin, it is still the government-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corp., which is showing a true responsibility for raising video's program standards in Canada.

The big competitive battle in Canada, this season, is between the privately-owned Canadian Television network (CT) with channel affiliates in 10 cities, and the CBC which this year, perhaps more than ever before and despite the Board of Broadcast Governors' dream of getting as many "Canadian-content" shows as possible on the air, is fighting for the mass viewer with the popular U. S. shows.

Bypassing the rating angle for the moment, however, it is clear that once again this year, when it comes to providing the higher-level, more sensitive and in-depth

(Continued on page 40)

'Halfway House' Kaput

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Writer-creator Herb Meadow has cancelled his deal with Talent Associates-Paramount for an hour-long vidseries, "Halfway House," based on a project he created.

Script differences arose in confabs between Meadow and TA's David Susskind, and Meadow finally walked off the project, taking his series with him.

Coincidentally, Meadow's former partner, Sam Rolfe, has just joined TA as a partner. Team created "Have Gun—Will Travel."

$2,500,000 Sales As NBC-TV Brings 'Old Clients' Back

In sales totalling close to $2,500,000 last week, NBC-TV brought three bankrollers back into the medium after an absence of some years.

John Hancock, Mutual Life, out since sponsorship of the "Producers Showcase" in the mid-fifties, has bought a quarter-hour alternate week of the half-hour "Huntley-Brinkley news show," beginning in January. The $1,100,000 buy covering the rest of the season leaves the H-B strip more than 90% sold with only an alternate-week quarter hour still open.

Other sponsors returning to network after a long layoff are Miller Beer, with $500,000 in "Espionage," and Canada Dry, with $270,000 in "International Showtime," "Lieutenant," "Temple Houston" and the Mitch Miller show.

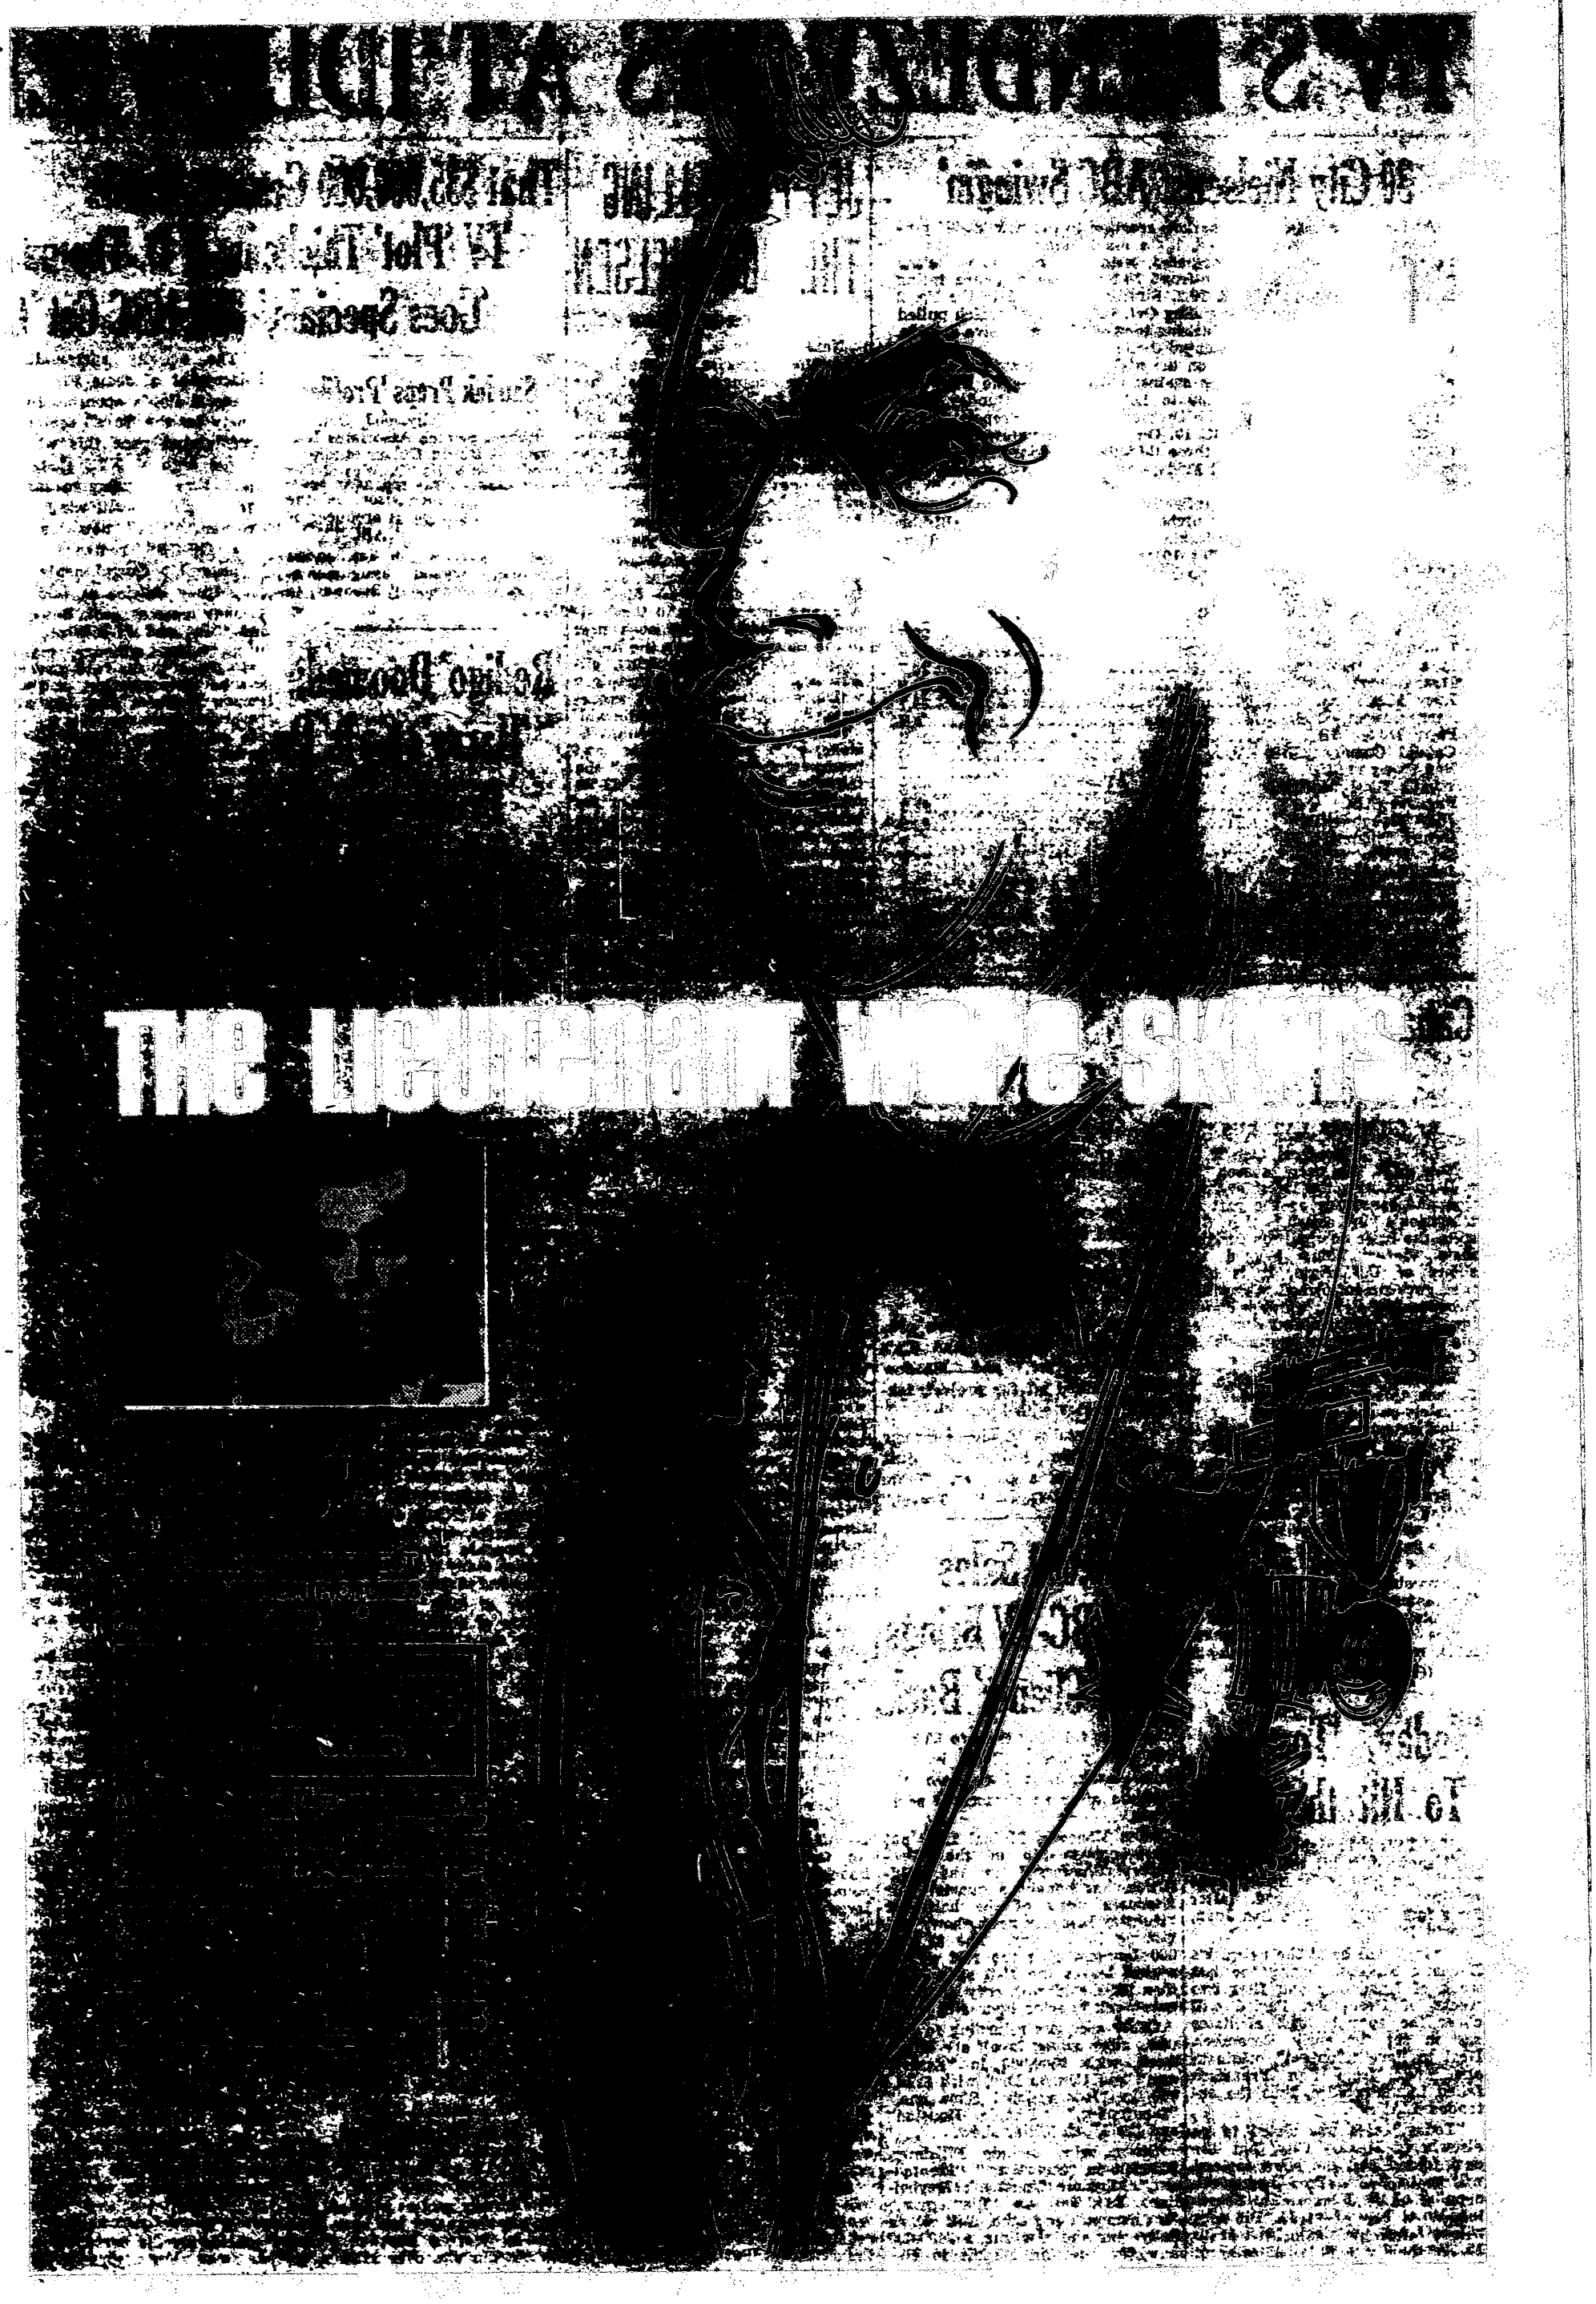
Other sales include Pillsbury, $200,000 in "Showtime," "Lieutenant," "Temple Houston"; Maybelline, $150,000 in "Lieutenant," "Espionage" and the Bill Dana half hour; and, daytime, a $400,000 buy from United Biscuit in five sunshine shows.

'Today,' 'Tonight' To Hit the Road

NBC-TV's "Tonight" and "Today" shows will hit the road next month, the former for three weeks origination in Hollywood, latter for a four-day junket to San Juan, Puerto Rico.

"Today" will be at the network's Burbank Studios, during the last week of November and first two weeks of December. Period will cover the annual Coast affiliates session set for early December. Deal to have "Tonight" originate one week from San Francisco failed to materialize, thus the extended L.A. run.

"Today," also was slated to go elsewhere, Mexico City, but the deal folded and the show instead will go to Puerto Rico during the opening of the Puerto Rico Sheraton Hotel Nov. 7 to 11. PR segs wil be taped for airing Nov. 11 to 15. Production and talent crew of 30 will make the trip.



THE LIEUTENANT

CBS DAYTIME: SUNNY SIDE UP

Taped Drama: End of the Line

Weekly dramatic series on tape, currently hanging on by a nylon thread, is coming to the end of the line with the 1963-64 season. Currently, the "DuPont Show of the Week" on NBC-TV is the sole surviving taped dramatic show and DuPont is not expected to return with that entry next fall.

The decline and demise of taped drama (except for the continuing Hallmark specials on NBC) has generated some nostalgic regrets in some quarters, but most of the tv craftsmen don't care whether they work in film or on tape, as long as the basic story material is good.

Marc Daniels, veteran tv director who produced some of the earliest live dramas on the CBS "Ford Theatre" back in 1948 and who recently taped the tv version of "The Advocate" for Westinghouse, is one of the unsentimental pros. Daniels, who is based mostly in Hollywood, asserted that the nature of the raw stock was insignificant compared to the quality of the script in determining the calibre of any show.

Daniels conceded all the known advantages of tape in permitting the continuity and directness of a live production. These plusses for tape, however, are being minimized in film shows by more rehearsals. "The more rehearsal time, the more spontaneous a performance, whether it's tape or film," according to Daniels. The top comedy shows, such as "Lucy" and "The Danny Thomas Show," have set the pattern is rehearsing for three days and shooting on the fourth.

The greatness of the old days of live television drama has been exaggerated, Daniels believes. "If we had that type of show today, nobody would like it," he said.

NBC's Bob Sarnoff Re TV Sports, Ratings, Feevee, News & Pubaffairs

By DAVE JAMPEL

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

An "enormous increase" of interest in sports by the American public and consequently by tv advertisers is what led his network to outbid its rival webs for the U.S. television rights to the 1964 Summer Olympics, said Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC's board chairman.

"I suppose one measure of this interest is that we were able to get sponsorship a year and a half before the event," added Sarnoff, here for the formal signing of the contract with the Japan Broadcasting Corp. (NHK).

It was Sarnoff's offhand belief that next October will mark the first time NBC will telecast the Olympic Games. "Sports are becoming a very important part of the network schedule," he told VARIETY. "Our whole sports operation is now part of the news division. We treat sports as separate from entertainment programs."

The pact he signed here calls for NBC to select a maximum of 25 hours of NHK Olympic tapes for U.S. telecasting. In addition, NBC, which will have 30 to 40 technicians and broadcasters in Tokyo, is expected to do some shooting on its own, mainly off-field sidebar footage, Sarnoff noted.

Sarnoff said that the 14½ hours now committed to sponsorship would be shown on 19 different programs. If NBC winds up with more footage, he feels sponsors would follow. "Even if not," the NBC chieftain added, "if we thought something was important

(Continued on page 46)

Yorkin-Lear Sue On Andy Williams

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

Alan Yorkin and Norman Lear, repping Tandem Enterprises, demand $750,000 in breach of contract suit filed against Barnaby Productions, owners of the Andy Williams Show on NBC-TV, on which two plaintiffs were exec producers last season when it was a weekly program. Show this season has been shortened to 12 alternate weeks. Action also seeks to establish a continuing interest in program.

Contention is raised by plaintiffs that this season's show is no different from last year's, which point is disputed. Yorkin and Lear claim they weren't consulted when new pact for 12 shows was inked with NBC and that contract executed in September, 1962, covers the shorter schedule or any other continuance of the Williams shows. Barnaby attorneys claim it is a different show and the Yorkin-Lear association ends there.

Pinkham to TAC

Ted Bates agency senior veepee for media and programs Richard A. R. Pinkham has joined the nine-man broadcaster's advisory committee of TAC.

The Bates exec takes the chair vacated by Pop Weaver who left McCann-Erickson Intal. to head Subscription TV, Inc.

Stanton's Bid For A Clearing House As Educ'l TV Boon

Washington, Oct. 22.

CBS prez Frank Stanton proposed the creation of a clearing house for educational tv Wednesday (16) at the opening of the second annual U. S.-Japan Cultural Exchange conference.

Stanton, who substituted as keynote speaker for the ailing USIA director, Edward R. Murrow, said the central headquarters for educational tv information could nip an endless stream of problems before they balloon out of size.

Some of the stumbling blocks that could arise from an exchange program range from copyrights to obvious language barriers, he explained.

Leading the Japanese delegation in the opening ceremonies was Kogoro Uemura, vice president of the Federation of Economic Organization.

President Kennedy's greeting to the conference expressed gratification at "the continuing growth in cultural and intellectual relations between Japan and the United States."

Mutual understanding and cooperation in the world of the free mind enrich the lives and well-being of our peoples—thereby broadening the already strong partnerships existing between our two countries, said the President's message.

Ambassador Ryuji Takeuchi of Japan read a similar greeting from Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda. It read:

"The United States and Japan are enjoying as neighbors across the Pacific Ocean the most friendly relationship in the political, economic and cultural fields—the meeting and mingling with mutual respects of the East and the West, with their own unique cultures, will greatly contribute to the peace of the world, and the happiness of mankind."

STORY'S A HONEY: RATING, MONEY

While the whole industry has been watching with almost bated breath the minute by minute developments on nighttime ratings (as though every night were Election Night) CBS-TV has been sneaking in a one-two daytime punch by racking up its most enviable performance of all time.

The National Nielsens for the two weeks ending Sept. 28 not only give Columbia a clean sweep of the Top 10 ranging from a 14.0 for "As the World Turns" to "Secret Storm's" 7.9, but the 8.3 average audience rating spanning the 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. period is 60% higher than its nearest rival (NBC) and more than 100% over ABC's. Not even in the days of a two-network daytime rivalry could it boast such talk—and numbers.

If such a feat takes on increasing importance among the CBS hierarchy, as it does, it's because 40% of the network revenue today comes from daytime billings. Translated dollar-wise, this accounts for $135,000,000 annually, not only giving the web an SRO status but creating a waiting list situation where "you gotta know somebody" to get on.

As a result of the rating performance, it's estimated at CBS that it is now getting anywhere from 50% to 100% more per quarter hour than the rival webs. And since, to all intents and purposes, program costs are about the same, whether it's NBC, CBS or ABC, the upped tab to sponsors has cued an unprecedented profit picture.

Until this year CBS' daytime fortunes hardly commenced until noon (with continued dominance to 5 p.m.). The NBC back-to-back "Price Is Right"-"Concentration" parlay managed to hold CBS' morning lineup in check. But now that "Price" has flown the CBS coop to roost at ABC, and with the indomitable 11 to noon NBC block broken up, the Columbia sunshine sweep now extends from 11 a.m.

Here's how CBS' Top 10 Nielsen sweep comes out:

As the World Turns	CBS	14.0
Password	CBS	12.2
House Party	CBS	10.7
To Tell the Truth	CBS	10.4
Guiding Light	CBS	10.2
Search For Tomorrow	CBS	9.5
News 3:25 p.m.	CBS	9.3
Edge of Night	CBS	9.1
Love of Life	CBS	8.1
Secret Storm	CBS	7.9

ABC's Aft. Mileage On 'Wagon Train' Repeats; Hot Sat. Kiddie Block

The "Wagon Train" repeats, running under the title of "Trailmaster," are starting to pay off on ABC-TV's afternoon schedule. It's become the first daytime show in the history of the web to crack the 30 share barrier, according to the latest 30-market Nielsen book. For its second half-hour, moreover, it topped the competition for the week of Oct. 7-13.

ABC-TV is also developing some muscle in its morning lineup with "The Price Is Right," which has begun to pick up momentum after a slow start following its switch from NBC early in September. From a poor 10 share in its opening weeks, "Price is Right" has now closed in on the competition with a 24 plus share.

ABC-TV, meantime, has taken the lead with its block of Saturday kiddie shows starting at 10:30 a.m. Out of six half-hours, ABC is tops in five. Sold at premium rates, this block has proved to be a solid money-maker for the web with SRO business in fourth quarter and a 75% sellout during the customary third quarter doldrums.

It Now Looks Certain Nielsen Will Drop Radio Rating Service; ARB, Trendex Bucking for the Biz

Network and ad agency AM factotums are convinced its just a matter of time until A. C. Nielsen is out of the radio rating business completely. Meanwhile, hot negotiations are underway with services who want to get into the act —including Trendex and ARB.

If Nielsen didn't give a clear impression that he wanted out when he presented his initial plan to network and agency execs for a revised web rating service in the wake of the Washington hearings on the numbers, he did so the second time around when he came back recently with a revised blueprint per request. First pitch was personal at a gathering of the customers in New York, the second was a written presentation, and it left industryites sure that Nielsen would scrap his network radio service as the company has its local AM coverage (which took a severe beating in Washington).

Nielsen's first proposition would have cost the networks three and a half times as much as the current service. On the second go, the proposed tab was down to two and a quarter times the going rate, but still would have cost the networks more than $350,000 annually.

Both proposals involved diary reports and mechanical devices for recording listening in the home and in cars—the latter via what the company calls "recordimeters." Besides the prohibitive price of the revised service, many of the execs feel that a diary service would suffice. To cut the buck in the revised edition of the proposal, Nielsen was offering six instead of 12 reports annually with no special demographic studies or duplicates.

Sindlinger, of course, was the first service to actively move in on Nielsen's network service. ABC several months ago dropped Nielsen for the Philadelphia-based research outfit, and NBC is subscribing to Sindlinger on a month-by-month basis while continuing with Nielsen. Sindlinger, however, is felt to have "built-in faults" via its exclusively recall modus operandi and lack of cumulative audience reporting, etc.

Meanwhile, ARB and Trendex are bucking for the business. ARB, which has been strictly tv heretofore, has plotted a pilot study in Detroit, which will involve diary reports covering each member of the family. It will have a sample of 6,000 homes and 15,000 diaries. Ultimate service would supply four to six reports a year at a cost of about $80,000 per report with the

(Continued on page 40)

Si Rose Upped

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Si Rose has been upped to associate producer of Revue studio's "McHale's Navy" series, after serving as script supervisor on the show. Ed Montagne is producer of the series which is on ABC-TV.

Rose, in his new job, has handed out four writing assignments: Barry Blitzer and Ray Brenner, to script "The Balloon Goes Up" seg; Ralph Goodman and Stan Drebin, "A Medal for Parker"; William Raynor and Myles Wilder, "The Great Impersonator," and Arnold Horwitt, "Orange Blossoms for McHale."

Tom Moore Flash: Jerry Lewis Show Now On the Track

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

"We knew that Jerry Lewis wouldn't be a smash on his first few shows but he's on the track now and will be the most talked-of show in television." ABC-TV prexy Thomas Moore tried to be more objective than defensive after his four-hour session with Lewis, also attended by AB-PT prexy Leonard Goldenson, who personally negotiated the Lewis deal (one year firm with options).

"He was agreeable to all our suggestions for the show's improvement," said Moore. "He feels that his entire career is on the line with the first live two-hour show on tv and we're going to back him up with everything in the book of promotion and publicity. We traded ideas and he was completely cooperative. What changes would be made will come gradually but among them will be a more relaxed Lewis and not pressing too hard. We have complete confidence that he'll make the changes we suggested and that the audience level will rise with each succeeding week. By the next few weeks he will be a substantial audience-getter against rugged competition and by then we'll know if he is carried over into next season.

"While the early publicity on the show hasn't been at all gratifying, sponsors have not been disenchanted. Show is 85% sold for the first 13 weeks and two other sponsors are watching the ratings. Last week's overnight Trendex convince us that he's on his way and future night's ratings will be closely watched. Many of the improvements will be noticeable. Jerry will stock the show with top names and, according to his own admission, 'working with good talent makes

(Continued on page 40)

Biggest Sporting Event Of 'Em All to British A-R (23-Nation Pickup)

London, Oct. 22.

Associated-Rediffusion is prepping one of the major sporting broadcasts in the history of the commercial tv network. It is the England vs. The Rest (of the world) soccer match at Wembley Stadium on Oct. 23.

Broadcast will be taken in 23 countries on the Eurovision and Intervision networks which cover Europe and all Iron Curtain countries, with a potential audience running into hundreds of millions.

A-R is providing 10 commentary positions, for voice-overs in 20 different languages. Transmission is fixed for prime time exposure at 9:45 p.m.

Grampian's King In Bid for Scot TV

Aberdeen, S., Oct. 22.

Sir Alexander King, Scot cinema magnate, and chairman of Grampian Television Ltd., will apply for the new Independent Television Authority contract for northeast Scotland. He announced this after a meeting of directors of Grampian TV, the company which provides programs for northern and northeast Scotland.

Under the new terms published by the Independent Television Authority, he said, Grampian TV could operate as a financially viable concern and continue its declared policy of serving their transmission area to the fullest extent of their resources.

The British ITA will strengthen its coverage of north and northeast Scotland by building two new transmitters. One will be near Dundee, while the other, at Wick, will take British commercial tv programs for the first time to the far north and to the Orkney Islands.

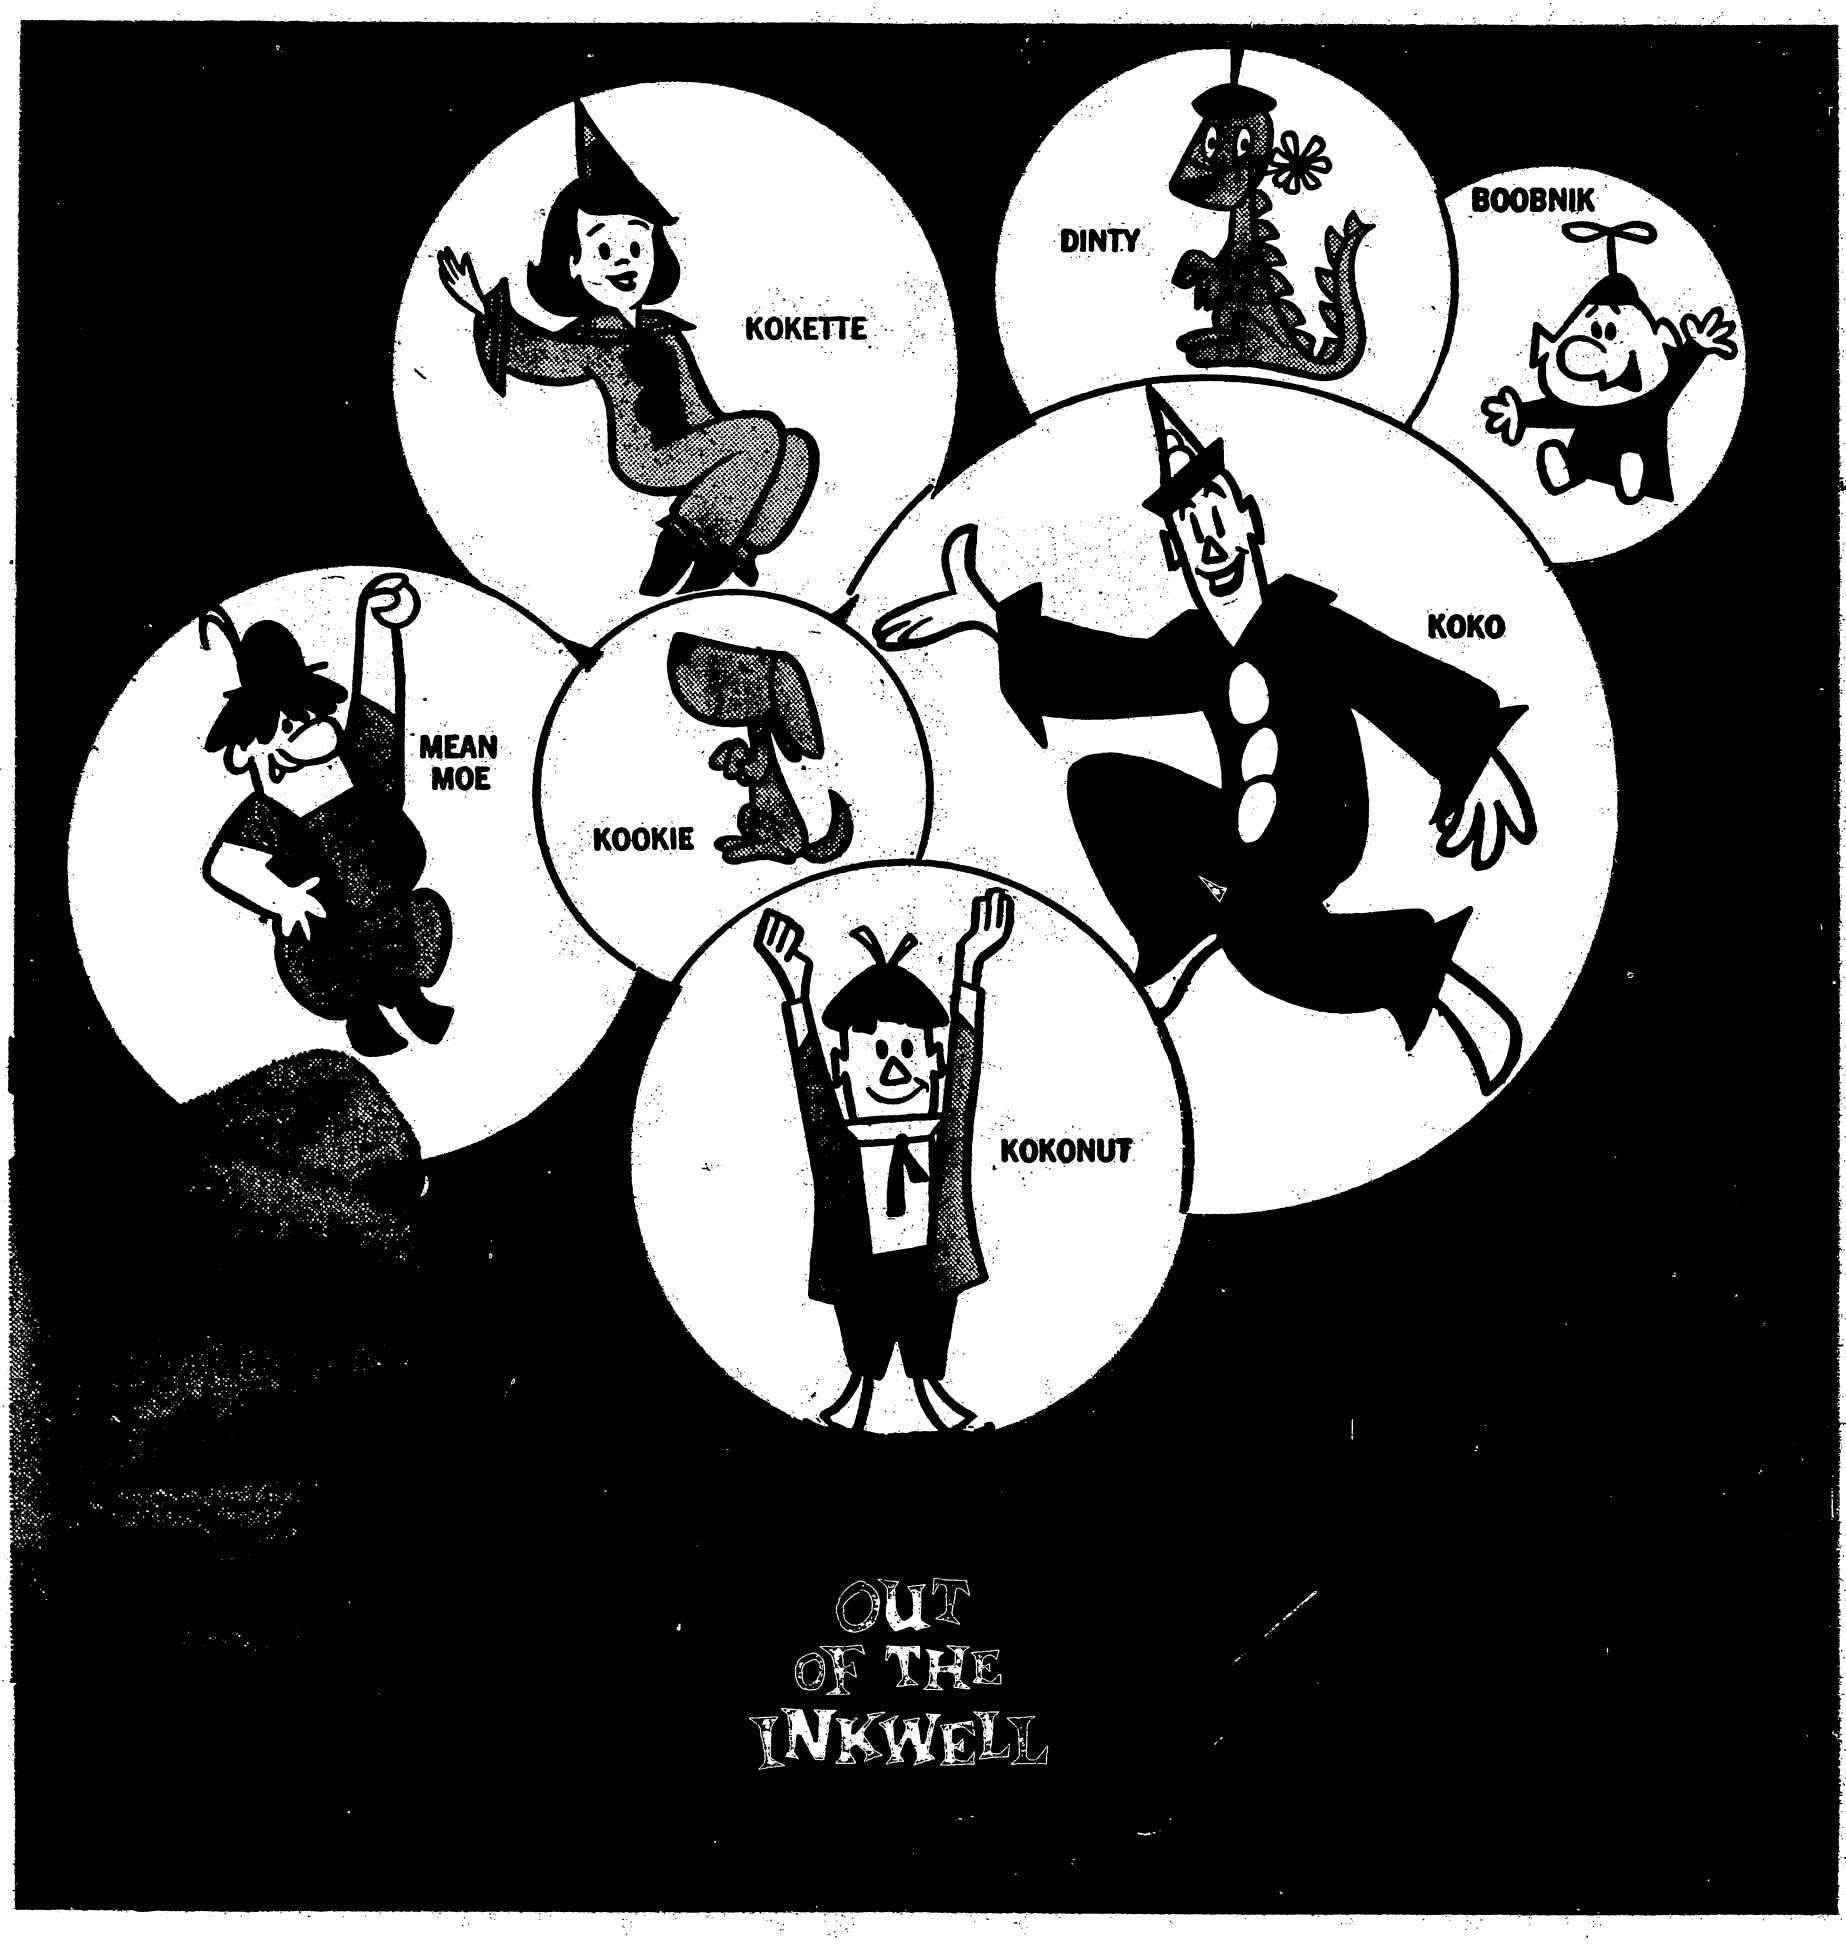
100 animated 5-minute cartoons in full color created by Max Fleischer, produced by Hal Seeger and directed by Myron Waldman . . . featuring the hilarious voices of Larry Storch and presenting the most refreshingly new and highly entertaining characters . . . KOKO, KOKETTE, KOKONUT and MEAN MOE . . . all delightful creations, animated with real photographic backgrounds for the delight of every kind of audience. "Out of the Inkwell" is definitely out of the ordinary. To find out for yourself, we invite you to screen a sample of this great new cartoon series. Your nearest Seven Arts' sales office is listed at right.

SEVEN ARTS ASSOCIATED CORP.

A SUBSIDIARY OF SEVEN ARTS PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
NEW YORK: 200 Park Avenue YUkon 6-1717
CHICAGO: 4630 Estes, Lincolnwood, Ill. ORchard 4-5105
DALLAS: 5641 Charleston Drive ADams 9-2855
LOS ANGELES: 3562 Royal Woods Drive, Sherman Oaks, Calif. STate 8-8276
TORONTO, ONTARIO: 11 Adelaide St. West EMpire 4-7193

Distributed outside of the United States and Canada
Cable: SEVENLON London

Look what's coming up from Seven Arts!



ALSO A 'SYNDIE POCKETPIECE'

'You Can Put Back The Bathtubs'

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.

WCKY will check out of the Sheraton-Gibson after the first of the year for transfer of operation to the fifth floor of Carew Tower, Cincy's tallest skyscraper, under a longterm lease.

The hotel tenancy began in 1939, when the L. B. Wilson 50,000-watter moved from original quarters in a four-story office building in Covington, Ky., then tagged by station announcements as "one minute from Cincinnati." There was no elevator, well impressed on Paul Whiteman during his "Jazz King" reign, when also at his top weight. A special program for him was held up for some minutes to allow recovery of breath after the long climb of stairs.

When WCKY took over in the Gibson Hotel, enough bathtubs were removed from single rooms for the changeover to supply a smalltown hotel.

Relocation of WCKY completes the exodus of radio stations from downtown hotels. First such operation was by WFBE, a small watter cradled in the former Garfield Hotel. It became WCPO, now a Scripps-Howard holding, and was moved to the Sinton Hotel, which later quartered WSAI after ownership switch from Crosley.

WKRC-Radio originated in hilltop Hotel Alma, where its antenna continues, and is now in modern appointments with WKRC-TV in Taft Broadcasting headquarters, including the tallest tv antenna here on a hill overlooking the downtown area. WZIP, daytimer, is the only local radio station in hotel housing, at Vernon Manor in suburban Avondale.

Jeanette Heinze, general manager of WCKY, said the move to Carew Tower permits stay in downtown Cincinnati "where we can be a part of its future growth and vitalized redevelopment," and there will be no changes in ownership or management of the station.

That Cosa Nostra Noise Invites Sponsor Rush Into 'Untouchables'

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

It looks as if the stir created by gangster Joe Valachi and the publicity which the Cosa Nostra received via the Congressional hearings on Mafia activities have turned into what appears to be a godsend commercially for the television "Untouchables" residuals in this neck of the woods.

They were bought for the Twin Cities' market by the local 20th-Fox KMSP-TV and are presented Thursdays at 10:30 p.m. Donald Swartz, KMSP-TV head, says they're now completely sold out to advertisers for the next 26 weeks. Other area tv stations having them also are reported to be benefitting similarly.

"It was plainly apparent that the Valachi development generated greatly increased public interest in these reissues and this prompted us to tie in our promotion for the program with the hearing revelations, undoubtedly additionally boosting its audience," asserts Swartz. "The sponsorship rush ensued."

For "opposition" here on its Thursday nights the reissued "Untouchables" has KSTP-TV's "Tonight," which, many video folks believe, will be well out in front ratingswise; WCCO-TV's Steve Allen show, and WTCN-TV's movies.

Since "The Untouchables" started cashing in on Valachi there haven't been any ratings reports so that there's no way of determining yet if the show is cutting in substantially on the "Tonight" and Steve Allen audiences, it's pointed out.

McLendon Eyeing U.S. Senate Seat?

Chicago, Oct. 22.

Gordon McLendon, prexy of the McLendon station group, sometime motion picture producer and enterpriser in other show biz areas, may become a candidate for the U.S. Senate from Texas. If so, he'll run as a "conservative Democrat" taking the liberal position only on the civil rights issue.

(Among the stations he operates is the Negro-oriented WYNR in Chicago.)

It's understood that politcal groups in Dallas and Houston have tried before to get McLendon to run for a political office, but this time he's supposedly taking it seriously. If he should enter the Texas primary, the Senate seat he'll be bidding for is that now occupied by Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

'Mike Douglas Show' Put Into Syndication

"The Mike Douglas Show," daily 90-minute daytime variety stanza originating from Group W's Cleveland station, KYW-TV, is going into syndication Oct. 28.

In addition to being carried by the chain of Westinghouse stations the show has already been sold to KCTO, Denver; WGR-TV, Buffalo; and WISN-TV, Milwaukee.

Group W Pacts Frank Baxter as Shakespeare Man

The Westinghouse Broadcasting chain is laying early plans for 1964's quadracentennial (that's 400 years) celebration of William Shakespeare's birth. Initial step was the signing of Dr. Frank Baxter, Shakespearean scholar who's done considerable teaching via tv, to do radio and tv shows about the Bard for Westinghouse on an exclusive basis throughout the year.

Baxter's main assignment will be a new version of the basic tv course in Shakespeare which he did more than a decade ago on KNXT, Los Angeles. The new series, comprising 50 half-hours, will be titled "The Fair Adventure: Readings in Shakespeare." It'll be a one-man show with updated visual material and techniques.

Dick Pack, Group W's programming v.p., figures that during the anniversary year there will be plenty of Shakespeare drama on tv and he can't compete in that area. He figures that in getting a teacher like Baxter, Group W has found an effective and simple way to stimulate interest in the playwright.

Baxter is currently in England with Don Volkman, Group W's staff film photographer, shooting background material in London, Stratford and other regions for incorporation into the series. The shows will be taped on the Coast starting early in 1964.

WZOO's 150G Sale

Spartanburg, S.C., Oct. 22.

Radio Station WZOO in Spartanburg has been sold for $150,000.

Station was sold by John K. L. Peterson to Thomas W. Thuman, former manager of staion WORD in Spartanburg; Phil Buchhist, publisher of the Spartanburg Herald-Journal, and Fred D. Moffitt, associate publisher of the Herald-Journal.

LOCAL ASPECTS OF RATING FEVER

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

As the '63-'64 season unrolls, as local stations look to their local and network ratings, syndicators are in the midst of planning their next plunges.

Most of the vidpix buying already has been done and in this slack period, there's a good deal of thought being expended on possible trends and where to put the smart money. The local Nielsen and Arbitrons are being followed with the same zealousness as on the network level.

It will take a few local pocketpiece rating books to establish what's going on in market after market throughout the country. Already, though, syndication researchers in N. Y. are plotting what they consider the rating weakies for sales ammunition for an alternative series.

Many stations, in their off-network fidpix buys today, make longterm commitments. If these series, buttoned by longterm commitment, fail in the ratings, the affected stations have a number of outs. One, there's a possibility of juggling the slot for a more favorable possible rating play, two, there's a possibility of the station putting the particular property on the shelf for awhile, hoping what may rating losses today may prove rating winners in the future. Latter course in many cases requires the station operator to seek an extention in his contract with the syndicator.

Savvy sales execs in N. Y. are carefully studying the local rating charts and if a series turns out to be a clinker in the numbers game, they're prepared to enter the market with alternative series and, if necessary, reprogram the entire local schedule.

In the midst of the current rating fever, there are these possible eventualities which are being closely watched.

Will United Artists Television's "Lee Marvin Presents—Lawbreakers" make it on the rating charts and go into second year production? (Fate of every first-run entry in syndication is scrutinized; there are so few around.)

Will one of the three networks, obviously the weakest one in the ratings, give up the 10:30 to 11 p.m. period and recognize the so-called two-and-a-half network economy?

How many local stations will bump weak network rating entries in favor of local, spelled syndication, programming? Despite the legal end of option time, per FCC ruling, the savvy syndicators feel there will be no major rash of regular preemptions. Opinion, though, is that many key stations will feel strong enough to bump one or two network series feeds in favor of syndication entries, comes January.

Are there sufficient number of regional sponsors with rekindled interest in first-run product to trigger a larger number of made-for-syndication series? Pros and cons can be heard on both sides of this question which inevitably will be answered with time.

These are some of the representative questions being bandied around. There are others, such as the muscle stretching in terms of programming of such station groups as Westinghouse's Group W, Storer Programs, Triangle, etc., and their possible effect on traditional syndication fare.

CBS' Kidvid Sponsors

Thom McAn Shoe Co. and Fels & Co. have signed as cosponsors of the five hourlong children specials on WCBS-TV, which kicked off Sunday (20).

First was Kipling's "Just So" stories, with the other Sunday outings at 4 p.m., slated to be "The Littlest Circus," "Tall Tales," "Junior Jamboree" and a concert hosted by Captain Kangaroo (Bob Keeshan).

WBC to Study Profit-&-Loss Facts On 'Advocate' Before New Angeling

By HERM SCHOENFELD

Westinghouse Broadcasting, which blueprinted an ambitious schedule of angeling Broadway productions, is not panicking at the fast fold of its first legit venture, "The Advocate." Westinghouse execs would have liked to ride with a longrunning hit, but their central goal in backing "The Advocate" was to come up with a good television property.

Reaction of the television critics to the tv show in the Group W cities where it was shown simultaneously with its Broadway preem has indicated that a play which flops on the boards may clock on the home screen. Critics in Baltimore, Boston, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and San Francisco were virtually unanimous in lauding the tv presentation. Fred Storm, of the San Francisco Call Bulletin, summed up the general critical reaction to the tv presentation. "One can only hope that this experiment will be continued, thus giving stature and dignity to a communications medium concerned only with Class B entertainment."

Whether Westinghouse will recoup its $60,000 investment in the play plus another $80,000 for the taping of the two-and-a-half hour tv version will hinge on the demand in the syndication market. Under its deal with the legit producers, Westinghouse must wait 90 days before putting the tape into snydication in order to permit time for a film sale. There have been several inquiries from stations in key markets about the tape and Westinghouse may seek a waiver of the 90-day clause to cash in on the current interest. All of the Westinghouse stations sold out the legit telecast, thus helping to amortize a substantial part of the group's investment.

Westinghouse originally indicated a readiness to invest in about four legit shows a year. It's expected that the company will hold back on its next angeling venture until the full profit-and-loss statement on "The Advocate" is in.

WBNS-TV's Fest Best

Columbus, Oct. 22.

Independently-owned WBNS-TV here bested viedo outlets of all sizes when it won the Grand Award for TV Public Service Programs, presented at the International TV-Film Festival in New York. The series that did it was "Channel 10 Reports," weekly series of documentary programs aired Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m. The award was accepted by John Haldi, program director, from Robert Dowling, representing Mayor Wagner.

Trio behind the series includes Tom Dorsey, news director; Jack Hunter, public affairs director and Stan Vingle, photographer. Dorsey says that "wherever possible, we try to let the principals involved speak their own words and thoughts." The station tries to avoid a "full-scripted, tightly-formatted," production operation, commented Dorsey.

WB's $4,500,000 Sales On Feature & Off-Web Segs

Warner Bros.' syndication tv division has racked up more than $4,500,000 in sales of features and off-network programs during the third quarter of '63, according to the division's v.p. Joseph Kotler.

The third quarter gross includes 35 sales of the new "Warner Bros. One" pix package, 30 sales of off-network hours, and five sales of off-network half-hours. The gross, a record-breaker for the division, does not include pre-release sales of "The Gallant Men" in a number of major markets.

Kotler, commenting on the grossing performance of the July through September period, said during the comparable period last year, the division grossed $1,400,000. "Even with the addition of the features, we did not expect to more than triple our last year's sales figures for these normally slack selling months."

Of the 35 sales for the "Warner Bros. One" features package, 14 are listed among the top 25 tv markets. In addition to the five previously announced sales to CBS o&o stations, the pix package has been bought by KPIX, San Francisco; WTOP, Washington; WBAL, Baltimore; KTVT, Dallas-Ft. Worth; WTCN, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WPRO, Providence; WFBM, Indianapolis; WTVJ, Miami; and WTMJ, Milwaukee.

Off-network program sales in major markets during the third quarter include "Hawaiian Eye" to KABC, Los Angeles; WRCV, Philadelphia; and WTVJ, Miami; "Cheyenne" to KTTV, Los Angeles; and KTNT, Seattle-Tacoma; "Roaring 20's" to WCPO Cincinnati. KNTN also purchased "Maverick."

Not included in the third quarter sales figures are six pre-release sales of "Gallant Men," including deals with WNEW, N.Y.; KTTV, Los Angeles; WTTG, Washington; and WLW-I, Indianapolis.

Schwimmer's 10-Strike

Chicago, Oct. 22.

Walter Schwimmer's "Championship Bowling" has racked up a total of 171 markets, including all the majors, for its 10th consecutive year in syndication.

Firestone Tire & Rubber is one of the major spot advertisers in the series, which again is being produced tournament style with a $10,000 grand prize for the winning kegler.

Taft's Top Level Exec Realignment

Cincinnati, Oct. 22.

A move described to strengthen top management of Taft Broadcasting created new positions for four executives.

Hulbert Taft Jr. board chairman was named to the additional post of chief executive officer at the quarterly board meeting here last week.

David Ingalls was elected vice chairman of the board.

Lawrence H. Rogers II, former executive v.p., is the new president.

John L. McClay, who recently joined the company, was elected v.p. in charge of operations.

The board also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents, payable Dec. 12 to holders of record Nov. 15.

For the six months ended Sept. 30 net income was reported at $913,813 or 58 cents a share on a net revenue of $5,894,764. This compares with a net income of $964,036 or 60 cents a share on a net revenue of $5,729,398 for the same period last year.

The board recently made application to the FCC for assignment of licenses of certain broadcasting properties presently owned by Transcontinental Television Corp.

4 Star Sales

Four Star Distribution reports four new sales on the hour and half-hour off-web series, "Detectives," giving the package a total of 90 markets.

New sales were to WCSC, Charleston; KTTS, Springfield, Mo.; KCPX, Salt Lake City; and KSBW, Salinas.

INTERNATIONAL SHOWTIME

Your host DON AMECHE

3rd SMASH YEAR!

NATIONAL NIELSEN

(Week of September 27th)

NBC "INTERNATIONAL SHOWTIME" 36.1

CBS "GREAT ADVENTURE" 27.6

ABC "77 SUNSET STRIP" 25.7

First time this season that all three network shows competed head on for audience

VARIETY, September 18, 1963

"MAGNIFICENT MUNICH CIRCUS"

"International Showtime" was a good television idea the year it started, and it still is. Going into its third season on NBC-TV, it'll have the advantage over its new competition — "Great Adventure" and "77 Sunset Strip"—in that its claim to the timeslot is already established. Prospects look good for as long as topnotch circus acts and ice shows hold out and that would seem to be indefinitely.

Season's preem glimpsed five acts from the German big top show billed for television as the Marvelous Munich Circus. Host Don Ameche, genially reminding the audience that he seldom deals in hyperbole, stated in his intro that this outfit was one of the best he'd ever seen. Whether that be the case or not, the acts were very good indeed.

There was a slick juggler who dealt in the usual razzledazzle of his trade, but heightened his performance with deft touches of humor. The clown unit known as the Francescos were superb in timing their knockabout stuff and worked at low comedy as though it were a lofty art, an unusual act of their kind. A tiger tamer had the beautiful felines minding their manners, which as any cat owner knows is impossible. But the real breath-catcher was a wierdo of an aerial act on a space rocket theme, wherein the trapeze whirled round and around the conical ceiling. It was a strange idea, and a thriller. Les.

NEW YORK TIMES, October 12, 1963

"CIRCUS FROM BUDAPEST"

'International Showtime' Presents Tape Made Behind the Iron Curtain

By JACK GOULD

THE program "International Showtime" contributed a marginal note of history last night. Its cameras were allowed to go behind the Iron Curtain for a tape recording of the Hungarian State Circus, reportedly one of the few times since the Hungarian revolution of 1956 that Budapest authorities have welcomed American television interests.

Out of a company of 700 performers who make the Hungarian State Circus the national institution, only a handful participated in the program especially staged for presentation on the National Broadcasting Company's network. But for devotees of circus acts, of which there are apparently enough in the United States to make "International Showtime" a surprisingly durable hit, the brief visit was eminently worth while.

●

As the world travels of "International Showtime" have repeatedly demonstrated, circus artistry may be of dwindling interest in this country but certainly not abroad. The Hungarian circus was by way of further confirmation.

The six Picards, a superb equestrian team, stole the show with aerial acrobatics atop the backs of magnificent horses that never missed a step nor seemed to show the slightest concern over the human feats being performed on the jogging stage they were providing. The four Idans restored one's faith in the appeal of juggling, and the trapeze acts were truly breathtaking.

An incidental interest was the audience's rhythmic applause that came as the ultimate approval of the efforts of the troupers. Some of the random close-ups of Hungarians in the audience were absorbing.

Circuses, of course, enjoy the same advantage as sports contests and concerts. They pose no language problem for global television and do not invite political complications. Perhaps in time, though, ways can be found for American television to sample other phases of overseas entertainment, few of which have been explored at all. Meanwhile, "International Showtime" has set a happy precedent in searching out remarkable acts in many countries.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

● THE WONDERFUL WONDERFUL COPENHAGEN CIRCUS ●
● HOLIDAY ON ICE IN FRANCE ● CIRCUS FROM OSAKA ●
● TORONTO AQUA SPECTACULAR ● THE FLYING FLEMISH CIRCUS ●
● THE INNSBRUCK ICE REVUE ●

KUXL: For 'Lonely Housewives'

Ed Skotch's 'Yock Up' Geared to Suburban Frau With A Problem

Minneapolis, Oct.22.

Ed Skotch, onetime prominent as a Chicago television producer-director and more recently a West Coast tv director, has announced that within a fortnight he'll radically change the programming of his recently acquired Twin Cities non-network radio station KUXL to stress talking instead of music.

The idea, he says, will be to "make the station an intimate, informative close friend of the housewife in an effort to help work out the things which now are bugging her."

This move is being made, according to Skotch, because three years or research into the matter have convinced him that "the average suburban housewife today is a lonely person whose husband is too busy to hear her troubles and she's tieing herself into knots over small problems." And, he avers, he wants to try to do something to afford her some relief, "as little as that may be."

Another reason for what he's going to do is his opinion that "radio has become pretty much preponderently a jukebox with so much music and not enough talk." And also because he's confident if he gives setowners, and especially daytime feminine dialers, the sort of talk which he now plans he'll increase KUXL audiences substantially—which should mean a boost in its advertising volume.

"Elimination of former considerable talk by so many radio stations has caused a radio loss of listeners," asserts Skotch.

Programming policy will change as soon as the station's power is increased to 1,000 watts, which is expected to be by this month's end. There will ze 72 "unique" daily features designed to be entertaining as well as informative, Skotch says. These will be taped for syndication to other stations throughout the country.

As a promotion for the new type of programming there'll be distributed 100,000 "happiness charts" predicting the days a person will feel cheerful or grumpy. In this connection, the station will conduct "happiness experiments" twice a day.

Among the program subjects, Skotch announces, will be "Can You Explain It?," dealing with supernatural occurrences, and "Curiosity Corner," touching on nature and science. The reduced amount of music will continue in the pop album category, but, says Skotch, "each selection will contribute to the pattern of feature material."

OF's 'Battle Line' Into 108 Markets

In another major preemption of a network show for a syndicated series, WFIL-TV, Philadelphia, will fill the 10 p.m. Sunday slot previously held by ABC-TV's "100 Grand" with Official Film's new war series, "Battle Line."

ABC-TV has replaced the axed big-money quiz show with "Laughs for Sale," a panel-game half-hour, but the Philly outlet is going with the syndicated entry from Official.

With sale of the series also to WNHC-TV, New Haven," "Battle Line" is now in 108 markets after a short fall selling season. Both Philadelphia and New Haven will begin running the series Sunday (27).

Sam Gang's Own Setup

Sam Gang, vet foreign tv sales exec, has formed Global TV Enterprises, Inc., specializing in world-wide distribution of tv programs.

Gang's firm, headquartered in N. Y., will place heavy emphasis on the Latin American market. His first tour under the Global TV banner is scheduled for the early part of November when he leaves for an extended business trip of the Far East and Japan. Gang had been a foreign sales exec at NTA and ITC.

'Sergeants' Shows Its Fancy ARB Chevrons

WCBS-TV's, N.Y., "Schaefer Award 'Theatre," hit the rating bell again in its last time out with "No Time for Sergeants." Andy Griffith starrer, distributed by Seven Arts Associated, registered an Arbitron of 25.4 with a 57% share of audience, on Oct. 12 in the "Late Show" slot.

Other Seven Arts films previously selected by Schaefer for its Award Theatre include: "Sayonara," "A Face in the Crowd," "Mr. Roberts," and "Young Man with a Horn."

Dinsmore Takes A Dim View On Arrogant Selling

London, Oct. 22.

Yank telefilm distribs who adopt an arrogant, overly hard-sell attitude when pushing their product to foreign outlets, run the risk of putting their customers' backs up. Opinion is held by Richard W. Dinsmore, v.p. and general manager of Desilu Sales, currently winding up a European flip.

He says that he's noticed all round Europe growing resentment towards the American who tends to tell the local operator how to run his station. Foreign vidmen, he believes, are growing a little tired of being consistently told by powerhouse U.S. film salesmen that their programming is second-rate and that Yank-originated programming is the greatest.

According to Dinsmore: "Desilu has always adopted the soft-sell method and we do as well as anybody else (between 50% and 60% of Desilu's sales income springs from overseas sources). But we have more friends—and we sleep better at night."

Dinsmore believes that foreign outlets are not always fair on the U.S. distributor. In the U.K. for instance, prices paid for Yank series are, he contends, way out of proportion to size of audience and even more removed from cost of production.

A prime example is the recent sale of "The Greatest Show On Earth" to the British ABC-TV station. Latter U.K. major, which operates at weekends in the Midlands and the North and has a potential audience of 5,113,000 homes (or 16,481,000 people), paid $5,000 an episode for "Greatest Show" which cost $165,000 a segment to bring in.

"It seems," says Dinsmore, "that they don't want us to stay alive."

The picture here may be changing, however, with the advent of BBC-2 (the UHF web is skedded to how in April) which has begun to stimulate film buying at this end. "More competition is bound to have an effect on sales," says Dinsmore, "and it will probably give us (Americans) a fairer crack of the whip."

GLOBAL SALES ON 'GREAT MUSIC' SEGS

Chicago, Oct. 22.

Third skein of WGN-TV's "Great Music" series has chalked up 49 markets in the U. S. plus stations in Canada, Japan, West Germany, Italy, France, Argentina and Uruguay. The 26 tape installments are programs which were telecast on WGN-TV last season. Series featuring the Chicago Symphony Orch is no longer being aired in Chicago.

Recent purchasers of "Great Music" Series III were WPIX-TV, New York; WFMJ-TV, Youngstown; WLW-C, Columbus; WUHF, Milwaukee; KDAL-TV, Duluth; WJXT, Jacksonville, Fla.; WPTV, West Palm Beach; KTVK, Phoenix; KTTV, Los Angeles; KTVU, San Francisco; KING-TV, Seattle; WTOL-TV, Toledo; and WFLA-TV, Tampa, Fla.

Four Star Declares 5% Stock Dividend

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Directors of Four Star Television have declared a 5% stock dividend on the common stock payable Jan. 10, '64 to holders of record, Dec. 10, 1963.

This is the first stock dividend declared by Four Star Television. There are currently 634,505 shares of common stock outstanding. Leon Kaplan has been elected to the board of directors and all other directors were reelected. Following the shareholders meeting, the directors reelected all officers, topped by Tom McDermott, prexy.

$12,360,000 Cox Station Buy OK'd

Washington, Oct. 22.

FCC okayed the $12,360,000 sale of KTVU-TV, San Francisco-Oakland, form the Ward Ingrim group to the Cox stations.

At the same time, Commission in a letter to KTVU, said the station has lived up to its programming promises. KTVU was given a one-year shortterm renewal last March after FCC noted variances between its program promises and performances.

Sale of the channel 2 station from San Francisco-Oakland Television Inc. to Miami Valley Broadcasting Corp. was opposed by Commissioner Robert Bartley. His dissent called for a hearing on the grant.

Commissioner Rosel Hyde favored the sale but dissented from the letter.

Backing both were Commissioners Robert E. Lee, Frederick Ford, Kenneth Cox and Lee Loevinger.

OFFICIAL FILMS SEES 150G NET PROFIT

Official Films' annual report issued this week covering the fiscal year ended June 30, 1963, shows the corporation's net profit after provision for state and federal taxes on income was $150,049.

In his letter to stockholders, Official prexy Seymour Reed said the company was able to show a profit against "continuance of a most difficult period for syndication of television films" and "an acute shortage of time to show syndicated films." He said that despite the fact that competitors have been driven out of the syndication business, Official was the only syndicator that had two first-run series available this fall, "Biography," in its second year, and the new "Battle Line."

WLAK Sale Okayed

Washington, Oct. 22.

FCC okayed the $225,000 sale of WLAK radio, Lakeland, Fla. from Florida Central Broadcasting Co. to Sentinel Broadcasting Co.

Sentinel, owned by Roland and Doris Potter, also has North Carolina stations WATA-AM, WKBC-AM and WDSL-AM in Boone, North Wilkesboro and Mocksville.

Quarton: 'Attention Flattering But Political Washington Overdoes It'

"Attention is flattering but of late, political Washington has overdone it as far as our industry is concerned," William B. Quarton, Cedar Rapids, chairman of the board of the NAB, said at a seminar on radio and television here last weekend. The seminar was part of a conference of the West Central Area of American Women in Radio and Television.

Quarton, chief executive officer of the WMT stations in Cedar Rapids, said "the broad general laws of Congress in creating such agencies as the FCC get things written into them I'm sure Congress did not intend." He said the broadcasting industry should strongly resist attempts by the FCC to adopt standard time limitations on commericals and said the industry itself is studying self-regulation and has devised a code on length and type of commercials. He said it is getting more difficult, especially for small stations that can't afford Washington-based counsel, to get through the maze of rules and regulations of government agencies.

Joel Chaseman, executive producer of the "Steve Allen Show" told the seminar that "the little Old Lady from Dubuque," symbol of provincialism, has now become a victim of mass communications and that a midwest farm audience is no different from any other audience. He said: "The American public is now ready for the best anyone has to offer. There is a tremendous hunger for quality on the part of the American viewer." He admitted, however, that bright new concepts are difficult to come by and even harder to sell. He said, "It's awfully difficult to tell an advertiser he should spend his $8,000,000 on a brand new idea that has not been tried before."

Another speaker at the seminar, Roger Sharp, ABC newsman, also pointed to a lack of imagination in the power centers of network broadcasting. "Television hasn't had an original idea out of New York since they invented the little tube," he said. Sharp disagreed with the contention audiences are the same throughout the country. People are different and have different sets of values in various parts of the country, he held.

Other speakers on the program were Dr. Sidney Sands, Des Moines psychiatrist and author, and Elizabeth Bain of New York City, president-elect of the American Women in Radio and Television.

'Little Toy Shop' As Yuletide Puppet Entry

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

In an outright purchase concluded this week, Hollywood Television Service acquired world-wide rights to "The Little Toy Shop," series of puppet-animated Christmas films produced by Louis Weiss, Phoenix.

Shortly after the deal, the package was sold in three markets, WBAP, Ft. Worth; WLEX, Lexington, Ky.; and WJHL, Johnson City, Tenn.

Series includes five Christmas stories backgrounded with traditional carols sung by the Harvey Martin Boys' Choir. Peddled as a holiday package by HTS, the films are available in both black and white and in color.

Hearst WISN-TV M'w'kee Ascent As a CBS Affil

Milwaukee, Oct. 22.

CBS-TV may be the nation's heavyweight network, but it's had a tough climb in this market with only four previous seasons of VHF exposure. Hearst station WISN-TV which picked up the Columbia affiliation three seasons back when the web was running a slow third in Milwaukee, got it galloping into a firm second position last semester and now has notions about overtaking WTMJ-TV, the NBC outlet which has long dominated the market.

First step in the WISN-TV campaign was to out-advertise the competition, and the station went on a consumer media splurge that probably topped any local effort in all broadcasting this year. For eight consecutive days at the start of the new season, WISN-TV purchased full pages in the Milwaukee Journal (at $2,400 per, with the same position each day). First ad introduced the entire CBS and local station lineup, and each there after plugged the schedule night by night with layouts on the web's theme, "The Stars' Address Is CBS."

In addition, the Hearst property bought smaller versions of the ad series in weeklies and other dailies outside the Milwaukee area, plus 14 nabe papers in the city. These were backed by heavy spot campaigns on nine outlying radio stations and its own sister station, WISN Radio, the latter being the only tradeout deal. Bob Meyer's ad promo department has been allocated a budget of $120,000 for the new season, which is more than twice the allotment of two years ago.

There's perhaps some irony in

(Continued on page 46)

Esso In Six-City Splurge on Drama

Standard Oil of New Jersey ("Play of the week," "An Age of Kings," "Festival of Performing Arts"), is prepping a new series of specials, "Esso World Theatre," hour shows produced in eight different countries reflecting their national heritage in literature and the performing arts.

Already scheduled are productions in Greece, England, Nigeria and Japan, and negotiations are underway for four more. Each show will be produced in the country features will local production and performing talents taking part.

With stations to be announced, the series is slated to air in prime time in New York, Washington, Boston, Philadelphia, Rochester (N. Y.) and New Haven.

Greek production is slated to begin in Delphi Oct. 21, starring Katina Paxinou and Alexis Minotis in excerpts from classical Greek drama with Robert Graves as host narrator.

English production, scheduled to begin Oct. 28, will have Sir Ralph Richardson as narrator presenting the works of English poets and dramatists.

Producer of the new series is Newmark Intl., company formed by New York film producer Bert Lawrence. Series will eventually go into syndication. Via Needham, Louis & Brorby ad agency. Esso will have institutional blurbs keyed to the company's operations in the countries where the shows originate overseas.

Geo. Sidney Appeals for Upswing In TV Originations From Hinterland

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Hollywood's telefilm industry, heretofore unchallenged in its dominance as a vidfilm-supplier to the broadcast industry, will face hefty competition from cities around the country, it is predicted by George Sidney, Directors Guild of America prexy.

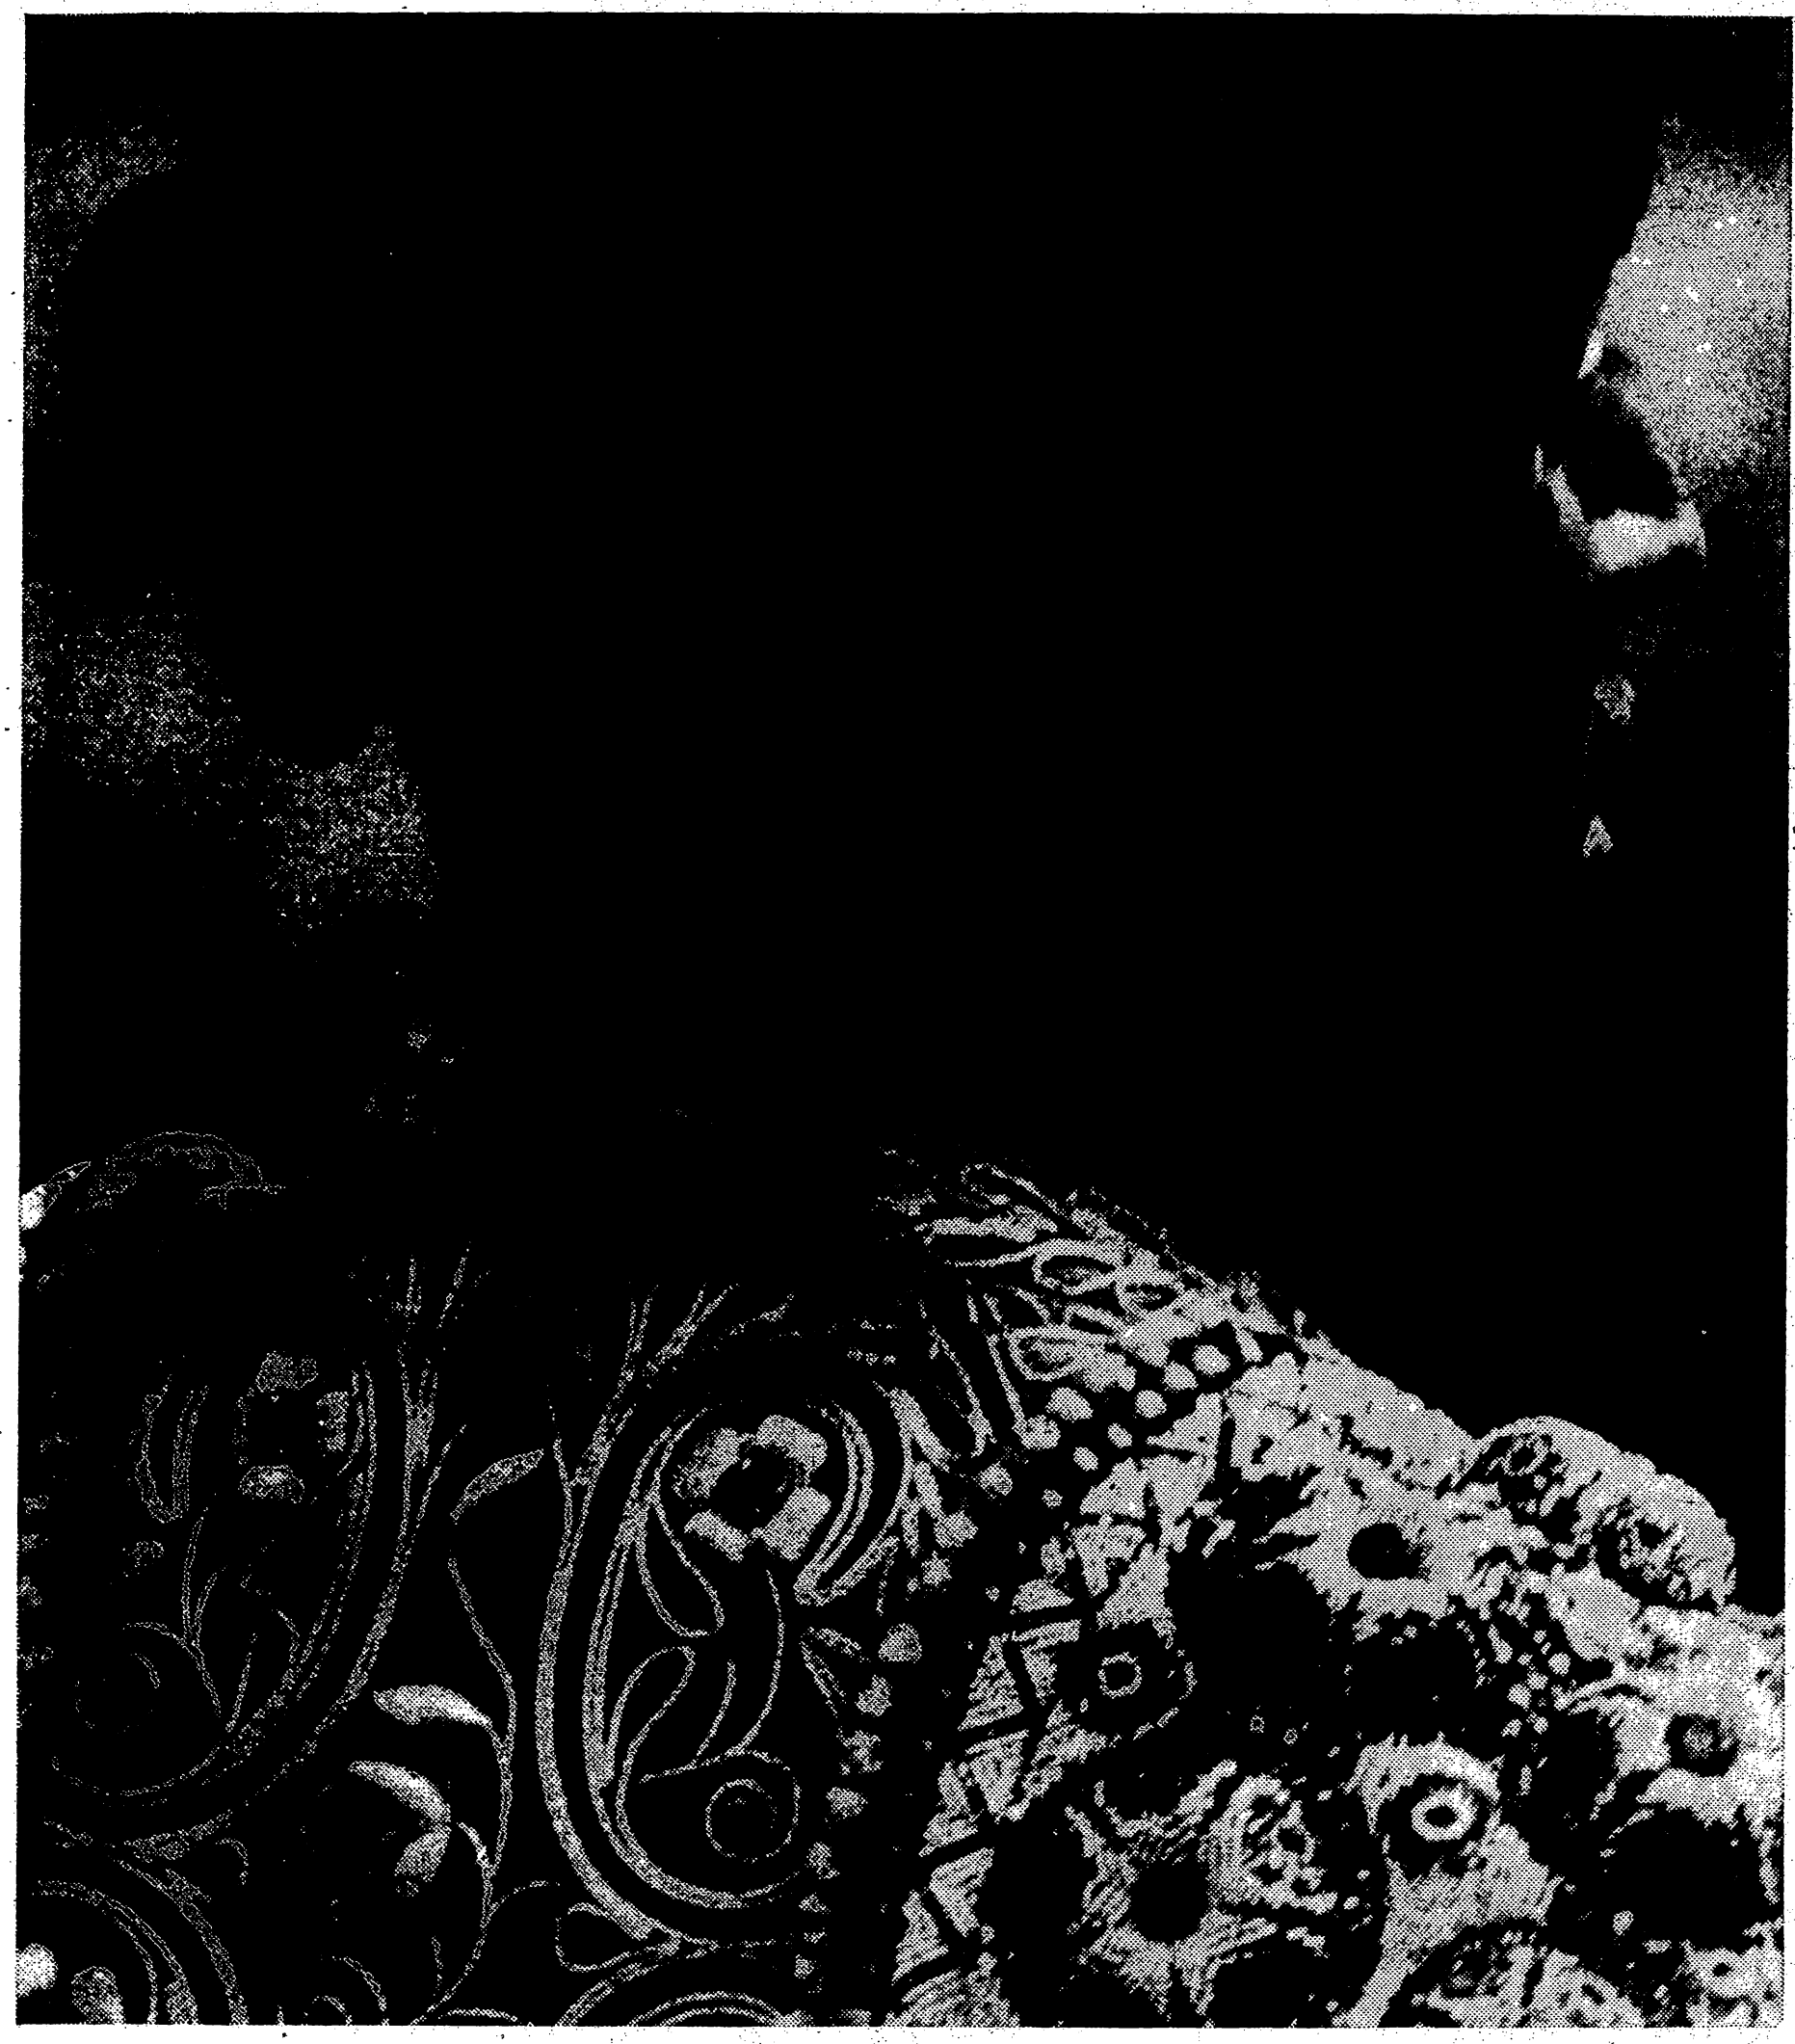
Just back from a 10-city tour during which he met with directors in N.Y., Chi, Boston, Philly and other cities, Sidney asserted, "It is time the local areas—Washington, Detroit, and other cities—produce national shows for tv. I cannot understand why it has not been done already."

Sidney said in these other cities, "They have the facilities. They have manpower. It's just a question of getting the people to do it. Of course, this will mean competition for Hollywood, but competition is healthy. In radio, during its peak days, nationl shows originated from Pittsburgh and Chicago, and the same thing is going to happen in tv."

Sidney said he couldn't predict when the other cities would get into production on a national basis, but declared "eventually, they will. They have a lot of young and exciting directing talent. They have good talent from all fields. We don't have a monopoly on that. I see a rebirth of production nationally."

The producer-director said he found the public is hungry for entertainment, that there is increased demand for programs, and that he envisions more networks and more stations, so that there will be a market for production from the various cities as well as Hollywood.

Even now, some of the largest teleblurb production companies are located in Chicago, and it would be a relatively short step for such companies to expand into entertainment films, he pointed out.



South of the Border—the Matador is a national hero. Now, the Japanese warrior of old may give him competition. Recently NBC International sold "Samurai" to Mexico, Venezuela, and Argentina. It's the first Japanese television series ever distributed in Latin-America. Throughout the world, NBC International is enjoying its greatest volume of film sales. There's a very important reason for this. Since 1957, our specialists have worked directly with broadcasters to develop and expand television in their respective nations. The successful and highly qualified professionals who represent NBC International can help you achieve your place in this ever-increasing television activity. To sell your program—whatever the category—to become part of the world-wide design... call NBC International

30 ROCKEFELLER PLAZA, NEW YORK, NEW YORK
OFFICES AND REPRESENTATIVES WORLDWIDE

Tele Follow-Up Comment

East Side West Side

The intrinsic value of CBS-TV's "East Side West Side" as an adult/tv series was demonstrated with force and power in Monday night's "I Before E Except After C." Written by Arnold Perl, the executive producer of the series, and Ossie Davis, with George C. Scott in his customary role as the social worker and guestar Howard Da Silva, it related in simple yet eloquent terms the problems of a dedicated schoolteacher when confronted by delinquent Puerto Rican students.

It was an important story, keyed to "East Side's" thematic exposing of social injustices and the inevitable extracting of a moral, yet it was told with deep insight, knowledge and understanding. If, unfortunately, by the nature of its content (which was its horrible reality) it was hardly calculated to invite a massive tune-in, the fault certainly lies less with CBS and the fine intent behind the program than with the legion of Monday at 10 viewers who are more apt to brush it aside as too big a problem to handle.

If perhaps the problem was oversimplified; if perhaps there was an inherent weakness in the climactic scene of hoodlum capitulation, the fact remains that it accomplished its mission admirably —it involved the audience, elicited its sympathy and held it. And practically everybody involved, including the performers and director Daniel Petrie, made a qualitative contribution.

"East Side" will hardly attract runaway Nielsens, but it serves a vital purpose. And in the competitive tv world of commercial reality, that could spell trouble for the show. Rose.

Ed Sullivan Show

The Ed Sullivan Show with Ginny Tiu together with two sisters and a brother, and The Italian Mouse, featured a long stretch of something for the kiddies. The Tius, of course, are an extremely talented set of Chinese moppets, who do tap dancing, singing and Ginny does a piano bit, and this petite dynasty comes out far ahead. The rodent is still an arch gimmick, but it seems that it's running out of prime material. The rat better get some writers.

However, the major strength of the show was in its adult aspects. Eydie Gorme is a performer of high merit who gives a tune a top ride. Her two numbers, one of them done while strolling in the audience, were top drawer material. Another pop song entry was Cliff Richard, a British import, who conforms to the current popular image of boy singers. He's an able practitioner and Sullivan enhanced his standing with good production values. Another singer on the show was Negro soprano, Shirley Verrett, who displayed vigor and personability in her rendition of Bizet's "Habanera." The Kessler Twins are a couple of pretty faces and figures who batted out "Without You."

The humor department was topped by Bob & Ray with players from The Establishment to aid them. They were on top of the news in a bright and satirical manner. Grecco & Willard have some excellent comedic ideas, but they didn't come off well. Jose.

The Open Mind

This WNBC-TV Sunday panel hour had what would appear to be a strong gambit in bringing together a quintet of distinguished wits to parody the show's own format. But the renowned funnymen were not very funny.

With moderator Eric Goldman were Herald Tribune Syndicate columnist Art Buchwald; "Beyond the Fringe" Britisher Peter Cook; cartoonists Jules Feiffer and Walt Kelly; and Monacle magazine editor Marvin Kitman.

The wits tried to take off by booting around the panel show per se, but got absolutely nowhere. Cook came into his own when the conversation idled onto the international scene. In the only boffs of the afternoon, he said he had heard the Red Chinese have no respect for individual human life—"and I think we should wipe them out if that's their feeling"... and, "Of course, the assumption that Gen. DeGaulle has the atomic bomb is based on a fallacy. They said that Gen. DeGaulle exploded in the Sahara a bomb which was the equivalent to 20 billion tons of TNT. He just exploded 20 billion tons of TNT."

Interesting that Cook the one theatrical funnyman on the panel was the one competant in spontaneous wit. The others, artists and writers all, are clearly funnier as loners, working it out the hard way. Bill.

DuPont Show of the Week

More inspiration than information was offered in Sunday's (20) documentary dealing with a dedicated social worker operating in N. Y.'s Spanish Harlem. The hour-long telementary on NBC-TV's "DuPont Show of the Week" had a rich emotional tone and a winning personality in Dan Murrow, the social worker.

The tragedy of 111th Street—and similar streets across the country — seemed overwhelming, though, and the one-man campaign of help appeared so inadequate in the face of the problems.

What was lacking in the documentary were references to real political issues—pros and cons of legislation which might help to correct the situation. Dan Murrow, for all his grace and warmth, can't do the job himself, as evidenced by the documentary. It could be argued that neither is legislation the answer. The problems are racial, psychological, landlord greed, low pay, poverty of opportunity, etc.

Fact, though, that exec producer Irving Gitlin and NBC News' Creative Projects Unit, chose to show 111th Street through the good works of Murrow also seemed to limit the terms of references. Gitlin and producer-director William Jersey told the story, dramatically, winningly, movingly. More of the story is yet to be told—and experienced by the viewers—if the 111th Streets are ever to change.

Documentary, titled, "Manhattan Battleground," was a salute to the social worker associated with the American Friends Service Committee, and an understanding and warm response to the people of the slums, and their troubles. It was done so well that it cried out for more information, and a broader term of references. Horo.

Andy Williams Show

Andy Williams' is one of the most comfortable shows to watch on tv. There's not a hint of tension in it, and nothing ever seems to go wrong. Seldom is the viewer made uneasy by a contrived exchange between the star and his guests, and practically never is he made to feel the anxieties of pacing. Most of all, he finds himself confident from the opening minutes that Williams will bring the songs off with distinction and that the production numbers and comedy routines will go smoothly.

Many another musical-variety stanza gets a certain added intrigue from the wonder of whether a routine will succeed or fall on its face; this one has practically nothing to offer on that level. It satisfies with sheer professionalism and good taste.

Last Tuesday's outing did have a stilted moment or two in Williams' repartee with Joey Bishop, but otherwise it was inspired entertainment. Through his own devices, the lugubrious "take" and the witty asides, Bishop overcame the old comedy contrivance of being slighted by his host and came off as both charming and funny. As the femme guest, Lee Remick contributed more than sex appeal; and while she would probably not go far as a singer or dancer, she was a game performer at both and set the right spirit for the finale, which was a delightfully bouncy ensemble rendition of "Doodling Song."

As for the star, he was typically smooth and immersed in his show. His great talent is that he sings every song as though it were just written, and he did superbly by some seven numbers, abetted once by the Osmond Bros. quartet and on another occasion by the Good Time Singers. His closing number, "September Song," which has been gimmicked to near destruction by other singers, was refreshed in

(Continued on page 45)

SAGA OF WESTERN MAN
(1492)
With voices of Fredric March, Patricia Bright, David Stewart, Michael Tolan, Hal Linden; John H. Secondari, narrator
Producers: Helen Jean Rogers, Secondari
Director: Miss Rogers
60 Mins.; Wed., 10 p.m.
UPJOHN
ABC-TV (color, film)
(McCann-Marschalk)

"1492," the first of a four-part "Saga of Western Man" series, loomed up as a towering edifice on the network programming skyline. This show's eminence was manifest on every count: in its intention to deepen the historical knowledge, in the artistry of its production and, above all, in its determination to be serious about important matters.

There remains the question whether these lofty aims have vaulted this show over the head of the so-called typical viewer. Apparently, ABC-TV and the bankroller, Upjohn, calculated the risks and arrived at the only responsible conclusion: shows of this calibre must be done and supported irrespective of the rating score. In the long run, moreover, there can be no doubt that identification with such an effort generates hidden values in prestige and goodwill that justify this investment even in cold profit-and-loss terms.

"1492" was a look at a beginning point in the history of modern civilization. As presented on this show, that year was not only the copybook date for Columbus' passage to America, but it also marked the passage of western Europe from the old world to the new. Both themes were interwoven into this historical documentary by skillful use of camera technique and a narration notable for its literateness and lucidity.

The historical canvas was drawn with images almost exclusively derived from the great art and architecture of Spain and Italy. The story of the Italian Renaissance, which created the scientific groundwork for a transatlantic voyage, was told by means of striking closeups of the great paintings from that era. One excellent sequence was devoted wholly to the works and ideas of Leonardo Da Vinci. Viewed in color, these images were conveyed with brilliance. Sufficient detail came through on the black-and-white screen, although with considerable loss of graphic power.

"1492" was also a fascinating lesson in the history of Spain during the reign of Ferdinand and Isabella, both of whom played major roles in the ultimate discovery of America. By means of silhouetted figures and partial glimpses of the material apparatus of that day, the show recreated the battle which drove the Moors out of Europe. The tragic chapter of the Inquisition and the expulsion of the Jews from Spain was also explored in a brief, but searching episode.

The show's natural climax was Columbus' expedition to America with his trio of ships, all of which were reproduced in exact replicas for this stanza. This was a long, superbly photographed sequence of old sailing craft challenging the open seas. Excerpts from Columbus' diary, as read by Fredric March, suggested what a great adventure this journey was in its day.

John H. Secondari, as creator, writer and narrator, succeeded in giving this hour both style and intelligence. He was ably assisted by his wife, Helen Jean Rogers, who directed, and William B. Hartigan, the cameraman. A subtly effective musical score was written by Joseph Moon and Rayburn Wright.

Next chapter in the "Saga of Western Man" will be "1776." Herm.

JUST SO STORIES
With Jack Adams, Larry Berthelson, Tony Montanaro, Rudy Tronto, Diana Banks & Dean Crane, Three Young Men
Exec producer: Larry Paulus
Producer-director: Merrill Brockway
60 Mins., Sun. 4 p.m.
FELS, THOM McAN
WCBS-TV, N. Y.
(Zubrow; Doyle, Dane, Bernbach)

A quartet of Rudyard Kipling's "Just So Stories" came out just right on the first of five hour-long children's programs scheduled by WCBS-TV for October, November and December.

Producer-director Merrill Brock-

(Continued on page 44)

Iron Curtain Entertainment Segs Highlight WNDT Intl. TV Festival

By BILL GREELEY

There are no awards being handed out in the International Television Festival on New York-New Jersey educational channel WNDT, and it's a good thing. Prizes would be somewhat embarrassing, what with the Communists making a clean sweep so far.

Fest premiered last weekend (Oct. 19 and 20) with Saturday and Sunday night prime time (7:30 to close) taken up with contributions from Czechoslovakia, England, India, Russia, Japan and Austria, and for sheer entertainment and educational (for U. S. tv production folk) values, it's a Czech-Moscow romp. There's a full weekend of the overseas offering ahead (26-27), with product from France, Poland, Italy and the United Arab Republic, but the plaudits may still be echoing off the Iron Curtain.

First and foremost was the Fest's curtain (iron) raiser, a variety show from Czechoslovakia, "The Lost Revue." Fest host Charles Siepmann, chairman of New York University's Dept. of Communications in Education, who did an excellent job on intros (outlining each country's video modus operandi), commented that the Czechs "have done for variety what Bach did for the fugue." This praise was only high-sounding until a few feet of this triple-award winner in overseas competition was unspooled. By the dictionary, a "fugue" is "a polyphonic composition developed from a given theme according to strict contrapuntal rules," which fits this show of pure revue exactly. And the Czech production-writing-direction team of Boris Moravec and Zdenek Podskalsky along with a slew of Czech variety artists did justice to the Bach end of Siepmann's forecast.

Theme, which called for a highly creative blend of interiors and location shots around Prague, had a clown scattering the pages of a libretto to the winds and turning the entire town into a riot of song and dance. Pages are dropped in the Prague studios of Czech television, resulting in a zany routine that begins with a few melodic vocal strains from the mouth of a stove (or was it an incinerator?) and winds in a mad Charleston step with everybody in on the act from production execs to cops and piano movers. A femme singer belts one from an outdoor phone booth that climaxes in a production number involving a chorus line of phone operators plugging in on cue. A male vocalist belts a few bars after popping up out of a street drain. Another sings from a lamp-repair life. Manikins come to life in a store window, turning into a swinging chorus line. Lovers sing from an arched bridge spanning a placid river. A bearded codger belts a few bars of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" from a park bench.

Pace from start to credit crawl can only be described as gay mad. Location shooting was superb. Cast was no star but all stars. There were no commercial breaks, and, better yet, no breaks while name talents pump up one another's egos and no peacock struts. In sum, it had the originality that might show up in the 39-and-13 of a U. S. variety hour. Sorry, folks (production) but that's simply the truth. Oh yes, they threw in a cartoon seg, too. They're also good at that.

Like the Czechs, and unlike most other entrants seen so far, the Russians laid off documentary in the interests of entertainment. Their two offerings were remarkable experiments by young Moscow tv talents. They were primarily remarkable as viewed in the U. S. because both, themed to soulful boy-meets-girl bits, represented a kind of experiment which is never tried here (where something like the CBS-TV Workshop —or the early-Sunday sustaining folk—inevitably belabor serious themes (apparently out of some kind of guilt that these precious hours can't be used to entertain.)

It should be noted that WNDT's producers cagily programmed the Moscow entries, "The Stairway" and "Preludes," in tandem and dramatic sequence. In "Stairway," a poignant little love yarn produced by the Mosfilm TV Group

(Continued on page 45)

LAUGHS FOR SALE
With Hal March, emcee; guests
Producer: Louis Heyward
Director: Al Raskin
30 Mins.; Sun., 10 p.m.
CONSOLIDATED CIGAR
ABC-TV, from H'wood
(Compton)

Heir to the Sunday night berth vacated by the defunct "100 Grand" quizzer, "Laughs For Sale" is a comedy panel show that will need lots more yocks to make a dent in this time slot. The kickoff stanza Sunday night (20) had an okay panel, but the material was weak and the production was awkward.

Format for this entry calls for a panel of pro comics to perform and then criticize laugh routines submitted by amateur or unknown scripters. The samples on the preem were not promising and it will take brilliant performers to salvage this calibre of material.

Nitery comic Shecky Greene alone scored with his Germanic buffoonery as a man from Venus. Emcee Hal March played straight-man to Greene's mugging and clowning in a routine that had the most preparation. Phil Foster was saddled with a commentary on popular song lyrics which bore no relationship to this comic's usual style. Mickey Rooney was given the worst shake of all. He had to sing a corny folk ballad in which the major laugh stemmed from the appearance of a pack of dogs on screen. Time ran out before the fourth panelist, Cara Williams, had a chance to show her stuff.

If the runthrough of the material was uneven, the discussion of comedy values by the panel was totally inept. This gab had neither laughs nor logic and could easily be scrapped. As emcee, March handled himself with smooth assurance. Herm.

WILD KINGDOM
With Marlin Perkins, Jim Fowler, others
Producer: Don Meier
Directors: Meier, Perkins, Fowler
Writers: Meier, Reinald Werrenrath
30 Mins., Sun., 5 p.m.
MUTUAL OF OMAHA
NBC-TV (film; color)
(Bozell & Jacobs)

Back for a second partial season, this tint era sequel to the old "Zoo Parade" makes for a good pivot in NBC-TV's late Sunday afternoon lineup in that it embraces several kinds of typical Sabbath fare. The program has obvious educational value, but it also has a level of interest for the sports buffs and something to offer, besides, in old-fashioned adventure escapism. There's even a chimp on hand in Marlin Perkins' lab to keep the kiddies amused.

Titled "Danger: Wild Animals", the season's opener dealt with techniques in the handling and capture of zoo tenants, bearing out the theme that a knowledge of animal behavior lessens the danger considerably. Laboratory demonstrations and footage from the St. Louis Zoo (which is Perkins' current bailiwick) showed how alligators and a mountain lion were moved to new quarters, how creatures like chimpanzees and eagles are treated for ailments, and how constricting snakes can be handled. Each was also a demonstration in bravery to the layman, but they seemed minor feats compared with the footage of capture.

One film segment showed a reptile expert subduing a 20-foot giant anaconda in hand-to-hand combat underwater, another a zebra chase in Tanganyika with the prize lassoed from the fender of a truck, and a third the capture of a bear by two men armed with ropes who had to climb a tree to get him. One of the participants in the latter adventure was Jim Fowler, Perkins' sidekick in this series and a man's man if ever there was.

Don Meier, who was on the original "Zoo Parade" team with Perkins, does a firstrate production job and is to be commended particularly for the underwater footage with the anaconda and for his shooting of the zebra caper. The jolting of the camera in the latter accentuated the excitement. As with last year's skein, the lead-ins to the Mutual of Omaha blurbs were skillful extensions of the program's theme. Les.

Commentary

The dancer's mute eloquence conveys her message. The comic, cowboy, doctor and documentary all present special commentaries on life around us.

As does TV Guide magazine.

Stated simply, TV Guide magazine is a commentary on things interested people see on television and want to know more about, which is just about everything under the sun.

Light or serious; approving when approval is deserved, sharply critical when no other voices speak, TV Guide magazine is not for the electronically hypnotized. Indeed, the appetite for the insights and entertainment we offer is so great that over 5½ million people a week buy TV Guide over the counter.

Nearly twenty million people—one out of every nine in the country—read it each week, and read it thoroughly. Almost 75% of our readers have read part, if not all, of our editorial material days before the programming section goes into effect.

They'll read your message, too, according to all readership studies, with rewarding attention.

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT OUR MAGAZINE

TV GUIDE magazine delivers a guaranteed circulation of 8½ million households. 19½ million primary readers. TV GUIDE magazine reaches well over five million young married readers—more than any other magazine published. Compared with Look, Life and Post, TV GUIDE magazine reaches the most families who own their own homes, families who own their own automobiles, and families with children. The median income of TV GUIDE households is $7503. TV GUIDE magazine offers two to three times more primary readers per advertising dollar than any other mass weekly or biweekly magazine.

Source: Starch Consumer Magazine Report, 1963

TV GUIDE

America's Biggest Selling Weekly Magazine

Foreign Television Reviews

THE UNEASY CROWN
With Richard Burton
Producer, Director: Lloyd Williams
Story: A.J.P. Taylor
Writer: Wolf Mankowitz
50 Mins., Fri., 9:35 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

Much high-powered talent was enlisted for this documentary about Spain. Historian A.J.P. Taylor, whose pungent tv lectures have roused both controversy and critical favor, provided a story-line that was turned into a telescript by Wolf Mankowitz. And the voice of Richard Burton spoke it with precision, as additional audience bait.

If the result was faintly disappointing, chief reason must be that it did not achieve what it set out to do-which was to examine the perilous seesaw history of the monarchy in Spain. In fact, the historical development was sketchily, and not too clearly, indicated, and the program did not get into its stride until it got to grips with the Franco regime, an assessment of which took up the bulk of the time. Certainly the future of the Spanish monarchy hinges on the choice of Franco's success, but the theme was hardly central.

This apart, the program lucidly explored the nature of the Franco regime, although it seemed to pull a few punches about its tyrannical aspect. Unfamiliar newsreel of the Civil War had impact, and poet Stephen Spender, who had fought for the Republicans, effectively recalled the fervent partisanship it fostered and made a detached summary of its importance. An interview with the Pretender to the defunct throne, Juan de Bourbon, living in Portugal, allowed him to state his own faith in Kingship, without justifying it in anything but cliches about stability and tradition. Shots of his son, the debonair Juan Carlos, who Franco encourages, did little to deepen the argument.

Franco was praised for such reclaimation ventures as the Badajoz scheme—likened to the T.V.A.—and the recent Grimau incident was also mentioned, to illustrate the vengeful memories that still lingered.

In fact, there was much that was unfamiliar and interesting. But the script was tepid and fence-sitting, as if afraid to offend. As a production job, it was skilfully and crisply handled by Lloyd Williams, and the program was worthwhile, only falling short of the highest expectations. Otta.

FESTIVAL
(Fallen Angels)
With Moira Redmond, Anne Morish, Richard Thorp, James Villiers, Ann Beach, David Ritch Producer: Peter Luke
Director: Alan Bromly
Writer: Noel Coward
60 Mins., Wed., 9:10 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

"No Play," proclaims producer Peter Luke, "will be chosen unless it has a particular meaning for us today." Thus "Festival" will take in "Hamlet," Ibsen, Aristophanes, James Joyce, and an adaptation of a modern German pacifist novel. In other words, anything goes. With this wide view of what is pertinent, however, Noel Coward's "Fallen Angels" from the 1920s seemed a perverse choice for the opening stanza. The situation could hardly claim colossal relevance, and was indeed highly outdated in this mannered production.

Does love outlast five years of marriage? So asked Coward, and he stated it through a skittish plot about a couple of wives, Julia (Ann Morrish) and Jane (Moira Redmond), who hear that their communal ex-lover is back in town. They'd both met him prenuptials, and, their spouses having lost their first enchantment, were delighted at the prospect of seeing him again.

Set in period, and the thesps encouraged to gush and attitudinize in a highly artificial manner. Alan Bromly's direction was wrongheaded. It pointed up the historic flavor of Coward's conception, instead of toning it down for contemporary consumption. The whole thing was stiffjointed, and the development creaked. Quite apart from the mistaken approach, this sort of playing requires more style and panache than the cast could encompass. Moira Redmond came closest, but even she could not get away with fabricated tantrums and temperamental displays that needed to be viewed at a distance, and not across a carpet.

An air of embarrassment thus prevented a fast rate of jocks, and the neatest, if minor, performance came from Ann Beach as the tight-lipped and trim maid. If this skein intends to be a museum of past theatrical hits, it made a fine mummy of this one. Otta.

DIG THIS RHUBARB
With Tony Beckley, Terence Brady, John Gower, Anne Jameson, Robin Ray, Clive Swift
Producer: Anthony Jay
Associate Producer: Charles Chilton
Director: Nicholas Garland
Script Editor: Bamber Gascoigne
40 Mins., Sun., 10:50 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

Fishing for nuggets of wisdom from authors as different as Khrushchev, the prophet Isaiah, and William Shakespeare and grouping them into themes—that is the basic idea of this fortnightly show. The opener was urbane and pleasantly varied, and it made an adequate tv equivalent of an anthology.

The resident group of six thesps made a spry impression, and their youth compensated, in one or two cases, for lack of experience, which showed in their timing. They delivered their brief pieces on an uncluttered platform, and the note was informal and never stuffy.

First item was a collection of letters by the famous, in which they gave the brush-off to their wives, mistresses, or girl friends. These took in Napoleon, Abe Lincoln, and Byron, and gave a witty start to the show. A sequence of proverbs, some false, some genuine, were then delivered, and then scathing contemporary criticisms of past British royalty—including George IV, William IV, and Victoria's Albert—showed up such recent jibes as Elizabeth has endured as being mighty mild in comparison.

The group, sitting around a card table, then came up with some assorted descriptions of perfect bliss, and the show closed with a potted history of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," from its origins as a revivalist tune, through John Brown to Julia Ward Howe.

With the help of advice from such notables as Kenneth Tynan, Claud Cockburn, and Cyril Connolly, the script was briskly edited by Bamber Gascoigne. Nicholas Garland's direction of Anthony Jay's production was not always taut enough, and, of the company, the men shone most brightly and also turned their hand to an old ballad or music-hall song when called upon.

CANZONIERE MINIMO
With Giorgio Gaber, Maria Monti, Paoli Poli, Gian Castello, Liliana Zoboli, Margot, Miranda Martino, Tino Bianchi, others, Vittorio Paltrinieri Orch.
Director: Carla Ragionieri
45 Min.; Sat. 10:10 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Milan (tape)

This show is an attempt at offbeat musical fare in the folk song tradition which may please aficionados of the genre, but is also likely to leave others cold, despite the likeable ways of emcee-singer Giorgio Gaber. Certainly the pace is one-tracked and the mood is generally melancholy if not downbeat almost throughout, which at 45 minutes per clip is a bit overlong.

Briefly introed by Gaber, songs are mainly nostalgic Italo oldies—but not the w.k. pops—or offbeat modern fare in which a strong French influence is detectable. In some cases, notably Gaber and Margot, it's effective, in others (Maria Monti) it is less so.

Show also had a neat guestint in a straightforward rendition by Miranda Martino of a Neopolitan classic "Te Voio Bene," and a fine monologue about a traveling salesman's fate by Tino Bianchi. A bit more of such diversion within the show pattern could only help its penetration with the general video public. Hawk.

THE MERSEY SOUND
With Michael Barton
Producer, Writer: Don Haworth
30 Mins., Wed., 10:10 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

Liverpool, which is on the Mersey, is the birthplace of the top-selling pop-music sound in these parts. Around 300 groups have it as their base, and the Beatles, chart-topping and squeal-gathering, are its pride and joy.

Don Haworth's lively and swift documentary probed the phenomenon with skill and judgment. Sprinkled with musical items from the repertoire of the Beatles, and companion groups like Group One and The Undertakers (who dress to match the moniker), the script tried to explain the fad, without justifying it. It was full of revealing touches from performers, who touched in details of the fan mania. Such as that the kids sweated so much in a packed cellar that they once fused the lights with moisture. Or that one girl would sleep under the window of a drummer all night, just to be near him.

The Beatles, an individual creatures, displayed a level-headed outlook about their present fame. One said he would be happy to retire with around $30,000, all knew that the end would come and made mental provision for it. Shots of the domestic upheaval due to this frenzied popularity were spliced in, and the group's manager, Brian Epstein, claimed responsibility for getting their hair cut and putting them into decent suits.

Sad footnote came from a BBC producer, who could see little longterm future for the guitar-and-drum boys. Unlike Tommy Steele, or Cliff Richard, they couldn't easily turn into allround entertainers. And the beat itself, the reason for the madness? Apparently it's just a pronounced bass line on double-bass and drums. As someone said, it might just as well have come from Timbuktu. Otta.

THE SAINT
(Starring the Saint)
With Roger Moore, Ronald Radd, Wensley Pithey, Alfred Burke, Monica Stevenson, Alexander Davion, Paul Whitsun-Jones, Jerry Stovin, Ivor Dean, John Dunbar, Brian Weske, Jackie Collins, John Gayford, John Martin, Bryan Marshall
Producers: Roger S. Baker, Monty Berman
Director: James Hill
Writer: Harry W. Junkin
58 Mins., Sun., 7:25 p.m.
Associated TeleVision, from London

Back for its second season, "The Saint" continued its vein of polished bafflement, and the segment caught was a good example of its general standard. James Hill's direction was slick, and dapper Roger Moore repeated his able, if slightly colorless, impersonation of Leslie Charteris's bestselling sleuth, Simon Templar.

He was here involved with a ruthless movie tycoon, Bryon Ufferlitz (Ronald Radd), who wanted him to star in a film of his adventures. Ufferlitz was obviously due for his come-uppance, and got it. Suspects, methodically introduced, included a director who wasn't allowed out of his contract, a drunken thesp who'd been fired from a movie, and, on the fringe, a couple of zany scripters. Real culprit turned out to be the guy's stenographer, sister of a gal he'd done wrong to in the past.

Harry Junkin's script was competent but little else, and the thesps were okay, with Wensley Pithey scoring as a beefy detective and Monica Stevenson showing sincerity as the killer—whose secret was chivalrously kept by Templar. Jackie Collins looked glamorous, but lacked oomph, as an idol of the public. Otta.

THE JEW IN THE WORLD
With Ludovic Kennedy
Producer: Television Reporters International
30 Mins., Tues., 10:45 p.m.
Associated TeleVision, from London

Three half-hours will be devoted to an examination of the current position of the Jew, and the initialer probed the state and the attitudes of European Jewry after the Nazis. Ludovic Kennedy spoke his own clear and detached script, and the segment justly emphasized the permanent shock that the vile concentration-camp era has administered to all Jews.

A refugee from Britain, a musician who had survived Belsen, was recorded on a return visit to this memorial to inhumanity. Her words indicated that she could find no forgiveness for the Germans, that the experience was too deep-etched to be explained to those who did not share it.

After this moving intro, the program showed some of the 30,000 remaining Jews in Germany, who disagreed whether anti-Semitism was still rife. They were seen at worship in a rebuilt synagogue in Dusseldorf, and walking through the streets disregarded. Flashback film of the Nazi excesses stressed the contrast.

Final minutes were filled with reminiscences of the Nazi occupation of Holland, including a visit to Anne Frank's hideout. Here the outlook of young Jews was placed as international. Too young to have been seared by their elders' persecution, they talked of forgetting their religious traditions and instant assimiliation, but a few could only feel safe if they emigrated to Israel.

Kennedy indicated that the Jewish problem had solved itself—by decimation, and by the young Jew's desertion of his inherited faith. It was a cool and worthwhile airing of the kind of problem that should not be swept under the carpet, out of sight. Otta.

IL GRANDE COLTELLO
(The Big Knife)
With Massimo Girotti, Harold Bradley, Renza Palmer, Gianna Piaz, Valentina Fortunato, Michelle Riccardini, Glauco Mauri, Nando Gazzolo, Mariolina Bovo
Adaptation: Daniele D'Anza, Amleto Micozzi
Director: Daniele D'Anza
45 Mins., Mon., 9:15 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Rome (tape)

An able and workmanlike new video version of this Clifford Odets play can be credited to writer-director D'Anza and his co-writer Amleto Micozzi, at least judging from this first episode of a three-part serialization.

Dialog (translated by Carina Calvi) was properly crisp and ironic, acting was able though at times uneven on the part of Massimo Girotto as Charles Castle. Glauco Mauri's Marcus Hoff was properly menacing—he was given a game leg here vs. the deafness used as a physical handicap in the pic version—while Nando Gazzolo, Valentina Fortunato and Mariolina Bovo are names to mention in a well-chosen cast.

Physical outfitting was aptly Californian, and technical credits, barring some stretches of unclear sound, were up to the usually high RAI-TV standard. Hawk.

TV7
Director: Giorgio Vecchietti
90 Mins.; Mon. 9:05 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Rome (tape, film)

TV7 has now firmly established itself as an interesting weekly stanza dedicated to more or less topical events on the international and national scene. Selection appears tighter than before, and the material is more varied in order to please a wider audience.

Show caught included an interesting review of the Valachi testimony from Washington, with backdrop shots of cosa nostra history of the past 20-odd years and a frank commentary by RAI's U. S.-based correspondent, Ruggero Orlando, which didn't eschew the locally touchy subject of the Italo nationality of hoodlums. Also illustrated were the latest details of the Christine Keeler affair, including the British celebrity's screen test, and a survey of motorcycle championships and champs. On the local front, TV7 spotlighted the difficulties of Italo adoption procedures and the moving plight of illegitimate children.

Format is effectively straightforward, dispensing with emcees, and introing each segment via titles. This presumably also allows for faster editing and programming. Hawk.

KIDNAPPED
With Ian Cullen, Duncan Macrae, Ewan Roberts, James Gibson, Geoffrey Lumsden, Douglas Murchie, John Wainwright, Bryden Murdoch, Brian Lawson, Peter Diamond, Wallace Campbell, Dudley Simpson
Producer: Campbell Logan
Director: Gerard Glaister
Writer: Joy Harington
25 Mins., Sun., 5 p.m.
BBC-TV from London

Two novels by Robert Louis Stevenson, "Kidnapped" and its sequel, "Catriona," have been welded and pruned for this 20-part serial by the accomplished Joy Harington, who adapted the memorable "Jesus of Nazareth" series. The initialler, introduced by an uplifting skirl of bagpipes, indicated that this is likely to be a sturdy contender for high rating. It had a fine air of authenticity, with thesps sporting Scottish burrs, and, although it took the tale no further than the hero's kidnapping, with meatier adventures to come, it set the atmosphere exactly. Ian Cullen, as David Balfour, was well cast for sincerity, an open face, and convincing frankness.

On the death of his father, Balfour was sent to his miserly uncle, Ebenezer (Duncan Macrae), who first tried to kill him by sending him up a faulty staircase in the dark and then, in cahoots with a wily sea-captain, tricked him into going aboard a ship, which promptly cast off for the Caribbean. Crafty Ebenezer was believed to have murdered his brother, David's father, and had good reason to dispose of the son.

Gerard Glaister's direction of Campbell Logan's production was nicely paced, mingled Scottish exteriors with apt studio sets, and could not be faulted in its regard for Stevenson's classic original. Another asset of the opener was a fine cameo Duncan Macrae, within a melodramatic tradition, but not overdoing it. Otta.

THE TROUBLES
Narrator: Brian Inglis
Producer: Stan Kelly
Writer: Inglis
45 minutes, Wed., 9:45 p.m.
Granada-TV, from Manchester

Granada-TV, which has an enviable reputation for documentary production, once again attempted to stir controversy with its documentary on the Irish-British independence war. But despite a seemingly fearless script by Brian Inglis, who gave the facts as they occurred, the documentary disappointed — mainly because the author's deadpan commentary seemed devoid of feeling.

Nevertheless, the programs survived via its excellent use of old film clips and stills which, spiced with modern-day sound effects stimulated the interest.

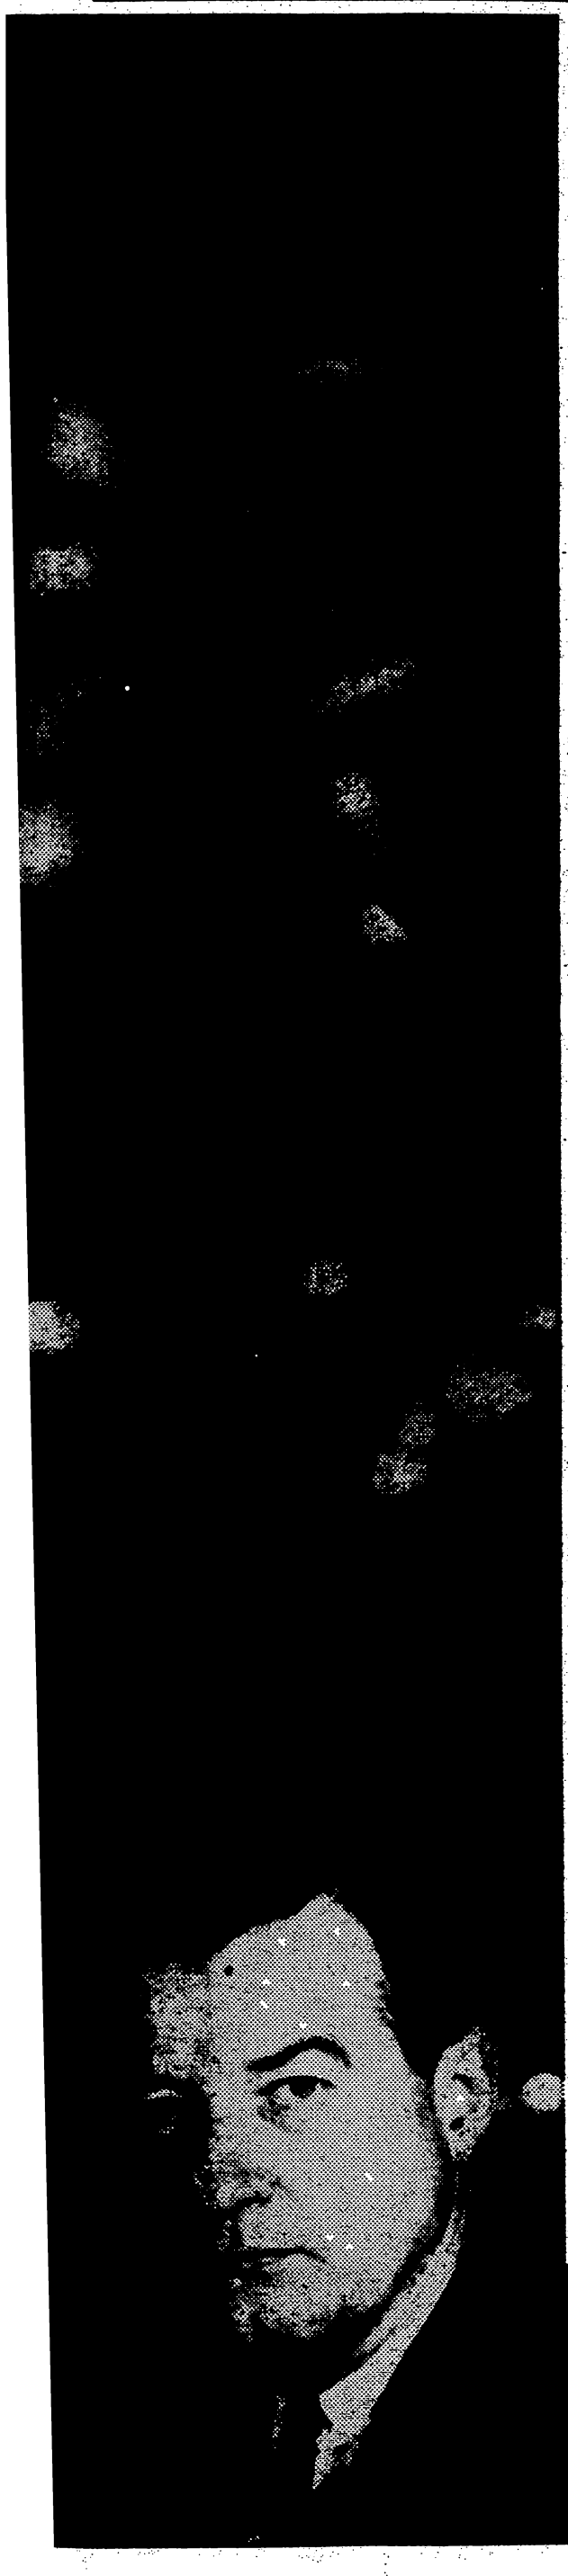
Factual recounting of the Anglo-Irish troubles was dealt with in depth by Inglis and few punches were pulled as to either the conduct of the British or the more tragic fight of Irishmen against Irishmen. The horrifying scenes, grotesquely comic in the jerky film technique of the day, never lacked in importance and the program generally pointed up one of the most disgraceful episodes in Britain's history.

Given a more urgent and more "feeling" narrative and narrator the 45-minute program would add up to one of the most stirring segments of the hard-hitting Granada documentary round. Watts.

THE TELEGOONS
With Peter Sellers, Harry Secombe, Spike Milligan
Producer: Tony Young
15 Mins., Sat., 5:40 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

No radio series has slotted itself so deep in the memories as "The Goons," the surreal and fanciful skein that nurtured the talents of Peter Sellers, Harry Secombe, and Spike Milligan. The absurdity of the situations lend themselves to puppet treatment, and that has now been accorded them. String and rod puppets, with a little live animation, mouth to edited versions of the original scripts, and the initialler, "The Ascent of Mount Everest," made an enter-

(Continued on page 46)



is the one-station network

Getting to the bottom of the day's news has always been a prime project of WPIX-11, New York's Prestige Independent. Truth is, WPIX-11 is the only New York independent with a record and reputation for television news.

An impressive array of major news-awards attests that WPIX-11 does more than just report the news—we dig it up, dig into it.

Outstanding veteran news personalities like John Tillman, Kevin Kennedy and John K. M. McCaffery bring New Yorkers a depth and scope in television news that's tough to beat.

This is the kind of recommendation that ought to count heavily in your appraisal of the New York independent stations.

WPIX TV/11
THE ONE STATION NETWORK
NEW YORK

Left to Right:
Kevin Kennedy, early National and World News/
Gloria Okon, the early Weather/
John Tillman, the New York News and the Mid-evening One-Minute News Reports/
John K. M. McCaffery, the late World and Local News/
Lynda Lee Mead, Miss America 1960, the late Weather.

represented by
Peters, Griffin, Woodward, Inc.

© 1963, WPIX-11

Maxon's 'Agency Within Agency' To Solidify $21,000,000 Gillette Biz —On Other Madison Ave. Fronts

Maxon agency has gone all out for its anchor account Gillette, the razor and toiletry firm that spends $20,000,000 of its $21,000,000 budget in television ($14,000,000 in network). An account group of more than 50 people, headed by exec veepee Terry Clyne, has been moved into special offices; and the group has been recently bolstered with some familiar industry names.

Recently brought into the group, which amounts to a unique agency within an agency, have been Pete Lavathes, onetime tv program head at Young & Rubicam and more recently exec veepee in charge of production for 20th Century Fox, and more latterly Rod Erickson, a veepee at Y&R for 10 years and before that an exec with Procter & Gamble in Cincinnati. Erickson is presently prexy of Universal Broadcasting Co., and marketing consultant to several corporations. He'll assign management of this business to others in order to devote fulltime to Maxon and the Gillette biz. Erickson also was with Filmways for a time, heading up phases of the tv and feature production company's New York operation.

Maxon's Gillette subsidiary has been moved out of the sedate brownstone at 12 East 53d St. that houses the New York office (agency's hq is in Detroit) to the more business-like environs of the office building at 1270 Sixth Ave.

There have been trade rumors lately that Gillette, with vigorous new management execs moving up, has been shaky at Maxon. But the account is apparently firm under the new arrangement of increased concentration.

Reports are that A. Craig Smith, longtime ad factotum at the company, has turned over responsibilities to ad manager Richard Thomas, and the company's current prexy, Vincent C. Ziegler, is instituting a lot of relatively young ideas re diversification. Word is he is anxious to build Gillette in the toiletries lines as an adjunct to the big blade business.

K&E's Big Brother Bit

Kenyon & Eckhardt exec veepee Stephen Dietz says the agency has completed an intensive study of the Top 50 tv markets and the Top 25 radio markets to find out what stations are abiding by the blurb codes.

With client agreement, says Dietz, the agency will give economic support to those stations that are aiding the industry's efforts toward self-regulation on commercial time limits, also to those stations who are within code limits although not subscribing to NAB's Code Office.

K&E hopes that, if the plan can be effectively put into practice, other agencies and advertisers will do likewise. Says Dietz, "We are starting to review all spot purchase schedules for each client to determine what shifts would be required and their net effect if the policy is implemented. We hope to complete all reviews by mid-November at the latest."

Sam's Song

Foote, Cone & Belding's new tv chieftain Sam Northcross says he is not the man to see about those tickets to the Met's opener at Shea Stadium next spring.

VARIETY last week, in a review of FC&B's winning back the Rheingold account after two years, suggested (in rather emphatic terms) that Northcross, with his background of Ballantine and Camel Yankee baseball from Wm. Esty agency, was a factor in the agency's getting the beer back.

Northcross, however, says that he had absolutely nothing to do with FC&B's getting the business back, that the laurels go strictly to Frank Delano (also cited in the article). As for having the deep scoop on Ballantine's baseball operations, Northcross says he had nothing to do with Ballantine in six years, despite his being programming chief at Esty for many years.

Europe Negotiating For Standardized Tint With 4 Systems Eyed

Frankfurt, Oct. 22.

European Broadcasting Union, meeting this month, is planning to select one of four systems of color televsion, to be introduced across Europe. Eventually the outstanding international shows can be screened simultaneously all over Europe, just as is now done with the big black and white productions, shown simultaneously to all the major European countries via Eurovision, with translations into every major tongue.

In addition to the system used in the U. S., there are now three European systems—and the promoters of each claim pure color, sharpness and versatility of use.

French are pushing the CFT system from Cie Francaise de Television, and the German production is PAL (Phase-Alternation Line), and the British are pushing EMI, the Electrical & Musical Industries Separate-Luminance System.

AFTRA, SAG Set For Major Hassle On New Contracts

AFTRA and SAG reps and the ad-broadcasting team of union contract negotiators squared off in earnest this week for the first time in their formal meeting Monday (21), and it shapes as a formidable slugfest before new agreements are reached.

This time a joint committee of American Advertising Agency Assn. and Assn. of National Advertisers will handle talks re live and filmed commercials, since the sponsors and agencies were dissatisfied with results of the negotiations three years ago handled by the networks.

The joint committee's counter proposals (VARIETY detailed SAG and AFTRA demands in the Sept. 25 issue), in spot and program commercial areas ask for code changes that represent an overall reduction in talent fees. The management side asks for a breakdown to two,four and eight weeks of reduced payments instead of the straight 13-week fee. They also would eliminate several major markets as carrying a single weight unit. Currently all cities count as one except a dozen major markets. New proposal would leave New York, Los Angeles and Chicago still covered under separate formula.

Unions are demanding an increase of 20 to 30% in spot blurb fees. The counter-demands, through the bunching of cities now counted as a single unit, counterbalance the union's quest for fee hikes.

Monte-Carlo TV Fest

Paris, Oct. 22.

The fourth Monte-Carlo International Television Festival will unroll at that city from Jan. 19 to Feb. 1 next year. All countries with any sort of tv, nationalized or not, will be attending this year.

Awards are called The Golden Nymphs and will go to the program or vidpic best serving understanding between nations, best news program, best original script and best adaptation for tv, best direction, best children's show and best actor and actress.

NBC Rips Into B'cast Bureau On Philly Nix

Washington, Oct. 22.

NBC yesterday (Mon.) tore into recommendations by FCC's Broadcast Bureau that the web be stripped of Channel 3 in Philadelphia and prevented from trading its o&o WRCV-TV there for another station.

In an angry retort, NBC said the Broadcast Bureau's position "is so lacking in merit it does not deserve consideration." It called the bureau's opinions and statement "distorted, cynical, flip, condescending, emotional and reckless."

The web specifically lambasted the bureau's charges about its deals nine years ago with Westinghouse concerning a Pittsburg affiliation. The bureau had charged NBC refused Westinghouse the affiliation unless it followed through on an agreement to exchange its Philadelphia station with NBC's Cleveland outlet.

The bureau termed this "a naked abuse of network power which can only be characterized as bald coercion." On this basis the bureau recommended against NBC keeping WRCV and swapping it for RKO General's WNAC-AM-FM-TV, in Boston.

The web is under a Justice Dept. consent decree ordering it to jettison its Philadelphia outlet. NBC charged that the bureau's statement regarding the Pitt affiliation reveal "a shocking disregard, even distortion, of the record."

The web said it was committed to the affiliation "months before" any agreement was reached on the Cleveland - Philadelphia exchange with Westinghouse

NBC said the bureau had no evidence to support its charges.

As to the "naked abuse" and "bald coercion" charges of the bureau, NBC said they were supported "by nothing but the apparently emotional reaction of the writer."

Also filing against the bureau recommendation was the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees and Technicians.

They claimed, as did NBC, that the facts alluded to by the Broadcast Bureau were aired before the commission in 1954 when the Cleveland - Philadelphia exchange was okayed.

NABET also opposed giving Philadelphia channel 3 to a competing applicant, Philco, saying such a course would result in "interminable court litigation and the loss of all bargaining rights to NABET members."

Collins Giving 'Comfort To Enemy'?

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

During a discussion at last week's NAB regional conference final some members took the floor to light into NBA president LeRoy Collins who was presiding over the meeting.

Among other things, Collins was asked if he didn't think his statement at the recent NBA regional conference at Hartford, about the quality of television and radio commercials not being uniformly" good, didn't aid and comfort the "enemy," giving an advantage to newspaper and magazine advertising salesmen. In this connection, Collins had said the public was more concerned over this lack of quality uniformity than the time alloted to commercials on the air.

Replying to the several who, in effect, were taking him to task for his Hartford statement, Collins said "absolutely no harm has been done to the broadcasting industry by what I've said."

"We are inclined to be too sensitive to criticism," said Collins in his answer to those who didn't like his statement. "It's a good thing for tv and radio outlets to know they're concerned about the quality of their product and are trying to improve it without government intervention."

Collins mentioned that a broadcaster had told him station profits were up 50% since Newton Minow had labeled tv programming a "wasteland" and by so doing started a wave of criticism against the medium.

TV-Radio Production Centres

IN NEW YORK . . .

David Susskind in New York hospital for treatment of circulatory condition in right leg, with taping of Groucho Marx "Open End" seg put off until next week. . . . Jo Ranson has joined the staff of the National Tuberculosis Assn. He's an associate in the public relations department of the Christmas Seal Organization. . . . Judy Garland in town from Coast . . . John Karol, of special CBS-TV sales projects, convalescing after illness . . . Vet actress Margaret Hamilton into running role in CBS-TV soaper "Secret Storm" . . . Art Linkletter back to Coast after swing east . . . Kitty Carlisle of "To Tell the Truth" back from weekend trip to her hometown of New Orleans where she spoke to graduating nurses of Touro Infirmary in connection with United Fund Drive . . . Bert Granet named exec producer of "Great Adventure" series. Granet, prior to the appointment, had held the post of producer. Named as producers for the historical drama series were Bruce Lansbury and Ethel Winant. Lansbury will continue as a program exec on the network staff in addition to his assignment as "Great Adventure" producer . . . John Kieran Jr., former publicity director of WCBS Radio, shifted to writing staff of the Ken Baugart news show . . . Singer-pianist Clarke Morgan slated for a vidtape outing on the Canadian Broadcasting Co. . . . International Assn. of Chiefs of Police has given an award of special merit to United Artists Television's syndication "Lee Marvin Presents—Lawbreakers" entry . . . Dixon Q. Dern has joined United Artists Television as Coast counsel, business affairs . . . Producer-writer Carl Foreman slated to appear on the Nov. 4 edition of CBS Radio's "Invitation to Learning." Foreman will join Telford Taylor and Dr. George Crothers in a discussion of "Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" . . . Paul Lynde guestars in "Grindl" Christmas segment . . . Barbara Olson, staff producer for Jack Barry Productions at Paramount TV, has departed on a sales swing through Honolulu, Tokyo, Singapore, and Manila to set up an overseas syndicate for "The Jack Barry Show," aired on the Coast . . . CBS-TV's "Lamp Unto My Feet" celebrates its 15th anni in November with four special religioso programs . . . Robert Trout has become anchor man on the CBS Mid-Day News strip, succeeding Harry Reasoner, who was recently given a new assignment as roving correspondent for CBS News.

NBC News exec veepee Bill McAndrew is winner of U. S. Camera Annual's 1964 achievement award . . . Richard Boone will be guest speaker at the annual dinner of the American Heart Assn. at the Biltmore Hotel Oct. 27 . . . WNBC-TV general manager Peter Affee back from New York State Broadcasters Assn. board meeting in Syracuse . . . "The Negro In Television" is the topic of the Oct. 28 forum being presented by the N. Y. Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences. David Susskind will moderate . . . Jim Munro, formerly with Ziff-Davis, joins Westinghouse Broadcasting's p.r. department in N. Y. . . . Bernard Ruttenberg named assistant to Phil Cowan, Metromedia's p.r. vice-prexy . . . Lea Tronick named an account exec with Metro TV sales while Harry Durando joins Metro Radio Sales in the same capacity . . . Sidney Carroll signed as scripter for "The Louvre," hour tour of the Paris museum slated for NBC-TV airing in '64 . . . Robert E. Thomas named assistant to prexy Samuel B. Gould at WNDT, New York-New Jersey educational channel . . . Peter Molnar, formerly at CBS sports, named executive producer at NBC Sports . . . Composer Bud Freeman is writing a jazz score for background music to NBC News spec "The Making of a Pro," story of N. Y. Giants' Glyan Griffing . . . Joey Bishop, Abby Dalton and Mary Treen, stars of "Joey Bishop Show," flew back to coast after promo visit here that included closed-circuit interview with tv editors around country . . . Lisa Minelli flew to Paris Saturday (19) to tape seg for NBC's upcoming "April in Paris Ball" spec Oct. 27 . . . Dominican Sisters choir from Mount-Saint-Mary's on the Hudson guesting on Mitch Miller's "Sing Along" Dec. 30 . . . NBC Sports veep Carl Lindemann Jr. and sportscaster Joe Garagiola in St. Louis Sunday (20) representing web at retirement party for Stan Musial . . . Milt Kamen signed for Nov. 22 Jack Paar show . . . Merv Griffin planes to L. A. Dec. 15 to tape a Red Skelton show which will be seen Jan. 21 . . . Earl Wrightson and Lois Hunt signed for second consecutive "Bell Telephone Hour" Christmas Show Dec. 24.

IN CHICAGO . . .

Two of WBBM Radio's staff singers, Penny Pryor and Bob Glase, have quit to try their luck on the nitery circuit. Station isn't planning to replace them for awhile . . . WBKB's Red Quinlan, Con O'Dea and Bill Garry all planed to N. Y. today (Wed.) to confer with ABC News prexy Elmer Lower on the news realignment here. Meantime, Frank Reynolds has been given the 6 p.m. strip plus the Sunday night 10 p.m. newscast. Reynolds and Hugh Hill made their first big splash with WBKB last night (Tues.) with an instant special on the public school crisis . . . Mary Merryfield, who used to be with WMAQ, has started a new Monday night series on ETV station, WTTW . . . The Hal Stein-Rudy Orisek opus, "Folkfest," has been renewed into March on WGN-TV . . . Dave Garroway has given a January date for a Chi Broadcast Advertising Club address . . . Richard Maslotti, formerly of ABC-TV sales service in New York, has joined NBC-TV here as a sales planning rep . . . Hal Smith, the NBC alumnus, has been upgraded to Asst. to the President (Paul C. Harper) at Needham, Louis & Brorby . . . WGN-TV plucked the rights to the road games of the Blackhawks, and will do a dozen hockeycasts this season . . . Charlton Heston is due in for the Chi ATAS salute to "Hallmark Hall of Fame" Oct. 28. Others who'll attend are Mort Werner, Bob Kintner, producer George Schaefer, Hallmark prexy Joyce Hall and Newton Minow . . . Jack Sterling, onetime program director of WBBM Radio who switched to WCBS, New York, 15 years ago to take over the morning show, came back yesterday (Tues.) to air his 15th anni show from the alma mater. With the local spot sales boys spreading the word, of course.

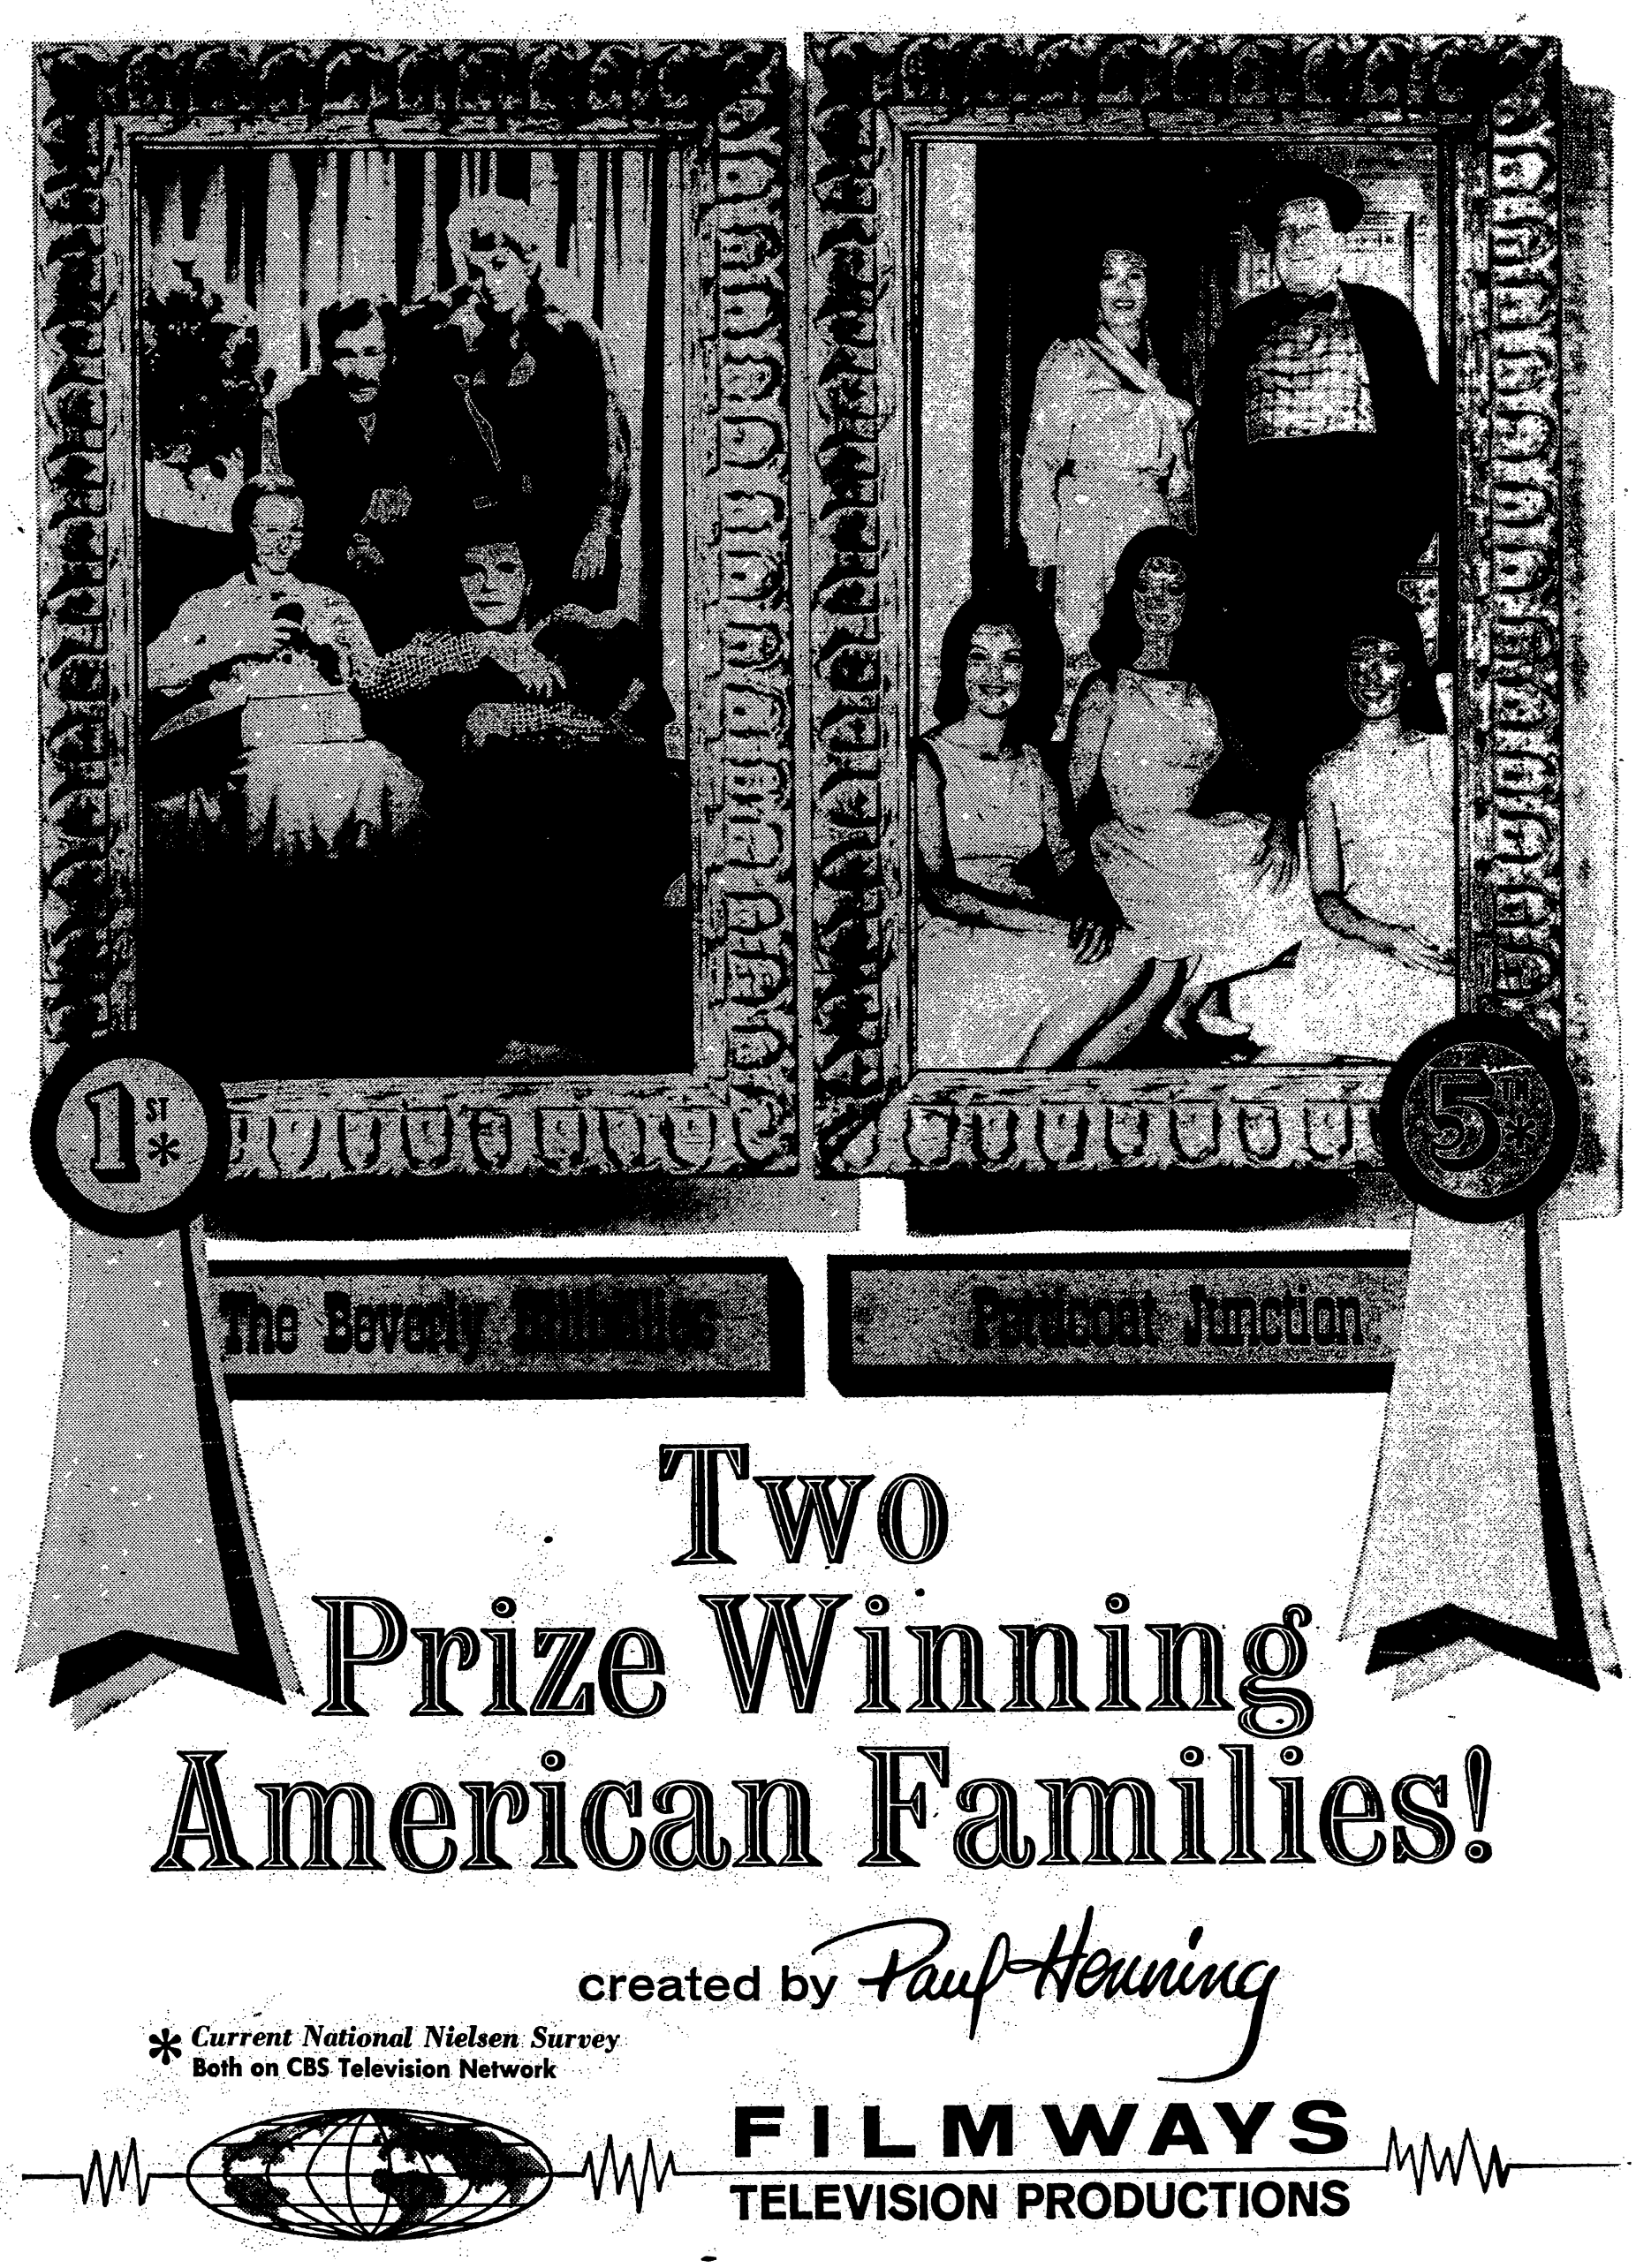
IN LONDON . . .

In the works: another series of Associated-Rediffusion's film-and-tape show "Crane." Unit currently locationing in Marrakesh, Morocco . . . BBC Radio will dump its "Music To Midnight" format at the end of the year to bring in latenight thriller plays . . . Liberty Records prexy Al Bennett took guest d.j. spot on ABC-TV's "Thank Your Lucky Stars" popshow . . . Open to the public for a day, the Goonhilly Down dish aerial—which picks up Telstar relays—attracted 7,000 visitors . . . Linda Christian guesting on A-R's toprated quizzer "Double Your Money" . . . Scottish-TV has picked up and scheduled "Follow The Sun" . . . Southern-TV film director Robert Kitts joins BBC in November . . . Jesse Matthews returned to the role of Mrs. Dale in the BBC Radio series "Mrs. Dale's Diary" following a tooth infection which kept her out of action for some weeks . . . Statistics reveal that in the first eight months of the current year sales of both radio and tv receivers have done strikeingly better than for the same period a year previously. TV sales are 27% higher and radios 1%.

IN WASHINGTON . . .

Ed Walker and Willard Scott, the "Joy Boys" of WRC radio are hosting "Night Watch" program which preemed Monday (21) . . . Joining WRC is Bob Kelly, formerly with WTOP-AM-FM-TV. He will host morning and afternoon music programs . . . Moving into his spot at

(Continued on page 42)



Two Prize Winning American Families!

created by Paul Henning

* Current National Nielsen Survey
Both on CBS Television Network

FILMWAYS
TELEVISION PRODUCTIONS

New Canada Season

Continued from page 25

programming, the CBC is way ahead of CTV, the former living up to its basic responsibility of coming up with material designed for minority needs and tastes.

Pat Pearce, tv critic for The Montreal Star—and probably the most-widely listened to in Canada—made this comment over the weekend, about an opinion by U. S. writer Richard Gehman, who said Canadian tv was so good that Canadians didn't realize "what we had."

"It's interesting," said Miss Pearce in her column, "how much it has actually managed to do in the face of considerable odds.

"The odds have mostly been of our own making, our own feeling that here almost anybody can do better than we can."

She went on:

"Most of what is good is CBC. The new network, CTV, has done little to create programs, not just distribute them. It has brought us more football, more hockey, a collection of game shows, and the odd Canadian-made show, but made with an eye of selling abroad"—the latter obviously referring to at least one, the new Jerry Lester show which is produced weekly in Toronto for CTV, and which is being peddled in the U. S.

It's interesting to note that CTV's one big puller last year, its one big draw on the network, was the Pierre Berton interview show which was obviously dropped because of pressure from sponsors and civic groups objecting to the free-for-all, almost-anything-goes type of discussion.

Berton is now seen on a number of tv channels across the country with a show that's independently produced by Screen Gems.

Among the CBC programs which can carry the "quality" label when placed against the run-of-the-mill programs in the doctor-lawyer-nurse and other standard stuff category on tv today, are such items as "Inquiry," "Quest," "Explorations," "Telescope" and "Newsmagazine"—all dealing with current events, social conditions and history; "Festival" which presents excellent productions running the gamut from Anouilh's "Antigone" to the "Mikado"; "Playdate" with its dramatic presentations of history; and "Telescope" whose typical subject is a dissection of Lorne Greene from the time he was a CBC newscaster to his current top-billing in "Bonanza" as a true product of a new Hollywood through the tv tube.

Problem with CBC is that, despite its realistic recognition that the tab has to be picked up by the Canadian taxpayer, and despite the fact that the bulk of the taxpayers' reps in the House of Commons too often lack the sensivity to recognize the difference between good programming and popular programming, CBC is still determined to push ahead with the original credo which is to provide a broadcasting service for all Canadians, no matter where they are, no matter what their education, no matter what their entertainment taste.

It's admittedly a tough thing to be all things to all men, but the government-owned CBC is still staffed by enough execs, producers and general talent, to make the commercial sacrifice only when necessary, and to keep in mind its unique role of providing the best and most important, again, whenever and wherever possible.

Nielsen Radio

Continued from page 27

networks splitting the tab (six reports would come to about $480,000 to be divided among the subscribers).

Trendex will run a Cleveland test on its proposal, which would be six reports a year based on telephone recall and diaries covering every day and night. This service would also supply cumulaive audience reports periodically and show how radio duplicates with tv. Trendex proposes to bring the service in for a third of what Nielsen is asking—$103,000.

Cleveland test will have recall, diary and recall with both checked against coincidental phone. The recall, by phone, will cover a set sample of homes as opposed to the coincidental phone which is at random.

VARIETY ARB FEATURE FILM CHART

VARIETY-ARB's weekly chart offers a day-by-day analysis of the top feature evening slots in a particular market. On Saturdays and Sundays, daytime feature slots compete with nighttime pix periods for designation as the top feature slot of the day. The analysis is confined to the top rated feature slots in the ARB measured period, broken down by days in the week. The ARB measured period usually covers three or four weeks. Other data such as the time slot and total area homes is furnished. Top competition and competitive ratings also are highlighted.

Minneapolis-St. Paul • STATIONS: WCCO, KSTP, KMSP, WTCN. • SURVEY DATES: JUNE 14 - JULY 11, 1963.

KSTP

Total Area Homes: 38,600
Metro Rating: 7
Share of Audience: 20

Program: MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE
MONDAYS 6:30-8:30

June 17 "KING OF THE KHYBER RIFLES"
Tyrone Power, Terry Moore, Michael Rennie
1954, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

June 24 "FROM HELL TO TEXAS"
Don Murray, Diane Varsi
1958, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

July 1 "HELL AND HIGH WATER"
Richard Widmark, David Wayne
1954, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

July 8 "BOY ON A DOLPHIN"
Alan Ladd, Sophia Loren, Clifton Webb
1957, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Tell Truth 6:30-7:00	WCCO 108,300
I've Got Secret 7:00-7:30	WCCO 112,500
Vac. Playhouse 7:30-8:00	WCCO 78,300
Danny Thomas 8:00-8:30	WCCO 100,500

WTCN

Total Area Homes: 48,100
Metro Rating: 10
Share of Audience: 29

TUESDAYS 10:00-12:15
Program: CHANNEL 11 PRESENTS

June 8 "I REMEMBER MAMA"
Irene Dunn, Barbara Bel Geddes
1948, RKO, United Artists Assoc.

June 25 "NEVER A DULL MOMENT"
Irene Dunn, Fred MacMurray
1950, RKO, United Artists Assoc.

July 2 "CROSSFIRE"
Robert Young, Robert Mitchum, Robert Ryan
1947, RKO, United Artists Assoc.

July 9 "SANTA FE TRAIL"
Errol Flynn, Olivia DeHavilland, Van Heflin
1940, Warner Bros., United Artists Assoc.

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Headlines; Wea; Spts 10:00-10:30	KSTP 123,900
Tonight 10:30-12:00	KSTP 51,700

WTCN

Total Area Homes: 34,900
Metro Rating: 7
Share of Audience: 25

WEDNESDAYS 10:00-12:00
Program: CHANNEL 11 PRESENTS

June 19 "SOUTH OF ST. LOUIS"
Joel McCrea, Alexis Smith
1948, Warner Bros., Jayark Films

June 26 "WHEN THE DALTONS RODE"
Randolph Scott, Brian Donlevy, Kay Francis
1940, Universal, Screen Gems

July 3 "STRAWBERRY BLONDE"
James Cagney, Rita Hayworth
1941, Warner Bros., United Artists Assoc.

July 10 "PLUNDER OF THE SUN"
Glenn Ford, Diana Lynn
1953, Warner Bros., 7 Arts Assoc.

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Headlines; Wea; Spts 10:00-10:30	KSTP 138,800
Tonight 10:30-12:00	KSTP 47,700

WTCN

Total Area Homes: 38,300
Metro Rating: 8
Share of Audience: 24

THURSDAYS 10:00-12:00
Program: CHANNEL 11 PRESENTS

June 20 "BACKFIRE"
Gordon MacRae, Virginia Mayo, E. O'Brien
1950, Warner Bros. 7 Arts Assoc.

June 27 "CAGED"
Eleanor Parker, Jan Sterling, A. Moorhead
1950, Warner Bros., 7 Arts Assoc.

July 4 "PORT AFRIGUE"
Pier Angeli, Phil Carey
1956, Columbia, Screen Gems

July 11 "THE BLUE DAHLIA"
Alan Ladd, Veronica Lake
1946, Paramount, MCA-TV

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Headlines; Wea; Spts 10:00-10:30	KSTP 124,600
Tonight 10:30-12:00	KSTP 61,900

KMSP

Total Area Homes: 38,200
Metro Rating: 7
Share of Audience: 26

FRIDAYS 10:30-12:15
Program: MILLION DOLLAR MOVIE

June 14 "THE SILVER CHALICE"
Paul Newman, Natalie Wood
1955, Warner Bros., 7 Arts

June 21 "RANCHO NOTORIOUS"
Marlene Dietrich, Mel Ferrer
1952, RKO, Show Corp.

June 28 "VIVA ZAPATA"
Marlon Brando, Anthony Quinn,
1952, 20th Century-Fox, NTA

July 5 "THE LAST OUTPOST"
Ronald Reagan, Rhonda Flaming
1951, Paramount, Colorama

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Tonight 10:30-12:00	KSTP 45,200

(Continued on page 44)

Brit. Com'l Indies

Continued from page 24

schedules are such old time favorites as Granada's "Coronation Street," ATV's "Palladium" and "Emergency Ward 10" series, A-R's "No Hiding Place," "Take Your Money," etc. But a lot of excitement is being generated by new shows like ATV's film series "Sentimental Agent" which is scoring heavily on Saturday nights and drawing ratings in the 40s. The NBC-ATV coproduction "Espionage" is shaping as something of a smash all over the nation and pulling ratings as high as 47 in major areas. And ATV's "Charlie Drake Show" is also assuming out-and-out winner proportions with 40-plus scores.

ABC-TV, in the Midlands and North, have mounted yet another near-impregnable sked for its Saturday-Sunday operation and is particularly gratified at the success of Desilu's "Greatest Show On Earth" which copped a 57 in the North.

BBC's chancy maneuver in shifting its soapy series "Compact" from prime time to a 6:35 p.m. berth has begun to pay off with the series retaining sufficient of its femme following to give BBC an early lead in many markets on Tuesdays and Thursdays. BBC also scores by shifting "Z Cars" just out of range of "Coronation Street" competition and the 10 minute time difference allows "Cars" to assume its "normal" runaway proportions. Disappointment for BBC is the slip back of "TWTWTW" which is bowing to ATV's "Braden Beat" in London 25-21.

Kluge

Continued from page 24

reality on the one hand and free television were limited in the number of commercials on the other, this would be a conscious or unconscious way for a government agency to destroy the world's greatest medium."

Commenting on other areas of the industry, Kluge said that he believes that AM and FM should be duplicated, but that "tough, hard standards" be set down for broadcasters to perform an outstanding service. Kluge called for the elimination of "the jukebox operators of the air with their flossy FCC licenses, and allow the public to eventually make the choice of what band they prefer. A good broadcaster who delivers to the public fine service can only give a lesser service by separating FM from AM."

NBC Radio

Continued from page 24

Frank McGee, Barry Nelson and James Daly.

McDaniel says that the previously instrumental-heavy "Monitor" disk format has been changed to the satisfaction of all affiliates. Melodic pop vocals now dominate.

About recent talk of a return to the air of some of the old radio comedy and drama shows, the prexy says it is totally out of the question. He says such a proposition has been looked into many time in the last few years, but the lack of ownership and residual tangle make it prohibitive—"to say nothing of the fact it's lousy radio, anyway."

Tom Moore

Continued from page 27

me a better performer.' His reference was to Sammy Davis Jr."

Lewis has a blockbuster coming up Nov. 2 when 20 of the comedy stars of Stanley Kramer's "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" appear with him.

But Lewis is not ABC's only problem child. If "Travels of Jamie McPheeters" can't be fixed it will be replaced. Moore still thinks it's a great tv property. Others causing concern are Jimmy Dean, boxing and the new "Laughs For Sale," hurried replacement for "Hundred Grand."

"We're on the upsurge and the only question is how far up we'll go," said Moore.

STANDING ROOM ONLY AT CARNEGIE HALL *
NEW YORK

ENZO STUARTI

* Concert OCT. 19, 1963

Recorded in its entirety by— JUBILEE RECORDS SOON TO BE RELEASED AS A DELUXE ALBUM

Direction: GENERAL ARTISTS CORP.

Despite Growing Pains, W. German Second TV Network Anticipates $30,000,000 in Ad Revenues in '64

By HAZEL GUILD

Mainz, Oct. 22.

Explaining its series of agitations and upsets as "growing pains," the publicity director of West Germany's seven-month old Second Television Network wished that everyone would stop taking pokes at the net outlet and give it a chance to prove itself.

Meanwhile, Paul Weber, director of the station's Press and Information Division, noted there have been many misunderstandings about the station's aims and plans, because for the first time, a television net in Germany has come out with a proposed budget—the "household plan" usually being kept in deepest secrecy by the country's radio and television stations here.

When the station recently printed its budget and let the press have a look, there were outcries that the station was from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 in debt.

Actually, explained Weber, the Mainz headquarters of the Second Television Net went on the air for the first time on April 1 of this year—and already its studios and offices are sprawled around in 17 different locations.

So the station is hoping to build a new integrated center—at a cost of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000—and will of course need some outside financing to accomplish this. It will take at least five years to build, once the money is raised and the location found.

Costs have been high for the seven-month-old television network, Weber admitted, and the station actually gets a very low percent of the money raised by the West German Federal Post to support the German radio and television industry—which is in the hands of 11 various States and subject to innumerable government controls and political influences.

Each of the 8,000,000 German television set owners pays a monthly fee of five German marks ($1.25) for the privilege of viewing television—and only about one mark (25 cents) of this goes to the new Second Net.

Hence, the net is granted about $2,000,000 a month via the German post.

In addition, Weber noted, it had planned to raise money from advertising, and for its start in April it had 12 minutes of commercial time daily, selling for about $6,000 a minute. (Under the stringent German rules governing television operation here, the station is allowed a maximum of 20 minutes of commercial time daily except Sundays when none is allowed, and all the commercials must be aired before 8 p.m.)

The station hopes to increase its commercial time to the full 20 minutes by Jan. 1, 1964, but meantime it has had to fight many battles. The powerful Cologne outlet of the First Television Net demanded the right to use the same channel as the Second on the period from 6:45 until 7 p.m. until the end of September this year. It was presenting its show "Prism of the West" at that time, and managed to usurp the outlet.

So the Second Net had to give its advertisers 20% rebate on the commercials which fell into this important time period.

Right now, it's moot as to just how many of those 8,000,000 set owners can view the Second Channel. About 50% of them, it's estimated, have the adapter required to view the Second Net, and the Federal Post Office has not kept up with its promise to complete some vital relay stations—so that by the end of this year it's estimated that around 80% of West Germany will have the reception facility—provided that the set owners also have the adapters to pick up the second channel.

Nonetheless, the station expects to be able to up its commercial time to the full 20 minutes next year, and to earn at least $30,000,000 revenue from the ads next year.

The advantage of the Second Net as against the First (which broadcasts its commercials locally on the various outlets) is that an advertiser on the Second Net gets immediate distribution across the nation, Weber commented, while the other stations do their advertising regionally.

An advertiser has no control of the shows, and may only buy his commercial time—which will be inserted at the start and end of such programs as "Private Detective Harry Holl," "Gold in Alaska," and "The Wonder of the Sea."

It is anticipated that the country will have 14,000,000 sets by 1970—which will mean increased revenue from adverising and from monthly fees from owners, Weber pointed out, so the station can look forward to rising income.

There's Just No End To WABC & Albuquerque Clear Channel Hassle

Washington, Oct. 22.

The tangled 21-year clear channel hassle between WABC, New York, and KOB, Albuquerque, took another confusing turn with two FCC moves.

The Commission, first, issued an order lifting WABC's stay to file a renewal application including plans to limit its nighttime audience by constructing directional antennas.

Secondly, FCC asked the U.S. Appeals court here to approve the removal of the stay for WABC and let the fight return to Commission's comparative hearing domain.

When FCC on July 8 ordered ABC to share its New York clear channel at night with KOB, it granted the web a 30-day breathing period. In that time, a renewal application conforming to the July 8 order was to be filed.

Soon after, Commission acceeded to ABC's request to stay the transition order and let the hassle go to the Appeals Court.

Now the Commission is going back on that grant and calling for a comparative hearing between WABC and KOB. The Albuquerque station licensed by Hubbard Broadcasting Inc., has filed a competing application for WABC's channel spot in New York.

This competing application will necessitate a comparative hearing between the two stations. FCC asked the Appeals Court to okay its order saying it will have to hold a hearing eventually and would rather do it now instead of waiting for the Court to haggle with it.

'RIFLEMAN' SALES ON 'DELAYED BASIS'

Four Star Distribution reports a new station trend of buying syndicated shows with the option of a long delayed starting date.

In recent days six stations have bought the company's off-web "Rifleman" with option to play the series as late as December '64.

Stations which have bought "Rifleman" on a delayed airing option are WKRG-TV, Mobile (which has also bought "Dick Powell Theatre" with both to start as late as Dec. '64); KPRC-TV, Houston; KHSL-TV, Chico; KPLC-TV, Lake Charles; KALB-TV, Alexandria; and WCTV, Tallahassee.

First station in with a delayed order was WXYZ-TV, Detroit, which bought "Rifleman" with option to start January, '65.

Armer-Grauman Series

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Alan Armer, producer of QM Productions' "The Fugitive" series on ABC-TV, is teaming with Walter Grauman on a new 60-min. series, "Lights, Camera, Action," being readied for the 1964-65 season.

They have acquired 140 original plays for the vehicle, which will deal with showcasing of new talent via 5-min. spots for each.

Philadelphia—Clyde R. Spitzner has been named to the newly created post of general sales manager for the radio-tv division of Triangle Publications. Spitzner has been sales chief for WFIL, Triangle's radio outlet here.

Bilko Still Pulls 'Em In

CBS-TV's new "Phil Silvers Show" Saturday evenings hasn't dampened the rating power of the old "Phil Silvers Show," still very much in the syndication picture, under the distribution aegis of CBS Films.

Silvers, as Bilko, is being telecast by WABC-TV, in the N. Y. market, on Tuesdays, from 7 to 7:30 p.m. According to Nielsen, Bilko on WABC-TV, draws a 13.7, beaten only by Huntley-Brinkley with a 16.0 for the time period. A poor third is Robert Trout with the local news on WCBS-TV, with a 9.9.

Radio Reviews

WHAT'S WRONG WITH BASEBALL
With Frank Gibbons, guests
Producer: Art Schreber
Director: Richard Orkin
Writer: Gibbons
30 Mins., Sunday, 7:30
KYW, Cleveland

Frank Gibbons, the erudite columnist of the Cleveland Press' sports staff, did a critical and objective half-hour analysis of what's wrong with baseball. As his yardstick he used the Cleveland Indians whose 1963 attendance of 560,000 is a far cry from the golden days of Bill Veeck under whose management the Tribe scored heavily in attendance and glamor. In fact, Gibbons' interview with Veeck—one of many—highlighted several of baseball's ailments. Says Veeck, it's too slow, it no longer is a 'fun sport,' there is too much hop-scotching around with clubs, but regardless of all the problems Veeck says if there's a club for sale, he'll buy it.

Gibbons, the only newspaper man permitted on the Cleveland airways, also talked to Gabe Paul, Tribe general manager; American League President Joe Cronin; National League President Warren Giles; Casey Stengel of the Mets, etc.

Although all noted there are defects, all said baseball is not dead, it's not even moribund, but there are ailments and all hope to correct the aches and pains.

Gabe Paul would like to see a change in the draft rules pertaining to players, but felt the game, when interesting, has no rival. President Giles said an interleague schedule would be harmful in that it would curtail interest in the World Series and the All-Star Games; President Cronin felt today's schedule is not too chopped up in light of the 10-club leagues, and he allowed the continued success of the Yanks is not harmful to organized baseball. (The interview took place prior to the World Series.)

Generally, the baseball spokesmen contacted acknowledged these are times to try the souls of baseball magnates and true-blue fans, but they all left the feeling—to pariphrase an old biblical saw—these may be the lean years for some, but the fat years are not to far away if the teams suffering box office blues acquire the personalties, management and winning streaks. Mark.

FROM LOGAN TO EVEREST
With Ed Hersch, Mark Evans, Gilbert Grosvenor, Lowell Thomas, Walt Disney Producer-Writer: Ed Hersch
Director: James Aubele
30 Mins., Sunday, 10 p.m.
WHK, Cleveland

On the occasion of its 75th anniversary, the National Geographic was saluted by Metromedia through the diligence of Ed Hersch of the net's Cleveland outlet.

It was a noteworthy effort and certainly a tribute long due to the National Geographic. The program centered around interviews of the American team that conquered Mount Everest, and it included a radio 'first'—a recording with several of the climbers of Everest after their return to Katmandu from the history-making event.

The stanza contained an interview by Metromedia's Mark Evans with Gilbert Grosvenor, great-grandson of Alexander Graham Bell as well as congratulatory messages from Lowell Thomas and Walt Disney.

Credit should be extended to Ed Hersch for his work in writing and putting together this stanza of recognition, although efforts to create the feeling of a tour through the Geographic's building failed to click. Mark.

From The Production Centres

Continued from page 38

WTOP will be Bob Raiford . . . WWDC radio preemed new teen talk program "Our Two Cents." Producer is teener Neil Shulman . . . Joey Bishop, Abby Dalton and Mary Treen were here for puffery tour last week . . . WTTG-TV director Robert O'Connor doing a little work on the side. He directed a new play at the Little Theatre of Alexandria (Va.) which opened to hep reviews in local press . . . WWDC prez Ben Strouse aired special program on Berlin Wall entitled "Wall of Shame." Material came from a recent trip to East and West Germany and from interviews with West Berlin mayor Willy Brandt.

IN CINCINNATI . . .

Fun packages by Cincy tv personalities have become standby anniversary celebration highlights at area shopping centers. Over the weekend stars of WLW-T Ruth Lyons "50-50 Club" and "Midwestern Hayride" shows frolicked at Swifton Center while Uncle Al and his WCPO-TV kiddie show entertainers were spotlighted at Hyde Park Plaza . . . "It's Academic" Sunday 5 p.m. quiz show for high schoolers on WLW-TV is plugged by insert announcements with monthly bills to all customers of sponsoring Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. Program is followed by "College Bowl" on NBC-TV . . . President L. H. Rogers II of Taft Broadcasting to Washington, D. C., for role of panel moderator at National Congress on Medical Quackery meeting . . . Crosley's WLW-Radio covering all Cincy Royals pro basketball games this season with Ed Kennedy announcing. Sister station WLW-TV carries some of the schedule . . . WKRC-TV telecast windup of pro-amateur golf tourney here in which Sam Snead bested other pros. Program was relayed to Taft's WKYT, Lexington, Ky.

IN PITTSBURGH . . .

Charles Boyle, the plucky young cameraman who made national headlines when he photographed a man jumping to his death from a bridge, has left KDKA-TV for an assignment with NBC in Chicago. Paul Nosach, the station cameraman who backed Boyle up on this story, has just been awarded $3,500 damages from a ship owner who attacked him for taking his picture . . . Alice Weston, hostess of "Luncheon at the Ones" on WIIC, has been named one of the top 10 women in broadcasting by American Woman in Radio and Television Organization. A video tape featuring Miss Weston will be shown at the AWRT meeting next month . . . Like most of the country Pitt is having a drought but unlike others, this city has KQV and its Indian Rainmaker who is doing his Indian Rain Dance throughout the community each day. The station is awarding $25 to the listener who makes the closest guess to the actual time the first rain will fall . . . "The Anatomy of the Unemployed" was the subject for discussion on KDKA-TV Friday (18) at 8:30 to 10 p.m. as part of the station's yearlong "Focal Point" series.

IN PHILADELPHIA . . .

Paul Whiteman taped a pilot at the University of Pennsylvania over the weekend with a WFIL-TV crew. Show is first of a syndicated series tagged "Papa Goes to College" . . . Eugene McCurdy, commercial manager for WFIL, upped to radio sales manager, filling post vacated by Clyde Spitzner . . . Charles LaMason, former promotion director with WBAL, Baltimore, named WRCV promotion manager . . . Newscaster Ed Needham, a summer replacement from Portland, Me., added to the WPEN staff . . . WIP airing Princeton football games for the seventh consecutive year. Sports director Jim Leaming again handles the play-by-play . . . Al Schwartzman, WPEN helicopter traffic expert, has exited station . . . Matt Goukas will do the color for WFIL sports director Les Keiter's broadcasts of Convention Hall games of the 76ers and college games from the Palestra . . . The Greater Council of Churches presented a special citation to the WRCV stations for their religious programming throughout the year . . . Gene Shay, WHAT-FM folk music broadcaster to emcee the concert of the Clancy Bros. and Tommy Makem at Town Hall (Nov. 1).

IN CLEVELAND . . .

Page Palmer, WEWS star, was featured as Lady Godiva in annual Press Club "Bal Masque" that involved getting a horse into the Hotel Carter's Rainbow Room. KYW-TV's Hugh Harper was chairman of the program that included Mirella Greco, Doric Room dancer; Timmy Rogers, comic, and Bill Boelke, emcee. Plain Dealer drama critic Pete Bellamy, and his wife, Jean, were named King and Queen of the event. Dick McLaughlin, Press rewrite, was general chairman . . . Ron Jay doing weather for WEWS . . . Jerry Bowman, WERE, was Kiwanis delegate to convention in Cincinnati . . . Bruce MacDonald arranging 18-week public service half-hour series with colleges for WJW Sunday night . . . Rift Fornier sparked Zsa Zsa Gabor through series of promotional jinks during her Mike Douglas weeklong WBC program . . . Robert Miller elevated to director of special broadcast services and Gary Davis becomes WERE's director of promotion and publicity . . . Sid Andorn marked third anni of his 45-minute 8:15 p.m. WGAR "Open Forum" cross-the-board stanza.

IN MINNEAPOLIS

National Association of Broadcasters President LeRoy Collins in town last week to address NAB regional conference. Collins answered delegates' questions on how to deal with federal intervention in broadcast operations. Also on agenda was Carl Haverlin, prexy of Broadcast Music, Inc., N.Y. . . . KSTP-TV, only Twin Cities station originating live color tv shows, now carrying its two evening news-weather-sports programs in color. It's a Twin Cities first for the NBC affiliate . . . Interest in football higher than ever here. Time-Life's WTCN Radio is covering University of Minnesota grid clashes for network of 28 stations throughout area with Frank Buetel handling mike chores. WCCO Radio, CBS affiliate, airs three play-by-play broadcasts of high school, university and pro football games each weekend. And U. of M. coach Murray Warmath is back on tv again this season with a Sunday afternoon show on WCCO-TV . . . WLOL-FM preemed second season of "Minneapolis Symphony Previews" last frame. Longhair music weekly series, hosted by Arnold Walker, includes symphony conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski as a regular guest . . . WTCN staffer Stuart A. Lindman elected national second vice junior commander of Disabled American Veterans.

IN DETROIT . . .

George Cheely, formerly with CBS in Washington, is the new tv news director for WXYZ . . . Tran Van Chuong, father of Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, South Viet Nam's controversial first lady, will be guest this week on WWJ-TV's "Town Meeting," with newscaster Ven Marshall serving as moderator . . . "After Hours with Ed McKenzie," a WXYZ-TV late-evening show, will preview Christmas decorations, the story of pharmacy, and a demonstration of weaving in this week's programming schedule . . . Don Wattrick, vet Detroit sportscaster, launches a new series of "Sportorial," on WWJ Radio. More than the conventional sports recap, "Sportorial" will be a "candid appraisal of current happenings in the sports world". George Pierrot's "World Adventure Series" now will be seen in color every Sunday at 11:30 a.m. on WXYZ-TV . . . WXYZ recently completed a successful "neat handwriting" contest among its listeners

Inside Stuff—Radio-TV

CBS Radio yesterday (Tues.) began its series of New York luncheon presentations on "SRO 1964" at the Sheraton East. The presentation, combining sound film with slides, is expected to be viewed by 500 key ad execs before going on its coast-to-coast tour.

The presentation explodes anti-radio myths, cites the health of the audio medium, has agency principals extol network radio, and boasts about the upsurge of CBS Radio, in particular. CBS Radio sales v.p. George Arkedis delivers some of the highlights, in the presentation.

"The Negro in Television" will be the topic of the next forum of the New York chapter, National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences Monday, Oct. 28, at 8 p.m. in the Georgian Ballroom of the Americana Hotel.

Producer David Susskind will moderate a panel composed of Negro author James Baldwin; John Chrichton, prexy of the American Assn. of Advertising Agencies; Donald F. Conaway, national exec secretary of AFTRA; Ed Friendly, NBC veepee; Harold Graham Jr., CBS veep; Harold Hoffman, exec secretary of SAG; Writers Guild prexy Ernest Kinoy; Metropolitan Broadcasting prexy Bennet Korn; Richard Pinkham, Sr. veepee of Ted Bates agency; Jackie Robinson, veepee, Chuck Full O'Nuts; and Whitney Young, Urban League's exec director.

George Norford, tv consultant to the chairman of the New York State Commission for Human Rights and producer of the Acad's forum, lined up the panel.

In observance of United Nations Month this month (Oct.), Association Telefilms is offering free to tv stations 10 16m films on the UN and its various agencies. Included in the package are films on UNICEF's aid to kids around the world: Danny Kaye entertaining the kids in Asia; James Mason relating the story of a Greek, African and Filipino child aided by UNICEF medical teams; a feature on the dancing and music of kids in Japan, Nigeria, India and the U.S.; a nurse narrating the efforts of the Turkish government to improve the health and welfare of children; and also films on Guatemalan children, Mexican kids and a Unician boy, and Bozo, the tv clown, in his travels to six Asian countries.

There also are two films on UNRWA, the UN Relief & Works agency. Prints of all can be ordered from Association Telefilms' regional film centres in Ridgefield, N.J.; La Grange, Ill.; Hayward, Calif.; Dallas, Tex. and Oakmont, Pa.

Chicago stations WGN and WGN-TV have dealt themselves into the N.Y. World's Fair picture as sponsors of the speakers program that is to be part of the Illinois-Lincolnia exhibit there. Stations thereby become the official radio-tv outlets for the state at the Fair and get exclusive rights to the use and syndication of all program material of the exhibit. Speakers program will include replicas of Lincoln's speeches and discussion of his life and achievements. Centerpiece of the Illinois exhibit is to be a $1,500,000 life-size, animated figure of Lincoln created by Walt Disney.

Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC board chairman, will receive the Joseph E. Connor Memorial Award for 1963 at Emerson College, Boston, Nov. 3. Award, named for the late Professor Connor of the Emerson faculty, is made annually by Phi Alpha Tau in recognition of excellence in the field of communications. Among previous recipients were Edward R. Murrow, Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Elia Kazan, the late Robert Frost and Red Skelton.

"Rod Serling's Twilight Zone," a hardcover book containing 13 stories based on scripts from "Twilight Zone," has been published by Grossett & Dunlap. Because of the book's enthusiastic reception from dealers who saw the pre-publication volume, the hardcover book already is in its third printing which, when completed, will mean 55,000 copies available for retail sale.

This is the fourth book to be published based on "Twilight Zone" scripts, but the first hardcover volume. The first three were paperbacks, published under the Bantam label.

"General Electric Stereo Drama," series of FM radio dramas which premiered last season on the QXR Network, will be back again with "The Pleasure of His Company" as the first production.

Comedy, scheduled to play the network Oct. 31, will feature the original Broadway cast, including Walter Abel, Cyril Ritchard and Cornelia Otis Skinner. Producer-director of the series is Jean Dalrymple, director of the New York City Center Light Opera & Drama Co.

Nashville station WSM and the U. of Tennessee are co-sponsoring a license renewal conference this week for radio and tv stations in eight southeastern states. Object of the two-day seminar, which is being held at the university in Knoxville, is to pool information on, and to clarify, the matter of making application for license renewal. Robert J. Rawson, chief of the Renewal and Transfer Division of the FCC, is principal guest.

New York's largest specialists in motion picture & TV insurance
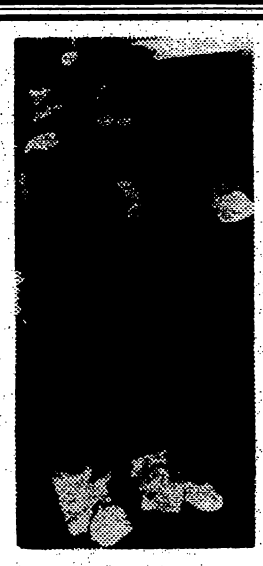
(cast, film, weather, liability, cameras, props, plagiarism...)
WINKLER ASSOCIATES, LTD.
120 W. 57 St., New York 19, Circle 7-3366

San Antonio—James W. Anderson has joined Spanish International Network Sales Inc. and has been assigned to KWEX-TV, local Spanish language tv outlet, as general sales manager. Later this year Anderson will be transferred to the New York headquarters as general sales manager. He has been overseas advisor for ABC-International TV, and with ABC affiliate stations in Panama and the Philippines.



This Is
LONDON'S TOP TV CAT-MAN
Now in New York
AL STEVENS
Any TV Inquiries???
HOTEL BELVEDERE
319 W. 48th St.
CI 6-9100

'Romper Room' to Japan With Talbot on Tap To Give 'Teacher' a Hand

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

The "Romper Room" tv "live" kindergarten, who began in Baltimore 10 years ago and which is expanding its classes around the globe, came to Japan last week.

It's on NTV and most of its affiliated stations at 11:20 a.m. for across-the-board six weekly 30-minute sessions. Midori Namiki, 22, a professional teacher, is serving in that capacity for the six youngsters, who are changed every two weeks.

"Romper Room" is seen in 80 or 90 cities, on stations in Canada, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Venezuela and Australia and will soon start in Scotland. In all other countries, the program originates in the studios of each subscribing local station, but in Japan it is a network production. This is because outside of Tokyo, there is comparatively little live programming.

Here to help launch the show were Paul Talbot, prez of Fremantle Intl, that company's Aussie general manager Bob Lapthorne, and its Sydney-based executive producer, Joe Clarke. Fremantle distributes the show outside the U. S.

As in other countries where the program is seen, there will be merchandising here of "Romper Room" products. Certain retail outlets will be given exclusive sales rights. And Japanese manufacturers will be selected to make this line of products. Talbot pointed out, "In the United States there are 200 different 'Rompus Room' items being manufactured by 60 different companies."

One of the "Romper Room" trade marks is a smiling bee, a picture play on the "Do Bee" instructional game that runs through the program. This prompted one Japanese tv exec to ask Talbot, "Are bees very popular in your country?"

16 More Stations Buy AA's 'Cavalcade' Pix

Sixteen more stations, including WFIL-TV, Philadelphia, and KCTO-TV, Denver, Colo., have purchased Allied Artists Television's package of 40 features, titled "Cavalcade of the 60's, Group 1."

Other stations which have recently bought Group 1 include: WNHC, New Haven-Hartford; KTHV, Little Rock; WTEN, Albany; WFBG, Altoona-Johnstown, Pa.; KNTV, San Jose; KAKE, Wichita; WNBF, Binghamton, KOIN, Portland; KFRE, Fresno, Calif.; and KEND, Fargo, N. D.

"Bomba" features, also handled by AA-TV, have been sold to WMCT, Memphis; WQAD, Moline; WRAL, Raleigh; KTSM, El Paso; and WGHP, High Point, La., bringing total markets sold to 85.

Disk Jock Jay Clark Slaps Suit Against WAVZ

Hartford, Oct. 22.

Suit has been filed in Superior Court by a former disk jockey seeking $50,000 from station WAVZ of New Haven on grounds that the station is blocking his chances of employment in area radio outlets. Services of Joseph Clairfield, professionally known as Jay Clark, were terminated by the station last February.

Since that time, he claims inability to secure another radio job because the station threatened litigation against prospective employers. Contract he had with station claims that an employee agrees, in the event of termination of employment for any reason, not to engage or accept employment with any broadcasting or tv station within the New Haven coverage area for a period of one year.

Honolulu's 16th

Honolulu, Oct. 22.

KZOO, expected to be in operation this week, is Honolulu's 16th AM radio station. It's owned by Polynesian Broadcasting, Inc., headed by Mrs. Mary Wong. Hoover Tateishi, an aide to Congressman Spark M. Matsunaga, is general manager.

The indie, which will feature "interpretive programs" in both English and Japanese language, is a 1,000-watter.

2d French TV Web Runs Into Economy Snags on Eve of Bow

Paris, Oct. 22.

Recent Ministry of Finance economy measures, to try to control threatening inflation, will definitely cut into the budget of the state tv and radio setup, Radiodiffusion-Television Francaise, it was learned here this week. It may also affect the long delayed and promised second video channel.

Rumors are that it may restrict current tv production as well as set back the promised April 1964 start of the new web and cut its planned 23 hours of programs a week to 18. And it is said that many programs planned for both stations may have to undergo budget pairings in this economy drive.

But sources maintain the Alain Peyrefitte, Minister of Information, has had long talks with Finance Minister Valery Giscard D'Estaing and they have decided on a "necessary sum" which will be revealed soon. It supposedly will lead to some tv sacrifices but not hamper

(Continued on page 45)

"Powdered with Stardust..."

"... Hey, Ed Sullivan, Jack Paar, Johnny Carson, and other talent discoverers: You should sign beautiful, talented, singing dancing comedienne Lilia Guizar, daughter of Tito Guizar. She has that something."
—EARL WILSON
New York Post

"... Powdered with stardust, 22-year-old Lilia Guizar should certainly become a big name in her own right."
—BEN GROSS
N.Y. Daily News

"... This blue-eyed, blonde senorita sure knows how to please both Latin and no-habla-espanol contingents."
—ROBERT SALMAGGI
N.Y. Herald Tribune

"... A beautiful girl with a flair for comedy, she should make the big time."
VARIETY, Jose

"... A top-flight song comedienne who delights with Latin and American songs, she can't avoid a bright future."
—NICK LAPOLE
N.Y. Journal-American

"... Enchants with lilting bossa novas and jazzy American pop tunes. A bouncy bilingual honey, it's easy to predict a glittering future for spectacular looking Lilia."
—MARTY BURDEN
New York Post

"... A vivacious performer, she's a natural for Broadway musicals."
—BOB SYLVESTER
N.Y. Daily News

"... She brought more pep and excitement to my show than anyone since Jane Fonda."
—JOE FRANKLIN
WOR-TV

"... Like her legendary dad, she's headed for star billing."
—JOHN DAVID GRIFFIN
New York Mirror

Reviews from Engagement at New York's LIBORIO

LILIA GUIZAR
New Song Personality
Personal Management:
PAUL GILBERT ASSOCIATES
119 West 57th St., New York, N. Y., PLaza 7-6320

Television Reviews

Continued from page 33

way used taste and imagination to display the Kipling tales about the elephant, the whale, the camel and the rhinoceros. Via magic, song, puppeteering and choreography, the stories were relayed for maximum audio and vasual interest. It also held enough change of pace to keep the moppet viewer quiet and attentive.

As host and magician, Jack Adams had the right flair to hold a kiddie audience. The rest of the cast, too, rates a nod for their deft work in transferring the Kipling yarns to the home screen. And that goes for puppeteer Larry Berthelson, pantomimist Tony Montanaro, dancers Rudy Tronto, Diana Banks and Dean Crane, and The Three Young Men, a bright folksing group. Gros.

THE POTOMAC
Narrator: Joe Templeton
Producer-Director: Don Knox
Writer: Charlton Ogburn, Jr.
60 Mins. Tues., 9 p.m.
WJZ-TV, Baltimore (tape)

The most unusual thing about "The Potomac" is that it is a taped travel-documentary made possible by WJZ-TV's 10 ton mobile video tape unit which allowed a crew to historically trace the Potomac River, one of longest in the eastern states, from its sources to Washington

Program covered areas that figured in the Civil War, French and Indian War, Harper's Ferry, scene of John Brown uprising and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, a relic of the past.

Program was similar in some respects to "The Nile" but was not as interesting since "Potomac" spent too much time on the Civil War, a subject that has been become familiar television fare. This, and the narration that was too lofty in tone put "The Potomac" down as a very worthy, but not too successful endeavor.

Documentary was most interesting when it covered the history of the canal and walked with hikers who make an annual trip the length of the canal and when Joe Templeton, narrator, interviewed an elderly native who worked the canal when it was alive and a vital part of our transportation system.

Narration was written by Charlton Ogburn, Jr., author of "Merrill's Marauders" and the camera work was excellent, considering the uncertain terrain and unsure bridges.

"The Potomac" is, all things considered, a show of which WJZ-TV can be justly proud since it represents a new, and technically well done, documentary study. If it failed dramatically it did not miss by a large margin. Luce.

MAFIA: TWIN CITIES STYLE
With Peter Evensen, Alex DeGoode, others Producer-Writer: Bud Meier
Director: Dick Larson
45 Mins.: Sun. 10:30 p.m.
ST. PAUL AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK
KSTP-TV, Mpls.-St. Paul

It proved fortunate for Stan Hubbard's KSTP-TV that the live-wire NBC affiliated station wisely kept in the can for two years an exclusive taped interview with a one-time Twin Cities' gangland figure. This enabled the station to make it the main part of an engrossing 45-minute public service documentary at a most opportune time. KSTP-TV found itself in a position to cash in on the hullabaloo created by Joseph Valachi spilling the beans to the McClellan committee on the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate. And that's just what the station did in its usual topwdrawer fashion.

The retained interview with gangster, Alex DeGoode, a former member of the Detroit "Purple Gang" who had joined a now out-of-existence Twin Cities' mob, tied in perfectly with the Valachi development. It even went further than the latter because of its local angles and added revelations of a gangster's way-of-life.

The 48-year old gangster was extremely generous in relating his crimes and, like Valachi, adept at puting his unconventional and anti-social attitudes into words. He maintained that underprivileged persons with a stomach for crime well might turn to it because it could pay off so well—he himself had earned as much as $30,000 a year from his wrongdoings—much more than was possible from his occasional iron worker labors.

He told the interviewers he has no repentance for 33 years of lawbreaking and he'd live his life over again the same way even though 16 of those years were spent behind prison bars and much of his crime income went for defense lawyer fees. He also mentioned protection payoffs to corrupt police and other officials.

It probably was just as well the program came late in the evening when, undoubtedly, its audience includer few if any juveniles who might get the wrong slant on what DeGoode had to say about crime paying off so well. However, the narrator and interviewers in their own comments made clear the error of DeGoode's ways and how he as well as society suffered from his lawbreaking. They brought out how such a person always courts quick death.

Because DeGoode emerged from prison to turn state's evidence against two former pals on trial for kidnapping a squealing pal who probably wound up murdered, he was in hiding. But Bud Meier ferreted him out for the on camera interview that also had two other KSTP-TV staffers, including news department head Bill McGivern, firing away with the questions at a time when this gangster, who had been a murder suspect, was in danger of being rubbed out himself for his "traitordom," the same as is the case with Valachi.

For this engrossing Valachi follow-up much credit goes to Meier, director Dick Larson, narrator Evensen and McGivern. Rees.

TEN AROUND TOWN
With Rosemary Haley, Bill Hart
Producer: Michael Zeamer
Director: Bob Olander
30 Mins., Mon.-Fri., 1 p.m.
PARTICIPATING
WCAU-TV, Philadelphia

In a move to bring "live" tv back locally, WCAU-TV (Channel 10) launched a pedestrian half-hour session, avowedly to keep the Philly housewife "better informed," "to make her think," etc. In between these purposeful segments are interspersed news and weather reports. Judging by the initial stanza, there wasn't much likely to strain the listening femmes brain cells. News was routine and the weather is always with us.

Most interesting segment took Rosemary Haley to South Philadelphia's Italian pushcart market. While new to Miss Haley, a personable New Yorker, the market is not exactly hot off the griddle to Philadelphia shoppers. Miss Haley makes a good hostess for these matinees, a nice looking woman, with none of the model makeup and posturings. She stressed the variety and low prices of the foods as well as her personal preferences in edibles.

A supposedly laugh-it-up section was an interview with a John F. Kennedy, a local lawyer. Gimmick made use of a lot of cliches, beginning with the rocking chair and proved uncomfortable for everyone concerned. Despite the limp start, the show seems a likely prospect in a field which has been totally neglected lately in the conversion to push-button fare. Bill Hart has been around too long to cause any ripples; but Miss Haley seems fresh and attractive and there is a wide area locally to explore. Producer Mike Zeamer's long line of credits would have indicated a stronger kickoff. Gagh.

DRAWING A MOB TO 12 ON THE KNOB IS BOB'S JOB

Films, pictures, music and words flood Milwaukee and Southeastern Wisconsin throughout the year on the airwaves of WISN-TV, on radio, in newspapers and through the mail. The content and approach vary widely but the basic message is always the same. "Tune your television dial to channel 12."

At the source of this steady stream of persuasion is the promotion department of WISN-TV headed by promotion director Robert L. Meyer.

Meyer, 26, is probably the youngest man in the country sitting in the hot seat of a TV promotion manager in a major market. Despite his years, he brought a solid background of experience with him when he joined the station in 1962. He was the advertising manager of Billings Enterprises, 1958-60, successfully operated his own agency, 1960-61, and was an account executive with the Baker, Johnsen & Dickinson agency, 1961-62.

His fall campaign one year ago was so well received and successful that CBS asked permission to reproduce it so that they could show it to their other affiliates.

Bob Meyer is one more example of ability and energy taking precedence over age, and another of the talented people who make WISN-TV click.

VARIETY ARB FEATURE FILM CHART

VARIETY-ARB's weekly chart offers a day-by-day analysis of the top feature evening slots in a particular market. On Saturdays and Sundays, daytime feature slots complete with nighttime pix periods for designation as the top feature slot of the day. The analysis is confined to the top rated feature slots in the ARB measured period, broken down by days in the week. The ARB measured period usually covers three or four weeks. Other data such as the time slot and average share of audience is furnished. Top competition and competitive ratings also are highlighted.

(Continued from page 40)

KSTP — Total Area Homes: 67,200 — Metro Rating: 12 — Share of Audience: 29

SATURDAYS 8:00-10:00
Program: SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIE

June 15 "BENEATH THE 12 MILE REEF"
Robert Wagner, Terry Moore
1953, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

June 22 "WHITE WITCH DOCTOR"
Susan Hayward, Robert Mitchum
1953, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

June 29 "SAILOR OF THE KING"
Jeffrey Hunter, Michael Rennie, Wendy Hiller
1953, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

July 6 "THE PRESIDENT'S LADY"
Susan Hayward, Charlton Heston
1953, 20th Century-Fox, 20th Century-Fox

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Lawrence Welk 8:00-9:00	KMSP 96,700
Gunsmoke 9:00-10:00	WCCO 124,300

WTCN — Total Area Homes: 41,900 — Metro Rating: 7 — Share of Audience: 57

SUNDAYS 2:30-4:00
Program: ADVENTURE PLAYHOUSE

June 16 "EIGHT IRON MEN"
Lee Marvin, Arthur Franz
1952, Columbia, Screen Gems

June 23 "CHARGE OF LANCERS"
Jean Pierre Aumont, Paulette Goddard
1954, Columbia, Screen Gems

June 30 "THE IRON GLOVE"
Robert Stack, Ursula Thiess
1954, Columbia, Screen Gems

July 7 BASEBALL

TOP COMPETITION

PROGRAM	STATION & TOTAL HOMES
Afternoon at Movies 2:30-3:00	WCCO 10,800
Checkmate 3:00-3:30	WCCO 12,000
Zone; Golf; Movie 3:30-4:00	KSTP 17,900

'Library of Congress For Broadcasting' As Elizabeth Bain's Goal

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.

Proposals for the formation of a "Library of Congress for Broadcasting" was made here last week by Elizabeth Bain, president-elect of the American Women in Radio & Television in her address to the local chapter. Miss Bain, who is assistant director of program services for the CBS tv stations, outlined the project as part of the organization's three-year-old Educational Foundation.

Miss Bain said that the formation of an international tv-radio information center is "an enormous goal which will take great sums of money and many years to get into full operation." Miss Bain also spoke about plans for a foreign service in which U. S. experts would be sent overseas to help on broadcasting projects.

O'seas Sales on Judy

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Four countries in various hemispheres are confident enough Judy Garland will finish out the tv season that they've bought 32 of her hour programs, sight unseen.

Creative Management Associates, repping the Garland series world-wide, reports sales closed by England, France, Australia and Japan. Deals were consummated after she had done only two shows.

For Japan, it marks the first sale of a U. S. musical-variety series. Sales also are being negotiated in other countries, according to CMA.

Ottawa—Jack Lusher succeeds W. A. Macdonald as director of public relations for the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. Macdonald is on leave to work with Canada's national centennial administration. Former newspaper reporter, Lusher has been with CBC's flack office since 1958, posted at Winnipeg first, then to CBC headquarters in Ottawa.

Irish Up License Fees

Dublin, Oct. 22.

Because it is operating in the red Radio Eireann, the Irish tv and radio setup, has asked the Irish government to increase fees for set-owing licenses. Gov't has okayed 25% rise and from Nov. 1 it will cost $14 to own a tv set and $3.50 for a radio.

Expansion of tv set owning has been slower than anticipated and latest reported figure is 195,000.

Hear . . .
Hollywood Commentator
DICK STROUT
ON over 800 Stations in Americal

Suite 404
1717 N. Highland Av.
Hollywood 28, Cal.
469-8884

SHOCK!

The original great horror films that made motion picture and TV history...are still making TV history from coast-to-coast!

Available only from
SCREEN GEMS, INC.

WNDT Int'l Festival

Continued from page 33

with Edmond Keozoyan directing and Valerin Somov and Galina Polskikh starring, boy doesn't get girl. In "Preludes," which followed, boy does get girl, but only after some moody, advance-guard photographic suspense which had a viewer hanging from the cliff (since he had learned that boy doesn't always get the chick on the Russian scene).

Produced by the Moscow TV Group, "Preludes" was made by two cameramen and two thesps. Without dialog, it made its points with a juxtaposition of the boy and girl soul-mating in a museum against a sonorous Bach score and cuts to statuary. Mood was set by imaginative use of moving light and shadow, soft and hard focus, until some sequences, in a controlled build, had a surrealistic vision. And through it all, there was a clear and definite narrative.

"Stairway" was exceptional in its simplicity, using the setting of an apartment project stairway for the touching story of a young couple who almost fall in love. Nicely understated with imaginative use of the location and, incidentally, the best job of subtitling ever noted on tv by this viewer.

England went the telementary route with two entries from ABC (BBC possibly declining because they like to sell their stuff here—a mistake, since the fest is a fine showcase). "Evant Garde," produced for ABC by Associated British Pathe, was interesting as a documentary that took a unique angle instead of the usual big treatment of a news event. French writers and performers were interviewed on whether they thought artists should take a political stand (several have suffered plastic bombing by the Algerian AOS for expressing their feelings). Production team included Kenneth Tynan, Reginald Collin and Lloyd Shirley. Interviews with Marcell Marceau (aloof), Francoise Sagan (militant) were exceptionally handled by reporter Derek Prouse.

"Survival," telementary on African wildlife from insects to Rhinoes, was particularly notable for scripting by Colin Willock.

Most unusual from the British, however, was the r&r Passion Play, "A Man Dies," produced by a Presbyterian Church in Bristol and later translated to tv. Cast of teens were dressed and danced like fugitives from a Dick Clark session, but the Christ legend was most tastefully presented. The special music, mostly by the kids, was melodic and had the sound of authentic country-gospel.

India's entry, "Gautama, the Buddha," was interesting as representative of the kind of program offered in the country's community viewing setup. Same could be said for Austria's Schiller play, "Maria Stuart," as taken directly off the stage for tv from the Vienna Burgtheatre, since this kind of direct translation of theatre to video is popular in that country and Germany.

Japan's "The Story of Two Deaf Children" and "The Heronry" were both winners of American Emmies. The former was excellent as straight documentary, and the latter was marked by its beautiful photography and fascinating relating of the life of the big birds and the Japanese peasants.

TV Followups

Continued from page 33

Williams' natural rendition and proved—as if it had to be done—his vocal artistry. Les.

Danny Kaye Show

What may eventually help Danny Kaye win over a larger slice of what Wednesday night audience is the fact that he can go farther with weak material than most comedy performers who are subject to the weekly tv trials. Let the gag lines run corny or stale, or the sketches anemic, and Kaye still has a potent arsenal in reserve with his talents for dialects, disguises, facial contortions, doubletalk, pantomime and charming sentimentality. His inventiveness seems to take the heat off the writers.

Last week's material ranged from just fair to just good, and yet overall the show was a sparkler. A trio of sketches spoofing domestic situation comedy here and in France and Japan (with Mary Tyler Moore lending a sterling assist) was far funnier for the physical performances than for the punchlines and satirical concept. A later sketch, having to do with love in a Roumanian gypsy camp, had little to offer in word comedy, but was right up Kaye's alley for the whole range of his patented antics. It came off splendidly, with good second-banana work by Harvey Korman and, again, a firstrate effort by Miss Moore.

The writers did provide some imaginative special material on AT&T's redesignation of cities by area code number, leading to a whimsical medley of tunes like "312, 312 That Toddlin' Town," "I Left My Heart In 415" and "As I Walked Out on the Street of 512." It was done with a light touch, and it clicked.

Miss Moore was the guestar par excellence. Known to video audiences chiefly as the wife in the adjacent "Dick Van Dyke Show," she unveiled a nifty figure in dance tights, hoofed well, sang creditably ("Hard Hearted Hannah"), was deft and self-assured as Kaye's comedic vis-a-vis with dialects and all, and played a capable straight man in Eddy Foy Jr.'s reminiscence of oldtime vaude. She's got talent to burn, konws how to use it and should have a great future. Les.

Wolper's IA Pact

Wolper Productions and the Motion Picture Film Editors, IATSE Local 776, have signed a new pact covering the company's editing staff of over 50 men. The pact provides for screen credits not only to editors, but to sound effect men, musicians and assistant editors

Wolper, who is slated to branch out from his documentary productions shortly, also signed the standard tv and film agreements for the production of entertainment pictures.

Line Up Top Names For Acad's Gleason Soiree

Arthur Godfrey, Art Carney, Alan King, Frank Fontaine, Allan Sherman, Alice Ghostley and the June Taylor Dancers are among the first to be announced by the New York Chapter of the National Academy of Arts and Sciences for the performing roster at its annual "Close-Up" dinner on Friday, Nov. 22.

Jackie Gleason will be the honored guest and festivities are scheduled for the Americana Hotel with music by Sammy Spear orchestra. Lester Gottlieb, GAC veep, will produce the show phase of the evening. The entertainment will further include a notable from the film industry, from the Broadway legit, and from the sports world.

Previous "Close-Up" soirees have honored Milton Berle, Godfrey, Ed Sullivan, Huntley & Brinkley and Goodson & Todman. Sonny Fox and Herb Sussman serve as co-chairman of the Academy functions.

Britain's 15 Indie TV Stations Unite to Sell Medium as Ad Force

London, Oct. 22.

The commercial tv stations in this country which have always sold air time for their own particular market and have fought among themselves for business, have now jointly formed the Independent Television Sales Promotion Committee. Object of the body, under the chairmanship of Patrick Henry, sales director of Associated TeleVision, is to push tv as a whole as an advertising medium which is in competition with other media such as newspapers and magazines.

Coming together of the 15 indie stations on this cooperative time-selling basis has already borne fruit in the shape of the six minute Vauxhall Motors commercial for Viva which was seen over the whole network on a Sunday afternoon.

The committee took ads in local fiscal and trade press to stimulate interest in the lengthy commercial and, more important, to get the motor trade to eye tv as a countrywide medium suitable to assist in the launch of a major product.

Yank Shows Reaping a Harvest From Small Com'l Brit. Stations

London, Oct. 22.

The little local commercial tv station in this country is proving of more and more importance to the American telefilm distributor who wants an "in" in the tight British market. While the major stations come up with the biggest coin for American series—normally, anything between $5,000 and $7,000 an hour—the smaller stations around the country don't pay the money but provide an effective "shop window" for American product.

"Showplace" role of the local operators was highlighted a couple of years back when Television Wales & West (TWW) picked up the whole U.K. rights of "89th Precinct," an unprecedented step because up until that time, the local web could perhaps be persuaded to acquire a foreign show for his area only as this involved relatively (and actually) little expenditure, but no more.

But TWW's pick up of "Precinct" from NBC International proved a major triumph for the station because following boffo ratings in its own area, the Welsh indie peddled the show to other regions which in turn garnered top ratings and, eventually, the majors took the show.

Now, not only TWW is in the market in a big way and on the lookout for U.S. shows to preem, but other six operators like Anglia-TV have taken the cue. Latter station, for example, has been compiling a long list of American tv films which it has aired, or is set to air, for the first time.

Besides its latest purchase of the new "Ben Casey" run from ABC International, the station gave debut showings to "Fair Exchange," "Desilu Playhouse," and "Jazz Scene—USA" from Desilu, "Follow The Sun" from 20th-Fox, "Room For One More" from Warners, "Donna Reed Show" from Screen Gems, "The New Breed" from ABC International, "Michael Shayne," "The Blue And The Grey" "Not For Hire," "Henessey," "King Leonardo," "Silent Service" and "Blue Angels" from NBC International, "Checkmate," "Bachelor Father" and "Cimarron City" from MCA-TV and "Twilight Zone" from CBS.

Anglia-TV also bought other series independently of the rest of the network, but which did not actually make their U.K. debut from the Norfolk transmitters. Shows such as "Beverly Hillbillies," "Our Man Higgins," "Mister Ed," "Holiday Lodge," "Conquest," "Flight," "Life of Riley," etc.

Following Anglia-TV's lead in screening the shows first, other stations and majors have picked up Yank product which bowed on the East Anglican outlet.

For instance, Granada-TV has decided to buy Desilu's "Fair Exchange" skein. NBC's "Michael Shayne" has gone to Associated-Rediffusion. "Checkmate" has been picked up by Associated Television and "Cimarron City" has been seen in the major areas, too.

As one American film salesman put it: "Getting a big station to buy a show by selling to the small companies first may be round the back door but, with luck, the payoff is just the same. If the ratings (in the regions) are right, then you have them going for you, too, when you come to batter on the majors' door."

French TV

Continued from page 43

the current plans or affect important programming and dates.

What it does mean is a tighter control of spending to try to balance things with the new budget. So it may not affect building of the emitters that will start the Paris-Lillie-Lyon-Marseille area, to be covered by the new channel in April '64, but could conceivably slow up the covering of the rest of France.

Also there will be more streamlining of present tv programming with the growing use of stylized sets to fit various shows, and there may be budget cuts down the line if no forseen actual program deletions. Some high budget shows may be put off a few weeks but not annulled. So that the second web still has its problems on the eve of its beginning. Early experimental beamings will still be held next December and in January '64.

Toronto — James Johnston has been appointed associate producer of "People in Conflict," via Ray Junkin, g.m., Screen Gems (Canada) Ltd., with hq here. Series (30-mins.) goes five times weekly to CTV indie network across Canada.

PL-1-3880*

HEATHER HEWITT

is my name. You already have my number. For a "live" look at me turn to NBC-TV at 1:30 PM this Sunday, October 27.

I'll be playing the part of Briar-Lee, an artist's model, in the third and final act of "The Friends of My Youth," a serio-comic play by Robert Crean for the Catholic Hour.

*If a man answers its my agent, Art Hanna, of the Charles B. Tranum Agency. He'll be able to tell you more about me, supply you with photos, resumes, etc.

Rockefeller Center Front

Henry W. Herrman has private office and vestibule sublet available November 1

Phone: CI 6-6992

24 Hour Service

You will enjoy a unique fine performance by Barney Martin on

THE ALFRED HITCHCOCK HOUR

CBS-TV, Friday, 10 P.M., OCT. 25th

Personal Management: SIMON MASLOW ASSOCIATES

Bob Sarnoff in Japan

Continued from page 27

enough, we would probably put it on anyway." Still to be decided, Sarnoff said, is whether any of the Olympic casting will be in color. NHK, Japan's government web, is equipped for tint lensing.

There is only an "outside chance" of telecasting live by satellite, Sarnoff explanied. "And then that would only be a brief part of it," he added. "We'd love to do it. It depends on having a satellite up at the right place at the right time."

He didn't think live telecasting was vital, however, since because of the International Date Line, viewers in the U.S. will be able to see the Games the same day and date they are held in Japan.

Although the figure of $1,200,000 was mentioned in the Japanese press as the price NBC paid for Olympic rights, Sarnoff declined comment on the amount, except to say it was "a very substantial sum." He pointed out that the fee is not only for telecasting rights, but also for the use of NHK facilities, assistance and the housing of the NBC unit that will be on hand for the Games. "They'll create a location for us within their own operation," he said.

On Feevee

Asked if pay tv was inevitable, Sarnoff replied negatively. He said, "I think you may have pay tv in certain individual areas and a certain amount of theatre tv. But I think that pay tv's big problem, which they are beginning to find out, is the programming. There isn't very much pay tv can offer that is not frankly being offered on free tv.

"It's interesting to note that the pay tv boys on the West Coast are planning to show the Dodger and Giant baseball games," Sarnoff continued. "That's not something unique, except that at the same time the games will be blacked out to others. The question is whether people will pay to see what they are now getting by just paying their electric bills and plugging in their sets.

"One of the big questions pay tv must consider is what to do with the news. My guess would be very little," Sarnoff asserted. "To do news programs requires a worldwide organization. Why would anybody pay for news when you can get the best news in the world from network outlets and newspapers?

"Pay tv will have to offer something they are not now getting that the people want badly or something now on free tv and make it pay tv. But I think anybody willing to put money where his mouth is has the right to do it."

Reminded that the validity of program ratings were somewhat discredited in Washington hearings earlier this year, Sarnoff was asked if ratings are being followed as religiously as before.

"They never have been followed as religiously as indicaed," he replied. "The importance attached to ratings is, to a large part, attributable to trade-paper interest. Ratings are still being used and will always be a measure. The confidence in ratings in some quarters was shaken, but I think they're as useful and as valuable as they've ever been. And certain steps have been taken to assure proper samplings and proper machinery. I think, however, that it was useful to have put a microscope to them.

"Our position on ratings has been consistent over the years," he continued. "We're interested in what's behind them—not numbers for numbers' sake. I think that from ratings you can gauge the size of your audience and the competitive relationship of programs. You can tell pretty much what attractions a particular kind of audience is seeking. Ratings are useful to measure trends, just as political polls, which are samplings of the same kind. You've got to have some kind of yardstick. In addition, you've got to use the seat of your pants. If you've been in this business long enough, you acquire a feel for what audiences want and what they might want if they had the opportunity to get it."

Citing an example of the latter, Sarnoff said, "I don't think the great expansion of documentaries and news programming could have happened five years ago. But there is now more going on in the world that requires explanations and coverage. In addition, the public has grown more knowledgeable about what's going on. We complement the newspapers and the newsmagazines. I don't think the American public has ever been better informed."

GIVE YOUR DOLLARS A CHANCE TO GROW

Invest part of your income while your earning power is at its peak. Phone or Write today for full details.

J. BERMANT & CO.
122 East 42nd St.
New York, Room 2701
MU 7-2815

Name .....
Address .....
City..... Zone.. State.....

Mgt.: William Morris Agency

I Didn't Get My Job Through
The New York Times

ALICE MANOUGIAN MARTIN
Costumer
I Got My Job Through
TALENT ASSOCIATES - PARAMOUNT LTD.
"EAST SIDE/WEST SIDE" (10 SHOWS)
STUDIO: 1075 First Ave., New York 22, N. Y., Plaza 5-6388

Moses Nixes TV Debate Offer On Fair Issue

Efforts by broadcasters to drum up debates between public figures have been running into a stone wall in the last couple of weeks. Most recent turndown of an offer for free time for an airing of differences came last week from Robert Moses, World's Fair exec director who's been battling with N.Y. City officials over lower admission prices for children. WNEW-TV, N.Y., offered a half-hour for a potential slugging match between Moses and N.Y. City Mayor Robert F. Wagner but found no takers.

Last week, the tv networks proposed to stage a debate between Sen. Barry Goldwater and N.Y. Governor Nelson Rockefeller, but Goldwater said he wasn't interested.

FCC's 'Kilocycle Kops'

Washington, Oct. 22.

There may be trouble ahead for global broadcasting if reports from FCC's "kilocycle cops" are any indication.

Commission's technical monitors disclosed that station interference takes places in strange ways and places.

A Coast broadcast station, for example, was troubled by clatter of telegraph signs and voices from its station in Sydney, Australia. The kilocycle cops found the trouble in a Melbourne, Australia, station.

Interference to a Navy frequency was pinned to a station on the Brazilian Coast.

Bugs in another Navy outlet in Hawaii were traced to a French naval station in Algeria. Also in Hawaii, a commercial station was receiving interference from a like outlet in Colombia.

A radio press service in New York was hampered by an aeronautical station in Dakar. African interference also bugged a Coast Guard station in Virginia. This time the source of trouble was found in a Tunisian commercial station.

On other fronts the kilocycle cops reported a California woman was hearing on her tv calls of "Help—can you help me?" FCC traced the call to a 13-year-old calling on a radio transceiver to his grandfather in the next room, "Hello—Can You Help me?"

In Valparaiso, Ind., tv viewers were complaining of increased interference. Root of the problem was a nearby university's neutron generator. The generator company sent a technician to the school who put the gizmo in proper condition.

Storer's Eagles?

Continued from page 1

up. The NFL club was purchased 16 years ago by 100 Philadelphians who anted up $3,000 a share (one to each sportsman) to keep the Eagles here. Nine shares since have reverted to the club.

Another offer for the Eagles was made by Bob Hall, former athletic director at Yale, who said he had received a rejection. McNamee said that Hall asked to see the Eagles financial records in order to justify the asking price, and was refused.

Pete Rozelle, Commissioner of the NFL, said he is aware of the fact that Storer and others have been bidding for the Eagles. "But the club's management has not presented to my office any firm proposal that they would want approved in order to sell."

Storer's original bid to the Eagles was made last month. The local football club has been playing to capacity (60,000) at Franklin Field in virtually all of its home games for the last four seasons.

The Storer chain operates radio station WIBG in this city and formerly operated tv station WVUE, in Wilmington, but abandoned the license. That station was recently reactivated as WHYY-TV, the Philadelphia area's first educational tv outlet.

Austin—James M. Gaines, president and general manager of WOAI and WOAI-TV, has been named chairman of the advisory board for the state's new agency to administer Texas' initial venture into tax supported tourist advertising.

Foreign TV Reviews

Continued from page 35

taining entry, if a little way-out for the kids.

Situation was that Neddy Seagoon climbed Everest to win a wager. $30,000,000 was offered for the first man to sing a tune, accompanied by a grand piano, on the summit. When he got there, however, he couldn't remember a note. Another fellow sang "Rule Britannia" for him—and copped the reward.

Tony Young, of Grosvenor Films, produced for BBC-TV, and devised some comical wooden actors. With the added zest from the remembered voices, the quarter-hour purled along happily. Maybe addicts of the radio series found their speed inescapably slowed by the need to match actions to the hurtling speech. But the audience for "The Telegoons" won't be able to make the comparison, in most cases. Otta.

WISN-TV

Continued from page 31

the fact that the principal medium used, the Journal, is the paper that owns WTMJ. However, Milwaukee's a one - publisher town with the other metro sheet, the morning Sentinel, also owned by the Journal Co., so there was hardly an alternative. The Sentinel was not used in the WISN campaign.

The CBS handicap in Milwaukee traces to the network's onetime ownership of what was then the sole UHF channel in the market, WXIX. When CBS sold that station some five years ago, the affiliation went to the former VHF indie, WITI. Two years later, WISN-TV and WITI swapped affiliations, the latter getting ABC, and since then the Hearst station and CBS have made a steady ascent.

This is WISN-TV's third season with CBS, and general manager Bill Goodenow figures this to be the year of the laurel. He's placed a $120,000 advertising bet on it.

TV's Rendezvous

Continued from page 25

been talk that ABC may move "Ben Casey" up a half-hour on Wednesday to 8:30, thus giving it a jump on "Beverly Hillbillies," and shifting "Price Is Right" into 9:30. Also there's been some talk of taking "Arrest and Trial," which has been getting hurt by the Ed Sullivan, Judy Garland and "Bonanza" competition and shifting it to Friday night 8:30 to 10, thus releasing two strong Friday entries, "Burke's Law" and "Farmer's Daughter" to help bolster the ABC Sunday night schedule.

And over at NBC there's reportedly been talk of slotting Mitch Miller 9 to 10 on Wednesdays and shifting "Espionage" over to Monday nights 10 to 11, the current "Sing Along" slot. The decision whether to give "Harry's Girls" and "Redigo" and immediate heave will be spelled out. Redigo's; in fact, has already been doomed.

More, much more, will be jolted by the jet that gets into Idlewild Monday night.

BBC's UHF Gets Jan. Sneak Test

London, Oct. 22.

In one respect, BBC-TV will be starting its 625 line, UHF channel in London earlier than the previously laid down opening date of April 1964. Corporation is to stage some 10 hours a day of test transmission from next January during which it will alternate screening of test cards and feature films.

Step has been taken at request of radio-tv dealers who have told BBC it might be difficult to sell the new 625 lines receivers to customers if the only visual attraction is the standard test card.

Move means that viewers who pick up a higher definition set will be able to tune into such test transmission up to about 8 p.m.

Films to be used are described as "best available" in BBC's library of features.

BBC is also planning to transmit outside broadcast on the UHF channel during the test period. This will be part of the training course for commentators.

Columbus — Richard A. Borel, general manager of WBNS radio and WBNS-TV, was elected chairman of the Franklin County Chapter, American Red Cross, at the annual meeting. Borel succeeds Henry L. Wagner, who served for two years.

REAL ESTATE

OFFICE SPACE
54-55 STS.
850 7TH AVE.
New York
Modern office suites now available
2½ rms 530 sq ft $200 mo
3 rms 725 sq ft $225 mo
3½ rms 800 sq ft $250 mo
See Supt Seidel on premises
HERBERT W. TUTTLE CO., Inc.
157 W. 57 St., New York JU 6-8200

310 WEST 47th ST.
New York
2½ ROOM STUDIO APTS.
Spacious L-Shaped Liv Rms. Streamlined kitchens, beaut. bathrms. Extra large closets, air conditioned.
ALSQ MODEL APT AVAIL
AGENT ON PREM. LT 1-1115

UNUSUAL DUPLEX FOR SALE
MANHATTAN—Central Park West nr Lincoln Center and T.V. studios. Immense living room 48 ft. on Park x 24 ft. 3 picture windows, separate dining, large kitchen, maid's, two masters, library, 3 baths. Asking $50,000, maintenance $426. TR 4-2087 or BOX V-3526, VARIETY 154 W. 46th St., New York 10036

VACANT THEATRE FOR TV STUDIO
14,000 sq. ft. Stage-Balcony, 2,200 seats. Ave. B-corner East 5th St., N.Y.C. Price $150,000, cash $25,000, balance mortgage.
Call or Write Mr. E. Mickenberg, A. J. CLARKE, INC.
605 West 158 St. SW 5-7100

IN THE LAND OF PAUL BUNYAN...

. . . mighty KSTP-TV packs a real sales wallop.

The first and biggest station in the vital Northwest area, KSTP-TV serves and sells 810,800 families with a spendable income of more than FIVE BILLION DOLLARS.

Check your nearest Petry office for the details.

KSTP television 5
100,000 WATTS • NBC
MINNEAPOLIS • ST. PAUL

D. C. Tooters Accept $7.50 Wage Hike & End Strike vs. National Symphony

Washington, Oct. 22.

Reluctant musicians voted to end their strike against the National Symphony removing temporarily the grim prospect of Washington sans symphony. After first voting against a new wage plan, the American Federation of Musicians tooters turned around and agreed 52-17 to return to work.

The musicians accepted a contract with a $7.50 wage increase and a proviso that questions of wages and performing weeks be reopened next Spring.

The Symphony already had cancelled its pre-season concerts and there were widespread reports it would fold if an agreement with the musicians couldn't be reached before the formal season opened this week.

In typical bizarre Washington fashion, representatives from the White House, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges had all been trying to work out plans to get the symphony performing again.

But even this high level intervention seemed for naught as the musicians and the symphony association held fast to their conflicting demands.

Despite the labor-management haggle, both sides emphasized their grievances were really aimed at the tight-fisted public and D.C. government rather than at each other.

The musicians acknowledged that the symphony was in the red and in turn the association averred its agreement with the principle of higher musicans' wages.

After ratifying the pact, the musicians said they "do not recognize this contract as providing adequate symphonic employment with respect to annual income and conditions."

A statement added that the musicians' acceptance was made in "full appreciation of the public interest and in a sincere effort to save the National Symphony."

The strike caused cancellation of five pre-season concerts at a loss of $30,000. The 95 musicians originally sought a 37-week season guaranteeing $6,000. The Orchestra Assn. said it did not have the money for more that 34 weeks at $5,400.

Brit. Cleffers Win Royalty Dispute

London, Oct. 22.

The composer-pubber war over who-gets-what from film and telefilm scores has ended in victory for the cleffers. Proxy vote organized by the Performing Rights Society, whose rule 5(g) stipulates that unless a publisher effectively promotes a film score he is not entitled to share in the royalties, returned a whopping defeat for pubbers. Latter wanted to amend the rule in order to get a slice of the score royalty melon.

According to a top PRS source, the voting went about 2 to 1 against amendment of the rule which means a publisher will have actively to "work on" a film score, etc. to get the 33% share he was seeking in the Rule 5 (g) amendment.

PRS spokesman states that the 'true victor" in this dispute, while it seems to be the songwriters as of the moment, will not be truly determined for months. For it has been the publishers' declared intention to stop placing film, tv pic scores with British authors, but will favor composers, if they were defeated.

Col Taps Leslie Klemes As Record Club Veep

Leslie Klemes has been upped at Columbia Records to the post of veepee in charge of advertising for the Columbia Record Club. In his new post, he'll report to Albert Simonson, marketing veep for the Club.

Klemes joined the Columbia Record Club in May, 1958, as manager of promotion. He was promoted to ad director in April, 1960.

Vee Jay Names Bakke Midwest Sales Rep

Larry Bakke has been set at Vee Jay Records as midwest sales and promotion representative. Previously with the company in a sales capacity, he now takes over the entire midwest for not only sales but promotion.

Also set was "Boo" Frazier as national promotion man for the label. He was most recently associated with Everest. In another appointment at Vee Jay, Morris Mac Davis was named sales and promotion manager for the south.

Darin Exits Nitery Field to 'Widen His Music Biz Scope'

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

With $500,000 invested in T-M Music Inc., firm which he took over seven months ago from his former manager, Ed Burton, Bobby Darin said he will leave the nitery field entirely to "widen his scope" in the music biz.

Darin opens Oct. 24 at Flamingo, Las Vegas, in four-week stint, completing last of a three-year deal. Nitery will be last he will contract for throughout the duration, he said.

Since taking over T-M, company has grown to staff of 12, with headquarters in the east. Staff includes Burton, retained as v.p.-general manager, as well as five writers pacted exclusively and being developed into producers.

Writers are Rudy Clark, Debbie Stanley, Kenny Young, Artie Resnick and Frank Gari and, of course, Darin himself. Contract list of record performers include Wayne Newton, on Top 10 charts for TM with "Danke Schoen;" Merry Clayton, The City Surfers, Johnny Galahad and The Junior Five.

TM now has companies operating in Great Britain, Germany and Australia, with reps in every major city worldwide. Company has 700-song copyright list, although only 40 top titles. Firm will have 20 new records released within the next two months, all publishing rights owned by T-M but tunes out on various labels with various singers. Record list out to date numbers 15.

Publishers' list includes two Top 10 songs, "18 Yellow Roses" and "You're the Reason I'm Living," both written by Darin. T-M also owns publishing rights to "Multiplication'," which Darin wrote for the film, "Come September," and also title songs and "True, True Love" from "If A Man Answers," both Darin Universal starrers.

Singer-actor has completed his Universal film deal with "Captain Newman M.D.," about to be released, and has no further picture commitments.

JAZZ WEEK TO HYPO '64 BERLIN ARTS FAIR

Berlin, Oct. 22.

Next autumn at the 1964 (14th annual) Berlin Arts Fair (Festwochen) particular stress will be placed upon a Jazz Week. Climax is to be a Saturday night bash involving, Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Roland Kirk, Tuxedo Group of New Orleans and perhaps other talent.

Next night, Sunday, there is to be a Jazz Ball with several orchestras in continuous alternation.

Promoters Joachim Berendt and Schulte Bahrenberg also contemplate other stunts. Quincy Jones is mentioned to come here, also Mahalia Jackson and other American Negro songspielers.

Form Picturetone Pub

Picturetone Music Publishing Co. authorized to conduct a business in composing and recording songs and plays, with N.Y. City offices. Capital stock is 200 shares, no par value.

Szold, Brandwen, Meyers & Blumberg were filing attorneys at Albany.

Cane's Cont'l O.O.

Marwin Cane, vicepresident of Screen Gems-Columbia Music and Colgems Music, headed for Europe over the weekend to visit present publishing outlets for the two firms and establish new publishing arrangements in several other cities.

On his itinerary are Milan, Brussels, Berlin, Cologne, Paris and London.

Yorke Leaves RCA A&R V.P. Berth; See Sholes Back

Robert L. Yorke has exited his post as veepee of the commercial records creation department at RCA Victor. The job had him overseeing all of Victor's artists & repertoire activities since he took over in January, 1960.

Although no decision has yet been made on who'll fill the Yorke vacancy, there's been some talk in the trade that Steve Sholes will be recalled from the Coast to reassume the a&r leadership in the east. Sholes had been eastern a&r boss until he was transferred to the Coast in 1960.

Yorke now plans to relocate on the Coast and expects to announce a new affiliation in the near future. He had been in the Victor fold for 16 years, working up from field sales, planning and promotion through a&r. In addition to working on talent development, Yorke also helped build Victor's activities in the Broadway show and soundtrack areas.

Diversify for Better Biz, Rank's Shampan Warns British Music Publishers

London, Oct. 22.

Not counting the Chappells, the Francis, Day & Hunters, the Campbell-Connellys who, if they so chose, could sit back and watch the royalty coin roll in from vast catalogs built over the years, the British music publisher today has to extend his operations into fields other than publishing if he wants to stay alive.

One backer of this viewpoint is Harold Shampan, head of Filmusic, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Rank Organization. Shampan, who took over the reins of the company four years ago, believes that to be successful publishers now must "embrace many forms of show biz activity."

The days when a publisher could sit back and wait for songs to come in are over, he emphasizes Now, the "all embracing" pub has to go out and find talent (both writing and performing); he has to be able to work with artists; (recording, producing, etc.) should be capable of compiling package shows, of supplying units for ballrooms as well as for films, tv shows and theatres.

Filmusic itself, under Shampan's direction, has moved into the artists management field. Under contract is a thrush billed as Kim Roberts, and two groups, The Zephyrs and The Aces. Three more performers are under consideration for a management-only deal. According to Shampan, the aim is to get a nucleus of half dozen artists who can be placed anywhere from ballroom to film set.

One natural development of the publisher's extracurricular activities is, of course, disk production (current Filmusic wax, "The Little Lost Missile" with Little Johnnie Starr, is to be released by EMI Oct. 25). Further, with its relatively easy access to filmmaking via its parent company, Shampan's Filmusic has a large say in music used.

For instance, Shampan "virtually produced" the Acker Bilk starrer, "Band of Thieves," and is now ballying a new pic "Live It Up," in which he had a hand. Film stars such local hipsters as Heinz, Kenny Ball Jazzmen, Gene Vincent, Patsy Ann Noble.

"A lot of people don't agree with me," he points out, "but it's my opinion that publishers today have to go outside the limits of publishing—even music—to create their own opportunities."

Disk, Book Industries Made for Each Other? Execs Split on Joint Potential

By JOE X. PRICE

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Whether the printed word is a v'tal appendage to recorded sound, or whether book and disk merchant can live without each other very well, has emerged as a question of considerable trade import. For, to some bookshop owners, even the work "disk" is vulgar—and vice versa.

"I couldn't care less about 'em!" was Louis Epstein's reaction; he owns the Pickwick bookshop in Hollywood. "We've had a few—a couple of 'Alice in Wonderland' albums, but they don't move. I don't want to get into the record business. My business is books."

By the same token, Lloyd Dunn, Capitol Records veepee, recently waged a new sales campaign. He dubbed a new, low-priced line, "Paperback Records", which eliminated even the liner notes to help cut down overhead.

But that's the extreme, Dunn admitted. "Liner notes are still in damand, so we're putting them back on. But as far as books and records together, it's worth while only if they have a natural affiliation—and you don't find that very often because you're dealing with two different media."

Irving Mills Dissents

Taking the opposite view is Irving Mills, prexy of the American Academy of Music. He hired jazz critic Leonard Feather to write a 100-page, hard-cover book to coincide with three LP disks for a package called "The World of Traditional Jazz"—due out soon. It'll be a fancy-wrapped item that will sell in book shops, libraries and schools—not disk shops—for around $19.95.

"I'm aware that many books have been written on jazz," Mills stated. "But my thought this time was to get the sort of book that was neither hip nor text-style—primarily for kids in school bands."

So optimistic about package's potential, author Feather confided, "Next year we (he and Mills) plan to do a similar package, picking up where we left off (early orchestral period, circa 1930) and bringing it to the present." Feather, incidentally, produced five of the six disk sides for package.

Bob Connor, sales manager at Beverly Hills branch of Western Publishing Co., spoke negatively of the adult book market with regard to the firm being tailored to disks. "The only thing we do constantly for the record companies is the juvenile Record Reader for Disney. They're 45s, although a few companies are starting to come out now with regular LP's for kids. So far we've done very little publishing for the adult record market."

Disney Music's Beef

"We haven't had the greatest lick even in getting them into book stores," moaned Jimmy Johnson, exec v.p. of Walt Disney Music Co. He was referring to the $3.98 disk line who Dumbo, Pinnochio, Snow White and a score of other Disney characters which come with book in one bundle.

"In my experience with them" (book dealers), he said, "they've been extremely reluctant to take

(Continued on page 50)

Cumberland, a Smash Subsid, Bows in Nashville

Chicago ,Oct. 22.

A new low-priced country and western LP series is being introduced this week by Smash Records, Mercury's pop & teen division. The new subsidiary label, Cumberland Records, will headquarter in Nashville, with Mercury a & r veepee Shelby Singleton supervising all recordings. Suggested retail price for the new series is $1.98.

The first Cumberland release, consisting of eight albums including Bluegrass, Texas, gospel, banjo and steel guitar music, is being shipped to distributors.

Local 802 Sets Referendum On Dues Hike Repeal

Sparked by the rising storm of protest against the decision taken last month to hike the annual dues of Local 802, the Local's exec board has decided to conduct a referendum of the entire membership to repeal the action. It was voted at the Local's September by-law meeting to increase the membership dues to $80 a year and abolish the 1½% work "tax."

It was originally expected that the tootler group opposed to the hike would make an all-out effort to organize a quorum to revoke the ruling at the Local's next by-law membership meeting to be held in February. Now, however, the Local's exec board has voted unanimously to hold a mail referendum of the entire membership repeal of the by-law meeting action and to continue the old system of work "tax" and membership dues. The dues had been $24 annually.

The $80 fee includes a $6 per capita tax which was decided upon at the American Federation of Musicians meet in Miami last June. The per capita tax is now being challenged in the U.S. Courts.

The opponents of the 802 dues hike believe that it would be a hardship on members and cause a dropout among those who had little work. Those in favor of the hike claim that it eliminates an unfair burden on working musicians who have been "carrying" the other members benefiting from union privileges.

The mailing of the ballots to the membership will begin about Nov. 1. All ballots should be returned by Nov. 23 and the results will be announced soon after.

BRITISH DISK SALES HIT NEW AUG. HIGH

London, Oct. 22.

British diskeries' sales of $4,681,600 during last August was almost a third higher than in the same month a year before, the Board of Trade reports. Figure is highest achieved for six months.

Domestic sales increased by more than 40% to $4,155,200 but export revenue dipped by 16% to bring in $526,400 for the month.

Compared with a year earlier, wax production in August rose 5%; output of EP and LP disks increased 4% and 7% respectively. Total disks pressed were 6,580,000.

Challenge Ends 2-Year Distrib Tie With WB Label

Challenge Records has wound up its two-year tie with Warner Bros. Records as its distributing agent. Challenge will now resume direct relations with indie distributors throughout the country.

In line with this move, Joe Johnson, Challenge president, has appointed Mel Bly as exec veepee in charge of sales and promotion, and Rose Todd as production manager. With this expansion move, the diskery has relocated larger quarters in Hollywood.

1st 'Hoot' Show In London's West End

London, Oct. 22.

The London May Fair Hotel, in conjunction with Ember Records, has staged the first West End "Hootenanny" show in this town The venture was presented in an effort to anticipate, or stimulate, a trend towards the Yank-styled folksy music which appears to have hit the way out characters here, but not so much the general public.

On hand at the first "Hoot" were such show biz personalities as Wolf Mankowitz. In addition, Tom Sloan, BBC's light entertainment topper on the tv side, and assorted radio-tv producers all gathered to "hear what all the noise was about."

Performing were little knowns such as The Malcolm Price Trio, "Talking" John Barry, Liza Turner, Chad Stuart and Jeremy Clyde. There was a special appearance of Bill Clifton, who was billed as America's "Blue Grass" king.

Willson's 'Here's Love,' Monte's 'Fun,' Garner's 'New Kind,' London's 'World,' 'Hot Rod Rally' Top Current LPs

"HERE'S LOVE" (Columbia). The original Broadway cast album of Meredith Willson's "Here's Love" may not be a showtime collector's delight but there is enough joy in it to appeal to the youngsters, for whom this show is obviously made, and build it into a solid seller for family pleasure. It should do especially well when the Christmas selling spree starts. Willson's score, for the most part, is lighthearted and carefree with a couple of standout sides to make the package worthwhile. Among them are the opening march, "The Big Clown Balloons." "That Man Over There," the trademarked Willson patter number, "She Hadda Go Back," "My Wish" and the title song. The vocalists aren't standout but the principals led by Janis Paige, Craig Stevens and Paul Reed do a commendable job. The packaging, a two-fold job with a color photo layout of the production inserted, is first rate and will enhance the overall selling values.

LOU MONTE: "MORE ITALIAN FUN SONGS" (Reprise). Keeping the "Pepino the Italian Mouse" bit going for another album, Lou Monte has another entertaining Italo-American session going for him. Pepino is here in various cuts, along with an Italo pussy cat named Pasqual and a parrot Paulucci, These fun characters are implemented by several straight Italo-American ditties. Overall, it adds up to another item with lotsa potential, others by Monte in this groove having perked well in the past. The LP has the qualities of a sing along session and Alvin & the Chipmunks, a pretty solid disk parlay.

ERROLL GARNER & ORCH: "A NEW KIND OF LOVE" (Mercury). This is Erroll Garner's initial attempt as a motion picture score composer and it's a knockout. His title theme has the clicko melodic qualities of his "Misty" click, his "Paris Mist" makes the most of the bossa nova beat, his "The Tease" has an insinuating rhythmic pattern as do his "Fashion Interlude" and "Steve's Song." It's a well-rounded composing effort that should alert the pic producers his way. Interspersed with the Garner compositions are such familiars as "You Brought A New Kind Of Love To Me," "Louise" and "Mimi." All are played in fine fashion with Garner at the keyboard and a full-blown orch, under the direction of Leith Stevens, in support. There are plenty of spinning opportunities for the jockeys throughout the package and once the Paramount pic goes out on release, the set should ride high as a retail item, too.

"THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF JULIE LONDON" (Liberty). Another in Liberty's "Wonderful World Of . . . " series, this outing gives the spotlight to Julie London and it is one of the chirper's best disks.Producer Snuff Garrett has wisely chosen to open the range of her performance for the LP, hence the misty ballads are in the minimum. There is some nice echo work, and the backup tempo has some guts. Miss London sings with contained emotion and smooth style. A fine album, it deserves lotsa attention from both customers and programmers.

"HOT ROD RALLY" (Capitol). Rock 'n' roll continues to turn up in various guises. After its recent surfing workout, the big beat is now rolling with a wide-open throttle in this "hot-rod music." This is rock on wheels with driving, rhythmic, dynamic slices by various combos and soloists, including The Super Stocks, Hot Rod Rog and Shutdown Douglas. The music includes some sputtering exhaust noises in titles like "Little Nifty Fifty," "Repossession Blues," "Twin Cut Outs" and "'54 Corvette."

"THE MAGNIFICENT PIANOS OF RONNIE ALDRICH" (London). Another in London's Phase 4 stereo series, this is big musical package of standards done with hefty orchestrations and delivered by the pianos of Ronnie Aldrich and the strings of the Festival Orchestra. A full music session, it will provide nice background sounds for a variety of things which go well with a lush atmosphere. The strings and pianos are blended for top instrumental styling while the Phase 4 stereo process gives their music a full head of steam. The result is an opulent instrumental outing with good music, played and captured in effective style.

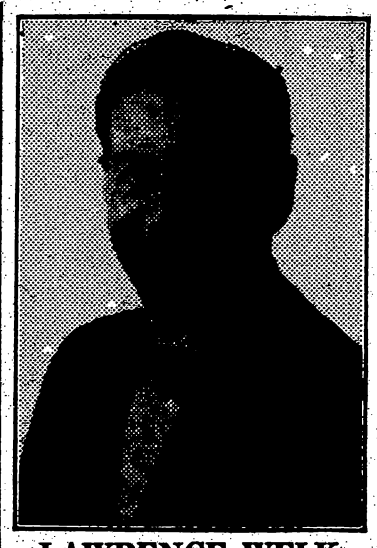
BERT KAEMPFERT: "CHRISTMAS WONDERLAND" (Decca). Keeping his string of topflight instrumental packages very much alive, German orch leader Bert Kaempfert has prepared a session pegged to the Christmas holiday season. As usual on Kaempfert dates, the orchestrations are slick and sure to give the LP's familiar seasonal tunes a new lift. Several originals and collaborations by the leader are also included. The combination is a fine musical item in the Christmas groove.

DAMITA JO: "THIS ONE'S FOR ME" (Mercury). This is a fine item from singer Damita Jo. One side is in a soulful and hipster styled ballad groove. The flip is loaded with more swinging material. Billy Byers and Quincy Jones orchestrated and conducted the outing and their touches are first rate. Singer does some solid emoting on the ballad items and lets loose with some groovy swinging on the livelier tempoed selections. She handles both speeds with equal facility. The placing of each tempo on opposite sides will give listeners a chance to pick the Damita Jo mood they want. Which ever they choose, it will please them.

THE WEAVERS: "REUNION AT CARNEGIE HALL — 1963" (Vanguard). The get-together of Weavers, past and present, for this group's 15th anni concert at Carnegie Hall, N.Y., last May has been fashioned into a stirring folksinging package. This set includes 14 numbers, most of them familiar items such as "When The Saints Go Marching In," "Wimoweh," If I Had A Hammer" and "Goodnight Irene." On several songs, the seven-man group joins in rousing productions, standout being "Woke Up This Morning."

"LORD OF THE FLIES" (Ava). The quasi-religioso theme from the film, "Lord of the Flies," has provided a solid pop for this rundown of film themes. On one side, the "Flies" theme is taken directly from the soundtrack, featuring the group of young actors. On the other side, the Elliot Lawrence orch dishes up a similarly styled version but with somewhat more dramatic polish. Also included are themes from "Cleopatra," "Irma La Douce," "Two Weeks In Another Town," "The Rat Race," "David and Lisa" and others.

BASIL RATHBONE: "SELECTIONS FROM THE JUNGLE BOOKS OF RUDYARD KIPLING" (Decca). This is a fine use of a



LAWRENCE WELK
Has Another Hit Dot Record!
"BLUE VELVET," B/W "FIESTA"

disk to present literature. Read and enacted by Basil Rathbone, with musical accompaniment by Tony Mottola, the LP displays stories from the Jungle Books of Rudyard Kipling. Rathbone does a fine job of narrating the fabled Kipling tales, reading with style and dramatic finesse. Mottola has penned some good musical accompaniment; the result is an excellent package. Skillfully adapted for wax by Prof. Leroy H. Buckingham of New York U., it will make a fine addition to the educational library of both school and home.

LESLIE UGGAMS: "SO IN LOVE" (Columbia). A veteran of Mitch Miller's tv "Sing Along Gang," Leslie Uggams is a vocalist with fine pipe control and smooth style. In this session, arranged and conducted by Glenn Osser, she sticks to a ballad groove and songs in a romantic mood. Her smooth stylings and Osser's stringy arrangements provide a nice musical session. Miss Uggams, a savvy pop chirper, displays this knowhow on such tunes as "Glad To Be Happy," "Tenderly," "Once Upon a Time," "Love Walked In" and others. It's a solid bit of wax for the younger singer.

LOREZ ALEXANDRIA: "FOR SWINGERS ONLY" (Argo). Records has been coming on strong lately, displaying some swinging jazz artists. This session by femme singer Lorez Alexandria continues in the groove. Backed by a solid group of hipsters, she delivers a set of tunes in all tempos with good phrasing ability and slick jazz qualities. Her inflections aren't overdone and she displays an uncomplicated, highly musical style. Her backup combo gets lotsa time to itself, and this adds dimension to this swinging LP. Her ballad work has a brisk quality and her uptempo material is solid. Withal, a fine jazz session.

USAF BAND'S NEW BATONER

Washington, Oct. 22.

Air Force Capt. Harry Meuser was named conductor of the U.S. Air Force Band & Symphony Orchestra. He succeeds Col. George S. Howard.

Longplay Shorts

Dr. Linus Pauling's recent Nobel Prize win has sparked a new push on his Verve LP "On Fallout And Nuclear Warfare" . . . Colpix Records starts its promotion campaign on the soundtrack package of "The Victors" within the next three weeks . . . Vee Jay Records has 16 albums set for release on Oct. 25 . . . Decca Records introduced its November album product last week at special regional meetings in New York and Chicago . . . Trini Lopez, currently clicking with the Reprise LP, "Trini Lopez at P. J.'s," has had his present European tour extended 13 days . . . London Records' "Christmas 1963" program will be highlighted by two new LPs, "Christmas Greetings From Mantovani" and "The Glory Of Christmas" with the Eric Rogers Chorale and Orchestra. There are 21 additional previously released Xmas albums also included in the program.

Cliff Richard, Epic disker from England, was feted with a cocktallery last Wednesday (16) at The Strollers in New York. Among guests at the party were L. G. Wood, general manager of EMI (Electric & Musical Industries), for whom the singer records in England . . . The Page 7, who debuted on Victor last week with "An Explosion In Pop Music," set for a two-weeker at San Francisco's Off-Broadway starting Oct. 29 . . . Leon Bibb starts a special midwest concert tour Oct. 26 at the U. of Illinois . . . Teri Thornton, who makes her Columbia LP debut this month, will do a special two-day engagement at the San Su San (Long Island) Nov. 22-23.

Regina prexy Jack La Forge to Hollywood this week to film two tunes for Cinebox . . . Columbia's thrush Anita Bryant, currently out with a new "Country's Best" LP, joins Bob Hope for his Christmas trek again, her fourth straight year . . . Roulette Records opens its fall program with 11 new albums and a 15% discount plan . . . Aaron Rosand, American-born violinist, and pianist Eileen Flissler, have been engaged for a West Europe tour including concerts and recitals in Amsterdam, West Berlin, Paris, Antwerp and Geneva for the rest of October and November.

Top Singles Of The Week

(The 'Best Bets' of This Week's 100-Plus Releases)

GARNET MIMMS . . . . . BABY DON'T YOU WEEP
(United Artists) . . . . . For Your Precious Love
Garnet Mimms & The Enchanters' "Baby Don't You Weep" (Rittenhouse-Mellin†) follows the raucous roll of his previous "Cry Baby" click and it's a natural for a similar takeoff on all levels. "For Your Precious Love" (Gladstone) hits a hard ballad beat with a vocal punch that may carry some jocks to its side.*

* * *

WAYNE NEWTON . . . . . SHIRL GIRL
(Capitol) . . . . . Someone's Ahead Of You
Wayne Newton's "Shirl Girl" (T.M. Music†) shapes as another ballad click for the teen trade who'll jump to it because of the singer's previous "Danke Schoen" click. "Someone's Ahead Of You" (T.M. Music†) has a brisker ballad feel and it, too, can pull payoff play. It's almost a tossup as to which side will get the spinning preference.

* * *

JOHNNY TILLOTSON . . . . . TALK BACK TREMBLING LIPS
(MGM) . . . . . Another You
Johnny Tillotson's "Talk Back Trembling Lips" (Acuff-Rose†) smacks out a bouncy beat in a ballad setup that the young folks will cling to for a long spinning life. "Another You" (Ridge†) is a wistful ballad with the kind of meaningful delivery that the Coke crowd usually takes to heart.

* * *

THE BEACH BOYS . . . . . BE TRUE TO YOUR SCHOOL
(Capitol) . . . . . In My Room
The Beach Boys' "Be True To Your School" (Sea of Tunes†) has lots of zip and a rousing message for the schoolagers who'll cheer it to the top as will the deejays with youthful inclinations. "In My Room" (Sea Of Tunes†) is a moody and slow ballad affair that comes across mainly because of the interesting harmonizing techniqupes.

* * *

TERI THORNTON . . . . . OPEN HIGHWAY
(Columbia) . . . . . Everytime I Think About You
Teri Thornton's "Open Highway" (Screen Gems-Columbia Music†) follows the moody blues pattern that made her "Somewhere In The Night" such a click item. The tune is from the "Route 66" tv show. "Everytime I Think About You" (Leeds) has a sharp rhythm & blues beat that the jazz jocks will go for but it's also one that the pop shouldn't overlook.*

* * *

NEIL SEDAKA . . . . . BAD GIRL
(RCA Victor) . . . . . Wait 'Til You See My Baby
Neil Sedaka's "Bad Girl" (Screen Gems-Columbia Music†) pounds across a good beat for the young swingers and it has a lyric angle that they can appreciate, too, which gives it payoff potential. "Wait 'Til You See My Baby" (Screen Gems-Columbia Music†) has a slow and persuasive style that some spinners can to take to for a turntable run.

* * *

MIKE MINOR . . . . . RUMBLE IN THE NIGHT
(Dot) . . . . . Once In a While
Mike Minor's "Rumble In The Night" (Gil†) stirs up a lot of musical excitement with a driving beat in a folk-styled setting has catch-on potential. "Once In A While" (Miller) is a straight and catchy version of a substantial oldie that rates a new spinning run.*

* * *

GENE McDANIELS . . . . . ANYONE ELSE
(Liberty) . . . . . The Old Country
Gene McDaniels' "Anyone Else" (Screen Gems-Columbia Music†) will brighten up the spinning circuit because of the lively rhythmic styling in all departments making it a solid jock and juke bet. "The Old Country" (Upam†) is a moody piece with some okay blues-shouting touches but it has limited commercial values.

* * *

MARSHA CARROLL . . . . . UNTIL NEXT SUMMER
(Roulette) . . . . . Lovey Dovey Love
Marsha Carroll's "Until Next Summer" (Georgal-Naverre-Patricua†) will come up for lots of spinning time because of the seasonal message for the juves and the ingratiating delivery that will win over the boys and girls alike. "Lovey Dovey Love" (Georgal-Nom†) is a cute little entry with a breezy beat and a delivery to pull some coin into the jukes.

* * *

DONNA LEWIS . . . . . CALL HIM BACK
(Decca) . . . . . Surfer Boy Blue
Donna Lewis' "Call Him Back" (South Mountain†) is pegged on the teeners hooked on the phone fad and its bouncy quality assures it of a big pickup. "Surfer Boy Blue" Zeller & Zizanee) winds up the summer's surf music binge with a ballad that features a sticky sentiment in song and recitation.*

* * *

BEN E. KING . . . . . I COULD HAVE DANCED ALL NIGHT
(Atco) . . . . . Gypsy
Ben E. King's "I Could Have Danced All Night" (Chappell) brings new spinning weight to the popular tune out of "My Fair Lady." The vocal drive is set in a bright production backing all spinners can go for. "Gypsy" (Trio-Cotillion-Mellin†) is a potent piece of material with some tricky vocal touches that make it an interesting spinning side.*

* * *

FRANKIE CALEN . . . . . WHERE MAKE BELIEVE ENDS
(Epic) . . . That's What Girls Are Wearing This Year
Frankie Calen's "Here's Where Make Believe Ends" (Regent†) serves as a toyflight introductory item and its rhythmic ballad flair should bring lots of young fans to this young singer's side. "That's What The Girls Are Wearing This Year" (Screen Gems-Columbia Music†) puts on a happy rhythmic style that's pegged for a good juke pull.

* * *

BIG DEE IRWIN . . . . . YOU'RE MY INSPIRATION
(Dimension) . . . . . Skeeter
Big Dee Irwin's "You're My Inspiration" (Screen Gems-Columbia†) will inspire the teen crowd because of the insinuating vocal drive on a potent ballad affair which shapes as a longrunner in the jock and juke fields. "Skeeter" (Screen Gems-Columbia Music†) is one of those sad song sagas about a pet dog that comes over with a saccharine sentiment that may be a bit too sticky even for the kennel crowd. Gros.

*ASCAP. †BMI.

Big Beat Slipping in Britain? See New Trend in American-Style Folk Music

London, Oct. 22.

In keeping with the new "fly-by-night trend of the British music industry, dictated by the kids who buy the disks, the business is already looking for a vogue in pop music that will replace the excitement boys, the beat merchants and kindred performers who are current faves all the way from Liverpool to London.

Probably the foremost contender for the top sales and big money chartopping championship is American-style folk music. This does not mean, however, that Pete Seeger, is set to become the Elvis Presley of the British market. Rather, it indicates that, inspired by Seeger, or someone else, some local warbler will wax a cover version and/or originals to cue in a British interpretation of what cooks in the U. S.

So far, domestic folk singers have been left open-mouthed at the appearance of Peter, Paul & Mary who clicked on an Associated Television "Palladium" show. Nevertheless there is a movement towards the emergence of British folksinging talent.

Decca has released one album and a couple of LPs in anticipation of the swing to folktune. Called "Hootenanny," the LP features such folksy artists as Alex Campbell, Redd Sullivan, Martin Carthy, Lou Killen, Bob Davenport and Nigel Denver which uses up a good percentage of the top potential folksinging talent hereabouts.

Given as much impetus as possible by publishers like David Platz of Essex Music who is involved with folk music in a sizeable way, the word about the upcoming music is spreading into radio and tv circles.

In addition to sound broadcasts, such artists as Robin Hall and Jimmy McGregor, Rory and Alex McEwan have spread into television. ABC-TV has brought in a late night, focus-on-folk show called "Hullabaloo." BBC-TV, too, has a regular spot for the folk boys in its "Tonight" show. Granada-TV is not against exposing them in its "Scene at 6:30."

But while the British Folk Dance Society had record of only half a dozen folk groups a couple of years ago and now estimates the total has grown to 200-plus, the significant breakthrough for the music is still to come.

The diskeries are a little cautious. Understandably, with a lucrative rage on for beat and bash music, they are wary of the genteel folksy cult which, in this country, has produced only one hit, "Tom Dooley" by the Kingston Trio.

Chi Symphony Would Tune Out $3,000,000 Grant Park Music Bowl

Chicago, Oct. 22.

The $3,000,000 music bowl planned for Chi's lakefront Grant Park has run to new difficulties resulting from a 50-year-old ruling that says any major changes in the park must be okayed by property owners who border it.

One of the owners happens to be the Orchestral Assn., the sponsoring organization for the Chicago Symphony, and it has been noticeably reticent about giving approval for a fancy (and free) competitor across the street.

(To keep the record straight, there are four other objecting property owners on north Michigan Ave.—the University Club, the Railway Exchange Building, the Lightner Foundations, and the Fine Arts Building.)

The park currently has a bandshell with a limited number of folding chairs and lots of grass to sit on. It's a popular family spot and attendance is good, usually running inversely to the seriousness of the music presented.

The proposed music bowl has already been cut from a 20,000 capacity to 10,700 as the result of complaints by several civic groups that the larger size is unnecessary and would mar the park greensward.

Chi city lawyers are currently picking their way through a maze of past decisions to find a way around the neighboring property approval ruling of 1910.

Cap Ups Thrasher

Ed Thrasher has been appointed art director for Capitol Records. He replaces Jim Silke who resigned to devote full time to Cinema mag, which he started about two years ago a a private endeavor.

Thrasher joined Cap in February, 1957, as an artist. He has been assistant art director for the past three years.

Frank B. Walker; Disk Biz Pioneer, Dies in L.I. at 73

Frank B. Walker, record industry pioneer, died after a heart attack Oct. 15 at his home in Little Neck, L. I. He was 73.

After a long career in the record business, Walker organized the MGM record division in 1945 and until his semi-retirement in 1958, when he became consultant of MGM Inc., was general manager of MGM Records and a veepee of the corporation. He had also been a v.p. of Loew's Inc.

Before the MGM move, Walker had been a veep of RCA and general manager of RCA Victor and also served as v.p. of Columbia Phonograph Records. He is said to be the originator of the low-price disk idea during the depression, and he introduced Columbia's Okeh line and the Bluebird line at Victor.

He was a pioneer of country & western music in the disk biz when it was known as music of the hills and plains. He also helped introduce the rhythm & blues recordings to the industry. Walker was said to be the first to use Nashville as recording center, and what is now known as "the Nashville sound" is attributed to his early work in country & western music.

During the early days of his career, he would travel throughout the backwoods of the south scouting new talent, new voices and new sounds. On such trips he would often have an engineer accompany him with portable equipment to audition new talent and make recordings on the roadside, front porches or at local radio stations.

Among artists he recorded in the pop field were Gene Autry, Al Jolson, Paul Whiteman, Pucket Riley, Clayton McMitchum, Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Roy Acuff, Eddie Cantor, Fran Warren, Ruth Etting and Eddy Arnold. He was credited with discovering Glenn Miller, Joni James, Connie Francis, Hank Williams, and Marvin Rainwater. He had managed Bessie Smith, and was influential in the careers of Dinah Shore, Artie Shaw, Frank Sinatra, Perry Como and Billy Eckstine. In the classical field, he worked on recordings for Toscanini and Lawrence Tibbett.

He is also said to have been the originator of the soundtrack album. An organizer of the Record Industry Assn. of America, he had served as its president, treasurer and honorary chairman. He frequently represented the record industry in negotiations with unions.

In the early 1920s, he was also a concert booker in Detroit, booking such singers as Caruso.

Surviving are his widow, a son, two daughters and a brother.

'Pocahontas' Rights Go To One Four Two Music

London, Oct. 22.

Publishing rights to the musical, "Princess Pocahontas," due in the West End next month and on Broadway in 1964, have accrued to One Four Two Music. The 15-song score of "Princess" has been arranged by Ken Thorne and Peter Knight. Musical director is Phil Martell.

According to Fred Jackson, managing director of the publishing house, five of the show's numbers will be covered by the main British diskeries although Decca has acquired the album rights for the show.

Artist-Disk Deals

Time: Carmen McRae

Time Records has brought Carmen McRae into its fold under a new policy of roster expansion. Miss McRae will debut on Time with an album recorded at San Francisco's Sugar Hill nitery. The LP is scheduled for release in the latter part of October. Miss McRae previously recorded under the Decca and Columbia banners.

Mercury: Jackie Mabley

Mercury Records has signed Jackie "Moms" Mabley to a long-term recording contract. Her first Merc album will be recorded on stage at a nightclub or theatre to be chosen. She was formerly on the Chess label.

Cheer: Cathy Carroll

Don Ames, president of Blast Records, has brought singer Cathy Carroll into Cheer subsid. Miss Carroll was formerly with the Philips label. On Oct. 25, the singer will hit the road for a two-and-a-half week promotion tour for her slicing of "Every Leaf That Falls."

Aldo Parisot (& Barrett) Puts Showmanship Into 'Cello Thru Centuries'

By LEONARD L. LEVINSON

More often than not, showmanship is considered a dirty word in the concert field. This is unfortunate, for there should be more programs like the Herbert Barrett—managed three-concert set titled "Cello Through the Centuries," which began at Town Hall with "The Baroque Sonata," on Oct. 8. This will be followed by "The Classic Concerto" on Dec. 11 and "The Cello as Romantic, Impressionist, Contemporary" on Jan. 29. Naturally six or seven hours of concertizing can only skim the surface of cello literature, but the selections and playing of the Brazilian master of the violincello, Aldo Parisot, promises a gratifying primary course, mixed with enjoyment, which in the first concert, was sharpened by the N.Y. debut of two Carlo Grariani sonati dug out of a Milan music collection recently by the soloist.

The first of these, in D Major, seemed the more ear-rewarding and displayed Senhor Parisot's digital dexterity as well as the 18th century composer's felicious writing. The cellist was accompanied by Fernando Valenti, an accomplished and inobtrusive harpsichordist and Robert Gardner, continuo. Latter is the baroque word for instruments executing the bass line and filling in with strings or keyboard instrument, but in this instance it refers to the second cello part. Gardner filled in ably.

It may seem wonderful that 1200 to 1300 people would turn out for a cello-thru-the-centuries concert, but they came and this may be another sturdy step forward toward realizing New York's claim that it is a metropolis. Subscription sale for the series has been strong. While the program indicated an unusual display of showmanship, the stage presentation was a faltering step backward. Lighting was the bugaboo. It was weak, dim, and further handicapped by a very un-baroque brown baize background into which the players seemed to fade.

'Hoot's' New Showcase

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

Hootenanny has even spread to the shopping centres here. Last week one had two Hootenanny Nights free to the public which was invited to come and sing along with the 11 Flint Hill Singers, the Four Goldbriars, who are under contract to Columbia, and two other vocal groups—the U. of Minnesota Pedlers and St. Paul Macalester College Bob Stinson Singers.

It all, of course, involved a considerable expenditure for the shopping centre, but with these springing up right and left competition locally is growing keener among them. The result is that one tries to outdo the other in providing free entertainment in order to attract potential shoppers.

Yank Disker Larry Finnegan Spins Off a Swedish Do-It-Yourself Deal

Larry Finnegan, U.S. disker, has set a deal with Sonet Grammofon for release of an album and an EP in the Scandinavian countries. He also assigned publishing rights to 13 tunes for the Scandinavian countries only to Sonet Music, and arranged recording sessions with two top Swedish artists.

It is believed to be the first time that a U.S. disk artist has personally negotiated the release of his own records in another country. The deal, which includes substantial advances, is also unusual that it represents a bid by Finnegan to revitalize his recording career in the U.S. by launching a new recording in Sweden rather than here.

The 21-year old singer-composer had a U.S. click in "Dear One" a little over a year ago. However, all of his disks ("Dear One," "Oh Lonesome Me" and "Pretty Suzy Sunshine") have been top 10-sellers in the Scandinavian countries. "Dear One" was a 100,000-seller in Sweden, where the average hit disk sells around 50,000 and a record breaks even at 5,000 copies.

Produced Own Album

Consequently when Sonet Konsertbureau booked him for a three-week tour of Sweden last month, Finnegan, who is currently not pacted to any label, produced his own album and took it along with him. Sonet released four sides from the LP (including "Dear One, Part 2") while he was still on tour in order to tie in with his tour.

The artist assigned only the Scandinavian rights (Denmark, Sweden, Norway and Finland) to the sides and tunes, so that if the disk becomes a hit in those countries he will be able to negotiate its release in the U.S.

On the road for three weeks, Finnegan played two shows a night in 18 Swedish cities, mostly in Folk Parks. Although the half-hour bill featured only Finnegan (backed by four local musicians), the shows drew more than 100,000 people. Admissions ranged from $1 to $2.50. During the tour Finnegan plugged his new EP on Sweden's only radio and tv network, with Stockholm's top deejay, Klas Burling as host.

Even an A&R Man

At the conclusion of the tour, Finnegan arranged, conducted and handled artists & repertoire chores on an EP date with a Swedish teenager, Suzy. He also arranged two tunes for Jerry Williams, Sweden's top rock 'n' roll singer.

Finnegan wrote and published all six tunes cut by Suzy and Williams. Both artists record in English, since Sweden is one of Europe's strong bi-lingual countries. Suzy sliced "Johnny Loves Me," "Coolie," "When My Love

(Continued on page 50)

Gayle Revives Advance

Tim Gayle, veteran music public relations man and songwriter, has reactivated his Advance Records label. He's now basing all his activities in New York.

First disking is a reissue of Lorry Raine's "Actress of the Year" with the Monte Kelly orch and chorus which Gayle produced in 1957. The next session scheduled by Gayle will be with baritone Frank Rega.

Kenin Denies Ohio Tooters' Bias Rap Vs. AFM Board

American Federation of Musicians' president Herman Kenin last week repudiated as "false and infamous" the charges brought in court by three members of an all-Negro musicians' Local in Columbus, O., contending that the governing board of the Federation seeks to bar a merger of the white and Negro locals in Columbus.

Kenin's statement was presented in an affidavit filed in Ohio Federal Court seeking to dismiss the action brought in July by Harland T. Randolph, William S. Stewart Sr. and William Tye in behalf of "all other Negro musicians similarly situated," which names as defendants President Kenin and "all other officers and board members of the international musicians' union."

In his affidavit Kenin said, "By this means I wish to spread upon the record of this case my absolute and unequivocal repudiation of the infamous and false accusations of the plaintiffs that I or the governing board of the Federation seek to enforce a policy of racial discrimination against the Negro members of the Musicians' Protective Union, Local 589 of the Federation, or any other members of the Federation; or that I or the governing board of the Federation seek to prevent a merger of Local 589 with Local 103 of the Federation."

Kenin added that the plaintiffs in the case have long been aware of the Federation's efforts to facilitate amalgamation in Columbus between Local 589 and Local 103 which, several times within the past two years, has seemingly come to the verge of accomplishment. "They know," he said, "that this merger has been delayed and prevented by the consistent and subtle resistance of a hard and stubborn core within Local 589 which looks upon that organization at its vested property. They know that it is the desire of the overwhelming majority of the right thinking members of both these locals that such a merger be effected."

Kenin pointed out that it has been a Federation policy to seek such mergers, not only in the Columbus area, but in every other area were this vestige of outmoded and unfortunate segregation, established some half-century ago, still continues to exist.

In summing up, Kenin said, "The bringing of this lawsuit, in my opinion is but another step in the execution of a deliberate policy and campaign to frustrate merger and to attempt to place the onus for the continuation of this situation upon the Federation and its international officers. This attempt cannot and will not stand unchallenged. I repudiate it and offer the record of the Federation and its officers in complete refutation of these scandalous charges."

2G Settles Herb Silvers' 85G Suit Vs. Michele Lee

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

Bandleader Herb Silvers has settled his $85,000 breach-of-contract suit against singer Michele Lee out of court for $2,000.

Chirp, whom Silvers sued last winter, started with his orch and thereafter had roles in two Broadway shows, "Bravo Giovanni," a flop, and "How to Succeed in Business."

Ala. Bombing Memorial Gains 2G from Hamp's Benefit in Albuquerque

Albuquerque, Oct. 22.

The 18-piece Lionel Hampton Band pulled about 1,000 persons to a benefit dance at the Cole Hotel here last Wednesday (16), with the proceeds going to a memorial fund for victims of the bombed 16th St. Baptist Church in Birmingham, Ala.

Tickets were sold at $1 each, but the gross was estimated at about $2,000 due to a number of extra fundraising stunts used at the dance. One of these was a public auction of Hamp's longplay record albums, with some selling as high as $50 each.

Ballroom was donated by hotel owners and tickets were provided free by the printers. Handling arrangements was a committee headed by Randy DeVargas, distaff disk jockey on indie station KLOS here. Others included Kay Leach of a local ad agency and Don Allison, a consulting engineer.

Hampton made the booking here, en route to a date in Las Vegas. He has played a date here each year—usually a benefit—annually ever since a serious bus accident near Albuquerque in 1956. At that time, he was a patient in a local hospital for almost six months.

VARIETY

ALBUM BESTSELLERS

(A National Survey of Key Outlets)

This Wk.	Last Wk.	No. Wks. On Chart
1	2	26	BYE BYE BIRDIE (Victor) Soundtrack (LOC 1081)
2	18	2	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) In the Wind (W 1507)
3	1	41	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) Moving (W 1473)
4	5	6	BARBRA STREISAND (Columbia) Volume II (CL 2054)
5	3	11	ALLAN SHERMAN (Warner Bros.) My Son the Nut (WB 1501)
6	13	6	RAY CHARLES (ABC-Par) Recipe for a Soul (465)
7	8	10	NEW CHRISTY MINSTRELS (Columbia) Ramblin' (CL 2055)
8	7	6	ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) Golden Records, Vol. III (LPM 2765)
9	10	11	TRINI LOPEZ (Reprise) Trini Lopez at PJ'S (6093)
10	6	29	ANDY WILLIAMS (Columbia) Days of Wine & Roses (CL 2015)
11	4	74	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) Peter, Paul & Mary (W 1449)
12	14	34	LAWRENCE OF ARABIA (Colpix) Soundtrack (CP 514)
13	11	10	KINGSTON TRIO (Capitol) Sunny Side (T 1935)
14	15	14	VARIOUS ARTISTS (Capitol) Shut Down (T 1918)
15	19	4	BOBBY VINTON (Epic) Blue Velvet (LN 24068)
16	26	3	AL MARTINO (Capitol) Painted Tainted Rose (T 1975)
17	9	103	WEST SIDE STORY (Columbia) Soundtrack (OL 5670)
18	16	33	JOAN BAEZ (Vanguard) Baez in Concert (VRS 9112)
19	22	17	JAMES BROWN (King) James Brown Show (826)
20	21	5	BOB DYLAN (Columbia) Freewheelin (CL 1986)
21	12	9	NANCY WILSON (Capitol) Hollywood My Way (T 1934)
22	25	21	SMOTHERS BROS. (Mercury) Think Ethnic (MG 30777)
23	24	8	MONDO CANE (United Artists) Soundtrack (UAL 4105)
24	17	29	HOW THE WEST WAS WON (MGM) Soundtrack (1E5)
25	32	2	JIMMY DURANTE (Warner Bros). September Song (W 1506)
26	37	27	BARBRA STREISAND (Columbia) Barbra Streisand Album (CL 2007)
27	23	9	SURFARIS (Dot) Wipe Out (DLP 3535)
28	42	3	FRANK SINATRA (Reprise) Sinatra's Sinatra (R 1010)
29	44	8	TONY BENNETT (CL 2056) This Is All I Ask (Columbia)
30	40	30	ROY ORBISON (Monument) Greatest Hits (MLP 8000)
31	29	15	NAT KING COLE (Capitol) Lazy, Crazy Days of Summer (T 1932)
32	30	28	NANCY WILSON (Capitol) Broadway My Way (T 1828)
33	36	18	AL MARTINO (Capitol) I Love You Because (T 1914)
34	—	1	FOUR SEASONS (Vee Jay) Golden Hits (LP 1065)
35	28	6	JOHNNY MATHIS (Columbia) Johnny (CL 1809)
36	33	2	BEACH BOYS (Capitol) Surfer Girl (T 1981)
37	46	3	CHAD MITCHELL TRIO (Kapp) Best of (KL 1334)
38	43	30	KINGSTON TRIO (Capitol) Kingston Trio No. 16 (T 1871)
39	31	8	LAWRENCE WELK (Dot) Scarlett O'Hara (3528)
40	41	6	LIMELITERS (Victor) 14 Folk Songs (LPM 2631)
41	20	18	HENRY MANCINI (Victor) Uniquely Mancini (LPM 2692)
42	35	3	VENTURES (Dolton) Let's Go (BLP 2024)
43	34	23	BEACH BOYS (Capitol) Surfin' U. S. A. (T 1890)
44	49	10	JOHNNY CASH (Columbia) Ring of Fire (GL 2053)
45	39	18	CLEOPATRA (20th-Fox) Soundtrack (FXG 5008)
46	47	5	CHUCK BERRY (Chess) On Stage (LP 1408)
47	27	12	ASTRONAUTS (Victor) Surfin' With the Astronauts (LPM 2760)
48	48	49	JOHNNY MATHIS (Columbia) Newest Hits (CL 2016)
49	38	14	LITTLE STEVIE WONDER (Tamla) 12 Yr. Old Genius (240)
50	50	30	TONY BENNETT (Columbia) I Wanna Be Around (CL 2000)

Utilize Music to Combat Juvenile Delinquency

Baltimore.

Editor, VARIETY:

Noticed the article about the fine work New York's Local 802 is doing to combat juvenile delinquency.

Here, in Baltimore, I am trying to do my small part similar to that being done by 802. Two years ago I formed a 16-piece dance orchestra made up solely of teenagers interested in playing big band music in the styles made famous by Duke Ellington, Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, and other leaders who rose to fame during the '30s and '40s. Although I am pleased by the favorable comments by the adults we play for (we don't play for teens because we don't play rock 'n' roll), I am especially gratified when we have a chance to play for children afflicted with blindness, mentally ill patients, or have a chance to take a part in a show or concert to raise money for charity.

Although the band (the Mello Men) will continue to play many "paid" jobs in the Maryland-Delaware-Virginia area, I think it's most important for the boys to play for hospital patients and those less fortunate. That's when the thanks is really meant. I hope more and more bands and choirs and similar groups will get on the bandwagon where these so-called "free" jobs really are the ones that pay the most.

Andy Messineo
(Director, The Mello Men).

Disk Book

Continued from page 47

them on. Actually, the regular retail record outlets—record shops, department stores—they've worked best for us, anyway."

Even disk dealers don't dig deluxe items, according to Fred Rice, packaging and design topper at Capitol. "Modern merchandising methods make deluxe packaging for the adult market less and less appealing for the dealer," he stated. "With the upsurge of rack jobbing and discount stores, dealers simply can't afford to handle them."

Point of interest was Capitol's deal with Harcourt-Brace, New York book pubbery, of about a year ago. Both had agreed to produce and release simultaneously book and disk counterpart titled "Clair de Lune"—biog of Debussy. They figured that by doubling promotional efforts, they'd double sales. Books would be sold in book shops with reference to disk and vice-versa. Promotion came off as planned but not sales; neither book nor disk ever got off the ground.

Rare hopeful not for whole book-disk merger prospect came from Ethan Caston, v.p. of Wallach's Music City: "I don't object to books with records at all; as a matter of fact, the two items tie in quite logically. But our problem is space. Where do we shelve a big package like that?"

It remains to be seen, then, whether or not this "new frontier" in marketing (reportedly here for past umpteen years) can successfully marry these two perfectly compatible commodities. At the moment, the split is wide enough to drive a 10-ton tome through it.

Larry Finnegan

Continued from page 49

Passes By" and "Wonderin'." Williams is cutting "Bad News For The Good Guys" and "Don't Take Your Love."

Publishing rights to all 13 tunes were negotiated for Sonet Music by Gunnar Bergstrom. They include nine tunes written and published by Finnegan's new BMI firm, Seven Brothers Music, two published here by his brother Vincent Finneran's new firm, Csida-Finneran, and two co-published by the two companies. (The Csida half of the firm is owned by Joe Csida).

In addition to above named six tunes, the Seven Brothers' copyrights include "Dear One, Part 2," "Everytime" and "You Don't Need Me No More." The Csida-Finneran copyrights include "Baton Rouge," "I Know How It Feels," and the jointly co-owned "Weepin' Willow" and "Lah-Dee-Dottie."

VARIETY

SINGLE RECORD T.I.P.S.

(Tune Index of Performance & Sales)

This Wk.	Last Wk.	No. Wks. On Chart		Label
1	2	5	SUGAR SHACK James Gilmer	Dot
2	1	7	BE MY BABY Ronettes	Phillies
3	10	5	DEEP PURPLE April Stevens & Nino Tempo	Atco
4	5	7	CRY BABY Garnet Mimms	UA
5	3	9	BLUE VELVET Bobby Vinton	Epic
6	11	4	I CAN'T STAY MAD AT YOU Skeeter Davis	Victor
7	6	6	BUSTED Ray Charles	ABC-Par
8	14	6	DONNA THE PRIMA DONNA Dion	Columbia
9	8	5	MEAN WOMAN BLUES Roy Orbison	Monument
10	4	8	SALLY GO ROUND THE ROSES The Jaynettes	Tuff
11	17	5	TALK TO ME Sunny & Sunglows	Teardrop
12	16	5	FOOLS RUSH IN Rick Nelson	Decca
13	30	3	WASHINGTON SQUARE Village Stompers	Epic
14	27	3	MARIA ELENA Los Indios Tabajaias	Victor
15	18	6	BLUE BAYOU Roy Orbison	Monument
16	35	3	I'M LEAVING IT ALL UP TO YOU Dale & Grace	Michelle
17	12	8	THEN HE KISSED ME The Crystals	Phillies
18	9	10	SURFER GIRL Beach Boys	Capitol
19	26	3	DON'T THINK TWICE Peter, Paul & Mary	Warner Bros.
20	7	12	MY BOYFRIEND'S BACK Angels	Smash
21	15	10	HEAT WAVE Martha & Vandellas	Gordy
22	20	2	IT'S ALL RIGHT Impressions	ABC-Par
23	39	7	THAT SUNDAY, THAT SUMMER Nat King Cole	Capitol
24	32	3	THE GRASS IS GREENER Brenda Lee	Decca
25	29	4	PART TIME LOVE Little Johnny Taylor	Galaxy
26	21	12	IF I HAD A HAMMER Trini Lopez	Reprise
27	25	4	BUST OUT Busters	Arlen
28	31	4	I'LL TAKE YOU HOME Drifters	Atlantic
29	13	6	HONOLULU LULU Jan & Dean	Liberty
30	19	8	A WALKIN' MIRACLE The Essex	Roulette
31	—	1	CRY TO ME Betty Harris	Jubilee
32	—	1	SHE'S A FOOL Leslie Gore	Mercury
33	—	1	CROSS FIRE Orlons	Cameo
34	37	2	YOU LOST THE SWEETEST BOY Mary Wells	Motown
35	—	1	NIGHT LIFE Rusty Draper	Monument
36	—	1	500 MILES AWAY FROM HOME Bobby Bare	Victor
37	—	1	POINT PANIC Surfaris	Decca
38	23	8	WONDERFUL, WONDERFUL Tymes	Parkway
39	34	4	TWO TICKETS TO PARADISE Brook Benton	Mercury
40	22	8	MICKEY'S MONKEY Miracles	Tamla
41	46	5	TEENAGE CLEOPATRA Tracey Dey	Liberty
42	38	2	WORKOUT, STEVIE, WORKOUT Little Stevie Wonder	Tamla
43	47	5	HELLO HEARTACHE, GOODBYE LOVE Little Peggy March	Victor
44	—	1	DOWN AT PAPA JOE'S Dixie Belles	S.S.7
45	40	13	MORE Kai Winding	Verve
46	—	1	EVERYBODY Tommy Roe	ABC-Par
47	—	1	BOSSA NOVA BABY Elvis Presley	Victor
48	—	1	A Love So Fine Chiffons	Laurie
49	28	7	MARTIAN HOP Ran-Dells	Chairman
50	24	6	ONLY IN AMERICA Jay & the Americans	UA

On the Upbeat

New York

Gary McFarland has formed a new jazz sextet and will record under the Impulse banner. The group includes the maestro on vibes; Jim Raney, guitar; Mel Lewis, drums; Steve Swallow, bass; Willie Dennis, trombone; and Richie Kamuca, sax and clarinet. Norman Schwartz is managing the group . . . Johnny Cash Music has opened offices in Nashville . . . Eddie Hazell, singer-guitarist, currently at the Colonial Motor Inn, Binghamton, N.Y.

Singer Judy Martin began a two-weeker at Jerry Lewis' club in L.A. Monday (21) . . . Stanley Kubrick has signed Arthur Dulay, one of the last of England's silent film pianists, to arrange and play background music for a sequence in "Dr. Strangelove" . . . Singer Jody Berry into the Living Room Nov. 18 for three weeks . . . Bernice Levine handling managerial chores for singer Don Anthony.

Personal manager Richard O. Linke added arranger-conductor Alan Copeland to his stable . . . Thrush Katy Woodruff began a two-weeker at Cleveland's Alcazar Hotel on Monday (21) . . . Pianist Jimmy Spencer and the Joe Randi Trio currently at Great Neck's Bon Vivant . . . Chubby Checker plays a one-nighter concert in St. Paul this evening (Wed.).

Singer Damita Jo set for Milwaukee's Holiday House Oct. 28-Nov. 9 . . . Vaughn Monroe headlines Elmwood Casino, Windsor, Ontario, Oct. 28-Nov. 9 . . . Jimmy McHugh will represent ASCAP at the 17th Annual Sweet Adelines International Convention and Competition in Oakland (Calif.) Oct. 23-26 . . . Trude Heller's Eighth Wonder now has a "Roaring 20's" policy.

Vaughn Meader, through his corporation Vaughn Meader Enterprises, has gone into the music publishing business. He'll publish special comedy songs as well as his own material . . . The Gaslight Singers will debut on the Mercury label this week with "Pigeon In The Park" . . . Concert pianist-arranger Zoltan Zorandy has been extended three more months at Eberhardt's House Of Vienna.

London

Reprise artist Trini Lopez cocktail partied by Pye which distributes Reprise hereabouts. Singer is in for concert tour following success of his "If I Had A Hammer." Pye now releasing the album, "Trini Lopez at P.J.'s" . . . Beatles assured of their first goldisk for "She Loves You" which has sold 1,000,000 throughout the globe . . . Top popper Jet Harris quitting the business following an auto smash. Partner Tony Meehan — together they made the current chart item "Applejack"—will continue solo . . . Local balladeer Danny Williams to U. S. this week to o.o. the U. S. music scene . . . Royalties of Frankie Vaughan's new wax, "You're The One For Me"—which is climbing to hit status—are being donated to the National Assn. of Boys' Clubs.

First hootenanny single released here (on Oct. 11) is "Hootin' In The Kitchen" by Billy Boyle . . . On a trek to Australia, Honolulu, San Francisco and New York, Sydney Grace, top exec in the British Grade talent organization, will seek additional outlets for British talent . . . British artists to U.S. include John Leyton (from Oct. 20) for film and recording talks with UA; and Kenny Lynch, a Negro warbler, in New York for three weeks (from Nov. 3) to promote his single, "Teardrop In The Ocean."

The HIT! OF THE WEEK

MGM Picture Star
Now on MGM Records

GEORGE HAMILTON
Sings
DON'T ENVY ME

K 13178

M-G-M Records

GEORGE HAMILTON
Sings
DON'T ENVY ME
on
MGM RECORDS
FAMOUS MUSIC CORPORATION

Tin Pan Valley

By RED O'DONNELL

Nashville, Oct. 22.

Roy Drusky terminated his contract with Decca and signed with Mercury.

Jean Shepard, Capitol artist widow of Hawkshaw Hawkins, bought 300-acre farm in Maury County (40 miles south of here) for reported $47,000.

Chet Atkins back from RCA Victor meeting on Coast, where label's album quota for second quarter of 1964 was planned. Atkins will produce 10 in Nashville.

Freddy Beinstock in from New York to helm a Big Top wax session.

Hank Locklin, Eddy Arnold and The Browns (3), set for LP-making sessions.

Rusty Draper in to slice an "old blues" LP for Monument.

Owen Bradley and Harry Silverstein, local Decca a.&r. staffers, huddling with label execs in New York.

Decca signed country-singer-writer Jimmy Gateley and pop vocalist Linda Flanigan. Gateley penned "The Minute You're Gone," which was a recent click via Sonny James.

Sun Records topper Sam Phillips on visit from Memphis predicts that rhythm and blues will be the next big trend musicwise; so he's scouting for talent in that direction.

Juanita Jones, who manages the Nashville office, was in Hollywood for ASCAP's Coast membership meetings.

The TOMMY DORSEY ORCHESTRA

Stan Avnet Corporation
Tommy Dorsey, President
1001 Rene Concourse
Miami Beach 54
Area Code 305 - UNion 4-2733

British Disk Best Sellers

London, Oct. 22.

Do You Love Me? . Tremeloes (Decca)
Then He Kissed Me . Crystals (London)
She Loves You . . . . . Beatles (Parlophone)
If I Had a Hammer . . . Lopez (Reprise)
Blue Bayou . . . . . Orbison (London)
The First Time . . . . . Faith (Parlophone)
Shindig . . . . . Shadows (Columbia)
All In The Game . . . Richard (Columbia)
Never Walk Alone Peacemakers (Columbia)
Applejack . . . Harris/Meehan (Decca)

Economic Laws Spin With LPs: Merc's Tracy

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Jack Tracy, a&r chief of Mercury West Coast, revealed last week that when Mercury (or either of its two subsid labels, Phillips or Smash) spends $15,000 on any given album, diskery would have to sell 35,000 albums to break even.

"Albums should be regarded almost as singles are these days," Tracy contends. "If they're not going to go, get rid of it and go on to the next release.

Mercury releases a new album about once every six weeks, and Tracy assumes that if an album is not moving by the subsequent release date, it never will.

He breaks costs down this way: at their regular a&r meeting (every six weeks), there are 10 payrolled a&r men who work with company execs and sales managers of the three labels. A&r men come up with album ideas and sales managers give views on saleability of same.

After artist is chosen, an arranger is brought in. Arranger, in turn, hires a copyist (copies individual parts from main score), after which diskery hires a contractor to contract musicians, natch.

Musicians' cost is figured at $65 per unit for a three-hour sesh, out of which no more than 15 minutes worth is actually utilized—an AFM ruling.

Therefore, a 20-piece orch would be equivalent to 24 units inasmuch as batoner and contractor get double scale. In addition, singing groups get $22.50 per song per unit; contractor for group (usually one of the singers) gets an extra 50%.

An arrangement costs on the average of $150 while copying costs average $300.

"And don't forget," Tracy concluded, "we've still got to press it, take pictures for the jacket—and there's a whole art department in Chicago (Mercury's main office location) that has to be paid, too."

Tracy did not neglect to tack on the $50 to $75 paid the writer for liner-notes, either.

Project above figures over three sessions (number it takes to complete one album), where disker grooves a big orch of around 30 units, plus voices, and it's not hard to see how a $15,000 nut can accrue.

Asked if most of Mercury's albums make money, Tracy said, "I'd hate to venture a guess." Then, after thinking it over, he said, "No, I would say most of them don't make money at all." Things are rough all over!

Not Too Late

Izzy Young, a Greenwich Village beatnik-type habitue and owner of the Folk Lore Centre, geetar-and-music shop on MacDougal St., in N.Y., trimmed, coiffed, manicured, shined and civvied himself into "store" clothes to emcee the "Sing Out Hootenanny" concert at Carnegie Hall last week.

His proud mother, seeing him for the first time in a long time in Ivy League getup, affectionately took him aside to counsel, "You know, Izzy, you look so nice, you could still be a doctor!"

Italo & Foreign Pop Singers See No Harmony In San Remo Song Festival

By ROBERT F. HAWKINS

Rome, Oct. 22.

The San Remo Song Festival, one of the top pop musical events of the year in this country, has ambitious plans for its (January) 1964 edition, but reportedly it's facing considerable difficulties in bringing off a planned coup.

Project was to not only cop most of the major young names of local musical circles to sing the competing songs, but also and almost more importantly to give the event added national and international eclat by guest participations of several of the world's top singers. (Some names mentioned have been Connie Francis, Paul Anka, Neil Sedaka, Gilbert Becaud, Francoise Hardy, Caterina Valente, Dean Martin, Doris Day, Petula Clark and Charles Aznavour.)

Now, it seems that for various reasons, the foreign (non-Italian) names aren't displaying much interest in offers, or are afraid to get mixed up in and lose prestige on a still basically "national" fest; while the Italo songsters are likewise fearsome of involvement and possible loss of stature via San Remo exposure.

For apart from uncertainty of San Remo results, which are usually a composite of public and jury decision regarding preselected songs, it's a fact that in the past year or so, San Remo songs have not been the automatic bestsellers that they used to be only a few seasons back, when Domenico Modugno hit the local scene with "Piove" and "Volare."

San Remo Eclipsed?

Few of this year's San Remo winners have given other, non-festival, entries much of a run for their money. Rita Pavone, Adriano Celentano, Gino Paoli, Michele, and many other top sellers have topped "San Remo" sales with songs unconnected with the Riviera event.

It's also true, of course, that relatively few of this year's top-selling artists participated in the '63 San Remo fest: presumably, their participation and sales potential could have raised the San Remo crop to higher limits.

Also well remembered by the local crowd are the isolated but nevertheless resounding (and damaging) flops of some San Remo stars saddled with unsuited and/or unsuccessful songs.

The basic argument seems to come down to this: many of Italy's names might be lured to San Remo, but only on one condition: that they be able to bring songs of their own choice. But present regulations don't allow this: fest songs must be submitted to a special selection group, and are only "assigned" to singers after that operation is completed.

San Remo toppers are said to be currently meeting with disk company heads—Italian and foreign—in an attempt to solve the impasse both on the local front, with regard to the competition, and the foreign one, in the hopes of landing important guest appearances with which to project San Remo beyond the Italo frontier.

Musical Fest Film

Meanwhile, a feature based on another Italian musical festival, the traveling "Cantagiro," is about to hot local screens. Called "Urlo contro Melodia" (Yells vs. Melody), the Eastmancolor-widescreen item was produced by Labor Film in cooperation with Cantagiro manager Ezio Radaelli, and features many of the top names which participated in the much-talked-of event.

Except for the (previously-commented) RCA Italiana platters slated for company's winter campaign and recently unveiled at Taormina, Sicily, relatively few new pop disks have been released so far by other Italo pressers for the traditional pre-holiday and holiday sales push.

Pino Donaggio has a good one in a Columbia 45 which backs "La Scaletta" with "Un Isola per gli Innamorati," while Cetra has Claudio Villa trying his valid best to sell the elsewhere popular "Sukiyaki" locally. He sings it well, and it may go, though top returns are improbable. In the novelty sector, VCM is likely to get some local spins—especially in juke—from its Stateside import "Christine," which effectively recalls the call girl of them all.

Moving up fast on Italo ratings: Catherine Spaak and "Prime di Te, Dopo di Te" (Ricordi), Don Back's "Amico" (Clan), Ricky Gianco's "A Mani Vuote" and "Eva" (Jaguar), Paul & Paule's "Hey Paula" (Philips).

Thomases to S-B

Emil La Viola, general manager of Shapiro-Bernstein and veepee of Painted Desert Music Corp., has signed Jean & Don Thomas (brother and sister) to an exclusive writer's contract.

In addition to their writing stints, both are recorded artists. Jean Thomas is currently under contract to Cadence and Don Thomas records for Coral.

Their first three songs written for Painted Desert have been set for recordings by The Shirelles, Chuck Jackson and Patsy Cummings.

THE ANSWER MY FRIEND IS
"BLOWIN' IN THE WIND"
PETER, PAUL & MARY • WB 5368
CHAD MITCHELL TRIO • KAPP K 510 X
JERRY JACKSON • KAPP K 543
BOB DYLAN • COL. CL 4986
DENNIS & RODGERS • CRS -300 X
ARTHUR LYMAN • HI-FI L 1013
BOB HARTER • LIBERTY LRP 3330
JACKIE DeSHANNON • LIBERTY LRP 3329
ODETTA • RCA LPM 2643
THE KINGSTON TRIO • CAPITOL T 1935
MUSIC PUBLISHERS HOLDING CORP

As BEAUTIFUL As The Title
"BEAUTIFUL"
DON ROMANO
on MERRY-GO-ROUND
MILLS MUSIC, INC.
New York City

THE WORLD'S GREATEST PIANIST-ENTERTAINER
DOROTHY DONEGAN
Currently FOUR WEEKS from Oct. 21
EDGEWATER BEACH HOTEL, Chicago, Ill.
Pers. Mgr.: FOCH ALLEN
BOOKED EXCLUSIVELY BY ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION
JOE GLASER, President
50 WEST 57 STREET, NEW YORK 19 JUdson 2-7708
CHICAGO • MIAMI • BEVERLY HILLS • LAS VEGAS • DALLAS • LONDON

Waldorf-Astoria, N. Y.

Alan King; Meyer Davis and Horace Diaz Orch; $4 cover.

Alan King establishes the current season at the Waldorf-Astoria on a truly firm basis. After a prosperous opening with Gordon & Sheila MacRae, the Empire Room seems to have it made with King as its attraction. King has attained status as one of the top draws of this room. And for several good reasons too. His comedy has a basis in everyday life. He seems to be fighting the same dragons as the bulk of the citizens patronizing this place and his humor seems to be slotted on a strong and believable basis.

King, according to the text of his current sermons at this hospice, is taking on the same devils as many of his auditors. He is not one to fight piddling enemies,. but he tackles such giants as the telephone company, insurance firms, big hotels, and airlines. In each of these instances, he assures his auditors there's a suit pending. He seems to have slandered these stalwarts of capitalism with comedic darts that went straight to the target. And, according to King, they are not the type to sit by and await apologies. Their high-priced legal staffs try to justify their fees by taking these matters to the nearest court. According to his yarns, he is probably the foremost litigant of this era.

With this broad opening, he gets the audience on his side immediately. But after that he settles down to matters of domesticity. His villains are wives, children, in-laws and other sundry pedestrians. His targets attain instant recognition. In fact, in fighting the battle of his sex against the feminine mystique and the mores of the community, he may easily become the hero of the common man. At the Waldorf Empire Room, he seems to have tackled every major monopoly and destroyed most of the foibles that bedevil the johndoes who have been content to take all this in a supine manner. His lines are extremely effective and funny. Many may find themselves in the defendant's docket after listening to King. What's more, the inspiration was studded with laughs. It's a funny recitative of the woes that have dogged the bulk of the body-politic, and King emotes before a highly appreciative crowd and sends many stockholders out in a mood to sue their companies.

The Meyer Davis orchestra has little to do during King's turn, but to sit by and laugh. In this respect, they're no different from from the customers. Horace Diaz spells the Davis with this Latin combo. Per usual, Louis Siccardi presides at the tape with grace and elegance. Jose.

Talk of Town, London

London, Oct. 15.

Max & Anthony Bygraves, with Box Dixon, piano; Martin Aston, drums; Laurie Newby, bass. Robert Nesbitt's "High Life," with Peter Regan, Tricia Money, Christine Carig, Trotter Bros. (2), Line (29); choreography, Billy Petch; decor, Tod Kingman; costumes, R. St. John Roper; orchestrations, Burt Rhodes; Sydney Simone and Frank Deniz Orchs; $7.75 minimum.

Max Bygraves is back at the Talk of the Town for a 12-week run, and that should spell SRO for this theatre-restaurant through to the New Year. This time he offers an unannounced bonus by bringing on his teenage son Anthony, a chip off the old block and a talented youngster with promise of big things to come.

That Bygraves is a top star in his own right, however, is amply demonstrated in his warm genial style, which carries him successfully through a solid 50-minute performance.

His material is bright, lively and often amusing; and he gets an extra quota of laughs by effectively parodying several of the more familiar television commercials. As an offbeat gimmick he rides a horse on stage as a lead-in for one of his songs.

Hardly any of his numbers is played out straight, but that is part of the Bygraves trademark, and helps to create an intimate atmosphere even in such a big room. "M-O-N-E-Y" is a good opener, and is followed by his own version of "Fings." Then comes his "Train Routine," in which he illustrates how station announcements would sound if they had been written by Shakespeare, sung by Frank Ifield or spoken by a Yank or Scotsman.

"The Old Routine" gives his son an opportunity to show his prowess as singer, dancer and drummer; the weakest part of this bit is the rather tame comedy gab. For Bygraves' closer he has assembled a medley which includes many of the songs with which he has long been associated, such as "Tulips from Amsterdam" and "Hands." It brings the show to a rousing climax.

Alongside the Sidney Simone resident combo, Bygraves has Bob Dixon at the piano, Martin Aston on drums and Laurie Newby on bass for top grade backing.

Preceding the headliner's stint, Robert Nesbitt's 10 o'clock show, "High Life," continues as a colorful spectacle. The Trotter Bros. and their puppets have been retained from previous shows as the specialty act. Myro.

Blackstone Hotel, Chi

Chicago, Oct. 14.

Toni Carroll, Franz Benteler Orch; $1.50-$2 cover.

This is the second time around for Toni Carroll in the Bonaparte Room and again she acquits herself as one of the most succesful acts to play this spot since it went on an entertainment policy about two years ago.

While there have been name acts with more stellar appeal in this poshery, Miss Carroll's mixture of an orb-popping frame and the party spirit that she promotes seem to be just the right formula for the conventioneer clientele.

Clad in a clinging black gown with a revealing neckline, Miss Carroll is both a soothing and titillating sight for tired eyes. This is a big business meeting time in the Windy City, and the Bonaparte Room had bulging house for her opening show.

A ringsider-participation stunt on an r 'n' r version of "I Want You To Know" is the hottest item in Miss Carroll's bag of tricks. It requires selected patrons to sing a brief refrain, and the thrush chose a couple of customers who were eager to go along with the gag. Her other selections include a hip-wiggling Roaring Twenties medley plus a batch of ballads including "Fly Me To The Moon," "Never On Sunday" and "You're Getting To Be A Habit With Me."

Franz Benteler's classy house orch accompanies Miss Carroll faultlessly, serves up an inviting terp beat and provides pleasing background music for dinner. Mor.

Twin Coaches, Pitt

Pittsburgh, Oct. 18.

Keely Smith, Bob Holiday, Cass & Desi, Jess Wilson's Orch (12); $2 cover.

Keely Smith has accepted the mantle of stardom with grace and warmth. In Pitt. for the first time, she shows stature, poise, exceptional voice control, all the subtleties of intonation and the caressing handling of a sock song lineup.

For 45 minutes, Miss Smith displays her unfettered song and dialog delivery after she made a quick recovery from a blasting band sound that spoiled her first medley. In her fifth song number, she makes the big 1,100—seat hugery sound like a living room when she does a heartful rendition of Billie Holiday's "God Bless the Child".

Now home free, she sails through the rest of the act. Every line gets a laugh and every song nets thunderous applause. Next to closing she achieves tomblike silence with a medley of "You Are My Sunshine", "You're Nobody Till Somebody Loves You," "You'll Never Know" and "As Long As He Needs Me" while sitting on the stairs to the stage. She then got up to a big finish with "I Wish You Love."

Opening the show is Cass & Desi, and the young fellow of the team bears watching. He is a young carbon of Ray Bolger and shows lotsa promise for tv and musical comedy. In the other spot, comedian Bob Holiday has some excellent material which should make him more effective once he becomes more familiar with his act. Jess Wilson's Orch (12) plays for show and dancing.

Layout in through Oct. 26. Lit.

Cocoanut Grove, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.

Jerry Vale, Davis & Reese, Dick Stabile Orch; $3-$3.50 cover charge, $3 minimum.

With a return of the musical sounds of Dick Stabile (and a new vocalist, luscious Leigh Ann Austin), the Grove started its fall season Thursday (17) with an excellent bill.

The program begins with something old, Stabile's "Salute to Duke Ellington," and finishes with something new, the debut here of Jerry Vale, an excellent-voiced young man who has built a rep via the recording route as well as niteries.

Vale opens with "I Feel a Song Coming On" and quit only after he gave the receptive crowd, warmed up a-plenty by comedians Davis & Reese, a 22-tune sampling of his repertoire including a medley of his disclicks and another, alla Italiana. Most of his material is made up of standards, sung straight and with assurance.

Pepper Davis and Tony Reese are familiars to regular nitery patrons but new to this reviewer who found them generally hilarious. Reese is an excellent foil for the effusive Davis and both create that rare feeling of spontaneity in their work. They're quick to interpolate a fastie into the routine when such a formidable target as a well-known tv cowboy is spotted in the audience.

Vale holds through Nov. 5. Myron Cohen replaces Davis & Reese on Oct. 24, taking top billing. Robe.

Eddys', K.C.

Kansas City, Oct. 17.

Carmel Quinn, Fred Muro's Continentals (5); $2 cover.

The current date at Eddys' is the third for Carmel Quinn, albeit it's been two years since her last appearance here. Evidently her reputation is undimmed, for a goodly crowd turned out for Thursday's (17) opening and reservation list looks good.

The candid Irish lass responds with a full repertory of songs, 20 in all over an hour's stretch on stage. She calls this one of her favorite spots, and possibly it is so, as seen from her great rapport with the audience. She brings off a sparkling, enjoyable show.

The choice almost is not hers when it comes to tune selections, for the customers must have the Irish ditties. She obliges with a dozen or so of these, from "The Moonshiner" and "Wee Deock and Doris" to the sock "Galway Bay," and intermixes a sprinkling of standards, some singalong tunes, even a country-western and an Italian number. The latter are well enough done, but serve largely for a change of pace.

It's on the lyrical Irish numbers, or when Miss Quinn is urging the crowd to sing, that she is at her best, as she has the dowagers applauding as lustily for themselves for for her. Backing her is accompanist Joe Merman, sitting in at the piano with the Fred Muro crew, all nicely abetting the proceedings.

While Miss Quinn has great quality of voice, her personal warmth and wholesomeness are solid additions to her turn. She stays through Oct. 30. Quin.

Palmer House, Chi

Chicago, Oct. 15.

Frankie Laine, Roger Ray, Ben Arden Orch; $2.50-$3 cover.

For whatever it might be worth to a nitery analyst, the two hottest shows in the Empire Room in the past year were provided by acts that had not appeared in a Chi club in a long time. Ray Bolger, who broke it up at the Palmer House for three weeks a couple of months ago, had been absent from the Windy City scene for 17 years. Now comes Frankie Laine, who last played this city during the final days of the old Chez Paree some four years ago and is currently packing them in at this swankery.

While it may or may not be true that absence makes the heart grow fonder in the cafes, there are other factors at work to explain Laine's enthusiastic reception. The last two weeks in October are the summit of convention activity in Chicago, and all the clubs are benefiting from it.

But it's also obvious that the singer has what they want and is pulling substantially from areas other than the conventions. A lesser factor might be that he is from Chi and has developed a large group of fans and friends here.

Laine's repertoire is strictly from his own personal songbook, and judging by the requests the audience wouldn't have it any other way. Among the Laine memorabilia are "Rawhide," "Shrimp Boats," "Jambalaya," "Shine," "Jezebel," "Wild Goose," "That's My Desire,' and "Mule Train." The latter was requested by patrons all during the show and got a great hand.

While Laine's muscalar larynx, dramatic delivery and astute showmanship are the key to the electricity in this show, much credit is due to some topflight orchestral charts which in turn are interpreted with maximum savvy by Ben Arden's house orch spearheaded by Laine's own musical director Ray Barr on piano and Stanley Kay on drums.

Opening the show is Roger Ray, a comic who is always about to play "Indian Love Call" on the xylophone and barely gets around to it. He's an expert gagster and anecdotalist although some of his stories have seen mileage on the cafe circuit. However, he delivers them with a contagious enthusiasm and experienced timing and withal keeps the yock level high. Mor.

More Night Club Reviews On Page 61

Basin Street West, L.A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.

Dizzy Gillespie Pentet, Joyce Collins Trio; $1.50 admission plus two-drink minimum.

Bebop made Dizzy Gillespie popular in the '50s, but that frenzied style of music is hardly recognizable in the smooth, progressive jazz that keeps the famed trumpet man among the toppers in today's jazz polls.

In his current group, Gillespie surrounds himself with four superb musicians, headed by the tenor sax of James Moody who ably shares much of the spotlight with his leader. Similarly, there are exciting complimentary additions to the set from Christopher White, bass; Kenny Barron, piano, and Rudy Collins, drums.

Most of the Gillespieanna is soul jazz, the kind of smooth, even styling that rambles with thorough pure concentrated interpretation and just plain sound. Gillespie adds his usual funny bits of showmanship, really wails with his bent trumpet while Moody keeps the melody going. There are moments of light frenzy, an occasional soft ballad like Vernon Duke's "Can't Get Started" and Theolonius Monk's "Round Midnight."

Added attractiton for the two-week booking is the Joyce Collins Trio, featuring Monty Budroig, bass, and Colin Barley, drums. Threesome, with Miss Collins on piano, plays soft jazz with attractive flair. Dale.

Sans Souci, Houston

Houston, Oct. 17.

Cindy Embers, Carme & Paul, Ray Binney's "Night in Vegas" revue, Skeet Wilson Orch (5); $2 cover.

Boniface John Rickert has opened Houston's newest public club and has combined several acts into an hour-long review. Featured is Cindy Embers, an experienced exotic who knows her way around a stage, barely.

Carme (Petrillo) & Paul (Salos) form a burlesque-type comedy team in which Carme handles vocals and Paul's nose, the nose-grabbing being a feature of the act. Impressions are generally good.

Ray Binney joins three femme dancers (Janet Karis, Bonnie England and Carole Riley) for some impressive terping, aided by first-rate lighting effects. Sequence also features two showgirls, Betty Hesler and Cindy Embers.

Public clubs in state are at a disadvantage, as they cannot serve liquor by drink, depending on beer and setups. No food is served here. Therefore, shows must be closely budgeted.

Skeet Wilson Orch backs expertly, is particularly good for dancing.

Show plays two frames, with Miss Embers being held for another pair. Skip.

Blue Angel, N.Y.

Vaughn Meader (with Jim Connell & Donna Jean Young), Patricia Scott, Rico, Frank Owen Trio; $6 minimum.

The Blue Angel has been thrown fullscale into politics with the return of Vaughn Meader who is plying one of his numerous dates at Max Gordon's hospice. Meader has been making like JFK since he first started in the coffee houses, and now he seems to be evening up matters with sallies on Sen. Barry Goldwater. In each instance, he has taken the more obvious angles on these subjects.

The President's distinctive voice is difficult to catch, and Meader appears to be the best equipped to mimic it. In Goldwater's case, his highly conservative political characteristics lend themselves to caricature. In any event, Meader evens up the score and makes it a bipartisan foray.

Of course, Meader's major ploy is his "Presidential press-conference" in which he answers question in his best Kennedy voice. He fields the queries excellently. His answers are germane and have a sense of immediacy. He's assisted in his various projects by Jim Connell and Donna Jean Young. There are times when much of his humor takes on more of a literary quality than usually found in oral routines. There are laughs in them, but sections of his act need a working over before it reaches its apex.

In support is Patricia Scott who is making her debut here. She's of the school that almost enacts a song. The tunes are given a dramatic treatment in accordance with the subject matter, and her attack is different. Yet Miss Scott doesn't neglect their more tuneful aspects and she scores nicely in this showshop.

Completing the act lineup is Rico who is reviewed under New Acts. Frank Owen Trio breaks excellently. Jose.

Sparks Nugget, Nev.

Sparks, Nev. Oct. 17.

John Raitt, Rowan & Martin, George Arnold Singers & Dancers (17), Foster Edwards Orch (10); $2 minimum second show.

This double bill with John Raitt and Rowan & Martin (with the latter listed as extra added attraction) is proving a strong marquee lure—what with Raitt absent from local area for several years, and Rowan & Martin firmly established as perennial favorites via their frequent exposures on the Reno-Sparks-Tahoe scene.

Opening night auditor response was assurance Raitt has lost none of his local following during the years he's been away. And he responded generously with a songbag of show tunes and evergreens expertly selected to please all. Tablers made with full attention for his 30-minute stint. Titles include "Day In," "Maria," "Love Is a Very Light Thing," "Turn Around," "There Once Was a Man" and "If I Loved You."

He also essays "Lonely Town" and a powerful "Oklahoma" medley. He coaxes femme from audience for individual attention on "There Once Was a Man," and it proves highly effective. Chatter, held to a minimum, is on his Broadway shows and film work. Rating top mention are the impressive orchestrations, faithfully interpreted by the Foster Edwards Orch.

For this playback Rowan & Martin essay practically all new routines, all of them high on the risibility chart. Two establish immediate rapport with local topical lines showing them well acquainted with the area. New situations are built around hootenanny popularity, the Valachi hearings in Washington, and a segment of "Wagon Train."

Winning top approval is a new routine following a quiz show theme, with Rowan throwing the questions to Martin. It's akin to the team's trademarked charades game, and allows for a beautiful play on words. Their familiar espionage caper has also been revamped for better laugh results. Retained is the classic piece with Martin as a drunk heckler interrupting Rowan's Shakespearean recitation.

give more attention to.

The George Arnold Singers & Dancers turn in their usual creditable performance for the opening production number.

Sophie Tucker due Oct. 28. Long.

Local 802 Threatens Nov. 1 Cafe, Hotel Strike; Maestros Seek to Stymie Talks

Now that the Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians has sewed up a contract with the legit producers, they are now turning their full attention to the N.Y. hotel and nitery operators, parleys with whom have been lagging since they turned their attention to legit. The union has indicated that they'll go out on strike by Nov. 1, unless an agreement is reached.

Meanwhile, the situation has been complicated by the Orchestra Leaders of Greater New York, a group which has been battling the AFM, which has sent letters to the hotelmen. Notes sent out by the OLGNY threaten NLRB action unless the hotelmen quit dickering with the union. Letter points out that the hoteliers have no right to negotiate for the musicians inasmuch as they are not hotel employees but as per a previous court decision, the musicians are employees of the orchestra leader. Thus they would have to negotiate with the leaders who in turn would establish a scale for the musicians.

Leaders' attorney, Godfrey P. Schmidt, declared that he will go to the National Labor Relations Board to protect the rights of his clients. He also felt that it was illegal for the hotelmen to negotiate payments into the Local 802 Steady Engagement Fund.

Union is seeking to get a five-day week (it's now a six-day), as well as welfare payments, and other fringe benefits.

Arena Mgrs. Assn. Bids Non-Members to Attend Trade Problems Meet

Arena and auditorium operators are being invited to a meeting to be held under auspices of the Arena Managers Assn. Oct. 29 at the Warwick Hotel, N. Y., to discuss new problems in the industry and to devise new means of creating attractions suitable for the largeseaters. It's the first time that AMA and non-members will pow wow.

On the agenda will be routing of shows during the hockey and basketball season when major touring units should have an uninterrupted run. Other problems to come up for discussion will be the handling of television and toll tv rights, methods of accommodating different type shows, and the new competition of public auditoriums.

Another major item to be discussed will be the creation of new shows for arenas and auditoriums as well as the means of distributing equitably those that have a limited playing time. The operators have long recognized that the number of suitable productions is inadequate to keep the arenas running at full capacity.

Schrafft's Buying Fla. Site for Motel, Eatery

St. Petersburgh, Oct. 22.

Schrafft's restaurant and candy chain is purchasing the Grey Gull Inn property at nearby Clearwater, and the operation reportedly will include a 100-unit motor lodge, a restaurant, plus cocktail lounge.

The deal, said to involve $250,000, was to have been completed in New York this week. Schrafft's only other Florida enterprises are located on the east Florida coast, in the Fort Lauderdale and Miami areas.

Thrill Show Nets 125G For Philly Hero Fund

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.

The 1963 Hero Scholarship Fund thrill show netted approximately $125.000, Mayor James H. J. Tate, chairman of the fund, disclosed last week. The proceeds of the show, held Sept. 6 at Philadelphia Stadium, raises the total netted in these annual events to $850,000.

More than 85,000 persons attended the thrill show, one of the largest crowds in the nine-year history of the spectacles, despite threatening weather. Richard Boone, Frankie Avalon and Sandy Stewart topped the list of headliners.

S.E. Fair's Record

Atlanta, Oct. 22.

Southeastern Fair set a new attendance record with its 49th edition at Lakewood Park, permanent fairgrounds. To do this the 1963 fair had to overcome a 65,000 attendance loss when rain on first Saturday (5) of 10-day run inundated grounds.

Final figures showed that 346,733 clicks were registered on turnstiles this year compared with 341,763 who saw 1963 event.

Britain's Variety Artistes Again Eye Merger With Equity

London, Oct. 22.

Britain's Variety Artistes' Federation voted at its annual general meet last week to seek an amalgamation with British Actor's Equity, a stronger performer union with which VAF has been involved in merger talks on three previous occasions.

The Trades Union Congress, at its conference earlier this year suggested that the two often-warring unions should merge. TUC will be asked to participate in the negotiations.

According to Jimmy Edwards, chairman of the VAF, time, money and effort are being wasted while two unions representing performers negotiate separately with employers. This, he contends, just lets the employers play one off against the other. What the VAF chairman hopes for is an Equity nod to a variety artists section within a bigger union.

Getting the two unions together is not seen in trade circles as an easy matter. The conflict between the actors and the variety artists is described by VAF executive member Max Morgan as being a case of "they hate the sight of us, and we don't love them either."

LIPIZZANER HORSEMAN TO CASE U.S. ARENAS

Col. Alois Podhazsky, master of the Spanish Riding Academy of Vienna, will arrive in the U. S. later this month for a tour of the arenas in which the troupe will perform. He will map out the areas where the famed Lipizzaner horses will work in during their two-month tour of the U.S. starting in April.

Most dates have not yet been firmed pending approval of Col. Podhazsky. However, it's believed that he will confine the tours to Washington, New York, Boston and Chicago.

Other arenas are trying to get in on the tour, which is being booked by Columbia Artists Management Inc. But official policy in this respect is to play as few dates as possible in order to spare the horses a great deal of travel. Thus, it's likely that the troupe will only play cities which can support a longer run.

15-Day Strike Ends At Schine-Ten Eyck Hotel

Albany, Oct. 22.

Day-long negotiations between J. Myer Schine, board chairman of Schine Enterprises, and officials of Local 471, Hotel & Restaurant Workers Union, AFL-CIO, ended a 15-day strike Thursday (17) at the Schine-Ten Eyck Hotel. Some 200 employees were affected by the walkout.

Exact terms of settlement were unrevealed. But both sides stressed it includes the start of a pension plan, and indicated that pay raises range up to $2 weekly over a 24-month period.

Union had sought a three-year contract, with pay and fringe benefits up to 10%. Management offered a $1.40 weekly hike in pay and fringe benefits for most employees. Hotel not only had many events cancelled for two weeks, but also into November.

EDDY DOWN UNDER

Closing at the Chequers in Sydney, NELSON EDDY and partner GALE SHERWOOD move to the Tivoli Theatre, Melbourne. VARIETY recently said: "At 62, Nelson Eddy's seemingly effortless vocal projection would be remarkable for a younger man, and his much-mimed style still survives countless impressions."

A. P. A., Inc., Handles

Higgins Quits GAC For A-S-FA Post

Joe Higgins, with General Artists Corp. for 17 years, the last decade as a veepee, has resigned to join Ashley-Steiner-Famous Artists as head of the nitery and fair departments. He had been working in those areas at GAC.

At one time Higgins was president of a GAC subsidiary set up to handle fairs. At A-S-FA, Higgins will report to Harry Romm who is overall head of the variety departments.

At the same time, GAC has taken on several agents. Ed Hall, previously with the Mutual Entertainment Bureau of Chicago, joined the GAC Chicago office to work in the nitery field. Ernie Martinelli, who together with his brother John had been conducting an indie agency in New York, joined the one-nighter dept. in New York and will work with Frank Barcelona. Other additions are being mulled at GAC.

Higgins' exit means that henceforth all GAC fair business will be handled out of Chicago by E. O. Stacey. Chi is increasingly becoming the hub of the fair business, at least as far as talent agencies are concerned. Stacey, an ex-MCAite, was with UTM Artists Ltd. when latter office was absorbed by GAC several months ago.

World of Mirth Finds No Joy In S.C. Seizure For Alleged $4,000 Debt

Winston-Salem, N.C., Oct. 22.

The World of Mirth Inc. has been impounded here—34 railroad cars, circuswagons, thrill rides and all—for alleged indebtedness. Sheriff Erine G. Shore served a warrant of attachment Saturday night (12) on officials of the carnival.

The carnival's equipment cannot be moved from the Dixie Classic fairgrounds, Shore said, until an $8,000 bond is posted or an alleged $4,000 debt is paid to the Greensboro Agricultural Fair Inc., where the World of Mirth played two weeks before.

The World of Mirth came here for the Dixie Classic Fair. The fair closed Saturday night. The warrant was served on Frank Bergen, president of World of Mirth Inc., and Bergen's nephew, G. P. Sollenberger, the carnival's secretary-treasurer.

Virginia Kendall, of the Greensboro Agricultural Fair Inc., alleged in the warrant that the carnival and its officers are indebted for a $4.000 promissory note.

DODD'S BLACKPOOL DATE

Blackpool, Eng., Oct. 22.

Ken Dodd, a top North of England comedian, has been pacted to headline George & Alfred Black's "Big Show of 1964" at the 3,000-seat Opera House here, opening June 27. The new booking will mark Dodd's fifth season in this holiday town.

He stars at Chrismas for Howard & Wyndham in "The Ken Dodd Show" at the Royal Court Theatre, Liverpool, his native city.

'New Look' at AGVA Board Meeting As Reform Elements Take Over Helm

The national board of the American Guild of Variety Artists opened its meeting Monday (21) at the Americana Hotel, N.Y., in a rampaging mood with reform as its major keynote. Board closed session in which it tackled small economies relating to the board, then took up the matter pertaining to the union's counsel, Harold F. Berg. One of the first moves of the closed session was devoted to a sharp cross-examination of the attorney.

Prior to that the board took a survey of all AGVA employees quartered during board meeting week at the hotel, and ordered them to check out and wait for developments at the office, which is only a few blocks away. They were told that they would be called as needed. The employees were getting their rooms paid for plus a per-diem on top of their regular salary.

The new members of the board, many of whom are not with any faction, hold the key to the reform moves. Inside the camera session, the administration faction headed by Joey Adams won an important move when the board voted to have Berg and national administrative secretary Bobby Faye permitted inside the room.

The temper of the meeting manifested itself early. One of the first battles took place on a motion to eliminate a standing resolution to bar the press from its deliberations. This was passed but

(Continued on page 58)

Kenney Books Village

Honolulu, Oct. 22.

Singer Ed Kenney, out of the Duke Kahanamoku nitery because of a change of entertainment policy, moved down the street to the Hilton Hawaiian Village's Shell Bar, where he opened last week.

Rene de Knight trio is backing Kenney. Leilani Bermudez, who was with Kenney's show at Kanahamoku's, will round out the new Shell Bar unit. Rene Paulo combo closed there Saturday (12).

Ringling Circus Disappoints At Paris Boxoffice

Paris, Oct. 22.

The boxoffice take being racked up by America's Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus at the Palais Des Sports since its Sept. 27 opening is not up to expectations. However, it will continue its scheduled run until Nov. 11, then starts a tour of Europe. A Paris loss is expected to be made up on the tour.

Reported daily gross needed is about $12,000. Weekends have about done it, but biz is sparse during the week. It is felt that the bewildering three rings just do not go over with the French and a more pared down presentation, sans the ordinary production and dance numbers, would have created more boxofice impact.

It's also believed that there were not enough exciting animal acts. Be that as it may, the Ringling show is doing okay but not well enough.

The Moscow Circus, with its special numbers and one ring, seemed to be more for the French and scored big at the same place last year. Of course, its nut was much smaller. Ringling has won attention on its size, and some outstanding numbers, but does not have the fillip to break through for the hoped for sock results.

RINGLING THIN $55,000 IN ALBUQUERQUE DATE

Albuquerque, Oct. 22.

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, in its annual three-day booking at Tingley Coliseum on New Mexico State Fairgrounds here last weekend (Oct. 11-13), pulled 22,500 persons for seven performances. Gate was considered one of lowest for many years for expo in booking here.

Spokesman for show said this year's figure was "several thousand below last year's attendance." He put the blame for loss in revenue to the booking of two other circuses into the same auditorium within the past month. These included Don Ameche's International Showtime TV Circus on Sept. 21-22 and James Bros. Circus on Oct. 2. Ameche circus was included in the 11-day State Fair this year.

Seven performances included one on Oct. 11, three on Saturday (12) and two on Sunday (13). House was scaled from a $3.50 top. Total gross for three-day stand was estimated at about $55,000.

Glasgow Pavilion to Bow Revue-Style Pantomime

Glasgow, Oct. 22.

The Glasgow Pavilion, a city-centre vaudery catering to a large moppet trade at Santa Claus-time, this winter will desert its traditional-pantomime kick in favor of an original pantomime story.

Out, now, go the "Cinderellas" and "Aladdins," and in comes a newly-written revue-style pantomime. Describing it as "a new adventure in pantomime," the Pavilion management has tagged the show as "The World of Widow Cranky," with local comedian Jack Milroy heading the cast.

Charlie Sim, Sally Logan, and singer Don Gordon are others in the cast. Gordon is cast as Principal Boy. "Cranky" is set to preem Dec. 5 for a twice-nitely season.

Refurbish Alpine Village, Cleve., for Nov. Bow As American Supper Club

Cleveland, Oct. 22.

Downtown Alpine Village Club, which went through hard times and several ownerships in recent years, is being remodeled and renamed the Americana Supper Club by its new operators.

Nick Pinardo, general manager and a stockholder, said they are shooting for an early November opening date. Budget for top names will run up to about $500,000 in the first six months, he points out, before flying to New York and Chicago to line up firm bookings.

Americana owners include Manus MacCaffrey, Leo and James Comella. McCaffrey formerly operated Artists and Writers in Hotel Hollenden, which is being torn down, and also the Top o' the Manger Club in Hotel Manger. Pinardo owned the swank suburban Chateau Supper Club until this year when he sold it to a group of motel builders and restaurateurs.

Seating nearly 500 diners in its two rooms, and using two orchestras, the Americana is being remodeled by Howard M. Feldman, architect and designer. It will be the most palatial nitery Cleveland has seen, he predicted, since the second Mayfair Casino which reigned in the mid-1930s.

It is coincidental that the first Mayfair Casino, once located in the site of the new showplace, had Pinardo as one of its original stockholders.

Glasgow's 'Half-Past 7' In Novel House Switch

Glasgow, Oct. 22.

In a novel switch, Stewart Cruikshank, revue producer, is moving his "Half-Past Seven" company from the King's Theatre here to the larger Alhambra. Show stars local comics Rikki Fulton and Jack Milroy, with Bob & Jack Young, Joanna Rigby, et al. Fulton and Milroy are seen on-stage in their tv characters of Francie and Josie.

"Half-Past Seven" has been playing to solid biz at the King's. The take has been aided considerably by the exposure to the two comics in Scottish Television's. "The Adventures of Francie & Josie."

Show will have a three weeks' extension in its new home at the Alhambra. It is moving out of the King's to make way for a skedded comedy production, "Second Honeymoon," starring Jimmy Logan.

Chi's New Chez Paree Bows Early In Nov. on Site of Old Silver Frolics

Chicago, Oct. 22.

Carpenters have gutted the building that until a few months ago housed the old Silver Frolics strippery on north Wabash Ave. and are rushing to make a target opening date of the first week in November for the new Chez Paree. It will be an elaborate tri-level nitery complex with a main show room, lounge and private health club, all on separate floors. Opening act in the main room will be Vic Damone. Lounge acts and house bands have not as yet been set.

The new Chez Paree (to differentiate it from the old Chez Paree, which folded in 1960) is the first large nitery to open in Chi with top name talent since the comparatively short-lived Copacabana opened in 1946. The Sahara Inn, the plush motel north of Chicago, had name talent in its Club Gigi for about nine months last year.

The new edition of the Chez Paree will be headed up by Donjo Medlevine, a partner (along with Dave Halper) in the old club at the time of its demise. Maitre d' at the new spot is Pete Largus, also an alumnus of the original on Fairbanks Court. Al Milton is handling advertising, pubrel and sales promotion.

400-Seat Main Rm.

Designer for the interior of the Chez Paree is Howard Feldman, an interior decorator headquartered in Cleveland. Main room will seat 400 comfortably, but can accommodate 450. Decor is blue and gold, with blue drapes and a large crystal chandelier. Orchestra will be seated on a three-level platform at the back of the stage.

There will be two shows a night in the main room and three on Friday and Saturday nights. There is no dance floor in present plans, but a spokesman said the club might use a portable dance floor from time to time. Cover charge is planned "in the neighborhood of $2.50." In addition to the main stage, two small picture frame inset stages on either side of the main stage can be used for production effects such as choral group accompaniment.

The Chez Lounge is on the second floor, the decor is modern

(Continued on page 58)

MATHIS BOFF 13G AT COAST NAACP BENEFIT

Berkeley, Calif., Oct. 22

Johnny Mathis grossed a smash $13,000 Sunday night (20) in the 3,400-seat Berkeley Community Theatre which was scaled to a $4.75 top. Paid admissions for the show, which also included comic Alan Drake and the Si Zentner orchestra, were 3,200.

Gig was a benefit performance for the legal fund of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. Sponsoring the concert was Oakland radio station KDIA.

Lil Reis' Celebrity Club, Philly, Loses Pa. License

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.

The Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board has revoked the license of the Celebrity Club, operated by Lillian Reis, former chorus girl and central figure in the much-publicized $475,000 Pottsville, Pa., heist.

The State action comes as an anti-climax since Miss Reis' club has been padlocked by the City of Philadelphia for several months as a "public nuisance." The revocation was ordered, effective Nov. 12, "because customers were encouraged to buy drinks for others, a person of ill repute frequented the premises and patrons were solicited for immoral purposes."

Miss Reis charged the action "was unfair," and timed in advance of her second trial, Nov. 8. She was accused of masterminding the 1959 theft of $475,000 from the home of coal baron John B. Rich. Her previous trial in the Schuylkill County courts ended in a hung jury. Other Pottsville juries, however, convicted three of her alleged male accomplices for their parts in the robbery.

Scot Vaudery Shutters, Showcased Acts 51 Yrs.

Aberdeen, Scot., Oct. 22.

The Tivoli Theatre has shuttered here after 51 years as a musichall. Many top artists headlined at the house, including the late Will Fyffe, Harry Gordon, Jack Anthony, et al.

Despite plans to present bingo shows, there is a slight hope that the Tivoli may reopen for vaude in the summer of 1964. Manager Andrew Foley told VARIETY: "The customers crowded in during the summer months, but have neglected the place in winter."

Gengo to Set Acts for Miami, P.R. Loew Hotels

Larry Gengo has been named talent booker for the Loew's Hotel chain for outlets outside of New York. He will set acts for the Americana Hotels in Miami Beach and San Juan. The New York Americana will continue to be booked by Claude C. Philippe, the inn's executive veepee and general manager.

Gengo will resign from International Talent Associates at the end of the week to assume his new post. Prior to his tenure with ITA, he had been with UTM Artists Ltd., and was with MCA when latter office dropped its talent agency.

This is the first time that the Loew's chain has hired a nightclub booker. For a time, it was believed that Loew's would assign Leo Cohen to do the hotel bookings. He's now head of the purchasing dept., but booked many Loew's theatres during Vaude's heyday and is still on the lookout for any attraction which can be profitably booked into Loew's Theatres.

Decision to go outside for a cafe booker stems from the vast difference between theatre and cafe bookings, and the new conditions that prevail in today's talent market.

Gengo's retention also indicates that Loew's Hotels will also study the feasibility of putting in talent into some of its other operations, which are in the motor hotel field. It's likely that lounges will be open in some of the motor inns.

Central Canada Exhib Drops World of Mirth

Ottawa. Oct. 22.

After playing the Central Canada Exhibition annually for more than 30 years, World of Mirth midway will not be back. CCE's contract with the carny has been cancelled, with three years to run, and the fair association is looking for a new 1964 midway.

Frank Bergen's shows and rides had become almost synonymous with Central Canada Exhibition, and Bergen himself dated back half a century when he was a hand on the midway at Lansdowne Park.

Jack Clarke, CCE g.m., has pacted Andy Williams to billtop the 1964 grandstand show at CCE, with Osmand Bros. and the Hal Sands line also booked for next year's fair.

ROACH-LAMBERT'S AGENCY

Dublin, Oct. 22.

Comedian Hal Roach and ventriloquist Eugene Lambert have formed Lambert-Roach Productions here. They plan to supply acts for hotels, clubs and terperies and also complete shows.

Cabaret biz has been building in Ireland and Lambert-Roach hope to cash in on it with their new agency.

Recently there has been a number of vaude bookings in nabe picture houses. A policy of importing name acts for one-night stands has been adopted by Adelphi Cinema, Dublin, a 2,500-seater.

FOUR LADS

Thangs to the DJ's for the many plays on our new United Artists single "It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World," b/w "Stolen Hours."... currently appearing for Southtown Merchants Association, Minneapolis, Oct. 23rd to Oct. 26th...opening Town Casino, Buffalo, Nov. 4th ...bookings general Artist Corporation.

Mgt.: LENNY DITSON
1776 Broadway, New York City

Milt Krasny To Open Own Agency

Milton Krasny has resigned as head of the Ashley-Steiner-Famous Artists office on the Coast to open his own agency. He had been with A-S-FA for several months, having come to the office after a long tenure as veepee and general manager of General Artists Corp.

Krasny entered the agency business after being president of the Cleveland local of the American Federation of Musicians. At one time he was in line for the presidency of GAC, but post went to Larry Kanaga. Latter has since retired from the agency business to return to academic life. He's now matriculating at Yale.

Krasny was right hand man to Thomas H. Rockwell, GAC topper until his death some years ago. Krasny had been working on the development of the Coast variety dept.

Colorful Hub Columnist Alan Frazer Dies At 66

Boston, Oct. 22.

Hub lost its last show biz columnist with the death of Alan Frazer, Boston Record American's "My Boston" columnist for the past 15 years, of a heart attack while at breakfast Tuesday (15). He was 66.

Frazer's column which touched on night clubs, nitery performers, cafes, beaneries, legit films and human interest items, ran daily, except Mondays, in the Record American and on Sunday in the Sunday Advertiser.

A former city editor of the Boston Hearst paper, he was w.k. to thousands of acts all over the world who had played Boston at one time or another.

Other Boston show biz columnists were George Clarke of the defunct Daily Record, who retired when the Record merged with the Record American as one newspaper; and George Frazier, who touched on show biz matters, before resigning recently from the Boston Herald.

Frazer's "My Boston" was sometimes a column of items, and sometimes a complete column on a performer. He was of the old school of scribes and checked every item out thoroughly and woe to the press agent who tried to slip him a phoney. He prided himself on never having run a "blind" item or one that couldn't be checked and substantiated.

He made the rounds of Hub's show biz beat and even on weekends, calling on theatres, nightclubs, beaneries and flackeries to get items. He was also known for his unorthodox writing methods. He seldom wrote at the paper, where he shared his little used office with Rose Walsh, society editor. He preferred to write his columns around town in whatever place he happened to be when deadline time approached with his familiar line: "I've got a column to write—let me use a typewriter."

U.S. Agencies to Bear Down On 'One Way' Talent Deals Abroad

American agents are resentful of what they call "one-way" deals by European agencies who import top Yank names and then continue negotiations for Continental and UK cafe, television and other bookings.

For example, a top London Agency imports U.S. talent for tv and submits these acts to Paris, Rome and other correspondent agencies, thus cutting out the American agents' share of such booking revenue.

Possibility is that the American agents may seek Federal protection on this matter. The indies who work the foreign field may ask the Artists Representatives Assn. to sponsor such legislation in Congress. They claim that most European countries offer their agents such protection and, therefore the principle of dealing through native agencies exclusively is already established.

The agencyites say that such inroads, thus far, are sufficient to point out the inherent danger of U.S. offices being cut out completely in foreign deals. They point out that the jurisdiction of American talent unions doesn't go beyond American territory and therefore unions cannot exercise any control over European agents. The percenters fear that some of the acts that may thus be sold here may ultimately be used to undercut American scales and conditions.

Some percenters are of the opinion that no legislation is necessary, but closer cooperation with the U.S. Immigration authorities would end the evil. Some think that many acts imported into the U.S. are duplicates of talent found domestically, and therefore shouldn't permitted entry. The law allows only for the importation of unique talents not available from the American roster of acts.

Hildegarde's 3-Weeker At Roosevelt Hotel, N. Y.

Hildegarde will play the Roosevelt Hotel, N.Y., starting Nov. 11 for three weeks. It'll be her first date away from the Plaza, Waldorf-Astoria or the Pierre Hotels, where she had been a mainstay for some years. For years, the singer was the top attraction at the Plaza's Persian Room.

Hildegarde retains a strong hold on the society sector. She has been set to headline the Jacksonville (Fla.) Symphony Ball Jan. 18. Julius La Rosa will follow the chantoosey at the Roosevelt.

Hunt Cancels Fair Deal Over Tiff On Admissions

H. L. Hunt, the Texas oilionaire and food processor, has cancelled plans to build a replica of the Tivoli Gardens (Copenhagen) at the New York World's Fair. It was to have occupied the largest area in the industrial section with more than 150,000 sq. ft. of space adjacent to the Pool of Industry.

Whether the space dropped by Hunt will be taken up by another exhibitor hasn't yet been disclosed. However, the Fair has previously stated that there would no longer be sufficient time to build any major exhibits.

Although reasons for the squabble haven't been revealed, it's indicated that there had been a tiff over admissions. It's understood that the Fair objected to a charge to get into the Hunt exhibit and of charging additionally for rides within that compound. Another item in the dispute centered around a roof for the exhibit. Fair officials felt that there should be a covering, while operators felt that a roof would be detrimental to the project.

Normally, most of the amusement projects are located in the Fair's Lake area, but there are some entertainment enterprises in other sections of the fair. The Lake area has no more land space. As a result the State of Louisiana exhibit, which will centre around amusements, has been slotted in the States area, while Hunt had to go into the industrial section.

Gal's Risque Ditties Help Fold Calgary Pump Rm.

Calgary, Alta., Oct. 22.

Salty material used by an entertainer from Toronto helped close the Pump Room dining lounge. Owned by James Hobbs, it went into voluntary liquidation two weeks after its entertainment license was suspended by the Alberta Liquor Control Board.

The board said the license was lifted because of the poor taste of the entertainment offered by Tish Goode, singer-pianist. The suspension, which was to be in effect three weeks, did not prevent the club from operating.

The board added that the lounge management had been warned to tidy up the spicier portions of Miss Goode's songs and stories, but had failed to do so.

Hobbs said the suspension was only a contributing factor in the decision to close.

Amus. Incorporations

ENTERTAINMENT MANAGEMENT INC. authorized to conduct business in New York, with capital stock of 200 shares, no par value. Wallace Magaziner filing attorney.

HAMID AMUSEMENT CORP. authorized to conduct an amusement business, with offices in New York. Capital stock is 200 shares, no par value. Bloomer & Hellman filing attorneys.

FORDHAM ELEGANTE INC. authorized to conduct a night club, cabaret, dance hall and catering business in the Bronx. Capital stock consists of 100 shares, no par value. John J. Parker filing attorney.

WOMAN'S WORLD OF TOMORROW INC. authorized to conduct an amusement and exhibition enterprise business in New York. Capital stock is 200 shares, no par value. Parker, Chapin & Flattau filing attorneys.

OMAHA'S COLONY CLUB DESTROYED BY FIRE

Omaha, Oct. 22.

A blast and accompanying fire gutted the Colony Club here. It was Omaha's only nitery featuring name entertainment. Two adjoining establishments in the heart of downtown Omana also were completely demolished in the two-alarm blaze.

Singer Harold Ward was current at the club which recently had featured "Little Egypt" and Pat Suzuki.

Vice Rap Closes A.C.'s Club Harlem 75 Days

Atlantic City, Oct. 22.

Club Harlem, mid-city sepia nitery, has been shuttered for 75 days as of Thursday (17) through Dec. 30 for permitting immoral activity on its premises. The closing was ordered by the State Alcoholic Beverage Control after investigations of a 1962 "pickup" incident.

ABC agents testified at a hearing that a man at the club's bar introduced them to a call girl. One agent went to a motel with her while another called police. The girl was arrested on prostitution charges which were later dismissed when her counsel claimed entrapment.

Had the shuttering order come during the summer season, the 750-seat back room would have been affected. Larry Steele's "Smart Affairs" revue headlines at the Club Harlem in July and August.

Scot Vaudery's Reprieve

Dundee, Oct. 22.

Johnnie Victory, Scot comedian, will make a personal bid to save the Palace vaudery here from extinction as a live theatre. Comic, who has played the Palace many times, is offering to lease the theatre from the owners, Dundee Varieties Ltd.

He told VARIETY: "There are other people after the Palace. It could be turned into a factory or warehouse, which would be dreadful. I think it would be a good idea to stage a 45-minute vaude show, then bingo."

"THE GREATEST...

— nightclub act I've ever seen. Brought the Plaza first nighters to their feet cheering."

ED SULLIVAN

"She projects like the Eiffel Tower . . . Fortified by nothing but talent. Carol Lawrence is a nitery click."

VARIETY, Abel

"Carol Lawrence at the Persian Room is simply, completely sensational."

CHARLES McHARRY
New York Daily News

"Carol Lawrence is casting a delicious spell over delighted ringsiders at the Plaza's Persian Room. The room will never be the same."

BOB SALMAGGI,
New York Herald Tribune

"An act constructed with imagination and wit, carried out brilliantly by Miss Lawrence."

— JOHN WILSON,
New York Times

"Safe to say never was there a more exciting opening. Carol Lawrence is a living illustration of what a talented person can accomplish . . . a blockbuster."

— NICK LAPOLE,
New York Journal-American

"Beautiful Carol Lawrence at the Persian Room must qualify as today's most talented entertainer. She does everything superbly."

— BERT BACHARACH,
New York Journal-American

"Carol Lawrence excellent in an exciting act."

— EARL WILSON,
New York Post

"Carol Lawrence at the Persian Room a delightful singer and thrilling dancer. What an exciting evening."

LOUIS SOBOL,
New York Journal-American

"The entire first night audience was a study in frantic enthusiasm. Her show was flawless . . . exciting!"

— FRANK FARRELL,
New York World Telegram and Sun

CAROL LAWRENCE

Direction: ASHLEY-STEINER-FAMOUS ARTISTS, INC. • Public Relations: THE MERRICK-SHEFRIN CO., INC.

Sammy Davis Jr. Reaps Japanese Banzais for Top Effort in First Tour

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

"I'm cutting a heavy schedule here, but not a boring heavy schedule," said Sammy Davis Jr. between shows which set top price standards here in clubs and concerts, but still drew jammed houses. "In Vegas for $30,000 a week I only do 45 or 50 minutes. But when you're in a country for the first time, you press to give a good show. I've been doing at least an hour and a half here. The first night at the Copa I did two hours.

"You open the full bag," he told VARIETY. "People are paying to see what it is you do that was important enough to get you invited. In Vegas, for example, I haven't played vibes or drums in about three years. You must remember that in America, most people have seen me on tv or someplace else. But in another country for the first time, you want to explain to the people why they have to pay an extra amount of money. God only knows if you can give them their money's worth, but you can at least try to the best of your ability.

"Sometimes I find myself envying a guy like Frank Sinatra who has sold millions of records and albums around the world and can do 20 numbers any place that are immediately recognized," Davis said. "But I've never had a hit record here. In Japan I just have a clique of fans. So I've had to work harder. In England it became easier after some of my records were hits there. But at the Palladium I didn't start to fool around with impressions of London people until my second time. Then I started doing Cliff Richard; Tony Newley and others."

To gain rapport with audiences here, most visiting performers do a number of two in Japanese. But at his opening Kosei Nenkin Hall concert, Davis announced that he would not attempt to emulate that device.

He explained, "I think it's horrible whether you do it in Japanese, Spanish or any other language that's foreign to you. I think there are very few artists who can do that beautifully. I don't believe it should be done unless you can speak that language as well as your own. I think the day is gone when you can put a song together phonetically. I know it's never worked for me."

Davis cited his two credos for showmanship. He said, "I try to look like I'm having a ball and want everybody to join me. And I try to be completely honest.

"That applies everywhere, even at home where everything is so speeded up that you have to get it across faster," he added. "But here it's more difficult because of the language barrier. Yet I found at the Copa that those Japanese who understand English have the same humor as we. I didn't have to worry about switching my material for them.

"But at the hall last night, I discovered I had a predominantly non-English-speaking audience. After four numbers—click, click, click—I suddenly realized I had to make an adjustment. Like in golf, you change your stance. I did the same numbers as in the club, but approached them differently. Where I would ordinarily do a lot of jokes, I dropped them and sang straight through, just doing physical bits, which are always communicative.

"The only really difficult thing here has been doubling between halls and clubs and remembering the differences in audiences," Davis pointed out.

NICK LUCAS
Now Appearing
HARRAH'S
Reno, Nev.

Thanks!
ALLEN FUNT
For Having
Comedy Waiter
ARTIE ROBERTS
Oct. 27th on
CANDID CAMERA
Contact:
ROBERT MEIER
1674 B'way, New York City CI 5-3660

TALENT REPRESENTATIVE
Seeks an Associate, must be willing to donate part of firm's income to the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund for Cancer Research.
BOX V-3531, VARIETY
154 W. 46th St., New York 36

Puerto Rico Sheraton Bows Officially With Oct. 31 Ball

San Juan, Oct. 22.

Fred McMurray, his wife June Haver, Rhonda Fleming and John Raitt are among the showfolk expected here for the official inauguration ball of the Puerto Rico Sheraton Hotel Oct. 31. The resort inn opened for business, though, early this month.

The 21-story, 400-room Sheraton (the tallest building in Puerto Rico) cost an estimated $12,000,000. Facilities include a large swimming pool, private beach, tennis courts, a rooftop restaurant (seating 200), a casino, and a ballroom that will accommodate 1,300 for meetings. Four duplex suites that face the Atlantic go for $100 per day (sans meals).

Hotel's nitery showcase is a posh terraced supperclub, called Salon Carnaval, seating 250. Preopening acts so far have included Roberto Iglesias and the Malagon Sisters.

The new hotel in the Condado section is owned by the Enterprise Development Hotel Corp., and was created by the Sheraton Corp. Hotel's manager is Randall Davis.

Elect Sturckler V.P. Of Int'l Assn. of Aud Mgrs.

Joseph C. Sturckler, manager of the Spokane (Wash.) Coliseum since 1960, has been elected vice-president of the International Assn. of Auditorium Managers. He will be head of the organization's District 8, which comprises the Northwest U.S. and Southwest Canada. Sturckler's election followed a mail referendum of the membership to succeed David Dauphinee of Vancouver, who resigned because of business pressures.

Sturckler joined the Spokane Coliseum in 1954 as concession manager, and served as assistant manager before becoming manager. The building seats 8,500. Sturckler also becomes a member of the IAAM board of directors.

Jet Macdonnell

London, Oct. 22.

Leslie A. Macdonnell, managing director of Moss Empires, is due in New York Nov. 7 for a business quickie. His wife will accompany him.

Between now and then, however, he is commuting to Paris this week, thence to Birmingham where the circuit has just modernized one of its big houses, to Moscow on the 21st, Budapest Oct. 24, and after some more provincial visits he attends the Nov. 4 command performance, with Bernard Delfont, at the Prince of Wales Theatre locally. Thereafter he offs to the States.

Top of the Fair Eatery Preems

The N.Y. World's Fair, slated to open formally next April 22, has already started to admit the paying public. The Top of the Fair, a restaurant in the New York Port Authority Building in the Transportation section, the roof of which also serves as a heliport, is now serving paying customers. The Sikorsky copter service flies diners in, and roads leading to the eatery are now open.

The Top of the Fair will also serve as one of the Fair's major niteries, albeit with a band policy only. Thus far, there has been no regular band since its formal preem Wednesday (16). Charlie Turecamo has been playing there several nights, but not on a regular basis.

The Top of the Fair, with its pre-fair opening, is in direct competition with the New York City hotels and restaurants. Spot is booking banquets and charity balls and is luring customers into the Flushing area who might normally patronize midcity restaurants. All this, say the midtown ops, is without bringing in a single citizen into New York. Big lure is a view of the Fair under construction.

The situation will change, of course, once the Fair gets into full swing. Then the midtown areas will prosper as well.

Builder of the Top of the Fair is George Hyams, and it's being operated by the Knott Hotels Corp. The permanent policy hasn't yet been decided, although it's fairly evident that the terp format will remain. The Top of the Fair has 1,100 capacity in its main room, plus a 450-seat lounge.

Also, there's a Terrace Club on the premises, a private eatery for which membership comes to $1,200. There are indications that the Top of the Fair will be a permanent addition to the city's architecture. It will operate during the winter when the Fair closes, and there's a likelihood that Hyams will continue the lease even after the Fair closes. The amount of business done during the off-season may provide the key to its permanence.

Minn. Firms Shy Away From N.Y. Fair Exhibit

St. Paul, Oct. 22.

Some 11 Minnesota business concerns, fewer than had been hoped for, have agreed to shell out for exhibits in this state's New York World's Fair pavilion.

The pavilion's first unit last week was assembled and put on display in front of the State Capitol here. The pavilion will consist of a cluster of six-sided units called "hexagonal polyhedrons."

Twelve of the six-sided units will be interlocked in a honeycomb pattern. It's hoped that more exhibitors can be corralled. If so, additional units will be added. Each polyhedron has 1,000 square feet of floor space and stands 40 feet high.

Meanwhile, opposition in influential quarters continues as far as the proposed 1970 Minnesota World's Fair is concerned. Both jointly-owned Minneapolis daily newspapers have come out editorially against it. However, a poll taken by one of those sheets indicated a majority of the state's residents favor it.

Vaude, Cafe Dates

New York

Jackie Miles set for the Boulevard, Rego Park, Nov. 27 . . . Milton Berle tapped for the Desert Inn, Las Vegas, starting Jan. 17 . . . Johnny Desmond into the Mapes, Reno, Nov. 21 . . . Milton Berle and Neil Sedaka booked for the Concord, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., over the Thanksgiving Day Weekend . . . The Crystal Room show has a brother and sister complex working there now. Brothers Larry Storch and Jay Lawrence are on the bill along with Barbara Velasco and Maria Velasco. All do separate acts . . . Julius Monk marked his first anni of "Dime a Dozen" at the Plaza Hotel, with a party last Friday (18) . . . Chick Lane signed with the Agency for the Performing Arts.

Industrial Show Review

Playback

Dictaphone presentation of Julius Monk production with Jack Fletcher, Freddie Weber, Mary Louise Wilson, Beth Parks, Tom Mixon, Richard Blair. Written by Bud McCreery; choreography, Frank Wagner; supervisior, Julius Monk. Presented at Plaza 9 Room of the Plaza Hotel, N. Y., Oct. 15, 1963.

An industrial show takes a lot of writing and rehearsal and admittedly is one of the most expensive forms of live show biz. It's therefore a luxurious indulgence to find that a firm has spent a lot of loot for a show that's designed for only one day's presentation. However, it could be worth it if the occasion is sufficiently important and if it results in a lot of press coverage, especially in the trade in which it operates.

That apparently is the layout of the Dictaphone Show, which Julius Monk, the Plaza 9 Room impresario, designed for the company's 75th anniversary celebration. An afternoon exhibit was held Tuesday (15) for the press and a cocktail show was given in the evening for some of the firm's top customers. The glee evident on company officials' faces seemed to radiate that it was a worthwhile investment even after Dictaphone picked up the talent, the liquor and condiments tabs for both layouts held at the Plaza's Plaza 9 Room.

Monk designed a smart and lively show in the normal Plaza 9 manner. It's bright, brittle, brashly sophisticated and loaded with witty sayings tailored for those conscious of the Dictaphone. Bud McCreery wrote a breezy set of lyrics for the event and Frank Wagner designed the choreography.

The six performers comprised the regulars of the Plaza 9 Room. Jack Fletcher, who appeared the nearest approach to a lead, took on the duties of conferencier and narrator when necessary. He was assisted in the general air of gaiety by Freddy Weber, Beth Parks, Mary Louise Wilson, Tom Mixon and Richard Blair.

The tunes had fetching titles such as "Anniversary Schmaltz," "When My Sewing Machine Talked Back to Me," based on the early Dictapone which had a foot treadle, and "Paperwork Breakaway." In addition, the skits such as the origin of the company's name and the invention of the machine, made for purposeful good humor. There also were bits written for each of the models, which, as any accountant knows, satisfies the Internal Revenue Service definition of a business show. Jose.

N. M.'s Unofficial Exhib

Albuquerque, Oct. 22.

New Mexico will be represented at next year's New York World's Fair, but it won't be an official state exhibit.

A year ago, the state legislature okayed the peddling of $250,000 in bonds to finance an official state project at the World's Fair Only catch was, nobody would buy 'em.

This resulted in the formation last week of a private New Mexico Development Corp. to organize the exhibit. Five private citizens head the corporation. The nonprofit firm has obtained a $100,000 advance in private funds for the exhibit. State's governor, Jack Campbell, lauded the idea, and said it wouldn't cost the taxpayers of the state a cent.

Cleveland

Phyllis Diller returning to Chateau Supper Club Oct. 28 through Nov. 2, following Sophie Tucker's current five-day engagement. Also set for Chateau is Johnny Puleo and Harmonicats Nov. 4-9; Lisa Carol, Nov. 11-16; Roberta Sherwood, Nov. 18-23, and Treniers Dec. 12-21.

Dick Gregory had to postpone two-day date at Jazz Temple and flew to Selma, Ala., when his wife and other integrationists were jailed there for picketing . . . Cinebox, musical and film jukebox, given trade showings by Duncan Sales Co., its distributor in this area . . . Jennifer Marshall, thrushing at Hotel Alcazar Cafe Intime, topped banquet show kicking off United Appeal drive in Cleveland.

Phil Napoleon's Memphis Five brought back by Morris ("Mushy") Wexler for three-weeker at his Theatrical Restaurant . . . Leo Frank and Jules Berger became partners in new Leo's Casino installed in Hotel Quad Hall. Opened by Gloria Lynne, it's currently headlining "Cannonball" Adderley . . . Jazz singer Micki Lynn, recently at Las Vegas Flamingo, accompanied by drummer Tommy Butler and George Peters trio at Virginian . . . French West is Cleveland's newest hot-spot using three different jazz units, dance teams and audience contest gimmicks.

BOSTON SMASH HIT
THE GLAMOROUS NEW HOTEL
AVERY
Show folks are raving about the all new Hotel Avery. All new, large, beautifully furnished de-luxe rooms with private bath, television & radio. Air conditioning.
AVERY & WASHINGTON STS.

BUCK BUCKLEY
QUARTER WIT
Currently

Casablanca Hotel
Miami Beach

Oh ye rats and finks, thanks for making RAT FINK ROOM the hottest.
JACKIE KANNON'S
RAT FINK ROOM
Atop The Roundtable
151 East 50th St.
New York, N. Y.

GAY'S GAGS
Published Monthly, Topical gags, original one liners, jokes. Over 300. $12 per year. Sample Copy $2. Six back issues (latest) $5.12 back issues (latest) $9; 40 back issues (first) $20.
Send Checks to EDDIE GAY
242 West 72nd St., New York 23, N.Y.

TV MONOLOGS
written to order
A. GUY VISK
WRITING ENTERPRISES
124 Old Homestead Rd., Warwick, R.I.

LEON BIBB

Concerts

Oct. 26 UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS Urbana
Oct. 27 TEMPLE AUDITORIUM St. Louis Mo.
Oct. 28 NORTHWESTERN STATE Alva Okla.
Oct. 30 STATE COLLEGE La Crosse Wis.
Oct. 31 ORPHEUM THEATRE Madison Wis.
Nov. 1 UNIVERSITY OF MINN. Duluth
Nov. 2 UNIVERSITY OF MINN. Mpls.
Nov. 9 TOWN HALL New York
Nov. 19 LIVINGSTONE COLLEGE Salisbury N.C.
Nov. 21 U.N.C. OF NO. CAROLINA Greensboro N.C.
Nov. 23 MT. PLEASANT U.S. Wilmington N.C.
Nov. 24 OLD DOMINION COLLEGE Norfolk Va.

Clubs

Dec. [illegible] GREENWICH VILLAGE [illegible]

Television

[illegible]

Records

ENCORE ENSEMBLE CONCERT
[illegible] LIBERTY RECORDS

[illegible] SCHARF

Direction WILLIAM MORRIS AGENCY Personal Management HAROLD LEVENTHAL 200 West 57th Street · New York 19, N.Y., JUdson 6-6553

Geo. Lewis & Preservation Hall Jazz Band From N.O. a 2-Hr. Tokyo Wow

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

George Lewis and the Preservation Hall Jazz Band from New Orleans played for two hours in their recent Tokyo performance at Kosei Nenkin Hall to a house that was jammed to the side aisles and with the audience applauding even Lewis' introductions. The septet of jazz ancients wove tapestried melodies of "the truth" that, by comparison, makes more w.k. groups of the idiom seem like vaudeville acts.

With five of the band's members in their 80s, banjo man Emanuel Sayles the baby of the unit at 56, and bass player Papa John Joseph a gaunt 88, people approached the concert hall as they would a museum. But what they heard was a cohesive band that vigorously pumped fresh life into the warhorse songs identified with the Crescent City. There was no coasting, no forced comedy and no allowances for age.

With the 64 - year - old Lewis' poignant clarinet leading the way, the front line featured frisky Louis Nelson, 62, playing both mellow and tailgate on trombone, and Punch Miller, 69, sounding loud and clear on trumpet. At the piano, Joe Robichaux, 63, adding to the roar of his attack by standing up on occasion, played in a vital, two-fisted style. Joe Watkins, 63, proved an adept timekeep on drums, and Sayles resolutely plucked his banjo in a manner that drew cheers whenever he carried his chair forward.

Flowery Climax

It was during the closing presentation of flowers that the proceedings were brought to a climax. While applause thundered through the huge hall, Lewis removed his glasses and dabbed at his eyes with a handkerchief before the band swung into an encore.

"These people are wonderful," he said. "They're happy, more responsive to this type of music. People seem to appreciate it more outside the States. I don't mean audiences are cold in the U. S.—we played to 24,000 in Boston in two days. But overseas they seem hungry for this type of music," noted Lewis, who has made four European tours in recent years.

"This is not Dixieland, but ragtime jazz," he pointed out. "Usually we have very few solos. We're just doing them here because the people want to get to know each member. But usually we do mostly ensemble work, although they put me as the leader.

"In Dixieland," he explained, "they are all soloists. There is no improvisation. They use set arrangements and it's the same thing every time. But this band never rehearses. Its' all improvised. There are over 500 songs we can play, but here we're working from a set schedule only because they had to print a program."

Nostalgic Buffs

Lewis said he was surprised to find that Japanese fans were familiar with his records from when he played with Bunk Johnson, Baby Dodds, "and the different musicians who have passed on. They know our work and our background. One man even mentioned my wife's name," he added with a smile of disbelief, "and she's been dead for eight years."

Asked if he and his men found the two-hour schedule tiring, Lewis replied, "At Preservation Hall we play four hours a night. It hardly worries these men."

After their single Tokyo performance, Lewis and his band went to the Kansai district to begin 12 weeks of concerts for the Ro-on organization of workers in dates set by Tats Nagashima's Kyodo Kikuka Productions. They'll return in March to fill additional gigs on that circuit.

Traveling with the band are Allan Jaffe and his wife, who operate Preservation Hall in New Orleans, where the Lewis combo and similar outfits are based. "It started as a hobby," said the youthful Jaffe. "We lease the building, but the musicians run it by themselves. It's their hall. We started it so they would have a place to play. It's very informal. People come and go as they please. There is no admission charge, but we have a kitty for contributions and try to get 50c from each visitor. We can seat 40 on wooden benches, have standing room for 70 and 10 or 12 can sit on the floor. No drinks are served."

Another facet of Jaffe's promotion and preservation of N. O jazz is exposure through tours. "Our approach hasn't been commercial," he said, "but the tours have all been sellouts. In addition to the Public Gardens in Boston, we played a town meeting in New Hampshire, in Minneapolis, Chicago and some colleges. There was one nightclub, although we try to stay away from them. When you have to hustle drinks," he added, "the band has to play something to make people thirsty."

Although Lewis and his band seem ideal for State Dept. cultural touring, it is a disappointment to Jaffe that such an invite hasn't come about. He said, "Two USIA films have been made in our hall and the clips from them have been used in other films. Our hall is on the list of suggested places for foreigners in the U. S. to visit as a cultural treasure. Yet we have been seeking State Department sponsorship for a year and a half without any luck." Jamp.

Dear Angelo Martin:
I lobe your new record on Golden Crest Label. "What Did I Do" and "Two Pairs of Shoes."
Love ya.

DONNA LYNN
McClendon Agency TN 7-2287

RICKI DUNN IS A THIEF!

Dir.: Harry Grubbon, 203 N. Wabash Av.
DEarborn 2-0996, Chicago, Illinois

BILLY GLASON's FUN-MASTER
PROFESSIONAL COMEDY MATERIAL
For every branch of theatricals
"WE SERVICE THE STARS!"
26 Reg Nites $15, plus $1 postage
FOREIGN: 35 for $30
• 3 Parody Books, per Bk. .... $10 •
• 5 Blackout Books 1-2-3 Each $25 •
No. 4 for $35—No. 5 for $30
• Minstrel (white face) Budget $25 •
• "How to Master the Ceremonies" •
$3 PER COPY . NO C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54th St., N.Y.C. 10019 CO 5-1316
(We TEACH M.C'ing and COMEDY)
(Let a real Professional train you!

Swank Suburban Chicago Resort Hotel Looking For ATTRACTIVE YOUNG GIRL PIANIST—SINGER
For Long Term Engagement
In Its New Piano Bar
Send Photo and Resume
Box Y-785, 400 N. Michigan Ave.
Chicago 11, Illinois

Longhair Xmas Fest

Continued from page 2

cert auditoria. Festival Associates Inc. is the corporate name of the auspices. Thomas Dunn will conduct the music in all instances.

Christmas Fest will include Rosalyn Tureck in a piano concert of the Goldberg Variations at Philharmonic. Unusual, too, are the ballets for children by Amsterdam's "Acapino Ballet." There will be a 12-performance sequence of "The Princess and the Pea" at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Dec. 24-29. This will confront N.Y. City Center Ballet with a rival attraction to its annual run of "Nutcracker Suite."

Another Hoffman-Schutz event occurs Christmas night combining Respighi and Bach seasonal music at Philharmonic. Day following a harpsichord concert of Bach works by Sylvia Marlowe and Fernando Valenti is set. Lukas Foss will present still a different Bach evening on Dec. 29.

"Messiah" concerts are scaled to $4.80 but other events are held to $4 top and much stress on $1.50 locations.

Ray Charles Unit Draws Peak $18,250 in Knoxville Civic Coliseum One-Niter

Knoxville, Oct. 22.

Ray Charles and his troupe pulled a record crowd of 6,854 that paid a peak $18,250 at a Saturday (12) one-nighter in the Knoxville Civic Coliseum. Booking was under auspices of John Ringley and Jim Crockett Promotions of Charlotte, N. C.

Coliseum manager Fred C. McCallum said the capacity attendance and gross was by far the best since the arena opened. Seats were priced at $2 and $3.

Charles, who is on a southeastern tour, heads a unit comprising a 17-piece orchestra and the Raelets, a femme vocal quartet. Musical direction is by Edgar Willis while Jeff Brown is manager.

With tunes ranging from blues to c&w, the troupe scored solidly with the audience in a two-hour and 15 minutes stint. Charles worked as a single, with orchestra support, for a full hour and warbled such standards as "Marie" and "Georgia on My Mind" for hefty plaudits.

Raelets joined with Charles on some precision vocals that included "Don't Set Me Free," among other numbers. Making up the quartet are Gwendolyn Berry, Darlene McCrea, Pat Lyes and Margie Hendrix. They won top returns.

Charles' artistry impressed the customers, especially his ability to measure the audience's mood despite the fact he can't see them. He seems to feel them. Versatile performer not only worked at the 88, vocalled and led the band but also emceed.

Next on the unit's concert tour are Richmond and Raleigh, N. C.

Vegas Standards

Continued from page 1

presented at The Thunderbird after the run of "Anything Goes" and "High Button Shoes."

Condensed Dialog

Proser said the only difference between the condensed versions of Las Vegas and a full scale Broadway show is about a half-hour of dialog. Show will be written full-scale at first, then sliced for about an 90-minute running time sans intermission.

The sets, costumes, arrangements orchestrations etc. can be amortized during the Vegas run and perhaps even come into Broadway with a profit, said Proser. This can have the effect of reducing overall costs on the Stem and bringing down ticket prices, ultimately. It could also help overcome adverse reviews by the critics.

Proser asserted that the Vegas formula at present tends to lightness. "Flower Drum Song," current at The Thunderbird, is the longest-running Vegas legiter and is still drawing, he added. On the other hand, "South Pacific" tended to be "too heavy" for casino consumption.

Proser also pointed out that a legit policy is conducive to bringing a greater variety of talent to Las Vegas and at reduced prices as well. He noted that Dick Shawn, who will be the comedy lead in both "Anything Goes" and "Shoes," is going in at one-third of what he could get at another hotel. Shawn is doing this to demonstrate for the Hollywood brass that comes there. In addition to doing the two legit musicals, Shawn will do an extra 2:30 a.m. one-man show on Saturday nights.

There are others, according to Proser, who would make the Vegas scene with the view of doing well out there before hitting Broadway.

As presently plotted, "Hong Kong Charlie" will have a book by Jerome Chodorov and music by Gordon Jenkins. Proser is still lining up the show's other elements. He sought shows to break in at The Thunderbird last year. But many balked at starting in Vegas, where they would be kept for a long time if successful there. "Hong Kong Charlie" will provide a pilot for the industry.

Proser also pointed out that more recreational facilities are enticing different clienteles. The Thunderbird, he added, opened its quarter-horse race track on the opening day of the World Series and drew 15,000. The sport is enticing the monied elements from Texas.

Golfers already abound in Vegas because of the major money tournaments already held there. There are bridge tournaments and other competitions that bring in varied visitors.

Proser feels that Vegas is attaining a maturity, which together with financial backing, can make the casino country probably the most important show biz centre in the world.

AGVA

Continued from page 53

bitterly fought, particularly by president Joey Adams who presided. Adams took the occasion to excoriate VARIETY as not being particularly desirous of furthering AGVA's "good image." He denounced VARIETY as refusing to look at the bright side of the union and reporting only such "filth" and "vulgarisms" as came out of the recent Senate subcommittee on Permanent Investigations hearings which uncovered its vast B-Girl membership.

The second fight came with the decision to hold the closed confab. This was also fought, and it's noted that between the press resolution and the vote on the closed meeting, the reform elements lost several votes. This seemed to indicate that reform will have harder sledding than originally imagined.

The new climate of the national Board meeting contrasted with that which prevailed at the previous June meeting and resulted because of the recent elections. Adams was the only officer to survive the balloting because he ran without opposition. The dissident faction won all officer posts as well as all but one national board member.

Marlene & Garner

Continued from page 2

speciality acts of Francis Brunn and Pinky & Perky.

The bill will be completed by Max Bygraves, currently starring at the Talk of the Town; comedians Charlie Drake, Dickie Henderson, Eric Sykes and Hattie Jacques; and Harry Secombe and Tommy Steele with the "Pickwick" company and the "Half a Sixpence" company, respectively. The Billy Petch dancers will provide the fourth specialty routine.

The show, which will be staged by Robert Nesbitt, is expected to yield about $90,000 for the VABF, of which $56,000 will come from the telecast the following Sunday.

There will also be a broadcast from BBC radio, for which around $3,000 is paid. The rest of the coin comes from the sale of tickets, which are at a $60 top. They will yield an estimated $36,400, while the brochure program is likely to net an additional $5,500.

Unusually, this year's Royal show will only involve the cancellation of one commercial performance—that at the Prince of Wales itself.

The show will be presented by Bernard Delfont, current president of the VABF, in conjunction with vice prexy Leslie A. Macdonnell and general secretary Arthur Scott.

Chi Chez Paree

Continued from page 54

and it is described as a "Las Vegas type lounge" by management. It has two small stages for the uninterrupted change of acts and will seat about 250. There will be dancing in the lounge, and the owners are considering a minimum charge.

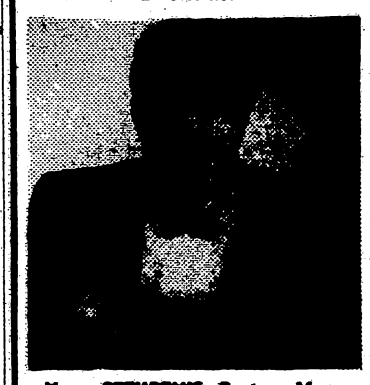
Sauna, Anyone?

The private health club in the basement will contain a Turkish bath, a sauna, masseur, billiard room and barber shop. It's expected to be in operation within two weeks after the rest of the club. Management is promoting an "exclusive" tag for the health club, and there is talk of a $100 annual membership fee.

With work not yet completed on the present club, the Chez Paree owners are preparing plans for a sizable extension of the nitery for next year. The main room will be expanded to 1,100 capacity in the planned layout, and the health club will be enlarged to include a swimming pool. The new construction will be built on what is now a parking lot on the west side of the present building.

The old Chez Paree was Chi's flagship nitery from when it was opened by Mike Fritzel and Joey Jacobson in 1933 until it folded in 1960. Fritzel and Jacobson ran it until 1948, when they were bought out by Medievine, Halper, Jay Schatz and Al Kaiser. Schatz and Kaiser dropped out a few years before it closed. It was the top spot in the era of such big clubs in the '30s and '40s as the Rio Cabana, Latin Quarter, and the Frolics.

TONY LAVELLI
"America's Great Accordion Entertainer"



Now, STEUBEN'S, Boston, Mass.
Nov. 9, '62, Las Vegas Review: "One of the truly great talents in Show Business."

"THE COMEDIAN"
The Only Real Monthly
PROFESSIONAL GAG SERVICE
THE LATEST — THE GREATEST — THE MOST-UP-TO-DATEST
Now in its 155th Issue, containing stories one-liners, poemettes, song titles, hecklers, audience stuff, monologs, parodies, double gags, bits ideas, intros, impressions and impersonations, political, interruptions, Thoughts of the Day, Humorous Views of the News, Vignettes, etc. (20 Pages).
$25 YR.—SINGLE ISSUES $3
Foreign
$35 YR.—SINGLE ISSUES $4
No C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON, 200 W. 54th St.
New York City 10019, CO 5-1316

Not Since
DUNNINGER
has there been a mentalist available for nightclubs with the boldness of the amazing DR. FAUST.
DR. FAUST has a direct, solid fun approach to mentalism. He combines humor, originality, and stunning effects that please an audience.
Available for engagements
America and Europe
Contact—LARRY SPANGLER
20 E. 35th St. New York 16
OR 9-3977

Gina—
A New Feeling in Popular Music

SINGERS
Parodies, special material written for your exclusive use. Very reasonable. Write for appointment.
BILL SCHWARTZ
105 Hawthorne St., Brooklyn 25, N.Y.

Acclaimed!

BY PRESS and SRO Business at

CARNEGIE HALL
New York (October 12)

ACADEMY OF MUSIC
Philadelphia (October 18)

NEW YORK TIMES

(Oct. 14, 1963)
John S. Wilson

JOSEPHINE BAKER IS HAILED AT CARNEGIE

"...triumphant return, capacity audience acclaimed her with cheers, bravos and several standing ovations. She brought the Hall alive with excitement, that never diminished . . . a roaring tribute of approval brought the entire audience to its feet, it was an evening to remember."

PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN

(October 19, 1963)

JOSEPHINE BAKER WINS OVATION AT THE ACADEMY

"As svelt and as sinuous as ever . . . took over the stage at the Academy of Music last night . . . brought the House down . . . the audience standing in a genuine ovation at the end . . . an electric nostalgic evening right from the start . . . a real show business pro."

VARIETY

(Oct. 16, 1963)

JOSY BAKER BOFFO IN CARNEGIE BASH

". . . the crowds go beserk . . . she remains an overwhelming personality . . . vigor and tremendous personality."

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

(Oct. 14, 1963)
Robert Salmaggi

JOSEPHINE BAKER BACK IN AN EMOTIONAL REUNION

". . . a standing room only, emotion-packed welcome by her ardent followers and admirers . . . she didn't disappoint them."

PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

(October 19, 1963)

Parisian Star Wows, Woos

"It was Josephine Baker's evening at the Academy of Music Friday. The long-time star of Parisian and other music halls toyed with the audience and appeared in one breathtaking 'creation' after another."

Joséphine Baker

Thanks to:
FELIX GERSTMAN
Impresario
GERSHON KINGSLEY, Conductor
MICHAEL MANN—Stage Director
MAX EISEN—Press Agent

Produced by JACK JORDAN
In association with
TRANS-WORLD ASSOCIATES

Exclusively RCA VICTOR RECORDS

Personal Management: TRANS-WORLD ASSOCIATES, Suite 503 200 W. 57th St. New York 19 Tel. PLaza 7-7671

CURRENT BILLS

WEEK OF OCTOBER 23

NEW YORK CITY

MUSIC HALL—Rockettes, Corps de Ballet, Raymond Paige Symphony Orch.

AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE (Tivoli)—June Bronhill, Jon Weaving, Suzanne Steele, Pauline Garrick, Gordon Wilcock, Ivan King, Kevin Mills, Maureen London, Ray Collier, David Gray.

SYDNEY (Tivoli)—Jeff Warren, Susan Swinford, John Rickard, Lina Denison, Geraldine Morrow, Ron Bennett, Geoffrey Veitch, Suzanne West, Jacqui Carroll, Andrew Guild, David Phillips, Christopher Hill.

BRITAIN

LIVERPOOL (Empire)—Jimmy Edwards, Beryl Reid, Reg Varney, The Raindrops, The Kuban Kossacks, Los Flamencos, Neil & Pat Delrina, Jimmy Curries' Waltzing Waters, The Joan Davis Dancers.

MANCHESTER (Palace)—The Beverley Sisters, Eve Boswell, The Monarchs, Dailey & Wayne, Ted Rogers, 5 Olanders, Eliane & Rodolph, 4 Escorts, Derek Taverner Singers, Joan Davis Dancers.

LONDON (Palladium)—Arthur Haynes, Frank Ifield, Susan Maughan, Nicholas Parsons, Bob Wallis and Storeyville Jazzmen, Rudy Cardenas, Walter Gore Ballet Group, Ken Morris & Joan Savage, The Ross Taylor Dancers, Dorothy Dampier, Leslie Noyes.

VICTORIA PALACE — John Boulter, Tony Mercer & Dai Francis, Leslie Crowther, Margo Henderson, George Chisholm Jazzers, Schaller Brothers, T.V. Toppers, Pat Ellis.

Cabaret Bills

NEW YORK CITY

AFRICAN ROOM — Tad Truesdale, Ritchie Haven 3, Johnny Barracuda.

BARBERRY ROOM—Conrad Monjoy.

BASIN ST. EAST—Gloria De Haven, Village Stompers, London Lee.

BITTER END—Tarriers, Woody Allen.

BON SOIR—Felicia Sanders, Marge Cameron, Enid Mosier & Alphonso.

BLUE ANGEL—Vaughn Meader, Patricia Scott.

CHARDAS — Lia Della, Bela Babai Orch, Elemar Horvath, Tibor Rakossy, Dick Marta, Janos Hozzsu.

CHATEAU MADRID—Los Chavales de Espana, Emilio Reyes Orc., Carbia Orc.

COPACABANA—Tony Bennett, Pat Cooper, Joseph Mele Orc., Frank Marti Orc.

CRYSTAL ROOM—Maria Velasco 3, Larry Storch, Jay Lawrence.

EMBERS—Harold Quinn Orc.

GRINZING — Kalman Banyak, Henry Butz.

HAWAIIAN ROOM — Dee Marquez, Keolu Beamer, Auletta Orc.

HOTEL AMERICANA—Buddy Greco, Enrique Madriguera Orc.

HOTEL ASTOR—Eddie Lane Orc.

HOTEL NEW YORKER—Milt Saunders Orc., Frankie Dash.

HOTEL PARK SHERATON — Irving Fields 3.

HOTEL PLAZA — Carol Lawrence, Emil Coleman Orc., Mark Monte Orc. Plaza-9 Room: Julius Monk, Carol Morley, Gerry Matthews, Rex Robbins, Lovelady Powell, Susan Browning, Gordon Connell, William Roy, Robert Colston.

HOTEL ROOSEVELT—De Castro Sis, Milt Shaw Orc.

HOTEL ST. REGIS—Peter Duchin Orc, Nancy Manning, Quintero Orc, Walter Kay, Jani Sarkozi.

HOTEL SAVOY-HILTON—Arturo Arturos Orc.

HOTEL STATLER HILTON — Cecil Lloyd.

HOTEL WALDORF-ASTORIA — Alan King, Myer Davis Orc.

INTERNATIONAL — George White's Scandals, Mike Durso Orc.

LATIN QUARTER—Charlivels, Glenda Leigh, Art Johnson, Jo Lombardi Orc., Sam Binder Orc.

LIVING ROOM—Matt & Ginny Dennis, Dick Lynn, Brothers Cain, Bob Ferro Orc.

NO. 1 FIFTH AVENUE—Hankinson & De Malo.

RAMONDO—Violinaires, Vince Donato.

RAT FINK ROOM—Jackie Kannon, Annette Sanders, Gene Stridel, Norm Geller 3.

SAHBRA — "Land of Milk & Honey," Leo Fuld, Bob Phillips Orc.

SQUARE EAST—"To the Water Tower," Bob Dishy, Paul Dooley, Anthony Holland, Andrew Duncan, Barbara Harris, McIntyre Dixon.

TOWN & COUNTRY—Jackie Mason, Marilyn Michaels, Michael & Paula, Ned Harvey's Orc., Rod Rodriguez Orc.

UPSTAIRS & DOWNSTAIRS — Ronnie Graham, David Rounds, Barbara Quaney, Jon Stone, George Coe, Bob Rogers, Sam Pottle, Mabel Mercer.

VIENNESE LANTERN—Monica Boyar, Bes-Arlene, Ernest Schoen Orc.

VILLAGE BARN—Piute Pete, Charles Slavin, Ada Cavallo, Danny Curtis, Kingsmen 4, Lou Harold Orc.

VILLAGE VANGUARD—Sonny Stitt, Bill Evans 3.

CHICAGO

BLUE ANGEL—"International Calypso Revue," Mitsou, Maurishka, The Calypsonians, Al D'lacey Orc.

CONRAD HILTON—"Hat's Off!" Lee Caron, Blackstone Jr., Helga Neff & Theo Ernst, Sherry Stevens, Ernie McLean, Boulevar-Dons (5), Boulevar-Dears (5), Jimmy Palmer Orc.

CRYSTAL PALACE—Oscar Brown Jr., Steinberg & Kadish, Floyd Morris Trio.

DEL PRADO HOTEL—"Hits of Broadway" revue.

DRAKE HOTEL — Patachou, Jimmy Blade Orc.

EDGEWATER BEACH—Dorothy Donegan, Edgewater Beach Guys & Dolls, Don Davis Orc.

GATE OF HORN—Carolyn Hester, Contemporary Folk Group.

LE BISTRO—Anita O'Day, Connie Milano Trio, Larry Novak Trio.

LONDON HOUSE—Jonah Jones Quartet, Jose Bethancourt Trio, Larry Novak Trio.

MISTER KELLY'S—Jackie Gayle, Jackie Cain & Roy Kral, John Frigo Trio, Marty Rubenstein Trio.

NEW LIVING ROOM—Dagmar with Dick Hinds.

PALMER HOUSE—Frankie Laine, Roger Roy, Ben Arden Orc.

PLAYBOY — Bennie Jacobs, Michael Dees, Faye Adams, Kenny Roberts, Simmy Bow, Jerry Collins.

SECOND CITY—"13 Minotaurs" Ann Elder, Sally Hart, Dick Schaal, Avery Schreiber, John Brent, Jack Burns, Del Close, Bill Mathieu, Omar Shapli.

SHERATON-BLACKSTONE — Toni Carroll, Franz Benteler Orc.

LOS ANGELES

COCONUT GROVE—Jerry Vale, Beiss & Davis.

CRESCENDO—Homer & Jethro, Marquischimps, Vicki Carr.

DINO'S—Jack Elton, Valarie Drew, Steve LaFever.

ICE HOUSE — Gold Coast Singers, Willow Creek Ramblers, Sara James & the Sanctified Six.

INTERLUDE—The Women Folk, Johnny Melfi, Roger Perry.

JERRY LEWIS—Tony Marsh.

MELODY ROOM—Ronnie Brown Trio.

PURPLE ONION—Winton Kelly Trio, Lorenz Alexander.

SLATE BROS.—Jack Jones, Gina Wilson.

STATLER HOTEL—George Liberace

TOWN HOUSE—Red Nichols & Five Pennies.

TROUBADOR—The Dillards, Tom Brown, Jim & Dean.

YE LITTLE CLUB—Janice Baker, Jack Smalley duo.

LAS VEGAS

BOURBON STREET—Lyn Keath.

CASTAWAYS—Barry Ashton's "Playmates of '64," Redd Foxx, Peter Anthony, Don Randi 3.

DESERT INN—Jimmy Durante, Sonny King, Eddie Jackson, Jean Sheppard, Donn Arden Dancers, Carlton Hayes Orc. Lounge: Ben Blue, Johnny Puleo, Les Baxter, Mafalda 3, Violins of Mexico, Peterson-Baker, Silver Strings.

DESERT INN—Jimmy Durante, Eddie Jackson, Sonny King, Kimchi Sisters, Donn Arden Dancers, Carlton Hayes Orc. Lounge: Ben Blue, Johnny Puleo, Les Baxter, Mafalda 3, Violins of Mexico, Peterson-Baker, Silver Springs.

DUNES—Eleanor Powell, Rip Taylor, Dunes Dancers, Bill Reddie Orc. Lounge: "Vive Les Girls!" January Jones.

FLAMINGO—Bobby Darin, Pat Cooper, Russ Black Orc. Lounge: Fats Domino, Cleopatra's Nymphs of Nile, Rene Paulo 4, Bob Sims.

FREMONT—Joe King, Zaniels, 4 Fables, Emblems, Bill Britton.

GOLDEN NUGGET—Rose Maddox, Diplomats, Cut-Ups.

HACIENDA—"Les Poupees de Paris," Grover Shore Trio, Johnny Olenn, Four Tunes, Kay Houston.

MINT — Pat Moreno's "Artists & Models of '63," Sheb Wooley.

NEVADA—Carol Jean Thompson, Jeri Lynne Fraser, King of Limbo.

NEW FRONTIER—"Paree! Ooo La! La!" Lounge: Clara Ward Singers, Ink Spots, Sunny Spencer.

RIVIERA—Dinah Shore, Rola & Rolan, Jack Cathcart Orc. Lounge: Lionel Hampton.

SARAH—Victor Borge, Moro-Landis Dancers, Louis Basil Orc. Lounge: Louis Prima & Co., Characters, Russ Cantor, Peter & Hank.

SANDS—Diahann Carroll, Allan Sherman, Bill Carey, Copa Girls, Antonio Morelli Orc. Lounge: Jackie Heller, Yaccubian Co., Red Norvo, Morry King, Strings, Ernie Stewart.

SHOWBOAT—Pat Collins, Johnny Paul.

SILVER SLIPPER—Hank Henry, Sparky Kaye, Danny Jacobs, Eddie Innes, Lili St. Cyr, Viennas, Slipperettes, Geo Redman Orc. Lounge: Funtastics, Beverly Marshal, Skeets Minton, Johnny La Monte.

STARDUST — "Lido de Paris," Eddie O'Neal Orc. Lounge: Roberta Sherwood, Kim Sisters, Nalani Kele, Bernard Bros., Andrini Bros.

THUNDERBIRD—"Flower Drum Song," Jack Soo, Arlene Fontana, Juanita Hall, Nat Brandwynn Orc. Lounge: Dinah Washington, Suzie & Nite Owls, Frank Moore 4, Ken Colman, Christine Chatman.

TROPICANA—Folies Bergere '63, Ray Sinatra Orc. Lounge: Jerry Colonna, Henny Youngman, Al DePaulis 4, Du-Bonnet 3.

RENO-TAHOE

GOLDEN—Characters, Sue Flanders Quintet, Sparklers, Jac D'Jon.

HAROLDS—Don Corneil, Del Ray, Don Conn Orc.

HARRAH'S (Reno) — Billy Eckstine, Gaylord & Holiday, Judy Lynn, Personalities, High Hopes, Red Coty.

HARRAH'S (Tahoe)—Donald O'Connor, Rosemarie, Moro-Landis Singers and Dancers, Leighton Noble Orc. Lounge: Tex Beneke, Ray Eberle, Modernaires, Jerry Colonna, Braman & Leonard, Continentals, Playboys, Peter & Hank.

HOLIDAY—Happy Jesters, Jo Ann Jordan Trio, Andrini Bros., Charles Gould's Satin Strings.

MAPES—Guy Mitchell, Jack (Jive) Schafer, Ginny & Gallions, Ted Crawford.

NEVADA LODGE (Tahoe)—Deedy & Bill Galens with Charlene Knight.

NEW CHINA CLUB—Skip O'Donnell.

PRIMADONNA—"Step Lively" with Snyder Bros., Jacquelyn Fontaine, Arwoods, Forrest & Marika, Tom Peters, Dorothy Dorben Singers and Dancers, Al Tronti Orc.

RIVERSIDE — Freddy Martin Orc., Bobby Page and Musical Pages, Joyce Aimee, Nelson & Palmer, Enola.

SPARKS NUGGET—John Raitt, Rowan & Martin, Dolinoff and the Raya Sisters, George Arnold Singers and Dancers, Foster Edwards Orc.

WAGON WHEEL (Tahoe)—Red Norvo, Mavis Rivers, Florian Zabach, King's IV, Frank Moore Four, Ginny Greer and Gallions, We Four, Senators, Orrin Tucker Orc.

SAN FRANCISCO

BIMBO'S 365—Paul Gilbert, Wong Bros., Yacoubian Co.

CLAREMONT HOTEL (Berkeley) — "Ecstasy on Ice."

THE COMMITTEE—Kathryn Ish, Irene Riordan, Scott Beach, Bobby Camp, Gary Goodrow, Larry Hankin.

EARTHQUAKE McGOON'S — Turk Murphy and his band, Clancy Hayes.

FAIRMONT HOTEL—Janet Blair.

HUNGRY I—Bill Cosby, Amanda Ambrose, The Four Amigos.

JAZZ WORKSHOP—Wynton Kelly Trio.

SHERATON-PALACE HOTEL— "South Pacific."

SUGAR HILL — Lambert-Hendricks-Bavan.

TRIDENT (Sausalito) — Jean Hoffman Trio.

SAN JUAN

AMERICANA—"Ice Follies," Pepe Lara Orc. Lounge: Humberto Morales 5.

CARIBE HILTON — "Brazilian Rev." Miguelito Miranda Orc., Luisito Benjamin 5. Lounge: Renee Barrios.

CONDADO BEACH—Victor Santini, Peter Pit, Pepito Torres Orc., Lopez Vidal 5. Lounge: Floriana Alba, Juan Luis.

LA CONCHA—Gino Tonetti, Leslie & Simon, Nora Morales Orc., Nestor Torres 5. Lounge: Nilda Terrace.

EL CONVENTO—Rosa Morena, Pepito Arvelo 5.

EL SAN JUAN—Los Trovadores de Espana, Anselmo Sacasas Orc., Julio Gutierrez 5. Lounges: Carmen Canavo 4, Mandy Campo 6.

OCHO PUERTAS—Sylvia del Villard, Ramon Roman.

Yank Pix & Disks

Continued from page 1

ernment channels, nitery acts and even a variety of vaudeville are all largely American inspired.

American records, pulled from Cuban jukeboxes after break in diplomatic relations, have been put back but, like films, are literally wearing out. What price shellac?

Though European films are imported freely they have not been able to fill the gap due to lack of new Holywood product. Cohen added that Russian and Chinese celluloid seem equally unpopular with Cuban film goers.

Aussies & Red China

Continued from page 1

tion by the Chinese Communist regime.

Morenco decided to try to penetrate the Chinese "Iron Curtain" with a camera team and reveal to the western world for the first time the conditions in which the average Chinese person lives.

An approach was made to the Peking government seeking permission for an Aussie team to enter China and make an impartial film study of the country. Lengthy negotiations followed and a formal invitation was issued through the Australia-China Friendship Society. Approval was also given by the Aussie government. The Communist authorities placed no restrictions on the operations of the camera team.

The films will be used for two one-hour documentaries on life in Red China and are being offered by Morenco Pty. Ltd., which sponsored the project, for world distribution.

Mormons' Show

Continued from page 1

bines individual sections from each of the different island nations. It allows them to retain full authenticity in every respect, enhancing their appearance only through lighting, sound and special effects.

All 431 natives participate in a grand finale. To single out any one of the groups would be a disservice. Each has its own particular identification, offers an educational and historical display of considerable value.

Maoris' Coast Tour

It would appear, however, that the Mormons are putting their money on the Maoris. The 136-member group, largest of the six, has been set for their first tour outside their native land, opening Oct. 25 in Oakland and booked throughout the western states in a concert presentation designed as a non-profit benefit for the Church's Pacific Coast Scholarship Fund.

Much of the music and folklore presented is similar. Particularly exciting are the ferocious-looking Fiji warriors lead by Iserali Racule, whose spear dances and wildly gyrating sections are both colorful and exciting.

Likewise, the Tahitians, a 49-member troupe, are handsomely costumed and probably have greatest universal identication. Samoans, 130-members, provide the famed fire dance while the 70-person Tongan group please with precise near ballet movements in several war dances.

Hosting Hawaiians, 100-member, open affair with a striking torch procession behind a majestic water curtain which serves to strike each section.

H'wood Bowl Date

Maoris, although seldom seen by westerners before, will prove easily identifiable. Group's smooth, pleasant choral work is highlighted by their famed "Maori Love Song," first culled from them by Gracie Fields and later popularized by Bing Crosby as "Now Is The Hour." Group is booked Oct. 30 at the Hollywood Bowl, with Laraine Day to do the narration.

Surprising factor in the presentation, handled by an expert group of Hollywood technicians, is the natural quality. While the island units are expertly choreographed for timing between acts and proscenium appearance by Jack Regas, each fully retains its own definite identification. Ideal of the Center is to retain folklore first, entertainment value second.

William Kilgore's lighting, Joseph Southworth's sound, Michael Westmore's makeup and overall supervision of production manager Irving Sudrow, all vet Hollywood men, back the show admirably. Each will train a local native to take over his duties.

Entire operation of the Center is to benefit scholarship fund. Tix are scaled at $1.50 to enter village, $3 top for the spectacular. Opening was dedicated by Hugh B. Brown first Counselor to the President of the Church and Wendell B. Mendenhall, project's building supervisor.

New Acts

LANNY ROSS
Songs
42 Mins.
Queen Elizabeth Hotel, Montreal

Don't even start thinking how long Lanny Ross has been around, even if the mind does go back to those Maxwell House radio days, when he was one of the tops.

Now he's back, not really on the comeback trail since this is his nitery break-in with an act that's unashamedly sentimental—though never corny.

Ross shows plenty guts and astute showmanship by not trying to emulate the style and appeal of the younger element, even though his appearance belies the number of years he's been around. He still looks surprisingly youthful. His flashing smile and ability manipulate the mood of the room with a personality that reflects his role of a troubador, rather than trying to deliver a tour de force performance with vocal tricks and pyrotechnics when the pipes won't stand up to it.

In this chic Salle Bonventure, where the customers are an interesting combination of carriage trade and visiting firemen, Ross delivered a class performance—nothing that will make the customers word-of-mouth about the comeback of the decade, but something that is comfortably entertaining in the choice of songs; little bits of amusing chatter; and harking back to the earlier phases of his career in a tasteful and tuneful manner.

Ross' voice is tuneful and projects easily, even though it's basically a low-key performance with a minimum of punching. His choice of material is also good, mixing up an oldie like "Look Me Over," followed by such as "Moon River" sung in the oldtime style known as "heart."

There's also a smart piece of material, focussing his Parisian bit around Pigalle, "Sur Le Pont" (with his own guitaring), "Mon Amour" and finally a medley from his radio and film work—"Dream Walking," "Stars on Alabama," "Mood for Love," etc.

If he continues to sell realistically, i.e., a sentimental performance with a touch of nostalgia and never becoming hokey, Ross should be a good bet for any class room, be it New York's Plaza or Latin Quarter, and he might even merit a looksee from TV's Madison Avenue crowd. Laza.

VALERIE DREW
Songs
20 Mins.
Dino's Lodge, L.A.

Valerie Drew looks the Dino's role. Sophisticated and sensual, the ablebodied thrush fits the physical bill sufficiently to be a usual visual attraction for the spot.

Miss Drew has light voice, sings in a generally non-pro style and appears to be little trained. Top tune in show caught was lightly rhythmic "How About You," all songs up tunes delivered fast and breezily. Style is wise choice for the singer, who shows her vocal limitations in slower, sustained areas where vowel sounds are dull and speech hard and lifeless. Dale.

VERNON J. ROBERTS
("The Mighty Panther")
Calypso
20 Mins.
Rendezvous Room, L.A.

Vernon J. Roberts, in from Trinidad, bills himself as "The Mighty Panther." A stocky, soft, brown-skinned man, he has a vigorous frame to fit the handle, although his silver lame shirt does less to aid this image.

A calypso performer, Roberts has a pleasant, popular appeal although he uses his voice lightly and doesn't yet have the polished showmanship. At this point, he is typical of the smoky, waterfront bar singer who depends more on activity on the floor than on vocal or musical prowess. Best bit in the act, caught, which includes several Jamaican songs, is an audience-participation section in which he ad-libs rhymes about viewers as they chorus back to tune of Peggy Lee's "Manana." Performer is a quick thinker, uses business cards, reservation list or other personal identification in a good gimmick that attracts the audience. Dale.

JERRY HOLMES
Songs
28 Mins.
Living Room, N. Y.

Jerry Holmes has a promising base on which to hang a singing career. He has both a sound and a manner and with more development should excite attention in major rooms. Holmes is a well-groomed lad with an imaginative approach to tunes and good arrangements. He has wide variety in his songs and he goes in for individualized treatments.

There is still a lot of work to be done on him. He is strong enough to force his own viewpoint on a tune despite the fact that he bears the earmarks of having techniques superimposed on him. Holmes needs to get around a bit more to carry off his aims more successfully. At this point he has the polish and the personality to get across in most rooms. He needs only to acquire the sophistication that his song-styles suggest. Jose.

GWEN HARMON & THE PLAYERS
Songs
40 Mins.
Clowns Den, Phoenix

This marks the fourth season that boniface Gus J. Lampe has utilized the highly stylized talents of Gwen Harmon & the Players as a lure to usher in the frontrunning contingent of winter visitors to his fashionable boite. And as usual—with this hip combo in attendance—biz is bullish. The Players, in for three frames at the Den, have for several years plied their trade on the L.A.-Tahoe-Reno-Vegas lounge beat but their antics have never been recorded in New Acts.

Gwen Harmon, a taffy tressed canary with a properly upholstered chassis, apparently suits the gent oglers just fine but if that wasn't enough, her consorts: hubby Ray Roris at the upright; Don Cervi, bass-guitar and Stan Laurence on skins, a good looking trio, manage to keep the distaffers tarrying around the stand. In short, the Players have potent eye appeal for either gender.

The combo's vocals, for the most part, are dispensed by Miss Harmon. Although she tends to be influenced a mite too much by the Cris Connors-June Christy school she acquits herself nobly with a catalog of pleasantly paced chants trilled with an adequate if limited set of pipes. The quartet, highly recommended for terp rooms, are "in" winging away on pops, show, folk and, occasionally, a tasty cha-cha for the Latinos. O'Haf.

RICO
Magic
15 Mins.
Blue Angel, N. Y.

The monomonickered Rico is a smooth and proficient magico. He's well equipped for sleight-of-hand with tricks that include multiplying candles, card exhibits and a bout with a metal ball which he balances on a scarf. In each instance, he's able to get the maximum response out of his efforts.

Rico shows the influences of Cardini in his card work. He's smooth and easy and works almost effortlessly. He's a youthful and handsome chap as well and should make out well in many cafe situations including lounges. Jose.

Sahara, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 15.

Victor Borge, Leonid Hambro, Moro-Landis Dancers (18), Louis Basil Orch (12); produced by Stan Irwin; presented by Milton Prell; $5 minimum.

Victor Borge, always a strong attraction for the Congo Room, is back with his unpredictable act which is loaded with distinctively dry humor and punctuated with pianistics for applause and laughs. Borge Confesses that he changes each show, which is probably one reason he has so many repeat patrons. First-nighters gave warm response to his casual throwaway lines ("President Kennedy has a rocking chair—all presidents had them except President Grant, and he didn't need one, because the room rocked.")

He also scores with the sometimes hilarious, sometimes serious piano dueting with Leonid Hambro which superbly explores the works of such composers as Rachmaninoff, Schumann, and Tschaikowsky.

Holdover Moro-Landis production number, featuring the 18 "Most American Girls In The World" in a brisk wild west romp, is the curtain raiser. Louis Basil's orch (12) backs the Stan Irwin production, in until Nov. 12 when Jane Powell, Dave Barry, and Maury Wills open. Duke.

Royal York, Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 19.

Kirby Stone Four, Maxie Whitney & His Royal Orch (14); $4 cover.

This is the first time that the Kirby Stone Four has ever visited Canada collectively—though when they were singles, they played the Dominion individually. The zany male quartet is on for 55 minutes nightly at the 450-capacity posh Imperial Room of the Royal York Hotel. Place was jammed with more-than-satisfied customers who urged the act to continue with their inanities whenever the boys sought a begoff on the opener.

The hilarious characters, with Kirby Stone emceeing, are Eddie Hall, Mike Gardner and Larry Foster. Impressions of leading male singers by Foster—and the accordion-owning Gardner—are particular standouts.

The merry-andrew antics of the four boys add up to an act of satire and low jests. Excellence in timing and machine-like delivery give an effect of spontaneity.

Judging from tributes from pleased patrons of both sexes, the Kirby Stone Four can come back to Toronto any time. Moxie Whitney and his red-jacketed crew lend stalwart support to the Four and play for the dance seshes. McStay.

Sahbra, N. Y.

Margolit Ankory, Batsheva Bar-On & Ezra Zahavi, Leah Goren, Gavri, Line (10), Menashe Baharav Orch; $3.50 minimum.

Leo Fuld's Israeli hospice has one of its more interesting shows, mainly on the strength of its dancing. The cafe has one of the liveliest lines in town comprising five mixed couples who swing into a wide variety of terping.

The production is tagged "Hora Hootenanny," which seems to take in many types of numbers. Ultimately, the chorus does a takeoff on the folk terps of the U.S., but just enough to justify the label. Otherwise, it's a folksy Israeli type of dancing done by straight backed and barefooted boys and girls in an invigorating manner.

The numbers have been choreographed by Gavri who also participates in the production. His work is imaginative. He gives these youngsters a spirited blueprint of a set of dances that includes the omnipresent hora as well as terps with a distinctly Hassidic feeling.

Some of the line's routines may have originated in middle-European countries and they seem to provide the base of some of the Israeli dances. The group's efforts are exhilarating at all times and they weave in and out of the show to give it its top lifts.

On the vocal side, there are the songs of Batsheva Bar-On & Ezra Zahavi. A pair of Israeli imports, they supply nicely contrived duets and solos. Male, also an adept folk dancer, gets applause on his own in this department.

The major act is Margolit Ankory, who appears to be a stranger to the English language. The expression and the feeling of a comedienne are evident, but her English numbers are difficult to understand. She seems to have good interpretations, and once she projects to the natives more forcefully she should get along well in this room.

Another singer is Leah Goren, who also participates in the dance sector. She has a fresh and untutored voice and does her chores well. The orchestral backing is by Menashe Baharav. Jose.

Castaways, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 13.

Barry Ashton's "Playmates of 1964"; Redd Foxx, Peter Anthony, George Boyer Orch (9); produced by Garwood Van; presented by Everett McCarlie; no cover, no minimum.

Redd Foxx, in his first Vegas appearance, clicked big with first-nighters, and word-of-mouth could well make him the sleeper of the season. On the strength of the Negro comedian's albums, Castaways entertainment director Garwood Van booked Foxx to follow the engagement of bawdy story teller-songstress Pearl Williams.

Foxx has blue material which is more subtle than that of Miss Williams or Belle Barth, and most of his dialog is new to the Strip. Unlike his stage party counterparts, he's strictly a standup comedian, doing no songs.

He gets consistent laughs from his opening line ("You're going to enjoy me whether you like it or not") and his racial gags—which he pioneered—are not of the offensive type. ("I'm not colored—I just have one big freckle.") After an anti-Alabama joke, he says, "I'm only serious." Wisely, Foxx doesn't concentrate on racial or off-color humor, but presents, in a casual style, a very funny and not too lengthy monolog.

Peter Anthony gets a chance to show his versatility in this show; previously his group musically backed Miss Williams, and Anthony didn't get much time for showcasing. Anthony's forte is his brilliant trumpeting, but he also has a good, distinctive vocal delivery, plays piano, bass, and is a topnotch ad-libbing emcee. Fine Blending sound comes from teammates Jack Holland, 88; John Mays, drums; Bob Massi, bass and trombone.

Barry Ashton's "Playmates of 1964" holds over, with the colorful new production numbers being altered, and handsome singer Dick Wells joining the talented cast.

This bill in for two weeks, with options. Duke.

Horizon Room, Pitt

Pittsburgh, Oct. 19.

Belle Barth (with Margie Sherwin), Chris & Steg Ersberg, Gus Dolfi's Orch (9); $1.50 cover.

Now that her naughty reputation has put her in the big money bracket and made her a big draw, Belle Barth is still rather bawdy but just doesn't go too far. In this class room, she makes promises and while the audience is waiting for the bad little words, they find themselves roaring with laughter at a crafty entertainer who has conned them into staying around and enjoying themselves without remembering why they came in the first place.

Miss Barth is still writing fan letters to great show biz figures as she does tributes in song to Harry Richman, Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor. She even notes Milton Berle's arrival in town at the Holiday House when she said, "Boy, wait till he finds out I'm in town."

Her only unkind and tasteless remark was one directed toward Rusty Warren. The audience was made up of most of Pitt's top spenders and a very square Credit Union banquet and they all had a good time in a room that had the rope up from the beginning of the show.

Margie Sherwin has added a lot to Miss Barth's act as an accompanying pianist, giving the headliner a chance to do more standup work and supplying a good musical background.

Chris and Steg Ersberg, a handsome Swedish ballroom team, do a tasteful job in the opening spot. They had the crowd all ready for Miss Barth to take over. Gus Dolfi's Orch (9) is excellent on both the show and dancing. Lit.

Desert Inn, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct 15.

Jimmy Durante, Eddie Jackson, Sonny King, Johnny Mack, Kimchi Kats (2), Bill Carey, Donn Arden Dancers (12), Carlton Hayes Orch (13); produced by Frank Sennes; presented by Wilbur Clark; $5 minimum.

Jimmy Durante & Co. (Eddie Jackson, Sonny King, dancer Johnny Mack, drummer Jack Roth, 88er George Finley) toss in some new routines in this trip to the DI which adds up to a solid carnival of nostalgia and up-to-the-minute outrageous fun.

Highlighting the fresh material is a delightful Durante song salute (from his album) called "Look Ahead Little Girl," with background color films of his tiny daughter, "CeCe" Jackson seems to be strutting better than ever, and King is again a click as the loveable bully who pushes the boss around. Writer Jackie Barnett deserves credit for coordinating a highly entertaining bash.

Also on bill are some Korean newcomers, two attractive singing sisters with the interesting name "Kimchi Kats." The girls have a fine range and an excellent blending sound in their songalong which prompts the audience to keeping time with fingers and toes.

Talented vocalist Bill Carey is featured in the new Donn Arden production number, "Dance With Me," which is populated with 12 gorgeous terpers. The Carlton Hayes orch (13) backs the show, in for five weeks. Duke.

Troubadour, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 17.

(The Dillards, Jim & Dean, Tom Brown; $1.50 admission plus one drink min.)

Bluegrass holds a unique place in the field of country and mountain music. As presented by the Dillards, a rangy, mountainous looking brother quartet, the music has both an ethnic and a lively, popular entertainment value. Whether a folklore fanatic or not, it is difficult not to find some portion of the act infectious and appealing.

Foursome concentrates on instrumentals, banjo and mandolin particularly outstanding and the overall presentation is bright and rhythmic. String pickers all, the boys go through a delightful bunch of tunes that culminate in a particularly rousing "Hickory Holler."

Rodney Dillard is the singer of the quartet, delivering strongly on "The Old Home Place" and "Story of Pretty Polly." Youngster has a sober, "dumb" look that adds to the comedy projection the brothers carry off. Together, four have a solid vocal blend and perform well.

Jim & Dean and balladeer Tom Brown complete the bill, each act a specialty in itself and nicely appealing.

Jim & Dean, particularly, have a warmth and personality that emanates throughout each song. Hillbilly singers, they work with a soft, country yodel. Pair are good musicians, hit well on Leadbelly's "Black Girl" and a delightful chidren's song, "Daddy's Takin' Us to the Zoo Tomorrow."

Brown's ballading is pure, strong, staunchly delivered and perceptive. Delivery of Travis Edmondson's protest song, "The Time of Man," is striking, along with "Maid of the Sweet Brown Now" and "Derry Down."

Show is in two weeks. Dale.

Slate Bros., L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 16.

Jack Jones, Gina Wilson, $1.50 cover, two-drink minimum.

One of the few young shellac stars equipped to bridge the gap from the sanctuary of the recording studio to the rigors of the nitery circuit is Jack Jones, currently making a four-week return engagement at the Slate Bros. It should be a healthy booking for the spot, although comedienne Gina Wilson, the supporting act, is not much support.

Since his last appearance here, Jones, who was good then, has developed even more poise, assurance and authority. A likable and natural entertainer, he comes to sing, and sings up a storm. Endowed with a reliable set of pipes and sharp vocal instincts, his notes are true, his phrasing fresh and he's not afraid to go full throttle.

He has an original style, but also has been influenced by Mel Torme whose vocal undulations can be detected in Jones' transitions and climactic approaches.

Jones' opening set embraced a dozen selections, including his current hot biscuit, "Wives and Lovers," and his first big one, "Lollipops And Roses." Most of his numbers emphasize the beat. He also does several spirituals with gusto.

It might be useful for Jones to incorporate a few more soft, romantic ballads. He has a tendency to snow under such tunes with furiously belted dramatic climaxes, as on "Bewitched," which loses its meaning when it is tossed around just for impressive technical vocalistics.

Miss Wilson, a product of the Miami circuit, is making her Coast debut and it is not an auspicious one. It is nothing that better material couldn't rectify considerably. The laughs didn't come opening night.

The Frank Lary Trio backstops smoothly. Tube.

Claremont, Berkeley

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 15.

"Ecstasy on Ice" revue, produced by George Arnold; Essie Davis & Buddy Schroff, The Cavanaughs, Trixie, Esco La Rue, Marc Douglas, Ice-Cubettes (6); Ken Harris directing house band; choreography, Ron Meren; $2 cover, $2 minimum.

Bay Area audiences, accustomed to the lavish purity of the "Ice Follies" (which makes a summerlong stand at Frisco's Winterland), are being treated to a magic new ingredient in the pocket-size "Ecstasy on Ice" revue in the Churchill Room of the Claremont Hotel, across the bay in Berkeley.

It's spelled S-E-X.

From the opening number with four luscious Ice-Cubettes in frankly female costume a la Louis XIV to the socko close a la "Ice Follies" (Spinning line of skaters with newcomers racing for the end of the line), viewers are aware that these are real grownup women on the ice, not corn-fed, pink-cheeked girls.

The femme skaters (mostly graduates of "Ice Follies" or "Ice-Capades" shows) are lithe and leggy, and their costumes show them off to best advantage. One advantage, to dedicated girl-watchers, is that these chicks aren't as muscular as skaters are apt to be.

Above comments apply especially to lead femmes, Essie Davis (whose first entrance is in flaming red cloak that peels to a diamond-studded bikini) and Lucille Cavanaugh (who can be thrown head-over-teakettle by her muscular husband and still keep a langorous, dreamy look in her eyes, as though this were ecstacy indeed).

They also apply to cute, doll-size Trixie, who performs minor miracles of balance with balls, disks and other jugglers' accoutrements, while staying in motion on the ice—itself a miracle to a non-skater.

Show moves steadily through three production numbers. First is "Parisian Ball" starring Miss Davis as Madame Pompadour in that most un-Pompadour costumes and introducing the cast. Cavanaughs take a milky-smooth turn, and Marc Douglas (who also mikes show backstage does several soloes. Upbeat tempos are fine, but his standout is a soft, meaningful "Shalom," which gets his biggest hand.

Clean-cut, handsome Douglas also manages to sing to all parts of the room from the 18-by-32-foot rink without slicing up the trailing cord of his hand mike—a neat trick.

Second production, "Gypsy," allows most colorful costuming, and features Essie Davis in a czardas and Buddy Schrofft in superlative butterflies. Davis and Schrofft are also an effective duo.

Last production number is "The Wild West," with all hands in cowboy (cowgirl) attire and music in the "Turkey-in-the-Straw" vein. And finale is "76 Trombones," with the near-inevitable fluorescent scanties on the Ice-Cubettes.

That obstreperous drunk at rinkside table who clambers onto the ice midway through the show and insists on getting into the act turns out to be Esco La Rue, the only non-skater in the cast and a comic veteran whose antics bring roars.

Withal, "Ecstasy on Ice" is a fast-moving, exciting 55 minutes. Show is ending the first month of a three-month run. Este.

Sands, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 19.

Diahann Carroll, Allan Sherman, Harry Nofal, Shirley Kirkes, Copa Girls (12), Antonio Morelli Orch (17); produced and staged by Jack Entratter; choreography, Renne Stuart; orchestrations, Al Sendry; stage direction, Harold Dobrow; $5 minimum.

Any impresario would be very happy to have either Diahann Carroll or Allan Sherman headline a showroom—and Jack Entratter has both. Probably a coin was tossed to determine which star would have the honor of closing the program, as each act is a tough one to follow, and Miss Carroll won.

Miss Carroll's act, produced and staged by Phil Moore, is exciting both in sight and sound. The sultry star, fresh from her success in Broadway's "No Strings," combines beauty and voice (in superbly arranged numbers) for strong impact. In her songbag are such tunes as "More Than You Know," "Show Me," "After You've Gone," "Stormy Weather," "Heat Wave," and the big one from her stage hit, "The Sweetest Sounds." Warren Meyers at the 88 guides the Antonio Morelli orch (17) for Miss Carroll.

This is Sherman's second trip here, and his abundance of new material proves he has a gimmick that can prosper indefinitely. His hilarious parodies on w.k. tunes set Sherman up as the comedy find of the decade.

He revives some of the freshly-born classics which got the most yocks on his debut appearance, and introduces many more, including an X-ray version of "C'est Si Bon" ("I See Bones") and of course, his newest disclick, "Hello Muddah, Hello Fadduh." Lou Busch, a fine piano man, is at the keel.

Vocalist Harry Nofal and dancer Shirley Kirkes are featured in a sparkling new Renne Stuart production number decorated by the dozen Copa Girls.

This bill in until Nov. 6 when Jerry Lewis returns. Duke.

Drake Hotel, Chi

Chicago, Oct. 16.

Patachou, Jimmy Blade Orch; 2-$2.50 cover.

In an era when the term chanteuses has been diluted to mean any girl singer who has spent a weekend at the George V, Patachou stands alone as the peerless interpreter of the sad and happy songs of the City of Light. She's back for her third seasonal engagement at the Camellia House and again brings that inimitable blend of nostalgia, euphoria and the bittersweetness of lost love.

Clad in blue chiffon instead of her traditional shirtwaist, she is chic but earthy, and her dramatic range is from the romantic despair of "La Complainte De La Butte" and "I Wish You Love" to the whimsical insouciance of her Gallic version of "My Fair Lady." She is also great with "The Children of Paris," "Autumn Leaves" and "Je Te Le Dois."

Songstress, at her top form, punches her numbers over with a dramatic intensity that hushes the room. Jimmy Blade's crackerjack house orch accompanies her with subtle care, and Blade's piano embroidery in "La Musique" is of the first order.

She's in for three weeks. Mor.

Purple Onion, L.A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 9.

Jazz Crusaders (5); no cover, no minimum.

Making a return engagement at this spot, where three months ago they initiated its new jazz policy, are the Jazz Crusaders, a cohesive and accomplished quintet. Originally from Houston, and an instrumental unit for 12 years, they offer listenable and occasionally flamboyant and exciting jazz in the modern vein. Most jazz buffs in the area figure to be paying a visit before the current two-week engagement expires.

Opening set featured an explosive, torrid-tempoed "Heat Wave" spotlighting the tympany skills of leader Sticks Hooper, a driving "On Broadway," medium-grooved "Love For Sale" with an expressive solo by bassist Bobby Haynes, an intricately-arranged "That's All" designed around tenor saxist Wilton Telder's sensitive so'o and "Unit 7," a Cannonball Adderly composition. Tube.

Shows on Broadway

Jennie

Cheryl Crawford & Richard Halliday presentation of musical comedy, with lyrics and music by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, book by Arnold Schulman, suggested by the biography, "Laurette," by Marguerite Courtney, by arrangement with Alan J. Pakula. Staged by Vincent J. Donehue; choreography, Matt Mattox; scenery, George Jenkins; costumes, Irene Sharaff; lighting, Jean Rosenthal; musical director, John Lesko; orchestrations, Philip J. Lang & Robert Russell Bennett; dance music and vocal arrangements, Trude Rittman. Stars Mary Martin; features George Wallace, Robin Bailey, Ethel Shutta, Jack de Lon, Imelda de Martin, Jeremiah Morris, Connie Scott. Opened Oct. 17, '63, at the Majestic Theatre, N.Y.; $9.60 top.

Jennie Malone ..... Mary Martin
James O'Conner ..... George Wallace
Bessie Mae Sue ..... Elaine Swann
Stella ..... Linda Donovan
Sydney Harris ..... Jeremiah Morris
Frank Granada ..... Rico Froehlich
Casey O'Harrison ..... Stephen Elmore
Gregory Hyman ..... Kirby Smith
Sheriff Pagsley ..... Jay Velie
Abe O'Shaughnessy ..... Jack de Lon
Kevin O'Conner ..... Brian Chapin
Lois Houser ..... Imelda de Martin
Wardrobe Mistress ..... Bernice Saunders
Deputies ..... Martin Ambrose, Oran Osburn
Linda O'Conner ..... Connie Scott
Nellie Malone ..... Ethel Shutta
Delivery Man ..... Stephen Elmore
Juiceman ..... Stan Watt
Flower Girl ..... Debbie Scott
Rita Bradley ..... Diane Coupe
Christopher Lawrence Cromwell ..... Robin Bailey
Shine Boy ..... Robert Murray
Teddy ..... Stan Peters
Gentleman ..... Jay Velie
Stage Manager ..... Stan Watt
Piano Player ..... Woody Kessler
Fire Chief ..... Jay Velie

Dancers: Sally Ackerman, Diane Coupe, Mollie Sterns, Blair Hammond, Robert Murray, Al Sambogna, Gerald Teijelo.

Singers: Lispet Nelson, Julia Sargant, Bernice Saunders, Sharon Vaughn, Martin Ambrose, Stephen Elmore, Rico Froehlich, Oran Osburn.

Musical numbers: "Waitin' for the Evening Train," "When You're Far Away from New York Town," "I Still Look at You That Way," "When You're Far Away from New York Town" (reprise), "For Better or Worse," "Born Again," "Over Here," "Before I Kiss the World Goodbye," "Sauce Diable," "Where You Are," "The Jig," "See Seattle," "High Is Better Than Low," "The Night May Be Dark," Dance Rehearsal, "I Believe in Takin' a Chance," "Welcome," "Lonely Nights," "The Sultan's 50th Bride," "Before I Kiss the World Goodbye" (reprise).

Sometimes, as the N.Y. Yankees could attest in the recent World Series, nothing works. It can happen to a musical show, too, when the basic idea turns out to be a clinker. That's when the most frantic revisions only seem to make the book worse, when the songs won't ignite, the dancing resembles mere gymnastics and the most magnetic stars appear helpless.

With "Jennie," which opened last Thursday night (17) at the Majestic Theatre, practically everyone involved has done exciting things on Broadway before and is presumably capable of coming through again. But on this show just about everything has gone wrong, or at least failed to jell. It's all a large, apparently expensive and distressing failure. Even the enchanted Mary Martin doesn't save it.

The production reportedly has a large advance sale, mostly comprising party bookings, and Miss Martin has a demonstrated boxoffice draw. Otherwise, "Jennie" is a dubious prospect for a run, and offers little for pictures or stock.

"Jennie" is a musical comedy based on the early career of the late Laurette Taylor. It was suggested by the biography, "Laurette," by the late actress's daughter, Marguerite Courtney. Perhaps not by coincidence, the same volume was also the basis for a previous stage adaptation, a straight play titled "Laurette," by Stanley Young. It was produced by Alan J. Pakula, starred Judy Holliday and folded three seasons ago during a tryout tour.

After the flop of the straight-play version of Miss Taylor's life, an attempt was made to do much the same story as a musical, basing the libretto on the biography, "Blood and Thunder," by Dwight Taylor, the late star's playwright-scenarist-son. The latter book covers some of the same ground as Miss Courtney's, but accents the personality of the father, Miss Taylor's first husband, the colorful early-1900s actor-author-producer Charles Taylor. The actress is merely one of the women in his life in "Blood and Thunder," and the original idea was to have Miss Martin portray a gallery of femme characters. Presumably that device didn't work out as a basis for a femme-starring show and the project was dropped.

In any case, for this production by Cheryl Crawford and Richard Halliday (the latter being Miss Martin's manager-husband), the general idea of the Courtney book was revived, and the focus is on the role of the late actress who graduated from hokum melodramas in the sticks to acclaim as a star on Broadway and in London. Like so many seemingly promising ideas, it hasn't worked out.

"Jennie," which the program says was "suggested" by the Courtney biog, has a book by Arnold Schulman, songs by the vet lyricist-composer team of Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz, staging by Vincent J. Donehue, scenery by George Jenkins, costumes by Irene Sharaff, lighting by Jean Rosenthal and choreography credited to Matt Mattox, although Carol Haney took over the assignment during the tryout tour. George Wallace succeeded Dennis O'Keefe as leading man during the pre-Broadway shakedown, too.

The show is a backstage yarn, in several instances in the form of a show-within-a-show. It opens brightly on the finale of one of the heroine's early vehicles, a blood-and-thunder meller written, staged, produced by and costarring her husband. There's a pseudo-magnificent mountain setting with a practical waterfall and the usual hairbreadth triumph of the good guys over the bad guys.

"Jennie" subsides thereafter, however, and steadily goes downhill to a tepid, depressing finale as the heroine abandons her likable but exasperatingly irresponsible husband after the disastrous failure of his latest show, taking her young daughter and son to New York, where she is to star in a play by the eminent English dramatist, in real life J. Hartley Manners, her second husband.

Perhaps Laurette Taylor's story isn't suitable for stage adaptation. At any rate, the "Jennie" book seems ponderous, predictable and frequently mawkish. In general, the Dietz-Schartz songs sound pleasant, but at least on the risky basis of a first hearing, seem to lack sock potential in the theatre. "Waitin' for the Evening Train" is passably nostalgic soft-shoe material, "I Still Look at You That Way" is an agreeable ballad as sung by Miss Martin, and "Before I Kiss the World Goodbye" is also acceptable for her.

"The Night May Be Dark" doesn't quite click as an inspirational duet for Miss Martin and Ethel Shutta, "Hight Is Better Than Low" is moderately rousing as done by Wallace, but perhaps misses a bet by not including Miss Shutta, a memorable rhythm singer of 30-odd years ago, for at least one chorus. "The Sultan's 50th Bride," obviously intended as comically corny, is ill-suited to Miss Martin and borders on the tasteless.

The dancing, whether attributable to the choreography of Mattox or Miss Haney, is lively and in some instances ingenious, notably in an early-1900s period ballroom number and a modified Irish jig by Miss Martin and second male lead Robin Bailey. Mostly, however, the dancing is inconsequential. The scenery and costumes are lavish and properly in period, but are incidental in a fundamentally weak show.

Miss Martin, stuck with an arduous role in a stubbornly lethargic show, gives it a genuine trouper's try. She never suggests apologizing subtly for the material, but is gay and sad, animated or subdued, forthrightly sensible or quixotically loyal—invariably with the inner glow of a stage personality. Once or twice she makes a scene come to life for an instant.

Wallace is plausibly masculine

(Continued on page 64)

Australian Shows

(Week Ending Oct. 19)

ADELAIDE

And Big Men Fly, Her Majesty's.

MELBOURNE

How to Succeed, Her Majesty's.
Last of the Rainbow, Emerald Hill.
Mary, Mary, Comedy.
Merry Widow, Tivoli.
Opera Season, Princess.
Private Ear, Public Eye, Union.
Touch of the Poet, St. Martin's.

SYDNEY

Annie Get Your Gun, Her Majesty's.
Do You Mind, Phillip.
Goodnight, Mrs. Puffin, Royal.
King and I, Tivoli.
Sweet Bird of Youth, Independent.
Typist & Tiger, Ensemble.
Waiting for Godot, Union.

Show Out of Town

The Time of the Barracudas

San Francisco, Oct. 22.

Frederick Brisson, Roger L. Stevens & Donald Albery presentation of a comedy in two acts (15 scenes), by Peter Barnes. Staged by Anthony Page; scenery, Oliver Smith; costumes, Theoni V. Aldredge; lighting, Peggy Clark; associate producers, Lyn Austin, Victor Samrock; music, Miles Davis and Gil Evans. Stars Laurence Harvey, Elaine Stritch; features Rex O'Malley, Eugene Roche, Christina Gillespie, Robert van Hooton, William Haddock. Opened Oct. 21, '63, at the Curran Theatre, San Francisco; $5.45 top.

Philip Wiere ..... Laurence Harvey
Jean ..... Christina Gillespie
Dr. Clayton ..... Rex O'Malley
Funeral Manager ..... Eugene Roche
Funeral Director ..... Robert van Hooton
Rev. Gosling ..... William Haddock
Insurance Agent ..... Eugene Roche
Insurance Manager ..... Robert van Hooton
Stella ..... Elaine Stritch
Police Sergeant ..... Eugene Roche
Police Inspector ..... Robert van Hooton

It's the season for poisonings in San Francisco. "The Tender Heel," which played an abortive tryout three weeks ago at the Curran, dealt with a Florida Greek fisherman who resorted to poison to rid the town of a usurer, and the fisherman's wife, who poisoned him to make him a hero.

Now, also at the Curran, comes "Time of the Barracudas," in which Laurence Harvey, who poisons his wives for insurance, marries a widow who has been killing her husbands for—you guessed it. The denouement takes place in a Scottish highland honeymoon lodge, and from the second-act curtain both principals make the most of the situation, creeping stealthily around the booby-trapped hideaway and croaking cliches of endearment that take on new ironic overtones.

"Barracudas" has several advantages. The lead characters are sharply etched by Peter Barnes' acid pen, and Anthony Page's direction keeps the production moving fairly fast, except for an occasional soliloquy about murder for profit (because who can a murderer confide in but himself?). Costars Laurence Harvey and Elaine Stritch mug outrageously, he swooping about stage like a fey Shakespearean and she languishing in love scenes like Tallulah at her corniest. But it's all in the spirit of the piece.

That's the key—the spirit of the piece is reminiscent of "Arsenic and O'd Lace" and as grimly endearing. If "Barracudas" doesn't make it on Broadway it'll eventually pay off fatly from little theatre royalties.

Oliver Smith's ingenious set representing the hunting lodge adds tremendously to the comic effect, and the tense driving background music by Miles Davis and Gil Evans heightens the effects of the dramatic passages.

The supporting players are good, with a top cameo by Rex O'Malley as a doctor who lectures on the folly of trying to understand women, and also a fine sardonic scene by Eugene Roche and Robert van Hooton as undertakers totting up profits. Este.

Louise Sorel has joined the cast of "Man and Boy."

The Shuberts' 'Facelift'

As the new shows unveil firstnighters have noticed the new look and facelift of the sundry Shubert houses.

This is part of Lawrence Shubert Lawrence Jr.'s program of refurbishing everyone of the 23½ theatres on Broadway, in Boston, Chicago, Philly and Cincinnati. (The 50% denotes the joint ownership with Irving Berlin in the Music Box, New York).

Lawrence and his g.m. Alvin Cooperman keyed the new public relations approach by the largest U.S. theatre chain to the 50th anni of Shubert Alley which, in itself, was a departure since the freres heretofore shunned institutional advertising.

Lawrence Jr. and his aides are still reticent on the total overall cost of facelifting the various theatres prefering to point up it can range from $25,000 for one house and over $100,000 for another theatre which needed complete new powder and men's restrooms, strengthening of girders, backstage renovation, new seat covering and the like.

Shows Abroad

Four and a Tanner

London, Oct. 10.

Teamwork, in association with Michael Codron, presentation of a revue without intermission (19 scenes) by Tony Tanner. Staged by Tanner; music and arrangements, Neville McGrah; additional material, Donald Webster; visual consultant, Patrick Libby; musical director, Ray Holder. Features Tony Tanner, Joyce Grant, Barbara Leigh, Sheila Falconer, Alan Edwards. Opened Oct. 9, '63, at the New Arts, London; $1.50 top.

Presuming there is a public willing to stay up late to catch a revue which starts at 10:45 and goes on, without intermission, until midnight, it deserves stronger diet than this mildly entertaining effort devised by Tony Tanner.

Several of the sketches had exposure in a nabe situation more than a year ago, and they are barely strong enough to stand up for a second viewing. The main weakness with the presentation is that the material hardly matches the talents of the cast. There are a couple of amusing sketches, but very little in the way of satirical bite. There is also an attempt at originality in subject matter, though it does not always come off.

Tanner has staged the 19 items at a terrific lick, thereby giving the production pace and verve. He also wrote many of the sketches and lyrics as well as playing a lead role effectively. Joyce Grant stands out as a promising comedienne, and sustains three solo items with a fair dose of humor. Barbara Leigh is a lively chirp and Sheila Falconer sings well and dances briskly. The cast is rounded off by Alan Edwards, who pulls his weight in a number of sketches.

The production is sponsored by an organization known as Teamwork, which is dedicated to encouraging young and lively talent.

The Princess Pocahontas

Glasgow, Oct. 9.

Stephen Mitchell (in association with Michael Manuel) presentation of musical comedy in two acts (20 scenes, 23 numbers), with book, music and lyrics by Kermit Goell, based on his own novel. Staged by Michael Manuel; choreography, Nelle Fisher; costumes, Pearl Binder; dance music arrangements, Ray Cook; lighting, Michael Northen; musical direction, Philip Martell; orchestrations, Peter Knight and Ken Thorne. Stars Anita Gillette, Terence Cooper; features Franklin Fox, Isabelle Lucas, Steve Perry, Michael Barrington, Peter Lawrence, Thomas Gallagher, Bernard Martin, George Hancock. Opened Oct. 8, '63, at the Alhambra Theatre, Glasgow; $2 top.

Tom Savage ..... Steve Perry
George Cassen ..... Stanley Fleet
Capt. Newport ..... Barnard Martin
Capt. Dale Wingfield ..... Michael Barrington
Archer ..... Edward Sage
Rev. Whittaker Hunt ..... Peter Lawrence
Radcliffe ..... John Harvey
George Percy ..... Michael Garson
Gosnold ..... Joe Sealy
Capt. John Smith ..... Terence Cooper
Winnuska ..... Isabelle Lucas
Rawhunt ..... Thomas Gallagher
Powhatan ..... George Hancock
Pocahontas ..... Anita Gillette
Sally Gates ..... Paula Levens
Julie Gates ..... Jill Donohue
John Rolfe ..... Franklin Fox
William Savage ..... Joe Sealy
Molly ..... Beth McDonald
Kate ..... Gillian Ashby
King James ..... George Hancock
Queen Anne ..... Christene Palmer
Major Domo ..... Bernard Martin
Court Painter ..... Peter Lawrence
Thugs ..... Michael Garson, John Harvey

Indian Girls, Braves, English Settlers, Colonists, Courtiers, Revellers: John Bohea, Colin Couch, Stanley Fleet, Michael Garson, John Harvey, Len Maley, Richard Morris, Donald McAlpine, Steve Patrick, Ken Robson, James Robertson, Edward Sage, Joe Sealy, John Walsh, Gillian Ashby, Natasha Ashton, Beryl Braham, Jill Donohue, Patricia De Dulin, Barbie Hills, Paula Levens, Carol Lucy, Beth McDonald, Christene Palmer, Elisabeth Troy, Betty Wheeler.

Musical numbers: "The First Landing," "Gold," "She Fancied Me," "Free As a Bird," "You Have to Want to Touch Him," "Too Many Miles from London Town," "London Bridge Is Falling Down," "I Love You, Johnny Smith," "Once He Kissed Me," "She Fancied Me" (reprise), "Things," "Virginia," "Deer Dance," "Oranges and Lemons," "I Have Lost My Way," "Give Me a Sign," "Like My True Love Grows," "Yes, I Love You," "Gotta Be Fit for a Princess," "You Can't Keep a Good Man Down," "Masque of Christmas," "I Have Lost My Way" (reprise), "Free As a Bird" (reprise).

"The Princess Pocahontas," breaking in here prior to London seems an interesting offbeat show with a dearth of good tunes, a worthwhile cast, and a standout performance by Anita Gillette in the name role of the American Indian tomboy princess who married an Englishman and found herself at the Royal Court of England as a curiosity.

The colorful story is by Kermit Goell, based on his own novel, and he has also supplied the music and lyrics. The show is in 20 scenes, not all of them lively, but with sufficient appeal to hold the customer interest. The amalgam of Virginian and London setting gives the producer scope for colorful scenes, ranging from American Indian villages and the riverside in Jamestown, Virginia, in the spring of 1607 to the Bell Inn in Ludgate, London.

The piece opens slowly, but quickly perks up with the arrival in the New World of a shipfull of men anxious to make quick fortunes and re-sail for England. An early dramatic moment is when the elfin-like Princess Pocahontas, played by Anita Gillette, throws herself across the body of the rebellious go-ahead Englishman, Capt. John Smith, and saves his life from her fellow-Indians.

The show owes much to the petite sprightliness of Miss Gillette, making her United Kingdom bow. Her acting has spirit and her singing is good. Terence Cooper, as the heroic Smith, the man she first loves but doesn't marry, brings a lusty power and virility to the swashbuckling role. His vocal powers are also heard to advantage in numbers like "Too Many Miles from London Town," "Virginia," the attractively English "Oranges and Lemons," and the catchy liile reprise, "She Fancied Me."

Isabelle Lucas, as the mother of Pocahontas, sings attractively with her stage daughter the song, "You Have to Want to Touch Him." Peter Lawrence, gabbing in Welsh accent as the cleric adds strength to the support cast. Steve Perry, Michael Barrington, Bernard Martin and Thomas Gallagher are also good.

Of the musical numbers, not all easily hummable or even worth remembering, the best are "Too Many Miles from London Town," "You Have to Want to Touch Him," and the catchy "She Fancied Me." Dance numbers owe much to the inventiveness of the choreographer, Nelle Fisher, and the bright costumes are designed by Pearl Binder. The whole is staged at a fairly brisk pace by Michael Manuel, who is also associated in the presentation with producer Stephen Mitchell.

"The Princess Pocahontas" though not by any means a world-beater, and, indeed, ponderous in parts, should nevertheless register via the novelty and international character of its story. It requires some pruning and tightening, but if for nothing else it rates welcome for bringing to the British scene the attractive and talented young Broadway singer-actress Anita Gillette. Gord.

The Last P. M.

Dublin, Oct. 1.

Elliman-Edwards-MacLiammoir presentation of two-act comedy by Conor Farrington. Staged by Hilton Edwards; costumes, Michael MacLiammoir; properties, Robert Heade. Opened Sept. 30, '63, at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin; $2.94 top.

Intendant ..... George Green
Dr. Orthodox ..... Christopher Casson
Prime Minister ..... Robert Speaight
Mrs. Orthodox ..... Julie Hamilton
Stella ..... Meryl Gourley
Martha ..... Finula O'Shannon
Mr. Champ ..... Michael Mara
Adam ..... Patrick Bedford
Miner ..... Chris Curran
Clark Driver ..... Gerry Alexander
TV Announcer ..... James Murphy
Laura Glibe ..... Julie Hamilton
Patrick Root ..... Michael Mara
Gen. Figment ..... Chris Curran
Marshal Stanislaus Bodkin ..... George Green

Conor Farrington, an actor, has written a cautionary tale about the dangers of nuclear war, setting it in the mythical state of Cardoman balancing the ideologies of East and West in the 1990's. He has also decided that it should be presented in "the manner of the Classical Theatre of Cardoman," without scenery and with the Japanese Noh theatre convention of characters introducting themselves to the audience.

The effect is rather old-fashioned, a reminder of the avant garde productions of the 1930's. It must have seemed like old home week to Hilton Edwards, who was staging in this style in the early days of the Dublin Gate Theatre. "The Last P.M." allows the author to project through his characters, the conventional nuclear disarmament cliches, although his early idea of a moppet, presumably from outer space, anxious to get the whole world to Heaven before it sinned any more, has elements of comedy.

Robert Speaight is a standout as the Prime Minister of the mythical state, an opportunist politician who has been successful in maintaining peace and his personal comfort over a number of years. His per-

(Continued on page 67)

Shumlin Urging Shortened Script Of Hochhuth's Drama Re Pius XII

Herman Shumlin who plans to produce Rolf Hochhuth's controversial play, "Der Stellvertreter," also known as "The Deputy" or "The Representative," left for Basle, Switzerland, over the weekend to huddle with the author. He wants Hochhuth to rewrite his play in German into a three-hour length, as against the original six hours, so as to circumvent the criticism voiced in London "that something must have been lost in the English translation."

By having Hochhuth do his own condensation and/or telescoping of scenes to bring it down to three hours, Shumlin feels that the American adaptation translation will thus not be subject to the same critical captiousness.

Shumlin is critical of the VARIETY story last week (see separate text of his piece).

Separately, Shumlin points to a N.Y. Times story last Thursday (17) from Rome captioned "Vatican Council Paper Decries Blaming of Jews in Jesus' Death" which includes these paragraphs in Milton Bracker's account:

"An explanation that has been advanced, without confirmation, for the possibility of open discussion of the document fairly soon is the Vatican's concern over the play 'The Deputy,' or 'The Representative,' both English versions of Rolf Hochhuth's play 'Der Stellvertreter.'

"The work assails the late Pope Pius XII for failure to denounce Hitler's destruction of 6,000,000 European Jews. It was recently produced in England, and the production led to the publication of a letter bythe present Pope Paul VI, written when he was Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, Archbishop of Milan.

"In the letter, Paul said that had Pius adopted an attitude of protest and condemnation, the result would have been futile and harmful, and would have led to reprisals and devastation.

"Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the College of Cardinals," continues Bracker's account in the N. Y. Times, "made a comment on 'The Deputy' yesterday to a rabbi from New York, the latter reported.

"The rabbi, Dr. William F. Rosenblum of Temple Israel, Manhattan, quoted the Cardinal as having said, 'I do not like (it) when the truth is not told, and you know that it (the play) is not the truth . . .'"

Vernon Duke Reclaims 'Lord Sewer Rat' Tuner As French Radio Piece

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Vernon Duke has secured the rights to his 1951 score for "Lord Sewer Rat" from Edwin Lester, who had optioned the property several years ago, and is reactivating the show under his own auspices. Duke retained rights to the score, with lyrics by Francis Claude, when he fulfilled a commitment for Lester and the L.A. Civic Light Opera with "Zenda," now at the Philharmonic in a pre-Broadway production. Initially he had been commissioned to do the 1830 French romantic period musical by Paul Gilson, head of French radio. Composer is seeking French dramatist Jean Anouilh to do the book.

With "Zenda" opening at the Mark Hellinger Theatre on Broadway, Duke will have two shows playing in New York. Plans are now being finalized for an off-Broadway revival of "Cabin in the Sky," to star Nipsey Russell and Claudia O'Neill. Show has been slightly updated, with all of the "Uncle Tom" Negro talk eliminated and a new tune by Duke, "Livin' It Up," added to the score. Duke also did the lyrics on new tune, featured in second act. Arthur Whitelaw produces.

Capitol will record the original cast album of "Zenda," also will do some jazz albums and singles from the show. In its current run,

(Continued on page 64)

$34,000 a Year in Aid From Ford to Santa Fe

Albuquerque, Oct. 22.

Santa Fe Opera has been awarded a $170,000 grant from the Ford Foundation. Some of the money will be used to provide a permanent administrative staff. John Crosby is managing director.

W. W. Hunker, president of the Opera Assn. of New Mexico, said the grant would not be used to lengthen the existing nine-week summer season or to add more productions.

Instead, it will be used to employ a few more artists and conductors each season, he said, to provide relief to the present heavy schedules of personnel in these departments.

Permanent administrative staff will be used to strengthen activities and technical work of the company.

The grant will be spread over a five-year period, providing $34,000 a year.

Living Theatre, Off-B'way Group, Closes in Hock

The Living Theatre, an avant-garde off-Broadway operation, has collapsed from financial malnutrition. Its 150-seat upstairs showcase on the outskirts of Greenwich village was shuttered last Thursday afternoon (17) by agents of the Internal Revenue Service on a claim against the legit venture for more than $23,000 in withholding and admission taxes.

Although the Living Theatre was granted non-profit status in 1961, its operators, Julian Beck and his actress-wife, Judith Malina, never followed up with the steps necessary for putting the project on a tax-exempt basis. Thus, with the spot in arrears on its payments, the IRS representatives took over by padlocking the boxoffice and placing identification tags on the theatre's physical equipment, which has been carted away for auction.

Beck, who acknowledged the tax claim, said that other monies are also owed by the operation, and he estimated the total indebtedness to be in excess of $50,000. Had the IRS agents not taken action, the Living Theatre would then have had to face eviction last night (Tues.) by Wyckoff-Bent Corp., the landlord of the premises in which the theatre is located. In order to retain residence, the off-Broadway enterprise would have had to pay $4,349 in back rent, plus an additional deposit of $3,500. There had been a previous threat of eviction last November, but it was averted.

It's asserted that in past years

(Continued on page 65)

DICK WEAVER STARTS SEASON IN KINGSTON

Dick Weaver, who switched from pressagenting Broadway shows to promoting legit and concert bookings out-of-town, brought the first of four offerings this season in Kingston, N.Y., to the 1,559-seat Community Theatre, the Victor Borge show, Oct. 9.

Weaver also presented Borge last week at the 1,4227-seat high school auditorium in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., where he's also putting on an entertainment series. Besides Borge, the Weaver program includes the Jose Greco terp troupe and bus-and-truck companies of "A Man for All Seasons" and "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." He may add other motorized legit productions to his sked if details can be worked out.

The next city to be added to Weaver's growing area of operations is Red Bank, N.J., where he intends getting underway in the spring at the Walter Reade Carlton Theatre. Weaver started in the presentation field last year with a play and concert series at Smith College, Northampton, Mass.

Lili Darvas In An Apron

Former Hungarian legit actress Lili Darvas whose last Broadway play was "A Far Country" (which dealt with the life of Sigmund Freud) and who was married at one time to famed magyar playwright Ferenc Molnar, has gone into the home catering service. Assisting her is Mrs. Dorothy Callaway who has been with the Molnars for 21 years and learned European cooking from Miss Darvas' mother.

Luncheon and dinner parties will be serviced by the actress-turned-caterer, with accent on mittel-Europa cuisine which abounds in items such as paprika chicken, tarhonya, senf gurken, creme tortas, Pusztai casseroles and kindred items, all dominantly "a la Budapest."

Conn. Bard Fest Grossed $797,195, Best Season Yet

The American Shakespeare Festival's recently-concluded ninth season at Stratford, Conn., was the operation's best grosser thus far. Receipts of $167,690 for eight weeks of student performances before and after the regular 15-week season, on which there was a previously-reported gross of $629,505, brought the total take to $797,195, according to Herman Wolf, assistant to producer Joseph Verner Reed.

Paid admissions for the regular season topped 150,000 and student audiences from 10 states numbered more than 87,600. The repertory program for the semester comprised "King Lear," "The Comedy of Errors," "Henry V" and the festival's first non-Shakespearean entry, Bernard Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

UCLA Theatre Group Due With 'Brecht on Brecht'

"Brecht on Brecht," adapted and arranged by George Tabori, will be given its Coast preem by the Theatre Group in a production to be directed by William Allyn for Oct. 25-Dec. 1 presentation at the Humanities Building Auditorium of the Univ. of California Extension, Los Angeles. Appearing in presentation will be Dan Duryea, Nina Foch, Kim Hamilton, Kevin McCarthy and Dolores Sutton. Piano accompaniment will be provided by Don Abeny.

The show is to be presented by arrangement with the Greater N.Y. Chapter of the American National Theatre & Academy and Bertha Case, American representative for the Bertolt Brecht estate.

Acquires Hyde Park, N.Y., As Mate for Woodstock

M. Edgar Rosenblum, producer-owner of the Woodstock (N.Y.) Playhouse, has taken a longterm lease on the Hyde Park (N.Y.) Playhouse. He plans re-opening the theatre next summer and running it in conjunction with his Woodstock operation. Such a setup will enable Rosenblum to rehearse shows two weeks instead of six days, as in the past.

Besides regular legit offerings, there'll be a Monday night series of concerts, lectures and other special presentations at both locations.

Florence Legit Sked

Florence, Oct. 22.

Florence's Little Theatre will present this season John Osborne's "Martin Luther," though distasteful to Catholics, Lorca's "Don Perimplin," Brecht-Weill's "Seven Deadly Sins," Tucaret's "The Wise Man" and two Italian novelties, as yet unrevealed. The company will consist of 16 actors, with guest artists according to the necessities of each play. There will be a month of "Florentine Theatre" meaning local, vernacular plays in dialect, an exhibit of stage design and a drama school will be added to this season's activities.

For the past season the Piccolo Teatro gave 97 performances in town and 33 out of town. Intake has been $48,000 with a sale of 24,275 seats.

May Bowdlerize 'Virginia Woolf' To Lift South Africa Censor Ban; To Submit Cuts to Edward Albee

Johannesburg, Oct. 22.

In an effort to get a reversal of the recent banning of "Who's Afraid Of Virginia Woolf?" the Taubie Kushlick management, which is presenting the play in South Africa, wrote to the New York headquarters of the William Morris agency, representing the author, Edward Albee, to ask if the version of the drama, as presented in Boston, could be airmailed here for resubmission to the Board of Censors.

A reply received by Mrs. Kushlick's agent Ruth Hooper, written on behalf of Jack Hutto, who is handling the matter in New York, says, "I did not think there was a 'Boston Version,' and this was confirmed by Albee. I suggest you forward to me a list of changes or cuts required by the censors, and Albee will be glad to go over this list as soon as we receive it. If he approves the changes, he certainly would have no objection to you reopening the play."

A statement made last week by N. J. Le Roux, chairman of the Board of Censors in South Africa, mentions that a censorship precedent was established in the Republic two years ago when Brian Brooke's production of "The World of Suzie Wong," originally banned after intervention by Johannesburg's Chinese community was allowed to continue after certain cuts had been made. ("Suzie," incidentally, benefited

(Continued on page 64)

D.C. Arena Stage Skeds Whiting's 'Devils' Preem

Washington, Oct. 22.

The Arena Stage's 1963-64 season of eight plays will include two premieres. The Washington theatre-in-the-round subscription campaign brought in 9,200 new ticket holders, boosting the total to 11,000.

Opening the theatre's 14th season Oct. 30 will be the American preem of John Whiting's "The Devils." It will be followed by "Battle Dream," by Herbert Boland, Nov. 27-Dec. 22.

Also on the schedule are: "Hotel Paradiso," Dec. 25-Jan. 19; "The Wall," Jan. 29-Feb. 23; "The Affair," Feb. 26-March 22; "Enrico IV," March 25-April 19; "Taming of the Shrew," April 22-May 17, and "Dark of the Moon," May 27-June 21.

Bob Preston Set For 1964 Season At Guthrie, Mpls.

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

The Tyrone Guthrie Theatre has set Robert Preston for its acting company for second season starting May 4. Alan Schneider is already set to direct one play, "The Glass Menagerie." Guthrie and Douglas Campbell will stage other productions.

Although the management hasn't announced Preston's signing, the legit-film star himself revealed last week that he's committed to the local repertory theatre for its second season. George Grizzard, one of he leading players the first year, will also be on hand.

Preston, who has three completed pictures due for release in the next few months, is set to star on Broadway this fall in a comedy, "Nobody Loves an Albatross," presumably until the Guthrie season opens. Following the 22-week schedule here, he's committed for a Broadway musical, "Ben Franklin in Paris" for the fall in 1964.

The season will be 22 weeks, two more than this year, and the repertory, besides "Menagerie," will include "Henry V," "Saint Joan" and "Volpone." Campbell, for the first time with the company, will be acting as well as directing, and most of the first season's supporting company will be back. Non-returning leads the first year were Hume Cronyn, Jessica Tandy, Rita Gam and Zoe Caldwell.

KINGSLEY 'NIGHT LIFE' FOR VILLANOVA UNIV.

Sidney Kingsley will cooperate in the casting and directing of a presentation this semester at Villanova (Pa.) Univ. of a revised version of his play, "Night Life." The drama was an unsuccessful Broadway entry last season. The play will be one of 10—the others all new—to be offered in the university's unusually small Playbox Theatre over a period of 32 weekends during the academic year.

The venture, implemented by a group of advanced graduate students of drama, is termed a playwright's theatre and each performance is to be followed by an informal critique during which the audience will have an opportunity to question and criticize the playwright, director and actors. Richard A. Duprey, author of "Just Off the Aisle" and critic for the Philadelphia Catholic Standard & Times, as well as the Catholic World, is director of the program.

Other plays planned for production, besides the Kingsley work, include "The Switchboard," by Malcolm Marmorstein; "We Shall Have Larks," by Samuel Rulen; "The Gay and Burning Bridge," by David Rabe, and an undisclosed Shimon Wincelberg script.

Berlin Festival Charges Edward Albee Betrayal On Priority to 'Woolf'

Berlin, Oct. 22.

Another new concert hall, this one costing $4,250,000, has been added to the longhair world. Inaugural constituted the farewell event of the recent West Berlin annual (13th) art fair or festwochen. Performing was the Berlin Philharmonic conducted by Herbert von Karajan.

Fair itself ran 17 days, ranged from artistic hits to nosedives. Drama topped opera. Ballet was neglected but overall the impression was worthwhile.

John Osborne's "Luther" was offered at Erwin Piscator's Freie Volksbuehne. Friedrich Hebbel's classical tragedy "Judith" at Schiller Theater and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," by Edward Albee at Schlosspark Theatre were other events.

Boleslav Barlog, head of the City-owned Schiller and Schlosspark Theatres, who staged "Woolf," displayed at a press conference a folder which, he said, contained the contract promising Berlin the European premiere of the Albee drama which actually went to stockholm. Said Barlog: "We have been betrayed. I want to make clear that it was Edward Albee himself who pledged us the world premiere out of gratitude after his local success of 'The Zoo Story.' We know, of course, that ingratitude is the way of the world. But we're somewhat disappointed."

If measured by the applause, Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" was the most successful presentation of a West German ensemble in Berlin. This play was performed by the Theater of Freie Hansestadt Bremen and staged by Peter Zadek.

In all, five W-German ensembles came to the city. The other four "Medea", tragedy by Euripides, presented by Schauspielhaus Duesseldorf—a fine success, especially for Maria Wimmer in the lead; Shakespeare's "Othello" presented by Kammerspiele Munich—a big success, especially for Fritz Kortner who staged this; Alfred de Musset's "Les Caprices de Marianne" presented by Theater der Stadt Baden-Baden, also a definite success, and "Christopher Columbus" by the late Paul Claudel, presented by Buehnen der Stadt Essen (which Jean-Louis Barrault staged three years ago there), also an above-average presentation. The guest performances of the W-German ensembles were one of the plus points about this year's Festwochen.

Producer of 'Deputy' Files Rebuttal

By HERMAN SHUMLIN

It was a matter of amazement to me to see on Page 56 of VARIETY's issue of Oct. 16, a two-column article about "The Deputy," the play which I am producing this season on Broadway which began with four paragraphs of italicized editorial comment attacking the play. Since I was a reporter on The Clipper many years ago, before VARIETY took it over, my admiration for the honesty, the clear advocacy of freedom of the stage, the dislike of phoniness and falsity of VARIETY has never once been changed. Now for the very first time I read in VARIETY an attack which can only be intended to work against the presentation of a play, but I am saddened to see, an attack which is based upon untrue statements. It is natural, and to be expected that such a play as "The Deputy" must meet with attacks, for the very simple reason that it attacks the late Pope Pius XII. I would think, however, that VARIETY would be interested in searching out the truth about the play before attacking it.

VARIETY said, in its editorial italics "Hochhuth (the author) pretends that his play is based on fact, but his facts have repeatedly been refuted by Catholic prelates, as several times quoted in detail by VARIETY." (The underlinings are mine.) I think you should know that no voice has yet been raised, Catholic or otherwise, which denied the truth of the statement that Hochhuth makes in his play, i.e., that Pope Pius XII never once said anything against the killing of 6,000,000 Jews by the Nazis.

I would like to bring Catholic voices in as evidence. On July 13th, on the Sunday morning NBC program "Inquiry" there was a Catholic program which bore the title "The Defamation of Pope Pius XII by the play 'Der Stellvertreter'." (That is the German title of "The Deputy.") On this program were the following, all Catholics: Father John Sheerin, Father James Lloyd, Barrett McGurn, Peter White.

All of these speakers clearly and simply agreed that Pope Pius had remained silent. I have a tape recording of the program and I quote the words of Mr. McGurn: "In 1946 when we covered the Consistory in which he named the 32 Cardinals he astonished me—I was a young reporter there at the time—he astonished me by saying to the Cardinals at the end of the Consistory, 'There's one thing I want to talk about now. I want to explain why I was silent during the war.' Obviously it was very much on his mind. I was amazed that he felt a very real need to explain why he was silent during the war. He did feel a problem."

The program largely concerned itself with trying to give reasons, why the Pope was silent, and also criticizing a certain aspect of the treatment by Hochhuth of the character of the Pope with regard to his interest in financial matters.

I would like now to quote from the N.Y. Times of Oct. 17th, from a dispatch from Rome which was on the front page of the paper. The headline of this story was "Vatican Council Paper Decries Blaming of Jews in Jesus' death." The story dealt with the historically important Ecumenical Council now taking place and reported that "an official document is ready for distribution to the Roman Catholic churchmen attending the Council." This document declares that "hatred of and persecution of the Jews is abhorrent to the Roman Catholic Church and that those guilty of either merit the strongest possible repudiation." Later on in this report from Rome this is said:

"An explanation that has been advanced, without confirmation, for the possibility of open discussion of the document fairly soon is the Vatican's concern over the play 'The Deputy' or 'The Representative,' both English versions of Rolf Hochhuth's play 'Der Stellvertreter'."

Now, I submit that this report brings great honor to "The Deputy." I submit that in this tremendously important Council now going on in Rome, the possibility (and I have reason to believe that it is a probability) that this play has had this effect is a matter that should be of pride to everyone in the theatre; that, perhaps since "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the stage has not manifested its importance in the social fabric of life to this extent, and that this is a matter of honor.

I now wish to quote another Catholic, Father Dr. Willehart Eckhert, of Cologne, Germany, as quoted in the Koelnische Rundschau of April 29, 1963:

"And yet, despite all these faults (and Father Eckhert found a number of them in the play) the reader, if he is unprejudiced, finds the book fascinating and himself interested. Rolf Hochhuth holds you by the honesty of his struggle, the absoluteness of his ethics. Questions which this representative of the younger generation puts to the older are not put by him alone. They are truly the questions of all those young people who are still reflecting on the history of our times. Are these questions irrelevant, or must they be put? . . . His thesis is that Pope Pius was a frigid diplomat whose silence was not due to cowardice but calculation because he regarded Hitler as a tool in the struggle against Communism . . . It has been repeatedly stated that the basic thesis of the author, that a Papal protest might have saved the Jews, is unprovable. If it is necessary to protect Pope Pius XII against the reproach of frigid partisanship, the author deserves protection against certain unjustified criticism. We have not denied either the literary weaknesses nor the faults of historical interpretation. Be it permitted to point out now where Rolf Hochhuth is right . . . He emphasized that Pope Pius XII was one of the most highly intelligent persons of our times. He does not denigrate the personal charm of the Pope. And he certainly does not deny the charity and distress of mind of many priests and members of holy orders. . . .

"It is more than a mere gesture if he dedicates his play to the memory of two priests, Father Maximilian Kolbe and Prelate Bernard Lichtenberg. . . . True, Rolf Hochhuth considers the silence of the Pope of disastrous significance. That's why he is so bitter."

There are others I can quote, Catholics, laymen and priests, great men like Albert Schweitzer, about this play, but surely this should be enough to suggest to you that VARIETY owes to its history, and to its reputation of honor, a more careful approach to this play, to any play.

It is plain to me that whoever wrote the story which I am answering does not know the play, has never seen it, has never read it. Just as on the NBC program of July 13th, only one man of the four had read it. It is also true, throughout our modern history, that the big attacks against books are made by people who have not read them, against plays by people who have not seen them. Does VARIETY really wish to stand now as one of these overwilling censors? I sincerely hope not.

Off-Broadway Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

Ballad Blmshire, Mayfair (10-15-63).
Blacks, St Marks (3-4-61).
Boys Syracuse, Theatre 4 (4-15-63).
Cages, York (6-13-63).
Color of Darkness, Writers Stg. (9-30-63).
Corruption, Cherry Lane (10-8-63).
Cromwell Plays, East End (10-2-63).
Desire Under Elms, Circle (1-8-63).
Fantasticks, Sullivan St. (5-3-60).
Ionesco Plays, Gate (9-17-63).
Mr. Simian, Astor Pl. (10-21-63).
Pinter Plays, Pocket (11-26-62); moved last night (Tues.) from the Provincetown.
Premise, Premise (11-22-60).
Riverwind, Actors Playhouse (12-12-62).
Six Characters, Martinique (3-8-63).

CLOSED

Best Foot, Stage 73 (4-3-63); closed Oct. 13 after 224 performances.
Brig, Living Theatre (5-15-63); closed last Wednesday (16).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Penny Change, Players (10-24-63).
Walk in Darkness, Mews (10-28-63).
Streets of N. Y., Maidman (10-29-63).
God, Man, You Baby, Midway (10-29-63).
In White America, Sher. Sq. (10-31-63).
Theatre of Peretz, Gate (11-5-63).
Burn Me to Ashes, Jan Hus (11-5-63).
Journey to Day, de Lys (11-6-63).
Immoralist, Bouwerie Lane (11-7-63).
Telemachus Clay, Writers (11-13-63).
Thistle in Bed, Gramercy (11-19-63).
Chase Bank, Theatre East (11-26-63).
Imaginary Invalid, Phoenix (11-26-63).
Shakespeare, Carnegie Hall (12-4-63).
Mother Courage, de Lys (1-15-64).

Who's With National Rep

The staff for the National Repertory Theatre touring venture includes Boris Bernardi, company manager; Robert Calhoun, production supervisor; William Armitage, stage manager; Helen Page Camp, assistant stage manager, and Mary Ward, advance pressagent.

National publicity is being handled out of New York by Solters, O'Rourke & Sabinson. Recent additions to the 20-member company include Fred Ainsworth, Clinton Anderson, Osceola Archer, Richard Bowler, Susan Carr, Pamela Gruen and Mary Hara.

Censored 'Woolf'

Continued from page 63

from the ensuing publicity, and went on from Johnnesburg to a successful tour of South Africa and Rhodesia). Le Roux added that the Board of Censors is willing to consider an amended version of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

The Kushlick management is now busy considering cuts that would be acceptable both to the Board and Albee. Miss Hooper will take these to Cape Town, where the Board has its headquarters, as soon as the script is ready for resubmission.

Meanwhile, Jerome Kilty and Cavada Humphrey (Mrs. Kilty), after holidaying in the Kruger National Park for 10 days, returned to Johnnesburg and were briefed on the latest situation. Kilty, who denounced the censorship publicly as a reprisal against Albee for requiring that audiences at the play be unsegregated, has indicated that he will go to Cape Town to await developments. The Kiltys are well known in South Africa by reason of their tour on the country in "Dear Liar," their dramatization of the George Bernard Shaw-Mrs. Patrick Campbell correspondence.

Okay in Philly and Pitt

During its Boston engagement recently, the touring edition of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" underwent a number of deletions at the "suggestion" of the local censor, an appointee of the Mayor with implicit power of enforcement. Albee consented to the cuts.

There have been no reports of censorship in the play's subsequent engagements in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. However, a scheduled booking later this season for the Auditorium, St. Paul, was cancelled by the local management to avoid possible offense to a segment of the public.

Quentin Reynolds

Continued from page 2

against Pegler and the Hearst organization. (Since then Pegler has had a falling-out with the N. Y. Journal-American and affiliated Hearst papers, not because of his continued attacks on the Roosevelts but when he also took off after William Randolph Hearst Jr. it was too much even for Richard E. Berlin, president of the Hearst Newspapers. Latter had always contended that, of all Hearst columnists, Pegler was least vulnerable legalistically—until, of course, Nizer's dramatic win in Reynolds' behalf, including a $175,000 cash award).

The curious turn of events lies in Reynolds, after having been so bravely defended by Nizer, taking umbrage at the dramatic version, a Broadway hit.

Reynolds made no bones about his attitude against the play on Barry Gray's WMCA (N. Y.) midnighter, also mentioning that Nizer "offered to cut me on a piece of it." To VARIETY Reynolds stated he didn't want any of the "dirty" money; that it disgusts him, etc.

To the statement that the play presents him most favorably; that the war correspondent's wife (Miss Peine)—neither are called Mr. or Mrs. Reynolds—is incidental. Reynolds read the script, and hints at some changes having been made, but he hasn't seen the play "nor do I want to."

Nizer will make no comment but friends state he is saddened by his client's reactions; one whom he believed to be a longtime friend, considering that both fought a brave fight together, to ultimate victory.

Shubert Alley Shorts

The Brooks Atkinsons spent last weekend at Durham, N.Y., to close their country home, Prink Hill . . . "The Beauty Part," by S. J. Perelman, has been published in a paperback acting edition by Samuel French, at $1.25 . . . "Luther," the text of the current Broadway drama by John Osborne, and a volume of two one-act plays, "The Sandbox" and "The Death of Bessie Smith," by Edward Albee, were published in paperback editions yesterday (Tues.) by the New American Library, at 60c each.

Frank McHugh, who returned to Broadway this week as successor to David Burns in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," reveals that his brother, former legit stage manager Eddie McHugh, is now living in retirement in Sioux Falls, S.D. He's probably the only actor in town . . . Tommy Morris, in from the Coast to get an acting job in legit, is a member of the Screen Actors Guild, American Federation of Television & Radio Artists and the American Guild of Variety Artists, all affiliates of Actors Equity. He'll be freely admitted to the legit union as soon as he lands a stage job, but he's been stymied by the fact that agents won't send him around for casting and managements won't consider him for parts unless he has an Equity card.

Pressagent Bob Ullman, who's been writing the copy for the comedy teaser display ads for the off-Broadway revival of "The Boys from Syracuse," came up with an amusingly presumptious one last week, addressed to "Jackie" (Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy), The blurb referred to the First Lady's then-current visit to Greece and advised her to take in ancient Greece, also, by attending the show at the Theatre Four, N.Y. Although other New York dailies accepted the copy without question, the Times turned it down unless Ullman could obtain a clearance from the White House.

Shows On Broadway

Continued from page 62

Jennie

and direct as the recklessly adventurous first husband and Bailey, imported from London for the assignment, is suitable suave as the charming author who is taking the actress away from all that and is to help her to stardom by writing hit plays for her. Miss Shutta is believable as the heroine's sharp-tongued, warm-hearted mother.

Probably it doesn't signify anything much, but in the Moss Hart-Kurt Weill musical, "Lady in the Dark," of 23 seasons ago, Gertrude Lawrence sang a number called "The Saga of Jennie" and popularly known as "Jennie." It was better than this whole new show.

Hobe.

Phedre

S. Hurok (by arrangement with the Government of the French Republic) presentation of the Compagnie Marie Bell in Revival of the drama by Jean Racine. Staged by Raymond Gerome; decor and costumes, Jacques Dupont; musique concrete, Reymond Scheaffer. Stars Marie Bell; features Henriette Barreau, Tristani, Danielle Volle, Alain Lionel, Florence Ennery, Claude Giraud, Alain Cuny. Opened Oct. 20, '63, at the Brooks Atkinson Theatre; $7.50 top.

Marie Bell is a French institution such as no longer exists in the U.S. She is here for a two-week stand at the Racine standards, "Phedre" and "Berenice," and opened with the former. It is about as classic Greek as it is possible to present, each of the four main characters being provided with a companion against whom those long, long speeches are bounced. The costumes set and lighting are excellent in the Gordon Craig manner, and the supporting players are admirable in the nobility of their delivery as well as the aptness of their casting.

Only the star seems lacking in that last ounce of inner fire or personality needed to blast the 1677 play off the pad. Not since Margaret Anglin with her Antigone, Electra and Medea have we supported a classic drama card here (and in Canada) of the Marie Bell type.

Henriette Barreau has commanding presence as the plotting nurse, while Danielle Volle is petite, blonde and has flashes of genuine fire as the princess. Florence Ennery, a looker with little to do, is her companion. Alain Cuny, familiar from French films, contributes stature as the king and Alain Lionel gives inobtrusive support as the servant.

Claude Giraud, young and handsome, is the stepson with whom Phedre falls in love to provide the play with its tragic motive. Like Mlle. Volle, he should be a picture bet. Tristani, as his tutor and companion, drew a burst of applause opening night for the 10-12 minute speech describing his ward's death.

Starting with old-fashioned sonority and musical verse, the presentation could only descend to a sibilant whisper, not quite successfully on Mlle. Bell's part, or lift to thunderous denunciation. This happened repeatedly and so much screaming has not been heard on Broadway since Orson Welles, having sprained his ankle playing "King Lear," caught his foot in his wheelchair. Leve.

Vernon Duke

Continued from page 63

Duke is changing some areas, has put in a new opening production number and a new crossover song tagged "Presents."

Composer on Oct. 18 published his newest book, "Listen Here—A Study in Music Depreciation," in which he discusses what he terms the "demusicalization of a musical." Duke points out there is, today, no such thing as a musical comedy, noting "producers now are eliminating ballads because they break the pace." He also asserts, however, record companies object to loss of ballads because they have nothing on which to tie a hit and sell records. Composer also stresses, "There used to be a bugaboo about reprises, with one or two songs done several times throughout the show," notes today "the plot is more important and songs are overly integrated." He charges there are no composers anymore, but a team of stage craftsmen, "an army of experts—the orchestrator, arranger, who harmonizes, vocal arranger, dance arranger." While a composer is listed, these are the people who do the score and then "the composer either takes the credit or the blame."

Upcoming for Duke is performance Friday (25) by the Minneapolis Symphony of his "Ode to the Milky Way" and a new ballet for Roland Petit tagged "Lady Blue," which will star Zizi Jeanmaire.

Pitt's Legiters

Continued from page 1

the total number of TG-ATS entries here this season to nine.

The local Friends group was organized under the chairmanship of Mrs. Richard R. Pivirotto, wife of the president of Horne's department store here. The store has urged support of the TG-ATS offerings by including order blanks in mailings to its charge customers. The five-play subscription campaign was inaugurated last week at a meeting in Horne's Tearoom with Warren Caro, TG-ATS executive director, as principle speaker. Caro, incidentally, informed the audience that he narrowly escaped being on the helicopter that crashed recently in New York.

Other speakers at the Horne's conclave included Nancy Kelly (Mrs. Caro) and Sheppard Strudwick, who costar in the touring company of "Woolf," which was at the Nixon Theatre here last week; Mrs. Edith S. Stewart, vice-chairman of The Friends; Ralph Lycett, campaign organizer, and Mrs. Noel Riggs, local TG-ATS subscription secretary. The Nixon is the city's key showcase for touring productions.

B'way: 'Jennie' $85,166, 'Luther' 53G; 'Verb' $33,733, 'Ear and Eye' $28,814; 'Libel' $32,362, 'Spoon River' $18,963

Business was up for most Broadway shows last week. "Jennie," in four regular performances and four previews, was the top-grosser with its take cut by first and second-night press. Holding at capacity from the previous session were "Here's Love," with the gross reduced by theatre party commissions, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "Never Too Late."

Registering the biggest climb last week was "Spoon River," which went $5,977 over the previous frame's take. In the straight play category, the powerhouse leader again last week was "Luther." There were two closings last Saturday (19), "Semi-Detached," which had a run of 16 performances, and "The Advocate," which collapsed after eight performances.

The continuation of healthy business for the longrunning "Mary, Mary" has the trade speculating on how the opening of the film version tomorrow (Thurs.) at the Radio City Music Hall will affect the Broadway comedy. The situation is unusual, if not unprecedented.

Business was up Monday night (21) and the outlook for the current session is bullish.

Estimates for Last Week

Keys: C (Comedy), D (Drama), CD (Comedy-Drama), R (Revue), MC (Musical-Comedy), MD (Musical-Drama), O (Opera), OP (Operetta), Rep. (Repertory), DR (Dramatic Reading).

Other parenthetic designations refer, respectively, to weeks played, number of performances through last Saturday, top prices (where two prices are given, the higher is for Friday-Saturday nights and the lower for weeknights), number of seats, capacity gross and stars. Price includes 10% Federal and 5% repealed City tax (diverted to an industry-wide pension and welfare fund), but grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of taxes.

Grosses normally have been reduced by commissions where theatre parties are mentioned.

Beyond the Fringe, Golden (R) (52d wk); 413 p) ($7.50; 799; $34,874). Previous week, $22,067.

Last week, $25,050.

Case of Libel, Longacre (D) (2d wk; 12 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,101; $40,000) (Van Heflin, Sidney Blackmer, Larry Gates). Previous week, $26,915 for four performances and four previews.

Last week, $32,362 with parties.

Chips With Everything, Plymouth (D) (3d wk; 23 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,084; $43,865). Previous week, $22,074.

Last week, $23,525.

Enter Laughing, Miller's (C) (32d wk; 253 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 940; $30,200) (Vivian Blaine, Alan Mowbray, Irving Jacobson, Alan Arkin). Previous week, $23,543.

Last week, $24,574.

Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Alvin (MC) (76th wk; 607 p) ($8.60-$9.40; 1,334; $65,096) (Zero Mostel). Previous week, $55,286.

Last week, $55,453. Jerry Lester is subbing for Mostel who began a two-week sabbatical following the evening performance last Saturday (19).

Here's Love, Shubert (MC) (3d wk); 20 p) ($9.60; 1,453; $71,205). Previous week, $68,819 with parties.

Last week, $67,630 with parties.

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, 46th St. (MC) (106th wk; 841 p) ($9.60; 1,342; $66,615). Previous week, $67,474.

Last week, $67,514.

Irregular Verb to Love, Barrymore (C) (5th wk; 37 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,079; $44,124) (Claudette Colbert, Cyril Ritchard). Previous week, $33,033 with parties.

Last week, $33,733 with parties.

Jennie, Majestic (MC) (1st wk; 4 p) ($9.60; 1,655; $91,714) (Mary Martin).

Opened last Thursday night (17) to two favorable reviews (Chapman, News; McClain, Journal-American) and four unfavorable (Kerr, Herald Tribune; Nadel, World-Telegram; Taubman, Times; Watts, Post).

Last week, $85,166 for four performances and four previews.

Luther, St. James (D) (4th wk; 29 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,609; $61,095) (Albert Finney, Kenneth J. Warren, John Moffat, Peter Bull, Glyn Owen, Frank Shelley). Previous week, $50,711 with parties.

Last week, $53,087 with parties.

Mary, Mary, Hayes (C) (137th wk; 1,092 p) ($6.90-$7.50); 1,164; $43,380) (Patricia Bosworth, Murray Hamilton, Michael Evans). Previous week, $30,910.

Last week, $32,154. Tom Helmore is subbing this week for Evans.

Never Too Late, Playhouse (C) (47th wk; 375 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 944; $37,000) (Paul Ford, Maureen O'Sullivan, Orson Bean). Previous week, $37,453.

Last week, $37,443.

Oliver, Imperial (MD) (41st wk; 329 p) ($9.30; 1,450; $71,977) (Clive Revill, Georgia Brown). Previous week, $54,665.

Last week, $59,435. Robin Ramsay subbed last week for Revill who was out ill with an infected throat.

Private Ear and Public Eye, Morosco (D) (2d wk; 13 p) $6.90-$7.50; 999; $41,827) (Geraldine McEwan, Barry Foster, Brian Bedford, Moray Watson). Previous week, $18,011 for five performances.

Last week, $28,814 with parties.

Rehearsal, Royale (D) (4th wk; 32 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,050; $43,908) (Keith Michell, Coral Browne, Alan Badel, Adrienne Cori, Jennifer Hilary). Previous week, $35,415 with parties.

Last week, $31,939 with parties.

She Loves Me, O'Neill (MC) (26th wk); 207 p) ($8.60; 1,047; $53,700) (Barbara Cook, Daniel Massey, Barbara Baxley). Previous week, $40,957.

Last week, $42,685

Spoon River, Booth (DR) (3d wk; 24 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 766; $33,816) (Betty Garrett, Robert Elston, Joyce Van Patten, Charles Aidman. Previous week, $12,986.

Last week, $18,963.

Stop the World—I Want to Get Off, Ambassador (MC) (55th wk; 437 p) ($8.60; 1,121; $51,795) (Anthony Newley). Previous week, $34,616.

Last week, $33,899. Newley, Anna Quayle and the Baker Twins withdraw from the musical Nov. 2.

Tovarich, Winter Garden (MC) (30th wk; 240 p) ($9.20; 1,494; $71,795) (Jean Pierre Aumont). Previous week, $34,301.

Last week, $37,793. Eva Gabor joins the cast at the matinee today (Wed.) in the costarring assignment from which Vivien Leigh withdrew two weeks ago. The role has been handled the last fortnight by Joan Copeland.

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Rose (D) (54th wk; 426 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,162; $46,845) (Uta Hagen, Arthur Hill, Ben Piazza) (matinee company costars Haila Stoddard, Donald Davis). Previous week, $28,163.

Last week, $29,082.

CLOSED LAST WEEK

Advocate, ANTA (D) (1st wk; 8 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,214; $50,340) (James Daly).

Opened Oct. 14 to three qualified approvals (Chapman, News; Coleman, Mirror; Watts, Post) and four negative notices (Kerr, Herald Tribune; McClain, Journal-American; Nadel, World Telegram; Taubman, Times).

Last week, $5,834. Closed Saturday (19) at an estimated loss of its entire $100,000 investment.

Semi-Detached, Music Box (C) (2d wk; 16 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,010; $40,000). Previous week, $9,832.

Last week, $9,056. Closed Saturday (19) at an estimated loss of its entire $100,000 investment.

OPENING THIS WEEK

Marie Bell and Her Company, Atkinson (Rep) ($6.90; 1,088; $43,000). S. Hurok presentation, by arrangement with the Government of the French Republic, of French troupe in performances of two Jean Racine tragedies, "Phedre" and "Berenice"; opened two-week engagement Sunday night (20).

Rainy Day in Newark, Belasco (C) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,008; $40,000) (Eddie Mayehoff, Dody Goodman, Zachary Scott, Mary McCarty). Roger L. Stevens presentation of play by Howard Teichmann; opened last night (Tues.).

Barefoot in the Park, Biltmore (C) ($6.90-$7.50; 936; $40,000) Elizabeth Ashley, Robert Redford, Mildred Natwick, Kurt Kasznar). Saint Subber presentation of play by Neil Simon; opens tonight (Wed.).

110 in the Shade, Broadhurst (MC) ($8.80-$9.40; 1,186; $57,000) (Robert Horton, Inga Swenson, Stephen Douglass). David Merrick presentation of musical version of N. Richard Nash's play, "The Rainmaker," with book by Nash, music by Harvey Schmidt and lyrics by Tom Jones; opens tomorrow night (Thurs.).

OTHER THEATRES

Beck, Broadway, Cort., 54th St., Hellinger, Hudson, Little, Lunt-Fontanne, Lyceum, Ziegfeld.

Living Theatre

Continued from page 63

the Living Theatre has received about $100,000 from supporters, including small foundations. Beck also claims that the last production, "The Brig," had been making an operating profit or breaking even since mid-August. The potential weekly capacity at the house was $4,200, but the gross reported for four performances played prior to the theatre's closing last Thursday was only $485. The weekly payroll for 17 performers and staff of 10 is said to have been $1,000, an average $37 per person.

The group, which made two summer trips to Europe in recent years, was most successful with its production of "The Connection," a drama about dope addicts. Some of its reputation was probably based on its crude, if not obscene, language. This play and "The Brig" are among 23 major productions presented by the Living Theatre in New York. Following the shutdown of the theatre, Irving Maidman, who operates a string of off-Broadway houses, offered his Masque Theatre to the group on a rent-free basis.

Beck, who began a sit-in with his wife at the theatre following its seizure, succeeded in presenting a performance of "The Brig" at the house Saturday night (19). He managed to round up the cast and to sneak in a small number of patrons. Federal agents and city police, who were keeping prospective customers from entering by regular doors, made no attempt to halt the performance. However, they asked the cast and the audience to leave after the final curtain.

A number refused to leave and Miss Malina threatened to jump out of a second-floor window. A near-riot broke out and the police arrested 16 men and nine women. Of those, 21 were released on their own recognizance and four others on bail of $500 each. The bail applied to Beck, Carl Einhorn, the theatre's boxoffice attendant, William Shari, an actor, and Miriam R. Levene, who was identified as a narcotics addict whose appearance in court could not be guaranteed without bail.

A Federal Court hearing on charges against those arrested of "willfully" impeding Federal officials in the performance of their duties was adjourned from last Monday (21) to Nov. 4. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of $5,000 and three years imprisonment.

Beck, Einhorn and Shari have records of arrests for demonstrations on behalf of civil rights and pacifist causes. Beck and his wife, incidentally, are leaders of a movement called "General Strike for Peace" which they directed from their theatre.

Additions to the cast of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which will have costumes by Noel Taylor, include Paul Huber, Arnold Soboloff, Astrid Wilsrud, Fiddle Viracola, Charles Tyner, Leonard Parker, Lincoln Kirkpatrick, Michi Kobi, K. C. Townsend, Wesley Gale, Milton J. Williams, Bill Gleason and Clifford Cothron.

'Succeed' $110,124 for 11 in Dallas; 'Stop' 57½G, Cincy; 'Black' 18G, Bost.; 'Seasons' 37G, 'Fringe' $25,242, Chi

The road last week was generally in the meagre-to-moderate range. Notable boxoffice exceptions were "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" in Dallas, "Zenda" in Los Angeles, "The Girl Who Came to Supper" in Toronto and "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" in Cincinnati.

"Zenda," incidentally, has cancelled a Broadway booking for Nov. 26 at the Hellinger Theatre. The musical continues in L.A. through Nov. 9 and then moves to the Civic Theatre, Pasadena, for a final week of performances Nov. 11-16.

Estimates for Last Week

Parenthetic designations for out-of-town shows are the same as for Broadway, except that hyphenated T with show classification indicates tryout, RS indicates road show and BT indicates bus-and-truck production. Also, prices on touring shows include 10% Federal tax and local tax, if any, but as on Broadway grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of taxes. Engagements are for single week unless otherwise noted.

Where subscription is mentioned, the gross is the net after the deductions of commissions. Grosses for split weeks are projected when shows play guaranteed dates.

BOSTON

Black Nativity, Shubert (MD-RS) (1st wk) ($5-$5.50; 1,717; $59,000). Opened tour here Oct. 14 to unanimously enthusiastic notices (Adams, Globe; Guidry, Monitor; Harris, Herald; Maloney, Traveler; Norton, Record American).

Last week, $18,059.

CHICAGO

Beyond the Fringe, Studebaker (R-RS) (2d wk) ($5.50-$6; 1,200; $35,000). Previous week, $24,294 with Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society subscription.

Last week, $25,242 with TG-ATS subscription.

Man for All Seasons, Blackstone (D-RS) (4th wk) ($5.50-$5.95; 1,447; $42,500) (William Roderick, George Rose, Bruce Gordon). Previous week, $35,662 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $37,163 with TG-ATS subscription.

CINCINNATI

Stop the World—I Want to Get Off, Shubert (MC-RS) ($6; 2,050; $74,542) (Kenneth Nelson, Leslie Stewart). Previous week, $43,734 with TG-ATS subscription, Ford's, Baltimore.

Last week, $57,578 with TG-ATS subscription.

CLEVELAND

Never Too Late, Hanna (C-RS) (2d wk) $5; 1,515; $38,000) (William Bendix, Nancy Carroll, Will Hutchins). Previous week, $27,776 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $25,556.

DALLAS

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, State Fair Music Hall (MC-RS) (3d wk). Previous week, $83,454 for 10 performances.

Last week, $110,124 for 11 performances.

DETROIT

Sound of Music, Fisher (MD-RS) (2d wk) ($5; 2,081; $61,000) (Barbara Meister, John Myhers). Previous week, $43,304 with Fisher Playgoer subscription.

Last week, $48,842.

LOS ANGELES

No Strings, Orpheum (MC-RS) (1st wk) ($6-$6.50; 2,213; $81,500) (Howard Keel, Barbara McNair). Previous week, $26,700, Music Hall, Kansas City.

Last week, $37,093 for seven performances with TG-ATS subscription.

Zenda, Philharmonic (MC-T) (4th wk) ($6.25-$7; 2,670; $85,000) (Alfred Drake, Anne Rogers, Chita Rivera). Previous week, about $76,500 with Civic Light Opera Assn. subscription.

Last week, about $77,100 with CLO subscription.

NORFOLK

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, Center (MC-RS-3d Co.).

Last week, $41,155 for opening date of tour for this company.

PHILADELPHIA

110 in the Shade, Shubert (MC-T) (3d wk) ($6.60-$7.50; 1,878; $73,382) (Robert Horton, Inga Swenson, Stephen Douglass). Previous week, $49,340 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $42,155.

Rainy Day In Newark, Walnut (C-T) (2d wk) ($4.80-$5.40; 1,349; $41,000) (Eddie Mayehoff, Dody Goodman, Zachary Scott, Mary McCarty). Previous week, $7,543.

Last week, $11,488.

Seidman and Son, Locust (C-RS) (2d wk) ($4.50-$5; 1,418; $41,641) (Sam Levene). Previous week, $26,628 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $27,205 with TG-ATS subscription.

Thousand Clowns, Forrest (C-RS) (1st wk) ($5.40-$6; 1,766; $52,000) (Dane Clark, Margaret O'Brien). Previous week, $12,569, Shubert, New Haven.

Opened here Oct. 14 to three affirmative notices (Gaghan, News; Murdock, Inquirer; Schier, Bulletin).

Last week, $27,205 with TG-ATS subscription.

PITTSBURGH

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Nixon (D-RS) ($5-$5.50; 1,760; $50,000) (Nancy Kelly, Sheppard Strudwick) (matinee company costars Michaele Myers, Kendall Clark). Previous week, $47,006, Forrest, Philadelphia.

Opened here Oct. 14 to two raves (Fanning, Post-Gazette; Monahan, Press).

Last week, $31,025 with TG-ATS subscription.

ST. LOUIS

Camelot, American (MC-RS) (2d wk) ($7; 1,863; $73,697) (Kathryn Grayson, Louis Hayward, Arthur Treacher). Previous week, $41,760.

Last week, $34,038. Understudy Jan Moody subbed for the ailing Miss Grayson.

TORONTO

Girl Who Came to Supper, O'Keefe (MC-T) (1st wk) ($6; 3,211; $86,835) (Jose Ferrer, Florence Henderson). Previous week, $68,773, Colonial, Boston.

Opened here Oct. 15 to one qualified approval (Whittaker, Globe and Mail), one so-so notice (Evans, Telegram) and one pan (Cohen, Star).

Last week, $68,743 for seven performances with TG-ATS and O'Keefe Centre subscription.

WASHINGTON

Barefoot in the Park, National (C-T) (3d wk) ($4.50-$5.75; 1,673; $48,625) (Elizabeth Ashley, Robert Redford, Mildred Natwick, Kurt Kasznar). Previous week, $34,720.

Last week, $37,899.

SPLIT-WEEK

My Fair Lady (MC-BT) (Leland Howard, Gaylea Byrne). Previous week, $38,507, Shubert, Detroit.

Last week, $20,687 for four performances Monday-Wednesday (14-16) Auditorium, Flint, Mich., and $16,683 for four performances Thursday-Saturday (17-19) Murat, Indianapolis.

UNREPORTED

(Included below are productions with guaranteed dates on which grosses cannot be accurately figured.)

Camelot (MC-BT), split-week.

Circle in the Square (D-BT), split-week.

Man for All Seasons (D-BT), split-week.

Mary, Mary (C-BT), split week.

National Repertory Theatre (Rep-RS), split week.

Thousand Clowns (C-BT), split-week.

Morton Gottlieb and Helen Bonfils, producers of the current Broadway presentation of "Chips With Everything," will team up again next season with Arnold Wesker and John Dexter, the play's author and director, respectively, for a Broadway presentation of "The Kitchen."

Dance Reviews

Martha Graham

B. de Rothschild Foundation presents Martha Graham and her dance company, Bertram Ross, Helen McGehee, Ethel Winter, Robert Cohan, Linda Hodes, Yuriko, David Wood, Mary Hinkson, Gene McDonald, Robert Powell, Richard Gain, Clive Thompson, Peter Randazzo, Dudley Williams, Takako Asakawa, Juliet Fisher, Carol Fried, Phyllis Gutelius, Noemi Lapzeson. Robert Irving, conductor; lighting by Jean Rosenthal, produced by Gertrude Macy. Lunt-Fontanne Theatre, Oct. 13 for 2 weeks. $5 top.

Martha Graham, the prophetess who has been without sufficient honor in her own country, came into her own at the Lunt-Fontanne before a posh standing-room, standing-ovation audience that knew at last—having been told so by similar audiences in England, Scotland and Europe—that here was the foremost contemporary (and probably all-time) creator of modern dance.

Graham dancers have always been good; now they seem to have caught fire from all that continental whoop-de-doo and are performing with dancing skills and interpretive communication which exceed anything seen in this field until now.

Joan of Arc "Seraphic Dialogue" was a happy opener with the blonde Ethel Winter a beautiful dancer dancing beautifully. As her other selves, Yuriko (Maid), Helen McGehee (Warrior) and Linda Hodes (Martyr), projected the three faces of the heroine, while Bertram Ross (St. Michael), was assisted by Juliet Fisher and Phyllis Gutelius as Sts. Catherine and Margaret. Noguchi's set pieces, constructed of brass rods, were an artistic high in room-dividers.

Remaining two dances were N.Y. debuts. "Secular Games," another astringent title, was a Greek fame of catch without story line, well played out by the ensemble. The "set" by Jean Rosenthal, who otherwise contributed her special, luminous brand of lighting, consisted of three thick ropes hanging from the flies. Marion Kinsella designed six large spools, used as platforms by the dancers.

Large canvas of the evening was "Legend of Judith," based on the Biblical story of the young widow who saves the town of Bethulia by dancing for, seducing and then beheading the enemy captain, Holofernes. Miss Graham made her sole appearance of the evening as "a kind of Judith," in whose mind the legend takes place. Only slightly less supple than in the past, she does her amazing high fan kicks and conveys all of the conflicting emotions of the tortured woman with great subtelty and dramatic force despite that mask-like face. The inobrusive music, commissioned by The Chamber Music Society, Tel Aviv, was composed by Mordecai Seter. Bertram Ross danced the difficult role of Holofernes, with its spectacular severed-head exit. He was also the young bridegroom, to Linda Hodes' young Judith, while Helen McGehee and Robert Powell were "The Teller of the Tale" and "The Listener." David Wood and Yuriko made an exotic pair as Nebuchadnezzar and his courtesan and a trio of male dancers, Robert Cohan, Gene McDonald and Richard Gain were effective as archangel-messengers with Loie Fuller-like long sleeves and portable stained-glass window frames.

Special orchestra was conducted by Robert Irving, an ideal man for this work, effecting optimum liaison between pit, stage and audience.

At the conclusion of the performance Miss Graham received an affectionate ovation which went on for 15 or 20 minutes. Leve.

Fantasy

(N.Y. Ballet)

New John Taras work, offered during final week of New York Ballet's fall season, starts as a romantic nocturne but switches to nightmare in which male dancer is set upon and destroyed by his partner and her assistant harpies. If "The Cage" is in the idiom of Paul Klee or Abner Dean cartoons, "Fantasy" is sheeer Charles Addams.

Throughout the 25-minute ballet, two other couples (Carol Sumner-Robert Rodham and Marlene Mesavage-Earle Sieveling) leap and love, unaware of the black widow spider affair between Edward Villella and Patricia McBride which is alternating onstage with them.

Villella has one of the hardest male dancing roles in recent memory and handles it most capably. His partner and 10 young witches not only beat him to death, but they tear his nice new shirt. Miss McBride conveys the needed ambivalence as the gal with both charm and cruelty although the choreographer never makes it quite clear whether the horror is really happening or if it is all in the mind of the man. Music, from Franz Shubert, fits well and was orchestrated by Felix Mottl. "Fantasy" has enough good dancing, mixed with sensation, to be a novel addition to the New York Ballet repertoire. Leve.

Collages

London, Sept. 27.

Linnit and Dunfee (by arrangement with Hugh Wontner) presentation of a two-act (16 scenes) dance revue. Director and choreographer, Gillian Lynne; lighting, Michael Northern; sets, Patrick Libby and Bernard Sarrow; musical director, Anthony Bowles. Opened Sept. 24, '63, at the Savoy Theatre, London; $3.50 top. With Gillian Lynne, Tony Tanner, Sheila Falconer, David Boswell, Nicholas Chagrin, Noel Hanlyn, Bill Harvey, Leon Pomeranetz, Patty Burgess, Ann Frost, Janeen Kells, Judith Paris, Louanne Richards, Regina Weston.

After a kindly reception at the Edinburgh Festival, this dance revue has arrived in London for a limited three-week engagement. Its novelty value may intrigue dance fans, but its achievement is too uncertain to draw large audiences.

Gillian Lynne, who once danced with the Royal Ballet, has devised an uneven and scrappy terpalog, in which the steppers are occasionally interrupted by mime from Tony Tanner. Tanner, small, neat, volatile, and electric in personality, is the undisputed success of the evening. His bits of mime may derive heavily from Marcel Marceau, but he scores as wistful wife-hunter at a marriage bureau and as a ludo-player in the most pointed dance interlude of the show.

Miss Lynne herself is sultry and energetic at the head of an agile dance team, which as yet lacks precision. Her choreography, however, which ranges through jazz-type gambols in the Jerome Robbins tradition and heavier mood pieces with titles like "Symbol" and "Dark Influence," lacks a certain style.

Sheila Falconer, a gamine type, is vivacious throughout, but the chief drawback of the whole conception is that balletic dancing has a limited capacity for wit and comment. On its own, it lacks sufficient variety for a revue.

The set—a structure of steel scaffolding—was okay, and the music, under Anthony Bowles, was spiky Otta.

Children's Play Contest

The Jewish Theatre for Children is offering a prize of $1,000 for the best full-length play for juves in English on a Jewish theme in its eighth annual Golden Pen Playwriting Contest. The deadline on the submission of manuscripts is next May 15.

Concert Reviews

Koutev Bulgarians

Columbia Artists Management presentation of Bulgarian National Ensemble (75). Philip Koutev, founder-director. Opened Oct. 6, '63, at Philharmonic Hall, N. Y.; $6 top.

Here's another in the run of ethnic singing-dancing groups, a standard booking on the U.S. concert platform in the past 10 years. Such shows draw people who never go to concerts and, judging by their behaviour in some instances, never go to theatres either. Hence the trick in bringing them, and their money, into the boxoffice fold is worthy of respect.

As an entertainment, these Bulgarians are subject to a criticism common to most folklore troupes, to wit, they are very repetitious. The routining is slow. The showmanship is almost without guile, and therefore lacks variety and force. True, there are a few highlights, such as the first act climactic wine festival bit and, in the second act, the Macedonian Suite dance, similar to interludes presented here previously by Yugoslavians and Greeks.

A main value is the lovely native costuming. Another consideration for audiences under the sway of nostalgia for the homeland are the numbers, some 36 girls, some 12 musicians, plus the dancers. It is nostalgia alone which can explain and justify in a sophisticated concert hall and at $6 top the singularly flat folk tunes played both by the orchestra and the Bulgarian-style bagpipes. They are not the least of the many stage-waits, awkward entrances and exits.

Above all, this ensemble cries for stars, individuals of standout talent or personality. Instead there is a certain village social club quality. Again, that may be fine for the Balkan-oriented folk who will buy tickets on the eight-week tour. It may perhaps also be true that Philip Koutev has an authentic folkloric company, with no theatrical gimmicking. Ordinary seekers of entertainment would willingly settle for successful tampering with native simplicity for greater performance vitality. Land.

American Symphony-Stokowski

(CARNEGIE HALL, N.Y.)

Leopold Stokowski, virtually a legend in his own time, still possesses the magic and the mystery that first brought him musical fame more than half-a-century ago. Directing the American Symphony Orchestra, an orchestra of comparative tyros with a sprinkling of veterans, at Carnegie Hall, his name packed the house, his personality infused the occasion with electricity, and his unique brand of orchestral conducting made it a memorable evening of music-making. The ensemble, brought together for the first time and with a bare minimum of rehearsals, seemingly responded to the maestro's every desire with perfection and gave forth with typically Stokowskian sounds.

The program included Bach chorales (in Stoky's own transcriptions), Beethoven's Seventh, a world premiere of a piece by Jose Serebrief, a Uruguayan still in his twenties, an excerpt from Villa-Lobos' Bachianas Brasileiras, ending with Stravinsky's Firebird Suite. Here was a difficult program, varied in content, yet Stokowski brought it off in a triumphant manner. All the old fire, the orchestral tonal palette, the excitement and vigor that are hallmarks of Stokowski were present, just as in the old days when he brought the Philadelphia Orchestra to its world-fame.

The sold-out house included numerous UN ambassadors and delegates, the stage was bedecked with flags of the United Nations, Mayor Wagner made a speech. In sum, it was a truly gala evening. Stokoswki made it that way. Wien.

Orchestra of America

(Carnegie Hall, N. Y.)

Richard Korn continues in the front ranks of New York's musical excavators who dig and dig in the mines of what he considers unjustly-neglected music. He emerges from the depths with very few nuggets of musical gold, but he bravely presses forward, conducting his Orchestra of America for his band of partisans.

Wednesday night (5) at Carnegie Hall, the evening was typical of this series. The downstairs appeared fairly well-filled, but obviously "dressed." Friends sat in the two tiers of boxes and the balconies were empty. The composers represented were Ives Powell, Morowetz and Tosar.

The orchestra Korn leads is first-rate, composed of some of New York's most gifted sidemen. The maestro is able, diligent and uninspired. Together, they slave to bring these unheard composers and works to life; seldom is the effort worthwhile. A wag complained of "a bad case of Ives" even so, the Ives piece may have been the best thing on the program. That's not saying much. Wien.

Opera Reviews

Gentlemen, Be Seated

N. Y. City Opera presentation of musical work in two acts, with score by Jerome Moross, lyrics by Edward Eager, book by both. Staged by Robert Turoff; conductor, Emerson Buckley; scenery, William Pitkin; costumes, G. Henry Heymann. Opened Oct. 10, '63, at the N.Y. City Center; $4.95 top.

Principals: Dick Shawn, Alice Ghostley, Paul Draper, Avon Long, Charles Atkins, Carol Brice, William McDonald, Richard Fredericks, June Card, Mary Burgess.

"Gentlemen, Be Seated" is not an opera, though presented in opera repertory. Nor a minstrel show, though reviving elements of minstrelsy better left unexhumed. Rather, this is a curious melange of tunes, slapstick, symbolic American history, period choral singing, downright tragedy and a delightful bit of military tap-dancing by Yankee soldiers led by Sgt. Paul Draper. More imaginative staging and longer rehearsals might have improved the result but, even granting the awkwardnesses, it is difficult to forsee future production.

A number of able professionals demonstrate their skills, despite the handicaps. Dick Shawn several times threatens to break out of the limiting libretto and tear the house down, notably when, as a Confederate officer, he performs a suave song and soft shoe dance about the bad manners creeping into the fighting. This is close to a gem and could stand independent use, if available. Performed with a vaudeville pro's sense of style, brilliantly timed and lightly spoofed the solo comes within a golden epaulette of being a tour de theatre.

Nor is this the comic's only impact. Shawn appears in a variety of costume changes, beginning with white satin hammerclaws as interlocutor. Mostly he seems to have staged himself, rather than been staged. But he has not been able to prevent several distinctly awkward entrances and exits.

Alice Ghostly also is employed in a variety of bits and costume changes. She seemed pretty much under her own guidance. Her daft Washington society matron who takes her horsey daughter and a Senator to picnic on the green and watch the fun of the Battle of Bull Run is expert hokum. Ditto the joshing of a Dixie spy, Belle Boyd, who, in real life, later went on the lecture platform. What the first-nighters saw was a canny, underrehearsed comedienne in the process of developing deliciously spoofed characterizations.

Another in the comedy department is that adroit master of pixie delivery, Avon Long, working in tandem with Charles Atkins as Tambo and Bones, the end men from the minstrel show. They pop in and out of the action, sometimes with sly digs at white supremecy but chiefly burdened with not-funny chatter believably, as program-noted, from the joke files of minstrelsy. The authors of the book, Jerome Moross and Edward Eager, took plains to minimize racial stereotype, but in the process of avoiding offense and building in sympathy, left the two Negro performers with stage waits.

The cast is about half-and-half in racial mixture, though mostly working separately. The libretto derives from actual figures and incidents of the Civil War. For example, Shawn at one point is Mathew Brady, the photographer, who never did snap Lincoln at Gettysburg. The authors invent an explanation: Brady was waylaid by a highpowered feminist, bucking to offset Clara Barton's publicity. It's another of Miss Ghostley's stunts.

Scene changes and the massing and handling of groups are ragged. This may reflect the always-short rehearsal periods of side-street repertory. However, responsibility must fall upon the newcomer director, Robert Turoff.

Against the weakness in stagecraft the opening night viewer could sense competence in the conductor, Emerson Buckley, though an outsider may only guess at the proper distribution of fault or credit. The basic flow lies in the idea of presenting a bloody Shiloh, and other military episodes, in the midst on tongue-in-cheek skits.

The costuming of Henry Heyman generally is attractive and the scenic plan of William Pitkin faithful to time and place.

The Moross score is agreeably melodic, occasionally rousing, especially when Carol Brice is leading the colored chorus. Though the music is fairly constant there is little chance for individuals to stand out. The two war wives, June Card and Hary Burgess, have sweetness of manner and voice and their respective soldier-spouses, William McDonald and Richard Fredericks, are plainly pro.

Only three performances of "Gentlemen, Be Seated" have been scheduled. There remains to be remarked two special circumstances. First, the opening night audience could not have been a tougher one for a hybird musical falsely presented as "opera."

Secondly, a work in the idiom of Moross' earlier "The Golden Apple" found its tryout and showcasing on a grant (reputedly $40,000) from the Ford Foundation. It provoked Leonard Levinson's lobby crack, "It's Model T opera." The engine was wheezy. Land.

Massenet's Manon

(New Production)

(MET OPERA, N.Y.)

Of the four new productions scheduled for this season at the Metropolitan, two came the first week, "Aida" as the opener and Massenet's "Manon" on Tuesday (17). The latter has new scenery and costumes courtesy of the Gramma Fisher Foundation of Marshalltown, Iowa, with execution by Ita Maximova. Gunther Rennert staged and the much-adored-bystandees American conductor, 33-year old Tom Schippers, was on the stick.

Results were never bad and never great. Anna Moffo totally failed to suggest a born trollop, but sang in a sweetly agreeable somewhat small soprano which seemed to require Nicholas Gedda to modulate his tenor. There were many clever touches, notably the aging roue of Alessio De Paolis. Alicia Markova, in her new post as choreographer at the Met, held her dancers to graceful routines suitable to the libretto and not drawing undue attention—a sometime fault of opera ballets.

A number of changes in emphases are inherent in the new scenery, some clearly beguiling. One absurdity is the "kidnapping" of Gedda, no small man, who is borne off by two smaller men tapping him on the shoulder. Even ballet should put more pow-in-the-kisser. Land.

London Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

Alfie, Duchess (7-22-63).
Angels Fear Tread, St. Martins (6-6-63).
At Drop Hat, Haymarket (10-2-63).
Bed Sitting Room, Comedy (3-20-63).
Beyond Fringe, Fortune (5-10-61).
Boeing-Boeing, Apollo (2-20-63).
Cambridge Circus, Lyric (8-14-63).
Cider with Rosie, Garrick (10-17-63).
Cockade, New Arts (10-16-63).
Exit the King, Royal Court (9-12-63).
Four & a Tanner, New Arts (10-9-63).
Half a Sixpence, Cambridge (3-21-63).
House of Cards, Phoenix (10-2-63).
How to Succeed, Shaftesbury (3-28-63).
Kossoff, Prince Charles (10-15-63).
Lock Daughters, Her Majesty's (5-17-62).
Man and Boy, Queen's (4-9-63).
Mary, Mary, Queens (2-27-63).
Masters, Piccadilly (5-9-63).
Minstrels, Vic. Palace (5-25-62).
Mousetrap, Ambassador (11-25-52).
Never Too Late, Prince Wales (9-24-63).
Oh, What Lovely, Wyndham's (3-19-63).
Oliver, New (6-30-60).
One for the Pot, Whitehall (8-2-61).
Pickwick, Saville (7-4-63).
Possessed, Mermaid (10-23-63).
Private Lives, Duke York's (7-3-63).
Repertory, Aldwych (12-15-60).
Repertory, National Theatre (10-22-63).
Severed Head, Criterion (6-27-63).
Six Characters, May Fair (6-17-63).
Six of One, Adelphi (9-26-63).
So Much Remember, Vaude (9-17-63).
Sound of Music, Palace (3-18-61).
Swing Along, Palladium (5-17-63).
Through Wall, Westminster (3-20-63).
What Goes Up, Royal E. (9-17-63).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Portrait of Murder, Savoy (10-24-63).
Out of the Crocodile, Phoenix (10-29-63).
Milk Train, Royal Court (11-6-63).
Boys Syracuse, Drury Lane (11-7-63).
Albatross, Theatre Royal (11-7-63).
Poor Bites, New Arts (11-13-63).
Gentle Jack, Queen's (11-27-63).
D'Oyly Carte, Savoy (12-16-63).
No Strings, Her Majesty's (12-30-63).

CLOSED

My Fair Lady, Drury Lane (4-30-58); closed last Saturday (19) after 2,281 performances.
Brecht Season, Mermaid (7-18-63); closed last Saturday (19) after 103 performances.

SCHEDULED B'WAY PREEMS

Barefoot in Park, Biltmore (10-23-63).
110 in Shade, Broadhurst (10-24-63).
Ballad Sad Cafe, Beck (10-30-63).
Tambourines, Little Theatre (11-2-63).
Arturo Ui, Lunt-Fontanne (11-11-63).
Man and Boy, Atkinson (11-12-63).
Cuckoo's Nest, Cort (11-14-63).
Golden Age, Lyceum (11-18-63).
Once for Asking, Booth (11-20-63).
Got a Girl, Music Box (11-26-63).
Time of Barracudas, ANTA (12-2-63)
Girl Came to Supper, B'way (12-5-63).
Love & Kisses, Music Box (12-18-63).
Hello, Dolly, St. James (1-16-64).
Dylan, Plymouth (1-21-64).
After Fall, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (1-23-64).
Habimah, Little Theatre (2-1-64).
What Makes Sammy, 54th St. (2-4-64).
Foxy, Ziegfeld (2-15-64).
Marco, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (2-20-64).
Funny Girl, Winter Garden (2-27-63).
Charlie, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (3-12-64).
Girl to Remember, Hellinger (5-26-64).

Shows Abroad

Continued from page 62

The Last M.P.

formance is sound and amusing. Patrick Bedford is ok in the undemanding role of his son, unwilling to follow the political tradition.

The "space child" is played as an earnest teenager by Meryl Gourley, and Christopher Casson's schoolmaster has the right degree of sophistry. MacLiammoir's costumes suggest that fashions of the 1990's are not going to be interesting.

Farrington is an actor and playwright who wants to break out of the conventional pattern, but his concern with nuclear disarmament has outweighed his chances with this production. Mac.

Et L'Enfer, Isabelle?

(What the Hell, Isabelle?)

Paris, Oct. 1.

Claude Sainval presentation of comedy in four acts, by Jacques Deval. Staged by Claude Sainval; scenery, Pace. Features Francoise Christophe, Guy Trejan, Christian Lude, Rene Lefrevre. Opened Sept. 20, '63, at the Comedie des Champs-Elysees, Paris; $3.50 top.

Isabelle ..... Francoise Christophe
Maloine ..... Guy Trejan
Valax ..... Christian Lude
Cauchoy ..... Rene Lefrevre
Fage ..... Jean-Pierre Delage
Yvonne ..... Monique Melinand
Bichot ..... Andre Weber

Although the plot roughly parallels Marcel Achard's "L'Idiote" (retitled "A Shot in the Dark" in the Harry Kurnitz adaptation done on Broadway and in London), at least to the extent of having the action take place in a magistrate's office during a murder investigation, "Et L'Enfer, Isabelle?" ("What the Hell, Isabelle?") is a different breed of show. It's a sporadically effective combination of comedy, satire and melodrama by Jacques Deval, an old hand at stage hocus-pocus.

Francoise Christophe is coolly convincing as the enigmatic defendant accused of murdering her husband. She makes a monkey of the prosecutor by getting a nurse to confess the deed. The slick direction gets laughs in the early scenes, but the show presently bogs down with extraneous characters and prolix writing.

Die Geier

(The Vultures)

Zurich, Sept. 21.

Schauspielhaus presentation of comedy in 11 scenes by Urs Troller. Staged by Werner Dueggelin; sets and costumes, Joerg Zimmermann; incidental music, Rolf Langnese; technical direction, Ferdinand Lange, Albert Michel; lighting, Walter Gross. Opened Sept. 19, '63, at the Schauspielhaus, Zurich; $3 top.

Alcibiades ..... Peter Arens
Satyros ..... Wolfgang Reichmann
Theopompos ..... Fred Tanner
Eucalyptus ..... Robert Tessen
Pamphylos ..... Edwin Parker
Nikias ..... Otto Maechtlinger
Kronyon ..... Hermann Brand
Hangeri ..... Rene Scheibli
Rickli ..... Klaus Steiger
Agis ..... Wolfgang Stendar
Timaia ..... Lili-Ann Bork
Primus ..... Franz Matter
Amykla ..... Angelica Arndts
Euphrosine ..... Traute Carlson
Kritylla ..... Margrit Neuhaus
Girl ..... Bella Neri
Messenger ..... Juergen Bruegger

As a first effort by a 26-year-old Swiss dramatist, Urs Troller, "The Vultures" holds promise. But as a new play in its own right, it betrays the young author's lack of experience as well as his present incapacity to express his views in a dramatically valid form. It may also be a handicap that he has chosen a theme from antiquity which, its satirical allusions to present-day events notwithstanding, may prove to be too remote for popular acceptance.

The play's two spheres of action, Athens on the verge of decadence and Sparta ruled by military despotism, are easily identifiable as today's West and East. But there the similarity ends. Alcibiades, an atheistic, happy-go-lucky general, and the drunkard-poet Satyros are forced to flee from Athens, finding shelter in Sparta where they join the "system." But when the general profits from the men's absence in war to provide most of their women with offspring, he is sentenced to death, together with the poet. As a born opportunist, however, he finds a way to survive, but the idealistic poet goes to his doom.

Perhaps this basically bitter tale in comedy disguise may have emerged with more punch in more experienced hands. But as presented here, it has too many loose ends to be convincing. On the credit side, Troller reveals a flair for sometimes sharp and witty dialog.

The Schauspielhaus production steps in where the author has failed. The direction by another young Swiss, Werner Dueggelin, is imaginative, with amusing anachronistic touches, while the sets and costumes by Joerg Zimmermann are delightfully satirical. In the large cast, only the roles of the general and the poet offer possibilities, and Peter Arens and Wolfgang Reichmann respond with expert performances. Mezo.

A Little Winter Love

Dublin, Sept. 24.

Chepstow Ltd. presentation of three-act drama by Alun Owen. Staged by Godfrey Quigley; setting, Mary O'Keefe. Stars Peter Vaughan, T. P. McKenna, Edwin Richfield, Vivienne Drummond. Opened Sept. 23, '63, at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin; $2.94 top.

Grantley Lewis ..... Peter Vaughan
Felix Draper ..... T. P. McKenna
Owen Davies ..... Edwin Richfield
Eric Maldwyn ..... Artro Morris
Gwen ..... Patricia Drake
Berenice ..... Vivienne Drummond

The corruptive quality of power of an American academic administrator serving as temporary head of a small college in Wales before his transfer to an American foundation established by the same Welsh-American millionaire and supported by the founder's neurotic daughter provides a workable theme for Welsh playwright Alun Owen. The piece opened at the Dublin Theatre Festival and is due for production in London. The unscrupulous, lecherous leading character is sufficiently unpleasant for the audience to condone an affair between his wife and an intellectual rebel.

Peter Vaughan plays the lead skillfully, emphasising the earnest qualities of the character as well as his venal courting of the heiress and his malice against a rival for a teenage secretary's affection. T. P. McKenna plays the rival as a conventional angry man, but Genevieve Lyons keeps the heiress from becoming a ridiculous figure.

Edwin Richfield is a standout as the poet, and Vivienne Drummond is excellent as his mistress the administrator's wife. Patricia Blake brings out the potential tramp quality of the teenager.

Mary O'Keefe has provided admirable settings, splitting the stage into the administrator's office and an exterior, and then an interior of the official's residence. Godfrey Quigley's direction is forceful, although the pace could be speeded in the opening scenes. Mac.

Inquiry at Lisieux

Dublin, Sept. 24.

Dublin Theatre Festival & York Promotions Ltd. presentation, by arrangement with Stanley Illsley & Leo McCabe of two-act drama by Marcelle Maurette; translated and adapted by Adrian Vale and Chloe Gibson. Staged by Chloe Gibson; setting, Alpho O'Reilly. Stars, Robert Speaight, Olga Lindo. Opened Sept. 23, '63, at the Olympia Theatre, Dublin; $1.73 top.

Promoter ..... Robert Speaight
President ..... Aiden Grennell
Vice-President ..... Alex McDonald
Apostolic Notary ..... Fred Johnson
Mother Agnes ..... Olga Linde
Sister Louis ..... Shelah Richards
Sister Jacob ..... Una Collins
Sister Anne ..... Ruby Head
Sister Joan ..... Marie Conmee
Sister Mary Gabriel ..... Blanaid Irvine
Sister Mechtilde ..... May Cluskey
Infirmary Sister ..... Rosemary Crowson
Workman ..... Tom Irwin
Novice ..... Bredan Dean
Nuns and novices: ..... Freda Murphy, Francine Walton, Suzanne Findlater, Marlene Francois, Deirdre Condell, Jacqueline Taylor, Marcella Grimes, Mairin Healy

The English-language career of "Inquiry at Lisieux" began as a television production by Chloe Gibson for Telefis Eireann (Irish tv) some months ago. Its stage presentation would be improved by concentrating the action more on the questioning of nuns who knew Sister Therese.

The action in centered on the final stages of the preliminary inquiry in 1911 in Lisieux, France, into the facts which established the nun as a candidate for sainthood, and the piece is therefore documentary in pattern. One member of the Inquiry, the Promoter of the Faith, requests the recall of several members of the community for re-questioning to resolve a doubt. There is little drama in the examination of most of the witnesses, only in the second act does any tension become apparent. Each Sister had her own picture of Therese, and only the infirm Sister Louis, played from a wheelchair by Shelah Richards, knows the secret which clears the Promoter's doubts.

There is some humour from the bluffness of Sister Joan, played in a broad country style by Marie Conmee, and an effective performance as the artistocrat called to a religious vocation by Una Collins. Olga Lindo's Mother Agnes, Superior of the Community, is a restrained and kindly portrayal of a woman with unspoken problems and great faith.

Robert Speaight's performance as the interrogating Promoter is a fine speaking role, but dramatically undemanding on a player of his stature. The roles of the other members of the Inquiry are adequately played in the proper minor key by Aiden Grennell, Alex McDonald and Fred Johnson.

The setting, by Alpho O'Reilly is an effective combination of the Inquiry room, the yard and cloister of the convent and an upper room where Therese lives as a Sister in the Community.

Apart from a stage-wide grouping of the Community at recreation to open the second act, which is pleasant to look at but does not advance the plot, Chloe Gibson's production is effective, but the saintly life of Therese as seen in this play is not the material of drama. Mac.

The Big Finish

Dublin, Sept. 24.

New Theatre Productions presentation of three-act drama by Gerry Simpson. Staged by Frank J. Bailey; setting, Paul Hogan; lighting, Michael Higgins. Opened Sept. 23, '63, at the Irish Life Theatre, Dublin; 90c top.

Billie ..... Jim Norton
Tim ..... Peter Mayock
McCarthy ..... Noel O'Brian
Charlie ..... Niall Toibin
Kate ..... Celia Salkeld
Feeley ..... Charles Roberts

The Dostoevsky theme of futility is expressed in this work by Gerry Simpson, a new Irish writer. The characters are Irish immigrants sharing a flat in London.

There is no hero, save perhaps an ex-monk who is going back to the monastery, and no villain except for the brief appearance of an additional potential tenant whose demonstration of instant hate for a man he had never seen before is one of the puzzles of the performance. Nothing is resolved except the implication that the future holds no improvement.

An outstanding performance is given by Niall Toibin as a bully boy who expects to possess women without emotional involvement and who fights just to prove his punching strength. Charles Roberts appearance as the spontaneous hater is so brief as to be something of a caricature.

There is a wooden portrayal by Celia Salkeld as the bully boy's listless amoral mistress. Peter Mayock is restricted by the dimness of an aimless role, and even the role of the monk lacks definition as played by Noel O'Briain. Jim Norton is believable but not sympathetic as a barman. Frank Bailey's staging is at a subdued tempo and Paul Hogan's setting is unimpressive. Mac.

Bits of London

London, Oct. 22.

"Rattle of a Simple Man" has started a post-London tour at Wimbledon, with Jill Browne and John Colin.

The New Arts Theatre Club, London gets the British preem Nov. 13 of Jean Anouilh's "Poor Bitos," with Donald Pleasence.

Frederick Read and Robin Cook are completing authorship of a musical about the late Dr. Stephen Ward. It's called "Thank You for Everything."

Spike Milligan will adapt and direct a translation of the French play, "Ubi Roi," by Alfred Jarry, which Oscar Lewenstein will present.

Julian Slade, author of the long-running "Salad Days," has written a new musical called "Nutmeg and Ginger."

Jerry Wayne will produce and star in John Murphy's play, "The Country Boy."

Legit Bits

Shelley Winters returned last week to the off-Broadway production of "Cages" in the role played during her absence by Mercedes McCambridge. Morgan Sterne is now appearing opposite Miss Winters.

Pat Carroll headlines in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" currently at the Mineola (L.I.) Playhouse, and then five weeks at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, N.J., beginning Nov. 5.

Franklin Cover is staging "The Sounds of Ed Montgomery" opening tomorrow night (Thurs.) at Carnegie Hall, N.Y. The program is billed as a vocal-instrumental-drama-dance entertainment.

"God, Man and You, Baby," by Philip S. Gelb, is being produced by The Footnotes Co. and Marilyn Thorson for an Oct. 29 opening at the Midway Theatre, N.Y. Gelb will double as director and Don MacGlashon is scenic designer. Linn Mason and Irma Hurley are cast members.

"Rainy Day in Newark" staff includes Victor Samrock, general manager; Samuel Lurie, general press representative; Mitchell Brower, company manager; Ruth Cage, and Judith S. Davidson, pressagents; James S. Gelb, production stage manager; Joseph Olney, stage manager; Daniel Walker, assistant stage manager; Stanley F. Kaminsky, press assistant; Roberta Robins, production secretary and Raymond A. League, production assistant.

Hilda Simms will appear in the Broadway production of "Tambourines to Glory" with Clara Ward, Micki Grant, Theresa Merritt, Joseph Attles, Brother John Sellers, Anna English, Robert Guillaume and Rosetta Lenoire.

"Journey to the Day," opening Nov. 6 at the Theatre de Lys, N. Y., with Shirley Knight heading the cast, will be directed by Milton Katselas. Robert Kamlot is managing the production.

Emlyn Williams' "The Wind of Heaven," directed by Paul Shyre, is the third offering of the fall season at the Westport (Conn.) Country Playhouse this week. It'll be followed next week by David Rogers' "Moments of Love," a world preem with Herbert Machiz as director and Ann Harding as star, and then another new entry the week of Nov. 5, Andrew Rosenthal's "The Strangers," with Cornelia Otis Skinner and Jane Wyatt costarring under Carmen Capalbo's direction. The fall season will end with a two-week engagement starting Nov. 19 of "The Threepenny Opera," directed by Joe Lieberman.

Bruce and Honey Becker, producers at the Tappan Zee Playhouse, Nyack, N. Y., will open their new off-Broadway spot, the Bouwerie Lane Theatre, next Nov. 6 with "The Immoralist," under the direction of George Keathley. James McKinney has been set up as stage manager and Peter Harvey will design the sets and costumes.

Lucille Murovich will direct a production of "Champagne Complex" for a series of four weekend presentations starting Friday (25) at the Idlewild Hanger Theatre, Idlewild Airport, N. Y.

The London production of "Redhead," panned by Richard York and Max Evans, is to have a new title and a revised book.

Harold Clurman has been appointed executive consultant of the Repertory Theatre of Lincoln Center, N.Y. Mildred Dunnock, David Wayne, Virginia Kaye and Hal Holbrook are recent additions to the acting company.

The American National Theatre & Academy Matinee series, under the artistic direction of Lucille Lortel, will launch its eighth season with an Oct. 29 afternoon performance at the Theatre de Lys, N. Y., of "The Brontes," starring Margaret Webster in her own adaptation of the lives of the three Bronte sisters of literary fame, Charlotte, Emily and Ann. Also scheduled for the Matinee series this season are "Come to the Palace of Sin," two one-acters by Michael Shurtleff, to be directed by Milton Katselas; two untitled one-acters by Ben Maddow, with Stanley Warren, staging, and Jacques Mauclair's adaptation of Doestoevski's "The Eternal Husband," with John Hancock directing.

Bob Fosse is to direct and choreograph the untitled Alan Jay Lerner-Burton Lane musical, scheduled for Broadway production later this season by Lerner and the team of Cy Feuer and Ernest H. Martin.

Joseph Kipness will be partnered with Richard W. Krakeur in producing "Have I Got a Girl for You" for a Broadway outing this season with Larry Storch and Nancy R. Pollock headlining and Don Richardson directing. Ben Boyar is general manager.

Peter Coe will direct the musical version of "Golden Boy."

Lou Jacobi will appear in "A Girl to Remember."

The advertising copy for the off-Broadway production of "The Boys from Syracuse" is being written by Bob Ullman, the show's p.a.

Elizabeth Lawrence will appear at the Arena Stage, Washington, D.C., as the femme lead in "The Devils," opening Oct. 30, and a revised version of "The Wall."

Donald Buka will play the title role in "Hamlet" at Miliken Univ., Decatur, Ill. The presentation, which opens at the university Nov. 21, will be directed by Dr. J. C. Mickel.

Domingo A. Rodriguez will design the costumes for "The Passion of Josef D."

Jack Holmes will be musical director and Neal Kenyon choreographer for the off-Broadway production of "Streets of New York."

Teaching acting again this season at the Circle in the Square Theatre School, N.Y., are Michael Kahn and Allan Miller. Mime classes are being conducted by Mark Epstein, and director William Ball is supervising a workshop for actors and directors.

Mel Kopp has been admitted into the pressagent chapter of the Assn. of Theatrical Pressagents & Managers.

The staff for "Zenda" includes Manning Gurian, general manager; Robert Merriman, production stage manager; Kenn Randall, stage manager; Sol Jacobson and Lewis Harmon, pressagents, and Clifford Strohl, advertising representative.

Louise Troy has been set for a role in "High Spirits," scheduled to open March 31 at an undesignated Broadway theatre. Dances for the musical will be staged by Danny Daniels.

"The Plot to Assassinate the Chase Manhattan Bank," the revue originally announced to open Oct. 4 at the Theatre East N. Y., is now schdeuled for Nov. 25 at the off-Broadway house. The Eaton Associates production will have music and lyrics by Roland Wolf and Frank Spiering Jr., and sketches by Carl Larsen, Ernest Legrande and David Doner.

A two-and-a-half-hour condensation by Fanny Bradshaw of Shakespeare's historical plays, "The War of the Roses," is planned for off-Broadway presentation next month under the title, "The White Rose and the Red." It's to be produced by Miss Bradshaw in association with Edwin Sherin, who'll direct, and Noel Weiss, who'll be company manager.

Douglas Campbell will direct and costar in "The Golden Age," which Arthur Cantor and E. E. Fogelson are producing for a four-week engagement at the Lyceum Theatre, N. Y., starting Nov. 13. He'll play more than 15 roles in the Elizabethan entertainment devised by Richard Johnson and tried out last year at Swarthmore College and the Kaufmann Auditorium of the YM-YWHA in New York. Sydney Beck arranged and will conduct the incidental music.

The staff for the bus-and-truck production of "A Man for All Seasons" includes Victor Samrock, general manager; Herbert Cherin, company manager; Harry Davies, pressagent; Frank Hamilton, production stage manager; Leon Benedict, stage manager; and Judy White and Roger Serbagi, assistant stage managers.

Inside Stuff—Legit

The price scale of Vienna opera tickets is a mystery to most of those who buy them. They are obviously not calculated according to the cost of the production. Nevertheless "Forza del Destino" with Antonietta Stella, Fiorenza Cossotto, Corelli, Ettore Bastianini, Cesare Siepi and Ferdinando Corena and "Ballo in Maschera" with approximately the same cast and Simionato had only "special prices" ($8 top) while for "Othello" with Gabriella Tucci, Giuseppe Taddei and Guichandut and "Aida" with Simionato, Stella and Bastianini the prices were "very special" ($11).

CASTING NEWS

Following are available parts in upcoming Broadway, off-Broadway, and touring shows, as well as ballet, films, industrial and television shows. All information has been obtained directly by the VARIETY Casting Department by telephone calls, and has been rechecked as of noon yesterday (Tues.).

The available roles will be repeated weekly until filled, and additions to the list will be made only when information is secured from responsible parties. The intention is to service performers with leads provided by the managements of the shows involved rather than to run a wild goose marathon. This information is published without charge.

Parenthetical designations are as follows: (C) Comedy, (D) Drama, (MC) Musical Comedy, (MD) Musical Drama, (R) Revue, (Rep) Repertory, (DR) Dramatic Reading, (DB) Double Bill.

Legit

BROADWAY

"Any Wednesday" (C). Producers, George W. George & Frank Granat (c/o Casting Consultants, 444 Madison Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: male lead, late 40s or early 50s, attractive, charming; male, mid or late 30s, attractive raffish charm, likeable, good sense of humor; femme, late 30s or early 40s, attractive, a lady, stylish, bright. Accepting photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Dylan" (D). Producers, George W. George & Frank Granat (c/o Casting Consultants, 444 Madison Ave., N. Y.). Available part: male, 28-35, handsome, sexy, preferably Spanish or Italian looking. Accepting photos and resumes c/o above address and through agents.

"Funny Girl" (MC). Producers, Ray Stark & David Merrick (246 W. 44th St., N.Y.). Auditions today (Wed.) for Equity dancers: men at 10 a.m. and femmes at 2:30 p.m. Equity singers tomorrow (Thurs.): men at 10 a.m. and femmes at 2:30 p.m.—all at the Cort Theatre (138 W. 48th St., N.Y.).

"Good Good Friends" (C). Producers, Robert Fryer & Lawrence Carr, in association with John Herman (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.; LA 4-8347). Available parts: femme, Hollywood musical star, Alice Faye, Betty Grable type; femme, Hollywood dramatic star, clothes horse, Joan Crawford type; male, attractive, New York legit director; male, fat, adorable; femme, tall, well built; male, young, innocent, innovuous; femme, Hollywood columnist, worldly, tough; male, zany, a Mischa Auer-Danny Kaye combination; femme, Gypsy fortune-teller; femme, secretary; girl six years old, a mass of curls; male, agent, male, publicity man. Accepting photos and resumes also from agents c/o above address.

"What Makes Sammy Run" (MC) Producer, Joseph Cates (1,000 Park Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: male, attractive character lead, 30-40; femme, 25-30, chic, stunning, must sing; male, 25-35, shy, intelligent; male, 50ish, baritone; femme, 25-35, must dance well, latin type; male, young, smart, tough stooge; male, middle-aged shy, retiring, dignified; male, 50ish, head of bank; male, 22-28, ernest, respectable; male, leading man type must dance. Mail photos and resumes to George Thorn (119 W. 57th St., N.Y.).

"Side Show" (M). Producer, Kermit Bloomgarden (1545 Broadway, N.Y.; JU 2-1690). Available parts: Character femme, 30s-40s, strong personality, sings well; male lead 30s-40s, romantic, intelligent, must sing; femme, early 20s, sexy, sings well; male, W. C. Fields type; male, tall, gawky, chief of police, sings; male, funny little man, snoop; male, 60, bald, sings; girl, 7 or 8, sing or dance; femme, hysterical mother type. Mail photos and resumes c/o Casting Consultants (444 Madison Ave., N.Y.). Do not phone or visit.

OFF-BROADWAY

"Androcles and the Lion" (Kid Show). Producer, Stan Raiff and Explore Inc. (331 Madison Avenue, N.Y.). Available parts: male and femme romantic leads; braggin captain; miser; Androcles. Some classic acting training preferred. Mail photos and resumes to Explore, Inc., c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Candida" (CD). Producer, Equity Library Theatre (226 W. 47th St., N.Y.). Available parts, Equity only: male, late 30s-early 40s, good-looking, vigorous, genial; femme, 20s-30s or 40s, pert, quick of speech; male, 20s-30s, enthusiastic, immature; male, 50s-60s, vulgar, ignorant; femme, late 20s-30s or 40s; male, late teens, 20s, strange, shy youth. Apply in person Oct. 21 through 31, on the ninth floor, c/o above address.

"Circle of Sparrows" (D). Producers, Parard Productions (24 W. 76th St., N.Y.) Available parts: Equity only. Boys, 12-16; femme, 15, attractive; male, early 30s, social worker, femme, late 20s, attractive; character male, 35-43; male, early 50s, Ed Begley type; male, early 50s, legit German accent; male, mid-20s, brotherly, energetic. Mail photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Lady be Good" (MC). Producers, Keith Holzman, Robert Kreis, Richard Pohlers, (161 W. 54th St., N. Y.). Available parts: male, juvenile, Astaire type; male, leading man 20-30, singer; male, 30-40, comedian must sing; male, middle-aged; Adele Astaire type; femme, must sing and dance; femme, 20's, sing and dance; femme dancer-singer, chorus girls and boys, 20's. Mail resume and photos to Jack Levin c/o above address. Do not write or visit.

"Ride the Cockhorse" (C). Producer, Frank Roma Productions (105 W. 55th St., N.Y., c/o Singer Associates). Available parts: all characters are Irish-American, male, 60, short, stocky; male, 40s, huge, strong, aggressive; femme, 50s, small, wily, determined; male, mid-40s, thin, haggard, bright; male, early 20s, male, 40s, thin, must be Irish tenor; male, late 30s, outgoing, vital, "peacemaker" type; male, 40s, "sits on his brains"; male, 30s, ex-fighter, not-too-bright; male, 40s, beer belly, wheezy robust laugh; male, late 40s, small, comic; male, middle-aged, handsome; boy, nine years old, tough, rough kid. Mail photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"The Caretaker" (D). Producers, Weems, Buccolo, Mathews Productions (667 Madison Ave., N.Y.). All roles open. Janie Lee is accepting photos and resumes through agents only c/o above address. Script available at Drama Book Shop (150 W. 52d St., N.Y.).

"The Trojan Women" (D). Producer, Maxwell Production Co. (250 Riverside Drive, N. Y.). Available parts: femme. 25-35, good dramatic range, sexy; femme, 40-60, good vocal quality. thin; male. 40-60. good stature, good vocal quality; boy. 8-12, small. Mail photos and resumes to Hazel Hayman, c/o above address.

STOCK

Coconut Grove Playhouse (3500 Main Highway, Miami, Fla.). Accepting photos and resumes through agents only, for fall and winter season of star package productions. Mail to Kip Cohen (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.).

Television

Casting Consultants (444 Madison Ave., N. Y.; PL 3-1030). Available part: Femme, 18-30, Japanese, beautiful, with authentic New York-ese accent for top role in new TV series. Phone Jean Arley c/o above number for audition appointment.

Cabaret

The Happy Medium, Chicago, Ill. "Three Cheers For the Tired Businessman." (R). Producer, Arthur Cantor (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.). Audition today (Wed.) from 1-5 p.m. for young, attractive Equity male and femme comic performers, with legit voices, who also dance. Bring two up-tempo songs, accompanist will be provided. Open call audition this Fri. (25) from 1-5 p.m.,—all at Stage 73, 321 E. 73d St., N.Y.).

Robert Alda will costar with Steve Lawrence and Sally Ann Howes in the musical version of "What Makes Sammy Run?"

Minn. Univ. Theatre Gets New Lawrence-Lee Play

Minneapolis, Oct. 22.

Jerome Lawrence and Robert Lee are having the Univ. of Minnesota Theatre produce their new play, "The Laughmakers." It will be the second offering of the local theatre's current season, opening next week (31), The premiere engagement will extend through Nov. 10.

The "Laughmakers" is said to involve the comedy and tragedy in the lives of two 19th century French playwrights. The main characters are supposed to be composites of real authors of that period.

The campus playhouse opens its season tomorrow (Wed.) with "Lysistrata." The Lawrence-Lee play will be followed by another premiere, Elizabeth Doolittle Johnson's "The Jester in the Hall of Dying Kings," described as original tragi-comedy about an idealist in the harried world of today.

The Johnson play will be done Nov. 13-17. The theatre's final 1963 offering will be "Dr. Faustus," Nov. 23-Dec. 1.

Pitt Playhouse Offering Bus Transport and Grub

Pittsburgh, Oct. 22.

The Pittsburgh Playhouse is starting a service for its out-of-town patrons. It will enable playgoer groups to commute to the theatre by special bus, and have dinner en route. They'll be served Playhouse food by a Playhouse waiter. Cabinets will be kept warm and placed on the bus before it leaves for the city where the trip is to originate. Nothing but the driving will be left to the bus management.

Legit Incorporations

Albany, Oct. 22.

An application for reservation of corporate name, Grow Productions Inc., has been filed by Joan White, of New York, and Anna Russell, of New Hope, Pa.

Roger L. Stevens & Joel Schenker Productions Inc. has been formed to conduct a business, including television and radio programs, in New York. Authorized capital stock is 20,000 shares, no par value. Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison were the filing attorneys.

Cottermark Productions, Inc. authorized to conduct a theatrical, amusement and entertainment business in New York. Capital stock consists of 200 shares, no par value. Weissberger & Frosce were filing attorneys.

Gregell Music Productions Corp. chartered to carry on a theatrical productions, music publishing and recordings business, with offices in Bayside, N.Y. David Endler Goldstein was filing attorney.

Touring Shows

(Figures cover Oct. 21-Nov. 2)

Beyond the Fringe (2d Co.)—Studebaker, Chi (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Black Nativity—Shubert, Boston (Oct. 21-26); Forrest, Philly (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
Camelot—Taft, Cincy (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Camelot (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Circle in the Square—Split-week stands (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Girl Who Came to Supper (tryout)—O'Keefe, Toronto (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (2d Co.)—American, St. L. (Oct. 22-Nov. 2).
How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (3d Co.)—Playhouse, Wilmington (Oct. 21-26); Auditorium, Greensboro, N.C. (Oct. 28-31); Auditorium, Raleigh, N.C. (Nov. 1-2).
Man for All Seasons—Blackstone, Chi (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Man for All Seasons (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Mary, Mary (bus-truck) — Split-week stands (Oct. 21-26); Civic, N.O. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
My Fair Lady (bus-truck)—Assembly Hall, Champagne, Ill. (Oct. 21-23); Auditorium, Cedar Rapids (Oct. 24-26); Palace, Peoria (Oct. 28-30); Coliseum, Sioux Falls (Nov. 1-2).
National Repertory Theatre—Hanna, Cleve. (Oct. 21-26); Shubert, Det. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
Never Too Late (2d Co.)—Nixon, Pitt. (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
No Strings—Orpheum, L.A. (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Once for the Asking (tryout)—Wilbur, Boston (Oct. 31-Nov. 2).
One Flew Over the Cukoo's Nest (tryout)—Shubert, New Haven (Oct. 24-26); Shubert, Boston (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
Seidman and Son—Ford's, Balto (Oct. 21-26); Shubert, Cincy (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
Sound of Music—Fisher, Det. (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Step the World—I Want to Get Off (2d Co.)—National, Wash. (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Thousand Clowns—Forrest, Philly (Oct. 21-26); Royal Alexandra, Toronto (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
Thousand Clowns (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Time of the Barracudas (tryout)—Curran, S.F. (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).
Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (2d Co.)—Century, Buffalo (Oct. 21-22); Auditorium, Rochester (Oct. 23-26); Hanna, Cleve. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2).
Zenda (tryout)—Philharmonic, Los Angeles (Oct. 21-Nov. 2).

Off-B'way League Starts Preem Scheduling Setup

The League of Off-Broadway Theatres & Producers has initiated a service for the registration of opening dates for off-Broadway productions. The move is designed to prevent premiere conflicts, which have made the juggling of debut dates a routine occurrence in the bandbox houses outside the Times Square area. The service, according to the off-Broadway organization, is being coordinated with the similar setup provided by the League of N.Y. Theatres for Broadway presentations.

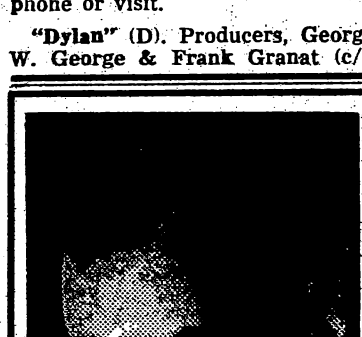
Gerald Krone, secretary-treasurer of the off-Broadway league, is handling the service for that group.

Honey Sanders is playing Bloody Mary in "South Pacific," starring Dorothy Collins, at the Palace Hotel, San Francisco.

WELLS RICHARDSON

"He doesn't need any lines—it's all in his face . . ." An audience comment on RICHARDSON'S performance in that historic 9-line Broadway bit!

Perhaps it was that elusive thing, always electrifying onstage, described by MOSS HART as "emotion in depth."



BILLY DE WOLFE
Co-Starring in
"HOW TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS WITHOUT REALLY TRYING"
Shaftesbury Theatre
London W.C.2, England

WANTED
Thoroughly Experienced Theatrical Production Secretary
Send Complete Resume
BOX V-3530, VARIETY
154 W. 46th Street, New York

STAGE MANAGER
Experienced, active stage manager required for two a day traveling industrial show for twelve-week tour beginning January 18, 1964, sponsored by major manufacturer. Must know sound equipment thoroughly, lights, etc., and be able to drive 14 foot van body 2 ton truck. Will have responsibility of entire cast while on the road. Salary $350 per week, including per diem. Send resume to
Box V-3528, VARIETY
154 W. 46 St., New York N.Y. 10036

a unique office service
you can . . .
have two pair of hands
be in two places at once get twice as much done service associates — en 2-9263

ARLENE FONTANA
Co-Starring in
"FLOWER DRUM SONG"
My Sincerest Thanks to everyone at the Thunderbird Hotel, Las Vegas.
Currently 67th WEEK
Per. Mgr.: JACK BEEKMAN, JU 6-2324

NED WERTIMER
Who just returned home from his agent's office, is an actor.

MASTER OF CEREMONIES/SINGER
Master of ceremonies for loosely scripted industrial show sponsored by major manufacturer. Must have excellent looks and voice, good credits, facile ad-libber and stand-up talker. Twelve-week bus tour in East and Southeast starting about January 18, 1964, doing two a day. Salary $400 per week, including per diem. Audition required. Send photo and resume to
Box V-3527, VARIETY
154 W. 46th St., New York 10036

The NEW
ST. JAMES HOTEL
Phila. Headquarters
For People in Show Business
Managing Director—
BOB SPEDDEN
Cardholder in Two IATSE Unions
Located Centrally
13th and Walnut Sts.
ROOMS: $5 up
PEnnypacker 5-8400

DANCE STUDIO
Large; Modern; Children's and Adults; in Major L. I. Shopping Center. Low Rent. Widow must sell. Also interested in experienced manager with option to buy.
Box V-3529, VARIETY
154 W. 46th St. N. Y. 10036

WANTED:
CAPABLE YOUNG SECRETARY
Write to: GEORGE BANYAI
HENRY MILLER'S THEATRE
124 West 43d St., New York 36

Archer's Salute to a Genl.

Jules Archer, a soldier and war correspondent under General Douglas MacArthur in Australia, New Guinea and the Phillipines, was intrigued for almost 20 years why the hero of the Pacific campaign seemed so intensively disliked by most World War II veterans. Freelance mag writer Archer set out to separate myth from fact for an artcile.

Result was so complete that Archer found himself with enough material for a book which he calls "Front-Line General" and Messner is publishing.

Geo. Frazier & Alan Frazer

While the Boston Herald-Traveler, which has just named a new publisher and president from within the organization ending reports of a takeover by an outside group, has printed nothing regarding the cessation of George Frazier's column, information seekers are told that the columnist has resigned. In answer to letters, however, a form missive is being sent also stating that Frazier resigned.

In the latest chapter of the Frazier-Herald split, reliable sources report that Frazier resigned over salary hassle, and is considering several offers, some from a number of New England dailies in a syndicate setup. More than 1,000 phone calls and letters inquiring about the columnist, have been received by the Herald.

In the meantime, Hub is without a show biz columnist (Frazier touched on show biz matters, performers, night clubs, tv, as well as politics, sports and mundane matters) with the sudden death of Alan Frazer, Record American, "My Boston" columnist, of a heart attack (Tuesday (15). George Clarke, nitery columnist for the Record, resigned when the Hearst papers merged into one. Recently Frazer and Frazier had been the only two Boston columnists touching on show biz matters, a situation which had brought about mixups due to similarity of names.

Garfinkle's Hub Pitch

Robert B. Choate is new board chairman of Boston Herald-Traveler Corp, succeeding Sidney W. Winslow Jr. who died last July. Choate has been president and publisher of the Herald. George E. Akerson, assistant publisher, is now prez and pub. Choate also will continue as president of WHDH Inc., radio-tv station owned by the Herald, and will also continue actively with the paper.

Henry Garfinkle, president of American News Co. and Union News Co., and also dominant stockholder in Greater Boston Distributors Inc., reportedly was pitching for control of the Herald-Traveler Corp., but new publisher Akerson denies there is any change in control.

Understood that Greater Boston Distributors hold 58,003 shares of H-T, or 11.42%, making it the largest single shareholder in the company.

Strongin To N.Y. Times

Ted Strongin, for two years music-arts critic of Albany Knickerbocker News and reviewer of motion pictures, among other media, is moving to the New York Times as one of its music critics.

Albany League of Arts tendered Strongin a dinner in farewell. His successor, Dan Cusick, from Detroit, attended the affair.

Strongin, who was on Chattanooga Times before moving to Albany, probably covered the widest geographical sector of any critic in local history. His swings of the summer circuit encompassed the Catskills, Western Massachusetts, Vermont and New York's capital district.

Germany's Paperback Boom

Biggest sellers by far in the West German publishing industry are the cheap paperback novels, now going at the rate of 2,500,000 copies a week here.

Most of the cheapies sell for 70 pfennigs to a mark (20c to a quarter), and a new study by the EMNID testing organization reveals that 97% of the leisure-time readers are picking up copies of these novels instead of any other kind of literature.

Right now there are about 60 series of popular paperback novels, most of them distributed weekly or twice a month through the newsstands rather than through book stores. No. 1 seller is the Jerry Cotton series (hero is a New York policeman), a criminal tale coming out once a week. Jerry Cotton books also do big export biz to 40 lands, from Egypt to Venezuela, for the Germans living there, and have been translated into Flemish, Italian, Finnish and Portuguese.

$1600 CONTEST for WRITERS
OF UNPUBLISHED MANUSCRIPTS.
Send for contest rules and free Brochure on publishing your book. In case of tie, duplicate prizes awarded. Dept. VA
Pageant Press, 101 Fifth Ave. N. Y. 3

Fleisher's Poetry Anthology

Frederic Fleisher, one of VARIETY's two stringers in Stockholm, has translated and edited "Seven Swedish Poets" for publication Oct. 22 by Bo Cavefors Forlags of Malmo. It contains more poems of Nobel Prize-winning Par Legerkvist than have ever before appeared in English.

Other poems are by Gunnar Ekelof, Hjalmar Gullberg, Erik Lindegre, Bertilm Malmberg, Harry Martinson, Edith Sodergram. Volume sells at $3.60.

Knebel & Bailey's Encore

The "Seven Days in May" coauthors, Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey 2d, who have reportedly pocketed $150,000 each out of book and film rights payments so far on their sensational fiction thriller about political Washington and a power-mad general, have just sent their publisher (Harper & Row) a new book. This one, called "Convention," takes place during a Republican National Convention (duration: almost a week) while a U. S. Senator and a Secretary of the Treasury fight it out in the Washington bureau of Cowles Publications (Look Mag and Minneapolis and Des Moines dailies). Knebel, who also pens the syndicated assortment of witty briefs, "Potomac Fever," is resigning his press job for fulltime fiction writing next May. The month, Knebel explains, is a coincidence. He has commitments with Cowles preventing his departure from D.C. any sooner. He will build a house in Florida on Sanibel Island (where Allen Drury, another Washington newsman who struck it rich with a novel, "Advise and Consent," has a place, too). Knebel will continue to write a specified number of articles annually for Look, but will otherwise be free for novels and his favorite pastime, fishing.

Bailey, who is considerably younger, will retain his Cowles association indefinitely.

Buchwald & Lomax Parties

Perle Mesta, the w.k. D.C. hostess, is officiating at Hecht's department store in the capital, for an Oct. 28 publication day party for Art Buchwald's first made-in-America book, "I Chose Capitol Punishment." World reports this has the largest advance of all his books, and has gone into second printing before publication.

Another autographing party, also for a World Pub. Co. author, will be for Louis E. Lomax at the National Memorial African Bookstore in Harlem. Negro author's book is titled "When The Word Is Given: A Report on Elijah Muhammed, Malcolm X, and the Black Muslim World."

Fight Maine's 'Girlie' Tabu

The Empire News Co. of Lewiston, Me., has petitioned the Federal Court in Portland, Me., to enjoin Androscoggin County Attorney Laurier T. Raymond from threatening newsdealers if they sell "girlie" magazines.

Raymond had warned the dealers they face prosecution under Maine's obscenity law. The District Court has been asked to bar Raymond from instituting any prosecutions.

Empire News claims it lost more than $10,000 because of Raymond's warning to newsdealers. It maintains Raymond's action abridges freedom of the press, and is arbitrary, unreasonable and does not meet Federal constitutional due process requirements.

Cerf on Censorship

Bennett Cerf, publisher, television panelist and author, assailed "the rising wave of censorship" in a recent address before 1,000 educators attending the 15th annual conference of the New England Reading Assn. at Bretton Woods, N. H.

Pointing out that every state has "perfectly adequate laws that cover smut and pornography," the head of Random House denounced "voluntary boards of censorship that are being organized in practically every community."

"These people are causing untold trouble," he said. "What they are doing is publicizing the very books they are trying to suppress. Filth dies quickly; only when given headlines does it survive."

Publishing Stocks

(As of Oct. 22 closing)

Allyn & Bacon (OC)	25	— ½
American Book (AS)	41¼	— ½
Amer. Book Strat. AS	6¼	— ⅜
American Heritage (OC)	5⅝	— ⅛
Book of Month (N.Y.)	20½	+ ⅛
Conde Nast (N.Y.)	12	— ½
Cowles (OC)	14⅛	+ ⅛
Crowell Collier (N.Y.)	22	— ⅞
Curtis Pub. (N.Y.)	6	— ¼
Esquire Inc. (AS)	8	— ½
Ginn & Co. (N.Y.)	28	—1⅝
Grolier (OC)	57½	+2
Grosset & Dunlap (OC)	9	— ¼
Harcourt Brace (N.Y.)	34⅛	+ ⅛
Hayden Pub. (OC)	2¾
Hearst (OC)	25
Holt R & W (N.Y.)	29	— ½
La Times-Mirror (OC)	33¾	—1½
Macfadden Bartel (AS)	5¾	+ ¼
McCall (N.Y.)	31¼	— ½
McGraw-Hill (N.Y.)	28½	— ⅛
Meredith Pub. Co. (OC)	25½	+ ½
Nat'l Per. Pub. (OC)	9¾	+1
New Yorker (OC)	101
Pocket Books (OC)	4	— ¼
Popular Library (OC)	2¼
Prentice Hall (AS)	35¼	— ¾
Random House (N.Y.)	9¾
Scott Foresman (OC)	27¾
H. W. Sams (OC)	32½	+3¾
Time Inc. (OC)	88½
Universal Pub. Co. (OC)	4¾
Western Pub. Co. (OC)	20½	+ ⅜
World Pub.	16¾	+ ½

OC—Over the Counter.
NY—N.Y. Stock Exchange.
AS—American Stock Exchange.
(Supplied by Bache & Co.)

MacLennan's Sabbatical

One of Canada's internationally known novelists, Nova Scotia-born Hugh MacLennan, has dropped his 16-month-old daily-syndicated weekend "Writer's Diary" to pen another tome. He and his wife leave for Europe for seven months, with a Canada Council grant, to get the main work done. Crawley Films of Ottawa, Canada's largest commercial film producer, owns rights to MacLennan's "Barometer Raising," about the great Halifax explosion of 1917, and has been trying for some time get a workable screenplay.

His latest novel is "Watch that Ends the Night," published like most of his others in Toronto and New York.

Dietrich's Book In Germany

The German translation of Marlene Dietrich's English-language "ABC" book has been brought on the German market by Lothar Blanvalet, Berlin. It has found much acclimation, especially in Berlin papers. Berlin, of course, is her favorite and native ("I'm a Berliner, I'll remain a Berliner, and I'm grateful for being a Berliner") town.

It is said that the book is being boycotted by part of book dealers in W-Germany. Publisher Blanvalet told VARIETY: "We in Berlin are speechless in view of such backward, nationalist animosities. I find that everyone who helped—no matter in what uniform—putting an end to the Third Reich deserves honor. As for myself, I stand fully behind the human being, the writer and the artist Marlene Dietrich." His opinion is shared by many if not most German pressmen. Miss Dietrich, no doubt belongs to the category of Carl von Ossietzky, Thomas, and the men of the 20th of June (who tried to overthrow the Nazi chieftain).

New Book On Thomas More

Heightened interest in Sir Thomas More, because of the international success of the play, "Man For All Seasons," has resulted in a French priest, Abbe German Marc'hadour, making two trips to the U.S., one a session at Yale. He teaches Old English at the University d'Angiers in France.

An expert on More, priest has just published via Librarie J. Urin at the fantastically high price for France of 60 New Francs ($12) a 750-page book, "L'Univers de Thomas More."

CHATTER

Droke House, Indianapolis, publisher of Quote, weekly digest for public speakers, has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hoskins, who are moving its headquarters to Richmond, Ind. The new owners will serve as copublishers, with Mrs. Hoskins as editor. Hoskins is a professor of government at Earlham College, while his wife is former public relations director for the college. Quote is circulated throughout the U.S. and 14 countries.

Bruce Elliott named editor of True Love, a Macfadden-Bartell publication, per Jack Podell, vice-president and editorial director. Elliott was formerly editor-in-chief of Regency Books. He has also freelanced for many years, has had four books published by Harper & Row and has had several stories made into pix and serialized for television. Elliott is also one of the foremost experts on magic and has written books on the subject. For many years he published a tradepaper for magicians.

Lin Tai-Yi's third novel for World, "Kampoon St.," is about a Hong Kong stripper. Author resides in HK and all the characters are Chinese. It has Hollywood film interest; publication due next spring.

Pulitzer Prizewinning correspondent Marguerite Higgins has exited the N.Y. Herald Tribune for a three-a-week column at Newsday (Long Island daily), deal made with publisher Harry F. Guggenheim. She'll be syndicated. Miss Higgins will be based in Washington.

Richard Tregaskis, who authored "Guadalcanal Diary," is due in New York from Honolulu in time for publication by Holt, Rinehart & Winston of his "Vietnam Diary" soon.

Jack Harrison Pollack's upcoming Doubleday biog of Holland's Gerard Croiset, the clairvoyant, has been delayed until early next year. Book reports how baffling murders and sex crimes, including several in U. S., have been solved by Croiset the Clairvoyant 3,000 miles away at the University of Utrecht Parapsychology Institute. This academic aura sharply differentiates Croiset from commercial telepathists on tv and elsewhere. Dr. J. B. Rhine has been trying to bring Croiset to Duke University.

Playwright-screenwriter-actor William Archibald has followed his first juvenile, "The Magic Blot," with "A Day in the Life of a Clown," self-illustrated, both via Stein & Day publication.

James T. Fransiosi, picture page editor of King Features, died in his sleep at his Bellerose (L.I.) home Oct. 17 of a heart attack, age 48.

George Mendoza's next novel (this third), which Bobbs-Merrill has slated for spring, is titled "The Hawk Is Humming," a psychological novel, his third.

Virginia Butts exits as public relations director for Time, Life and Fortune in Chicago Nov. 1 to take over the same position with the Field papers, the Chicago Daily News and Chicago Sun-Times. She was once a writer for television stations WBKB and WBBM-TV in Chicago and for Dave Garroway's NBC network radio show in 1954.

The Journal-American Is Now New York's Greatest Entertainment Medium!

- Walter Winchell
- Dorothy Kilgallen
- Suzy
- Louis Sobol
- Louella Parsons
- Cholly Knickerbocker
- Sheilah Graham
- John McClain
- Rose Pelswick
- Miles Kastendieck
- Nick Lapole
- Gene Knight
- Frances Merron
- Jack Thompson
- Harry Hershfield
- The Baron (Eddie Black)

With the addition of many popular New York Mirror entertainment columnists—plus its own galaxy of writers covering every field of diversion—the Journal-American now provides New York's best editorial showcase for every kind of amusement, hotel, restaurant, night club and entertainment advertising.

New York Journal-American

Broadway

Pete ("21") Kriendler's pitch for funds for the City Center.

Jack Leonard, New York business executive, shifting his base to Las Vegas' Sands Hotel where he'll operate in an exec capacity.

Hoyt Ammidon, new member of Lincoln Center board, is chairman of U. S. Trust Co. Will represent the Music Theatre, of which Richard Rodgers is front.

Concert fiddler Aaron Rosand with accompanist Eileen Flissler to Europe Oct. 26 for dates in Amsterdam, West Berlin, Paris, Antwerp and Geneva.

Part of the collection of 18th century French objets d'art of Fritz Kreisler on auction at Parke-Bernet; also rare books from the late William Faulkner's estate.

Stage manager A. Marc Leventhal compiling material for a biog of the late Jules J. Leventhal, Broadway and roadshow manager, who died in 1949. Looking for anedotes, correspondence, etc.

Ted Strongin, who resigned as "arts" editor of Albany Knickerbocker News, to join the New York Times in its music-critic department, will replace Ross Parmentier—slated to retire within a year.

Humphrey Doulens after siege in St. Luke's Hospital is on a strict bed routine at Hotel Windsor. Allowed out only two hours for luncheon. CAMI official will have a long recuperation from heart attack.

Vet songster-songsmith-vocal coach Eddie Miller in the Broadlawn Manor nursing home at Amityville, L.I., where he's recuping. OK physically excepting for the need of a walking cane. Can be written here.

Claudette Colbert, costarring in "The Irregular Verb to Love," g. of h. at the Sunday (27) tea at the Episcopal Actors' Guild of America, per prexy Vinton Freedley, at "The Little Church Around the Corner" hq of the Guild on East 29th St.

ANTA prez Peggy Wood, a Connecticut commuter for over 30 years and a regular customer at the Grand Central Terminal bookshop, doubled as cashier as an author's stunt last week, ringing up sales of her just published "Arts and Flowers" (Morrow) autobiog.

When stockbroker Earl T. Risser placed his East 81st St. townhouse on public auction at Park-Bernet he also wanted to dispose of a 1959 Rolls. Publicist Bill Blowitz bought it for $8,550; a more reticent patron of the auction gallery, who chose to remain anonymous, bought the townhouse.

Ingram Ash, account veepee for legit for Blaine Thompson, in traction for tests and treatment taking the "fifth"—the numerical slipped disk on his vertabrae. Recouping at Stamford Hospital, Stamford, Conn., within acreage-shot of his Pound Ridge environs from which realtor-wife Gerry makes her hq and can visit hubby quickly.

Farewell-to-the-old Times Tower being staged next Monday with cocktailery atop the Times Sq. landmark by Allied Chemical which bought the property and moves uptown shortly. The old (N.Y.) Times Tower facade will be retained but with modernized structural exterior. There's been no change in its 60 years as the traditional New Year's Eve "electric ball" signalized the witching hour.

Nick D'Amico, quondam Hotel Plaza bandleader, now laying off while the SS America is in drydock because of a labor hassle, made the headlines by appearing in Queens County Criminal Courthouse carrying his violin case while Joe "Cosa Nostra" Valachi was giving testimony against Queens and Brooklyn hoodlums. D'Amico had to give an impromptu concert in court to prove the legitimacy of his claim that he carries his fiddle everywhere so he'd be ready for a job directly after his jury duty.

Rome

By Robert F. Hawkins
(Via Sardegna, 43; Tel. 479316)

RAI-TV resuming Alfred Hitchcock series.

Sophia Loren to Milan for "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" windup.

Mario Ferreri directs three-episoder for RAI-TV on life of Giuseppe Verdi.

Albert Zugsmith here after winding "House of the Red Light" in Yugoslavia.

Toto, the Italo comedian, started his 100th feature pic, "The Commander" (PCM-INCEI).

Antonio Ciffariello to Warsaw for role in Joseph Fryd production, "An Italian in Warsaw" (I.C.D.-Kadr).

Alida Valli due back from Mexico soon, to work in Europe on "The Second Woman" and "Vigliaccheria."

Richard Harris waiting for go-ahead signal here for Michelangelo Antonioni's "Red Desert," slated to shoot near Ferrara.

Ornella Vanoni drew raves from Italo press at her Milan debut in "Rugantino." Garinei-Giovannini musical repeated Rome success on Northern unveiling.

Matilde Calnan started work in Galatea pic, "Rome Against Rome." RCA-Victor secured rights to soundtrack of "Dark Purpose," Steve Barclay production which U releases in U.S. and Canada.

In-and-out: Linda Christian, back from London; Akim Tamiroff at Bristol-Bernini; Fatem Hamama here for Egyptian Film Week; Walter Lippmann visiting; John Barrymore Jr. back from Copenhagen and "Keeler Affair" filming; Gina Lollobrigida back to London to wind "Woman of Straw"; Rosanna Schiaffino to London to dub "Long Ships"; and Horst Buchholz to Switzerland with family after winding "Empty Canvas."

Palm Springs

By A. P. Scully
(Tel. 324-1828)

Carroll Coates writing lyrics for Bob Laine.

Van Hall, former ski star, bought into the Ranch Club.

Name of Crosby-Petitto restaurant in Rancho Mirage will be the Capri.

Charlie Farrell back as manager of Racquet Club which he sold two years ago.

Alice Faye still among the femmes who lose nothing wearing white slacks.

"Grapes of Wrath" opened famous film series at City College, Riverside.

Bob Devine gold-medalled for having best voice for announcers serving 100,000 or under pops.

Jimmy Van Heusen moving to Yucca Valley on the high desert once Crosby and he unload their Palm Desert places.

Eddie Oliver between Racquet Club piano stints has come up with his wife Pat Phillips with 12 songs called the "San Jacinto suite."

Jesse Davis back at Howard Manor for season of singing. Hotel now owned wholly by Dave Margolies, who has quit Holiday Inn and radio interests.

Frank Sinatra, carrying the nut of a $60,000 golf tourney Nov. 7-11 at Canyon Country Club, nearly got another Nevada right cross when local social service group began squabbling whether net or gross would be used in percentage going to Boys Club. Dean Martin, James Garner and Robert Sterling are amateurs pencilled in among the pros.

Boston

By Guy Livingston
(508 Little Bldg.; 338-7560)

Stanley Baker in for "In French Style" press interviews. Film opened at Astor Oct. 18.

Moscow Circus, in for 10 days at Boston Garden, nabbed rave reviews from Hub newspapers.

Colonial Theatre went dark following exit of "Girl Who Came to Supper," and stays shuttered for eight weeks due to two cancellations.

Joseph Sadur named resident manager of the new film theatre being constructed in the Chelsea shopping center by New England Theatres, Inc.

Ed Sullivan awarded personalized O'Sullivan coat of arms by Hon. Gearoid F. O'Clerigh, consul general of Ireland, at 15th anni lunch of Broadcasting Executives Club, Oct. 16.

Fortune Gallo revives the San Carlo Opera Co. for a farewell tour opening with five operas at Donnelly Memorial Theatre starting with "La Traviata" Friday, Nov. 22; sponsored by Sons of Italy.

Michael R. Santangelo, coproducer and creater of "Black Nativity," berthed at the Shubert for two weeks, flying back and forth between N.Y. and Hub, taking care of biz and visiting fiancee Karen Sperling, who's a sophomore at Brandeis U.

London

(HYde Park 4561/2/3)

The Magic Circle's annual festival held last week at the Scala Theatre.

Yvonne Hearn leaving Metro to join United Artists at end of October as press officer.

Al Burnett hosted a party to celebrate the launching of his memoirs, "Knave of Clubs."

Audrey Jeans to U.S. next month for dates in New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Las Vegas.

Rev. Edwin Young, chaplain of London Palladium, named official chaplain for the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund.

John Fairbairn leaving the Rank Organization to join 20th-Fox as adpub director. He starts his new job next Monday (28).

Metro tossed a reception at the May Fair Hotel to launch Martin Ransohoff's production of "The Americanization of Emily."

Lawrence P. Bachmann, head of Metro's British production, to N.Y. and then to the Coast for meetings on company's film program for 1964.

Show biz personalities currently around the town include Richard Condon, Eli Wallach, Jock Mahoney, Timi Yuro and Arthur Morse.

Carol Arthur, who is rehearsing for the Drury Lane production of "Boys from Syracuse," fractured an elbow when she fell in a London restaurant.

Ann Todd planed out to Katmandu to plan a film which she hopes to produce in the Himalayas next spring. Playwright Arden Winch will be joining her at a later date.

Arthur Dulay, resident pianist and musical director of the National Film Theatre, believed to be only man still making a living accompanying silent films, signed by Stanley Kubrick to arrange and play background music for key sequence in "Dr. Strangelove."

Chicago

(DElaware 7-4984)

Singer Toni Lee Scott currently at Ambassador Lounge in Cicero.

Promoter Les Lear now writing a show biz column for The Chicagoan, a visitors' guide mag.

Eddie Hall resigned from the Mutual Entertainment Agency to join General Artists Corp., in charge of cocktail lounge entertainment in the Midwest.

Publicist Don Young skied to London last Thursday (17) as a member of the Governor's (Illinois) Trade Mission to Europe. He's the only pubrel man in group.

Douglas Watson will star in Chekhov's "Three Sisters," with a student cast, at Goodman Theatre, Nov. 29-Dec. 18. Production will be staged by Eugenie Leontovich and Charles McCaw.

Folksinger Ed McCurdy currently toplining at It's Here, coffee house on Sheridan Road. Dean de Wolf, who just closed at same spot, has new album, "Folk Swinger," out on Argo label.

Chi dancer Jimmy Dybas tapped for juve lead in David Merrick's "Oh Dolly," which is skedded for the first of a series of pre-Broadway tryouts Nov. 16 at Fisher Theatre, Detroit. Dybas was lead dancer in the Melody Top tunetent production of "Music Man" last summer.

Midwest filmbizites turned out in force for Variety Club of Illinois "King for A Day" luncheon honoring Dick Graff last Thursday (17) at Pick-Congress Hotel. Graff, former Universal Pictures branch manager here, recently was appointed assistant to H. H. Martin, Universal veepee and general sales manager in New York.

Paris

By Gene Moskowitz
(80 Ave. Neuilly-SAB 07-12)

NBC shooting a vidfilm on the art in the Louvre Museum.

"Bridge On River Kwai" (Col) back at four firstruns in its first reissue run here.

Accordionist Andre Verchuren celebrating the sale of his sixth million record this week.

Rock stars Sheila and Richard Anthony head the Olympia Music Hall vaude show starting Nov. 7.

Marlene Dietrich due for a singing stint at big Palais Des Sports in Lyon for one night on Nov. 7.

Claudine Oger, Miss France 1959, into the state-subsidized legit house, Theatre National Populaire, as a rep actress.

Anthony Perkins to cut some disks in French during his film stint opposite Brigitte Bardot in "A Ravishing Idiot" here.

Rudolph Nureyev will dance with Margot Fonteyn in Royal Ballet's "Swan Lake," due at the Theatre Des Champs-Elysees, Nov. 4.

Polish director Roman Polanski to make a film here for producer Pierre Roustang, "Cherchez La Femme," a comedy about an American looking for a European wife.

Yank jazz shows going well here, with Count Basie Orch a sellout for one show at big Salle Pleyel and a Yank blues concert also drawing big, if not SRO, at the same hall.

Playwright Jean Anouilh still preferring to direct legiters rather than write them this season. He stages Steve Passeur's 1930 play, "L'Acheteuse" (The Buyer) at Comedie Des Champs-Elysees later this season.

Las Vegas

By Forrest Duke
(DUdley 4-4141)

Musical arranger Don Costa now has a home here, and is associated with the new United Recording studios.

Kay Brown returned to chirping and is now with the Charlie Teagarden group at Silver Slipper lounge.

Jack Prince, singer with Harry James crew at the Flamingo, back in action after a bout with pneumonia.

Mitzi Gaynor and Jack Bean yocking at one of Shecky Greene's Riviera lounge shows. Miss Gaynor here to huddle with Morris Lansburgh about her future Flamingo gigs.

Judge Bernard Frank, in from Miami Beach to visit wife, Marion Colby, Flamingo lounge songstress, had to pay overweight air charges for the many photos he brought along of their seven-months-old son.

Gloria DeMarco, only single sister of the singing quintet which was broken up by marriages, was spotted from the Stardust lounge stage by Don Cornell, who asked her up for some songs. Hotel execs liked her and want her to open there in January.

Madrid

By Hank Werba
(Avda Habana, 86; Tel. 2590497)

Pilar Lopez dancers appear next year at the N. Y. World's Fair.

Alfonso Paso's "Rights of Man" topped the 350-performance mark at the Teatro Club.

Vaude show, "Lights of Madrid," closed after a seven-month smash run at the circus hardtop, Price Hall.

Flamenco star Carmen Amaya is hanging up her staccato-beat ballet shoes permanently on doctor's orders.

Albert Camus' "Caligula" opened the season at the Teatro Bellas Artes under the direction of Jose Tamayo.

New nitespot club Imperator spotlighting French singer Robert Jeantal and Spain's popular Duo Dynamico.

Veteran flamenco singer and showman, Manolo Caracol, has a topflight bill at a brand new heel-stomping cabaret, Los Canasteros, headed by Gabriela Ortega, Manolo Mairena and Curro Velez.

Philadelphia

By Jerry Gaghan
(319 N. 18th St.; Locust 4-4848)

Bernard Peiffer featured in the Inferno Room of Dante's.

Olatunji, Nigerian drummer at Pep's has auditioned for Disney.

Sandy Walsh, who plays the ingenue in "Seidman & Son," formerly danced in the line at Chubby's and the Celebrity Room.

Jimmy Stewart making one of his infrequent visits here in the interest of his new pic, "Take Her She's Mine," opening Nov. 14.

Slappy White working with his writer, Eugene Perret, on new act he's taking to Europe for the State Department at the end of October.

Beverly Adland makes her local debut at Uncle Milty's, Pennsauken. Her manager is former Latin Casino operator Harry Steinman.

Marian Anderson to receive the First Eleanor Roosevelt Humanities Award from local women's division of State of Israel Bonds at a luncheon in Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Nov. 12.

Hollywood

Roger C. Carmel in from Gotham.

Robert Selig trekking Fox Midwest circuit posts.

Gregory Peck home after five months in Europe.

Roy Drusky inked to exclusive Mercury Records pact.

Angie Dickinson did special trailer for the U.S. Treasury.

Nancy Kwan in from London for role in Metro's "His and His."

Douglas Heyes handed longterm Universal writer-director pact.

Hal Knutson new local sales manager of Metromedia's KLAC radio station.

Jerry Colonna set for Great Western Exposition and Livestock Show, Nov. 20-28.

Tommy Farrell joins his mere, Glenda, in Sam Katzman's "Kissin' Cousins" at Metro.

Constance Towers to entertain U.S. troops in Canal Zone during Thanksgiving Week.

Writers Guild of America removed Bischoff-Diamond Corp. from its "unfair" list.

Lena Horne offered deal to star in Seven Arts' "No Strings," for Diahann Carroll's role.

Betty Bronson makes her first film appearance in 18 years in Leon Fromkess' "Iron Kiss."

Dee Shaffer joined Pat Holmes Agency as associate, heading children and commercial departments.

Ronald Lubin hopped to Bogota for confabs with government officials on filming of "Simon Bolivar."

Jimmy McHugh speaks before Singing Teachers of America convention on Nov. 3 at Whittier College.

Roy Rogers, AGVA secretary and member of national board, recuping satisfactorily from emergency appendectomy.

Shelley Winters optioned Ralph Hart's original, "My Son Never Drew Those Dirty Pictures on the Wall," re American students in Italy.

Mpls.-St. Paul

By Bob Rees
(2208 Kenwood Parkway; 374-4015)

Pianist Robert Casadesus due in for St. Paul Auditorium concert.

Moscow Circus will play Minneapolis Auditorium week of Nov. 21.

"The Mousetrap" bowed out at St. Paul's Edyth Bush Theatre last round.

National Ballet of Canada set for appearance at St. Paul Auditorium Nov. 3.

Black Watch band and Highland pipers due at University of Minnesota, Monday (28), an entry in University Artists course series.

University of Minnesota Theatre will stage world preem Oct. 31 of "The Laughmaker" by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, who co-authored "Inherit the Wind."

Minneapolis actress Jan Swanson, who played coed daughter in Broadway production and roadshow of "Take Her, She's Mine," repeated role this month in Old Log Theatre's offering of same stage hit.

Minneapolis Symphony, which opened its 61st season Friday (18), teaming with Theatre St. Paul in staging Kurt Weill's "Threepenny Opera" at Tyrone Guthrie Theatre this stanza. Production remains through Nov. 2.

Montreal

By Charles Lazarus
(Victor 2-2211)

Future of El Morocco indefinite because of license problem.

Former Miss Canada, Marilyn Reddick of Montreal, now singing at the Royal Alex in Winnipeg.

Colette Boky, top-ranking Montreal soprano, leaves for European tour after taping a tele appearance.

Bernard Kaplan, the Montreal Star Paris correspondent who covers the theatre scene in the French capital for his sheet, here for confabs with the editors.

Donald M. Mumford and his Mary-Ann, gm at the Queen Elizabeth, readying for a 'round-the-world trip during which he'll be staying mostly at Hilton hotels. QE is operated by Hilton, owned by Canadian National Railways.

Station CJAD getting plenty attention with its "80 Voices" campaign, featuring a contest to recognize the talent coming over the station, a CBS affiliate. Gimmick is particularly effective because of the "80 Voices" line, the station operating on 800 kilocycles.

OBITUARIES

FRANK B. WALKER

Frank B. Walker, 73, regarded as the dean of the American record industry, died of heart attack Oct. 16 in Little Neck, L.I.

Details in the music section.

ALAN FRAZER

Alan Frazer, 66, show biz columnist of the Boston Record American, died of a heart attack Oct. 15 in West Medford, Mass. He had completed his final column, "My Boston," the night before and had attended the opening of "Black Nativity" at the Shubert Theatre Monday (14).

A graduate of Harvard, Frazer joined the staff of the Boston American in 1925 as a reporter. He was subsequently a rewrite man and from 1930-1937 was city editor.

He worked for the Boston Herald from 1937-1942, and returned to the Herald in 1945 after World War II service as a Lieutenant Commander.

He also was assistant managing editor of Pathfinder magazine and from 1946 to 1947 was public information officer for the Veterans Administration in Boston. He returned to the American as a columnist in 1948.

Surviving are his wife and two daughters.

JACK CRYSTAL

Jack Crystal, 54, leading figure in the jazz field in New York, died of a heart attack in a bowling alley Oct. 15 in Long Beach, L.I. At his death he had been, for about 20 years, secretary of the Commodore Record Co., Yonkers, specializing in the production of jazz recordings.

He was the manager of the Commodore Music Shop, a center for jazz buffs including jazz musicians and collectors, for 15 years. It closed in 1958. The store was owned by Julius Gabler, his father-in-law, and Milton Gabler, his brother-in-law. Milton Gabler is veepee in charge of artists & repertoire at Decca Records.

Since 1949 he had been producing weekend jazz concerts at New York's Central Plaza, and had recently produced a series of jazz concerts for the benefit of the Musicians' Aid Society. He had formerly produced jazz concerts at Jimmy Ryan's nightclub when it was located on West 52d St. in N.Y.

Surviving are his wife, three sons, his mother and a sister.

NATT HALE

Natt Hale, 47, assistant to Sam Clark, president of ABC-Paramount Records, died in New York Oct. 15 following an illness of six weeks.

A veteran of 25 years in the record business, Hale had held positions with Columbia, Decca, MGM, and other labels. His show business career began when he operated a motion picture house in Chicago, and progressed through his participation as half of a nightclub comedy act, and eventually into the record business. At one time, he was promotional manager for Liberace.

Surviving are his father and a sister. Special memorial services will be held today (Wed.) at New York's Actors Temple.

SIR ALASTAIR YOUNG

Sir Alastair Young 45, Scot baronet who launched a $750,000 appeal to transform the Empress Playhouse, Glasgow, into an impressive theatre and arts centre, died Oct. 15 in Glasgow.

His scheme for the theatre to be named The Falcon, was called "too ambitious" by city councillors, and the Glasgow Corp. refused to give financial assistance.

GUSTAF GRUENDGENS

Gustaf Gruendgens, 63, noted German actor-director, died Oct. 7 in Manila, where he had made a stopover on a trip around the world. Death was attributed to internal hemorrhages.

Regarded as one of Germany's top stage personalities, he was especially famed for his portrayal of Hamlet and Mephisto in Goethe's "Faust." Not only was he a talented actor but he also was celebrated for his ability as a director. He staged a number of German operas and also directed several cabaret productions.

A native of Duesseldorf, Gruendgens started his career during World War I when he was a member of a German soldier theatre ensemble. After the war he studied at the Theatre Academy in Duesseldorf. He later worked with Hamburger Kammerspiele and joined Berlin's Deutsche Theatre in 1928.

He became stage director at Berlin's Staatliche Schauspielhaus in 1931 and six years later was named general superintendent. His theatres was looked upon as an asylum of mental freedom for many during the Nazi regime. He was captured by the Russians during the World War II but returned to the theatre in 1946.

From 1955 until 1963, Gruendgens headed the Deutsche Schauspielhaus in Hamburg which became one of Germany's finest postwar theatres. He also appeared in such films as "Pygmallon," "Dance on the Volcano" and "Capriolen."

An adopted son survives.

EILEEN DRAYCOTT

Eileen Draycott, 70, actress who came from a theatrical family and had been on the stage for nearly 40 years, died Sept. 25 in Birmingham, Eng. She appeared mainly in stock with the Birmingham Repertory Company and later the Alexandra Theatre Company.

Miss Draycott toured Italy with ENSA and trouped in South Africa. In Britain, she created the role of Mrs. Hardcastle in "Love on The Dole." She scored as the elderly maid in "Fool's Paradise," with Cicely Courtneidge. She also did many radio broadcasts.

JACK PRINTUP

John Printup, 66, manager of KRIB, Mason City, Ia., died there Oct. 11 of a heart attack. He sold time for WISN, Milwaukee, from 1937-1947, then was general manager of WEXT, same city.

His career also included police reporting for Chicago newspapers and prior to KRIB hitch he managed KBOK, Waterloo, Ia.; KCHA, Charles City, Ia.; WMIN, St. Paul; and KIHO, Sioux Falls.

His wife and six children survive.

JAMES P. O'LEARY

James Patrick O'Leary, 37, deejay for KMPC radio, Los Angeles, died of an apparent heart attack Oct. 16 in Garden Grove, Calif. He had appeared on his regular "Night Call" show from midnight to 6 a.m., only a few hours prior to seizure in his home, some 30 miles from L.A.

At various times he had been associated with radio stations KGEK, Gallup, N.M.; KFXM, San Bernardino, Cal.; KCBG, San Diego; and KBIG, L.A. He joined KMPC in March, 1962.

His wife, son and daughter survive.

GIUSEPPE MAROTTA

Giuseppe Marotta, 61, writer, scenarist, and film critic, died Oct. 10 in Naples. He was best known for his book, "Gold of Naples," which was made into a film by Vittorio DeSica.

Marotta had recently helped script "Mondo Nudo" (Naked World). He also wrote several plays, many songs, short stories, screenplays etc. as well as serving for several years as film critic for the Milan weekly, Europeo.

Survived by wife, and two children.

CRUYS VOORBERGH

Cruys Voorbergh, 64, Dutch actor who appeared in modern and classic repertory from Shakespeare to Pirandello, died recently of a heart attack in Amsterdam. Dutch playwright Hans Keuls wrote "Lady Barker" for him in which he portrayed several roles. The play was presented in England and a French production was being prepared at the time of his death.

His wife, son and a daughter survive.

NATHAN JOSEPH

Nathan Joseph, 83, pioneer Chicago exhibitor, died of bronchial pneumonia Oct. 14 in that city. He opened his first theatre, the States, in 1903 and remained active in exhibition until 1958, when he retired. The Owl and the Vendome were among other houses he operated.

Survived by wife and son, Irwin S. Joseph, general manager of Modern Film Distributors.

PAT MALONE

Pat Malone, longtime legit and film actor, died Oct. 5 in New York. Noted for his character roles, he appeared in a number of Hollywood films prior to World War II. In recent years, he was cast in various teleplays and also trouped in both Broadway and off-Broadway productions.

His wife survives.

RICHARD E. LEWIS

Richard E. Lewis, 55, a television engineer, died of a heart attack in Chicago Oct. 11 while covering a sit-in deminstration at the Board of Education. He worked for Telefeatures Inc., the company which takes news pictures for the American Broadcasting Co.

Wife, three sisters and two brothers survive.

SAMMY PRICE

Sammy Price, vaude and nitery comedian, died Oct. 18 at the Brooklyn Veterans Administration Hospital at 53. Brother and three sisters survive.

He toured with Ethel Merman in the road company of "Gypsy," played burlesque and niteries, and during World War II was an entertainer in Special Services.

HARVEY T. GILLETT

Harvey T. Gillett, 59, longtime art director, died of a stroke Oct. 12 in Hollywood. At the time of his death he was affiliated with Walt Disney's WED Enterprises, and previously worked for Metro, RKO, Warner Bros. and 20th-Fox as well as Disney Studios.

His wife and son survive.

JOHN ALEXANDER

John Alexander, 49, television writer-director, died of a heart attack Oct. 11 in Santa Monica, Cal. He most recently had been a writer and director for North American Aviation.

His wife survives.

HARRY WALLENS

Harry Wallens, 77, a Buffalo restaurant and nitery operator for 50 years, died Oct. 5 in that city. In addition to operating the Brass Rail, the Savarin, Glass Bar and Town Bar, he was longtime co-owner and operator of the Town Casino with Harry Altman.

He retired about five years ago.

DEAN DIETRICH

Dean Dietrich, 73, onetime set designer and technical director for Broadway musicomedy producers Florenz Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll, died Oct. 13 in Chicago. He also did sets for other musical revues of that era and painted murals for the St. Regis and San Moritz hotels in Gotham.

Wife survives.

FRANK HEMMING

Frank Hemming, 86, revue and pantomime comic, died recently in England. His biggest success was touring as principal comedian in "The Bing Boys" during the first World War.

He also partnered with his first wife in a vaude comedy act.

JOHN EGAN

John Egan, Irish provincial cinema owner, died Oct. 12 in Spain. He was director of Coliseum Cinema circuit in Irish Midlands and also of Northern Ireland circuit.

His wife, son and two daughters survive.

MARGARET BREMNER

Margaret Bremner, 23, assistant producer with Scottish Television, was killed in an auto accident Oct. 13 in Glasgow. She was on her way to the studio to record a new program.

Survived by husband, whom she married a few months ago.

PHIL JULIUS

Phil Julius, 68, onetime songplugger for Irving Berlin Music, died recently in Cleveland. He retired 15 years ago.

Survivors include his brother and a sister.

James Bell, 68, recently retired exploitation manager of United Artists, died Oct. 8 in England. Survived by his wife.

Henry Wendon, tenor, died recently in Newdigate, Eng. He was a professor at the Guildhall School of Music and Drama.

Johan Bendien, 72, director of the Municipal Theatre in Amsterdam from 1947 until 1957, died recently in that city. His wife survives.

Infant daughter of Art Katzen, publicity director for Interstate Theatres in Houston, died recently in that city.

Brother, 80, of actor Eduardo Ciannelli, died Oct. 8 in Ischia, Italy.

Don Oliver, 56, bandleader who worked in Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota for years, died in Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 14 after a brief illness.

Father, 65, of Dorothy Jo Barker, writer-wife of tv emcee Bob Barker, died of a heart attack Oct. 14 in Springfield, Mo.

Father, 76, of actress Katherine Locke, died Oct. 12 in Hollywood. His wife, another daughter and son, writer Sam Locke, also survive.

Father, in late 60s, of Ell Henry, press information director for ABC-TV on the Coast, died Oct. 16 in Fort Atkinson, Wis., of lung cancer.

Widow, 59, of pianist-composer Beryl Rubinstein, died recently in Cleveland after a several years' illness.

Loyd Kelly Wayland, 68, dean of Tennessee boothmen who was projectionist at the Riviera Theatre, Knoxville, since 1920, died Oct. 7 in that city. His wife and daughter survive.

Father of Robert M. Joyce, program manager of WMTW-TV, Poland Spring, Me., died recently of a heart attack in that city.

Arthur Franks, 56, editor and author, died Sept. 28 in London. He was editor of Dancing Times and wrote many books on ballet.

James E. (Jimmie) Russell, 85, property man at the Rivoli Theatre, Toledo, O., for 40 years, died Sept. 21 in Toledo.

Frank Thomas Patrick Henry, 69, former vaudevillian and film extra for many years, died Oct. 3 in Hollywood.

Harry Hickson, 63, magician, died Sept. 25 in Thorpe-Le-Soken, England.

James MacPhee, 58, radio and concert singer, died recently in London, Eng.

MARRIAGES

Brenda Brotherton to Larry Caldwell Mooresville, N.C., Oct. Bride is with WBTV, Charlotte, N.C.

Carole Holmes to Wilson Faulkner, Kinston, N.C., Oct. 6. He is program director of WISP, Kinston.

Elizabeth Emerson to Richard Wyler, Epsom, Eng., Oct. 9. He's an actor.

Bobbi Carole to Danny Williams, London, recently. Both are pop singers.

Virginia Helms to Harold Mitchell, Charlotte, N.C., Sept. 27. Bride is with WBTV, Charlotte.

Joan Benny to Robert Blumofe, Hollywood, Oct. 10. Bride's daughter of Jack Benny; he's United Artists' Coast veepee.

Phyllis Fleming to Dr. Gerald Manning, Dublin, Oct. 19. Bride is house manager at the Abbey Theatre.

Stephanie Nadine Sochin to Ronald M. Greenwald, New York, Oct. 20. Bride is daughter of Irving Sochin, v.p. of Times Films.

Hope Lange to Alan J. Pakula Oct. 18, Bel Air, Calif. Bride is the actress-dancer; he's the film producer.

Naomi Lewis to Dick Mack, Hollywood, Oct. 17. Bride dubs tv commercials; he's a radio-tv comedy writer-producer.

Mary Travers to Barry Feinstein, Danbury, Conn., Oct. 15. Bride is with the Peter, Paul & Mary folksinging group; he's a photographer.

Joy Freese to Hrash Yacoubian, San Francisco, Oct. 18. Bride is an actress; he's head of the Yacoubian Co. (Near East entertainment, currently at Bimbo's 365).

Jennifer Jayne to Art Fairbank, London, Oct. 19. Bride is an actress; he's a singer.

Elaine McKenna to Tim Evans, El Paso, Tex., Oct. 11. Bride is a singer, he's a member of the folksinging Wanderers Three.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Ladd Jr., daughter, Santa Monica, Cal., Oct. 13. Father is Creative Management Associates tv division exec.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Greening, son, Hollywood, Oct. 11. Father's an actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Conway, son, Hollywood, Oct. 13. Father's costar of "McHale's Navy" teleseries.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob McGonagle, daughter, Kew Gardens, L.I., Oct. 8. Father is a WHN newsman.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sage, daughter, Santa Monica, Cal., Oct. 16. Father is producer of Sherman Grinberg Productions' "Battleline" teleseries.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Levin, son, Oct. 20 in New York. Father is the author of "Critic's Choice," the dramatization of "No Time for Sergeants" and the librettist-lyricist of the scheduled Broadway musical, "Cat and Mouse."

Mr. and Mrs. James Lavenstein, daughter, New York, Oct. 18. Father is manager, program liaison, CBS-TV

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Know, son, New York, Oct. 11. Father is film researcher for CBS News with Walter Cronkite.

Make With Culture

Continued from page 5

atre" groups by giving them the stage once in a while and other measures. He feels that these things will boost the image of local exhibs and would, natch, result in some upbeat publicity for the theatres involved. This would eventually reflect itself at the boxoffice, the prez contends.

Berger, on the other hand, has been windy on the subject of NCA concentration on forcing film companies to eliminate percentage for the small exhibs, sell the latter on "ability to pay" terms and give them top boxoffice pix while these features are still "hot."

Vonderhaar's position is that, the way things have changed in recent years as far as film attendance is concerned, it is advisable for theatremen to tie in with modern trends. He feels that the nation is on a concert, art, book etc. kick. In his own area, he points out, the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre, a new repertory showcase using Broadway directors and actors, has been very successful. Part of this success is attributable to the gratis newspaper, radio and tv plugging it got from civic leaders. There's no reason why film operations can't cash in on some of this as well, he points out.

L. B. Wilson

October 28, 1954

IN LOVING MEMORY

Sam Liebert

Oct. 24, 1945

AUTHOR OF "SHYLOCK VERSUS SHAKESPEARE"

ANNA LIEBERT and FAMILY

In Memory of My Dear Husband

PAT BALLARD

October 26, 1960

"My Dearest — Rest In Peace"

Hilde

DESIGN/WORTH

ONE OF THE MOST UNUSUAL DOCUMENTARIES OF OUR TIME IS NOW NEARING COMPLETION AFTER 14 MONTHS OF PRODUCTION.

The Legend of

Marilyn Monroe

A major one hour special for television . . . A dramatic journey into the past . . . into the mind . . . revealing for the first time the full complex and colorful story of the most publicized motion picture personality of our time. Produced and directed by Terry Sanders; Associate Producer — Ezra Goodman; Written by Terry Sanders and Ezra Goodman.

A DAVID L. WOLPER PRODUCTION

OCT 31 1963

FILMS | VIDEO | TV FILMS | RADIO | MUSIC | STAGE

Variety

PRICE 35¢

Published Weekly at 154 West 46th Street, New York, N. Y. 10036, by Variety, Inc. Annual subscription, $15. Single copies, 35 cents.
Second Class Postage at New York, N. Y.
© COPYRIGHT 1963 BY VARIETY, INC. ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.
Vol. 232 No. 10 NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1963 72 PAGES

NEW CASH-IN-ADVANCE FILMS?

Will Women Kill The Theatre?

Again, now that the legit season is in high, the Broadway clientele is airing gripes against those Eiffel-tower coiffs and/or flowing wigs which all but eclipse the view-of-the-stage from the one directly behind.

The growing carelessness of the theatre-smokers—the women, particularly, seem to have no regard for neighbors—has rightly brought N.Y. Fire Commr. Edward Thompson's wrath. Summones which call for fines and/or imprisonment will be issued by Fire Dept. attaches at theatres. The women have been noticed utilizing their cigarets almost in rapier fashion, either as a deliberate, accidental or downright rude technique to barge their way forward.

European Cinemas Set 'Protest Week' Next Month, Aimed at Admish Taxes

Milan, Oct. 29.

All international "protest week" during which all European film houses would either close down and/or vary their fare to protest unfair admission taxes has been announced for November. Decision stems from a meeting held at Milan's MIFED Film Trade Fair by members of the International Cinema Bureau (B.I.C.) which includes top officials in the fields of production, distrib and exhibition in a sort of film industry summit organization.

B.I.C. topper Eitel Monaco in a local speech blasted the "new competitive media" which enjoy preferential treatment in taxation and otherwise from individual governments.

Announcement of pending unprecedented international protest move also speaks of the need for all-out "denunciation of gravity of the current fiscal situation, which is one of principal perils attacking the very roots of industry survival, obviously in contrast with its social and cultural funnctions."

Edict also notes that the move meets with solidarity of those countries already partially or fully de-taxed (with regard to film admissions). It was voted by a B.I.C. quorum consisting of French, German, Italian, British, Moroccan, Dutch, Portuguese and Spanish reps. The U.S. was present as an observer.

Logic

Overheard in the New York Hilton lobby.

"I can't equate this book on 'New York at $5 a Day' with the fact my room cost 28 bucks!"

4-Hr. Week, Not Reds, Threatens U.S. Future: Nizer

Film Attorney-Louis Nizer, addressing the opening luncheon of Theatre Owners of America's 16th annual convention at the Americana Hotel, N.Y., charged the film industry and other entertainment leaders to observe more closely the trend toward increased leisure time in the U.S. and their responsibility concerning the public's "enlightenment."

Nizer said that the real threat to this country in the next 25 years will be neither Communism nor nuclear warfare—it will be leisure. He pointed to breakthroughs made by automation and other factors as contributing to a future in which people will eventually be working a four or five hour week. What the American people will do with increased free time is something that worries even psychiatrists, he noted.

The attorney said that people even now are becoming bored with their entertainments. "We must

(Continued on page 71)

To Solve Coin Problem, Let a Writer Bat Out A Broadway Hit, Sez Simon

Why should a competent writer go to Hollywood and receive perhaps $100,000 for a scenario when, to be financially set up for life, he need only write a hit play? The question was asked by a legit impresario last week, who cited Neil Simon as the writer and "Barefoot in the Park" as the play.

A smash comedy such as "Barefoot" is like a once in a lifetime klondike for many authors and it's obvious that the majority never come up with anything like it. But the fiscal facts concerning this comedy, as they pertain to Simon, are absorbing, even if they don't

(Continued on page 71)

JETS AT LA GUARDIA AS WORLD FAIR CURSE

The inauguration of jets from LaGuardia Airport looms as a new, unanticipated hazard to the 1964 N. Y. World's Fair, especially when sound and dialog are involved. This most likely would effect the Amphitheatre spec which Leon Leonidoff - Meyer Davis, Thomas Rudel are producing.

The sight values, of course, will not be interfered with by any jet noise.

'LADY' & 'ROMAN' DOING A 'CLEO'?

Warner Bros. distribution head Morey (Razz) Goldstein this week will disclose the releasing plans for "My Fair Lady" with the expectation being the elaborate musical, in the marketing, will be patterned after a legit-type presentation.

This will obtain particularly in the key city runs. WB anticipates spirited exhib bidding for the production to the extent that cash guarantees also will be forthcoming, similarly as 20th-Fox collected in advance for its "Cleopatra" roadshows. Goldstein promises to give chapter and verse to a press meeting at New York's 21 Club today (Wed.)

Of particular concern to the trade is the matter of theatremen ante-ing up for a picture ahead of the run. The general pattern for this kind of operation was established with "Cleo" and more of the same is looked for in the future with unusually expensive product.

There already have been hints that Paramount will ask for such money-in-advance deals with its release of Samuel Bronston's "Fall of the Roman Empire."

It's a new approach which certain independent producers, particularly, would like to see adopted in far more than just a limited way.

Bronston, for one, would like it fine if the revenue could be gotten in the till pronto. This would pave the way toward quick payoff on

(Continued on page 71)

Liz-Dick In New 'Chatterley' Film?

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Metro is projecting its own version of D. H. Lawrence's censor-baiting novel, "Lady Chatterley's Lover," under the production helming of Lawrence G. Bachmann, head of its British studios outside London. Guess who they want?—Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Property, which encountered considerable censor trouble in the east, was originally made in 1956 by Regie-Orsay Productions in France for Columbia Pictures release. It's understood Metro purchased screen rights from producers of the French version, which costarred Danielle Darrieux and Erno Crisa in two title roles, and Leo Genn as the husband.

Bachmann's production is being scripted by husband-and-wife team of Irving Ravetch and Harriet Frank Jr., who last collabed on Paramount's "Hud." New edition will be a "free adaptation" though will adhere to the "spirit" of the book, according to Ravetch, who reports that approach will be along the lines of a "love story" rather than a "sex story."

Barbara McNair's Daily Nightmare: Cites 'Strings' Walkouts, Insults

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

"Every night I begin the performance in trepidation, never knowing whether the audience will stay or walk out." That's Barbara McNair's position as femme lead of the touring musical, "No Strings," currently at the Orpheum Theatre here. She costars with Howard Keel in the Richard Rodgers-Samuel Taylor show involving a bi-racial romance in Paris.

It's been a rugged tour for Miss McNair. The Negro singer says she's been greeted by walkouts, gasps, sneers and threats in various cities during the tour. The most extreme hostility was evident in southern-oriented areas, although there have also been unpleasant incidents in such cities as Pittsburgh.

She has received a number of insulting or abusive letters and postcards, Miss McNair reveals, in some instances including statements that the writers would never again see her in legit or any other form of entertainment. There were about 30 protest phonecalls a day in Kansas City and about the same number in St. Louis, she ads, and notes that business there was below the average for the rest of the cities the show has played.

Miss McNair is committed to "Strings" until next May. Then she plans to pick up various cabaret dates she postponed in order to do the legit show. While in Los Angeles, she has been discussing record deals. She also expects to make an appearance on the Jerry Lewis television show.

Sentimental Fanny Hill

John Cleland's 18th century novel, "Memoirs of a Woman of Pleasure," better known as "Fanny Hill," published by Putnam's and also available in two different paperback editions, is now being made into a musical, "The Ballad of Fanny Hill." It's first been recorded as a two-platter album by Fox Records, a Hollywood outfit.

The LP is primed as a trailer for a proposed tabloid musical presentation for Las Vegas.

Florida Again Luring 'Em With Top Headliners

The Florida nitery season is starting to show some life. Indications are that the bulk of the hotels will be back at the old stand, and at the old prices, filling up their entertainment rooms with some of the more expensive names around.

Major question marks at the moment continue to be whether the Fontainebleau will run shows in its La Ronde Room, and the starting date of the Eden Roc. Thus far, it looks like Harry Mufson will open his big room at the Roc on Jan. 31 when he has Milton Berle set. Only other names he has are Dinah Shore, who goes in Feb. 7, to be followed by Joe E. Lewis Feb. 18 with Diahann Carroll on the same bill. The agencies still do not know whether this will be it for the season, but are still hopeful.

But the picture looks bright in other sectors. The free entertainment being offered by the Morris Lansburgh group of hotels will continue in full swing. Lansburgh has signed George Jessel, Sophie Tucker, Leslie Uggams, Carmen

(Continued on page 70)

ASKS WHY NOT PUT BETTING INTO THEATRES

Saratoga, Oct. 29.

Rather than legalize off-track betting, the N.Y. legislature might well consider a plan to authorize the use of neighborhood theatres, during the afternoon, for extension of on-track betting via closed circuit tv.

Suggestion was made here by Charles H. Stark, of Baltimore, prez of Automatic Remote Systems Inc., before a meeting of the

(Continued on page 71)

Banned by WCBS-Radio, Lena Horne's Civil Rights Disk Gets Big Pressing

Although Lena Horne's civil rights disk pitch, "Now," doesn't fit into WCBS-Radio's programming policy, 20th Century-Fox Records ran into market with it Monday (28) with an initial pressing of 65,000 copies.

The record was not "recommended for programming" by WCBS' program director Joseph Cook who said his decision had nothing to do with the song's civil rights statement. According to Cook, the record is a "wailer" and like rock 'n' roll does not fit into the station's music policy.

Cook did say, however, that the record could be played if the station decided to do a special program on civil rights songs or one devoted to Miss Horne's etchings.

The number, an adaptation of the Israeli folk song, "Hava Nagila," was written by Jule Styne, Betty Comden and Adolph Green. The record was produced for 20th Century-Fox by Budd Granoff and Ray Ellis.

Ex-Red and Ex-Nazi Juror Ousted At Mannheim Though West & East Germanys Participate 'Neutrally'

By HANS HOEHN

Mannheim, Oct. 29.

The 12th Mannheim International Film Week (Oct. 14-19) saw the participation of 24 nations. Nearly all Red Bloc countries were present. Even Cuba submitted a short 20-minute documentary on Ernest Hemingway.

Here's the lineup of the 24 participating countries: Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Columbia, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Great Britain, India, Israel, Italy, Hungary, Mexico, New Zealand, Netherland, Pakistan, Poland, South Korea, Switzerland, Soviet Union, United States of America, Yugoslavia and finally Germany. (The German program included two pix from East Germany. In order to avoid complications, both West and East German pix were shown as just "German pix.")

Entered in the contest were 54 shorts and six full-length (first efforts of former short film makers) pix. Fifteen shorts and two long films were shown in the information section. The retrospective show, "The Off Hollywood Film," featured 16 entries. American Gordon Hitchens, also member of the jury, took care of this frame program. Special thanks was paid to Thomas J. Brandon who placed

(Continued on page 70)

Hayden's 'Wanderer' OK Memoir and Also One Of The Best H'wood Sagas

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Sterling Hayden, mariner at heart, movie actor reluctantly and strictly for money, rebel by his own explicit description, seems to have found, at the typewriter, his rightful place in life. His first book, "Wanderer" (Knopf; $6.95), contains the best job of bookwriting about Hollywood in easy recall, and that's barely half of the autobiography that covers his career from infancy to now. As good or better, is the writing of the other half, detailing the drab boyhood, the seagoing adolescence, the runaway voyage to Tahiti with his four children in 1950, and the showdowns with the Committee on un-American Activities and the Federal courts.

It's a big book, written in the free-flowing billingsgate of the forecastle with candor, complete clarity, and without prejudice. Grownups in the picture business (and in the world of the sea) will find it rewarding, and there's a picture in it for a producer with guts.

The Hollywood half of the Hayden book is a straightaway account

(Continued on page 70)

Steven Boyd Quite Vexed; Mags Anti-Hollywood

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

After a year away from Hollywood during which he essayed leads in Samuel Bronston's "Fall of the Roman Empire" and 20th-Fox's "Third Secret," Steven Boyd last week came back to town and launched an attack on snobbish film critics.

"I'm beginning to agree with Sinatra—maybe somebody ought to punch a couple of guys in the nose to get them to write something honest about Hollywood movies."

Boyd thought there are publications which insist that their critics assume an anti-Hollywood attitude.

"As many times as they've changed critics on Time and Newsweek they always wind up with somebody who consistently sneers at Hollywood," declared actor. "They must be adhering to a format — somebody is telling them what approach to take."

On a more general plane, actor muses that, ideally, critics would be assigned to review the type of pix they prefer. He noted the inherent injustice of an anti-epic critic catching "Roman Empire" and, conversely, an avid buff of the spectacle who disdains the intimate comedy reviewing "Mary, Mary."

Zeroing in on the art house crowd, Boyd chided that "if they can read all the subtitles it gets their nod; if they miss a few then they give it thumbs down."

"Maybe if they were given a synopsis of the film they were to see they wouldn't like it so much," he observed.

A.C. Nielsen Signs FTC Consent Decree; 4 Yr. License Arrangement

Washington, Oct. 29.

A. C. Nielsen rating service signed a Federal Trade Commission consent order "removing monopolistic barriers to competition," it was disclosed today.

FTC charged in a complaint that Nielsen "has been engaged in a program to restrain trade in the production and sales of reports and ratings . . . and has achieved a monopoly of this market through its unlawful conduct."

Under the order agreed to by Nielsen, the company will make available all its patents to any applicants on a non-exclusive license sans royalities for four years. The consent order does not constitute an admission by Nielsen that it has violated the law, FTC said.

LOUIS SOBOL

New York Journal - American nationally syndicated columnist, says:

"I've covered showbusiness for many years and PAUL ANKA must be regarded as one of the phenomenal success stories. His magnetic attraction is to all ages. PAUL is proof of the American showbiz truism: 'talent will out.' Count me among those who 'hanker for ANKA.'"

Tenn. 'Obscenity' Issues Compared To 'Monkey Trial'

Knoxville, Oct. 29.

Self-imposed censorship, such as used by theatres in East Tennessee, will not work as far as dealing in obscene literature is concerned. A Criminal Court jury fined Robert A. Werner $1,000 and sentenced him to 30 days for selling "girlie" books and magazines.

The jury found Werner, owner of a main-street newsstand, guilty of selling 17 nationally distributed magazines in violation of Tennessee's 105-year-old "anti-obscenity law."

A major contention of the defense was that Werner kept such publications in a manner to sell only to adults. (This technique is used by local film exhibitors when an adult picture is shown.)

Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas W. Thompson compared the trial with the famous "monkey trial" at Dayton, Tenn., 38 years ago. "The Werner case in Knox Criminal Court will go down in history," Thompson added.

Full enforcement of the 105-year-old law could cause grief for picture exhibitors, it was reported. It seems apparent that the state

(Continued on page 70)

'Festivalitis' Now In Church Idiom

Troy, N.Y., Oct. 29.

Father Malcolm Boyd, Episcopal priest, of Wayne U. at Detroit and former Hollywood and tv producer, is among scheduled participants in Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute's Festival of Religion and the Arts, from Nov. 6-11.

Sponsored by the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant chaplains and students, "Religion's Place in the Contemporary Arts" is the Festival's theme.

Music composed by Rodney Blumenau, a student, will be played during a Sunday morning service (Nov. 10) for Protestant collegians, in St. John's Lutheran Church. Drums, bass, trombone, tenor saxophone and piano will be used in the service.

Joseph Di Stefano, former student, has composed four hymns which will be sung by the congregation at a Mass for Catholic students on the same morning in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd.

Prior to the Mass, a brief drama, written for the Festival by Dr. Frank Kelly, a former faculty member at RPI, will be presented.

Rabbi Herman Horowitz will have Jewish students attend service on Saturday, Nov. 9.

Among those slated to participate along with Father Boyd in the Festival are: Rev. Norman O'Connor, CSP, a Catholic priest, who has emceed ceremonies at the New-

(Continued on page 71)

Gotham's Posh April in Paris Ball Nets Record 250G for Franco-U.S. Charity

The 12th annual April In Paris ball last Friday (25), sandwiched in between the Allied and TOA exhibitors conventions, made the New York Americana Hotel a real swinging spot the past and current week. The class ball for Franco-American charities, again under uniquely able direction of Claude C. Philippe, exec veep of the Loew's-Tisch flagship hostelry, will yield a new high of $250,000 for Franco-American charities (New York's French Hospital, French mariners etc.). Previous high was $200,000 net. A $20,000 fee from Clairol for this past Sunday's vid-taped NBC telecast helped swell the take.

As happened once before at the Americana's Royal Box when the proceedings were keyed to a WNEW broadcast (with result the in-room auditors were handicapped because of "feedback" worries), the presence of the telecameras bothered some of the $150-a-head patrons. None, however, could dispute the ultra attendance, the gastronomic groceries (always remarkable, considering the peak 1,300 turnout, and done on a mass basis in a hotel), the elegance of it all, and the boites de cadeaux—gift boxes both to femmes and men, each worth about $100 at retail.

Fact that the astute Philippe promoted the "loot" — scarves, "grape," books, disks, perfumes etc. — is beside the point. As a matter of fact his hosting-showmanship and the array of "credits"—more than many of your friends at Chase Manhattan—gives his annual venture a built-in quorum. However, he has cast the sundry committees, both French and American, with top-drawer names right out of the Elsa Maxwell-Suzy-Cleveland Amory files.

Not forgetting the national NBC telecast, Philippe rounded up Maurice Chevalier on tape from

(Continued on page 70)

Nearly-Silent Feature Shoots at ASA, Denmark

Copenhagen, Oct. 29.

At the ASA studios in Lyngby outside Copenhagen the British Passo Verde Films Ltd. has started shooting a new crime thriller. Stepped in after John Nasht Productions wrapped up its work on "The Keeler Affair" here. Producer of the film is John Pennington and his director is Tom McGowan, known in the U.S. for work with Walt Disney Co.

Title of the feature is "The Case of the 44 Inches." The inches referred to are the chest measurement of a nude girl whose photo with the head torn off is found in the studio of a murdered photographer. The story then goes on to tell about a detective's work on the case which offers no other clues than the torn photo. The detective is played by Britain's Ian Carmichael.

All other actors in the film are Danish. The language question will not cause trouble, however, since almost the entire film is without spoken dialogue. There will, of course, be a soundtrack, with music and various sound effects. The film will be finished by the middle of December and ready for international release by February, 1964.

Bo Belinsky Warming Up For Spring Training in Vegas, Honolulu Ballpens

Las Vegas, Oct. 29.

Bo Belinsky, playboy pitching ace for the Los Angeles Angels, has been signed by producer Eddie Fox to appear in the Hank Henry show at the Silver Slipper Nov. 25 through Jan. 1.

"I haven't the slightest idea what Bo will do in the show," says Fox. "I don't even know if he can sing, dance, or tell jokes."

Belinsky will be appearing on the Strip at the same time six of the Los Angeles Dodgers (Don Drysdale, Frank Howard, Willie Davis, Tommy Davis, Ron Perranoski, Moose Skowron) will be with the Joey Bishop show at the Sands.

Host at Hutch's?

Honolulu, Oct. 29.

Bo Belinsky is due back here, presumably in mid-December, to take over as host at Hutch's Supper Club, according to Wilson Hutcheson, club op.

Belinsky, who is expected to rejoin the Los Angeles Angels in time for spring training, was farmed out to the Hawaii Islanders this past season, drawing crowds each time he started.

Jessel Toasted & Roasted At Circus Saints & Sinners' SRO Waldorf-Astoria Lunch

George Jessel drew some 1,200 into the Waldorf-Astoria's grand ballroom last week as "fall guy" of the Circus Saints & Sinners and made for one of the brighter luncheons. Walter Kiernan, now in the late Tex O'Rourke's summing-up spot on the guest of honor, was brilliant in his closeup of the "Jewish Valentino, the cover boy of the Kinsey report" and kindred cracks, most of them having to do with the comedian's penchant for pretty girls.

Groucho Marx hopped onstage from the audience to lend his postscript of affection for the undisputed "king of the comedians"

(Continued on page 70)

10/30

VARIETY

Subscription Order Form

Enclosed find check for $.....

Please send VARIETY for ☐ One Year ☐ Two Years ☐ Three Years

To .....
(Please Print Name)

Street .....

City..... Zone.... State.....

Regular Subscription Rates

One Year—$15.00 Two Years—$28.00

Three Years—$39.00

Canada and Foreign—$1 Additional Per Year

VARIETY Inc.

154 West 46th Street New York, N. Y. 10036

VARIETY

Trade Mark Registered

FOUNDED 1905 by SIME SILVERMAN; Published Weekly by VARIETY, INC.

Syd Silverman, President

154 West 46th St., New York, N. Y. 10036 JUdson 2-2700

Hollywood, Calif. 90028

6404 Sunset Boulevard, HOllywood 9-1141

Washington, D. C. 20004

734 National Press Building, STerling 3-5448

Chicago, Ill. 60611

400 No. Michigan Ave., DElaware 7-4984

London, S.W.1

46 St. James's Street, Piccadilly, HYde Park 4561-2-3

SUBSCRIPTION Annual, $15; Foreign, $16; Single Copies, 35 Cents

ABEL GREEN, Editor

Volume 232 120 Number 10

INDEX

Casting	66	Night Club Reviews	52
Chatter	69	Obituaries	71
Film Reviews	6	Pictures	3
House Reviews	61	Radio	24
Inside Pictures	18	Radio Reviews	38
Inside Music	49	Record Reviews	48
Inside Radio TV	42	Frank Scully	68
International	11	Television	24
Legitimate	62	TV Film	30
Literati	68	Television Reviews	34
Music	47	Vaudeville	52
New Acts	60	Wall Street	18

DAILY VARIETY
(Published in Hollywood by Daily Variety, Ltd.)
$20 a year. $25 Foreign.

POE MAPS WORLD EXPERTISE

Schneider, O'Brien, Zanuck Meeting In N. Y. On Malibu Super-Studio Plan

Columbia Pictures president Abe Schneider, Metro ditto Robert O'Brien and 20th-Fox prez Darryl F. Zanuck are meeting tomorrow (Thurs.) in New York on the Malibu combined studio undertaking. Surveys have been proceeding since the idea of a new, modernized and central production facility for the three majors was first proposed about a year ago.

This is not a forerunner to any merger if the proposed ultra-modernized studio facilities become fait accompli it would permit availabilities of much larger space. As has already happened, some studios of late have been compelled to go off-lot to rent facilities.

More than incidentally, of course, the present facilities of Metro in Culver City, Col in Hollywood, and 20th in Beverly Hills, could command fancy revenues from their now highly developed realty values.

As originally envisioned the new and much more expansive studio facilities would dramatize anew the revitalization of Hollywood as a production centre; a deterrent to any "runaway" filmmaking other than when overseas backgrounds are absolutely essential; perhaps lure foreign filmmakers to have that "made in Hollywood" trademark on their pictures; and presumably, of course, enlist other U.S. producers to use the Santa Monica (Malibu) super-studios.

MCA-Revue-Universal's beef-up of the U lot paved the way for the potential of new and improved facilities.

Any suggestion that 20th-Fox would become the dominant landlord, and rent to Metro or Col, is "not according to our understanding," said the president of one of the other two companies. Idea still is a triparte coownership of the new plant although 20th-Fox owns the Santa Monica land.

Late Author-Comedian
FRED ALLEN
wrote a classic on a fabled and no longer existent
Life and Death of Vaudeville
(reprinted by permission of Portland Hoffa (Mrs. Allen) from Fred Allen's memoir, MUCH ADO ABOUT ME,
published by Little Brown & Co.)
* * *
another interesting Feature in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Rutledge Exiting 20th In New Zealand, 31-Yr. Vet; Lampros Takes on Cairo

The resignations of several top 20th-Fox reps in New Zealand and of another in Egypt have just about completed 20th's major personnel arrangement abroad, it was learned in New York this week.

Eric Rutledge, managing director of 20th of New Zealand and who has been with the company 31 years, is retiring as of Friday (1). He's being succeeded by M. A. Toomey, presently manager of the Aukland branch office.

Additionally, Mike Moodabe, governing director of 20th's Amalgamated Theatres in N. Z., retired as of Sept. 1 and was succeeded by his son, Royce Moodabe. Mike Moodabe's brother Joe also has retired.

Meanwhile, in Cairo, Fathi Ibrahim, longtime head of the 20th operation in Egypt, has resigned and is being replaced by William Lampros. Latter, who takes over responsibility for 20th's United Arab Republic interests, has heretofore been in charge of 20th's tv sales in the Middle East, basing in Paris. He'll continue to base in Paris in his new post. Exec has served the company in a variety of overseas posts, including India, Egypt and Greece.

Effective in July was the resignation of vet Australian showman Ernest Turnbull as managing director of 20th's Hoyts Theatres. He was succeeded by son Dale Turnbull.

MCA Artists Presses Note Vs. Baker-Garfein Duo

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

MCA Artists Ltd. demands payment of $32,858 as amount claimed due on a promissory note in Superior Court suit against Carroll Baker and her husband, Jack Garfein.

Agency alleges that couple signed note April 23, 1963;

'Spoon River' Part of Hartford Toll Expansion

Hartford, Oct. 29.

RKO General is beefing up its feevee film format here with proposed legit and sports offerings. The U Channel 18 operation has scheduled the first videotaping of a Broadway show for subscription tv during the production's regular run. Legiter is "Spoon River," readings of poet Edgar Lee Masters as rewritten and staged by Charles Aidman.

Toll test is in second year of a three year tryout last summer experimented with the videotaping and presentation of "Wake Up Darling" which was videotaped at nearby strawhatter. Several summer tent theatre concerts have been videotaped and presented.

After some 16 months of operation, local subscription outlet has an approximate 3,400 patrons. Parlor patron attendances has been much lower than expected. Original anticipation was to have 5,000 patrons by start of 1964. Beefing up of programs is attempt to get a wider audience.

With the Broadway showcasing in the offing, reports from the West Coast indicate that RKO General is lining up a series of legit attractions from there. This refers to the Zef Bufman and Stan Seiden Cocoanut Grove Playhouse in L.A. "Tchin Tchin," currently on the boards there is to be first of 12 to go out on toll here.

In addition to legit, RKO General is going strong for sports spectaculars. Two Yale football games are on schedule as are pro basketball and hockey games from Madison Square Garden and Boston Garden. Featured will be home games of New York Rangers and Boston Bruins, pro hockey teams, and New York Knickerbockers and Boston Celtics (pro hoop teams).

NEW ITALO-AUSTRIAN FILM PACT INITIALED

Milan, Oct. 29.

A new Italian-Austrian film pact was initiated here, pending approval of respective governments.

Meetings held at Milan's MIFED center during the bi-annual trade event resulted in agreement to extend and modify the pact first signed in 1957 for "interchange and collaboration" between the two industries. Announcement by joint committee speaks of an "intensified exchange" of films as well as "promotion of coproduction ventures."

Hans Lueggemayer headed the Austrian delegation while Italy was repped at local talks by the Inspector General of the Entertainment Ministry, Annibale Scicluna-Borge.

SALES HIERARCHY NOW BUILDING

By VINCENT CANBY

Twentieth-Fox's overseas sales organization is due to get its own "21st Century" look shortly after the first of the year. At that time, what appears now to shape as a new concept in a major company's administration of its foreign operations will go into effect. The salient points:

The division of the world into three principal marketing territories, continental Europe and the Middle East, the Far East, and Latin America, each to be supervised by a division manager in Paris, Tokyo and Mexico City, respectively, plus (and this is the new angle), a homeoffice counterpart to each of these supervisors who will hold down the "European desk," the "Far Eastern desk," etc. Comparable to State Dept. or wire service organization.

Additionally, 20th's exec vice-president Seymour Poe is due to appoint—around the first of the year—a foreign manager, also to be homeofficed based and who will oversee the entire offshore sales operation as veep Joseph Sugar does the domestic sales force at home.

It's stressed that neither the homeoffice "desk" man nor the division manager in the field will necessarily have precedence, one over the other. Idea is that the division manager's communications with the h.o. will be funnelled through the desk man whose principal responsibility will be "interpreting" company policy. Desk men will be responsible to the foreign manager who, in turn will be responsible to Poe, thus relieving the latter of the burden of daily supervisory work of foreign branches which has been his lot since taking over his post 14 months ago.

Peripheral Lands

In addition to the major marketing territories mentioned above, Poe describes as "peripheral territories" the three principal English-speaking markets—the British Isles, Australia and New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa, in all of which 20th has theatre holdings. Partly as a result of the latter fact, Poe feels that these territories can be effectively overseen from New York. Thus, no field super-

(Continued on page 70)

Vet Publicist
EDWARD L. BERNAYS
in an excerpt from his upcoming memoirs, recalls a memorable show biz
Breakfast With Coolidge
* * *
another interesting Feature in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Swedes & Danes Sound Very Like TOA and Allied

Goteborg, Oct. 29.

Drastic measures are required to combat adverse economics of film theatres in the Norskland countries, per the Guild of Scandanavian Picture Theatre Owners which met here recently. Denmark seems worst threatened owing to the extremely high ticket tax burden there and the kingdom's own coddling of state-operated television.

A Goteborg exhibitor stirred more than a little emotion with his suggestion that small houses introduce a service of sausages and other edibles, install slot machines and augment features with striptease short subjects. Anything to draw the young trade. In brief, cater to hunger, thirst, comfort and romance in the auditorium and don't rely upon merely announcing and unspooling the main attraction on the screen.

Actually, the police regulations of the Kingdom of Sweden do not permit such "American" touches.

Sports Packages Believed Wrapping For Par's Telemeter In Toronto

Telemeter, Paramount's tollvision experiment that has been clicking this season via the presentation of National Hockey League games in Toronto theatres, is on the verge of another major deal. Details aren't available but it is believed there have been dickers by Telemeter for hefty package. What is holding things up at present is the development last week of a snag in the talks, a problem which may or may not queer the deal.

Speculation about Telemeter's future plans centres mainly on National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle's statement last week to the effect that the way may soon be open for theatre televising of NFL games. With football on the steady rise toward being the nation's number one sports attraction, Rozelle's comments came as a welcome note to theatre tv advocates whose main problem to date has been the availability of programming sufficient to induce theatre owners to sign on.

Telemeter's success with hockey in Toronto is indicative of what football could mean in the U.S., only on a much larger scale. In cities like Toronto and Montreal, hockey tickets are handed down through family trees like the most precious of items. A causal buyer can't get tickets to a game because there are none available. In recent years, it has been getting that way with football, particularly in NFL hometeam towns. It is felt by many that the big draw of the game will always be to the ballpark first and the theatre second so field operators needn't sweat the competition.

By the same token, it is pointed out that teams would be gaining a hefty potential extra gate via theatre tv sales. The eagerness of fans to see a game no matter what and on considerably smaller than theatre-size screens is evidenced in New York where buffs travel several miles to Connecticut and elsewhere and pay big motel room rates just to catch Giant games blacked out in their area and to which they can't get Yankee Stadium tickets of the SRO situation with most home games.

It's not being projected whether the NFL is Telemeter's goal in current talks but this is running ahead of most thoughts. Neither Telemeter nor Paramount is talking, either, until present snags are unsnarled. There is something in the wind, however, it's acknowledged.

Also with a stake in Rozelle's remarks is Nate Halpern's Theatre Network Television company. At the time of the commissioner's comments last week, Halpern issued a statement commending Rozelle on his thinking. He noted that the commissioner and other NFL execs have seen TNT's Eidophor projector, which is now developed in color as well as black-and-white, and that he has held several meetings with the NFL and its member club owners about it.

Foreman's 'Victors' a Frisco Fest Fillip But Lose Critics To 'Mad World' In L. A.

By JIM ESTES

San Francisco, Oct. 29.

With customary panoply and social fanfare, the Seventh San Francisco International Film Festival opens at the Metro Theatre here Wed. (30) night. This time there is special prestige for the opener is Carl Foreman's "The Victors" (Columbia) entered out of competition. Foreman and two of his male stars, George Peppard and George Hamilton, are expected. Possibly German star, Romy Schneider, if she can make it back up from Hollywood, where she is newly arrived as a Columbia contractee.

Foreman's entry is a bonus for Festival director Irving M. Levin. It's the first major Hollywood attraction entered since Jerry Wald's "Beloved Infidel" in 1959.

This year's festival deficit, the result of a cut in municipality subsidy, has been made up by Columbia Pictures' gift of $10,000.

Russian entry has now been named as "Optimistic Tragedy." It will be shown Nov. 9, and its stars, Vyatcheslav Tikhonov and Margarita Volodina, will be present.

Sergei Mikhalkov, a Festival juror, and film critic Philip Yermash, will also be part of the Soviet delegation.

Jurors for the fete include novelist Eugene Burdick who is a U. of California professor; Mexican actor-director Emilio Fernandez, and Flores Ammannati, Italian cinema authority.

Film expected to stir up the most excitement (it's already arousing much interest) is Denmark's "Weekend," which plays Friday (1). "Weekend," produced by Bent Christensen, was awarded a Danish Bodil (Oscar), then banned by French and Finnish censors, and later withdrawn from the Berlin and Cannes Festivals.

Festival will have to do without the four top Bay Area film critics for most of the weekend that follows the opening. They're all for Hollywood to see the first Cinerama comedy, "Mad World." Second-stringers will be filling in on local Festival assignments, but the first-stringers already have seen some of the entries in advance screenings.

Delegates or delegations from Denmark, Finland, India, Japan, Korea, Mexico, the Philippines, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia are expected, and considerable entertaining for and by them is on the calendar.

A civic reception is to follow the opening-night feature presentation, and Levin plans two sit-down dinner parties for all hands—one Nov. 1 and Nov. 9.

Other parties include a picnic and winery barbecue Saturday and World Trade Assn., dinner Nov. 6 and a cocktail party Nov. 7 hosted by the Indian Consul General, P. N. Menon.

Awards will be disclosed on Nov. 12, the closing night of the Festival. (Japan's entry, "Being Two Isn't Easy," showing that night, will be advance-screened for the jurors.)

DAVE RAPHEL'S LAURELS RATE HIM A N. Y. TRIP

David Raphel, 20th-Fox sales supervisor for continental Europe and the Middle East who headquarters in Paris, is coming into the New York homeoffice for a four-to-six-week stay at the end of November.

For Raphael, who is credited by exec veep Seymour Poe for much of the success in selling "Longest Day" and "Cleopatra" in Europe, this will be the first extended h.o. visit since prez Darryl F. Zanuck's team took control of the company 15 months ago. Exec will spend the time learning new h.o. procedures, sales plans, previewing new product and upcoming production plans.

Hemisphere of Manila Lines Up Pair

Jock Mahoney Action Films Go Via Lippert And 20th-Fox

Hemisphere Films, Philippines-based indie production company headed by Kane Lynn and producer-director Eddie Romero, has firmed a deal with Lippert Pictures to make Hemisphere's upcoming "Amok," Jock Mahoney actioner, for Lippert an 20th-Fox worldwide release. Pic rolls in the Philippines Nov. 15 and is due to wind Dec. 15.

Additionally, Hemisphere has signed Mahoney to star in a second pic, "Walls of Hell," due to be shot back-to-back with "Amok" starting in December. No distrib outlet is yet set for the second. "Amok" deals with the tracking down of a Moslem fanatic in Mindanao, where the term "to go amok" was coined to describe the bloody religious frenzies occasionally indulged in by sect of Moslems on the southern Philippine island.

"Walls of Hell" is a World War II actioner about the freeing of a small group of Allied soldiers held prisoner by the Japanese in Manila's labyrinthian walled city (Intramurras), during the U. S. liberation campaign. It will be filmed on the actual location.

Deal with Lippert and 20th marks the first time that the burgeoning Hemisphere has made a preproduction agreement with a stateside distrib. Hemisphere currently is releasing on its own in the States the company's most recent actioner, "Raiders of Leyte Gulf," which is getting nice second feature play by the circuits. Lynn functions as exec producer with Romero supplying the writing, and directing. Former, who divides his time between the New York and Manila offices, returns to the Philippines in the next week or so.

700 Prints of 'The Prize'

Metro has ordered 700 prints for "The Prize," largest such order the company has had in years.

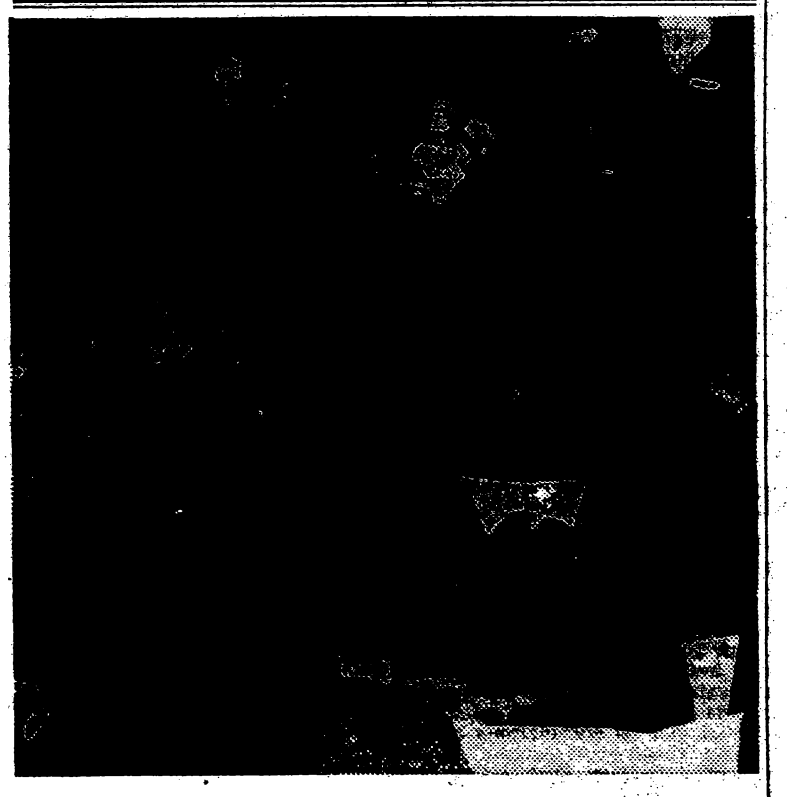
Company is angling for mass exposure across the country Christmas and New Year's, already has set 800 bookings. Produced by Pandro S. Berman, "Prize" has Paul Newman and Edward G. Robinson in the leads.

Filmways Mulls Own Distribution

Now it's Filmways which is contemplating entering stateside distribution on its own. The indie feature film and television production company is reportedly considering such a move with the completion of its film version of Evelyn Waugh's crematory comedy, "The Loved One," which Tony ("Tom Jones") Richardson will direct for Filmways next summer.

Heretofore, Filmways has distributed exclusively through the majors — principally Metro. As Filmways production chief (and board chairman) Martin Ransohoff envisions it, Filmways would handle the domestic sales and Metro the overseas sales.

Earlier this summer, Seven Arts, perhaps the most active of the indie producer-packagers, entered stateside distribution with its British-made "The Small World of Sammy Lee." Seven Arts' big pix, however, continue to go through the major companies, with most going via Metro with which 7A has a 20-pic deal.



Another TWA exclusive: movies in flight, coast to coast

A first-run movie theatre that flies six hundred miles an hour! That's your non-stop TWA jet between New York and Los Angeles or San Francisco. You've got a lightweight headset with an individual volume control; you can adjust the sound as you like it. Different movies, by Inflight Motion Pictures, Inc., are shown on eastbound and westbound flights; you'll see another picture on your return flight. Other features of TWA's Royal Ambassador First Class service include cocktails, fine wines, gourmet meals. For reservations call Trans World Airlines or your travel agent.

Nationwide Worldwide depend on TWA

ALDRICH READYING 8, AND ONE FOR TV

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

A program of eight features and one tv series, costing a total of about $14,000,000 for the next two years, was outlined here Monday (28) by producer-director Robert Aldrich of The Associates and Aldrich Co.

According to Aldrich, cost of purchase and preparation of the projects will be carried by his indie firm from fees and profits on its previous pictures, the most recent to go into release being "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?" He is currently headquartering at Warners, but will not be tied exclusively to one studio.

Because there is a shortage of financing for off-beat pix, Aldrich says that it's up to producers themselves "to gamble by cross-collateralizing with their successful pictures, as well as reinvesting profits and fees, which we are doing." He thinks government subsidies and pay-tv pay may be two answers to current financing problems.

First pic to go into production under his new program will be either "Cross of Iron," based on a BBC teleplay by Lukas Heller, or "What Ever Happened to Cousin Charlotte," an original by Henry Farrell who did "Baby Jane."

N.Y. to L.A.

Robert S. Benjamin
Vincent Canby
Roland Gammon
Ralph Edwards
Fred Goldberg
Bernard M. Kamber
Arthur Krim
Mori Krushen
George Jessel
Robert Lantz
Lloyd Leipzig
Groucho Marx
Arnold Picker
Dave Picker
Eugene Picker
Sol A. Schwartz
Gabe Sumner
Monique van Vooren
James Velde
Bobby Vinton

L.A. to N.Y.

Morey Amsterdam
Bill Asher
Charles Boasberg
Bill Belasco
Hugh Benson
Herschel Bernardi
Ben Brady
Geraldine Brooks
Frank Cooper
Arlene Dahl
Delmer Daves
Bullets Durgom
L. Wolfe Gilbert
Derek Glynne
Deke Hayward
Herbert Jellinek
Candy Johnson
Eugene V. Klein
Joshua Logan
Hal March
Jack Martin
Jimmy McHugh
Pat McDermott
Cliff Robertson

Europe to U. S.

Julie Andrews
Enid Bagnold
Charles Berman
Ernest Betts
Samuel Bronston
Bryan Buckingham
Douglas Campbell
J. P. Donleavy
Patricia Gilbert
Penelope Gilliatt
Hans Hoehn
Larry Joachim
Robin Joachim
David Lewin
Paul Maslansky
Morty Morton
Robert Rossen
Walter Seltzer
Tony Walton
Darryl F. Zanuck
Donald Zec

U.S. to Europe

Ralph Andrews
Samuel Z. Arkoff
Alexander H. Cohen
Donald LaBadie
Sidney Michaels
James H. Nicholson
Albert Parisot
Ernest Pintoff
Col. A. Podhajsky
Richard Rodgers
Mike Stern
Lee Tracy
Fritz Weaver
Bill Yagemann

Press Guests on Whopper Flight

[To See 'Mad World']

United Artists, which has been associated in the past with a number of mass airlifts in connection with premieres, notably the big hop to Germany for "Judgment at Nuremberg," may be setting a new statistic with this week's Hollywood junket for Stanley Kramer's "Mad, Mad etc. World." The press delegation, along with the special invitations to video and radio figures (see separate story) calls for a formidable logistics. A great many people must be flown from and to a variety of departure points. They must be housed, fed, escorted, watched over and (probably) doctored during the four days of custodial responsibility.

The junket itself is a final grand gesture and oratorio for Cinerama's first comedy. It comes in the wake of an intensive United Artists field exploitation campaign all over the United States. In addition to the names listed by VARIETY, to convey the scope of the dramatis personnae of such a super-junket, add various newspapermen and UA officials due in from Argentina, Belgium, Brazil, Great Britain, Chile, Colombia, Denmark, France, Germany, Holland, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Peru, Spaing Sweden, Switzerland, Uruguay.

The list below has a certain historic import in that it is a kind of who's who invited to such a transcontinental press junket in late 1963. Some individuals will proceed directly, on passage supplied by UA. Majority will board charter flights from New York or Chicago, whichever is handier.

Guests preponderantly are film critics and amusement editors, but managing editors, city editors, feature writers, syndicated columnists will be recognized. Here is the passenger list, in part, to Hollywood:

Edgar Van Olinda, Albany Times Union.
Sam Lucchese, Atlanta Journal.
Mrs. Marjory Rutherford, Atlanta Constitution.
John Bustin, Austin American Statesman.
Emmett Weaver, Birmingham Post Herald.
Miss Lily Mae Caldwell, Birmingham News.
Peggy Doyle, Boston Record American.
Alta Maloney, Boston Traveler.
Marjory Adams, Boston Globe.
Sam Bornstein, Boston Sunday Advertiser.
Bill Barney, Buffalo Courier Express.
Barbara Ashford, Buffalo Evening News.
Emery Wister, Charlotte News.
Sam Lesner, Chicago Daily News.
Elinor Keen, Chicago Sun-Times.
Ann Marsters, Chicago American.
Richard Hainey, Chicago American.
Dale Stevens, Post Times Star.
E. B. Radcliffe, Cincy Enquirer.
Ward Marsh, Cleveland Plain Dealer.
Tony Mastroianni, Cleveland Press.
Samuel Wilson, Columbus Dispatch.
Ron Pataky, Columbus Citizen Journal.
Don Safran, Columbus Times Herald.
Larry Tajiri, Denver Post.
Frances Melrose, Denver Rocky Mt. News.
Louis Cook, Detroit Free Press.
Al Weitschat, Detroit News.
Bob Freund, Ft. Lauderdale News.
Elston Brooks, Ft. Worth Star Telegram.
Jack Gordon, Ft. Worth Press.
Allen Widem, Hartford Times.
Viggo Anderson, Hartford Courant.
Paul Hochuli, Houston Press.
George Christian, Houston Post.
Mildred Stockard, Houston Chronicle.
Walter Spencer, Indianapolis Times.
Connie Richards, Memphis Commercial Appeal.
Bill Waters, Miami News.
George Bourke, Miami Herald.
Sydney Johnson, Montreal Star.
Gilles Marcotte, Montreal La Presse.
Jean Thomas, Montreal Le Petit Journal.
Bob Battle, Nashville Banner.
Harry Haun, Nashville Tennesseean.
Leo Mishkin, N.Y. Morning Telegraph.
Herbert Beyea, Pres. Hearst Advt. Ser.
Earl Wilson, N.Y. Post.
Margaret McManus, McNaught Synd.
Herb Kamm, N.Y. World Telegram & Sun.
Alton Cook, N.Y. World Telegram & Sun.
Louis Sobol, N.Y. Journal American.
Bill Slocum, Hearst Synd.
Leonard Lyons, N.Y. Post.
Nick Lapole, N.Y. Journal American.
Hy Gardner, N.Y. Herald Tribune.
Sheilah Graham, Hearst Synd.
Irving Lester, Hearst Advt. Ser.
Don Mersereau, Boxoffice.
Jess Stern, Newhouse Synd.
Bert Bacharach, King Features Synd.
William A. Raidy, Long Island Press.
Frank Farrell, N.Y. World Telegram & Sun.
Mel Heimer, King Features Synd.
Radie Harris, Newsday.
Jesse Zunser, Cue.
Hollis Alpert, Saturday Review.
Evelyn Merrin, Time.
Karl Galda, United Airlines.
Jim Kennedy, United Airlines.
Mel Konecoff, Motion Pict. Exhib.
Buddy Young, United Artists.
Mike Beck, Stanley Kramer Office.
Warner Twyford, Norfolk Virginian Pilot.
Herb Michelson, Norfolk Tribune.
Denny Keuntze Jr., Omaha World Herald.
Gordon Stoneham, Ottawa Citizen.
Al Rubin, Philly News.
Jerry Gaghan, Philly News
Barbara Wilson, Philly Inquirer.
Miss Bobbie Johnston, Phoenix Ariz. Journal.
Larry Rummel, Phoenix Gazette.
Lee McInerney, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.
Harold V. Cohen, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.
Kay Menahan, Pittsburgh Press.
Bill Trosene, Pittsburgh Press.
Arnold Marks, Portland Oregon Journal.
Bob Walters, Portland Oregonian.
Alton Williams, Richmond News Leader.
Hamilton B. Allen, Rochester Times Union.
Miss Jean Walrath, Rochester Democrat & Chron.
Paul Tredway, St. Louis Globe Democrat.
Bob Hannon, St. Louis Post Dispatch.
Myles Standish, St. Louis Post Dispatch.
Frank Hunter, St. Louis Globe Democrat.
Howard Pearson, Salt Lake Desert News.
Robert Halliday, Salt Lake Tribune.
Gerald Ashford, San Antonio News & Express.
James Meade, San Diego Union.
David McIntyre, San Diego Tribune.
Paine Knickerbocker, Frisco Chronicle.
Stanley Eichelbaum, Frisco Examiner.
Paul Speegle, Frisco News-Call-Bulletin.
John Voorhees, Seattle Post Intelligencer.
Louis Guzzo, Seattle Times.
John Gordon, Springfield Republican.
Sam Hoffman, Springfield Daily News.
Miss Nevart Apikian, Syracuse Post Standard.
Joan Vadeboncoeur, Syracuse Herald Journal.
Ray Oviatt, Toledo Blade.
Gerald Pratley, CBC.
Peter Kelly, CBC.
Russ Heis, CBC.
Graham Woods, (Cameraman), CBC.
Morris Duff, Toronto Daily Star.
Clyde Gilmour, Toronto Telegram.
Frank Johnson, Tucson Ariz. Daily Star.
Mike Tytherleigh, Vancouver Province.
Les Wedman, Vancouver Sun.
James O'Neill, Washington Daily News.
Ken Winters, Winnipeg Free Press.
Buck Buchwach, Honolulu Advertiser.
Ed Sherman, Honolulu Advertiser.

Air Personalities On 'Mad' Junket

United Artists assembled one of the largest junkets ever for the Hollywood premiere of the Cinerama comedy, "It's A Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." The New York party alone numbered 272, inclusive of UA executive echelon led by Arthur B. Krim, Robert S. Benjamin, Arnold Picker, Eugene Picker, David Picker, James R. Velde, Fred Goldberg, Mori Krushen, Gabe Sumner, Eric R. Pleskow, Buddy Young, John Leo, Mike Hunter, Dave Chasman, Al Fisher, Joe Ende, Al Katz.

Junketeers will be in the film colony from Oct. 31 to Nov. 4. In addition to the screening, the parties, the whole rigamarole of exploitation, including the Jerry Lewis television program presenting a stageful of comics from the picture, there are the unique aspects of (a) the new Cinerama Theatre to house the picture; (b) a new one-camera refinement of the system itself.

One offbeat aspect of the junket is the mustering of some 22 television and radio program personages, most of them masters or mistresses of their own broadcasts. These are:

Roger Marx, WSB-TV, Atlanta.
David Klenk, WKRC-TV, Cincy.
Mrs. Bobbie Wygant, WBAP-TV, Dallas.
Max Goldberg, KLZ-TV, Denver.
Miss Carol Duvall, WWJ-TV, Detroit.
Bob McLean, CHCH-TV, Hamilton.
Miss Waldo Norris, WFGA-TV, Jacksonville.
John Bilyew, KMBC-TV, Kansas City.
Molly Turner, WBBW-TV, Miami.
Susanne Gilbert, CFTM-TV, Montreal.
Mrs. Jan Carr, WDSU-TV, New Orleans.
Rex Morgan, WFIL-TV, Philly.
Miss Jean Connelly, WTAE-TV, Pittsburgh.
Marty Pasetta, KGO-TV, Frisco.
Bill Corcoran, KING-TV, Seattle.
Mark Evans, WTTG-TV, Wash. D. C.
Barry Gray, WMCA-Radio, N. Y.
Fred Robbins, WNEW-Radio, N. Y.
Charlotte Peters, KSD-TV, St. Louis.
Peter Kelly, CBC, Toronto.
Russ Heis, CBC, Toronto.
Graham Woods, CBC, Toronto.

An Armenian Ballet To Tour Soviet; Inspired By 'West Side Story'

Leningrad, Oct. 29.

According to an Armenian newspaper the United Artists feature "West Side Story" has inspired a ballet given in the State Theatre of Yerevan, the capital of the Soviet Republic of Armenia. It's described as a "very big success."

"West Side Story" was shown during the Moscow Film Festival in April and Soviet audiences reacted with enthusiasm. Ballet is soon going to be performed all over the Soviet Union. There is no information as to whether the choreography of Jerome Robbins has been "borrowed."

KEY TO SEMENENKO 'MYSTERY'

'Charities Still Got It'—Baird

David Baird, according to a spokesman, has donated over $36,000,000 over the years to various charities via his foundations, some of these being by way of revolving funds and others as straight donations.

The spokesman said that all of his loans and all of his transactions were for the benefit of the foundations and no loan ever was in default.

The son of a lawyer, Baird started out as an insurance broker and later segued into stock brokerage. He founded the first of the foundations in 1936.

Audit of Baird Foundations; 'Just Begun to Scratch Surface'

Washington, Oct. 29.

Congressional investigators said they have "just begun to scratch the surface" with their disclosures of multi-million dollar film and television deals by three tax-exempt "charitable" foundations.

The next step in the probe into the labyrinth show business dealings is an audit of the books of the three foundations run by New York stock broker David Baird.

Sources said the basis of their first voluminous report on the foundations was from information supplied to them by Baird.

Now the investigators, headed by Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) plan to have the General Accounting Office audit the pile of records and financial statements of the foundation.

Committee aides said the figures already released may be deceptive in that they show only the debt and credit holdings at the end of particular years. The normal practice for businesses, they said, is to clear as many debts as possible by year's end.

An audit, showing month by month holdings and transactions, might reveal a substantially different picture of the foundations' involvement in film and television financing they said.

Besides the audit of the Baird records, Patman's probers are off on another investigation of the role of all foundations in the stock markets.

The investigation will center largely on the foundations' stock market dealings in the six months prior to the 1962 crash.

This report is expected to be released by the end of this year.

JAMES L. LIMBACHER who knows fully about the subject dwells on why they are the most Forever Faithful Film Fans
* * *
another interesting Feature in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Baird Involvement With Late Louis B. Mayer And Spyros Skouras

Washington, Oct. 29.

Louis B. Mayer and Spyros Skouras were two major film executives spotlighted by Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) in their dealings with the Baird foundations.

New York stock broker and owner of three foundations told Patman he had business dealings with Mayer. Cited as an example was Baird's investment in Cinerama Productions Corp. when Mayer was chairman of the company.

Over a three year span Mayer contributed $200,000 to the Lansing Foundation. In 1957, Cinerama donated $67,000 to the Winfield Baird Foundation, Patman said.

According to Patman, Skouras was in debt to the Winfield Baird Foundation by $54,000 at the end of 1962.

Patman said the foundations' records "indicate the foundations have engaged in securities transactions for the account of Mr. Skouras."

He didn't elaborate.

And Nolan Makes Six

L. Douglas Nolan, veep and secretary-treasurer of Filmways, has been elected to the company's board. His election brings the number of Filmways directors to six.

Nolan joined the company in 1957 as controller.

TV License Price For Paramout 200: Around $60-Mil

In perhaps one of the most significant analyses of a theatrical feature library for television licensing, Paramount has come up with an evaluation of its own post-1948 backlog.

There have been no public statements about the matter. But it's known that Par figures its 200 back-number theatrical productions, at the going market rate, ought to gross $60,000,000. That's at the rate of $300,000 per copy.

Par, of course, is striking an average. Some of this corporation's product of the fifties was short of impressive. Other pictures Par feels, are strictly prime-time merchandise.

The important thing is that Par figures on that aforementioned $60,000,000 gross and wants its share as based upon such a figure, following the distribution cost deductions.

Meanwhile Par is still weighing the various angle, such as tax if the company decides to handle the pictures on its own, and the capital gains if an outsider is brought in.

PLOQUIN SUES IFD

Charge Pact Breach Over 1958 French Pic

Les Films Raoul Ploquin of Paris has filed suit in New York Supreme Court against Interworld Film Distributors charging a breach of 1961 contract under which the defendant was licensed to distribute Ploquin's "Maxime," a 1958 pic co-starring Charles Boyer and Michele Morgan. Ploquin seeks to terminate the contract and asks that Interworld be enjoined from distributing the pic after April, 1963.

Plaintiff seeks an accounting of all monies due as well as a judgment for such monies. Suit says Interworld, without Ploquin's approval, leased the pic in conjunction with other films, failed to provide monthly statements and failed to recognize plaintiff's termination-of-agreement letter sent to Interworld by registered mail in April of this year.

SAYS PATMAN: LOOK TO BAIRD

Washington, Oct. 29.

In his recent massive report on film and television financing by three tax-exempt charitable foundations, Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) pointed one of his brightest spotlights on Serge Semenenko, described as the "mystery man of the banking world."

Semenenko, with the title of vice-chairman and director of First National Bank in Boston, was at one point the second largest stockholder in Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

Among the directorships he held in 12 varied corporations, Semenenko was from 1956-62 a director and member of the Warner Bros. executive committee. But his role with the Baird foundations in garnering a large chunk of Warners' stock was only one of several excursions, financed by the foundations, into show business.

With the help of the foundations, Semenenko also dealt in holdings of the Stanley Warner Corp., Loew's Inc., Universal Pictures and Chesapeake Industries (Pathe).

This is how Patman described the dealings: The Baird-Semenenko transaction in Warner Bros. pictures began in May, 1956.

First David Baird agreed to buy 800,000 shares of Warner common stock from Harry, Albert and Jack Warner. The purchase price to be paid in three installments, was $22,000,000.

This agreement of May 8, 1956 "was not implemented" and replaced by another arrangement between Baird and Jack Warner on June 29. Jack Warner was to buy 500,000 shares from Harry and Albert Warner and sell 600,000 shares to Baird at $25 per share.

Patman said that while this transaction was signed by Baird as an individual, the foundations were the actual buyers of 252,500 shares representing 10% of War-

(Continued on page 70)

7 Arts Execs' Loan Positions With Foundations

Washington, Oct. 29.

Seven Arts Productions Ltd. was one of the film companies drawing attention in the Baird foundations' disclosures of Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.). Seven Arts prex David Stillman was personally in debt to the Winfield Baird Foundation by $7,000. Stillman, according to Patman was an exec of three other companies in debt to the tax-exempt foundations.

Moulin Productions was in debt to the foundations by $560,000 and Associated Producers Inc. tallied a $250,000 debt. Stillten Productions had a $12,500 debt to the foundations.

Louis Chesler, director of Seven Arts and two other corporations, was in debt to the Winfield Baird foundation by $600,000 at the end of 1961. In 1962, Chesler assumed debts totalling $415,000 with $1,350,000 or Seven Arts debentures serving as part of the loan collateral.

Eliot Hyman of Seven Arts ran up debts from 1956-61 totalling $410,793.

The Lansing Foundation was a debtor to Hyman for its purchases in three enterprises of Matthew Fox. From 1951-53 the foundation was in debt to Hyman by $2,165,443 for the balance of purchase price due on Telinvest Inc.

In 1953 the foundation took another debt to Hyman of $966,750 for the balance of purchase price due on acquisition of Northern TV Inc.

A year later the same type debt for Telinvest Inc. of $309,815 was assumed by the foundation to Hyman.

Matty Fox Dealings With Baird Bloc: Also Detail Reisini Relationship

Chicago Sun-Times'
JACK McPHAUL recalls
When Chicago Was a Crossroad and Glamour Converged On Dearborn Station
* * *
another Editorial Feature in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Par Stock Rises As TV Station Gets $12,000,000

Paramount sold its Los Angeles television station, KTLA, to Golden West Broadcasters for $12,000,000 this week. Latter is headed by Gene Autry. Sale must be ratified by Federal Communications Commission.

Paramount Pictures stock has been about the most active in the industry in the past couple of weeks, by last weekend nearly reaching its high for the year of 53⅛. It is supposed that the reaction is to bettered prospects for the company product. There is, more immediately, speculation that Par will have a good third quarter Sept. 30). Pictures like "Hud," "Come Blow Your Horn," "Duel of the Titans" and "Donovan's Reef" are included in the take for that period. These pix registered well.

Another factor is the upcoming product for the next eight months or so. Some due for release are possibly bullish influences, one is Elvis Presley's "Fun In Acapulco," a Thanksgiving release. Another Jerry Lewis' "Who's Minding the Store," set for Christmas release.

Also due within the next eight months are John Frankenheimer's "Seven Days in May," Joe Levine's "Carpetbaggers," "Becket" which costars Peter O'Toole and Richard Burton, Pakula-Mulligan's "Love With the Proper Stranger," "Paris When It Sizzles" which costars William Holden and Audrey Hepburn, tv comedienne Carol Burnette's film debut "Who's Been Sleeping in My Bed?" costarring with Dean Martin and others like Samuel Bronston's "Circus World."

Par's investment in Neil Simon's legit comedy "Barefoot in the Park," is also vindicated via a boff Broadway hit. The company has a minimum of $160,000 invested in the production but this can be extended to a maximum of $460,000, according to pact provisos. Par will make the film adaptation of "Barefoot" in 1965.

PHIL FRIED'S BROKEN SPINE

Family Smashup—Wife Improves —Baby Killed Outright

Indie film publicist Phil Fried and his wife Vicki reportedly are resting comfortably now at the United Hospital, Port Chester, N.Y., following an automobile accident Oct. 18 in which their four-month-old daughter, Karen, was killed. Their 16-month-old son Eric escaped serious injury in the smashup on the Hutchinson River Parkway.

Fried suffered a broken spine while his wife received multiple fractures of the skull. On the critical list for the first several days, Mrs. Fried is now out of danger.

Washington, Oct. 29.

Wide ranging transactions with Matthew Fox and his enterprises were disclosed by Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) in his report on the film-television activities of three tax-exempt Baird foundations.

Fox's corporate debts to the foundations were listed at $5,417,164. These were assumed through corporations he headed as president.

The enterprises listed as carrying the debts were C & C International Films, C & C Pan Atlantic Films, Flamingo Films (Central and Western Divisions) Northern Television Corp. and Reynard International.

Fox's corporate credits to the foundations totalled $306,550.

His personal debts to the foundations were $5,000 from 1952-56; another $5,000 from 1957-61 and $19,100 in 1959.

Patman also revealed Fox's role in paying off a $150,000 debt of Nicholas Reisini to the foundations.

Reisini incurred the debt to the Winfield Baird Foundation at the end of 1955. In November, 1956, Fox sent the foundation a personal check of Reisini for $200,000 to the foundation with a covering letter.

Fox wrote the foundation that Boston banker Serge Semenenko originally agreed to initial a note of Reisini's for the $200,000. Semenenko, however, couldn't acquire the note and it was suggested the $200,000 be paid by personal check.

In addition to Reisini's check and Semenenko's guarantee, Fox wrote the foundation he would add his own guarantee by assigning the foundation "all of the proceeds" of "365 Minutes of Prayer," from all countries other than the U. S.

Additionally, Fox wrote, the MPTV Corp. would compensate the foundation for advancing the $200,000 pending the cashing of Reisini's check. This would be done by MPTV giving a perpetual interest of ¼ of 1% of the "gross proceeds" if the check was made good on the date due, Dec. 7, 1956.

Each Day's Delay

For each day beyond the date due, that the check couldn't be cashed, MPTV would increase the

(Continued on page 70)

Atlas Largely Handled Baird's Transactions In Walt Disney Shares

Washington, Oct. 29.

Walt Disney Productions was one of the film companies involved in the financial dealings of three tax-exempt foundations, Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) reported.

According to Patman, the dealings of the foundation in Disney stock were transacted largely through the Atlas Corp. Stock broker David Baird, who owned and operated the three foundations, was a director of the Atlas Corp. from 1956 through 1957.

Patman gave this description of the Disney dealings by the foundations:

Winfield Baird Foundation on Dec. 20, 1956 bought 384,053 Disney shares for $8,449,166 from the Atlas Corp. This represented about 25% of Disney's shares outstanding.

Atlas was then asked to transfer the Disney stock to the name of J. & W. Seligman & Co., as collateral on a loan.

On May 14, 1957 the Baird foundations agreed to transfer to Atlas certain assets including the Disney stock. Atlas paid $8,929,232 for the Disney holdings.

A day later Atlas delivered to the foundations several financial notes and the 384,053 Disney shares which were in the name of Seligman. The stock was held by Atlas as collateral on another note.

The Disney stock was immediatelv redelivered to Atlas as part of the May 14 agreement.

The Victors

Carl Foreman's three-hour job on World War II. Expert all the way. Major boxoffice.

Columbia Pictures presentation of Highroad production, produced, directed and adapted by Carl Foreman from Alexander Baron's book, "The Human Kind." Stars Romy Schneider, Melina Mercouri, Jeanne Moreau, Rosanna Schiaffino, Elke Sommer, Eli Wallach, George Hamilton, George Peppard, Albert Finney, Maurice Ronet, Vincent Edwards. Camera, Christopher Challis; editor, Alan Osbiston. Reviewed Oct. 24, 1963 at Columbia projection room, N.Y. Running time, 175 MINS.

Trower ..... George Hamilton
Chase ..... George Peppard
Craig ..... Eli Wallach
Baker ..... Vincent Edwards
Maria ..... Rosanna Schiaffino
Grogan ..... James Mitchum
Sikh Soldier ..... Tutte Lemkow
French Lieutenant ..... Maurice Ronet
Jean-Pierre ..... Joel Flateau
French Woman ..... Jeanne Moreau
Regine ..... Romy Schneider
Eldridge ..... Michael Callan
Weaver ..... Peter Fonda
Magda ..... Melina Mercouri
Dennis ..... Mervyn Johns
Herr Metzger ..... Albert Lieven
Frau Metzger ..... Marianne Deeming
Trudi ..... Senta Berger
Helga ..... Elke Sommer
Russian Soldier ..... Albert Finney

First of all, and best of all, Carl Foreman has provided a lot of show. This is a crowded picture. Crowded with characters, incidents, change of scenery, details. Framed with a flair for panorama, a sense of our times, it has pace, shock value, point of view. The point of view is that you can hardly tell the difference in moral deterioration between victors and vanquished. Skeptical but not cynical, the film is informed by thought and redeemed by compassion. It will make a lot of money.

Having mentioned shock values these call for immediate description. There are the Dixie G.I.'s off on a "coon hunt" (their phrase) who gratuitously beat up two Negro compatriots in the war against Hitler's race hatred. The shock lies in the unsaid cowardice of a saloon full of whites who never lift a finger to protect the Negroes. Then there is the "Puppy Shoot," a contest between two battle-hardened Yanks with James Mitchum the winner. The shock lies in the gangling replacement G.I. played by Peter Fonda, a fool of a boy who tries to sleep with the squealing puppy in his overcoat amidst nerve-ragged toughs. This speaks both of the juvenility of conscripts and the brutalization of combat.

The original squad sergeant (Eli Wallach) disappears from the action about three-quarters through without explanation in the story. When his also-invalid buddy (George Peppard) hunts him out at a hospital in England he stumbles upon the ghastly truth. There is a glimpse of the sarge with his nose blown off and his face a caricature of a man. This one touch is equivalent to a thousand feet of special effects photography of bodies impaled on barbed wire and similiar stock-in-trade of war films.

Finally, and likely to create plenty of conversation, there is the shocker of a 11-year old French boy camp-follower, who wanders over to the Yanks from the Germans, a confirmed homosexual by trade. Women viewers may at first think what a darling boy, and end up shuddering at his profession. He's Joel Flateau.

Foreman tells his tale of war in terms of vignettes, concentrating on homesickness, woman-hunger, civilian starvation, the "nice" girls who shack up with the G.I. smoothies for food, cigarettes and kicks. One of these, a pretty, no-talent fiddler in a dive, is played by Romy Schneider. Her indifference to the decent soldier (George Hamilton) and ultimate bumming around with the slicker is underplayed, but it's part of the mosaic of the decent G.I.'s own ultimate hardening. He is seen at the very end of the film after sleeping half the night with his German girl, while her gift-bribed parents look the other way. Wandering out into the Berlin rubble Hamilton accidentally encounters a tipsy Russian soldier played by Albert Finney. It is the supreme comment on the pointless slaughter incident to war's acute angles that the two men, total strangers, knife each other to death. The camera ends with a semi-longshot of their bodies in the midst of total destruction.

Geoffrey Drake's art direction rates high praise. The story is properly told in black and white photography. Color would have been too pretty for the underlying implications of monotony and mud. Foreman has incorporated a lot of newsreel footage. He has designed his narrative with great filmmaking skill and considerable daring, recalling the early 1940s both for nostalgia and irony. He and editor Alan Osbiston have not hesitated to jump from human tragedy to human idiocy, in order to point the connection. There is one of those U.S. theatre "Merry Christmas" lantern slides at one point and the let's-all-sing-to-the-bouncing-ball bit.

In general Foreman has had the wisdom to underplay his scenes, leave many an incident without the sequel which seems, but is not, mandatory. There may be divided opinion on some bits. The execution of the G.I. deserter in a snowy perspective is pictorially compelling (shot in Sweden) but it seems a dubious moment to feature one of Sol Kaplan's special songs. Admitting the artistic try for monumental irony, the lyrics have the unfortunate effect of drawing attention to themselves and away from the youth about to lose his life. Still, that could probably he argued either way. The Tin Pan Alley words are sufficiently dehumanizing. Which is the message of that scene.

While "The Victors" selection of varying emphases it notably original there are some trite scenes familiar from earlier war films. Melina Mercouri is the queen of the Belgian black market, proprietor of off-limit establishments, cynic and sensualist. Her affair with the G.I. Joe (Peppard) may be the one "contrived" bit of hokum in an otherwise admirably realistic accomplishment.

Foreman in his alter ego as adaptor has taken his story from an English writer, Alexander Baron, to whom all proper honor. There will be a plausible temptation to call this a director's picture, which it is, but all is made possible in the end by a good script. Which is not to deny the fine job of editing already mentioned. In such a kaleidoscopic film there is perhaps an obligation to nod to the party in charge of continuity, Joan Davis. Finally, there are the photography (Christopher Challis, Austin Dempster) the sound (Buster Ambler) and the music (Kaplan) credits. All thoroughly pro.

The large cast needs carefull sifting in a film just short of three hours in running time. Vincent Edwards of the tv "Ben Casey" series comes early in the story, during the Sicilian episode. He's a good-hearted soldier who very much loves his wife back home and very much wants Rosanno Schiaffino who loves her absent husband and wants the American, too. It's a scene of considerable tenderness. But afterward the viewer sees naught of Edwards.

This Sicilian vignette, flesh crying out to flesh, is illuminated by a Sikh soldier (Tutte Lemkow) from whom the superstitious villagers flee in terror of his supposed "evil eye." The Sikh is a fine fellow, a little drunk, also homesick. He wants nothing but to hold the Italian girl's baby for a moment. Foreman may be the first director ever to cast a soldier from India in a western war film, but he missed a bet in overlooking the Brazilian division in Italy at the time. However, he has been at pains to credit and include the British, the Canadians, the French and the Russians. If the story is told from the American G.I. focus, it seems probable that our late Allies cannot object.

Nor are these G.I.'s knightly. They are dog-tired, irritable, prone to loot, sometimes undisciplined, quick to raid wine cellars. Eli Wallach is later replaced as sergeant by George Hamilton. These two men have the maximum exposure in the film. Wallach is long established as an actor, Hamilton rather newer to the screen and this seems his top performance to date. To Wallach falls one of the most human interludes. He is scouting a French villa for future company headquarters when, during the night, the bombardment renews. The widow, played with convincing delineation by Jeanne Moreau, is clearly upper class, an esthete and lover of poetry, everything the tough American is not. He is sleeping during the gunfire and awakens to find her cowering in a corner. Her sheer need for human comfort and warmth leads her into his bed, a scene which never suggests lust for a second. It is another of Foreman's shining episodes.

A number of players will enhance their careers through "The Victors". Hamilton for one. George Peppard for another. Michael Callan, as the corrupt, swaggering, smooth G.I., also makes an impression. So do two German actresses, Senta Berger (with a Russian sweetie) and Elke Sommer (with a Yank), a couple of sisters both peddling sex for food and gifts, but the one consorting with the Russians is looked down upon.

Peter Fonda is standout as the exasperatingly juvenile newcomer to the squad, a lover of dogs because he cannot relate well to humans. The bit will tug lots of good old dog-loving American hearts. Maurice Ronet has an arresting vignette as a scar-face, one-eyed French lieutenant who takes over from the G.I. squad and exterminates a pillbox full of Germans. The Yanks would have accepted their white flag surrender. The Frenchman lusts only for death of Germans.

"The Victors" is being cannily introduced by Columbia. It shows tonight (Wed.) at the San Francisco Film Festival. Later it will open on grind at the Criterion with a companion date on N.Y.'s east side. It is hard to imagine it doing other than smash business.

Land.

Trauma

Low budget indie for lower berth. Ineptly made psychological murder mystery.

Hollywood, Oct. 22.

Parade release of Joseph Cranston production. Stars John Conte, Lynn Bari, David Garner; introduces Lorrie Richards. Directed and screenplay by Robert Malcolm Young; camera, Jacques Marquette; editor, Hal Dennis; music, Buddy Collette; asst. director, Willis Oborn. Reviewed at Joe Shore's screening room, Oct. 22, '63. Running time, 93 MINS.

Clyner ..... John Conte
Helen ..... Lynn Bari
Craig ..... David Garner
Luther ..... Warren Kemmerling
Emilyne ..... Lorrie Richards
Robert ..... Bond Blackman
Hall ..... William Bissell
Carla ..... Renee Mason
FBI Man ..... LeRoy Lennert
Gas Station Attendant ..... Robert Totten
Policeman ..... Alfred Chafe
Maid ..... Ruby Borner

The maiden effort of Artists XVI Productions, a small indie outfit, "Trauma" is said to have been brought in for $69,000. No one who views it is apt to dispute that claim. Parade release, produced by Joseph Cranston will suffice, though overlong, as a running mate with attractions aimed at audiences less inclined to grumble over mediocrity. It will get by, for example, as the supporting half of a multiple-run exploitation doubleheader.

The psychological melodrama was written and directed by Robert Malcolm Young. It is concerned with the problem of a young lady who witnesses a murder, loses her memory as a result of the traumatic incident, and comes out of her six-year spell of amnesia just as she is on the verge of becoming another victim of the murderer.

Young has written the kind of psychologically involved, introspective yarn that is more than he could handle directorially at the $69,000 plateau. Filming at that level can, indeed, be a traumatic experience. The story is fuzzy, motivations are dubious, dialog is stilted, and direction is choppy and not always sufficiently resourceful. Complicating matters is Jacques Marquette's photography which, at least on the print witnessed, is far too dark for proper visual definition. Other technical credits are generally adequate.

The acting is not too impressive, although pretty Lorrie Richards, who makes her screen bow as the amnesiac, shows promise. John Conte is rather stiff in a confusing role. Lynn Bari overemotes a bit in her brief assignment as the murderer's victim. Others of prominence are David Garner and Warren Kemmerling.

Tube.

L'Assassin Connait La Musique

(The Murderer Knows the Score)
(FRENCH)

Paris, Oct. 29.

Gaumont release of Hoche, General production. Stars Maria Schell, Paul Meurisse; features Sylvie Breal, Claude Mann, Christa Lang. Directed by Pierre Chenal. Screenplay, Fred Kassak, Chenal from book by Kassak; camera, Marc Fossard; editor, Madeleine Bibollet. At Ermitage, Paris. Running time, 80 MINS.

Agnes ..... Maria Schell
Lionel ..... Paul Meurisse
Marie-Josee ..... Sylvie Breal
Francis ..... Claude Mann
Christian ..... Christa Lang

Laborious would-be comedy of murder lacks the right sprightly playing, taste, wit and timing to bring it off. What remains is a fairly plodding, telegraphed affair that could have some dualer use on the Maria Schell name abroad, but which may find it hardgoing in arty spots.

Miss Schell, never noted for underplaying, here trouts out too many giggles and mannerisms that finally destroy her portrayal of a muddled divercee. She is used by a frantic composer who needs her house in the country to finish a symphony.

Paul Meurisse also overdoes the composer role with its dandyish, sometimes sinister aspects detracting from his first accidental murder.

Director Pierre Chenal has permitted a fairly good idea to go astray. Its cynicism is too blatant, its characters too stereotyped and its pace somewhat too laggard to make its satire or parody pay off. Film appears a slim bet on its own home grounds, too. It is unfortunate because the makings of a comedy in the "Kind Hearts and Coronet" manner were there, but botched.

Mosk.

Mannheim Film Fest Reviews

Legacy

Mannheim, Oct. 22.

A Counterpoint (Richard Snodgrass) production. With Jessica Thomas, Dorie Zabriskie, Rick Yearry, Michael Pflueger, Mike Snodgrass. Directed and written by Richard Snodgrass. Camera and editor, Ralph Luce; music, David Campbell. At Mannheim Film Fest. Running time, 92 MINS.

"Legacy" is the first full-length feature pic of 35-year old Richard Snodgrass, former university professor in Arizona, who reportedly has several short films to his credit. "Legacy" was shown as an official U.S. entry at this festival. Pic cost just $50,000. It took Snodgrass two and a half years to collect the money and 14 months to make the film. It's sort of a puzzle as to who would be interested in distributing this one. "Legacy" is too unconventional to appeal to average patrons and too amateurish to give it a chance with the more demanding customers. Pic looks to have it tough to get on regular programs.

Pic has an interesting general theme: Children's loneliness among adults. But both technical treatment and artistic outcome of the film are too primitive. "Legacy" has the flavor of a home production all through.

There is, however, a limited group of pix patrons (intellectuals) who give the film's topic priority if the topic is what they call important. This in fact was the case at the Mannheim festival where some intellectual reviewers lauded the film for its subject matter. (The Mannheim event is chiefly a short pic festival but the first feature pix of former short filmmakers are included on the program).

"Legacy" is composed of four episodes, all concerning juveniles.

Cast is composed of amateurs only. Several players are relatives of director Snodgrass which makes the whole thing even more amateurish and home-like production. Best that can be said about "Legacy" is that it's a well intended filmic effort. But this isn't enough to make it impressive.

Hans.

O Necem Jinem

(About Something Else)
(CZECH)

Mannheim, Oct. 22.

Czech State film production. Stars Eva Bosakova. Directed and written by Vera Chytilova. Camera, Jan Curik. At Mannheim Film Fest. Running time, 90 MINS.

This Czech full-length feature pic walked off with the Grand Prix at the just terminated Mannheim festival whose program includes the first full-length pix of former short film makers. Film seems to have deserved the prize. It's a highly interesting piece of new cinematic art. Pic looks okay for arty houses everywhere.

Film revolves around two episodes. One deals with the rigorous everyday training of Eva Bosakova, Czech gymnast and Olympic champion, at the time when she's about to give up her sports career. The other story revolves around a young housewife whose husband isn't very attentive to her. She eventually starts romancing with another man. The two women's problems are depicted in an interesting manner. Vera Chytilova, Czech woman director who has several shorts to her credit, employs both the methods of a feature as well as a documentary film.

There are several outstanding points about this. Foremost is the excellent camera work by Jan Curik, one of the best photographers in his country. Then there is the excellent direction and good acting. The latter especially applies to the two women. Eva Bosakova plays herself. She isn't even an actress.

Of the young film artists who recently have been coming to the fore in the Czech pix, Vera Chytilova ranks as one of the most gifted. Her initial full-length film spells promise for the future. Amazingly enough, although a considerable part of the film features sports (gymnast) sequences, it hardly ever becomes a bore even to the normally non-sport viewer.

Hans.

Macbeth

(TECHNICOLOR)

Kansas City, Oct. 29.

Prominent Films release of Grand Prize Films production; Sidney Kaufman, executive producer. Stars Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson; features Michael Hordern, Ian Bannen, Felix Aylmer, Malcolm Keen, Megs Jenkins, Jeremy Brett and George Rose. Produced by Phil C. Samuel, directed by George Schaefer. Technical director, Anthony Squire; camera (Technicolor), Fred A. Young; editor, Ralph Kemplen; music, Richard Addinsell, played by Sinfonia of London, conducted by Muir Mathieson. Reviewed at Rockhill Theatre, Kansas City, Oct. 20, '63. Running time, 107 MINS.

Macbeth ..... Maurice Evans
Lady Macbeth ..... Judith Anderson
Banquo ..... Michael Hordern
Macduff ..... Ian Bannen
Doctor ..... Felix Aylmer
Gentlewoman ..... Megs Jenkins
Malcolm ..... Jeremy Brett
Donalbain ..... Barry Warren
Ross ..... William Hutt
Caithness ..... Charles Carson
Seyton ..... Trader Faulkner
Porter ..... George Rose
First Witch ..... Valerie Taylor
Second Witch ..... Anita Sharp Bolster
Third Witch ..... April Olrich
Angus ..... Brewster Mason
Menteith ..... Simon Lack
Fleance ..... Scot Finch
Bloody Sergeant ..... Robert Brown
First Murderer ..... Michael Ripper
Second Murderer ..... Douglas Wilmer

George Schaefer production of William Shakespeare's "Macbeth" reverses pattern by coming to the theatrical screen three years after origin for the television "Hallmark Hall of Fame." As a 107-minute treatment of the classic, it is a full version of the Shakespeare work, with but a few minor parts omitted, and thereby makes notable gains over the 90-minutes-with-time-out-for-commercials tv version. Add wide screen and Technicolor for further values.

Schaefer version headed by Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson is lusty and gory. It's just short of melodrama, successfully overcoming wordiness, and may well make this more "commercial" than ordinarily is expected of a classic.

Evans as Macbeth and Miss Anderson as Lady Macbeth are masterful as the conniving couple. Cast is excellent. Special nods go to Michael Hordern as Banquo, Ian Bannen as Macduff, George Rose as the drunken porter, and Malcolm Keen as King Duncan. Evans is called upon for everything in the acting book. No less intense is La Anderson though widescreen and color are less than flattering to her.

Costumes, mostly muted Scottish plaids and royal finery, are standout, as are the settings, former by Beatrice Dawson, with Edward Carrick credited as art director and Simpson Robinson as scenic artist. Other production angles are topflight throughout.

A special acknowledgment is made to Joyce C. Hall and Hallmark Cards. This also explains theatrical premiere of the picture in Kansas City at the Art Theatre Guild's Rockhill Theatre and much attendant local exploitation, with a personal by Evans.

Prominent Films figures it may be working as many as 25 prints throughout 1964.

Quin.

AMERICAN INTL. TO HANDLE GALATEA PIX

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

American International Pictures will distribute product of Galatea Films of Rome in America, under a deal concluded here over the weekend with Franco Fanfani, supervising exec of the Italian firm.

Initial release will be a trin spectacle for Christmas, comprising "Goliath and the Sins of Babylon" and "Samson and the Slave Queen." Former stars Mark Forest and Scilla Gabel, with Allen Steel and Pierre Brice topping latter film. Galatea in turn will take over release of AIP's "House of Terror" and "Black Sabbath."

LEVINE, HUB'S BIGGEST BEAN

National Boxoffice Survey

New Films Boost Biz; 'Cleo' Still on Top, 'West' 2d, 'New Love' 3d, 'V.I.P.s' 4th, 'Arabia' 5th

More seasonable weather and some new, strong product will boost the overall business take in several key cities covered by VARIETY this week. But many other keys are still plagued by an overdose of Indian Summer weather.

First place still is being held by "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk), same as a week ago. "How West Was Won" (MGM) (44th wk) is retaining its hold on second position, and is even running ahead of "Cleo" in some keys.

"New Kind of Love" (Par) (4th wk) is pushing up to third spot, highest it has been in weekly ratings. "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (6th wk) is winding up fourth.

"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (42d wk) is climbing back into contention, with a nice boost from some spots where out on continuous-run. It will finish fifth as compared with 11th place last stanza.

"Irma La Douce" (UA) (21st wk) is capturing sixth spot. Pic was eighth last week. "Lilies of Field" (UA) (2d wk) is landing seventh money. "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (4th wk) is winding in eighth position.

"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk) will place ninth. "Leopard" (20th) (11th wk) is dipping to 10th spot. "Running Man" (Col) (3d wk) is taking 11th place. "Lord of Flies" (Cont) (5th wk) rounds out the Top 12 pix.

"Twilight of Honor" (MGM), fairly new; and "8½" (Embassy) are the runnerup films, in that order.

"Under the Yum Yum Tree" (Col) looks like one of the more promising of several new pictures. It is rated boffo in L.A. on its initial playdate. Of equally big potential is "Mary, Mary" (WB) with a socko opening week at N.Y. Music Hall.

"Stolen Hours" (UA) shapes spotty this session, being good in Washington but only fair in N.Y. and light in St. Louis. "Twice Told Tales," also from United Artists, looms nice in Minneapolis and hotsy in Boston.

"Tom Jones" (UA) is duplicating the amazing biz shown in N.Y. (third week is topping the initial one) with a whopping session in L.A. "Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) continues to show promise as it starts nationwide playdating. Still very big in N.Y., it is lofty in Washington and good in L.A.

"Stranger Knocks" (T-L) looms big in L.A. while "Sporting Life" (Cont) shapes nice in Balto and N.Y. "Women of World" (Embassy), nice in Balto, looks good in Toronto.

Note: The number of weeks out in release for bigger and longrun pix are designated in such cases.

(Complete Boxoffice Reports on Pages 8-9-10).

Reformers Gird for Classification; Toll Poison, Cabled Theatres Okay; TOA Hears of New Theatre Boom

Opening business sessions of the Theatre Owners of America convention this Monday (28) were devoted to discussions of legislative and theatre trends. Florida legal advisor and exhib F. LaMar Sarra sounded a particular note of warning about 1964, saying that the year will "unquestionably see a flood of anti-industry bills which will require an all-out effort to defeat."

Sarra foresaw the toughest censorship battles in more than a decade, mostly because of an intensified drive for "classification." He told exhibs that New York, where classification legislation is currently pending to tag releases for children's viewing, will be the primary battleground. The results in that state may well affect ultimate action in other states and cities, he warned.

Censorship - classification bills were threatened or introduced in over a dozen states in 1963, though industry won each fight. Obscenity bills in one form or another were unsuccessfully introduced in 35 states. He cited certain specifics and cautioned that about 21 states will meet in regular session in 1964 and there can be expected considerable classification agitation in several.

He called for an all-out effort to ward off such "classification," increased admission taxes, imports on film rentals, Sunday blue laws, minimum wage provisions.

Philip F. Harling again assailed the home pay-tv threat and cited its "failures" to date. He stressed that toll can't succeed without firstrun films and gave a "slight bow" to distribution for withholding same to date. He repeated his charge that pay-tv "makes pie-in-the-sky promises which will cause mortal injury to our business." He warned of the threat of the $33,000,000 Subscription TV (a public corporation) plan to institute home toll on the Coast, first via broadcast of the Dodgers and Giants baseball games.

Eugene V. Klein, president of National General Corp., discussed the potential of theatre tv and advanced the theory that it will make more profitable and successful operations of houses which use it. It will also help fight home toll. He said that pay-tv belongs in theatres and not in homes and believed that there are 200,000 to 300,000 people per performance ready to plunk down their coin at theatre boxoffices around the country for toll attractions. Klein noted that General Electric has already invested $10,000,000 in its Talaria color projector and traced the various divergent uses closed circuit theatre tv has to keep theatres running around the clock, almost.

Exhib Richard A. Smith discussed the growth in shopping centre theatres and drive-ins. He said that the building boom in such facilities should stimulate production by their increased revenue, estimating that if only 1,500 of the potential 2,000 theatres which can be built within the next five years are constructed, they will bring to the industry over $175,000,000 a year in increased b.o. receipts. At the same time, downtown theatres operations can also continue to prosper with proper handling, he noted, and went on to urge "cautious, orderly expansion" of all types of theatres.

Architect Drew Eberson sketched the various types of houses being built today and the ways and means of new theatre construction.

At a luncheon, retiring counsel Herman Levy was presented with a citation for his long service to the organization. Also, Nat Fellman of Stanley Warner and former exec committee chairman Roy Cooper were awarded TOA service medals. National Screen Service sponsored the opening luncheon.

Bronston Asks Bids

International conference of indie distributors and exhibitors has been called by Samuel Bronston Nov. 22-23 in Madrid for the showing of a rough cut version of the producer's "Fall of the Roman Empire."

Promotion and sales plans will be taken up, with Bronston promising "the new look in motion picture merchandising and distribution."

EVEN ATTY-GENL SHILLS FOR B.O.

By ABEL GREEN

As Radio City Music Hall prexy Russell V. Downing said, "It's amazing what Joe Levine has achieved in so short a time. Now he's being saluted as a latterday P. T. Barnum and none will dispute it."

Principal speaker Robert F. Kennedy, the U.S. Attorney-General — another local Boston boy who made good—took his cue from toastmaster George Jessel's reference to Levine's initial production adventure, with a states-rights three-reeler, "Admiral Byrd at the South Pole," and urged the guest of honor to use his influence "perhaps with the Admiral's brother, Senator Byrd, of Virginia in our legislative problem with a strong civil rights' law."

Levine hit the jackpot at the teeoff "World of Showmanship" dinner Monday night (28) at New York's Hotel Americana—an international culinary array which Roz (Mrs. Joe) Levine specially arranged. One, because of the attorney-general's heralded presence as the principal speaker, an interracial picketing group, quite vocal, ganged up in front of the Americana in behalf of the FEPC (Fair Employment); (2), as Theatre Owners of America prexy John H. Stembler cogently put it, in his presentation of an "award" to the g. of h., certainly this gives the second-in-a-row exhibitors' convention a distinguished cache indeed (last week the Allied States exhibs met at the same hostelry); (3), Mrs. Levine's now w.k. penchant for distinctive favors and diningroom decor was amply recognized and saluted; (4), during Kennedy's spiel for realistic desegregation in theatres, on a grassroots level, because of its impact on other opportunities to Negroes —jobs, education, etc.—the applause was mingled with a spate of boos; and (5), a barman in the dais guests' room (Princess Ballroom) took the "no service" signal too literally and refused to serve Levine a drink. The showman, who had abstained, wanted one for the road before the march into the grand ballroom and only when the flunky was told off by Levine that "I happen to be paying for this party" did the barman unbend.

Bobby Kennedy made recognition of his father's show biz background and saluted many of Joe Kennedy's old friends, and made an even broader shill for brother-in-law Peter Lawford's "Johnny Cool" which "I hope is shown in all your theatres." A wire from the President heralded Levine as "the master showman of the world."

This was a tailormade tie-in with the banners and placards heralding Levine's pictures, for Paramount distribution, as "a world of showmanship for showmen of the world." Embassy Pictures' ad-pub veepee Bob Weston's and Paramount ditto Martin Davis' slogans gave accent to Par & Embassy putting the "how" in "Showmanship."

Valances, sliding panels, international dansapation melodies (accent on Italian and French) and a sock souvenir pressbook further spelled it out.

Mrs. Levine's handiwork with the favors figured in matchbooks with stage-money ("see how it will grow"); miniature global maps (actually coin-safes), with special trimming, which insured these being taken home as a lasting souvenirs—and trailers for Levine, Embassy and Paramount.

Jessel was in unusually fine fettle and refrained from introducing all of the dais "otherwise we'll be here until 'Cleopatra' gets even." Adolph Zukor got a standing salute. Par's exec veepee George Weltner was introduced along with Emb's Leonard Lightstone and Weston; and authors Harold Robbins ("Carpetbaggers" etc.) and Pearl Buck ("Imperial Woman"). Barney Balaban spoke in behalf of Par; Si

(Continued on page 22)

To Their Faces Allied Fellows Told They're Dull Showmen; Stars: 'Flies Take Over Flypaper'

By EDDIE KALISH

Allied States Assn.'s 34th annual convention at the Americana Hotel, N.Y., was not only the largest in the organization's history but its business sessions were the best attended in the recent memory of delegates.

Delegates heard a bevy of speakers from various phases of the film industry, as well as their own leaders. Subjects too ranged wide: merchandising, new product, UA's "Premiere Showcase," the future. Speakers included Charles McCarthy, Robert Ferguson, Ely Landau, Paul N. Lazarus, Joseph E. Levine, Ed Svigals, James H. Nicholson, Samuel Z. Arkoff, Nicolas Reisini, Nate Halpern, John McNamara and others.

Ever-recurring comment of many guest speakers was the charge that exhibs aren't daring or resourceful enough. In short, they're punk showmen. In a speech which was sort of a cross between a paraphasing of ex-FCC chairman Newton Minow and Rev. Martin Luther King, Landau called the film biz a "wasteland" and said that he too has a dream.

"There is no greater wasteland in the entertainment world than the movie wasteland," he said. Too little is being done by too few in the film industry, Landau charged, saying that exhibition was a weak link in the trade chain. Theatremen should be doing a lot more to reclaim the "lost audience" (another term often echoed throughout the convention) and to corral the new audience exhibition's ideas are antiquated and that exhibs are timid about change.

Landau said that theatremen play to the lowest common denominator and have, by default, forsaken the better-than-average income adult audience. He chided exhibs for relying on blockbusters.

Bob Ferguson, Too

During a merchandising session, Columbia ad-pub v.p. Robert Ferguson told the exhibs to get more merchandising conscious. "If you are going to stay in showbusiness you must be showmen," he said, noting that in his travels he has observed that there are too few.

Another guest who scolded the

(Continued on page 22)

Columbia Makes 40

Columbia nabbed the spotnight at the TOA convention last night (Tues.) with the screening of a near-hour-long presentation film focusing on the company's 40th anniversary and offering samplings of current and upcoming features.

The "preview" production subsequently is to be shown to exhibs in key areas throughout the world.

TOA Tails Allied Into Americana

At a board meeting on Sunday (27) in N.Y.'s Americana Hotel John H. Rowley was elected president of Theatre Owners of America, succeeding John H. Stembler who became board chairman. Board meeting preceded the exhib organization's 16th national convention, which opened last Monday (28) at the Americana Hotel, N.Y.

Rowley will officially take office tomorrow (Thurs.) when Stembler's two-year term expires. He is a member of the United Artists Theatres board of directors and chairman of the board of the Variety Foundation of Texas, and a Dallas area exhibitor. He was chief barker of Dallas Variety Tent in 1950 and International Chief Barker 1956-57. Rowley has been Stembler's assistant during the latter's term of office.

Only other change among TOA officers was the election of Mitchell Wolfson of Miami to succeed Si Fabian as treasurer. Albert M. Pickus is the retiring board chairman. Other officers include Herbert F. Kincey secretary; Myron N. Blank, chairman of the finance committee; Joseph G. Alterman, assistant & administrative secretary; George Roscoe, director of exhibitor relations and Samuel Pinanski, honorary board chairman.

No successor was named for retiring counsel Herman Levy. TOA's plan is to hire legal assistance as each problem comes along. It was pointed out that the organization presently has and has always had a legal advisory committee.

In All 50 States

Reporting to the board, outgoing Stembler said that TOA now has representation in all 50 states and is stronger both from a membership and financial standpoint than it has ever been. He told of his pleasure of working with Allied

(Continued on page 22)

EX-N. Y. 'MIRROR'-ITES TAKE NEW ASSIGNMENTS

Frank Quinn, film reviewer and nitery reviewer for the now defunct N.Y. Mirror, has joined the Warner Bros. publicity staff on a special project for "Four for Texas," the Frank Sinatra starrer on which he will do column work. Quinn did a Saturday column in the space normally reserved for Walter Winchell.

In other moves, Justin Gilbert, who was the Mirror's amusement editor, joins the Columbia pix flackery and will be stationed in the London office. Jack Thompson, an amusements writer on the sheet, switched last week to Hearst's companion N.Y. operation, the Journal-American. Another Mirror switchover to the J-A is Frances Merron who will do an advertising-publicity nitery and restaurant column two days weekly. This gives the J-A two such columnists, Eddie Black (The Baron) is the other.

Week-Long Rally At Metro Studio

Metro beginning Nov. 5 will hold a weeklong international sales meeting at the studio. And it's to be convention-size, with president Robert H. O'Brien and v.p.-general sales manager Morris Lefko conducting and production v.p. Robert M. Weitman serving as host. Contingent of other homeoffice officials, sales execs, branch managers, and sales managers from throughout the United States and Canada are to be in attendance.

Billed as the largest of the type in the company's history, the meeting will have as its theme "MGM Is On the Move" and will have as its purpose a thorough examination of new product, planning and policy.

Flock of new, completed pictures will be screened along with footage from others now in production. That MGM is moving in high is reflected in the number of pictures now before the cameras, including "Night Must Fall," "Unsinkable Molly Brown," "His and His?" "Looking for Love," "Kissin' Cousins" and "Rhino!"

Execs from both N.Y. and L.A. will discuss the company's plans on releasing 36 productions globally within the next 12 months. Further, in line with prez O'Brien's policy, advertising, promotion and exploitation policies will be taken up in advance of the camera work on future productions.

Chi Still Spotty; 'Lilies' OK $17,000, 'Man' Slow 13G, 'Leopard' Smash 16G; 'New Love' Fancy 16½G, 'Honor' 11G

Chicago, Oct. 29.

Despite some new entrants, which did not start well, Chi firstruns are in for a tame round currently. "Lilies of Field" is preeming with an okay $17,000 at Oriental while "Running Man" is rated mild $13,000 at Roosevelt.

"The Leopard" is bowing to a boffo $16,000 at Esquire. "Winter Light" is rated slick on Carnegie preem. Loop tandem of "Gentle Art of Murder" and "Passionate Thief" looms tidy on opener. "The Witch" shapes sharp at the Town.

"A New Kind of Love" is tallying a torrid second Woods session. "Twilight of Honor" looks fair in its United Artists second. "V.I.P.s" is scoring a hefty fifth Chicago lap. "Lord of the Flies". in same Cinema round looms hefty.

On hardticket, "Cleopatra" is rated good in 18th State-Lake canto, and "How West Was Won" is fancy in its McVickers 35th stanza.

Estimates for This Week

Carnegie (Brotman) (495; $1.25-$1.80) — "Winter Light" (Indie). F'st $5.000. Last week, "8½" (Embassy) (13th wk), $4,600.

Chicago (B&K) (3,900; 90-$1.80) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Happy $18,000 or close. Last week, $21,000.

Cinema (Stern) (500; $1.50) — "Lord of Flies" (Cont) (5th wk). Hotsy $6,300. Last week, $5,000.

Esquire (H&E Balaban) (1,236; $1.25-$1.80) — "Leopard" (20th). Smash $16,000. Last week, "In French Style" (Col) (4th wk), $5,000.

Loop (Brotman) (606; 90-$1.80)—"Gentle Art of Murder" (Embassy) and "Passionate Thief" (Embassy). Brisk $4,500. Last week, "Marilyn" (20th) (1st wk), $5,000.

McVickers (Beacon) (1,100; $1.75-$3.50) — "How West Was

(Continued on page 10)

Key City Grosses

Estimated Total Gross

Last Year $2,372,800
(Based on 22 cities and 274 theatres).

This Week $2,150,500
(Based on 23 cities and 265 theatres, chiefly first runs including N.Y.).

'Sea' Smash 16G, Denver; 'West' 15G

Denver, Oct. 29.

Best bet among newcomers here this session is "20,000 Leagues Under Sea," which is great $16,000 for opener. "Fantasia," another oldie from Disney, looks lusty in third round at the Aladdin. "How West Was Won" looms sockeroo in 33d stanza at the Cooper, considerably ahead of last week.

"New Kind of Love" shapes sturdy in third week at the Centre. "The Terror" is rated dull on opener at the Denver.

Estimates for This Week

Aladdin (Fox) (900; $1.45)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (3d wk). Lusty $8,000 or near. Last week, $9,500.

Centre (Fox) (1,290; $1.25-$1.45) —"A New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Sturdy $8,000. Last week, $9,000.

Cooper (Cooper) (814; $1.65-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (33d wk). Sock $15,000 or over. Last week, $12,200.

Denham (Indie) (800; $1.45-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Stout $9,500. Last week, $8,000.

Denver (Fox) (2,432; $1.25)—"The Terror" (AI) and "Dementia 13" (AI). Dull $8,500. Last week, "Twilight of Honor" (MGM) and "Raiders of Leyte Gulf" (Indie), $6,000.

Esquire (Fox) (600; $1.25)—"Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (2d wk). Mild $2,200. Last week, $3,000.

Orpheum (RKO) (2,690; $1-$1.45) —"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue). Great $16,000. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) and "Castillian" (WB) (2d wk), $4,000.

Towne (Indie) (600; $1.25-$1.45) "Lilies of Field" (UA) (4th wk). Good $3,000 or close. Last week, $3.500.

Vogue (Art Theatre Guild) (450; $1.25)—"Promises, Promises" (Indie) (4th wk). Fair $1,200. Last week, $1,500.

'Leopard' Hotsy $12,000, Hub; 'Love' Smooth 13G, 'Man' 11G; 'Irma' 8G, 16

Boston, Oct. 29.

Smog and hot weather bopped the Boston boxoffice this weekend and some new lows loom. Only saving factor was 40,000 crowd in for Harvard-Dartmouth game. Hub's list of 18 firstruns will be increased by one with opening of E. M. Loew's new 800-seat West End Cinema, built on site of old nabe Lancaster at North Station on Nov. 8, with "Conjugal Bed." Reissue of "Fantasia" is good at Beacon Hill. "Twice Told Tales" is only passable at the Pilgrim. "Leopard" is fancy in second at the Gary. "In French Style" is mildish at Astor in second. "Running Man" is rated neat in second at Memorial. "New Kind of Love" shapes slick in second at Paramount.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (B&Q) (1,117; 90-$1.50)—"French Style" (Col) (2d wk). Fair $7,000. Last week, $8,000.

Beacon Hill (Sack) (900; $1-$1.80) —"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Good $7,000. Last week, "Stolen Hours" (UA) (3d wk-5 days), $4,000.

Boston (Beacon Ent.) (1,345; $1.20-$2.95) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (31st wk). Big $9,000. Last week, $10,000.

Capri (Sack) (850; 90-$1.50)—"Lilies of Field" (UA) (3d wk). Oke $6,000. Last week, $7,000.

Center (E. M. Loew) (1,250; 90-$1.25) — "Playgirls and Vampire" (Indie) and "Sinners Go To Hell" (Indie). Oke $6,000. Last week, "Man With X-Ray Eyes" (AI) and "Right Hand of Devil" (Indie), $7,000.

Cinema, Kenmore Square (Indie) (320; $1.40-$1.90)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (6th wk). Good $3,000. Last week, $4,000.

Exeter (Indie) (1,300; 90-$1.49)—"Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (9th wk). Okay $4,000. Last week, same.

Fenway (Indie) (1,300; 90-$1.49) —"Meet Me Tonight for Sure" (Indie) and "Naked in Night" (Indie). Fair $4,000. Last week, "Festival Girl" (Indie) (2d wk), $3,500.

Gary (Sack) (1,277; 75-$1.80)—"Leopard" (20th) (2d wk). Fast $12,000. Last week, $15,000.

Mayflower (ATC) (689; 90-$1.50) —"L-Shaped Room" (Cont) (subrun) and "Beauty and Body" (Indie). Good $4,000. Last week, "Young Swingers" (AI) and "30 Years of Fun" (20th), $3,000.

Memorial (RKO) (3,000; 90-$1.50) —"Running Man" (Col) and "Gun Hawk" (AA) (2d wk). Neat $11,000 or over. Last week, $14,000.

Music Hall (Sack) (2,200; $2-$3.90) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (19th wk). The 18th week ended Monday (28) was nice $15,000. Last week, $16,000.

Orpheum (Loew) (2,900; 90-$1.65)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Trim $10,000. Last week, $13,000.

Paramount (NET) (2,357; 90-$1.65)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Slick $13,000 or near. Last week, $15,000.

Pilgrim (ATC) (1,909; 75-$1.25)—"Twice Told Tales" (UA) and "Girl in Silk Stockings" (Indie). Fairly good $8,000.

Park Square (Indie) (300; $1.80) —"8½" (Embassy) (14th wk). Good $3,000. Last week, $3,200.

Saxon (Sack) (1,000; $1.50-$2.75) —"Irma La Douce" (UA) (16th wk). Sturdy $8,000. Last week, $9,000.

State (Trans-Lux) (730; 75-$1.25) —"Sin You Sinners" (Indie) and "Tease For Two" (Indie). Torrid $12,000 or near. Last week, "Female Animal" (Indie) and "Sun Lovers" (Indie), $8,500.

Hot Weather Hits Pitt; 'Honor' Sad $5,500, 'Man' 5G; 'West' Big 8G, 32d

Pittsburgh, Oct. 29.

Two weak entries, "Twilight of Honor" at the Fulton and "Running Man" at Gateway, fit into the general dull Pitt firstrun picture as the deluxers continue being plagued by Indian Summer weather and unexciting product. Due to close Nov. 2, "How West Was Won" is having surge of power in final 10 days of 32-week run. "Cleopatra" is solid in 18th session at Penn.

"Lord of Flies" continues strong at arty Squirrel Hill. "New Kind of Love" is rated fairish in second at Stanley.

Estimates for This Week

Forum (Assoc.) (380; $1.75) — "Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (6th wk). Hep $2,200. Last week, $2,800.

Fulton (Assoc.) (1,900; $1-$1.50) —"Twilight of Honor" (MGM). Drab $5,500. Last week, "Irma La Douce" (UA) (9th wk), $7,500.

Gateway (Assoc.) (1,900; $1-$1.50) —"Running Man" (Col). Sad $5,000. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par), $5,300.

Penn (UTAC) (2,003; $2-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Solid $11,000. Last week, $11,200.

Shadyside (MOTC) (623; $1.75) "Heavens Above" (Janus) (3d wk). Neat $2,000. Last week, $2,800.

Squirrel Hill (SW) (832; $1.75)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (4th wk). Hotsy $3,600 and running ahead of last week's $3,200.

Stanley (SW) (3,700; $1-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Fairish $9,000. Last week, $11,000.

Warner (SW) (1,260; $1.50-$2.75) —"How West Was Won" (MGM) (32d wk). New strength due to announced final days and should do over big $8,000. Comes out Nov. 2. "Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) opens Nov. 6 after new Cinerama equipment is installed for "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" (UA). Last week, $7,300.

Balto Stout; 'Escape' Sock $17,000; 'Toys' Fair 6G; 'Love' Torrid 9G, 2d

Baltimore, Oct. 29.

Leader of firstruns is "The Great Escape" which looks smash at the suburban Senator on opener. It replaced "Irma La Douce" which is now playing only at downtown Little where it is in 16th sock week. "Toys in Attic" is fair in second at the Ambassador. "Cleopatra" is rated good in 18th week at the Hipp.

"The Leopard" looks fast in third week at the Mayfair. "Women of World" is pleasing in fifth round at the New. "Condemned of Altona" is fair in second frame at the Charles. "New Kind of Love" shapes fine in second at the Town. "V.I.P.s" is still big in fifth week at the Stanton.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (Durkee) (800; 50-$1.50)—"Toys in Attic" (UA) (2d wk). Fair $6,000. Last week, $8,000.

Avalon (Freedom) (850; $1.50)—"I'l Grido" (Aster). Oke $2,300. Last week, "Playgirl and War Minister" (Union), $2,000.

Charles (Fruchtman) (500; 50-$1.50) — "Condemned of Altona" (20th) (2d wk). Fair $3,000 or near, Last week, $6,000.

Five West (Schwaber) (435; 90-$1.50) — "Sporting Life" (Cont). Nice $2,800. Last week, "Playboy of Western World" (Janus), $2,000.

Hippodrome (T-L) (2,200; $1.50-$3.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Good $12,000 or close. Last week, $13,000.

Little (T-L) (300; 50-$1.65) — "Irma La Douce" (UA) (16th wk). Up to hep $5,500. Last week, $5,000.

New (Fruchtman) (1,600; 50-$1.50)—"Women of World" (Embassy) (5th wk). Pleasing $5,500. Last week, $6,000.

Mayfair (Fruchtman) (700; 50-$1.50)—"Leopard" (20th) (3d wk). Warm $6,000. Last week, $8,000.

Playhouse (Schwaber) (365; 90-$1.50) — "Sparrows Can't Sing" (Janus). Good $3,000. Last week, "L-Shaped Room" (Col) (16th wk), $2,000.

Stanton (Fruchtman) (2,800; 50-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Big $10,000. Last week, $8,000.

Senator (Durkee) (960; 90-$1.50) — "Great Escape" (UA). Socko $17,000 or near. Last week, "Irma La Douce" (UA) (15th wk), $6,000.

Town (T-L) (1,125; 50-$1.50) — "New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Good $9,000. Last week, $10,000.

Rex (Freedman) (1,100; $1.50)—"Scum of Earth" (Indie) (2d wk). Mild $1,500. Last week, $3,000.

Broadway Grosses

Estimated Total Gross

This Week $516,900
(Based on 31 theatres)

Last Year $540,700
(Based on 32 theatres)

'V.I.P.s' Stout 9G, St. L.; 'Love' 8½G

St. Louis, Oct. 29.

There are some newcomers here this stanza but few of them are faring nicely. "Leopard" is rated trim in first at the Pageant. "Stolen Hours" is lightweight at Loew's Mid-City. "Carry on Regardless" shapes slow on opener at the St. Louis.

"New Kind of Love" looms fine in third round at the Fox. "How West Was Won" shapes bangup in 29th stanza at Martin Cinerama. "V.I.P.s" looks good in fifth at State.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador (Arthur) (2,970; $1.50-$3.50) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Good $15,000. Last week, $17,000.

Apollo Art (Grace) (700; 90-$1.25)—"Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (2d wk). Nice $2,300. Last week, $2,700.

Esquire (Jablonlow-Komm) (1,800; 90-$1.25) — "Running Man" (Col) (2d wk). Okay $8,000. Last week, $10,000.

Fox (Arthur) (5,000; 90-$1.25)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Nice $8,500. Last week, $10,000.

Loew's Mid-City (Loew) (1,160; 60-90) — "Stolen Hours" (UA). Light $6,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk), $12,000.

State (Loew) (3,600; 60-90) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Good $9,000 or near. Last week, $10,000.

Martin Cinerama (Martin) (913; $1.25-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (29th wk). Fancy $13,000 or over. Last week, $14,000.

Pageant (Arthur) (1,000; 90-$1.25) — "Leopard" (20th). Neat $3,500. Last week, "Sporting Life" (Cont) (2d wk), $3,000.

Paris Art (Chernoff) (800; $1.50) —"Balcony" (Cont) (2d wk). Fine $3,000. Last week, $3,500.

St. Louis (Arthur) (3,800; 75-90) — "Carry on Regardless" (Indie) and "Get On With It" (Indie). Slow $8,000. Last week, "Haunted Palace" (AI) and "Erik Conquered" (Indie), $9,000.

Shady Oak (Arthur) (760; 90-$1.25)—"8½" (Embassy) (3d wk). Nice $2,500. Last week, $3,500.

New Pix Perking Philly; 'Cool' Rousing $12,000, 'Honor' 10G, 'Flies' 9G

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.

Batch of new product here this session is helping biz. "Johnny Cool" looks potent in first at Goldman. "Fantasia," back on reissue, shapes big for opener at Midtown. "Twilight of Honor" is rated trim on initial round at Stanton. "Lord of Flies" is lofty in first at the Lane.

"V.I.P.s" still is sockeroo in fifth stanza at Arcadia. "8½" continues very strong in third week, daydating two smaller theatres. "New Kind of Love" is rated sturdy in third at the Fox.

Estimates for This Week

Arcadia (S&S) (623; $1.20-$1.80) —"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Slick $10,000. Last week, $12,000.

Boyd (SW) (1,536; $2-$2.75)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (34th wk). Big $9,000. Last week, $8,000.

Bryn Mawr (Goldman) (680; $1.49)—"8½" (Embassy) (3d wk). Fancy $4,000. Last week, $6,000.

Fox (Milgrim) (2,400; 95-$1.80) —"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Stout $11,000. Last week, $13,000.

Goldman (Goldman) (1,000; 95-$1.80)—"Johnny Cool" (UA). Cool

(Continued on page 10)

Heat Wilts D.C. Albeit 'Fantasia' Boffo $8,500; 'Hours' Big 8G, 'Love' 7G

Washington, Oct. 29.

Exhibs are anxiously awaiting the beginning of fall weather here, with continued high temps levelling firstrun biz. Initialing reissue "Fantasia" shapes big at Playhouse, but "Sporting Life" looks quiet at Ontario. "Shock Corridor" figures mild in first at Ambassador-Metropolitan.

"V.I.P.s" shapes brisk in fifth round at Palace. "Conjugal Bed" looms nifty in second round at the Apex. "Leopard" looks big in third at Dupont. Hardticketers "Cleopatra" and "How West Was Won" still are doing well.

Estimates for This Week

Ambassador-Metropolitan (SW) (1,480; 1,000; $1-$1.49) — "Shock Corridor" (AA). Mild $7,000. Last week, "Twice Told Tales" (UA), $8,000.

Apex (KB) (940; $1.25-$1.40)—"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (2d wk). Nifty $7,500 after opening at $8,400.

Calvert (Mann) (900; $1.25-$1.50) —"Name Is Ivan" (Indie) (3d wk), Slow $2,000. Last week, $3,000.

Dupont (Mann) (400; 90-$1.55)—"Leopard" (20th) (3d wk). Big $6,000. Last week, $7,000.

Embassy (Loew) (567; $1.25-$2) —"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Fancy $7,000 or over. Last week, $8,000.

Keith's (RKO) (1,838; $1-$1.49)—"Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk). Good $8,000 after $11,000 initialer.

MacArthur (KB) (900; $1.25-$1.40) — "Heavens Above" (Janus) (4th wk). Okay $6,000. Last week, $6,500.

Ontario (KB) (1,240; $1.75-$3)—"Sporting Life" (Cont). Quiet $5,000. Last week, "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (34th wk), $4,500.

(Continued on page 10)

New Entries Lift L. A.; 'Tree' Boffo $28,000, 'Irma' Sockeroo 39G, 'Jones' Mighty 18G, 'Cool' 13G; 'West' 23G

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

L.A. firstruns are looking up considerably this stanza for best outlook in six weeks since list is being bolstered by a number of big newcomers. "Irma La Douce," out in first general release, should hit a smash $39,000 or close, playing three theatres. "Under the Yum Yum Tree" is heading for a boffo $28,000 or over on opener at the Chinese.

"Tom Jones," exclusive at the Beverly, is eyeing a wow $18,000 in first lap. "Johnny Cool" appears headed for a handy $13,000 or near in first at two spots. "Twilight of Honor" is quite disappointing on opener in three houses.

Several regular holdovers shape well. "How West Was Won" looks for smash $23,000 or close in 36th round at Warner Hollywood. "Lilies of Field" is rated big $14,000 in second at Egyptian. "V.I.P.s" looks tall $12,500 in seventh at Hollywood Par. "Lord of Flies" is socko $12,000 in second at Fine Arts.

Estimates for This Week

Chinese (FWC) (1,408; $2-$2.40) —"Under Yum Yum Tree" (Col). Boffo $28,000 or a bit over. Last week, "Irma La Douce" (UA) (16th wk), $11,000.

Beverly (State) (1,150; $2-$2.40) —"Tom Jones" (UA). Wham $18,000. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) (4th wk), $4,500.

Warren's, Vogue, Wiltern (Metropolitan-FWC-SW) (1,757; 810; 2,344; $1-$1.49) — "Twilight of Honor" (MGM) and various second feature pix. Dim $11,800. Last week, Warren's with Iris, Loyola, Village, "Leopard" (20th) (1st general release), "Second Time Around" (20th) (reissue), $23,100. Vogue with El Rey, "Women of World" (Emb) (14th wk, Vogue; El Rey), "David and Lisa" (Cont), $7,000. Wiltern with Hillstreet, Baldwin, "Running Man" (Col), "Diamond Head" (Col) (reissue), $14,600.

Hillstreet Pix (Metropolitan-Prin) (2,752; 756; $1-$1.49)—"Johnny Cool" (UA) and "Love Me or Leave Me" (MGM) (reissue). Handy $13,000 or close. Last week, Pix with Los Angeles, "Damaged Goods" (Indie), "Sweet Bird of Youth" (MGM) reissue), $9,600.

Iris, El Rey (FWC) (825; 856; $1-$1.49)—"Mondo Cane" (Emer) and "Sky Above, Mud Below" (Emb) (reissues). Slow $5,000.

Los Angeles, Loyola, Village (Metropolitan-FWC) (2,049; 1,298; 1,535; $1-$1.49)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (1st general release) and "Third of Man" (UA) (Los Angeles only). Sockeroo $39,000 or near.

Egyptian (UATC) (1,392; $2-$2.40)—"Lilies of Field" (UA) (2d

(Continued on page 10)

Estimates Are Net

Film gross estimates as reported herewith from the various key cities, are net; i.e., without usual tax. Distributors share on net take, when playing percentage, hence the estimated figures are net income.

The parenthetic admission prices, however, as indicated, include U. S. amusement tax.

'Sea' Smooth 17G, K. C.; 'Love' 7G, 3d

Kansas City, Oct. 29.

Ex-hometown boy, Walt Disney, with his reissued "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" is rated sockeroo in two houses currently. "Fantasia" at Brookside shapes hep in second. "Lilies of Field" is brisk at Fairway.

Unseasonable fall heatwave continues, with only sample showers punctuating the warmth. "New Kind of Love" looms lusty in third Paramount round. "The Haunting" looks pale at Plaza for first round.

Estimates for This Week

Brookside (Fox Midwest Nat. Gen. Corp.) (800; $1.50) — "Fantasia" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Hefty $5,500 or better. Last week, $7,500.

Capri (Durwood) (1,260, 75-$1.50) — Dark till "Cleopatra" (20th) opens Nov. 13.

Crest, Riverside (Commonwealth) (900 cars each), Boulevard (Rosedale) (750 cars), Hiway 40 (General), (1,000 cars); Isis & Vista (FMW) (1,390; 700; $1.50) — Playing subruns. Last week, "Johnny Cool" (UA), nice $18,000.

Empire (Durwood) (886; $1.25-$2.50) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (31st wk). Tapering to okay $6,500. Last week, $7,000.

Kimo (Dickinson) (504; $1.50-$2.00)—"In French Style" (Col) (2d wk). Moderate $2,000. Last week, $2,500.

Paramount (Blank-UP) (1,900; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Smart $7,000. Last week, $7,600.

Parkway Two (Durwood) (350; 90-$1.25)—"Four Days of Naples" (MGM) (m.o.). Mild $1,800. Last week, "Murder at Gallop" (MGM) (3d wk), $2,000.

Plaza (FMW) (1,630; $1.25-$1.50) —"The Haunting" (MGM). Pale $6,000 or near. Last week, "Running Man" (Col), $4,000.

Rockhill (Little Art Theatres) (821; $1-$1.50) — "Macbeth" (Indie). Good $2,500.

Roxy (Durwood) (664; 75-$1.50) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Sturdy $5,500. Last week, $6,000.

Uptown, Granada (FMW) (2,043; 1,219; $1.25-$1.50) — "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue). Lively $17,000 or near. Last week, Granada "Leopard" (20th) (m.o.), $1,300. Uptown, "Twilight of Honor" (MGM) plus "Of Love and Desire" (20th), $4,500.

Fairway (FMW) (700; $1.50) — "Lilies of Field" (UA). Bright $3,500. Last week, subruns.

'LOVE' LIVELY $7,000, PROV.; 'CLEO' FAT 9G

Providence, Oct. 29.

"Cleopatra" is drifting to a lower plateau after 12 rather solid weeks at Elmwood, but is still way ahead of other pix here. Teachers' Institute holiday gave a solid boost to Majestic's "20,000 Leagues Under Sea," rated nice. Strand's "A New Kind of Love" is torrid. "Cry of Battle" looms fair at Albee.

Estimates for This Week

Albee (RKO) (2,200; 75-$1) — "Cry of Battle" (AA) and "Gun Hawk" (AA). Fair $5,000 or less. "From Terrace" (20th) (reissue) and "Wake Me When It's Over" (20th), $5,500.

Elmwood (Snider) (2,200; $2.50-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (13th wk). Stout $9,000. 12th week was $9,500.

Majestic (SW) (2,000; 75-$1)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue). Nice $6,500. Last week "Rampage" (WB) and "Up Periscope" (WB). $5,500.

State (Loew) (3,200; 75-01)—"Johnny Cool" (UA) and "Fastest Gun Alive" (MGM). Drab $6,000. Last week, "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (4th wk), $6,000.

Strand (National Realty) (2,200; 75-$1)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Hep $7,000. Last week, "Running Man" (Col), $3,000.

Col. Trade Sluggish; 'Caretakers' NG 6½G

Columbus, O., Oct. 29.

"The Caretakers" looms light at the Ohio. "Shock Corridor" at Palace is rated mild, also on opener. "How The West Was Won" continues at a pleasing pace in seventh month (29th week).

Estimates for This Week

Grand (RKO) (860; $1.50-$2.75) —"How West Was Won" (MGM) (29th wk). Okay $5,000. Last week, $5,400.

Ohio (Loew) (3,079; 50-$1.50)—"Caretakers" (UA) and "Court Marital" (UA). Slow $6,500. Last week, "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (3d wk), $7,000.

Palace (RKO) (2,845; 50-$1.50)—"Shock Corridor" (AA) and "Rider on Dead Horse" (Cont). Mild $5,000 or close. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) and "Castilllan" (WB); $6,500.

'Love' Brisk $11,000 In Cleve.; 'V.I.P.s' 9G, 5th

Cleveland, Oct. 29.

A couple of new pix were opened here this session but trade in general continues to lag. "A New Kind of Love" looms leader with nice takings at Palace while "Rampage" shapes only average at the Allen, both being newcomers. "V.I.P.s" still is sturdy in fifth session at State. "Conjugal Bed" is rated brisk in third stanza at Colony Art.

Estimates for This Week

Allen (Stanley-Warner) (2,866; $1.25-$1.50) — "Rampage" (WB). Average $9,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk), $8,200.

Colony Art (Stanley-Warner) (1,354; $1.50) — "Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (3d wk). Brisk $2,700. Last week, $3,100.

Continental Art (Art Theatre Guild) (925; $1.50)—"Swedish Mistress" (Indie) and "Monika" (Indie). Routine $2,400. Last week, "Balcony" (Cont) (3d wk), $1,800.

Heights Art (Art Theatre Guild) (925; $1.50)—"In French Style" (Col) (2d wk). Fairish $1,700. Last week, $2,700.

Hippodrome (East Hipp) (3,500; $1.25-1.50)—"Mondo Cane" (Times) (2d wk). Thin $5,000 in six days. Last week, $10,000.

Ohio (Loew) (1,020; $1.80-$3.50) —"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Okay $10,000 after $10,500 last week.

Palace (F&A Theatres) (1,254; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Fine $11,000 or close, best in city for a newcomer. Last week, "Cry of Battle" (AA) and "Gun Hawk" (AA) $5,000.

State (Loew) (3,450; $1.50)—"V.I.Ps" (MGM) (5th wk). Stout $9,000 or near. Last week, $10,000.

Westwood Art (Art Theatre Guild) (955; $1.50)—"In French Style" (Col) (2d wk). Fair $1,900. Last week, $2,900.

'Terror' OK 12G, Det.; 'Man' $15,000

Detroit, Oct. 29.

Only four newcomers, two of them reissues, this week among the firstruns, but the overall biz setup remains good. "The Terror" looks okay at the Fox. "Fantasia" is great in re-isseue at the Trans-Lux Krim. "Wuthering Heights" is fair in re-run at the Madison. "Running Man" looms nice at Palms in first. "V.I.P.'s" stays hot in fifth session at the Michigan. "Cleopatra" continues great in 18th week at United Artists. "How West Was Won" is wham in 35th session at Music Hall. "Lilies of Field" shapes big in second at the Grand Circus.

Estimates for This Week

Fox (Downtown Fox Corp.) (5,041; $1.25-$1.49)—"The Terror" (AI) and "Dementia 13" (AI). Oke $12,000. Last week, "That Kind of Girl" (Indie) and "Young Go Wild" (Indie) (2d wk), $8,500.

Michigan (United Detroit) (4,926; $1.25-$1.49) — "V.I.P.'s" (MGM) (5th wk). Great $20,000. Last week, $20,700.

Palms (UD) (2,995; $1.25-$1.49) —"Running Man" (Col). Fine $15,000. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) and "Voodoo Village" (Indie), $10,000.

Madison (UD) (1,408; $1.25-$1.49) —"Wuthering Heights" (Cont) (reissue). Fair $6,000. Last week, "Leopard" (20th) (3d wk), $4,000.

Grand Circus (UD) (1,400; $1.25-$1.49)—"Lilies of Field" (UA) (2d wk). Big $15,000. Last week, $20,000.

Adams (Community) (1,700; $1.23-$1.50) — "Haunting" (MGM) and "Dime with Halo" (MGM) (2d wk). Fairish $7,000. Last week, $8,000.

United Artists (UA) (1,667; $1.50-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Great $17,000. Last week, $17,200.

Music Hall (Beacon Enterprises) (1,213; $1.25-$2.80) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (35th wk). Great $14,000 or over. Last week, $14,600.

Mercury (Suburban Detroit) (1,468; $1-$1.80)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (4th wk). Slowing to okay $6,000. Last week, $7,000.

Trans-Lux Krim (Trans-Lux) (980; $1.49-$1.80)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Wow $15,000. Last week, "Sporting Life" (Cont) (3d wk), $4,000.

New Films, Milder Weather Boost B'way; 'Mary'-Stageshow Boff 170G, 'Arabia' Great 38G on Popscale

Break in the prolonged dry, Indian Summer weather Monday (28) along with some new screen fare is bringing some encouraging business to Broadway deluxers this session. There were four new bills launched in the last seven days, and some are doing quite well.

Standout newcomer is "Mary, Mary," with stageshow, which is heading for a very big $170,000 or close opening week at the Music Hall. "Lawrence of Arabia," started on a continuous-run and at a lower scale, hit a great $38,000 or close opening round at the State. Showing likely was tempered by the fact that it also is playing numerous other houses, daydate, in the Greater New York area.

"Man With X-Ray Eyes" and "Dementia" hit fair $15,000 or near on opener at the Palace, second dual bill to have failed to come through this month. "Sound of Trumpets" was only modest $7,000 daydating the Cinema Two and Fifth Avenue Cinema. It's by far strongest at the latter spot.

"Tom Jones" continued to amaze in third round at the Cinema One, with a whopping $37,000 for that week. Pic is just starting its fourth session there. "Rampage" looks like slow $24,000 for second frame daydating the Paramount and Trans-Lux 52d Street.

"Stolen Hours" was just okay $18,900 in second stanza daydating the Astor and Trans-Lux 85th Street. "Condemned of Altona" moves into the Astor today (Wed.) while "Leopard" opens at the latter house on moveover, also today.

"Great Escape" wound its long-run at the DeMille with passable $6,800 for its final (12th) week. "New Kind of Love" opens there today (Wed.), daydating with Coronet. "Conjugal Bed" held with big $17,700 in sixth round, daydating the Forum and Fine Arts.

Estimates for This Week

Astor (City Inv.) (1,094; $1.25-$2) —"Condemned of Altona" (20th). Opens today (Wed.). "Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk), was okay $15,000 or close after $22,000 opener.

Cinerama (Loew) (1,552; $1.50-$3.50)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (32d wk). The 31st stanza finished Sunday (27) was smash $24,000 for 11 shows after $26,400 for 30th week, and 13 performances.

DeMille (Reade) (1,463; 90-$2.50) —"New Kind of Love" (Par). Opens today (Wed.). In ahead, "Great Escape" (UA) (12th wk), was okay $6,800 for an outstanding longrun here.

Embassy (Guild Enterprises) (500; $1.50-$2.50)—"8½" (Embassy) (19th wk). The 18th round finished Monday (28) was brisk $6,500 after $6,800 for 17th week. Daydating with the Festival.

Forum (Norel) (813; $1.25-$1.80) —"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (7th wk). Sixth session ended Sunday (27) was lively $9,500 after $10,500 for fifth week. Daydating with Fine Arts.

Palace (RKO) (1,642; $1.25-$2)— "Man With X-Ray Eyes" (AI) and "Dementia" (AI) (2d final wk). Initial week completed yesterday (Tues.) was fair $15,000 or close. "Palm Springs Weekend" (WB) opens Nov. 5.

Paramount (AB-PT) (3,665; $1-$2)—"Rampage" (WB) (3d wk). First holdover session finished yesterday (Tues.) was mild $20,000 or close after $23,500 for first week. Stays on.

Radio City Music Hall (Rockefellers) (6,200; 95-$2.75)—"Mary, Mary" (WB) with stageshow. Initial week ending today (Wed.) is hitting very big $170,000 or close. Holding natch Last week, "V.I.P.s" (MGM) and stageshow (5th wk), $132,000, for a big engagement here.

Rivoli (UAT) (1,545; $2.50-$5.50) —"Cleopatra" (20th) (21st wk). The 20th round finished yesterday (Tues.) held with smash $41,000 or near after $42,000 for 19th week. Weekday matinees have been weakening excepting for some Fridays while some weekday nights have been tapering in the last three sessions.

State (Loew) (1,850; $1.50-$2.50) —"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (2d wk). Initial week on popscale, continuous here hit great $38,000 or very close. Here after 44 weeks on hardticket at Criterion.

Victoria (City Inv.) (1,003; $1.25-$2)—"Cry of Battle" (AA) (3d wk). This week ending tomorrow (Thurs.) looks like slow $6,000 or near if it runs full week after $6,600 in second session.

First-Run Arties

Baronet (Reade) (430; $1.25-$2) —"Wuthering Heights" (Cont) (reissue) (m.o.). Opens here today (Wed.). Last week, "In French Style" (Col) (6th wk), nice $6,000 after $7,600 for fifth.

Beekman (Rugoff Th.) (590; $1.50-$2) — "Knife in Water" (Kana). Opened Monday (28). In ahead, "Suitor" (Atl.) (6th wk-6 days), fair $5,000 after $6,000 for fifth week.

Carnegie Hall Cinema (F&A) (330; $1.50-$2) — "Music Room" (Harrison) (3d wk). First holdover session completed Monday (28) was smooth $5,100 after $7,200 on opener.

Cinema One (Rugoff Th.) (700; $1.50-$2.50)—"Tom Jones" (UA) (4th wk). Third round ended Sunday (27) was wham $37,000 after $38,000 for second, new high at this house and topping record opening week.

Cinema Two (Rugoff Th.) (300; $1.50-$2)—"Sound of Trumpets" (Janus) (2d wk). Initial stanza ended Monday (28) was fair $4,000.

Coronet (Reade) (500; $1.50-$2) —"New Kind of Love" (Par). Opens today (Wed.). Last week, "Wuthering Heights" (Cont) (4th wk), held with solid $9,000 after $10,800 for third.

Festival (Embassy) (546; $2-$2.50) —"8½" (Embassy) (19th wk). The 18th round finished Monday (28) was hotsy $6,500 after $6,800 for 17th week.

Fifth Ave. Cinema (Rugoff Th.) (250; $1.25-$2)—"Sound of Trumpets" (Janus) (2d wk). First week ended Monday (28) was good $3,000. Daydating with Cinema Two.

Fine Arts (Davis) (468; $1.80-$2) —"Conjugal Bed" (Embassy) (7th wk). Sixth session completed Sunday (27) was big $7,700 after $8,200 for fifth week.

Guild (Guild) (450; $1-$1.75)— "Householder" (Indie) (2d wk). First stanza ended Sunday (27) was fine $7,000.

Little Carnegie (Landau) (520; $1.25-$2)—"Sporting Life" (Cont) (16th wk). The 15th round ended

(Continued on page 10)

'AFFAIR' MILD $5,000, L'VILLE; 'WEST' 7G, 2D

Louisville, Oct. 29.

Downtown houses are mostly quiet this week, holdovers not making much noise at the wickets. Absence of strong newcomers leaves the downtown area with a dearth of films with hefty draws. "How West Was Won" at the Rialto is standout in 20th round. "Ticklish Affair" is mild in first at the Mary Ann.

Estimates for This Week

Kentucky (Switow) (900; 75-$1.25)—"David and Lisa" (Cont) and "View From Bridge" (Cont.). These two have played all round territory and light $2,000 only looms. Last week, "Room At Top" (Cont) and "Saturday Night, Sunday Night" (Cont) (reissues), $4,000.

Mary Ann (People's) (1,100; 75-$1.25) — "Ticklish Affair" (MGM) and "Cattle King" (MGM). Mild $5,000 or near. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) (2d wk), $3,500.

Ohio (Settos) (900; 75-$1.25)— "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (3d wk). Modest $3,500 after last week's $5,500.

Penthouse (Fourth Ave.) (900; $1.50-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Medium $6,000. Last week, $8,000.

Rialto (Fourth Ave.) (1,100; $1.25-$1.75) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (20th wk). Dropped hardticket policy with extra shows helping to nice $7,000. Last week, $6,000.

United Artists (Fourth Avenue) (1,800; 75-$1.25) — "V.I.P.'s" (MGM) (4th wk). Modest $6,000. Last week, $8,500.

'Distress' Loud 26G, Toronto; 'Kiss' Potent 22G, 'Fantasia' Fancy $7,500

Toronto, Oct. 29.

Reissue of "Fantasia" was sell-out opening night and looms wow on opening week (with reserved seats holding to two daily performances). Newcomers are "Kiss of Vampire" and "House of Damned" at seven Taylor hardtops and "Doctor in Distress" daydating at three Rank theatres, both being excellent.

Fifth week of "V.I.P.s" looks big at Uptown. "The Caretakers" at Carlton in second looms modest. "Rampage" looks thin also in second, at the Imperial. "New Kind of Love" shapes okay in fifth.

Estimates for This Week

Carlton (Rank) (2,318; $1.25-$2) — "Caretakers" (UA) (2d wk). Mediocre $8,000. Last week, $9,000.

Century, Downtown, Glendale, Kingsway, Metro, Prince of Wales, State (Taylor) (1,342; 1,059; 995; 697; 696; 1,197; 696; 50-$1)—"Kiss of Vampire" (U) and "House of Damned" (20th). Very good $22,000. Last week, "Haunting" (MGM) and "Wall of Noise"(WB), nine Taylor hardtops, with 8,502 capacity, $27,000.

Danforth, Humber, Savoy (Rank) (1,325; 1,204; 780; $1.25-$1.50) — "Doctor in Distress" (20th). Lively $26,000. Last week, "Mondo Cane" (20th) (3d wk), $22,000.

Eglinton (FP) (918; $2-$3)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (31st wk). Still solid at $6,000. Last week, same.

Fairlawn (Rank) (1,175; $2-$3)—"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (39th wk). Robust $8,000. Last week, ditto.

Hollywood (FP) (1,080; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (5th wk). Oke $5,000. Last week, $7,000.

Hyland (Rank) (1,165; $1.25-$1.50) — "Heavens Above" (20th) (3d wk.) Excellent $9,000. Last week, $12,000.

Imperial (FP) (3,216; $1-$1.75)—"Rampage" (WB) (2d wk). Thin $9,500. Last week, $14,000.

Loews (Loew) (1,641; $1-$1.50)—"For Love or Money" (U) (3d wk). Good $7,000. Last week, $10,000.

Tivoli (FP) (935; $1-$1.50) — "Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Wow $7,500. Last week, "Carousel" (20th) (reissue), at $1-$1.25, $4,000.

Towne (Taylor) (693; $1-$1.50)—"Women of World" (IFD) (6th wk). Good $4,500. Last week, $5,000.

University (FP) (1,344; $2-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Sock $22,500. Last week, $23,000.

Uptown (Loew) (2,250; $1.50-$2)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Big $12,000. Last week, $16,500.

CHICAGO

(Continued from page 8)

Won" (MGM) (35th wk). Excellent $18,000. Last week, $19,000.

Monroe (Jovan) (1,000; 65-90) — "Playgirls and Vampire" (Indie) and "Paradisio" (Indie) (reissues). Trim $6,500. "Nude In Charcoal" (Indie) and "Love Island" (Indie) (reissues), $4,600.

Oriental (Indie) (3,400; 90-$1.80)—"Lilies of Field" (UA). Okay $17,000 or near. Last week, "Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk), $14,500.

Roosevelt (B&K) (1,400; 90-$1.80) — "Running Man" (20th). Mild $13,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (3d wk), $11,000 in five days.

State-Lake (B&K) (2,400; $2-$4)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Good $25,000. Last week, $26,500.

Surf (H&E Balaban) (684; $1.50-$1.80)—"The Suitor" (Atl) (2d wk). Sharp $4,300. Last week, $6,000.

Town (Teitel) (640; $1.25-$1.80)—"The Witch" (Indie). Bright $4,700. Last week, "Good Soldier Schweik" (Lionex) (3d wk), $3,500.

United Artists (B&K) (1,700; 90-$1.80) — "Twilight of Honor" (MGM) (2d wk). Fair $11,000. Last week, $17,500.

Woods (Essaness) (1,200; 90-$1.80)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (2d wk). Hot $16,500 or close. Last week, $21,500.

World (Teitel) (608; 90-$1.80)—"Prelude to Ecstasy" (Indie) (2d wk). Bright $4,500. Last week, $5,500.

PHILADELPHIA

(Continued from page 8)

$12,000. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) (2d wk), $6,000.

Lane (SW) (1,000; $1.49)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont). Lofty $9,000. Last week, "Mouse on Moon" (Lope) (3d wk), $3,500.

Midtown (Goldman) (1,200; 95-$1.80)—"Fantasia" (BV) (reissue). Big $10,000. Last week, "Two Nights with Cleopatra," (Indie) (2d wk), $5,000.

Randolph (Goldman) (2,200; 95-$1.80)—"Leopard" (20th) (3d wk). Fair $6,000. Last week, $7,000.

Stanley (SW) (1,450; $2.50-$3)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Lusty $19,000. Last week, $22,000.

Stanton (SW) (1,483; 95-$1.80)—"Twilight of Honor" (MGM). Trim $10,000. Last week, "20,000 Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk), $10,000.

Studio (Goldberg) (400; 95-$1.80)—"Summerskin" (Indie) and "Temptation" (Indie). Fair $3,100. Last week, "Bell, Bare, Beautiful" (Indie) and "Naked Holiday" (Indie), $3,400.

Trans-Lux (T-L) (500; 95-$1.80)—"Running Man" (Col) (3d wk). Weak $2,800. Last week, $3,000.

World (Rugoff) (499; 95-$1.80)—"8½" (Embassy) (3d wk). Fancy $6,000. Last week, $6,600.

Yorktown (SW) (1,000; $1.49)—"Carry On Regardless" (Indie) (2d wk). So-so $3,000. Last week, $4,200.

'Lilies' Lush $14,000 In Frisco; 'West' Wow 26G

San Francisco, Oct. 29.

Some new screen fare will help brighten the local firstrun scene. "Wives and Lovers" looks rather dull on first at Golden Gate but "Lilies of Field" shapes socko on opener daydating two cinemas. "Conjugal Bed" is rated big for initial week at the Vogue. "How West Was Won" still is great in 35th round at Orpheum.

Estimates for This Week

Alexandria (United Calif.) (1,444; $5)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Sturdy $16,000. Last week, $18,000.

Coronet (United Calif.) (1,250; $2-$2.50) — "New Kind of Love" (Par) (4th wk). Nice $4,800. Last week, $5,000.

El Rancho Drive-In (Affil.) (925 cars; $1.25 person) — "Lilies of Field" (UA). Trim $5,500 or over. Last week, subruns.

Embassy (Dibble - McLean) (1,400; $1.75) — "V.I.P.s") (MGM) (5th wk). Hotsy $8,500. Last week, $11,500.

Golden Gate (RKO) (2,850; $1.25-$1.50)—"Wives and Lovers" (Par). Dull $8,000. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) (2d wk), $7,000.

Metro (United Calif.) (1,000; $1.75-$2)—"Mondo Cane" (Times) (22d wk). Hep $2,800 or near. Last week, $3,000.

Music Hall (Ros) (365; $1.49)—"L-Shaped Room" (Col) (19th wk). Great $2,000. Last week, $2,500.

Orpheum (Cinedome) (1,439; $2.75-$3.95)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (35th wk). Smash $26,000 or over. Last week, $25,200.

Paramount (Par) (2,646; $1.50-$1.75)—"Vertigo" (Par) and "To Catch a Thief" (Par) (reissues). Okay $8,000. Last week, "Horrors of Black Zoo" (AA) in 5 days, $9,500.

Presidio (Art Theatre Guild) (750; $1.25-$1.50)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (7th wk). Fine $2,200. Last week, $2,500.

Royal (Nasser) (850; $1-$1.50)—"Lilies of Field" (UA). Socko $8,500. Last week, subruns.

St. Francis (Par) (1,400; $1.50-$1.75)—"Running Man" (Col) (2d wk). Okay $8,000 or close. Last week, $10,500.

Stage Door (A-R) (444; $1.50-$1.80)—"Leopard" (20th) (3d wk). Big $5,000. Last week, $5,500.

United Artists (No. Coast) (1,148; $3-$3.75)—"Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (40th wk). Great $9,000. Last week, $10,000.

Vogue (S.F. Theatres) (365; $2)—"Conjugal Bed" (Emb). Big $6,000. Last week, "Stranger Knocks" (T-L) (9th wk), $3,500.

Warfield (FWC) (2,656; $1.25-$1.50)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (3d wk). Okay $7,000 or better. Last week, $8,000.

400 Rooms As B.O. Aid

Columbus, O., Oct. 29.

Downtown theatres are pleased that Holiday Inns of America has constructed a 12-story motor hotel in the Market-Mohawk urban renewal area adjacent to theatre district.

The 22-story, 400-room, under construction at Third and Gay Streets near the Rialto, should open in November. Showmen foresee better boxoffice resultanlty.

'Love' Lofty $12,000 In Dull Buff; 'Man' Sad 7G

Buffalo, Oct. 29.

Biz is unbelievably slow here this week at firstruns, with only "New Kind of Love" showing much. This pic shapes lively, daydating two smaller houses. "The Haunting" looks barely fair on opener at Paramount but is doing better than other new pix. "Running Man" is very slow at Century although staying 11 days. Even "V.I.P.s" looks sluggish though in fifth at the Buffalo.

Estimates for This Week

Buffalo (Loew) (3,500; 90-$1.49)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Mild $6,000 or near. Last week, $7,000.

Center (AB-PT) (2,500; $1.40-$3) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Slack $4,500 or over. Last week, $4,300.

Century (UATC) (2,700; 90-$1.25)—"Running Man" (Col) and "13 Frightened Girls" (Col). Thin $7,000 or close in 11 days. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) and "Alaskan Eskimo" (BV) (2d wk-5 days), $5,000.

Paramount (AB-PT) (3,000; 90-$1.25) — "Haunting" (MGM) and "The Break" (Indie). Fair $8,000 or near. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) and "The Castillian" (WB), $8,500.

Cinema (Martina) (450; 90-$1.25)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Fast $5,000. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) (2d wk). $2,700.

Amherst (Dipson) (1,000; 90-$1.25)—"New Kind of Love" (Par). Lively $7,000 or near. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par) (2d wk), $3,600.

BROADWAY

(Continued from page 9)

yesterday (Tues.) was trim $5,300 after $5,600 in 14th week. "Naked Autumn" (Davis) is due in Nov. 13.

Murray Hill (Rugoff Th.) (565; $1.50-$2)—"Lilies of Field" (UA) (5th wk). Fourth session finished Monday (28) was good $10,500 after $11,500 for third.

Paris (Pathe Cinema) (568; $1.50-$2) — "Devil and 10 Commandments" (Union) (3d wk). Second round ended Sunday (27) was nice $8,000 after $10,000 for opener.

Plaza (Lopert) (525; $1.50-$2)—"Muriel" (UA). Opens today (Wed.). In ahead, "The Leopard" (20th) (11th wk), okay $5,800 for eight days after $6,500 for regular 10th week.

Sutton (Rugoff Th.) (561; $1.50-$2) — "Any Number Can Win" (MGM) (4th wk). Third stanza finished Monday (28) was great $16,000 or near after $18,000 on second week.

Toho Cinema (Toho) (299; $1.50-$2) — "Chushingura" (Toho) (4th wk). This round winding tomorrow (Thurs.) looks like smooth $6,600 after $7,700 for third week.

Tower East (Loew) (588; $1.50-$2)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (11th-final week). The 10th session completed Monday (28) was lofty $8,000, ahead of the $7,000 for ninth week. "Fantasia" (BV) reissue) is due in Nov. 5.

Trans-Lux East (T-L) (600; $1.25-$2) — "All Way Home" (Par). Opened yesterday (Tues.). Last week, "Gone Are Days" (Indie) (5th wk-9 days), okay $6,700 after $7,000 for fourth week to wind surprisingly strong extended-run.

Trans-Lux 52d St. (T-L) (540; $1.25-$2) — "Rampage" (WB) (2d wk-8 days). Looks like slow $4,000 after $5,000 for first week of seven days. "Face of War" (Janus) opens tomorrow (Thurs.).

Trans-Lux 85th St. (T-L) (550; $1.25-$2)—"Leopard" (20th) (m.o.). Opens today (Wed.). In ahead, "Stolen Hours" (UA) (2d wk), modest $3,900 after $5,900 for initial week.

'Honor' Hefty $7,000, Mpls.; 'Heights' Fair 4G; 'West' Great 10½G, 34th

LOS ANGELES

(Continued from page 9)

wk). Big $14,000 or close. Last week, $16,300.

Four Star (UATC) (868; $1.49-$2)—"Stranger Knocks" (T-L) (2d wk). Lush $6,500. Last week, $11,400.

Fine Arts (FWC) (631; $2-$2.40)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (2d wk. Smash $12,000. Last week, $9,700.

Crest (State) (750; $2)—"Ben-Hur" (MGM) (reissue). Busy $2,500. Last week, "Great Escape" (UA) (m.o.) and "Oklahoma" (20th) (reissue), $2,500.

Lido (FWC) (876; $2)—"Conjugal Bed" (Emb) (2d wk). Okay $2,500. Last week, $3,300.

Hollywood (FWC) (856; $1-$1.49)—"8½" (Emb) and "Seven Capital Sins" (Emb) (reissue) (2d wk). Fine $4,000. Last week, $6,000.

Baldwin (State) (1,800; $1-$1.49)—"West Side Story" (UA) (reissue). Happy $4,500.

Fox Wilshire (FWC) (1,990; $2-$2.40)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (4th wk). Hefty $8,000. Last week, $8,5000.

Hollywood Paramount (State) (1,468; $1.55-$2.40) — "V.I.P.s" (MGM) (7th wk). Tall $12,500. Last week, $14,000.

Pantages (RKO) (1,512; $2.50-$5.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (19th wk). Firm $32,000 or thereabout. Last week, same.

Music Hall (Ros) (720; $2-$2.40)—"L-Shaped Room" (Col) (19th wk). Fair $2,800. Last week, $3,000.

Warner Hollywood (SW) (1,291; $1.25-$2.80) — "How West Was Won" (MGM) (36th wk). Solid $23,000 or near. Last week, $22,900.

Warner Beverly (SW) (1,316; $1.65 - $3.50) — "Lawrence of Arabia" (Col) (45th wk). Hefty $7,000. Last week, $10,000.

Deal Finally Closed, 'Cleo' Set in Kaycee

Kansas City, Oct. 29.

"Cleopatra" opens at the Durwood Capri here Nov. 13. Date follows months of intricate negotiations between circuit president Stanley H. Dodwood and 20th-Fox.

"Cleo" contracts have varied widely around the country, but all have had in common the demand for a guaranteed profit paid in advance, a guaranteed running time and rental beginning at 70% of the boxoffice. Rental to decline by stages to 40% at the end of the required run.

First contract offered Durwood demanded a $250,000 advance and a 361 week guarantee as confirmed by M. Robert Goodfriend, Durwood general manager here. Though coy as to contract's final terms, Goodfriend said only real concession by Fox was in the amount of advance demanded. One reason for the reduced advance, he added, is that the prime summer playing time is gone.

Capri went dark Oct. 21 for freshening-up. "Cleopatra" goes at $3 top, scaled to $1.80 for matinees. Since $3 seats are limited to 70, practical top is $2.75.

WASHINGTON

(Continued from page 8)

Palace (Loew) (2,360; $1.25-$1.80)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Brisk $11,000. Last week, $13,000.

Playhouse (TL) (459; $1.25-$1.80) — "Fantasia" (BV). Boff $8,500. Last week, "L-Shaped Room" (Col) (17th wk) $2,200.

Plaza (TL) (278; $1.25-$1.80)—"Promises, Promises" (Indie) (4th wk). Busy $6,000. Last week, $6,500.

Town (King) (800; $1.25-$1.80)—"For Love or Money" (U) (3d wk). Quiet $4,500. Last week, $5,000.

Trans-Lux (TL) (899; $1.49-$2)—"Running Man" (Col) (3d wk). Dull $3,000. Last week, $3,500.

Uptown (SW) (1,300; $1.65-$2)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (33d wk). Sock $9,000. Last week, $8,700.

Warner (SW) (1,250; $1.50-$2.75) — "Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Great $12,000. Last week, $13,000.

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.

There are only three Loop newcomers currently one being "Wuthering Heights," back on reissue. "Twilight of Honor" is hefty at the Mann. "Twice Told Tales," shapes nice at the Gopher.

There were a couple of surprises last week. One was the departure of "Wives and Lovers" after only a single stanza at the Mann. The other was the smash gross racked up by "How West Was Won" in its 33d session at the Cooper, much larger than estimated and truly remarkable for such a longrun.

"V.I.P.'s" still is hotsy in fifth State round.

Estimates for This Week

Academy (Mann) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50) — "Wuthering Heights" (Cont) (reissue). Fair at $4,000. Last week, "Sword of Lancelot" (U), $3,000.

Avalon (Frank) (800; $1)—"Surftide 77" (Indie) and "Oncee Upon Knight" (Indie) (subrun) (2d wk). Okay $1,000. Last week, $1,300.

Century (Par) (1,300; $2.10-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Neat $8,500. Last week, $9,000.

Cooper (GF) (805; $1.25-$2.50)—"How West Was Won" (MGM) (34th wk). Wow $10,500. Last week, $12,000.

Gopher (Berger) (1,000; $1-$1.25)—"Twice Told Tales" (UA). Fair $4,500 or near. Last week, "Promises, Promises" (Indie) (2d wk), $5,000.

Lyric (Par) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50)—"New Kind of Love" (Par) (3d wk). Smash $7,000. Last week, $7,000.

Mann (Mann) (1,000; $1.25-$1.50)—"Twilight of Honor" (MGM). Hefty $7,000. Last week, "Wives and Lovers" (Par), $6,000.

Orpheum (Mann) (2,800; $1-$1.25)—"20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reissue) (2d wk). Fair $5,000. Last week, $8,000.

Park (Mann) (1,000; $1.50)—"Thrill of It All" (U) (14th wk). Big $2,900. Last week, $3,000.

State (Par) (2,200; $1.25-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Hot $5,500. Last week, $6,000.

Suburban World (Mann) (800; $1.25)—"Lord of Flies" (Cont) (2d wk). Big $3,500. Last week, $4,500.

World (Mann) (400; $1.25-$1.50)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (16th wk). Great $4,800. Last week, $5,000.

Port. Still Limps But 'V.I.P.s' Bright $6,500

Portland, Ore., Oct. 29.

Three new films launched this session are getting no place, and no help to the overall firstrun setup. Especially dull is "Three Stooges Around World in Daze," an opener at Fox. "Running Man" is rated slow at Orpheum, also for first. "Irma La Douce" shapes slick in 13th session at the Irvington. "V.I.P.s" looms bright in fifth Broadway stanza.

Estimates for This Week

Broadway (Parker) (1,890; $1-$1.50)—"V.I.P.s" (MGM) (5th wk). Bright $6,500. Last week, $6,400.

Fox (Evergreen) (1,600; $1-$1.49)—"Three Stooges Around World In Daze" (Col) and "13 Frightened Girls" (Col). Thin $4,000. Last week, "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" (BV) (reisue) (2d wk), $5,500.

Hollywood (Evergreen) (1,890; $1.49-$2)—"South Sea Adventure" (Cinerama) (8th wk). Tall $6,000. Last week, $5,100.

Irvington (Smith) (650; $1.50)—"Irma La Douce" (UA) (13th wk). Lusty $5,500. Last week, $5,200.

Music Box (Hamrick) (640; $1-$1.50)—"In French Style" (Col). Slow $3,000. Last week, "New Kind Of Love" (Par) and "Man Who Knew Too Much" (Par) (reissue) 2d wk), $3,500.

Orpheum (Evergreen) (1,536; $1-$1.49)—"Running Man" (Col) and "Notorious Landlady" (Col) (reissue). Slow $5,000. Last week, "Rampage" (WB) and "A Rome Adventure" (WB) (reissue), $5,200.

Paramount (Port-Par) (1,406; $2-$3.50)—"Cleopatra" (20th) (18th wk). Loud $8,000. Last week, $7,500.

PUT AN X-RAY ON 'SHOWCASE'

Candid Reference to a Merger With TOA Embarrasses Allied

A few moments of drama were provided during one of the business sessions at last week's Allied States Assn. convention in Manhattan when a delegate from Pennsylvania introduced the taboo topic of the possibility of Allied's merging with Theatre Owners of America.

Ken Winnegaard stepped forward and suggested that the organization spouted a lot of "tears and threats" but actually did little about its complaints. This raised strong questions in his mind, he said, as to the actual strength of Allied and to what extent it actually represents the exhibs of the country.

He said that the major problem facing theatremen today is "how are we going to buy film to keep our theatres going with a little dignity." He questioned Allied's effectiveness in answering this problem. "Are we really strong enough?", he asked.

The Pennsylvania exhib then said that maybe the time has come for Allied to explore a merger with TOA, not on a "weak sister" approach but based on a mutual assessment of each other "so that we can truly serve as a national trade organization." He said that the old excuses aren't good enough any more. "Maybe it's time we develop muscle distributors can understand," he suggested. He concluded his remarks by telling Allied to "make peace" with its opposition and provide a trade organization that's capable of dealing with exhibitor's problems.

Winnegaard's views weren't well received by Allied execs. Irving Dollinger, convention chairman who was helming the session, quickly announced "you're out of order." He said that Allied does a full-time job and that, in any case, this was neither the time nor place to bring up such a matter. It appeared that merger talks were simply something Allied doesn't want aired at a public session.

Board chairman Marshall Fine alluded to it in his keynote address calling merger "inevitable" but distant. That was to be all that was to be discussed on the matter at the convention, apparently. After Winnegaard made his remarks, Allied prez Jack Armstrong reminded the convention that Allied is an organization of units and that merger talk isn't new. The national board follows the dictates of the units, he said, and the subject has been discussed at board meetings many times. Delegates haven't seen fit to vote on it, however, the prez pointed out. He also illustrated that Allied works with TOA on some matters even today. "We agree on some things and don't on others," he said.

Basic difference between the two organizations is that Allied is made up mostly of independents and grass roots exhibs while TOA has membership by most of the titans of exhibition—the major circuits and exhibs. Some favor this balance and others seek one all-encompassing organization. As has been pointed out many times, there are several differences which separate the organizations and, although a merger may be inevitable, as Fine has stated, it is anything but close.

'FANTASIA' OF 1940 AS LATENT REISSUE

Walt Disney's "Fantasia," originally released in 1940, has played seven re-run engagements and in all seven has done better at the b.o. than when it first went out, according to Irving Ludwig, president of Buena Vista, Disney's distribution subsidiary. Locations were in Denver, Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, Kansas City, San Diego, Seattle and Portland. Film has been held over in all of them.

"Fantasia" is to play only theatres across the country which are equipped with full stereophonic sound.

FORM 'TOA OF OHIO VALLEY'

M. H. Chakares Presides Over New Theatre Group

A new unit for Theatre Owners of America has been formed in Ohio, also covering those portions of Kentucky and Virginia which are within the Cincinnati exchange area. It has been named Theatre Owners of Ohio Valley. M. H. Chakares is installed as the unit's first prez.

David Staadeker has been elected legal advisor and contact with the legal arm of national TOA and Ben Cohen is official rep to the TOA board, secretary and chairman of the membership committee. Other chairmen and their committees include: Ben Geary, legislative; John Hewitt, publicity; J. Waller Rhodes, finance and Martin Shear, film.

Metro Head Believes Prestige Figure Necessary To MPAA-MPEA Vitality

Robert H. O'Brien, president of MGM, still feels that somebody of potency in international diplomatic relations ("where Eric Johnston was so very valuable") belongs with the Motion Pictures Assn. of America although conceeding that the present setup has things well under control. But as a footnote to this, O'Brien points to "somebody like Amory H. Bradford (former v.p. and g.m. of the N.Y. Times, who just joined the Scripps-Howard Newspapers as assistant general business manager under Mark Ferree, exec veepee and general business manager) would be ideal for the motion picture business to improve our industry relations with top echelon newspaper publishers."

O'Brien points to certain sensitive newspaper areas where the publishers just seemingly don't understand or openly resent the picture business. Also, instances where the entertainment section is okay, including the movie reviewers, but where editorially the dailies have "seemingly gone out of their way to give us the needle."

By and large, with the company presidents more interested in MPPA affairs and having "good knowledge of immediate and future problems," they have been paying more attention to MPAA matters. In turn, under exec veepee Ralph D. Hetzel, the association is well coordinated in its regional chieftains overseas.

In connection with executive manpower, O'Brien opines that "among the aristocracies of American business is show business".

Droopy British Data

London, Oct. 29.

New Board of Trade statistics covering 1962 illustrate the continued downward trend of the British motion picture industry. There were fewer theatres, admissions declined, gross b.o. takings were down and there was a consequential drop in payments for film hire.

Total admissions for the year, at 394,963,000 were down by nearly 54,000,000, and gross b.o. receipts dropped by $8,190,000 to $159,289,200. Film hire payments declined $3,586,800 to $49,218,400. Exhibitors' share of b.o. receipts for the year was $99,313,200, some $4,541,600 less than the previous year. The amount collected by the British Film Production Fund (the statutory Eady levy) totalled $10,757,600.

The number of theatres dropped by 290 to hit a new low of 2,421, with a consequential decline in seating capacity of 228,900 to 2,420,100 seats.

UNITED ARTISTS DUCKS CLINIC

As had been projected before the start of last week's Allied States Assn. convention, the organization devoted an entire morning business session to a discussion of United Artists' "Premiere Showcase" distribution plan. Notable by their absence were reps from either UA or 20th Century-Fox, which also has used the "showcase" system on occasion.

An exchange of ideas lasting over two hours developed, introduced by Gotham exhibs Sam Horwitz and Meyer Ackerman, the former discussing the pro and the latter the con. Also leading the discussion were Pittsburgh exhib George Stern and Buffalo theatreman Sid Cohen. These two areas, with New York, are the main locations in which UA has used the "showcase" multiple first-run scheme.

Major backing for the plan centered around claims of improved biz, new customers, bigger ad budgets and more prestige for normally second run nabes. For distribs, the system allegedly provides higher terms, greater playoff and bigger grosses and patrons were said to get greater convenience for catching firstrun pix by not having to make a big downtown trip.

Gloomy Side

However, the general tone seemed downbeat. Ackerman chose to question the plan on a "hope or hoax?" premise. He said it was an example of "how to secede from business without really trying" and that "showcase" solved no exhib problems but, actually, created others because it is based on a principal of fewer theatres with longer runs. He claimed, and others agreed, that "showcase" is based on blind booking and high terms, that it has aggrevated the already uneven release flow and that it is dedicated to a "no adjustment" policy. It has also, he pointed out, led to other problems such as with the projectionists union and has put ticket prices in an orbit which nabe customers object to.

It was claimed that "showcase" emphasis on longer dates has cancelled 10 years of progress by independents and the forecast was that the only one it will eventually be good for are the lawyers who will be getting increased biz from exhibs who will soon be resorting to legal action to "protect" their businesses.

In favor of "showcase," it was argued that, for the theatres involved, it created a kind of "third circuit" which can better compete with the majors like RKO and Loew's by getting product on a firstrun basis instead of having to compete on a strictly second run formula. It was later charged, however, that UA is actually after the circuits with "showcase" and that eventually the plan will be absorbed by chains who now choose to stay away. When this happens, it was said, the independents will never see the pix.

Stern reported a mixed reaction to "showcase" in Pittsburgh, saying that it hasn't been used there long enough to really tell yet what it's effects will be. He did opine, however, that the plan has been hurting smaller theatres in the area. He called it a "limited multiple" and said that it was hurting because "showcase" uses 10 or 12 theatres where 20 or so were previously used.

Cohen said that it was too early to tell in Buffalo also, and for the same reason of it being too new an innnovation. One observation he made, Cohen said, was that while his grosses were good on the "showcase," his opposition was breaking records because the pix they had to choose from were better in some cases than UA's or Fox's. The opposition had some pictures that he might have got-

(Continued on page 21)

Snaper's Let's-Pool-on-Big-Pictures Stirs Talk, Skepticism As To 'Action'

About the only action proposed out of all the meetings and discussions at last week's Allied States Assn. convention at the American Hotel in N.Y. was Wilbur Snaper's recommendation that Allied establish a buying committee to represent a block of member theatres in negotiating with distributors on so-called "major pictures."

Early one morning some Allied execs met to talk the Snaper concept over and decided to pass it along to their legal advisors. It was later reported to the convention that the lawyers found the idea "feasible with reservations."

The feasibility was enough to trigger more palaver. There was apprehension by several members that the idea will fade and die. Delegates were told by convention chairman Irving Dolinger not to be dreary, that Allied is "going to work on this as quickly as possible."

Proposal consumed more talking time. The net result was the decision that the regional units of Allied would each have to approve the plan and empower the national body to act, fully supported.

No committee was formed, however, to explore or coordinate action on the proposal. As envisioned by Snaper combined buying power of around $2,500,000 could be mustered. Throughout the convention exhibs echoed the complaint that smaller houses are being deprived of top product, only getting it when it has been milked.

Some delegates feared that the regional approach would take too long and eventually scuttle the Snaper scheme. Allied execs, however, said it was the only way and suggested immediate action at home right after delegates return from the conclave. In this regard, Snaper warned the exhibs that the plan would take a concerted effort. "You gotta put your theatre where your mouth is," he cautioned. What will happen now that the organization has disbanded to its local regions remains to be seen.

There is more than scattered skepticism as to the outcome of the proposal. It is not the first time Allied has discussed such a plan. But the members are fired up on the idea which, incidentally, is being projected to include anyone who wants to join, Allied member or not.

HAILS TRADE PRESS

TOA's Herman Levy Thinks They Are Distinctly Useful

In departing Theatre Owners of America, its former general counsel, Herman M. Levy, at Sunday (27) luncheon in the Hotel Americana, N. Y. paid tribute to the tradepapers of the industry. Their personnel has changed but, said the attorney the "discerning and objective eye has not."

Declaring the trades an integral part of the industry, Levy said he was grateful and glad. Polite applause followed, but no serpentine dancing between the tables.

Ben Marcus Rues Trend To 'Class Medium' And Wonders About Uncle Sam

The spectre of the United States government was raised by Allied States Assn. exec committee chairman Ben Marcus during the organization's recent national convention in New York. Although he foresaw the future as one of "peaceful coexistance" between exhibition and distribution, Marcus reminded the delegate of the potential of government intervention in some trade practices.

Marcus was generally less militant about how to handle exhib problems than were other Allied execs. But he did remind the convention of Allied's effectiveness in bringing about divorcement and said that if peaceful means could not be worked out to solve some theatre difficulties, maybe it would again be smart for Allied to seek Federal help.

He said that pictures must be delivered to the masses and not just the classes, as is presently the case. He told the convention that the picture biz is "embarking on a new era of prosperity," both technologically and via a theatre building boom. He attacked such well-documented problems as clearances, bidding, orderly distribution, pix on tv and distribution policy-making gripes.

Marcus especially attacked what he called distribution's "deaf and dumb" approach to selling pix. In this procedure, he said, they quote terms and then don't want to see you or hear from you with rebuttals. These and other trade practices were often mentioned during the convention's run.

Chief offender in the eyes of the exhibs as far as trade practices were concerned seemed to be Metro and 20th-Fox. Both companies drew considerable complaining comments regarding the manner in which they booked "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm" and "Longest Day" in particular, especially as regards damage to small theatres. Buena Vista also got a jab or two for allegedly ignoring smaller situations.

Allied's plan to attend stockholders meetings and bring distribution practices to the attention of holders was said not to have worked out too well. Board chairman Marshall Fine told of a poor reception at a recent Metro holders meet, at which an Allied stockholder delegation was present.

Always an Angle

Proposal that theatres, via closed-circuit television, enter the horserace business, with legalized betting just like at the tracks, has been advanced by a Baltimore promoter. Commented one Manhattan exhibitor, "With the way our film business is, what have we got to lose?"

A fellow theatreman rejoinered, "The feeling is parimutuel."

'BAREFOOT IN PARK' PAR OUTING; BUT WB?

Paramount has the inside track on screen rights to "Barefoot in the Park," "Saint Suber presentation which, on the basis of the reviews and the window action, looks to be the top legit comedy of the season.

Unusual deal was a pre-production one whereby Par optioned to pay $150,000 minimum for the rights and a maximum of $460,000, but with the final price to be open to competitive bidding up to that $460,000. When the bidding figure reaches that latter figure Par gets it, if willing.

The play opened at New York's Biltmore Theatre Wednesday (23) to a uniform set of rave reviews and allegedly was brought in at $120,000.

However, there's a legalistic rub involved so far as Par's position is concerned. Warner Bros. is asserting itself via some courtroom maneuvers.

In one cause of action filed in N. Y. Supreme Court against author Neil Simon, WB charged that the defendant reneged on an agreement to license the "Park" screen rights to WB. This was dismissed by the tribunal, but is subject to an appeal. Second cause of action, this against both Simon and Par, is still pending. This offers the allegation that Par induced Simon to break away from what should have been regarded as a firm obligation to WB.

HAFBO

Leading independent distributors in the Netherlands

★

We are happy to be associated with

SAMUEL BRONSTON

for

"El Cid" • "55 Days at Peking"

"The Fall of the Roman Empire"

"Circus World"

JOE LEVINE

for

"Boccaccio '70" and forthcoming big ones
from Embassy

NAT COHEN and STUART LEVY

for a.o. "Billy Liar" • "Nurse on Wheels" from Anglo-Amalgamated

★

HAFBO N.V., PAUL KIJZER, President

AMSTERDAM-C • 698 KEIZERSGRACHT • PHONE 237575 • CABLES: KYFILM

U. S. Representative:
RICHARD GORDON • NEW YORK 19
120 West 57th Street • Phone: PLaza 7-9390-1-2

Paris Office:
ORCINE - FILMS
1, Rue Lord Byron • Phone: Ely. 47-35

HAFBO

introduces at the San Francisco Festival:

a Dutch picture with international appeal

THE SPITTING IMAGE

Based on the Novel, "The Dark Room of Damocles"
by W. F. Hermans
(Published in the U.S. by Grove Press, New York)

Written and directed by
FONS RADEMAKERS

Photography in Franscope by Raoul Coutard

A CINEUROPE PRODUCTION

★

"An intelligent film! Excellent camerawork!"
VARIETY

DURING THE SAN FRANCISCO FESTIVAL CONTACT RICHARD GORDON.

British Films Council Plans To Wait Till '64 To Discuss Trade Problems

London, Oct. 29.

The Cinematograph Films Council, a statutory body appointed by the government to advise the president of Board of Trade on film industry problems, has decided to wait until the New Year before it has a full dress discussion on current trade problems, with particular reference to the need to establish a third circuit. Such circuit is to alleviate booking problems facing independent producers.

The matter was a brief item on the agenda of last week's Film Council session, and it was felt advisable to wait until January when the considered views of all trade organizations to the recent sub-committee report will be on hand. The sub-committee's findings, published last August, urged the industry to take another look at the possibility of creating a new sizeable outlet, with the veiled threat that government intervention could follow industry inaction.

There is an overwhelming trade view that a third circuit cannot be justified in present circumstances, mainly because of the inadequate supply of top grade product. It was for that reason that John Davis launched his rationalization program some years back, but his attempt at that time to maintain a "national" circuit largely foundered because there were not enough good pictures around to sustain it.

On the other hand, more tradesters take the view that it would be better for the industry to have another stab at the problem rather than risk further government intervention in industry affairs. This, however, could only be accomplished if the two majors, Rank and Associated British, were prepared to shear off part of their existing theatres to form a potential nucleus for a third release. This, however, would have the disadvantage of weakening the present earning capacity of the two major circuits, and would consequently damage the grosses of pictures playing a major circuit release.

The problem is still a priority item on the agendas of all industry trade associations as well as the unions. The latter are particularly concerned because the failure of producers to get suitable playing time has hurt production activity and wide scale redundancies in major studios are already threatened.

Cannes Fest To Award Outside Prizes To Pix Having B. O. Potential

Paris, Oct. 29.

The 1964 Cannes Film Fest, April 29-May 13, will have a special outside prize given by the Syndicate of French Film Exhibitors. Called the Ticket D'Or (The Golden Ticket), a gilded version of a cinema admission ducat, two will be given for the best French and foreign film susceptible of making money rather than getting fest awards and remaining so-so b.o. affairs.

French exhibs seem to feel that no entered pix will be worthy of these awards and next April a special committee will scan new local and offshore pix to make the kudos and then show these pix in private houses at Cannes. Then the presentations would be made during the festival.

These two films then will get special top bookings around France. It remains to be seen if exhibs can foresee hits. Belgian and Swiss exhibs may also go along with this idea.

Jean Rebotier, prexy of the SFFE, says these prizes were set up since jury nods at festivals usually go to specialized pix that rarely are the types for big-scale public success. The aim is to restore prestige to the important commercial or, specifically, generally audience-slanted films that merit the prestige of fest kudos, but rarely get them.

A look at the top 12 grossers here this season shows that five of them did run at major festivals this year and four got smaller fest awards. However, a majority of the grossers were not fest pix.

Princess Soraya's 1st Pic Big News in Italy

Rome, Oct. 22.

The continued Italian (and Continental) interest in things Royal is demonstrated by the widespread coverage given by papers and magazines to the news of Princess Soraya's choice of "The Empress" as her first film for Dino DeLaurentiis. Announcement and related stories made headlines in this country, though the pic will not start until next March.

She reportedly gets $250,000 plus 20% of profits for her stint. No leading man has been selected. Alberto Lattuada directs, from a treatment by Giancarlo Fusco and Pasquale Prunas.

The princess chose the project from among five submitted and okayed the director after seeing four of Lattuada's previous pix.

Hopeful of 1st Anglo-European Co.-Prod. Pact

London, Oct. 22.

As a result of meetings held in Paris last week, at governmental level, there is now growing confidence that the first Anglo-European coproduction treaty will come into effect by next year. Negotiations with the French authorities will be followed by further meetings with the Italians in Rome at the end of the month.

According to a reliable but unofficial observer, it is understood that agreement has been reached on the basic headings of a treaty which would have a trial run of 18 months, though neither party could guarantee the support of the unions in making coproduction a workable undertaking.

One major area of agreement, however, specifies that there must be an equal volume of production on either side of the English channel during the 18-month stretch. If, for example, 10 productions are launched within that period, five will have to be made in Britain and the other five in France. It is not necessary, however, that productions should be planned on an alternate basis, so long as there is an equal division.

It is estimated that the treaties will need governmental ratificaboth in London and Paris. And there is hope that this may be accomplished before the end of the year, to enable coproduction to get off the ground by 1964—some five years after it was first considered by British film producers.

Lippert Launches Brit. Production Program of 10 'B' Films Annually

London, Oct. 29.

Robert L. Lippert has set up shop at Shepperton studios and plans a program of around 10 "B" pix per year with a total budget around $1,000,000. He is involved in a two-way deal, producing some pictures for British Lion and Lion International, and others for 20th-Fox.

In association with Jack Parsons of Parroch-McCallum Productions Lippert has a deal to make six films a year for distribution in Britain through British Lion, and with Eastern Hemisphere rights going to that company's foreign sales arm, Lion International. Additionally, he has a program under his own British company, Lippert Films Ltd., for 20th Fox, first of which is "The Horror of It All." This is now nearing completion and the second is tentatively set to roll next year. "Horror" stars Pat Boone.

Prior to the British Lion deal, Lippert and Parsons filmed "The Eyes of Annie Jones" for release through Rank and also have delivered "Walk a Tightrope" to BL. The contract with the latter company calls for four to six a year, and all pix are being filmed at Shepperton studios.

'Cleo' Okayed by Aussie Censor After Trims

Sydney, Oct. 22.

Chief Aussie Censor Colin Campbell has given the greenlight after cuts to "Cleopatra" (20th) for this territory. Pic preems at the Mayfair here early in December with the admission rate of $2.

No announcement covering a ban of the pic has yet been made here by Roman Catholic Church authorities.

46 Italo Features On Jumpy Seats Re 'Aid' Status

Rome, Oct. 29.

Some 46 Italian features, many of them already in local release, are still waiting for formal approval (or not) of their film aid status, in an unusual situation which is currently worrying the Italo exhib association.

Per the local legislation, features may be released without aid okay (which entails recognition of "minimum artistic and technical values" by special committee) as long as they get a censor go-ahead. They must have this added seal, however, if they expect to enjoy the added, and sometimes vital, aid coin in tax refund percentages.

Now, exhibs and producers are asking for rapid survey and judgment on backlog of aid candidates, some of which have been in release since March of this year, so that situation may be cleared.

Of 46 total, 16 are waiting for special approval allowing them to qualify for an exception benefit of 40%, awarded to features "produced for youthful audiences."

Major Hassle Brews On Firing of Film Critic; Blame Leftwing Angle

Rome, Oct. 22.

A hassle of major proportions is brewing here over the recent firing by his Rome newspaper, of film critic Gino Visentini. Visentini, who for years had served as reviewer for Rome's afternoon daily, Giornale d'Italia, is also the president of the Italian Film Critics Association. He reportedly was asked to leave his post (though official motivation by paper speaks of "reorganization of services") for the manner in which he reviewed two recent Italian films, the Veniie Festival winner, "Hands Upon the City," and "The Leopard."

Still per local reports, the paper is said to have been dissatisfied with the favorable comments by Visentini on pix, both of which were directed by men with leftwing tendencies, which are opposed to those held by paper.

While the press has seized on the incident for headlines about "critical freedom," etc., both the critics association and ANAC, the Italo Authors Assn., have drawn up public protest motions, to be followed by meetings to discuss further action.

The critics group motion "calls attention of the Italian press and all men of culture to the significance of this episode, which symptomatically inserts itself into a vast plan of attack on the Italian cinema which is) undergoing—in addition to an economic-political attack—a full-fledged action of ideological terrorism."

While the firing is unprecedented in this country for the last few years, it is not the only incident aroused by Francesco Rosi's controversial Venice winner. "Hands" has previously been target of considerable post-fest attack, including an indirect one by the Vatican daily, Osservatore Romano.

Pic, which opened a few days ago, is doing spotty biz in Italo keys, where WB releases. While it's averaging a robust $1,500 per day in Milan, the Rome figures are close to a disappointing $1,200 per.

International Sound Track

London

"Cleopatra" had its first out-of-town opening at the Gaumont, Manchester, on Monday (28). Proceeds went to the Cinematograph Trade Benevolent Fund and the British Empire Cancer Campaign . . ."Carry on Cabby," seventh in the series, goes on general release Nov. 10, after a prerelease run at the new Victoria from last Sunday (27). It's a Peter Rogers production for Anglo Amalgamated and distributed in the U.K. through Warner-Pathe . . . Average weekly paid admissions in picture theatres during the month of September totalled 7,400,000, with a weekly b.o. gross of $3,444,000, according to statistics released last week by the Board of Trade . . . Duke of Edinburgh will be attending the British Royal preem of "Bye, Bye Birdie" at the Odeon, Marble Arch on Nov. 7. The Queen was to have attended but pregnancy cancelled all public engagements. The premiere will be in aid of the British Olympic Appeal . . . Paul Lukas has joined the cast of Richard Brooks' "Lord Jim," which starts filming in Hong Kong within the next two or three weeks. In the pic are Peter O'Toole, James Mason, Jack Hawkins and Curt Jurgens . . . Cliff Richard is to star in a new musical—his third—"Wonderful Life," which will be made on location in the Canary Islands. Femme lead will be played by Susan Hampshire and also appearing in the pic will be The Shadows, Dennis Price, Richard O'Sullivan, Melvyn Hayes and Una Stubbs. Film will be produced by Kenneth Harper and directed by Sid Furie. It is an Elstree Distributors project for release through Associated British-Pathe.

Rome

Sam Marks and Ray Nazzaro have revived their "Cowboy in Italy" project and will shoot it soon in Sardinia with Guy Williams in lead; Marks currently on Coast to polish script, while Nazzaro is in Rome for advance production work . . . Orson Welles shot some test footage for "The Bible" on DeLaurentiis epic's Mount Etna location: local talk is a switch to Cinerama may be contemplated . . . Galatea topper Lionello Santi denied political tendencies on his just-released Venice winner, "Hands Upon the City," deplored press controversies which he says have made a political issue out of a social document; "world audiences will have the final say," he concludes . . . Italy and Austria met at Milan MIFED to talk over new film exchange pact between two countries.

A secret pic on Rome's ruthless "paparazzi" lens-hounds has reportedly been shot here by French lenser Jacques Rozier during production of Brigitte Bardot starrer, "Ghost at Noon" . . . Milan gunsmith is reportedly manufacturing perfect Colt replicas, used in westerns in Europe (and some say the U.S.) at fraction of the American price . . ."Gypsy" has been dubbed "La Donna Che Invento lo Striptease" (The Woman Who Invented Striptease) by Warners' Italo release outfit.

Italo Entertainment Minister Alberto Folchi predicts Italy will hit same production figure as last year (some 250 features) in '63; announced '62 export figures hit $35,000,000 with another $16,000,000 in first six months of '63 . . . Michele Mercier about to sign a five-pic pact with Seven Arts . . ."Cleopatra" given a "discouraged" Catholic Film rating here, meaning it's "objectively dangerous for all audience groups"—only one step away from the "forbidden to all" slotting . . also in same niche: a spoof in current release called "Toto and Cleopatra". . . Rank release Galatea's "Hands Upon the City" in France . . . Joseph E. Levine's local-coproduction program of four features totals $8,600,000 in budgetary expenses . . Rome's International Film Service adding a TV and Theatrical Publicity Film branch under direction of Silvio Sanson to its film service program . . . Paul Baron penned theme song for Steve Barclay's upcoming U release, "Dark Purpose."

Berlin

A flood of old pix starring the late Gustaf Gruendgens reissued here. Gruendgens who died in Manila Oct. 7 was seen in about 30 films within the years. In addition, he directed six . . . Werner Pledath, currently in Alfred Jarry's "Ubu, the King," play at Paul Esser's Schauspielhaus Hansa. Pledath has mostly been playing in East Berlin within the postwar years . . . The jury at upcoming Mannheim Film Fest is composed of Henri Stork (Belgium), Gordon Hitchens (U.S.), Edgar Morin (France), Kazimierz Karabasz (Poland), Rudolf Sremec (Yugoslavia), Istvan Nemeskuerty (Hungary), Erwin Goeltz (Germany), Guenter Anders (Austria) with a ninth member still to be named. Even if latter comes from a western country, the East European share amounts to one third at this West European film fest . . . Luggi Waldleitner ("The Girl Rosemarie"), has given up producing films.

Max Reinhardt commemoration held at Schiller Theatre. Gottfried Reinhardt, son of the late (1943) director, attended the event which included the preem of a documentary film directed by Alfred Berndt and produced by Bertelsmann for television . . . Adolf Arndt, W-Berlin's Cultural Senator, warned in a round table discussion of a "spiritual wall" which is bound to arise if works by Bert Brecht wouldn't be performed in W-Berlin . . . The ensemble of Opernhaus Koeln (Cologne Opera) guested here with Wolfgang Fortner's "In His Garden Loves Don Perlimplin Belisa." Oscar Fritz Schuh staged this opera with Wolfgang Sawallisch having musical direction.

'Milly' in Cinerama Process Considered Milestone For Hungary's Industry

Budapest, Oct. 22.

The Hungarian film industry, drawing new international attention on account of its co-production with Cinerama of "Milly Goes to Budapest," has a well established and active production and distribution setup going. Annual production averages 20 features plus some 150 newsreels, 50 cartoons and educational shorts. Prior to the Cinerama partnership, there were two co-productions with French outfits ("The Lady and the Gypsy" and "Germinal"), one with Misr Studio of Cairo ("Two Kids and the Pyramids") and two others with the Czechoslovak film combine ("St. Peter's Umbrella" and "Every Day—Sunday.") All were filmed for widescreen.

In 1962, of 26 features imported from the western world, the most, 10, came from France, four ("Inherit the Wind," "Lust for Life," "Absent-Minded Professor" and "Swiss Family Robinson") from the U. S., five from Britain, two from West Germany, four from Italy and one from Cuba. Statistically, Cuba is listed with the West.

Of 86 from socialistic countries, including Yugoslavia, 35 came from the USSR, 18 from neighboring Czechoslovakia and eight from East Germany.

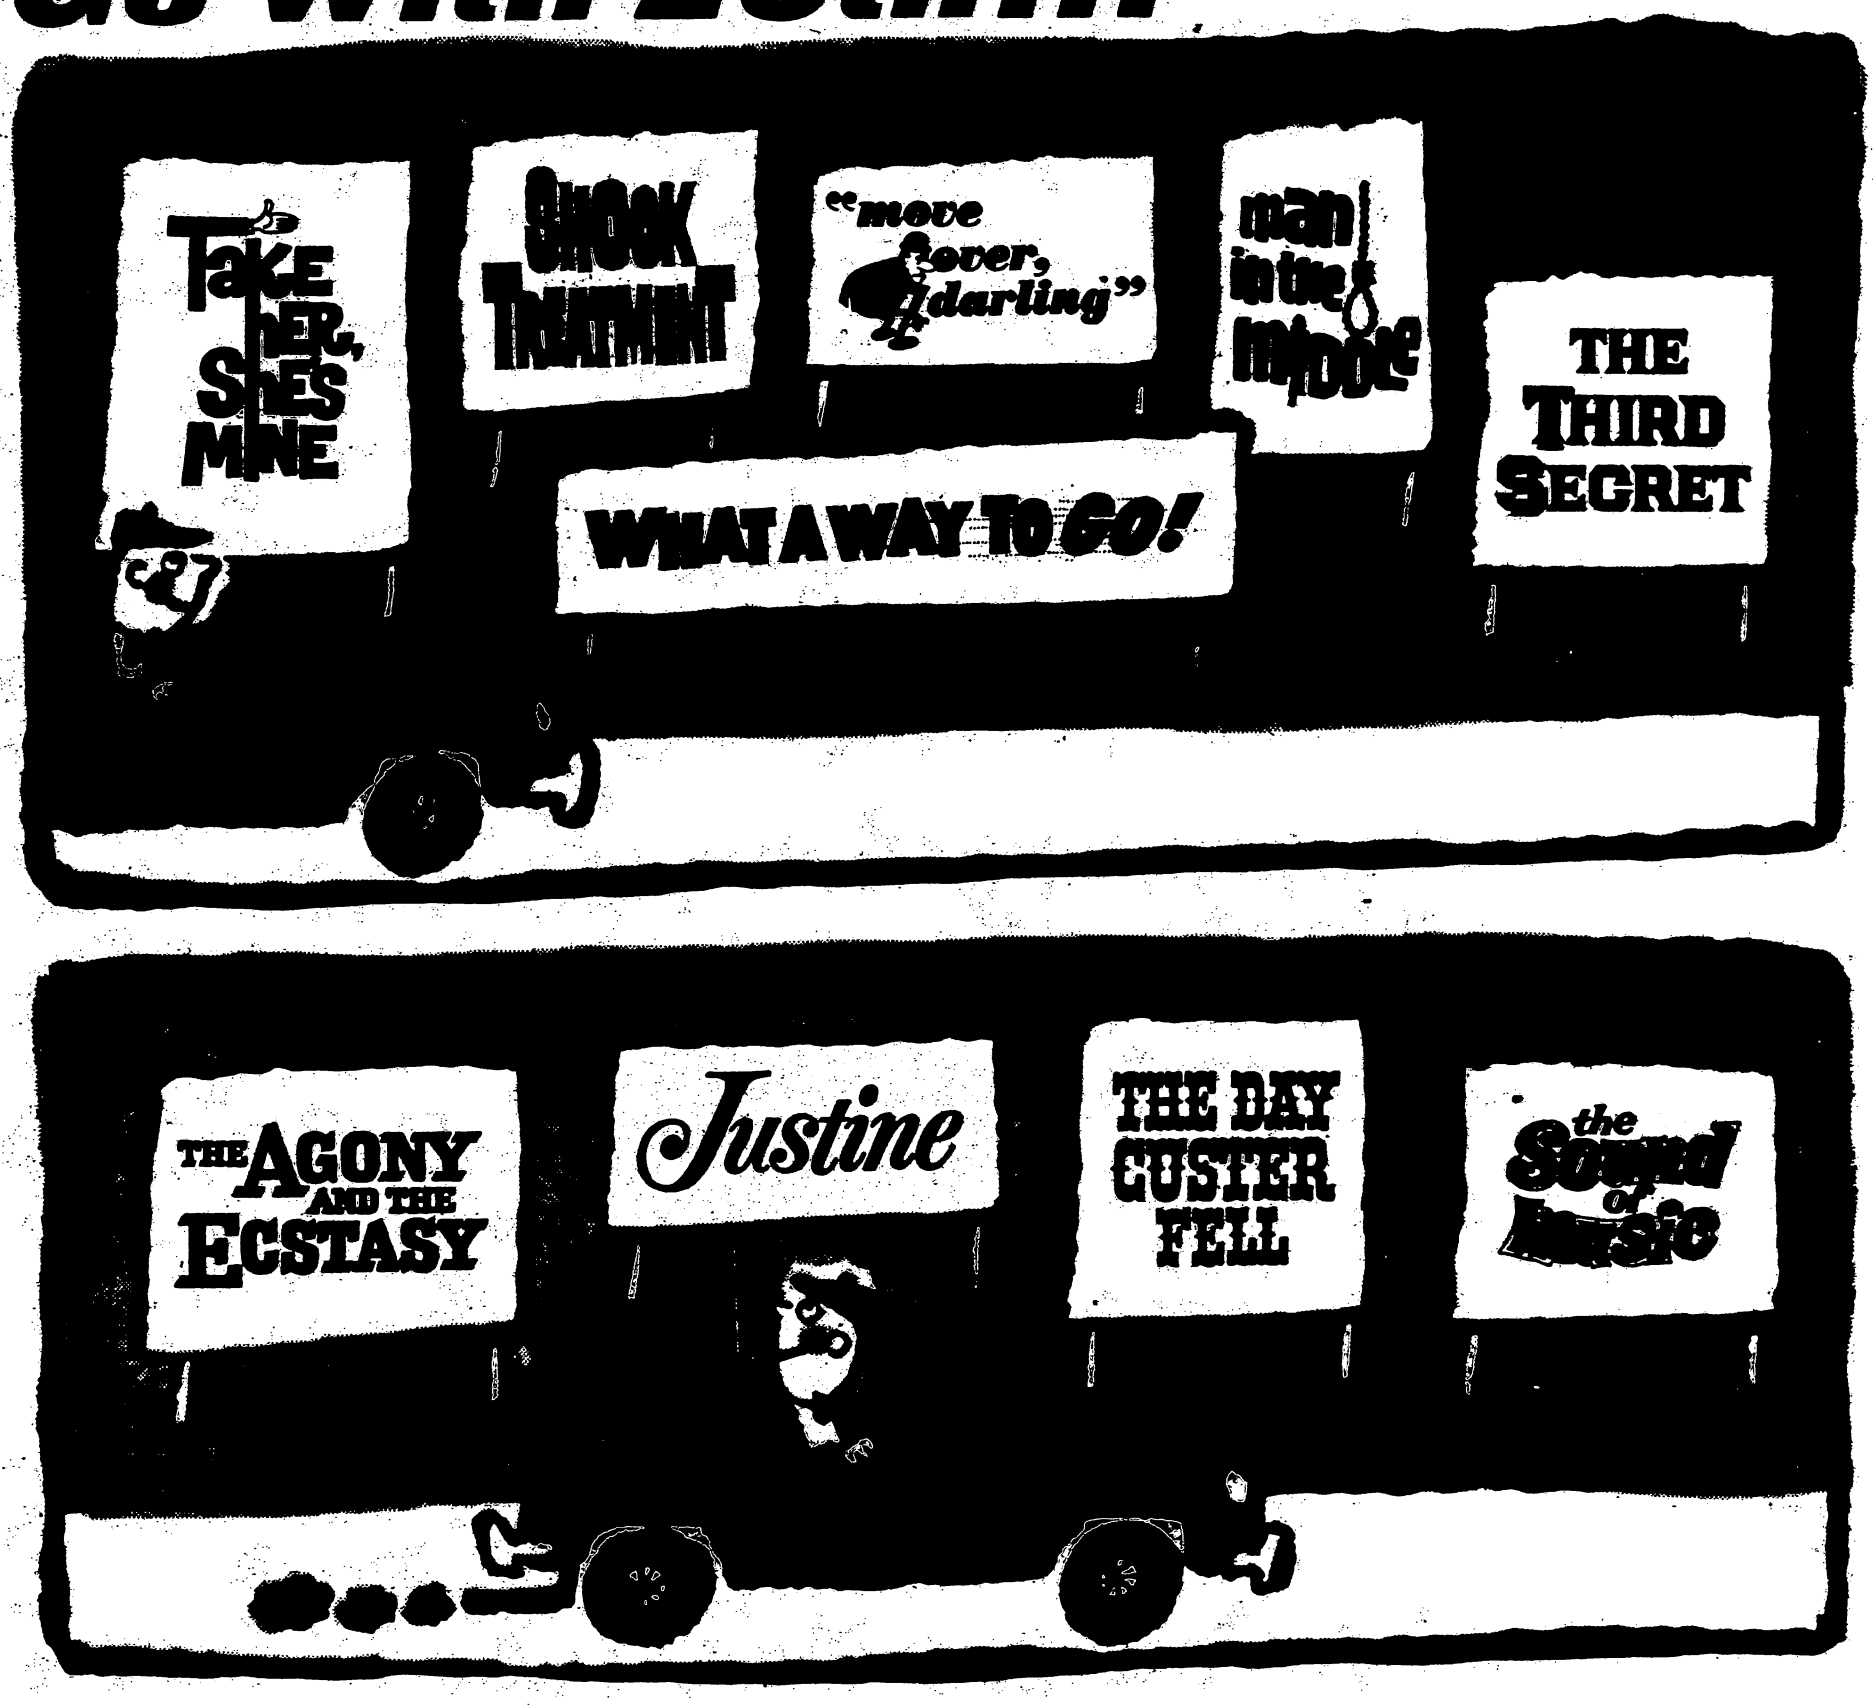
In all cases the films are bought with full rights for a five year period for flat prices ranging from $2,000 to $3,000.

At present there are 4,517 screens on which to show these features. Of these, 825 are geared for 35m, while the balance utilize 16m. Of the former, 285 are widescreen.

Back in 1935 there were only 452 cinemas in Hungary, while in 1950, there were 1,549.

There is no Cinerama installation in Hungary, but since "Milly Goes to Budapest" is being filmed by the new single-lens system of Cinerama it is expected that the picture will be shown in CinemaScope instead.

Go With 20th...



...It's Money in The Bank!

'We'll Solve Filipino Industry's Problems, and Not Hurt United States'

Efforts of the newly formed Philippine Motion Picture Producers Assn. to alleviate problems facing its domestic filmmakers will not take the shape of a quota against U.S. product, although there has been some consideration of such action. Rather, the association intends to persuade the government to grant tax reductions on admissions and equipment and perhaps, eventually, to institute some kind of production subsidy.

This is the opinion of Leon Lopez, Philippine producer-distrib-exhib who was in New York Monday (28) en route to San Francisco where his "No Way Out" is the official Philippine entry at the Frisco fest. According to Lopez, the Philippine MPPA, which succeeds two other associations (which repped, respectively, major producers and indies) intends to model itself along the lines of Japan's Unijapan, an all-industry group designed to promote its country's pix abroad and to present a united front towards industry matters at home. The PMPPA was organized in August with "a completely independent film man," Ben Pingo, as permanent head.

While many Philippine producers feel that the vast quantity of U.S. product, which comes into the Philippines freely, does limit the chances of domestic pix, they generally agree that any move to control U.S. pic access would boomerang to the detriment of the overall market. For one good reason: American pix are generally better than all the rest and are sought by exhibs.

Contributing to Philippine film problems is the fact that the domestic industry has been overproducing for the last couple of years, says Lopez. In 1961 and again in 1962, the industry turned out about 150 pix which, with all the competition from foreign product, just isn't getting dated. This year, production will be off between 10 and 15%, he estimated, which is all to the good.

In addition to seeking tax relief, the PMPPA will also press the government to negotiate reciprocal film trade deals. It's unlikely that one will be sought with the U.S., though Lopez thinks that many more Philippine pix could go into the U.S. market than ever show up today. Rather, such deals will be sought with Japan and some of the European countries, including Italy, Germany and France. At the present time, such an agreement is being worked out with Indonesia.

The general business outlook in the islands is good, according to Lopez who credits the current Philippine government for the upbeat. New administration has taken most of the controls off biz, which has eliminated much of the possibility for under-the-counter dealings, and has created an attractive climate for foreign capital.

BROTMAN OPPOSES B&K AT OAKBROOK

Chicago, Oct. 29.

Chi motion picture theatre operator Oscar Brotman has filed an amicus curiae brief with the Dept. of Justice in protest against an application by the Balaban & Katz theatre chain for a theatre in the new Oakbrook shopping centre. The brief was filed by Brotman (also an attorney) on behalf of five other indie operators and himself, all with houses in the Oakbrook area.

Essence of the Brotman petition is that the owners don't mind another theatre in the area so long as it's not run by B&K. The brief alleges that B&K are already using their superior buying power "in order to deprive the complainants' theatres from obtaining top product." It further states that the B&K suburban houses have been awarded the hottest pictures over the indie houses, including "El Cid," "West Side Story," "Longest Day," "Mutiny On The Bounty," and "Lawrence of Arabia."

The petition also claims that B&K can "overbid" for a picture because they are in a better position to get an adjustment if the gross does not warrant the bid, and they can absorb a loss more readily than can the indies.

Police Use Film Warning Vs Child Molesters

Austin, Minn., Oct. 29.

The police and residents of this town of 29,000 population five years ago created, produced and did the acting in a film titled "Mr. Stranger Danger," designed to educate children anent the dangers of child molestings. Ever since the film came into existence it has been shown from time to time to the local schools' third, fourth and fifth graders.

Now, however, the police department is starting to show it occasionally to first and second graders and even kindergarteners. This is because of increasing concern here over child molestings, especially occasioned by the murder of two small girls in nearby Minneapolis.

An anonymous Austin policeman plays the title villain role. Before any children were permitted to see it, some 5,000 local PTA groups and service organization members viewed an initial screening and gave the film their approval.

Austin police chief Robert Nelson told Minneapolis Morning Tribune staffer Karl Nordlinger that since the police department started showing the movie to the school kids more molestings have been reported to his department. But he attributes this to the fact that children in many instances kept silent before anent such happenings. Now, however, he said, they're more aware of the wrongness involved and the need of telling their elders.

Nelson said there had been some fear that the film might cause unreasonable fear and distrust in the kids, but that hasn't been the case. He points out that nowhere in the film is there any suggestion of what "Mr. Stranger Danger" might do to the child, thereby avoiding any suggestion that sex is dirty or harmful.

Also, much of the movie has to do with such safety subjects as playing with matches, hiding in refrigerators, wading in deep water and playing with strange dogs.

Maryland Plotting Censor Beef-Up

Baltimore, Oct. 29.

Three-man legislative committee is undewray with a study of film censorship with the clear intent of strengthening the powers of the State Board of Censors. As part of its investigation the group last week viewed "Promises, Promises," indie feature starring Jayne Mansfield.

Prior to this Norman Mason, chairman of the State Board, asked for a law under which persons 18 year of age and under would be barred from "questionable" films. If he had been empowered, Mason would have placed United Artists' "Irma La Douce" in this category, he said.

Trio of Maryland solons also has under consideration a proposal to subject all theatremen in the state to a licensing statute. Under this, exhibs who defy the Censor Board's ruling would have their licenses revoked.

Committee also is exploring tighter restrictions on film advertising.

Hunt's McCook Dark

Dayton, Oct. 29.

For the first time in several years, this city's roadshow house, Hunt's McCook, is dark for want of product. Herman Hunt closed this theatre after "Lawrence of Arabia," and closed his Columbus theatre this week.

"I was faced with a real problem," he said. "I could have booked other first run pix but I felt it would be a mistake since the theatre's reputation was built on road shows."

As things now stand, Hunt said it may be late in November or even December before the theatres get another film and open.

Nuptials Can Wait

Roman Catholic Legion of Decency has B-rated (morally objectionable in part for all) Warners' "Palm Springs Weekend," Troy Donahue-Connie Stevens starrer, with this comment:

"This film, made for teenagers and starring reputed teenage idols, tends to confirm an attitude that although marriage may be postponed for reasons of education, sexual indulgence need not be."

75 'Cleo' Dates; Advance Receipts At $24,800,000

Since the trail of 20th-Fox's "Cleopatra" is studded with milestones, you should be up-to-datet on the latest additional ones.

With the windup last week of Seymour Poe's month-long, globe-circling tour, the exec veep has completed the dating of the 70m spectacle in all the key cities of the world. Without counting the domestic dates, this comes to about 75 engagements. Most importantly the total of cash advance guarantees on the picture now comes to approximately $24,800,000, including the whopping advances received domestically (estimated at mid-summer to be about $15,700,000).

Further, according to Poe, the film is presently grossing a solid 22% more than "the previous all-time hardticket champ," generally conceded to have been Metro's "Ben-Hur."

Exec reports overseas interest in the pic to be "tremendous"—enough, in fact, to overcome unforeseen rough luck. In Italy, for example, the pic was due to have had a gala preem in Rome and Milan the night after the dam disaster. Because of the period of national mourning, the galas were called off and film opened quietly the following day. The lay press was noticeably cool (and the Vatican press actually hostile), but biz has been boff ever since. (Says Poe, since the picture was made in Italy most Italians seem to feel this is "their film.")

Interest in Stockholm has been such that the first newspaper ad announcing the opening of the film (the same ad as was used here featuring only the likenesses of the stars, sans picture title) resulted in tickets going for a month in advance— practically unheard of in Sweden.

Meanwhile, the film is due to get its Far Eastern preem at the Ever Theatre, Manila Nov. 28. This is to be followed by openings in Singapore Dec. 19 and in Hong Kong Dec. 20.

'Mad's' Chase Atmosphere Spills Into Intermish

All those film producers who have expressed their disapproval over the use of intermissions in pictures because of the break in continuity involved will find Stanley Kramer's "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" interesting at interval time.

"Mad World" is a chase picture involving a hunt for treasure by several characters and the pursuit by the law. During the intermission, picture keeps the chase atmosphere alive by piping police car radio reports into the theatre lobby and auditorium from time to time. So smokers and gabbers will occasionally hear "car 96, so-and-so proceeding north on route 25" or things to that effect.

It is pointed out that if one of these things is missed by a patron who is too absorbed in discussion or whatever; nothing will really be lost but the momentum of the screen antics is nonetheless kept up and the radio reports do progress the action of the film. It's the first time that any real use has been made of the interval which is normally filled with music from the given picture's soundtrack. There have been detractors on the value of intermissions, opposition mostly centering around the break in continuity created by the pause.

New York Sound Track

Al Sherman, former managing director of the Baronet and Coronet, negotiating for a theatre property in Manhattan to perform the triple purpose of serving as a home for the professional presentation of experimental and avant garde motion pictures; to provide fully equipped stage space for the filming and production of television shows, complete with dressingrooms, cutting, editing and rehearsal hall facilities; and to serve as an after-hours private cinema club where film aficianados can meet, preview, dine and discuss the more esoteric aspects of today's cinematics. The present site under negotiation, according to Sherman, is being designed to handle virtually every phase of stage and screen presentation.

Prior to last Friday night's (25) private screening of "The Victors," producer Carl Foreman was asked by a reporter how come he's crusading for a Government subsidy in light of his success; he certainly doesn't need a "benefit." Foreman replied he's not looking for a personal handout but is convinced a subsidy would be helpful to the entire industry.

Couple of practicing Roman Catholics at the Tower Suite last Friday night (repeat Friday) were among the guests at a Columbia dinner party and threw both waiter and captain for a loss by asking for a fish dinner. Wasn't in their script.

U prez Milton R. Rackmil and U-I veep-foreign general manager Americo Aboaf prepping for the company's Latin American sales convention next month, site of which is still unset. This is the first of the pair's off-shore biz trips of the new season which, annually, take them clear around the world.

The girls of the press don't always see eye to eye. Judith Crist of the Herald Tribune took a look at "Mary, Mary" at the Music Hall and concluded "all has changed in transition from stage to screen." Wanda Hale of the News caught the same picture, and observed, "Play and movie are as alike as the proverbial peas in a pod." The reviews generally were just about fair.

Loretta Powell in from L. A. for lead in "Andy" opposite Tony Randall. This is a spoof on Madison Ave. to be shot in the east by Dick Sarafine for Universal on a James Mervin script. It's the actress's second theatrical film. She previously had a bit in Frank Sinatra's "Oceans 11" but has some 30 television drama credits since she was Miss United States in 1959. Her other vocation has been as elocution teacher to retarded children, on which angle Life is plotting a spread.

IFIDA board has reelected Munio Podhorzer secretary and Peter Horner treasurer for the 1963-64 term . . . Two new 20th-Fox pix will be all over town starting today (Wed.). "The Condemned of Altona" opens at the Astor, 34th Street East and other Premiere Showcase houses, and "The Leopard," which just wound at the Plaza yesterday (Tues.), opens at the Trans-Lux 85th Street and 20 other Golden Showcase houses . . . Janus Films' new documentary feature, "The Face of War," will open tomorrow (Thurs.) at the T-L 52nd Street and the T-L Broadway. Latter is departing from its regular newsreel policy for this run. "Face" is directed by Tore Sjoberg, who made the highly successful "Mein Kempf."

Apparently Astor Pictures is still active. General manager Robert C. Stebbins reports company has acquired U.S. rights to the British-made version of Edgar Allen Poe's "Fall of The House of Usher" and will release it in December . . . Ezra Baker, who was part of the trio of Little Movies filmmakers who won an Oscar for their short, "Day of The Painter," has a second short on firstrun view here. It's "The Concert," about parents' reactions to a grade school orchestra, now on view with "All The Way Home" at the Trans-Lux East.

The crews of three U.S. Navy ships in the harbor had a special early morning screening Saturday (26) morning of "Cleopatra" at the Rivoli. Ruth Furst, director of group sales for the Rivoli, arranged the showing . . . Hollywood actor's agent Glenn Shaw has appointed Eleanor Cody Gould to screen N. Y. talent for the Shaw office on the Coast. Miss Gould, a faculty advisor for American Academy of Dramatic Art, has been managing director of the American Creative Theatre for the last five years.

Metro had been calling its new Paul Newman picture "The Rape" but chickened out, has retitled it "The Outrage." . . . Monarch coming out with a paperback of Connie Francis' advice for teenagers, titled "For Every Young Heart." . . Alfredo Marquerie, Spanish journalist and drama critic, signed as a technical advisor on Samuel Bronston's "Circus World." . . Maurice Freedman, director of Columbia's art department and a pro painter on his own, has an exhibition of his works going at Midtown Galleries . . . The Robert Rossens back from a month's vacation in London and Rhodes. The producer-director is now to resume editing of his newest, "Lilith." . . . M. Y. Film Co., indie distributor headed by Manny Youngman, took new and larger office space across from VARIETY on West 46th Street.

Louis Pelletier signed by Walt Disney to script "The Woodcutter's House," based on the book by Robert Nathan . . .

Industryites locally are not a little awed by the lusty performance being put on by "Tom Jones" at Rugoff's posh, 700-seat eastside artie, Cinema One. For example, a week ago last Saturday (19), the pic took in close to $8,000—more than any other pic in the city with the exception of Radio City Music Hall ("The VIPs") and "Cleopatra" at the Rivoli. Those multi-thousand seat houses on Broadway can well be jealous.

Indie distrib Tom Brandon is setting a precedent, perhaps. He has a small ad in the current issue of The New Yorker calling attention to the availability (for rental) of his library of film classics for home showing, schools, etc. . . . Meanwhile, Brandon is readying the theatrical release of his latest overseas acquisition, the Japanese "Burmese Harp."

Where will it all end? Wife of publicity manager Mort Segal (of 20th Fox, natch) reports that at a recent PTA meeting she overheard one distraught mother telling another that her daughter, a third grade student, has just asked her how to spell Cleopatra . . . William Grefe, Miami-based filmmaker, here to discuss plans for his newest production, "Racing Fever" . . . Joan Crawford appointed co-chairman of the USO's campaign committee of New York.

Harcourt, Brace & World threw a cocktail part last week for Hans Habe and his latest novel, "The Countess," which Michael-Arthur Productions will film with Romy Schneider in title role . . . Charles K. Feldman has signed Bitter End comedian Woody Allen to script "What's New, Pussycat" for star Warren Beatty and UA release . . . Robert Goulet to costar with Sandra Dee in Ross Hunter's "The Richest Girl in Town" for U, starting in December.

Norman Panama and Mel Frank, producting-directing-writing team, have agreed to lecture at London's National Film Theatre in January . . . 20th's "Cleopatra" opens its 51st domestic roadshow engagement Dec. 25 at the Whalley Theatre in New Haven . . . Following the close Thursday (24) of the National Allied Convention here, AIP chiefs Jim Nicholson and Sam Arkoff took off for England and preproduction confabs on "The Masque of The Red Death."

Jerry Lewis ABC-TV "Mad World" show next Saturday (2), featuring many of the costars of Stanley Kramer's comedy, will involve several performers from other webs, something unusual in tv's highly competitive scramble and a plus for the Kramer plug . . . inked for AA's "The Iron Kiss" are Patsy Kelly, Betty Bronson, Michael Dante and Virginia Grey. Stanley Cortez will handle photography, Eugene Lourio is art director and Nate Levinson is assistant director.

Elvis Presley's latest for Paramount, "Fun in Acapulco," set for 500 dates in 28 key exchange areas around Thanksgiving . . . Landau Co. has Linda Geiser, Marketa Kimbrell and Eusebia Cosme for "The Pawnbroker" . . . Margaret Muse set for Stanley Kramer's "Invitation To a Gunfighter (UA) . . . big top expert and prominent Spanish drama critic and writer Alfredo Marquerie among the advisors for Samuel

(Continued on page 21)

THIS IS A "BANK-BOOK!"

It's money-in-the-bank when you book M-G-M's New Series "WORLD FAMOUS MUSICAL HITS." Get the 20-page Manual shown above from National Screen Service. It shows you, step by step, how three test engagements DOUBLED their "Operetta" business. CALL YOUR LOCAL M-G-M INDEPENDENT DISTRIBUTOR TODAY (and fill those mid-week seats!)

Milan's MIFED Ends With Vital Talks

Children's Films Highlighted—Trade Prizes Bestowed —Two Meetings In 1964 Set

Milan, Oct. 29.

Milan's Film and TV-Film Market (MIFED) wound up its 11-day run here last week in a flurry of activity which temporarily transformed it into an international film meeting place. Most importantly, members of the International Cinema Bureau (B.I.C.) held a summit meeting on industry problems and European Exhibitors Assn. (U.I.E.C.) convened for top-level talks.

There were, additionally, meetings by international groups concerned with such problems as children's films, the relations between the cinema and tv, possible application of closed circuit tv, plus a well-attended trade show, the awarding of several trade prizes, and the Italo preem of Samuel Bronston's "55 Days in Peking."

The final tally for the trade event itself showed 856 films from 30 countries screened: some 300 projection hours, or 28 hours a day. Broken down, there were 176 features, 337 doumentaries, and 343 TV-Films at disposal of 340 prospective buyers and other visitors to the busy affair.

Also disclosed were the dates for the two 1964 MIFED's: the 9th will run from April 15 to 25, the 10th from October 12-21 of next year.

Various prizes, several of them to Yank pix, were handed out at sideline events held here at MIFED.

The U. S. won a second prize in the ANICA-MIFED Prize race for television-pic honors with MCA's "The Virginian" (which, as the first 90-minute color television serial aroused considerable attention), while top honors in the category went to Germany's "Orden fur di Wunderkinder," produced by Bavaria Atelier Gesellshaft of Munich.

20th's "The Longest Day" and Metro's "Mutiny on the Bounty" ran one-two in the AGIS race for the most commercial film shown in Italy during the past season. Each received a plaque from the Italo exhib association. ("Il Sorpasso" (Fairfilm) and "Sodom and Gomorrah" (Titanus) won similar kudos among the Italo pix).

The coveted "Trophy of Five Continents," awarded by MIFED jointly with the International Film Bureau (B.I.C.), went to Samuel Bronston for "El Cid" (as top grosser of the European Continent), to the Mirish Company and United Artists for "West Side Story" (as top grosser for '61-'62 in the U.S. and Canada), while award of the joint kudo for Central and Latin America was postponed until the April 1964 MIFED, when final statistics will determine winner between two current candidates: Argentina's "La Patota" (Tinayre-Borras Prod.) and Mexico's "Juana Gallo" (Zacharias Prod.). Trophies for Africa and Asia will be added in October, 1964, and retained from then on. Physical award, valued at $4,500 is gold-and-silver replica of Bernini Fountain in Rome's Piazza Navona.

But prizes were only a minor (though admittedly headline-garnering) facet of the Milan affair, which saw large roster of distinguished visitors during run, among them the Japanese Ambassador to Italy, Italo Entertainment Minister Alberto Folchi, Samuel Bronston, and a large number of producers, distributors and exhibitors from all over Europe here for various skedded meets at which pacts (such as Italo-Austrian pic collaboration agreement and resolutions (such as anti-tax campaign by joint industry commitee of Europe) were initialed.

Attention also centered around the MIFED novelty, the SINT, which included stands held by 120 different exhibitors throughout the world. Among U. S. companies exhibiting latest wrinkles and inventions in technical fields related to film and television were ANSCO; Cousino Electronics Corp. of Toledo, Ohio; DaLite Screen Co.; Eastman Kodak; Fairchild Industrial Products; Keystone Camera Co.; Macbeth Corp.; Radiant Manufacturing Co.; Simmon Omega Co.; Technicolor Corp.; Thompson Ramo Wolldridge; Victor-Kalart; and Ampex, which showed here for first time its portable recording equipment.

Though sum-up opinion varied sharply on value of MIFED on terms of business accomplished—some participants were bullish on its being only gathering of its kind with a unique business-only efficiency, others were disappointed in relative absence of many Yank companies — most agreed that it was hard to beat for placing at disposal of buyer or seller, in ideal surroundings, all the tools and facilitations for conducting international business on all levels of film and video, and at very moderate prices.

Remains the problem of location. Many feel that Milan is, at least so far, off the beaten track of most film (not TV) operators, who more regularly hit Rome, Paris, etc.

But apart from the de facto consideration that there is probably no comparable physical setup in Europe, perhaps even in the world, it's likewise reluctantly admitted by even the more dubious visitors that similar efficiency, traditional of Milan, would be more difficult if not impossible to achieve in, say Rome—which is geared to a slower pace and a more lackadaisical concept of the word business.

E. M. Loew Maiden Press Conference In 41 Years; New House Faces Depot

Boston, Oct. 29.

E. M. Loew, who rose from waiter to theatre chain magnate in Hub, held his first press confab with film critics in his 41 years of exhibition at the Ritz Thursday (24). This to reveal his new theatre, West End Cinema, 800-seater, built on site of his old nabe Lancaster at North Station.

The $200,000 art house will be 56th in the Loew chain when it opens Nov. 8 with another Boston boy's picture, "The Conjugal Bed," a Joseph E. Levine's Embassy release. A 30-foot high entrance lobby anticipates the removal of the elevated structure in approximately two years.

Loew, who recalled some of the changes in exhibition since his first theatre, the Dreamland in Lynn, said his new theatre is essentially an intown shopping center theatre. Built by William Riseman Associates, architects, it follows the lines of the "compacts" at shopping centers that Riseman has built.

West end of Boston, long rundown, is being redeveloped with luxury apartment houses on the Charles River, parks and new shops. The new theatre is located across the street from Boston & Maine North Station. The old Lancaster, which was gutted for building of the new house, was erected at the turn of the century.

With the west end residential rehabilitation, the theatre magnate who owns hotels, racetracks and the Latin Quarter, N. Y., among other properties, decided this was the time to open a film house where patrons could come without transportation. However, he said, he had provided for a a parking lot holding 300 cars, which will give theatre patrons a parking break at 25c per car.

The 30-ft. entrance to the new theatre is entirely of glass and presents a dramatic view of the huge abstract mural in the interior lobby designed by Norman Ives.

George Kraska, Levine's man in Boston for many years,, handled the press conference.

'Longest Day' Very Sunny

The breakdown on the previously disclosed $25,275,000 rentals earned to date by "The Longest Day" comes out to about $13,000,000-plus foreign and $12,000,000 domestic, according to 20th-Fox exec veep Seymour Poe.

Poe further reveals that prior to the pic's premiere a year ago, the company had set its sights on a worldwide rental of approximately $20,000,000. After the first six months of release, this estimate was revised upward to about $32,000,000. Now, he says, it's got to be revised upward again, but he hasn't yet fixed on the new "conservative" figure.

Arty Cinemas On Upbeat in France

Paris, Oct. 29.

Although film attendance still is offish here generally, there are some specialized arty houses which are still bullish. And these are mainly the art house owners. In fact, these arty houses are being built regularly here as well as in key cities and in the provinces.

This paradox is explained by the fact that there is a small but growing public for unusual pix. They may still not be able to make for record hits, but they can turn an okay buck for exhibs as well as giving extra income for offbeat pix that may not the strength for general bookings.

There are now 62 arty theatres in France, with 28 in Paris. An Interenational Art Houses Assn. benefits from cut taxes, easier terms on film shipments and a growing, choosy audience. Claude Makovski has just opened a new firstrun theatre here that has drawn plenty of curio interest.

Makovski has done away with newsreels, which he feels are for tv, and the commercial ad pix and candy sales that take up time in other houses. The film is the thing, with selected shorts, and nothing else, he opines.

AVANT-GARDE PLAYS AS FILM POSSIBLES

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Four Star has signed a joint venture deal with Evergreen Theater Inc. for the development of screenplays by eight dramatists for motion picture production. Writers involved are Samuel Beckett, Eugene Ionesco, Harold Pinter, Marguerite Duras, Alain Robbe-Grillet, Gunter Grass, Uwe Johnson and Ingeborg Bachman.

Grove Press is owner of Evergreen Theater, and Four Star deal was signed with the publishing firm.

First film to come from this venture is an untitled three-part feature penned by Beckett, Ionesco and Pinter, to be directed by Alan Schneider, making his film debut as director, and acting as production supervisor on the trio.

Beckett has penned a treatment, a one-character play with no dialog which may star Zero Mostel. Pinter has written a one-act story and Ionesco has scripted a tale satirizing conformity by combining spy thriller and comedy. Miss Duras and Robbe-Grillet also have finished screen treatments.

Four Star has in production "The Out of Towners," starring Glenn Ford, Geraldine Page and Angela Lansbury, with Warner Bros. releasing. A second feature, "Cassandra at the Wedding," starring Natalie Wood, goes into production early part of next year, with 20th-Fox releasing. Martin Manulis is producing both pix for Four Star.

Zanuck Asserts at TOA Convention: 'We're Producers and Not Bankers'

Distributors may be returning to their old role as responsible for production of features. So declared Darryl F. Zanuck, president of 20th-Fox on Tues. (29) before the TOA convention in N.Y. His firm will buy packages but "we are producers, not bankers."

Spyros Skouras introduced Zanuck, remarking that already DFZ had chalked up remarkable progress to his, Skouras', relief and satisfaction.

Inside Stuff—Pictures

Eastern countries continue to show increased interest in Italian film affairs. After the top-heavy delegations from curtain countries which have recently visited such Italo events as the Venice Film Festival, Naples' Prix Italia, etc., a Rumanian delegation is currently giving the Milan and TV Film Trade Fair (MIFED) the o.o. Group is headed by Rumanian director general for Cinematography Minnea Gheorghiu, and made up of actors Irina Petreschi and Luvian Bratu, directors Emanoil Petrut and Francise Munteau, and foreign relations topper Florea Vasile.

"Romfilm" delegation will hold a press confab at MIFED as well as screen several features and documentaries, including recent Cannes entry, "Codine," for the first time in Italy.

Scattered through American colleges nowadays are increasing number of African students. Such is the case at St. Michael's College at Winsocki, Vermont. This creates problems of communication. Pat Ryan, manager of the local film house, now advertises "Movie Of The Week" in the Swakili language of African tribesmen. It comes out "Cinema Ya Wiki Hii." Other college Joes are trying to get the Swakili translation for "skiing party." Not easy since there is simply no such thing as skiruns in the steaming African jungle.

Spanish entries at international film festivals this year have been grouped together for screening under Uniespana auspices at the Spanish Film Week in Lisbon. Included were "From Pink to Yellow," "The Tarantos," "The Executioner" and "Nothing Ever Happens." Outside this group of recent fest contestants, Uniespana also programmed "Dulcinea," starring Millie Perkins.

Spanish delegation to Lisbon was headed by the Director General of Cinema, Garcia Escudero, and included Filmwriters' Assn. prexy, Pascual Cebollada, and Nat'l Filmoteque chief Fernandez Cuenca. Also making the trip to Lisbon were Cristina Galbo and Sarita Lezama, both of whom made their screen debuts in two of the films presented.

Amusement Stock Quotations

Week Ended Tues. (29)

N. Y. Stock Exchange

1963 High	1963 Low		*Weekly Vol. in 100s	Weekly High	Weekly Low	Tues. Close	Net Change for wk.
15⅜	12⅛	ABC Vending	251	14⅜	13	14⅜	+1¼
38¼	27⅞	Am Br-Par Th	1385	37⅛	33¾	35½	+1¾
21⅜	14½	Ampex	5168	21¼	19	20⅜	+1¼
84¾	42½	CBS	654	84¾	79⅜	82⅝	+2
18¾	12⅛	Chris Craft	101	13¼	12¾	12⅞	— ⅜
29½	22¼	Col Pix	87	25⅛	23½	23¾	— ⅛
46	45⅛	Decca	9	45⅝	45½	45⅝	+ ⅛
46⅜	27¾	Disney	135	44⅞	44	44	— ¼
122⅜	106⅛	Eastman Kdk	309	114½	112½	114⅛	+1⅛
6⅜	5¼	EMI	90	5⅝	5½	5½	— ⅛
16½	9⅝	Glen Alden	242	13⅞	13⅜	13⅜	— ½
23¾	15¾	Loew's Thea.	229	17¾	16½	17⅛	— ⅛
68¾	48	MCA Inc.	25	64	62⅝	63⅛	+ ⅜
37¼	15	Metromedia	581	38⅜	35½	37¼	+1¾
37¼	28	MGM	108	31	30⅛	30⅛	— ⅝
12¾	7⅞	Nat. G'l Corp.	1104	12⅛	11¼	11¼
24¾	20½	Outlet	†680	22¾	22	22½	— ¼
53⅛	35¼	Paramount	441	53⅞	48½	52½	+4⅛
211½	120½	Polaroid	1455	171¾	153	179	+26⅜
97⅞	56	RCA	5291	97⅞	90	93⅝	+1⅞
10¼	6¾	Republic	51	9¼	9	9	— ⅜
16⅝	14	Rep. pfd.	3	15⅝	15½	15½	..
25¾	20½	Stanley War.	149	24¾	23½	24¼	+ ¼
45⅜	31	Storer	66	43	40⅞	42	+1½
28¼	17⅞	Taft Bdcst.	64	23¾	22¼	23⅝	+ ⅜
37	20	20th-Fox	474	32⅜	30¼	30⅞	—1
32	17¾	United Artists	145	23¼	22⅝	22¾	— ⅛
16¼	12⅞	Warner Bros.	194	15	14⅜	14¾	— ⅛
84¼	51	Zenith	2910	84¼	74¾	79⅞	+5¼

American Stock Exchange

4	2⅛	Allied Artists	38	2¾	2⅝	2⅝	— ¼
8¾	5	BalM'nt GAC	30	7⅜	6⅞	7¼	+ ¼
12¼	6¾	Cam-P'kway	46	8¾	8	8¼	— ½
24⅞	16⅞	Cap. Cit. Bdc.	69	22	20⅞	21¼	— ⅝
17½	12⅞	Cinerama Inc.	381	16	15⅛	15½	— ¼
9	6½	Desilu Prods.	14	7½	7¼	7⅜	..
8¾	4¾	Filmways	32	8½	8¼	8⅜	+ ⅛
11⅞	9	Movielab	8	10¼	9⅞	10⅛	+ ⅝
13⅞	5¾	MPO Vid.	246	13⅞	11⅝	12⅛	—1⅛
5⅛	2⅞	Reeves Ind	145	3½	3⅛	3¼	+ ⅛
17¾	13¼	Rollins Bdcst.	31	16½	15⅛	16¼	+ ¼
25⅜	16¾	Screen Gems	15	20⅞	19⅞	20⅞	+ ⅞
22	8⅝	Technicolor	630	21⅛	19⅝	19⅝	—1
6¾	4⅛	Teleprompter	96	5⅞	5⅜	5⅝	— ⅜
2¾	⅞	Tele-Indus	23	1¼	1⅛	1⅛	— ⅛
14½	11	Trans-Lux	13	11⅜	11⅛	11⅜	— ¼

*Week Ended Mon. (28).
†Actual Volume.

(Courtesy of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc.)

Over-the-Counter Securities

	Bid	Ask
Commonwealth Theatres of Puerto Rico	6	6⅞	— ⅛
Four Star Television	10	11	— ¼
Gen. Aniline & Film	340	363	+5
General Artists Corp.	7⅛	7⅜	..
General Drive-in	10⅜	11⅜	+ ¾
Magna Pictures	1⅝	2	..
Medallion Pictures	15½	16¾	+ ¾
Pickwick International	4	4⅝
Premier Albums	5⅜	6⅛	— ½
Rust Craft Greeting Cards	11¾	12⅞	— ¼
Seven Arts Productions	7½	8⅜
Transcontinent Television	19	20¼	..
U. A. Theatres	10½	12	+ ¼
Universal Pictures	66	70½	..
Walter Reade-Sterling Inc.	3⅜	3⅞	— ⅛
Wometco Enterprises	37½	40
Wrather Corp.	8	8¾	+ ¾

(Source: National Assn. of Securities Dealers Inc.)

NOW COMPLETED

FOR

WORLD WIDE RELEASE IN DECEMBER

1963

"THE KEELER AFFAIR"

starring yvonne buckingham and john barrymore jr written for the screen from the life stories of christine keeler and dr stephen ward by matt white ronnie maxwell and robert spafford photographed by michel rocca directed by robert spafford produced by john nasht a topaz film - distributors ltd presentation available from ufa-comacico in france cineriz in italy express film in holland gloria film in denmark towa film in japan nasr film in the middle east michaelides-damaskinos in greece filmor in switzerland mallah film in israel ster film in south africa selecciones gala in argentina uruguay and venezuela guaranteed pictures de argentina in central and south america

Front-Running By BV Reissue In Holdover-Crowded Minneapolis

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.

Unusual here, a reissue is reported as having outgrossed each of its 10 firstrun competitors, excepting the two roadshow flims with tops of $2.50 and $3.50, respectively, compared to its $1.50. And even in the case of the two exceptions the claimed spreads were not great—$3,000 and $1,000.

This accomplishment occurred here last week and the smash reissue was "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" (BV) which had an estimated take of $8,000 for its first stanza—for the same seven days hardticket roadshows "Cleopatra" (20th) reported $9,000 and "How West Was Won" (MGM), $12,000.

However, film folks point out in this connection that, with several exceptions, the non-roadshow competitors were holdovers, five of them in the midst of very long runs, while the pair of loop opposition newcomers lacked boxoffice prowess here.

"How West Was Won" is in its 34th week; "Cleopatra," 18th; "Irma La Douce" (UA), 16th; "Thrill of It All" (U), 14th; "V.I.P.s" (MGM), 5th, and "New Kind of Love" (Par), 3d. There also are some in their second stanzas.

It's the second week now for "20,000" which has been helped by a schools' several days holiday due to a teachers' state convention and it continues to do biz.

RIPPS-STYLE SELL FOR 'FLESH-EATERS'

Indie producer Jack Curtis has made a deal with Cinema Distributors of America for the latter to acquire all Western Hemisphere rights to Curtis' new horror pic, "The Flesh Eaters," for a $175,000 advance against a percentage of the gross.

Pic was produced in New York by Curtis' Vulcan productions. Cinema Distributors is headed by Mike Ripps, who made something of an industry name for himself two years ago with his success in handling the exploitation-angled "Poor White Trash." That film, which created no boxoffice stir when it originally went out as "Bayou Girl," hit the jackpot as a result of Ripps' hardhitting campaign.

PAR SLOTS SALES PARLEYS

Balaban, Weltner Join Boasbery In N. Y. Nov. 4

Paramount has set a series of national sales meetings in three cities beginning Nov. 4 to spearhead drives on the next six month's product. Sessions will be held in New York, New Orleans and Chicago and will be helmed by Par Film Distributing prez-general sales manager Charles Boasberg.

Paramount Pictures prez Barney Balaban and exec v.p. George Weltner will join Boasberg for the opening of the meets in Gotham, Nov. 4. Subsequent sessions will be in New Orleans, Nov. 7-8 and Chi, Nov. 11-12. Special seg of the New York meetings will be devoted to a marketing and merchandising presentation by v.p. Martin Davis, his exec assistant Joseph Friedman and other Par ad-pub staffers.

'Leagues' in High

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.

Possibly a local first, a reissue outgrossed all its 10 first run competitors here last week, even including two hardticket roadshow films with $2.50 and $3.50 tops, respectively, compared to its $1.25 scale. The reissued "20,000 Leagues Under Sea" had an estimated $8,000 take, at the 2,800-seat Orpheum, which was just fair.

With several exceptions, the firstrun competitors were holdovers, five of them in the midst of very longruns while the pair of Loop newcomers lacked boxoffice punch. All of which undoubtedly was an important factor in what happened. And many of the longruns still were showing a hefty profit.

PROFILE OF AN INGENUE

20th-Fox Merchandising Tactics For 'Take Her'

Twentieth-Fox is putting together a "pre-packaged merchandising program" for use of theatres playing the upcoming "Take Her, She's Mine." According to veep Jonas Rosenfield Jr., the package is valued at approximately $5,000 per theatre.

Included in it is as a tieup with Ingenue Magazine, which is making available 500,000 cosmetic kits for distribution in connection with the picture. Magazine, which gave the Sandra Dee pic its merit award, also is promoting it via mailings to high school editors, faculty advisors, etc., plus newsstand announcements. Also included in the package are a college scholarship (for the winner of a folksinging contest), a Goya guitar and an audition for a 20th-Fox Records recording contract.

Two Down in Yorkville For New Apt. House; Spots Big for Reissues

Two of the Yorkville section of Manhattan's theatre landmarks have shuttered and will be torn down shortly to make way for a mammoth apartment house. The Grande & Brandt's 86th, two stalwarts of the local re-issue scene, the former being a great one for reprising hit imports and digging up odd oldies, closed last week after holding out till the last.

Most every other merchant in the corner effected had long moved out but the two theatres hung on and closed simultaneously. Although not the most modern in decor or upkeep around, the houses got the considered attention of the growing legions of art and re-issue buffs who are streaming into this rapidly-redeveloping neighborhood.

As said, the Grande could always be counted on to come up with a worthwhile import. It may have played around the city's downtown art houses for some time but that didn't make any difference to the neighborhood's hipster filmgoers. There were plenty who hadn't caught the pix the first time around and usually the Grande was the only place to catch up with them before they returned to the vaults.

The Brandt 86th often got pix even after the Loew's, which is directly across the street, or the RKO which is a block away. It was also one to bring back re-issue twin bills of Hollywood pix which would invariably get the "Gee, you know, I never saw that one" response. Even though only a neighborhood sub-subrun, it will still be missed, as will the Grande.

It was often a challenge to attend these houses and the surly employees always made things interesting, sometimes more so than the screen fare. For nostalgia they were ops and their absence is the subject of considerable neighborhood comment, as was their existence when they were operating.

Both small seaters, they probably weren't worth much in the grossing columns on an annual basis but they are considered an unfortunate casualty of the eastside building boom by Yorkville residents who always used to wonder how they made out situated side by side as they were with each one's marquee blocking the other's from view depending whether someone was walking north or south on 86th Street.

Seneca Producer Only

Seneca International, New York-based indie producer-distrib, is dropping its distrib activities to concentrate on production under the corporate name of Seneca Productions. General sales manager Ben Gladstone is resigning and will henceforth expand his buying and booking activities.

In the last two years, Seneca has released, the Japanese "Yojimbo" and French "Zazie." It also made the feature, "The Light Fantastic," which Embassy is due to release.

'Mad' Advance, $130,000

Advance sale for United Artists "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World" (Stanley Kramer) at the New Warner Cinerama Theatre, N. Y. have reportedly topped the $130,000 mark.

Pic opens with a charity preem Nov. 17 for the benefit of the Kennedy Child Center of New York and the late Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Institute of Washington. Regular performances begin the following day. World preem of the Cinerama-UA feature is Nov. 7 at Pacific's Cinerama Theatre, Hollywood.

Columbia Sked Lloyd For Tokyo 'Life' Preem, Foreman For 'Victors'

Tokyo, Oct. 22.

Columbia, most active U.S. distrib in sending personalities here for preems, has Harold Lloyd skedded to return for "The Funny Side of Life," Carl Foreman and possibly Vince Edwards coming for "The Victors" in December and hopfully Jack Lemmon for the February bow of "Under the Yum Yum Tree."

In town last week to bally the reissued "Bridge on the River Kwai" were Sam Spiegel and William Holden. Others who visited under the Columbia banner within the past year were Lloyd for "World of Harold Lloyd," Charlton Heston for the world preem of "Diamond Head" and David Lean for "Lawrence of Arabia."

Mo Rothman, Columbia Int'l. veepee, here on a tour of Far East, said: "I believe the days are over when you could just open the theatre doors, take a picture from the can and put it on a projector. Now you have to use every medium, every angle. And personal appearances still are the strongest and surest way of pushing the pictures. I prefer to take out this insurance. I believe in traveling and I want everybody to do likewise."

Regarding Columbia's showing in the Japanese market, Rothman stated: "We're doing 20% better than last year and expect to show a 30% improvement by the end of the fiscal year. Japan has developed to the point where it is now on a par with Italy and Germany as a market for us."

Evans to Kansas City On 'Macbeth' Promotion

Kansas City, Oct. 29.

Theatrical filmization of "Macbeth," from the television special, was given the benefit of exploitation backing at the Art Theatre Guild's Rockhill Theatre premiere here last week. Maurice Evans, who shares the lead with Judith Anderson, came in from New York for two days of promo activities, including the usual round of interviews.

Anticipated three-week run is further backed by press and television coverage of the opening, with beneficiaries being the People to People Council and the Cockefair Chair at the U. of Missouri.

Further publicity support was given by Hallmark Cards, sponsor of the tv'er and which is behind the People to People movement. Latter is a promotion for greater communication among peoples of the world.

'Cardinal' Big Hub Tic

Otto Preminger's "The Cardinal'," which was booked in 27 U.S. theatres sight unseen by the theatreowners involved, seems to be justifying its existence in at least one of these situations.

In Boston, where the Columbia release has its world preem Dec. 11, the film last week sold out the last of its evening performances for the first month of its Saxon Theatre run, 51 days before the first performance. Preem will be sponsored by Richard Cardinal Cushing for the benefit of the Madonna School for Girls, one of the Greater Boston Catholic Charities.

"Cardinal" opens in New York at the DeMille Dec. 12 and then hits various locales. Gotham, Boston, Los Angeles and Toronto are the only hardticket dates for the picture, the rest playing a variety of plans.

Cobian Barely Flicked by Whip!

His Circuit's Capacity for Expansion Seen Uncurbed—Llamas Lease Termination Set Long Before

Won't-Sell-Won't-Tell

Gastonia, N. C., Oct. 29.

Negroes who have been staging mass protest marches here recently changed their tactics and began picketing two downtown theatres. The pickets marched around the Center and Webb Theatres with signs and slogans. There were no arrests or incidents.

Negroes formed an almost continuous stream to the box office and would ask, "May I buy a ticket please?"

The manager would answer, "I don't choose to serve you."

"Why not?" the Negroes would ask.

After the first reply, the manager answered every question with "No comment."

Police were on the scene to keep sidewalks cleared of onlookers. Negroes said the picketing would continue.

Now 80, Teodulo Llamas Will Resume Operation Of His Film Situations

San Juan, Oct. 29.

Teodulo Llamas returns to film exhibition business November 1st when the 10-year lease contract between Llamas and Commonwealth Theatres Inc. (Cobian theatre circuit) expires. Fourteen theatres, including the first-run Matienzo and Music Hall, plus the 900-seat Broadway Theatre, will be returned to 80-year-old Llamas.

"We will eventually renovate or remodel the theatres—one at a time," he said. He has also been approached by numerous large mainland theatre operators regarding the purchase (or merger) of his theatre properties. He owns all the 14 Llamas theatres and the land they are on—with no financial strings attached. But Llamas will make no deals. He is just "not interested." He will go it alone as he has conducted his business—or businesses—in Puerto Rico for the past half century.

Llamas has been in many businesses: lumber, construction materials, soft-drinks, beer, ice, real estate and apartment houses with shops on the street level. He has amassed holdings valued "anywhere from $4 to $10 million," according to island businessmen who have dealt with him. To some he is "a man of mystery." He lives quietly, conservatively and without any ostentation that might tip his wealth. To others he is a "man of his word."

"No contract is necessary when doing business with Llamas," says an executive of an allied business. "If he tells you on the phone you have a deal, you can believe you have a deal with him."

Llamas was born in Leon, Spain, and came to Puerto Rico as a young boy with his family. His adopted son, Nicolas Argueta Delgado, will manage the Llamas theatre chain along with Jose L. Negron who administed film-booking for Cobian enterprises for almost a quarter century before joining Llamas' enterprises. Viguie Films Inc., one of the island's veteran motion picture firms, has been contracted to supply Llamas theatres with newsreels and screen advertising material.

The Llamas offices also contain a new screening room with widescreen projection facilities for viewing latest Hollywood imports before bidding for them in competition with the Cobian circuit and the Cortes I Theatre. It is the opinion of the various local distributors that the advent of additional theatre competition on the island "will, in the long run, benefit the public." They believe it will force all exhibitors to pay more attention to such things as the air conditioning, the quality of the sound, clear projection of films, rest rooms and ushers.

By AL DINHOFER

San Juan, Oct. 29.

What was represented as the monopoly suit of the decade, leveled by the Puerto Rico Government against the Commonwealth Theaters chair, has shrunk to a "mild restriction" in the number of theatres the exhibition corporation operates here. There will be no resetrictions placed on the firm's future construction of houses.

In an injunction made public by the Commonwealth Dept. of Justice, the firm headed by Rafael Ramos Cobian has been restrained from adding to its circuit—in the next five years—more than three theatres presently existing in the San Juan metropolitan area. However, any theatre "including any presently operating houses, which is subsequently closed in good faith, may be acquired by the firm." The Justice Department simultaneously pointed out that the defendants may acquire any number of presently existing theatres "unless such acquisition substantially lessens competition in the area." The injunction also provides that the Cobian chain may acquire and operate theatres to replace any theatres which the firm itself ceases to operate.

The second major point of the judgment states that the defendants may not renew a lease between Teodulo Llamas Theatres and Cobian. This lease covers three first-run houses and 11 other neighborhood houses in the San Juan area. This point of the injunction is of little significance inasmuch as the Llamas chain had revealed several months ago its intention "not to renew the lease" under which Cobian has operated these 14 properties owned by the Llamas circuit. (These 14 theatres return the Llamas circuit Nov. 1.)

Asked about the effects of the termination of the arrangement with the Llamas circuit, Commonwealth Theatres prexy Ramos Cobian stated in a prepared release:

"Commonwealth Theatres had intended not to renew the 10-year lease which expires this month and under which we had operated the Llamas Circuit as part of our theatre chain. The reason for this decision is that 11 of the 14 neighborhood theatres were actually operating at a loss. The three new theatres we are opening in 1964 will more than off-set the loss of the three first-run Llamas houses. Therefore—from the standpoint of our over-all operations — conclusions of lease with Llamas is of no significance."

Another minor provision of the suit settlement requires Commonwealth Theatres to divest itself of three of its 11 theatres in the city of Ponce, on the island's south shore. Similarly, these three theatres return to the Llamas chain.

In making public the decree, Commonwealth Secretary of Justice Hiram Cancio noted that the term "monopoly" was, in the case of Cobian's holdings, actually a misnomer, but that an investigating body of four Federal anti-trust experts who visited the island earlier this year, found sufficient grounds for the suit against Cobian under the 1907 Commonwealth counterpart of the Federal Sherman Anti-trust Act. The intention of Justice in initiating the action, Cancio said, was to re-establish competition in the San Juan area and break up the control of the theatres operated by Cobain. Of the 25, Cobian controls 11. Another 14 theatres are owned by the Llamas circuit, plus one Metro Theatre and Fernando Cortes' single first-run house, Cortes I.

STEWART TOURS FOR PIC

James Stewart and Sandra Dee, stars of 20th-Fox's "Take Her, She's Mine," go to Abilene, Texas, for the Nov. 5 world preem of the pic at the Paramount Theatre. Attendance by Stewart marks the first stop of his nationwide tour on the film's behalf.

Also attending Abilene preem will be mayors of 15 Texas cities, Air Force officials (Stewart is a reserve general), and newsmen repping 32 Texas - Oklahoma papers.

New York Soundtrack

Continued from page 16

Bronston's "Circus World," for which Web Overlander has gone to Spain as John Wayne's personal makeup man—for the 44th time.

Tony Randall teamed for the third time with Rock Hudson and Doris Day in a Universal comedy, this time "Send Me No Flowers" . . . Barry Sullivan and Marilyn Maxwell into Par's "Stagecoach to Hell," which began lensing last Monday (28) . . . Paula Prentiss will be a guest of honor at today's (Wed.) TOA luncheon at the Americana Hotel, N. Y. . . . UA's "Kings of the Sun" will be the company's Christmas pic and it's already got 300 domestic bookings for the holiday season.

Angie Dickinson on a busy whirl of Gotham promo activities for Captain Newman, M.D., to be culminated tomorrow (Thurs.) when she gets the TOA "most exciting new star award" at the Americana Hotel, N. Y. . . . Minta Durfee will plug Allied Artists' "Gunfight at Comanche Creek" in England next month . . . French director Alain Resnais returned to Paris over the weekend following Gotham confabs with Lopert execs prior to today's (Wed.) U.S. debut of his "Muriel," at the Plaza Theatre.

Louis Jourdan inked to join Peter O'Toole and Peter Sellers in Billy Wilder's "Private Life of Sherlock Holmes" . . . Paul Newman currently has a series of radio spots running on WNEW, N. Y., plugging Par's "New Kind of Love," which opens at the DeMille and Coronet Theatres today (Wed.) . . . Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni spolighted on the cover of the November issue of Cosmopolitan.

Douglas Heyes inked to an exclusive long-termer at Universal as a writer-director . . . Pacific Title will design the credits for Blake Edwards' "Soldier in the Rain" (AA) . . . Terry-Thomas in Hollywood for UA's gala press debut of "Mad World" . . . U's "Captain Newman, M.D." will play a special Oscar qualifying stint at the Paramount Theatre, L.A., beginning Dec. 25.

National Screen Service doing the hospitality suite and luncheon bits for both the TOA and Allied meets at the Americana Hotel, N. Y. . . . UA's "Soldier in the Rain" will world preem Nov. 27 at the Palace Theatre, N. Y.

Assn. for the Help of Retarded Children has entire Nov. 26 performance of "Mad World" at the New Warner Cinerama for a benefit.

Angie Dickinson made trailer for the U.S. Treasury Dept. plugging Series E Bonds as a Xmas gift . . . Principal photography was completed over the weekend in Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, on the Corman Bros. "Dubious Patriots" (UA) . . . Claudia Morgan inked for "World of Henry Orient."

Bernard J. Gates, Allied Artists International v.p.-general sales manager, back in his New York office after a trip abroad . . . David Miller will direct Cary Grant's next pic for Universal, an as-yet-untitled effort being written by Peter Stone . . . Photogs Jerry Schatzberg, Jacques Lowe, Peter Basch and Henry Grossman set for special photographic material on Landau's "Pawnbroker," now lensing in Gotham.

Suspense pic producer William Castle will move his production company to Universal next Monday (28), his first pic for U to be determined shortly . . . Denver novelist William E. Barrett, whose "Lilies of the Field" tome was filmed by Ralph Nelson, in Gotham for a brief visit . . . Boston exhib George Keffalopoulos has leased the Phillips Theatre, Springfield, Mass., and is remodeling it at a cost of $30,000. He'll reopen it soon as Cinema X, the first booking to be "Heavens Above."

The 1963 Venice Film Festival award, the Premio "Mostra Internationale d'Arte Cinematografica," given to George Fenin and William Everson's book, "The Western: From Silents to Cinerama," which Orion Press is publishing.

PEG QUARTERLY 56C AS WOMETCO POLICY

Miami, Oct. 29.

Wometco Enterprises, combine which embraces theatres, tv stations, vending, bottling plants and the Miami Seaquarium, has declared a 20% stock dividend on its Class A and Class B stock, payable Dec. 23 to holders of record Dec. 2.

Board of directors, in revealing the move, reported its intention to pay quarterly cash dividends at the annual rate of 56c on the Class A and 20c on the Class B on the total number of shares outstanding after the issuance of the stock divvies. This will amount to an increase of more than 11% in the cash dividend to holders.

Board has also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 15c on the currently outstanding Class A and 5½c on the outstanding Class B, payable Dec. 16 to holders of record Dec. 2.

UA Showcase

Continued from page 11

ten if he weren't committed to the UA plan.

Allied prez Jack Armstrong said that his concern regarding the plan was mostly one that runs and theatres not be hurt. Throughout the convention he stressed the need for more of an orderly flow of product and for more theatres. Long runs shut out the continuous customers, be alleged.

There were other complaints and some defenses. Many agreed that it was really too early to tell, most feeling that New York was not an indicative area and that both the Pittsburgh and Buffalo experiences were different. There was considerable concern about the plan's potential effect on runs, terms, clearances and such in the general distribution picture, despite the fact that many branded "showcase" as little more than "glorified multiple release."

Still Bear Wartime 20% Admish Tax; Puerto Rican Exhibs Crying 'Murder'

San Juan, Oct. 29.

While most industries here are growing like the proverbial beanstalk, not so with film exhibition business. Approximately 15% of the island's screen houses in the interior have shut down in the past 10 years. Another 30% are "just limping along," according to showmen. In any event, some 20 independent theatre owners, who claim they are being "taxed to death," have formed the Puerto Rico Theatre Owners Committee. They hope to remedy the situation through the Commonwealth Government. They ask end of admission tax of 20% on every ticket.

Public education program is in order.

Roberto Esteves, an executive of the Esteves Theatre Circuit (with eight houses in Aguadilla, Arecibo and Moca), has been chosen to head the newly-formed committee. He believes that as many as one-third of the island's "small theatres in the interior" will close down within five years if "theatre owners continue to be plagued by this discriminatory tax." It originated on the mainland as a wartime measure, in 1942. It has remained in full force here.

Last year the admission tax revenue from Puerto Rico's 147 theatres put $889,000 into the Commonwealth Treasury, per data of last March by the Dept. of Labor. The average admission price here last year was 37c—an increase of no more than 1.5c in the past three years. Almost half of the theatre owners here operate a single house. Exhibition employs 814 persons—from managers to ushers.

Last month all theatre employees received a blanket salary increase of 25 to 30%. Says Esteves: "We have not increased admission prices, but we have increased the wages of our employees. Operating expenses have also increased appreciably in the past few years. Many of us, in effect, being taxed out of business."

What taxes stand between the film exhibitors who bring in the films and the exhibitors who own movie theatres?

"First of all" replies Esteves, "there is a Federal import tax on all foreign films (made outside of the U.S.) of 3c per foot. There is a blanket Commonwealth tax of 2.5c on every foot of film brought into Puerto Rico from the States. (This tax averages $250 per feature film.) In addition to theatre property tax, municipal tax, and income tax, we are required to turn over 20% of all boxoffice revenues to the Commonwealth Treasury." The irony of the whole situation, Esteves believes, is that the tax is closing the small theatres. "The towns affected are those which often have only one movie house," he says. "In some small towns and barrios," a film can play only one or two days. That's all the potential audience there is. More films are therefore imported to meet the needs of these theatres. But on the other hand the import tax keeps film imports at a minimum. So these theatres resort to repeating the same films. But many of these repeats are turning up on television. And why should anyone pay to see a picture he can see at home—free."

One exhibitor solution for beefing up revenues, Esteves points out, is screen advertising. "But you know that advertising in the movies annoys some people. So again we lose some of our audience in our attempt to survive financially."

Esteves notes that the elimination or reduction of the local admission tax does not necessarily mean that the price of a movie ticket will be reduced. "But," he says, "additional revenue that theatre owners realize will go into maintaining and improving our theatres. This we must do—provide better, cleaner, more modern theatres—if we are to compete realistically with television."

PETER RIETHOF

116bis, Champs Elysees, PARIS. Tel.: BAL 7200.

TWO TIME IFIDA AWARD WINNER FOR BEST DUBBING

Experience Since 1950 in Directing Over 300 English Versions

Permits to Deliver First-Rate Dubbings at Very Reasonable Conditions

Delivery Dates Are Guaranteed

British Censor Explains to H'wood

It's 'Unofficial' There But Not Lacking In Real Power To Control and Classify—Trevelyn Gives Latest Data

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

British film industry, through its British Board of Censors which it set up to protect its own interests, classified a total of 442 domestic and foreign motion pix during 1962, according to John Trevelyn, Board secretary, visiting here last week for a few days.

In a breakdown, Briton said that 171 were given "U" classification (suitable for all), 169 "A" (permissible for children if accompanied by adults) and 102 "X" (only for adults above 16 years of age).

Through June of 1963, he noted, the classifications have been 115 "U," 89 "A" and 50 "X," indicating a rise in generally-acceptable films and a drop for adults-only.

Of the 102 "X" films classified last year, he said, more than half came from the U.S. and France—32 and 25, respectively. The others, by nation of production, were Great Britain—15; Italy—9; Germany—5; Sweden—4; Japan, France-Italy, U.S.-Italy,—2 each; Spain, Great Britain-Erie, Finland, Poland, Great Britain-Canada, and Uruguay—one each.

Through May, 1963, the "X" pictures include U.S.—11; Great Britain—9; France—7; Sweden, Italy-France, Germany, Italy, U.S.-Great Britain—2 each; Denmark, U.S.-Italy, U.S.-France, and Canada—one each. June films were not tabulated in time for his report.

The reason given by Trevelyan for the swing to the conservative side has been a surfeit, or "piling up," of "X"-classified films. About five or six years ago, an "X" film found difficulty in getting sufficient bookings to warrant success; then the trend changed and exhibitors now apparently are changing again towards films more suitable for family trade, or what are generally termed "entertainment" pictures.

Trevelyan noted that this alone does not point to a decline in the more adult film but that there is an indication currently in Great Britain of a feeling of surfeit towards the extremely realistic but drab type stories.

His trip to the U.S. was primarily to meet with M.P.A.A. members in N.Y. and he did not originally plan continuing on to Hollywood. However, at the invitation of M.P.-A.A. heads, he came out for a few days to meet and confab with Production Code head Geoffrey Shurlock and some Hollywood producers.

Asked what the nature of his position with the Censor Board was, Trevelyan said that it compared roughly with Shurlock's but included other legal responsibilities.

Classification of British films, he said, is pretty much pre-ordained with the producer aiming towards a particular classification. The occasional borderline case is easily resolved with a few cuts or, should there be any question, with an "X" classification. The classification of films into "U" or "A" began in 1912;

"I would like to point out that the British Censor Board is not a government body," he said. "We were set up by the British film industry to protect its interests. Unlike your American office, however, we do have definite control over classification.

"Although a municipality has the right to change or ignore the classification we put on a film, 98% of our decisions are generally accepted. Occasionally, there is an instance where a city, such as Birmingham, will regard a film in one light whereas the county, such as Warwickshire, where Birmingham is located, may have a different concept. But these are rare instances.

"We have no written rules, no defined policies. In some instances the intent of the film will decide its classification. We would, for instance, allow a film on nudism if it were a serious documentary but we do not permit nudie films."

Explaining something of the history of British film censorship, Trevelyan said that, in 1909, because of the danger of fire from inflammable film, an Act of Parliament, as a fire control, made it necessary to have a license in order to operate a motion picture theatre. This was later interpreted as conveying the power to censor.

Today, every theatre is required to show on its screen a reproduction of a certificate from either the local authorities or the British Censor Board for a minimum of 10 seconds at the beginning of each showing. Any theatre owner who breaks the rule is liable not only to a court fine but to revocation of his license.

The British solution to the problem of showing trailers for "X" films during the engagement of a "U" film (with its audience of impressionable younger people) is a simple one. All trailers must fit the "U" category regardless of the classification of the features they are advertising. (There's a moral there for American filmakers).

The British Censor Board has no jurisdiction over films shown on television, Trevelyan said. "However, I have a sort of working agreement with the tv people." As there are only two tv channels (with a third next year, possibly), the only films shown so far have been older ones. Trevelyan doesn't expect the stations to run many "X" films and if they do they'll make any necessary cuts (the "working agreement," presumably).

Tv censorship is handled internally. The Television Act of 1954, which brought commercial tv into existence, also created the Independent Television Authority. Along with this group's major duty of working out contracts with sponsors, it was given the responsibility for the quality of the program material to be shown.

The individual programs are not sponsored. There are, however, advertising spots of pre-determined length at the beginning and end of a program. The time of day these spots appear determine their importance (and worth). British prime time is entirely in the evening, usually from 7 to 10 p.m. The actual programs, while not sponsored, are supported by the network from commercial revenue. Most morning tv is taken up with quasi-educational matter, with the major programs running from noon until 11:30, the end of the tv day.

Trevelyan says that there is comparatively no pressure for censorship from minority groups, with nothing in Great Britain comparable to the Catholic Legion of Decency. This puts a great amount of responsibility on the Censor Board. He concluded, "We consider a film entirely in terms of artistic integrity."

National Screen Service Busy at Both Conclaves

National Screen Service is making a strong push to reach exhibitors gathering in New York for the Allied States Assn. and Theatre Owners of America conventions at the Americana Hotel. The former session is currently in progress and the latter begins next Monday (28) and NSS has established special presentations and personal meeting lures aimed at creating a greater rapport with the visiting firemen.

On display are what the company terms "showmanship concepts" and "patronage stimulants." NSS is also holding open house in suites at the hotel during both conventions with chief execs Burton E. Robbins, Norman Robbins, Walter E. Branson and Melvin L. Gold available for personal chats with exhibs. The company is unveiling several displays and trailers and other items including banners, valances and similar items designed for local-level campaigns for all types of outdoor and indoor situations.

As a special feature, three tape recorders are ready in case any exhibitor wants to go on record regarding matters or suggestions which he feels require the consideration of NSS execs. No syndication of the resulting programs is presently planned, however.

DGA's Quarter Nominees

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Four films released during third quarter of 1963 will be screened by members of Directors Guild of America as nominees for annual Directorial Achievement Award.

Quartet, with directors and assistants, include: "Irma La Douce," Billy Wilder and Hal Polaire; "The Great Escape," John Sturges, Jack Reddish; "The VIP's" Anthony Asquith, Kip Gowans; "8½," Federico Fellini, Guidarino Guido.

Spain Medals Bronston

Madrid, Oct. 29.

Independent producer Samuel Bronston of U.S.A., at a ceremony which took place in the Salon de Recepciones of the Ministry of Information and Tourism here, was presented with the Order of Isabel La Catolica for this work in establishing closer cultural ties between the United States and Spain.

Presentation was made by Fraga Iribarne, Minister of Information and Tourism.

Allied Wrap-Up

Continued from page 7

exhibs was Cinerama chief Nicholas Reisini who charged them too bound to tradition, too little daring in sell. He called for greater harmony between exhibition and distribution. Reisini worked both sides of the street calling for, on the one hand, the end of 90-10 deals which he said were unfair to exhibs, and telling theatremen, on the other hand, to stop padding payroll and overhead and chiseling on grosses.

Phone Calls Enough?

Samuel Bronston Productions veep Paul Lazarus traced the history of independent production and forsaw the future as a time when indie producers also become independent distributors. He predicted an age in which a few score phone calls by an indie could handle the major booking of his pix. After he left the meeting, Lazarus' remarks on booking drew some disgruntled comment from terms and saturation-conscious exhibs.

From Theatre Network Television, Nate Halpern urged theatremen to make their houses into "communication centres" and not just film showcases. Noting the possibilities of closed circuit, he said that this will open new horizons for theatre boxoffice and will make theatres the centres of community life via varied programming. He noted the success in Toronto of the theatre televising of ice hockey games and other examples, paying particular attention to such events as building a new audience for film houses.

C. C. Needs 300 Houses

In answer to questions, Halpern acknowledged that theatre toll programming wasn't developed as yet and he said he visualized theatre tv as supplemental, not daily, programming. He said he figured about 300-theatre participation would be needed before anything approaching programming could be worked out. The TNT prez stressed, however, that there were plenty of events around and also opined that theatre toll would best defeat home pay-tv because it is ready now and home systems still face problems.

Horace Svigals, Trans-Lux sales v.p., echoed a thought often expressed during the convention that theatres weren't getting their share of the audience potential. He noted that the population in the U. S. is nearing the 200,000,000 mark while film audience numbers are decreasing. He called for broader booking patterns and emphasized the playing of more "international pictures," noting that country or origin make no difference to an audience in these cultural-minded times.

American - International exec v.p. Samuel Arkoff told exhibs to "clean up, fix up and pay up" and everything would be all right. He and AIP prez James Nicholson were named "producers of the year" during the meeting and, in this connection, Arkoff told the delegates that companies should produce more features without the interference of actors, agents and such who take no money risks. "It is not our intention to let the flies take over the flypaper," he commented, drawing applause from his audience.

Council of Motion Picture Organizations exec director Charley McCarthy outlined the workings of COMPO and discussed the outfit's current campaigns against theatre admissions taxation and censorship. He also stressed the organization's Bill of Rights campaign and called for national support in an institutional public relations drive on behalf of exhibition through grass roots activities.

In Gotham With Allied

Mort Sunshine's specially-produced "History of the Movies" for the Allied closing banquet proved interesting and entertaining, earning hefty applause at fadeout. Dore Schary narrated. Included were Bill Hayes, dancer Candy Johnson, Tony Randall, R. C. Music Hall organist Dick Libert, John Cameron Swazy, Julia Meade, singer Karen Morrow, Conrad Nagel, James Hurst & Bonnie Murray, Rita Gam and Robert Preston.

Adolph Zukor drew a big ovation when introed during the "History" show and was stopped many times when the evening was over by people with comments like this one by Miriam Hopkins: "I don't think you remember me but you gave me my start". . . UA's "Pink Panther" drew so much comment after being screened for delegates the opening night of the conclave that a second screening had to be skedded the second night for those who missed it.

One of Joe Levine's convention gimmicks: copies of the Herald Tribune delivered with a "your morning newspaper courtesy of Joseph Levine" sticker on the front . . . Sandy Barkin, one of the National Screen Service hospitality suite girls, filmed a commercial for Thom McAn currently tied with Clay Cole's tv deejay show . . .

When explaining what was available for delegates to do during the conclave's open evening when nothing was planned by Allied, director Milt London's inclusion of tv tickets along with Broadway and film ducats got a hiss from tube-hating exhibs . American-International's luncheon bash was a swinger with Morey Amsterdam hosting a show which featured terper Candy Johnson twisting on table tops, gals from Gotham's Gaslight Club, some of the Fred Astaire dancers, Jerry Jerome & his Orch and a trailer with Vincent Price . . . N.Y. Mayor Robert F. Wagner stopped in at the final banquet in the midst of negotiations over a threatened milk strike in the city and said a few words on behalf of Harry Brandt, Allied's "showman of the year."

Alec Gorshel, a member of the South African parliament, paid a visit to the opening biz session of the convention and said a few words to the boys. He's in the U.S. on a goodwill mission sponsored by the State Dept., studying American life and the U.S. film industry . . . On closing banquet dais Myrna Loy, Miriam Hopkins, Julie Newmar, Thelma Ritter, Barry Nelson, Horace MacMahon, Margarita Piazza . . . Eva Six a dais hit during AIP's luncheon, taking lotsa blue ribbing.

Introducing Joe Levine at his luncheon, Harry Brandt offered an interesting parlay describing the Embassy prez as a combination of P. T. Barnum, Mike Todd, Harry Reichenbach and Irving Thalberg . . . One of the door prizes given out during the conclave: two weeks in an apartment in Jamaica, B.W.I.—sans transportation, food or anything else, however . . . One of AIP's gimmicks during the conclave was a special edition of the N.Y. Daily News which was the actual Wednesday (23) paper but with a special front and back page plugging the film company and Allied.

Universal sales v.p. Hi Martin visited the convention to make a pitch on behalf of the Will Rogers Hospital . . . COMPO exec director Charles McCarthy told of plans by the organization to have President Kennedy make a special tv-theatrical trailer for its Bill of Rights drive . . . During the "premiere showcase" discussion, it was mentioned that the plan had gotten a little out of hand this month with both UA and Fox both slating a pic for "showcase release on the same day, "McLintock" and "Take Her She's Mine." Snapped voluble Wilbur Snaper, "it will make a helluva double feature."

TOA In On Heels of Allied

Continued from page 7

States Assn. prez Jack Armstrong and others in Allied on several matters and said that, while there may have been differences in conditions or philosophy that warranted two national associations in the past, he knew of no single valid reason for this "duplication of effort and dilution of effectiveness" to continue any longer.

Though it wouldn't be an automatic answer to the problems of the industry, Stembler said, a single voice can most effectively rep all exhibs. "It is my opinion clearly to the enlightened self-interest of exhibitors to forget and put aside past rivalries, personal clashes, personal vanities or whatever unimportant reasons and in the way of a single, strong united exhibitor organization," he told the board, concluding with "why not now?"

He said that the major problems of exhibs are those that have persisted in recent years. At the top of the list, Stembler claimed, is "an inadequate supply of boxoffice attractions." He called for a more orderly flow of product and noted that TOA's Hollywood Preview Engagements plan of orphan period film showing had been effective. He also attacked "blind selling and bidding," calling it unfair and uneconomic and the result of a seller's market. He said that distribs have the power to do something about this but if they don't, "other means" must be found.

Stembler went on to attack recent-vintage films on tv, estimating that around 11,000 pix have been made available to the tube. He praised American-International for its five-year clearance clause and said that the other companies showed "incredibly bad judgment" in their selloff practices. He also pointed out that TOA has met with the Federal Trade Commission with regard to tv advertising of pix as "firstrun" which he claims is misleading.

Retiring prez also discussed pay-tv, calling results of experiments to date "wholly unimpressive." He additionally mentioned censorship and told of the help from TOA that is available in combatting it.

A resolution was passed at the meeting that TOA join with any and all interested exhibs and exhib organizations to organize and run a national audience awards poll with a culminating tv spectacular to be sponsored by a "compatible advertiser." The board resolved to establish a committee to investigate a modus operandi for the plan, judge the financing involved and poll the membership as to its willingness to participate.

A. Julian Brylawski reported for the legislative committee on various congressional actions regarding exhibition and said that none received more than token recognition in the 88th Congress and that there are no plans, so far as he knows, to hold meetings on any of the measures.

Stembler said after the meeting that this is the largest TOA convention ever and reported that the organization's mid-winter board meeting will be held in Kansas City in connection with United Theatre Owners of the Heart of America's Show-A-Rama, skedded for March 3-5.

Levine's Night

Continued from page 7

Fabian's extemporaneous speech was good. (Son Eddie Fabian did all right as dinner chairman.)

But Kennedy's accent on theatres as "public accommodations"; that prostitutes and criminals can travel at will but "do you know the grief a Negro college professor or a nice Negro family has if they were to drive on holiday, let us say from Washington to New Orleans."

He recapped the basic 109 southern and border cities which initially integrated, followed by 144 cities, or 253 in all, despite all the travail of a Jackson, Miss., or a Cambridge, Md.

Kennedy also said, "Look around here and note that no Negroes are present." (Sammy Davis Jr., who is costarred in Levine's "Threepenny Opera," was to have been a dais guest but something happened.)

The Prizes Of Mannheim

Mannheim, Oct. 29.

(1) Grand Prix of the City of Mannheim (cash award amounting to 10,000 D-Marks) to "About Something Else" (Czech)

Mannheim Film Ducats, six given to "Italia Probità" (Italy)
"Mourir a Madrid" (France)
"Route Sans Sillage" (France)
"The Most" (Canada)
"Le Jete" (France)
"Summit" (U.S. cartoon by Stan Vanderbeek)

Special Cash Prizes:
4,000 D-Marks ($1,000) to Walter Kruettner's "It Must Be a Piece By Hitler" (Germany),
3,000 Marks ($750) to Stan Vanderbeek's "Summit" (U.S.)
3,000 Marks ($750) to Richard Snodgrass' "Legacy" (U.S.)

Special jury diplomas of praise.
"Fleischer's Album" (Poland)
"The Other Half of Day" (Hungary)
"Un an au Middleheim" (Belgium)
"Years Without Harvest" (Lela Swift, U.S.A.)
"Kindergarten" (Canada)
"Materia" (Poland

Simone Dubreuilh Prize of International Film Critic Assn. for best short pic of the year's best prize-winning short pic to "The Game" (Yugoslavia)

Critics Assn. Prize of the Mannheim Festival: to "It Must Be a Piece by Hitler" (Germany)

Catholidc Short Film Prize: "It Must Be a Piece by Hitler" (Germany)

Protestant Film Prize: "Italia Prohibito" (Italy)

'Cleo' a Sample Of French-Style Charity Openings

Paris, Oct. 29.

Premiere of 20th-Fox's "Cleopatra" was sponsored by publicist Marcel Bleustein-Blanchet to celebrate the 25th anniversary of his Regie-Presse-Publicis firm, with proceeds going to the Petits Lits Blancs, a TB charity. Preem showing is at the Rex, Grands Boulevards house; thereafter film additionally at two more houses, the Rotunde and Normandie.

Pubicity people, celebs and politicos will make up the first night audience. Because of the difficulty in parking on the boulevards, car owners will park on the Place de la Concorde and ride in special subway trains to the Rex (unfortunately, it's not the Place des Pyramides stop).

During the preem run here, pic will be shown three times a day at the Rotonde and Rex and two at the Normandie, on the Champs Elysees. Prices range from $1.75 to $2.50 and $3 at the first two theatres, and from $2.50 to $3 at the Normandie. It is not entirely out of the question that if run goes as well as is anticipated, a reserved seat section may be tried in each of the houses.

However, French film goers still are not thought to be attuned to hardticket showings. If the early noon showings at the Rex and Rotonde do not catch on, theatres will go to a two-a-day policy.

NEW RIVIERA BUILDING

Replace Gutted Firstrun In Downtown Knoxville

Knoxville, Oct. 29.

Plans have been completed for the reconstruction of the fire-gutted Riviera Theatre, main street house, at a cost of in excess of $350,000 according to Hugh Rainey, vice-president of the Simpson Operating Co. which leases the theatre.

Rainey said the new facility will be the most modern in East Tennessee and one of the top theatres in the Southeast. The house will be called the New Riviera Theatre.

Construction should be completed by February, according to Rainey. It will feature 940 seats, a 48-foot screen, new-style comfortable seats, expanded lobby and concession facilities.

The old Riviera burned on June 23. It had been constructed in 1920. The new construction is the first main street theatre project since 1929 when the Tennessee was built by Paramount.

As in the past, the New Riviera will be a firstrun situation.

Not All Whites the Foe

Gastonia, N.C., Oct. 29.

Young Negroes continued picketing the segregated theatres here this week and, according to police, they have won the sympathy of some white people.

Officers watching the demonstrations at the Webb and Center theatres, said would-be white patrons bought tickets, then tore the tickets up. A policeman who was outside the Center Theatre said six white people paid $1 each and said "That's for segregation," and walked away.

IT'S 'AGEE STREET' IN AUTHOR'S KNOXVILLE

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 29.

Knoxville's main artery, Gay Street, was renamed "Agee Street" on Thursday (17) for the world premiere of "All the Way Home," a Paramount release produced by David Susskind. The preem was held at the Tennessee Theatre, a Wilby-Kinsey house, before a packed audience to whom were presented Robert Preston, Aline MacMahon and the boy, Michael Kearney.

James Agee, a native of Knoxville, wrote the Pulitzer Prize novel "A Death in the Family," upon which "All the Way Home" is based. Most of the filming was in the Knoxville area.

Knoxville did a Hollywood for the event. The U. of Tennessee band played in front of the theatre, special receptions and dinners were given for the visiting Paramount officials and members of the press.

Alex Segal directed the film from a screenplay by Philip Reisman Jr.

Susskind gave Knoxville Mayor John Duncan a plaque honoring the late James Agee, which will eventually be laid in the cornerstone of the proposed James Agee Memorial Studio.

Technicians declare it will take less than $75,000 to make the Chilhowee Park administration building into a first-class studio, including proper wiring, sound and a moving corrider.

City seeks to promote use of Knoxville and East Tennessee as location for future pictures. Two films have been handled in the area in the past 18 months, the "All the Way Home" production and "The Fool Killer," an Ely Landau picture.

Vancouver Stalwarts' Slogan: 'Never Temporarily Cancel An International Film Fest'

By SAM SHAW

Vancouver, Oct. 29.

Product has been lined up for the sixth annual edition of Vancouver's International Film Festival to be held Nov. 24-30 in the Pacific Northwest Centre. One of the two Canadian fests (Montreal is the other), Vancouver was reorganized this year after a preliminary indication that it might have to be deferred for a 12-month period.

Preliminary list of 13 features now committed includes titles from Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, India, Poland, Russia and the United States. Majority have been on the international film festival circuit in '62-'63 but have not previously been unreeled in Canada. For the sixth straight year a British feature from Rank International Films has been provided through the courtesy of the Canadian distributors, Twentieth Century-Fox Corp. It's "Billy Liar," Great Britain's entry at this year's Venice festival.

Cannes festival selections due for Vancouver include France's "Les Abysses," Poland's "How To Be Loved" and Hungary's "Love In The Suburbs." A second Hungarian feature, "The Land of Angels," was named Grand Prize winner at Argentina's Mar del Plata festival in March this year. India's "Aarti" was shown at the recently-concluded Cork festival, Kent Mackenzie's "The Exiles," an independent U.S. production, at New York's Museum of Modern Art in conjunction with the first Lincoln Center festival, and West Germany's "Without Date" received the Bronze Dog award at this year's Las Palmas (Canary Islands) festival.

Subject competition has drawn items from Canada, Rumania, Bulgaria, Japan, Yugoslavia, Korea, Luxembourg, Pakistan and the Principality of Lichstenstein. (Latter unexplained). Jury is not yet known.

Vancouver festival originated in 1958 as part of a broad international festival of the arts that concentrated heavily on music and drama. Although the film section apparently paid its way and found public acceptance from '58 through '62, the music and drama portions encountered mounting financial deficits. Film committee volunteers who had manned the celluloid section for five years opposed year layoff. In their view a '63 hiatus would result in permanent cancellation, as had been the case with the temporary deferment of the Stratford (Ontario) film festival in 1961. A new sponsoring group, Pacific Coast Festivals, was organized, headed by A. Eric Gee, former chairman of the Vancouver festival society film committee and including a nucleus of committee workers. Although severely handicapped by lack of time to mount a two week program as in past years and faced with an empty financial cupboard, initial encouragement from the local press and film industry plus minimum cash contributions from the general public were sufficient to justify scheduling of a one week festival in late November.

The Lineup

Continuing public support is good and response from past participants in the Vancouver festival, as indicated by the announced list of film product, is without precedent in the six year history of the event. With 14 showings slated for the seven day fest and 13 nominees already received some five weeks in advance of opening date, the new organizers are beginning to relax a bit. Faced with the axiom that no festival is expected or supposed to break even,

Program, to date, comprises:

"Billy Liar" (Great Britain-Venice '63)
"Baron Munchausen" (Czech.-Karlovy-Vary '62)
"Les Abysses" (France-Cannes '63)
"How To Be Loved" (Poland-Cannes '63)
"Love In The Suburbs" (Hungary-Cannes '63)
"Aatri" (India-Cork '63)
"Without Date" (Germany-Las Palmas '63)
"The Exiles" (U.S.-Edinburgh '62)
"The Land of Angels" (Hungary-Mar del Plata '63)
"Bread of Our Early Years" (Germany-London '62)
"Bay of Angels" (France)
"Three Days After Immortality" (Russa)
"Cleo From 5 to 7" (France)

Film Biz Brushes Negro Press on Ads But Asks Plenty of Favors—Says Stone

In reference to a recent VARIETY story about the fate of Ossie Davis' race satire "Gone Are the Days," in which the comment was made that, while the ofay press was quick to react to news of the firm's boxoffice difficulties, the Negro press virtually ignored both the picture and the public's reaction to it, a rep of said Negro press questions the economics of the situation.

Writes C. Sumner Stone Jr., editor-in-chief of the Chicago Daily Defender, a Negro paper, "both the movie and television industry still bypass the Negro press on advertising but the bigots which control both industries are quick to saturate us with free publicity releases whenever they have a Negro performer. Equal rights is more and more getting to mean economic equality too."

Earlier in the letter to VARIETY, Stone commented: "If the Trans-Lux Theatre or producers of "Gone Are the Days" did not advertise in the New York Amsterdam News (a leading Gotham Negro paper) prior to the opening of the film, I hope the paper ignored the hell out of the movie."

He also questioned whether VARIETY had someone actually checking the 236 Negro newspapers in the U.S. The fact is that the information reported at the time was the result of comments made by various participants in the film, including the producers, who noted the lack of attention in the local Negro press while the white papers and other media were so busy covering the picture's plight. (The producers did, by the way, advertise in the Amsterdam News. They also campaigned in the Negro community for support and were offered same from many sources, not the least of which was the Congress of Racial Equality —Ed.)

As it stands now, incidentally, the film, which is based on Davis' Broadway play "Purlie Victorious," still has no distributor. It has closed at the Trans-Lux East to make way for David Susskind-Paramount's "All the Way Home." Milton and Thomas Hammer, producers of the Davis picture, are currently contemplating doing some booking on their own. They have gotten several inquiries from exhibs around the country about playing the film, both in the south as well as elsewhere. Washington may be next and overseas chances look good, they say.

Although boxoffice attention rallied somewhat after the initial dire attendance, the film never really got into a substantial-grossing groove. Distribs who had been interested to one degree or another became less enchanted as far as taking on national marketing was concerned. It got the support of many groups and individuals who solicited further attention but it all wasn't enough to keep it going at the Trans-Lux, although T-L prez Richard Brandt was willing to go along with it as long as possible. Gone may well be the days of the picture now, although the Hammers are still plugging away trying to recoup the well over $300,000 to date invested in the project.

New York Theatres

RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
Rockefeller Center • PL 7-3100
Broadway's Number One Milestone Hit
"Mary, Mary"
Starring DEBBIE REYNOLDS
Barry Nelson • Diana Hollis and MICHAEL RENNIE
A Warner Bros. Picture in Technicolor
ON STAGE "ALL AROUND THE TOWN" Spectacular revue.

New York's largest specialists in motion picture & TV insurance
(cast, film, weather, liability, cameras, props, plagiarism...)
WINKLER ASSOCIATES, LTD.
120 W. 57 St., New York 19, Circle 7-3366

CINERAMA INC.
ANNOUNCES
FILM LIBRARY
World Wide Footage 35mm EK Color
4050 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles 19, Calif.
REpublic 5-1212, Editorial

YOUNG MAN WITH MOTION PICTURE EXPERIENCE, university graduate, fluent in French, Spanish and German, seeking position with established director-producer. Will travel.
Write Box V-3532, VARIETY
154 W. 46 St., New York, N. Y. 10036

CHICAGO'S SPECIALIST MOTION PICTURE EXPLOITEER AND FREE LANCE PUBLICIST
(and the Entire Middle West)
— 20 Years' Experience —
IRVING TOMBACH, 623 Sheridan Road
Evanston, Illinois Tel.: 864-6267

CONGRATULATIONS
DR. LEON WELLS
VICE PRESIDENT, DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH
PANOPIX, INC., A SUBSIDIARY OF PANACOLOR, INC.
ON THE RELEASE OF YOUR NEW BOOK
"THE JANOWSKA ROAD"
PUBLISHED BY THE MACMILLAN COMPANY
PANACOLOR
NEW YORK • HOLLYWOOD

What Henry Wants: Better Dialog Between Citizens & Broadcasters

Washington, Oct. 29.

FCC Chairman E. William Henry concluded from his Omaha, Neb. television inquiry that there are many fertile fields for Commission probing other than local live programming.

Submitting his findings on the controversial local live Omaha look-see, Henry said FCC has pretty well run that field of inquiry dry.

Among the possibilities suggested by Henry for Commission inquiries were stations' use of network and syndicated programs, station initiative and communication with civic leaders and AM and FM radio service.

Basically the findings and conclusions in the Omaha report were a reiteration of Henry's long standing call for a better dialog between citizens and broadcasters.

Henry's repeated pitch that the public should be told of its rights in broadcast programming were implemented with several specific suggestions.

He said television stations should air regularly announcements that they are required by law to serve the public interest and their communities and that the public has a right to inspect their applications at the studios. The proposed announcement would also welcome letters and comments on programming.

Henry said market and general station financial statements should also be available for public review at studios.

Also suggested were several revisions of the application form to include information on "specials," prime time programming, community issues, station staffing and local live programming.

The performance of the three Omaha tv stations, drew a yes-no review from Henry. He made the following suggestions:

Community leaders should have broader participation in religious program planning.

"There is considerable room for improvement" in educational programming. "It is obvious . . . that there is a need for broader planning on the part of all concerned."

Questions concerning the quality of children's programs and the development of local talent via tv were "addressed . . to the ingenuity and imagination of the Omaha stations themselves and of interested organizations in the community."

News coverage by the three stations has forced the local paper to carry stories it otherwise would have ignored. But local pubaffairs programming "is another matter altogether."

Henry called this aspect of the stations' programming a "mixed picture." The stations have taken the basic responsibility for pubaffairs program production, he said.

At the same time, though, the problems the stations considered most pressed have been given only "relatively limited" treatment.

Henry said promotion of local programming "deserves further consideration" by the stations and interested community groups.

As for more local prime time programming, Henry called for a "further evaluation of Omaha's needs by its television broadcasters and citizens generally."

Judy Going Full Route, Sez Dann

Michael Dann, CBS-TV program veepee, has assured producers of the Judy Garland show that the full complement of 32 shows will finish out the season. Norman Jewison, executive producer, and Gary Smith, producer, have been advised by Dann to book guest talent for the next 19 shows. The 11th show has been taped thus far.

Booked for subsequent shows are Bobby Darin, Shelley Berman, Edie Gorme and Wiere Bros. Jewison checks off the show next week to report at Universal to direct "Send Me No Flowers." Smith remains as producer. Bill Hobin completes his 13-week contract in two weeks to set up his own theatrical picture company. Headwriters Arne Sultan and Marvin Worth have their own ABC-TV packaged show, "Laughs For Sale."

Granada TV Names Peter Brook to Board

London, Oct. 29.

Peter Brook, one of the codirectors of the Royal Shakespeare Theatre, also well known as a producer and director in films, tv and legit on an international basis, has joined Granada-TV as a board member.

His special interest in the station will be in writers, casting and programs. He will, however, continue his work in the theatre.

NBC-TV Pacts For BBC Comic Segs

London, Oct. 29.

BBC-TV, which has over the years developed a long line of comedians and comic tv series, has just pulled off a deal with NBC under which a couple of recent British yock hits will gain exposure in the U.S.

Just-concluded pact involves the screening on an unspecified Jack Paar show of large slices from "Steptoe And Son," BBC's highest-ever comic rating getter, and from Michael Bentine's zany entry at the last Montreux tv fest (it gained the Press prize).

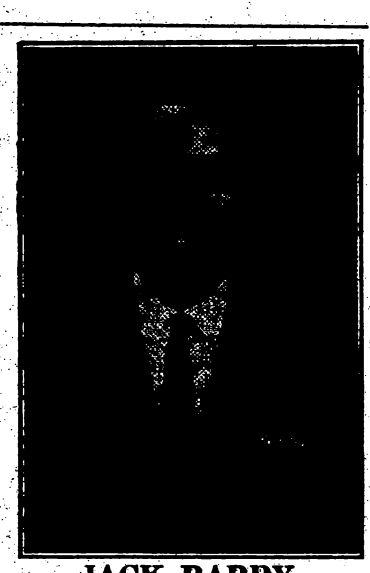
Reaction of the Yank audience to the British gagshows is seen here as the vital factor in the conclusion of further deals, possibly for whole series.

NBC has once before given BBC-TV comic shows coast-to-coast airing in the U.S. Web compiled a composite show of segments from series starring Tony Hancock, Benny Hill and Eric Sykes which went out under the "International Showtime" banner. While critical acclaim was good, no whole-series deals emerged.

'Science All-Stars' As ABC-TV Jan. Entry

ABC-TV is kicking off a new Sunday afternoon show, "Science All-Stars," under Minneapolis-Honeywell sponsorship starting Jan. 12. Show, created and produced by Steven R. Carlin, will be emceed by Don Morrow.

Show will spotlight the ingenuity of America's science - minded youths who will demonstrate their inventions on the show. Series stems from the success of the international high school Science Fairs in which over 1,000,000 students from several countries participated.



JACK BARRY

Now producing five pilots for CBS-TV—Paramount TV Production Development program

Brit. Sideshow: Battle For the Satire Ratings

London, Oct. 29.

With at least one other tv station preparing to enter the field, the current battle of the satirical shows—"That Was The Week That Was" on BBC-TV and "Braden Beat" on Associated Tele-Vision—is providing one of the talking points of the various new season encounters.

The nationally-networked "TW-TWTW" and the partly-networked Braden show are fighting a battle royal in areas where they are opposed. In the country's premier market, London, "TWTWTW" sparked on Sept. 28 with a 28 TAM rating while Braden teed off with a more modest 18. The following week, however, Braden cut back the lead to score a 23 rating against the opposition's 27. At the last count, for Saturday, Oct. 12, in the London area, Braden had overtaken, the BBC show with a handsome 25 rating to "TWTWTW's" 21.

In other regions where the two shows meet, the neck-and-neck battle for audiences is equally pronounced. In the Southern-TV area, "TWTWTW" initiated with a 24, followed with a 20 and scored a 23 for Oct. 12. Braden's show meantime, came up with a 20, a 21 and a 19 for the corresponding weeks.

According to TAM, the national audience of BBC's satirical outing is on the wane. In contrast to the

(Continued on page 38)

Still Need Danny Kaye's OK On TV Sale To BBC

London, Oct. 29.

There may be a hitch yet—though none is anticipated—in BBC-Tv's acquisition of "The Danny Kaye Show" from Ashley-Steiner. For it has come to light that Kaye retains the right to give the nod to overseas sales of the show and, thus far, the star has not given his consent.

BBC-TV, which is to pay an unprecedented $15,000 per episode for the U.K. rights of the Kaye show, is confident from reviews and initial ratings that the performer will okay foreign screenings.

With the sale of the show 90% in the bag, BBC-TV is banking on the Kaye starrer as one of its major attractions for its upcoming UHF web, which bows in April.

Sees $-Billion Tint Sales in '65

San Antonio, Oct. 29.

Jack M. Williams of Indianapolis, veepee of the RCA Sales Corp. predicted color tv sales would surpass black and white sales in 1965. He said color sales for that year should exceed $1,000,000,000. Williams was here to address the San Antonio Appliance League.

He said that color receiver sales this year would be more than $450,000,000 and would climb to more than $750,000,000 in 1964.

The price of color tv sets would remain stable for at least two years, according to Williams. He pointed out that the cost of intricate color tube prohibits much of a price reduction in the near future.

It's Earlier Than You Think

Everything in the tv business is creeping forward in time. Once the new tv season traditionally opened in October, but now they're crowding into September. Once, the production of pilots was usually limited to December and January, but currently they're starting in October.

Perhaps of more underlying significance is the fact that the production of new shows is also moving forward on the calendar. Instead of the usual June and July rolling dates, next season will have a flock of starts in April. Earlier production is seen as general boom to the industry since it will give more elbow room for the creative elements who up to now have been forced to operate too close to premiere deadline time.

Earlier production of pilots will, of course, have a chain reaction in the selling to advertisers. Here, too, the 1964-65 selling season is expected to tee off in earnest shortly after the new year as ad budgets are allocated earlier and earlier in the jockeying for the most favorable network slots.

BBC & British Com'l TV in Major Battle to Pile Up Prestige Points

London, Oct. 29.

At a time when the commercial web and the BBC network are locked in their hardest-ever battle for audience appreciation the keenest and most hard-fought programmatic battle is that in the prestige-laden news and pubaffairs arena.

Way back when BBC-TV was a monopoly, the web leisurely and calculatedly broadcast a huge percentage of "serious" fare which not only landed it with the label "Auntie," but gave the Corporation a brand image of a serious-minded organization bent on "informing and educating" viewers.

Conversely, the commercial network made its mighty initial impact with such shows as "Sunday Night At The London Palladium," "Double Your Money," "Take Your Pick" and other variety and quiz style shows.

What's happening now is that the commercial stations are bending over backwards to project themselves as a "responsible, balanced and informative public service." Accordingly, the network is programming approximately 30% of its schedule with what is termed by the Independent Television Authority as "serious" content.

BBC, which has always gathered the pubaffairs-news garlands and does not have such a "frivolous" image as its competitor, has been busy stimulating its dramatic and light entertainment activities, meanwhile to keep it in the race for viewers. But while BBC has accelerated into a more or less even-steven position with the independents as an entertainment medium, the commercial operators, by the same token, have caught up with BBC on the "prestige" front in production of vital news-views shows.

As was evidenced by the Pilkington Committee report and the Government's decision to grant BBC a second national web but not the commercial boys, the worth of a network seem to be largely judged here on its stature as a purveyor of educative and instructional programs. Duly, the struggle for top-dog status in this vital field has probably been getting more intra-

(Continued on page 44)

Where's Your Show?

UPPER (20 or better rating)	MIDDLE (Under 20)	LOWER (Under 15)
1. Beverly Hillbillies	33. Jackie Gleason	63. Great Adventure
2. Bonanza	34. Nurses	64. East Side West Side
3. Dick Van Dyke	35. Rawhide	65. Hootennany
4. Lucille Ball	36. Flintstones	11th Hour
5. Andy Griffith	37. Sat. Nite Movies	66. Judy Garland
6. Petticoat Junction	38. Outer Limits	67. Jamie McPheeters
7. Danny Thomas	39. Joey Bishop	68. Redigo
8. Red Skelton	40. Fugitive	69. Channing
9. Perry Mason	41. Combat	70. H'wood & Stars
10. Donna Reed	42. Greatest Show On Earth	71. Mitch Miller
11. I've Got A Secret	43. Perry Como	72. Jerry Lewis
12. Patty Duke	44. Hitchcock	74. Jimmy Dean
13. Candid Camera	45. Password	75. Harry's Girls
14. Elizabeth Taylor	46. Twilight Zone	76. Temple Houston
15. Dr. Kildare	47. Price Is Right	77. Espionage
16. Ben Casey	48. Jack Paar	78. Nat King Cole (Special)
17. Jack Benny	49. Route 66	79. Cosa Nostra (Special)
18. Hazel	Burke's Law	80. Sid Caesar
19. Favorite Martian	50. Mr. Novak	Edie Adams
20. Virginian	51. Int'l Showtime	81. Bell Telephone
21. Gunsmoke	52. Phil Silvers	82. Chronicle
22. Grindl	53. Danny Kaye	83. Gillette Fights
23. Ed Sullivan	Defenders
24. Walt Disney	54. Breaking Point
25. Lawrence Welk	The Lieutenant
26. What's My Line	55. Bob Hope Anthology
27. Ozzie & Harriet	56. Arrest & Trial
28. My 3 Sons	Man Named Mays (Special)
29. McHale's Navy	57. DuPont Show of Week
30. Garry Moore	58. Kraft Anthology
31. Wagon Train	59. Richard Boone
32. To Tell the Truth	60. Farmer's Daughter
	61. Glynis Johns
	62. Mon. Nite Movies

NBC-TV 'Macbeth' Into Art Houses

Chicago, Oct. 29.

The two-hour tv film of "Macbeth," which stars Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson and which had been aired twice on NBC-TV's "Hallmark Hall of Fame," has gone into theatrical release in art houses. Initial booking is at the Rockhill in Kansas City (home of Hallmark cards, which co-owns the property with producer George Schaefer's Compass Productions). Other bookings set to date are the Mayfair in Baltimore and the Ontario, Washington. Distribution is being handled by Don Gillin.

Pic was telecast first in November, 1960, and was repeated exactly a year later. It's an oddity that reverses the usual pattern of vintage theatricals going to tv, and there may be some irony in the fact that arties have tapped a new source of supply in the vast wasteland. Film costs about $250,000 to produce for tv.

IT'S THE SAME AS LAST SEASON

National Nielsens: Top 15

(Two Weeks Ending Oct. 13)

The CBS domination is very much in evidence on Nielsen's "big one," (See story). Columbia ran off with 31 of the 49 half-hours (not including "Route 66" tieing ABC's "Burke's Law"), while NBC took nine and ABC eight. Conversely, CBS was in third-place cellar only seven half-hours, while ABC and NBC placed third 20 and 21 half-hours respectively. CBS took five nights of the week, with ABC taking Wednesday and NBC Sunday.

Here's the Top 15:

World Series (Sun.) (NBC)	39.5
World Series (Sat.) (NBC)	35.9
Beverly Hillbillies (CBS)	34.9
Bonanza (NBC)	30.9
Dick Van Dyke (CBS)	28.1
Lucy (CBS)	28.1
Andy Griffith (CBS)	27.0
Petticoat Junction (CBS)	25.9
Danny Thomas (CBS)	25.8
Red Skelton (CBS)	24.6
Perry Mason (CBS)	24.2
Donna Reed (ABC)	23.9
I've Got A Secret (CBS)	23.9
Patty Duke (ABC)	23.5
Candid Camera (CBS)	23.1

Travails of Documentarian Lowe: 'Mr. Persona Non Grata Himself'

By MURRAY HOROWITZ

"CBS Reports" producer David Lowe, who did last week's "Great American Funeral", would like to recover by doing a documentary on North American wildlife. Ticking off the documentaries he's done since '60, when he joined the "CBS Reports" team, Lowe said he's persona non grata in Florida, California, Tuscon, Birmingham, South Africa "and now I can't be buried."

He's tilted his lance exploring the establishment, from "A Harvest of Shame" to "Who Speaks for Birmingham" to "Sabotage in South Africa," among other efforts, and he has this to say of documentary efforts: "If all sides say it's good than nothing has been said."

It was a tough go for him doing the "American Funeral" and he wasn't feeling great, despite the good notices, sipping a liquid perker-upper at the Friars Club. He was asked how his wife liked the program. His wife is tv critic Harriet Van Horn and he was interviewed a day after the show.

"I never discuss my programs with my wife," he begged off. Lowe had other things on his mind. (She liked the show).

"You see this bar," he said. "If I were doing a documentary and this bar had to be filmed, I would have to get the liquor license number recorded, count the number of glasses in the showcase, know the number of tables, and . . ." He underscored the pursuit of data in order to illustrate how, as a documentary producer, he constantly has "to prove" ever shot, every word said—not only before a program goes on the air, but after,

(Continued on page 38)

AFTRA, Webs Resume Talks

Negotiations between the American Federation of Television & Radio Artists and the radio-tv networks resumed yesterday (Tues.) in New York for a new pact after a hiatus last week in which both sides studied each other's proposals. Current pact runs out Nov. 15 and anticipations are for long and intensive sessions to beat the expiration deadline.

Meantime, AFTRA-SAG joint negotiations with the ad agencies for a new teleblurb pact have been recessed until Nov. 7. Talks last week were stalled in the head-on clash between the unions' demands for fee increases and the agencies' counter-proposals for a substantial change in current scale procedures. In the latter category is the agencies' proposal for payments over shorter flights of commercials. Under the current deal, fees are paid for a minimum of 13 weeks. The agencies want scales established for two, four, eight and 13-week periods.

Raymond Burr Packed For 8th 'Mason' Season

Montreal, Oct. 29.

Raymond Burr has signed his Perry Mason TVer for an eighth season with CBS. Burr himself made the disclosure here Monday (28) on his way back to the Coast, after a weekend lecture stint before the Conference of Municipal Judges in Quebec City.

Burr, a native Canadian from New Westminster, B.C., also disclosed in an interview that he's ready—"and this is much more than just the usual talk"—to work for the development of film production in Canada.

4 Star Swingin' On '64-'65 Plans; 'Lions' & 'Rogues'

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Four Star has revved up its tv activity for next season to a peak where seven projects are in preparation for the 1964-65 semester. Various new entries toplining personalities such as June Allyson, David Niven, Charles Boyer, Paul Burke, Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor and Robert Wagner have been put together by prexy Tom McDermott.

Four Star's new projects include "The Four Lions," hourlong anthology series to star Taylor, Wagner and Brandon de Wilde, with Martin Manulis as producer, and Tad Mosel to script the pilot. CBS-TV prexy Jim Aubrey is due in from N. Y. this week to discuss this one with McDermott.

Also on Four Star's agenda: "The Rogues," hourlong show starring Boyer and Niven, with McDermott as exec producer.

Currently in production is pilot of "Royal Bay," hourlong series starring Paul Burke, Charles Bickford and Miss Crawford.

Being readied for pilot production is "The Big Valley," hourlong show which Christopher Knopf is scripting for producers Jules Levy, Arthur Gardner and Arnold Laven. Also in presentation are two half-hour shows, one starring Johnny Crawford, the other Dean Jones.

Miss Allyson will star in a half-hour situation comedy, tentatively titled "The Byrd's Nest."

Purex 'Kangaroo' Buy

Purex Corp. signed for 12 weeks sponsorship of Monday quarter-hour participations on "Captain Kangaroo."

P. Lorillard pacted for 260 minutes in the morning minute plan and for shortterm quarter-hour participations in soapers "Love of Life" and "Secret Storm."

BUT ABC CLOSE ON NBC'S HEELS

By GEORGE ROSEN

The most eagerly awaited National Nielsen summaries in the history of the television industry which arrived in New York from Chicago in the wee hours of Monday night by phone, teletype and jet constitute, in their broad outlines, a reprise of last year so far as network ranking is concerned. While CBS is still No. 1 and NBC No. 2, with ABC bringing up the rear, a new and markedly different variation in their relative standings now prevails.

CBS is even further out front of NBC than was revealed by the parallel National Nielsen report of one year ago. But, significantly, ABC closed much of the gap that prevailed in the same year ago report, attesting to the strength of some of ABC's new freshmen entries.

In summary, the evening averages for 7:30 to 11 p.m. seven nights of the week for the two-week period ending Oct. 13, spells out:

CBS, 20.0; NBC, 17.1; ABC, 16.5.

CBS maintains its supremacy five nights of the week (Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday) and scores a close second on Wednesday and Sunday. Oddly enough, CBS loses Sunday night only because of Judy Garland's amazingly low Nielsen of 13.8 in the 9 to 10 o'clock "ice cream" time slot.

While there was good news for such new entries as "Petticoat Junction" and Patty Duke, each of which made the Top 15 (see separate box), it was to the more ominous aspects of the reports that the aspirin-munching Madison Ave. fraternity addressed itself. For example, the ratings of the live shows were far from lively. The problems were by no means confined to Miss Garland. Jerry Lewis' two-hour Saturday night telethon, for which ABC shelled out $9,000,000 this season, averaged a National Nielsen of 12.2, edging out Jimmy Dean's Thursday night entry of 11.8. Even Danny Kaye, while he took the time period, could fare no better than a 16.7, which puts him in the danger area for high-budgeted programming.

Conversely, it remained for the established veterans, such as Ed Sullivan, with a Nielsen of 21.2, and Lawrence Welk, whose Nielsen of 20.9 outrated the competing Phil Silvers, Joey Bishop, "Defenders" and "Saturday Night at the Movies," to show the newcomers how it's done.

While sad news prevailed on several keyfronts, the major tragedy was the Judy Garland show, whose locked-in-for-the-season bluechip sponsors (American Tobacco, Procter & Gamble, General Mills, Menley & James) were weeping the $10 cost-per-thousand blues. It remained for Miss Garland's unhappy tv fortunes to recast CBS-TV prexy Jim Aubrey, long since a veteran of tv valedictory bows, in the unaccustomed role of chaplain, extending low-rating condolences to what perhaps are the unhappiest co-sponsors in CBS-TV history. But if Aubrey has one hour of live woe, ABC's Leonard Goldenson has three—two for Jerry Lewis and one for Jimmy Dean with which to contend.

It wouldn't surprise Madison Ave. savants if ABC, as it did with Steve Allen a couple years back, opened up its checkbook to buy out the Lewis contract. In such an eventuality, it's expected that Jimmy Dean would be moved into the Lewis spot following the highrated and mood-lead-in of Welk.

Rich Strikes It Rich Again

While the Danny Seymours (J. Walter Thompson), the Bud Barrys (Y & R) and the Nick Keeselys (Lennen & Newell) were explaining to the Fords the Chrysslers and the Reynolds Metals the

(Continued on page 42)

Aubrey & Goodson's Near Blowup Over CBS-TV Prexy's Nix On NBC Performers For Panel-Game Shows

CBS Via B'way

The CBS-TV smiles were a mile wide last week in the wake of two Broadway clicks. For the CBS '64-'65 schedule got a sock one-two "trailer," with some of the major ingredients of the two legit hits of the week signed-sealed-and-delivered for tv series next season.

For example Neil Simon, who authored the smash "Barefoot in the Park" has a half-hour comedy series going for him at CBS out of the UA-TV shop. And through the same auspices will come series involving Robert Horton and N. Richard Nash, two of the big talking points of the "110 In the Shade" musical click.

Jim Aubrey's cold war against allowing performers of other networks appearing on any of CBS-TV's quix-panel-game shows led to a near blowup between the network prexy and Mark Goodson, of Goodson & Todman.

An Aubrey-Goodson confrontation last week resulted in a stalemate, with the Aubrey policy of "we won't help the enemy" still in force. Goodson-Todman has "Password," "To Tell the Truth," "What's My Line," and "I've Got A Secret" on CBS-TV. Goodson-Todman on NBC-TV has "Missing Link" and "Match Game," among the shows which use celebs, the type of shows which are at issue.

Aubrey's "we won't help the enemy" approach isn't at force either at NBC-TV or at ABC-TV. On NBC-TV, for example, Dorothy Kilgallen, of CBS-TV's "What's My Line," is slated for a guest shot on NBC-TV's "Missing Link."

Aubrey's policy, unvelied when CBS-TV disallowed Joey Bishop guest shot on "What's My Line" a couple weeks back, is new for CBS-TV. In past seasons, CBS would tell Goodson-Todman to tread softly in the number of stars from other networks utilized on quiz game series. There was no blanket "no" as exists currently, affecting for the most part performers appearing on NBC-TV.

It was learned that NBC-TV's initial reaction to the Aubrey ukase was to retaliate, but, in a more reasoned atmosphere, NBC-TV brass decided that retaliatory action would prove self-defeating. CBS-TV's Red Skelton and CBS Radio's Aurthur Gorfrey have made appearances on "Jack Paar Show," and the feeling at NBC-TV is such cross pollination helps all involved.

To Goodson-Todman, the Aubrey ukase could result in a king-sized headache. A show such as "What's My Line" uses about 50 guest panelists and 50 mystery guests yearly. For the celebs, when the well of legit and picture people run dry, there's only tv to turn to, and CBS can't order a Skelton, Jackie Gleason or a Judy Garland to do a panel stint. The "we won't feed the enemy by granting their stars airtime on our network" CBS-TV policy could ultimately affect such web winners as "Password" and "What's My Line."

What role American Federation of Television & Radio Artists might finally play in the issue is yet to be spelled out. Possibility of AFTRA entering the fray is that its members by appearing on another network are blocked from employment on CBS-TV. Issue for AFTRA is whether one network can utilize its exclusivity clause to that extent.

It's Crisis Time On 'McPheeters'; Call In Doctors

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

The Osmond Bros. and James Westerfield and Sandy Kenyon have been dropped from MGM-TV's "The Travels of Jamie McPheeters" in a revamping of the ABC-TV series. Previously, Michael Witney was replaced as wagonmaster by Charles Bronston.

Kenyon and Westerfield essayed stet heavies in the series, and studio decided policy of having regular heavies just didn't work out. Also, the Osmonds were dropped because of the feeling it was too difficult to work a song act into scripts, that the show didn't need such a turn anyway.

Series has had a realignment in its executive personnel also, with Boris Sagal now functioning as exec producer, Robert Thompson as producer and Tony Wilson story ed.

Producer-writer Boris Ingster has been signed to "doctor" up already shot films in its "McPheeters" series, and negotiations are on for the former Warner Bros. tv exec to join the Culver City ranks as a tv producer.

Ingster's present chores will consist of revamping some of the "McPheeters" films, reshooting some, and doing added scenes on some.

The exec was at Warner Bros. tv for four years, and during that period was producer of its "The Roaring 20's" and "The Alaskans" and exec producer of "Cheyenne."

He exited WB recently after "creative differences" with tv production chief Jack Webb.

750G ALLEGIANCE TO ABC'S MON. NITE

ABC-TV felt the first sales impact of its strengthened rating position this season when Chesebrough-Pond and Thomas Leaming Co. last week moved to switch $750,000 worth of business out of NBC-TV's Monday night features into ABC's "Outer Limits" and "Wagon Train." Switch takes effect starting in January.

The web, meantime, has signed up $2,250,000 in additional nighttime business from Miller Beer, which split its coin between ABC and NBC, U.S. Plywood, Salada Foods, Lehn & Fink, United Biscuit, which bought into nighttime and daytime, and Hamm's Beer. On the daytime front, the web racked up $650,000 in sales from Mennen, Pharmaco, Rubbermaid and Wyler Foods.

Sara Lee Budget To NBC-TV Shows

Kitchens of Sara Lee has bought into NBC-TV's "The Eleventh Hour" and "Jack Paar Show" starting next year. "Eleventh Hour" buy spreads from January through April while the Paar spot will span April through June.

Timex has picked up the tab for "Mr. Magoo's Christmas Carol," to be telecast on NBC in primetime Dec. 13. This is a repeat of the UPA cartoon which bowed on the web last December.

Gillette has picked up assorted fourth quarter minutes in the "Joey Bishop Show" and "Eleventh Hour" while Insurance Co. of America has bought alternate-week sponsorship in "Saturday Night At Movies" starting in January.

Daytime biz for NBC-TV picked up last week with $1,850,000 in sales from Miles Labs, Morton Salt (new to the network), Hublein, Menley & James and DuPont.

CBC's 'Playdate': Proving Ground For TV Dramatists in Canada

By PAUL GARDNER

Ottawa, Oct. 29.

"Canadian writers have really smashed through with some powerful stuff this season," Ed Moser told VARIETY. The exec producer of CBC-TV's weekly hourlong "Playdate," which just entered its third season with a Maxwell Anderson adaptation, is also pleased that both last year's sponsors are back, plus a new pair. Next three plays are Canadian originals. "Playdate" script editors are David Peddie and Michael John Nimchuk.

Moser has also scored a coup by persuading Karel Reicz, producer of films "Taste of Honey" and "This Sporting Life," to let him televise an original by David Mercer, which won "best tv play" award in Britain last season. Reicz has bought world film rights and will produce it as a feature this fall. George McCowan handles this one for "Playdate." (Dec. 2).

Sponsor repeats from last season are Chrysler (through BBD&O) and Sterling Drug (Dancer, Fitzgerald & Sample); new ones Tuckett Tobacco—Buckingham cigarets (MacLaren) and Clairol (Foote, Cone & Belding). Splitting each seg four ways, they've bought 52 weeks—32 new shows and 20 summer repeats. "Playdate" drops out every fourth week for "Red Skelton Show."

Moser is also happy at being moved from last season's Thursday spot, which had three hours of drama in a row, to Monday (9 p.m.), which has no such competition. He's also excited about discovering, in non-pro ranks, a 19-year-old Dominion Drama Festival award winner who, he predicts, will be "the most important Canadian actor since Christopher Plummer."

That's Richard Monnet of Montreal, who played a lead Oct. 21 in "With My Head Tucked Underneath My Arm" by vet Canadian scripter and stage playwright Len Peterson. Producer was David Gardner, ex-actor who once starred in the West End. Main lead was Powys Thomas, now artistic head of Canadian National Theatre School, Montreal. He played a math teacher who comes to reject the values he has always stood for. Whole thing is done as a dream.

Adultery in the suburbs is theme of Nov. 4 show "Willow Circle" by Joseph Schull, usually associated with Canadian historical drama. Starring Charmion King and William Needles, it'll be produced by Michael Sinelnikoff, one-

(Continued on page 44)

Irving R. Levine's 'Italy'

"Main Street, Italy," by Irving R. Levine (Doubleday; $6.50) is recap of observations by NBC's Rome correspondent, concentrating on average citizen's daily life in The Boot.

Book is well-written and comprehensive in every direction. It contains excellent chapter on entertainment in Italy, touching on stage, films, tv, stripping, gambling, censorship and government subsidies.

Tome's purpose is to bring better understanding to Americans of an important ally, and it should succeed eminently in this aim.

Rodo.

Thorny TV Issues On Tap As House Sleuths Convene

Washington, Oct. 29.

A busy broadcast schedule looms for the House Communications Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.)

From Nov. 6-8 the subcommittee will hold hearings on Rogers' bill prohibiting FCC from regulating commercials.

NAB prez LeRoy Collins is expected to testify but the status of FCC Chairman E. William Henry is somewhat more vague. Henry wants to go back to the International Telecommunications Union meeting in Geneva where some sticky problems have arisen.

But as it stands now, the Geneva trip would conflict with the House hearings. Henry is now trying to work out arrangements with the subcommittee for FCC testimony.

Soon after the commercial hearings, Rogers wants to wrap up his editorial probe which began in July. He hopes to have Henry or an FCC rep testify and clear up fairness doctrine questions arising from the earlier session.

Some subcommittee members have also expressed the wish for Collins to appear on the editorial issue. The subcommittee wasn't particularly pleased with NAB testimony, as related by its Editorial committee chairman Daniel Kops.

After the editorial resumption, Rogers wants to hold hearings on another bill of his forbidding FCC to impose fees with license and renewal applications.

An indication of what looms in the Rogers hearings was given by the chairman in a speech to the Texas Assn. of Broadcasters in Dallas.

He emphasized his oft-repeated maxim that basic policy decisions should be made by Congress not FCC.

Rogers noted varying opinions on the excess ad issue but he said a determination of the commercial problem "if it exists" should be decided by Congress and "if any action is to be taken it should be taken by Congress."

Defending the editorial probe, he said he didn't criticize broadcasters for their denunciation of the inquiry.

"I am satisfied," he said, "that they were simply equating Congress with the FCC and considering the two agencies as being completely interwoven."

"Let me dispel that myth here and now," Rogers continued.

He rapped FCC and other

(Continued on page 44)

New Products Boon To Spot TV

Spot television's substantial advance in the 60's has been paced by an accelerating new consumer product surge, according to a study prepared by the tv division of Edward Petry & Co.

Products introduced during the last three years have accounted for most of the $116,000,000 boost in spot tv volume, according to the study, titled "Spearhearing the New Product Boom of the Sixties."

Martin L. Nierman, exec v.p. of the Petry Co., in releasing the report said "New product introduction is the sternest test of media effectiveness. The mounting wave of new products and their heavy reliance upon spot tv for launching reflects the outstanding long-term performance of the spot medium in this vital area.

Report analyzes media trends among the 10 largest and most new product-conscious advertisers of the food, drug, cosmetic-toiletry and laundry product fields (80% of all new entries are concentrated in these product categories). While these leading marketers increased their investment in all measured media by an average of 18% between '59 and '62, they upped their spot tv expenditures by 60%. The $69,500,000 spot tv boost was more than double the network tv gain, while magazine expenditures were virtually unchanged and newspapers lost ground.

PEAK $900,000 AUSSIE TV PROFIT

Sydney, Oct. 29.

Amalgamated Television Services, with commercial ATN, Sydney, the keyer, turned in a record profit $900,000 for the financial year ended June 30.

Earning rate on ordinary capital of $2,000,000 comes out at 27%. Payment to stockholders has been increased from 17½% to 20%.

ATS, allied to the powerful Fairfax Newspaper Group here, is a top buyer of U.S. product and also backs local producers financially with marked success.

Granada Paces Aug. Brit. TV Biz

London, Oct. 29.

What's toting up to be one of the brightest summers for commercial television here, so far as billings go, has been further enhanced by boffo August bookings with most of the indie stations attracting increased advertiser coin. According to figures just released by Media Records, an independent operation which monitors the commercial web and assesses the stations' ad income by weighing the number of commercials transmitted against published rate cards (a practice fraught with danger of inaccuracy in view of discounts and other station-advertiser deals), the month of August, 1963, yielded an estimated total payout by advertisers of $20,753,600.

Of this total, the Government took $2,055,200 in tv ad tax and the remaining $18,698,400 was split among the 15 commercial tv stations on the indie network, roughly $2,000,000 more than the stations earned the previous August.

Media Records calculate that for the month in question Granada-TV was way ahead in the billings race, pulling $4,636,800. Associated-Rediffusion raked in $3,528,000. Associated TeleVision took $3,208,800 and ABC-TV earned $1,931,600.

Rest of the regional station's grabbed off the advertising loot this way: Scottish-TV $1,089,200; TWW $778,400; Southern-TV $1,064,000; TTT $1,019,200; Anglia-TV $464,800; Ulster-TV $235,200; Westward-TV $266,000; Border-TV $193,200; Grampian-TV $145,600; Channel-TV $61,600 and WWN $75,600.

McMILLAN HOSTS INTERTEL POWWOW

London, Oct. 29.

Council members of the International Television Federation, Intertel, are to meet for the first time in Britain within the next day or two. Chairman will be John McMillan, Associated-Rediffusion's program controller.

Intertel Council comprises reps from broadcasters in each of the main English-speaking countries such as Canadian Broadcasting Corp., Australian Broadcasting Commission, and Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. of the U.S.

Founded in Canada in 1960 as a project to further international understanding through tv, Intertel is to continue producing a series of vidshows for world-wide distribution.

Intertel programs at present are reaching an estimated global audience of between 40-50,000,000 viewers.

Stanton & The TV Growth Cycle

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

CBS prexy Frank Stanton, in an address before the Los Angeles Society of Financial Analysts, said "the single most important change in the television business recently has been the substantial revival in the rate of growth of advertising expenditures on television since 1961."

"This revival occurred after a number of years of declining rates which had begun to have unhappy effects on profits in the industry. The return to more rapid rates of growth, of course, is resulting in a considerably higher level of profitability throughout the industry and suggests that television may be at an earlier stage in its growth cycle than we would have concluded several years ago."

"From the CBS vantage point," he stated, "business is extremely good," citing the health of the various divisions of the company.

TV-Radio Production Centres

IN NEW YORK

Lou Teicher, CBS-TV director of music operations, back from a Coast business trip . . . Art Carney guests on Danny Kaye show Nov. 6 . . . Musical comedy vet Benay Venuta goes into running lead on CBS-TV soaper "Edge of Night." . . . Ben Flynn recently appointed producer of "Lamp Unto My Feet," back from European filming assignments . . . Bob Newhart plays straight drama lead on upcoming "Alfred Hitchcock Hour." . . . "CBS Reports" planning upcoming show on "The Changing Face of Hollywood." . . . Bob Crevani of CBS-TV press info on jury duty . . . "Paul Lynde Show" pilot rolls Nov. 11 in Hollywood for Screen Gems, financed by NBC with Bob Finkel producing, Bill Asher directing from a script by Sidney Sheldon . . . James W. Monahan, for the past five years an account exec with CBS Films, has joined the CBS Radio network sales department . . . KCBN Radio, Reno, Nevada, has joined CBS Radio . . . Fred R. Frank Jr. named southeast division sales manager for Trans-Lux Television.

Joe Strasser, member of ABC-TV's sales development staff, into the Army for a six-month hitch . . . Walt Peters, ABC News European exec producer, back to Paris headquarters after a two-week stay in New York . . . ABC Films sold "Ben Casey" and "New Breed" to Britain TWW not ABC International, as erratumed last week . . . Larry Lowenstein has joined Herbert K. Landon's public relations company as a v.p. . . . Jack La Forge, prexy of Regina Records, guesting on Joe Franklin's WOR-TV show today (Wed.) . . . Marylyn Evans dress shop on west 57th St. has a theatrical decor that stems from Miss Evans' longtime association with NBC as associate director of a flock of shows . . . Robert H. Pick named assistant general counsel of Metromedia . . . Arthur Kananack, ABC attorney, moving to Regan, Goldfarb, Powell & Quinn, which represents RKO General . . . ABC-TV and Screen Gems conducting a 30-city "Miss Farmers Daughter" contest from Nov. 20 to Dec. 5 . . . Leslie Caron making her tv debut on ABC-TV's "Discovery" Dec. 8 with a two-parter, "Discovery In London" . . . George C. Scott, star of CBS-TV's "East Side, West Side," received a citation from the Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies for his tv characterization as a "thoughtful and sensitive interpretation of a social worker" . . . Fortune Pope, WHOM prexy, and his wife were guests at a White House luncheon last week in honor of the Bolivian President . . . Martha Wright, Carolyn Richter, Meredith Anderson appearing on "Girl Talk," Nov. 6 on WABC-TV . . . Fred Robbins interviews Alan King, Zina Bethune, Benny Goodman, Sophie Tucker and George Peppard on his "Assignment Hollywood" this week . . . WNCN preems "Broadway Music Hall" Nov. 3 with Phil Burrell as host. It'll cull boxoffice reports on film and legit theatres from VARIETY . . . John V. B. Sullivan, WNEW Radio prexy, invited to join the advisory board of the special education program of the Archdiocese of N. Y. . . . Kirby Stone Four, backed by Dick Hyman orch, doing a live music show on WNEW Radio tomorrow night (Thurs.).

NBC-TV "Today" producer Al Morgan flying to Puerto Rico Thursday (31) to survey origination of show there Nov. 11-15. Show cast includes Hugh Downs, Jack Lescoulie and Pat Fontaine . . . NBC-TV program veep Gerry Chester's book "Television and Radio" in third edition at 114 college and classrooms around country . . . Charles Smith of NBC Press' magazine staff marking 10th year with web . . . NBC Radio veep Marion Stephenson addressing of Alabama Seminar for the Women Executive Nov. 5 . . . George Heinemann, Director of News and Public Affairs for NBC-TV, named member of N. Y. State Executive Committee of YMCA . . . Jim Kitchell, NBC News Olympics producer, back from Japan . . . William R. McAndrew, exec veep of NBC News, receiving U.S. Camera Annual 1964 award Nov. 12 in Rochester . . . Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC's board chairman, receiving Joseph E. Connor Memorial Award for 1963 at Emerson College in Boston Sunday (3) . . . NBC News correspondent Irving R. Levine awarded citation for distinguished work in journalism by Columbia University.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Tom Duggan, stormy petrel of Coast tv, caught on with KTLA as a straight newscaster after a dry spell preceded by shifts at KTTV and KCOP. Coincidentally or otherwise, Sam Zelman, KTLA news director, pulled out as did two others in the news department. Said Zelman," I would rather work in a more conservative environment." He may return to CBS in Hollywood . . . Ralph Story winding his 10-month global tour "to observe the human predicament" and resuming his KNX program . . . Ruth Warrick, who left "As the World Turns" to resume her acting career in Hollywood, returned to the soaper for four installments to celebrate the 70th birthday of the grandpa character . . . Charles Cantor, vet radio-tv comic, won a regular berth on the Joey Bishop show after one guesting as the comic's landlord.

NBC's Thomas Sarnoff will be chairman of the brotherhood testimonial dinner of the broadcast and motion picture industries by National Conference of Christians and Jews. It will be held Nov. 21 at Beverly Wilshire Hotel. Plate cost: $100 . . . Bob Redd, for the past 13 years senior veepee of radio-tv at Erwin Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan, has been named executive veepee in charge of creative services . . . Malvin Goode, Negro newsman-commentator in N.Y., will have his taped shows aired on ABC . . . KMPC gave 20 students of two high schools their own weekly program . . . Dick Mack, veteran radio-tv comedy writer-producer, took the vows with Naomi Lewis, "voice over" on tv commercials . . . UA-TV's Coast veepee, Herbert Gordon, brought in Dixon Dern, late of Desilu, as head of business affairs and company counsel . . . Hal Knutson moved up as local sales manager of KLAC . . . Jack Wrather will hold his stockholders meeting on the Desilu stage where "Lassie" is filmed . . . Maxine Anderson, daughter of Hollywood's earliest cowboy star, "Broncho Billy" Anderson, is one of the town's most popular gal with film and tv stars. She casts "names" for tv commercials and how they love those residuals. Claudette Colbert, Edward G. Robinson and Barbara Stanwyck are reputed to have drawn $75,000 each for a few days of studio work for Maxwell House.

IN CHICAGO

WBKB knocked out its 12:30 p.m. news strip with Lynn Walker, Gordon Barnewall and Norm Ross and replaced it for the nonce with "December Bride." Live entry just couldn't pull its weight against the competition . . . Bud Kelly of WCOP, Boston, joins WBBM Radio's announcing staff Nov. 1 . . . WBKB sports director Bob Rhodes did a thespic stint for ABC-TV's "Day In Court" while on the Coast last week for the telecast of the Illinois-UCLA game . . . WGN ad-promo chief Jim Hanlon became a grandaddy for the third time (all girls) via his son James, who's an account exec at Needham, Louis & Brorby . . . ABC Radio's Paul Harvey booked solid on the speaker's circuit through November. From Nov. 11-19, he'll originate his broadcasters from affils in the southland . . . Cubs star Ernie Banks has been tapped to co-host WGN-TV's traffic safety program, "The Other Guy," with flying officer Irv Hayden . . . WLS drew 2,561 requests for the Police Dept. booklet, "Know the Law," offered on a station editorial . . . WNBQ's "Dateline: Chicago" offering next Sunday (3) will deal with foreseeable problems in the future of the city's water supply. Neil Boggs will narrate . . . Chi chapter of American Women in Radio & TV will hear from Orlon Samuelson and Bob Atcher on the 39-year success of the "Barn Dance" at a dinner meeting Nov. 6 . . . WBBM-TV's "Vistas" will present rehearsal scenes from Lake Forest College's production of Shakespeare's "Richard III" this Sunday . . . WBKB picked up the syndicated French lessons, "En France," for stripping at 7 ayem . . . WKN-TV's documen-

(Continued on page 38)

BRIT. TV EYES U.S. SPONSORS

NBC's 'Two For the Season'

After looking at the new 30-market Nielsens and the pro-NBC sentiments expressed therein, NBC prexy Bob Kintner asserted that, once "Redigo" and "Harry's Girls" have been given the bounce and replaced, the web would stand pat and ride with everything else for the balance of the season.

The two weak half-hour entries get the heave at the first of the year with "Redigo" being replaced by a nighttime version of the daytime panel show, "You Don't Say."

After the first 13 segs of "Harry's Girls" are run off, Colgate (which had originally committed for 26) may switch allegiance to Jack Paar, who in that event will be extended to 90 minutes to provide for the new contingency. (Paar presently follows "Girls" on Friday nights). There's no final decision of this one yet, with MGM-TV, producers of "Girls," trying to persuade Colgate to stay with it.

Bob Altman Re TV: 'I've Had It'; Seeks Release On Revue Contract

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Producer-director-writer Robert Altman is negotiating with Revue studios for a release from his pact, the exec unhappy because "I can't do a show by committee," he said.

Altman joined Revue last February, and option on his pact comes up in January. He asked the studio for a release, and it replied it's "exploring" the situation. Altman was one of three producers originally assigned to "Kraft Suspense Theatre," and he exited that series on grounds Kraft's ad agency, J. Walter Thompson, was not approving his scripts. He then was working on a projected pilot based on William McGivern's tome, "Killer on a Turnpike," but that project is in abeyance now.

Altman explained he thought he had been hired to produce series but it hasn't worked out that way, that there has been much interference. "I left Kraft because Roy Huggins (exec producer) wouldn't leave me alone . . . I don't expect Revue to change its organization to fit me, and I can't change to fit their organization . . . I feel guilty taking their money," he said.

When and if he obtains his release, he plans to quit tv altogether, the disillusioned exec commented. "It's ridiculous. I've about had it—the agencies, the winking, the networks, the ratings. Anybody who thinks tv is an art medium is crazy—it's an advertising medium," he asserted.

"I don't mean artsy-craftsy, and I don't blame what is happening on the sponsor or agency necessarily," he continued. "The exec producer or the producer is to blame because he pre-supposes that they would rather not try for better things, so they play it safe, and hold back. The network will let you do much braver things than we do. The sponsor would, too, if somebody told them rather than follow them. They want to be told. But the exec producer plays it safe and takes no chances. Until it is up to the men who make the pictures, I've had it in tv," Altman concluded.

Jimmy Dean Gets ABC-TV Reprieve

"The Jimmy Dean Show," which has failed thus far to achieve a passable rating mark, nonetheless being renewed by the network for a second cycle of 13 weeks. ABC-TV prexy Tom Moore said the renewal was an expression of confidence in Jimmy Dean, executive producer Bob Banner, producer Julio Di Benedetto and the staff of the show. Moore pointed out that the Dean show is not unique in having to go through a period of search "for its own special quality."

ABC-TV has also renewed "Hootenanny" through March of next year. One of the web's surprise hits last year in a half-hour format, "Hootenanny" has done satisfactory, thus far in its 60-minute framework this current season.

Although renewed, the Dean

(Continued on page 38)

BOARD OK'S PAAR TV STATION BUY

Portland, Me., Oct. 29.

The board of directors of WMTW-TV, Poland Spring, Me., unanimously approved the sale of more than 80% of the stations stock to Jack Paar, subject to FCC approval.

Former Maine Gov. Horace Hildreth, majority stockholder, from whom Paar purchased the bulk of the stock, refused to reveal the purchase price. However, he indicated it was nearly $4,000,000. Hildreth said he will retain a few shares in the station as will John Guider, station president and general manager. Paar and his wife will be record owners of the stock when it is transferred.

Operation '64-'65: CBS-TV's 16 Pilots ($1,000,000 Tab)

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

CBS-TV will gamble a million dollars on 16 pilots ordered and paid for by the network. While most of the samples are earmarked for next season, some of them will be rushed into production to be available as replacements for year-end fallouts. One of them, Alan Funt's "Gripes and Gags" is being speeded as a reported replacer for "Glynis" in early January.

The job lot of pilots breaks down into six hour shows, 10 half hours; nine comedies and seven action-adventure. Ten will be filmed in Hollywood and six in N.Y.

On order and being readied for production are: (from Hollywood) "The House," one hour; Jackie Cooper-Barbara Stanwyck starrer, "County Agent," one hour; "John Strykker," one hour mystery drama; "My Son, the Witch Doctor," half hour comedy; "The James Boys," Sultan-Worth comedy; Cara Williams, half-hour comedy; Betty Hutton, half-hour comedy; "The Chase," hour drama by Rod Sterling.

From N.Y. will come "Mark Dolphin," hour action-adventure; "Mr. Broadway," hour drama by David Susskind; "Third Angel," drama to be produced by Buzz Kulik; "Gibby Hates Fitch," half-hour comedy; Funt's "Gripes and Gags," half-hour takeoff on "Candid Camera;" and Ed Sullivan's "Space Monkey," half-hour space comedy.

Tom O'Malley to ABC-TV

Tom O'Malley, formerly a producer-performer on the CBS-TV "Candid Camera," has joined ABC-TV as a producer.

At ABC, O'Malley is working on a couple of pilot projects being prepped as possible replacements come January.

IN ANTICIPATION OF 2D NETWORK

London, Oct. 29.

In the belief that the second commercial tv network could possibly come earlier than 1966-7, and that would involve attracting more advertising coin to the British industry, the major programming companies are plotting a research campaign directed towards the big American video spender. The immediate target is the automotive industry, especially General Motors, Ford and Chrysler Corp., which have vast interests in Britain and Europe.

Although the automobile industry has been the major sponsor of Yank television programming, the British manufacturers have been in the minor league on the local webs, and it is felt that steps should be taken in a bid to redress the balance. But that is only one part of the campaign. The British video industry, despite substantial billings in excess of $220,000,000 a year, is only attracting about 17% of the advertising dollar, whereas in the United States the ratio is nearer 50-50. Admittedly, there are more tv outlets in America, but even allowing for that, the Yank industry is in a healthier situation.

On present scales, British video advertising costs around $2 per 1,000 viewers, but ad agencies are reconciled to the fact that when the second network comes the cost per 1,000 may have to rise to $2.50, or even as high as $3. Meantime, there has been a significant first move in increasing local time rates, and it is confidently predicted that other majors will follow suit in due course.

The view that the second commercial may be authorized earlier than anticipated is inspired by increasing activity of the major manufacturers who, it is said, have received the backing of the maior political parties. The demand for new receivers capable of taking the new BBC UHF, 625-line receivers is rapidly accelerating, but the demand would be that much higher if an alternative 625 program should also become available. At a time when there has been some recession in industry, any move which would help to avoid unemployment, particularly during the slack winter months, would normally get the support of the political parties. It would, however, take the promise of an early second network to provide the additional impetus to tv sales.

The Man's Persistent

Washington, Oct. 29.

Gov. LeRoy Collins, NAB prexy, has again turned the torch on that big scale broadcasting advertiser, the cigaret.

Latest action by the man who will be enjoying it more when everyone's smoking less was a social gesture which wound up in the Washington press.

It was a strongly-worded "earnest hope" extended to Sen. Maurine Neuberger (D-Ore.) on the publication of her new book, "Smokescreen." The theme of the book is: smoke and drop dead.

Washington newsman Pat Munroe, who is from a prominent Florida family (Collins' state), gave a party honoring Mrs. Neuberger and the book. Munroe, among other things, is the D.C. rep of Prentice-Hall, the publisher. Collins, invited to the black tie dinner but out of town, sent a telegram from Pittsburgh.

The wire, addressed to Munroe, contained this flaming sentence: "I commend Prentice Hall for the publication of her new book which I earnestly hope will have its deserved impact upon the American people."

Parenthetically, Sen. Neuberger does not smoke. Neither did her late husband, Sen. Richard Neuberger (D-Ore.). He died of cancer. Within the last year, she has undergone a successful cancer operation.

ABC-TV Proves It Can Help, So Pre-Testing of Programs Due For Big Madison Ave. Upswing Next Yr.

By HERM SCHOENFELD

Pretesting of tv shows, a relatively young and sparingly used research technique, is due for a powerful upswing next season. More than ever before, tv execs, time buyers and program creators are searching for guidelines to shape their moves in a competitive struggle that each season dooms about 75% of the new programming entries.

The strong comeback of ABC-TV this season has tipped the scales heavily in favor of vastly more program pretesting next season. As the other networks now know and are seriously mulling, ABC-TV pretested audience reaction on virtually every one of its new shows and on the basis of these results, scheduled the best evaluated episodes in the kickoff weeks of the new season. Whether or not this strategy was the whole story of ABC's click, it has been figured to have played an important role.

The testing for ABC was done by Audience Studies Inc., which also has a similar deal with NBC. In the ASI system, a sample of 250 persons, representing a typical cross-section of the population, register their reactions to the tv shows on a hand-held device which relays electrical impressions to a master-board. Via data computors, a audience collective reaction curve is drawn with fluctuating amplitudes that foretell the chances of success or failure in a particular show.

Pierre Marquis, chief of ASI, which is a Screen Gems subsidiary, said the predictive value of past pretesting in the tv programming area has been consistently high. He said: "In six-and-a-half years of experience, we have never seen a program that has tested below average to come in with other than a below-average rating. There has not been a single exception to this. In terms of predicting average or above-average shows, we have never scored below 90%. In two of the past six seasons, we have batted 1,000%."

If the creative personnel in tv have maintained a skeptical attitude towards this form of research, the business end, always numbers conscious, is increasingly looking to pretesting as the system to beat the odds on tv's annual version of Russian roulette. It's recognized, of course, that pretesting can't convert a dog show into a hit, but it can help in determining whether to proceed with a pilot or how to doctor up a series already in the works.

A persuasive factor for web

(Continued on page 46)

ANDY WILLIAMS MAY GO WEEKLY

Look for Andy Williams to be back in the weekly programming sweepstakes next season. (This semester he's doing a cycle of 14-hour specials for NBC-TV in the Tuesday night 10 to 11 period).

NBC was so taken with last week's 30-market Nielsen returns (in which Williams topped CBS' Garry Moore) that the network lost no time initiating the plans for the return of the singing star to a weekly showcase in '64-'65.

Chi Footnote To RCA's Gee Whiz '63 Performance

Chicago, Oct. 29.

RCA's record sales and earnings pace is continuing through October with the company anticipating new alltime highs for the fourth quarter and the year as a whole. That's the analysis and forecast made by RCA prexy Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom in a talk last Thursday (24) before the Investment Analysts Society of Chicago. RCA recently reported its best business volume and profits for the first nine months of any year.

Dr. Engstrom said the advances in RCA's consumer and industrial sales through 1962 and 1963 have more than compensated for the levelling off of Government contracts. While consumer and industrial products accounted for 38% of RCA's business in 1961, they are expected to rise to 44% this year. At the same time, Government business has dipped from 38% of the 1961 volume to an estimated 32% this year.

Dr. Engstrom noted that "RCA has made basic contributions to the defense and space programs, and we expect to maintain a leadership position in these vital areas of electronics. Moreover, with the new emphasis given by the Dept. of Defense to fixed prices and incentive types of contracts, we look forward to increasing the ratio of earnings to sales in our Government work. Nevertheless, we do not consider ourselves to be dependent primarily upon defense business. We are, rather, a broadly based enterprise whose capabilities include a competence in significant areas of defense.

Three principal factors accounted for the sharp rise in RCA's profitability, according to Dr. Engstrom.

(Continued on page 44)

'ONE OF A KIND' CBS SUN. SERIES

CBS-TV, beginning Jan. 12, will start a new Sunday afternoon pub-affairs series, titled "One of A Kind." The 12 hourlong telecasts, slated from 4 to 5 p.m., will utilize unusual production techniques and range over a wide spectrum of subjects.

Among the broadcasts will be a "Bird's-Eye View," taking in familiar American landmarks and the rapidly changing face of America from the vantage point of a helicopter. Another is "Inspiration," for which a painter, a sculptor and a composer have been commissioned to create works of art in their individual media from the same subject, N.Y.'s bridges. "Through Different Eyes" will explore the city of Dublin, through the viewpoints of three residents. Other projects deal with the arts, poetry and science.

NBC Eyes Disney 'Crockett' Series

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

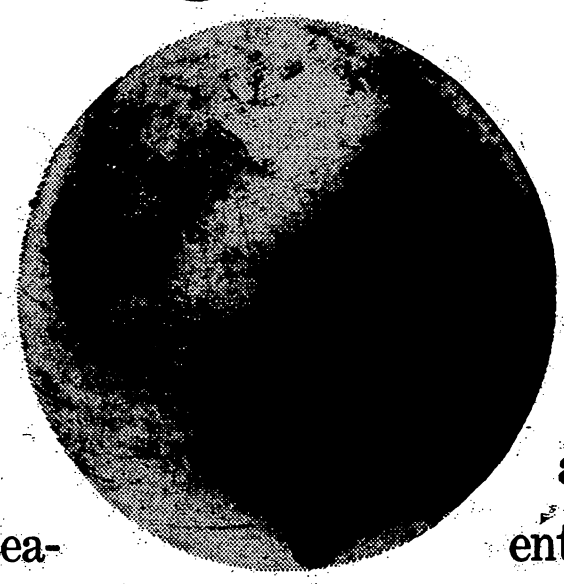
NBC-TV has overtured Walt Disney regarding his producing a vidpix series based on Davy Crockett, for the 1964-65 season. If Disney agrees to undertake such a venture, such a series would most likely star Fess Parker, who starred in five Crockett telefilms which Disney produced seven years ago as part of his "Disneyland" series.

At that time, Disney's series was on ABC-TV. He has since exited that network, and moved to NBC-TV, where his hourlong show is a Sunday night fixture.

NBC-TV's interest in a Crockett series was aroused by the showings of three of the original Crockett telefilms, rerun on NBC-TV early this season. Retreads beat hefty opposition, and their showing impressed the network so much they approached Disney about the new series.

Talks have already been held with Parker's reps anent the project.

Theatre in the Round



"Bonanza" is as big in Tokyo as it is here. "Amahl and the Night Visitors" has been shown for four consecutive seasons in Denmark. And "Dr. Kildare" is—if you'll pardon the expression—killing the people in Manila.

These are just a few of the NBC Television Network programs being enjoyed and admired all over the globe. It is a globe which radio and television have transformed into a giant theatre-in-the-round, with audiences of hundreds of millions the world over.

These attractions—embracing public affairs, drama, comedy, adventure and opera—are giving the world's viewers a closer look at American life, history, entertainment and culture than they've ever had before.

This overseas program—in which NBC International plays so large a role—is a natural outgrowth of a broadcasting company whose horizons, both here and abroad, have never been limited.

■ NBC is, for example, the acknowledged leader in the field of electronic journalism—with coverage that ranges from the expanded "Huntley Brinkley Report" to the fascinating exploration of ancient Greece's Golden Age.

■ The NBC Television Network, with the most diversified schedule in broadcasting, is unmatched in its record for developing young performers—like "Dr. Kildare's" Richard Chamberlain—and in introducing such innovations as the drama-repertory principle of the weekly "Richard Boone Show."

■ NBC Radio, boasting such unique attractions as the dynamic "Monitor," has more sponsored time than any other radio network.

■ NBC's owned television and radio stations have earned an unparalleled reputation for distinguished achievement in the field of community service.

The universal appeal of NBC programming is, we think, happily underscored by its hundreds of millions of viewers and listeners overseas.

But no statistics can tell the whole story of this broadcasting company's worldwide popularity and impact. More revealing, perhaps, is the repeated observation of travelers abroad that, wherever they go, the people look upon NBC as the second most familiar set of letters to come out of America.

The first? USA, of course.

THIS IS NBC

...serving 410,000,000 people all over the world

WLS' Healthy No. 2 Chi Status & It Traces to 'Beaudin Vitamins'

By LES BROWN

Chicago, Oct. 29.

With television it's usually the hot network that carries a local station to rating glory, but with radio it tends to be just the other way around. WLS was a 50,000-watt weakling in the spring of 1960 when Ralph Beaudin came in to steward it, and parent ABC Radio was able to pull no more weight in the market than the station did. But after three and a half years on those Beaudin vitamins, WLS has grown to a strapping No. 2 standing here, and the network has suddenly sprouted muscles where it's never previously had them on the Chicago airwaves.

The before-after status of two established ABC programs dramatically illustrates the metamorphosis in stature of both the station and the network here during the Beaudin years. The Pulse pocketpiece for January 1960, representing the period just preceding Beaudin's arrival from Pittsburgh, showed Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club" averaging a pale 4 share of audience in the 9 a.m. hour and Edward P. Morgan's early evening newscast a mild 5 share.

With both programs essentially unchanged during the interval, the June '63 Pulse for the Chicago metro area draws an astonishingly different picture. "Breakfast Club" is pulling a 13 share, running second in the period now to WIND's Howard Miller; and Morgan notches a 23 share for first place at 7 p.m. where he leads off an hourlong news block. That's an audience gain in those two network time periods of more than 200% and 350%, respectively.

To Beaudin it stands as vivid proof of something immediately important to the station, namely that WLS has not achieved its second position in the market by teenagers alone, for the two shows cited are hardly the kind that attracts adolescents. The competing stations, says Beaudin, have done a good job of perpetuating the myth that WLS gets its high ratings from teenagers alone because of its concentration on the current pop tunes and because it literally "owns" the high school crowd during television's prime time. Even the managers of other radio stations here have been

(Continued on page 44)

Wall-to-Wall Wolper

Pittsburgh, Oct. 29.

Six David L. Wolper specials will be given a wall-to-wall promotion treatment when the documentaries begin with "The Yanks Are Coming," on Veteran's Day, Nov 11, on WATE. The two sponsors, Pittsburgh National Bank and Liberty Mutual Insurance, will join with the station in a kick-off luncheon for the press on Thurs. (31).

The other five documentaries are "Dec. 7: The Day of Infamy," "Ten Seconds That Shook the World," "The American Woman in the 20th Century," "The Rise and Fall of American Communism" and "Berlin: Kaiser to Khrushchev." Each will be backed by a solid newspaper direct mail and billboard campaign along with station time. After each film is run it will be offered in the area for private showings to schools and private groups.

Hub WNAC Bally On Yak Format

Boston, Oct. 29.

In one of the biggest radio campaigns ever to hit the city, WNAC radio is promoting its new daylong talk programming with an ad campaign running from newspapers to billboards to subways, direct mail, phone calls, parking lots and even supermarkets.

Emphasizing new slogan, "WNAC Radio—the station that has everyone talking," the 50,000-watt station put its top brass, William M. McCormick, prexy and general manager; Al Korn, advertising director; to work with its ad agency, Arnold & Co., to create an intensive radio promo.

They've set up 124 newspaper ads, including full pages, totalling 12,000 lines to run in Boston Herald-Traveler and Boston Globe. Headlines taken from actual discussions on WNAC programs will be used to point up range of topics covered. "How to ask for a raise," "Marriage, then Motherhood," are typical captions to direct readers' attention to another slogan "Grown Up WNAC Radio."

McCormick explains the new all day talkathon bit as "filling a need." He said, "extensive research into the public's attitude toward Boston radio indicated the need for conversation. The listener has need and desire for more than background music. Our talk is directed, not to specific groups, but rather to the community at large. By supplying useful and interesting information we are filling the void for the vast audience that demands and expects more of radio today."

Capital Cities In 41% Net Increase

Albany, Oct. 29.

Capital Cities Broadcasting Corp., which operates in five cities and includes ownership of WTEN-TV and WROW, Albany, reported (23) a net profit for the first nine months of 1963 that was 41% higher than the figure for the same period in 1962.

President Frank M. Smith revealed the company netted $1,321,796, as of Sept. 30. At the same time last year, profits were computed at $939,197. This year's total is double that for the first nine months of 1961, Smith pointed out.

Net broadcasting income topped $12,000,000; broadcasting profit was $4,675,217, before depreciation, interest and financing, taxes and other expenses.

Capital Cities also owns radio and television stations in Buffalo and Providence; a video outlet in Durham, N.C., and WPAT radio station in Paterson, N.J. (serving New York metropolitan area).

From KOAT to Frock

Albuquerque, Oct. 29.

A former staff announcer and engineer at KOAT-TV in Albuquerque has resigned his post to enter the ministry.

John W. Penn, who was with the ABC affiliate here for about four years, has enrolled as a junior in the Seabury-Western Episcopal Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill. Course is three years.

Penn and his wife have three children.

Moore, Jean Hendrix In New WSB-TV Slots

Atlanta, Oct. 29.

Ray Moore, WSB-TV's news director, and Jean Hendrix, assistant to WSB-TV general manager, have been named to new program positions. Don Elliot Heald, manager of station, oldest tv operation in Southland, has named Moore to a new post as local program director for station and will be in charge of all local programming and responsible for community relations activities. He will continue as news director, a position he has held since 1958. Moore has been with WSB Radio (oldest in Dixie) and WSB-TV, both National Broadcasting Co. Affiliates, since 1958.

Miss Hendrix has been appointed program coordinator of WSB-TV and the Cox television stations. She will be in charge of all film programming, network scheduling and special program promotions for WSB-TV and will act as film and special programming consultant for Cox chain of tv stations. Miss Hendrix joined WSB Radio in 1946 and moved into tv in September, 1948, when WSB-TV hit the airwaves.

WNYC 'Moonlighting' Gets New Go-Round

Washington, Oct. 29.

WNYC radio's application for pre-sunrise operations in New York will get another spin in the FCC mill.

The full Commission remanded the case to a Hearing Examiner where it originally began in 1957.

The Gotham municipal station got a Hearing Examiner's okay then for special service authorization but the full Commission deferred action until the clear channel issue was settled.

WNYC operated on 830 kc which is also used by WCCO, Mineapolis, a clear channel, unlimited time station.

Also routed back to a Hearing Examiner was the application of WOI, Ames, Iowa, which is operated by Iowa State A & M College. WOI operates on 640 kc which is dominated by KFI, Los Angeles.

Watters' Parttime CBS Status in Cincy As WCPO Gets Zingup

Cincinnati, Oct. 29.

Executive changes put into effect last week at WCPO-AM and FM stations by Mortimer C. Watters, general manager and a v.p. of Scripps-Howard Broadcasting, are forerunners of an advance in local programming.

Effective Nov. 9, Watters said, WCPO will change to partial affiliation with CBS Radio, dropping all of the web's programs except from 6:45 to 7:45 p.m., including Lowell Thomas, Phil Rizzuto and World Wide Sports.

Newcomers in major appointments are Bob Keith, former program director of WFUN, Miami, for the same capacity at WCPO-AM, and William Minshall, former general manager of WGGG, Gainsville, Fla., as sales manager of WCPO-AM and FM, a new position.

Robert Gordon, who headed WCPO radio and tv sales forces, is now sales manager of WCPO-TV and general manager of WCPO stations.

Bill Dawes, vet announcer and recently appointed director of community relations for WCPO radio and tv, now heads the FM station, which will have it own programming from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., and then resume joint broadcasting with the AM outlet, effective Nov. 9.

CBS is negotiating with another Cincy radio station to pick up its remaining radio programs, Watters said.

The changes have no bearing on the WCPO-TV and CBS-TV linking.

EMBASSY'S STRONG SALE ON 'HERCULES'

Shortly after announcing the availability of 13 new Hercules-type features for tv, Embassy Pictures has sold 53 markets.

Under the umbrella-title of "The Sons of Hercules," Embassy is offering the pictures, all in color, as 26 edited hours in addition to the regular feature-length presentation. Top markets locking up the new Embassy series, which is deliverable after Jan. 1, 1964, include: WOR-TV, N.Y.; WNBQ, Chicago; KGO, San Francisco; KHJ, Los Angeles; KTVT, Dallas; WXYZ, Detroit; WTIC, Hartford; WFLA, Tampa; WKBW, Buffalo; KLZ, Denver; WDAF, Kansas City; WWL, New Orleans; WTTV, Indianapolis; WKRC, Cincinnati; WITI, Milwaukee.

In conjunction with sales, Embassy is merchandising a "Jr. Strong Man Exercise Kit."

Giese Helms WOSU-TV

Columbus, Oct 29.

Raymond C. Giese has been named general manager of WOSU-TV, educational outlet of Ohio State Univ. here. He succeeds Raymond J. Stanley, who resigned to become director of the Educational Television Facilities Program with the U.S. Office of Education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington D.C.

Giese is a veteran of educational radio and television.

Texas as Educ'l TV Trailblazer; All Started in Houston Classroom

Houston, Oct. 29.

The needs and shortcomings of higher education in Texas have been so resoundingly publicized it may come as a surprise to many that Texas is the pioneer in the field of higher education for the future.

The U. of Houston 10 years ago became the first institution of higher learning to adapt techniques of television to the classroom.

It was so successful that the tv classroom is now used by other schools throughout the nation, and last spring 3,700 university students here were getting their credits for hours seated before the television screen.

In central Texas, 11 colleges and universities are linked in what is known as the Texas Educational Microwave Project (TEMP).

This television network became the nation's first system of closed circuit classroom instruction. Nobody could estimate what it would cost in advance because no such system had ever been constructed. The microwave installation, as designed and built from scratch by Collins Radio, bears the serial No. 1.

The system has its headquarters at the U. of Texas and is connected with two other Austin schools, St. Edwards and Huston-Tillotson and five in San Antonio, St. Mary's Trinity, Our Lady of the Lake, Incarnate Word and San Antonio College.

It reaches north to Southwestern U. in Georgetown and connects between San Antonio and Austin with Texas Lutheran and Seguin and Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos.

Planning for the TEMP system began in 1957 and full operation started Sept. 18, 1961.

TEMP so far has provided instruction for credit of 11,725 students in the 11 institutions.

Using the figure of $10 per credit hour, which at present is the accepted cost of a basic course in institutions of higher education, and using an average of two credit hours per student, this would indicate TEMP has had, so far, an instruction value of $234,500.

Since this is $418 more than the original installation cost of the physical system, it can be seen the original outlay has been amortized. However, operationaly costs since the pilot plant was begun three years ago have been $426,823.

Gradually this gap is expected to close by 1966, when 29,312 students are expected to be receiving education over TEMP, the costs are expected to be $546,823 and instructional value, $586,240.

But economies in spreading education are not the sole aim of TEMP. Its backers claim that it improves education.

Through TEMP, an electronics campus has been created and the faculty resources of all 11 participating schools are shared.

Classes using TEMP usually have two televised lectures and one live lecture each week. In this way, teachers are freed for other

(Continued on page 46)

NEW 7 ARTS BUNDLE OF 20TH FEATURES

A new group of 42 features out of the 20th Century-Fox library is being put into tv distribution this week by Seven Arts as Vol. 8 in its "Films of the '50" series. Package includes such titles as "The Remarkable Mr. Pennypacker," "Woman Obsessed," "Three Came Home," "The Lieutenant Wore Skirts" and "That Wonderful Urge."

Seven Arts, meantime, registered 10 additional sales on the tv documentary, "Churchill, The Man," bringing the total to 33. Latest stations buying this half-hour include KMJ-TV, Fresno; KOGO-TV, San Diego; KREM-TV, Spokane; WKYT-TV, Lexington; KID-TV, Idaho Falls; KLAS-TV, Las Vegas; KVIQ-TV, Eureka, Cal.; KBOI-TV, Boise; KAUZ-TV, Wichita Falls; and the Doe Anderson Advertising Agency, Louisville, Ky.

Big Stars Shun Syndie Careers

One category of network programming which at this point in time seems unlikely ever to hit the domestic syndication circuit is the star-variety showcases, currently riding the networks in such numbers, especially on CBS-TV.

Such shows as Danny Kaye and Garry Moore are sold abroad. Domestic syndication, however, is another story. Big name guestars, for one, make it uneconomically feasible for most of the star-variety showcases to win a domestic syndication ride. The stars, themselves, many of them, prefer not to get into syndication, fearful of overexposure. Rerun rights under AFTRA rules are much more complicated for the most part, compared to Hollywood talent guilds.

CBS-TV, which has a longterm deal with Jackie Gleason, does have syndication rights to the current Gleason show. The rights, though, may be academic, when the costs of syndicating such an entry are considered.

Jorgensen Nixed On 300G Libel Suit Review

Columbus, Oct. 22.

Ohio Supreme Court refused William C. Jorgensen, Cleveland tv newscaster, formerly of Columbus, a review of his $300,000 libel suit in which he was denied any damages. A jury in Franklin County Common Pleas Court decided in favor of Bert Charles, manager of WVKO radio here, in the suit Jorgensen brought against him. Court of Appeals affirmed the lower court.

Jorgensen, formerly of WTVN-TV, accused Charles of libeling him in a broadcast by Charles answering a broadcast by Jorgensen concerning a hypothetical, powerful family in a Midwest city.

WLW Cages Cage Coin In Cincy Radio Switch

Cincinnati, Oct. 29.

Broadcast schedule of the Cincinnati Royals for the National Basketball Association season will be by WLW with Hudepohl Beer as sole tagger for the fourth year. It is a switch from WKRC.

Ed Kennedy, the brewery's sports voice, will do the play by play. He filled the chore in recent seasons and also miked Cincy Reds baseball on WLW television for Hudepohl.

MCA TV Sales

Roster of new sales were registered by MCA TV's off-network hour entries.

"Thriller" was sold to KAIT, Jonesboro; WNBE, New Bern, N.C.; "Frontier Circus" to WCNY, Watertown-Carthage; KRON, San Francisco; "Cimarron City" to WCNY, Watertown-Carthage; among others.

WGN-TV's Bundle Of 50 Features

Chicago, Oct. 29.

WGN-TV, the indie which is battling WBBM-TV for feature film honors in this market at 10:15 p.m., last week armed itself with two new packages of post-1960 titles, each distinctly different from the other. In all, the station purchased 50 new features.

One group contains 26 spear-and-sandal epics, all in color, with such titles as "Caesar the Conqueror," "Last of the Vikings," "Samson," "Seventh Sword," "Queen of the Nile," and "Fall of Rome." This is the Medallion Specta-Color group that has run a good track record on WOR-TV, New York.

The other is a package of art features, purchased from Walter Reade-Sterling, containing such films as "David & Lisa," "Oliver Twist," "Taste of Honey," "My Uncle," "Silent Enemy," "Waltz of the Toreadors" and "Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner."

TV'S BLOCKBUSTER CINEMATICS

Teachvee Station-In-the-Sky

Washington, Oct. 29.

Educational television may be going airborne.

FCC has asked for comments on a petition by a midwestern etv group to operate regularly a teach-vee station whose headquarters are in an airplane.

Midwest Program for Airborne Television Instruction Inc., has been transmitting educational program to six states via airplanes. The group now wants regular FCC authorization and is seeking Channels 72,74,76,78,80 and 82 for the program.

The association now broadcasts to 1,125 schools in Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The program was started by Purdue Univ. and was later assumed by MPATI. It has been financed through $14,700,000 of Ford Foundation grants.

Although not sounding beside itself with enthusiasm for the plan, Commission did request additional comments on the possibility of airborne etv on a nationwide basis.

Drastic Curtailment of British Vidfilm Prod. Feared (Maybe 50%)

London, Oct. 29.

Political maneuvers on either side of the Atlantic may lead to a drastic curtailment in the volume of British vidpic production. In some quarters it is feared that telefilming might even grind to a half—at least for nine or 12 months.

On the British side, the major programming companies have consistently warned the authorities that the imposition of the $50,000,000 a year tax on tv advertising could jeojardize the local vidfilm industry, and significantly, no new projects have been launched during the last few months.

Across the Atlantic there is maneuvering in New York and Washington to ease the British tv quota, which restricts imports to a maximum of 14%, or one hour a day on each of the networks. It is being suggested here that pressure is being exerted to restrict, or even cease, all production involving American interests, until the quota is amended and the Yank telefilmeries are given a bigger share of the domestic U.K. market.

It has been reported, for example, that direct and indirect overtures have been made to win the support of the British unions to an easing of the quota, with the warning that unless such support is forthcoming, there is little chance of further series being undertaken in the immediate future. That pressure on the unions comes at a time when feature film production is in the doldrums, and substantial unemployment among technicians and craft grades is likely to be intensified by further redundancy in the major studios.

The intensive political conniving, both in London and Washington, has hit the telefilm business at a time when it had adjusted its

(Continued on page 46)

Storer 3d Qtr. Profit $1,067,172

Miami, Oct. 29.

Storer Broadcasting Corp.'s profit, after taxes, for the third quarter ending Sept. 30 was $1,067,172, a 21% increase over the same period last year. Profit equaled 54.4c. per share, compared to 36.1c. per share for the same period last year.

Net profit, after taxes, for the first nine months of this year was $3,998,826, or $1.82 per share, compared to $4,499,918, or $1.85 per share, for the 1962 period. The 1963 figures included a non-recurring loss of $256,247 from the company's disposal of the Miami Beach Daily Sun last June, while the 1962 earnings included a non-recurring gain of $911,492 arising from the sale of WWVA, Wheeling, W.Va., in January, 1962.

Report noted that the company has reduced its outstanding shares by buying 439,700 shares of its Class B common stock from George B. Storer, chairman of the board and chief exec officer, for $28.50 per share.

Bernstein to Triangle

Bob Bernstein, ex-Westinghouse public relations director and more recently with the Softness Group, has joined Triangle stations as p.r. chief. It's a new post with the radio-tv division of Triangle Publications, a Philadelphia - based company.

Bernstein will work out of New York assisted by Carol Parrott, also formerly with the Westinghouse chain.

TV Tryout On Houston KHOU's For New Legiter

Houston, Oct. 29.

KHOU-TV, the Corinthian outlet here, is innovating a Broadway tryout via tv when it presents the John Hess comedy, "The Better Moustrap," in a two-hour prime-time showcase in late November. Hess, with numerous tv writing credits in his background, believes that the tv exposure and subsequent reviews will enhance his ability to finance the show on Broadway.

Agent Ashley-Steiner worked out the deal with KHOU's Cal Jones who sought the play for "Houston Television Theatre," a four-time-a-year project of the station emceed by Jan De Hartog, playwright in residence at the U. of Houston. The series in the past has depended on public domain and locally written scripts. Corinthian execs believe that the concept of a Broadway tryout on tv represents a breakthrough in the acquisition of quality material on a local level.

Charles Krohn and Tonie Browning, from Houston's Alley Theatre and Theater Inc., star in "The Better Mousetrap." Rod Browning is director.

'UA SHOWCASE' INTO 125 MARKETS

"United Artists Showcase for the 60's" feature package has been sold in an additional 25 markets, bringing total sales for the package to 125 markets.

The 25 station buys include: WDAU, Scranton, Pa.; KMSP, Minneapolis; CKLW, Detroit; KCMT, Alexandria, Minn.; WTOC, Savannah; WBIR, Knoxville; KCRA, Sacramento; WTOP, Washington; and KFDA, Amarillo.

UA-TV exec v.p. Erwin Ezzes reported that with the sale of the "Showcase for the 60's" in 125 markets, UA-TV is preparing a new group of features for syndication. Ezzes says the new package will be made up largely of post-'57 features and will be ready for syndication in about two weeks.

TOP BUDGETERS BEING SPRUNG

Features-to-tv biz, which has gone through many phases, now is entering the era of the blockbusters. Gate to the era already have been opened by the post-'48's, but from here on in, the gates will be opened still further, as more recent pix product, representing the big budgeters of more recent years, find their way to the home screens.

By and large, the pool of fresh pix which is due to be fed to tv, represents those features made when Hollywood, in order to combat tv, went in for the big budgeters. The pix heading for tv were made when major studios were revamping their production schedule to cash in on a more selective theatrical audience, when quality and money were poured into the pix projects. It was a time when the assembly line "B" pix were held down in numbers.

What has happened to the motion picture industry—and the consequent result on the pix fare in this age of tv—now will be inherited by the home screen. The fewer releases, the accent on quality and big budgets, the great number of adult themed features characterize today's features-to-tv biz. The era of the blockbuster in theatres now has become the era of the blockbusters on tv screens.

The alteration in the product pool also has caused major alterations in releasing patterns. For the most part now, all the majors are involved in tv distribution of their own pix. The packages offered to tv are composed of a relatively small number. Prices secured for pix-to-tv are higher, the increase dependent on the particular market and the competitive situation prevailing.

That's the market-by-market situation prevailing in the features-to-tv biz. On the network level, NBC-TV, which once looked with distaste on any network telecasting pix, now is booked two nights weekly with a series of pix from 20th-Fox and Metro. While ABC-TV this season has remained aloof from telecasting cinematics, and CBS-TV's only network venture in cinematics is the yearly holiday telecast of "Wizard of Oz," possibility of one or both of the networks turning to cinematics as a possibility to bail out a weak rating night isn't ruled out at this juncture.

On another front, it's known that one major distributor has approached some interested advertisers with the project of networking a few blockbusters over the course of a season. Feeling is that if the advertiser is booked, the network clearances can be secured.

In this era of blockbusters, comparative short supply, and higher prices, there has been no significant decrease in the number of feature slots around the country. Stations, for the most part, are retaining their pix programming, using the new releases to brighten up their vaultees and renegotiating for the better post-'48's.

Seven Arts Associated, out with a new group of pix, plans to package its recently acquired Universal post-'48's and 20th-Fox post-'48s in small groups of about 40 titles,

(Continued on page 34)

TV's 10,427 Features

There are 10,427 features in current release for tv, according to the fall-winter issue of the TV Feature Film Source Book, recently published by Broadcast Information Bureau.

Of the 10,427 features available to tv, 2,997 are post-'48's and many are as new as the last three years. Some 1,205 pix were available in color. Of the 533 titles released in the past year, 416 fare post-'48 titles, with 307 being U.S. product, 157 being British and 69 being Italian, French or German, according to BIB.

Gene Autry Co.'s $12,000,000 KTLA Buy In L. A.'s Top TV Transaction

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

KTLA, Paramount Pictures' sole television station which was built at a cost of $800,000, has been sold to Gene Autry's Golden West Broadcasting Co. for $12,000,000. It's the biggest tv transaction thus far in the L.A. market, exceeding by $2,000,000 the $10,000,000 paid by Metromedia for KTTV, which was formerly owned by the Los Angeles Times.

Autry's Golden West company already owns KMPC radio station in the L.A. market, along with AM stations in San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and Seattle. In addition, Autry personally is involved in ownership of tv stations in Phoenix and Tucson.

Sale of KTLA came as something of a surprise, with considerable conjecture as to why Par would want to unload its sole station property. Under the Stretch Adler management, it has established its own unique niche among the indie tv stations. On the other hand, $12,000,000 is figured a lot of loot for a lone indie, especially considering that it only cost Par, in addition to the original $800,000, less than $2,000,000 additional investment in the intervening years. Transaction does not include the real estate, which means Par will pick up an additional $300,000 through rental of studio facilities.

It's expected that the Adler-managed staff will continue to operate as is. Howard Stark, broker, negotiated the deal.

MCA-TV Shuns TFE-'64

MCA-TV, one of the largest syndicators, again has elected to stay out of the Television Film Exhibit, which for the second year will be held in conjunction with the annual National Assn. of Broadcasters convention.

TFE-'64, scheduled for Chicago, April 5 through April 8, coinciding with the NAB meet there, again will draw its support from the other syndicators, however. MCA-TV has a traditional conservative policy, staying out of newly-formed organizations.

8 Jo Stafford Specials To Fels In Regional Buy

Fels & Co., in a major regional buy, has inked for the eight Jo Stafford specials, putting the potential of $100,000 for each of the specials closer to realization by distributor Independent Television Corp.

Fels, via S. E. Zubrow, in a 24-market spread, inked for such cities as N.Y., Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Boston, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and other major markets. Regional sales on the Stafford specials now encompass 61 markets comprising more than 93% of all tv homes, according to ITC's exec v.p. Abe Mandell. Other major regionals are Foremost Dairies and Ohio Bell. One of the Stafford specials was aired this summer on CBS-TV, with Procter & Gamble picking up the tab.

A rundown of sold markets shows a complete sellout of the top 15 and 24 out of the top 30. Mandell, feeling no pain, says the success of the Stafford specials "is proof positive that regional sales can be made with first-run programming of top network quality. The days when anything goes in syndiction are a thing of the past. But for the producer who is willing to invest in talent and production values, the future looks more promising than ever for the need is greater than ever, and ITC will be taking full advantage of it."

Mandell estimated that before the Stafford specials have run their course in U.S. syndication, they will gross about $100,000 per hour segment.

ELDON'S 41-MARKET TRIANGLE PACKAGE

Triangle Program Sales wrapped up its largest sale to date in a deal with Eldon Industries which bought the Triangle auto racing package in 41 tv markets. Buy includes six Triangle outlets.

Series of half-hour color shows, which will start next spring, are built around the annual motor racing classics. Eldon, a toy manufacturer, made the buy through its agency, Klau - Van Pieterson-Dunlap.

Reed's Far East O.O.

Official Films prexy Seymour Reed has left for a special sales and goodwill tour of the Far East, stopping off in Hollywood for Coast production confabs prior to the tour.

The three-week jaunt will take Reed to Japan, Hong Kong and Hawaii. Reed plans stops in Los Angeles, both en route and on the return trip from the Orient, for a series of meetings geared to formulate '64 production plans.

MGM Syndie Sales In Sharp Upswing

MGM-TV's total sales volume in syndication this year is currently running far ahead of 1962's record, according to Richard A. Harper, the company's director of worldwide syndicated sales. Along with the growth of the domestic market, Harper noted a steady increase in foreign operations.

MGM-TV has made sales on two of this season's network entries, "Mr. Novak" and "Harry's Girls," to Mexico, Canada, Australia, Uruguay and Peru. "Mr. Novak," "The Lieutenants" and "Travels of Jaimie McPheeters" have been sold in Brazil. New deals on 135 MGM cartoons were signed in Brazil and Peru.

"Father of the Bride" was sold to Rediffusion Ltd. in Hong Kong while "The Islanders" were bought by TWW in Great Britain.

On the domestic side, MGM sold 135 cartoons to KTTV, Los Angeles. A package of post-1948 features was bought by the Holchak Advertising Agency, Austin, Tex., for telecast over KTBC-TV there. WTVW, Evansville, Ind., bought "The Islanders," "Sam Benedict" and "Asphalt Jungle" series.

Westhampton Corp. Acquires Post-'60 Pix

Westhampton Film Corp. has acquired 15 post-'60 features for tv distribution from Parade Pictures, of California.

The pix, six in color, include the Japanese color feature, "I Bombed Pearl Harbor," the horror pic, "Trauma," starring John Conte; and "The Scavengers," starring Vince Edwards.

Henry S. White, v.p.-marketing, said that 11 of the 15 were made in the U.S. All of them were filmed by indie producers, distributing theatrically through Parade Pictures. White said three of the pix will be distributed theatrically next month, with their telecasting date delayed until Sept. 1, '64.

Westhampton named Ben Colman as sales manager. He was formerly eastern sales manager at Screen Gems. Company stated that it would also be active in financing new production in motion pictures and tv fields.

Tell me a story

Fill it with pirates and Indians and end it happily. Here, in much of its programming for children, television's ability to tell a story is demonstrated. It entertains. It informs.

TV Guide magazine also combines entertainment with information. And that makes it one of the most valuable advertising channels in American publishing.

Stated in a few words, TV Guide magazine is a commentary on things interested people see on television and want to know more about, which is just about everything. It treats the light parts lightly and speaks with authority about the more serious side of television. Its opinions are its own, for TV Guide magazine is anything but a house organ for television.

This is why it is such a valuable medium for your mass-market advertising. People, nearly 20 million each week, buy it to read. They read it, according to readership studies, from cover to cover. They read the advertisements. They respond to them. This has been proven time after time to the satisfaction of our growing list of advertisers.

You can reach this vast market for half the cost per thousand of any other mass weekly or biweekly, through TV Guide magazine.

We have a story to tell you—an important media story.

SOME FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT OUR MAGAZINE

TV GUIDE magazine delivers a guaranteed circulation of 8½ million households. 19½ million primary readers. TV GUIDE reaches over five million young marrieds—more than any other magazine published. Compared with Look, Life and Post, TV GUIDE reaches the most home-owning families, families who own their own automobiles, and families with children. The median income of TV GUIDE households is $7503. TV GUIDE magazine offers two to three times more primary readers per advertising dollar than any other mass weekly or biweekly.

Source: Starch Consumer Magazine Report, 1963

TV GUIDE

America's Biggest Selling Weekly Magazine

Television Followup Comment

International Television Festival

After a bright getaway the previous weekend, WNDT, N.Y., brought the International Film Festival to a close last Saturday and Sunday night (26-27) with a dreary procession of programs. It was two unremitting nights of determinedly cultural shows imported from France, Poland, Italy, Germany, Finland and Mexico. Only pedants could have been impressed by this pretentiously arty material.

If this was the best or the most representative programming of the participating nations, then it's no wonder that U.S. shows like "Have Gun, Will Travel" or "The Untouchables" are popular abroad. For all their canned quality, the U.S. shows have more vitality and even reality than these foreign entries on last weekend's schedule.

Saturday night opened ominously with a surrealist French film memorial to the poet Robert Desnos. This half-hour was strictly for linguists, poetry specialists and psychoanalysts. Two films from Poland were relatively simple to understand. One was a behind-the-scenes look at Poland's Slask Song and Dance Festival with dialog in French and Polish, but at least it was in prose not poetry. The other was a routine documentary about the painter, Canaletto. The evening's climax was provided by an hour-and-a-quarter filmization by Italy's RAI of a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Great music, but enough is enough. The last item showcased a folk ensemble from the United Arab Republic, a totally uninspired half-hour.

Sunday's offerings maintained the crawling pace. The leadoff German documentary, "Der Fremde Morning," was a hackneyed view of the world at dawn with such commentary, in English, about New York as follows: "8,000,000 knives cutting into the flesh in the slaughterhouse of paradise." Another film from Germany about the Sacco & Vanzetti case was the most interesting of the weekend, but it was an essentially superficial lookback at this case. A study of Greek music was a pleasing, if routine, entry. Two documentaries from Finland were of uneven quality, one being a stagey ballet-jazz piece and the other a slow-paced documentary about tar distilling. From Mexico, there was some tired musical numbers tied together into a half-hour variety stanza. Herm.

Conversation On 'The Deputy'

If WNBC's Sunday morning "Conversation on 'The Deputy'", moderated by Roger Tuttle, with producer-director Herman Shumlin and Jubilee mag staffer Peter White is a sample of the things to come, then Tuttle may be prophetic in his rhetorical summation, "What will your (Shumlin's) production of this controversial play achieve? Will it raise more anti-Semitism? More anti-Catholicism? More anti-Protestantism? More anti-German feeling?"

There was no conclusion on this issue because time ran out on both Shumlin and White who, as a Catholic author and critic, took issue with Rolf Hochhuth's controversial play. Despite Shumlin's documentation that many Catholics also looked askance at Pope Pius XII's silence during the Nazi genocide of the Jews and Hitler's oppression and excesses, there can be no doubt that most Catholics will resent the play. Fact that the 32-year-old German Protestant dramatist dedicated his play to two German Catholic priests is bound to be lost in the broader pitting of religioso attitudes. Nor will this mass group recognize or even care about any ideology or philosophy that Hochhuth, because of his very age, undoubtedly grew up in the Hitler Youth Movement; or that, perhaps, his purpose may be to shift some of the Nazi shame from the Third Reich to the portals of the Vatican.

Shumlin is a very positive and betimes persuasive proponent of the thesis that the truth must be brought out even if it emerges with anti-clerical overtones. He put it a bit stronger. It is likely that, as his February target for Broadway production nears, he may be even more outspoken. "The Deputy" ("Der Stellvertreter," in German) has become world advertised through multiple productions since its original staging in Berlin. But somehow the fact that it was done in Germany, Switzerland, the Scandinavian countries, and even concurrently in London, kept the irritating pros-and-cons from these shores.

The American techniques of widest communications, especially via our highly developed electronics systems, introduces an undoubtedly disturbing hark-back to Hitler's darkest years. Proponents of the play, such as Shumlin, insist light must be shed on it. None the less the religioso antagonisms which must follow makes one wonder if this isn't again the long arm of Hitlerism, albeit vicariously revived.

As a footnote, there has been intratrade comment from non-Jewish showmen along the lines, "I saw it in London (or Berlin) and it's a powerful play, and it should be done, but somehow I'd rather the impresario were a guy whose initials were Leland Hayward or Roger Stevens or Alfred de Liagre Jr. rather than Billy Rose or Herman Shumlin." The inference is "resultant irritations perhaps to the American Jewish community," and so expressed. Whether Rose dropped his option for that reason (Shumlin was to have directed it for him) or Shumlin evidences unusual courage, is for the future. As Sunday morning half-hour discussion between two mature and educated men, the prime emotion emerged that Peter White's religious persuasion is dominant in his antipathy to the play regardless of its dramaturgy or intent. Shumlin felt that the current Ecumenical Council's directive to ameliorate anti-Semitism by expunging time-malingering phrases, such as "perfidious Jew" (vis-a-vis the Crucifixion), could have been inspired by resultant world feeling anent "The Deputy." Moderator Tuttle still has unanswered his posers on new irritations on anti-Semitism, anti-Catholicism, anti-Germanism. Abel.

Danny Kaye Show

Danny Kaye, who can carry his own show solo if need be, put icing on his own cake Wednesday evening (23) on his hour long CBS-TV variety showcase. For guests Gene Kelly, Michele Lee and the youthful Clinger Sisters provided more than a fillip for this Coast-originated program.

Kelly, who once danced to a poem by Carl Sandburg, displayed his versatility anew by terping to Kaye's recipe for an Italian sauce. A Kelly-Kaye duet traced the former's career in song and reprised some of his hit tunes. It was a rewarding sequence that finaled with "Ballin' the Jack."

Among Miss Lee's brighter bits was her warbling of "I Could Write a Book." It was a lively arrangement of the Rodgers & Hart standard and she sold it with animation. The Clinger Sisters, four lasses from Utah, scored in a jazzy version of "Side by Side" in which the ubiquitous Kaye lent an imaginative assist.

Two sketches, presumably concocted by Kaye's battery of some seven writers, rounded out the session. One, which could be tagged "The Businessman's Lunch," was an amusing skit. Fashion show betwixt a business deal provided Kaye with lotsa doubletakes for lotsa viewer guffaws. Less successful was a bit in which Kaye portrayed the operator of a Viennese beauty salon. Slapstick piece was strongly reminiscent of Abbott & Costello.

Choreographer Tony Charmoli contribbed an exciting dance idea in which the camera picked up only the legs of the terpers. The routine's interpretation was up to the individual viewer. Briskly backing the entire layout was Paul Weston's orch and this expensive show again sparkled with its usual production gloss. Gilb.

Bob Hope Show

Bob Hope was long on guests for his second comedy special of the season, but the outing was short on laughs and imagination. The gags for the most part had that manufactured quality, and the skits seemed to ramble aimlessly without a real premise. Even the warmup monolog was sub par, largely because its topical subject matter had been overexposed. Hope got off some good lines on Madame Nhu and Valachi, but so have a lot of other comedians before him. He also got off one or two that were in questionable taste, reflecting on the nationality rather than the individual.

Of the two skits the first was easily the better, with Hope playing a Mafia leader trying to get himself locked up in Andy Griffith's country jailhouse. This lent itself to some funny pieces of business, but made few demands on Griffith's talents. It did, however, favor him with plugs for his own show on CBS-TV.

Second skit had Martha Raye playing a preposterous Vietnamese Dragon Lady and Hope her royal fiance, bald from the eyebrows to the back of the neck when he removed his hat. And that was about as comic as the skit ever got. Between sketches, the trio of Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis harmonized a pair of catchy religious numbers.

For a finale, Hope brought on three heroes of the Los Angeles Dodges—Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Tommy Davis—trusting them with a byplay of gags. The were about as convincing with the funny lines as they are with the Gillette testimonials, proving it's still a long, long way from the sports field to the performing stage. Les.

Channing

The competition being what it is, "Channing" simply can't afford the kind of hackneyed and simple-minded teledrama that was aired last Wednesday (23). It was slightly reminiscent of those old animated cartoons in which the hero has a little devil perched on one shoulder whispering poisonous advice and a little angel on the other cooing words of caution. Naturally it's the angel who wins the struggle for the soul, and naturally the political candidate, realizing how corrupt he's become, has his confessional on the selfsame paid political telecast that was to have been used to crush the side of good.

William Shatner played a Channing alumnus running for states attorney who is about to be smeared for his theft of $850 from the college exchequer back in the days when he was a student. The good dean, Henry Jones, had covered up the theft at the time and given the lad another chance, and that's how he gets involved in the scandal. Had Shatner heeded Jones' advice and faced his public with an honest explanation of the incident, the whole drama could have been wrapped up in a 30 minute show. Instead, he allowed himself to be manipulated by his cynical and machiavellian campaign manager (Denver Pyle), and it all got quite messy in a trite sort of way.

Shatner performed rather woodenly and carried the political forensics into his love scenes with Maggie Pierce, the coed who follows him down the path of corruption. Gene Raymond made a believable character of Shatner's political opponent, but Pyle was a caricature of the ruthless angle-shooter, and that fault should probably be traced to James Yaffee's script. As for the "Channing" regulars, Jones was much too flippant for the circumstances and Jason Evers almost unsympathetic as a stuffy goody-goody. Les.

Ed Sullivan Show

There are approximately 7,000 acts in the roster of the Moscow Circus, which is sufficient to farm out a troupe to many major cities. Presently, one company is touring the United States under Morris Chalfen auspices. The layout which Ed Sullivan presented on his show Sunday (27) over CBS-TV was taped during a performance in London, and like many of its counterparts represents top accomplishments under the big top.

The acts in this particular show were superb. Each act was thoroughly accomplished in its specialty and showed excellent discipline.

It would have been desirable to see more of Karandash, the clown, who like Popov, seems to have a basis in reality. Karandash did a few excellent items showing characterization and comedic skill. He served as comedy relief between acts and deserved a long spot of his own.

Sullivan may have had some difficulty in the pronunciation of Russian names. Aside from the opening animal act headed by Vladimir Durov, and Karandash, Sullivan failed to give the identification of any of the other turns. It made for a sort of anonymity.

The Chinese equilibrists, the Simadov Troupe, were excellent head balancers. The understander equilibrated a colleague on a pole which was balanced on the bottom man's head. It's an unusual accomplishment. The Four Boubnovs provided excellent aerial work. The Gratschovi Troupe combined juggling and acro work, and the Kirickoukovi Group amazed with some highspeed acrobatics.

One of the top acts was the Kochenov Cossack Riders, who exhibited some wild riding, and there was the bear act which performed a multitude of tricks including a motor bike ride. In addition, the aerial ballet, the trampoline act, and Durov's handling of the elephant, rooster and assorted other animals including mice and doves proved entertaining. Latter turn, incidentally, may be the co-existence propaganda turn. It had mice, a cat, rooster and a fox on stage simultaneously and no fatalities. Jose.

CBS Reports

Well, the funeral documentary of "CBS Reports" has had its airing, and the nation stands firm in its wake.

There must be—or at least there should be — many embarrassing people who quaked at the mere prospect of such a documentary as "The Great American Funeral," telecast last Wednesday (16) evening, in the pre-Halloween season. The documentary, sight unseen, was denounced by Rep. James B. Utt, (Rep.-Cal.), for providing a forum for Jessica Mitford, author of "The American Way of Death." Congressman Utt, who comes from that colossal state with those colossal funerals, impugned Miss Mitford's Americanism. One of the funeral directors associations issued a nervous statement prior to the telecast that they wanted to see a screening of the hourlong telementary, a request which CBS declined to grant.

In this season of witches and ghosts, CBS brass stuck to reality. Looking into their crystal ball, exec producer Fred W. Friendly, producer David Lowe, reporter Robert Trout, and others in the CBS News unit must have asked themselves, "Who is not touched by death? There's an audience out there for such a show. Why not examine the economics of the death mill? Is or isn't it overcommercial?"

Putting down their crystal ball, the CBS News unit mounted their cameras and microphones and travelled far and wide, visiting cemeteries and memorial parks, talking to ministers and funeral directors and just plain people, even to Miss Mitford. When it was all over, they delivered in straightforward style the pros and cons of funerals as practiced in the U. S. It wasn't an eyeopener, just a reprise — and if some people look foolish in their fashions (and costs) for death, it's not the fault of alert tv devils, but the fashions, themselves, which can't bear exposure. Horo.

Bell Telephone Hour

The second "Bell Telephone Hour" of the season on NBC-TV last Tuesday (22) rang up a solid score in all departments. Exec producer Barry Wood and his aides; producer Burt Shevelove and director Sid Smith rate special praise for their savvy in putting together an all-encompassing musical variety show without losing points in any area, whether it be ballet, longhair or showtune.

The show caught is a case in point. Working with the legit-oriented Nannette Fabray as hostess, the program managed to give her a proper showcasing, especially in a medley that featured many of Jule Styne's Broadway score songs, as well as Gounod, Balanchine and Prokofiev.

Gounod came through importantly via a stirring reading of a portiton of his "Faust" by Lisa dela Casa and Nicolai Gedda and Cesare Siepi; Balanchine's choreography came off splendidly as Patricia Wilde and Nicholas Magallanes (and members of the N. Y. C. Ballet Co.) terped through his "Square Dance"; and Prokofiev did okay too with a lively interpretation of one of his flashy works by pianist Byron Janis.

Miss Fabry was a charming hostess throughout and helped make Bell's second musical party of the season a complete delight. Gros.

Richard Boone Show

The Richard Boone repertory unit looks better every week. Working with an unconventional and skillfully written teleplay by Dale Wasserman last Tuesday (22), the players gave sterling performances that brought the fantasy off credibly and with rare (for tv) dramatic impact. "The Stranger" may prove to be one of the more memorable offerings of the new anthology series.

It was an intriguing and intelligent playlet that threatened on a few occasions to fall apart, as too often fantasies will, but managed always to hold its perilous footing. Wasserman also ran the literary risk of making no secret of his theme, and it took real craftsmanship to let it come out explicitly for the mass audience without lecturing or moralizing. Buzz Kulik directed with understanding restraint.

Robert Blake was just about perfect as the youth of indeterminate age who is totally void of knowledge or wordly experience when he is "found" on the highway by four neurotic adults, played pointedly by Harry Morgan, Bethel Leslie, Lloyd Bochner and Laura Devon. Taking him into their lives to educate and raise him, the four find suddenly that the boy, in his innocence (and by virtue of it), brings out the hideousness in each of them, the arrogance, the self-hate, the loss of faith and the desire to possess and consume. To save themselves, they conspire to promote his suicide.

Boone himself played a small but consequential role, and a tricky one since technically he was the character with whom the audience had to identify. In the end, the lesson of the play was his to learn for he, like each of us, had destroyed the innocence of his own life and knew that he would appear grotesque to the young boy he once was. This was satisfying drama on both the thematic and plot levels, and television has had all too few such that are provocative and leave a lasting aftertaste. Les.

TV Blockbusters

Continued from page 31

maintaining an orderly release schedule. Same pattern of small groups of pix will be retained by Metro TV, Warner Bros. TV, United Television, et al.

MCA TV, incidentally, might be back in the features-to-tv biz in the not too distant future with fresh product. Under MCA TV's consent decree, brought on by its acquisition of Universal, MCA TV at an upset price had to sell U's backlog up to 1956. MCA TV, though, can elect to distribute Universal pix made after 1956. MCA TV, it will be recalled, distributed the Paramount pre-'48 library to tv.

Disposition of the Paramount post-'48 library, the only untapped post-'48 pix of the Hollywood majors, still is a mystery. There have been offers, but to date Paramount has rejected them, leading some in the trade to opinion that Paramount may elect to distribute its own pix via the acquisition of an active pix-to-tv distribution company.

San Antonio — San Antonio mayor Walter W. McAllister now does a daily five-minute program, "The Mayor's Report" on KITE at 6:20 p.m. Monday through Friday and repeated at 6:20 a.m. the following morning. The mayor reports in by telephone on his activities, plans, opinions and other matters for the live broadcast.

STREETS OF BUDAPEST
With Bob Ryan, others Producer: Kenn Barry
Director: Jerry Wesley
Writer: Ryan
30 Mins.: Tues. 7:30 p.m.
MPLS. FEDL. SAVINGS & LOAN
KSTP-TV, Mpls.-St. Paul

From time to time the always on-its-toes NBC affiliated KSTP-TV comes through with its own tip-top live documentaries and on this occasion the subject matter was furnished by the tragic Hungarian revolt of 1956 and its consequences which shook the world. Like its predecessors, the show stacked up as worthy of network consideration, and justified its prime time preemption of the network's "Redeigo.."

There were a number of good reasons for producing "Streets of Budapest" at this particular time. One was that it's the revolt's seventh anniversary. Another was that staffer Bob Ryan, a keen student of foreign affairs, twice in recent years has visited Hungary to learn firsthand details of the country's courageous but losing fight for freedom and the lingering results.

In doing so, Ryan not only accumulated sufficient knowledge of the situation to present a vivid and illuminating account of what had happened and why, he also gathered many feet of exciting action film that had been taken during the revolt and which survivors handed over to him. The films showed among other things, actual battling in the streets and these, in themselves, would have been sufficient to make the show worthwhile.

The stories of three Hungarian escapees, in response to Ryan's questioning, also were calculated to stir interest. Ryan had located these escapees from in the Twin Cities, another 10-strike for the program. The trio faced the narrator-interviewer in a studio that fitted into the scheme of things.

As writer, narrator and interviewer Ryan acquitted himself in his usual fine fashion. His questions brought forth thought-provoking and informative replies from the escapees. He had convincing conclusions why no trust can be placed in Kruschev.

Credit also is deserved by producer Kenn Barry and director Jerry Wasley, old hands at their tasks which they always perform commendably. Rees.

LUNCHEON AT THE ONES
With Alice Weston, Buzz Aston, Win Fanning, Milton Berle, Joey Hetherton, Bill Burckett, Elliott Martin, Mario and his Merrymakers.
Producer: Miss Weston
Director: Mike Andrews
60 Mins.; Mon. - Fri. 1 p.m.
PARTICIPATING
WIIC-TV, Pittsburgh

Pitt's brighest afternoon local show is back with Alice Weston again holding sway over her usual lineup of talented guests. Milton Berle was on the show caught and Miss Weston let him dominate the proceedings and he was in top form as he clowned with everybody and then got serious with singer Bill Burckett on the perils of a show biz career. He handled words with critic Win Fanning over the fate of ABC's "Laughs for Sale" which neither liked. He got in plugs for his present Holiday House appearance and with Fanning discussed his coming stanzas on the Chrysler Theatre and "Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

He even pulled a switch on the star-producer by interviewing her. Fanning had producer Elliott Marin of "Never Too Late" on with him and they discussed the play which Fanning endorsed. Joey Hetherton was on to plug the opening of "Twilight of Honor" at the Fulton. Mario and the Merrymakers did their usual top drawer job in providing the music. Buzz Aston is a perfect foil for Miss Weston and does a fine job in talking with the large studio audience who are watching the show and having their lunch. Lit.

MGM-TV's 'Solo'

MGM-TV is turning out a one-hour suspense drama, "Solo," in a pilot deal with NBC for the 1964-65 season. Robert Vaughn, currently appearing in the web's "Lieutenant" series, stars in "Solo."

Norman Felton will be exec producer of the show which will roll under his Arena Productions banner on the MGM-TV lot Nov. 11. Sam Rolfe wrote the pilot script and Don Medford will direct.

THE WORLD'S GIRLS
Producer-Writer: Arthur Holch
Directors: Holch, Warren Wallace, Nicholas Webster
60 Mins.; Fri. (25), 10 p.m.
PHILCO
ABC-TV (Color; film)
(BBDO)

"There is nothing like a dame" is generally a surefire show biz theorem for squaring the boxoffice or the Nielsens. Joseph E. Levine's Embassy Pictures has been having a windfall with the theatrical release of "Women of the World" and now ABC-TV's special projects division has worked over more or less the same idea in "The World's Girls" as the second in the series of four Philco shows devoted to interesting, if not critical, angles in the news.

And what could be more interesting than girls—all sorts of girls from all kinds of countries and especially beautiful girls at work, at play, in philosophical reflection and in bikinis. This stanza covered the subject in the round with film crews in eight countries contributing clips of white, brown, yellow and black women, some of whom were not only very beautiful, but talkative as well.

This documentary tried to formulate a point of view to tie all this picturesque material into some justifiable kind of package. The underlying idea seemed to be that modern women is caught in the dilemma of trying to remain feminine and maternal while struggling for self-realization in a world made by men. Fortunately, this theme was not pursued in a dogmatic straight line, but rather with numerous appealing divertissements of shapely girls who didn't seem to care much about the more cosmic problems.

There was one standout sequence showing the Playboy bunnies getting a pep talk from a bunny "mother." It was a brilliantly preposterous speech handled in deadpan style, which characterized this script generally. The most memorable comment was made by French actress Simone Signoret after listening to a nerve-grinding harangue by a contemporary American feminist: "Whew, that is too intelligent for me." But, as a rule, intelligence was only skin deep on this show while the beauty was profound. Herm.

QUEST
With Dave Broadfoot
Producer-Director: Daryl Duke
Writers: Broadfoot, Eric Nicol, others
30 Mins., Tues. 10:30 p.m.
CBC, from Toronto

Taped during two regular shows at Howie Bateman's Inquisition coffee house in Vancouver, this seg of CBC's weekly "Quest" was wholly devoted to native son Dave Broadfoot, the most consistently sharp Canadian comic, who comes over very well on tv. He was only kidding when he intro'd: "This is a special occasion—the 10th anniversary of my material" because he keeps it fresh and topical.

Ribbing of his fellow Canadians drew the biggest laughs, but he also went over with lines like "Some Americans are urging President Kennedy to invade Cuba again—but only in the interest of freedom, democracy and the United Fruit Co."

He did a brilliant impression of a hyperthyroid sports announcer and a dimwitted monosyllabic hockey player—who, it turned out, was deserting the game to run for Parliament. (A w.k. icer, Red Kelly, actually won a seat in the last election.)

It was generally sharp show, well-produced and with a comic who should be able to make it anywhere—as he's already done at a couple of clubs in London. Gard.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS IN CRISIS
(Special Report)
With Frank Reynolds, Hugh Hill, reporters; Supt. Benjamin Willis, others
Exec Producer: Con O'Dea
Producers: Reynolds, Hill
Director: Richy Victor
30 Mins., Tues. 10:30 p.m.
ALPO DOG FOOD
WBKB, Chicago (tape, film)

Where the trade is concerned, WBKB's news special last Tuesday (22) was less interesting for its content than for what it foretold of the station's chances in a three-way battle for news supremacy in Chicago. Frank Reynolds and Hugh Hill, a pair of thoroughly professional video journalists who had made names for themselves at WBBM-TV, have switched to WBKB

(Continued on page 42)

TWENTIETH CENTURY
(Keep It Cool)
With Walter Cronkite
Exec Producer: Burton Benjamin
Producer: Isaac Kleinerman
Director: Robert Sharpe
Writer: Jules Koslow
30 Mins., Sun., 6 p.m.
PRUDENTIAL
CBS-TV (Film)
(Reach, McClinton)

In the most affluent society in the world, the United States still has to master the blight of poverty, ignorance, prejudice and violence in its midst. In a technically proficient age, the "Twentieth Century" opened its seventh season with an episode, in which the drama of Chicago's violent streets was lost by the unintelligibility of sight and sound.

Title of Sunday's (27) CBS-TV episode was "Keep It Cool," the phrase used by Chicago YMCA field workers to describe the peace that they attempt to keep in violent, depressed areas. The half-hour opened with a meeting of the field workers as they discussed ways to meet varied problems. That, for the most part, was intelligible.

When the cameras went into the streets, though, the sights and sounds of the drama were delivered in a hit and miss way—the misses due to technical deficiencies. There was drama in the situation, dealing with a shooting, the play for revenge, and the final acceptance of the guilty boy that the only way out was to stop running and give himself up to the law. The stentorian voice of Walter Cronkite climaxed the episode with the narration that now that the boy has given himself up he will be rehabilitated, apparantly in a state institution.

Cronkite's epilogue may have supplied a happy ending to a technically uneven drama, but is that pat rehabilation bit wishful thinking, or is it true? How many kids trapped in a similar web, come out as they were, worse, or better after a rehabilitation stretch in an institution?

The program did document the courageout efforts of the social workers, in trying conditions. That their worthwhile efforts hardly match the extent and depth of the problem can be deduced from scanning the daily newspapers, or visits to blighted areas. Horo.

APRIL IN PARIS BALL
With Lisa Kirk, Jean Pierre Aumont, Lisa Minnelli, Peter Duchin, Frank Sinatra Jr., Maurice Chevalier
Producer: Al Wallace
Director: Dick Schneider
Writer: Hal Hackaday
60 Mins., Sun. 10 p.m.
BRISTOL-MYERS
NBC-TV, from N.Y. (Tape)
(Foote, Cone & Belding)

According to the newspaper reports on Saturday (26), the "April In Paris Ball" held at New York's Americana Hotel the previous night was a huge success, but the hour excerpt of the bash shown on NBC-TV Sunday (27) courtesy of Clairol gave no such indication. In fact, it came off as a dud and belied the frivolity that usually goes with a party that swills 250 magnums of champagne, 3,000 bottles of wine, 100 bottles of scotch and 50 bottles of rye.

The show took the wrong road in its attempt to bring high society's most elegant affair to the video peasants. Instead of concentrating on the celebs in party action, it turned out nothing more that a road company "Ed Sullivan Show" via an assortment of variety turns. There were some shots, of course, of the society shenanigans via the Twist and a fashion show, but none of the elegance of a ball that reportedly netted $250,000 for French-American charities came across. It was an hour's hodge-podge that did no one any good.

Lisa Kirk and Jean Pierre Aumont were hosts for the show and only their professional savvy helped get them through the awkward patter moments. Miss Kirk came through best when she stopped speaking of the affair's elegance and started singing. Aumont was okay, too, with a pleasant song turn dedicated to "La Femme." Also pleasing in familiar vaudeo turns were Frank Sinatra Jr., Peter Duchin and Liza Minnelli. Latter also appeared in a filmed in Paris sequence with Maurice Chevalier who did his usual charming treatment of "Thank Heaven For Little Girls."

There were reportedly 1,350 guests at the ball and the tv people needn't have been invited. Gros.

Foreign TV Reviews

RITORNA IL TENENTE SHERIDAN
(Lt. Sheridan Returns)
With Ubaldo Ley, Carlo Alighiero, Walter Maestosi, Gabriella Andreini, Mario Lombardini, Renato Lupi, Carlo Lombardi, Marcello Benini, Ferruccio de Cercea, Maria Pia Luzi, Giovanni Dietajuto, Franco Lumachi, Enrico Lumarcschi, Sabrina Loy, Mario Luciani, Daniele Tedeschi, Turi Ferro, Mario Ciechio, Luciano, Pigozzi, Jolanda Verdirosi, Flora Lillo.
Director: Mario Landi
Writers: M. Casacci, A. Cambricco, G. A. Rossi
65 Mins., Sun., 9:05 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Rome (tape)

Lt. Sheridan, popular fictional figure in a mystery series of some years ago, is back in a different format, but with the same lead, Ubaldo Lay, who made the previous series. Parlay should pay off with healthy weekend ratings for RAI-TV, if the quality of the first item holds throughout the skein.

Elaborately produced item, with a large cast of performers, had proper suspense and pace for a good listener response in telling its intricate tale. Sets (series is set in the U.S., as local taboos include tv exposure of crime and police operations in Italy) were apt, and acting generally was excellent in keeping with material and desired effects. Hawk.

DIXON OF DOCK GREEN
With Jack Warner, Richard Carpenter, John Rolfe, Jane Hylton, Barry Keegan, Natalie Kent, Arthur Rigby, John Hughes, Paul Elliott, Anne Ridler, Jan Miller, Anne Marnell, Peter Byrne, Jeanette Hutchinson, Geoffrey Adams, Maitland Moss
Producer: Ronald Marsh
Writer: Eric Paice
45 Mins., Sat., 6:35 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

As cozy and high-minded as ever, this skein has come back for its ninth year, and the initialler was a suitably moral tale. Jack Warner ambled typically through it as the kindly cop on the beat, and other regulars were unchanged.

Plot concerned Betty Harris (Jane Hylton) and her husband Fred (Barry Keegan) who got involved in a fight with a door-to-door salesman, trying to trick them into buying encyclopaedias. Betty had taken on too many hire-purchase commitments, without Fred knowing. The situation was resolved, with familiar sentiment, by Fred being persuaded to increase his wife's housekeeping allowance, and the brash salesman being scared off prosecuting him for assault.

Placid glimpses of station life and Dixon eating his supper punctuated the development as usual, and the segment had all the ingredients from Eric Paice's script that have made it an addiction rather than an inspiration. Bright cameos came from guest thesps, Jane Hylton, Richard Carpenter, and the forceful Barry Keegan, and Ronald Marsh's production was homey. Otta.

YES, BUT SERIOUSLY . . .
With Tony Tanner, Barbara Young, Rex Robinson
Producer: Lennie Mayne
Writer: Ken Hoare
30 Mins., Wed., 6:35 p.m.
BBC-TV, from London

Nimble and flippant, this offbeat situation-comedy show made a welcome entertainment, but its air of sophisticated comment cried out for a late-evening slot rather than the bleak time it was allotted. Tony Tanner, the deft clown who replaced Anthony Newley in the London legit run of "Stop the World," and Barbara Young were a couple of movie scripters, dreaming up a vehicle for stars called Linda Id and Jack Ego.

This peg was used to parody an assortment of Hollywood conventions, from boy-meets-girl to

(Continued on page 40)

SUNDAY
With Frank Blair, host; Ray Scherer, Richard Schickel, Nancy Dickerson, Aline Saarinen, William K. Zinsser, Edwin Newman, Martin Bookspan, others
Producer: Craig Fisher
Associate Producers: John Lord, Bob Asman
60 Mins., Sun. 4 p.m.
PARTICIPATING
NBC-TV, from N. Y. and Washington

This new hour Sabbath afternoon program on NBC-TV is hardly going to replace the Sunday newspaper. Most likely it was never intended to. But within the framework in which it is set up and executed, this NBC News feature page look-see at what's happening in the world today, and specifically what's been happening in the past week, could have been a far more diverting program had it shown a little more imagination. In trying to be all things to all people, there was a resultant superficiality. (At least with a Sunday paper you can discard the sections that don't interest you. With tv, you just lose your audience).

Probably inspired by the network's "Sunday Times of the Air" full-hour showcase during the protracted N. Y. newspaper strike of some months back, this "Sunday" display (in essence it's a weekend variation of the longrunning "Today" show without striving for innovations or new creative thrusts), provides pictorial documentation and backgrounding in an effort to compensate for the fact that it lacks the authoritative scripting or verbalizing of the Jimmy Restons, et al, that distinguished the earlier Times collaboration.

"Sunday" has Frank Blair as host and he handled the assignment with his customary skill. It covered practically all aspects of a metropolitan Sunday paper, and even ventured into a nervous alluding to the upcoming Nielsens (we won't be in this one"). There was a once-over-lightly on the hot news; Ray Scherer and camera following the activities of Sen. Barry Goldwater; there was Nancy Dickerson's report on the drinking habits of the nation's capital; Aline Saarinen's guided tour of the Frank Lloyd Wright house outside Pittsburgh; there was an excellent exposition of the new movie smash "Tom Jones" by Bill Zinsser; an interview with Yogi Berra and a Martin Bookspan review of Benjamin Britten's symphonic "War Requiem." And a lot more.

But it proved a pallid and conventional filler when, as in the case of last Sunday's premiere, it was stacked up against such real life drama as that emenating from the Cleveland Muoicipal Stadium in the Giants-Browns pro grid fray. NBC and its affilates would have given their eye teeth (and thrown in a dozen "Sundays") for that one. Rose.

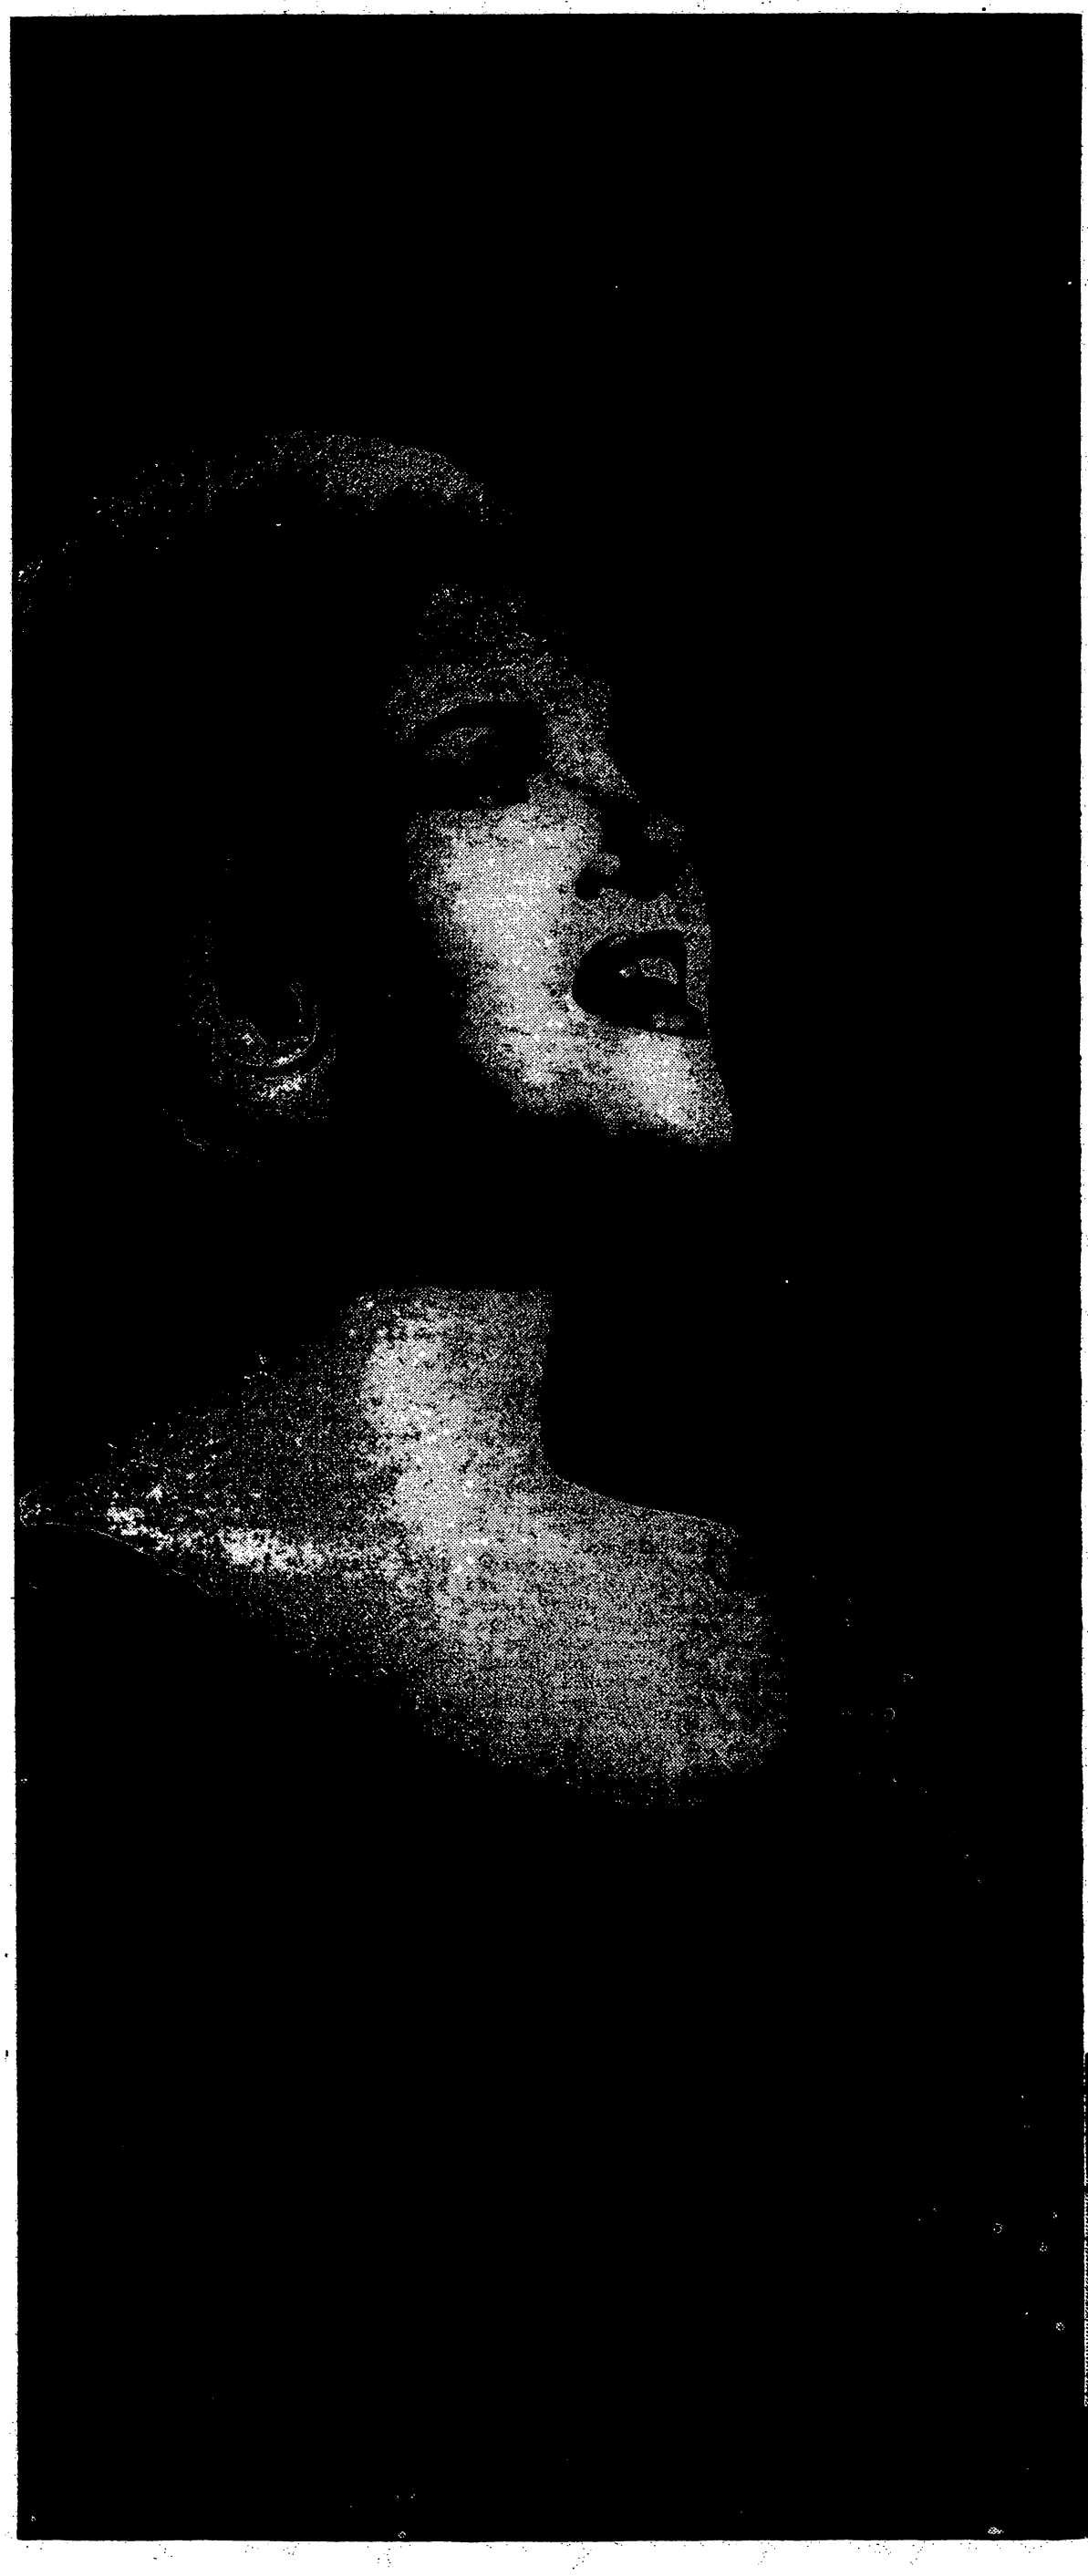
LET'S SING OUT
With Oscar Brand(host), The Tarriers, Gale Garnett, David Campbell
Producer: Sydney Banks
Director: George Dick
30 Mins., Fri., 9:30 p.m.
PROCTER & GAMBLE CO. OF CANADA
CTV, from Toronto (tape)
(Benton & Bowles)

Procter & Gamble (Canada) has hypoed folk singing addicts by sponsoring 39 weeks on the indie trans-Canada web of the "Let's Sing Out" series. Teeoff saw Winnipeg-born Oscar Brand as permanent hosting at cross-country campuses of Canadian universities which will feature leading folk artists and student audience participation. Preem had The Tarriers, Gale Garnett and David Campbell, Toronto singer-guitarist and an exchange student from British Guiana.

Strangely enough, the U. of Toronto stuffily nixed the preem because of "commercial aspects," but St. Michael's, a Catholic affiliate, voiced no objection to present policy. An obvious carbon of ABC's "Hootenanny" series, Sidney Banks has already taped shows at McGill, Western, Waterloo, Ottawa and the prairie and maritime universities.

All trans-Canada CTV indie stations and affiliates carry the show which is wholly sponsored by Procter & Gamble of Canada. Closeup camera work of the various artists was commendable and P&G messages were unobtrustive.

McStay.



Mr. TV Advert is SOLD to Forem

7 major markets and ju ...representing a total television homes.

SOLD MARKETS

New York	Columbus, O.
Los Angeles	Portland, Ore.
Chicago	Syracuse
Philadelphia	Steubenville
Boston	Toledo
Detroit	San Antonio
San Francisco	San Diego
Cleveland	Davenport
Pittsburgh	Portland, Me.
Washington, D.C.	Rochester, N.Y.
St. Louis	Shreveport
Baltimore	Scranton
Dallas/Ft. Worth	Spokane
Cincinnati	Salinas
Minneapolis	Fresno
Indianapolis	Youngstown
Milwaukee	Ft. Wayne
Kansas City, Mo.	Joplin
Sacramento	Bakersfield
Seattle/Tacoma	Topeka
Buffalo	Chico/Redding
Harrisburg	Springfield, Mo.
Grand Rapids	Albuquerque
Houston	Abilene
Dayton	Eureka

...and more.

THE J cials, lav
comedy,
Lionel Bl

Your s
Jo Staffo
TV netwo

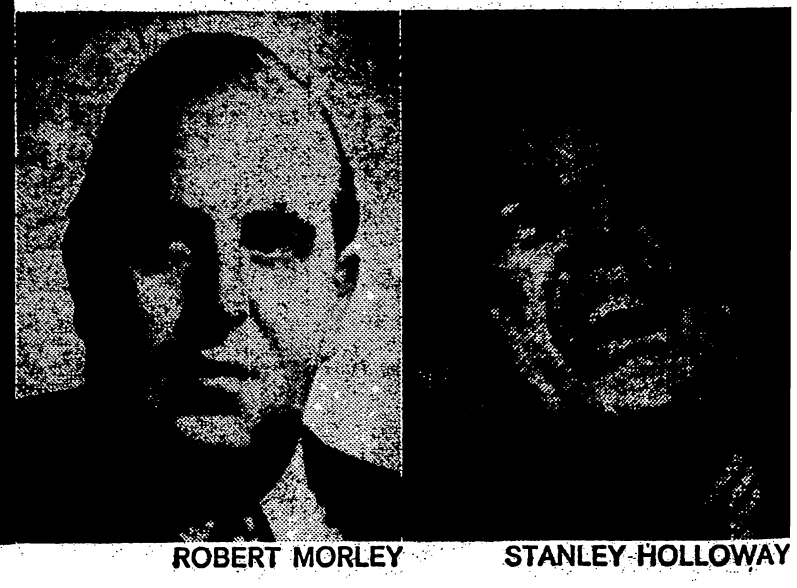
"The lad
her own.

"She is a

"Jo was

"...Miss

ITC



ROBERT MORLEY STANLEY HOLLOWAY

iser..."The Jo Stafford Show" ıost Dairies for 30 major markets, Ohio Bell for st sold to Fels & Company for 24 major markets audience coverage exceeding 93% of all U.S.

O STAFFORD SHOW...eight superb one-hour spe-ishly produced, sparkling with song, dance and Jack Parnell's 50-piece orchestra, the Polka Dots, air Dancers and full chorus of singers.

tar and host, Jo Stafford...her performance in "The rd Show" special for Procter & Gamble on the CBS-ırk won critics' raves like these...

y has style and a way with a song unmistakably
.. looks magnificent."—New York Daily News stylish performer."—Philadelphia Bulletin

a delight."—Cincinnati Enquirer

Stafford's wonderful way with a song."
—Los Angeles Times

Guest starring is this galaxy of brilliant performers, available for the first time on a market-by-market basis...ELLA FITZGERALD ☆ ROSEMARY CLOONEY ☆ PETER LAWFORD ☆ PETER SELLERS ☆ MEL TORME ☆ ROBERT MORLEY ☆ ROY CASTLE ☆ STANLEY HOLLOWAY ☆ CLAIRE BLOOM ☆ EDD "KOOKIE" BYRNES ☆ KENNETH MORE and others ...and as extra-special attractions, Miss Stafford presents such television "firsts" as WESTMINSTER CHOIR performing in historic Westminster Abbey, LONDON PALLADIUM, entertainment showplace of the world, and more.

ELLA FITZGERALD

ROSEMARY CLOONEY

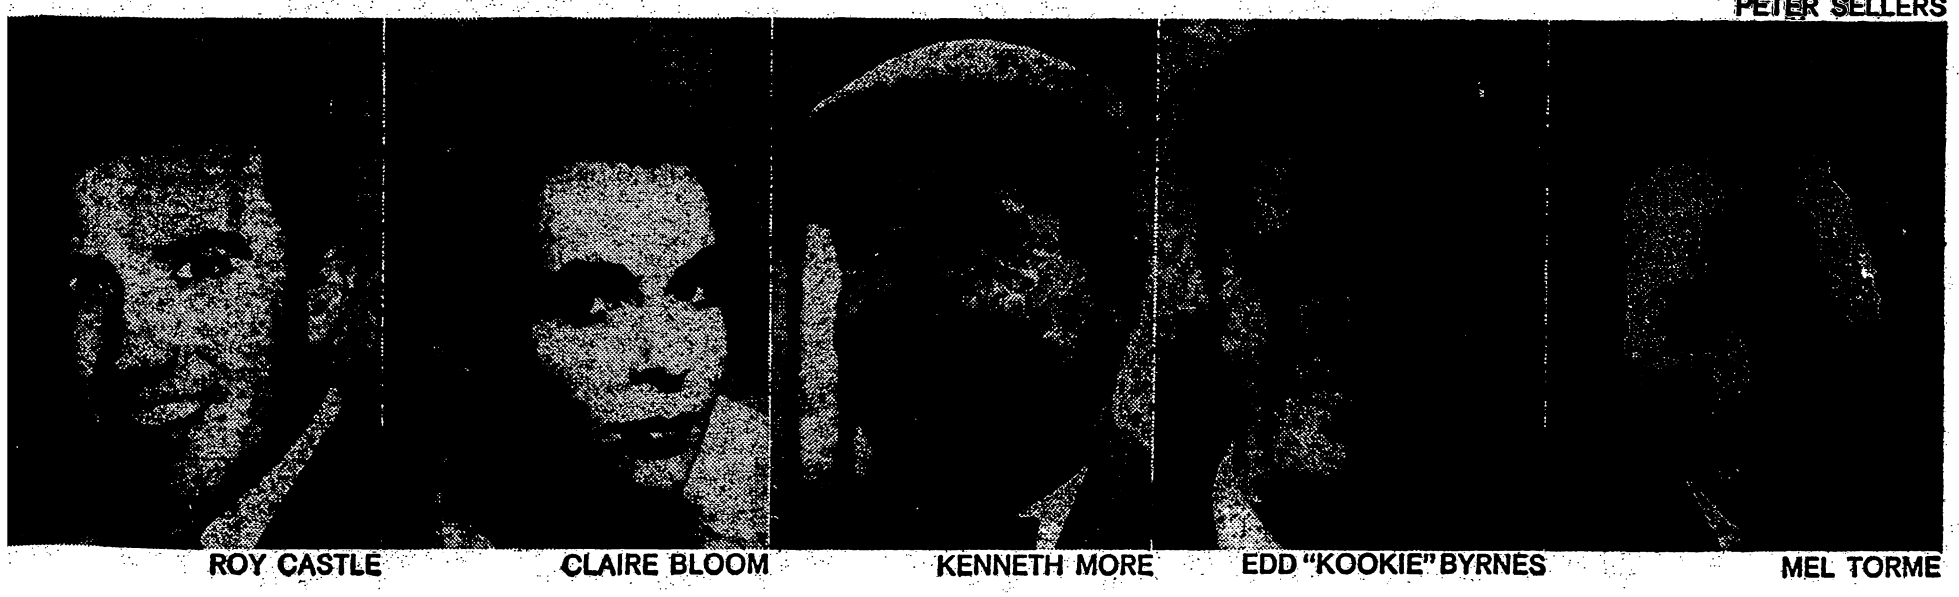
PETER LAWFORD

PETER SELLERS

INDEPENDENT TELEVISION CORPORATION 555 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y., PLaza 5-2100

17 Gt. Cumberland Place, London W1, England, Ambassador 8040 • 100 University Ave., Toronto 1, Ontario, EMpire 2-1166

Mexico City • Paris • Rome • Buenos Aires • Sydney • and offices in principal cities in 45 countries around the world.



ROY CASTLE

CLAIRE BLOOM

KENNETH MORE

EDD "KOOKIE" BYRNES

MEL TORME

From The Production Centres

Continued from page 26

tary "Friday's Children" won a New York Film Festival award in the public service tv program category . . . Sig Sakowicz named "Man of the Year" by the Combined Veterans Assn. of Illinois.

IN LONDON . . .

Stockholders of the Welsh indie station WWN, which fell out of the production race earlier this year to become just a relay station for networked programs, have accepted the takeover offer by TWW . . . Roy Thomson has publicly indicated that his Scottish Television company will be reapplying for a further tv franchise . . . Associated Television board member Lord Bemberough told the annual general meeting of the Institute for Educational Television that notwithstanding the increasing number of etv programs on both webs here, the U.K. was lagging behind the U.S. and Japan on the teachvee front . . . STV appointed its first femme director—June Howson, at present with Anglia-TV . . . Dennis Wahren, assistant to Dr. John Grierson on the "Wonderful World" series, planes to Australia to take up independent film making . . . Jean Hart, freely tipped as replacement to Milly Martin, femmestar of BBC's "TWTWTW" who leaves cast at the end of the year . . . As late p.m. followup to its popular "Scene at 6:30," Granada-TV has skedded "Late Scene" for 11:25 p.m.

IN WASHINGTON . . .

Mitch Miller visited last week and was honor guest at a party of Hank Fort, songwriter. Among those there were fellow Tennesseans FCC Chairman and Mrs. E. William Henry . . . Fred Knight joins WMAL-AM-FM-TV as staff performer. He has been with WAVY in Norfolk . . . George Cheely of CBS Washington News signs on as news director of ABC affil WXYZ, Detroit . . . Metromedia pubaffairs v.p. Mark Evans awarded Certificate of Merit and life membership in the Defense Supply Association, the food supplier for the armed forces. Evans was also appointed General Chairman of next year's Cherry Blossom Festival here . . . Reps. Robert Barry (R-N. Y.) and Lionel Van Deerlin (D-Calif.) acted as guest moderators on WWDC's "Steve Allison Show" while Allison was in Gotham for an AGVA Board meeting . . . WRC-TV to air half-hour special Friday (1) on Washington (D.C.) International horse race . . . WTTG-TV studied local traffic problems Sunday (27) on its "Community Dialogue" show titled "Our Not So Rapid Transit."

IN BOSTON . . .

Virginia Graham in for "talk talk" contest at WNAC-TV with Phyl Doherty, press chief, arranging . . . WNAC-TV previewing "Yanks Are Coming," first of series of six major Dave Wolper tv specials, for Hub film crix Tuesday (5). Air date is Sat. (9) from 8:30-9:30 . . . WNAC has its City Hall reporter Al Benjamin, news chief Bill Whalen, BU govt. prof. George Blackwood and politico analyst Lester Allen covering mayoralty, school committee and city council elections Tuesday (5) from 6:15 p.m. on . . . Stan Kaplan from St. Louis new arrival at WMEX . . . Final papers have not gone through yet for sale of WILD and Nelson Noble is still operating the station . . . Paul Benzaquin, WEEI's "Listen" host nabbed special award from BU school of pub. rel. and communications at annual homecoming meet . . . Louise Morgan, WNAC's "Louise Morgan and Gus Saunders Show," elected new regional director Fashion Group of Boston . . . WBZ radio getting lots of fan mail on their new programming concept for nighttime radio. "Bob Kennedy/CONTACT." One of technicques developed by WBZ tech boys for show is custom built listener telephone switchboard which not only allows audience to participate personally, but also guests by long distance telephone . . . Barry Beals, WHNB-TV vet tv and radio newscaster, elected chairman Connecticut State Safety Commission.

IN PITTSBURGH . . .

Bob Prince, voice of the Pirates who now has a sports seg on KDKA-TV's "Saturday Report" took on the Pittsburgh Press again when he rapped the paper's sport writer, Pat Livingston, for accusing the Steelers of "choking up" against the St. Louis Cardinals. Prince didn't leave it there but took out after the paper generally and said that he was going to rap the paper when they needed it and said that KDKA-TV was just as big and powerful as the Press. Still in the can is a Prince tape which raps ballplayers for being "ungrateful" and "cheap." Station heads are debating whether or not to put the tape on the air . . . Tony Cortese, who was assistant executive director at the Civic Arena, has become Director of Community Affairs at KQV . . . "Focal Point" will continue its yearlong exploration of the unemployment dilemma with "Space Age Success Formula" on Thurs. (31) from 8 to 9 p.m. on KDKA-TV. Sheldon Weaver, operations manager of WIIC, back to work after a two-week Florida vacation.

IN ST. LOUIS . . .

Actress Maureen Arthur subbing as hostess of KSD-TV's "Charlotte Peters Show" this week while latter junkets to Hollywood for the premiere of "It's a Mad, Mad, etc. World." Maureen is in town starring in the American Theatre production of "How to Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" . . . Lois Wilmig will return on Nov. 4 as the "Miss Jean" of KTVI-TV's "Romper Room." She left the show in June to await the stork and was replaced by Joan Grimm in the interim . . . WIL radio has slotted a new deejay, Al Adams, in the late late evening period formerly occupied by Gary Stevens . . . KCFM radio will be the St. Louis outlet for QXR Network series, the "Casper Citron Program" and the "G. E. Stereo Drama" . . . KMOX radio will broadcast Sunday night concerts of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra season, marking the first time in history that concerts here will be aired on a regular basis . . . KSD-TV has booked a David L. Wolper-produced documentary on World War I, "The Yanks Are Coming," for a prime slot on Sunday, Nov. 10.

IN DETROIT . . .

Leonard Kaale, prexy of Detroit Board of Education, and Thomas Poindexter, spokesman for the Great Detroit Homeowners Council, are bitter foes over school taxation issues and they will be pitted against each other in debate on WWJ-TV's "Town Meeting" feature this week . . . Roni Gamble, WWJ-TV's host on "Weekend" has been elected prexy of the East Michigan Tourist Assn. . . . Bob Layne has joined disk jockey crew at WJBK . . . Ed McKenzie will trace his family tree with the help of a member of the Detroit Genealogical Society on his "After Hours" WXYZ-TV show and will discuss the reasons that motivate people to look into their family history . . . George Pierrot's "World Adventure Series" will feature a color tour of Europe on WXYZ-TV this week . . . WWJ-TV's "Opinion" program with newsman Ven Marshall at the helm moves to a Wednesday evening slot to provide WWJ-TV with cross-the-board locally-produced evening programs.

IN MINNEAPOLIS . . .

KSTP-TV preempted NBC's "Redigo" last stanza to carry half-hour documentary, "Streets of Budapest," commemorating seventh anni of the Hungarian uprising. Newscaster Bob Ryan narrated the special . . . WCCO Radio sent staffers Dick Chapman, Gary Bennyhoff and Jergen Nash to Marshall, Minn., 160 miles southwest of Minneapolis, last frame to broadcast live remotes during the opening of the state's pheasant hunting season. Extensive weekend coverage of the event included an interview with Dr. William Schofield, Minneapolis psychologist, on "why men go hunting" . . . CBS Washington correspondent Paul Niven, slated to be the United Nations Day convocation speaker at the Univ. of Minnesota last week, was forced to cancel out at last minute when the network sent him to Algeria. Niven was to have filled in for Alistair Cooke who was called to a special White House confab . . . CBS affiliate WCCO-TV taped "Route 66" seg, part of which was filmed last summer at the Sheraton-Ritz Hotel here, for later showing to the hotel's staff. Employes of the hostelry appeared in the show but were working when the web beamed it two weeks ago . . . 20th-Fox's KMSP-TV assisting Red Cross and Minneapolis and St. Paul fire departments by carrying fire prevention tips on smallfry shows

IN CINCINNATI . . .

Crosley Broadcasting president John T. Murphy elected to Ohio Chamber of Commerce board of directors for three-year term . . . Jimmy McClain, the original "Dr. I. Q.," bowed on WZIP with a weekday 90-minute audience participation morning show and guest stars in Hotel Vernon Manor's Garden Room . . . Folk singing team of Bud & Travis started name talent addition to WKRC-TV "Hootinnati" Friday night show's parade of guests . . . Hospital associations of Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky commended Ruth Lyons, WLW radio-tv luminary, for leadership of her 23-year-old Christmas fund for children hospitals . . . Joe Longstreth, who has radio and tv shows on Crosley Cincy and Dayton stations, teamed with John Escosa for recording of Christmas carols performed on two concert grand harps on the Carriage label. Vocals by Harriet L. Wheatley.

IN PHILADELPHIA . . .

Roger W. Clipp, veepee and general manager of Triangle Stations, planed to L.A. (25) to receive the American Heart Assn.'s "Howard E. Blakeslee Award" for "Man Made Heart" program. Film is part of WFIL-TV's "Frontiers of Knowledge" series, and local station is the only broadcasting outlet to be honored in the annual awards . . . "Eugene Ormandy and the Sounds of Genius" with pianist Andre Watts and violinist Young Uck Kim will be rebroadcast on WCAU-TV (Nov. 3). Bankrollers of the original telecast (Sept. 12), Campbells Soup and Fels & Co., will again sponsor program . . . John Facenda and Herb Clarke will be election night anchor men for WCAU-TV. Station's viewers will have opportunity to watch the tv news staff in action as Channel 10's election night headquarters will be located in its newsroom . . . Ralph Collier, radio and tv freelancer, heads the communications course at the Graduate School of Library Science, Drexel Institute . . . Raymond L. Vanderslice, former promotion head of the Storer chain's Detroit station, appointed to the same post at WIBG

IN SEATTLE

Morton Downey Jr., son of the w.k. singer, now handling the 9 to midnight disk jockey stint on KJR . . . Fred Von Hofen, formerly director of Heritage Station reps and before that general manager of KVI, has joined sales staff of KING-TV . . . Bob Schulman, special features director for KING-TV, has done half-hour program on new Seattle Repertory Theatre, set for showing Oct. 27. Show was filmed at the Repertory Theatre and features upcoming plays along with members of staff . . . Hugh Feltis, president of Feltis/Dove/Cannon, Inc., radio-tv station reps, reports that Savalli/Gates, has been appointed national sales rep for the 50 radio station Western States Radio Empire, non-wired Northwest radio network, formed by Feltis . . . KIRO-TV will do program on Repertory Theatre Nov. 6, tabbed "3,000 Miles From Broadway" . . . KING-TV did live broadcast from City Council of hearing on controversial Open Housing Ordinance, third time in past year that station has done hearings from Council chambers.

IN CLEVELAND . . .

Dr. Warren Guthrie, eased out of the WJW-TV 11 p.m. Sohio newscasting after 12 years, starts Mon-thru-Fri. 15-minute 8 a.m. news stint with WHK and then will leave his post of head of speech department of Western Reserve U to become associate public relations director at Sohio . . . Don Young, Bill Hampton, news editors, and Ted Paskert, photographer, axed in Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. economy move . . . Jimmy Dudley recovering from heart attack and skedded to start vacation prior to resuming sports chores for WERE . . . KYW radio general manager Perry Bascom accepting radio-tv award from Ohio State Nurses' Association for Group W's role in hospital immunity legislation fight . . . Pat Murray takes over Channel 3's lead newscasting role at 7 p.m. while Bill Jorgensen gets on-the-scene coverage and the 11 p.m. news slot . . . Traffic Commissioner Sam C. Skerotes assigning helicopter voices for WERE's traffic reporting

Travails of Documentarian Lowe

Continued from page 25

when often, the big hollers split the air.

The hollers about the funeral show still seemed to be reverberating in his head. He said out of left field came the charge that Jessica Mitford, author of "The American Way of Death", was "pro-Communist and anti-American." The charge, he said, first was made by the management of Forest Lawn Memorial Park, and then echoed in the Congressional record by Rep. James B. Utt (Calif. Rep.)

Incepted Last Jan.

"She had four minutes in the program. I started on the idea for the show in January. Miss Mitford's book was published in August. I read the galleys in June and arranged the interview. We would have been remiss in not interviewing the author of what turned out to be a best seller involved in the same issues under exploration. The powers that be felt that Rep. Utt's charges and his refusal to appear on the program should be made part of the documentary. In frustration, initially I wanted to take her off entirely, but that was felt to be more damaging.

"If I was doing a show on Communism, I would investigate the backgrounds of each and every participant. This wasn't a political show. It's a fact that after our program, Miss Mitgang is set for 16 different radio and television appearances, which she couldn't make until the airing of 'CBS Reports,' under our exclusive deal with her." He reflected on the power of a fancy letterhead addressed to the network, on the storm triggered by one Congressman against the handwritten letter of a housewife.

Other reflections also came. "All right, we should prove everything that goes out over the air. What we say is important. I don't like documentaries that just take up air time and have nothing to say. When I take up an hour of a viewer's time, I want to deal with consequential things, in an other than bland fashion."

He paid tribute to the people who participate in his programs. He said that some of the migrants who spoke up in "Harvest of Shame" had been harassed and arrested after the documentary had been telecast. He recalled that when he did the South Africa documentary, upon his return to the States, he cabled some of the participants, asking them whether they fully realize that they may have to pay a price, if they are included in the program. All, Lowe recounted, said that they were willing to pay that price. He felt sorry for some of the funeral directors who might have their lives made unpleasant by the Funeral Directors Assn.

"I come. I do my story and I leave. I feel keenly for those who may have stuck their necks out in my program. They remain. It takes a brave person to stand up to the establishment," Lowe reflected.

Radio Review

SECOND GUESS
With John W. Ray, Cliff Lewis, Ken Hildebrand
Producer: Charles L. Getz, Jr.
15 Mins., Sun. 4:45 p.m.
PLYMOUTH DEALERS OF GREATER CLEVELAND
WEER, Cleveland
(Wendell & Getz)

How to second guess a winner is a most difficult job for even experts who might want to be a post-game quarterback. And then, how does one second guess a team like the Cleveland Browns whose sensational play and overwhelming, if not inspired following, would make any negative-sounding expert a schnook. In this 15-minute sports segment dreamed up by energetic Charles L. Getz, one-time radio-tv public relations director for the Group W outlet in Cleveland, three grid experts analyze and second guess the Browns immediately after the ball game. John Ray, head football coach for the John Carroll U.; Cliff Lewis, former Cleveland Browns star from 1946 to 1951, and Ken Hildebrand, announcer and sportscaster, have formed a stimulating, intelligent and sparkling trio who pull no punches either for the Browns or the opposition. At present, finding fault with the Cleveland team has been almost impossible: the opposition—well, they generally lose.

Generally, the stanza has much merit and sounds like the banter one would hear following any gridiron classic. The critics are expert enough to understand the game; give praise where it is due; find fault where it exists, and they're articulate in their remarks. Not only is the segment well received at home, but judging by the crowds who have had to start-stop out of Cleveland Stadium parking areas, it should provide for an additional 15 minutes of listening "to forget parking problems by."

Mark.

Brit. Sideshow

Continued from page 24

original series which reached a peak audience of 3,862,000 dual channel homes (a 31 rating), the second run of the program is attracting smaller audiences week by week.

TAM, an independent research organisation, reckons that over the first three weeks of the "TWTW-TW" retread audiences have dipped from the "first night" total of 3,573,000 dual channel homes to some 2,831,000 abodes, equipped to pick up both programs.

On the other hand, TAM adds that the ATV satirical entry which is not screened in the major Midland and North areas, nor in Scotland, the North-East, Wales and the West, or Ulster, is building up its following this time round. From its current semester initialer which was peeked in 893,000 homes, the show built to 1,043,000 homes on its second outing and to 1,102,000 homes on Oct. 12.

Working out a national rating for the two shows which hold late-night Saturday berths, TAM estimates that this time round TWTWTW's top national rating is 28 while Braden's is 22.

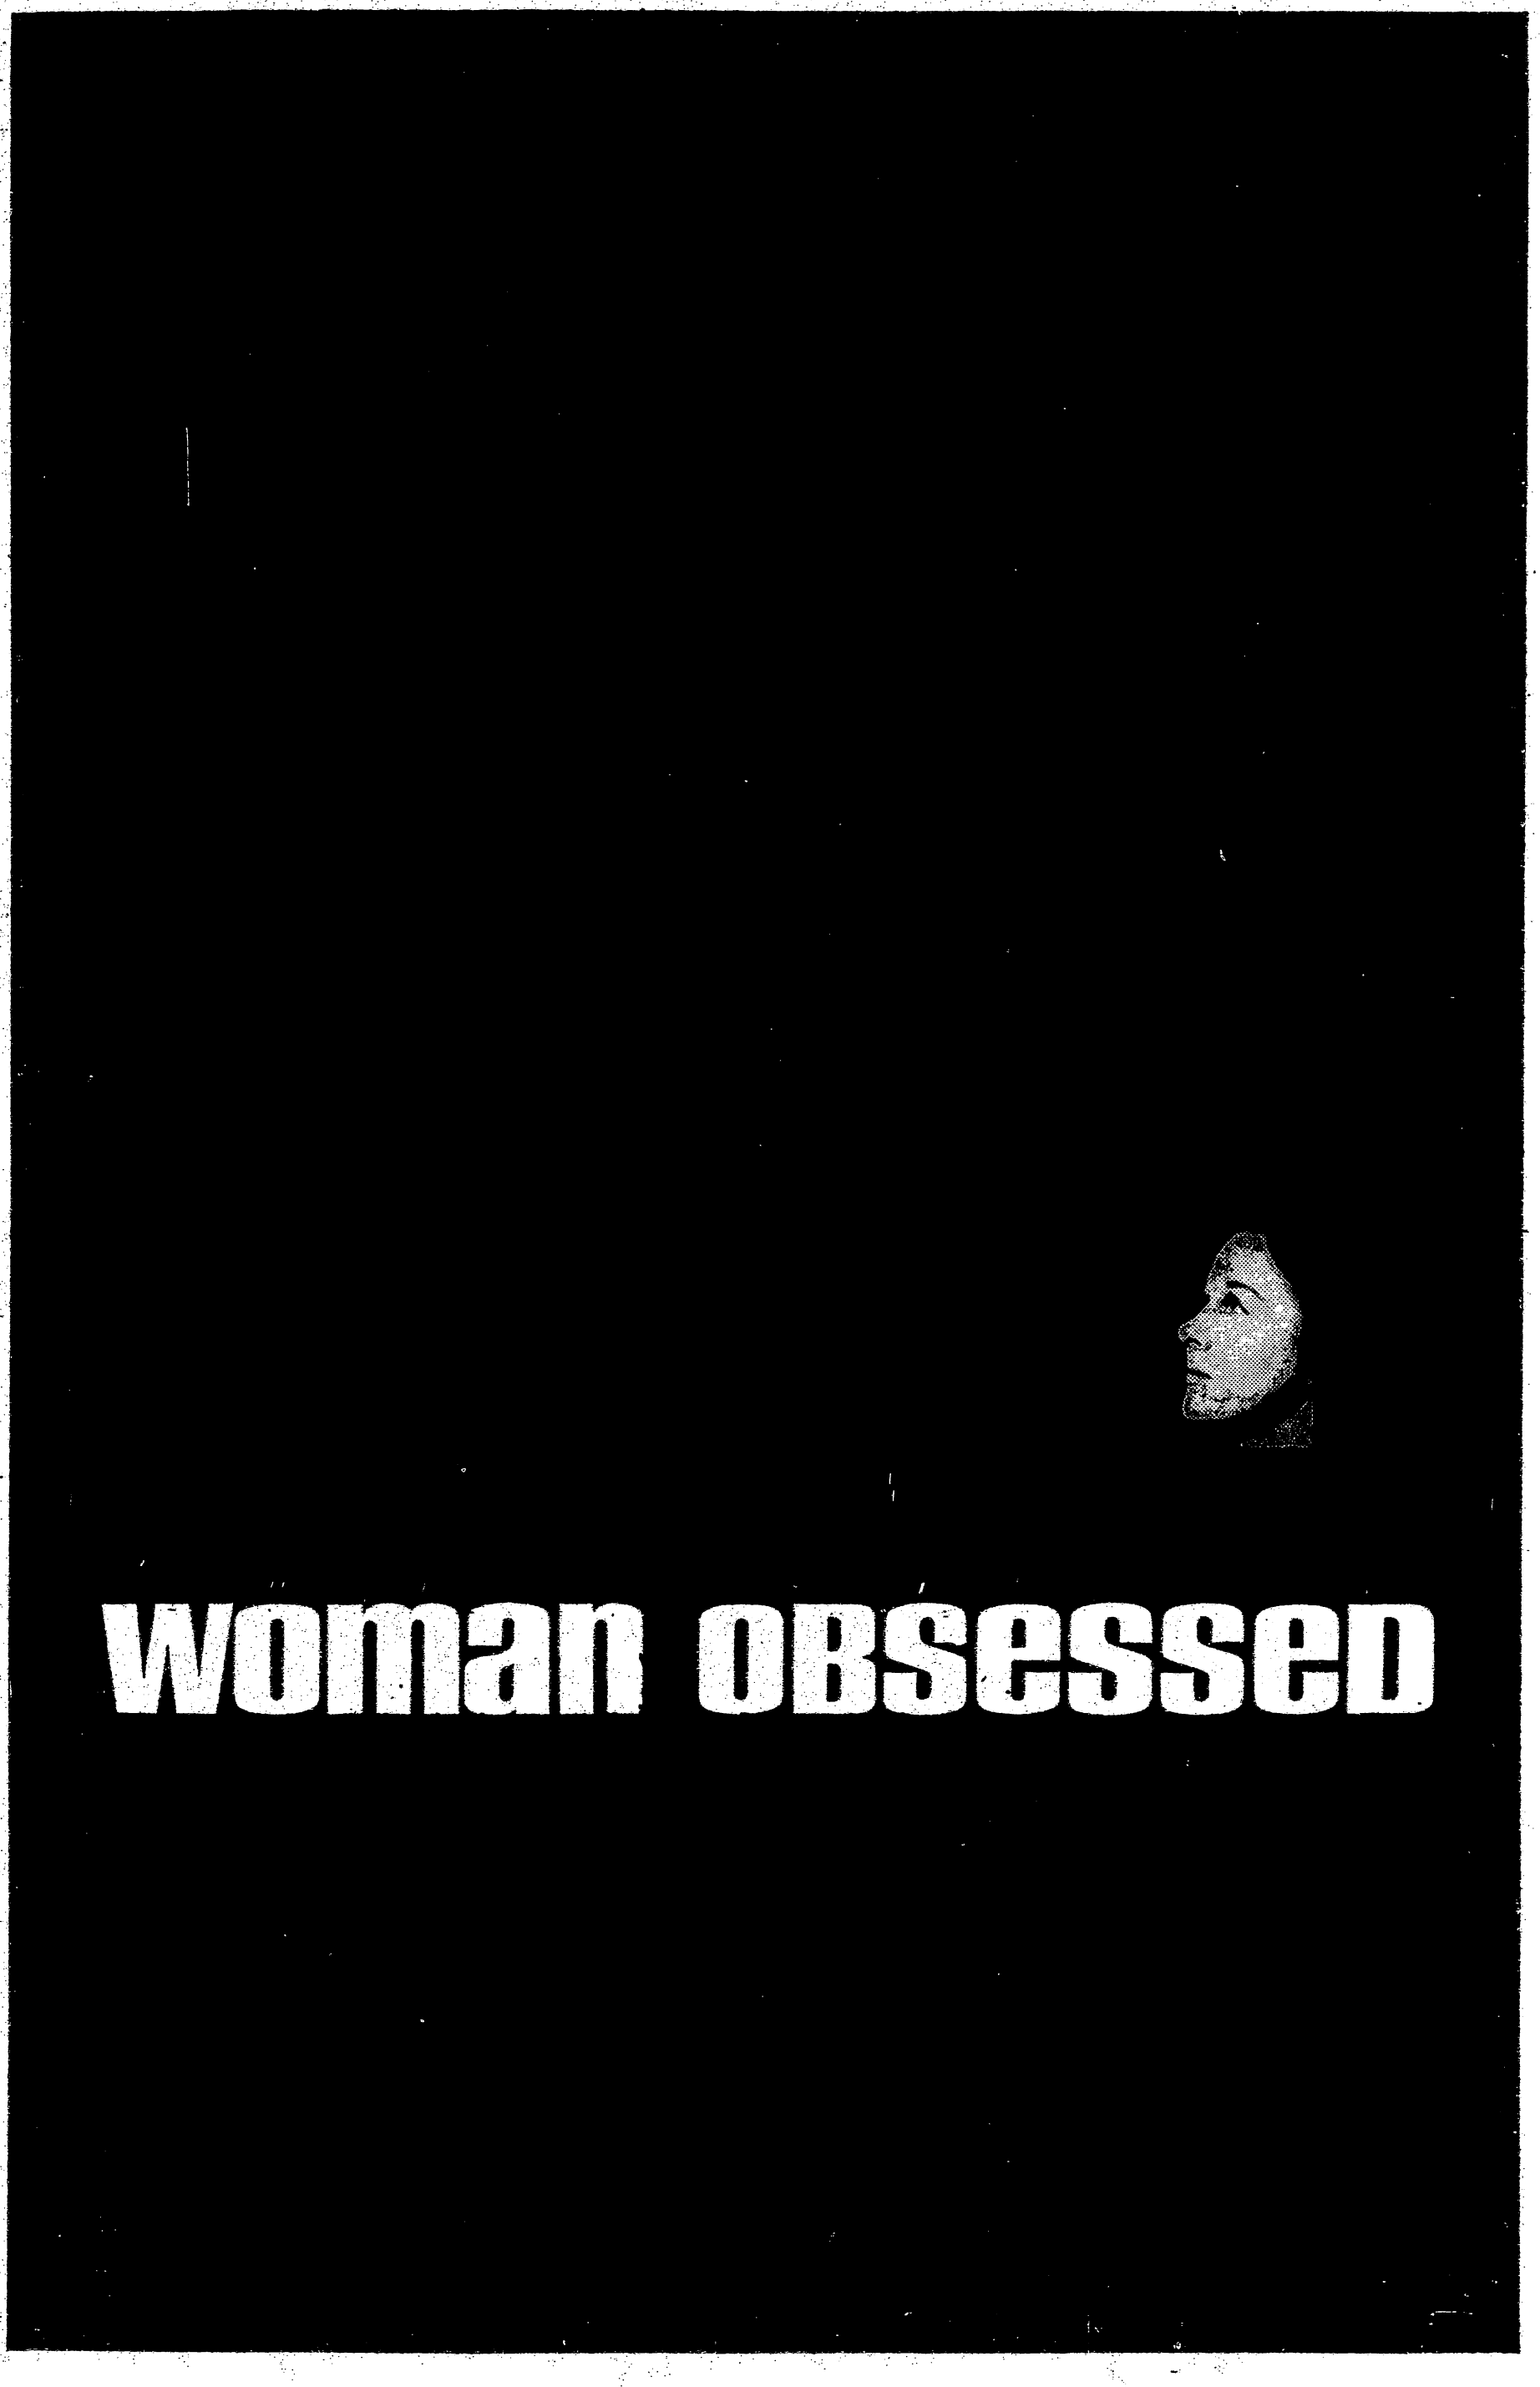
Jimmy Dean

Continued from page 27

show will still have to prove itself to return for the 1964-65 year. Thus far, among the new shows on the ABC-TV schedule, the sure returnees next season as of this week are "The Outer Limits," "Breaking Point," "Greatest Show On Earth," "The Fugitive," "Patty Duke Show," "Burke's Law," "Farmer's Daughter," "Hootenanny" and "Arrest and Trial."

Failure of "Arrest and Trial" to lift ABC's Sunday night standings has not shaken the web's confidence in the show or in its 90-minute format. ABC execs figure that with a better lead-in or a shift to a different night, the impact of "Arrest and Trial" will be considerably stronger than indicated to date.

Detroit—George Cheely has been named tv news director at WXYZ here. For close to 10 years, Cheely has been with CBS News, working mainly out of Washington, D.C.



woman obsessed

Foreign TV Reviews

Continued from page 35

doctor-cures-patient. They weren't equally successful, but Ken Hoare's touch grew more certain as the show progressed. Typical was a takeout of sci-fi situations, with a housewife being driven distraught by a monstrous midget lurking in her cooker. "Dr. Kildare" was also cuttingly deflated, and another click was the stiff-upper-lip school of British movies, shown in a sort of "Brief Encounter" renunciation.

Both Tanner and Miss Young were polished and likable, and Lennie Mayne's production was admirably fluid and pointed. The unseen voice of "Mother," giving typical audience reactions to the different skits, did not quite come off. But the show as a whole was enterprising and amusing, and deserves development. Otta.

GRAN PREMIO
(Grand Prize)
With Amedeo Nazzari, Alberto Bonucci, Bettina, Fred Bongusto, Rossella Como, Antonietta Stein, Elio Pandolfi, others
Directors: Romolo Siena, Piero Turchetti
80 Mins.; Thurs. 9:05 p.m.
RAI-TV, from Rome

Regional rivalries, frequently us[illegible]y RAI-TV on its quizzers, have been dusted off once more for this three-month skein designed to boost sales of Italian National Lottery tickets as well as provide entertainment and award weekly prizes to listeners. It's a functional effort, though a bit overblown and wide-ranging in early stanzas.

Pattern pits two Italo regions against one another with reps sparring for listener votes in various fields such as dance, opera, comedy, etc. Some names (from the region) are used, but the accent is on undiscovered local talent. Emcees (actors Amedeo Nazzari and Alberto Bonucci in the show caught) vary each week, and shows are alternated remote pickups from regions concerned.

Show caught featured some top-notch singing by various members of Sardinian team, especially an unknown, Maria Casula, in a "Barber of Seville" stint. Hawk.

Foreign TV Followup

Tempo

Taking advantage of Oscar Brown, Jr.'s, presence in London, and of the current furore over the campaign for Negro rights in the States, ABC-TV's cultural skein, "Tempo," brought the two together. Brown, who won critical raves for his one-man show locally, linked an acrid songalog with comment about the basis of protest and frustration that inspired his program. Sharp direction by Helen Standage helped the impact, and Brown clicked both as performer and personality, if the two can be disentangled.

Practically all his numbers thus had a second dimension. "Sam's Life" turned into a potent stab at the under-privileged existence of the Negro fraternity, and this was followed by the bitter "Forty Acres and a Cow," which harshly underlined the failure to carry out Lincoln's promise. The African heritage was ebulliently illustrated, and Brown used "Stay Cool" as an example of Negro patience under provocation. He closed with a lively "Brown Baby," and the show managed to mix social comment and entertainment so that they enhanced each other. In both roles, Brown was formidable. Otta.

First Night

David Turner, whose legit "Semi-Detached" has won a Broadway airing, contributed a slight, but rewarding and observant, hour to BBC-TV's "First Night" drama skein. "The Initiation" had something important to say, and said it in a subdued, unflurried tone of voice.

Jim (Derek Carpenter) was joining his father, Charlie (Derek Godfrey), for his first job on a building site. Jim, full of school instruction, was starry-eyed about his skill. But they were both working on shoddy suburban villas, where costs were cut by inferior materials and workmanship. It was Jim's first lesson in the necessity of compromise that provided the theme.

Unwittingly, he disclosed to prospective purchasers that the house wasn't all the salesman cracked it up to be, and they used him as an excuse for not buying it. It was only because Charlie took the blame for his son's loose talk that his job was saved. And Derek Godfrey made a powerful moment of his own angry outburst against the commercial short-cuts that had destroyed his own faith in his work.

Within its limits, it made a fetching and true anecdote. Derek Carpenter scored as the youngster, avoiding priggishness and neatly establishing his eager hopes. Good support came from Edward Evans, Jon Rollason, and Mary Chester, and Alan Bridges directed John Elliott's production with an exact eye for the right detail. Robert Fuest's building-site set also added to the effect by visually supporting the jerry-built descriptions of the script. Otta.

Sunday Night at the Palladium

From time to time Associated TeleVision's top vaudeo showcase "Sunday Night At the London Palladium" sets the screen alight with sizzling acts and artistic derring-do which more than justifies its run-of-the-mill activities throughout the rest of the season.

Such an occasion was the edition of the Palladium show which starred The Beatles, a beat-music product of the Liverpool mold, who currently are top insects in the fermenting Tin Pan Alley jungle and are producing disks of fever-pitch excitement and strong erotic flavor.

From any standpoint, the sheer zest and enthusiasm of the quartet's act—despite their incongruous title, haircuts, dress etc.—caught fire and engulfed the whole show in a spectacular burst of showmanship which had the kidominated audience screaming incessantly.

In the face of such competition as the Beatles, who rendered their hits "From Me To You," "I'll Get You," "She Loves You" and "Twist And Shout" in a surefire tongue-in-cheek, amusing routine, veterans like Bruce Forsyth and Des O'Conner could do little else but submit to the tidal wave of audience opinion and turn the whole Palladium outing into a sort of "Beatles Benefit."

Compare Forsyth, a wily campaigner, who has emceed and held his own with many of the world's top ranking performers in his Palladium stints, wisely played it for the mums and dads and projected himself as much in awe and amazement of the rockers as were the rest of the uninitiated. Des O'Conner, another who normally appeals to the more senior members of the audience, on the other hand gagged rather at a loss and as an anti-climax to this seething, swelling atmosphere generated by the Liverpuldians who took the Palladium by storm and shook the Video show by the lapels.

One sharp and hard lesson the kids got across that might be learned by many so-called "professionals" was that there's no substitute for undiluted showmanship when it comes to generating some healthy b.o. reaction. Watt.

Play of the Week

In a commercial web program shuffle, the indies' Tuesday night dramatic offering shifts to Monday, where it now holds the 9:10-10:30 p.m. berth and directly opposes BBC-TV's big pub-affairs show "Panorama."

Queing in the switch was an Associated TeleVision play (three weekday major commercial stations contribute to this all-network cycle) by Peter Draper called "The Funambulists," and it rates a high spot as topclass video drama.

With John Moxey at the directorial helm, the production unspooled in a style now prevalent in Herb Brodkin's "The Defenders," and utilized tape, cameras and electronic techniques to their utmost advantage. Ingenously projected flashbacks and cross-cutting made the "grasshopper" tendencies of the drama not only easy to follow, but positively exciting. And if the direction was inspired and inventive in these respects the script, too, was of the highest order with superbly drawn, sympathetic, wholly credible characters. The simple but intensely interesting dialog enhanced a well rounded moving yarn.

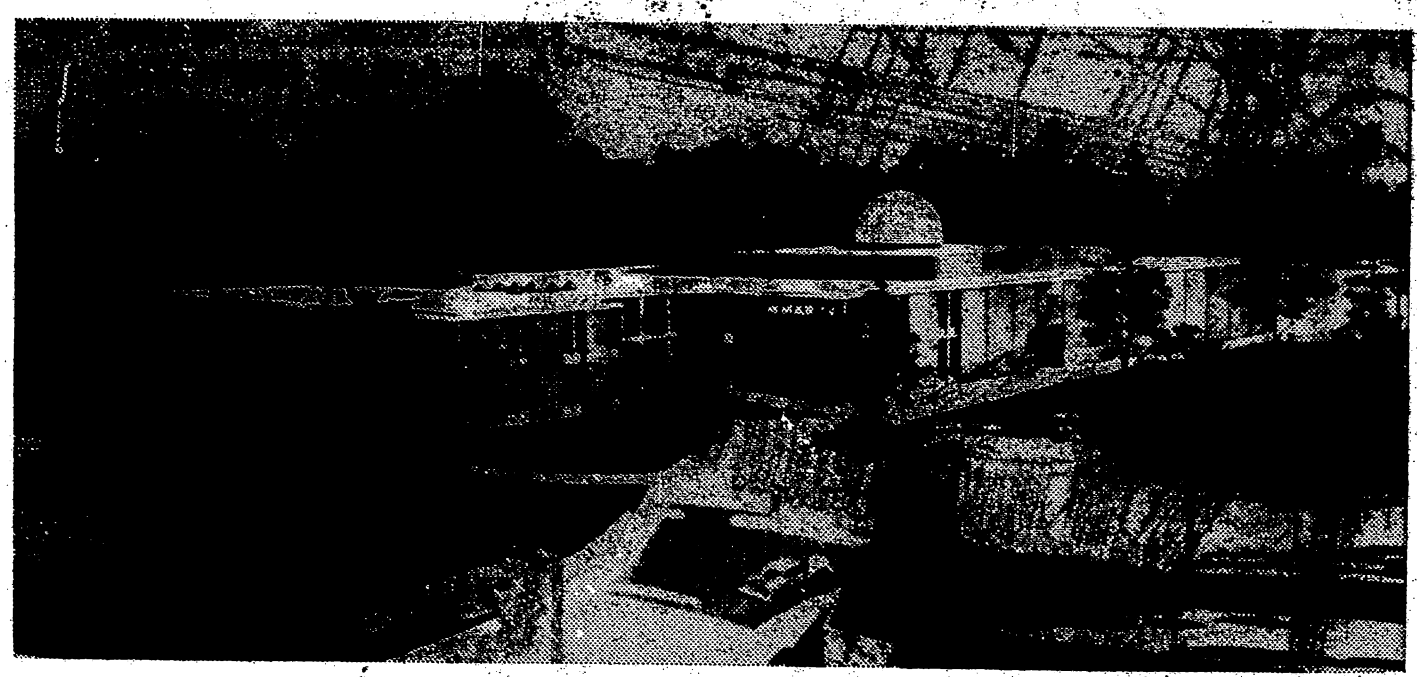
Sophisticated tale dealt with a husband and wife who played around with moral attitudes and the surprise was who got hurt when the husband put a private eye on his wife's tail because he suspected she was tangling with a family friend.

Standout performances came from Judi Dench as the wife, Francis Matthews as the husband and Joseph Furst as the family psychiatrist Watt.

A 16-YEAR PIONEER
LOOKS TO NEW HORIZONS

The FIRST television station on the air in Baltimore—and Maryland—and the second in the nation to join the CBS Television Network...starts its 17th year...with enlarged production facilities for advertisers...new programming concepts...expanded public service to the city and state...in its recently completed station, one of America's finest.

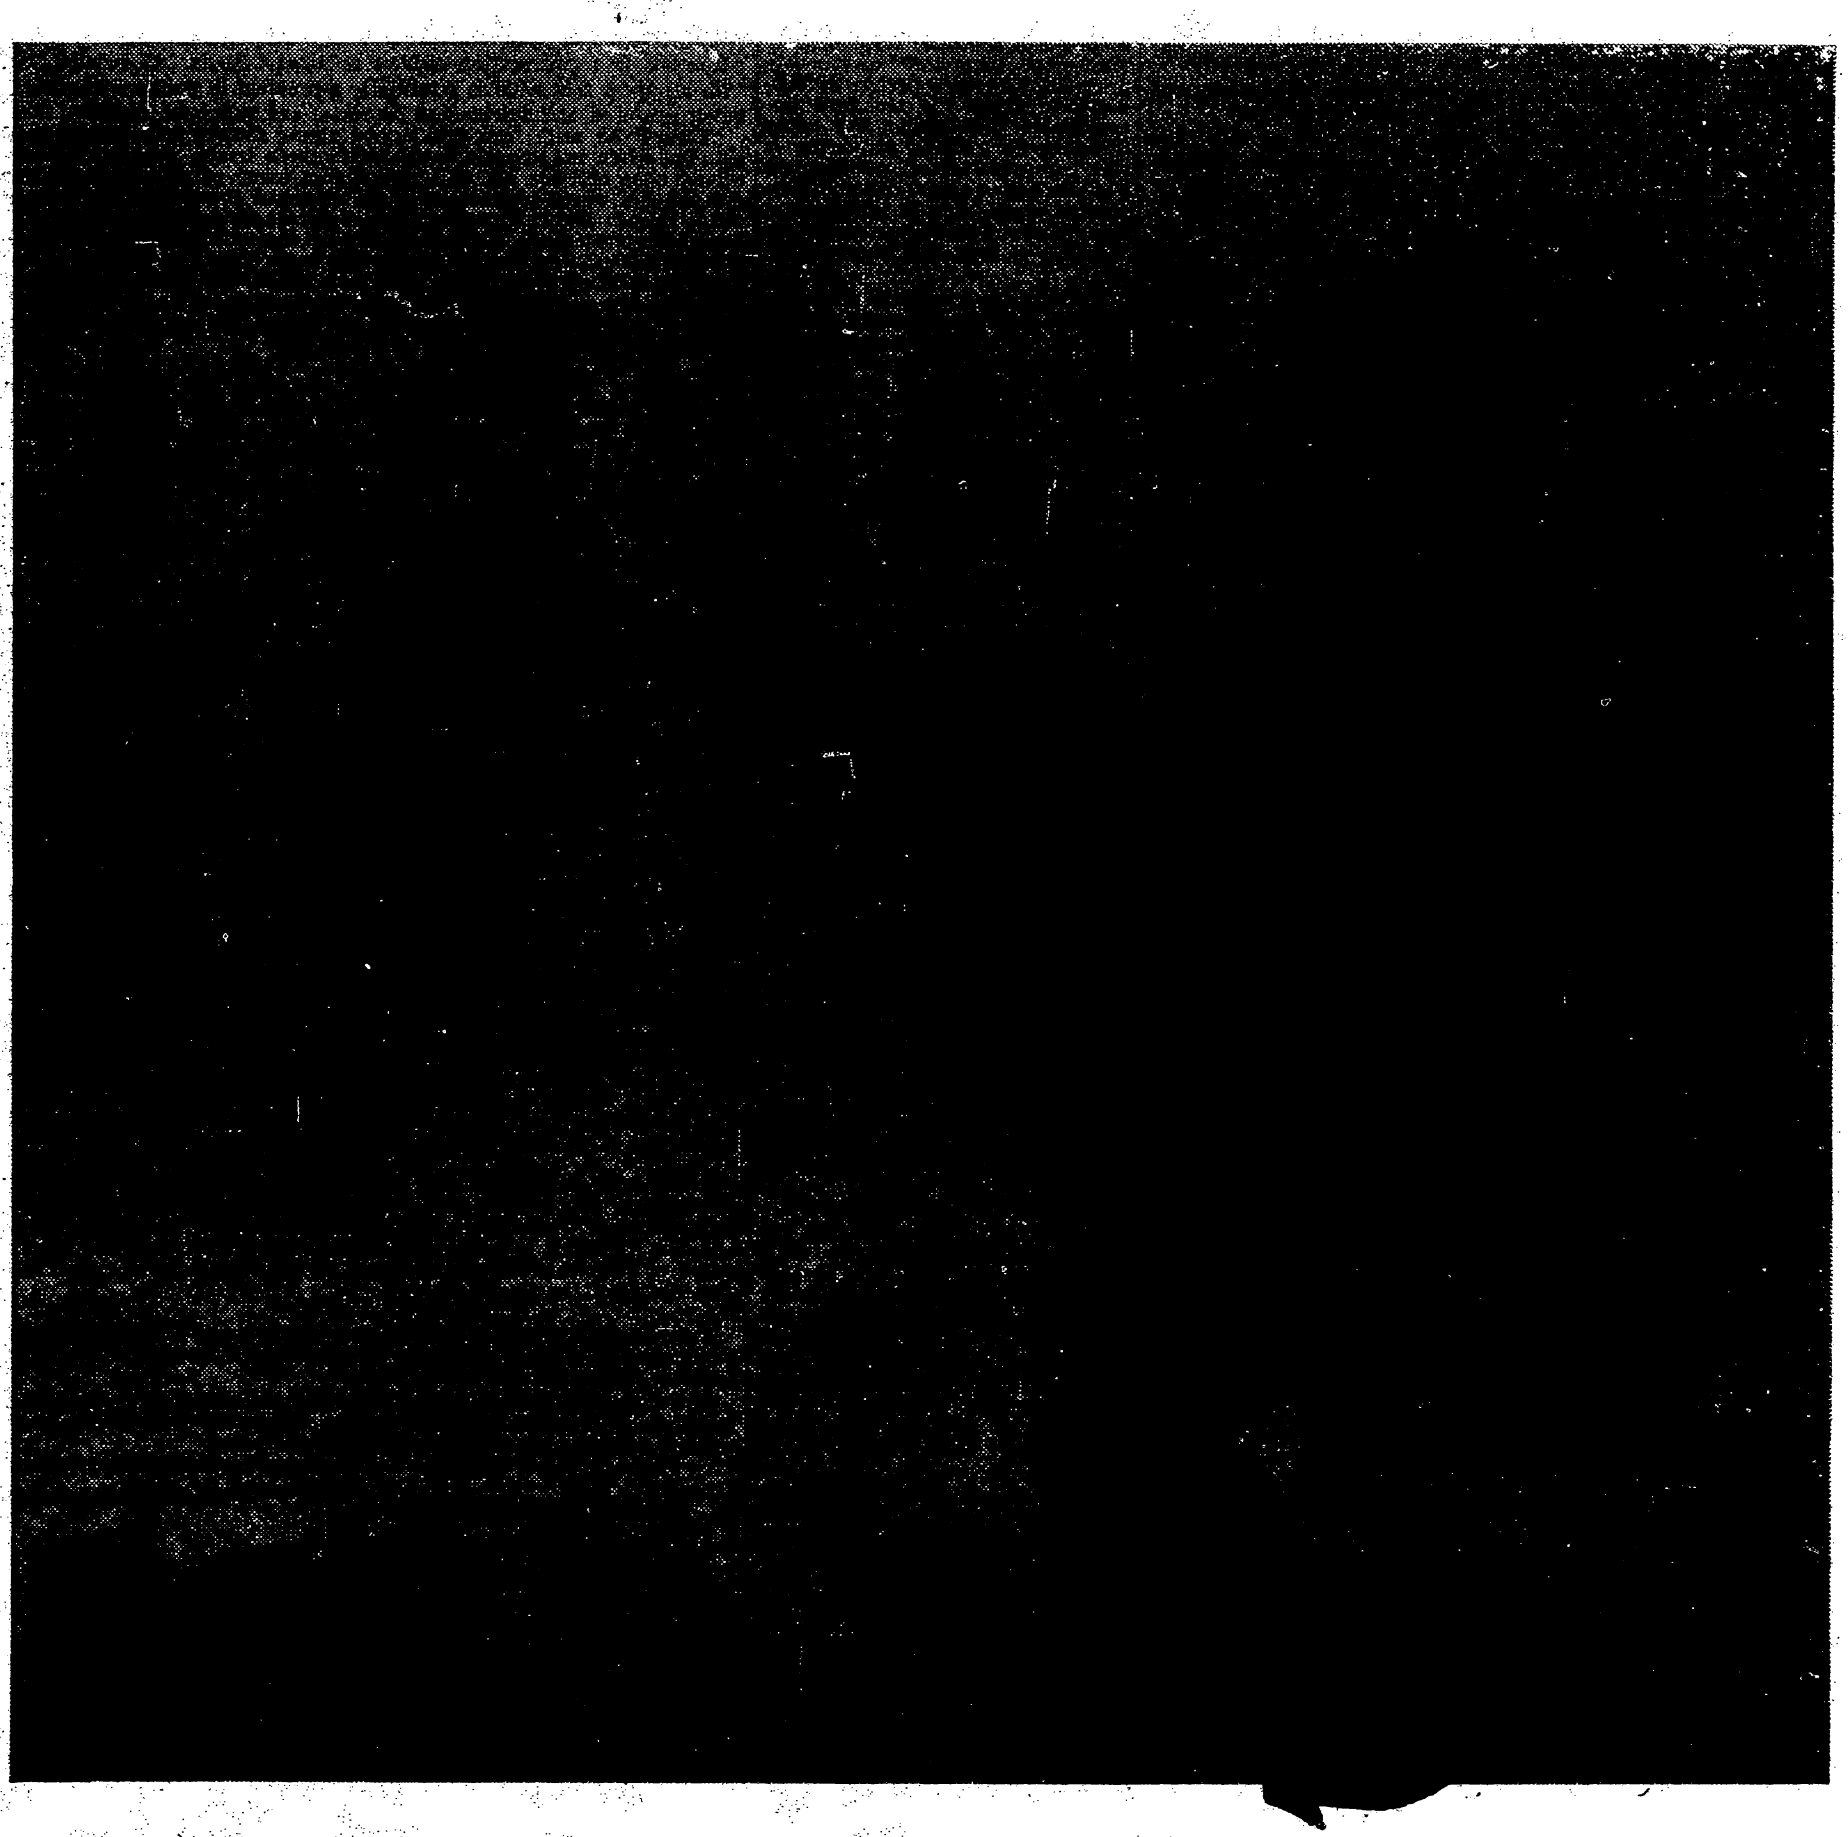
SUNPAPERS TELEVISION
CHANNEL 2, BALTIMORE, MARYLAND



In Maryland Most People Watch
WMAR-TV
TELEVISION PARK, BALTIMORE 12, MD.
Represented Nationally by THE KATZ AGENCY, INC.

Mgt.: William Morris Agency

CUSTOM TAILORED SUITS
FOR THE ACTOR
Each garment handmade on the premises with a canvas try-on.
Finest Italian and British Fabrics
$85.00 — $95.00
I will not let you wear it if it does not fit.
JACK FINO
1576 B'way, cor. 47 St., New York, N. Y.
LT. 1-3873 Rm. 317



IN THE BEGINNING there was one fiddler. One fiddler and one microphone. That was the birth of WSM's GRAND OLE OPRY . . . 38 years ago. It is now America's most popular radio show . . . the foundation of a multi-million dollar industry known far and wide as The Nashville Sound. On November 1 and 2, WSM and the Stars of the GRAND OLE OPRY will celebrate the 38th birthday of this famous show right here where it all began . . . at WSM, Music City, U.S.A. . . . including three important Roundtable Discussions on License Renewal, Programming, and Sales. All country music DJs and station management people are cordially invited.

WSM 650 CLEAR CHANNEL NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

OWNED AND OPERATED BY THE NATIONAL LIFE AND ACCIDENT INSURANCE CO.

It's The Same as Last Season

Continued from page 25

whys of such lowrated entries as "Arrest and Trial," the Bob Hope Anthology and the Richard Boone Anthology, it was peaches & champagne in the ebullient tv emporium of Benton & Bowles' Lee Rich who apparently didn't have to look any further than the Top 15 Nielsen list to see how his Dick Van Dyke, Lucille Ball, Andy Griffith, "Petticoat Junction" Danny Thomas and "I've Got A Secret" were doing.

The trade has been particularly interested in the Rich fortunes since the portents of the Nielsen 30-market report, which do not reflect the fat station lineups of his time buying, were far less favorable.

One of his sharp reversals vis-a-vis last year was the licking taken by "Kildare" at the hands of "Perry Mason." (CBS took one look at the returns and ordered an eighth-year renewal on "Mason"). "Kildare," of course, suffered from the extremely lowrated "Temple Houston," which couldn't do better than a 10.7, with the result that "Kildare" had fallen from Top 10 grace.

In the news league, the elongated Huntley-Brinkley half-hour with a 13.0 Nielsen, took the measure of CBS Walter Cronkite's 11.7 while ABC's early evening news entry—Ron Cochran — was low man with a 6.5. However, these statistics can be regarded as premilinary since all early evening news ratings were depressed in the daylight time hour.

While a year ago at this time the First Oct. National Nielsens clearly established the full year pattern of CBS as No. 1, NBC as No. 2 and ABC as No. 3, it is likewise clear that the CBS leadership will prevail over the '63-'64 course. However, NBC's less firm hold on second position, as revealed in the National Nielsens, could give way if its Monday and Saturday night feature films (which constitute one-sixth of its prime time schedule) should prove less audience winning in the remaining pix of the 20th and Metro catalogs.

So while No. 1 is safely tucked away under Bill Paley's pillow, it's a cinch that NBC's Bob Kintner and ABC's Leonard Goldenson will be hovering over the Nielsen barometers in their critical weeks which still lie ahead.

TV Reviews

Continued from page 35

and are being relied on now to give the ABC station the identity of a major news outlet. "Special Report: Chicago Schools In Crisis" was not their debut but was their fanciest showcasing on the station to date.

They brought to the half hour special the same authoritativeness, intelligence and style that had characterized their work at WBBM-TV, but for some hard-to-figure reason their 30 minute in-depth coverage of the local crisis seemed less vital than any comparable program they were part of at WBBM-TV. Maybe the technical finesse at the CBS station had something to do with it, or maybe it was just a matter of conditioning. For whatever reason, Hill and Reynolds seemed merely life-sized in this effort, where previously (at WBBM-TV) they had loomed larger.

It becomes axiomatic that two or three firstrate newcasters do not make a big league news operation, any more than two or three crack columnists make a newspaper. Reyonlds and Hill put their report together skillfully, let all sides be heard from, summarized the issues lucidly, illustrated the happenings up-to-date with newsfilm and subtly gave their presentation a viewpoint. Fine as it was, it carried less weight than it might have and of course the sponsorship by Alpo Dog Food did nothing to dignify it.

Still it is interesting that only WBKB, the not-yet-big news station, showed the courage to tackle the sensitive subject at the present critical stage, fraught as it is with racial and political implications. This bodes well for WBKB's prospects in news. A few more special reports of this quality, backed by reliable day-to-day news service, and the station may be on its way to developing the status it needs to give programs like this the stature they deserve. Les.

BBC's Financial Dilemma; Needs Twice As Much

London, Oct. 29.

BBC's net income, which last year totalled $106,322,000 from licence fee revenue and a further $1,090,200 from publications, is way below what it is seeking in the future to carry out development plans. By April, 1965, the Corporation wants annual finance in the region of $210,000,000 (the proceeds of a $16.80 licence fee instead of the present $11.20 license.

In its annual report for 1962-63, BBC states that if it had received the full proceeds of a $14 license fee from April this year (as it asked) then it could have managed its video and audio operations out of income until the end of the 60s. But as it is, by April '65, it will be forced to do some substantial borrowing from the City.

This sour note on finance is joined by a sharp reminder to the Government that BBC's independence should not be impinged by its method of finance. At a time when the Government has given no clear indication as to how BBC is to garner its additional income (though it has accepted its responsibility for ensuring that the Corporation can secure sufficient income to finance adequate services,") the report states:

"The Post Office (governmental department responsible for broadcasting) has been informed of a resolution passed by BBC's General Advisory Council, and strongly endorsed by BBC itself, to the effect that in any method of financing the BBC should make it clear to all concerned that the BBC is independent of Government control."

This thesis, the report goes on, seems to be generally accepted, but loses much of its practical value if BBC does not in fact receive the money it reasonably needs. In addition to the cash required for such developments as its 625-line UHF tv network, color tv, extensions of its radio services, and so on, the Corp. has been faced with the normal incident of rising costs, says the report.

Elsewhere in the report, BBC states that if the International Radio Consultative Committee, which is currently debating which tint system should be adopted by the European countries comes in for the American NTSC system, BBC could be on the air with public transmissions of colorvision early in 1965. Choice of either the competing SECAM or PAL methods would take longer to ready for general transmission.

Inside Stuff—Radio-TV

CBS board chairman William S. Paley came out for Federal aid to education, in a convocation address at Bates College, in Lewiston, Me. "We all know that what is essentially a problem in public education is being confused and sidetracked by racial and religious issues."

"These," he said, "are the largest single factors impeding federal aid. But while we struggle to deal with these issues, we must rid ourselves, once and for all, of a notion that many of us have taken for granted and which seems to crop up whenever the question of federal aid is raised: The charge that federal aid means federal control . . . I have been trustee of a great university for almost 15 years. In that time over $200,000,000 of federal money has come to the university in one form or another. I say flatly that, as a result, the university has not been threatened with any form of federal control. I doubt very much whether any university is yielding control of its academic affairs in return for federal grants.

More than 500 Philly civic leaders, including representatives from every outlet in the local broadcasting field, attended the first annual WIP Public Service Awards luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Affair was a tribute and mass salute to organizations and individuals who have given time, energy and talent on behalf of civic endeavors. Guest speakers included Mayor James H. J. Tate, John W. Kluge, chairman of the board and president of Metromedia, Inc., and Mark Evans, Metromedia's pubaffairs director. WIP is Philly outlet of Metropolitan Broadcasting a division of Metromedia.

The awards given in six categories were commerce and industry, City of Philadelphia's Commission on Human Relations; Armed Services, U.S. Army Recruiting; Religion, Church of the Holy Trinity (Episcopalian); Health, Philadelphia Tuberculosis and Health Assn.; Welfare, United Fund of Philadelphia, and Education, Fire Prevention Division, Phila. Fire Dept.

Westinghouse Broadcasting's fifth conference on local public service programming, to be held in Cleveland Nov. 11-14, will be attended both by performers and station execs. Steve Allen, Marc Connelly and Dick Gregory have been set for the opening day's panel on "The Communicators," which will also have Mike Dann, CBS-TV v.p. over programming; critic Robert Lewis Shayon and Dr. Henry Lee Dmith, N.Y.U. professor of anthropology and linguistics.

Over 400 tv and radio program managers are expected to attend the four-day seminars.

A group of companies and individuals are getting together to establish a fund to support an annual Anthony V. B. Geoghegan Lecture under the supervision of the Annenberg School of Communications at the U. of Pennsylvania. The fund honors the late Young & Rubicam exec, who played a major part in the growth of such mags as Time and Life and who supported ABC both in radio and tv in its early phase. The fund has received $1,000 each from Cowles Magazines & Broadcasting Inc., Time Inc., McCall Corp., NBC, William Morris Agency, Y & B will also participate. Fund now has $6,200 in it. Contributions can be made out to the U. of Pennsylvania, care of Dean Robert Spiller.

Seven Arts, now syndicating the French language instruction series, "En France," has entered into a publishing deal with Libraire Hachette Europe's largest publisher, for the production of a home-study book-and-disk kit which is being offered on tv for $24.95. The "En France" series of 26 half-hours was produced by Tele-Hachette in cooperation with Hofstra U. on Long Island.

Furthering its attempts to get along with women, the NAB disclosed publication of a Study Guide on Broadcasting in cooperation with the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The 22-page booklet is aimed at giving clubwomen a better understanding of broadcasting's role in the community and giving broadcasters another method of feeling the local pulse.

Defer Vegas Hearing

Washington, Oct. 29.

An FCC Hearing Examiner agreed to postpone a scheduled hearing surrounding the KSHO-TV, Las Vegas imbroglio.

Examiner Millard French accepted motions to set the hearing back to Jan. 15 next year. It was scheduled to begin in Las Vegas today (29).

The hearing was originally scheduled to look into the complex financial manueverings surrounding the stations.

FRANK ATWOOD TROPHY: Young Richard Weingart of Franklin, Conn., proudly shows his prize heifer and the Frank Atwood Trophy, which he won at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass. With Weingart is the man for whom the trophy is named: Frank Atwood, farm program director of WTIC. New England 4-H leader's named the trophy to honor Frank, who has worked long and hard with farm youngsters. The prize heifer is a granddaughter of a calf Weingart purchased with an interest-free loan from WTIC's Farm Youth Program, which has helped more than 600 youngsters obtain foundation stock for dairy herds. (Advt.)

The Journal-American Is Now New York's Greatest Entertainment Medium!

- Walter Winchell
- Dorothy Kilgallen
- Suzy
- Louis Sobol
- Louella Parsons
- Cholly Knickerbocker
- Sheilah Graham
- John McClain
- Rose Pelswick
- Miles Kastendieck
- Nick Lapole
- Gene Knight
- Frances Merron
- Jack Thompson
- Harry Hershfield
- The Baron (Eddie Black)

With the addition of many popular New York Mirror entertainment columnists — plus its own galaxy of writers covering every field of diversion — the Journal-American now provides New York's best editorial showcase for every kind of amusement, hotel, restaurant, night club and entertainment advertising.

New York Journal-American

Hold it! If you haven't heard about the Mike Douglas show yet, take a good hard look. Mike and his show are the hottest ninety minutes to hit the local television scene since the Steve Allen Show. It's a big time, daytime; big name, big budget show. This isn't the complete story. There is the proof of performance, too. In just six weeks in Cleveland, for instance, the Mike Douglas Show reversed a share of audience picture that had lasted for six years. (Latest share of audience: 47.5%.) Now he's SRO in Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and San Francisco. Write, wire or call us today. This is a "ninety minutes" that's worth looking into.

WBC PROGRAM SALES, INC. GROUP W

122 East 42nd St., New York 17, N.Y. • Murray Hill 7-0808

WLS: 'Beaudin Vitamins'

Continued from page 30

known to admit (happily, in fact, for the propaganda value) that their own kids are addicted to WLS in the evening.

Beaudin took over an unsteady and slightly schizophrenic station in 1960. Prior to his arrival it had been owned jointly by American Broadcasting-Paramount Theatres and Prairie Farmer publications and was operated somewhat chaotically, with rural service programs spotted everywhere in the schedule. When AB-PT bought out its partner and installed Beaudin as prexy of the station, he remade it almost completely in one drastic sweep two months after he took charge. His object was to make it a distinctly Chicago station and give it a personality of its own.

In his overhauling, he wiped out 40 hours a week of commercially sponsored religious programs, killed all time-brokerage deals, shifted the agricultural shows to strategic areas, and knocked off a miscellany of segmented programs that carried full sponsorship in order to go straight spot. Having sized up the market, he found the situation ripe for the techniques that had worked so successfully for him at KQV in Pittsburgh.

He picked a staff of deejays who had all previously been "morning men," schooled in fast gab and time-temperature reports ("good mechanics," he calls 'em); laid down a strict rule of "no dead air"; decreed that there would be no stars among the announcers; and created a uniform tone for the station throughout the day, extending even to public service spots.

Beaudin admits that his initial pitch was for the teenager listener, in order to get a foot in the door of metropolitan households that had never tuned in the station before. For this purpose, he had the need of a single "star," a screamer named Dick Biondi who worked the 7-11:30 p.m. chore. Without increasing the homes using radio at that time of day, WLS quickly went from a 3 share to a 27, according to Pulse, and has enjoyed a 75-90% sellout status in the normally hard-to-sell nighttime hours ever since.

Having hooked the teenagers, Beaudin found it a "natural step" for their parents to get drawn to the station too, despite a prevailing belief that only the juves care about the current hits. "Pop music is part of our way of life," Beaudin says, "and though the kids tend to see the trends the adults eventually get with it, just as they have with the twist, the crew cut and loafer shoes." In addition to network fare and newscasts on the half hour, he's stocked the adult time periods with Martha Crane's women's features, Norm Ross' "Chicago Portrait" and "Commentary," and the discussion show "Pinpoint," plus a raft of public service spots.

There's no question now but that the Beaudin techniques have caught on. The station has been operating in the black since the second year of Beaudin's management and is understood to have hit a profit stride of about $500,000 last year. The third quarter of the present year went 22.6% over the 1962 third quarter, and Beaudin sees 1963 shaping as WLS' biggest year yet.

Brit. TV Prestige

Continued from page 24

industry attention this fall than any other.

Firstoff, BBC-TV picked up the gauntlet by shifting its big 9:15 p.m. newsbreak forward 15 minutes to 9 p.m. where it directly opposed the Independent Television News telecast. ITN countered by announcing the shift of its bulletin to 8:55 p.m., giving it a five-minute edge.

The battle over the "most successful" pubaffairs show from a ratings point of view—involving, in the main, BBC's "Panorama," Associated - Rediffusion's "This Week" and, latterly Granada-TV's "World In Action"—is producing a continual stream of figures and counter-statistics illustrating the "grand job" being done by one or other of the shows, depending on the source of the figures.

Granada meantime has gained lotsa screen milage and piled up a stack of prestige points in its coverage of the Trades' Union Congress, the Labor Party and Conservative Party conferences where, this year, it was "all happening" (including the announcement that Macmillan was to retire, Lord Hailsham's dramatic pronouncemento that he is to turn in his title to vie for leadership of the Tory Party and so on). Granada's "instant" scoop is seen in the trade as a weighty victory for the company, which is strongly campaigning for the televising of Parliament. BBC, in this instance, was out in the cold.

Corporation's awareness of the independents of, especially Granada's, increasing prowess as documentary-makers is causing a certain amount of "pirating" of staff, by the BBC, it's said. And these days, more than performers, its the Tim Hewats, the Jeremy Isaacs, and other pubaffairs producers who feature in behind-the-scenes graboff attempts.

Top Brass Shuffle On Tap in Italo TV

Rome, Oct. 29.

RAI-TV, the Italo telenet, is expected to reshuffle some of its higher echelon brass, according to persistent local reports.

Per the grapevine, the major innovation would consist of the unification of heretofore divided first and second video program directorships. Move is designed to do away with admitted previous conflict and/or overlap of two tv services since the start of national second channel casts some time ago.

The human-element variations are in a more conjectural state. It's thought, however, that Sergio Pugliese would continue in his longtime function as RAI-TV program topper. Under him, video setup would be split into two main branches: entertainment and culture, with Leone Piccioni taking over the former, Mario Motta the latter. Other subdivisions would be for various coordinating functions.

As usual, RAI-TV is not commenting until formal announcement is made.

San Antonio—KWEX-TV, local Spanish language outlet, will become the first television station in the United States to use a unique series of religious programs in Spanish when it starts weekly telecasts of "La Respuesta" (The Answer) at 11:30 a.m. Sundays. The "La Respuesta" series, consisting of 13 half-hour films, is produced and distributed by Southern Baptists' Radio and Television Commission, Fort Worth.

CBC 'Playdate'

Continued from page 28

time Ottawa actor and composer, just arrived from CBC-TV in Halifax. Last week (14) was "Not for Every Eye," a French-Canadian novel — "sardonic comedy" — by Gerard Bessette, adapted by M. Charles Cohen, starring U. S.-born Jack Creley and produced by George McGowan.

John Colicos, who starred in three shows at Stratford, Ont., Festival this summer, dittoes in Pushkin's "Queen of Spades," adapted by Leo Orenstein and produced by Ronald Weyman for Nov. 11. All shows are taped.

Moser has also just bought, for a North American preem, Harold Pinter's "The Lover," produced by BBC and repeated after a wave of requests. It recently won an Italian prize for best tv play anywhere. In legit adaptation, it's one of two Pinter plays now in the West End and Moser says, set for Broadway. His version will star Jack Creley and Corinne Conley, with George Bloomfield producing.

"Playdate" will also do Murray Schisgall's "Typists," which ran nearly a year off-Broadway. It'll star Douglas Rain (who'll star in Stratford, Ont., Festival company marking Shakespeare's 400th birthday at Laurence Olivier's Chichester Theatre next April) and Frances Hyland, who was in "Look Homeward, Angel" on Broadway. Basil Coleman will produce. Another future is "The Fight for Martin Wheeler," produced by Leo Orenstein and starring U. S. actor Frank Overton.

"We've never done so many unusual plays before," Moser exults. "I only hope our audiences will go for them; but every time we've tested them with an offbeat play so far they've gone along with us, so hopes are high."

RCA

Continued from page 27

These are (1) the rapid growth of the color television market, (2) the substantial increase in NBC earnings and (3) the "sustained rapid advance of RCA's electronic data processing towards profitable levels by the end of 1964.

Dr. Engstrom noted the trend of RCA's earnings and sales figures. "RCA's nine-month profits are 29% above those for the first nine months of 1962, on sales there are 4% higher than the 1962 figure. For the third quarter of this year, the earnings were up 44% on a sales increase of 6% over the third 1962 quarter. These relative percentages underscore the sharp rise in the ratio of earnings to sales that has become a characteristic of RCA's business over the past year and a half."

Dr. Engstrom pointed to RCA's stake in Illinois and the Chicago area. He said RCA employs 1,200 people in Illinois with an annual payroll of over $8,000,000.

Thorny TV Issues

Continued from page 26

regulatory commissions for misconstruing the word "independent" in their designations as independent agencies.

"Independent" Rogers said, "was intended to mean independent from the executive branch of the government."

"However, from some of the muscle flexing that has taken place in recent years, it would seem that some of these agencies have decided to construe the word 'independent' literally and to consider themselves as the fourth branch of government."

400 'U' Channels Get FCC Blessing

Washington, Oct. 29.

FCC proposed adding 400 new channel assignments to its UHF assignment table.

This would increase the total UHF assignments to 1,975, of which 600 are reserved for educational use.

No VHF changes were proposed.

Commission said its selection of cities for etv reservations was based on a survey of the National Assn. of Educational Broadcasters with modifications accepted in some instances from states and cities.

In assigning commercial channel spots, FCC said it wanted to give every community of 10,000 or more population except those "near" large cities at least one commercial channel.

Comments were invited before Jan. 3, 1964.

Robt. Rubin (Ex-NBC) Back With CBS News

Robert Rubin, who resigned from NBC News last April, is joining CBS News as a producer. He had been with CBS News prior to 1961 as a production exec. His job at NBC News was production supervisor for creative projects.

Rubin's initial assignments for CBS will be in the technical area, helping to develop and test equipment and techniques which will improve the capabilities of CBS News in news and pubaffairs coverage. He left NBC last April to form his own film production company utilizing techniques he had developed. The company produced an indie pic, "Nothing But a Man," which is currently being edited.

In another addition, marking another return, Sam Zelman has rejoined CBS News, effective Jan. 1. He becomes manager of CBS News bureau in Los Angeles. Bob Schakne, now L.A. bureau manager, will be designated CBS News correspondent for South America, based in Rio de Janeiro. Zelman's more recent assignment had been director of news for KTLA, Los Angeles. He had been with CBS News in an exec capacity prior to his leaving the web.

HERB CARL TO KTRH

Hounston, Oct. 29.

Herb Carl, formerly manager of KGNB here has resigned his post to take over duties with KTRH, Houston.

Carl was previously a disk jockey with KONO, San Antonio, as well as manager of KENS prior to it becoming KBAT in that city.

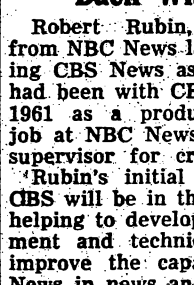
Charlotte — Unless unexpected problems arise, a new radio station in Charlotte is expected to be on the air within two months. FCC has granted a construction permit for Station WRPL. The station will be jointly owned by the York-Clover Broadcasting Co., which operates WYCL and Station WADE in Wadesboro, N.C., owned by Risden A. Lyon.

We are proud that THE MARK OF CAIN has been selected as the opening program of the 15th anniversary celebration of LAMP UNTO MY FEET, Sunday, November 3, 1963—10:00 A.M., CBS-TV.

THE MARK OF CAIN was conceived, adapted and directed by

JEROME SCHNUR.

Personal Representative
LESTER LEWIS ASSOCIATES
15 East 48th Street, New York, N. Y.
PLaza 3-5082



Hear . . .
Hollywood
Commentator
DICK STROUT
ON over
800 Stations
in Americal

Suite 404
1717 N. Highland Av.
Hollywood 28, Cal.
469-6884

LAWYER

For talent agency operating all entertainment fields.
State age, education, experience and salary desired.

Write to Box V-3533, VARIETY
154 W. 46th St., New York, N. Y. 10036

FOUR STAR

ALL AMERICA ACCLAIMS "BURKE'S LAW"

CINCINNATI POST & TIMES STAR . . . great escapist fun. The dialogue was sly and sophisticated and there wasn't a dull moment.

DALLAS NEWS . . . Production values are top flight with some crisp, clever writing and good performances.

INDIANAPOLIS STAR . . . A light-hearted, posh whodunit . . . a sure ticket to TV success.

SAN DIEGO UNION . . . the series, with its bite and style, shapes up as a winner.

HOUSTON CHRONICLE . . . A slickly polished whodunit full of clues and climaxes . . . promises to be a high spot on the new Friday lineup on ABC.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER . . . suspenseful and did a good job of keeping the murderer's identity secret until the last possible moment.

COLUMBUS DISPATCH . . . For an exercise in high hokum, television has rarely put forward a better foot.

NEW YORK MIRROR . . . good listening and excellent viewing . . . so many beautiful gals.

WEEKLY VARIETY . . . Four Star Isn't one to stint either on front-or-back-of-the-camera production values or in the casting department . . .

SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER . . . The new "Burke's Law" got off to a sizzling good start. It may be ABC's best bet of the new season.

TV GUIDE . . . For real happy homicide for the whole family, you can't beat ABC's new corpus delectable, "Burke's Law."

CHICAGO NEWS . . . There is enough good-natured charm to make the new detective series a winner.

NEWARK NEWS . . . this tongue-in-cheek, sassy, intelligent series . . . pretends to do no more than entertain.

BOSTON TRAVELER . . . not only walked off with rating honors . . . but turned out to be one of the slicker, more amusing shows.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE . . . a sleek, sophisticated, well written, beautifully played crime thriller.

ABC-TV

GENE BARRY
GARY CONWAY
Burke's Law
REGIS TOOMEY • LEON LONTOS

Lack of TV Talent in Britain Finds Everybody Channel-Hopping

London, Oct. 29.

It is a striking phenomenon of the British television business that at any one time almost any local performer you care to name will crop up on one of the tv networks notwithstanding the fact that weeks, days, or even hours before, they have been involved on a show on the competing web. Such is the shortage of talent hereabouts.

Most recent examples of the channel-hopping involves Millicent Martin and Roy Kinnear of BBC's "That Was The Week That Was" who have elected to swap networks to perform in a play for Associated TeleVision. And comedians Terry Scott and Hugh Lloyd who cut their video teeth on BBC territory in a series called "Hugh and I" have signed to appear in an ABC-TV show "Comedy Bandbox."

While these, and other performers like Charlie Drake, Tony Hancock, etc. and the abundance of smalltime acts which crop up on the webs' light entertainment specials, chop and changed between the two national video outlets, the "hedgehopping" has begun to extend to writers, producers, directors and MDs.

For example, as previously noted, the dramatic directing and producing talent in tv drama from ABC-TV is flowing to BBC in the wake of Sydney Newman. But, at the same time, directors like Charles Jarott, Philip Saville and Ted Kotcheff, among the best in the business here, are now retaining certain ties with the commercial companies as well as being prepared to work for Newman at BBC. Thus their affections fluctuate and in working for two camps, they stand in danger of even competing against themselves on the competitive networks.

Pre-Testing

Continued from page 27

execs and the agency buyers is the relatively minor costs involved in testing compared with the gamble of a definite program commitment. ASI fees range from $1,500 to test a half-hour show to $2,300 for an hour show. Like the Schwerin company, which is most active in testing commercials, ASI also pretests commercials in its Los Angeles theatre along with film features for MGM and Columbia Pictures. Unlike ABC and NBC, CBS-TV uses its own resources to test its shows and reportedly spends upwards of $300,000 annually in this area.

The very latest development in pretesting brings the research tools into play at the point of a pilot's inception. Instead of producing a finished show, it's now become possible to test with a much cheaper story-board setup using a finished soundtrack with scenic mockups to suggest the visual details. ASI, which claims to have developed a high degree of predictive accuracy in testing of story-board commercials, now is offering this service to the program producers and buyers.

Rock Hudson Pacted For German TV Role

Frankfurt, Oct. 29.

Young German producer Mohr von Chamier has pacted Rock Hudson for the lead in a German television show.

A series, now being filmed in Paris, deals with travel stories of America and Europe, and one—starring Hudson—will be filmed in Germany.

Chamier Films is financing the studios for the German production and the additional German stars, in return for the rights to sell the German production to television.

Hudson is a top fave of German cinemagoers, having won the equivalent of the Oscar—the German Bambi award—as favorite foreign actor in Germany the last couple of years. This will be his first appearance in a German television film.

ABC-TV's Turkey Day 'Cowboy & the Tiger'

ABC-TV is coming up with a Thanksgiving Day special, "The Cowboy and The Tiger," a musical fantasy starring David Wayne, Paul O'Keefe and Jack Gilford. The Sonny Fox-Maurice Levine production is set for 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Nov. 28. Harold Beebee wrote the score with book by Wallace Gray.

Show is being bankrolled by American Doll & Toy Co., Irwin Corp. and the Transogram Co., all through Helitzer, Waring & Wayne; Miles Labs, through Wade; Miles Labs, through Wade; and Nestle, through McCann Erickson.

Italo TV Upping Ad Rates; Clients Beg for Space

Rome, Oct. 29.

It's a sellers market in Italian radio-video. It's therefore no surprise that all tv ad space for 1964 (and part of '65) has reportedly already been sold solid.

Inevitably, too, RAI-TV has upped rates on its video commercial time without substantially or noticeably upping total ad time. Another major change is in duration of maximum "unit" of time per product sales program: two months instead of three at a time, thus permitting more applicants a crack at RAI's restricted airtime.

According to usually reliable sources, RAI-TV rates would rise from about $3,200 per current two minutes 15 seconds spot on "Carosello" (the most popular evening ad position) to about $4,800. The shorter 35-second "Arcobaleno" spots would go for an upped $3,200, while "Tic-Tac" items of 40, 35 and 30 seconds duration would likewise be hiked to $2,800, $2,560 and $2,400 respectively. To this airtime cost, advertisers must add production costs.

Also recently disclosed here is breakdown of all Italo expenditures. According to figures released during recent Ichia gathering of ad execs and companies, field is still dominated by ads in the Italian press, at a 45% clip.

Another 9% goes to television commercials, 7% for ads screened in movie theatres. The remaining 32% is split among other media.

Jackie Cooper Firms Up 'Calhoun' TV Prod. Staff

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Jackie Cooper has rounded up his entire production staff and virtually all of his cast for "Calhoun," hourlong vidseries he is preparing for CBS-TV for the 1964-65 season. Cooper stars in the series, about a county agent, also is producing it under aegis of his Jackie Cooper Productions.

Regulars with him in the show are Barbara Stanwyck and Ken Berry and one femme stet role, not cast yet. Signed for a number of appearances, and to function as semi-regulars, are Robert Lansing and Beverly Garland, both pacted to multiple-pic deals. Also set on a non-regular basis are Richard Eye and R. G. Armstrong. Cooper rolls pilot Nov. 11.

Stuart Rosenberg has been signed as director; script is by Merle Miller; Robert Alan Aurthur is creative consultant; original music was composed by Mel Torme.

Texas Educ'l TV

Continued from page 30

duties for two thirds of the time.

In some instances a professor will be on the television with a videotaped lecture and, at the same time, be appearing before another class in person. In effect, he is doubling his teaching potential.

Robert Squier, director of TEMP, said the project adds to the quality of instruction and it also adds to knowledge and techniques because many teachers, watching the presentation of another, detect ways to improve their own instruction.

At all events, the microwave network is here to stay and it has shown the way to the Southern Regional Education Board to instruct schools in other states of the south to set up similar networks.

In like manner, the U. of Houston is extending its use of television. The Houston system differs from TEMP in that its telecasts are on open transmission. Not only students but the entire public is free to sit and learn.

Roy Barthold, director of KUHT-TV, has been with the project from the beginning. He began as an aide to John Schwarzwalder who is now director of educational tv at KTCA-TV, St. Paul, where he went in 1957.

The local educational programs are on the air five days a week following a schedule that usually calls for three hours in the morning, an hour in the early afternoon and from 5:15 p.m. straight through to 10 p.m.

The original cost of the station was $420,000. Its operating budget today amounts to $175,000 a year, of which the city and county school systems contribute nearly half. The cost to the university is about $90,000.

Brit. Vidpix Cutback

Continued from page 31

economics to give it a chance of breaking even and even showing a profit without necessarily taking into account the American market. At one time, the view had been held that without a U.S. deal a film series was doomed to financial failure. Now, with the growth of the world market, investment can be amortized without an American deal, and if one should materialize, that is an additional bonus for the producer.

Furthermore, there is the advent of coproduction between the United States and Britain, which gives the U.K. partner the local market plus the Eastern Hemisphere for about one-third of the budgeted cost. So, while the British side does not have the prospect of a U.S. bonus dangling like a carrot, it has a quality production for a fraction of its original cost and, all other things being equal, must come out in the black.

It is no secret around the town that the British tv networks have enough product on hand to see them through for the next 12 months. But if they are contemplating new programs for the fall of 1964 they will have to start thinking about them by the first of the year and get into active production before spring sets in. But meantime, the poker game goes on, with the bid to revise the quota as the ace in the game.

Ironically, whilst the programmers favor quota relaxation there is a fear that such a development would lead to more realistic price demands from the U.S. distributors. All in line with the classic laws of supply and demand.

'En France' Sales

"En France," Seven Arts series of 26 half-hour shows, have been sold to KTVI, St. Louis; WJW-TV, Cleveland; WSB-TV, Atlanta; WXYT-TV, Oklahoma City; KAVE-TV, Carlsbad, N.M.; and WTRF-TV, Wheeling.

Seven Arts also sold its 41-title Vol. 3 package of features to KPAC-TV, Beaumont, Tex.; Vols. 4 and 5, containing 93 features, were sold to WTAF-TV, Marion, Ind. The 50 features in Vol. 7 were acquired by KTVT, Dallas and KBOI-TV, Boise, bought Vols. 3, 4, 5 and 7, containing 18¾ films. Latter also bought some special features from the distributor.

British ABC-TV Farms Out a New Batch Of Trainees to Hinterland

London, Oct. 29.

For the fourth year, ABC-TV, Britain's weekend-only major on the commercial network, has selected a batch of trainee directors who will be allocated to various stock companies around the Midlands and North, ABC's home territories.

Tyro directors this year are Anne Burge, 24, who goes to the Playhouse, Liverpool; Barry Davis, 27, Oldham Repertory Theatre; David Spencer, 23, Studio Theatre, Stoke-on-Trent; Mark Cullingham, Northampton Repertory Theatre; Nicholas Barter, 23, Phoenix Theatre, Leicester; J. Michael Walton, 24, Theatre Royal, York; and Richard Digby-Day, 24, whose theatre is still to be arranged.

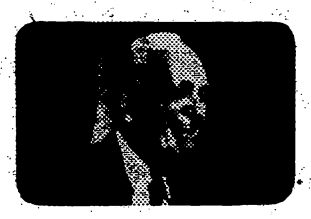
In the four years of the scheme, ABC-TV itself has taken on only three of the couple of dozen candidates that went to the respective stock theatres, although others have met with varying degrees of success. Possibly the most notable of the newbloods is Laurence Bourne who went to the Manchester Library Theatre on an ABC-TV scheme in 1960 and has now entered the station's drama department to work on its top-rated action show "The Avengers."

Portland, Me.—Robert M. Saracen has been named local sales manager for WGAN-TV. It's a newly-created post. Last April Saracen was a winner of the TvB award for outstanding creativity in selling.

Sardi's East
123 East 54th St. New York
PLaza 1-6655
Sardi's
234 W. 44th ST. NEW YORK
LA 4-8787

WANT TO PLAY IN THE BIG LEAGUE?
The Northwest area is really big league . . . 810,800 TV homes and over $5 Billion in spendable income.
Why not sign up with the first place club—KSTP-TV. The Northwest's first TV station, KSTP-TV serves and sells this vital market most effectively, most economically.
KSTP television 5
100,000 WATTS NBC
MINNEAPOLIS • ST. PAUL

NAKED CITY
GREAT GUEST STARS . . . WEEK AFTER WEEK!
Eli Wallach — Peter Falk — Lee J. Cobb
George Maharis — Roddy McDowall — Geraldine Fitzgerald
Suzanne Pleshette — Sam Jaffe — Luther Adler
Eric Portman — Abby Lane — Eddie Albert
Felicia Farr — Sylvia Sidney — Hume Cronyn
Claude Rains — Keenan Wynn — Mickey Rooney
. . . and many, many more!
for details contact
SCREEN GEMS, INC.

NOW ON TV


GABRIEL HEATTER
. . . now available on VIDEO-TAPE, for insertion in local news block. FIVE MINUTE anecdotes in the Heatter style.
POWERFUL! DYNAMIC!
CALL OR WIRE
HAL FROELICH OR GENE DENARI
WINNEBAGO PRODUCTIONS
MERIDIAN ROAD
ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS
PHONE: 963-5413

REAL ESTATE
OFFICE SPACE
54-55 STS.
850 7TH AVE.
New York
Modern office suites now available
3 rms 725 sq ft $225 mo
3½ rms 800 sq ft $250 mo
See Supt Seidel on premises
HERBERT W. TUTTLE CO., Inc.
157 W. 57 St., New York JU 6-8200

310 WEST 47th ST.
New York
2½ ROOM STUDIO APTS.
Spacious L-Shaped Liv Rms. Streamlined kitchens, beaut. bathrms. Extra large closets, air conditioned.
ALSO MODEL APT AVAIL
AGENT ON PREM. LT 1-1115

VACANT THEATRE FOR TV STUDIO
14,000 sq. ft. Stage-Balcony, 2,200 seats. Ave. B corner East 5th St., N.Y.C. Price $150,000, cash $25,000, balance mortgage.
Call or Write Mr. E. Mickenberg,
A. J. CLARKE, INC.
605 West 156 St. SW 5-7100

Nashville Braces as 3,000 Deejays, Music Men Spin in for C&W Meet

By RED O'DONNELL

Nashville, Oct. 29.

The sound of this city over the coming weekend will be near bucolic bedlam as country music deejays from 50 states and Canada come in for the yearly rural rhythm convention. Joining the jocks will be execs and reps from recording companies, music publishing firms and sundry artists.

It is the 12th annual powwow—with accent on the wow—although this time WSM radio, official host, has dubbed it "Grand Ole Opry's" 38th Birthday Celebration; a salute to the station's Saturday night evergreen hoedown which began in November, 1925.

Registration starts Thursday (31) with formal (and informal)hoopla programmed for Friday and Saturday.

The sponsors anticipate an enrollment of 3,000. Invariably such calculations prove accurate, and non-conventionally enough these convention-goers maintain good behavior, or at least a reasonable facsimile.

It's a sorta low tempo fun-loving group, and its objectives aren't detoured by a plethora of serious talk and stuff. Business meetings and the omnipresent standard panel discussions are kept at a minimum.

This year no official talks or addresses are on the regular agenda. That policy, however, doesn't hold in hotel lobbies or smokefilled hospitality rooms underwritten by the recording nabobs; there talk is a bargain commodity.

Freeloaders' Utopia

The 12th annual, or 38th birthday celebration (vote for one), is a utopia for delegates functioning on a low-budgeted, or cutting-the-corners expense account.

What with the likes of Capitol, Columbia, Dot, Mercury, RCA Victor, Starday and United Artists—among the major diskeries—and Pamper Music Co. . . tossing parties and chow-lines virtually around the clock, a wax spinner has it made if he has the price of a room at the inn. And even lacking that, there is no record of a house dick evicting a sleepyhead from a lobby chair or sofa.

To their credit, the old a&r party-giving pros such as Randy Wood, Ken Nelson, Steve Sholes, Pappy Dailey, Shelby Singleton, Owen Bradley, Chet Atkins, Don Pierce, J. Hal Smith, Don Law, et al play their host roles graciously and hospitably.

WSM, as per usual, officially opens the festival with a Friday morning breakfast, where all var-

(Continued on page 50)

Decca Raiding Morgue for LPs

Decca Records is continually digging into its morgue for album product to spark its monthly release schedules. The morgue lode comes from platters by its veteran diskers, those no longer with the company and even those no longer alive.

In November, for example, in which Decca-Coral is releasing 17 new albums, the morgue spotlight is on Al Jolson and Danny Kaye. The Jolson album, titled "Jolie," contains 12 selections recorded for the old "Kraft Music Hall" radio shows. The Kaye set, a two-LP package, features 24 selections cut by the singer-comedian when he was under contract to Decca. The deluxe set also comes with text and illustrations.

For its August promotion, Decca did a job similar to the one now being prepped on Kaye for Judy Garland. In other months the company did similar deluxe wrapups on Al Jolson (this was a "Best of Jolson" package), Billie Holiday, Burl Ives, Patsy Cline and Kitty Wells.

In addition to Jolson and Kaye, the November packages from Decca include Carmen Cavallaro, Henry Jerome, Jan Garber, Peter Duchin, Warren Covington, Guy Lombardo, Earl Grant and Lenny Dee among others. The Coral disks spotlight Big Tiny Little and Joe (Fingers) Carr and Little Richard.

FREDDY MARTIN HITS 25-YR. PAY JACKPOT

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

Freddy Martin has been inked for tallest coin his orch ever has received in his more than 25 years as a batoner. Date is a one-nighter at a Dec. 7 private party being tossed by the Standard Club of Chicago. Orch will get a flat $9,000, with Martin, of course, hefting air travel costs.

Martin, current at Thunderbird, Frisco, for a week, goes next to Thunderbird, El Segundo, Calif., for a frame. Latter, drawing from L.A. International Airport biz, is instituting a name band policy. Thereafter, batoner follows one-nighter string prior to returning to Cocoanut Grove here Dec. 27 for stand until March.

The Irving Mills On Lam From Any 50th Anni Fetes

Next Saturday (2) marks the 50th wedding anniversary of Bess and Irving Mills and at the last minute, the executive veepee of Mills Music decided to duck any fanfare by lamming from their BevHills manse for a lieseurely round-the-world trip.

Sidney Mills, one of their sons, who is recording general manager for the Mills Music, has prepared an elaborately and patiently researched discography of over 400 tapes which he has chronologically organized as a musical memento to his father's veteran career in the music business. Many of these old recordings had to be acquired from disk collectors and "rare recording" retailers. It took him about a year and a half to do so. Many of the recordings go back to the 1920s when Mills, who was a pioneer in harnessing such great Negro composer-conductors as Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway et al., also sang with them or with his own "Hotsy Totsy Gang," an al fresco group which was fundamentally organized to plug Mills songs.

However, their local prowess over the then novelty radio stations created diskery interest and Mills emerged under sundry noms-de-disk, belting the current plug songs, be it "Diga Diga Do," "I Wouldn't If I Want To," "I Can't Give You Anything But Love" and the like. He was "Sonny" Smith on many an Ellington Victor and Okeh recording; he was "Milton Irving" on the Brunswick label with the "Hotsy Totsy Gang"; he was something else when he did the vocals with Jack Teagarden's waxings etc.

When Stanley Mills recently asked his father did he ever know a singer called "Milton Irving," the publisher derided, "What kind of a name is that for a singer," whereupon the son played him an old platter and identified him as Irving Mills. Some of this is contained on the Decca diskbiog of "The Ellington Era" for which Irving Mills wrote the liner notes.

The presentation of the pub's personal musical calvacade will be made ultimately but Bess and Irving Mills meantime are due in Australia this weekend, en route from the Fiji Islands and New Zealand, with the Far East to be liesurely surveyed.

By coincidence, a postcard from the Mills in the Fijis states, "Found this very interesting but not musically. Everything sounds like 'Diga, Diga Do'."

'Hoot' Package's Tour

Another Hootenanny package has been put together to hit the midwest circuit next week. In the unit will be The Clancy Bros. & Tommy Makem, Oscar Brand, Jean Ritchie, Judy Collins and Josh White Jr.

The group will be on the road from Nov. 9 through Nov. 14.

Frisco Jazz Critic
RALPH J. GLEASON
expounds on
Why and How Payola Gets You Nothing
* * *
another interesting Feature in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

And'son, Howard, Cedarwood Tops In BMI Citations

Bill Anderson, Harlan Howard and Cedarwood Publishing Co. will lead the writer and publisher contingent in the Broadcast Music Inc. country & western Citations of Achievement awards to be presented tomorrow (Thurs.) during the Country Music Festival in Nashville. Anderson and Howard are the leading writer-award winners with four BMI citations, and Cedarwood is the top publisher-award winner with six citations.

In all, BMI will award 53 writers and 31 publishers from 11 states, Australia and Canada its c&w citations. The BMI awards are based on trade paper polls of national popularity and public acceptance, reflecting record and sheet music sales, radio and tv performances, coin machine plays, and other factors measured in these polls.

Other multiple writer-award winners will include Wayne P. Walker with three awards; June Carter, Jack Clement, Hank Cochran, John Loudermilk, Webb Pierce, Justin Tubb and Alex Zanetis, with two awards each. Other publishers winning multiple BMI awards include Acuff-Rose and Pamper Music with five awards each; Central Songs, four awards; Tree Publishing, three awards; Glad Music, Jack Music, Moss Ross Publications, and Samos Island Music, each with two awards.

Bill Anderson's winners are "I've Enjoyed as Much of This as I Can Stand," "Still," "Tips of My Fingers" and "We Missed You." Harland Howard's citation-getters are "Don't Call Me From A Honky Tonk," "Second Hand Rose (Second Hand Heart)," "You Comb Her Hair" and "You Took Her Off My Hands."

Cedarwood's winners are "Detroit City," "Hello Out There," "Leavin' On Your Mind," "Lonesome 7-7203," "Pride," and "Sands of Gold."

L.A. Local 47 to Curb Halloween's Goblins With 25 Cuffo Kiddie Concerts

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

AFMusicians' Local 47 will expend upwards of $3,000 out of its share of Music Performance Trust Funds to put on free kiddie concerts in at least 25 public playgrounds Halloween.

Each combo will comprise either four or six tooters, plus leader. Working will be those not otherwise employed, and all will receive union's casual scale—same scale they would get for a commercial gig: $39.38 for leader, $26.25 for sidemen. Says local prexy John Tranchitella, "This is our direct participation in a youth activity that not only has social merit, but also serves to introduce youngsters to quality jazz music. . ."

Another obvious design is to help communities keep prank-minded Halloweening youngsters out of mischief. The concerts will start at either six or seven p.m., Thursday (31) and continue till nine or 10 p.m.

Among bandleaders who will front various combos: Rex Stewart, Clyde Dunn, Ronnie Savitt, Armando Rendon, Andy Florio, Bob McNeeley, Lou Blackburn, Jesse Price, Lonnie Bolden, Jewell Grant.

NOGAS MOVE INTO FILM - JUKEBOX BIZ

Helen Noga, who with her husband, John, manages such singers as Johnny Mathis and Mike Clifford, is branching into the film-juke area via a new product tentively called Videotron.

Helen and John Noga are partnered with Col. Robert Kaye in the new machine which plays a disk a la a regular jukebox operation and shows an 8m film of the performer along with it. The machine will be manufactured in Long Beach, Calif.

The Nogas and Col. Kaye are now in negotiation with various record companies for permission to use their artists on 8m film for showing on the machine.

802 Membership Split Over Dues Hike Referendum

A hassle developed within the ranks of Local 802 late last week over the exec board's decision to conduct a referendum to repeal the dues hike approved by the membership in September. An emergency meeting of rank and file musicians was held in New York Oct. 25 in which it was charged that the union officials were unlawfully trying to reverse the vote.

At the Sept. 9 membership vote, the dues were raised to $80 per year and the 1½% work tax was abolished. The dues were formerly $24 per year.

The tootlers who are opposed to the referendum feel that the money necessary to support the Local should be shared equally by all members "not by just a few who devote all their time to the profession." They further complain that this referendum, if not stopped will burden them with the financial support of the union since the vast majority of those who receive the ballot are non-performer parttimers and moonlighters who don't pay attention to wage scales because music is only a sideline with them, so naturally they would want low dues and high taxes on the full-time musician.

They also contend that several thousand members live outside the boundary of Local 802 and have no interest in the affairs of the union other than the free $1,000 insurance policy for the low dues of $24 that they have been paying.

All the 600 members present at the emergency meet signed a petition requesting the American Federation of Musicians to order the officials of Local 802 to pull back the referendum. If the AFM refuses to do so, the members will then order their attorney, Don Grody, to proceed with a Federal Court action. About $3,000 was collected at the meeting as a kitty for the legal procedure

Murray Rothstein, who chaired the meeting, said, "the system that the officials are trying to impose is taxation without representation." The meeting was sponsored by a group of tooters who publish a newspaper called "Musicians Voice For Professional Musicians."

Local 802 officials announced last week that the mailing of the ballots on the referendum would begin about Nov. 1 and that all ballots should be returned by Nov. 23.

Schwartz Joins C-P

Red Schwartz has taken over as national promotion director for Cameo-Parkway Records. He'll be in charge of all promotion activities, encompassing C-P's field men, distributors, promotion men, disk jockeys, program directors, radio-tv stations, etc.

Schwartz was most recently affiliated with the Vee Jay label. He'll be based in Philadelphia for C-P.

Court Voids AFM $6 Per Capita Tax; Decish to Have Far-Reaching Effect

The $6 per capita tax passed by the American Federation of Musicians at its Miami convention last June has been ruled "unlawfully adopted" in N. Y. Federal Court. In a decision handed down Monday (28), Judge Richard H. Levet held that the convention failed to comply with mandatory provisions that delegates voting at a union convention should receive not less than 30 days written notice on the matters to be voted upon. "Since the convention failed to comply with the mandatory provisions," the Judge said, "I am forced to declare the action taken increasing dues to be void."

The ruling marks the second time in the history of the labor movement that a union's convention ruling was overturned by a court. The first time was with Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters' Union several years ago. The AFM will now have to bring the matter up again at its next conclave and it's a moot point as whether the tax will again be carried.

Judge Levet's upset of the $6 per capita tax has wide repercussions. Many Locals of the AFM have already adjusted their dues structure to comply with the Federation's tax and now it's a question as to whether they'll reduce their dues.

Also, the hassle in New York's Local 802 (see separate story) partially stems from the $6 per capita tax and it is now expected that this will further strengthen the tootlers' demands that the exec board's planned referendum to reverse a dues hike be withdrawn.

In Judge Levet's ruling, he further found that there were two voice votes and that the chair (AFM president Herman Kenin) did not revert to Roberts Rules of Order that called for a hand vote after an indecisive voice vote. He also found that many members of the Federation who are members of more than one local had no opportunity to instruct their various delegates how they would vote.

Plaintiffs in the action against the AFM were Julius Schwartz, Buddy Kane, Robert Curtis, John C. Rosenmerkel, Eddie Wittstein, Ben Cutler, Marty Levitt, Matt Gillespie and others.

20th Label Sets Indie Prod. Ties

Norman Weiser, veepee in charge of operations for 20th Century-Fox Records, is bolstering his label's activities via indie production tieups. He's now made production agreements with Budd Granoff and Joe Csida, among others, for their product to be released under the 20th Century-Fox banner.

The deal with Granoff brings Lena Horne, Kitty Kallen, Neil Hefti and Eddie Heywood into 20th's fold. The Csida tie brings in disks by Sylvia Sims, The Three Young Men and Jim Lowe. And in a tie with indie producer Al Kasha, Tony Martin and Artie Butler will be released by 20th. In addition, there's a deal brewing for Douglas-Kameron Productions to produce a series of jazz albums for 20th.

Miss Horne's first single for 20th, "Now," is already on release and she will cut her first album early next year. Miss Kallen and Heywood will cut their first albums within a month, as will Martin, who is also scheduled for a concert at New York's Carnegie Hall shortly. Another addition to the label is The Mary Kaye Trio. The group will cut its first album for the label next month, for release in January, 1964.

Under the agreement with Granoff Productions, the producer will employ the services of Hefti, Ray Ellis, and Milton DeLugg as arrangers and producers for the sessions to be cut exclusively for the label.

Weiser also expects to get a kidisk line going shortly. It'll be known as the Humpty Dumpty line and will feature Jim Ameche. The series will be tied in with a Humpty Dumpty mag, an affiliate of Parents Magazine.

Anka's 'Songs,' Duchin's 'Danced' Dale's 'Flag,' Thornton's 'Highway,' Tillotson's 'Loving' Top New LPs

PAUL ANKA: "SONGS I WISH I'D WRITTEN" (RCA Victor). Paul Anka has a flock of hit songs to his credit but there are some he himself wishes he'd written. In this set there are 15 tunes he admits to and no composer would be ashamed of them, either. With the help of some nifty arrangements by Don Costa (who also conducted the orch), Anka gives them all their due with a straightforward vocal approach that will bring many programmers and consumers to the sides. Some of the tunes are as current as "Ramblin' Rose" or as vintage as the Johnnie Ray click "Cry." In between are such standouts as "It's Not For Me To Say," "Memories Are Made Of This," "I Can't Stop Loving You" and "Moon River."

PETER DUCHIN ORCH: "WE COULD HAVE DANCED ALL NIGHT TO PETER DUCHIN, HIS PIANO & ORCHESTRA" (Decca). The aim of this set is to get the listener in a dancing mood and it works. It's almost a replica of one of Peter Duchin's sets at New York's St. Regis Hotel, where he pulls in the young dancing crowd from September until June. His beat is not limited to the youngsters, though, for it's flavorsome and simple enough to get their parents dancing along. The package is paced to hold maximum interest and runs from a moody "As Long As He Needs Me" to a breezy "Mack The Knife." In between are such highly danceable items as a "Bye Bye Birdie" medley, a "Can-Can" medley, "The Party's Over" and "I Could Have Danced All Night," of course.

DICK DALE & HIS DEL-TONES: "CHECKERED FLAG" (Capitol). Dick Dale is another surfer who's taken the hot rod road on disks for a big score. He's already rolling with the single of "The Scavenger," which is included in this package, and the juves get a big helping of the same as the sides in the set shoot by. Working with the Del-Tones, Dale gets a vocal wallop into his work that's sure to stir up juve excitement. Among the flock of hit rod material are four of Dale's own compositions, "Surf Buggy," "Night Rider," "Ho-Dad Machine" and "Motibn." They are all likely pullout spinning bets.

TERI THORNTON: "OPEN HIGHWAY" (Columbia). Ever since her pullout on the indie Dauntless label several months ago with "Somewhere In The Night," Teri Thornton has been a singer on the move. In this, her first package for Columbia, she fulfills the anticipatory excitement with a songbag that's sure to build her as a potent entry in Col's stable. Title number of the set, the theme from th "Route 66" tv'er, is already out as a single and should be a solid trailer for the package. She's a jazz singer with a pop touch which gives her a broad base, and arranger-conductor Larry Wilcox has seen to it that all elements are displayed to advantage.

JOHNNY TILLOTSON: "YOU CAN NEVER STOP ME LOVING YOU" (Cadence). Although he's now on an indie production tie with MGM Records, Johnny Tillotson will still bring a lot of coin into the Cadence coffers with this new package. The set is pegged on "You Can Never Stop Me Loving You," his most recent Cadence single click and the marquee lure is immense. The other tunes in the package are teen-pegged items that the youngsters will go for in a big way, too. Among them are "Donna," "Venus," "A Very Good Year For Girls" and "Where Is She." Larry Wilcox did the standout orch support on "You Can Never Stop Me Loving You" and Archie Bleyer handled the other sides in his usual deft manner.

BUD & TRAVIS: "IN CONCERT" (Liberty). Although this is packaging of a Bud & Travis concert that took place in 1960 at the Civic Auditorium in Santa Monica, Calif., there's a timeliness to it that makes it still pertinent today and with the folk fad in full swing, quite effective. The boys were in top form then and their score is excellently grooved for repeat enjoyment. The repertoire is made of standard stuff and holds up. Also, the boys brought in percussionist Alberto Calderon and Mexican bassist Charles Gonzales to assist them on some numbers, and the sounds are full and flavorsome. Added sales lure is the fact that it's a two-LP set which Liberty is peddling for the price of one.

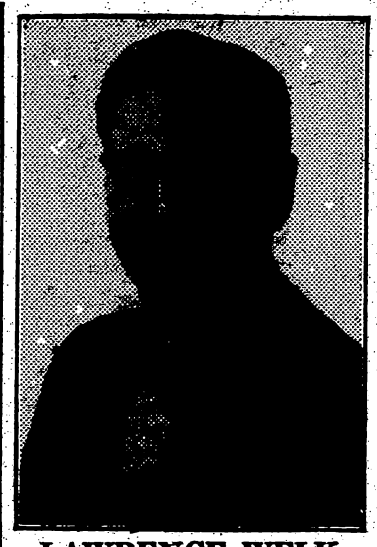
CLIFF RICHARD: "HITS FROM THE ORIGINAL SOUNDTRACK OF SUMMER HOLIDAY" (Epic). "Lucky Lips" is the key song from the "Summer Holiday" pic score and it's already proven a winner in the U.S. market for British singer Cliff Richard so the package is off to a good start. Once the film gets general release, it should develop into a hot selling item following the sales pattern of his "Lucky Lips" click. Richard is a legitimate singer with a forceful style that draws teen approval. He also makes much with "Do You Want To Dance," "It'll Be Me" and the title song.

JOE FINGERS CARR AND BIG TINY LITTLE: "MR. RAGTIME MEETS MR. HONKYTONK" (Coral). The pairing of ragtimer Big Tiny Little and honkytonker Joe Fingers Carr emerges as an inspired keyboard session that swings with a spirit and good humor. Each side bounces along at a happy pace with a high spinning potential. It's a tossup as to what sides the programmers will go for but "Down Yonder," "Dardanella," "Play A Simple Melody" and "Nola" seem to have the edge.

JOHN SCOTT TROTTER NEW NARAS PRESIDENT

John Scott Trotter was elected national president of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS) in Hollywood last week at the conclusion of a two-day meeting of national trustees and officers. Other national officers elected were Billy Taylor (New York), 1st veepee; Dick Schory (Chicago), 2d veep; Is Horowitz (New York), secretary; and Francis M. Scott (L.A.), treasurer.

Retiring national president Robert Yorke presided over the annual gathering of trustees of the record academy until the election of new officers. (Last week Yorke exited his veepee spot at RCA Victor and has not yet announced his new affiliation.)



LAWRENCE WELK
Has Another Hit Dot Record!
"BLUE VELVET," B/W "FIESTA"

UN TO BENEFIT FROM SLICK ALL-STAR LP

A standout original album production has come to the aid of the United Nations. It's an all-star job called "Three Billion Millionaires" created by Robert Allen (music) and Peter Farrow and Diane Lampert (book and lyrics). The set is being distributed through United Artists Records with the proceeds going to UNICEF and the U.S. Committee for the U.N.

The story line of the production is built around a representative of the children of the world demanding a voice in the U.N. It serves as a solid peg for some exciting musical ideas that can stand alone as potent song entries. Among them are "Tower Of Babel," "One More Lamb," and the title song. Each is enhanced by standout delivery. Bing Crosby does "Babel," Sammy Davis Jr. hits hard with "Three Billion Millionaires" and Judy Garland pulls out all heartfelt punches with "One More Lamb."

In addition to the aforementioned celebs, the package also packs a potent selling pull with Jack Benny, Carol Burnett, Wally Cox, Danny Kaye, George Maharis and Terry Thomas, among others. An understanding pitch by Adlai E. Stevenson is neatly inserted in the proceedings.

Composer Allen also handled the musical production and Ray Ellis did a fine job with the arrangements and the orch conducting. The package, produced and narrated by Arnold Michaelis, is a natural to fill the U.N. coffers as well as the entertainment demands of the turntables. Gros.

Longplay Shorts

RCA Victor has 22 albums on its November schedule including new packages from Paul Anka, Amanda Ambrose, Frankie Carle, Skeeter Davis, Valentine Pringle, Porter Wagoner and Joe Williams, among others. Three RCA International albums and three RCA Mexicana albums are additional highlights of the November release . . . The Decca disking of William Lawson's "Negro Folk Symphony" by the American Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Leopold Stokowski, was launched Monday (28) at a fete—at New York's Tea Center co-sponsored by Decca, Sesac and Radio New York World Wide . . . Caedmon Records donated 1,500 albums to the April In Paris ball held at N. Y. Americana Hotel last Friday (25). For the charity affair Caedmon contributed a documentary disk by H. L. Mencken and Carol Channing's readings from Anita Loos' "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" . . . The Clancy Bros. & Tommy Makem, who have an "At Carnegie Hall" package out on Columbia, have been set for a concert Nov. 15 at New York's Philharmonic Hall.

Crestwood Advertising Agency and Robert Poore have merged to form Bob Poore Enterprises, a talent management agency headed by Poore, a former General Artists Corp. agent. In the new agency's stable are The Gaslight Singers, Randy Armour Singers, blues singer Jackie Carroll, The Echoes, Windy Bay Three, Barry Frank and Louis St. Louis. The firm will also produce tv programs and commercials . . . Jack La Forge, Regina Records president, guests on Joe Franklin's WOR-TV show today (Wed.) . . . RCA Victor special Christmas catalog merchandising campaign includes extra discount special return privileges, a hefty ad campaign and a concentration point-of-sale materials . . . Society bandleader Al Madison has produced his own LP, "Smart Set Swing." He'll handle distribution himself.

Al Martino, currently on his first tour of Australia, has been held over for an additional week at the Savoy-Plaza Hotel in Melbourne. Originally booked for nine days at the hotel through Oct. 29, he will now remain through Nov. 5 . . . Gene Pitney, currently out with two new Musicor LPs, "Blue Gene" and "Gene Pitney Meets The Fair Young Ladies Of Folkland," has been set for an extensive European tour beginning Nov. 13. He'll appear in England, France, Germany and Italy—countries where his diskings have made a dent . . . The Chad Mitchell Trio drew nearly 10,000 people Oct. 19 for a concert at the Cole Field House in the U. of Maryland . . . Buddy Greco, Epic disker currently at New York's Americana Hotel, is an addcd starter in the American contingent appearing at the Royal Command Vaudeville Gala at London's Price of Wales Theatre Nov. 4 to raise funds for the Variety Artists Benevolent Fund.

Top Singles Of The Week

(The 'Best Bets' of This Week's 100-Plus Releases)

PEREZ PRADO ORCH . . . . . EL DENGUE
(RCA Victor) . . . . . Natalia-Dengue
Perez Prado Orch's "El Dengue" (Peer International†) gives this veteran orch a standout swinging instrumental mambo-like idea which could project it to the top of the pop bracket once again. "Natalia-Dengue" (Peer International†) is a colorful takeoff on a similar conception for the Latin hoofers.

* * *

LENA HORNE . . . . . NOW!
(20th Century-Fox) . . . . . Silent Spring
Lena Horne's "Now!" (Stratford) is a stirring civil rights plea spelled out in exciting musical terms by Jule Styne, Betty Comden and Adolph Green who adapted it from "Hava Nagila" and it's pushed across with proper vocal force. "Silent Spring" (Harwin*) takes its title from the Rachel Carson bestseller but it, too, is a plea for better undertanding among people. Its slow blues quality is quite effective and marks a happy reunion for Harold Arlen and Yip Harburg.*

* * *

RUTH OLAY . . . . . GONNA BUILD A MOUNTAIN
(Everest) . . . . . Scarlet Bird
Ruth Olay's "Gonna Build A Mountain" (Ludlow†) is a brightly swinging number that gives this savvy nitery performer a good chance to crack the pop lists. "Scarlet Bird" (Hallmark-Arrowhead) is a fine class ballad also handled very well.*

* * *

CHAD MITCHELL TRIO . . . . . THE MARVELOUS TOY
(Mercury) . . . . . The Bonny Streets of Fyve-Io
Chad Mitchell Trio's "The Marvelous Toy" (Teena) registers as a charming novelty which could pick up lots of steam via the moppet route. "The Bonny Streets of Fyve-Io" (Teena*) is an Irish marching song which this folksinging trio delivers in stirring style.*

* * *

TINY . . . . . AW, SHUCKS BABY
(King) . . . . . Everybody Needs Some Loving
Tiny's "Aw, Shucks Baby" (Hennessy†) shapes up as a rollicking rocking entry projected in highly flavorsome style by this blues stylist. "Everybody Needs Some Loving" (Arma†) is a hard-hitting ballad with a gospel sound.

* * *

LES & LARRY ELGART . . . . . WALK RIGHT IN (Columbia) . . . . . Santy Anno
Les & Larry Elgard Band's "Walk Right In" (Peer International†) dishes up this vocal hit of a few months ago in a nifty instrumental version that could start the number stirring again. "Santy Anno" is another tightly executed side based on an old melody.

* * *

WILLIS SISTERS
WHERE WERE YOU WHEN I NEEDED YOU
(ABC-Paramount) . . . . . The Pretty One
The Willis Sisters' "Where Were You When I Needed You" (E. B. Marks†) scores as a pleasant, easy-going ballad with the type of lyric which hits the teenage target. "The Pretty One" (Apt) is an okay rocking entry with an overworked lyric idea.*

* * *

CHARLIE RICH . . . . . BIG BOSS MAN
(Groove) . . . . . Let Me Go My Merry Way
Charlie Rich's "Big Boss Man" (Conrad†) delivers its message with a powerful beat and a traditional blues feeling which this singer dishes up for modern taste. "Let Me Go My Merry Way" (Rich†) also shapes up as a blues-styled entry with solid impact.

* * *

ARTIE & LINDA . . . . . BLUEBERRY HILL
(Chancellor) . . . . . Laughing On The Outside
Artie & Linda's "Blueberry Hill" (Chappell) turns up the oldie in a way-out jazzy, rhythmic slice which makes it barely recognizable, but which could mop up the juke spins. "Laughing On The Outside" (Gower†) is an interesting workover of this old ballad.*

* * *

MARGARET LEWIS . . . . JOHNNY'S CASH OR JOEY'S LOVE
(Capitol) . . . . . I Almost Called Your Name
Margaret Lewis' "Johnny's Cash or Joey's Love" (Big Boppert†) dishes up a typical teenage idea in a highly appealing vocal arrangement. "I Almost Called Your Name" (Shulert†) gives the songstress another familiar ballad idea, but she projects it very well.

* * *

THE GLENCOVES . . . . . DEVIL'S WAITING
(Select) . . . . . Better Think Twice
The Glencoves' "Devil's Waiting" (Joy†) gives this vocal combo a dramatic saga of a truck ride down a mountain which could catch on as a contemporary-styled work song. "Better Think Twice" (Joy) changes pace with an uptempo folksong idea with a familiar melodic line.*

* * *

BARBARA WELLS . . . . . WHEN A WOMAN'S IN LOVE
(Coral) . . . . . Pretty Boy
Barbara Wells' "When A Woman's In Love" (Rual) impresses as a well-written rocking ballad with a torch lyric projected in a gospel groove by this fine songstress. "Pretty Boy" (Jomith†) picks up steam with a straightforward blues entry.*

* * *

OTIS REDDING . . . . . PAIN IN MY HEART
(Volt) . . . . . Something Is Worrying Me
Otis Redding's Pain In My Heart" (East-Time†) scores as a slow-tempoed ballad with a firm beat and a typical blues lyric tailored to this singer's style. "Something Is Worrying Me" (East-Time†) is a more routine item with far less impact.

* * *

BOBBY RYDELL . . . . . FORGET HIM
(Cameo) . . . . . Love, Love Go Away
Bobby Rydell's "Forget Him" (Leeds) has a ballad punch and a sharp vocal delivery that could crack through the spinning barriers and bring the singer back to the hit lists again. "Love, Love Go Away" (Fajob*) drives home a teen-treated message with a rhythmic lilt and the simple lyric lines that the juves understand.*
Herm.

ASCAP. †BMI.*

Inside Stuff—Music

Aron Vergelis, Moscow Jewish editor of the literary bimonthly Sovetish Heimland (Soviet Homeland), only national USSR publication in the Yiddish language, denies there is any "Jewish problem" in Russia, per the N.Y. Times' Thedore Shabad. This is what he wrote in the literary newspaper, Litersturnya Gazeta.

Footnoting this screed is a show biz angle revolving around the MGM Records' release of "Kol Nidre" as sung in the Moscow Central Synagogue. It was said to have been taped secretly during Yom Kippur by a Belgian tourist, and MGM decided to distribute it. Vergelis refutes the Yiddish daily, The Day & Jewish Morning Journal, published in New York, which wrote, "In the voice of the old cantor, in the moaning of hundreds of worshippers, we sense all the suffering, all the grief, all the tragedy of our brothers in the Soviet Union." Vergelis commented that "Kol Nidre" sounds equally tragic whether sung in a Moscow, New York, Sydney (Australia) or Tel Aviv synagogue.

Importance of album covers as a sales lure was pointed up anew with the release of Champ Butler's initial Gillette LP, "Heartaches By The Dozen." Three weeks ago, the company shipped 10,000 albums with black and white covers to distributors around the country, at initial jacket cost of several thousand dollars above the $10,000 production cost of the album itself. Butler took off on a deejay promotion tour and had already hit four cities when word began trickling back to Gillette's Hollywood headquarters that the jacket was hurting sales. Label's president, Carl Cotner, (who was long Gene Autry's musical conductor-arranger at Columbia) called back the entire shipment and ordered a complete redesign of the cover. The company hired album artist Bill Pate to design a new four-color cover, with a resulting three-week delay of the album's release, and an additional cost in excess of $3,000 for an initial order of 10,000 albums.

A contingent of American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers writers and member of management will fly to Nashville Oct. 31 to attend the Country Music Festival. ASCAP became part of the Nashville scene last March when it opened a district office there. Among those attending the fest in behalf of ASCAP will be writers Sylvia Dee and Arthur Kent, who wrote the recent Nashville-cut disk, "End of the world;" Johnny Marks Edward Heyman; Jack and Stanley Mills, ASCAP sales manager J. M. Collins; Dick Frohlich, the Society's director of public relations; and David Nelson, ASCAP's southern division manager. Mrs. Juanita Jones, in charge of membership affairs at the Nashville office, and Asa Bush, district manager, have arranged an ASCAP reception Nov. 1 at the Andrew Jackson Hotel.

Nearly 12 years ago U.S. immigration authorities barred six Toronto Symphony sidemen from entering to play a concert in Detroit. No reason was ever given. Lester B. Pearson, then external-affairs minister (later President of the UN) and now Prime Minister, protested in vain to the U.S. Government. All six lost their jobs. One, violinist Steve Staryk, then 20, went to England. He eventually became concert master of the Royal Philharmonic under Sir Thomas Beecham, then of the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam. Last week he crossed the U.S. border, unchallenged, to become concertmaster of Chicago Symphony.

A new approach to band music promotion will spearhead a national campaign launched this month by Carl Fischer Inc. Complete thematics of four new concert band pieces accompany a seven-inch recording sent to band directors in all parts of the country. The recording introduces "Burnished Brass" and "Symphonic Prelude" by John Cacavas, "Bandology" by Eric Osterling, and "Chorale for Band" by Frank Erikson. The works are recorded on the new label, Pembroke Records.

The N. Y. Federal Court last week refused to stop the sale by Diamond Records of the Del Shannon disk, "Sue's Gotta Be Mine" and "Now She's Gone" released on the Berlee label. Twirl Records had applied for an order restraining sales by Diamond.

Local 47 Pay Dispute Puts L.A. Philharmonic Season in Jeopardy

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

For the second year in a row, a wrangle between Musicians Local 47 and the Southern California Symphony Assn. has put the local longhair season in jeopardy.

Issue last year was dismissal of four members of the Philharmonic orchestra (they were ultimately reinstated), this year it's money. Union is asking a three-year pact for Philharmonic's 97 members which would raise minimum salaries from present $5,000 for a 34-week season to $7,600 on a 40-week guarantee the third year. The association has tendered offer of 34-week minimum of $6,120 after three years.

Breakdown on a weekly basis between association offer and union demand is as follows: $157.50-$160 first year; $167.50-$175, second year; and $180-$190, third year. Union's demand for a six-week extension in the season is actually the most costly portion of proposal, the sum of which SCSA insists will cost it a total of $575,000 third year. Association notes that it already has a $125,000 deficit for this year.

Side issue is the "no strike, no lockout" clause in one-year pact under which orchestra performed last season. Union says it will acquiesce to terms of clause for a new three-year contract if a provision for binding arbitration is included.

Under terms of present pact, which expired Sept. 7, union had neither strike nor arbitration rights. Musicians refusal to sign a new contract, of course, constitutes much the same thing as a strike.

Roland Moritz, who chairs the orchestra committee, notes that wage scale for local symphonic musicians ranks fifth in the nation behind New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia. Eastern minimum ranges from $9,400 to $12,000 for seasons which go from 44 to 52 weeks, according to Moritz.

Moritz cited L.A. Chamber of Commerce figures which asserted the average L.A. income was $7,400, to back up his contention that Philharmonic orch members are more than overdo for a raise. Acknowledging that musicians have extra 18 weeks to pick up additional coin in other assignments, he argued, however, that having been out of circulation for so much of the year, they are at a great disadvantage in competing for jobs.

First to be affected by contract impasse is scheduled slate of concerts orch was to give at various schools. Philharmonic season officially launches Nov. 13, but orch was scheduled to report Nov. 1 for rehearsals. Vote to refuse SCSA's offer was 74 to 6, 17 members unavailable.

No meetings have been scheduled between the union and the association, though Local 47 prexy John V. Tranchitella states that union officials are prepared to "bargain for a fair settlement even if around-the-clock sessions are needed."

Negotiations have been underway since January. Also discussed, but not considered crucial issues, are hospitalization, expansion of pension plan, paid vacations and dismissal procedures.

Jay-Gee Into Far East

Jay-Gee Record Co. has taken on the Far East. The diskery, which produces the Jubilee and Josie labels, has tied in with Cosdel of Tokyo to handle manufacture and distribution of Jay-Gee products in the Far East.

Cosdel will press for Jay-Gee at its Tokyo plant and will distribute records throughout the Far East, with Japan, the Philippine Islands, Malaya and Hong Kong as principal distribution areas.

Bob Dylan's 'Protest' Songs Fill Carnegie With Teenster Fans

By LEONARD L. LEVINSON

If the overflowing, enthusiastic crowd of teensters at Carnegie Hall Saturday night (26) was any indication, Bob Dylan, who sings his own folk-idiom songs, is the voice of the future. But judged by the content of his program, the future holds nothing but complaint of the past and the present. Protest appeared to be Dylan's only stock-in-trade and the conditions he railed against included segregation, war mongers, Nazis, poverty, injustice, commercial hootenannies, blacklisting, prize-fighting, atom fallout, hard-hearted sweethearts, Fabian and the selling and buying of soap. Nowhere was there one word of hope or remedy.

His audience loved every word and he could do no wrong. Attired in green, open shirt, suede jacket, jeans and boots, Dylan sang to his own guitar accompaniment, alternating words with harmonical interludes, the mouth organ mounted on a harness around his neck. Separate mikes for guitar and voice was a good idea which took some adjusting before it worked.

Dylan's numbers vied with each other in lugubriousity. With no titles in the program to guide a reviewer, this is an approximate rundown: "Times Change," "Horace Brown" (poor man kills family of 6 and self), "Who Killed Danny Brown" (first-rate death-in-the-ring ballad), "Boots of Spanish Leather," (wandering sailor), "Talking John Birch Blues," (mildly effective), "Lay Ye Down," (hymn), "Blowin' In The Wind," (his big hit), "The Rain and the Wind," "Riley Stole a Stallion," (his daughter guv herself to the sheriff, but they hung him anyhow), "Walls of Red Wing," (prison), a song about an open-pit mine disaster, "A Hard Rain's A-Gonna Fall," (atom blast in William Blake style), and, in the second half, "Crazy Dream," or "Bob Dylan's Dream," (only survivor of atom bomb), "Don't Think Twice, It's All Right," (a popular torch), "God's On It's Side," (and He better stop the next war, or else—), "A Pawn in the Game," "The Masters of War," and "The Lonesome Death of Hattie Carroll," (about the Baltimore Negress who died after a blow from a drunk's cane).

Dylan took time off to be scornful of a teacher who didn't understand the expression "Blowin' in the Wind," but his writing and delivery seemed deliberately iggerunt. While several of his lyrics are well-thought-out and effective, more are filled with sloppy rhymes, lack of basic literary discipline and an apparent willingness to settle for the first idea and form that entered the writer's head. Real folk songs have been smoothed and polished by ten thousand tongues and ten thousand experiences and maybe that is what the bottom two-thirds of Dylan's output needs. Added was an anti-intellectual attitude that matched that of any John Bircher he sang against. Dylan was born the year of Pearl Harbor and his appeal is to a group even younger. Unlike the next older generation, who came back from World War II and Korea seeking only security and happiness, these younger people seem to be in bitter, vocal revolt against the world today. But how to change it and which way to go? The only answer Bob Dylan seems to have is: "Blowin' in the Wind."

Troyano to Chancellor

Latest addition to the Chancellor label is Joyce Troyano. The young singer comes from Drexel Hill, Pa. Chancellor is a Philadelphia-based firm.

White House Helped Find Coin to Bail D. C. Symph Out of Musicians' Strike

Washington, Oct. 29.

The most significant development in the settlement of the National Symphony Orchestra strike here is that the symphony, for the first time, got the White House to do something about its troubled financial affairs.

While the immense generosity of Mrs. Marjorie Post May, one of the nation's wealthiest women (General Foods, Texas oil, etc.), actually accounted for almost all the cash the symphony needed to settle the strike, the active interest of the federal Government in the symphony's financial problem was a "first" which could bring the orchestra more lasting benefits.

Mrs. May pledged separate $100,000 gifts for the calendar years 1963, 1964 and 1965, making the commitment binding on her estate because she is elderly. (Perhaps no U.S. orchestra has received as much from a single individual recently as the National Symphony has from Mrs. May, who is first vice president of the orchestra assn. During the eight years prior to her latest $300,000 pledge, she gave the orchestra $1,000,000.)

President Intervenes

Two things happened on the governmental front:

—President Kennedy directed one of his assistants, Charles A. Horsky, to do what he could to find money outside Washington to end the musicians' strike. This story has never been told before, but Horsky put the symphony management in touch with a fatcat corporation which agreed to pay for one extra week under the pay hike for each the 1964 and 1965 seasons. ($20,000 for '64; $21,000 for '65.)

The corporation can't be named, apparently because it doesn't want publicity for "buying off a strike," considering its own relations with its own unions. The corporation involved was a source of coin never before available to the National Symphony, and likely never would have been without the White House door opening.

—President Kennedy also assigned two Cabinet officers the job of finding new sources of contributions for the National Symphony from business and labor. Getting this assignment, quite naturally, were Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges (business and industry) and Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz (labor unions). This move is viewed as one which could be of great value to the orchestra for years to come.

Under these new circumstances, the orchestra has hopes that the District of Columbia government will start making regular contributions to help support the symphony.

Redtape Snagged Gift

The D.C. government actually earmarked $8,000 for the National Symphony in each 1961 and 1962 But under the Rube Goldberg entanglements of government as it functions in Washington, Congress has control on all local monies. As a consequence of Congressional budget scissoring, the orchestra received nothing in 1961 and only $3,000 in 1962.

Final settlement of the strike was a commitment to the musicians for 34-week seasons in 1964 and 1965, with the right to reopen contract discussions in Spring, 1964, on only two issues, wages and length of season. (There were a number of fringe benefit issues involved in the strike which never did get settled to the musicians' satisfaction, and they must be postponed until Spring, 1966.)

Because of the loss of concerts this season due to the strike, only 31 weeks will be played. Horsky of the White House produced a surprise just as the strike ended. He revealed he had found an anonymous giver who had donated $7,500 to be paid in extra salary this year. It meant a mere $77.50 per musician but represented something no one had counted on before.

Rogers the Hero

Symphony manager M. Robert Rogers is the hero who got Mrs. May and her checkbook together at the right time.

Mrs. May, who has mansions in several other places and spends

(Continued on page 50)

Twist Ousting Bagpipes?

Glasgow, Oct. 29.

Scotland, land of the bagpipes, may find itself soon faced with a shortage of men to play them in the future. In music circles here, it's found that today's youths in Auld Lang Syne terrain are more interested in learning to Twist and play the guitar.

An official of Glasgow's College of Piping, confirming this, said: "It's fantastic, but there seems to be far more interest in piping abroad than there is in Scotland."

AFM's Chi White & Negro Locals Merging in Nov.

Chicago, Oct. 29.

Auditors furnished by the national headquarters of the American Federation of Musicians are going over the books of the all-Negro Local 208 and predominantly white Local 10 in Chicago in the second phase of the merger talks to form them into one local.

The merger, which is being pressed by AFM international prexy Herman Kenin and will probably set a pattern for the remaining 38 segregated musicians' locals in the nation, should be completed by about mid-November.

Despite a veil of secrecy that has been dropped over the meetings, it has been learned that Local 208 prexy Harry Gray is increasingly bitter over the direction of the talks. Gray wants the top officers of his local put into paid positions in the merged local under long term contracts.

Local 10 chief Barney Richards has said that any such contract could only be valid as long as he were in office and that he could not saddle future boards of directors with employees not of their choice. There's also some doubts as to whether such an agreement would be legal under existing labor laws.

Without the job guarantees, Gray maintains that the merger represents a total loss for the officers of his local. The membership of Gray's local has already voted to endorse the merger over their prexy's protest, but Gray's demurrer was generally considered to be a move to give him a freer hand in the horse trading.

As it stands now and through no fault of any of the participants in the merger bartering, Gray and his officers will come out of the negotiations with nothing more than any new member of Local 10 might be eligible for. This, despite the fact that Local 208 did not choose segregation but was forced into it when it was formed 61 years ago and has run an above-board union since then.

The frustration inherent in the situation is reflected in a remark reportedly made by Gray in a heated exchange. "Why is it that we have to merge with you," Gray asked, "instead of you merging with us?"

Surfaris Slap Dot With 100G Name Piracy Suit

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

The Surfaris, singing group of minors, has filed an action in Superior Court seeking an injunction to prevent use of their name. Listed as defendants are Dot Records, Dot Records Distributing Corp. and six other firms. Suit also asks $100,000 damages and accounting of profits.

Codefendants include Dorothy Freeman Enterprises Inc., Princess Record Co., Robin Hood Music Co., Merit Distributing Co., Miraleste Music Co., and Broadcast Music Inc. Complaint likewise wants an injunction to restrain use of the name, likeness or photographs of the minor plaintiffs, on the covers or labels of phonograph records or albums produced or distributed by defendants.

Yank Pop Diskers Span Globe As Tune Source; Lotsa O'Seas Clicks

No point of origination is too far to be tapped as a source for the American pop disk business these days. Songs are coming in from all parts of the globe and it's getting so that a Baedeker is needed to keep track of the imports.

One of the prime examples currently is "Maria Elena." The song, a Latino standard, was recorded four or five years ago by Herman Diaz for the now defunct Vik label in an LP with Los Indios Tabajaras, a Brazilian group. It was never released as a Vik issue but recently RCA Victor brought it out.

The side was picked out by Klavan & Finch, deejay team on New York's WNEW, and sparked Victor's releasing it as a single for the N.Y. area only. It was subsequently covered by other record companies (primarily Billy Mure on Epic) and Victor decided to release it nationally.

Another foreign item that has broken through in recent weeks is "Cuando Caliente El Sol." It was made in Mexico a couple of years ago but failed to make any dent in the market there. It did do well in Italy, however, and RCA International reports a worldwide sale of more than 700,000 copies to date. So, now Steve Allen is covering the RCA International disk for Dot, London Records also covers it, and The Platters have etched it in Spanish for Mercury.

In recent months Rolf Harris clicked big in the U.S. market with his Austhalian-made "Tie Me Kangaroo Down, Sport"; Sakamoto hit for Capitol with his Japanese-made "Sukiyaki"; and Frank Ifield's English-made "I'm Confessin'" is also clicking here for Capitol.

Peggy March's RCA Victor hit, "I Will Follow Him," was an Americanized version of "Chariot," a big international success. Now, Miss March has cut it in Italian and German in preparation for her second swing through the Continent this coming December.

On the other side of the coin are the American-made disks that move out slowly here but score in other parts of the world. Harry Belafonte's "Mary's Boy Child" on RCA Victor failed to make any dent in the U.S. market several years ago but it became the first record in England to pass the 1,000,000 sales mark.

And, similiarly, there is now Paul Anka's current Victor single, "Hello Jim." It hasn't yet made a strong-selling impression in the U.S. market but it's a runaway bestseller in Belgium, Holland and France.

Nashville

Continued from page 47

sity members of the "Opry" mingle with the visitors. The meal, etc. are scheduled this season in the new Municipal Auditorium, which has a larger seating capacity; a comfort feature lacking in the hotels during such previous tee-off segments.

BMI Awards Dinner

Side events on the agenda include Broadcast Music Inc.'s achievement awards dinner at Belle Meade Country Club, a posh layout miles from the downtown CP. This is the soiree where BMI executive v.p. Bob Burton distributes citations to writers and publishers of country and western tunes which have been chart-wise successes in 1963. Incidentally, this is a by-invitation only function; real dressy. (See separate story.)

Also in the not-on-the-official-program category is the fifth annual Country Music Assn's banquet and show at the Municipal Auditorium Friday night. This is a $10 open-to-all fete, although ticket sale is limited to 800. CMA president Gene Autry is due in, if health permits.

Entertainment is to be provided by Tex Ritter, Eddy Arnold, Leroy Van Dyke, Hank Thompson & his Brazo Valley Boys, Jean Shepard, Flatt & Scruggs and The Plainsmen.

The weekend festivities wind up with the "Grand Ole Opry" four-hour performance Saturday night at The Old Opry House (nee Ryman Auditorium). However, for the benefit of the late departees, Columbia Records hosts a koffee klatch Sunday morning—complete with aspirin.

"HAVE A HAPPY DAY"
and "THE BITTER END" with words and music
by
GLADYS SHELLEY
and sung by the
CALLICOATS
Will be featured on the Ed Sullivan Show, CBS-TV network this Sunday, Nov. 3, 8 P.M. E.S.T. Sheet copies and records available.
★★★★★★
SPIRAL RECORD CORP.
Publishers
875 Fifth Avenue
New York 21, N. Y.

As BEAUTIFUL
As The Title
"BEAUTIFUL"
DON ROMANO
on MERRY-GO-ROUND
MILLS MUSIC, INC.
New York City

JACK WYATT
TRIO
Just Concluded INTERNATIONAL INN, Tampa, Fla.
Oct. 28 - Nov. 23—THUNDERBIRD MOTOR HOTEL, Jacksonville, Fla.
Nov. 25 - Jan. 11, '64—INTERNATIONAL INN, Tampa, Fla.
Jan. 13 - Feb. 8—RIVIERA LOUNGE, Atlanta, Ga.
Feb. 10 - Mar. 7—THUNDERBIRD MOTOR HOTEL, Jacksonville, Fla.
BOOKED EXCLUSIVELY BY ASSOCIATED BOOKING CORPORATION
JOE GLASER, President
50 WEST 57 STREET, NEW YORK 19 JUdson 2-7700
CHICAGO • MIAMI • BEVERLY HILLS • LAS VEGAS • DALLAS • LONDON

VARIETY SINGLE RECORD T.I.P.S.

(Tune Index of Performance & Sales)

This Wk.	Last Wk.	No. Wks. On Chart		Label
1	1	6	SUGAR SHACK James Gilmer	Dot
2	3	6	DEEP PURPLE April Stevens & Nino Tempo	Atco
3	9	6	MEAN WOMAN BLUES Roy Orbison	Monument
4	2	8	BE MY BABY Ronettes	Philles
5	5	10	BLUE VELVET Bobby Vinton	Epic
6	16	4	I'M LEAVING IT ALL UP TO YOU Dale & Grace	Michelle
7	11	6	TALK TO ME Sunny & Sunglows	Teardrop
8	6	5	I CAN'T STAY MAD AT YOU Skeeter Davis	Victor
9	14	4	MARIA ELENA Los Indios Tabajaias	Victor
10	13	4	WASHINGTON SQUARE Village Stompers	Epic
11	22	3	IT'S ALL RIGHT Impressions	ABC-Par
12	4	8	CRY BABY Garnet Mimms	UA
13	7	7	BUSTED Ray Charles	ABC-Par
14	12	6	FOOLS RUSH IN Rick Nelson	Decca
15	32	2	SHE'S A FOOL Leslie Gore	Mercury
16	8	7	DONNA THE PRIMA DONNA Dion	Columbia
17	36	2	500 MILES AWAY FROM HOME Bobby Bare	Victor
18	47	2	BOSSA NOVA BABY Elvis Presley	Victor
19	19	4	DON'T THINK TWICE Peter, Paul & Mary	Warner Bros.
20	17	9	THEN HE KISSED ME The Crystals	Philles
21	10	9	SALLY GO ROUND THE ROSES The Jaynettes	Tuff
22	46	2	EVERYBODY Tommy Roe	ABC-Par
23	31	2	CRY TO ME Betty Harris	Jubilee
24	44	2	DOWN AT PAPA JOE'S Dixie Belles	S.S.7
25	18	11	SURFER GIRL Beach Boys	Capitol
26	23	8	THAT SUNDAY, THAT SUMMER Nat King Cole	Capitol
27	24	4	THE GRASS IS GREENER Brenda Lee	Decca
28	15	7	BLUE BAYOU Roy Orbison	Monument
29	29	7	HONOLULU LULU Jan & Dean	Liberty
30	28	5	I'LL TAKE YOU HOME Drifters	Atlantic
31	21	11	HEAT WAVE Martha & Vandellas	Gordy
32	20	13	MY BOYFRIEND'S BACK Angels	Smash
33	33	2	CROSSFIRE Orlons	Cameo
34	42	3	WORKOUT, STEVIE, WORKOUT Little Stevie Wonder	Tamla
35	—	1	MISTY Lloyd Price	Double-L
36	26	13	IF I HAD A HAMMER Trini Lopez	Reprise
37	25	5	PART TIME LOVE Little Johnny Taylor	Galaxy
38	34	3	YOU LOST THE SWEETEST BOY Mary Wells	Motown
39	—	1	YOUR OTHER LOVE Connie Francis	MGM
40	43	6	HELLO HEARTACHE, GOODBYE LOVE Little Peggy March	Victor
41	48	2	A LOVE SO FINE Chiffons	Laurie
42	30	9	A WALKIN' MIRACLE The Essex	Roulette
43	35	2	NIGHT LIFE Rusty Draper	Monument
44	—	1	WALKING THE DOG Rufus Thomas	Stax
45	—	1	NEW MEXICAN ROSE Four Seasons	Vee Jay
46	—	1	MAKING BELIEVE Ray Charles	ABC-Par
47	—	1	SWEET IMPOSSIBLE YOU Brenda Lee	Decca
48	37	2	POINT PANIC Surfaris	Decca
49	27	5	BUST OUT Busters	Arlen
50	39	5	TWO TICKETS TO PARADISE Brook Benton	Mercury

White House

Continued from page 49

only a few months of the year in her fabulous Washington showplace, happened to arrive in town during the strike. Rogers went to see her the next day to discuss the plight of the orchestra.

She wrote him a confidential letter pledging $300,000 over three years (extending the season of each year by five weeks) on one set condition: that the Kennedy Administration would "support" assistance at the local governmental level for the symphony. "The best hope," she wrote, "for the kind of support that is needed must be governmental itself—not the federal government, but the local government."

Mrs. May made the letter confidential because she intended to withdraw her cash offer if the Kennedy Administration failed to turn some heat on the District of Columbia government.

Rogers went to see Labor Secretary Wirtz with Mrs. May's letter, and things started happening. The strike was over within a few days.

The HIT! OF THE WEEK
MGM Picture Star
Now on MGM Records
GEORGE HAMILTON
Sings
DON'T ENVY ME
K 13178
M-G-M Records

THE ANSWER MY FRIEND IS
"BLOWIN' IN THE WIND"
PETER, PAUL & MARY • WB 5368
CHAD MITCHELL TRIO • KAPP K 510 X
JERRY JACKSON • KAPP K 543
BOB DYLAN • COL. CL 4986
DENNIS & RODGERS • CRS -300 X
ARTHUR LYMAN • HI-FI L 1013
BOB HARTER • LIBERTY LRP 3330
JACKIE DeSHANNON • LIBERTY LRP 3320
ODETTA • RCA LPM 2643
THE KINGSTON TRIO • CAPITOL T 1935
MUSIC PUBLISHERS HOLDING CORP.

GEORGE HAMILTON
Sings
DON'T ENVY ME
on
MGM RECORDS
FAMOUS MUSIC CORPORATION

B. B. KING
"Slowly Losing My Mind"
B/W
"How Do I Love You"
ABC-10486

VARIETY ALBUM BESTSELLERS

(A National Survey of Key Outlets)

This Wk.	Last Wk.	No. Wks. On Chart
1	2	3	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) In the Wind (W 1507)
2	4	7	BARBRA STREISAND (Columbia) Volume II (CL 2054)
3	1	27	BYE BYE BIRDIE (Victor) Soundtrack (LOC 1081)
4	3	42	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) Moving (W 1473)
5	5	12	ALLAN SHERMAN (Warner Bros.) My Son the Nut (WB 1501)
6	8	7	ELVIS PRESLEY (Victor) Golden Records, Vol. III (LPM 2765)
7	11	75	PETER, PAUL & MARY (Warner Bros.) Peter, Paul & Mary (W 1449)
8	6	7	RAY CHARLES (ABC-Par) Recipe for a Soul (465)
9	17	104	WEST SIDE STORY (Columbia) Soundtrack (OL 5670)
10	10	30	ANDY WILLIAMS (Columbia) Days of Wine & Roses (CL 2015)
11	9	12	TRINI LOPEZ (Reprise) Trini Lopez at PJ'S (6093)
12	7	11	NEW CHRISTY MINSTRELS (Columbia) Ramblin' (CL 2055)
13	21	10	NANCY WILSON (Capitol) Hollywood My Way (T 1934)
14	13	11	KINGSTON TRIO (Capitol) Sunny Side (T 1935)
15	16	4	AL MARTINO (Capitol) Painted Tainted Rose (T 1975)
16	15	5	BOBBY VINTON (Epic) Blue Velvet (LN 24068)
17	22	22	SMOTHERS BROS. (Mercury) Think Ethnic (MG 30777)
18	14	15	VARIOUS ARTISTS (Capitol) Shut Down (T 1918)
19	12	35	LAWRENCE OF ARABIA (Colpix) Soundtrack (CP 514)
20	24	30	HOW THE WEST WAS WON (MGM) Soundtrack (1E5)
21	19	18	JAMES BROWN (King) James Brown Show (826)
22	18	34	JOAN BAEZ (Vanguard) Baez in Concert (VRS 9112)
23	27	10	SURFARIS (Dot) Wipe Out (DLP 3535)
24	26	28	BARBRA STREISAND (Columbia) Barbra Streisand Album (CL 2007)
25	35	7	JOHNNY MATHIS (Columbia) Johnny (CL 1809)
26	31	16	NAT KING COLE (Capitol) Lazy, Crazy Days of Summer (T 1932)
27	23	9	MONDO CANE (United Artists) Soundtrack (UAL 4105)
28	30	31	ROY ORBISON (Monument) Greatest Hits (MLP 8000)
29	—	1	CHAD MITCHELL TRIO (Mercury) Singing Our Minds (MG 20838)
30	28	4	FRANK SINATRA (Reprise) Sinatra's Sinatra (R 1010)
31	32	29	NANCY WILSON (Capitol) Broadway My Way (T 1828)
32	41	19	HENRY MANCINI (Victor) Uniquely Mancini (LPM 2692)
33	—	1	SWINGLE SINGERS (Phillips) Bach's Greatest Hits (PHM 200-097)
34	42	4	VENTURES (Dolton) Let's Go (BLP 2024)
35	20	6	BOB DYLAN (Columbia) Freewheelin (CL 1986)
36	34	2	FOUR SEASONS (Vee Jay) Golden Hits (LP 1065)
37	25	3	JIMMY DURANTE (Warner Bros.) September Song (W 1506)
38	—	1	PETER NERO (Victor) In Person (LPM 2710)
39	—	1	SMOTHERS BROS. (Mercury) Two Sides of (MG 20675)
40	36	3	BEACH BOYS (Capitol) Surfer Girl (T 1981)
41	39	9	LAWRENCE WELK (Dot) Scarlett O'Hara (3528)
42	43	24	BEACH BOYS (Capitol) Surfin' U. S. A. (T 1890)
43	38	31	KINGSTON TRIO (Capitol) Kingston Trio No. 16 (T 1871)
44	40	7	LIMELITERS (Victor) 14 Folk Songs (LPM 2631)
45	37	4	CHAD MITCHELL TRIO (Kapp) Best of (KL 1334)
46	33	19	AL MARTINO (Capitol) I Love You Because (T 1914)
47	47	13	ASTRONAUTS (Victor) Surfin' With the Astronauts (LPM 2760)
48	46	6	CHUCK BERRY (Chess) On Stage (LP 1408)
49	48	50	JOHNNY MATHIS (Columbia) Newest Hits (CL 2016)
50	45	19	CLEOPATRA (20th-Fox) Soundtrack (FXG 5908)

West Germany Becoming Mecca for U.S. Jazzmen; Folk Blues Fest's Big Biz

Frankfurt, Oct. 29.

West Germany is becoming more and more receptive to American jazzists, with the music catching on locally among the younger set and the jazz copyists looking to the big names for inspiration.

Right now, the American Folk Blues Festival 1963 is touring West Germany. Headlined by Muddy Waters, Memphis' Slim, Willie Dixon and Sonny Boy Williamson, the group is doing exceptionally good business.

At a distant suburb of Frankfurt, for instance, the group drew a record crowd of 2,600 to the Jahrhunderthalle at Hoechst, a surprising number of young folks to come this far out of town for such a musical event. The unit's other playdates are at Paris, Vienna, Munich, Berlin, Hamburg and Copenhagen.

The John Coltrane Quartet is also set for a German tour at the end of this month, with Duke Ellington band, Ella Fitzgerald, Oscar Peterson and the Cannonball Adderley Sextet scheduled for the winter months in Europe.

And with the European jazz scene picking up via imitation, a w.k. German jazz group is heading for Asia. The switch is that the Albert Mangelsdorff Quintet of Frankfurt will swing through India, Ceylon, Thailand, Indonesia, Vietnam, Hong Kong, Japan and the Philippines with the German artists presenting their jazz interpretations.

Garner's Double Life on Platters

Erroll Garner is now leading a double life on disks. In addition to being represented on the Reprise label with his "One World" package, he's now out under the Mercury banner with the soundtrack package of "A New Kind of Love."

The schism stems from the fact that Reprise is now in the Warner Bros. Pictures fold and the "A New Kind Of Love" pic is a Paramount release. Both packages, however, were produced by Garner's own firm, Octave Records.

"A New King Of Love" marks Garner's first motion picture assignment although not his first try as a composer. The pianist is scoring handily with his "Misty" composition which is now getting a hot platter run via the Lloyd Price vocal disking.

The "A New Kind Of Love" package, which has Garner on piano accomped by a 35-piece orch under the direction of Leith Stevens, cost $27,000 to produce. Famous Music, publishing arm of Paramount Pictures, is publishing the Garner compositions for the pic. They are strictly instrumental pieces right now, but it's expected that lyrics will soon be set to some of the compositions.

Garner's clicko "Misty" started out as a strictly instrumental piece but a year after its publication lyrics were put to the melody by Johnny Burke.

Form Milan Indie Distrib To Handle Yank Labels

Milan, Oct. 29.

A new independent record company, CGD International, has been set up here with Giuseppe Giannini in the top post.

Company will have exclusive Italo rights for the following brands: Reprise, Cameo-Parkway, Ascot, Carlton, Derby, Everest, Festival, MGM, Palette, 20th-Fox, Parker, United Artists, Verve. It will also handle foreign release of the following Italo outfits: Acquario, CGD, GC and Jukebox.

According to Giannini, the new setup has a twofold purpose. On the one hand, it is designed to provide a more consistently developed Italo outlet for its associates' foreign artists and pressings; on the other, to exclusively rep and promote its Italo affiliates abroad. New firm, incidentally, was built on previous structure of Compagnia Generale del Disco which remains, but as a separate entity.

Case Of 'Great Band Robbery' Goes To Trial in Vegas; Long Run Looms

By FORREST DUKE

Las Vegas, Oct. 29.

The case of "The Great Orchestra Robbery" got underway here Tuesday (22). It's a courtroom oddity—an oratorio about a Las Vegas conductor whose orch jilted him—with a cast of scene-stealers, a chorus of eight lawyers, and a guest star who gracefully mashed the leading man's toes.

The first scene's hubbub of subplots, melodrama, and unexpected twists hinted that the Benny Short "band theft" trial may be better than expected. It rapidly grew so complicated that it may be in for a long run, too.

Harry Belafonte, in a personal appearance before District Judge Taylor Wines, was called on to defend Short, whose $100,000 lawsuit against competitor Lewis Elias, Musicians Union Local 369 and the Riviera Hotel hinges on his contention that he was robbed of his relief band at the Riviera in 1961.

Short, through attorneys Morton Galane and Leslie Jones, says his livelihood was jeopardized, his reputation damaged, and his longtime Riviera Hotel contract wiped out by a "malicious scheme" involving all the defendants.

Elias, through Gene Matteucci, and the hotel, through John Foley and William Woodburn Jr., both immediately asked to be dropped from the action, claiming Short's case of band theft involves only himself, his former musicians, and the local, but the motion got nowhere.

Short's side began with a lengthy account of phone conversations between Ben Goffstein, then prexy of the Riviera, and union officials. The result, he contended, is that one day in March, 1961, there was word the Riviera was dropping his one-night-a-week fill-in contract, but keeping his band with Elias as its leader.

Belafonte Testifies

Then Belafonte took the stand. Galane, making the most of his top attraction, got the singer to explain to the jury of 10 women and two men why some orchestrations—such as Belafonte's—are harder to play than others and require better musicians and more rehearsals.

"Better music is tougher," Belafonte explained.

"Did you ever complain about Short's band?" the defending team asked in cross examination.

"Yes," Belafonte replied.

"Did you ever complain about Benny Short personally—about his conducting?" Galane hastened to ask when it came his turn again.

"I couldn't complain about him," answered Belafonte, "he never conducted for me.

Another bright moment came when Nat Brandwynne, Thunderbird Hotel maestro and onetime fixture in the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom, bawled out a union attorney when the Los Angeles lawyer said he had never heard of the witness.

"You must not dance," Brandwynne said with a shrug.

Short's attorney spent most of the first day trying to get copies of newspaper, magazine, and trade paper reviews favorable to their client inserted into the court record.

Short choked up with emotion when his long solo began the following day. On the first night he conducted "La Plume de Ma Tante" in relief, he said, and two top union officials sat in on the performance. He implied they were there because Goffstein had put an unusual question to the union: "Can we keep Short's band without Short?"

'Don't Louse Up Show'

A month later, Short testified, the two came to the show again on relief night. While the three

(Continued on page 60)

British Disk Best Sellers

London, Oct. 29.

Do You Love Me? . Tremeloes (Decca)
Then He Kissed Me . . Crystals (London)
She Loves You . . . . . Beatles (Parlophone)
Blue Bayou . . . . . Orbison (London)
Never Walk Alone . Peacemakers (Columbia)
The First Time . . . . . Faith (Parlophone)
If I Had a Hammer . . . Lopez (Reprise)
Shindig . . . . . Shadows (Columbia)
I . . . . . Bassey (Columbia)
Hello Little Girl . . . . Fourmost (Parlophone)

Frank Music's Reade-Sterling Pic Tune Tieup

In a further expansion of its music publishing activities, Frank Music, firm headed by Frank Loesser, has tied in with Walter Reade-Sterling Inc. The new outfit, to be called Walter Reade-Sterling Music Corp., will be an affiliate of Frank Music.

The new firm will be used for exploitation of music obtained from motion picture and tv sources controlled by Walter Reade-Sterling and its subsidiaries. Walter Reade-Sterling Music's first project will be "Ladies Who Do," an English comedy soon to have its American premiere in New York. The score was composed and conducted by Ron Goodwin.

Walter Reade-Sterling, a producer-distributor of pix and tv, most recently was represented by such films as "Room At The Top," "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning," "A Taste Of Honey," "This Sporting Life," "David and Lisa" and "Lord of The Flies." The scores from the last two films are current independent projects of Frank Music Affiliates.

Frank Music will have complete management control with the Walter Reade-Sterling org supplying the music. For a closer working operation between music and pix, Frank will be called into music discussions at the inception of the new film projects. In the past, publishers usually have been called in to work on a finished product without consultation.

'Opry' Troupe in Cuffo Knoxville Show to Help Colleague's Mayoral Bid

Knoxville, Oct. 29.

A "Grand Ole Opry" troupe, featuring Lester Flatt, Earl Scruggs and Chet Atkins, appeared at Knoxville Coliseum tonight (Tues.) to help fellow artist Lowell Blanchard, who is candidate for mayor in the Nov. 7 primary.

The group donated their talent and paid their own expenses for the trip from Nashville. Learning about the mayoral contest, the "Opry" performers asked to put on a show for Blanchard, entertainer and radio announcer, who has often worked with the "Opry" team on tour.

"Smiling Eddie Hill" acted as emcee. Others in the group included Grandpa Jones & Romona, Billy Grammar, Bill Carlisle & the Carlisles, Martha Carson, Hot Shot Elmer, Benny Martin, Bonnie Lou & Buster and the Tennesseans Quarter.

Blanchard, who formerly served as city councilman, is running against incumbent Mayor John Duncan and William Tallent. "This great lift sure proves that show people stick together," Blanchard said, before outlining his platform before the capacity audience.

Colpix Gets Morgan

Jane Morgan will now etch under the Colpix banner. For a long time, the singer had been a Kapp disker. The pacting of Miss Morgan marks Colpix's first step in bringing established artists to the label. Heretofore, Colpix had been concentrating on new artists. Miss Morgan's first single under the Colpix banner will be issued later this month.

Basin St. East, N. Y.

Gloria De Haven (with Hank Jones Orch), The Village Stompers (8), London Lee; $3.50 cover.

Basin St. East has come up with a bill that seems to surprise everybody including the performers, audience and management. It is unusual on many counts. All the turns here are newcomers to the boite. One is making a first onstage appearance, another the first date on the local scene in a long time and the third is a comparative newcomer to the business albeit a bright and appealing lad.

All this came about because Frances Faye, originally booked for this session, is headed for more medical treatment and cancelled out.

Headlining is Gloria De Haven, who is an unusual booking for this room. More the hotel type, she came in at virtually the last minute with hurriedly written arrangements and lack of suitable rehearsal. However, she carries off the entire project gracefully. Singer has a ready and quick sense of humor to tide her over these difficulties and she got a lot out of a crowd highly sympathetic to her unfavorable situation.

Miss De Haven was unprepared for this venture as was the band helmed by Hank Jones. Latter incidentally works valiantly to transform the headliner from a worker in the squarer citadels to one acceptable in the hip hospices. With more time, the trick could have been turned handily. Miss De Haven seems to be a pliable personality and despite her handicaps on opening night, had most of the audience plugging for her.

Another item of considerable interest is The Village Stompers, a dixieland outfit which is registering excellently on the charts with "Washington Square." This group is green at personals, and it's evident in their Basin St. East bow. There is an uneasiness in deportment but they show a good musical form.

Their sound is hearty and joyous. Once they can establish greater rapport with audiences, they'll live it up both artistically and financially. The instrumentation is light and mobile with trumpet, trombone, clary, two guitars (one alternating on banjo), plus a three-man rhythm section. Their work is virtually straight instrumental. With some embellishments to help give the Stompers some personality, they could be off and moving.

London Lee has been making the nitery scene for a few months, and still impresses as one of the more likeable newcomers in the comedic sphere. He has an excellent characterization, that of a rich boy trying to grow out of his upbringing and be a regular fellow. Within that frame, he has gags to show him to be an essentially nice kid who wishes he could have been braced for life by experiencing some hard knocks.

Thus the early part of his act is extremely successful, despite moments of caricature, such as his giveaway of real $1 bills at the beginning of his act with the explanation that his mother said he should make friends immediately. This one line seems to give him his necessary characterization.

Lee goes along excellently until he essays a bit of special material labeled "East Side Story." It has to be cut from his act in its present form since it destroys everything he built up previously. But there's a good gimmick in his display of dresses from his father's factory. Generally, Lee seems to improving by strides, and he's reached the stage where he must be extremely careful with material.

Jose.

Shell Bar, Honolulu

Honolulu, Oct. 17.

Ed Kenney, Leilani, Rene de Knight Trio; $1 cover.

Hilton Hawaiian Village's Shell Bar, w.k. through the Hollywood counterpart set for tv's "Hawaiian Eye" series, is launching a new format, with Ed Kenney featured in Broadway and pop songs.

Singer is a local boy who played a major role in "Flower Drum Song" on Broadway and much more recently fronted a Polynesian revue at the Duke Kahanamoku nitery here.

Room hitherto has specialized in musical combos, such as Martin Denny's and Arthur Lyman's competitive recording groups.

It's a new role, too, for the racially-cosmopolitan baritone who previously has specialized in Hawaiian, ersatz-Hawaiian and Polynesian songs.

Initial program has Kenney reviewing his fledgling career with running commentary interspersed with songs from shows he's appeared in locally as well as on the mainland. His commentaries, when used with restraint and without being cute, come off okay.

Featured with him is dancer-singer Leilani (Bermudez), who had appeared with Kenney in the earlier nitery stint. She teams neatly in "Happy Talk," from "South Pacific."

The Rene de Knight Trio provides some competent background music and also plays for listening only (no dancing) before the show.

Jack.

Statler-Hilton, Dallas

Dallas, Oct. 25.

Kay Ballard (with Arthur Siegel), Don Ragon Orch (10); $2.50-$3 cover.

It's been too long since Kaye Ballard played a nitery here, but she captured an Empire Room full of aficionados at her Thursday (24) opening, auguring a lusty fortnight here for the singing comedienne. Surprisingly, she opens her exciting 40-minute stint with a series of gags. And the redhead, beautifully gowned, scores with the risible routine, especially the dialect bits. She abets the opening vocal, "Here and Now," with light hoofing and throwaways ("I do my own choreography, no line of boys") for chuckles.

Miss Ballard, with about the best club outing ever seen locally, clicks with comic songs, "Monopoly," "Don't Drink the Water" and kids her own weight ("I'm a big-boned girl") via a reducing routine for more palm praise. In a serious vein her vocal prowess is evident with Fanny Brice's "Rose of Washington Square" and Noel Coward's ballad, "I'll Remember Him."

Click continues with a belting "Everything's Coming Up Roses" and Miss Ballard salutes Arthur Siegel, conducting from the piano, with his new tune, "I Want You to Be the First One to Know," for a rousing begoff.

Don Ragon's house band gives solid backing under Siegel's guidance at showtime, and dishes fine dansapation under Ragon's baton.

Act runs through Nov. 6, with no followup set. Bark.

Edgewater Beach, Chi

Chicago, Oct. 21.

Dorothy Donegan with her trio, Edgewater Beach Guys (4) & Dolls (4), Don Davis Orch; $2-$2.50 cover.

The Polynesian Village is just about the poorest setting for a jazz act in Chi, and the current Dorothy Donegan booking tends to bear this out. Opening night turnout was one of the lightest in recent memory for the room, and judging from the audience response the situation doesn't look to improve for the rest of her engagement despite the fact that most supper clubs are doing great biz during the October convention season.

Giving Miss Donegan the benefit of the doubt, she appears to be aware of the futility of musical sophistication in this room and instead does a flippant show that makes little pretense of the modern jazz styling of which she is capable.

As a matter of fact, she can be credited with giving the audience what it wanted since they loudly applauded a lead sheet arrangement of "Greensleeves," hokey noodling on "Road To Mandalay" and "Ritual Fire Dance" and a vapid version of "What Kind of Fool Am I." Add to this a "Saints" closer with drummer Red Holt doing a tambourine solo and Miss Donegan doing the Twist.

What is further frustrating to more knowing cafegoers is that in the midst of this hanky panky Miss Donegan frequently shows bursts of pianistic brilliance and the sort of muscular, thoughtful and whimsical keyboard work for which she is known. Her trio generally follows her lead and comes to life sporadically, but for the most part seems bemused.

Robert Simpson's resident Guys & Dolls troupe works hard to promote some excitement in the lightly filed room. However, with its complement reduced from 10 to eight and an essentially characterless revue format, the group provides a colorless curtain raiser. Lee Beery looks and sounds sweet in her "Sleeping Bee" solo, and Bobby Scherkenbach delivers a potent version of "Who Will Buy."

Mor.

Stardust, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 23.

"Bravo!" fifth edition of Lido de Paris; with Les Salvadori Crazy Gang (5), Tosca De Lac, Zemgano Sisters (2), Klant's Tigers (3), Mac Ronay, Dominique, Parker & Powers, Bardella Bros. (3), Elwardos (4), Andree Laurence, Colette Bousquet, Win Karish, Michael Tartel, Bluebell Girls (16), Nudes (10), Eddie O'Neil Orch (17); conceived and produced by Pierre Louis-Guerin and Rene Fraday; staged and directed by Donn Arden; show supervision, Frank Sennes; stage direction, Bill De Angelis; original Music and lyrics, J. Harbert with Landreau, Gruyer, and Delvincourt; $5 minimum.

After four consecutive longrun hits, the Stardust has another in the latest Lido de Paris lavish revue, this one titled "Bravo!"

Staged with superb finesse and savvy polish by Donn Arden, the French spectacular is a fast-moving parade of topnotch novelty acts, overwhelming production numbers, and of course it has an abundance of beautiful women. Probably the only complaint on opening night would come from the casino bosses, because the show ran just a couple of minutes under two hours.

Highlight of the Pierre Louis-Guerin and Rene Fraday production is the Parisian circus which is better than the old-fashioned tent varieties. It features three well-trained tigers and some seals, latter aquatic clowns doing yock-provoking balancing, dancing, musicianship, and applauding.

An aerial act (Tosca De Lac & the Zemgano Sisters) spotlights a twirling trapeze nude in excellent web acrobatics, plus two shapely lookers performing above the audience. Typical clown comedy comes from Les Salvadori "Crazy Gang" group, generous with slapstick, outlandish props, costumes, and musical instruments.

Two familiar acts are back for this one, and both are prime in their field: pickpocket Dominique; magician pantomimist Mac Ronay, whose futile attempts to do tricks are very funny.

The Bardella Bros. (3) add humor with their knockabout routine in which they sing while standing on their hands; the Elwardos (4) are effective with their hand stands and cartwheels; Parker & Powers are a smooth click with their graceful ice skating; Win Karish has a fine singing voice heard in several roles; Andree Laurence is the featured nude with the beautiful face and fantastic body; Colette Bousquet is the comely lead songstress; Michael Tartel guides the festivities as singer-emcee.

Surprises include a flight of doves which come from the rear light booth and land on the stage; a galloping musketeer on a real horse; and a forest fire (during the exciting and colorful black-lit voodoo number) which may not be as frightening as the dam break in the previous show—but will be as much of a conversation piece.

Show supervisor Frank Sennes, company manager Bill De Angelis, and art director Harvey Warren deserve special credit for the success of "Bravo!" as do the precision Bluebells Girls Dancers (16). Eddie O'Neil's orch (17) does a splendid job of backing the show, in for an indefinite run—which probably means at least two years.

Duke.

Roosevelt Grill, N. Y.

De Castro Sisters (3); Milt Shaw Orch, Frank Marcy Trio $2-$2.50 cover.

Arthur D. Dooley, general manager of the Hotel Roosevelt, is striving for a winning format in the Roosevelt Grill which will lure new patrons, in addition to the dance regulars. He's tapped the De Castro Sisters to headline the current bill, and the trio is one of the more favorable entries since the present entertainment policy began this fall. Dooley has wisely retained the Milt Shaw Orch for customer terping and to back the show. There's also the Frank Marcy all-string trio for relief—so there's never a lull in the dance music.

Billed as three lovely Latin bombshells, the De Castros are a veteran group. Their current act is about their best to date although patently it could pick up pace if trimmed some 10 to 15 minutes. Such a slice is required to cut lightweight tunes and routines.

The De Castros are at their best with such colorful numbers as "South of Border" and their Capitol-recorded "Red Sails in Sunset." Trio also has a winner in their excerpts from "Wizard of Oz." The femmes sport colorful and rich garb that sets them off splendidly.

Efforts of the trio to do a bossa nova number lean too heavily on some dance steps and detracts from their vocalizing. But the sisters have a snappy version of "Saints Go Marching" which they put across with elan. However, the arrangements of "Just One of Those Things" and "Bye Bye Blackbird" seem too prolonged.

The Milt Shaw band, a fave here, does such standards as "Night and Day," "Lady Is a Tramp," "Goodbye To Rome" and "Moon River" for excellent results. Gene will be busy at the velvet ropes in coming weeks. Wear.

More Night Club Reviews On Page 61

Statler Hilton, Boston

Boston, Oct. 25.

Hildegarde, Sammy Dale Orch (10), Priscilla Howe; $2 cover.

It's Hildegarde in all her glory of nostalgia at the Statler Hilton's Terrace Room, town's posh supper club, second time around since last winter. Opening to convention crowd, she does some of her w.k. numbers, "J'aimez Vous," "Last Time I Saw Paris," and "Mademoiselle de Paris."

She makes a production number out of "The Night They Invented Champagne," having the bubbly brought it on a tray by a bus boy with whom she has a bit, then handing out glasses to ringsiders. Working in dark spot, she does a stint at the 88, then switches accompanist George Landis on for a slick jazz number.

Hildegarde, elegantly gowned in black beaded gown, with rose and gloves trademark, gets big returns on all her efforts, but particularly on her pianoistics displayed in "A Concerto Minor." She intros new number, "Cape Cod Fever," for nice rounds of handclapping.

Sammy Dale cut the show in nice fashion. Priscilla Howe, diminutive blonde, sings pops in the dance sets fine styling.

This show exits Nov. 4. Guy.

Flamingo, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 24.

Bobby Darin, Pat Cooper, Inga & Rolf, Russ Black Orch (21); presented by Morris Lansburgh; produced by Mitch DeWood; lighting, Hugo Granata; $5 minimum.

It's "Darin's Last Stand" at the Flamingo—and probably other niteries—because Bobby Darin says he's too busy with his recording activity, tv, films, etc., to make live appearances in the future. (On opening night he told his audience, "Somehow Mr. Morris Lansburgh got the idea that I wasn't going to work here anymore. Oh yes—I remember how he got the idea; I wrote him a letter and told him.") If Darin goes through with his threat, it will be a great loss to Las Vegas, because his act has hit a peak; he has definitely joined the few powerhouse performers who appear on the Strip.

Again Darin demonstrates that he is not only a fine singer—he shows his ability as an outstanding impressionist, a sensitive actor, a smooth comedian, and a competent songwriter ("Splish Splash"). His celeb carbons are accurate, and each song is imbued with his dramatic talent. The session, both inspiring and entertaining, is greatly aided by the excellent Russ Black orch (21) and Darin's guitarist, Milt Norman.

Comedian Pat Cooper makes his Vegas debut on this bill, and happily lives up to the excellent reviews he's been getting in eastern bistros and on the Jackie Gleason tv'er. Although his name is misleading, Cooper is somewhat of an expatriate Italian who gets consistent laughs with his reminiscences of his boyhood; he tells very funny stories of his Italian family's experiences in a Jewish neighborhood in Brooklyn.

The versatile Cooper doesn't rely entirely on the Italian dialect tales—he's a good mimic of many accents, and on top of this he does some of the best rapidfire one-liners heard here in a long time. He is a welcome addition to the Vegas fraternity of standup comics, and would be a strong asset to any showroom anywhere.

Graceful terp team of Inga & Rolf are held over for this bill in a room which is still getting along without a chorus line. Next: Juliet Prowse, Nov. 21. Duke.

Chi Chi, Palm Springs

Palm Springs, Oct. 19.

Jane Russell, Connie Haines & Beryl Davis; Nelson & Palmer; Bill Alexander and Orch (9); cover $2.50.

If an act is only as good as its draw, the chanting trio of Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis, which opened in the Chi Chi Starlite Room Friday (18), is a smash. It packed the crate. It sprayed glamor, gorgeous costuming and song styling in so many varieties that their charm and showmanship seemed inexhaustible. And the act is as clean as the first created flakes of snow.

By now of course it is not a new act. It broke in at the Roaring 20s in San Diego and polished its performance at the Cave in Vancouver and the Riviera in Las Vegas, but here it was at its zenth.

Their opening was not too hot. Peter Potter introduced them and he was more made up than the girls. They opened with "Most Unusual Day" and it certainly was because Palm Springs had over two inches of rain and many of its cross streets were flooded. Last year up to this time it didn't have a drop.

Their costumes were full-length white dresses, each one styled differently. Over their dresses they wore full-length evening wraps of white down, as stunning a layout as this bistro has ever seen.

Not, however, until they got into what brought them together—spirituals—did they begin to roll and after that, though they broke up into singles and costume changes until the end when all three were attired in costumes which looked like they were made from a cloth of gold under one lighting and as if they were silver under another, they never lost the pace.

Including singles, and their singing as a trio, they did 13 numbers, in a wide variety of styles. Most of them were standards but Beryl Davis sang the "Prayer of Christopher Robin," an unusual number for a nitery, and probably got the warmest, though not the loudest, hand of the evening. Connie Haines topped her in the same field with the standard "I Believe." Jane Russell tried "Mack the Knife," hardly a number for a girl, but she did a superb variation of it.

In the end they began rolling into their pet spirituals, "Vaya Con Dios," "Elijah, the Rock," "Battle of Jericho" and a hootenanny version of a spiritual.

Though begged for encores they quit when they were way ahead. A class act from start to finish.

Bill opened with Nelson & Palmer, comedians who sang, played instruments, clowned around with the audience, did some parodies and had some really good moments, but were on too long. Scul.

Chateau Madrid, Mont'l

Montreal, Oct. 25.

Los Trovadores del Paraguay (3), Carlo Ramos; no minimum, no cover.

What makes this spot unique locally is that it is a supper club in the Spanish idiom, but without the slick professionalism usually found in ethnic niteries.

Fact is that owner Manuelo Sanchez has been able to keep this intimate foom in an atmosphere of authenticity, to the point where the aficionados clap away in rhythm with the flamenco, tunes, and the authentic food and general tone of the place is like something in the heart of Spain.

Current layout, although still mucho Espagna, is basically from South America with the Los Trovedores singing trio—Menito Gonzalez, Miriam Gonzalez and Ereailo Gill—providing a sock 40 minutes of harmonics, all Spanish and South American traditionals, folk tunes and pops. The boys also work with smaller-size harps, adding to the showmanship of the performance.

Carlo Ramos is on his own, a virtuoso guitarist, delivering a wide range of sentimental ballads and bouncy rhythms. His spot is a little tougher than the trio since he has to capture audience attention with an instrument that lacks in dramatic appeal; that he is able to get an excellent reaction is a tribute to his technique.

Withal, a good bill, although it could have been improved with a flamenco terper—always a crowd pleaser. Laza.

AGVA LIFTS PENNY SUSPENSION

H. L. Hunt Cancellation, Int'l Expo's Suit Spotlight World's Fair Lease Snags

Beefs against pullback of leases by the New York World's Fair have started to hit the Flushing show. One suit for $12,799,336 has been filed by International Expositions Co. against the Fair. In another instance, H. L. Hunt, the Texas oil millionaire and food processor, called a news conference last week to explain the Fair's cancellation of his lease to construct a replica of the Tivoli Gardens, Copenhagen.

Hunt's project was to be located in the industrial section of the fair. He said the contract was not cancelled by mutual consent, but by unilateral action by the fair's prexy, Robert Moses.

International Expo, which was to have operated a French exhibit, claimed that the fair conspired with Universal Fairs and Jacques M. Fisher, head of the latter firm, to take over the International franchise and deprive the latter of its investment. International asserts that it entered into an agreement to pay $301,066 to the fair over a period of time to organize, erect and operate the French Pavilion on approximately 50,000 sq. ft. of ground.

Agreement, it's charged, was unlawfully terminated by the Fair last May 27 with the result that International lost its investment of $243,336, incurred unpaid debts of about $500,000, and was deprived of profits "reasonably estimated to exceed $12,000,000."

An additional $56,000 is sought by IEC prexy Francisco Lopez for monies he laid out for rent, and payment to the architect, builders and sales administrative staff.

Hunt said that Moses, whom he described as "ruler of the Fair," ended the HLH concession for no valid reason. Hunt declared that all the objections Moses had raised as to the gaudiness of the structure he was to erect were to be corrected. He also denied that excessive admission charges would prevail.

He asserted that as a result of his dealings with the fair, he is now stuck with a vintage 1900 carousel and a Wild Mouse ride. He indicated that he would like to return to the Fair, but refused to say whether he plans to go to court.

Hunt also alluded to the possibility that the lease might have been terminated because it might serve as a distribution point of right wing political propaganda. But he denied there would be any political material distributed at the Fair exhibit.

Actress
DOROTHY STICKNEY
wames poetic in
You're Not the Type
* * *
one of the many Editorial Features in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Pact Anka For German Tour At Record $37,500

Frankfurt, Oct. 29.

In what's reported to be the most money ever paid an entertainer for a German tour, Paul Anka has been pacted by German showman Karl Buchmann to a 20-day tour of leading German cities for $37,500 plus expenses.

Highest previously paid for a concert tour was $2,500 net nightly for Mario del Monaco.

But the contract for 22-year-old Anka is highly unusual in West Germany because of its big terms. It calls for police protection for the singer to guard him from over-eager fans; a 26-man orchestra (generally such a pact in Germany agrees to a 13-man orchestra).

In addition, the deal states daily tours are to cover not more than 200 kilometers (125 miles), with accommodations in luxury hotels and transportation by luxury auto; first-class program to be included with the Anka act, with restrictions that no one else may sing rock 'n' roll or "hot" numbers on the show.

Tour, set for early in 1964, is estimated to cost about $5,000 per day. As such it will be the most costly venture ever underwritten here, with all risks being carried by the German promoter.

WEAVERS DISBANDING AFTER CURRENT TOUR

The vet folksinging troupe, The Weavers, will disband following their current tour. Reason is the retirement of Lee Hayes, who has been with the group since its beginning.

The Weavers are generally credited with having given impetus to the folksinging vogue, and with it the Hootenanny. They first came to national attention at the Village Vanguard, N.Y., in 1950 and came up with two Decca hits almost immediately. "Tzena," "Tzena" and "Goodnight Irene" brought them into bigtime.

Upstairs At Downstairs Resumes Old Format

Upstairs at the Downstairs, N.Y., which ran the summer on a capsule book-musical policy, is returning to its original revue format, with paid prevues starting Nov. 15. Show, tentatively titled "Up in Irving's Room," is being produced by David Shepherd, and directed by George Morrison.

Cast will include Paul Dooley, Mary Louise Wilson, Richard Libertini, Jane Alexander and McIntyre Dixon. Fred Silver will be in charge of the music. After the prevues, formal opening will take place Nov. 26.

Leroy Prinz's 75G Unit Touring Wash. State On GOP Fundraising Stint

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

LeRoy Prinz, who last year raised $425,000 for Republican Party's Michigan war chest via a show troupe making six appearances in various areas of that state, currently is repeating gimmick in Washington state. Dance director packaged another troupe, some holdovers from Michigan fest, to raise funds for GOP in northern state which opened two-night stand in Seattle yesterday (Mon.) at Opera House.

Tour then treks for single shows to Pasco, Tacoma, Yakima and Spokane. Local GOP organizations scale tix to $100 and split cost of show, retaining profits for next year's political campaign.

Unit was to have been headed by Gordon MacRae but singer had to bow out due to reported throat trouble. Troupe includes Mills Bros., Vivienne della Chiesa, Rowan & Martin, Mamie Van Doren, Georgie Tapps and 24-man Manny Harmon band. Harmon has taken key men from here. None of troupe is endorsing the GOP endeavor (like last year in Michigan) and disclaimers to this effect are announced at all shows.

Prinz gets flat $75,000 for the package.

REFORMERS WIN AT BOARD SESH

By JOE COHEN

The National Board of the American Guild of Variety Artists, which met last week at the Americana Hotel, N. Y., seemed less interested in settling vendettas than in effecting major economies within the union to stop the annual deficits over the past few years. New members of the board corrected what was termed to be one injustice by lifting the 10-year suspension of former president Penny Singleton and restoring her card.

This was done over vigorous objections of oldtime board members and the union's attorney, Harold F. Berg. He declared that the board had no right to overrule the Appeals Board which sustained Miss Singleton's conviction on charges of dual unionism.

National Board, however, took the position that the Appeals Board was created by the National Board and the appeals panel's decisions are subject to review by the national body. Action came Thursday (24), the fourth and final day of the four-day meet at about three a.m. It was a hard-fought issue with holdover members throwing in every roadblock with numerous "points or order" and "points of information."

It was pointed out that this case, which resulted in Miss Singleton filing suit in Los Angeles Federal Court for restoration of her rights, already has brought $7,000 in bills to the union for stenographic notes alone. The attorneys' bills have not come in yet, and are expected to be considerable. The new board members argued that Miss Singleton's suspension stemmed from "personal vendettas" and prevented her from getting more gainful employment in the performing fields.

Board will now try to persuade Miss Singleton to drop her suit. Whether she will do this without being reimbursed for monies she

(Continued on page 58)

Mpls. Jury to Decide If AGVA's Picketing Hurt S&D Circus 275G Worth

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.

It is up to a Federal Court jury here to decide if the American Guild of Variety Artists injured the Smith & Dale (not the comedians) 20-act circus to the extent of $275,000, or at all, by picketing it at Brainerd, Minn., causing its cancellation as a county fair grandstand show there.

William Smith, 60, of this city, owner of the circus, besides suing AGVA for $275,000 is also charging the union with unfair labor practices.

The AGVA defense is that prior to the Brainerd incident, Smith had failed to pay performers $11,000 allegedly due them for their services during a Canadian-Alaskan tour. It was claimed that because of lack of food, animals as well as performers suffered severe hardships.

Counsel for AGVA asserted that about 40 performers, three elephants, bears, four or five horses and some dogs "led a hand-to-mouth existence." AGVA attorney also claimed that when the car of a pair of elderly clowns broke down Smith said, "Let's just leave them here."

On the witness stand himself, Smith charged that "some of the performers took the circus away from me when we were in Canada and they went with it to Alaska." He alleged an AGVA rep threatened a non-union helicopter act he had hired. He denied that a lion died in Alberta after the act joined the circus.

The circus tour had started in Saskatchewan last May and the show spent five weeks touring Canada. It visited Fairbanks and Anchorage before heading back to Minnesota. It had been scheduled to play Minnesoto, Iowa and South Dakota county fairs.

Mont'l Nitery Ops Hit Musicians With No-Strike Writ in Pension Tiff

Montreal, Oct. 29.

Some 14 Montreal niteries, through The Metropolitan Assn. of Licensed Cafes and Restaurants, have thrown a legal haymaker at the Montreal Musicians Guild which may have far-reaching effects on the union's bargaining status.

Guild had been attempting to force the cafes to kick in with a five-per cent contribution of each musician's minimum salary to the union's pension fund, and had threatened a strike if this was not done since there would be no negotiations on the pension fund issue.

Instead of complying, the cafe owners association obtained an injunction Friday (25) forbidding the union to strike from Judge Robert Lafleur. The action, taken on behalf of the MALCR by attorneys Phil Cutler, w.k. labor lawyer, Raymond Lachapelle and Antonio Lamer, claimed that the Musicians Guild has no certificate of recognition from the Quebec Labor Relations Board.

Some 200 musicians are involved in the dispute. One interesting, if confusing, point in the issue is the cafe owners' association claim that the union had no right to make its demands on individual nitery operators—some of whom signed when faced with a strike threat—but should have come to the association since the latter is the collective bargaining agent for the employers.

Question then arises if the association recognizes that guild should have made its pitch to the Metropolitan Assn., then how can it use the argument that the union is not certified by the Quebec Labor Relations Board.

More important, however, is that this is one of the few instances in which the Metropolitan Assn. of Licensed Cafes and Restaurants has taken concerted action on behalf of its members. It may point to a trend in which the association may move in other protective directions, such as loss of licenses for alleged bad operation, and the like.

Smith's Top 'Timing'

Joe Smith, who has been treasurer of the American Guild of Variety Artists for several terms, is not one to forget his partner of more than 60 years, Charlie Dale.

Since he declined to continue in AGVA politics after his 79th birthday, Smith was given a watch by the union. In his acceptance, he promised that "Charlie will wear this every other day."

New AGVA Goal: Faster, Cheaper National Meets

A new modus operandi for national board meetings and conventions will be sought by the American Guild of Variety Artists for future confabs. One of the aims will be elimination of lengthy readings of officer reports which take up approximately one day which might otherwise be used for "constructive purposes." The board this year found itself battling the agenda which called for the reports.

While president Joey Adams spoke only for little more than an hour, the report by national administrative secretary Bobby Faye took over most of the final day (Thurs.) of the national board meeting. Panel members were trying to institute some reforms long after midnight.

Plan likely to be adopted, according to one member, is to have the reports handed out to various delegates in advance and with a separate section for recommendations to be acted upon. One board member stated that Faye's report was more lengthy than usual, and prevented more positive action by the board.

The board also spoke of cutting down expenses for the meetings. AGVA employees in the future will be summoned as needed. Regional directors and branch managers, instead of coming to the convention, will send in their reports and will be phoned should any questions arise.

This process, used at last week's national board meeting, saved a minimum of three days hotel and per-diem for eight employees. This amounted to $240 daily for three days.

It's felt that with reforms in the conduct of meetings and with elimination of attendance by those not directly concerned with the deliberations at least 25% of the costs of confabs will be saved. For it's likely that all business can be transacted within three days under these conditions. Also, said one member, less stalling and roadblocks for new legislation can be eliminated under new procedures.

C&W Slips in Winnipeg, 'Opry' Pulls Dull $5,140

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.

Although the city has always been a goldmine for country-and-western music performers, last week proved an exception for two western-style shows.

"Grand Ole Opry," starring Hank Snow and Wilf Carter, pulled only 2,390 and grossed $5,140 at $2.25 top. Show was staged at the 4,100-seat Auditorium on Thanksgiving Day (14).

On Friday (18), Roy Orbison, Skeeter Davis and Bob Luman drew a meagre 2,387 fans to the 10,000-seat Arena, an even more disappointing crowd considering the size of the house. Gross was poor $5,050, with tickets scaled to $2.25.

Both dates were promoted by Marlin Payne of Billings, Mont.

Vancouver Ends 'Hoot' Season With the Rooftop Singers Nabbing Oke 8G

The season's third and final giant Hootenanny drew a crowd of 5,104 and grossed a respectable $8,000 at the P.N.E. Agrodome last Sunday (20) despite a modest advance of 2,000 seats sold and a driving rain on performance day. Tickets were $1.50 and $2. Featured headliners were the Rooftop Singers, with solo support from Karen James, Tom Northcott, Bill Roberts and Tom Hawken.

Show was first musical concert staged in the new Arodome and came off reasonably well although considerable acoustic adjustment is indicated if full capacity of 9,000-plus is to be satisfied in future programs held here.

Event, billed by promoter Howie Bateman as HUD (Hootenanny Under The Dome), was successor to HUTS (H'nanny Under The Stars) and SHUTS (Son of . . .), run earlier this year at the outdoor Malkin Bowl and indoor Queen Elizabeth Theatre respectively. HUTS drew 5,000 and turned away 1,000 with SHUTS attracting 3,700, giving Bateman a gross pull of close to 14,000 for the three one-nighters. First two hoots went at a single admission of $1 per head.

With no further hootenannys planned this year, Bateman has scheduled two standard concerts in November and December, one with Josh White and family featured, the other headlining the Smothers Bros. Top will be $2, the maximum figure Bateman feels the folk traffic will bear.

Pa. State Police Crack Down On Pitt Bars, Cafes; Arrest 62

Pittsburgh, Oct. 29.

It was Black Thursday and Gray Friday for Pitt bars, taverns and cocktail lounges last week. On Thursday (24) Pennsylvania State Police swept down on bars, private clubs and taverns in the downtown, North Side and Shadyside section and arrested 62 persons who were charged with prostitution, assignation, pandering and keeping a disorderly house.

Such w.k. watering places as Danny's, Frankie's Band Box, Carrilion Lounge and the Club 30 were raided in a move which most observers feel was politically inspired. The city and county police were not called in on the raid. Election day was only 10 days away and city and country's incumbents, all Democrats, are in a hot fight with the Republicans who control the state. If convicted of charges, the taverns face possible revocation of the liquor license.

On Friday, the city amusement tax division hit over 50 cocktail lounges in their pocketbooks when they were checked and found not having the required amusement permit which requires the operator to pay 10% of his gross business during amusement hours (of the show biz kind).

All the lounges hit were small operations, using a dance band, a folk group or anything else described as being "live" entertainment under the law. This is the law that practically buried the nitery biz in Pitt since its enactment in 1948. Pitt once had six top niteries in the downtown section and now has none. It was this same law that the theatre owners tried to get removed in the last legislature but lost when the city put up a strong protest, claiming it would represent a $400,000 loss in tax income.

Newhart Draws 500 Into 6,000 Seat Arena For Losing $1,200 Take

Albuquerque, Oct. 29.

Comedian Bob Newhart pulled a crowd of about 500 persons to the Civic Auditorium here Friday (25) in his first appearance locally. Show grossed an estimated $1,200, hardly enough money to pay a fraction of the nut.

House holds 6,000, and the sprinkling of 500 ticket holders scarcely made a dent in the big structure. Tickets were scaled from a top of $4.50.

Newhart originally planned to come in earlier and do a matinee performance for New Mexico teachers attending state teacher convention at U. of New Mexico. But the date was canceled due to film work on an Alfred Hitchcock show on the coast.

LOEW'S CHAIN BACK AS TALENT BUYER

The Loew's theatre and hotel chain will again buy talent for its theatres, it was disclosed last week. With retention of Larry Gengo as talent buyer for the chain in all hotels except the Americana, N.Y., Loew's is again interested in installing spot shows in various theatres if the right attractions can be found at the right price.

Previous booker for the Loew houses was Leo Cohen, who has since become purchasing agent for Metro.

Gengo, now in Puerto Rico to survey talent requirements for the Americana Hotel, San Juan, will also scout acts for Loew's Motor Hotels. It's likely he'll open several cocktail lounges in the motor inns.

RE SMALL BIZ LOANS

Scenery Rental, Disk Jacket TV Cable Firms Qualify

Washington, Oct. 29.

U.S. Small Business Administration disclosed it made three show business loans in September.

The SBA issued a direct $350,000 loan to Security Associates Inc. of Hollywood, a motion picture scenery rental firm.

Globe Album Inc. of the Bronx pulled in a $200,000 participation loan. The company manufactures record jackets and albums

Garnering a similar loan for $100,000 was Television Antenna Cable Inc., a CATV service in Front Royal, Va.

56-Year Old Aud Due For Update

St. Paul, Oct. 29.

Initial steps have been taken to expand the municipal Auditorium here at a $17,000,000 cost so that the 56-year-old building will have greatly improved and much more modern facilities for touring legit stage attractions, exhibition, indoor sports and parking. The project awaits the city commissioner's approval.

The Auditorium now houses Theatre Guild-American Theatre subscription season and other touring legit attractions, but the new plan calls for much better audience comforts, acoustics and viewing. The structure would be enlarged from its one block to two. One part of the present building is utilized for pop concerts, ice shows, wrestling, boxing, ice shows and hockey and basketball contests.

In the other Twin City, Minneapolis, wheels also have been set in motion for a similar improvement and enlargement of the municipal auditorium there with the cost, too, to run into the millions of dollars and with the purpose the same.

Hilton to Export Oriental Shows From Tokyo; Dicker Vegas Booking

Tokyo, Oct. 29.

The Tokyo Hilton, which has already scored with entertainment in its low-pressure Star Hill Supper Club, is launching a program to send Asian shows to other Hilton hostelries.

The project is under supervision of Raoul Appel, the hotel's entertainment coordinator, who will produce and direct the shows packaged for export.

First production slated under the new program will be headed by multilingual singer Keiko Chiaki, supported by the Appel Jazz Dancers, a mixed Nipponese group of eight the Yank choreographer has had working around Japan for almost a year. This package was set for the Hong Kong Hilton, but that booking is now pending since Sol Shapiro of the William Agency just sent a contract for the unit to tour the U. S. from a date not yet specified.

Shapiro has asked Appel to add two nudes to the show for the Nevada casinos. This deal is for a minimum of one year with options for three.

If Shapiro is not in a rush for this package, it will play the Hong Kong Hilton before heading toward the States. En route to the U. S., it will likely appear at the Hilton Dome Theatre in Honolulu.

The Tiongco Bros., a singing Filipino trio that has been a click at the Star Hill since the hotel's mid-June opening, is expected to play the Hong Kong Hilton early next year. The act will remain at the local Hilton hostelry through the yearend.

According to Appel, Hilton hotels in Honolulu and the Chevron-Hilton in Sydney should be the next locations to receive shows from Tokyo. Appel said that Hilton exec outside the Pacific area have also been asking about Asian talent. The performers packaged by Appel will not be exclusively Japanese. He says he saw plenty

(Continued on page 60)

'Watered-Down' Drinks For Hostesses a Fraud? Mont'l Court Thinks So

Montreal, Oct. 29.

Local nitery circles are chortling over charges against four employes of the Black Orchid Casino, who are accused of fraud and conspiracy in connection with the "sale" of "sugared" drinks of nothing more than lemonade to hostesses, and stiff shots of legit booze to customers.

On Friday (25) a Montreal judge refused to let the employes — a hostess, manager, assistant manager and bartender—off the hook. He based his decision on testimony that the drinks sold for the hostess consisted of little more than sugared lemonade and came to $1.60 apiece.

Myer Dunn, owner of the Black Orchid, in the punchline of the year, said the hostesses were given denatured drinks that were cut in order to keep her from getting drunk on the job.

The hostesses working for Dunn were said to get 50c for each "special" drink sold, the $1.10 balance going into the till.

Bev Wilshire's 'Hoot'

Hollywood, Oct. 29.

Rufe Davis launches indefinite stand in Oak Room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Friday (1), presenting the "One-Man Hootenanny" three times nightly. Don Palmer, accordionist, and Frank Vento, mandolinist, perform in backup and relief for Davis, one of regulars in CBS-TV's new "Petticoat Junction" series.

Deal signed by Hernando Courtwright calls for comic to run through Dec. 31, plus options.

Oh Ye Rats and Finks —

IT'S THE SWINGINGEST!

LEONARD HARRIS (N.Y. World-Telegram & Sun)
"A hit . . . Crowds jammed into the room, standing on the stairs and waiting downstairs."

BERT BACHARACH (N.Y. Journal-American)
BB's Best Bets: "Jackie Kannon's new club, atop the Roundtable, a haven for stay-uppers!"

BOB SYLVESTER (New York Daily News)
"In this town after midnight we could use a place like Kannon's."

LOUIS SOBOL (New York Journal-American)
"The Rat Fink Room is off to a roaring start with showfolks."

FRANCES MERRON (N.Y. Journal-American)
"Jackie Kannon's Rat Fink Room is off to a tremendous start with a packed house — peak every night."

EARL WILSON (New York Post)
"Jam-packed crowds at Jackie Kannon's Rat Fink Room."

JACK THOMPSON (New York Daily Mirror)
"Kannon's Room is off to a sensational start."

VARIETY
"Some of the smartest promotion ever poured into a cafe . . Kannan has an immense sense of humor!" Jose.

BOB SALMAGGI (New York Herald Tribune)
"A great late hour spot for the swingers."

EUGENE BOE (Cue Magazine)
"Action until the dawn's early light."

Movie Debut:
"DIARY OF A BACHELOR"

JACKIE KANNON'S
Rat Fink Room

151 East 50th Street, New York, N. Y.
Agency: NONE Management: NONE
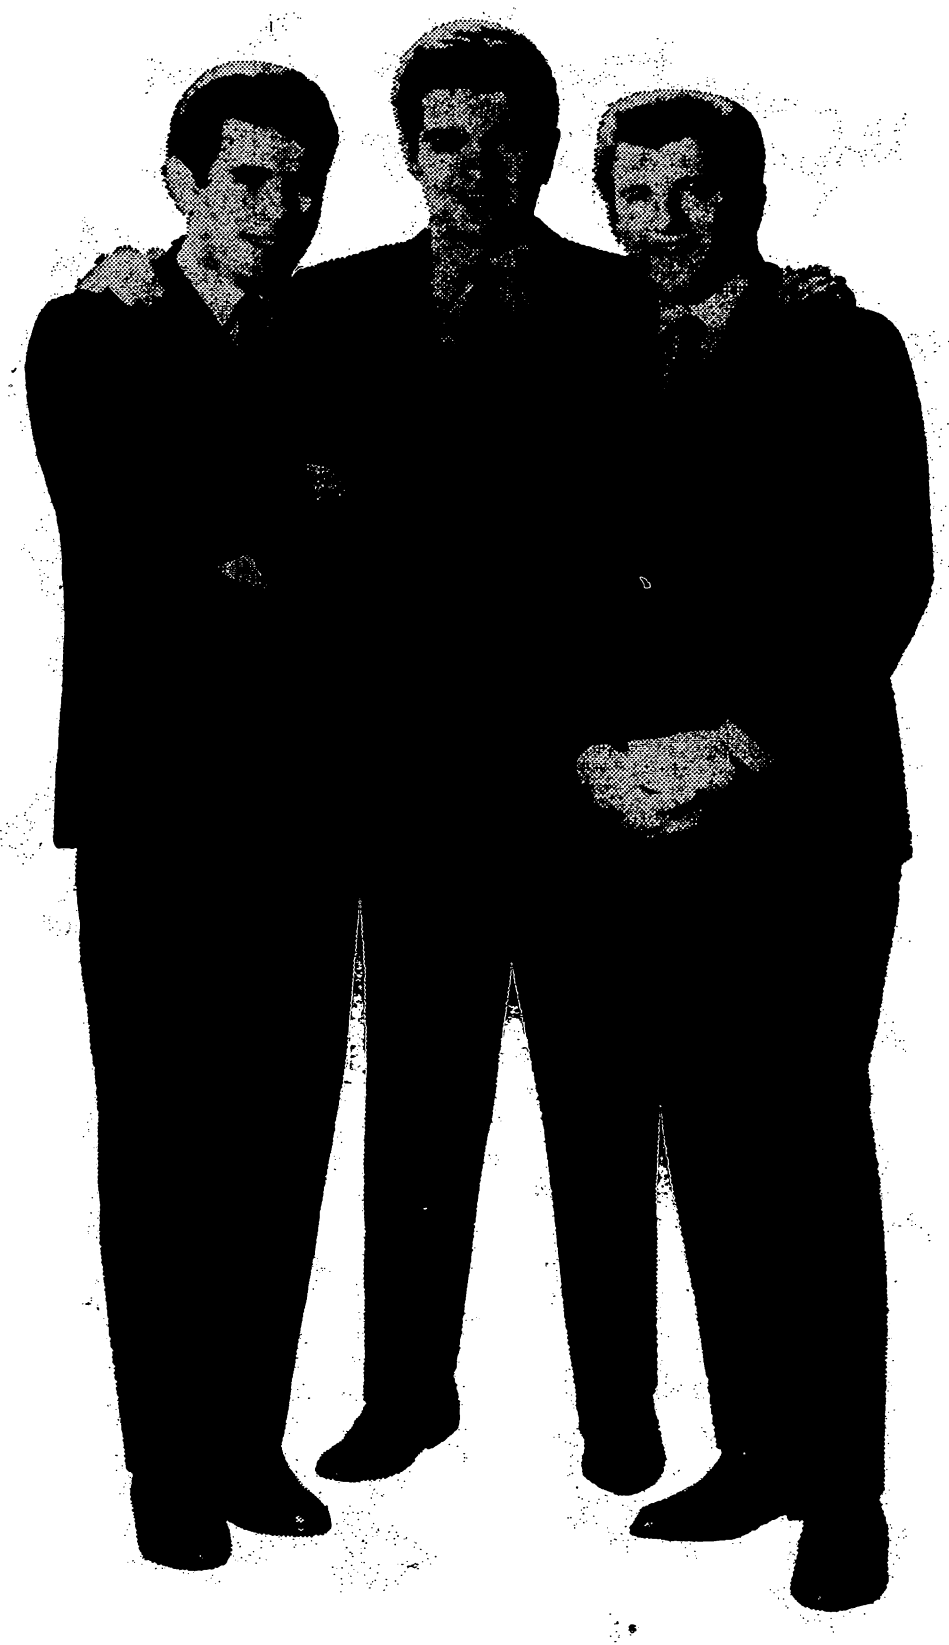
Press: GENE WEBER ASSOCIATES

for THE LETTERMEN, 1963 has been a GREAT YEAR



• for NIGHTCLUBS

- Facks (San Francisco)
- Casino Royale (Washington, D.C.)
- Crescendo (Hollywood)

on tour with George Burns at

- Hacienda (Fresno)
- The Cave (Vancouver)
- The Nuggett (Sparks)
- The Riviera (Las Vegas)

• for COLLEGE CONCERTS (over 200 dates and booked well into 1964)

• for TELEVISION

- The "Tonight" Show
- The "Red Skelton Show" (return guesting on November 5)

• for RECORDINGS (exclusively on Capitol Records)

- latest album release: The Lettermen in Concert (S)T-1936—their 5th consecutive album on the Top Charts

• for CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S 1963

- with Jack Benny* at Harrah's (Lake Tahoe)

XXX

Personal Management: JESS RAND & ASSOCIATES

Capitol RECORDS REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

* thanks again, George Burns

Public Relations: FREEMAN/SUTTON

BERNARD DELFONT
ORGANISATION
LONDON

THEATRES

PRINCE OF WALES
THEATRE, PICCADILLY, W.
Bernard Delfont - Frederick Granville - Elliot Martin and Daniel Hollywood present
FRED CLARK and JOAN BENNETT in
"NEVER TOO LATE"
with
TOM STERN & JENNIE LINDEN
Director: GEORGE ABBOTT

TALK OF THE TOWN
HIPPODROME CORNER, W.
WORLD'S GREATEST THEATRE RESTAURANT
BERNARD DELFONT presents
ROBERT NESBITT'S
TEN O'CLOCK REVUE
"HIGH LIFE"
and at 11:30 P.M.
MAX BYGRAVES

PRODUCTIONS

SAVILLE
THEATRE, W.
BERNARD DELFONT & TOM ARNOLD present
HARRY SECOMBE
in
"PICKWICK"
Director: Peter Coe

LONDON
PALLADIUM
By arr. with Moss Empires
LESLIE A. MACDONNELL and BERNARD DELFONT present
"SWING ALONG"
ARTHUR HAYNES
FRANK IFIELD
SUSAN MAUGHAN
ROBERT NESBITT PRODUCTION

AMBASSADOR
THEATRE, West 49th St.
DAVID MERRICK in association with BERNARD DELFONT present
ANTHONY NEWLEY
"STOP THE WORLD — I WANT TO GET OFF"
also World Touring Co.'s

TELEVISION

TONY HANCOCK SERIES

CHARLIE DRAKE
SERIES

MORECAMBE & WISE
SERIES

BERNARD DELFONT
ORGANISATION
LONDON

PP&M's SRO $9,556 An Alltime Record at Hall In Omaha's Civic Aud

Omaha, Oct. 29.

Peter, Paul & Mary, redhot on a midwest tour, set an alltime record for the Music Hall at Omaha's Civic Auditorium here Saturday (19) with an SRO $9,556. Aud manager Charley Mancuso reported the trio sold out a week in advance. Seats were put in the orchestra pit, bringing the paid figure to 2,867. Regular capacity is 2,610. Some 3,500 people were turned away.

Mancuso said that business at Omaha events over the weekend showed that people will go to see what they want to see, not what promoters think they should go to see. The same night that Peter, Paul & Mary were at the Auditorium, the AK-Sar-Ben Coronation drew 7,000 to its Ball with Sammy Kaye playing.

A wrestling match in the Auditorium's Arena attracted 4,100, there were 8,000 at the Municipal Stadium for a high school football game and another 4,000 at Benson High School for a prep game. On top of this Peony Park had 1,000 for a dance.

Mancuso is running a torrid Auditorium schedule these days. On top of normal conventions and special events he had "A Thousand Clowns" Wednesday (23), and Sam Levenson Thursday (24). Jackie Wilson is set in concert and dance tomorrow (Wed.); Roger Williams, Nov. 3; "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" Nov.4-5 and "A Man for All Seasons," Nov. 8-9.

Vaude, Cafe Dates

Chicago

Keely Smith into the Palmer House Oct. 29 for a month, and Carol Channing down for the same spot Dec. 31 for a month . . . Don Adams and Elaine McKenna set for Mister Kelly's Jan. 13 for a fortnight . . . Dick Dunn ankled ABC for the Harry Greben office . . . Two Ten Baker current at the Cotton Pickin' Room of the Dixie Governor Motel in Hazel Crest, Ill.

Lew & Christy, now at Suttmillers, Dayton, skedded for two weeks at Carl Heppl's, Baldwin, L.I., Jan. 1 . . . Dick Smith plays a return engagement at the Tower Club, Hot Springs, Ark., Oct. 28 for a week . . . Joe E. Lewis, set for his annual return at the Roosevelt Hotel, N.O., Nov. 21 for a fortnight . . . Don Cherry down for the Cabana Club, Dallas, Dec. 12-21 . . . Pat Suzuki and the Wiere Bros. into the Cerp Club Oct. 31 for two weeks, and Van Johnson plays the same club Nov. 28 for two.

Kansas City

Carmel Quinn heads for New York and dates on the "Tonight" and "Candid Camera" shows following her stand at Eddys' Restaurant through Oct. 30. Next nightclub booking for her is the Monticello, Framingham, Mass., in November . . . Bill opening Thursday (31) at Eddys' will have George Kirby and Susan Smith in for a fortnight . . . Tony DiPardo crew named official band for the Kansas City Chiefs American League football team.

Marilyn Maye and Sammy Tucker Orch back at Colony Restaurant for an indefinite stay, this spot being virtually their home stand . . . Edie Adams and Dukes of Dixieland set for concert Saturday evening Nov. 2 with Kansas City Philharmonic at Municipal Arena, with local drug chain picking up the tab.

"THE COMEDIAN"
The Only Real Monthly
PROFESSIONAL GAG SERVICE
THE LATEST — THE GREATEST — THE MOST-UP-TO-DATEST
Now in its 155th Issue, containing stories one-liners, poemettes, song titles, hecklers, audience stuff, monologs, parodies, double gags, bits ideas, Intros, Impressions and Impersonations, political, Interruptions. Thoughts of the Day, Humorous Views of the News, Vignettes, etc. (20 Pages)
$25 YR.—SINGLE ISSUES $3
Foreign
$35 YR.—SINGLE ISSUES $4
No C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON, 200 W. 54th St.
New York City 10019, CO 5-1316

Circus Review

Billy Smart's Circus

London, Oct. 22.

Billy Smart presentation of circus in two parts. With Debille's New Polar Bear Group, Roeber Sisters, Les Antinous, Les Hellyos, Rapolli (2), Bob Markworth & Partner, Billy Smart Jr. & Miss Gloria, Munoz Luftmann Family (5), Atlas Sahara Troupe (10), Six Cycling Kludsky, Luftmann Bullfight Parody (5), Billy Smart's New Aerial Presentation (10), Four Lunasz, Balancing Osmanis (4), Fearless Riaz Troupe (3); Opened in Lonodn, Oct. 21, '63; $1.75 top.

Billy Smart's circus, which has been running successfully for 14 years, is back in London for the fourth consecutive year for a three weeks' stand at Clapham Common, just a few miles from the centre of town. It is a one-ring show under canvas, with seats for around 6,000 and is staged 13 times a week, including two Saturday matinees.

Though ahead of the Christmas season (traditionally the time for such shows in London) and despite the fact that the school holidays are over, it should have a healthy run.

The Smart's Circus is a crisp and lively production, although somewhat short on humor. The clowns, usually an essential staple for circus productions, play only a minimal part in the proceedings. And there is only one act with a touch of comedy in it. There are, however, some good trapeze turns and several animal performers.

After an impressive opening parade of the talent, Debille's New Polar Bear Group takes the ring for offbeat antics, including operation of see-saw and sliding down a chute. The Roeber Sisters, Les Antinous and Les Hellyos follow with a trapeze act, which starts conventionally but ends sensationally when one of the team does a head balance and, at the same time, plays a trumpet and does a tap dance. The Two Rapolli, from

(Continued on page 60)

THE FIVE
CALLICOATS
Harmony Singing
At Its Best
(Four Gals & a Guy)
Signed for
ED SULLIVAN SHOW
Sunday, Nov. 3
And Three Return
Dates, Thru June '64
Write ★ Wire ★ Phone
JOLLY JOYCE AGENCY
58 West 48th Street
New York City
Plaza 7-1786 — 7-1530
Affiliated Offices
Phila. — Las Vegas — Europe

SNOW PEOPLE ARE ALWAYS WELCOME at Bradford HOTEL
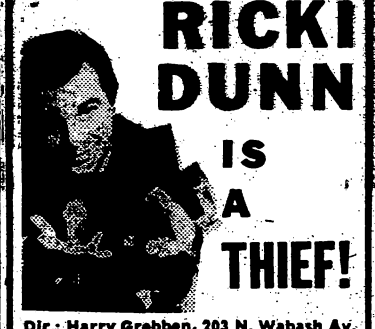
275 TREMONT STREET-BOSTON
in the Heart of Theatre District - next door to Shubert Theatre
THEATRICAL RATES
Weekly
All Rooms with Television, Radio, Private Bath
Phone: HAncock 6-1400

BILLY GLASON'S FUN-MASTER
PROFESSIONAL COMEDY MATERIAL
For every branch of theatricals
"WE SERVICE THE STARS!"
35-Gag Sets $15, plus $1 postage
FOREIGN: 35 for $30
• 2 Parody Books, per Bk. ..... $10 •
• 5 Blackout Books 1-2-3 Each $25 •
No. 4 for $25—No. 5 for $30
• Minstrel (white face) Budget $25 •
• "How to Master the Ceremonies" •
$2 PER COPY NO C.O.D.'s
BILLY GLASON
200 W. 54th St., N.Y.C. 10019 CO 5-1316
(Mr. TEACH M.C'ing and COMEDY)
(Let a real Professional train you)



RICKI DUNN IS A THIEF!
Dir.: Harry Grebben, 203 N. Wabash Av.
DEarborn 2-8996, Chicago, Illinois

Hong Kong's
Leading Impresario
HARRY O. ODELL
9 Ice House St. Cable: HARODEL

DO NOT READ THIS AD UNLESS YOU NEED A COMEDIAN!!
WILBURN LOY
COMEDIAN
P.O. Box 1741, San Diego 12, Calif.

JOHN and RENE ARNAUT in their standard presentation of two
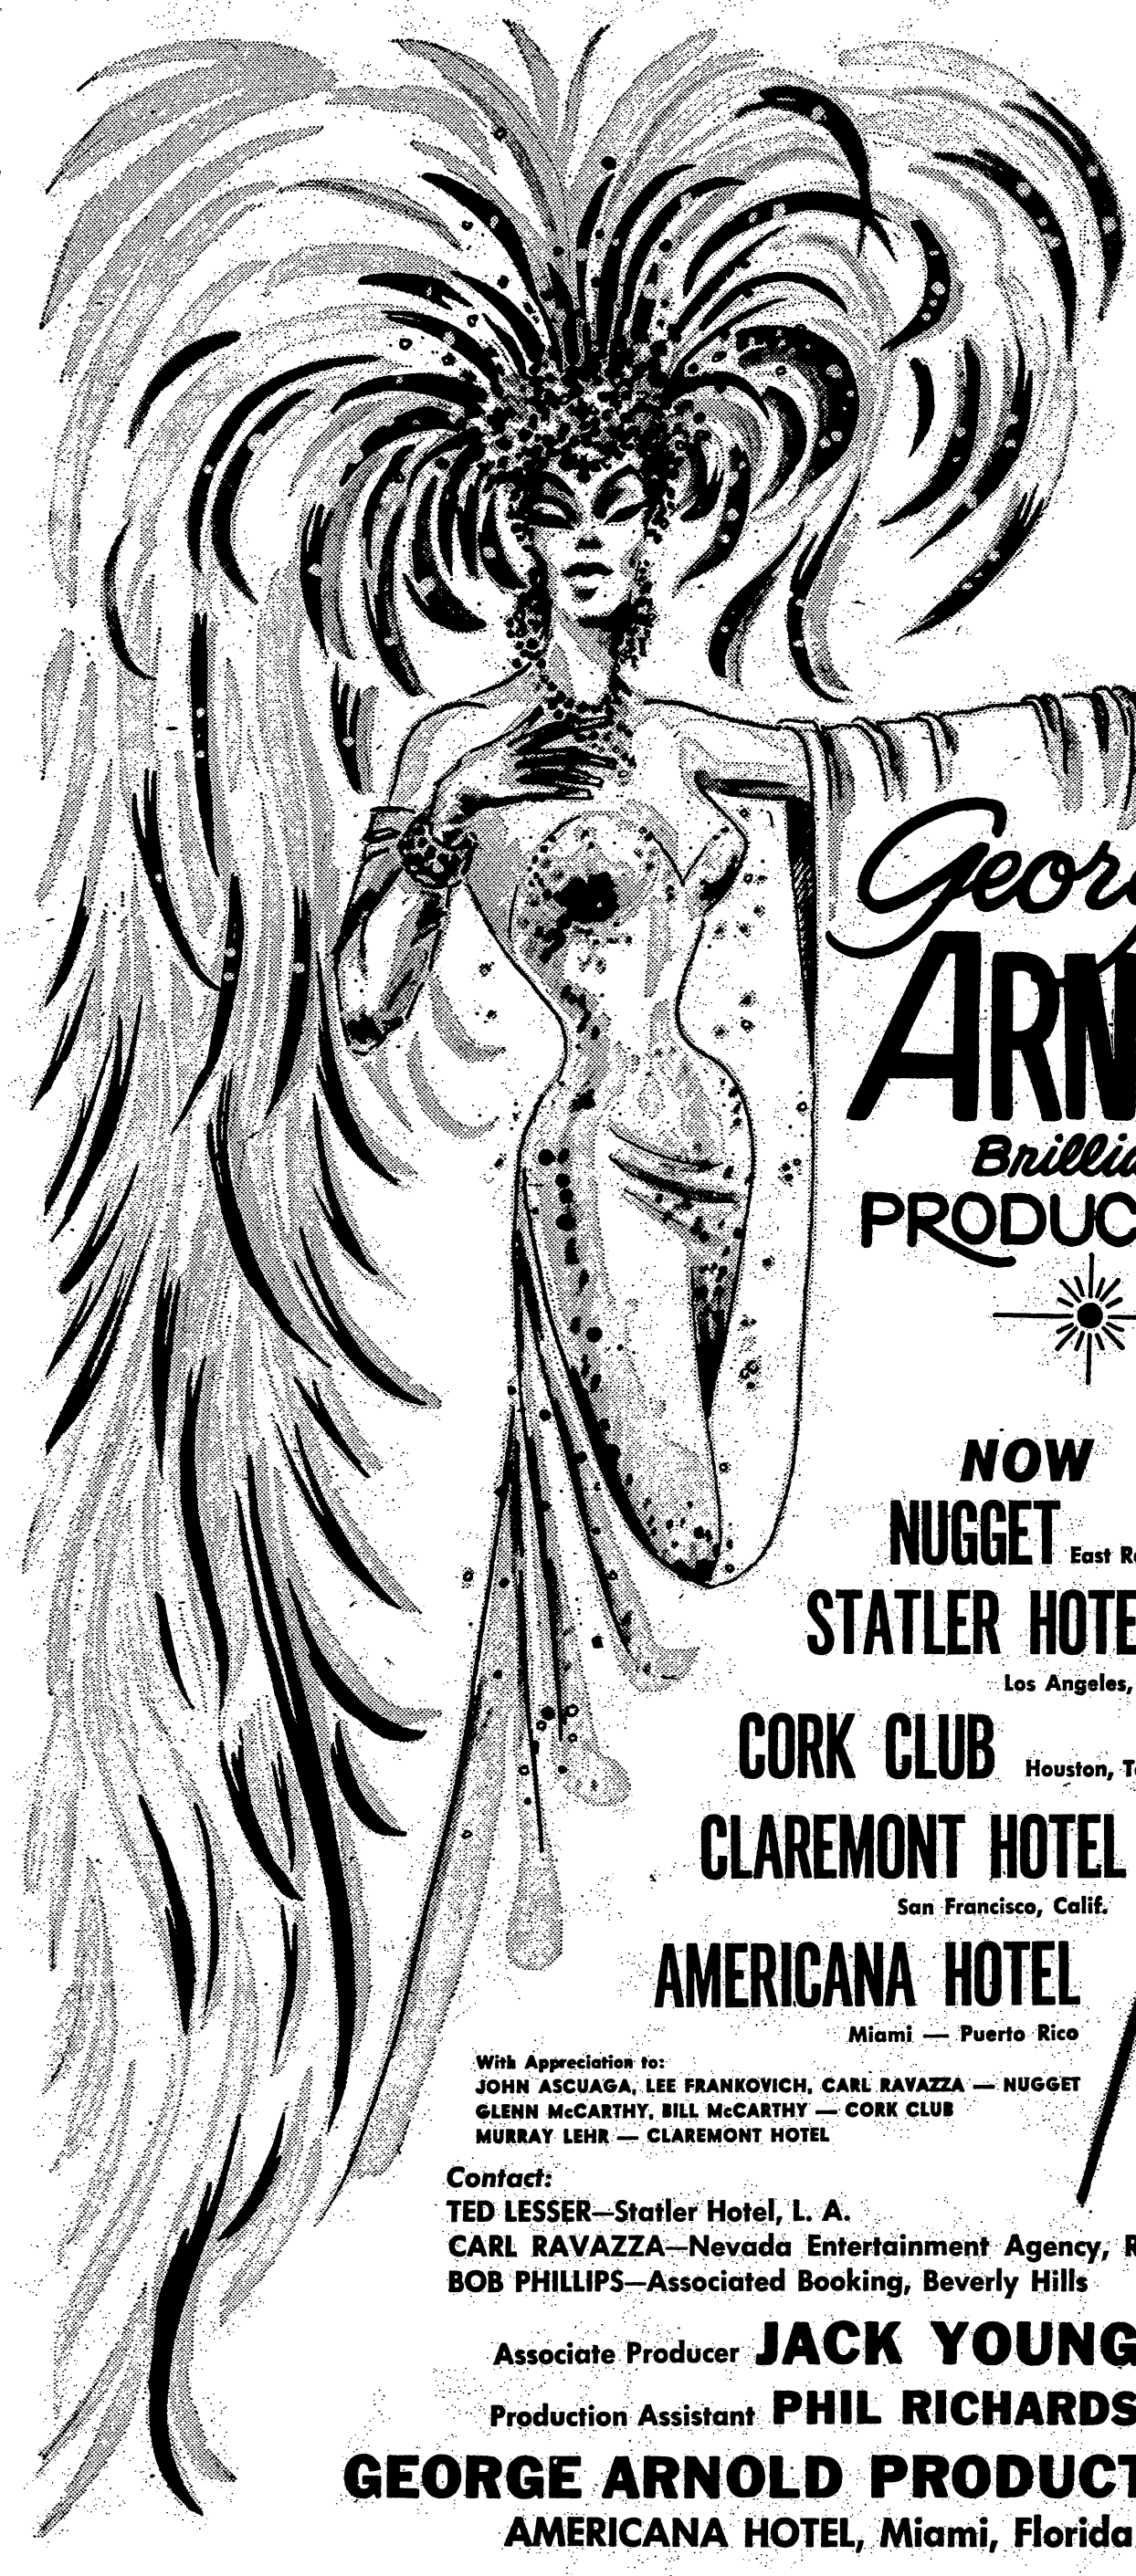
"LOVE BIRDS"
Oct. 29—Jackie Gleason TV (Taping)
Dec. 21—Carillon Hotel, Miami Beach (Four Weeks)
Exclusive: MAX ROTH (Suite 705)
48 W. 48th St., New York City (PL 7-8335)



George ARNOLD'S

Brilliant PRODUCTIONS

NOW

NUGGET East Reno, Nev.

STATLER HOTEL
Los Angeles, Calif.

CORK CLUB Houston, Tex.

CLAREMONT HOTEL
San Francisco, Calif.

AMERICANA HOTEL
Miami — Puerto Rico

With Appreciation to:
JOHN ASCUAGA, LEE FRANKOVICH, CARL RAVAZZA — NUGGET
GLENN McCARTHY, BILL McCARTHY — CORK CLUB
MURRAY LEHR — CLAREMONT HOTEL

Contact:
TED LESSER—Statler Hotel, L. A.
CARL RAVAZZA—Nevada Entertainment Agency, Reno, Nev.
BOB PHILLIPS—Associated Booking, Beverly Hills

Associate Producer JACK YOUNG

Production Assistant PHIL RICHARDS

GEORGE ARNOLD PRODUCTIONS
AMERICANA HOTEL, Miami, Florida

AGVA Lifts Penny's Suspension

Continued from page 53

has laid out for attorneys in her court action, or other expenses, remains to be seen.

Fires AGVA Publicist

Board's only other move after Miss Singleton's restoration to the union's good graces was dismissing public relations counsel Sam Gutwirth for reasons of economy, thus saving $7,500. In another economy move Berg's salary was sliced $50 weekly.

Its action in the Singleton matter indicates that the present board will seek an end to costly litigation that has dogged the union for years. Possibility is that it will try to drop AGVA's suit against the Federal Government involving autonomy of the union's branches. The board may now agree to treat all branches as Locals.

AGVA's suit is protesting the Government's interpretation in this matter. Focal point of the action stems from the union's takeover of the Philadelphia branch. Government wants autonomy restored, but the former administration is hanging on to its strict control of the AGVA offices in various cities. A consent decree could end the matter.

It is evident that the new members of the board, who have a clear majority, are using their newly-found powers cautiously. There had been plans for sweeping changes, including a possible shift of counsel and a three-man board to replace Bobby Faye as national administrative secretary.

Reformers Consolidate

These are still possibilities for the February board meeting. But meanwhile the reform elements took steps to consolidate their own position. They elected an entirely new executive committee and permitted president Joey Adams to remain on that body. They also allowed several independently-minded members to sit on the executive board, and also one who has expressed loyalty to the reform group but whom, they fear, has strong ties to the old administration.

The new board comprises Adams, Will Ahern, Paul Benson, Ernie Fast, Don George, Johnny Gibson, Jack Haley, Bud Jacobson, Dick Jones, Anne O'Connor, John Shirley, Russell Swann, Tommy Timblin, Paul Valentine and Johnny Woods. The new board met Friday (25), following adjournment of the national board meeting, but its actions weren't disclosed.

Titular head of the new administration is veepee Jack Haley who is attempting to weld a permanent reform movement with roots in the membership. The direction of the union's path is already plotted along lines of economy with the end of costly lawsuits wherever they be effected. The executive board meeting, to be held next month, is likely to provide a key to the new administration's further moves.

Precious Connie Boswell,
Looking forward to working and being with you Friday night, November 1, Astor Hotel, N.Y.C. Police Honor Legion.
Love you,
DONNA LYNN
McClendon Agency TN 7-2287

Stuarti SRO $9,980 In Debut at Carnegie Hall; Jubilee Label Tapes Gig

Enzo Stuarti's debut concert at Carnegie Hall last Saturday (19) drew an SRO 2,870 and grossed a solid $9,980. Top was $4.50.

This first important concert date for Stuarti (he had a test run of the Carnegie stint in Winnipeg in April) proved he could translate his more intimate nitery act to the concert stage with little difficulty. Stuarti has always been a crowd pleaser and this turn was no exception.

The concert, which was taped by Jubilee for release as an LP titled "Stuarti Sings At Carnegie Hall," could give him the necessary push to put him in the big money ranks. Ditto for Canadian-born conductor-arranger Bob McMullin, who controlled the 30-piece orchestra with dexterity becoming the Italian-born tenor's powerful pipes.

Stuarti's high voltage vocalizing is both high major attraction and his main problem. He prompted a standing ovation after "Vesta La Giubba" and his renditions of "Arrividerci Roma" and "Come Prima" were interrupted by applause. But he also has the tendency to apply that big hi-fi rendition to almost every number whether or not required.

The lighter, toned-down numbers were among his best works. Not only because they were a welcome change, but also because Stuarti has a fine voice when he uses it properly.

Stuarti works hard and with sincerity. But some revamping of his presentation would make up for the wearing effect which his vocal calisthenics tend to create.

Conductor McMullin, who also arranged some of the music for this concert, is adept and proficient on the podium. Pianist Bob Skilling and guitarist Al Caiola provided excellent background for the non-orchestral numbers.

Huca.

JANET BLAIR INTO WALDORF

Janet Blair has been signed to replace the ailing Anna Maria Alberghetti at the Empire Room of the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, N.Y., starting Nov. 18. Miss Blair follows the incumbent Alan King.

Miss Blair's last N.Y. date was at the Americana Hotel's Royal Box last season prior to its shutdown for alterations.

Unit Review

Bob Newhart Show

Albuquerque, Oct. 29.

Bob Newhart, The Nomads (4). At Albuquerque Civic Auditorium, Oct. 25, '63; $4.50 top.

Despite a small house (only about 500 ticket-holders in a 6,000-seat auditorium) and the personal problems involved with becoming a father for the first time, Bob Newhart has come up with a slick, smooth show that rings very solid.

One-nighter here was a tryout of his newly-revised act, in anticipation of a tour later ths fall. Although small, the audience proved a hip crowd, responding well to Newhart's bits, barbs and bright stuff.

Show consists of Newhart and The Nomads, a folk singing group of three college-boys with guitars and a cute brunet gal. The Nomads may look like youngsters, but they've got plenty of show biz savvy. They open both segments of the show, and stay for 15 minutes.

They're not obtrusive, have pleasant harmony and are one of the better new folk groups around. They also know how to stage the folk ditties to get top results, and leave the crowd pleasantly warmed up for Newhart.

Newhart, whose dislike for flying is no secret to the general public, gets off to a nice start with some cute barbs at commercial airlines. His frequent television appearances, and his long play albums are well known, and despite this fact—or maybe because of it—the audience took to him well here, with a rehash of many of those bits, plus some new ones.

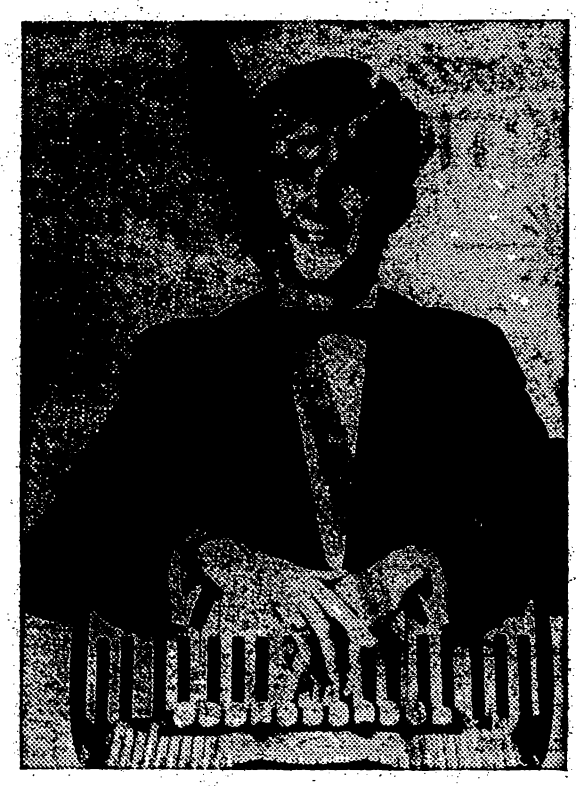
He has also altered some of the standard Newhart stuff. He gets some of his biggest responses from his Wright Bros. business and a takeoff on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour.

Apparently, because of the strong familiarity here with the space program locally (Albuquerque is an important part of the development of atomic weapons and space research), his Werner Von Braun impression proves a sock routine. He intersperses some standard bits with brief gags on tv commercials, and an occasional rap at his own erstwhile video series of a couple of years ago.

Newhart is a swinger, his revised and new material is better than ever, and should make for a good tour. All his routines, incidentally are clean and never dip into the blue.

Mitt.

"KEYS TO RHYTHM"



DONALD HULME
Currently Appearing as Featured Soloist at
RADIO CITY MUSIC HALL
New York
HOHNER Accordion Played Exclusively
(Equipped With Wireless, Remote-Control Amplification)
Direction
MARK J. LEDDY
225 W. 57th Street, New York, N. Y.

Thanks!
ALLEN FUNT
For Having
Comedian
ARTIE ROBERTS
on
CANDID CAMERA
November 3
Contact:
ROBERT REXER
1674 B'way, New York City CI 5-3660

RUFE "Petticoat Junction" DAVIS
ONE MAN HOOTENANNY
OAK ROOM, Beverly Wilshire Hotel
Management: DAVID B. WHELAN
Beverly Wilshire Hotel, Beverly Hills, Calif.

TONY VALLO
COMEDIAN
Just Returned From European Tour

Currently in Second Week at ANKARA CLUB, Pittsburgh, Penna.
Direction: Saul Lamport
L. T. PRODUCTIONS
1242 W. Girard Ave.
Philadelphia 23, Penna.
CE 2-4269

NICK LUCAS
Now Appearing
HARRAH'S
Reno, Nev.

Some Dates Available
"HOOTENANNY VARIETIES OF 1963-64"
On Tour as of November 20
Starring
SEVEN ACTS
18 SENSATIONAL ARTISTS
of Screen - TV Network Recording Fame
Write - Wire - Phone
JOLLY JOYCE AGENCY
58 West 49th Street
New York City
PLaza 7-1786 — 7-1530
Affiliated Offices
Phila. — Las Vegas — Europe

BUCK BUCKLEY
QUARTER WIT
Currently

Casablanca Hotel
Miami Beach

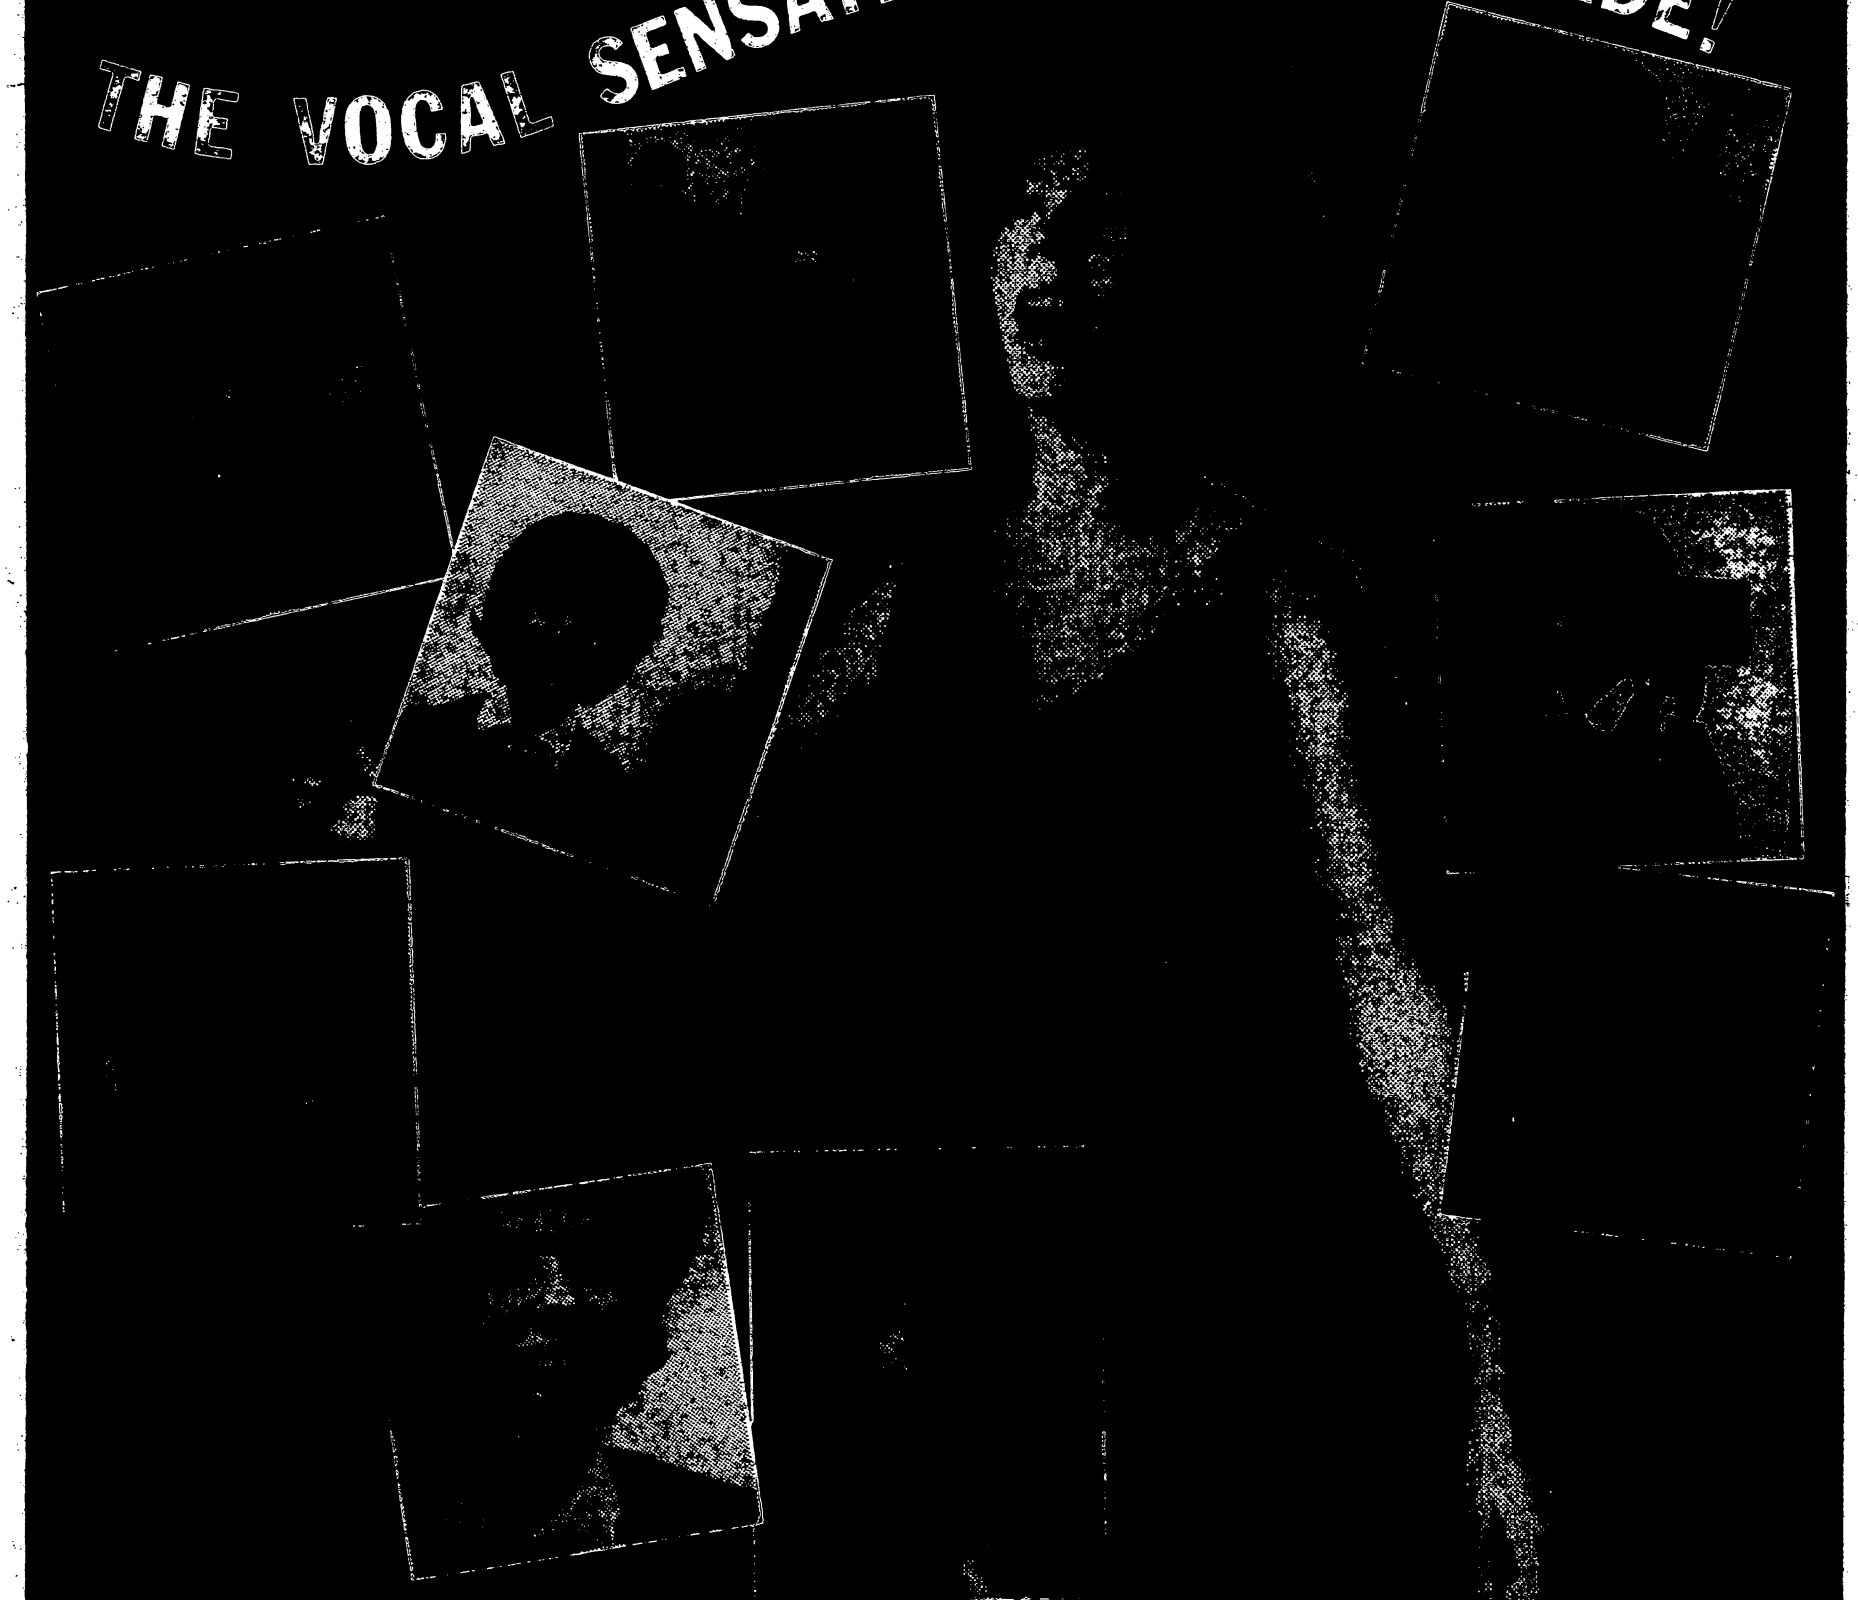
OUR COMEDY WRITING
has entertained friends and relatives long enough. We are now available to strangers.
P. O. Box 5
Forest Hills 75, N. Y.

GAY'S GAGS
Published Monthly, Topical gags, original one liners, jokes. Over 300. $12 per year. Sample Copy $2. Six back issues (latest) $5.12 back issues (latest) $9; 40 back issues (first) $20.
Send Checks to EDDIE GAY
242 West 72nd St., New York 23, N.Y.

ZANY... BOX OFFICE Champs
Harmonica RASCALS
AVAILABLE NOV. 13
SID HOWARD, 1570—53rd St., Brooklyn 19, N. Y., UL 1-8500

Marian Montgomery

THE VOCAL SENSATION OF THE DECADE!



CAPITOL RECORDS NEW STAR!

PERSONAL MANAGEMENT:
Carlos Gastel

CURRENT BILLS

WEEK OF OCTOBER 30

NEW YORK CITY

MUSIC HALL — Rockettes, Corps de Ballet, Raymond Paige Symphony Orch.

AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE (Tivoli) — Jupe Bronhill, Jon Weaving, Suzanne Steele, Pauline Garrick, Gordon Wilcock, Ivan King, Kevin Mills, Maureen London, Ray Collier, David Gray.

SYDNEY (Tivoli)—Jeff Warren, Susan Swinford, John Rickard, Lisa Denison, Geraldine Morrow, Ron Bennett, Geoffrey Veitch, Suzanne West, Jacqui Carroll, Andrew Guild, David Phillips, Christopher Hill.

BRITAIN

The Coventry Theatre—Bruce Forsyth, Matt Munro, Adele Leigh, Freddie Frinton, Rastellis, Johnny Hart, Chocolate & Co., Four Starlets, Derek Taverner Singers, Joan Davis Dancers.

LIVERPOOL (Empire)—Jimmy Edwards, Beryl Reid, Reg Varney, The Raindrops, Kuban Cossacks, Los Flamencos, Neil & Pat Delrina, Jimmy Carrie's Waltzing Waters, The Joan Davis Dancers.

MANCHESTER (Palace)—The Beverley Sisters, Eve Boswell, The Monarchs, Dailey & Wayne, Ted Rogers, 5 Olanders, Eliane & Rodolph, 4 Escorts, Derek Taverner Singers, Joan Davis Dancers.

LONDON (Palladium)—Arthur Haynes, Frank Ifield, Susan Maughan, Nicholas Parsons, Bob Wallis and Storeyville Jazzmen, Rudy Cardenas, Walter Gore Ballet Group, Ken Morris & Jean Savage, The Rose Taylor Dancers, Dorothy Dampier, Leslie Noyes.

VICTORIA PALACE — John Boulter, Tony Mercer & Dai Francis, Leslie Crowther, Margo Henderson, George Chisholm Jazzers, Schaller Brothers, T.V. Toppers, Pat Ellis.

Cabaret Bills

NEW YORK CITY

AFRICAN ROOM — Tad Truesdale, Ritchie Haven 3, Johnny Barracuda.

BARBERRY ROOM—Conrad Monjey.

BASIN ST. EAST—Gloria De Haven, Village Stompers, London Lee.

BITTER END—Tarriers, Woody Allen.

BON SOIR—Felicia Sanders, Margo Cameron, Enid Mosier & Alphonse.

BLUE ANGEL—Rolf Harris, Stiller & Mears, Mara Lynn Brown.

CHARDAS—Millie Fling, Bela Babai Orc., Elemar Horvath, Tibor Rakosny, Dick Marta, Janos Hozzsu.

CHATEAU MADRID—Los Chavales de Espana, Emilio Reyes Orc., Carbia Orc.

COPACABANA—Jane Russell, Connie Haines, Beryl Davis, Davis & Reese, Joseph Mele Orc., Frank Marti Orc.

CRYSTAL ROOM—Maria Velasco 3, Larry Storch, Jay Lawrence.

EMBERS—Harold Quinn Orc.

GRINZING — Kalman Banyak, Henry Butz.

HAWAIIAN ROOM — Dee Marquez, Keola Beamer, Auletta Orc.

HOTEL AMERICANA—Buddy Greco, Enrique Madriguera Orc.

HOTEL ASTOR—Eddie Lane Orc.

HOTEL NEW YORKER—Milt Saunders Orc., Frankie Dash.

HOTEL PARK SHERATON — Irving Fields 3.

HOTEL PLAZA — Carol Lawrence, Emil Coleman Orc., Mark Monte Orc. Plum-9 Room: Julius Monk, Carol Morley, Gerry Matthews, Rex Robbins, Lovelady Powell, Susan Browning, Gordon Connell, William Roy, Robert Colston.

HOTEL ROOSEVELT—De Castro Sis, Milt Shaw Orc.

HOTEL ST. REGIS—Peter Duchin Orc, Nancy Manning, Quintero Orc, Walter Kay, Joni Barkeel.

HOTEL SAVOY-HILTON—Arturo Arturos Orc.

HOTEL STATLER HILTON — Cecil Lloyd.

HOTEL WALDORF-ASTORIA — Alan King, Myer Davis Orc.

INTERNATIONAL — George White's Scandals, Mike Durso Orc.

LATIN QUARTER—Charlivels, Glenda Leigh, Art Johnson, Jo Lombardi Orc., Sam Ulmer Orc.

LIVING ROOM—Matt & Ginny Dennis, Dick Lynn, Brothers Cain, Bob Ferro Orc.

NO. 1 FIFTH AVENUE—Hankinson & De Maio, Frank Barba, Kathy Preston.

PAT PINK ROOM—Jackie Kannon, Annette Sanders, Gene Stridel, Norm Geller 3.

RED ONION—Banjoheers.

SAMBRA — "Land of Milk & Honey." Leo Fuld, Bob Phillips Orc.

SQUARE EAST—"To the Water Tower," Bob Dinky, Paul Dooley, Anthony Holland, Andrew Duncan, Barbara Harris, McIntyre Dixon.

TOWN & COUNTRY—Jackie Mason, Marilyn Michaels, Michael & Paula, Ned Harvey's Orc., Red Rodriguez Orc.

UPSTAIRS & DOWNSTAIRS — Ronnie Graham, David Rounds, Barbara Quaney, Jon Stone, George Coe, Bob Rogers, Sam Pottle, Mabel Mercer.

VIENNESE LANTERN—Monica Boyar, Bes-Arlene, Ernest Schoen Orc.

VILLAGE BARN—Violinaires.

VILLAGE GATE—Charlie Byrd, Carmen McRae, Gracco & Willard.

VILLAGE VANGUARD—Irene Reed, Jackie & Ray Kral, Ike Isaacs Trio.

CHICAGO

BLUE ANGEL—"International Calypso Revue," Mitsou, Mauriskka, The Calypsonians, Al D'Iaccy Orc.

CONRAD HILTON—"Tat's Off!" Lee Caron, Blackstone Jr., Helga Neff & Theo Ernst, Sherry Stevens, Ernie McLean, Boulevar-Dons (5), Boulevar-Dears (5), Jimmy Palmer Orc.

CRYSTAL PALACE—Irwin Corey.

DEL PRADO HOTEL—"Hits of Broadway" revue.

DRAKE HOTEL — Patachou, Jimmy Blade Orc.

EDGEWATER BEACH—Dorothy Donegan, Edgewater Beach Guys & Dolls, Don Davis Orc.

GATE OF HORN—William Clauson, Jean Redpath.

LE BISTRO—Anita O'Day, Connie Milane Trio, Larry Novak Trio.

LONDON HOUSE—Jonah Jones Quartet, Jose Bethancourt Trio, Larry Novak Trio.

MISTER KELLY'S—Jackie Gayle, Jackie Cain & Roy Kral, John Frigo Trio, Marty Rubenstein Trio.

PALMER HOUSE—Frankie Laine, Roger Roy, Ben Arden Orc.

PLAYBOY—Billy Eckstine, Shepard & Jourdan, Patience Jarvis, Johnny Hartman, Allan Kent, Charlie Callas.

SECOND CITY—"13 Minotaurs" Ann Elder, Sally Hart, Dick Schaal, Avery Schreiber, Jeba Brent, Jack Burns, Del Close, Bill Mathieu, Omar Shapli.

SHERATON-BLACKSTONE — Toni Carroll, Franz Benteler Orc.

LOS ANGELES

COCONUT GROVE — Myron Cohen, Reiss & Davis.

CRESCENDO—Homer & Jethro, Marquischimps, Vicki Carr.

DINO'S—Jack Elton, Betsy Duncan, Steve LaFever.

ICE HOUSE — Stan Wilson, Jaime Griffo, Bill Willoughby.

INTERLUDE—The Women Folk, Johnny Melfi, Roger Perry.

JERRY LEWIS—Jody Martin.

MELODY ROOM—Lenny Bluett Trio.

PURPLE ONION—Wintern Kelly Trio, Lorenz Alexander.

SLATE BROS.—Jack Jones, Gina Wilson.

STATLER HOTEL—George Liberace

TOWN HOUSE—Red Nichols & Five Pennies.

TROUBADOR—Sabicas, David Bernard.

YE LITTLE CLUB—Janice Baker, Jack Smalley duo.

LAS VEGAS

BOURBON STREET—Lyn Keath.

CASTAWAYS—Barry Ashton's "Playmates of '64," Redd Foxx, Peter Anthony, Don Randi 3.

DESERT INN—Jimmy Durante, Sonny King, Eddie Jackson, Joan Sheppard, Dona Arden Dancers, Carlton Hayes Orc. Lounge: Ben Blue, Johnny Puleo, Les Baxter, Mafalda 3, Violins of Mexico, Peterson-Baker, Silver Strings.

DESERT INN—Jimmy Durante, Eddie Jackson, Sonny King, Kimchi Sisters, Dona Arden Dancers, Carlton Hayes Orc. Lounge: Ben Blue, Johnny Puleo, Les Baxter, Mafalda 3, Violins of Mexico, Peterson-Baker, Silver Springs.

DUNES—Eleanor Powell, Rip Taylor, Dunes Dancers, Bill Reddie Orc. Lounge: "Vive Les Girls!" January Jones.

FLAMINGO—Bobby Darin, Pat Cooper, Russ Black Orc. Lounge: Fats Domino, Cleopatra's Nymphs of Nile, Rene Paulo 4, Bob Sims.

FREMONT—Joe King, Zaniels, 4 Fables, Emblems, Bill Britten.

GOLDEN NUGGET—Rose Madden, Diplomats, Cut-Ups.

HACIENDA—"Les Poupees de Paris," Grove Shore Trio, Johnny Olenn, Four Tunes, Kay Houston.

MINT — Pat Moreno's "Artists & Models of '63," Sheb Wooley.

NEVADA—Carol Joan Thompson, Jeri Lynne Fraser, King of Limbo.

NEW FRONTIER—"Paree! Ooo La! La!" Lounge: Clara Ward Singers, Ink Spots, Sunny Spencer.

RIVIERA—Dinah Shore, Rola & Rolan, Jack Cathcart Orc. Lounge: Lionel Hampton.

SAHARA—Victor Borge, Mere-Landis Dancers, Louis Basil Orc. Lounge: Louis Prima & Co., Characters, Rum Canter, Peter & Hank.

SANDS—Diahann Carroll, Allan Sherman, Bill Carey, Copa Girls, Antonio Morelli Orc. Lounge: Jackie Heller, Yaconbian Co., Red Norvo, Merry Kings, Strings, Ernie Stewart.

SHOWBOAT—Pat Collins, Johnny Paul.

SILVER SLIPPER—Hank Henry, Sparky Kaye, Danny Jacobs, Billie Inoss, Lili St. Cyr, Viennas, Slipperettes, Geo Redman Orc. Lounge: Fantastics, Beverly Marshal, Skeets Minton, Johnny La Monte.

STARDUST — "Lido de Paris," Eddie O'Neal Orc. Lounge: Roberta Sherwood, Kim Sisters, Nalani Kele, Bernard Bros., Andrini Bros.

THUNDERBIRD—"Flower Drum Song," Jack Soo, Arlene Fontana, Juanita Hall, Nat Brandwynn Orc. Lounge: Dinah Washington, Suzie & Nile Owls, Frank Moore 4, Ken Colman, Christine Chatman.

TROPICANA—Folies Bergere '63, Ray Sinatra Orc. Lounge: Jerry Colonna, Henny Youngman, Al DePaulo 4, Du-Bonnet 3.

RENO-TAHOE

GOLDEN—Paris Playmates, Dick Weston, Christine and Piroska; Eddie Lawrence & Whatnotts.

HAROLDS—Don Cornell, Del Ray, Don Cossa Orc.

HARRAH'S (Reno)—Tommy Dorsey Orc., directed by Sam Donahue; Helen Forrest, Pied Pipers, Charlie Shavor, Big Tiny Little, George Rock, Twin Tunes.

HARRAH'S (Tahoe)—Harry Belafonte & Co. Lounge: Harry James, Billy Eckstine, Personalities; the Hi Hopes, Margaret Ann and the Marinal Trio.

HOLIDAY—Four Aces, George Young Revue, Harry (Woo Woo) Stevens, Charles Gould's Satin Strings.

MAPES—Bob Crosby Orc., Jack Schafer, Ginny Greer & Gallions.

NEVADA LODGE (Tahoe)—Town Pipers, Mandrakes.

NEW CHINA CLUB—Skip O'Donnell.

PRIMADONNA—"Step Lively Revue," Al Trenti Orc.; Dorothy Dorben Dcrs., Snyder Bros.

RIVERSIDE—Lancers, Joyce Aimee & Chasers, Cervairs, Little Red, Buoks.

SPARKS NUGGET — Sophie Tucker, Dave Barry, Mariachis Los Camperos, George Arnold singers, dancers, Foster Edwards Orc.

WAGON WHEEL (Tahoe)—Gaylord & Holiday, Lucky Starr, Arthur Walsh, Bobby Page, Duke Varga, Pat Yankee & Sinners; Orrin Tucker Orc.

SAN FRANCISCO

BIMBO'S 365—Kings IV, Jo Ann Hill; Yacoubian Co.

CLAREMONT HOTEL (Berkeley) — "Ecstasy on Ice."

THE COMMITTEE—Kathryn Ish, Irene Riordan, Scott Beach, Bobby Camp, Gary Goodrow, Larry Hankin.

EARTHQUAKE McGOON'S — Turk Murphy, Clancy Hayes.

FAIRMONT HOTEL—Kitty Kallen.

GALAXIE—Prince Masha Nua, Royal Hawaiian Revue; Don Lane & Madness, Inc.

HOLIDAY INN (Oakland)—Allan Drake, Sue Raney.

HUNGRI I—Wayfarers, Amanda Ambrose, John Barbour.

JAZZ WORKSHOP—Gerry Mulligan.

OFF BROADWAY — Nancy Wilson, Page (Cavanaugh) 7.

SHERATON-PALACE HOTEL — "South Pacific."

SUGAR HILL — Lambert-Hendricks-Bavan, Mose Allison Trio.

TOPSY'S—The Competition.

TRIDENT (Sausalito) — Jean Hoffman Trio, Joe Sullivan.

SAN JUAN

AMERICANA—"Ice Follies," Pepe Lara Orc. Lounge: Humberto Morales 5.

CARIBE HILTON — "Brazilian Rev." Miguelito Miranda Orc., Luisito Benjamin 5. Lounge: Renee Barrios.

CONDADO BEACH—Victor Santini, Peter Pit, Pepito Torres Orc., Lopez Vidal 8. Lounge: Floriana Alba, Juan Luis.

LA CONCHA—Gino Tonetti, Leslie & Simon, Noro Morales Orc., Nestor Torres 5. Lounge Nilda Terrace.

EL CONVENTO—Rosa Morena, Pepito Arvelo 5.

EL SAN JUAN—Los Trovadores de Espana, Anselmo Sacasas Orc., Julio Gutierrez 5. Lounges: Carmen Canavo 4, Mandy Campo 6.

OCHO PUERTAS—Sylvia del Villard, Ramon Roman.

Band Robbery

Continued from page 51

were chatting afterward, Goffstein strolled by, and according to Short, snapped: "Hey, Short, don't louse up my show."

Short says that on March 1 trumpeter Lloyd Luhman handed him a sealed envelope containing a quit notice signed by all his eight men. Later he got a registered letter from the Riviera saying that his services were no longer needed. Short then went to Milt Bronson, Riviera stage manager, and asked what he was going to do without a relief band.

Bronson's reported answer: "Your men are staying on. The union says it's okay."

Short said he went to union officials and implored them to suspend the seventh night rule so that he could hold other relief contracts he was then—and still is—playing at the Thunderbird, Sahara, Flamingo, and Mint.

Deprived of his steady band "through an emergency I did not create," he asked for the right to use the regular ensembles at those hotels on his fill-in nights. The union refused.

Short testified that his net income for 1959 as a band leader was $15,970; in 1960, $15,989; 1961, $5,864; and 1962, $4,315. He attributed the drop in his salary to the burning of the El Rancho Vegas Hotel in 1960, and because his contract with another show on the Strip had expired.

Las Vegas VARIETY correspondent was subpoenaed, and asked by Galane where he got his published information about Elias taking over for Short. He explained that it came from the Riviera's publicist, Wayne Redd.

Circus Review

Continued from page 36

what dull, Cavalcade of the Seasons.

The second part starts with the Atlas Sahar Troupe, a 10-strong team of lively tumblers from Morocco. The Six Cycling Kludsky from Czechoslovakia have a good visual turn, including springboard somersaults and some fancy cycling. The Luftmann bullfight parody (5) is strictly for the kids, but misses its target.

One of the more spectacular items is an aerial presentation in which 10 girls simultaneously do trapeze acrobatics with skill and grace. Display is followed by a comedy trapeze act, featuring the Four Lunasz from Hungary—one of the better specialties in the show.

Billy Smart Jr. puts a herd of elephants through familiar drill, but as a payoff, has a couple of them dancing the twist. There is a standard balancing routine by the Four Osmanis. The Riaz trio have a good thrill act in which the girl member is circling the big Czechoslovakia, have a bright but not particularly original balancing routine.

Bob Markworth (with an attractive femme partner) who hails from America, does some fancy work with a bow and arrow, including the blindfold bit when he aims at a balloon perched on the girl's head. Billy Smart Jr. (son of the circus founder) and Miss Gloria put a dozen Liberty horses through a striking and well-drilled routine.

The Munoz Luftmann Family from Portugal, the only clown act, is moderately funny. Show's first half ends with a lavish, but sometop in an airplane while her two male partners are doing some fancy high wire tricks.

Climax to the production is a U. S. Cavalry western show, injuns and all, in which a white girl is captured by the redskins. This too, is largely designed to appeal to the youngsters. Myro.

New Acts

THE WOMENFOLK (5)
Folk Songs
40 Mins.
Interlude, L.A.

There is plenty of potential for the five attractive girls, recently signed to an RCA recordpact, who call themselves The Womenfolk. With the current folk craze, their bookings are open both to niteries and to the booming college campus route.

Appearing in checkered gingham gowns, girls have top blend, indicate solid musicianship and handsomely complement each other in a variety of tunes with an ethnic background but styled to a popular vein. Gospeler "Seek and Ye Shall Find," for instance, is a nicely developed rhythm entry, while "Never Wed An Old Man" adds good comedy touch and "Where Are You Going?" is light and breezy. "Jing Jin" is top entry, shows each girl individually, then gives them a chance to combine and sell as a unit. Singly, they all have good voices. Leader Joyce Collins particularly is appealing and Judy Fine nice on light comedy. Dale.

AYAKO HOSOKAWA
Songs
35 Mins.
Club Village, Dallas

Ayako Hosokawa is a talented canary, a pro since age 14 in her native Japan via niteries and tv, but the last three years has worked in Coast Japanese clubs. Exposure in the plush local nitery, and added tv stints, should enhance her future.

The Nipponese doll, just over five feet tall, is a looker and a sleeper act with lotsa show savvy. She enters in colorful kimono and sash, bowing and solemn, then breaks it up with a belting "Lady Is a Tramp" for boff palming. With perfect English enunciation and good pipes she adds "And The Angels Sing" before a mixture of Japanese and English lyrics for a native ballad and a haunting "Misty," which grabs the fans.

Surefire songalog includes a fingersnapping "Mack the Knife," "Bye, Bye, Blackbird" and a rocking "Ain't Misbehaving" to exhibit fine phrasing and build the palming. Surprise clicks are her gutsy "Basin Street Blues" with growls a la Louis Armstrong, and Japanese lyrics of "The Eyes of Texas." Her fine outing is a begoff with "Sayonara." Bark.

'NOTHING CAN STOP ME NOW'
Featuring Roger Perry and Johnny Melfi
Revue
35 Mins.
Interlude, L.A.

Roger Perry and Johnny Melfi, seen individually in various musical and nitery stints, present a new tab version of their show biz musical revue, aimed for New York legit staging.

Both of the performers have been attractive in their other stints. In this case, however, they haven't much with which to work. The material, much of which they jointly wrote and arranged, is fine but lacks punch. Perry remains at piano, Melfi doing most of the singing. They look very much like a pair of kids performing for friends in a livingroom. The show needs more style, better staging.

Melfi's "I Wish I Were a Kid Again" is fine, indicates he is really an actor who can sing, would be fine for legit musical. Dale.

SKIPPY RENAUD
Songs
25 Mins.
Riverside Hotel, Ottawa

A near-knockout in a sexy white sheath, Skippy Renaud is a piquante brunet whose opener, "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," suits her warm, silky voice.

Miss Renaud does an excellent job on "Give You Anything But Love," then reached her peak with "La Mer," in which her voice is rich, tender and strong. A couple of other Gallic tunes were well handled; she was standout in "Baby Let Your Hair Down," then finales with an uninhibited kick-around of "All of Me."

She also handled a tipsy would-be singer-twister with tactful firmness. Aside from occasional slight awkwardness with her shapely hands, she has what it takes for lounges, intimeries. Gard.

THE ROADRUNNERS (3)
Folk Singers
30 Mins.
Rendezvous Room, Beverly Hills

The hootenanny has finally hit Fred Hayman's talent showcase. The Roadrunners, a New Mexican trio of bright and brisk young males (Jim Butler, Rusty Hayward, Bob Ponto), are smart enough to work in some ballads and quasi-parodies to keep interest of posh room's audience. This is the trio's Coast debut.

Threesome, very unfolk-ish in appearance with dark suits and white shirts, accompany their singing with varied stringed instruments including guitars, bass and banjo. Concentration on fast delivery and upbeat tempo sometimes loses the meaning of a tune —"Lonesome Road" comes on like "Route 66"—but the crowd loves it.

Hayward, the lead singer, has the only solo—"Scotch and Soda" —a ballad reminiscent of "After Hours" in style and subject matter.

Their patter is mostly good, frequently excellent, but given the least encouragement they tend to overdo it. Trio would also be smart to test the political and religious feeling of an audience before hitting them with some of the "jokes" used. But general impression is excellent and with some professional publishing act could be top-notch. Robe.

JUDY MARTIN
Songs
25 Mins.
Jerry Lewis' Restaurant, L. A.

Judy Martin comes on strong, particularly bubbling over with personality and a big, broad smile in her voice. She's trying hard and this is essentially her biggest problem.

The smile continues inside Miss Martin's mouth, occasionally distorting words and marring an otherwise clean, sharp tone. While speech is actually good, it sometimes doesn't come through clearly, makes her break the tone in sustaining areas and let the vowels sound dull.

Miss Martin has a good potential. Her voice capacity is wide and she knows how to belt. Arrangements sometimes get too involved and she works into overly emotional reaction, using her hands affectedly. At this point, singer is on the brink of good work, but will smooth out with time and experience.

Of pleasant group of selections in show caught, thrush sparked nicely on blended "Nobody" and "Make Someone Happy" and hit a nice softly velvet sound on balladed "More I Cannot Wish You." Most tunes are styled with slow, sustaining attack, then hit big belt ending. Dale.

Hilton Expert

Continued from page 34

of good talent on a recent trip to Hong Kong and Bangkok.

At the Star Hill, in addition to the Tiongco Bros., Seiji Hiraoka and His Quintet will remain until Dec. 15 and open three days later at Honolulu's Kalulu Hilton. After three months, they are expected to resume at their current spot. Appel, incidentally, manages the combo for engagements outside Japan. The third act now at the supper club, a chanteuse named Mariko, will remain indefinitely.

Appel noted that the entertainment budget for the room has been raised from 15% to 25% of the anticipated receipts. The Star Hill, which has harassed by the police when non-registered guests were discovered to be dancing, will keep its dance floor covered at least until the Christmas holidays, when regulations are usually relaxed, he said.

Christys Thin 8G, W'peg

Winnipeg, Oct. 29.

New Christy Minstrels drew only 2,450 folk-song buffs to the 10,000-seat Arena last Saturday (19). Gross was a light $8,396 at $3.50 top.

Group was sponsored by the Winnipeg Symphony as part of its current fundraising drive.

Riviera, Las Vegas

Las Vegas, Oct. 21.

Dinah Shore, Rola & Rolan, Joyce Roberts, Dick Humphreys Dancers (11), Jack Cathcart Orch (21); presented by Elias Atol; choreography, Dick Humphreys; special material for Miss Shore, Earl Brown; lighting, Hugo Granata; stage direction, Milt Bronson; $5 minimum.

Dinah Shore, glitteringly gowned, by-passed her disclicks at the preem here, and got nary a squawk from firstnighters. Miss Shore effectively explores some new (for her) songs and comes up with a superb songalog which seems too short.

Looking like the happy bride that she is, the headliner winds her session with a fine "happy" blues medley. She also offers "Danke Schoen" ("This will be the only one you'll hear tonight that's anywhere near the top ten"), "Hey, Look Me Over," "Make Someone Happy," a spiritual medley (with strong assistance by conga-bongoist Modesto Durande), "Once Upon A Summertime" (with pleasant sounding accompaniment at the accordion by Jack Latimer) and "If I Were A Bell," among others. At one time, Miss Shore displays her natural charm by using idiot cards for "a song I just got at four o'clock this afternoon." Except for the one accordion sit-in Latimer 88s all the way for the star. Vet spotlighter Hugo Granata is in the light booth, the gowns are by Norell, and Milt Bronson coordinates as stage director.

Rola & Rolan return to Vegas for this one, balancing the bill with one of best balancing acts ever seen here.

The Dick Humphreys Dancers offer a new routine which is splendid in its simplicity. Joyce Roberts sparkplugs the party of eight femme and three male terpers. Jack Cathcart's orch (21) smoothly guides the bash, in until Nov. 18 when Edie Adams opens. Duke.

Queen Elizabeth, Mont'l

Montreal, Oct. 17.

Lanny Ross, Heller & Helene (2), Nick Martin Orch (12), Salle Bonaventure Trio; $2.50 cover, $3 Saturday.

This is vet tenor Lanny Ross' break-in date on the nitery circuit (New Acts Oct. 23 issue), and his impact should come as a surprise to that milieu of the jaded and the so-called hipsters who are likely as not to exclaim—Lanny Ross?—on learning of his top billing, first time out at the posh Salle Bonaventure.

It took a bit of vision on the part of g.m. Donald Mumford to go for the Ross booking, especially since he follows a chic, sophisticated type like Patachou who's always a smash in this room.

Ross, however, provides an interesting—sometimes fascinating—digression with a well-paced routine of singing and a bit of chatter that comes off as a healthy hunk of Americana.

No question also that Ross is aided considerably in this date by Heller & Helene, ballroomologists who kick off the show with a smooth dance session. Duo sets the atmosphere and pace with a mixture of kicks and spins integrated into a routine which runs the gamut from modern to tango. Helene particularly — with her good-looking, saucy appearance and feather-like stepping—shows a talent which should take her far.

Nick Martin's Orch, in the little more than a month it's been in this key spot, has eliminated the rough edges and now earns high marks for the show-cutting and dance sessions.

Next: Dorothy Shay. Laza.

Ash Grove, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

Lightnin' Sam Hopkins, Rene Heredia, Hugh Romney, Sandy Bull; $2 admission.

Four acts do not a variety bill make when three of them play the same instrument (one to accompany his singing). Indeed, the Ash Grove's current bill, which started Tuesday night (22), could be better termed a "guitar festival."

Flamenco guitarist Rene Heredia and guitarist-singer Lightnin' Sam Hopkins make the major entertainment on this trip, particularly the former. The program, much too long, needs better timing, shortening of selections and either elimination or condensing of frequent drink-pushing intermissions.

Heredia's repertoire is not restricted to the familiar, pulsating gypsy rhythms which most Americans associate with flamenco, but includes selections from the classic school, a Caribbean flavored "jazz" item and samples of a softer, romantic type that somewhat resemble the Portuguese Fado. His command of the guitar hushed the audience into respectful listening and excited it into spirited applause.

Hopkins, a "country" blues singer, is one of the few living members of the early days of jazz. His considerable reputation (through his recordings in the 1950's and, less so, currently) is understandable when heard live. He's an entertaining performer.

Like many of the "country" singers who have acquired "city" popularity, however, Hopkins has allowed a measure of slickness and too-personal informality to slip into his work. His guitar-playing, as strong and dramatic as ever, now exceeds his still interesting but lackadaisical singing.

Hugh Romney, billed as a comic, has obviously not heard that sick humor is dying. His few bits of authentic humor, more febrile than cerebral, are weakened by exaggerated mannerisms and heavy use of scatological expressions.

Opening the program, 12-string guitarist Sandy Bull had trouble getting started but finally settled down, after time-wasting and inaudible explanations, considerable tuning and trouble with the lighting, to a long but excellently played solo. Increasingly fervent in execution, it aptly fitted his description—"a conglomeration of styles."

Small preem night audience, indicative of what's happening locally with too many spots opening new programs on the same night, not necessarily reflects lack of interest. New artists, however, must almost certainly get latter impression.

Bill is in through Nov. 10. Robe.

Latin Casino, N. J.

Cherry Hill, Oct. 23.

Shelley Berman, Barry Sisters, Moro-Landis line (8), Jack Curtis, Joe Frasetto Orch (15); $3-$6 minimum.

Two acts, formerly identified in these parts with the now closed Celebrity Room—Shelley Berman and the Barry Sisters, are making their debuts in this big south Jersey theatre-cabaret. A comedian who looks like a hypochondriac and treats his audience as if it possessed a respectable IQ, Berman is a welcome change of pace.

The close harmonies of the Barry Sisters keep them on stage for 40 minutes. Berman then makes a lugubrious entrance: "You don't know how happy I am to follow an act that stops the show. I hope you don't resent my coming on."

An actor as well as a writer and comedian of the stool school, the comic gets a lot of mileage out of some of the more distasteful television commercials and takes off all the participants in these air blurbs to generally hilarious results.

He reserves his heaviest fire for the American Medical Assn. and the Berman barbs are solidly received. The telephone, a prop that he has made a trademark, is used to advantageous effect in several skits. The best are a take-off of a traveling salesman with a cut finger trying to obtain medical attention at four a.m.; and a neurotic suffering from sudden memory lapses seeking help from his psychiatrist.

For a closing bit Berman converts the big club into a PTA meeting, posing as a visiting pediatrician and seeking questions from the floor. It's a speculative turn depending on quality of questions; the comic's forte is bickering with certain ringsiders and gimmick produces some of his wittiest sallies, ad-lib or otherwise. He saves all with a finale speech that is a masterpiece of floor-show tact.

Two brunets in shimmering white beaded dresses, the Barry girls draw wolf whistles on entrance. They run through a well-tested songalog in energetic and secure style, harmonizing on such pop lilts as "Without a Song," "I Love All of You," "Bill Bailey," "All of Me," and "I Wanna Be Around."

Ella Fitzgerald and the Vagabonds open Oct. 31. Gagh.

Village Gate, N. Y.

Carmen McRae, Charlie Byrd Trio, Grecco & Willard; $3 admission.

Art D'Lugoff, one of the leaders in the avant garde cafe society, has installed another interesting bill in his dungeon setting. Layout's major item is the guitar pickings of Charlie Byrd who plays one of the most versatile set of strings in the jazz firmament.

Byrd roams a wide range, from a delicate solo of a Bach gavotte to a sultry "Limehouse Blues." There's much to look for in his offerings. He matches strength and delicacy, and lets the imagination soar in virtually anything done by him.

Byrd, who develops his themes with grace and logic, works his strings in a manner that harmonizes with the efforts of the bass and drums behind him. He gets top plaudits.

Carmen McRae is a talented Negro singer, who after a slow start, ultimately reached her auditors. The early part of her recital seemed cold and contrived. She appeared to reach for effects in a self-conscious manner. Once Miss McRae threw in a ballad, her mood and tempo changed and she threw away many detracting mannerisms that prevailed during the early part of her act and started to entertain. Miss McRae also got a good reception.

Completing the lineup is Grecco & Willard, a comedy duo, who deal in highly interesting and provocative ideas. Their execution only hints at the fun they can ultimately be. They're fresh, have a zany sense of humor, but still need that experience that will result in stronger projection. Jose.

Tidelands, Houston

Houston, Oct. 22

Pat Henry, Tani Jones, Freddie Noble Orch (6); $1.50 entertainment charge.

Pat Henry is a bright, standup comic whose material is generally fresh, and who specializes in the quick O. Henry finish, even at times on his one-liners. (They've hired a Negro bus driver in Alabama. But the steering wheel is 40 feet long).

Some tag lines sneak up on patrons who aren't attentive, but they usually catch up and reward with prolonged if belated mitting. Even some material which seems to be borrowed shows life and draws good returns. Henry has ease of delivery and is nimble witted on floor. Turn was timed at 50 minutes.

Tani Jones has better than passable pipes, but it really doesn't matter much for packaging is superb. She's stunning redhaired femme in low-cut gown, and suspicion here is that not many male stagesiders were listening anyway.

She's a capable belter, but slow-beat ballad done in husky lower ranges—while okay as change of pace—lacks impact of other tunes, which include "The Trolley Song," "The Other Side of The Tracks," "Swinging On A Star" and "Blues In The Night." Act runs about 20 minutes.

Backing of Freddie Noble's Orch should help make for satisfying two weeks for this Tidelands Motor Inn club. Skip.

Frolic, Revere

Revere, Oct. 24.

Ford & Reynolds, Penny Pryor, Buddy Thomas Dancers (6), Cliff Natale Orch (6); $2.50 minimum.

Zany Ford & Reynolds, the musical comics, are cutting up at the Frolic on the beachfront across the bay from Hub where they're in for a four-week booking. The boys knock themselves out for an hour, winding up with a Twist with audience participation in which Frank Ford drags femmes of assorted sizes from their ringside chairs to the stage.

Opening with fast one-liners and gags, they segue to a battle of music, Ford on the trumpet, Gary Reynolds on sax, and they break it up with "Old Black Magic." They build big number, a rigged request by club owner, for "Misty," which they perform with Ford on drums, Reynolds on sax to big rounds of applause.

Penny Pryor, little girl type chantoosy in skirt and blouse, belies her appearance with big belting voice. Opening with "Today is the Day," she shakes hands with ringsiders then segues into "When Your Lover Has Gone." She moves into light vein with "Goody, Goody." Closing with a rousing "Chicago," she gets off way ahead.

Buddy Thomas line of tall stemmed lookers have two production numbers, "Harlem," and a fast stepping "Broadway," with tall plumed costumes. Cliff Natale cut the show with eclat.

Ford & Reynolds are in for four weeks closing Nov. 16. Guy.

House Review

Music Hall, N.Y.

"All Around the Town," produced by Marc Platt; Symphony Orchestra directed by Raymond Paige; settings, James Stewart Morcom; costumes, Frank Spencer; Sandra Balesti and Eugene Slavin, with Sticks Evans, Bobby Banks; son, Donald Hulme, with Attila Galamb; Willa Moultrie Singers, with Sticks Evavns, Bobby Banks; the Rockettes (dances by Russell Markert); "Mary, Mary" (WB), reviewed in VARIETY—Sept. 4, '63.

Those severe critics who have contended, that there is too much sameness about Radio City Music Hall stageshows will be pleasantly surprised by "All Around the Town," which Marc Platt produced. Because the new show is so different from recent productions at the Hall, it will almost seem like another theatre. Originality swift pacing and big chunks of entertainment mark this session.

Platt, who joined the Music Hall staff about 18 months ago, generally has been associated with the ballet portion of the theatre's stage productions. With this show, he appears to have developed into topflight producer. He has taken the initial premise of spotting Jimmy Nelson (he of "Danny O'Day" and other veatro dummies) as an inspiring, youthful director of the stage layout.

Nelson admits he is a harried director of the whole production, and tees off by telling symph conductor Raymond Paige to face the audience rather than take his usual stance (that's so the aud can study his face and tell if he's happy or not). Voluble young Nelson is off and running. He segues into a typical backstage closeup prior to setting the scenery as he introduces the ballet production number. Not only is it a different twist but it also displays the world's largest stage.

Ballet is tabbed "Alley Cats," a sure bet for Halloween time, with the terpers garbed in feline costumes. Sandra Balesti and Eugene Slavin lead the cavorting cats with excellent returns. Sheer novelty of the setting and dancers makes this go over.

Nelson, still emulating a director, brings on Attila Galamb, nine-year-old saxophone player; and Donald Hulme, ditto of the accordian, as if the two were trying out, after auditions, to get into the show. This is executed so deftly that it jells nicely. Both Galamb and Hulme, of course, are bona fide virtuosos.

The Rockettes, with Russell Markert credited for the dances and drilling the group, present an eye-inspiring Top Hat, white ties and tails production number that tops a ything seen here in recent months. Half the group is introed via a clever silhouetting before joining the long line for some intricate tap stepping that includes some deft handling of canes (each Rockette has one) as well as long-stemmed legomania.

Nelson then reveals himself as the familiar ventriloquist with his "Danny O'Day" and pet dog, "Farfel." He wins his auditors from the outset with his smart crossfire of chatter with "Danny" and later as intermediary between this dummy and the sorrowful faced "dog." Routine is a smash hit.

Colorful climax spots the Willa Moultrie Singers (five Negro femmes) plus Sticks Evans and Bobby Banks, for accomp, in spiritual and folk songs. Scene is tabbed "Gospel Truth," and this topflight vocalist group is given a magnificent setting. Finale of "Saints Go Marching In" brings a flashy scenic effect with steam arising out of the stage. It's a credit to the Hall's production staff.

Paige's Symphony Orch does "The Melodies of Mancini" for solid returns. Wear.

Hotel Roosevelt, N.O.

New Orleans, Oct. 25.

Tito Guizar, Juan Valentino, Pina Dromundo Ballet de Mexicano (5); Leon Kelner Orch; $2.50 weeknight minimum; $4 Sats.

The Tito Guizar magic, which has made him a fave here for years, is as potent as ever judging by the enthusiasm he generated at his Thursday (24) opening in Seymour Weiss' swank Blue Room. He had the tableholders singing with him, clapping their hands in time with his music and shouting requests.

Wearing a handsome charro costume embroidered in gold, the tall and handsome tenor with ingratiating personality and rich voice, won the audience from the moment he brought out his guitar. In his songbag is an ample supply of Latino romantic favorites, sentimental ballads and other fare.

It's his warbling of old below-the-border favorites that draws heaviest response. The effervescent Guizar has a warm voice, uses it cleverly and knows how to add a seductive twist to his songs. He socks over tunes ranging from the expected "Guadalajara" and "El Rancho Grande" to an Italian song, "Al Di La."

Guizar holds his listeners captive all the way and bows off to an ovation.

This trip Guizar heads a Latin revue featuring the talented Pina Dromundo Ballet de Mexicano troupe, three shapely girls and two lithe boys, who present a colorful and spectacular dance titled "Dance of Fire." Featuring Pina, Camerino and Daniel, the group flashes around the small stage picking up handfuls of fire in a matter-of-fact manner.

In his American debut is lariat artist Juan Valentino, whose rope tossing is superb despite the fact that a chandelier over the stage hampered him some. Guillerma & Elia round out the topflight terp group.

Leon Kelner and his musical crew back the show expertly and keep the tables empty during the dance sessions. Liuz.

Crescendo, L. A.

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.

Homer & Jethro, Marquis Chimps, Vikki Carr, Howie Oliver Trio; $2.50 cover plus two-drink minimum.

Vikki Carr has third billing—in small print—under Homer & Jethro and the Marquis Chimps, but the new young singer easily gained top spot in audience eyes at her Thursday (24) opener.

Miss Carr looks to be a winner, a songstress who should develop into a first rate nitery and recording attraction (she's now with Liberty) and may also find a spot in films and tv. Surprisingly, the potential has broken through strongly even in the few weeks since an earlier local booking at the smaller Trolly Ho!.

The difference may be the personal self assurance that can be gained with a booking that leans on the big time. Singer now has toned down her previous effervescent style. She mixes soft, cool sounds with a hard belt, handles each with proficience.

Diminutive and attractive thrush has an easy, gutsy delivery backed by solid training, secure speech and a definite knowledge of what she is doing and saying. "Hey, Look Me Over," for instance, is far above the fast, bright cliche opener style in which it usually is heard. And she cries real tears in an empathetic, emotional delivery of "Poor Butterfly."

Homer, who does most of the singing, and Jethro, generally the comic, have been around since 1932 as Nashville and "Grand Ol' Opry's" top comedy team. Specialty performers, they showed their pro capability on stage in a particularly scathing, humorous and deserved putdown on a ringside heckler.

Act itself rambles through parodies of tunes known best in country field—"Walking Behind You," "Rose of San Antone." One-liners are frequently bitingly funny, but the turn has limited appeal. Electric guitar and mandolin instrumentals, although broken by comedy bits, are excellent.

Chimps are chimps and they are cute to some people. These are very special and very well trained, but a little goes a long way and wisely the Marquis simians are short act. Quartet of the human-dressed monkeys go through acrobatics, bicycles, roller skates and what have you. Dale

Shows on Broadway

110 in the Shade

David Merrick presentation of musical comedy in two acts (11 scenes, 17 numbers), with book by N. Richard Nash, based on his own play, "The Rainmaker," with music by Harvey Schmidt, lyrics by Tom Jones. Staged by Joseph Anthony; choreography, Agnes de Mille; scenery, Oliver Smith; costumes, Motley; lighting, John Harvey; musical director, Donald Pippin; orchestrations, Hershy Kay; dance music arrangements, William Goldenberg; vocal arranger, Robert de Cormier. Stars Robert Horton, Inga Swenson, Stephen Douglass; features Will Geer, Steve Roland, Scooter Teague, Lesley Warren, George Church. Opened Oct. 24, '63, at the Broadhurst Theatre, N.Y.; $8.80 top weeknights, $9.40 Friday-Saturday nights.

Toby ..... George Church
File ..... Stephen Douglass
H.C. Curry ..... Will Geer
Noah Curry ..... Steve Roland
Jimmie Curry ..... Scooter Teague
Lizzie Curry ..... Inga Swenson
Snookie ..... Lesley Warren
Mrs. Jensen ..... Diane Deering
Phil Mackey ..... Seth Riggs
Tommy ..... Christopher Votos
Belinda ..... Renee Dudley
Geshy Toops ..... Don Crabtree
Gil Demby ..... Jerry Dodge
Olive Barrow ..... Leslie Franzos
Wally Skacks, 3rd ..... Loren Hightower
Maurine Toops ..... Evelyn Taylor
Bo Dollivon ..... Vernon Lusby
Mr. Curtis ..... Robert Shepard
Bill Starbuck ..... Robert Horton
Wally Skacks ..... Carl Nicholas

Townspeople: Lynne Broadbent, Leslie Franzos, Lucia Lambert, Paula Lloyd, Evelyn Taylor, Esther Villavicencio, Florence Willson, Don Atkinson, Frank Derbas, Jerry Dodge, Ben Gillespie, Loren Hightower, Vernon Lusby, Arthur Whitfield, Barbara Bossert, Gretchen Cryer, Dori Davis, Diane Deering, Carolyn Kemp, Urylee Leonardos, Donna Sanders, Clifford Fearl, David London, Carl Nicholas, Stan Page.

Musical numbers: "Another Hot Day," "Lizzie's Coming Home," "Love, Don't Turn Away," "Poker Polka," "Hungry Men," "The Rain Song," "You're Not Foolin' Me," "Raunchy," "A Man and a Woman," "Old Maid," "Everything Beautiful Happens at Night," "Melisande," "Simple Little Things," "Little Red Hat," "Is It Really Me," "Wonderful Music," "The Rain Song" (reprise).

When "The Rainmaker" was done as a straight play nine years ago, it was a modest hit chiefly because of the performance of Geraldine Page as the plain heroine who needed a man's love to make her beautiful. But maybe what the N. Richard Nash comedy-drama really required was songs and dances—and the presence of a new femme musical star.

The news is that it now has them all—songs by Harvey Schmidt and Tom Jones, a glowing new star in Inga Swenson and, of course, a different title, "110 in the Shade." It opened last Thursday night (24) at the Broadhurst Theatre and it could be a sleeper smash. It's an entertaining, very touching and undeniably winning show, and it should be good for a long run on Broadway, extended touring and a honey of a picture.

Robert Horton, the former "Wagon Train" television actor, makes his Broadway bow as the strutting, bragging, self - styled rainmaker of the musical. He gives an impressive performance dramatically and vocally, and as a stage personality. But it is Miss Swenson who brings the show to poignant, incandescent life. It's always a thrill to be present at the emergence of a star—and this is one of these rare occasions.

Nash has skillfully adapted his own original play as the book of "110 in the Shade," and the Schmidt-Jones songs are an agreeable element. Joseph Anthony has staged the production with expressive economy, Agnes de Mille has provided effective and admirably brief unpretentious choreography, Oliver Smith has designed stunning scenery and Motley has supplied appropriately colorful costumes. It's apparently another boxoffice click for David Merrick, who already has "Luther" and "The Rehearsal" this season, plus "Oliver" and "Stop the World—I Want to Get Off" as holdover moneymakers from last season.

The show's story, which was somewhat slim for a straight play, serves handsomely for a musical, and the scenes between Horton and Miss Swenson are enthralling and quite affecting. He is excel- superheated ballad "Melisande" and two duets with Miss Swenson, lent as the con-man adventurer, notably in the singing of the two duets with Miss Swenson, "You're Not Foolin' Me" and "Is It Really Me."

Miss Swenson, who's been impressive previously as an actress and singer, has a new radiance as the self-doubting farm girl whom love transforms into a luminous beauty. Her combination of dramatic tenderness, lovely singing and personal warmth is irresistible. She's superb in the numbers with Horton and in her own solos, "Love, Don't Turn Away," "Simple Little Things" and especially in the comic versatility of "Raunchy."

There are also excellent performances by Stephen Douglass as the curiously inhibited sheriff, Will Geer as the heroine's perceptive, understanding father, Scooter Teague as her guileless younger brother, Lesley Warren as the latter's brash sweetie, Steve Roland as the blunt but well-meaning older brother and the veteran George Church in a single tap dance spot.

Although the Tom Jones lyrics seem superior to the Harvey Schmidt tunes, at least on initial hearing, it's evident that Broadway. That, plus the immediate in these graduates from off-Broadway. That's plus the immediate fact of a new musical hit and an exciting new star in Miss Swenson, makes "110 in the Shade" a notable event. Hobe.

Barefoot in the Park

Saint Subber presentation of comedy in three acts, by Neil Simon. Staged by Mike Nichols; scenery, Oliver Smith; lighting, Jean Rosenthal; costumes, Donald Brooks. Stars Elizabeth Ashley Redford, Mildred Natwick, Kurt Kasznar; features Herbert Edelman, Joseph Keating. Opened Oct. 23, '63, at the Biltmore Theatre, N.Y.; $6.90 weeknights, $7.50 Friday-Saturday nights.

Corie Bratter ..... Elizabeth Ashley
Telephone Man ..... Herbert Edelman
Delivery Man ..... Joseph Keating
Paul Bratter ..... Robert Redford
Mrs. Banks ..... Mildred Natwick
Victor Velasco ..... Kurt Kasznar

Neil Simon, the television writer who had a legit sleeper three seasons ago with a comedy called "Come Blow Your Horn," has now topped himself with a whopping comedy hit. Last Wednesday night's (23) opening at the Biltmore Theatre is the first great big smash of the Broadway season and one of the funniest plays since—well, maybe since "Mary, Mary" or possibly "Born Yesterday." It's a natural for all the works, including touring companies, picture adaptation and years and years of stock royalties.

"Barefoot in the Park" is a deceptively simple piece with a dime-a-dozen premise, virtually no plot and a marvelous collection of joke lines. It's billed as a comedy, and that's what it is, a rib-cracking view of a perfectly believable and, so help all young husbands, probably commonplace domestic predicament.

Like any apparently carefree, irrelevant comedy, "Barefoot in the Park" has a basis of sanity. It's nothing portentious or important, but just a suggestion of good sense—the idea that marriage should involve mutual adjustment. With that as merely a foundation, the play is about a young New York couple, married only 10 days, and the first, bitter quarrel that, they innocently think, means the end of everything.

The first act sets the general situation and the characters, with a bountiful supply of loud, long laughs. The second act tapers off slightly as matters get involved in a visit from the girl's mother and an evening out with an eccentric neighbor from upstairs, ending with the post-midnight marital donnybrook. Everything is put to rights in the third act, including not merely the new marriage and mama's romantic status, but the merriment quotient for the whole show. Audiences may laugh so hard they'll have to mop their eyes.

Under the canny comedy staging of Mike Nichols, the performance generally exploits Simon's blissfully hilarious writing. Robert Redford gives a superbly legitimate and clean portrayal of the understandably bedeviled and only humanly patient young husband, and Mildred Natwick offers a virtuoso characterization as the worried mother who's badgered into being a good sport and then discovers what she's been missing.

Kurt Kasznar is plausible without contributing much extra dimension as the colorful neighbor. As the exasperatingly intense bride, Elizabeth Ashley looks attractive and seems effective enough until it's figured what a field day a young Margaret Sullavan or Judy Holliday or Barbara Bel Geddes might have made of such a juicy part. If that's unfair comment, just say that Miss Ash-

(Continued on page 66)

Enter '64 Edinburgh Fest

Edinburgh, Oct. 29.

The Prague National Theatre is likely to send an entry to the 1964 Edinburgh International Festival. Lord Harewood, artistic director of the Festival, has reached a preliminary basic agreement with Czechoslovak cultural officials on the participation of the Prague group in next year's arts junket.

The British executive has been in Europe o.o'ing talent for the event.

Show Out of Town

One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest

New Haven, Oct. 25.

David Merrick & Edward Lewis (in association with Seven Arts & Eric Productions) presentation of drama in three acts, by Dale Wasserman, based on novel by Ken Kesey. Staged by Alex Segal; scenery and lighting, Will Steven Armstrong; costumes, Noel Taylor; incidental music, Teiji Ito. Stars Kirk Douglas; features Joan Tetzel, Ed Ames, Malcolm Atterbury, Gene Wilder, William Daniels, Gerald S. O'Loughlin, Rex Robbins, Al Nesor, Fiddle Viracola, Leonard Parker, Lincoln Kilpatrick, Charles Tyner, Arnold Soboloff. Opened Oct. 24, '63, at the Shubert Theatre, New Haven; $4.80 top.

Chief Bromden ..... Ed Ames
Aides, Lincoln Kilpatrick, Leonard Parker
Nurse Ratched ..... Joan Tetzel
Nurse Flinn ..... Astrid Wilsrud
Dale Harding ..... William Daniels
Ellis ..... Arnold Soboloff
Billy Bibbit ..... Gene Wilder
Scanlon ..... Malcolm Atterbury
Cheswick ..... Gerald S. O'Loughlin
Martini ..... Al Nesor
Ruckly ..... William Gleason
Fredericks ..... Wesley Gale
Sefelt ..... Charles Tyner
Col. Matterson ..... Paul Huber
Randle P. McMurphy ..... Kirk Douglas
Dr. Spivey ..... Rex Robbins
Aide Turkle ..... Milton J. Williams
Candy Starr ..... Fiddle Viracola
Nurse Nakamura ..... Michi Kobi
Technician ..... Clifford Cothren
Sandra ..... K. C. Townsend
Aide ..... Peter Gumeny

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" is quite a play. It has a bit of whatever an audience requires of a theatrical production. There's a generous measure of rough-and-ready laughs filtering through the three sets of mental institution background. There is an abundance of stark drama as an obsessed head nurse battles the encroachment on her disciplinary territory by a devil-may-care patient.

There is considerable enlightenment on what could conceivably transpire in an institution of this nature, and there is excitement and a tremendous concern for the ultimate outcome of the characters, both good and bad.

The Dale Wasserman dramatization of the Ken Kesey novel is clinical in its disclosure of therapy and cynical in its disclosure of human frailties. But acceptance of all this meritorious content has one important proviso, willingness of the playgoer to "take it" as the script bulldozes through taut and nerve-straining sequences. Survivors will have had a tingling- jingling playgoing experience.

These passages are somewhat frightening, not through the actions of demented characters such as might be expected to inhabit a mental hospital, but rather through the machinations of the "sane" head nurse.

"Cuckoo's Nest" is not for the thin-skinned, the prude or the stuffed shirt. It is definitely of the realistic school that believes in calling a cesspool a cesspool. Its bawdy scenes and salty dialog, however, in addition to being bullseye authentic, and riotously funny.

The show has been staged by Alex Segal with a brilliant change of pace. It has wide range of moods, and the rapidity of shift in emphasizing these emotions is outstanding. The play marks the return of Kirk Douglas to legit after a 17-year absence. The role of the devil-may-care might not have been written expressly for him, but he makes it seem so. He draws tremendous audience sympathy, besides giving a fine performance. (Incidentally, Douglas owns film rights to this one and would be a natural for the part.)

Other topflight interpretations come from Joan Tetzel as the emotionally unstable nurse, William Daniels as a sex-problemed patient, Ed Ames (ex-Ames Bros.) as an Indian inmate who ultimately becomes the symbol of the play's title, and a talented assortment of characters portraying patients, hospital personnel and a pair of amusing prosties. It's Ames' legit debut and, of course, sans singing.

Will Steven Armstrong's setting of the acute ward of a mental hospital has authenticity and playability. The whole production reflects quality. Bone.

Shows Abroad

Cider with Rosie

London, Oct. 18.

Michael Codron presentation of a drama in two acts (20 scenes), adapted by James Roose-Evans and Sam Langdon from the Laurie Lee book of the same title. Staging and decor, James Roose-Evans; lighting, Richard Pilbrow; music, Michael Hurd. Features William Squire, Daphne Anderson. Opened Oct. 17, '63, at the Garrick Theatre, London; $3.20 top.

Narrator ..... William Squire
Mother, Miss B. ..... Daphne Anderson
Doth, Granny Wallon
Baroness von Hodenburg ..... Delia Corrie
Marje, Mrs. Davies, Mrs. Pimbury
Rosie ..... Narissa Knights
Phyll, Granny Trill, Jo ..... Jessica Barnes
Loll ..... Hywell Jones
Jack, Squire's old gardener
The Vicar ..... Roger Bradley
Vincent, The Squire, Mr. Davies
Uncle Sid ..... Douglas Milvain

Despite its inherent charm, Laurie Lee's "Cider with Rosie" has made an uneasy transition to the stage. The natural warmth and color of the memoirs of life in the rural Cotswolds does not always come through in this adaptation, although it is a worthy try, and should have some appeal to literary-legit connoisseurs.

Comparisons with other adaptations, such as "Under Milk Wood" or "Stephen D" are inevitable, and measured by those standards, "Cider with Rosie" falls somewhat short. But there is a refreshingly sincere and gentle atmosphere permeating the stage, and the principal characters are neatly and faithfully etched.

Using a narrator to convey the atmosphere and provide the continuity link, the adaptation by James Roose-Evans (who also designed and directed) and Sam Langdon retains the flavor of the rural way of life in a village "where incest is rife where the roads are bad." The autobiographical sketches start with Lee's childhood, his schooldays up to his affair with Rosie (the first bite at the apple) and the eventual breakup of the village. The treatment is necessarily episodic, but the narrator, largely relying on the author's printed words, provides the step by step continuity.

Much of the credit for the production must go to Roose-Evans for his ingenious and sensitive direction. With only a tilted circular platform as decor, and with the aid of a few simple props plus superb lighting by Richard Pilbrow, he suggests the changing background and gets the full flavor of the countryside onto the stage.

There is, apart from the narrator, skillfully performed by William Squire, considerable doubling among the cast, but that is not as confusing as it might seem. Daphne Anderson, Delia Corrie Jessica Barnes and Hywel Jones (as the young Laurie Lee) particularly stand out, and the others rally with lively support.

Myro.

Cockade

London, Oct. 17.

Michael Codron presentation of three one-act plays by Charles Wood. Staged by Patrick Dromgoole; decor, Alan Barrett; lighting, Richard Pilbrow and Robert-Ornbo. Features Alfred Lynch, Norman Rossington. Opened Oct. 16, '63, at the New Arts Theatre, London; $2 top.

PRISONER AND ESCORT

Jupp ..... Alfred Lynch
Blake ..... Norman Rossington
Hoskinson ..... Tim Preece
Girl ..... June Barry

JOHN THOMAS

John Thomas ..... Norman Rossington
Man From Upstairs ..... Alfred Lynch

SPARE

Harry ..... Alfred Lynch
Dickie Bird ..... Norman Rossington
Garibaldi ..... Tim Preece
Spratt ..... Bryan Pringle
Freddie ..... Alfred Lynch
Drummer ..... Martin Jarvis

Charles Wood is the latest recruit to the currently fashionable school of obscure playwrights. Like the others, he has a sharp ear for dialog and a flair for incisive characterization. In the final analysis, however, his work will be beyond the comprehension of most audiences, and that must hurt boxoffice prospects. In the circumstances, there is little hope that Michael Codron will be able to transfer these three one-act plays to a regular West End situation.

The first of the three playlets, "Prisoner and Escort," is the only one not utterly shrouded in obscurity. The action takes place in a railway carriage, and the three principal characters are a corporal, a private and the soldier they are escorting to a military prison for having publicly urinated on a highranking German officer.

That action, it emerges, was the soldier's way of showing his contempt for the revival of German military might, and to get revenge for his father, who was killed in the war. The corporal is a typical bully who takes advantage of his authority to handcuff the prisoner to the luggage rack, while the private sucks up to the NCO.

There is an interesting scene when a young blonde tart is invited into the carriage but tossed out in disgust when it is discovered she had been living with a colored man.

"John Thomas," the second item has vague sexual and Fascist overtones. It is about a timid schoolteacher dominated by his upstairs neighbor. He gets items of clothing one by one and then appears in full black-shirt Nazi uniform. The final play, "Spare," is even more vague, and takes place in a war museum, involving three soldiers and a sergeant-major in some sort of military charade.

The author, an advertising man of a West Country newspaper, had a three-year spell as a professional soldier, and had used the experience to capture the authentic and sometimes crude dialog used by servicemen. He has provided a program note to "explain" the three items, though that doesn't help a great deal.

Under Patrick Dromgoole's observant direction there is a high all-around acting standard, notably from Alfred Lynch and Norman Rossington playing widely contrasting characters in all three plays, with considerable skill and polish. June Barry is firstclass as the girl in the first play, and the others are all up to standard.

Three modest but effective sets have been designed by Alan Barrett, and the productions are given professional. lighting by Richard Pilbrow and Robert Ornbo.

Myro.

Second Honeymoon

Glasgow, Oct. 22.

Rita Theatres Ltd. presentation of a comedy in three acts, by Sam Cree. Staged by Eddie Fraser. Stars Jimmy Logan. Opened Oct. 21, '63, at the King's Theatre, Glasgow.

Mrs. Harkness ..... Helen Norman
Vera ..... Una McLean
Mrs. Leggat ..... Patricia Mason
Agnes Dickson ..... Majorie Thomson
Bob Dickson ..... Jimmy Logan
Mrs. Mansfield ..... Shirley Cottle
Walter Mansfield ..... Walter Carr
Sally Mitchell ..... Hannah Gordon
Stephen Mitchell ..... Tom Conti
Victor Bruce ..... Roy Boutcher
Malcolm Adair ..... Phil McCall
Henry Jefferson ..... Bob Temple

Jimmy Logan, a Scot vaude and revue comedian, is deserting the music halls for a considerable part of each year to star in straight plays, and this new comedy by Irish author Sam Cree is a useful vehicle for his talents, showing his growing characterization strength in the role of a Clydeside shipyard worker who returns for a holiday to the same coast boarding-house where he spent his honeymoon. The action of this homely, amusing three-acter passes in the sitting-room of the boarding house, somewhere on the Clyde coast. The piece is highly geared for local laughs.

The situations are familiar and the jokes are pure corn and music hall, but the customers respond merrily, their risibilities obviously tickled by the age-old story of love and marriage and frustrations on holiday, the henpecked husband and the rebellious husband. It is surefire fodder for Scott audiences, and would share as a worthwhile play vehicle for production in summer time at the coastal resorts parodied in the story.

The third act is the most riotous, the highspot being a drunk scene when the hero and his friend return to the boarding-house somewhat the worse of drink, and meet their respective wives and the irascible landlady. Latter role is capably played by Patricia Mason, all upturned nose and snarling lips, definitely a nasty type.

Una McLean, another vaude performer, makes a good job of the part of a mischievous maidservant who has a slight romance with an American sailor. Carr's portrayal of a downtrodden husband with the loquacious femme, is one of his best pieces of acting, and Roy Boutcher scores strongly with his

(Continued on page 67)

'Barefoot' Can Earn $7,500 a Week; Par and WB Claim Picture Rights

"Barefoot in the Park," which opened on Broadway last Wednesday night (23) to "money reviews," is figured to be in the black on paper, That's on the strength of anticipated revenue from the preproduction sale of the film rights for a down payment of $160,000, plus 10% of the gross on profitable weeks up to a ceiling of $460,000. It's expected that the full purchase price will be forthcoming, with the production getting $165,600 as its 40% share, less 10% commissions.

The financial terms of the picture deal, negotiated with Paramount, will be applicable regardless of the outcome of an arbitration between that company and Warner Bros. over ownership of the rights to the Neil Simon comedy. WB had the rights originally, but a switch to Paramount was made on the basis of the latter company's prior commitment under a clause in its contract to produce the picture version of Simon's previous comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn." A representative of the "Barefoot" management says that WB has agreed to abide by the same terms worked out with Paramount even if the arbitration decision is in WB's favor.

The unanimous praise by the New York daily critics and the subsequent lines at the Biltmore Theatre boxoffice where the play is tenanted indicate it'll be a hot ticket for some time to come. Thus the production is figured likely to realize the maximum figure from the film rights sale. The weekly percentage payment in connection with the film deal also applies to road company receipts.

The anticipated $165,600 in film income now civers repayment of the $125,000 invested in the Saint Subber production, but would also provide a $40,600 profit. Incidentally, it's figured the Neil Simon comedy can clear about $7,500 weekly at the 944-seat Biltmore on a potential capacity gross of $38,692. The release date for the pic is June 30, 1965, less than two years from now. Unless that date is changed in arbitration, Saint Subber will probably move quickly to get one or more touring companies on the road.

Simon, as author of the comedy, gets the standard Dramatists Guild minimum of 5% of the first $5,000 gross, 7½% of the next $2,000 and 10% of the balance. He also gets an additional $300 a week which, when combined with his royalty, is equivalent to a straight 10% of the gross. Besides this weekly revenue, he's also in for 10% of the profits.

Mike Nichols, who got an advance of $4,000 as the play's director, gets 2% of the gross for the first eight weeks and 2½% thereafter.

Spanish Gov't Buys Into Madrid Legituner House To Prevent Demolition

Madrid, Oct. 29.

The Spanish government has invested in the light opera showcase, Teatro de la Zarzuela, for an 80% interest to prevent the sale and demolition of the house. The Teatro owners, the Spanish Society of Authors & Composers, was contemplating several tempting real estate deals to unload their red-ink operatiton when the government moved in.

The Spanish ASCAP will retain a 20% interest and will continue to operate the light opera spot with a consultive committee made up of representatives of the Director Generals of Beaux Arts (Ministry of Education), of cinema and theatre, of information (Ministry of Information & Tourism) and Finance Ministry. This committee will be headed by Alvo Sotelo, president of the Society of Authors & Composers, and it will assume responsibility for future programming. The government will underwrite losses and appears prepared to pour in funds for the formation of choral groups, house orchestra and ballet ensemble.

The Zarzuela thus becomes the third state-subsidized musical-legit theatre in Madrid. The Teatro Espanol provides a classic theatre repertory and the Maria Guerrero covers the contemporary legit scene with full support from the Spanish treasury.

'Mary' Film Hasn't Hurt B'way Stage Play—Yet

The Broadway production of "Mary, Mary" held its own last week despite competition the last half of the week from the film version of the Jean Kerr comedy, which opened Thursday (24) at Radio City Music Hall. The long-run comedy, now in its 139th week at the Helen Hayes Theatre, N.Y. grossed $31,450 last week, only $704 under the previous stanza's take of $32,154. That's big money for a show that's been around for nearly three years.

The situation of a film version of a Broadway show competing with the legit original is unusual, but not unprecedented. In one such instance some years ago the picture "Three Men On a Horse" was at the Strand Theatre while the legit original was at the Fulton Theatre.

Howard Cullman Asks Booze Sale In N.Y. Theatres

Howard S. Cullman, an occasional Broadway legit backer, has recommended that favorable consideration be given to the licensing of bars for the serving of booze in New York theatres. This was the subject of a letter he sent last week to Judge Lawrence E. Walsh, chairman of the Moreland Commission on the Alcoholic Beverage Control Law.

In pointing out that service bars in theatres is common in practically all countries throughout the world, Cullman argued, "In London, Paris, Copenhagen, Berlin, Vienna and the other large cities where relaxing with a drink between the acts is an established amenity of theatregoing, I have yet to see any drunkenness in the theatre bars."

He also mentioned that in their struggle for survival, the New York theatres could use the added income that could be derived from bar sales. He also stated in the letter that such licensing would need revision of the present statutory requirements for the service of food where liquor is served by the drink.

In asking that the commission consider such a revision, Cullman added, "I have no financial interest directly or indirectly in any theatre property, and while I happen to be a director of National Distillers & Chemical Corp., I am not writing on its behalf or, as far as I know, even with its knowledge."

Coast Lawsuit Alleges Infringement on 'Barnes'

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.

John T. Pool Jr. brought suit last week in Superior Court here on the charge that his play, "Billy Barnes People," was staged and produced in part without his authorization. The action names George Eckstein, Bill Watters, Billy Barnes and Robert F. Rodgers as defendants.

Pool alleges infringement of common law copyright and claims that the defendants at various times from June, 1961, until August, 1963, illegally used the play, or parts of music, lyrics and manuscript.

Mrs. Seymour Retires

May Davenport Seymour, longtime curator of the Theatre and Music Collections at the Museum of the City of N.Y., has retired, but will continue to serve in an advisory capacity as curator emeritus. Her duties have been taken over by Sam Pearce, former associate curator who becomes acting curator.

Miss Seymour, an actress prior to her marriage in 1908 to William Stanley Eckert, joined the museum in 1926. She's the mother of actress Anne Seymour.

Ex-Showman
REV.
MALCOLM BOYD
explores the Biblical cycle
Many 'Religious' Films Never Get Close To the Altar
* * *
another Editorial Feature in the upcoming
58th Anniversary Number of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Sked 'Albatross' For London, N. Y.

A London production of Howard Koch's "The Albatross" is scheduled by Giles Gilbey and Richard W. Krakeur to open Nov. 7 at Joan Littlewood's Theatre Royal, Stratford. A subsequent New York presentation is planned by the producers. Koch, who last represented on Broadway as co-author with John Huston of the 1941 production of "In Time to Come," has been working as a screenwriter since then.

Besides "Albatross," Krakeur is currently involved in another legit venture for Broadway. He and Joseph Kipness are co-producing Irving Cooper's "Have I Got a Girl for You" which is scheduled to go into the Music Box Theatre, N. Y., on an interim booking starting Nov. 26. The comedy had originally been earmarked for Broadway last season, but production was suspended following a Coast tryout.

Larry Storch and Nancy R. Pollock head the "Girl" cast, in which Paula Lawrence and Karen Thorsell will also appear. Don Richardson is director and the production staff includes Richard B. Shull, production stage manager; Ted King, his assistant, and Karl Bernstein and Ben Kornzweig, pressagents.

'The Immoralist' to Cost 20G to Revive Off-B'way

The off-Broadway revival of "The Immoralist," which Bruce Becker is producing for a Nov. 7 opening at his new Bouwerie Lane Theatre, is budgeted at $20,000. In a solicitation sent last month to prospective backers, the producer broke down the budget in three categories—$7,500 for production costs; $6,200 for bonds, deposits, advances and guarantees, and the balance for reserve and contingencies, "especially for the advertising campaign vitally necessary after the opening."

The potential weekly capacity gross at the house will be over $6,000 and it's figured the weekly operating expenses for the production will be around $3,000. The revival of the Ruth and Augustus Goetz adaptation of Andre Gide's book, directed by George Keathley with Frank Langella and Marcie Hubert in the leading roles, begins a week of previews tomorrow night (Thurs.). Peter Harvey designed the sets and costumes and James McKinney is stage manager.

Kathryn Grayson Ill; Jan Moody In 'Camelot'

Cincinnati, Oct. 29.

Jan Moody, who took over for the ailing Kathryn Grayson after her collapse in the first act of the "Camelot" matinee performance last Wednesday (23) at the Taft Theatre, is continuing in the costar's role for the balance of the musical's three-week engagement here and until her recovery.

Miss Grayson collapsed during a scene with costar Louis Hayward, who carried her off in his arms. She was said to have overtaxed herself on tour and departed by plane Thursday (24) for her California home, to rest up before the musical's approaching Chicago engagement.

Miss Moody also subbed for Miss Grayson the week before in St. Louis.

John Williams will appear with Margaret Leighton and Alan Webb in "The Chinese Prime Minister."

'Park' Another Stock-to-B'way Hit From Mike Ellis' New Hope Barn

By JESSE GROSS

The stock theatre incubation of smash Broadway comedies is becoming commonplace, although only a smattering of the rustic tryouts ever reach the big time. Most notable of the shows which have made it to the Main Stem via the stock route is "Life With Father," first presented in Skowhegan, Me., in 1939. The latest is "Barefoot in the Park," which opened last week at the Biltmore Theatre, N. Y., to blue chip notices.

"Barefoot," authored by Neil Simon, got its feet wet last April at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, Pa. That spot was also the launching site in recent years for two other Broadway hits, "Come Blow Your Horn," which introduced Simon as a playwright, and the current, "Never Too Late," by Sumner Arthur Long.

The indicated financial success of "Park," which is already figured to be in the black on paper (see separate story) by virtue of projected income from the preproduction sale of film rights, isn't going to benefit Ellis too much. He has no managerial connection with the Broadway presentation, produced by Saint Subber, who owned the rights to the comedy when it tried out in Bucks County under the title, "Nobody Loves Me." However, in return for testing the vehicle, the Playhouse was given a piece of the Broadway production up to an undisclosed ceiling.

Starring in the Broadway presentation of "Park" are Elizabeth Ashley, Robert Redford, Mildred Natwick and Kurt Kasznar. All, but Kasznar are repeating roles they originated last April. George Voscovec at that time had the part now played by Kasznar. This cast change was accompanied by a switch in the name of the onstage character from Bela Crarnak to Victor Velasco.

Ellis also does not have a managerial interest in "Never," which was initially tried out at his Playhouse in 1959 under the label, "Cradle and All." The comedy was subsequently revived for a strawhat tryout tour in 1962 and then brought to Broadway by El-

(Continued on page 64)

Anita Gillette Breaks Toe In Glasgow Performance

Glasgow, Oct. 29.

Anita Gillette, costar of the pre-London musical, "Princess Pocahontas," broke her toe during a performance last week at the Alhambra Theatre here. The accident occurred when the American actress - singer stumbled and stubbed the toe while trying to pull her costar, Terence Cooper, away from a jagged piece of metal that had become dislodged from the scenery.

Despite the injury, Miss Gillette finished the performance and has not missed a show since then, although she has been sparing herself in dance numbers. "Princess Pocahontas" is currently at the Grand Theatre, Leeds, and is due to open Nov. 14 at the Lyric, London.

Bob Preston Has Double Pay Deal On 'Ben Franklin'

Robert Preston's deal to star on Broadway next season in the musical, "Ben Franklin in Paris," calls for him to get 10% of the weekly gross against a minimum guarantee of $3,000, as well as 10% of any profits earned by the production. The tuner, to be produced by George W. George and Frank Granat, has book and lyrics by Sidney Michaels and music by Mark Sandrich Jr.

A 15% overcall provision on a capitalization of $450,000 allows for possible expansion of the total investment in the venture to $517,500. The producers will receive 1% of the weekly gross as a managerial free and the authors' share of the gross will be 6% weekly. Preston, who'll play the title role in the musical, has a more immediate Broadway assignment as star of "Nobody Loves an Albatross," slated to begin rehearsals tomorrow (Thurs.).

"Albatross," a comedy by Ronald Alexander, is being coproduced by Elliot martin and Philip Rose for a Dec. 19 opening at the Lyceum Theatre, N.Y., to be preceded by an out-of-town tryout starting Nov. 27 in New Haven. The management claims that Preston's contract gives him the right to leave "Albatross" for the "Franklin" assignment, but not for any other reason.

A story in VARIETY last week from Minneapolis said that Preston is set to be a member of the resident company of the Tyrone Guthrie there for a 22-week season to start next May 4. However, the report indicated that Preston himself had given out the information, but that it had not been released by the local theatre.

State Dept. Names Panel For Play Export Advice

Washington, Oct. 29.

A special panel has been appointed by the State Dept. to study problems in presenting theatrical cultural exchange programs. The 15-member group will advise on costs and criteria for presenting plays effectively to foreign language audiences. Until the panel reports, the freeze on dramatic cultural exchange presentations will continue.

Nan Martin, an actress, is chairman of the panel, with producer Robert Whitehead is vice-chairman. Robert W. Dowling, board chairman, and Peggy Wood, president of the American National Theatre & Academy are also members, as are Richard Coe. Washington Post drama critic, and Hal Holbrook, E. G. Marshall, Kevin McCarthy and Chester Morris, actors.

Other members are Dick Moore, editor of the Equity magazine; Edward F. Kook, of the Century Lighting Co.; Jerome Lawrence, the playwright; Jo Mielziner and stage designers, Donald Oenslager, and Alan Schneider, a director.

Front Street Theatre, Memphis Stock Outfit, Gets Equity Franchise

Memphis, Oct. 29.

The Front Street Theatre, which has been playing weekly productions for seven straight seasons, has gone fully professional by reaching an agreement with Actors Equity. George Touliatos, longtime actor-director of the local group, signed the union contract last week in New York.

Under the new Equity deal, the Front Street has added several staff members to hypo its weekly productions. Cris Colombo, of Chicago, was named stage manager. Others holding Equity cards are Macon McCalman, the leading man in the current "Three Men on a Horse"; Hal Robinson, a New York and Chicago actor, and Pasha Davis, Joe Carder, Lynn LePelley, Barry Fuller, Peter Thompson, Terrance Evans and Touliatos himself.

Since its opening seven years ago, the Front Street has steadily developed a local following and has recently begun to operate in the black. The house seats 488, with nightly performances except Monday, scaled at a $2.50 top.

"Annie Get Your Gun," with local television performer Pat Weaver and Robinson as leads, just wrapped up three near-SRO weeks, despite the unseasonably hot weather. Leo Burson and Mrs. Harold Krelstein, two of the theatre's backers, have vowed, "We're bent on seeing show business come to life in Memphis, and now that we've become fully professional under Actors Equity jurisdiction we know we can't miss."

Scheduled productions include "Six Characters in Search of An Author," opening Nov. 12; "The Threepenny Opera," Dec. 3; "Kismet," Dec. 31; "Misalliance," Jan. 28; "The Front Page," Feb. 18; an unspecfiled musical, March 10, and "The Taming of the Shrew," April 7.

Legit Bits

Leo Genn will star in "Fair Game for Lovers," a comedy by Richard Dougherty which Herbert Swope Jr. and Charles Rappaport are producing for a Broadway outing this season under the direction of Paul Shyre. Swope has two other plays scheduled for Main Stem presentation this season, John Fritz's "Man on Ice," to be directed by John Gerstadt, and "The Ivory Tower," by Jerome Weidman and James Yafee.

Eugene Stuckman is production assistant for the Broadway presentation of "Man and Boy."

Playwright Edward Albee has taken an option to dramatize James Purdy's novel, "Malcolm."

Peter Falk will play the title role of Josef Stalin in "The Passion of Josef D," in which Luther Adler will portray Lenin.

Richard Miller, who's appearing on Broadway in "Oliver," is currently being represented at the Graham Gallery, N. Y., by his third one-man exhibition of paintings.

Janet Pavek, who appeared on Broadway in "Camelot," will make her Metropolitan Opera debut this season as Musetta in "La Boheme."

Dean Fuller is musical director and the composer of incidental music for the production of "Ring Round the Moon" which is one of the plays being presented on tour by the National Repertory Theatre.

Samuel A. Waterston will have a lead role in the off-Broadway production of "Thistle in My Bed."

Robert Porterfield, founder and managing director of the Barter Theatre, Abingdon, Va., has been awarded the Thomas Jefferson Public Service Citation for his services and activities which have significantly enhanced the recognition and prestige of Virginia as a whole and Southwest Virginia particularly.

Leo Kerz will design the sets, lighting and costumes for the off-Broadway production of "Burn Me to Ashes," in which Michael Del Medico and Ronald Bush ARC to appear.

Robert Pastene and Peter De Vise will appear off-Broadway in "Journey to the Day."

"The Push-Cart Affair," by Alec Coppel and his wife, Myra, is planned for Broadway production later this season by Allen Z. Hodshire. Mel Bourne will design the show's single set. Robert Q. Lewis will star.

Oliver Smith will design the sets for "Hello, Dolly," in which Charles Nelson Reilly, David Burns, Eileen Brennan and Gloria Leroy will appear in support of Carol Channing.

Jay Stuart has succeeded Robert Fields in the off-Broadway production of "The Boys from Syracuse."

Lionel Stander, Elisha Cook, Harold Gary and James Coco have been added to the cast of "Arturo Ui," for which the sets, costumes and masks are being designed by Rouben Ter-Arutunian.

Helen Martin and James Earl Jones have rejoined the cast of the off-Broadway production of "The Blacks."

Nancy Wickwire will costar with Douglas Campbell in "The Golden Age" at the Lyceum Theatre, N. Y., where tickets will be scaled from 90c for 100 seats at each performance to a regular top of $6.90 weeknights and $7.50 weekend eves.

A special accoustical backdrop, designed by Christopher Jaffe of Stagecraft Corp., is being used by the touring production of "Black Nativity."

"The Vegetable" is the Equity Library Theatre offering this week at the Master Theatre, N.Y.

Appearing with Lotte Lenya in the current tour of "Brecht on Brecht," which ends Dec. 7 in Hartford, are Tonio Selwart, Philip Sterling, Jenny O'Hara and Saaeed Jeffrey.

The staff for the touring "Seidman and Son," directed by its star, Sam Levene, includes Robert Alex Baron, general manager; Maurice Costello, company manager; Max Gendel, pressagent; Loy Nilson, production stage manager, and Al Leberfeld, stage manager.

Tom Gruenewald is stager for the off-Broadway production of "The Plot to Assassinate the Chase Manhattan Bank."

The Playhouse Children's Theatre of Philadelphia is conducting its third annual contest for unpublished plays with the winning entry to receive an award of $150 and presentation as a juve bill during the regular 1964 season at the Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia. The deadline on the submission of scripts is Jan. 31.

Betsy Katzin, formerly with the Assn. pour le Theatre de Langue Anglaise, is back in the U.S. as production assistant for the Lawrence Witchel-Kenneth J. Stein bus-and-truck presentation of "A Thousand Clowns," in which Donald Barry is now costarring with John Ireland.

Vincent J. Longhi's "Climb the Greased Pole" has won the second annual National Drama Competition of the Players' Workshop, Burlington, Ia., and will be produced there in December.

An off-Broadway production of Gabriel Gladstone's adaptation of Dostoevsky's novelette, "The Eternal Husband," is planned for December by Beverly H. Landau.

David Merrick who's taken over the option relinquished by Billy Rose on "Foxy," intends opening the musical Feb. 15 at the Ziegfeld Theatre, N.Y., with Bert Lahr repeating the role he originated last year at the Gold Rush Festival in Dawson City, Yukon. Robert Lewis, who directed the Dawson City presentation, will ditto in that capacity on the Broadway venture.

Stock-to-B'way

Continued from page 63

liot Martin and Daniel Hollywood. However, "Horn" which was tested in New Hope in 1960, was brought to the Main Stem by Ellis as a coproduction venture with William Hammerstein.

Ellis and Hammerstein, who did well with "Horn," weren't as fortunate with their production this season of "The Advocate," which collapsed after a week on Broadway. It was tested at Bucks County last year. "The Beauty Part," which was an unsuccessful Broadway entry last season, had also been a Bucks County tryout in the spring of '61. Other shows which moved from the Playhouse to Broadway included "Champagne Complex" in 1954 and "Mask and Gown" in 1958.

Ellis is now working on a Broadway production of Ira Wallach's "Absence of a Cello," which he tested at his theatre this past summer. He hopes to put the presentation into rehearsal in December for a January opening in New York. Ruth White, Ruth McDevitt and Murray Hamilton, who had key roles in the stock production, have options on repeating their assignments on Broadway. Tom Ewell is to head the cast and for its projected Main Stem outing the play has been re-titled, "Ask Me No Questions."

"Cello" had been planned for Bucks County production in June, 1962, by Saint Subber, who owned it at that time. He relinquished his rights to the script when he was unable to get Paul Ford to play the role in the proposed Bucks County tryout. Ford wasn't available because he was touring the stock circuit in "Never Too Late" in the role he's playing on Broadway.

When Saint Subber dropped "Cello," Ellis picked up the option on the play and tried it out with Fred Clark in the lead. Now he can't get Clark to repeat the role on Broadway because the actor is tied up with the London company of "Never Too Late" in the Ford role. Incidentally, "Horn" was owned by Saint Subber and Arthur Cantor prior to having been acquired by Ellis for its 1960 Bucks County tryout.

Another of last summer's stock tryouts contemplated for Broadway production this season is "Madly In Love," and adaptation by Ruth Goetz of Andre Roussin's "L'Amour Fou." The play was tested by Ellis and Alexander H. Cohen through an arrangement with Hugh Beaumont, of London's H. M. Tennent Ltd., which held the script. Ellis, unable to present the comedy at his own theatre, farmed it out to Ethelyn R. Thrasher for production at the Playhouse in the Park, Philadelphia, with Celeste Holm and Gene Raymond costarred.

The play is now scheduled for a Main Stem presentation by Roger L. Stevens, with Miss Holm repeating the role she played in Philly.

Octogenarian
SIDNEY ROSE recalls the heyday of Legit's Bargain Basement
where many a show went over with a Leblang
* * *
another Editorial Feature in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Bits of London

London, Oct. 29.

Following Peter O'Toole's appearance in "Hamlet" in the coming National Theatre season, "The Recruiting Officer" will be staged by William Gaskill, with Laurence Olivier and Maggie Smith as stars.

Shows due in the West End this year, but so far sans theatres, include "Sergeant Dower Must Die," "No Strings," "The Princess Pocahontas," and "Difference of Opinion."

They're yanking the gallery benches at the Strand and replacing them with tip-up plush seats. Alteration cannot be finished till November.

"Sound of Music" has passed its 1,000th performance at the Palace. Diana Dove has taken over as Sister Sophia from Lynn Kennington, who is skedded for "The Boys from Syracuse."

Tom Arnold is planning to present Richard Reich's comedy, "Girls Are The Funniest," for preem production in Britain.

Leslie Phillips, still appearing in "Boeing-Boeing," hopes to play the lead in Oscar Wilde's "Lord Arthur Savile's Crime" adapted by Constance Cox.

The husband and wife team of Cicely Courtneidge and Jack Hulbert will return to the West End next week, costarring with Naunton Wayne, they will star in "Let's Be Frank," a comedy by Harold Brooke and Kay Bannerman. It is due at the Vaudeville, replacing the Fenella Fielding musical, "So Much to Remember," which folds Saturday (2). Geoffrey Hastings and Michael Hamilton present the new show.

The "Rajko" Gypsy boy company from Budapest is booked for its first appearance in western Europe at the Royal Albert Hall for two performances Nov. 17 and 24, with a provincial tour to follow.

Anthony Steel has gone to Vienna to start rehearsals on "Dear Liar," which is to open next month in the Theatre im Palais. Ruth Brinkman will costar.

The Royal Court Theatre may have to wait until next spring before it gets a temporary London home after the Sloane Square house shutters for rebuilding later this year.

Alan Webb, now playing Pope Pius XII in "The Representative," is due to go to Broadway to appear with Margaret Leighton in a new Enid Bagnold play, "The Chinese Prime Minister."

Maggie Fitzgibbon has taken over femme lead in "The Boys from Syracuse," succeeding Carol Arthur, who fractured her elbow in a fall. The Rodgers and Hart musical bows Nov. 7 at Drury Lane.

The Oxford Playhouse, closed since last March for rebuilding, celebrated its 25th anniversary last week. It will reopen in the New Year with a Moliere trilogy, "The School for Wives," "The School for Wives Criticised," and "The Impromptu of Versailles."

Vet Showboater
CAP'N
BILLY BRYANT
nostalgically heralds
Here Comes the Showboat—Its Calliope Lingers On
* * *
one of the many Editorial Features in the upcoming 58th Anniversary Number
of
VARIETY
Plus other statistical and data-filled charts and articles

Broadway Boxoffice Personnel

Treasurer assignments thus far set at Broadway legit houses for the 1963-64 season are as follows:

Alvin: Gordon Cramer, Luis Valle, Richard Begin, John Greeran.
Ambassador: George Baldwin, Arthur Meyers.
ANTA: Rod McMahon, Robert Carr, George Beatty.
Atkinson: Rivington Bisland, Louis Nekola, Bruce Bisland.
Barrymore: Julius Specter, Anna Yurdin.
Beck: Dan Callahan, Edward Smith, Richard Wolff.
Belasco: William Kurtz, Anna Hirsh.
Biltmore: Jerry Sheehan, Thomas Sheehan.
Booth: Mildred Anker, Jean Cohen.
Broadhurst: Constance Coble, Mary Ackley, George Metz.
Broadway: Mitchell Kanter, Al Hildreth, Pat Murtha.
Cort: Jack Melnick, Carl Knopfer.
54th Street: Dan Melnick, Charles Clifford Whiteman.
46th Street: Charles Bowman, Edward Lynch, William Wiegand, Anthony DeSimone, Joseph Scanapicco, Edward Cadnuz.
Golden: Nellie Beamish, Helen Johnson.
Hayes: Robert Burke, Carmine Loiacono, Richard Burke.
Hellinger: Charles Walters, Al Kiefer, Julius Stone.
Hudson: Net yet assigned.
Imperial: Aaron Helwitz, James Drury, Herschel Waxman.
Little: Benjamin Kolbrener, Michael Chiuchiolo.
Longacre: Thomas Burke, Lewis Kasten.
Lunt-Fontanne: Henry Bonis, Hy Pearl, Norman Baruch.
Lyceum: Al Dugen.
Majestic: Irving Morrison, Harry Steinberg, Thomas Simth.
Miller: Frank Frayer, John Bowman, Frank Youngs.
Morosco: William Rinaldo, Pearl Keyser, Joseph A. Smith.
Music Box: Walter G. O'Connor, Ray Metz.
O'Neill: Raymond Jaffie, Joseph Kane, Joseph S. Smith.
Playhouse: Thomas Brotherton, Louis Appel, Harold Cubitt, William Giebler.
Plymouth: Richard Cobb, Richard Surace, James Argenzio.
Rose: Margaret Hildreth, Cora Gibbs, Nat Reuben.
Royale: William Stuis, Leonard Cobb, Kathryn Walsh.
St. James: Hugh McGauley, Arthur Feine, Morrie Seamon, Leo Caspare.
Shubert: Philip Smith, Barry Bond, Josephine O'Brien.
Winter Garden: William Goldhardt, Helen Martyniuk, Mrs. Georgia Fursman.
Ziegfeld: Not yet assigned.

MISCELLANEOUS

Carnegie Hall: Nat Posnick, Frank Pachacha, David Kaufman, Ada Mullen.
City Center: Frank Surace, Fred Santore, Harry Pearl.

Off-Broadway Reviews

Penny Change

Sherman Wayne presentation of a drama in two acts, five scenes, by Helen Eisner. Staged by Roger Sullivan; sets and lighting, David Ballou; costumes, Ann Keely; production stage manager, William DeSeta. Opened Oct. 24, '63, at the Players Theatre, N. Y.; $3.90 top weeknights; $4.50 weekends.

Cast: Chevi Colton, Roger Barrett, Ronald Dawson, Gene Pellegrini, Joseph Mascolo, Michael Enserro, Borah Silver, Marilyn Raphael, Carmela, Maria Ratnay, Bob MacDonald, D. Sigel, Lucy Landau.

The fears and confusions of a mentally disturbed woman are dramatized in "Penny Change," by Helen Eisner. The drama is written with obvious sincerity, and contains several effective moments. But the construction is loose, and despite a good performance by Chevi Colton in the leading role, the work lacks focus and impact.

The heroine, a married woman of 40, travels to Europe with her husband and father in an attempt to recreate the happiness of a similar journey made when she was 18. But the people she meets are all embodiments of aspects of her own personality, personifications of her dreams, moods and insecurities. Through them she seems to learn about herself, and finally, in Paris, she is able to release her pent-up anger and allow her real feelings to emerge. The ending hints at a happier, though unsure, future.

Although there are biting, truthful moments, they do not cohere. The dialog is often stilted ("Your guilt has assumed a face—when will it beckon us?") and the many asides to the audience are annoyingly glib. Miss Eisner's best writing is in the final scene, but the ending does not seem justified by the earlier occurences.

Roger Sullivan's direction has permitted some of the actors to play too archly, and to strain for laughs. However, Ronald Dawson, Michael Enserro, Joseph Mascolo, Borah Silver, Marilyn Raphael, Maria Rathay and Carmela all support Miss Colton capably. "Penny Change" is an interesting attempt, but it doesn't fulfill its ambitions. Kenn.

Mr. Simian

Christina Productions presentation of a drama in three acts (six scenes), by Sheppard Kerman. Staged by the author; sets, Philip Rosenberg; lighting, Robert Brand; costumes, Marian Lathrop; movement coach, Rhoda Levine. Opened Oct. 21, '63, at the Astor Place Playhouse, N. Y.; $3.90 top weeknights, $4.60 weekends.

Cast: Thomas Barbour, Ramon Bierl, Philip Bruns, Ruth Manning, Niels Miller, Frederic Tozere.

In "Mr. Simian," by Sheppard Kerman, an ape turns into a man. The beast's metamorphosis from a chattering, loose-limbed creature to an erect human being is superbly enacted by this symbol-filled play.

Set on a ship bound from plague-ridden Lisbon to South America, the drama is concerned with good and evil, with the nature of man, and with the existence of God. But the author's ideas are murkily presented, and become a tedious maze of divine and diabolic symbolism.

Niels Miller and Thomas Barbour turn in effective performances as, respectively, a timid passenger and an angelic steward. Phillip Rosenberg's set is properly ominous, but other than Philip Brun's wonderful performance as the ape turned Everyman, "Mr. Simian" is unsuccessful monkey business. Kenn.

Touring Shows

(Figures cover Oct. 28-Nov. 9)

Beyond the Fringe (2d Co.)—Studebaker, Chi (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Black Nativity—Forrest, Philly (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Camelot—Taft, Cincy (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Camelot (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Century, Buffalo (Nov. 4-9).
Circle in the Square—Split-week stands (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Girl Who Came to Supper (tryout)—O'Keefe, Toronto (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Shubert, Philly (Oct.6-Nov. 9).
How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (2d Co.)—American, St. L. (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (3d Co.)—Auditorium, Greensboro, N.C. (Oct. 28-31); Auditorium, Raleigh, N.C. (Nov. 1-2); Auditorium, Knoxville, Tenn. (Nov. 4-6); Ovens, Charlotte, N.C. (Nov. 8-9).
Love and Kisses (tryout)—Shubert, New Haven (Nov. 9).
Man for All Seasons—Blackstone, Chi (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Pabst, Milwaukee (Nov. 5-9).
Man for All Seasons (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Mary, Mary (bus-truck)—Civic, N.O. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); split-week stands (Nov. 4-9).
My Fair Lady (bus-truck)—Palace, Peoria (Oct. 28-30); Coliseum, Sioux Falls (Nov. 1-2); Auditorium, Winnipeg (Nov. 5-9).
National Repertory Theatre—Shubert, Det. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Locust, Philly (Nov. 4-9).
Never Too Late (2d Co.)—Nixon, Pitt. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Blackstone, Chi (Nov. 4-9).
No Strings—Orpheum, L.A. (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Once for the Asking (tryout)—Wilbur, Boston (Oct. 31-Nov. 9).
One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (tryout)—Shubert, Boston (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Pajama Tops—Geary, S.F. (Nov. 4-9).
Seidman and Son—Shubert, Cincy (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Hanna, Cleve. (Nov. 4-9).
Sound of Music—Fisher, Det. (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Stop the World—I Want to Get Off (2d Co.)—National, Wash. Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Thousand Clowns—Royal Alexandra, Toronto (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).
Thousand Clowns (bus-truck)—Split-week stands (Oct. 28-Nov. 6); Moore, Seattle (Nov. 7-9).
Time of the Barracudas (tryout)—Curran, S.F. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Hartford, L.A. (Nov. 4-9).
Who's Afaid of Virginia Woolf? (2d Co.)—Hanna, Cleve. (Oct. 28-Nov. 2); Music Hall, Omaha (Nov. 4-5); Music Hall, K.C. (Nov. 6-9).
Zenda (tryout)—Philharmonic, L.A. (Oct. 28-Nov. 9).

B'way Hot; 'Jennie' Record $91,847, 'Shade' $38,459 (6), 'Barefoot' 30G (7), 'Rehearsal' $34,162, 'Spoon' $23,486

Broadway was in fine form last week, with most shows again registering gains. "Jennie" established a house record for the Majestic Theatre, with the take also believed to be a Main Stem high for a regular-run commercial entry. The gross for the Mary Martin-starrer represented a sellout, which brought the number of productions in the capacity groove last week to four. The others were "Here's Love," "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying" and "Never Too Late."

Of the three regular-run entries opening last week, two look big. They're "Barefoot in the Park" and "110 in the Shade." The other newcomer, "A Rainy Day in Newark," folded Saturday (26). Joining the Broadway lineup this week are "The Ballad of a Sad Cafe," opening tonight (Wed.) and "Tambourines to Glory," bowing next Saturday night (2), following the settlement of a dispute between Roger Euster, owner of the Little Theatre, and the stagehands union. A key factor in the hassle was Euster's unsuccessful demand that the stagehands punch a time-clock.

Estimates for Last Week

Keys: C (Comedy), D (Drama), CD (Comedy-Drama), R (Revue), MC (Musical-Comedy), MD (Musical-Drama), O (Opera), OP (Operetta), Rep. (Repertory), DR (Dramatic Reading).

Other parenthetic designations refer, respectively, to weeks played, number of performances through last Saturday, top prices (where two prices are given, the higher is for Friday-Saturday nights and the lower for weeknights), number of seats, capacity gross and stars. Price includes 10% Federal and 5% repealed City tax (diverted to an industry-wide pension and welfare fund), but grosses are net: i.e., exclusive of taxes.

Grosses normally have been reduced by commissions where theatre parties are mentioned.

Barefoot in the Park, Biltmore (C) (1st wk; 5 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 944; $38,692) (Elizabeth Ashley, Robert Redford, Mildred Natwick, Kurt Kasznar).

Opened last Wednesday night (23) to unanimous praise (Chapman, News; Kerr, Herald Tribune; McClain, Journal-American; Nadel, World-Telegram; Taubman, Times; Watts, Post).

Last week, $30,028 for five performances and two previews.

Beyond the Fringe, Golden (R) (53d wk; 421 p) ($7.50: 799; $34,874). Previous week, $25,050.

Last week, $27,117.

Case of Libel, Longacre (D) (3d wk; 20 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,101; $40,000) (Van Heflin, Sidney Blackmer, Larry Gates). Previous week, $32,362 with parties.

Last week, $34,261 with parties.

Chips With Everything, Plymouth (D) (4th wk; 31 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,084; $43,865). Previous week, $23,525.

Last week, $25,395.

Enter Laughing, Miller's (C) (33d wk 261 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 940; $30,200) (Vivian Blaine, Alan Mowbray, Irving Jacobson, Alan Arkin). Previous week, $24,574.

Last week, $23,763.

Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, Alvin (MC) (77th wk: 615 p) ($6.60-$9.40; 1,334; $65,096) (Jerry Lester). Previous week, $55,453 with Zero Mostel in his regular starring assignment.

Last week, $56,114 with Lester subbing for Mostel who's due back from a two-week sabbatical next Monday (4).

Here's Love, Shubert (MC) (4th wk; 28 p) ($9.60; 1,453; $71,205). Previous week, $67,830 with parties.

Last week, $68,280 with parties.

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, 46th St. (MC) (107th wk; 849 p) ($9.60; 1,342; $66,615). Previous week, $67,514.

Last week, $67,457.

Irregular Verb to Love, Barrymore (C) (6th wk; 45 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,079; $44,124) (Claudette Colbert, Cyril Ritchard). Previous week, $33,733 with parties.

Last week, $33,816 with parties.

Jennie, Majestic (MC) (2d wk; 12 p) ($9.60; 1,655; $91,714) (Mary Martin). Previous week, $85,166 for four performances and four previews.

Last week, $91,847 with parties.

Luther, St. James (D) (5th wk; 37 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,609; $61,095) (Albert Finney, Kenneth J. Warren, John Moffat, Peter Bull, Glyn Owen, Frank Shelley). Previous week, $53,087 with parties.

Last week, $56,183 with parties.

Marie Bell and Her Company, Atkinson (Rep) (1st wk; 8 p) ($6.90; 1,088; $43,000).

Last week, $23,248 for first week of fortnight engagement which ends next Sunday (3).

Mary, Mary, Hayes (C) (138th wk; 1,100 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,164; $43,380) (Patricia Bosworth, Murray Hamilton, Michael Evans). Previous week, $32,154.

Last week, $31,450. Tom Helmore subbed for Evans.

Never Too Late, Playhouse (C) (48th wk; 383 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 994; $37,000) (Paul Ford, Maureen O'Sullivan, Orson Bean). Previous week, $37,443.

Last week, $37,418.

Oliver, Imperial (MD) (42d wk; 337 p) ($9.30; 1,450; $71,977) (Clive Revill, Georgia Brown). Previous week, $59,435 with Robin Ramsay subbing for Revill who was out ill with an infected throat.

Last week, $63,932.

110 in the Shade, Broadhurst (MC) (1st wk; 4 p) ($8.80-$9.40; 1,186; $57,000) (Robert Horton, Inga Swenson, Stephen Douglass).

Opened last Thursday night (24) to three endorsements (Chapman, News; McClain, Journal-American; Nadel, World-Telegram), two qualified approvals (Kerr, Herald Tribune; Watts, Post) and one thumbdown (Taubman, Times).

Last week, $38,459 for four performances and two previews.

Private Ear and Public Eye, Morosco (D) (3d wk; 21 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,009; $41,827) (Geraldine McEwan, Barry Foster, Brian Bedford, Moray Watson). Previous week, $28,814 with parties.

Last week, $30,241 with parties.

Rehearsal, Royale (D) (5th wk; 40 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,050; $43,908) (Keith Michell, Coral Browne, Alan Badel, Adrienne Cori, Jennifer Hilary). Previous week, $31,939 with parties.

Last week, $34,162 with parties.

She Loves Me, O'Neill (MC) (27th wk; 215 p) ($8.60; 1,047; $53,700) (Barbara Cook, Daniel Massey, Barbara Baxley). Previous week, $42,685.

Last week, $46,817.

Spoon River, Booth (DR) (4th wk; 32 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 766; $33,816) (Betty Garrett, Robert Elston, Joyce Van Patten, Charles Aidman). Previous week, $18,963.

Last week, $23,486. Moves following the evening performance Nov. 16 to the Belasco Theatre where it opens Nov. 19.

Stop the World—I Want to Get Off, Ambassador (MC) (56th wk; 445 p) ($8.60; 1,121, $51,795) (Anthony Newley). Previous week, $33,899.

Last week, $37,511. Newley leaves the cast next Saturday (2), as does femme lead, Anna Quayle. Their roles will be taken over by Joel Grey, who had the Newley assignment on the road, and Joan Eastman, who understudied Miss Quayle.

Tovarich, Winter Garden (MC) (31st wk; 248 p) ($9.20; 1,494; $71,795) (Jean Pierre Aumont, Eva Gabor). Previous week, $37,793 with Joan Copeland in the role relinquished by Vivien Leigh earlier this month and taken over at the matinee last Wednesday (23) by Miss Gabor.

Last week, $41,518.

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Rose (D) (55th wk; 434 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,162; $46,845) (Uta Hagen, Arthur Hill, Ben Piazza) (matinee company costars Haila Stoddard, Donald Davis). Previous week, $29,082.

Last week, $32,141.

CLOSED LAST WEEK

Rainy Day in Newark, Belasco (C) (1st wk; 6 p) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,008; $40,000) (Eddie Mayehoff, Dody Goodman, Zachary Scott, Mary McCarthy).

Opened Oct. 22 to one qualified approval (Watts, Post) and five unfavorable notices (Chapman, News; Kerr, Herald Tribune; McClain, Journal-American; Nadel, World-Telegram; Taubman, Times).

Last week, $4,600 for six performances. Closed Saturday (26) at an estimated loss of its entire $120,000 investment.

OPENING THIS WEEK

Ballad of the Sad Cafe, Beck (D) ($6.90-$7.50; 1,280; $50,898) (Coleen Dewhurst, William Prince). Lewis M. Allen and Ben Edwards presentation of play by Edward Albee, adapted from a novella by Carson McCullers; opens tonight (Wed.).

Tambourines to Glory, Little (D) ($7.50; 603; $27,000). Joel Schenker and Hexter Productions Inc., in association with Sydney S. Baron, presentation of a gospel singing play by Langston Hughes and Jobe Huntley; opens Saturday night (2).

OTHER THEATRES

ANTA, Broadway, Cort, 54th St., Hellinger, Hudson, Lunt-Fontanne, Lyceum, Music Box, Ziegfeld.

Puppet Followup

Alladin & His Lamp
(OBRATSOV PUPPETS, N. Y.)

For matinees and special moppet appeal, Sergei Obratsov has added this Arabian nights diversion. A sellout, as have been the adult evening performances, the fairy tale was slowed by the line-by-line translation of its 15 scenes. As previously mentioned, only the ground floor can be sold since the puppeteers work from below.

Setting, on two levels, had distraction of large harem-guard figures on fore-curtain and gold lozenges on curtain in one." Lighting in several night scenes was weak. This presentation displayed occasional flashes of the drollery which would have made this completely captivating if it had been developed throughout. Sergei Obratsov, with aid of an interpreter, made ingratiating curtain speech.

Leve.

Legit Incorporations

Albany, Oct. 29.

DSI Management Ltd. has been authorized to conduct a theatrical and entertainment business in New York. Capital stock is 200 shares, no par value. Zissu, Marcus & Stein, filing attorneys.

McDonald-Stevens Scenic Studios, Inc., of New York, has been dissolved, according to papers filed by Sidney Hauptman, an attorney.

Vincit Productions, Inc. has been formed to operate a theatrical and musical production business in New York. Capital stock is 200 shares, no par value. Michael Vitielle was recording attorney.

207 W. 57th St. Corp. has been authorized to conduct an artist management business in New York. Capital stock consists of $50,000, $1 par value. Bernard Kenny was filing attorney.

The Great Neck Cultural Center Inc., has been chartered as a non-profit membership corporation, with office in Nassau County. Paymer & Limoncellie, of Jamaica, were filing attorneys.

Burlesque On Parade Inc., has been authorized to conduct an amusement, theatrical plays and moving pictures business in New York. Capital stock consists of 200 shares, no par value. Norman B. Haller was filing attorney.

Unreported Road Grosses

(Included below are productions with guaranteed dates on which grosses cannot be accurately figured).

Camelot (MC-BT), split-week.

Circle in the Square (D-BT), split-week.

Man for All Seasons (D-BT), split-week.

Mary, Mary (C-BT), split-week.

Thousand Clowns (C-BT), split-week.

'Girl' 82G, Toronto; 'Time' $28,348, S.F.; 'Nest' $23,350 (4), N.H.; NRT 12G, Cleve.; 'Clowns' 40G, Philly; 'Late' $20,342, Pitt

The road was generally so-so last week. Among the exceptions were "The Girl Who Came to Supper" in Toronto and "A Man for All Seasons" in Chicago, the top grossers, respectively, in the musical and straight play categories.

New additions to the tryout list last week were "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which had a sock start in New Haven, and "The Time of the Barracudas," which didn't do too well in San Francisco. A scheduled Dec. 2 opening in New York for "Barracudas" has been cancelled in favor of an extended road tour, to be followed by a Main Stem bow at a later date.

Estimates for Last Week

Parenthetic designations for out-of-town shows are the same as for Broadway, except that hyphenated T with show classification indicates tryout, RS indicates road show and BT indicates bus-and-truck production. Also, prices on touring shows include 10% Federal tax and local tax, if any, but as on Broadway grosses are net; i.e., exclusive of taxes. Engagements are for single week unless otherwise noted.

Where subscription is mentioned, the gross is the net after the deductions of commissions. Grosses for split weeks are projected when shows play guaranteed dates.

BALTIMORE

Seidman and Son, Ford's (C-RS) ($4.88; 1,819; $51,132) (Sam Levene). Previous week, inadvertently underquoted, was $30,175 with Theatre Guild-American Theatre Society, Locust, Philadelphia.

Last week, $22,352 with TG-ATS subscription.

BOSTON

Black Nativity, Shubert (MD-RS) (2d wk) ($5-$5.50; 1,717; $50,000). Previous week, $18,059.

Last week, $15,862.

CHICAGO

Beyond the Fringe, Studebaker (R-RS) (3d wk) ($5.50-$6; 1,200; $35,000). Previous week, $25,242 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $26,239 with TG-ATS subscription.

Man for All Seasons, Blackstone (D-RS) (5th wk) ($5.50-$5.95; 1,447; $42,500) (William Roderick, George Rose, Bruce Gordon). Previous week, $37,163 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $42,737.

CINCINNATI

Camelot, Taft (MC-RS) (1st wk) ($6-$6.50; 2,510; $88,800) (Kathryn Grayson, Louis Hayward, Arthur Treacher). Previous week, $34,038, American, St. Louis.

Opened here Oct. 21 to one rave (Radcliffe, Enquirer) and one pan (Stevens, Post and Times-Star).

Last week, $45,189 with TG-ATS subscription. Miss Grayson, who returned to the musical for its engagement here after a one-week illness, collapsed during a performance Wednesday (23) and is expected to be out for several weeks. Understudy Jan Moody is pinchhitting for Miss Grayson who's said to be suffering from nervous exhaustion.

CLEVELAND

National Repertory Theatre. Hanna (Rep-RS) ($5; 1,515; $38,000) (Eva LeGallienne, Farley Granger, Denholm Elliott, Anne Meacham). Previous week, unreported.

Last week, about $11,900 for three performances each of "The Seagull" and "Ring Around the Moon" and two performances of "The Crucible."

DETROIT

Sound of Music, Fisher (MD-RS) (3d wk) ($5; 2,081; $61,000) (Barbara Meister, John Myhers). Previous week, $48,842.

Last week, $46,319.

LOS ANGELES

No Strings, Orpheum (MC-RS) (2d wk) ($6-$6.50; 2,213; $81,500) (Howard Keel, Barbara McNair). Previous week, $37,093 for seven performanees with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $44,367 with TG-ATS subscription.

Zenda, Philharmonic (MC-T) (5th wk) ($6.25-$7; 2,670; $85,000) (Alfred Drake, Anne Rogers, Chita Rivera). Previous week, about $77,100 with Civic Light Opera Assn. subscription.

Last week, around $77,600 with CLO subscription.

NEW HAVEN

One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, Shubert (D-T) ($4.80; 1,650; $23,700) (Kirk Douglas).

Opened here last Thursday night (24) to two favorable reviews (Johnson, Journal-Courier; Leeney, Register).

Last week, $23,350 for four performances.

PHILADELPHIA

Thousand Clowns, Forrest (C-RS) (2d wk) ($5.40-$6; 1,766; $52,000) (Dane Clark, Margaret O'Brien). Previous week, $27,205 with TG-ATS subscription.

Last week, $39,926 with TG-ATS subscription.

PITTSBURGH

Never Too Late, Nixon (C-RS) (1st wk) ($5-$5.50; 1,760; $50,000) (William Bendix, Nancy Carroll, Will Hutchins). Previous week, $25,556, Hanna, Cleveland.

Opened here Oct. 21 to one endorsement (Monahan, Press) and one thumb-down (Miller, Post-Gazette).

Last week, $20,342 with TG-ATS subscription.

ST. LOUIS

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, American (MC-RS) (1st wk) ($7; 1,863; $73,697). Previous week, $110,124 for 11 performances, State Fair Music Hall, Dallas.

Last week, $41,186 for seven performances with TG-ATS subscription.

SAN FRANCISCO

Time of the Barracudas, Curran (C-T) (1st wk) ($5.95-$6.50; 1,758; $60,000) (Laurence Harvey, Elaine Stritch).

Opened here Oct. 21 to mild disapproval (Eichelbaum, Examiner; Speegle, News - Call - Bulletin; Knickerbocker, Chronicle).

Last week, $28,348 with TG-ATS subscription. A scheduled Dec. 2 opening at the ANTA Theatre, N. Y., has been cancelled with the play, which moves from here to Los Angeles, slated to continue on the road prior to bowing on Broadway at a later date.

TORONTO

Girl Who Came to Supper, O'Keefe (MC-T) (2d wk) ($6; 3,211; $98,887) (Jose Ferrer, Florence Henderson). Previous week, $68,743 for seven performances with TG-ATS and O'Keefe Centre subscription.

Last week, $32,027 with TG-ATS and O'Keefe Centre subscription.

WASHINGTON

Stop the World—I Want to Get Off, National (MC-RS) (1st wk) ($4.95-$5.95; 1,673; $53,895) (Kenneth Nelson, Leslie Stewart). Previous week, $57,578 with TG-ATS subscription, Shubert, Cincinnati.

Opened here Oct. 21 to two favorable reviews (Carmody, Star; Coe, Post) and one yes-no (Donnelley, News).

Last week, $48,198 with TG-ATS subscription.

WILMINGTON

How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying, Playhouse (MC-RS-3d Co.) ($7-$8; 1,251; $60,000). Previous week, $41,155, Center, Norfolk.

Last week, $54,020 with TG-ATS subscription.

SPLIT-WEEK STANDS

My Fair Lady (MC-BT) (Leland Howard, Gaylea Byrne). Previous week, $37,370 for eight performances split between Auditorium, Flint, Mich., and Murat, Indianapolis.

Last week, $47,980 for eight performances split between Assembly Hall, Champagne, Ill., and Brown, Louisville.

Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (D-RS) (Nancy Kelly, Sheppard Strudwick) (matinee company costars Michaele Myers, Kendall Clark). Previous week, $31,025 with TG-ATS subscription, Nixon, Pittsburgh.

Last week, $27,160 for eight performances split between the Century, Buffalo, and the Auditorium, Rochester.

CASTING NEWS

Following are available parts in upcoming Broadway, off-Broadway, and touring shows, as well as ballet, films, industrial and television shows. All information has been obtained directly by the VARIETY Casting Department by telephone calls, and has been rechecked as of noon yesterday (Tues.).

The available roles will be repeated weekly until filled, and additions to the list will be made only when information is secured from responsible parties. The intention is to service performers with leads provided by the managements of the shows involved rather than to run a wild goose marathon. This information is published without charge.

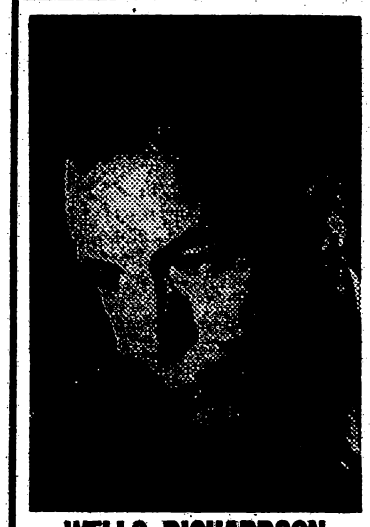
Parenthetical designations are as follows: (C) Comedy, (D) Drama, (MC) Musical Comedy, (MD) Musical Drama, (R) Revue, (Rep) Repertory, (DR) Dramatic Reading, (DB) Double Bill.

Legit

BROADWAY

"Any Wednesday" (C). Producers, George W. George & Frank Granat (c/o Casting Consultants, 444 Madison Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: male lead, late 40s or early 50s, attractive, charming; male, mid or late 30s, attractive raffish charm, likeable, good sense of humor; femme, late 30s or early 40s, attractive, a lady, stylish, bright. Accepting photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Dylan" (D). Producers, George W. George & Frank Granat (c/o Casting Consultants, 444 Madison Ave., N. Y.). Available part: male, 28-35, handsome, sexy, preferably Spanish or Italian looking. Accepting photos and resumes c/o above address and through agents.



WELLS RICHARDSON

"Cry havoc and let loose the dogs of war!"

WELLS RICHARDSON, who has been acclaimed by Broadway critics as diversified as COOKE of the Wall Street Journal, COLEMAN of the Mirror, CHAPMAN of the News, TAUBMAN of the Times, and KERR of the Tribune, is unable to secure even an audition for the forthcoming prestigious production of "HAMLET"!

"Good Good Friends" (C). Producers, Robert Fryer & Lawrence Carr, in association with John Herman (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.; LA 4-8347). Available parts: femme, Hollywood musical star, Alice Faye, Betty Grable type; femme, Hollywood dramatic star, clothes horse, Joan Crawford type; male, attractive, New York legit director; male, fat, adorable; femme, tall, well built; male, young, innocent, innovuous; femme, Hollywood columnist, worldly, tough; male, zany, a Mischa Auer-Danny Kaye combination; femme, Gypsy fortune-teller; femme, secretary; girl six years old, a mass of curls; male, agent, male, publicity man. Accepting photos and resumes also from agents c/o above address.

"What Makes Sammy Run" (MC) Producer, Joseph Cates (1,000 Park Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: male, attractive character lead, 30-40; femme, 25-30, chic, stunning, must sing; male, 25-35, shy, intelligent; male, 50ish, baritone; femme, 25-35, must dance well, latin type; male, young, smart, tough stooge; male, middle-aged shy, retiring, dignified; male, 50ish, head of bank; male, 22-28, ernest, respectable; male, leading man type must dance. Mail photos and resumes to George Thorn (119 W. 57th St., N.Y.).

"Side Show" (M). Producer, Kermit Bloomgarden (1545 Broadway, N.Y.; JU 2-1690). Available parts: Character femme, 30s-40s, strong personality, sings well; male lead 30s-40s, romantic, intelligent, must sing; femme, early 20s, sexy, sings well; male, W. C. Fields type; male, tall, gawky, chief of police, sings; male, funny little man, snoop; male, 60, bald, sings; girl, 7 or 8, sing or dance; femme, hysterical mother type. Male, 30s, tall, gangling, who can sing, dance, move well. Mail photos and resumes c/o Casting Consultants (444 Madison Ave., N. Y.). Do not phone or visit.

OFF-BROADWAY

"Androcles and the Lion" (Kid Show). Producer, Star Raiff and Explore Inc. (331 Madison Avenue, N.Y.). Available parts: male and femme romantic leads; braggin captain; miser; Androcles. Some classic acting training preferred. Mail photos and resumes to Explore, Inc., c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Circle of Sparrows" (D). Producers, Parard Productions (24 W. 76th St., N.Y.) Available parts: Equity only. Boys, 12-16; femme, 15, attractive; male, early 30s, social worker, femme, late 20s, attractive; character male, 35-43; male, early 50s, Ed Begley type; male, early 50s, legit German accent; male, mid-20s, brotherly, energetic. Mail photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"Lady be Good" (MC). Producers, Keith Holzman, Robert Kreis, Richard Pohlers, (161 W. 54th St., N. Y.). Available parts: male, juvenile, Astaire type; male, leading man 20-30, singer; male, 30-40, comedian must sing; male, middle-aged; Adele Astaire type; femme, must sing and dance; femme, 20's, sing and dance; femme dancer-singer, chorus girls and boys, 20's. Mail resume and photos to Jack Levin c/o above address. Do not write or visit.

"Ride the Cockhorse" (C). Producer, Frank Roma Productions (105 W. 55th St., N.Y., c/o Singer Associates). Available parts: all characters are Irish-American, male, 60, short, stocky; male, 40s, huge, strong, aggressive; femme, 50s, small, wily, determined; male, mid-40s, thin, haggard, bright; male, early 20s, male, 40s, thin, must be Irish tenor; male, late 30s, outgoing, vital, "peacemaker" type; male, 40s, "sits on his brains"; male, 30s, ex-fighter, not-too-bright; male, 40s, beer belly, wheezy robust laugh; male, late 40s, small, comic; male, middle-aged, handsome; boy, nine years old, tough, rough kid. Mail photos and resumes c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

"The Caretaker" (D). Producers, Weems, Buccolo, Mathews Productions (667 Madison Ave., N.Y.). All roles open. Janie Lee is accepting photos and resumes through agents only c/o above address. Script available at Drama Book Shop (150 W. 52d St., N.Y.).

"The Trojan Women" (D). Producer, Maxwell Production Co. (250 Riverside Drive, N. Y.). Available parts: femme. 25-35, good dramatic range, sexy; femme, 40-60, good vocal quality. thin; male. 40-60. good stature, good vocal quality; boy. 8-12, small. Mail photos and resumes to Hazel Hayman, c/o above address.

"You the People" (MC). Producers, S.S.A. Productions (c/o Harvey Flaxman, 498 West End Ave., N.Y.). Available parts: femme, 30, Nancy Walker type; male, early 30s, Buddy Hacket type; male, early 30s, second Banana type; femme, early 20s, soprano; male, middle 50s, successful business man; femme, about 45, contralto or Mezzo; male, early 20s; male, late 20s, comic lead; male and femme oriental types, with comic ability. Mail photos and resumes to Harvey Flaxman, c/o above address. Do not phone or visit.

STOCK

Coconut Grove Playhouse (3500 Main Highway, Miami, Fla.). Accepting photos and resumes through agents only, for fall and winter season of star package productions. Mail to Kip Cohen (234 W. 44th St., N.Y.).

TOURING

"Camelot" (MC). Auditions this this Thurs. (31) for singers; Equity men at 1 p.m. and femmes at 2 p.m. Open call men at 3 p.m. and femmes at 4 p.m.—all at the 46th Street Theatre (226 W. 46th St., N. Y.).

BOSTON'S

SHOW OF THE MONTH CLUB

has already purchased more than $47,000 worth of tickets at FULL BOX OFFICE PRICES for the touring edition of

STOP THE WORLD—I WANT TO GET OFF

coming to the Shubert Theatre, Boston, November 11

SHOW of the MONTH CLUB
270 Summer St., Boston, Tel.: HA 3-3400
JEROME ROSENFELD, President
In New York: MACY'S THEATRE CLUB
In Philadelphia: WANAMAKER'S THEATRE CLUB
In Chicago: MARSHALL FIELD THEATRE CLUB

Television

"Camera Three" (educational-dramatic series). Producer, CBS (524 W. 57th St., N. Y.; JU 6-6000); casting director, Paula Hindlin. Accepting photos and resumes of general male and female dramatic talent, c/o above address. No duplicates.

Casting Consultants (444 Madison Ave., N. Y.; PL 3-1030). Available part: Femme, 18-30, Japanese, beautiful, with authentic New York-ese accent for top role in new TV series. Phone Jean Arley c/o above number for audition appointment.

"Lamp Unto My Feet" (religious-dramatic series). Producer, CBS (524 W. 57th St., N. Y.; JU 6-6000); casting director, Paula Hindlin. Accepting photos and resumes of general male and female dramatic talent, c/o above address. No duplicates.

Shows On Broadway

Continued from page 62

Barefoot in the Park

ley is visually okay and otherwise adequate, and let it go at that.

Oliver Smith has designed a drafty-looking aerie setting to represent a five or six-floor walkup in a midtown Manhattan brownstone, and Donald Brooks has provided appropriate clothes for the romantic rumpus. It's a fat hit for producer Saint Subber, a fortune in royalties for playwright Neil Simon and a treat for audiences for months and months and months.

Hobe.

A Rainy Day in Newark

Roger L. Stevens presentation of comedy in prolog, two acts and epilog, by Howard Teichmann. Staged by Albert Marre; scenery and costumes, Ed Wittstein. Stars Eddie Mayeoff, Dody Goodman, Zachary Scott; features John McMartin, Ivor Francis, Gene Hackman, Tom Ahearne. Opened Oct. 22, '63, at the Belasco Theatre, N.Y.; $690 top weeknights, $7.50 Friday-Saturday night.

Sidney Rice	Gene Hackman
Harry Untermeyer	Tom Ahearne
Edward L. Voorhees	John McMartin
John T. Kodiak	Eddie Mayehoff
Brewster	Mary McCarty
Elizabeth Lamb	Dody Goodman
Maurice Endicott	Ivor Francis
Milo Boulton	Milo Boulton
TV Technician	Don Lochner
Henry Cotton	Zachary Scott
Lionel Davis	Rex Everhart

Although the matter is largely academic now, at least as far as Broadway is concerned, "A Rainy Day in Newark" is potentially a funny play. It comes to very little in this presentation, but with proper production the script could be a successful item for stock and little theatres, and may still offer possibilities for skillful film adaptation.

The Howard Teichmann play, billed as a comedy but actually a farce, is about a bulldozer labor boss who blunders into the position of management. He foolishly allows himself to be given a clock factory, and thereby finds out what it's like to operate under the union conditions he's been demanding. In general, he gets at least a hint of the realities of business.

There are lots of situations in the play that should ignite laughs and a few that ought to be good for howls of mirth. But "A Rainy Day in Newark" remains merely humorous rather than theatrically comic, at least under present circumstances.

The trouble is apparently basic, and it happens at the start of the show, in the union-meeting prolog. Eddie Mayehoff, as the numbskull union president, plays for caricature, so the show's premise is undermined before it can be established. The fact that the all-out facial and physical mugging leaves the leading actor no room to enlarge or top himself is incidental. What matters is that the underlying idea, the absolute essential of farce, is never believable, and therefore what follows is merely preposterous rather than funny. The ultimate effect is so-what.

Only part of the fault appears to be the author's. Although some of the writing seems strained and occasional lines are uncomfortably obvious, the prime weaknesses of "Rainy Day" are in the casting and, particularly, the direction. Since Mayehoff has been noted for his outlandish character portrayals and Dody Goodman is essentially a comedy personality rather than a straight actress, the intention from the start apparently was to go for hokum rather than observe the disciplined understatement required for farce.

Under Albert Marre's heavy-handed burlesque direction the overall performance suggests a sort of impromptu backstage competition at a convention of circus clowns. Thus, a scene in which the labor boss and his satellite lawyer are locked in the factory office by striking members of their own union is only mildly funny. As they try to stave off hunger with only a few crackers and a jar of peanut butter, with nothing to wash it down except hard liquor, and then engage in negotiations for the sole cigaret, it should be an audience panic, but gets only scattered, tepid laughs.

Within its cartoon limits, Mayehoff's performance has vitality and considerable detail. Miss Goodman, also presumably as directed, seems unnecessarily fey and spinsterish as the lady who gives the family clock factory to the unwary labor boss, and Zachary Scott, third-starred, can do little except accent the positive as a Government investigator who turns out to be her husband for real.

In featured roles, John McMartin offers a touch of reality as the harassed labor lawyer, Ivor Francis, is competent in the implausible part of a local banker trying to combine credit-rating with romance, and Mary McCarty stresses the man-happy dowdiness of the office secretary, presumably at the instigation of the director and costumer. Ed Wittstein has connived in the broad approach by designing a setting that's ludicrously cluttered as well as awkwardly arranged.

Hobe.

(Closed last Saturday night (26) after seven performances.)

Australian Shows

(Week Ending Oct. 26)

MELBOURNE

Happy Invalid, Union.
How to Succeed, Her Majesty's.
Last of the Rainbow, Emerald Hill.
Mary, Mary, Comedy.
Touch of the Poet, St. Martin's.

SYDNEY

Annie Get Your Gun, Her Majesty's.
Do You Mind, Phillip.
Goodnight, Mrs. Puffin, Royal.
King and I, Tivoli.
Opera Repertory, Elizabethan.
Sweet Bird of Youth, Independent.
Typist & Tiger, Ensemble.
Waiting for Godot, Union.

TED BENIADES

Currently Featured in
"THE IRREGULAR VERB TO LOVE"
BARRYMORE THEATRE, N. Y.
PLaza 7-6300

ARLENE FONTANA
Co-Starring in
"FLOWER DRUM SONG"
My Sincerest Thanks to everyone at the Thunderbird Hotel, Las Vegas.
Currently 68th WEEK
Per. Mgr.: JACK BEEKMAN, JU 6-2324

The NEW
ST. JAMES HOTEL
Phila. Headquarters
For People in Show Business
Managing Director—
BOB SPEDDEN
Cardholder in Two IATSE Unions
Located Centrally
13th and Walnut Sts.
ROOMS: $5 up
PEnnypacker 5-8400

FOR SALE
SHOES covered with fabric — beading — custom decorated by Rabouin of New York.
352 W. 52 St., CO 5-7583
Open 10-6, Mon.-Fri.

Shows Abroad

Continued from page 62

Second Honeymoon

study of a twittering, effeminate ballet dancer.

Phil McCall is a breezy man-about-town, a practical joker and former sweetheart of the hero's wife. Hannah Gordon, a brunette looker, has lotsa s.a. in part of a young newly-wed who shows her shapeliness when she enters for a beauty contest clad in a swimsuit. Helen Norman's doddering elderly guest, with a secret passion for whisky in a medicine bottle, also merits a nod.

Eddie Fraser's staging is crisp and efficient. Gord.

The Last of the Rainbow

Melbourne, Oct. 4.

Emerald Hill Theatre Co. (in association with the Australian Elizabethan Theatre Trust) presentation of comedy in three acts by John Hepworth. Staged by Wal Cherry; settings, George Whaley; costumes, Julie Copeland. Opened Oct. 3, '63, at the Emerald Hill Theatre, Melbourne; $1.68 top.

The Wrecker	Joe Sorbello
Karl	Eric Colladetti
Jimmy-The-Wig	David James
Stubbs	Terry Donovan
Little Jan	Dawn Klingberg
Melissa	Ailsa Tizard
Blind Billy	Mark Albiston
Clancy	Aarne Neeme
Dolan	John Paton
Diane Randolph	Helen Harper
Brett Randolph	Robert Cross

It was inevitable that the Theatre of the Absurd should be attempted by an Australian playwright, but surprising that the work should win a $2,250 play competition. John Hepworth's "The Last of the Rainbow" not only copped the prize, however, but has been backed by the Australian Theatre Trust for production.

The play suggests an attempt to out-Behan Behan and the result is an exaggerated and confused "Hostage," and far bawdier. The action—such as it is—takes place in an old Melbourne pub, The Rainbow, in the hands of the demolitioners. Here, sleeping higgledy-piggledy amongst the scaffolding, nooks and crannies are a wild assortment of eccentrics, including a pervert, prostitute, blind man, defrocked priest, amateur philosopher and 14 year old girl. They drink, they fornicate and they rollick around and play nursery games.

Despite moments of sanity and —through the acting—of pathos, with here and there a scattering of quotable lines, most of the play is impossible, with an almost non-existent story thread. There is too, a certain nastiness about it all, implicit in the prominent presence of horse whips and riding boots.

Paradoxically, this is the best staged and most vigorous production at the Emerald Hill since it opened its doors last year. Wal Cherry has done a magnificent job as have all the cast, with Terry Donovan, Ailsa Tizard and Mark Albiston in particular giving performances worthy of better material. Stan.

Carrie

Dublin, Oct. 1.

M. P. Productions presentation of two-act musical by Michael Coffey and Wesley Burrowes, from a play by James Douglas. Staged by Peter Collinson; settings and costumes, William McCrow; choreography, Norman Maen; musical director, Robert Murphy; lighting, Charles Scott. Stars, Ray McAnally, Milo O'Shea. Opened Sept. 30, '63, at the Olympia Theatre, Dublin; $2.10 top.

Mary	Laurie Morton
Elsie	Moira Deady
Nellie	Iris Lawler
Carrie	Ann Nimmons
Danny Nolan	Milo O'Shea
Valerie McLaine	Hazel Yeomans
Hotel Manager	Antone Condon
Phil Kerrigan	Ray McAnally
Heloise	David Kelly
Dodo	Eileen Murphy

Dancers: Gay Brophy, Phil Cahill, Thomas Carty, Rosette Devereus, Terry Haworth, Tony Howe, Bernie Keogh, Mary Kimberley, David Moffar, Bryan Payne, Helen Smith.

Kitchenmaids: Sheila Donald, Fidelma Gildea, Sara Latham, Mary Meagher, Rebecca Wilkinson.

Musicals are rare in the Irish theatre and this one should do big biz. It is brightly presented, has pleasant if unmemorable tunes and imaginative and vigourous dance numbers. The show is on the riches-don't-mean-happiness theme, and leans heavily on the clowning of Milo O'Shea as a romantic window cleaner.

He is a comic in the classic tradition and deserves his laughs. David Kelly, a stringbean of a man with a deadpan delivery, is another first-rate droll in the role of the fashion designer, shunning exaggeration for easy laughs. Ray McAnally, playing his first musical comedy, is an amusing phoney Method actor on the make for an actress with money.

Among the women there is a comedy trio, Laurie Morton, Moira Deady and Iris Lawler who succeed despite the break from their more usual roles in straight drama. The two leading women, Ann Nimmons and Hazel Yeomans, are easy on the eye but not vocally impressive.

Norman Maen's choreography is one of the memorable features of the production, it has pace and precision. Peter Collinson has staged the show with good pace and variation. William McCrow's sets are imaginative and amusing.

The musical numbers include a first class chorus, "Matter-a-Dam"; an amusing duet for the lead men, "Logical-Psychological"; a brisk song-and-dance in "Tocatta for Cats," and the good femme solos "Sycamore" and "It Was Good While It Lasted." Mac.

The Successor

Dublin, Oct. 2.

Abbey Theatre Co. presentation of three-part drama by Reinhard Raffalt, translated by Steven Vas. Staged by Frank Dermody; setting, Thomas MacAnna and John Kelly. Stars Philip O'Flynn. Opened Oct. 1, '63, at the Abbey (Queens) Theatre, Dublin; $1.26 top.

Father Scott	Edward Golden
Father Bianchi	Eoin O'Sullivan
Dean of Ceremonies	Desmond Cave
Cardinal of Bologna	Philip O'Flynn
Cardinal Secretary of State	Peter Lamb
Father Francesco	Sean Lynch
Lay Brother	Colm O'Farachain
Cardinal of Toledo	Liam Foley
Cardinal of Turin	Vincent Dowling
Cardinal of Propaganda Fide	Patrick Layde
Cardinal of Mexico	Michael Hennessy
Cardinal of Palermo	Geoffrey Golden
Cardinal of Rio de Janeiro	Patrick Laffan
Cardinal of Bombay	Brendan O'Duill
Cardinal of Paris	Gerrard Synott
Cardinal of Edinburgh	Fred Johnson
Cardinal of Boston	Sean Cotter
Cardinal Dean of the Sacred College	John Cowley
Cardinal of Macao	Michael O'Brien
Cardinal of Budapest	Gearoid O'Lochlainn
Cardinal of Uganda	Donal MacCann
Cardinals and other clerics	Tom Samway, Brian Fox, Clive Geraghty, Terry Gallivan, Arthur McShane, Bernard Murphy, John McDarby and Jack Kelly

The election of a Pope gives an added interest to this study of ecclesiastical politicking and religious feeling. The Dublin Theatre Festival presentation is the first in English and exploits the attitudes of Cardinals in Conclave as representatives of the Right, Centre and Left-wing groups within the Catholic Church. The author expresses commonly-known problems of the Catholic Church in eastern Europe, the Asian countries, South America and Africa.

The conflict is in the choice of the right type of Pope to handle current world affairs, a patient man or a fighter?

While the piece resolves into the struggle of one man with his conscience, it is stimulating enough in its exchanges between the Cardinals of opposing factions, with Vincent Dowling excellent in the role of the hard campaigning Cardinal of Turin and Geoffrey Golden the aristocratic Cardinal from Palermo, a well-drawn portrait of a Rightist.

Philip O'Flynn, as the Progressive group's nominee as the man most likely to succeed, presented a careful level study of the Cardinal of Bologna, a man who knows his own people but feared for his capabilities in the major role. It is a fine performance, marred only by an over-pious and constant casting of his eyes upwards during a conversation with two Cardinals crusading for their own problems.

The modest performance of Edward Golden as Father Scott, the priest brought from Edinburgh by his Cardinal for no apparent reason but who contributes to the resolution of doubt, is a neat portrait and there are nice minor contributions from Michael Hennessy, Fred Johnson and Gearoid O'Lochlainn.

The author says nothing new about the Catholic Church and its problems, but provides a channel for expressing current thinking, and it makes impressive drama despite overlong speeches. Frank Dermody's production is unspectacular, although some of his groupings of the large cast made impressive pictures The single set is adequate in itself, but variations on it have the appearance of economy. The first night audience was obviously impressed and possibly over-awed by theme, so much so that they did not appear to appreciate the lighter side of some of the exchanges. "The Successor" is not a great play, and won't stir the controversy of "The Representative") the current piece on Pope Pius XII in World War II) but it is an interesting presentation of a recurrent drama and, with tightening, should succeed in its English translation. Mac.

Legit Followup

Black Nativity

(Shubert Theatre, Boston)

Boston, Oct. 15.

First-timing in the U.S. since its European tour, the Michael R. Santangelo-Barbara Griner production (in association with Eric Franck) of "Black Nativity," now presented on tour by Martin Tahse, previously debuted in New York at the Lincoln Center. Opening Oct. 14 at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, for a two week stand, it's the same cast except for the narrator. The troupe gives an exuberant performance and judging from the heavy applause from an SRO audience opening night, seems likely to give new impetus to the boxoffice on this U.S. tour.

Although seen on Westinghouse tv, "Black Nativity," in its tour form should pull packed houses. Booked to cross the country, it will then go into colleges. It's a musical hit, perhaps ahead of its time, that the State Dept. may have overlooked although it's been a goodwill ambassador abroad for two years. The Negro company recounts the Christmas Story in two parts, "Child is Born" and "Way of World."

The beat is infectious and excitement builds as the performers descend into the aisles and shake hands with members of the audience who join in the clapping. During the singing, Matt Cameron and Hope Clark dance the first part with fluid moving action in the roles of Joseph and Mary. The six principals and two small choirs work together like one musical instrument. Led by Marion Williams and Alex Bradford, the Stars of Faith and Bradford Singers choirs swing. Ed Hall reads the Langston Hughes text, and Princess Stewart and the others continue to perform contagiously.

The Stars of Faith comprise Kitty Parham, Frances Steadman, Henrietta Waddy and Mattie Williams, with Albert Carter, pianist. The Bradford Singers include Judy Wilcox, Bernie Durant, Robert Pinkston and Kenneth Washington, with Joe Washington, organist. Philip Stamps dances the shepherd in the second part of the shouting, stomping, handclapping proceedings. Guy.

Off-Broadway Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

Ballad Bimshire, Mayfair (10-15-63).
Blacks, St. Marks (5-4-61).
Boys Syracuse, Theatre 4 (4-15-63).
Cages, York (6-13-63).
Corruption, Cherry Lane (10-8-63).
Cromwell Plays, East End (10-2-63).
Desire Under Elms, Circle (1-8-63).
Fantasticks, Sullivan St. (5-3-60).
Mr. Simian, Astor Pl. (10-21-63).
Penny Change, Players (10-24-63).
Pinter Plays, Pocket (11-26-62).
Premise, Premise (11-22-60).
Riverwind, Actors Playhouse (12-12-62).
Six Characters, Martinique (3-8-63).
Streets of N. Y., Maidman (10-29-63).
Walk in Darkness, Mews (10-28-63).

CLOSED

Color of Darkness, Writers Stg. (9-30-63); closed last Sunday (27).
Ionesco Plays, Gate (9-17-63).

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

God, Man, You Baby, Midway (10-29-63).
In White America, Sher. Sq. (10-31-63).
Theatre of Peretz, Gate (11-5-63).
Journey to Day, de Lys (11-6-63).
Immoralist, Bouwerie Lane (11-7-63).
Telemachus Clay, Writers (11-11-63).
Burn Me to Ashes Jan Hus (11-19-63).
Thistle in Bed, Gramercy (11-19-63).
Ginger Man, Orpheum (11-21-63).
Next I'll Sing, Phoenix (11-25-63).
Chase Bank, Theatre East (11-27-63).
Shakespeare, Carnegie Hall (12-4-63).
Mother Courage, de Lys (1-15-64).

Scheduled B'way Preems

Ballad Sad Cafe, Beck (10-30-63).
Tambourines, Little Theatre (11-2-63).
Man and Boy, Atkinson (11-12-63).
Arturo Ui, Lunt-Fontanne (11-14-63).
Cuckoo's Nest, Cort (11-13-63).
Golden Age, Lyceum (11-18-63).
Once for Asking, Booth (11-20-63).
Got a Girl, Music Box (11-26-63).
Girl Came to Supper, B'way (12-8-63).
Love & Kisses, Music Box (12-18-63).
Albatross, Lyceum (12-19-63).
Hello, Dolly, St. James (1-16-64).
Dylan, Plymouth (1-21-64).
After Fall, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (1-23-64)
Habimah, Little Theatre (2-1-64).
What Makes Sammy, 54th St. (2-4-64).
Foxy, Ziegfeld (2-15-64).
Marco, ANTA-Wash Sq. (2-20-64).
Funny Girl, Winter Garden (2-27-64).
Charlie, ANTA-Wash. Sq. (3-12-64).
Girl to Remember, Hellinger (5-26-64).

Legit Cues

Vinie Burrows and Earle Hyman will appear off-Broadway in the two-character presentation, "The World of Shakespeare."

Bernard Simon's Package Publicity Service Inc., which supplies publicity and advertising materials to stock, community, college and high school theatres, has prepared a "Production Schedule" check list as a giveaway item to those in legit who request it.

Ronald Holgate has returned to the cast of the Broadway production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" in the role played during his absence by David Atkinson.

Forrest Tucker will costar with Leo Genn in "Fair Game for Lovers," which will be designed by Ralph Alswang.

Recent cast additions to "Love and Kisses" include Dennis Cooney, Bert Convy, Katharine Raht and Alberta Grant. Helene Pons will design the show's costumes.

Howard Erskine will be coproducer with George W. George and Frank Granat of "Any Wednesday," in which Sandy Dennis will star.

Jan Murray will play three weeks of stock in "Come Blow Your Horn" at the Drury Lane, Chicago, opening tomorrow (Thurs.).

"Telemachus Clay," by Lewis John Carlino, who's currently represented off-Broadway by the double-bill, "Cages," is scheduled for a Nov. 11 opening at the Writers Stage, N.Y., under the auspices of Play-Pix Productions.

Joanna Merlin will appear off-Broadway in "Thistle in My Bed."

Dinah Christie and Cedric Smith, young Canadian folksingers, will join the Stratford (Ont.) Shakespearean Festival troupe as actors next spring for the scheduled engagement at Chichester, England. Martha Henry, a featured player with the company last summer, will also make the tour.

and Carol Haney will choreograph "Funny Girl."

Broadway stage manager Lo Harden will be general stage manager for the Nov. 8-30 Dallas Civic Opera season.

Peter Coe will direct "Kelly." Lindsay Anderson and Richard Harris, who were to have been associated with the musical as stager and star, respectively, are no longer connected with it.

Fred Allison designed the special lighting for the off-Broadway production of "God, Man and You, Baby," in which a recent addition to the cast was Don Pomes.

Elia Kazan and Robert Whitehead, directors of the Lincoln Center Repertory Co., have been appointed adjunct professors of dramatic art at N.Y.U.'s School of Education.

DeVern Bookwalter will tour colleges and universities beginning next Tuesday (3) in a one-man reading from Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" and "Henry V," under the sponsorship of the Assn. of American Colleges Arts Program.

Sondra Lee will appear in "Hello, Dolly."

Bruce MacKay has joined the Broadway cast of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Jerry Lester, currently subbing for Zero Mostel in the Broadway production of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," will play the lead role in the Martin Tahse touring edition of the musical.

Nancy Franklin has the femme lead assignment in the off-Broadway production of "The Theatre of Peretz."

Richard Casler is designing the scenery and lighting for the off-Broadway production of "Thistle in My Bed," in which John Cullum will play a lead role.

Swedish actress Guje Seastrom has a lead role in the off-Broadway production of "Burn Me to Ashes."

Warren Finnerty and Paul Sand have been added to the cast of the off-Broadway production of "Journey to the Day."

Carol Rossen will appear opposite Robert Preston in "Nobody Loves an Albatross."

Patrick O'Neal will star off-Broadway in J. P. Donleavy's "The Ginger Man," which Ivor David Balding, Leo Garen and The Establishment Theatre Co. are producing for a Nov. 21 opening at the Orpheum Theatre.

Carol Haney will choreograph "Funny Girl."

Rita Moreno will star in "The Sign in Sidney Brustein's Window," which Harold Prince, Burt D'Lugoff and Robert Nemiroff are producing for a Jan. 30 opening at an undesignated Broadway theatre.

E. E. Fogelson will be associated with Arthur Cantor in the production of "The Passion of Josef D," in which Milt Kamen will be featured. Fogelson and Cantor are also coproducing "The Golden Age," in which Douglas Rain will make his Broadway debut as costar with Douglas Campbell and Nancy Wickwire.

Susan Browning has been added to the cast of "Love and Kisses," on which Walter Reilly is associate producer.

Elaine V. Siegel has copped the $1,000 prize in the Seventh Annual Golden Pen Playwriting Contest, sponsored by the Jewish Theatre for Children, for her play, "A Well in the Desert."

Concert Review

Royal Philharmonic

(CARNEGIE HALL, N. Y.)

Believed the first time in over 70 years, Carnegie Hall, itself, is producing a series of concerts—two, in fact. Interestingly, International Festival of Visiting Orchestras was 65% sold out before the opener, the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra of London (Patron: Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth The Queen Mother) bowed.

Led by the very model of a model orchestra conductor, Sir Malcolm Sargent, the Londoners devoted the first half to a demonstration of their qualities as an orchestra with, (1) Elgar's "Cockaigne" Overture (ability to handle light, strolling-around-London themes), (2), Ralph Vaughan Williams' Fantasia on a Theme by Tallis (excellent discipline of the strings, Raymond Cohen, first violinist, and (3), Benjamin Britten's Variations and Fugue on a Theme of Purcell (each section of the orchestra spotlighted, and they totaled 13, with witty expositions.) Last piece, also called "Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra," is well-known from the film which Sir Malcolm conducted and commentated and from its use by a Jerome Robbins ballet.

Orchestra impresses as a fine piece of machinery, possibly lacking the brilliance of the top U. S. symphonies, but this may be accounted for, as one New Yorker reasoned, by the snapping up of the finest string instruments by the better-paid American musicians. Leve.

London Shows

(Figures denote opening dates)

Alfie, Duchess (7-22-63).
Angels Fear Tread, St. Martins (6-6-63).
At Drop Hat, Haymarket (10-2-63).
Bed Sitting Room, Comedy (3-20-63).
Beyond Fringe, Fortune (5-10-61).
Boeing-Boeing, Apollo (2-20-63).
Cambridge Circus, Lyric (8-14-63).
Cider with Rosie, Garrick (10-17-63).
Cockade, New Arts (10-16-63).
Exit the King, Royal Court (9-12-63).
Four & a Tanner, New Arts (10-9-63).
Funny Thing Happened, Strand (10-3-63).
Half a Sixpence, Cambridge (3-21-63).
How to Succeed, Shaftesbury (3-28-63).
Kossoff, Prince Charles (10-15-63).
Lock Daughters, Her Majesty's (5-17-62).
Man and Boy, Queen's (4-9-63).
Mary, Mary, Queens (2-27-63).
Masters, Piccadilly (5-9-63).
Minstrels, Vic. Palace (5-25-62).
Mousetrap, Ambassador (11-25-52).
Never Too Late, Prince Wales (9-24-63).
Oh, What Lovely, Wyndham's (3-19-63).
Oliver, New (6-30-60).
One for the Pot, Whitehall (8-2-61).
Out of Croccodile, Phoenix (10-29-63).
Portrait of Murder, Savoy (10-24-63).
Pickwick, Saville (7-4-63).
Possessed, Mermaid (10-23-63).
Private Lives, Duke York's (7-3-63).
Repertory, Aldwych (12-15-60).
Repertory, National Theatre (10-22-63).
Severed Head, Criterion (6-27-63).
Six Characters, May Fair (6-17-63).
Six of One, Adelphi (9-26-63).
So Much Remember, Vaud. (9-17-63).
Sound of Music, Palace (3-18-61).
Swing Along, Palladium (5-17-63).
What Goes Up, Royal E. (9-17-63).

CLOSED

House of Cards, Phoenix (10-2-63), closed Saturday (26) after limited engagement, 27 performances.

Through Wall, Westminster (3-20-63), closed Saturday (26) after 252 performances.

SCHEDULED OPENINGS

Albatross, Theatre Royal (11-4-63).
Boys Syracuse, Drury Lane (11-7-63).
D'Oyly Carte, Savoy (12-16-63).
Gentle Avalanche, Royal Court (11-12-63).
Gentle Jack, Queen's (11-27-63).
Let's Be Frank, Vaudeville (11-6-63).
No Strings, Her Majesty's (12-30-63).
Princess Pocobontas, Lyric (11-14-63).
Poor Bitos, New Arts (11-13-63).

First J-A Shakeout

"Suzy Knickerbocker" becomes a new byline on the N. Y. Journal-American with the shift of "Suzy" (Arleen Elder) after the N. Y. Mirror's foldo to the companion Hearst p.m. daily, and will replace "Cholly Knickerbocker." Latest incumbent was Charles Van Rensaleer while Igor Cassini is "on leave."

The J-A's new "starlight edition" (bulldog) is credited with upping its run 100,000 and its Sunday sales up 232,000 since Sept. 1. The J-A claims these are now "far ahead of pre-strike figures."

New J-A editor John Denson has other "shake-out" plans to consolidate some of the features as result of the afternoon daily having taken over nine of the Mirror's top columnists (Winchell, Dan Parker, Riesel, Pearson et al.)

Buchwald's Latest

"I Chose Capitol Punishment" by Art Buchwald (World; $3.95) is a collection of humorous observations on Washington by the w.k. wit of the Herald-Tribune's Paris edition, now based in D. C.

Buchwald levels his howitzers and lifts his rapier at everything along the Potomac from the First Family to the starlings that befoul the facades of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Not all the short items in the grabbag are essentially impertinent to the District of Columbia. Television gets the Buchwald treatment. Satirist also offers impression that on all occasions everything is not fine with the arts. Naturally, there are echoes from Paris; a vivid report from Louisville-under-Bourbon; and an hilarious account of Melina Mercouri at an American baseball game ("Come on Mickey Mantoupoplous!" the lady shouted).

Jolly reading whether one is trapped in a Georgetown motel or is safe on first. Rodo.

Fewer In East Germany

Number of daily newspapers still in existence in the Commie-dominated East Germany has dwindled to only 42 dailies—as against the 600 that do business in West Germany.

Report, offered by a publisher at the International Book Fair here noted that of the 42 Soviet Zone dailies, only 12 are okayed for sale in other lands.

'Times' Duo's New Connections

Mrs. R. Hart Phillips — she doesn't use the "Mrs." or Ruby in the byines—is another name byliner whom Long Island Newsday publisher Harry F. Guggenheim has garnered for his sheet. After 25 years in Cuba as the N.Y. Times correspondent, Mrs. Phillips will cover the Latin America scene from her new base in Panama City. She will be syndicated.

Ex-Times v.p. and g.m. Amory H. Bradford has joined Scripps-Howard's chain of 19 newspapers as assistant general business manager under Mark Ferree, executive veepee and general business manager. He will be based in the chain's 230 Park Ave. (N.Y.) executive offices. With the death of Orvil E. Dryfoos, Bradford felt that the new publisher "should be free to assemble his own management team," hence his resignation.

Ron Eyer's Hula Post

Ronald Eyer, former music editor of the N. Y. Herald Tribune, has joined the Honolulu Star-Bulletin to create and coordinate a "lively arts" department.

Eyer hopes to pay more attention to what's going on in Hawaii, "encourage the best efforts being made and enlist the enthusiasm and interest of the public."

Bill Conlan's Good Book

"Berlin: Beset and Bedevilled" by William H. Conlan (Fountainhead; $6.50) has its niche in show biz annals because author was once VARIETY man there and, in 1950, arranged for Hans Hoehn to become the paper's Berlin correspondent.

Book is essentially concerned with Berlin as world "tinderbox," and contains excellent reporting on Conlan's tenure as chief transportation officer of U. S. foreign service in western sector of German capital. Tome carries intro by Maj. Gen. Philip De Witt Ginder (retired), former commander of 6th U. S. Infantry Regiment in Berlin.

Conlan's narrative is strong in human interest, containing plenty of vignettes which could be translated tellingly to screen or tv.

There is a good chapter on performances of "Oklahoma!" in Berlin in 1951, under State Dept. auspices, with resulting story in VARIETY that caused momentary flurry among New York theatre trade unions who had not been advised of junket. Situation was quickly ameliorated in top Washington echelons, with kudos to VARIETY for its friendliness to State Dept. shows abroad. There is an amusing account of visit behind Iron Curtain by show's star, Celeste Holm, who was accused of being an agent for American imperialism.

Several other show biz personalities turn up in Conlon's pages. General savvy of volume in relation to Berlin as crisis hotbed is praiseworthy. Rodo.

An Editor's Logic

"If we accept censorship of books or movies, we may have to accept censorship of the press," said Don E. Weaver, editor of the Columbus-Journal, in his editorial page column.

"Our opposition to censorship on principle often is embarrassed by some of the squalid, pandering, obscene and vulgar things currently printed or pictured for the market," said Weaver. "But the remedy is to bring the offensive book or movie into court under our long-existing obscenity laws and let a jury decide. In our judicial system, fate of our property and our very lives is decided by juries of citizens. Can't we also trust moral questions to juries?"

Weaver's column was prompted by an offer by a member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union to the Columbus School Board to act as a one-woman censor of books on the shelves of school libraries.

"Her offer was graciously declined by the school board," said Weaver.

Italy's New Bimonthly

Guido Guarda has usefully filled a void in the Italo publications field with his just-out bi-monthly Cinematografie Specializzate (Specialized Cinematographies), published in Rome by TV Lexicon Int'l Ltd.

New publicatiton covers specialized films in industrial, animation, advertising, and related orbits—as well as the events (festivals and/or conventions) dedicated to them—with a series of illustrative and informative articles and tables.

Accent is on Italy, but field is international. Publication (48 pages) is elegantly produced and boasts a useful index of names and subjects. Hawk.

History of Journalism

Jonathan Daniels, publisher of the Raleigh News & Observer, has authored "Crusading Editors" for World publication next spring.

It deals with the famous hammerswinging editors in American history from Zenger to William Lloyd Garrison, Hearst, Pulitzer et al. It is also the story in part of American journalism.

Yale's Beinecke Library

Believed to be the largest building in the world devoted entirely to rare books and manuscripts, Yale University's new Beinecke Rare Book & Manuscript Library was dedicated Oct. 11, after a two-and-a-half year period of construction.

Among famous Yale collections reposing on the 21.3 miles of shelves (capacity 800,000 volumes), in addition to such ancient rarities as the Gutenberg Bible (circa 1455), are documents of such moderns as Joseph Conrad, Gertrude Stein, Eugene O'Neill and Sinclair Lewis which should provide invaluable research material.

Library was designed by Gordon Bunshaft of the architectural firm of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill and is a gift of Edwin J. Beinecke, Frederick W. Beinecke, the late Walter Beinecke and their families.

CHATTER

Explorer-cameraman Armand Denis, already known for "Goona Goona" and "Dark Rapture," has a new book, "On Safari," a personal saga which is subtitled "The Story of a Man's Life in Search of Adventure." Dutton is publishing. Presumably it's being aimed for ultimate filmization.

Communicorp. p.r. Roland Gammon, religioso author and lecturer, off to the Coast on a ballyhoo trip in connection with his newest, "Faith Is A Star" (Dutton). Book comprises some 60 first-person creedal stories by outstanding American personalities in church, political, sports, literary and show biz fields.

Ex-Dun & Bradstreeter Richard Rosenzweig named assistant to the president of Playboy enterprises, Hugh M. Hefner. It's a newly created post. His wife, Bonnie Bovik, is assistant picture editor of Playboy.

Tennessee Ernie Ford is latest entertainment figure to hit the autobiog trail. His "This Is My Story—This Is My Song" will be published by Prentice-Hall.

A regular dividend of 8c per share on American Heritage Publishing Co. Inc. common and B stock, payable Dec. 11, 1963, is the ninth quarterly dividend to be paid since American Heritage was offered to the public in October, 1961.

Scripter Philip Dunne has edited an anthological "Mr. Dooley Remembers," the writings of the late Finley Peter Dunne ("creator of the "Mr. Dooley" character) which Atlantic-Little Brown is publishing. Son has dedicated the book to 14 VIPs: Charles Brackett, Winslow Carlton, Amanda Duff Dunne, Elmer Ellis, Felix Frankfurter, Geoffrey Galway, Mabel Brady Garvan, President John F. Kennedy, Edward P. Morgan, John O'Hara, James Reston, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Paul Ziffren, Mary Zimbalist.

The Sound Bend (Ind.) Tribune, very promo-minded, at least judging by its pieces into the VARIETY office, has gotten up a gag illustrated "Your Guide to Reporting" for eager-beaver publicity chairmen of clubs, lodges, business and political organizations. It gives the do's and don'ts for reporting news to the S. B. Trib.

NBC's Irving R. Levine, N. Y. Herald Tribune's Sanche de Gramont, freelance journalist Robert Neville and Joseph B. Phillips, public affairs officer of the U. S. Embassy in Rome, received distinguished journalism awards on the 50th anni of the founding of the Columbia Univ. Graduate School of Journalism. All four now reside in Rome, and U. S. Ambassador Frederick G. Reinhardt made the presentations.

Robert Carson, who has previously written Hollywood-backgrounded novels, has dedicated his latest, "An End To Comedy," this one dealing with filmmaking in Spain, to William Raney, his editor-in-chief at Bobbs-Merrill.

Sakai Haburankai Annai Inc. chartered to conduct a Japanese-American publishing house business in New York.

Bernard Geis' pub-ad-&-subsidiary rights director Letti Jo Cottin engaged to Mineola lawyer Bertrand B. Pogrebin, with wedding slated for Dec. 8.

Doubleday's John T. Sargent "poured" for the Paul Gallicos yesterday (Tues.) at his Beekman Place digs on occasion of the author's newest book, "Love, Let Me Not Hunger," novel about a stranded circus in Spain.

Publishing Stocks

(As of Oct. 30, closing)

Allyn & Bacon (OC)	24½	— ½
American Book (AS)	41½	+ ¼
Amer. Book Strat. AS	6½	+ ¼
American Heritage (OC)	7⅛	+1½
Book of Month (N.Y.)	20⅝	+ ⅛
Conde Nast (N.Y.)	12⅝	+ ⅝
Cowles (OC)	13⅞	— ¼
Crowell Collier (N.Y.)	20⅜	—1⅝
Curtis Pub. (N.Y.)	6½	+ ½
Esquire Inc. (AS)	8⅝	+ ⅝
Ginn & Co. (N.Y.)	29	+1
Grolier (OC)	57	— ½
Grosset & Dunlap (OC)	8½	— ½
Harcourt Brace (N.Y.)	34	— ⅛
Hayden Pub. (OC)	2¾
Hearst (OC)	25
Holt R & W (N.Y.)	28	—1
La Times-Mirror (OC)	33¾
Macfadden Bartel (AS)	6⅝	+1⅛
McCall (N.Y.)	32	+ ¾
McGraw-Hill (N.Y.)	29¼	+ ¾
Meredith Pub. Co. (OC)	26½	+1
Nat'l Per. Pub. (OC)	10	+ ¼
New Yorker (OC)	101
Pocket Books (OC)	3⅞	— ⅛
Popular Library (OC)	2¼
Prentice Hall (AS)	35	— ¼
Random House (N.Y.)	9¾
Scott Foresman (OC)	27⅛	— ⅝
H. W. Sams (OC)	33¾	+1¼
Time Inc. (OC)	88¼	— ¼
Universal Pub. Co. (OC)	4¾
Western Pub. Co. (OC)	20⅝	+ ⅛
World Pub.	15½	—1¼

OC—Over the Counter.
NY—N.Y. Stock Exchange.
AS—American Stock Exchange.
(Supplied by Bache & Co.)

SCULLY'S SCRAPBOOK

By Frank Scully

Palm Springs.

The old idea that the more a thing changes the more it remains the same is a cute paradox, but even in France, where they invented it, it is wearing thin.

This is particularly true of the Riviera which was my old stamping ground 30 years ago. In those days it was a winter resort and everybody, meaning the English, headed for home after Easter. But today it has become even more of a summer resort than a winter resort.

In the old days few etrangers enjoyed summers there, and the French didn't think much of it either, though the temperature remained around 80 degrees morning and night from May to October. Rain was unknown.

It was show people who discovered it made a fine summer resort. It fitted in nicely with their plans because in those days summertime was the season for layoffs. The only people "working" were at the Victorine Studio where Rex Ingram made pictures between long sessions of giving the Riviera sun the privilege of tanning his handsome hide. There were no lotuses around there but if there were we would have been eating them.

A nostalgic proof of how things have changed comes in a letter from Micky Powell, director of a flock of British hits including that all-time beauty, "Red Shoes."

In those faroff days Powell was assistant cameraman, publicity aide and cutter. He also played comedy parts in Ingram pictures. He was 19 but looked then about as he does now, for he was bald. Otherwise he was quite handsome and possessed a humor that must have been indigent to the soil of Dulwich, near London, where he went to college. P. G. Wodehouse went there, too.

The other day I received a letter from Powell. It was written from La Voile D'Or, a hotel on St. Jean Cap Ferrat, not far from where Somerset Maugham lived in splendor. The hotel belonged to Micky's family and he writes that he still keeps it open summers but closes it winters.

"I am writing to you from this address," writes Powell, "because I am sure you will appreciate it. Yesterday I spent all day in the mountains. That will bring back some memories! Superficially the coast has changed a good deal, like California, but underneath the concrete and chromium there is still the same crust of olive stones, tomatoes and garlic which you so often lovingly evoke in your columns. And in the winter, when the moles of subsidized sun-sitters have high-tailed back to the cities, you would see a lot of things (and faces) which you remember.

"We still own this hotel and it still looks just the same and has gangs of 'regulars' who have been coming here ever since the war. My wife, Frankie, runs it in the summer only. We close in the winter, although we often come down with the two boys, Kevin and Columba (18 and 12) in the Christmas holidays. The Studio Victorine has been taken over by the city of Nice and land has been bought for a new studio up at La Colle, near St. Paul. But the Victorine veterans are still there, year after year, hanging on typically until they are bulldozed out.

"He had rather a fright when his first book, 'Killing a Mouse on Sunday' was bought by Anthony Quinn and developed into a huge movie directed by Fred Zinnemann with Quinn and Gregory Peck in it. He had meant it to be a quiet little book!

The Shortest Night At The Opera

"I have just finished making a colour film in Salzburg of Bela Bartok's only opera 'Bluebeard's Castle.' It runs an hour. It came off rather well.

"It might even convince film and tv audiences that opera can be wonderful. I plan to make a film in Sydney, about an Italian emigrant among the Aussies, called 'They're a Weird Mob.' The book is published by Simon & Shuster so you may have read it.

"I am working now on the script with Roger MacDougall, Scottish playwright, who wrote the scripts of several films, including 'The Mouse That Roared.' I plan another musical film in Germany, an autobiography of Richard Strauss, which would be made in Munich. And also a thriller about a forger of paintings, engravings, banknotes and passports, called 'The Creative Impulse.' (He forges the passports for nothing.) And at the end of the film we put THE END—of passports. If it only could be!

"I am planning a longish novel, about what it has meant to be a storyteller in the cinema during the last 38 years. It's a story worth telling and I think I could do it, from the point of view of a self-educated dreamer. The trouble is it would probably work out as long as Proust. And I still have a few ideas for films which will never be made, like all film directors.

"I look much the same and I feel exactly the same—the wide-eyed, intolerant, exasperating boy that you seem to remember. And you remain the source of humanity and fun and inspiration for me and thousands of others that you have always been . . . Micky."

The Tai and Harry he refers to are Harry Lachman and Jue Quon Tai, Lachman's wife. The irony is that at the time of Powell's writing this letter the Lachmans were within 20 miles of him.

Fifty years ago, Lachman was an American painter who went to France. He joined a group painters in Brittany, painted 45 pictures in three months and sold them all. He said, "Hmm, if it's as easy as this I'm going to really learn how to paint." But the more he learned the less he sold, and one day he took stock of himself and decided that an artist who was worth his salt would become a vital issue in the lives of people in a medium of their time. That was movies.

He was skilled with a camera and made enough money taking portrait photographs half the year to keep him painting the rest of it. Then one day he met Rex Ingram and took a job with him. Within six months he pointed out the staggering inefficiency of a motion picture studio and how it was no job at all for an artist, if he applied himself to that sort of work, to save hundreds of thousands of dollars for a company. He was made general manager.

But he didn't want to stay in that role all his life. He wanted to direct pictures and he did direct—English pictures, French pictures, American pictures. Some of the best foreign pictures showed his master hand.

Another "Horn Blows At Midnight"

Then he came to Hollywood, directed some Shirley Temple money-makers and got trapped into a turk called "Dante's Inferno"—in no way related to a classic of the same name. It cured him of picture-making and he went back to painting.

He not only went back to painting, he went back to France. Last year he returned to Hollywood to see if he could do any painting in California, but he ended up by saying the place hasn't got it. With smog of course, it hasn't. He sold some of his French paintings for between $5,000 and $10,000 a piece and returned to France.

When I first met Tai she had quit the Keith circuit where she was making $1,500 a week and had taken up residence on the Riviera to study opera under Bartolomew who trained Caruso, Mary Garden and Grace Moore. The Chinese never had a woman on the stage up to that time and she was determined to be the first opera singer of her race.

But then she married Lachman. That was the end of her opera career. It is a funny thing but motion pictures in those days seemed to have the power to push older arts and talents out of all conversation at a round table. It happened in this family too.

They were a great bunch at the old Ingram studio and Powell has topped them all.

Broadway

Coast agent Glenn Shaw setting up literary branch in Manhattan.

Les Grands Ballets Canadiens will travel in Dominion all fall, hit States for a spring tour.

Harry Meller's two one-acters produced by American Creative Theatre at Manhattan's 13th St. Theatre.

Willy Kailer, former barman at Astor and Savoy-Plaza, back in native Austria at Sonnenschlosse, outside Innsbbruck.

Elizabeth Ashley, costar in new click "Barefoot In The Park" legit comedy, was a onetime hatcheck girl at the Monsignore.

Sir Francis (Frank) Scully, vet VARIETY columnist, in 7th Day Adventist Hospital, Palm Springs, seeking cure for persistent anemia.

Quondam boxer Izzy Grove is now in there punching on special exploitation with Columbia Pictures in behalf of Carl Foreman's "The Victors."

Dorothy and Harry B. Jameson, w.k. BevHills hosts, making the Gotham rounds with show biz pals before heading for their annual Mexico vacation.

Jan Peerce back from Austria, Germany and France. Will sing Duke in "Rigoletto" Nov. 2 at Met. First performance of work has Barry Morrel in that role.

Ercole Bertolino making his cafe debut tonight (Wed.) at Latin Quarter. He sings with Brooklyn Opera Co. Nov. 16th in title role of the Salmuggi version of "Rigoletto."

Appropriately songsmith-spook authority Hanz Holzer's book, "Ghost Hunter," is getting a press preview Halloween night at the Savoy Hilton. Bobbs-Merrill publishing.

VARIETY man in Berlin Hans Hoehn in today (Wed.) en route to the Coast on Stanley Kramer's (UA) "Mad World" junket. First time over. Hopes to spend a few days in Gotham before returning to Europe.

Judi Seitz, also know as Judi Dale Seitz, Judi Dale and Judi Jones, saleswoman and freelance singer, filed in voluntary bankruptcy in Booklyn Federal Court listing $3,730.48 in liabilities and $800 assets.

Gian-Carlo Menotti's new opera, "The Last Savage," recently unveiled at Paris Opera, which commissioned it, gets its U. S. preem Jan. 23 at Met. Roberta Peters will sing the lady anthropologist. That profession believed an operatic innovation.

Webster's Forum cigars' tieup with "A Funny Thing Happened On Way to the Forum" will see male attendees on Nov. 6 receiving cuffo cigars and the Alvin Theatre management extending intermission to 20 minutes to permit "more liesurely enjoyment" of the heaters.

Evelyn Lawson, VARIETY Cape Cod stringer in the summer season, set to do a New York Sunday column for the Cape Cod Standard Times. She's also scripting four Filmstrip House educationals for John Patterson, prez of FH, teeing off with "France, The Country and Its People."

Robert Lantz to Hollywood this weekend for powwows with Coast clients. He just sold Eric Maria Remarque's new novel, "The Night In Lisbon," to Good Housekeeping, and David Weiss' "Naked Came I," to be published Nov. 25, is a January selection for both the Literary Guild and the Readers' Digest Book Club.

Nostalgic exponent Joe Franklin devoted a full hour of his Cnannel 9 telecast to "The Eddie Cantor Story," with film and disk clips. Guests were Maxine Keith (reviewer) and songsmith Charlie Tobias, cousin of the late Mrs. Ida Tobias (Eddie) Cantor. Tapes are being mailed the ailing comedian at his BevHills home.

Along with the milliners, furriers, winter apparel and other kindred interests who have a big grievance at Manhattan's protracted heat wave—"Indian summer" almost into November—are the coatroom concessionaires at the bistros and restaurants. The coatless and hatless male clientele at the popular business men's fillingstations are indeed as arid with the pourboire as the 70s and 80s temp.

The 26th annual charity ball for benefit of the Ziegfeld Club Inc., which aides indigent alumnae of the "Follies," set for Nov. 22 at the Waldorf. Mrs. Gladys Feldman Braham is prez; Mrs. Elisabeth Rae Lamont and Mrs. Janette Hackett Steel cochairmen of entertainment; Irene Hayes, also a former Ziegfeld beaut, is contributing the flowers from her swank chain of Wadley & Smythe: Irene Hayes Inc. florist shops.

Last Wednesday's midday fire in a discount store on Broadway and 43d St., which swept up behind the big electric sign, caused Fire Commr. Edward Thompson to pitch once again for escape hatches behind the big tungsten spectaculars, such as was constructed when the new sign at Broadway and 46th St. was unveiled. As now constituted, the blocked off rooms and building facades makes fire fighting a problem through inaccessability.

A minimum upset price of $3,600,000 has been fixed for the public auction Dec. 3 of the 2,632-room St. George Hotel, Brooklyn, the biggest in the metropolitan New York area. All assets will be included in the sale, subject to about $300,000 on the carpeting and furnishings. Package sale only, so as to continue uninterrupted operation for the new buyer. St. George has an indoor swimmingpool, ballroom and 16 banquet rooms.

Sidney Frey, prez of Audio Fidelity Records, had some 300 in attendance Saturday night at the Waldorf's Sert Room to see him inducted as the newest "locality mayor"—he's Mayor of 11th Ave, because that's where AF is located. Gotham has about 30 such locality mayors. Among show biz, Danny Siegel, owner of the Living Room, is "Mayor of 2d Ave."; "Big Joe" Rosenfeld, "Mayor of Times Sq."; Paul Taubman, composer-conductor and owner of the Penthouse Club, which is on Central Park South, for some reason is "Mayor of 5th Ave."; Abe (delicatessen) Gellis, 42d St.; Max Asnas, another delicatessen impresario, "Mayor of 7th Ave."; Sammy Fuchs ("Bowery Follies" nitery), "Mayor of the Bowery," what else? Gene Baylos toastmastered the Sert Room soiree.

Brooklyn, U.S.A.

By Jo Ranson

Reggie Ashby Duo appearing weekends at House of Yu.

Memorial to late Abe Yager, widely known local publicist, unveiled at Old Mt. Carmel Cemetery.

Arthur H. Bleich, local journalism prof, on way to Haile Selassie I University in Addis Ababa to teach journalism.

Edmund W. Madden, Brooklyn banker and treasurer of the Opera Division, Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, died.

Adult education program at Brooklyn College this semester includes drama courses and preseason ski conditioning.

Local bistros featuring flock of female impersonators including "French Box Revue" at Bamboo Lounge, similar acts at Sabella's and at Smart Set.

Joseph B. Whitty, longtime Democratic leader of Brighton and Coney Island and other districts, died. He knew intimately many of seaside's showmen.

Maurice Brill named trustee of the bankrupt Brooklyn Eagle, local daily which reappeared on stands a year ago and then a labor dispute forced it to shut down.

Long Island Historical Society's centennial celebration starts Nov. 3. Society houses considerable show biz literature, some of which will go on display during Centennial year.

Community Recital Series presenting folk singer, Odetta, Andre Eglevsky Ballet Company and Lucky Brown Chamber Players in Brooklyn schools during next three months.

Joseph Papp may bring his N. Y. Shakespeare Festival to Brooklyn next summer. Idea is to send a touring company into Brooklyn with Prospect Park and Cadman Plaza as possible viewing sites.

Thomas F. Mulhern, onetime Brooklyn Eagle and World-Telegram staffer, and U. S. Labor Department official, retired from government service. Mulhern at one time was classified ad manager of both Telly and Eagle.

Brooklyn press playing up Brooklyn-born David A. (Sonny) Werblin, president of Music Corp. of America-TV and head of Gotham Football Club, owners of N. Y. Jets. Werblin's interest in football stems from his days at James Madison High School.

London

(HYde Park 4561/2/3)

Pola Negri arrived over the weekend for her role in Walt Disney's "Moon-Spinners."

Walter Seltzer returned to N.Y. last week with a print of "Man In the Middle," which he filmed in Britain for 20th-Fox.

Marlene Dietrich in from Paris and will entertain at the Alamein reunion before making her appearance in the Royal Command vaude gala.

Cliff Richard and the Shadows, just back from a tour of Israel, head for France before starting rehearsals on a new filmusical, "Wonderful Life."

Anita Harris took over the lead in the current Pigalle revue from Jill Day, who was fired last week after emptying a bowl of peas over the skull of the headwaiter.

Monty Morton and Charles Berman, managing director and publicity topper, respectively, of United Artists in London, off to the Coast this week for Stanley Kramer's "Mad World."

Brigitte Bardot, Anthony Perkins, director Edouard Molinaro and producer Michel Ardan met the press at a Westbury reception last week. They are in town on location for "Une Ravissante Idiote" ("Adorable Idiot").

A "Cityrical" revue at the Poor Millionaire restaurant in the City of London opened last Monday (28) with a cast including Bob McBain, Pamela Ann Davy and Paul McDowell. Show is presented by ex-journalist Stephen Kennedy, who used to write political cabarets in Budapest.

Chicago

(DElaware 7-4984)

"Brecht On Brecht," with the New York cast headed by Lotte Lenya, plays six performances at the University of Chicago Nov. 13-17.

Byron Belt, director of Chicago Concerts Inc., named director of the Long Island Arts Center now being built on site of Mitchell Air Force Base.

Nat King Cole heads up a "Sights and Sounds" revue at McCormick Place under the aegis of radio personality Daddy-O Daylie and impresario Harry Zelzer, Nov. 10.

Sterling Hayden due in ahead of "Dr Strangelove" next week to make press rounds, and Otto Preminger skedded for interview chores on behalf of "The Cardinal" on Nov. 13.

Univ. of Chicago outdoor Court Theatre smashed all records for nine years this season. Total attendance was 12,495, up 30% from the previous high. Carlos Montoya racked up largest attendance for a single event.

The Chicago Strings, a chamber orchestra composed of 14 members of the Chicago Symphony, will present five concerts in Orchestra Hall this season starting Dec. 3. Group has toured Europe, but this is its first Chi series.

Paris

By Gene Moskowitz

(80 Ave Neuilly; SAB. 0712)

Richard Meyer, a Yank producing films in Spain, in for confabs on possible like chores here.

Playwright Roger-Ferdinand getting a legit theatre named after him in town of his birth, Saint-Lo.

The recent death of Edith Piaf led to a run on her records, with Pathe-Marconi exhausting its stocks.

Music from "The Great Escape" (UA) on CBS Records, keeping sales pace with the solid firstrun biz being racked up by the pic.

A reprise of the operetta, "Rose Marie," of Roger Ferreol and Saint-Granier, due at the Mogador next December. Henri Varna will stage.

Robert Enrico to film Charles Aznavour in his singing tour around France as a full-length documentary on him. Aznavour also produces the pic.

New French version of Ben Johnson's Elizabethan comedy, "Volpone," to be done in Paris at Sarah Bernhardt Theatre by a provincial company from Caen.

Yank actor Reginald Kernan into French pic, "100,000 dollars Au Soleil" ($100,000 in the Sun) opposite Jean-Paul Belmondo and Lino Ventura. Henri Verneuil directs.

French title of "The Love Cage" (MGM), being made in English by the Metro-bankrolled local company, Cipra, is "Ni Sains, Ni Saufs" (Neither Safe or Sound). Alain Delon and Jane Fonda star.

Title of Serge Bourguignon's next French pic is "A Ne Rien Ceder De Nos Reves" (To Give Up None of Our Dreams) which he is skedded to begin here next spring. Suzanne Flon and Jean Servais already are signed for cast.

Rome

By Robert F. Hawkins

(Via Sardegna, 43; Tel. 479316)

Seymour Poe here on last lap of worldwide trek for 20th-Fox.

Irina Demich took four-day vacation from her "Visit" chores at Cinecitta to fly to Paris.

Christopher Mann here talking to Anthony Quinn about various upcoming projects. Ditto Tom Rowe.

Michael Cacoyannis here to chat with Anthony Quinn about their upcoming "Zorba" production, which rolls in Greece next Spring.

Mario Del Monaco setting up a tower-top restaurant operation, in between operatic stints around world, in a water tower at Rome's EUR.

Amedeo Nazzari to Madrid to work in "Blind Man's Buff," directed by German Lorente for International Film Service, on pic's Malaga location.

Bette Davis, say local reports, has asked Francesco Rosi, who directed Italo staging of Patroni-Griffi's new play, "In Memory of a Friendly Lady," to repeat chore when she does play on Broadway next March.

In-and-out: Amru Sani back in Rome after lengthy and successful U.S. stay; Hal Chester in for film talks; Robert Lippert in town; Plato Skouras here on pic plans; Jacqueline Sassard back in pix after lengthy abstinence for "White Voices" (Franca); Giulietta Simionato to Tokyo for opera appearances; and James E. Perkins, Henri Michaud, Milton Kirshberg, all of Paramount, in town.

Las Vegas

By Forrest Duke

(DUdley 4-4141)

R. O. Canon, general manager at Hotel Tropicana, named to board of directors.

Dunes execs Charles Rich and George Duckworth back from talent search in Europe.

Jacques Foti, Sultan's Table star, signed for role in "What A Way To Go" at 20th-Fox.

Hank Henry, the Silver Slipper's top banana, inked for role in "Robin and Seven Hoods" at Warner Bros.

Showboat entertainment chief Rick Richardson negotiating with Spike Jones and crew to open the new showroom April 1.

Nita Cruz returns to Flamingo lounge Nov. 28 along with Harry James and Billy Eckstine.

Bobby Darin told Flamingo prexy Morris Lansburgh his current nitery engagement would be his last "for a long, long time."

During Frances Faye's closing shows at the Thunderbird lounge, she was joined onstange by Sonny King, Peter Anthony, Jack Cathcart and Babe Pier.

Mpls.-St. Paul

By Bob Rees

(2208 Kenwood Parkway; 374-4015)

Theatre in the Round Players preem "Rashomon" Thursday (31).

Pianist Malcolm Frager will be soloist with Minneapolis Symphony Friday (1).

NBC Opera Theatre tenor David Aiken will star in St. Paul Civic Opera's offering of "Lohengrin," Nov. 7 and 9.

Geordie Hormel Quartet, a hit at White House nitery here this summer, invited to tour Russia by the Soviet Ministry of Culture.

Mantovani orchestra's concert at University of Minnesota last frame was sold out four weeks in advance. It was the orch's sixth appearance here.

Guthrie Theatre administrative director Oliver Rea off on two-month tour of Europe. A board member of the U.S. State Department's Advisory Committee on the Arts, Rea will visit theatres in France, Poland and Germany.

Old Log Theatre, Equity stock company at Suburban Lake Minnetonka, has introduced a series of "matinee teas," serving tea to groups of femme playgoers between acts. Old Log brings back "Biggest Thief in Town" for fortnight stand starting tomorrow (30).

Hollywood

Charles Boasberg in from N.Y. for Paramount huddles.

Mitchell Kowal returned from seven-month European filming stay.

Frank Gorshin celebrates Thanksgiving with date at Sydney's Chevron Hilton.

Newscaster Ralph Story, back from 18-month global trot, back on KNXT newstaff Nov. 18.

Chad Everett, starring in ABC teleseries, "Dakotas," signed exclusive Capitol recordpact.

Pete Brady and Victor Huston joined management firm of Ross W. Christena & Associates.

Marie Wilson set for her initial Gotham nitery date—two weeks at Latin Quarter, starting Jan. 9.

Julie London tabbed Barry Shear to stage new act she'll bow Jan. 10 at Miami Beach's Deauville.

Annette Funicello picked up $49,500 in U.S. Savings Bonds held in trust awaiting her 21st birthday (22).

Metro ordered more than 700 prints of "The Prize," one of largest initial orders at the studio in years.

John Scott Trotter elected national prexy of Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences, succeeding Robert Yorke.

Paul Levitt, Players Ring Theatres producer, is pitching for a L.A. Drama Critics Circle Award, patterned after N.Y. legit awards.

Jerry Van Dyke will emcee charity opening of WB's "Palm Springs Weekend," in which he's costarred, in Palm Springs Thanksgiving Day.

Minta Durfee, widow of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, during British visit next month will hold series of press confabs to bally "Gunfight at Comanche Creek."

AIP will stage special memorial benefit preem of "Beach Party" in Winnipeg Friday (1) in honor of late Lou Rusoff, coproducer of film, born in that Canadian city.

Randy Sparks and the New Christy Minstrels, who provide only the music in Metro's "Company of Cowards," will make series of personals in east to bally pic.

Gordon Kay, producing "Renegade Posse" for Universal, postponed start of pic at St. George, Utah, one week to avoid deer hunting season and swarms of riflemen on film's location.

Philadelphia

By Jerry Gaghan

(319 N. 18th St.; Locust 4-4848)

Al Hirt pacted local trumpeter Debbie Hayes for his outfit at Harrah's, Reno.

Dick Hark, bassist with Burt Lane at the Capri, doubles in the Academy of Music pit for Lyric Opera productions.

Jimmy Tyson, former musician and bandleader, leaving for Europe to scout paintings for his New Hope Gallery.

Red Schwartz, national promotion director of VeeJay Records for six years, named to same post at Cameo-Parkway Records.

Anthony Hall, with a role in "His and His," has reverted to the family name and will be known henceforth as Anthony Ponti.

Cannonball Adderley collapsed on the stand and was unable to finish engagement at the Showboat. Now under doctor's care in Washington, D.C.

William Rowland, Philly born film producer, readying a pic to be made on location here, "Two Faces of Jason," Lew Kellman's studio to do lensing and script is by A. B. Guthrie, scenarist of "Shane."

Columbus

By Fred Oestreicher

(CA 8-2669)

Toni and Jan Arden at Danny Deeds' Maramor.

Smothers Brothers dated Nov. 2 at Capital University.

Roy Liberto band at new Roaring 20's Room of Deshler-Hilton.

Fred Oestreicher back from vacation in Colorado and Chicago.

Al Waslon batoning band in new Diamond Room at Tommy Henrich's Steak House.

Ruth Lyons brought her "50-50 Club" tv show to Veterans Memorial last week (25).

Carl Foreman came here to address Ohio State University students and Columbus Chapter of Academy of TV Arts and Sciences.

Ex-Red and Ex-Nazi Juror

Continued from page 2

a good number of these "off Hollywood" pix at Mannheim's disposal.

Another frame program was the showing of 12 shorts which won prizes at other festivals (Oberhausen, Annecy, Locarno, etc.) of the year before. This annual special contest singles out a pic for the Prix Simone Dubreuilh of FIRPRESCI, the international film critic assn. Yugoslavia's "Igra" (The Game) was the winner of this award. Pic won the grand prix at Oberhausen this year. Interesting to note that for the third time a pic which had won the Oberhausen grand prix walked off with that Dubreuilh prize at Mannheim.

The guest list included 584 names: 127 press people, 347 persons from the film industry, both native and foreign, and 110 delegates of German Film Clubs which annually participate in the event. The Assn. of German filmclubs and the city of Mannheim are arrangers of this festival. The latter's budget amounts to around 140,000 D-Marks which is about $35,000. Extra income comes from the sale of tickets. Mannheim is very cinema-conscious. And this rich city's annual fest is a very friendly affair. Here even the ushers wish the customers "a very nice time" when he enters the cinema on preem night.

The United States was the nation that was strongest represented this year. There were nearly 30 stateside pix—16 films of the "Off Hollywood" retro show included—shown this year.

It was an American film that opened the fest. Its title justified this privilege: "Premiere" (N. H. Cominos and Robert Cohen), a reportage on the wrold preem of the Taylor-Burton starrer, "Cleopatra."

The other U. S. entries: "Wasn't That a Time" (Michael and Philip Burton), "Committee on Un-American Activities" (Robert Cohen), "Summit" (Stan Vanderbeek), "Legacy" (feature film by Richard Snodgrass), "Millions in Business" (Rudy Burkhardt), "The Wall" (USIS), "A La Mode" (Vanderbeek), "Team, Team, Team" (J. Salter and L. Slate), "Around My Way" (Stewart Wielinsky), "The Showman" (A. and D. Maysles"), the latter shown outside competition. Same goes for "Committee on Un-American Activities." Some interesting inside as to the latter: The print of this 56-minute documentary came from Leipzig, East Germany. It was shown there at last year's documentary film festival and liked there so much that it was given a prize. It's understood that the (McCarthy) subject "appeals" to the other side. Incidentally, "Wasn't That a Time," shown in competition, a 28-minute documentary, also dealt with the "committee of Un-American activities." The films garnered quite good reviews here.

L'Affaire Goelz

There was an incident on the second festival day when students of nearby Frankfurt University sent copies of an open letter to Mannheim festival guests informing them about the political past of jury member Erwin Goelz of Stuttgart. Under the name of Frank Maraun, Goelz, 60, was an active motion picture publicist during the Hitler era. The students protested against the utilization of a former Nazi journalist as a jury member. Goelz left Mannheim on the morning of the next day. The incident led to hot debates here, some taking pro-Goelz ("he's been punished enough. He lost one leg during the war") and others anti-Goelz attitude. ("He should never expose himself"), others calling him a "scapegoat," others still "an opportunist" (he was a Commie before Hitler took over the power). "Die Welt," however, asked: "Didn't they (the students) know it before?" This question in reference to the fact that it's an old-hat charge. He was forced off the jury.

The jury, incidentally, was composed of Henri Storck, president (Belgium), Gordon Hitchens, U. S., K. Karabasz, Poland, Istvan Nemeskurthy, Hungary, Werner Pleister, Germany, Rudolf Sremec, Yougoslavia, and Reinhold E. Thiel, Germany, who took Goelz' seat.

The Americans

Aside from Hitchens, Mannheim saw the presence of Richard Snodgrass of Arizona whose first full-length pic, "Legacy," was an official U. S. entry. Also here was American Jerome Hill whose full-length movie, "Open the Door and See All the People," was screened via the "Off Hollywood" retrospective. (It was not his first full-length pic, otherwise it could have been entered in competish.) Walter Talmon-Gros, head of the annual Mannheim Filmweek, saw both "Legacy" and "Open the Door" in Edinburgh and invited them to his festival. Also here, George Wallach, head of United States Information Section, U. S. Embassy Bad Godesberg, (two USIS pix were shown here), and David C. Stone, producer of "Hallelujah the Hills," another pic of the "Off Hollywood" section and in which, incidentally, above named Jerome Hill has an acting part.

Mannheim festival organization was generally praised. Talmon-Gros' chief associates Kurt Heinz (press) and Hanns Maier (organization) found much support in local and even Federal authorities. A minister came to open the fest and the annual Federal Film Prizes for short pix are always distributed at Mannheim via special ceremony.

Grand Prize of Mannheim, a cash award amounting to 10,000 Mark ($2,500) went to the Czech feature, "About Something Else," a prize which pic deserved. In all, the various juries handed out 24 different prizes and/or diplomas. The French and Americans captured four each. Proudest film man on closing day was probably Walter Kruettner, of Munich, whose film short, "It Must Be a Piece by Hitler," a satirical report on tourism to Obersalzberg in Bavaria, Hitler's favorite hangout, captured three essential awards: A cash award amounting to $1,000, the Prize of the Int'l Film Critics Assn., and the Catholic Short Film Prize. It does not happen too often that a German movie wins three prizes at one festival.

April in Paris

Continued from page 2

Paris, plus Jacqueline Francoise, Jean-Pierre Aumont, Lisa Kirk (who also femceed), ballerina Ludmilla Tcherina, Frank Sinatra Jr., Liza Minnelli, Peter Duchin, and Lester Lanin's music.

Newcomer producer-director-star Pierre Etaix ("The Suitor") had to disappoint because of illness. Mrs. Clark Gable and Mrs. Stephen Sanford also did bits; latter was overall chairman. The ladies aid committee of this gala reads like a directory out of the international set.

Paris and Biarritz innkeeper Maurice Carrere hosted a special boite called the Eve, Venus & Diane Room—wotta parlay!—which was the windup nitery and didn't fold until 5 a.m. The dice and blackjack charity tables — scrip bought for cash but payoffs in donated prizes, chiefly jewelry—realized another $20,000 for the combined Franco-U.S. charities.

The "Dancing Waters" was a colorful background to the patrons and show.

Judging by their glad rags, the Paris and domestic maisons de coutoure, not to mention the more than incidental Van Cleef & Arpels, Winston, Cartier and kindred props, enjoyed a special benevolence of their own. Abel.

Jessel Toasted

Continued from page 2

roundtable" at Hillcrest (the Bev-Hills country club).

The "Instantaneous Stock Co.," comprising chiefly Lambs, who perform Les Kramer's sketches, likewise dwelt on the comedian's penchant for after-dinner speaking, fundraising and girl-dating.

CS&S prexy Harry Hershfield, himself no slouch as an after-dinner speaker, plus having the advantage of more than a decade on Jessel—despite the jokes that the latter was "in the theatre company when they shot Lincoln"—conceded that Jessel "leads by 300 breakfasts." (There's a classic story Hershfield tells on himself when he failed to go to the roofgarden of the old Pennsylvania Hotel, now the Statler Hilton, and instead addressed a testimonial being given in the downstairs grillroom. Since testimonial speeches saluting do-gooders are somewhat general, the wrong guest-of-honor expressed gratitude but was "overwhelmed that the great Harry Hershfield, whom I don't even know, should come to my dinner and speak so glowingly," etc. This, of course, applies to the peripatetic Jessel whose one-night testimonial or fundraising routines are now more or less standard).

Kiernan summed up that Jessel "doesn't live by bed alone" and cited his accomplishments from Broadway to Hollywood and around-the-globe.

Next "fall guy" is Richard N. Nixon—"he hasn't been a fall guy since 1960," observed Hershfield. Abel.

Matty Fox

Continued from page 5

compensation by an additional one-quarter up to a maximum of 2½% of its gross.

Transactions involving Fox's Television Industries Inc., and the foundations were also brought out by Patman.

Accountants for Allen & Co., which had a one-third chunk in Television Industries asked Baird for bookkeeping advice on the investment.

The accountants wrote on Dec. 21, 1960, Baird that in meetings with Television Industries execs "it was established that the activities of the subsidiary companies were comingled to such a degree by the parent company, that it was no longer feasible to look to the subsidiary companies to determine profit."

They further wrote that Television Inc. agreed with this assessment and said they would assume the obligation of rewarding directly.

The accountants noted, however, that this hadn't been put in writing and said Allen & Company as investors would prefer a profit "or a written statement from Television Industries regarding same."

Patman also said Fox was involved in a three way deal with the Morris Guilden Foundation, headed by former MGM director Ira Guilden, and the Winfield Baird Foundation.

The Baird foundations contributed $150,000 to the Guilden foundation on Jan. 7, 1960. On the same day, the Guilden foundation loaned Fox $160,000. The loan was secured by $200,000 of Guild Films Inc. notes.

One year later, the Guilden Foundation loaned Tolvision of America Inc. $169,600. The loan was endorsed by Fox as president.

Fla. Headliners

Continued from page 1

Cavallaro and Jan Murray, among others, for the one-nighters presented to guests of six inns for free.

The Deauville has set Sammy Davis Jr., Dec. 20; Julie London, Jan. 10; Jimmy Durante, Jan. 24, and Myron Cohen, Feb. 1, with others still to be pacted. The Diplomat has Allan Sherman, Rosemary Clooney and Buddy Hackett. It is still juggling dates in an effort to keep some of its time open in case some names it's angling for become available.

The agencies indicate that the Fontainebleau management would like to buy names. But the hotel is still queasy about the prices asked for headliners they can get. Again, the inn is hopeful it can get Frank Sinatra to return and bring in other members of the clan.

The talent offices also believe that they can work out deals in tandem with the Puerto Rico hotels, and perhaps bring in a few acts to St. Petersburg, which has been expanding talent operations of late. Should they work out a "sun circuit," the percenters indicate that they can entice more talent to that area.

Tenn. 'Obscenity'

Continued from page 2

desires only to prosecute those selling obscene literature, thus not extending such enforcement beyond this area.

Attorneys for Werner are preparing an appeal. Both the prosecution and defense hammered away at the issues at stake which were described as publication rights versus private freedom.

Poe Maps World Expertise

Continued from page 3

visor will be appointed for them, though there will be a fourth homeoffice desk man who will be in charge.

Decision as to the final shape of the 20th International realignment is the result of a series of tours abroad by Poe which, starting late last year, have taken him to Europe several times, to South Africa, to Australia and New Zealand, points in Latin America and culminated last week with his return from a global trip where the emphasis was on the Far Eastern branches.

Details Later

At the moment, the exec veep isn't ready to talk in terms of specific men for specific posts. He does emphasize, however, that all the major changes in overseas personnel already have taken place. In other words, the upcoming realignment will not entail any wholesale axing of the present staffers. In fact, some new people actually will be brought in to complement and supplement incumbents, among whom there will be some changes in titles to go along with changes in responsibility.

(Asked what the realignment will mean in terms of cost of running the overseas arm, Poe answers that in the past year the company already trimmed local staffs of unproductive personnel. With tighter supervision—the aim of the realignment—such personnel will not have to be replaced. Ergo, an inevitable saving in operational costs.)

One of the major points Poe will stress in the appointments is experience-in-the-field, for both territorial division managers as well as their homeoffice counterparts. The latter is especially important. Too often, thinks Poe, the men in the homeoffice who supervise the grassroots overseas operations "are merely clerks." Holding down the foreign desks in the 20th h.o., will be men who have had extensive experience in the territories for which they are responsible—men who, in his words, "know the geography of the territories and even physical look of the theatres" in which 20th product will be playing.

A realignment of 20th International may not strike the industry with surprise, since it was inevitable that Poe would eventually seek to revitalize this important operation (which in years past made 20th the number one company abroad) as he did earlier with his revamp of domestic sales. What is news is the shape which the realignment is taking. 20th's international activities henceforth will be a good deal more than the essentially one- or two-man operations which most of the other major company international forces come down to basically. At the heart of the 20th plan are seven men, three in the field, four at the h.o., plus the overall foreign manager.

Poe's revamp of the foreign arm also does not entail any further turn over of company distribution operations to local companies, as was done earlier this year in Italy via the formation of the DEAR Film-20th-Fox company in Rome. There may, in fact, be something of an expansion in 20th activities with the possibility looming of further deals whereby 20th will take on outside product in specific territories, though not on the kind of 50-50 reciprocal deals ("I'll do it for you here if you do it for me there") which have obtained heretofore.

Key To Semenenko (Mystery)

Continued from page 5

ner's stock. Of this 160,000 was for Semenenko's account.

On July 10 the Winfield Baird Foundation purchased from Jack Warner 140,000 shares at $25.05 per share. These were placed in Semenenko's account.

Another Baird foundation the David Josephine and Winfield Baird foundation at the same time, bought another 40,000 WB shares from Jack Warner at the same price. Half of these went to Semenenko.

Two other Winfield Baird purchases from Jack Warner of 52,500 shares for $1,313,187 were also transacted the same day.

On the same day, the third Baird foundation, the Lansing Foundation, bought 20,000 shares from Jack Warner at $25.05 per share.

A week later, the Winfield Baird Foundation received a $9,755 cash contribution from Jack Warner. This was followed by two cash contributions by Albert Warner totalling $250,500.

In August that foundation forwarded a receipt for $250,000 to Miss Gertrude Marien, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc., New York, with the following covering letter:

"If you desire us later to modify this receipt to make part of it to Major Warner and part of it to Jack Warner we will do so, and we will be governed by your instructions in regard to the whole matter."

In December, 1957, Semenenko sold the Winfield Baird Foundation 70,000 shares of WB stock for $1,295,000.

Two months later he bought 23,000 shares from the same foundation for $431,250.

In March Semenenko purchased another 48,800 shares from the same foundation for $915,000.

On Jan. 2, 1959 Semenenko sold the Winfield Baird Foundation 140,000 shares of WB stock and the David, Josephine and Winfield Baird Foundation another 20,000 shares. The price was $4,160,000.

The dealings closed three days later when WB exec veep Benjamin Kalmenson bought 160,000 shares from the Foundation for $4,160,000.

Patman also delved into the Baird-Semenenko dealings in other film company stock.

Among these were transactions in Stanley Warner Corp. of which Baird was a director from 1954-57.

From May through September of 1953 the Winfield Baird Foundation purchased for Semenenko's accound 28,177 shares of Stanley Warner stock. The price was $313,398. They were sold for Semenenko by the Foundation from August through October, 1954. Semenenko made a 197,021 profit on the transaction.

From July through November, 1959, the Winfield Baird Foundation acquired 15,000 shares of Loew's Inc. stock for Semenenko's account. The cost was $468,862.

Stock was sold by the Foundation from January through April, 1961, for $819,480.

Through the same foundation Semenenko garnered 8,100 shares of Universal Pictures Inc. The purchases from July through Septemper, 1951 cost $82,670.

In 1950 the Winfield Baird Foundation purchased for Semenenko $172,500 of Pathe Industries Inc. convertible notes. Three years later these were converted into 115,000 shares of Chesapeake Industries common stock. In 1954, the Foundation sold for Semenenko 105,000 of the shares for $319,350.

Baird Film Mortgages

Washington, Oct. 29.

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said the Baird foundations "over the years . . . have held mortgages on a not inconsiderable number of films."

Patman listed the films mortgaged by the Lansing Foundation at the end of 1961. They were:

Coronado Productions "Circle of Danger" ($54,980); California Studios "Heart of the City" ($55,505); Holiday Films "Sun Sets at Dawn" ($41,894) and Horizon Productions "When I Grow Up" ($43,600).

Hayden's 'Wanderer'

Continued from page 2

of his experiences as an actor in and out of his 34 pictures. He employs no fictitious characters (Frank Freeman, Martin Gang, Edward H. Griffith, Madeleine Carroll, Russell Birdwell, Grant Cooper, John Huston, many others appear in the narrative) and he neither attacks nor defends Hollywood. His is one of the clearest pictures of the place and its people put on paper. If he can write fiction as well as he writes fact, the wanderer is home. Weav.

OBITUARIES

CLAIRE F. CONWAY

Claire Fawcett Conway, 44, known to thousands of circus performers because of her constant visits to the lots and her writings on circus life, died suddenly Oct. 19 at her home in Falls Church, Va. apparently of a cerebral hemorage while conversing with her husband, and literary collaborator. Since 1957 the Conway couple have written an annual resume of American circuses for the Anniversary Editions of VARIETY, and had completed their usual report prior to her death. It will appear in the next (58th) Anni.

Mrs. Conway, a painter and sculptor, met her husband, Tony Conway on a circus visit. He is a writer-editor with two Dept. of Navy in Washington. They became engaged while attending Ringlings at Madison Square Garden and were married in Baltimore in 1952. They toured with the Ringling outfit as a honeymoon.

Interment was at Falls Church.

BEVERLY WILLS

Beverly Wills, 29, comedienne-daughter of the late Joan Davis, died in a pre-dawn fire which swept her Palm Springs, Calif., home Oct. 24, believed to have started by a smouldering cigaret. Conflagration also took the lives of her grandmother, Mrs. Nina Davis, 72, mother of Joan Davis, and Miss Wills' two sons, Guy, 7, and Larry Grossman, 4, by a former marriage.

Miss Wills last was featured in a Four Star telepilot, "Shape Up, Sergeant," spinoff of the "McKeever and the Colonel" series. She earlier had been under contract to ABC-TV, had been featured on the "Barbara Whiting" radio show and in the film, "Skirts Ahoy," at Metro. Last year, she performed in the Barry Ashton "Chips Off the Old Block" revue at Statler Hilton, L. A.

Surviving are her husband, Martin Colbert, non-pro, and her father, former screen writer Si Wills.

LOUIS H. SILVER

Louis H. Silver, 61, Chicago operator, died of cancer Oct. 27 in that city. He was the owner and operator of Chicago's Gold Coast Hotels and had been president of the Ambassador East and West Hotels.

Possessor of degrees in engineering and law, Silver was also an avid book collector. He donated a collection of early scientific tomes to the U. of Chicago library which contained basic landmarks in science and technology.

Survived by wife and two daughters.

VASA HOCHMANN

Vasa Hochmann, 58, German stage actor and director, died Oct. 20 in Frankfurt-Main, West Germany, of a heart attack. Born in Moehren and trained in Vienna, he recently toured Germany with Paul Fechter's "The Magic of God."

He was recently signed as general manager for the Land Stage of Rhein-Main in Frankfurt.

HARRY GREY

Harry Grey, 57, v.p. at Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, died Oct. 17 of a heart attack in Hollywood. He entered show business with Berlin Music Co. and later was with Brunswick and Columbia Records.

Coming to Hollywood in the late 1930s, Grey produced many westerns at Republic and also had producer credits at Paramount. He joined BBDO 14 years ago. Last year he was named veepee in charge of the commercial film department.

His wife and son survive.

GERTRUDE R. SMITH

Gertrude Robinson Smith, 82, founder of what is now the Berkshire (Mass.) Music Festival, died Oct. 22 in New York after suffering a stroke in September. She also supported Ted Shawn in establishing Jacob's Pillow Festival of the Dance at Lee, Mass.

A native of New York, Miss Smith founded the Berkshire (Symphonic) Festival in 1934. Its first concerts was staged on a farm outside Stockbridge. Participation by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, starting in 1936, helped the festival on the road to success.

PAUL PERRY

Paul Perry, earlyday cameraman, died Oct. 24 in Hollywood after having lived in retirement for years. Most of his career was spent at Famous Players-Lasky, where he filmed such pix as "The Little Minister;" "Forbidden Paths," with Vivian Martin; "Sweet Kitty Bellaire," Mae Murray; "What Money Can't Buy" and "Ghost House," Louise Huff and Jack Pickford.

He also lensed features with Marie Doro and Blanche Sweet; and 21 films in association with George Melford.

Brother survives.

JOHN M. WILLIAMS

John M. Williams, 37, Hollywood sound technician, was killed Oct. 15 when he fell from a ship's mast aboard the freighter, Mormacdawn, en route to Panama. Williams, who had worked mostly at Desilu Studios, was on his own for trip and wasn't on a picture.

Surviving are his parents, father John A. Williams, is a sound mixer at Disney Studios.

GUS L. KELLY

Gus L. Kelly, 73, stage and service manager of Tennessee Theatre and board member of Stage Employes Local 197, died Oct. 19 in Knoxville, Tenn. He had been active in show business since 1917, starting with the old Paramount-Publix Theatres as superintendent of maintenance of its Knoxville houses.

His wife and son survive.

ADOLPHE MENJOU

Adolphe Menjou, 73, veteran screen actor who began in the silent era as a suave romantic type and subsequently scored in many comedy roles, a standout being as the editor in the remake of "The Front Page," died at his home in Beverly Hills Oct. 29. Over the years Menjou appeared in scores of pictures.

Survivors include his wife, actress Veree Teasdale, and a son, Peter.

CHARLES P. WINKELMANN

Charles P. Winkelmann, 69, long associated with Prudential New York Theatres, died Oct. 18 in Hialeah, Fla. Before retiring in 1953, he was manager of the Garden Theatre and Princeton Playhouse for 20 years.

Surviving are a son, two daughters, brother and two sisters.

HAZEL H. McEVOY

Mrs. Hazel H. McEvoy, president of Coronado Broadcasting Co. Inc. which operates indie radio station KPBM in Carlsbad, N. M., died Oct. 20 in Washington, following a long illness. Her late husband, Maurice McEvoy, was publisher of the old Roswell, N. M., Dispatch.

Son and a daughter survive.

BILLY PASSO

Billy Passo (Passeau), 59 former Orpheum circuit trick roller skater, died of a heart attack Oct. 19 in Hollywood. He made several European tours during his career. Following a leg injury, he retired in 1955.

Sister survives.

RODNEY E. DAVIS

Rodney E. Davis, 59, personnel director and board member of the Toledo Orchestra Assn. for 20 years, died of a heart attack Oct. 5 in Toledo. He also held similar posts with the old Toledo Symphony for 10 years.

His wife and two sons survive.

Owen Davies, 25, BBC-TV program director, died Oct. 23 in an auto crash at Cullen, Banffshire, Scotland. Survived by wife and child.

Bery Chervin, 46, film assistant director, died of a heart attack October 24 in Hollywood. Daughter, mother and sister survive.

Son, 10, of Roy W. Hall, an account exec at CBS Radio Network Sales, died Oct. 27 in Darien, Conn., after a long illness.

Mother, 85, of Bill Dasheff, senior v.p. of the Lennen & Newell agency, died Oct. 27 in a Long Branch, N. J., nursing hospital.

Mother, 85, of actor Robert Montgomery, died Oct. 9 in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., after a long illness. Another son also survives.

Raymond T. Downing, 69, former time salesman for radio stations WPTR and WOKO, Albany, died Oct. 13 in that city.

Reg Miller, 59, manager of the Gaumont Cinema in Aberdeen, Scotland, since 1948, died recently in that city.

George B. Wilson, 44, former associate editor of TV News mag, died Oct. 4 in Indianapolis. His mother survives.

HARRY REVEL

(Nov. 3, 1958)

You Will Never Be Forgotten For All
The Beautiful Music You Left Behind

Always In Our Hearts
Reni, Al and Billy

EMMERICH KALMAN

(Oct. 24, 1882 - Oct. 30, 1953)

In Loving Memory

Charles and Gerda Kalman

In Loving Memory
HARRY REVEL
Died, Nov. 3rd, 1958
Brother Sam

William Morris

WE NEVER FORGET YOU

William Morris

KARL TAUSIG BOB

Neil Simon

Continued from page 1

discourage writers from taking that 100 grand out west.

Simon, who also wrote "Come Blow Your Horn" and the book for the "Little Me" musical will receive the customary 60% from the $500,000 being paid for screen rights, less 10% as agent's fee. His royalties from the play will equal 10% of receipts over $7,000. Further, he'll receive 10% of the profits and $300 a week for every company on the road. (Oh! such tax problems.)

To repeat, slaves to the typewriter at the film studios doubtless make a comfortable living and are not to be easily lured away. But the abundance of riches accruing to Simon must have them looking to the boards longingly, if only momentarily.

Cash-in-Advance

Continued from page 1

bank and other production loans and, naturally, a lessening of the interest on such borrowing.

Another consideration is that the up-front money, having been paid by the exhibitor, will give said exhib a greater share of responsibility for the fiscal welfare of a picture and a more immediate participation in the production risks involved.

The advance coin for "Cleo" on a global basis as of the past week totalled $24,800,000.

While the matter of exhib-distrib business relationships on the surface may seem intra-tradey, actually the public doubtless will be affected. As the producers and financier-distribs want a more rapid return on their investments, so, too, will exhibitors who are called upon to ante up for their programming. They're sure to be eyeing more tilting of the scales. It's been a question of how-high-is-up? on admission prices since the era of "epic" productions began and there can be no question that more "up" can be expected.

Distributors are enjoined by the antitrust laws from setting an exhib's boxoffice tariff. However, the theatreman has got to increase prices at the consumer level, even without the advance cash guarantee, if he's to survive those 90-10 percentage-split deals with the film companies or the contracts under which the distrib collects on a per-seat royalty basis.

Louis Nizer

Continued from page 1

dedicate ourselves in this industry and in this country today to a new understanding of the importance and obligation of the planning of the future not merely in terms of military preparation, necessary as it is, but of preparation of the development of our peoples on a different status of learning, of developing the full potential of man," he stated.

"We must begin a new kind of education which will enlarge the human capacity. This increased leisure should show to you the great potential for your industry and others related to it," Nizer told the packed ballroom.

He said that the American people today are engaged in a massive flight from the contest between humanism and science. In this connection. Americans spend upwards of $44,000,000,000 annually to entertain themselves, as much as our national defense budget. Yanks spend $30,000,000,000 for picture and other kinds of entertainment, he avered—"and we're bored." This, he suggested, is an indication of the flight of man from his own obigation to preserve himself and not be caught "in the holocaust of his own destruction."

Humanism and not science is the way for the preservation of the future of mankind, Nizer said, because science, while it equips us, cannot guide us. "It can illuminate us to the farthest star but leave our hearts in darkness," he stated. The entertainment industry is a humanistic thing, however, and should pay more attention to its responsibilities — responsibilities which will increase tremendously within the next few years—in this regard, he counseled.

MARRIAGES

Annette Harris to Gerard Keehn, Louisburg, N.C., Oct. 13. Bride is a secretary with KCOP-TV, Hollywood.

Madeline Blakeney to Harry Worrall, London, Oct. 19. Bride's an actress.

Leslie Blackater to Keith Richardson, Kilmacolm, Scotland, Oct. 19. Bride's an actress; he's an actor.

Elizabeth Wood to Wes Bishop, Las Vegas, Oct. 21. He's a film producer.

Joan Little to Cedric Smith, Waterloo, Ont., Oct. 24. He's a folksinger and an actor with Stratford, Ont., Shakespeare Festival.

Margo Anderson to Kenny Rogers, Houston, Oct. 22. He is bass player and vocalist with the Bobby Doyle Trio.

Nancy Ann King to William Zeckendorf Jr., New York, Oct. 24. Bride is a former solo dancer with the Metropolitan Opera Co.; he's president of Webb & Knapp realty firm which operates hotels as well as other projects.

Jan Gummer to John Butler, London, Oct. 27. Bride is a dancer in the "Black and White Minstrel Show."

Judith E. Rawlins to Vic Damone, Oct. 24, Las Vegas. Bride is an acress; he's the singer.

Wendy Snowden to Peter Cook, Oct. 28, New York. Bride is a painter; he's the actor, current in "Beyond the Fringe."

Judy Rawlins to Vic Damone, Oct. 26, Las Vegas. She's a TV actress; he's the singer.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Roger DeWitt, son, Santa Monica, Cal., Oct. 19. Mother is Jean Vander Pyl, who dubs voices of many cartoon characters.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter (Jeanne) Cummins, daughter, Columbus, O., Oct. 20. Mother is WLW-C singer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Ray, son, Hollywood, Oct. 18. Mother is niece of George Burns; father's an agent.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sandrich, daughter, Los Angeles, Oct. 13. Father is assistant director on "Danny Thomas Show" teleseries.

Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Nelson, daughter, Oct. 25, Santa Monica, Calif. Baby was born prematurely, weighing four pounds, one ounce, but mother and child reported doing well. Father is the pop singer and son of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Race, daughter, Pittsburgh, Oct. 22. Father is deejay on KDKA.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Dorfman, son, New York, Oct. 22. Father is WABC-TV, N. Y., staff writer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dunn, son, Las Vegas, Oct. 24. Father, formerly half of vaude team, Cross & Dunn, is now entertainment director of Tropicana Hotel, Las Vegas.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blaug, son, London, Oct. 23. Father is European sales manager for Screen Gems.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carver, daughter, Boston, Oct. 11. Mother (Sally S. Carver) is a freelance writer.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Allinson, son, Oct. 27, New York. Father is actor; mother is the former Judi Schriver, a dancer.

Theatre Betting

Continued from page 1

Lions Club. According to Stark, there would be three major advantages to his plan over the proposal for legalization of off-track betting, which is becoming something of a political issue between N.Y. Mayor Robert Wagner, who is pro, and N.Y. Assembly speaker Joseph Carlino.

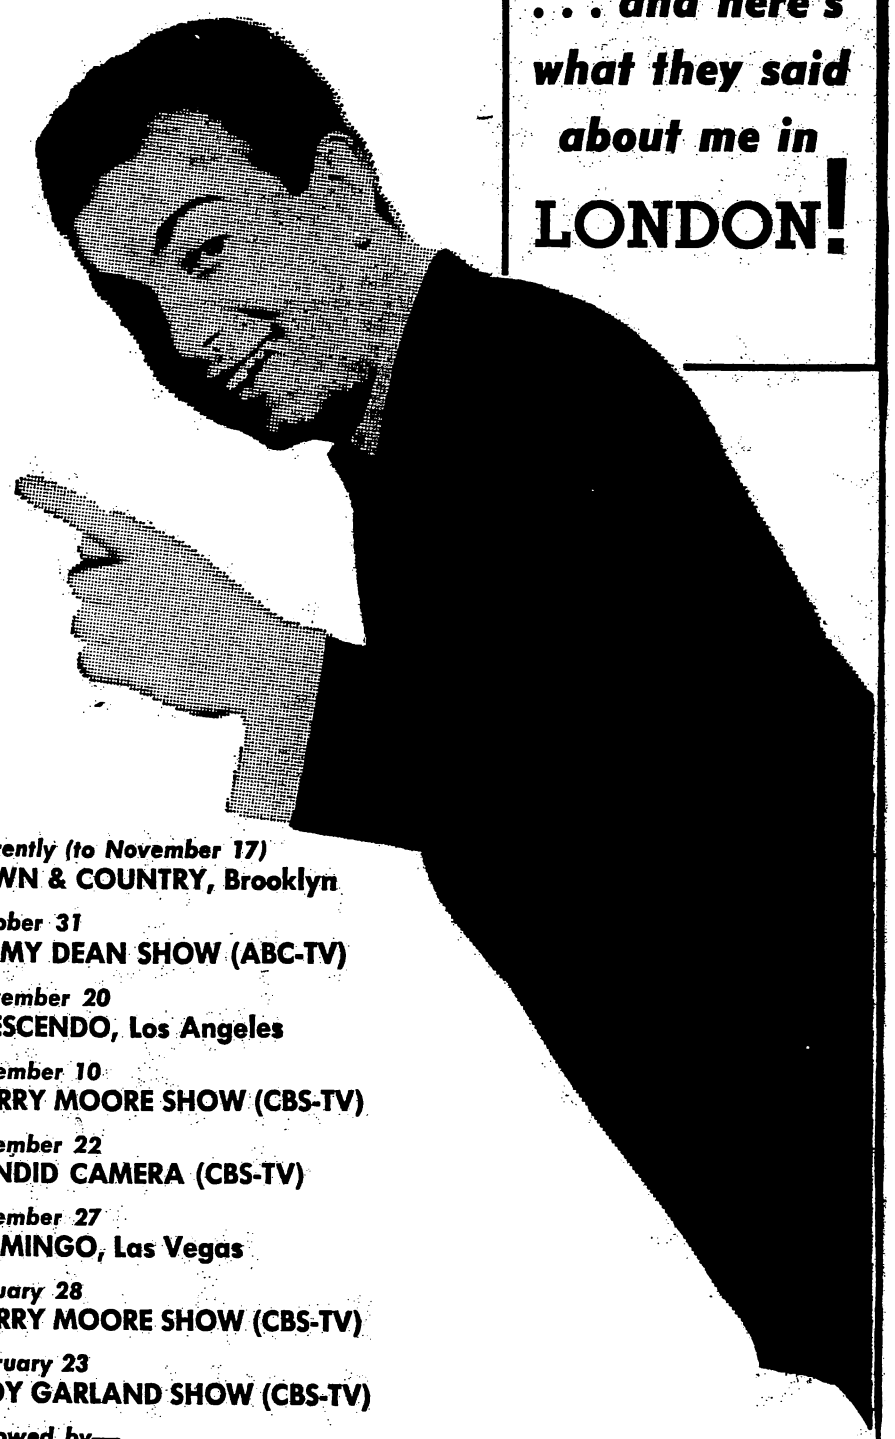
The three advantages seen by Stark: (1) theatre better would get same payoff as could be gotten at the track; (2) betting could be more easily controlled, than off-track plan allows, and (3) it would be more convenient for the public.

'Festivalitis'

Continued from page 2

port and American Jazz Festivals and who is sometimes called "The Jazz Priest": Rev. Jay Buell, a Congregational minister from Greenwich Village and a freelance writer; Rev. George Garrelts, Catholic chaplain at the U. of Minnesota.

I'M THE GREATEST COMEDIAN IN THE WORLD . . .



. . . and here's what they said about me in LONDON!

WELL, ONE YANKEE COMEDIAN MADE IT!

"Jackie Mason, a lounge-suited American comic had a big success on ATV's Palladium Show last night. He spoke quietly, deprecatingly, nothing pushful. Just a string of very funny gags. 'I've just signed a contract with an international agency. Now I'm out of work not only here, but all over the world'. He had a great routine about visiting a psychiatrist, and I liked his closing gambit, too. 'I have to leave you now because I have another job . . . in January'."

CLIFFORD DAVIS, London Daily Mirror

"To appear just once on the ATV's 'Sunday Night at the London Palladium' is the hallmark of distinction. But to appear twice in a fortnight, as U.S. comedian Jackie Mason has just done, is a privilege reserved only for the very few. Impact of his TV triumph on the box office at London's luxury night spot 'Talk of the Town,' where Jackie is providing the guest star spot, is fantastic."

PETER C. DAVALLE, London Digest

LONDON THEATRE WORLD

"The big-time autumn cabaret season has opened notably at the 'Talk of the Town' with the booking of Jackie Mason, an American comedian who has prompted a good deal of discussion."
". . . Late-night show business needs somebody like Jackie Mason."
"Let me go on record as saying that I consider Jackie Mason to be one of the funniest comedians ever to come here from the United States."

"Jackie Mason delivers his soft-spoken patter deprecatingly, and with superb timing . . . he is most definitely a very funny and original comedian."

BARRY NORMAN, London Daily Mirror

VARIETY Talk of Town, London

"Jackie Mason's brand of standup comedy has turned out to be a hit.
"Comedian's opening night experiences proved the wisdom of the old gag about two peoples divided by a common language.
"After a brief trial the audiences are now with it, and with him, guffawing almost continuously." Myro.

Currently (to November 17)
TOWN & COUNTRY, Brooklyn

October 31
JIMMY DEAN SHOW (ABC-TV)

November 20
CRESCENDO, Los Angeles

December 10
GARRY MOORE SHOW (CBS-TV)

December 22
CANDID CAMERA (CBS-TV)

December 27
FLAMINGO, Las Vegas

January 28
GARRY MOORE SHOW (CBS-TV)

February 23
JUDY GARLAND SHOW (CBS-TV)

Followed by—
FAIRMOUNT, San Francisco
COPACABANA, New York

Press Relations:
DAVID RUSH ASSOCIATES (East Coast)
HANSOM & SCHWAM (West Coast)

Personal Management:* ROBERT CHARTOFF ASSOCIATES,
157 West 57 Street, New York, N. Y.

Member Conference Personal Managers, East

Scanned from microfilm from the collections of
The Library of Congress
National Audio Conservation Center
www.loc.gov/avconservation

Coordinated and sponsored by

MEDIA HISTORY DIGITAL LIBRARY

www.mediahistoryproject.org

A search of the records of the United States Copyright Office has determined that this work is in the public domain.